Vance Back Home; Begin Urges Plan

By United Press International

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance returned home from his crucial Middle East shuttle today convinced the Camp David accords offer a basis for "real peace." Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin pleaded with "a grieving heart" to his parliament to accept the agreements.

But Begin vowed Israel will never give up Jerusalem — a declaration sure to incite hard-line and moderate Arabs. Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Syria all mentioned the accords' failure to provide for the return of Arab Jerusalem in their talks with Vance.

Israel captured east Jerusalem from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war and made the reunited city the capital of the Jewish state.

"Jerusalem will remain undivided for all generations and until the end of the world," Begin said in his speech during the parliament debate that the Israeli leader called "historic."

Israel began the most crucial parliament debate in its 30-year history one day after the Cabinet endorsed the accords, giving a boost to Vance's mission to sell the agreements to skeptical Arabs a boost.

Parliamentary approval of the accords could lead to the first treaty ever between an Arab nation and the Jewish state.

Begin appealed to Parliament to surrender the settlements in the Sinai — a prerequisite for a peace with Egypt.

He also said Israel will permit Palestine Liberation Organization sympathizers to sit on a council governing the occupied West Bank of Jordan "if they behave properly."

Opposition Labor party leader Shimon Peres immediately charged Begin with fostering the creation of a Palestinian state.

The Knesset debate began with raucous protest, with calls on Begin to resign and demands by the five-member Communist party to recognize the right of Palestinian self-determination. At one point, a five-minute recess was called to restore order.

"With a hurting and grieving heart but a quiet conscience I recommend that the Knesset accept the proposal that the government approved yesterday," Begin said.

"For 30 years we have prepared for the hour when we would sit down to discuss the signing of a peace treaty for normalization of relations, on the stopping of war, on the promise of life — not just for our generation but for our children and their children."

Vance's five-day, three-nation mission ended in Syria with the diplomat gaining little success in softening Damascus' bitter opposition to the "framework of peace" that emerged last week from the 13-day Camp David summit.

The most Vance could say about his talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad before leaving Damascus was that they had been "helpful" and the two countries would keep talking.

Vance, who had to postpone his visit to Damascus by 24 hours to wait for the conclusion of the hard-line Arab conference there, earlier failed to get either a commitment from Jordan to enter the Camp David dialogue immediately or a promise of outright support from Saudi Arabia.

But U.S. officials said Vance remained convinced the accords, signed by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, were the best building blocks for peace in the volatile Middle East.

"I always assume there would be serious questions, and there were, but we still feel the frameworks of Camp David provide the basis for real peace," Vance told reporters as his plane headed west over the Mediterranean.

The two accords outline the framework for an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty within three months, and then an overall settlement with Israel signing treaties with Syria and Jordan.

Carrier Rejects Offer to Merge

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Carrier Corp. said today its directors have voted unanimously to turn down the merger proposal of United Technologies Corp. of Hartford and it is taking the matter to both federal and state courts.

Carrier Chairman Melvin C. Holm charged that the United Technologies merger proposal, coupled with the threat of a tender offer, was tantamount to blackmail and "represents an unconscionable course of conduct."

Holm said Carrier already has sued in the federal court for northern New York to block the merger proposal on the grounds that it raises serious possibility of violation of both the antitrust and securities laws, and will also file suit in the Delaware court.

He said the attorney general's office of New York will be asked to hold a public hearing at least to investigate the matter because Carrier's lawyer believes the proposal violates the state's securities laws.

Holm said the Carrier board also unanimously decided it would be in the best interest of the company, its shareholders, employees and the communities it serves for Carrier to remain independent.

United Technologies had proposed to buy 49 percent of Carrier at $28 a common share if a tax-free merger were not negotiated. Value of the transaction would be about $476 million.

Dr. Rubin Plans to Organize Tenants

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A resident who tried unsuccessfully to have screens installed in some town apartments now is working to form a local tenants' association.

Dr. Ben Rubin of 124 Highland St. has contacted the Connecticut Citizen Action Group for assistance in forming the association and has scheduled a meeting Oct. 3 for interested parties.

The tenants' group could be in-involved in such matters as a possible court appeal of the screen decision and the establishment of a local housing court, Rubin said in a one-page statement about the proposed association.

Rubin this summer that the town's housing code requires screens on doors and cellar windows. He complained that several apartments in town, including his own, lacked such screens.

The Health Department ordered the installation of the screens, but the town's Housing Code Enforcement

Committee granted a variance so that the owners of the apartments would not be required to make the installation.

The committee had said that all of the apartments had adequate ventilation so the screens are not needed.

Rubin said that the screen and ventilation items are separate, and both are required by the code.

In his statement about the association, Rubin said that some of those involved in the screen case are forming a Manchester tenants' association. The first meeting will be uesday, Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the meeting room of First Federal Savings Bank, 344 W. Middle Turnpike.

Rubin said that the proposed tenants' group might consider support for appeal of the screen decision. It also might lobby for the creation of a Manchester housing court and on other issues of interest to tenants.

The association also could be involved in review of the town's proposed new housing code, he suggested.

Rubin could not be reached today for comment or information about how many of the one-page flyers he has distributed.

A spokeswoman for the Connecticut Citizen Action Group said that Rubin had contacted her for information about establishing such a tenants' group.

She said there are few such groups in the state and CCAAG supports the effort in Manchester to form one.

Bridgeport Ends Teachers' Strike

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Most of the city's 23,000 students were back in school today after the Bridgeport Education Association, the school board and city council agreed to end the teachers' 19-day strike.

Authorities freed 261 educators Sunday night from a National Guard camp where they had been jailed for refusing a judge's order to halt their walkout, which had disrupted Bridgeport's public schools since Sept. 6.

Judge James Henneby ordered their release after union teachers voted overwhelmingly earlier Sunday to accept contract terms recommended by state Labor Commissioner Peter Reilly.

Negotiators had appointed Reilly as a factfinder after a 16-hour session ended at 6 a.m. Sunday at the state Labor Department headquarters in Wethersfield.

The teachers, jailed for up to 12 days, cheered each other as they boarded seven yellow school buses for the 65-mile trip home, where a rally by the Bridgeport Education Association was held.

A group of teachers from around the state cheered and waved signs they had carried all day in support of their colleagues as the buses rolled out the main gate of the camp. A few relatives arrived by car to pick up some teachers.

The union members voted 686-205 earlier Sunday to ratify a compromise, which includes a 6 percent raise this year, and a 7.5 percent salary hike in 1979. There were also provisions in the settlement to staff city schools with music, art and physical education teachers.

The board had offered raises of 6 and 6.5 percent over the life of the two year contract. The teachers' last demands were 6 and 7.8 percent.

The proposed settlement ends a threat by the Connecticut Education Association to stage selective strikes by its 27,000 members in other communities in support of the Bridgeport strike.

The first group of teachers, the 13-member executive committee, was jailed Sept. 12. Since then, about 10 teachers have been released for personal reasons.

Early negotiations were marked by bitter accusations from BEA leaders.

Mayor John Mandanici, a Democrat who voted himself a 50 percent salary hike to $42,000, the same as the governor, was accused by BEA president Arthur Pechillo of orchestrating the school board negotiations.

Senior Bus Back Today

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — The senior citizens bus, which offers free bus service along a fixed route, is scheduled to return to the road at noon today after a three-week absence due to the illness of the bus driver.

Michael Valuk, administrative assistant to the mayor, said the town has entered an agreement with Dial-A-Ride Inc. of Manchester for the bus service.

Under the arrangement, Dial-A-Ride will provide a bus driver for the bus, which makes regular stops at all Housing Authority complexes for the elderly.

The bus has been out of service for the past three weeks because the driver had become ill and could not drive.

"We had a great difficulty filling in for him," Valuk said.

Valuk said Dial-A-Ride will provide the same bus driver, but if the driver becomes ill, they can arrange in a replacement.

"We felt this was the best arrangement for delivering this service to the senior citizens," Valuk said.

The bus runs Monday, Wednesday and Thursday each week, and also operates the first Tuesday of every month. It usually runs for about four hours a day and the hours vary.

Generally, however, it is on the road from about 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Senior citizens who wish to use the bus do not have to call ahead for reservations. Bus stops are provided for them along the fixed route.

"There were no real hardships suffered by anyone that I know of while the bus was out of service," said Eldridge Benedict, chairman of the Commission on Services to the Elderly.

He said those who needed to do grocery shopping were able to use the town's other bus service for the elderly and handicapped, the Call-A-Ride service.

Call-A-Ride is normally reserved for those who have a special need for transportation services, but it picked up the senior citizens who needed bus service because of the circumstances, Benedict said.

Water Line Repair Done

MANCHESTER — The replacement of part of the wooden line leading from Buckingham Reservoir was completed Sunday, and Frank Jodanis is tabulating labor costs for the project.

About 500 feet of the line in Glastonbury had to be replaced because of a serious leaking problem that had developed. Manchester's Board of Directors approved a bid waiver for work costing up to $20,000 for the line repairs.

The waiver was approved because of the need for immediate repair work. All of the digging and installation of the new piping was done by Town of Manchester employees.

Buckingham Reservoir services some Manchester residents and approximately 270 Glastonbury families who receive their water from the Manchester system.

Work on the line started Monday night and was finished Sunday, Jodanis said that several hours of overtime pay will be involved for the work Monday night — the seven-man crew started at nine o'clock and worked straight through the next day — and over the weekend. A four-man crew finished the project Saturday and Sunday, Jodanis said.

He still has to calculate the labor costs to determine the final cost of the replacement project.

About Town

Friendship Circle, Salvation Army, will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Citadel for a service meeting. Hostesses are Mrs. Ruth Barrette and Mrs. Dorothy Jenkins.

The Volunteer League of Lutz Junior Museum will sponsor its annual open house Tuesday at 10 a.m. at the museum. Refreshments will be served. New members are welcome. Two guest speakers will talk on successful fall planting and house plant propagation. A baby sitter will be provided.

HUD Approves Subsidy For Rockville Housing

VERNON — Final approval has been given by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for the proposed conversion of a Rockville factory to a housing project for the elderly.

Barkan Development Corp. of Massachusetts plans to convert the former U. S. Envelope factory on West Main Street into apartments for the elderly and has been told it can now go ahead with the work.

Approval has been given for a $22,036 Federal Section 8 rent subsidy. This provides for qualified tenants to pay no more than 25 percent of their income for rent and utilities.

Mrs. Foote Reaches Her 110th Birthday

MANCHESTER — Whether Mrs. Alice Foote, 110, formerly of Hebron, is the oldest living person in Connecticut is not known, even by the Social Security Office.

She celebrated her special occasion Sunday with about 50 friends and relatives at the Meadows Convalescent Home. Five generations of her family were represented. State Rep. Dorothy Miller (R) of Bolton joined the well-wishers.

Congratulations were received from Gov. Ella Grasso, Lt. Gov. Robert Killian, U.S. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, and President Carter.

Mrs. Foote was given a birthday charm for her bracelet with "110" on it. She has a charm for each year from 100 on. Meadows hosts said she was "quite chipper and smiled a lot" during the party, and seemed to forget that she was 110. Hospital officials said she rarely gets out of doors.

But there was no one who knew if she was the oldest person in the state. Inquires went through the State Health Department, State Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Commission on the Aging, and finally, the Social Security office, which eventually the central office in Maryland — all with the same response, "no way of knowing."

Health Department Plans Press Policy

MANCHESTER — The town's Health Department, after receiving criticism for recent conflicting reports, plans to adopt a new policy for providing information to the press.

The department wants to prepare a written statement on issues it is questioned about. Dr. Alice Turck, director of health, said today. This will give it an opportunity to research matters and insure that the same information is provided to all parties, she said.

Town Manager Robert Weiss, who expressed concern when two department personnel issued differing opinions on the safety of a termite-control substance, did express some concern this morning about the Health Department's plan.

"I would not expect that they would want the manager to approve every statement they made," Weiss said. He did approve the idea of questions being researched and answered in writing.

"If anyone is asked about a technical matter, they shouldn't feel obligated to answer off the top of their head," he said.

Dr. Turck said that the written report will be compiled quickly and could be read over the phone, if necessary, by office staff.

Vivian Ferguson, a member of the Board of Directors, was critical of the proposal.

"If there's a difference of opinion within a department, the public should know about it," she said. She was concerned about extreme controls being placed when disputes develop.

She criticized Mayor Stephen Penny, who also apparently expressed concern about the recent difference of opinion that developed over the termite-control matter.

She wondered if he is hopeful that only good news reaches the public. Penny could not be reached for comment today.

Adult Classes Begin Tonight

VERNON — Adult Education classes will start tonight at the Adult Education Center on Route 30 and at Rockville High School, Loveland Hill.

Classes will be meeting Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. There are still some openings available. Those interested may register the night of the first class.

There are openings in the Monday night classes in COBOL, co-ed fitness, dance, drawing and composition, fundamentals of data processing, high school review, rug braiding, sewing with ease, shorthand I, tating, and pre-high school review.

Printer Delays Review Of Water System Study

MANCHESTER — It probably will be a couple of weeks before the town's Water Study Committee begins reviewing the final report on water system improvements.

The report on the distribution system has been completed, but it is facing delays at the printer's office. Frank Jodanis, water and sewer administrator, said.

The town received a preliminary report in July that recommended the distribution system be divided into three pressure zones. It estimated that the cost of the improvements would be almost $8 million.

The final report distribution is being prepared by Weston & Sampson Engineers Inc. and is being awaited by the town so it can begin review of its options for repairing the system.

The review work will be done by the Water Study Committee, which already has completed its review of the recommended water treatment improvements. The Board of Directors must grant final approval to improvement plans.

The distribution system changes, combined with the proposed water treatment improvements, could cost the town $15 million to upgrade its system so that federal drinking water requirements can be met.

The town originally had hoped to have a referendum question this November on approval for the spending for water improvements. That date will not be met now, and a special referendum probably will be held in the spring.

Harry Reinborn, chairman of the Water Study Committee, could not be reached this morning to find out what the committee's timetable for work will be. It is expected to meet soon after the study is received.

Reinborn has been one of the most vocal critics of the length of time involved before the town receives its reports.

Weston & Sampson has received criticism from town officials and committee members about the length of time it has taken them to complete the water studies. Representatives of the firm, however, have defended the criticism by saying that such studies are highly technical, require much research and cannot be rushed.

Panel Resumes Hearings On Conspiracy Theories

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Did Lee Harvey Oswald assassinate John F. Kennedy on Soviet orders? Was he used by Fidel Castro to avenge U.S. death pacts against the Cuban leader? These are two of an assortment of conspiracy theories likely to be resurrected today as the House Assassinations Committee moves into the fourth week of its public hearings on the Kennedy case.

Other theories brought to the committee's attention blame the CIA, the Mafia and big business in turn for the Kennedy assassination 17 years ago.

Former CIA Director Richard Helms discussed the Oswald-Soviet theory Friday during some five hours of testimony before the committee.

He said no one can be sure whether Oswald was recruited by the KGB secret police during more than two years in the Soviet Union.

The one-time head of America's spy apparatus said the CIA submitted Soviet defector Yuri Nosenko to 1 1/2 years of "hostile interrogation" in the 1960s in an attempt to find out if the Kremlin was tied to the assassination.

Nosenko, who said he was not bona fide, might have been a KGB plant set to deceive the United States," Stokes said.

"That is certainly true," Helms said, "and it was foremost in our minds." By raising the possibility of Soviet involvement in the slaying of Kennedy, Helms was certain to give new life to the conspiracy theories that have swirled since Oswald was killed by Dallas nightclub owner Jack Ruby two days after Kennedy's murder.

Three Blamed For Extensive School Damage

Three juveniles have been referred to juvenile court in connection with vandalism which caused extensive water damage at Washington State High School in Glastonbury.

Police reported today that the vandals used tools and sinks and turned on the water in the lavatories on all the floors of the newly renovated school. Police said the damage was in the old section of the school on Cedar Street.

The school is currently undergoing a $1.4 million renovation and new construction project, which is partially completed.

School officials were not able to give an estimate of the damage Monday, police said.

Three juveniles were two nine-year-old boys and a 12-year-old girl. The vandalism was discovered Sunday after a citizen who had apparently heard the youths talking called the police, Detective Captain Joseph Brooks said.

Brooks said an ongoing investigation may result in other referrals.

Sexism Talk Set Thursday

Ms. Thoreson will give a sociological perspective from personal experience, professional interest and current research.

The program is open to members of The Educational Community free of charge. The public is invited to attend two weeks of Thursday evening speakers series without charge. For further information, call 646-0711.

MCC Plans Workshops On New Law

A series of six workshops that will assist elementary school teachers in implementing the requirements of a new law regarding education for handicapped students will be held this fall by Manchester Community College (MCC).

The college has received a $24,000 grant from the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped (BHEH), to support the workshops. MCC is the only community college in the Northeast region of the United States to receive such a grant.

Public Law 94-142 requires that each city and town integrate, to the greatest extent possible, handicapped students into classes of non-handicapped students. Cities and towns that fail to comply with the law risk the loss of federal funds.

Compliance with the law must be demonstrated in several ways including in-service training like that which will be given in the MCC workshops.

Initially, teachers of Grades K through 6 will be accepted only from Manchester, East Hartford, Vernon, Glastonbury, and Bolton. The set of six workshops will be offered three times, however. Teachers from another dozen towns in the area will be eligible to attend later workshops.

The school administration in each eligible town will decide which teachers to send. Enrollment is limited to 30 teachers for each set of workshops. During the summer, a committee of representatives from the first five towns has been developing the workshops that will begin in October.

The project is being co-ordinated by Beverly Housell of the MCC Community Services Division and William Levy, instructor of psychology at the college.

Firefighters Try to Cap Oil Well

HACKBERRY, La. (UPI) — Oil-well firefighters had no luck with the simplest method of capping a burning well at a federal oil reserve Sunday and were dousing the area today to keep it cool for a second attempt.

An attempt to beat back burning oil with heavier salt brine failed, but two well firefighters try again today to plug gushing oil from a well above an underground salt dome storing 7 million barrels of federal oil.

The leaders of the firefighting unit, Asgar "Boots" Hansen and Eugene "Cooks" Matthews, Sunday said pouring brine on top of the surging oil did not work.

The brine, which is heavier than oil, supposedly would have forced the oil back down, allowing workers to cap the well.

University Professors Return to Picket Line

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — About 250 striking faculty members plan to make full day of picketing today after making no progress in their dispute with the University of Bridgeport and New London.

The strike by an estimated 250 of the 270 faculty members of the American Association of University Professors began Friday and negotiators met for only three hours before they decided to quit for the weekend. However, both sides huddled again Sunday for about four hours.

Federal mediator Ezekiel Brown said no progress was reached.

"Both sides are as far apart now as they were Aug. 31 when they extended their last contract three weeks," Brown said.

He said the negotiating session consisted of "basically trying to find a better procedure to continue negotiations."

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., spoke at the school Saturday at a conference highlighting Bridgeport Hospital's 100th anniversary, but about 50 of the striking faculty members decided not to picket the event. The conference was held at the university's Student Center.

Norman Douglas, head of the campus chapter of the AAUP, said Ribicoff told union leaders Friday he would not attend the conference if it meant crossing their picket line.

Douglas said he told Ribicoff's office the conference would not picket the educators so Connecticut's senior senator could attend.

"We will not picket a non-university function," Douglas said.

Strike center coordinator Gaylord Kaas said the line was set up across the street from the center so it would not block the event, but it still attracted attention.

Kaas said picketing was also planned today at the University of Bridgeport's extensions in Stamford and New London.

Commenting on further talks, Kaas said, "It is all up to the (federal) mediator to get everything together."

The professors, whose contract expired at midnight Thursday, want to participate in setting the university's academic policy and the administration's reorganization plans. The AAUP also claimed the school is planning to reduce overstaffed departments by laying off professors with six months notice.

The private institution has about 8,000 full-time and part-time students. Douglas said the AAUP hoped the students would honor faculty picket lines but has not asked them to stay out of class. "They will have to make their own decisions," he said.

In another college labor dispute, Wesleyan University in Middletown. The strike began Sept. 4 after failure to come up with a new contract for the union workers.

Staff To Hear Lawyer

MANCHESTER — Attorney Norman K. James, director of Connecticut Legal Services Inc., will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the staff of the River East Homemaker Home Health Aide Service Inc. tonight at 7:30 in the community room of the Stop & Shop, Vernon Circle.

James is the author of the legislation establishing protective services for the elderly in the Connecticut Department on Aging.

The legislation provides that any individual providing nursing, therapeutic, or social service care to the elderly and who has reasonable cause to suspect that an elderly person has been abused or neglected, exploited or abandoned, must report the information to the commissioner on aging.

James is president of the Board of Directors of the Homemaker Home Health Aide Services of Windham Area Inc. and has been involved with the drafting of much legislation relating to the rights of the elderly. Continuing education is part of a certification process required by the Connecticut Department of Health for all Homemaker-Home Health Aides.

Small Farmers Meet

POLAND SPRING, Maine (UPI) — Nearly 100 small farm owners from 12 states will assemble in Maine Tuesday to confer with federal officials on how to help family farms operating.

A spokesman Sunday said Assistant Agriculture Secretary Alex Mercure and Mary E. King, deputy director of ACTION — the federal agency for volunteer service, will meet with 96 small farm owners Tuesday through Thursday.

Workers Sunday pumped oil from a nearby well created by earthen dams constructed to hold the spilled oil that gushed unburned from the well. Oil broke through one of the dikes Saturday night but it was unknown how much oil leaked into the marsh.

Officials estimate more than 70,000 barrels of oil — about $1 million worth — will have burned at the wellhead by the time the fire is extinguished. Flames were contained above ground at the wellhead and officials said the 7 million barrels stored in the salt dome was unaffected by the fire.

Campbell said the fire has diminished in intensity as the burning off of oil relieves pressure in the dome. The fire was considered safe and stable, he said.

Deadline Remains

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — The Dec. 1 deadline for women to be barred from joining the Jaycees will not be extended, says Barry Kennedy, president of the service organization.

Women had been excluded from the all-male organization, which claims 300,000 members across the country, until 1975, when the group tried three pilot programs.

I worked part-time even when my kids were very young, but now that I'm raising the kids myself I've had to return to a full-time job.

I called The Infoline for information on day care, and they told me Greater Hartford offers facilities for single-parent kids, like mine; these facilities are supported by The United Way.

I started sending my two daughters to The Women's League Day Care Center, which is a United Way agency. That means the cost of the care is given out of my income — which is critical to my situation right now.

The kids have made lots of friends there, and the counselors give every kid first-class care. I'm just so grateful to the hundreds of people I've never even met who support The United Way and make all this possible for my kids and me. I get my first raise pretty soon, and as soon as I do I'm going to start giving another dollar a week to The United Way through payroll deduction at work. I can get by without the dollar. Because I know what it'll mean to someone else.

THANKS

Challenger Says Dodd Won't Talk

VERNON — Dodd (Congressman Christopher) ducked a second scheduled radio debate in less than a week. Republican Thomas Connell, Dodd's opponent for the Second Congressional District seat, said Connell said the first debate with his Democratic opponent was supposed to have been on a Fulmar radio station and the second, in Williamstown. He said for radio "you don't have to show up in the flesh. All that is required is that your voice get to the station."

The two men debated on television a week or two ago but Connell said Dodd declined to appear for the radio shows. "I guess the debate on Channel 2 a week or two ago was enough to make him think twice about debates," Connell said.

"It must be he doesn't want to be questioned on why he opposed the one-third tax cut, why he was one of only 49 congressmen to vote against the House Ways and Means tax cut, and just what sort of 'land reform' he has in mind."

Connell said Dodd gave a talk to the AFL-CIO in Hartford and answered questions by telephone. "I know, I was there. So when he wants to, he knows how to use the phone," Connell said.

Connell said there's no reason why Dodd can't hold the debates with him by telephone and he expressed the willingness to take the debate anytime of the day or night.

Vincent Zito, second from right, accepts congratulations from friends and fellow barbershoppers at a celebration in his honor Sunday. He has devoted almost 30 years to the preservation and encouragement of barbershop singing. (Herald photo by Chastain)

Barbershoppers Honor Zito's Accomplishments

EAST HARTFORD — More than 300 barbershop harmony enthusiasts gathered here Sunday to honor the musical accomplishments of Vincent A. Zito of 47 Thomas Dr., Manchester. Zito, who directs two award-winning barbershop choruses, is nearing his 30th anniversary as a member of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America Inc. Present for the tribute were members of Manchester's Silk City Chorus, a chapter of SPEBSQSA, and the Mountain Laurel Chorus of Sweet Adelines.

In March, Zito directed the Manchester men to second place ranking among 14 Connecticut choruses. Earlier, the Sweet Adelines women under his direction won the championship of their northeastern region. They will compete in Los Angeles next month in a contest to determine the Sweet Adelines' 1978 international queens of harmony. Also present were members of barbershop quartets Zito has helped with coaching and song arrangements. The groups included men's and women's quartets that have achieved championship honors in their respective organizations, and members of the Sleepless Knights of Harmony, a comedy quartet in which Zito sang bass during the quartet's more than 300 appearances throughout the U.S. and Canada. Each group sang several songs from the barbershoppers and their families. The event was held at the Elk's Club pavilion on Roberts Street.

In addition to his directing and arranging activities, Zito frequently serves on judging panels in contests that the two singing societies conduct. He also is co-host of Bob & Vin's Barbershop, heard Sunday evenings at 8 over WJMF in Manchester. Zito, a machinist, is president of Metal Industries Inc., in Hartford. He and his wife Jean, a Sweet Adelines member, have two children.

Kennedy To Recommend Action on CETA Posts

MANCHESTER — Manchester School Superintendent James P. Kennedy will recommend tonight that the Board of Education take some action to assure continuing funds for some of the board's Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) positions in case the funds are discontinued by the federal government. The schools have nine positions, including four teaching positions, funded by CETA at least until the end of this week. Indications from the CETA office in Hartford Friday were that the Hartford City Council would act tonight on continuing all Title II positions, which includes the Board of Education employees, through October. Kennedy also said action by Congress on the CETA program will also affect the board positions, but he said he wants to have a money set aside from this year's budget to assure continuance of at least some of the positions. He did not specify which positions he will recommend. The school board will also ask the town for its "fair share" of whatever CETA funds are available, Kennedy said. The school board will meet tonight at 8 at Waddell School. Other action will include a review of new report cards for the upper grades in the elementary schools. Douglas Townsend, principal at Benoit School and chairman of the report card committee, will present the proposal to the board. The concept for a new report card has already been approved by the board. The new card will be used for the first time in conjunction with the November parent-teacher conferences. The board will also be asked to prepare a calendar and guidelines for preparing the school budget for next year.

Race Entries Top 100

EAST HARTFORD — The Parks and Recreation Department has received more than 100 entry forms for the first annual Pre-Columbus Day Road Race, which is scheduled Oct. 6 at McCalliffe Park. Fred Bales, director of parks and recreation, said the department went over the 100 mark this morning when it received several entry forms in the mail. He has set 150 entrants as a goal, but he said he would be pleased if the figure is higher than that. "I consider anything over 150 to be a success," he said. "If it's a rainy day or a real cold day, some of the people might not show." Bales also announced this year's co-sponsor, the Lions Club of East Hartford, has told him they would like to take over the race next year. "We got the ball rolling this year and we would be happy to have the Lions Club take over the race in the future," Bales said today. He said the Lions Club is interested in making the race an annual event.

Talks Set on Pond Smell

MANCHESTER — Officials from Manchester and Vernon, political candidates and a state official will attend a meeting Tuesday about the smell at Union Pond and the Hookman River. Stanley Pac, head of the state's Department of Environmental Protection, is expected to attend the session. Vernon Mayor Frank McCoy, Manchester Mayor Stephen Perry and Fish and Wildlife Deputy President Gordon Lassow all have been invited to the meeting. Tuesday's meeting will be held at 1 p.m. in Manchester's Municipal Building. State Rep. Theodore Cummings originally proposed the idea of the meeting. He represents the 12th Assembly District, which includes the Union Pond area. Walter Joyner, the Republican candidate against Cummings, also has been invited to Tuesday's meeting.

Mayor Blames Myette In Manager Debate

SOUTH WINDSOR — Mayor Nancy Calfyn said today that she blames Deputy Mayor Robert Myette, and those council members who have "leaked" executive session information to the press for the embarrassing controversy surrounding the possible resignation or firing of Town Manager Paul Talbot. In a statement issued this weekend Mrs. Calfyn said, "The problem that now exists stems from the vacillation of our councilman, Deputy Mayor Myette. Since February, when he and Councilman (Robert) Sills wanted to ask for Mr. Talbot's resignation on their own, they have supported the hiring of a new town manager. I have been reassured throughout the summer that Deputy Mayor Myette was still of this opinion. What has brought about his aversion to close the matter in an orderly, reasonable way, only he knows."

"At the last council meeting, he joined the Democrats in obstructing the council from entering into an executive session whereby the council could have talked about his change of heart," said Mayor Calfyn. "The damage that his political maneuverings have caused have been most costly to the town, the council, to Mr. Talbot and to his own credibility." Myette, responding to Mrs. Calfyn's comments, said he believes Mrs. Calfyn had no authority to speak to Talbot regarding a possible resignation without a formal vote of the council. Myette also reacted with anger at a published report quoting Mrs. Calfyn. In the report, Mrs. Calfyn indicated that Myette would supply the sixth and final vote necessary to fire Talbot. Following the report, Myette said, "No one is going to tell me how I'm going to vote." Myette has also refused to attend any further executive sessions of the council because of the disclosure to the press of the information discussed at the meetings.

One council member, however, indicated that they believed Mrs. Calfyn acted properly when it became evident that six of the nine-member council would vote for the replacement of Talbot. According to the source, the council unanimously agreed that Town Attorney Richard Rittenband, should alert Talbot to the feelings of the six members prepared to vote for his dismissal, giving him the opportunity to resign rather than be fired. "It was only after the Sept. 15 deadline imposed by the council that Mayor Calfyn, accompanied by Councilman Sills, approached Talbot, and, in light of Attorney Rittenband's August discussion with him, discuss his plans. At that time it was obvious that we no longer had the votes to dismiss him, so that would have been the only of an ultimatum — resign or be fired?" Three of the four Democrats on the council stand opposed to Talbot's ousting. Councilwoman Jackie Smith and Councilman Art Champagne and Ed Havens have stood firm in their contention that the 44-year-old Talbot has fulfilled his responsibilities as town manager since being hired in June 1976 to replace Terry Sprekel. The Democrats — including maverick member Myette — have accused Mayor Calfyn and the GOP council majority of misuse in power in the handling of the Talbot issue. "Mrs. Calfyn has made herself the strong mayor the residents voted in referendum," charged Democratic Councilman Sills. "If I wanted a strong mayor form of government," said Mrs. Calfyn, "I would not be supporting the removal of Mr. Talbot. I had hoped that I would not have to detail the areas of concern with Mr. Talbot's performance but I am prepared to submit, if necessary, a report of areas of concern."

Confusion Dominates Saturday Meetings

SOUTH WINDSOR — Another chapter in the on-going saga of political confusion evolved Saturday when the Town Council met at 9:30 a.m. to discuss personnel matters — including the pending resignation of Public Works Director Allan Young and the possible dismissal of Town Manager Paul Talbot. Deputy Mayor Robert Myette, however, refused to attend the 9:30 executive session meeting and, instead, arrived shortly before 10 a.m. for a special meeting of the Town Council requested by him and the three other Democratic council members. Myette told reporters, minutes after the caucus room where the eight other council members were meeting, that he was "boycotting the meeting and would refuse to attend other executive sessions until he was able to extract a promise from council members that discussions during executive sessions would not be 'leaked' to the press."

Myette's comments stemmed from a report published earlier this week, that he would provide the sixth and final vote necessary to oust Talbot from his position as town manager. Myette retaliated by not attending the executive session meeting, and last week voted against the council's going into executive session to discuss the issue. At 10:20 a.m. the eight council members were still in executive session in the caucus room. At 10:30 Myette, obviously angered, entered the council chambers where the special session was to have convened at 10 a.m. Myette banged the gavel three times. "This meeting was scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.," said Myette. "I arrived here at 9:55. The council should have adjourned and called this 10 o'clock meeting to order." Myette apologized to the 20 or more persons waiting in the council chambers, adjourned the meeting because of the lack of a quorum, and stormed out of the room. "I'm tired of playing these high school politics," said Myette, so I'm going home. A resident who had been waiting for the meeting to convene, opened the door to the caucus room, where the council was still in executive session, and told the minutes of the meeting. Myette had convened and adjourned the scheduled 10 a.m. meeting. "This is like a zoo," commented a resident waiting with reporters in the hall. "The meeting is a circus. Councilman Robert Sills emerged from the executive session. There has been some misunderstanding," said Sills to the waiting residents. "The meeting will indeed be held." Sills, commenting later on Myette's actions, told residents, "This whole thing is ridiculous. Not even the president of the United States has the authority to adjourn a meeting of the South Windsor Town Council."

At 10:45 a.m. the executive session was necessary to oust Talbot from his position as town manager. Myette called the special meeting — originally scheduled for 10 a.m. — to order. In response to a question on the legality of Myette's action, Mrs. Calfyn asked Town Attorney Richard Rittenband for an opinion. Rittenband told the council that it was impossible for Myette to adjourn the meeting since "the meeting" — attended by only Myette — lacked a quorum to begin with. The meeting, which was called to discuss a transitional period, in case the town manager resigns or is fired, was adjourned a few minutes later, following the tabling of the matter. A special executive session is planned following the council's work session tonight at 7:30.

Selectmen Enforcing Driveway Ordinance

BOLTON — Local paving contractors will be contacted by the Board of Selectmen and reminded of a town ordinance concerning driveway permits. It appears many people putting in driveways or repairing driveways are neglecting to get permits or are getting them after the fact. Calvin Hutchinson, building inspector, was advised by the board to remind building contractors of the ordinance. The board approved having the town join the Windham Area Community Action Program Inc. There will be no cost to the town. The group is a private non-profit agency that provides services to low income residents of Windham and Tolland Counties. The town's Human Services Advisory Committee approved having the town join the group that provides emergency energy and fuel assistance, an emergency food bank, crisis intervention, day care, halfway house, youth employment and many other services. Selectman Ernest Shepherd has been elected chairman of the Planning Commission of the Health Systems Agency for the Capitol Region. Regulations for the town parks, that were drafted by Parks Commissioner Stanley Bates, will be reviewed by the board and comments are to be ready for the Oct. 3 meeting. The order of the agenda for the board's future meetings was changed by a unanimous vote of the board. For future meetings the order of the agenda will be minutes, audience, bills, old business, new business, standing committee reports and communications.

Inspector's Report Calvin Hutchinson, building inspector, issued 19 building permits in August, five for new houses. Hutchinson also issued eight certificates of use and occupancy permits, one zoning and one subdivision regulation. One application was referred to the Zoning Board of Appeals. The revenue collected in August was $1,087. Hutchinson said building and requests for inspections in August were slow.

Talks Recessed

BOSTON (UPI) — Negotiators for the Boston Typographical Union and the city's two major daily newspapers will take at least one day off before returning to the bargaining table. The Boston Globe will meet with the union and federal mediators Tuesday, but it's not known when the Herald American, negotiating separately with the union, will return. A Globe spokesman said the two sides will take Monday off and resume talks Tuesday. Bargaining recessed Saturday night because of fatigue.

PZC Faces Old Business

COVENTRY — The Planning and Zoning Commission has no public hearings scheduled for its meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Town Hall board room and it hopes to clear up some long-standing items of old business. The plan of development draft and the procedure for a public hearing on it, scheduled for Oct. 5, will be reviewed. Members have agreed to present various aspects of the plan to the public and to take responsibility for answering questions on sections in their special areas of expertise. Also on the agenda is consideration of a five-lot subdivision on Boston Turnpike. The request was filed by Alfred Heckler. A public hearing on this issue was held at the PZC's last meeting. Ken Peterson of Everett Gardner and Associates presented the applicant's petition. All five lots on the estate of Charles Heckler will be more than one acre, according to Peterson. Also on the PZC agenda is a Town Council referral on the sale of two lots in Oak Grove. The commission is expected to make its recommendation to the council by October 2. The PZC will review the town's policy on seasonal dwellings. Recent applications to the Zoning Board of Appeals have brought local attorneys into conflict with decisions made by Zoning Agent Wheeler. Under new business, the commission will consider a road work modification proposal for property owned by

Morgan Won't Support Law Limit on Spending

VERNON — While supporting restraints on governmental spending, State Rep. Chester W. Morgan, at the same time criticizes advocates of constitutional limitation on the traditional fiscal functions of state government.

Morgan, a Democrat, represents Vernon's 8th Assembly District. He will be running against Republican candidate Nancy Osborn of Vernon.

"The hard-earned dollar of each taxpayer must be frugally utilized to provide maximum dollars to those programs and people most in need," Morgan said.

He said that Connecticut can be proud that in the last four years the elderly, the handicapped, and the poor have had a strong commitment from the state government. He said at the same time the state has been unable to operate within the existing tax structure.

"The current General Assembly in which I have served for the past two years has continually and critically reviewed the level of state spending to the point of challenging governmental agencies to either justify their usefulness or go out of existence," Morgan said.

He also noted that the 1977 session of the legislature adopted a sweeping government reorganization compacting more than 200 agencies into 22 departments.

He added, "On the other hand, the grandstanding pitch of the advocates for across-the-board constitutional limitations on state spending, bonding and taxation is irresponsible and welcome."

MACC News

By NANCY CARR Executive Director

Continuing on reports to you on Project Service from last week: The programs were roughly divided into two areas: service to the elderly with special emphasis on convalescent homes and direct service in the area of human needs.

Achievements with the nine CETA positions reassigned to MACC by the Manchester Board of Directors include:

Human Needs Coordinator — Received 500 requests for assistance; provided financial aid from MACC Human Needs fund in urgent cases; provided reliable referral and assistance in dealing with town, state, and federal resources; handled all Manchester area applications (187) for Connecticut Energy Assistance Program representing over $36,000 in assistance.

Human Needs Programs — Clothing Bank: 400 people served in nine months; Emergency Food Pantry: an average of 25 families assisted each month with three to five days food; Furniture referral: 40 families assisted in nine months.

Also moved several elderly people occasionally finding all necessary furniture to establish them in an apartment; Project Reentry: assisted over 40 persons returning from Manchester from correctional institutions; Housing: reported to the Manchester Housing Authority on existing housing problems encountered.

Services to the elderly — Recruited volunteers to visit with convalescent home residents; organized "cheer harts" for two homes; organized convalescent home auxiliary to help keep these services available. Call Project Service 646-4114 and find out more about the most exciting volunteer opportunities in Manchester.

CROP Walk — The Manchester Area Conference of Churches is sponsoring a 10-mile hunger walk this Sunday with CROP, the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service. Seventy-five percent of the total money goes to CROP to assist people in self help agricultural development designed to get at the root causes of hunger.

CROP money buys seed, farm tools, helps dig wells to provide safe water for drinking and for irrigation of life saving crops. It may help provide job opportunities, credit to buy land, fish to stock a small pond.

Twenty-five percent of all money raised will go to the MACC Human Needs Fund to assist other people in need of short term emergency help. All of us can participate. The date, time and place will be announced in the next issue of the newsletter.

hearty and under 80 will gather at Center Park at 12:30. Bring banners, posters and be sure to wear colorful clothes and shoes. Check points are established at Concordia Lutheran, Center Congregational, Adams Street, St. Bridget and Community Baptist. Shorter routes are available to those who are unable to plan a full 10-mile hike. All of us can attend the Hunger Awareness Program at Center Congregational which will run concurrently with the walk from 1 to 5 p.m. Representatives of groups working on hunger concerns at the national, international, state and local levels will share their experiences and their understanding of hunger, its causes and results.

Please pack in cardboard boxes and tape or tie with cord. Fifteen cents per pound of clothing pays for sorting, packing, spraying and the transportation costs overseas. Keep these poorest of the poor in your heart as you look through your closets.

See you at Center on Sunday. CWS Clothing Appeal — Clothing for the Church World Service Fall Clothing Appeal may be left at Concordia Lutheran Church tonight from 6:30 to 7:30 and tomorrow from 1 to 3 p.m. and 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Deliver to the rear of the church ground floor.

Area Bulletin Board Community Singles — The Community Singles Club will have Jack Walsh, Vernon's youth services director, as guest speaker at its meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, Route 30.

Politicians To Support CROP Walk

MANCHESTER — Manchester Mayor Stephen Penny and Democratic State Senate candidate Marcella Fahoy of East Hartford are among the local celebrities who have pledged their support for the Manchester CROP Walk for Hunger Sunday, Oct. 1. They will join an expected 1,000 persons who will walk 10 miles to raise money for food and development programs around the world.

Recruiters from town churches, schools, clubs and businesses are signing up participants for the walk which will begin at 1 p.m. in Center Park.

The walk is co-sponsored by the Manchester Council on Hunger and CROP, the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service.

To help raise awareness about why hunger exists, representatives from groups working on hunger concerns will participate in a hunger awareness program. This program will begin at 1 p.m. at Center Congregational Church, and will run concurrently with the walk.

Because Center Church is a checkpoint along the route, all walkers will be able to meet with the hunger resource people, see some films and find out more about hunger on the local, national and international levels.

Groups that have agreed to participate in the program include Project Service of the Manchester Area Conferences of Churches, Connecticut Citizen Action Group, East Hartford Pass for Life, Bread for the World (a national citizen's movement against hunger), and Hartford INFACT (the Infant Formula Action Coalition).

Sponsors who support walkers according to the number of walk miles completed will be contributing to CROP/CWS programs in any of eight areas of the world.

Manchester CROP-Walk funds might be used in a project to assist villagers and small farmers in Guatemala. In addition, 25 percent of all walk money will be donated to the Manchester Area Conference of Churches Human Needs Fund. This fund assists people who are in need of short-term emergency help, rent and utility payments, food, clothing and furniture.

Anyone wishing to walk or sponsor a walker may contact a local CROP recruiter, or call 643-7268 or 646-1223.

Drug To Get Approval To Treat Fatal Cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An anti-cancer drug accidentally discovered in a Michigan laboratory 10 years ago is expected to receive federal approval soon for use against advanced, once usually fatal, forms of cancer of the testicles.

Several years of testing has shown the compound, called cis-platinum or cisplatin, is unusually effective against the disease which primarily strikes young men. About 3,700 cases of testicular cancer are diagnosed annually in men in their 20s and 30s.

Cis-platinum was the subject of a two-day National Cancer Institute conference last week to introduce the drug to the nation's cancer specialists. The meeting was held in anticipation of Food and Drug Administration permission for Bristol Laboratories, of Syracuse, N.Y., to begin marketing the drug under the name Platinol.

"I don't think there's any question that cis-platinum has entered us into a new era in the treatment of testicular cancer," said Dr. Robert Golbey of the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York. "I think with testicular cancer we're at a point where it's within our grasp to say we've cured a cancer."

Dr. Franco M. Muggia, head of the NCI's cancer therapy evaluation effort, said combinations of drugs including cis-platinum now make it possible to eliminate all signs of cancer for many months, at least, in more than half the patients with advanced forms of testicular cancer.

Dr. Lawrence Einhorn of Indiana University Medical Center said, for example, 32 of 47 (68 percent) of patients with advanced cancer were disease-free for more than two years after treatment with cis-platinum and two other anti-cancer agents. He believes a testicular cancer victim has a 99 percent chance of cure if he remains disease-free for two years.

The average survival rate in 1964 for a man with advanced testicular cancer was 17 percent. The drug also has shown effectiveness against ovarian cancer.

But a major drawback is the toxicity of cis-platinum. It causes nausea and vomiting in all patients and can cause kidney damage, partial hearing loss, a ringing in the ears and other ill effects.

Because of its toxicity, intravenous doses of the drug must be carefully regulated and sometimes halted. Doctors are experimenting with the most effective dosages and drug combinations to be used in patients with advanced testicular cancer.

The NCI is also considering tests to see if use of the drug is warranted in earlier cases where the disease has not spread significantly.

Cis-platinum is a compound of platinum combined with chlorine and ammonia. Its structure is unique among anti-cancer drugs.

Second Vote Nixes Wolcott Dog Track

WOLCOTT (UPI) — The second attempt within one week to set up a dog racing track in the Watertown area has been rejected by voters.

Wolcott residents voted 1,954-1,535 Saturday against a $9.2 million greyhound racetrack proposed by the Connecticut Greyhound Park Racing Association.

The vote was the second rejection within one week for a proposed dog track. Voters in nearby Watertown nixed a track proposal there Thursday — 2,924 to 2,446.

Novel Bernstein, executive vice president of Connecticut Park, said after Saturday's vote "a combination of Watertown fall-out and bad press hurt us."

Bernstein is also president of Old Rock Road Corp., which is now in court contesting the state's denial of environmental permits to the corporation to build a $85-million horse racetrack in Wolcott.

Connecticut's only dog racing track is located in Plainfield, near the Rhode Island border.

Weicker Says Citizens Should Vote Out Waste

HARTFORD (UPI) — Americans concerned with excessive waste in government should vote out the officials responsible before trying to change the Constitution to limit taxes, contends Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn.

Weicker said Saturday he is opposed to tax-limiting constitutional amendments such as California's Proposition 13, and he also blamed the voters for being too lazy to make an effort to curb wasteful government spending.

"It's the same old story: Everybody wants to go to heaven, but nobody wants to die," Weicker said. "Before we change the Constitution, I suggest we change the lineup," he said. "I prefer a human system of kicking senators, congressmen and governors out of office if they don't treat taxpayers' money wisely."

"The greatest malfeasance existing in this nation today is that of an electorate too dumb lazy or lust to spend a few hours involving themselves in the election of proper governments," he said in a speech. Weicker said cutting spending — not taxes — is the proper solution to the problem, but he warned it would be impossible even under the best of circumstances to completely eliminate waste in government spending.

"We are deluding ourselves when we talk about cutting taxes by cutting waste. One man's wastes are another man's waste. The amount of real waste in government would probably cost as much to identify and eliminate as it would save."

"Talking about waste in government is like talking about friction in an engine. The engine would be more efficient without it, but it is built in. A certain amount of waste is built into government, and you can't get it out."

Weicker said taxpayers today are looking more closely at how their tax dollars are spent and are becoming more aware of ill-conceived government spending programs that may have been in existence for some time.

"We are spending a fortune at HEW to encourage people to stop smoking, and a bigger fortune to subsidize tobacco growers," he said.

"Or how about our new Department of Energy? In just four years, through three administrations we created from scratch a bureaucracy of 19,000 people with a budget of $10 billion and no one, least of all myself — and I'm on the committee — no one has the least notion what the Department of Energy does."

Weicker said the trouble with people complaining about taxes is that often they are among those who most cherish services and benefits provided by their taxes.

He said making difficult decisions about how to keep government spending down should remain the responsibility of elected officials.

"It demeans any Constitution, it demeans any lawmaker and ultimately in a democracy it demeans all of us ... to restrain the ability to make choices within the same realm of responsibility which a Constitution assigns to our elected representatives."

"The solution is not to try to reduce the lawmaker's capacity for mischief. It is to elect people who don't do mischief. That is a more difficult task," the senator said.

The number of persons killed in traffic accidents during the first eight months of 1978 has reached 283 compared to 263 for the same period last year.

"Only extra cautious driving by the remainder of the year will stop us from setting a record for highway fatalities in the state," Muzio warned.

"At the present fatality rate, we'll pass last year's 454 fatalities and exceed even approach the record 517 deaths in 1977," he said.

Muzio said only one category — bicyclists — has shown a decline in fatalities for the year, down from nine in 1977 to four this year.

Spurt of Activity Due in Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Every two years the approaching end of a Congress means a spurt of activity to enact — or at least make a record on — scores of relatively minor bills that are of great interest to a few members.

This week, for example, the House plans votes on 53 separate pieces of legislation, ranging from a bill to put the likeness of Susan B. Anthony on a new $1 coin to a measure forbidding unions from organizing the military.

The unions had already decided against trying to organize members of the armed forces, but some members felt there should be a legal bar to nail the decision down.

The big vote of the week in Congress comes in the Senate Wednesday on the natural-gas pricing bill that has been holding up action on the rest of President Carter's energy program for more than a year.

Both sides expect the Senate to approve the bill, a compromise reached after months of agonizing negotiations in a House-Senate conference committee.

The legislation would raise gas prices almost immediately and do away with price controls on new gas by 1985.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd told reporters Saturday "We're over the top," with between 52 and 60 senators expected to vote for acceptance.

Opponents are prepared to offer motions to send the legislation back to the House-Senate conference committee, a move that would kill the bill.

Another major bill that may come before the Senate this week is a measure to extend the deadline for ratification by the states of the Equal Rights Amendment, from March 22, 1979, to June 30, 1982.

Thirty-five states already have approved the amendment, but three more are needed and are unlikely to do so without the extension. The House already has passed that bill, so a Senate vote would send it to the president's desk.

Byrd has placed the extension on Tuesday's Senate calendar, meaning it could be brought up for consideration at any time. But congressional sources said there still is no guarantee the measure would be raised before Congress' scheduled Oct. 15 adjournment.

Byrd Saturday called efforts by ERA supporters in the House to force the Senate to act on ERA before the gas compromise "very unfortunate. It is not wise and it is almost never productive to try to link two such disparate issues."

Byrd also wants Congress to pass a tax cut bill before ERA. "It is absolutely imperative that a moderate tax cut be enacted," he said, stating the cut "could be in the area of $20 billion."

Traffic Death Increase Worries MVD Official

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — Motor Vehicles Commissioner Benjamin Muzio is worried about the increase so far this year in motorcycle and pedestrian accident deaths in Connecticut.

Muzio said there were 55 motorcycle fatalities during the first eight months of 1978, compared to 39 last year. Fifty pedestrians have died on Connecticut roads in 1978 while 33 were killed in 1977.

"I urge all drivers to be extra careful during the last three months of the year, for that is the only way we can stop the senseless slaughter on the state's highways," he said Saturday.

The number of persons killed in traffic accidents during the first eight months of 1978 has reached 283 compared to 263 for the same period last year.

"Only extra cautious driving by the remainder of the year will stop us from setting a record for highway fatalities in the state," Muzio warned.

Windham Romps Over Hornets, 34-15

Three touchdowns near the end of the first half broke an 8-8 tie and powered Windham High to a 34-15 CCIL football victory over host East Hartford High Saturday.

The victorious Whippets now stand 2-0 overall for the season, 1-0 in the CCIL and 0-2 overall. Windham scored on its first possession with quarterback John Ferrigno finding Harold Gorman for a 24-yard TD aerial. The Hornets came back in the second quarter with junior signal-caller Scott Chadwick scoring the first of his two touchdowns. Rusty Windham was instrumental in the march with his running for East Hartford. He, however, was injured and didn't see action the second half.

Girls' Hockey Team on Top

Nothing is second in a row Saturday morning was the Manchester High girls' field hockey team, 3-0, over visiting Wethersfield High in CCIL play.

Both sides had opportunities in the first half with Manchester's Cindy Mills cashing in with a goal off a penalty corner. Lisa Schwartz received an assist on the score. Schwartz right before the intermission scored to make it 2-0 and Liz Neubert from the left wing closed out the scoring late in the second half for the Silks. Towners, now 2-1 for the season. Wethersfield figured to 0-2-1 start.

Booters Remain Undefeated

The Indians broke through in the second quarter with what proved to be the game-winner. Walt Adamsy, the outstanding game center halfback, sent a long pass up the middle. An Eagle fullback went for it but the ball slipped through his legs and landed at the feet of Jack Medzela. The Tribe forward went in all alone on Wethersfield keeper Bill Kolakowski and fired. Kolakowski got a hand on but couldn't steer it aside. The goal, at the 16:10 mark, was Medzela's first of the year.

Jeff Lombardo provided the locals with an insurance score at 12:05 in the third period as he left-footed

Music Program Slated

Manchester teachers and students are getting ready for a presentation on the school music program at a Parents Night to be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Hilling Junior High School.

The school music teachers have been playing and demonstrating various wind and string instruments to Grades 4, 5 and 6 in the elementary schools. The teachers explained the program, what instruments are offered and passed out letters for children to take home to their parents.

At the Parents Night program, Michael Orfitelli, supervisor of the Manchester school music program, and his staff will present instrumental demonstrations to the parents and discuss the instrument program. Orfitelli said that this year there will be more instruction time for strings now that the Green School is phased out. He also said that music staff members can see every music stu-

More Tests Due On Plane Crash

WEST POLAND, Maine (UPI) — A Navy investigator says more testing may have to be done before it is known whether a mid-air collision caused an anti-submarine aircraft to explode and crash killing all eight crewmen.

Lt. Cmdr. Stewart Hopewell Sunday said searchers have yet to find "concrete evidence" that a mid-air collision reported by some eyewitnesses caused the large Navy plane to explode in flames Friday and smash into a hillside.

"If there was a mid-air collision, and we don't find the other aircraft, I think we will eventually be able to determine a mid-air collision occurred during the post-mortem of the P-3 (Orion)," Hopewell said.

"I have been in the air over the crash site, and it would be very difficult to spot a small airplane from the air — the surrounding area is so dense it is very difficult to even get through on the ground," he added.

Hopewell said the focus of the Navy investigation shifted Sunday from an air and ground search for a second aircraft to preparing the debris from the crash for transportation to Brunswick so a thorough scientific study can be made.

"We are really no further along than we were yesterday as far as determining what happened," he said. "But, today we are primarily doing the painstaking task of looking for the parts of the aircraft and logging and tagging them."

"We hope perhaps tomorrow we can start tracking the parts back to the base in Brunswick so we can look at them under more favorable conditions. There are 20 people still in the field today looking for the remains of a second airplane and for additional parts of the P-3," he said.

More than 80 persons from the Navy, Marines and state police scoured the thinly populated area around the crash site both from the air and the ground Saturday trying to find evidence a small plane might have collided with the Navy P-3 Orion.

The accident marked the third time in less than one year tragedy has struck a Brunswick-based crew. Last April, another P-3 Orion went down in the Azores killing seven crewmen. A third P-3 crashed in the Canary Islands killing its crew of 12 last December.

New Zealand Student Brings Treat to Hosts

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The favorite dessert in New Zealand, in Christchurch anyway, is a meringue dessert called "Pavlova."

A conversation with an exchange student from New Zealand visiting Manchester began right off with food when Jocelyn Ivory of Christchurch said her father is an industrial chemist for General Foods there in the ice cream division. That led to favorite ice cream flavors, then this favorite dessert, which Jocelyn has already made for her American host family, the Kenneth Bensens at 257 Ludlow Road.

"I've never seen anything so tasty," she commented about the Cape.

The 18-year-old girl, whose English is a bit difficult to understand at first because of vowel sounds that are unfamiliar to an American, attends the largest school in New Zealand with about 2,000 students. It's an experimental school, she says, because there haven't been large schools before.

"The school is in five two-story 'H' blocks, with different buildings for home economics, music, and so forth. She described 'inter-building' athletic competitions.

"I beat egg whites really well. Add water while still beating. Add cornstarch, and then add sugar gradually. Finally, add vanilla."

File high on a slightly wetted brown paper bag or piece of wetted wax paper and bake in the oven for 1 1/2 hours at 250 degrees. (It'll be like marshmallows in the middle," Jocelyn says.

When you remove the delicacy, place a plate on the top and holding it there, flip the whole dessert upside down. Peel off paper. Cover with whipped cream and decorate with grated chocolate or fruit.

"At home, we sometimes decorate it with kiwi fruit," Jocelyn said. Kiwi fruit is sometimes available in our super markets, but at a high price for just one. They're much less expensive in their native New Zealand.

"There isn't the variety of ice cream flavors in Jocelyn's hometown that there are in some of our well known ice cream parlors. A favorite flavor of hers, however, is called "hokypopy," similar to our butter crunch or coffee flavor.

"It was snowing when Jocelyn left her 'down-under' home in July, and she hit a heat wave when she arrived in Manchester. Besides having to catch up with the time lapse in her long travel, she also had to adjust to the intense heat and humidity. Much of her relief came from tea, a brand new experience for Jocelyn.

First impressions of Manchester were that it had so many green trees and hills.

described the interest New Zealanders have in jogging.

"Every year we have a 'City to Surf,' a jogging thing, that people of all ages do. You see men pushing a pram, elderly people and children, all jogging from a point in Christchurch to some point not far from the shore," she says. "It's sort of a social event. There's no race as such, there's no speed record, just recognition for those who finish the run." This social jog is held at the end of their summer, in February or March.

Jocelyn used to run cross-country competitively, and she danced ballet for seven years. Now she belongs to an American Square Dance Club in New Zealand, which "loves it." She plays the piano and used to play the violin. Classical music takes preference over rock.

For those who like skiing, skiers combine the natural sport with thrills in New Zealand. In the northern part of the big island, skiers get their kicks when they ski down the slopes of any one of three rumbling volcanoes.

The greenery of Manchester, the birds and small wild life, the "touristy" resorts, the big cars — the reality of all these are made possible by the American Film Service who selected Jocelyn as one of 11 exchange students from her country of 80 applicants to come to the United States for a year.

With her parents' approval, she applied and waited 14 months before she received her placement notice.

She would like to spend a couple of years traveling, now that she's had a taste of it.

As for a vacation, she mentioned several, including food technology, marine biology that there are few openings in New Zealand; of journalism and science — any of these, as long as it means settling down eventually in New Zealand.

Families who might be interested in hosting foreign exchange students next year may contact Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Walsh of 213 Blue Ridge Drive, or Mr. and Mrs. George Garman of 465 Porter St. for further information about the American Film Service program.

Study Says TV Audience Gradually Accepting Sex

STORRS (UPI) — A comparison of television viewing over three years shows although sex on the tube is increasing such material is gradually being accepted by audiences.

The University of Connecticut study also said parents don't practice what they preach when they say they're worried about their children viewing too much sex and violence on television.

Dr. Sjei van den Berg and Dr. James H. Wait Jr., associate professors of speech at UConn, compared viewer reactions to the 1975-76 television season with a similar sample taken during the 1977-78 season.

"Almost half of the children under 18 had no time restrictions on viewing, and almost two-thirds had no content restriction," they said Saturday.

In addition, parents in the survey reported nearly half of their children under 12 years old were watching television after 9 p.m.

The researchers surveyed 180 adult males in 1975 and 220 the following season.

The professors said viewers had no objection to watching more sex on television, although they stated they were irritated with the amount of violence in television programming.

Based on the apparently successful pressure by organized groups to decrease violent content, we expected the seriousness of the violence issue to decline from 1975-76 to 1977-78, while also expecting a rise in concern with televised sexual themes," the researchers said.

Although those viewers surveyed were less annoyed about the amount of violence shown on TV during the 1977-78 season compared to the previous season, many still felt there was still too much violence shown on television.

"Although sexually oriented programming apparently is increasing, audience acceptance of adult material is also apparently increasing," they said.

The survey was based on a random sampling of Connecticut residents over 18 years old who were telephoned during the evening. The UConn professors claim the survey demographically represents a cross-section of America.

The results we obtained were surprising, and point out the need for considerably more caution by media critics and pressure groups when they pressure to state audience perceptions and opinions in the absence of data," they said.

Although most people surveyed during both viewing seasons said there was too much violence on television, at the same time they rejected government regulation of content as the answer.
