Manchester Historical Society: Its Accomplishments

By JOHN A. JOINTON

Just over three years after its Oct. 1, 1965 founding, the Manchester Historical Society assumed responsibility for the use, preservation, and maintenance of the Cheney Homestead, 106 Hartford Road. It stands on slightly more than four acres remaining after the state constructed a portion of Interstate 84 through the property.

The Cheney Historical Foundation, Inc. conveyed the house and land by quitclaim deed in January 1969. The society became outright owner after five years when the CHS did not exercise reconveyance rights. Also entrusted to the society was an endowment of approximately $50,000, made of land that was realized from the sale of the land to the state. Proceeds from this invested trust are used for any expenses associated with the home.

In May 1969 seven rooms were officially opened to the public. In the intervening years three other rooms—first floor parlor and third floor bedroom and studio—have been restored.

The homestead, built in the mid-1700s by Timothy Cheney and occupied until 1968 by descendants of the brothers who established the silk industry, contains furniture, household articles, and personal belongings of early family members. Noteworthy is a clock made by Timothy. Other period items have been given or loaned to the society.

In December 1969, the society sponsored Holiday at the Homestead, and it has become an annual event. This year's date is Dec. 2. The rooms are decorated with homemade and natural materials, hostesses wear colonial dress, and refreshments of the era are served.

Thursdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. throughout the year the homestead is open for conducted tours. Reservations for group visits at other times may be made with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Gaal, resident host and hostess.

The most recent addition to the grounds is a replica of the c. 1750 Keeney Street School. The project of the Town Bicentennial Committee was transferred to society custody on June 11 this year. It was built by volunteer labor and equipped in the style befitting the age of the original by donations of money and furnishings.

In addition to being a museum, the homestead has a library of artifacts, maps, newspaper clippings and photographs, oral history cassettes, and other reference materials of the town's past. The collection is catalogued and filed weekly by Miss Catherine Shea, librarian, assisted by Miss Anna McGuire and Miss Margaret Smith.

Students and other researchers may use the resources in the homestead library by contacting Miss Shea.

The society archivists have become the beneficiary of much work done on local architecture by CETA Arts Encouragement staff. Beatrix Akmentin and Alec Sample made about 25 drawings of houses and other structures, either on the scene or from photographs.

Photography work by Miss Priscilla Lippincott and Michael Powers.

The other two are gifts of Mrs. Miss Lippincott and Michael Peret—surveyed and recorded data to accompany photos of more than 200 residences. Information includes type of architecture, approximate date of construction, physical characteristics, and major alterations.

Three quilts in the care of the librarian may be borrowed by responsible organizations for display. One was made by women of the West Side Recreation Center program. Each of 34 blocks portrays an existent or since demolished cultural or historical building.

The other two are gifts of Mrs. William Newman and Miss Louise Paller. They are fashioned from Cheney silks in a log cabin pattern.

In September 1976, an action by the later Herbert Swanson, society charter member and homestead co-chairman, resulted in the DAR in the preservation of the Pitkin Glass Works site.

It has been instrumental in saving one old landmark and a second of more recent date. The first, the last known colonial milestone in Connecticut, was found in the Town Park. The request was considered "too modest" in view of the nature, fame and preserved condition of the industrial complex that had its 19th century beginning with five sons of George and Electa Woodbridge Cheney.

The American Association of State and Local History selected the local area after a survey of 43 sites and made a comprehensive written and pictorial report. Dr. John Sutherland, society past president and Manchester Community College Institute of Local History director, assisted George R. Adams, consultant, in the study.

Most of the almost 175-acre district lies west of Main Street and north of Hartford Road. A smaller portion east of lower Main Street is included because of what were once company houses. Within the district are the former silk mills and associated buildings, the site of the Cheney employers, and homes of the employees.

In the 1980s studies were made of Manchester's oldest houses. Probably by the Federal Writers' Program or another government-sponsored agency of the Depression period, the decades later a committee directed by society member Hayden Griswold Sr. Undertook further house studies and suitable marking of their ages.

It was originally planned to mark houses built before 1800. Edson M. Bailey said when he assumed committee chairmanship, 1823 was set as the town's incorporation date, but the year is not a hard and fast one, he added, because a house's historical importance takes precedence. About 10 have been marked.

Bailey also headed a committee that carried out, during the 1973-74 season, the year, placement of aluminum markers at 18 sites. Each bears a succinct story of the place's significance in the town's history.

Other committee members were William Buckley, Mrs. Ernest Shepherd, Miss Catherine Putnam, and the late Wells Dennison.

During Sequentialentennial observance week, Dennison coordinated the staging in the Whiton Memorial Library various eras in Manchester's history.

Several years ago, under the leadership of Miss Helen Estes, Manchester High School English department chairman, several society members researched and prepared page-long articles for publication in The Herald.

The society is custodian of Civil War artifacts that were displayed for years in the Municipal Building. It also cooperates with Oxford Chapter DAR in the preservation of the Pitkin Glass Works site.

Finally but not unimportantly because, according to Miss Shea, the society was an outgrowth of it is the Manchester. The 48-page history was presented by 12 retired educators for use by third grade classes.

In addition to Miss Shea, they were Miss Hazel Lutz, Illing, Buckley, Mrs. Florence Anderson, Regional Baker, Miss Hulda Butler, Mrs. Frances Donaldson, Miss Estes, Miss McGuire, Mrs. Marion Moriarty, and Mrs. Agnes Rogers.

showing date, interested organizations may contact him at 253 Gardner St.

Mrs. George Walker initiated the oral history project whose continuity is at present insured by the volunteer efforts of Lennox Johnson. The taped interviews are with men and women in all sections of the community and from many vocations. They often elicit information seldom, if ever, found in any printed medium. Plans are in the formative stage to duplicate each cassette and make a transcript of each interview to facilitate use by future researchers.

Thoughts

Both religion and family need a place. Church or temple is to religion what hearth and home is to the family. Pilgrimages to Mecca, Jerusalem or Rome touch the same nerves as family reunions. One goes to be renewed, confirmed, transformed and healed.

We're not turtles. We don't carry our homes on our backs. And though it may be good to get away, the true joy is returning home. There is even warmth and cheer in the clutter if it is one's own.

Even odd pots and pans can become sacred vessels in one's home. We've had the same pressure cooker for over 20 years. It has kept the bread out of the bacon on camping trips, made baby food for four youngsters, cooked gallons and gallons of homemade soup, as well as brown rice in a hurry. No amount of scouring will remove the memories it holds.

Yes, the familiar and the old become sacred from the memories they hold. We can be ministered to by things when those objects awaken in us profound meanings—stand for things who are and where we have come from. The ark of the covenant holds the robes of Judaism. The cross, the chalice and the chasuble prompt deep stirrings in the Christian heart. They help to make our sacred places holy and the old pots and pans we take with us when we move help a new home become our home.

Wings of Morning

By CLIFF SIMPSON

That suddenly lightens the gloom of dawn?
For the mercurial laughter of heroes going gallantly to death?
For the last dear smile struggling through weakness and pain,
Yet radiant with love and faith,
Which may carry a man safe across the gulf of years and the silence of death?
We have seen Thee, Father, for the gift of laughter,
Which runs through the dark stuff of human tragedy
Like a thread of gold through a sombre curtain—
That curtain of life which sunders us from life.

So, Adam said to Eve
Get in Eveanville a minister had the habit of putting his sermon on the pulpit, checking it over, and then going about the church school for a final checkup. A rasical didn't care for the preacher and one Sunday morning sneaked into the sanctuary and took the last page of the manuscript.

In seeking to make a major point about the creation story, the minister thundered on through page after page until he came to the next to last line that now was the last one. The last line read, "So, Adam said to Eve..." Scarching in vain for the next page, he mentally resolved to chastise his secretary. From one standpoint this early adversity, he repeated the phrase, "So Adam said to Eve..." and then in desperation he looked at the next page. From another standpoint, however, "there seems to be a leaf missing."

Thanks for Laughter

The very first poem my eye fell on after writing the above paragraphs had this title that was taken from "Prayers for use in an Indian College."

"Father:
We thank Thee for laughter,
For the sweet smile of a babe,
Which is Thy first glance on the world through his eyes;
For the glad play of a child,
Which to see Thou thyself bendest close from Heaven;
For the gay mirth of homelie Up to which Thou thyself delightest to harken;
For the swift flash of gallant humor,

Tests of a Good Tax System

By GEORGE F. BREAK

Politicians know they can always stir up response by calling for "tax reform."

Smart ones also know that a sure way to lose votes is to spell out what they mean by it. Each listener's strong views may sharply conflict with those of his neighbor.

In essence, "tax reform" for most people means getting their own burdens lightened.

Economists, on the other hand, know that there is no simple answer, and that there is a basic flaw in thinking of a tax system as though it were some kind of prize cake, for which there exists a secret recipe that can with proper mixing suit every taste.

A Complex System

Instead, a tax system is a diverse set of imprecise instruments, controlled as impersonally as possible from the centers of government.

Even its aims are far from simple. They are often contradictory, necessitating choices and trade-offs.

The complexity of the tax system has led to a highly diversified society. For some people the proper purpose of any tax is simply to produce enough revenue to run the government. For others, the tax should serve a variety of other purposes, such as redistribution of income from rich to poor and encouragement of private spending for socially useful activities.

In such an environment, it is the function of politicians to please their problems of interpretation. Particularly controversial is the real meaning of tax equity, or fairness. Traditionally there have been two standards for this. One kind of fair tax charges people for services in proportion to the benefits they receive from those services. Examples include public good course greens fees, state university tuition charges, and sewer taxes. Where benefits from government services are closely related to income or property, retail sales (streets, police, fire protection, etc.), a tax on that base is also an equitable benefit-received levy.

Not all government services, of course, can be billed to individual taxpayers, partly because of administrative difficulties in apportioning the fees, and partly because the benefits—national defense, the judicial system, etc.—are so widely spread throughout the society that it is virtually impossible to determine individual values.

In these situations, the appropriate standard of fairness is the taxpayers' ability to pay. Taxes levied on the basis of this test are called progressive. Our federal income tax, for example, uses "progressive" rates (higher percentages at higher income levels), while state university taxes are "proportional" (the same percentages on all purchases).

Most people—although by no means all—agree that the standards of equity and efficiency may conflict. Excessive rates on high levels of income can induce rich people to stop their earning, saving, or investing. Such "disincentives" not only affect economic behavior, thus violating the tax principle of neutrality, but may also reduce total government revenue by causing people to do what they would otherwise do.

Equity vs. Simplicity

Most informed tax assessments involve questions of equity about the income, sales, or property taxes. Income tax arguments largely center on what constitutes income, or ability to pay, the more painstaking these definitions, the more complex the tax becomes, thus lessening simplicity and efficiency.

Efforts to improve the equity of the sales tax also mean more complex administration but also subsidize the luxury food purchases of the affluent. A few states, therefore, tax all commodities and then rebate to the poor a sum equivalent to the tax on basics.

The property tax has drawn the hottest fire recently, largely because of its rapid growth, pushed by escalating housing prices and mushrooming costs of local government.

Many people criticize it as inequitable because they find it hard to see that home ownership contributes to their ability to pay. It is obvious, however, that home ownership saves them the cost of paying rent to someone else.

Economists are less concerned with the general fairness of the property tax than about its equity in its administration. If property were assessed accurately, many argue, the tax could be a neutral tax that might sacrifice some equity for the sake of economic efficiency.

"Tax reform" may, in fact, be more a matter of clarifying these trade-offs than of attaining some imagined ideal, and only the ebbs and flows of politics can ultimately determine the balance among them.

The views expressed in Courses by Newspaper are those of the authors only and do not necessarily reflect those of the University of California, the funding agency, the distributing agency, or the participating newspapers and colleges.

Waddell Road Citizen Has Many Complaints

MANCHESTER — A Waddell Road resident had a number of complaints at Thursday night's common session conducted by the Board of Directors. The man said that there is much speeding both on Waddell and Hartford roads. He also said that parking should only be permitted on one side of Waddell Road.

The resident felt that police officers spend too much time riding cruisers and not enough time enforcing laws. He referred to the speeding and said that there are few cars that stop for stop signs.

The man also wondered about present requirements for sidewalks since some old walks are in good shape and some are crumbling and in poor condition.

He also said that material used for patching potholes often is wasted because of haphazard work.

Another man questioned the police action of arresting those who sit on

MCC Council Trying To Free State Funds

MANCHESTER — The Regional Council of Manchester Community College is trying to get $540,000 in state bonding funds released so planning for the first permanent buildings on the campus can begin.

The council plans to conduct a letter campaign to Gov. Ella Grasso, urging her to use her good offices to push the state Bonding Commission into releasing the money. James Nakos, chairman of the council, said. The state Board of Higher Education

East Hartford Ends Banking For Students

EAST HARTFORD — A 31-year-old tradition has ended in the East Hartford school system.

Because of a lack of interest on the part of students there will be no more banking in the elementary and middle schools, according to Beryl Castellani of the First Federal Savings and Loan of East Hartford. In previous years, students would bring money to the school for bank deposits and representatives from First Federal would come to school each Tuesday to collect the money.

"The students developed good thrift habits," said Miss Castellani. "Many youngsters used the accounts to put them through college or to save for other things. But youngsters today have more demand on their money and have other interests. We just found a general lack of participation in the program."

The program was started in East Hartford, she said, and expanded to schools in Glastonbury and South Windsor.

Miss Castellani said notices were sent out last week informing the school principals of the decision to phase out the program.

"It was a very good program," she said. "Schools used to compete against each other to see which one could save the most money. We would give awards to the top school."

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Our 24-year-old daughter, Debbie, has been living in New York for a year. We live in California. Debbie is a sensible, educated, single woman who has an excellent position. She's told us that she's romantically involved with John, a 33-year-old professional man. She says he is an outstanding person with fine qualities. They are not engaged, but he's the first man she's ever been serious about. Our only objection to this match is that John is not of our religion.

Debbie phoned to tell us that John's mother called her from Portland, Ore., and offered to pay her air fare there for the weekend to meet John's father, who is dying of cancer. They've never met Debbie, but have spoken to her on the phone often. John's mother said she felt that her husband would be happier knowing that his only son was going with a lovely girl.

Because my husband and I disapprove of our daughter's involvement with a man not of our faith, we told Debbie that we did not want her to go to Portland. Do you think we were wrong?

WONDERING IN WOODSIDE

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old woman with your daughter's qualifications in being able to make her own decisions (including when she should marry), and for you to put the book on her to try for any reason whatsoever. Whether or not Debbie and John marry, if I hope she does, my daughter happy I think she should go. And I hope she does.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are finally being divorced after 12 years of a very stormy marriage and several separations.

My lawyer instructed me to move out of the house, so I did. The problem is that every time I go to the house to talk to my wife about some matter pertaining to the settlement, one thing leads to another and I end up sleeping there. With one thing leading to another and I end up sleeping there. With one thing leading to another and I end up sleeping there.

It's ridiculous the way I go out and move the car so nobody will see it parked in front of the house all night. Aren't we legally married until the divorce decree is final? If so, aren't we entitled to sleep together if we feel like it?

Please don't tell me that if we still want to sleep together we should consider saving our marriage. She is impossible to live with, and she says the same about me. But I must have sex with her in the best. Do you think we're crazy?

DEAR HONEST: No, I think you're wise to recognize that fact that sexual compatibility isn't everything. But it will help you to know if you're entitled to marital privileges until your divorce is final, ask your lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: In a courtship between a woman 68 and a man 70, who should offer the first kiss?

Please don't think this is a joke. I am a widow and I'm a widower, and we are getting close to each other. I will need the answer.

If he should make the first move, should I respond willingly? Or am I the one who should let me know if I'm adverse to a romantic relationship? I'm not, but I don't want to push for it.

Women used to sit back and let the men make all the overtures, but perhaps women's lib has changed all that. Or has it?

OLDSTERS

DEAR OLDSTERS: If you feel like kissing him, go ahead and kiss him. He'll probably meet you halfway, and best you to the finish line.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped #10 envelope to Abby, 132 Lady Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Elections Commission Up to Three Members

HARTFORD (UPI) — Richard Jones, founder of the largest lease-by-mail company in the world, and the Rev. Dr. James Demetriades were named Friday to fill two of the four vacancies on the state Elections Commission.

Senate Minority Leader Lewis Jones, the Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, appointed Jones. House Speaker James Kenney selected Demetriades.

In the past week, four of the panel's five members have resigned. The recent rash of resignations concerned some officials because the general elections are only six weeks away. The commission's chief responsibility is to deal with voting law violations and interpretations.

Until the appointments were made Friday, the commission could not conduct its business because it did not have the three members needed for a quorum.

Claire Jacobs of Weston, vice chairwoman of the state Elections Commission, announced her resignation Thursday leaving the commission with a single member — Daila Soto.

Jones is the founder and former chairman of the board of the American Leasing Corp., a firm that leases trucks, planes and machine tools.

Jones, a Yale graduate, was responsible for engineering the construction of the Bushnell Memorial and the mall between Hartford City Hall and the Wadsworth Atheneum. He retired two years ago.

Jones will take the place of William Kosturko, the panel's chairman who resigned last week because of a possible conflict of interest.

Kosturko and Herbert Emanuelson resigned at the same time after the state Ethics Commission ruled that as lawyers, they should not be commissioners while their firms were doing business with the state.

State Funds Two Projects

Two area towns, Coventry and Bolton, have been notified they will receive funding to advance for the realignment of a portion of Route 31. The area, near Daly Road, has been the site of several serious accidents over the past few years.

The estimated cost of this project is $221,000. Of that amount, the federal government will pay 70 percent and the state 30 percent.

The Town of Bolton has been authorized to build a car pool parking lot at the intersection of Routes 6 and 44, east of Bolton Notch.

The estimated cost of that project is $176,000. Of this, 90 percent will come from federal funds and the other 10 percent from the state.

William Keish, transportation commissioner, said the building of the car pool lot will hopefully alleviate the overcrowded parking conditions at the Burr Conners commuter parking lot in Manchester.

He said apparently many people prepared by Dr. Margaret Kent, State of the Bolton area were using the commuter lot to leave their cars while they shopped in car pools.

Win at bridge

South led a spade to dummy's king at trick two and a second spade back to his ace.

Then he led the king and queen of diamonds and discarded one of dummy's four hearts on the queen.

Next came the deuce of diamonds.

South's shuffling game dealt ace-king-queen-four of diamonds and east-four of hearts to the jack-10.

Vernon Group Reviews Questionnaire Replies

VERNON — The Public Relations Committee of the Board of Education is reviewing responses to questionnaires sent out to selected townspeople, including some high school students.

The committee said the replies will be put on the computer and then reviewed by the administration before going to the school board.

According to committee members, the answers have a positive flavor. The respondents were not required to sign the questionnaires.

The purpose of the survey is to provide information to the school board, concerning how parents, teachers, students, and townspeople feel about the school system.

It is planned to make the survey part of an on-going diagnostic and communication process to improve school functioning by identifying problems, as well as satisfactory achievement.

The school board has expressed the hope that the series of surveys, along with feedback provided by proposed school bulletins and other publicity, will facilitate cooperative action toward improving the schools.

The survey questions were prepared by Dr. Margaret Kent. She is involved in the statistical analysis of the results.

Astrograph

September 24, 1978

Pursue secret ambitions this coming year. Even though you shunned them as premature in the past, you should now be ready to tackle them with success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Rewards will attend your ambitions provided you have the willpower to stick to what you initiate. Heading the siren song of pleasure could dash your hopes on the rocks. Find out more of what lies ahead for you by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 40, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
The high esteem in which you hold your opinions is good and natural. Today, however, you could be social about your disdain for what others feel.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Collective enterprises appear to be an area in which you can expect good fortune today. One condition: No one involved should look for pie in the sky.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Routine decisions will be duck soup for you today. If the topic is too weighty you may not be able to cope as readily. If at all possible, have a good time today. Although you may do the lion's share of the work today, others will probably flock to take the plaudits. Don't surrender any cash or credit without a light. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may seem to others that your wits are crossed today. You take work things too lightly, while going all-out for what you consider fun.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Whether you're babysitting youngsters today or dealing with persons you supervise, take a middle road. Don't mortify them or be too strict.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
If you're settling up a business meeting in a social atmosphere today, avoid a setting so lavish that the trappings will detract from your purpose.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You are enormously protective of your personal interests today, and possibly not above doing a little scheming to safeguard them. Think hard before you resort to subterfuge.

CANCER (June 21-July 21)
Today you are very practical in most things except management of your resources. You could, in effect, ask a fox to watch over the henhouse.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 23)
A person in your debt could make an offer to pay today. Don't be overly magnanimous. His marker is small and it might make him think you don't want it.

VIARGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
The sociable mood you're in today is fine if you respect its limitations. Have a good time, but leave before your coach turns into a pumpkin. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old woman with your daughter's qualifications in being able to make her own decisions (including when she should marry), and for you to put the book on her to try for any reason whatsoever. Whether or not Debbie and John marry, if I hope she does, my daughter happy I think she should go. And I hope she does.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are finally being divorced after 12 years of a very stormy marriage and several separations.

My lawyer instructed me to move out of the house, so I did. The problem is that every time I go to the house to talk to my wife about some matter pertaining to the settlement, one thing leads to another and I end up sleeping there. With one thing leading to another and I end up sleeping there.

It's ridiculous the way I go out and move the car so nobody will see it parked in front of the house all night. Aren't we legally married until the divorce decree is final? If so, aren't we entitled to sleep together if we feel like it?

Please don't tell me that if we still want to sleep together we should consider saving our marriage. She is impossible to live with, and she says the same about me. But I must have sex with her in the best. Do you think we're crazy?

DEAR HONEST: No, I think you're wise to recognize that fact that sexual compatibility isn't everything. But it will help you to know if you're entitled to marital privileges until your divorce is final, ask your lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: In a courtship between a woman 68 and a man 70, who should offer the first kiss?

Please don't think this is a joke. I am a widow and I'm a widower, and we are getting close to each other. I will need the answer.

If he should make the first move, should I respond willingly? Or am I the one who should let me know if I'm adverse to a romantic relationship? I'm not, but I don't want to push for it.

Women used to sit back and let the men make all the overtures, but perhaps women's lib has changed all that. Or has it?

OLDSTERS

DEAR OLDSTERS: If you feel like kissing him, go ahead and kiss him. He'll probably meet you halfway, and best you to the finish line.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped #10 envelope to Abby, 132 Lady Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Jailed Teachers Say 'Nobody Has Cracked Yet'

By JAMES V. HEALON
WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) — The telephone voice from inside the compound where the state of Connecticut was holding 241 striking teachers... "Nobody has cracked yet," the man said.

"There are 144 women in one barracks and 115 men in another, and there are now 12 men living in a condemned barracks in which the conditions are very bad," he said.

"The telephone conversation with the anonymous man was prompted by the polite reluctance of a woman teacher in the compound to come near a reporter an hour earlier."

Some teachers passed the time by throwing what appeared to be a pie plate back and forth, a pastime which originated in Bridgeport with plates from the Frisbee Pie Co. in the 1890s.

"How's it going?," the teacher was asked. "Who are you?" "Reporter, UPI."

"What's happening?" "None came."

Pension Transfer Proposed

COVENTRY — Pension Board Chairman Chester Clark has recommended to the Town Council that Coventry's pension plan assets be transferred from the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. to the Travelers Insurance Co. under a regular deposit administration account.

"We recommend that you give us the authority to amend the plan and trust to accomplish this action," Clark wrote the council. He added that Lenard Benjamin, the town's agent of record, was instrumental in obtaining quotes from the three insurance companies considered.

The chairman said his board was ready to effect the transfer of assets as soon as council approval is received. "There is no need to incur an expense from any source in the drafting of the documents," he said.

In other business the council expressed a desire to trim about $10,000 from anticipated insurance premiums of $116,000 for the current fiscal year.

Council OKs Primary Pay

VERNON — The Town Council this week approved a transfer of funds to pay for expenses incurred during the recent Democratic primary, but not without a few tongue-in-cheek comments from the Republican council members.

Commenting on the $1,807.90 bill, especially the $14.94 for coffee, milk and sugar and the $24.96 for doughnuts, the Republicans jokingly said they didn't have such luxuries.

The money was transferred from the contingency account into the primary elections account. At budget time just $1 was put into the primary elections budget.

Giant Press Corps

Winter Olympic Games in 1980 will be staged at Lake Placid and Ed Stranback, press service administrator, reports the press corps at the New York site will number 3,300.

This figure is rather misleading as only 1,750 will be allocated to writers, teletype and radio personnel. The remaining passes will go to technicians. He added that only 250 newsmen from the United States will be issued working press passes.

Stranback, on the panel at the recent United Press International Sports Editors' Seminar in Boston, noted that work promoting the games started in 1974 with a volunteer staff of 40.

"For 1 1/2 years we worked with no official staff. Now we have 29 people in our public relations department. Our mailing list has grown from 150 to 5,000 with weekly releases," he said.

Lake Placid is a picturesque little community of 2,700 residents, 60 miles south of Toronto, snuggled in a 17-mile valley.

Accommodations are being booked 100 miles away.

Notes Off the Cuff
Jack Roberts, sports publicity director at the University of Hartford, has issued an invitation to all members of the Manchester Midget Football League and their parents to be guests at the UHartford Providence College football game next Saturday in Hartford.

Dave Walter has assumed the position as sports publicist at Manchester Community College. Dave Hoback, who handled the post for two years at the local college, is now the sports photo editor of the University of South Carolina college paper. The initial semester issue was over 100 pages.

Major league baseball umpires were complaining about the meager $32 daily expenses they get and with the spiraling cost of hotel rooms. The "poor" ump's get rooms throughout the season at reduced baseball rates and as practically all double up the cost per man is less than $10. All transportation is paid for by the league.

Klass-Dost Tandam Takes Stroke Edge

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Little known pros Beverly Klass and Jo Ann Dost fired a seven-under par 66 on a cold, windy day Friday to take a one-stroke lead after one round of the 54-hole LPGA Team Tournament at Portland's Columbia-Edgewater Country Club.

Klass, a 21-year-old Tarzana, Calif., player in her third year on the tour had five in her seven birdies for the team to put the stroke up on three other twosomes which included Joyce Kazmierski and Sandra Spuzich, Amy Alcott and Debbie Massey, and Beth Stone and Joan Prentice.

Defending champions JoAnne Carner and Judy Rankin were back in the pack, six strokes behind. Carner, who has been fishing for more than a week, sprayed her tee shots in all directions and Rankin, who has been suffering back problems for almost two months, left the course immediately after the round to go to the hotel because of back pains.

The tournament counts the team best ball, or lowest score, at each hole and carries a $20,000 first prize to the winning duo. Total prize money amounts to $100,000.

Tech Booters Bow to East Hampton

Although having the better of it in the shot department and territorially, Cheney Tech couldn't dent the twine as East Hampton High took a 1-0 duke yesterday in East Hampton in a COC clash.

Brian Sennett put it in the nets for the Bellingers, 1-0, but couldn't get it past keeper Andy Tupper. The East Hampton goalie netted six saves with two other drives.

Low LaBree and Chris Vann were standouts for Cheney. The Beavers next see action Tuesday afternoon, at 3:15 against conference rival Coventry High at the Patriots' sod.

The Technies, 1-1, all over and 0-1 in the conference, controlled play

The 48-year-old January, who played his home course for two and a half years, had a second round 66 for a 36-hole score of 10-under-par 134 and a tie with Sneed, a former winner here, who shot a 68.

Two shots back at 136 were Alan Tapie, Jay Haas, Charles Coody, Barry Jaekel, Howard Twitty and Dave Eichelberger, while 1978 leading money winner Tom Watson, Eddie Pearce, Ben Crenshaw, Pat McGowan, Tom Purtzer, Bruce Lietzke, George Knudson and Lou Graham were at 137.

Yanks Still Two Up

Rick Bosetti's two-run single with one out in the ninth inning gave the Toronto Blue Jays a 5-4 victory over Boston Friday night and dealt the Red Sox a serious setback in their hopes to catch the New York Yankees in the American League East.

Bob Bailor led off the ninth for Toronto with a pinch single and one out later, Dave McKay blooped a single to left off loser Andy Hassler, 3-5. Pinch-hitter Doug Ault then walked to load the bases and Bosetti greeted reliever Bill Campbell with his game-winning hit.

Boston snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth on singles by Carlton Fisk and Fred Lynn and Butch Hobson's sacrifice fly.

Rivals Concerned

BOSTON (UPI) — Coach John Anderson of the big, bad but battered Boston Bruins no longer thinks his team is the one to beat for the Ivy League title.

Yale, the pre-season choice to challenge Brown, is worried nevertheless as the two teams prepare for the regionally televised showdown Saturday in Providence.

"I wouldn't pick Brown anymore," says Anderson, whose defense has been four starters for the season.

Next to his family skiing and fresh water fishing have given him the biggest pleasure since he laid aside his custodial mop and broom at Iling Junior High two years ago.

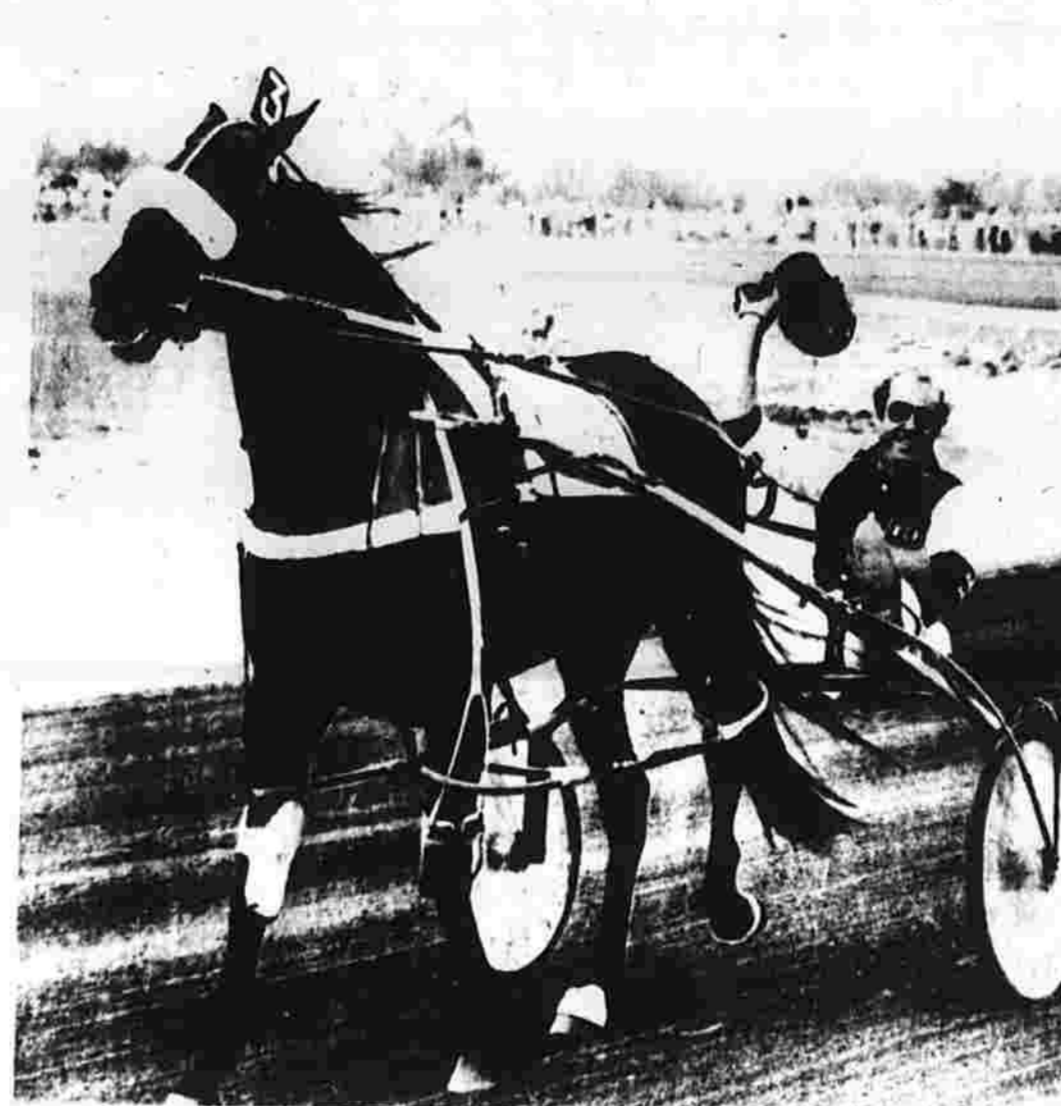

Swimming, too, has also played a big part in his life. Sacherek, still fit and trim, taught water safety and first aid. For a dozen years he was chief lifeguard at Globe Hollow and was the first lifeguard when Salter's Pond was opened to the public.

For several years the local man was ranked No. 1 as a head lifeguard in the New England Intercollegiate Football Conference and served as president of both the Central Connecticut District Board of football and basketball officials.

During the war years, he assisted Coach Tom Kelley with the basketball team in the Red and White at the West Side Oval in a pouring rain. Bob Douglas captained the squad that featured Bill Shaw, Ray Zemanek, Ed Degutis, Gus Gaudino and Jack Robb.

Sacherek also taught physical education at Manchester High, coached the schoolboy swim team for two years, served on the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission and in recent years handled the football officiating assignments in the Eastern Midland and Pony Football Leagues.

His biggest thrill on the sports scene since retirement in '66 has been to rub elbows and ski with the world's best, like Jean Claude Killy, animosity against them. But even if they are wrong, I should not have called them a name, particularly a name which offends a whole nationality of people," he said.

Participating in Sports Keeps Sacherek 'Young'

Participating in sports, as a player and official, has helped Bill Sacherek enjoy a full and fruitful life, and he has no intention of slowing down in his retirement years.

Next to his family skiing and fresh water fishing have given him the biggest pleasure since he laid aside his custodial mop and broom at Iling Junior High two years ago.

Sacherek is no Johnny-come-lately to either the sport of skiing or fishing. The East Side resident has skied for 54 of his 86 years and last winter managed to get to 84 days and nights of skiing down a number of New England snow-covered slopes.

It's a rare day when Sacherek fails to catch his legal limit of fish at ponds and streams in New England during open season.

Officialing has also been in his blood and he's been an active football official for 45 years and worked

Surprise of All Surprises, Ali Admits He Was Wrong

CHICAGO (UPI) — Muhammad Ali has conceded he made "unfortunate remarks" to a pair of New Orleans fight promoters who filed a $10 million libel suit against him, but at least one of the promoters is not impressed.

"Last Monday at a press conference in New Orleans, I made certain unfortunate remarks," Ali said in reference to his distributee against Jake DiMaggio and Philip Ciccio of Louisiana Sports, Inc.

"Certain people whom I regarded as my friends gave me a distorted version of events which so enraged me that I made unthinking, angry remarks."

Team Victory Pleases Chris

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Victory is certainly no stranger to Christ Evert — but this one was especially sweet.

"I've won so much in singles and the more you win just takes the glamour away," said Evert after the Los Angeles Strings defeated the Boston Lobsters 28-25 Thursday night to win the World Team Tennis championship. "Team tennis puts the emotion back into it."

"Winning the U.S. Open was a relief because I really wanted to win one major tournament this year. I felt a lot of pressure playing (Pam) Shriver who was the giant killer of the tournament."

Evert, who has felt the strain of the WTT season, looked particularly sharp Thursday night. She defeated Wimbledon queen Martina Navratilova 7-6 (5-4) in women's singles and teamed with Ann Kiyomura to lead Navratilova and Anne Smith 6-1 in women's doubles.

The Strings led behind in the first set when Roy Emerson and Dale Skotter, handed the Amirraj brothers, Vijay and Ashok, their first victory since 1964.

Nastase's win pulled the Strings within one, but Boston won mixed doubles, 6-4 with Bochuca and Anne Smith topping Kiyomura and Nastase.

Kids and Outdoors

I love the outdoor world, and I like kids. Bring the two together, and you have a really exciting situation to behold.

When you stand beside a moving stream or river, and ask a child, "What do you see?" the normal response is "Nothing" or "Water."

But, when you say to that same child, "Stand very still, don't move, and look where my finger is pointing," the child on the young person mirrors awe, amazement and delight. For he or she has discovered the outline of a trout holding himself in the current.

CB Convac

There is a quality of compassion, a willingness to help, a desire to participate lurking in the hearts of all CBers. And it manifests itself almost constantly. CB clubs in communities all over the United States and Canada, even in Germany and other European countries where CB is permitted and active, organize themselves into groups both for the camaraderie involved and to help their fellow men.

The mail this column receives, the bulletins that CB magazines report, the activities we have personally seen, all point to this similar characteristic of CBers: we'll take on a cause and do something about it.

In upper New York state, outside Buffalo, around Grand Island and Canadian communities thereabouts, "Spindletop" Baker was a CBER everyone who worked the box knew. Not personally. He'd suffered a heart attack when his wife died, and he took up CBERing as a hobby.

It was important to him, because he enjoyed the companionship it gave him, and the protection it afforded him should he suffer another attack. He died after telling his friends of the mike that he wasn't feeling well. We was discovered by one of his buddies, CB Radio magazine reported. All the CBers of the area observed an hour's silence in his honor.

Citizens band radio can be vital to farmers who are in remote areas by themselves. Jim Young of a small town in Saskatchewan, Canada, found himself pinned beneath a piece of farm equipment. His only hope was to reach his CB in his pickup. His call for help was heard by a farm housewife who was also a CBER. She relayed his message to her husband, Harold Balzer. The whole project required advising the hospital, finding a doctor who could attend Young immediately and getting him picked up. CB and concerned people did it all. He is recovering.

CBers in the Morris County area of New Jersey joined together to raise more than $1,000 to help a fellow CBER defray horrendous medical bills. Led by the "Jefferson Squawkers," CBERs who use Channels 6 and 11 had a benefit dinner. They all had talked with the ridden Michael Czahlo over the three years he'd been terribly ill. Knowing his problem, they all pitched in and called upon other CBERs to help. And help they all did.

In Germany there are a hundred or more CB clubs. The same spirit prevails there. A correspondent in Alm reports that they are monitoring Channel 23 constantly as part of a Crime Stop program that has been initiated by the Air Force. Hahn has an active CB club, "Hawk 76."

It, too, is engaged in activities that have community objectives and works with German CB clubs to assure their acceptance and effectiveness. All reports indicate that CB has been a great influence in cementing good will and amiable relations with German residents.

These are isolated examples of CBERing as a force for good. With more than 20 million CBERs in this country alone, there is no question that it is a disjoined, but concerned, group of people who could be mobilized effectively.

CB is the most personal of all communications media. The need for collectivism, for cohesiveness is increasingly apparent. CBERs are good people ready and willing enthusiastically to support a good cause.
