ENES MORAN, MSW
Project Re-entry is alive and well in Manchester. Re-entering the community is often difficult wherever one is returning from: the service, the hospital, or any other institution. It is especially difficult on men and women coming out of prison.

Project Re-entry helps. We become the mediator, the advocate, the buffer in working with offenders who are easing their way back into the community. When a man or woman is imprisoned — incarcerated — they are cut off from the rest of us; in fact, this is part of their punishment. While a person is "doing time" his family may leave him, his job is

MACC News

Project Re-entry is one place where the ex-offender returning to the Manchester area can turn. Our service works at linking community resources to aid an individual in the smoothest possible way; in areas such as housing, employment, financial aid, counseling, crisis intervention and on going acceptance and emotional support.

A question for all of us to consider is "When does one finish 'doing time'?" When the sentence ends? When the prison releases him/her back to the community? I wish I could tell you it is that easy. I wish I could tell you the community is that accepting. One of the greatest Christian concepts is forgiveness. A man or woman serves their sentence and returns home only to find that people may still hold their past against them. A person punished by the rules of society needs to come back to a community where he can be forgiven for his past.

The next time an ex-offender comes to you looking for a job, looking for a place to live, looking for a sign of human understanding, remember this old Russian custom. In Russia when a person returns from prison, the town raises a WELCOMES HOME sign. Below the statement reads "let us not fail him again."

Public Health Nurses Plan Geriatric Clinics

Beginning Tuesday, Oct. 31, the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association will hold a geriatric screening clinic once a month from 9 a.m. to noon in the Community Hall at Squire Village.

All residents of Squire Village 60 years old and over are eligible. People will be seen by appointment only. The emphasis of this clinic program is on health. An assessment visit takes about one hour. A complete history and review of body systems is done, urine tested, ears checked for wax, heart and lungs assessed and feet checked.

WHAT'S NEWS

Reward Offer

HARTFORD (UPI)—The state today authorized the payment of $50,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person or persons in the 1973 slaying of Barbara Gibbons.

Dennis A. Santore, the state's attorney for Litchfield County, requested the full reward and the request was granted by Gov. Ella T. Grasso, a spokesman for her office said.

"My review of the case today indicates that the offer of a public reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone responsible for this crime would lend substantial support to the investigative authorities," Santore said in his letter of request to Mrs. Grasso.

Rebel Group Asks Pope Death Probe

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—A Roman Catholic traditionalist movement said today it has asked a Vatican prosecutor to investigate "the true causes" of the death of Pope John Paul I.

The Civiltà Cristiana movement, an Italian group that has been close to rebellious French Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, said it sent a copy of its request to the college of cardinals so they may decide on possible "urgent" action.

The step by Civiltà Cristiana was the first concrete action taken by any person or group since news media began discussing the pros and cons of performing an autopsy on the pope's body. The Vatican said last week that a formal request to the promoter of the death of the supreme pontiff John Paul I, the group said in a press release.

The detailed document addressed to the Vatican judiciary was also sent to His Most Reverend Eminence Cardinal Carlo Confalonieri, dean of the Sacred College, so he may know its contents and report on it in a direct and confidential way to the cardinals, who are the depositaries of sovereign power in periods of vacancy of the papal see, for all these measures, including urgent ones, that an evaluation of the circumstances requires."

For the third straight day today, torrential rain slowed down the flow of mourners filing into St. Peter's Basilica to pay last respects to the late pope.

Vatican officials estimated that more than half a million people have viewed the pope's body since it first went on display Friday.

Cardinal Jean Villot, who as chamberlain of the church is running the Vatican temporarily until the election of the next pope, was among the day's first visitors.

As they have done every day, the medical teams set up an emergency evacuation center one block from the refectory, which is located in an industrial area surrounded by homes.

The injured were taken to five Denver area hospitals by evacuation helicopters and ambulances.

Fire departments from throughout the metropolitan area rushed to the scene, using water and foam to fight the fire. Heavy black smoke billowed 3,000 feet into the air.

The force of the explosion rattled homes as far away as 22 miles and windows in close to the blast site were shattered by the force. Police closed off all roads in the area, including Interstate 270, causing massive traffic jams as residents tried to get to work.

"I was just getting up when I heard this boom," said Shirley Gonzales, who lives about a mile away. "I went out in the living room and the picture window was blown from the floor. My neighbors were running outside to see what happened."

Air Patrol Stops Hunt For Plane

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — The Civil Air Patrol has suspended a land and air search in three states for an air taxi that disappeared a week ago with three persons aboard.

Capt. John Jacob, CAP mission coordinator at Westchester County Airport in New York, said Monday the ground and air search for the twin engine Cessna-310 would resume if new leads developed, however.

The missing plane was last seen Sept. 25 when it left Sikorsky Memorial Airport en route to Albany, N.Y. The routine communication flight usually takes about 75 minutes.

Aboard the aircraft were Leonard Schatz of Stratford and James Heap of Trumbull. Both men were executives at General Electric's Stamford plant.

The plane, which was owned by Business Computer Corp. of Bridgeport, was piloted by Wayne Wilmore, 25, also of Bridgeport.

The CAP in Connecticut and New York and the Air National Guard logged more than 1,400 hours in the air in both states and parts of Massachusetts during the seven-day search.

Police and rescue teams stand near a 40-foot fissure that undermined house on left and swallowed up car. More than 40 homes were damaged or demolished in the slide, forcing the evacuation of 260 persons. Damage is expected to exceed $2 million. (UPI photo)

Homes Tumbling Down California Hillside

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A pretty hillside full of expensive homes is self destructing, doing $3 million to $4 million in damage and leaving hundreds homeless. So far, nobody can say why.

More than 200 people spent the night of their ruined or threatened homes while police, firemen and others kept watch on the five-acre tract that began coming apart Monday morning in a heaving mass of rolling earth.

At least 24 homes — valued from $100,000 to $200,000 — were toppled and engulfed by the mysterious landslides. At least 14 others were damaged, some beyond repair, their foundations split and soil again.

"The ground is still moving and settling," said Police Chief Jon Sparks. "The next 24 hours will be critical in terms of more slippage."

Engineers and geologists were trying to determine what happened, but City manager Fred Solomon said the cause was a mystery. The Caltech seismological laboratory in Pasadena, 60 miles to the north, said there had been no earthquakes in the area for at least 10 days. There has been no rain for weeks and no heavy rain since last spring.

Most residents were asleep just before dawn when they were awakened by the popping and cracking of timbers and foundations in their homes. Windows suddenly shattered. Streets bulged. Yards dropped out of sight.

Houses wobbled and sank down hillsides that had not been there minutes before.

Electric lines snapped apart with reports like rifle fire. Gas hissed from broken mains. Police said it was very lucky there was no fire.

"I stopped my car on a small hump and all of a sudden the front end dropped four feet," said Police Officer Greg Bart, one of the first to reach the scene.

"It was really eerie. You could hear houses crashing, water running, gas hissing and my heart beating very fast."

Drumm Says Blue Law Cannot Be Understood

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — Police Chief Clarence A. Drumm criticized the new state Sunday closing law, saying it is "unintelligible because it is not understandable."

The new "blue law," which went into effect Sunday, allows certain small businesses which provide necessary services or entertainment to stay open on Sundays.

These businesses include drugstores, movies, restaurants, 24-hour convenience stores and gasoline stations.

The law also allows all businesses to remain open on the Sundays between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The larger department stores in East Hartford would have to close on Sundays under the new law.

Drumm said he received no complaints regarding violations of the blue law.

"As far as I know, there were no violators last Sunday," he said.

"Two large department stores in accordance with the new statute, Joseph Fusco, manager of Bradleys, 940 Silver Lane, said his store would abide by the new law. Bradleys was closed last Sunday.

An official from Zayre, 5 Main St., said the store was closed last Sunday and would abide by the law. The official said the store had opened on Sundays when the law allowed it to open, but it would abide by the new law.

Drumm called the new law "confusing" and "perplexing." He said it deals with an area that he sees as unenforceable.

"The law says stores must have a certain minimum square footage to remain open on Sundays," he said. "What are we going to do — have the police go out and measure each store?"

He said other aspects of the law — such as the provision putting a maximum on the number of employees a store can assign to work on Sundays — cannot be enforced. It is difficult to enforce this and other provisions because the police cannot be the complainant.

"We can only make an investigation after the fact," he said.

Drumm said there should be three aspects to every law. There should be a need for the law, the law should be understandable by both the police and the community; and the law should be enforceable by both the police and the courts.

"And I respectfully submit that this law does not meet the three requirements," he said.

He said the police will do their utmost to enforce the law when he is called.

"But, realistically I don't see how anything can be done," he said.

East Hartford Police Report

EAST HARTFORD — A police raid at King's Ransom message parlor, 765 Main St., Monday resulted in the arrest of a 35-year-old Rocky Hill man.

Police said Roger J. Theriault of 100 Cold Spring Road was charged with second-degree promotion of prostitution. He was released on $100 bond and his court appearance was scheduled for Oct. 23.

Police said they also used a search warrant to obtain evidence for court.

Police said Kyle S. Devin 16, of Windsor was charged with possession of a controlled substance Monday. He was reported to have had 10 tablets of Seconal with him when he was arrested in East Hartford.

He was released on a $200 non-surety bond, pending an Oct. 16 court appearance.

Woodend Promoted

HARTFORD (UPI) — Capt. Arthur Woodend, executive officer in the state fire marshal's office, has been promoted to deputy state fire marshal. State Police Commissioner Donald Long announced.

Woodend succeeds Maj. William Ellert, who is on extended leave and plans to retire. Long said Monday, Woodend assumed the post Sunday.

Woodend has had various assignments within the state police division and served 13 of his 21 years with the department in the fire marshal's office. He entered the state police training academy in November 1956.

Under state law, the state police commissioner also is state fire marshal.

MACC Appoints Woman To Coordinate Project

MANCHESTER — Enes Moran, who has been involved in developing a drug therapy program at Danbury Federal Prison, has been named coordinator of Project Re-entry, a program sponsored by Manchester Area Conference of Churches to aid ex-offenders upon their return to the community.

Mrs. Moran was a part-time consultant in developing the pilot program at Danbury Prison, where she worked with people who were adjusting to entering prison and with those who were leaving. About 90 percent of those in jail have drug or alcoholic related problems, she said. She left that post in September to accept the Manchester post, which is funded by the state Department of Corrections.

Since 1976, she has worked with Episcopal Social Services as part of a counseling network in the state for alcoholics and/or families referred through any clergy. She also aided in developing community links for the University of Connecticut Health Center alcohol treatment unit.

A widow, Mrs. Moran said her husband "did time" and that was what made her interested in the point where she went back to school. She received a bachelor's degree from the University of Hartford and a master's degree in social work from the University of Connecticut.

She has two children, one in elementary school, and the other in high school. Since 1975, she has been a member of the advisory board for Women in Crisis, which gives support to the women of first-time offenders. Presently, there are 16 families in the Manchester area with whom Women in Crisis is dealing, she said.

Mrs. Clarke Opposes Busing

EAST HARTFORD — The state's largest cities may be pushing for legislation requiring busing of students across district lines, according to Esther Clarke, Republican senatorial candidate for the third district.

Mrs. Clarke contained this warning in a letter sent to presidents of parent-teacher groups in East Hartford and Manchester, towns contained in the district.

In the letter, Mrs. Clarke said mayors from the larger cities are asking for changes in the 1969 Racial Imbalance Act to permit what is called a "regional solution" to segregation. The changes would involve busing of students into the cities.

"Regional busing is unrealistic, unworkable and unfair," Mrs. Clarke said in her letter to the education groups. "I firmly believe that residents of East Hartford and Manchester should have the right to educate their children within the boundaries of their towns, if they so desire."

She said parents want their children close to home, in schools near their own neighborhood, where the parents could get to know the teachers and principals of the

Andover Gives Bolton Three-Year Dump Pact

ANDOVER — Andover residents decided Monday to allow the Town of Bolton to continue using the Andover Disposal Area for another three years.

Bolton's fate was decided by a handful of Andover residents who sat scattered throughout the all-purpose room at Andover Elementary School for their Annual Town Meeting.

The mood was different from a couple of years ago when the disposal area caused one of the biggest controversies ever between the two towns.

Until that time, Bolton had been paying about $16,000 annually to use the disposal area under a verbal agreement between the two towns.

When the ice storm of a couple of years ago created increased costs to operate the dump and Andover wanted to charge Bolton more without substantiating those charges, arguments arose.

After several heated meetings, Andover finally decided to offer Bolton a three-year contract for its use of the disposal area at an annual charge of $50,000. Bolton is currently in the third year of that contract.

Monday night the residents agreed to renew the contract for another three years. There was no opposition to renewing the contract but there was disagreement as to what the charge should be.

The residents finally decided that for the first year of the contract Bolton would pay at least $50,000, for the second year at least $55,000 and for the third year at least $60,000.

One resident, Margaret Yeomans, unsuccessfully tried to charge Bolton at least $60,000 each year. The motion was defeated by 17 to 17.

John Yeomans, Board of Finance chairman, said the amount Andover receives from Bolton is paying the total cost of operating the dump.

Valdis Vinkels, finance board member, said, "If part of our town has to be despoiled by having the dump in it then in exchange, Bolton should have to pay the full cost." He said, "It's only fair they should pay while we have the problem."

J. Cuyler Hutchinson pointed out that in all probability the state would give Andover more money for the dump operation because it would be helping another town with its trash. He said it would be favorable for Andover to continue sharing the dump with Bolton rather than using it alone.

The contract will provide for Bolton to pay its share of any costs mandated by the state, the same as the current contract does.

Bolton has been unsuccessful in finding a location for a disposal area in its own town. Each time a site was found, the State Department of Environmental Protection rejected it.

Forbids Land Gift

HARTFORD (UPI) — A federal judge has forbidden the town of Ridgefield to give six acres of land to the Ridgefield Boys' Club because the group excludes girls.

However, U.S. District Judge Jon O. Newman said a transfer of land could be made if the club opened membership to girls or if the town provided them with educational opportunities similar to those provided by the Boys' Club.

Newman said under existing conditions the town could not give the land to the club for less than fair market value.

Board Considers Regional Format

MANCHESTER — Should residents have the chance to vote on any proposal that would involve the town in a regional government format? That's a question that the Board of Directors will consider tonight.

Director Vivian Ferguson has proposed an ordinance that would require a referendum for any proposal that would transfer municipal services to any form of regional government.

Many residents and some members of the board have expressed concern about increasing involvement in regional programs and agencies. The board will conduct a public hearing on Mrs. Ferguson's proposal.

East Hartford has an ordinance similar to the one that Mrs. Ferguson has recommended.

The board also will conduct a public hearing for a new rate schedule for services of the Cemetery Department.

The rate increases will affect a variety of services provided by the department.

The board will meet at 8 o'clock in the Municipal Building's Hearing Room. Other public hearing items tonight include the following:

- A proposal to purchase 3.5 acres for $45,000 from the Hartman Tobacco Co. The property is needed for a proposed ordinance governing trespassing on watershed land.
- A voter-making session also will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the town clerk's office in the Municipal Building.
- Sessions will be held at several locations Friday, Oct. 13.

Director Says Policy Made Without Board

MANCHESTER — Carl Zinsser, a Republican member of the Board of Directors, has criticized the town administration for not asking the board about policy decisions.

Zinsser's criticism centers around a recent letter sent to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development about the town's fair housing program.

In the letter, Town Manager Robert Weiss told HUD about a proposed brochure that the town could develop as part of a fair housing plan.

Zinsser, in a letter to Weiss, wrote, "I would point out to you that, unless the chair of this letter is amended with my knowledge, the Board of Directors sets the policy and not the general manager or Alan Mason."

Mason is the town's human services director and community development coordinator.

"What is even more amazing," Zinsser wrote, "is that at the meeting of Sept. 19, 1978, I asked you not to commit us to any programs or anything else with HUD until the board can discuss it and vote on it."

The letter from Weiss was mailed a few days after the Sept. 19 meeting and was not discussed in detail by the board, Zinsser said.

Weiss, however, disagreed.

"This whole business was discussed at the last board meeting," he said this morning. He said that he thought the brochure idea was discussed thoroughly at that time.

Zinsser repeated his stand that he does not feel there is housing discrimination in Manchester.

"I don't like being told by HUD what to do," he said.

Top Court To Consider FBI Wiretap Procedure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has agreed to consider whether the FBI must get a search warrant before tapping into somebody's office to set up a "bug."

The wiretap authorization case was one of about 900 on which the court issued orders Monday, the first court issued of the 10th term under Chief Justice Warren Burger. Other matters the court acted upon ran from the export of minnows to death penalties to baseball player sales.

The justices agreed to hear arguments on random checks of driver's licenses in Delaware, on the treatment in New York of federal prisoners before trial, and on access to cable television. It turned down appeals on searches of minnows to death penalties to baseball player sales.

The justices agreed to hear arguments on random checks of driver's licenses in Delaware, on the treatment in New York of federal prisoners before trial, and on access to cable television. It turned down appeals on searches of minnows to death penalties to baseball player sales.

The wiretap case came to the court from New York. Lawrence Dalia got a five-year sentence in connection with the 1973 hijacking in Brooklyn of a $250,000 truckload of polyester fabric.

FBI agents got some of their evidence against Dalia by a "bug" or hidden microphone. They had gotten a court order to install the microphone, but Dalia contended they also should have gotten a random stop.

In other actions, the court:

- Turned down appeals from inmates under death sentences in Utah, Nebraska, Georgia, Arkansas and Florida.
- Agreed to hear a Texas man's appeal against Oklahoma's power to bar the export of minnows.
- Turned down an appeal by Oakland A's baseball team owner Charles Finley, challenging the baseball commissioner's cancellation of Finley's sale of the players.
- Promised to review a case concerning the conditions under which federal prisoners from New York and New Jersey are held before trial.
- Agreed to review a case involving Federal Communications Commission access rules making it easier for the public to use cable television channels in the largest systems.
- Refused to reconsider its ruling allowing police with warrants to make surprise searches of newsrooms, even when the reporters are not suspected of a crime.
- Refused to consider a challenge by some Colorado residents who bypassed one lower court to press their case against Gerald Ford's 1974 pardon of Richard Nixon.

Voter Signup Sessions Slated in Manchester

MANCHESTER — The town has scheduled a number of special voter-making sessions before Oct. 17, the last regular day people may be sworn in as voters for the Nov. 7 election.

Sessions will be held this Thursday and Thursday, Oct. 12 at the Savings Bank of Manchester, 923 Main St. from 6 to 8 p.m.

A voter-making session also will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the town clerk's office in the Municipal Building.

Sessions will be held at several locations Friday, Oct. 13.

The sessions will last from 6 to 8 p.m. at the following locations: Frank's Supermarket, 725 E. Middle Turnpike; Crispino's Supreme Foods, 485 Hartford Road; and A.C. Peterson Farms, 235 N. Main St.

A session will be held the same day from 7 to 9 p.m. at Marshalls in the Parkade.

Voters also may be sworn in Monday through Friday at the registrars of voters office in the Municipal Building, which is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Battle Lines Shaping Up On $23 Billion Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The battle lines are shaping up over the Senate Finance Committee's $23 billion tax bill.

On a day when both houses of Congress took it easy because of the Jewish New Year, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., sounded the opening gun by pledging to work for more tax relief for those earning $10,000 to $50,000 a year.

Kennedy referred to the committee's bill as "the tax injustice act of 1978," and said Congress deserves a special post-election session if it doesn't improve the lot of middle-class taxpayers.

Congress has set a targeted adjournment date of Oct. 14, but faces a backlog of major legislation.

The Senate plans to act on the tax bill through Friday at the latest. The House has passed a smaller, $13.3 billion bill, and the differences will have to be resolved in a conference committee.

A session will be held the same day from 7 to 9 p.m. at Marshalls in the Parkade.

Voters also may be sworn in Monday through Friday at the registrars of voters office in the Municipal Building, which is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Hasapee Gives Spending Idea

George Hasapee, independent candidate in the 53rd Assembly District, said Monday that state spending should not be increased and future excess sales tax dollars should be returned to the towns to equalize educational funding and reduce property taxes.

Hasapee said that producing an equitable state educational funding program is the most important issue facing the next session of the General Assembly.

He opposes a state income tax to resolve school funding.

"It is all too easy for politicians to advocate adding new taxes in order to solve a financial problem rather than controlling spending," Hasapee said.

He said that the argument that the income tax would be more equitable than the sales tax is not valid.

"It would only be true if we had a true progressive income tax, and none exists in the United States today. The net effect of the existing income tax programs — both federal and state — is to place the major tax burden on the middle income families," Hasapee said.

The 53rd Assembly District includes the towns of Coventry, Tolland and Willington.

AARP To Hear Willard

MANCHESTER — Lawrence F. Willard, assistant professor of media at Manchester Community College, will be guest speaker at the Thursday, Oct. 12 meeting of the Manchester Green Chapter 2399 of the American Association of Retired Persons.

The meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Community Baptist Church, 585 E. Center St.

Willard's speech is entitled, "The Natives Are Friendly," and is a narration of his 30-year association with Yankee Magazine.

The Manchester Green Chapter again is sponsoring a defense driving course which will be held Oct. 19, 20, 23 and 24 at 9:30 a.m. at First Federal Savings, 344 W. Middle Turnpike.

Anyone who wishes to take this course should contact instructors George Taylor, 645-0482, or Ernest McNeill, 646-4572, to register.

All AARP members, guests and the public are welcome to both the membership meeting and the driving course.

Concert Set at Church

MANCHESTER — "BRIDGE," one of America's new musical groups, will present a concert Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of the Nazarene, 236 Main St.

The concert will include some of today's gospel numbers, as well as re-arranged "standards" of the church.

BRIDGE is a composed of six vocalists and eight instrumentalists, all either in college or recent college graduates. The group was created and is trained by Jim Van Hook, who is known in the gospel music field for his work as a publisher, writer, producer and director. Most of the group's musical arrangements are written by Jerry Nelson, arranger/composer.

The group has performed in churches and before college and high school audiences, civic organizations and in ticketed concerts throughout the country. BRIDGE records on Impact label.

PZC Votes Five Items, Tables One

MANCHESTER - The Planning and Zoning Commission took action on five items Monday night, but tabled action on a request by Lydall Inc. for a special exception to allow construction of corporate offices.

The Lydall request, presented by architect Howard Klukas, was for the first section of a four-phase development of an industrial area near its present headquarters off Parker Street.

Klukas said the first building would be 9,400 square feet. Letters were presented with comments on the project from Public Works Director Jay Giles, Traffic Authority Robert Lannan and Town Fire Marshal John Rivosa. Lannan made some suggestions for changes to the exits and entrances to the property and Rivosa also made some suggestions for fire access on the future development.

No opposition was expressed during the public hearing. Members of the commission said they wanted more time to study the application.

The commission approved an application by Carter Chevrolet for 0.22 acres on Wells Street next to the business for a zone change from Residence C to Business III. Attorney John D. Labelle Sr., representing the applicants, said the company plans to eventually take down a house on the site to provide room for parking cars. A similar request for another abutting property on Charter Oak Street was postponed at LaBelle's request because the transfer of the property to Carter has not been completed.

In other action, the commission approved requests relating to sidewalks in two new subdivisions. A deferment was granted for a sidewalk on a section of Knollwood Road off Vernon Street, but the commission decided that sidewalks should be required for the rest of the subdivision.

The commission also voted to require sidewalks on one side and defer them on the other side of a new road of a subdivision off Hillstown Road. Hayden Griswold, developer, had asked for a waiver on sidewalks on one side.

The commission approved a roof sign on the Essex Motor Inn. Victor Antico, owner of the Essex, said the sign was already in place and had been approved by the Building Department, but then was told he would have to go before the Planning and Zoning Commission.

An amendment to clarify an existing zoning regulation regarding inland/wetlands was also approved.

Educator Defends Board In Suit Against Ahearn

EAST HARTFORD - A Board of Education member said Monday the board has been unfairly criticized because of the lawsuit it filed in August against Aloysius Ahearn, an East Hartford High School teacher and former state representative.

Richard Veltri said the board is suing over back pay which it claims Ahearn owes because of an error in payroll.

However, he said the board does not discourage participation by teachers in municipal and state government. In fact, the board encourages this type of activity, he said.

The board filed suit against Ahearn in August, claiming that when Ahearn won and accepted a position in the General Assembly for the 55th

District in 1975 and 1976, he "vacated or impliedly resigned his position with the board."

The suit further states, "by accepting an amount of $4,100 from the board Ahearn was unjustly and illegally enriched."

Veltri said the issue at stake is an amount of back pay which the board wants to recover. The suit against Ahearn and Ahearn agreed he would teach 70 minutes each day school was in session while the Legislature was in session.

For these 43 days, Ahearn would be paid $16.10 per day for a total of $692.30 for the 43-day period when the Legislature was in session.

The board claims through an error in communication with the payroll department, Ahearn was overpaid

$3,411. The board claims it demanded repayment, but only $1,817 was repaid. That left a balance of $1,593, which the board alleges Ahearn refused to pay.

"That's the whole issue - the back pay," Veltri said. "A lot of people have the impression the East Hartford Board of Education discourages activity by teachers in state and municipal affairs. This is just not so."

"Ahearn is probably a better teacher now for having served in the state Legislature," Veltri said. "The issue came up Monday night when the board accepted Ahearn's letter notifying them, in accordance with state statute, that he would be a candidate for the state Legislature this November."

GSA Chief Says Orders Ignored

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Jay Solomon, chief of the scandal-riddled General Services Administration, said today that for months GSA officials considered him a powerless figurehead whose orders could be safely ignored.

"When I came to the agency nobody would tell me anything," the former Chattanooga, Tenn., real estate developer confessed in an interview, in which he bared the frustrations of an outsider trying to seize power in one of the government's largest agencies.

"The bureaucracy was not loyal to me. They took me as a figurehead. They were going to listen to other people and not to me," he said.

Solomon said it took him six months just "to get a feel" for the government's sprawling $5 billion-a-year building, leasing and supply agency, but even then he was not in full control.

"They would listen to me but they wouldn't do anything," he confided in a conversation in his high mahogany-paneled office. "It was this way all the way up the ladder."

Solomon said it was over a year before he realized his chief obstacle to getting control of the agency was GSA's No. 2 administrator, Robert Griffin, whom he fired last July in a sudden takeover move sanctioned by President Carter.

"He had been here so long... people were listening to him and not me," Solomon said of Griffin. "People here looked to him for security. My neck was on the line. I couldn't break that chain unless I removed him from the picture."

Solomon said when he assumed office in May 1977, he found his small group of aides were no match for Griffin's "own separate, high-powered staff. I just couldn't get control."

Since Griffin's departure, however, Solomon has successfully ordered transfers or replacements of top GSA figures, many of whom, he said, "have been here for 25 to 40 years."

A total of 150 GSA officials either have been reassigned or replaced by Solomon, with 80 reassignments within Region 3, which includes GSA's central offices in Washington, D.C.

"It's like moving a mountain," Solomon said of the personnel shifts. "You can't fire them. I had to get an executive order to change eight of my regional administrators and that alone took me 10 months."

Meanwhile, Solomon promised further "far-reaching and important operational and personnel changes in the near future."

Asked if high-ups would be uncovered in the growing scandal, Solomon said that "I think it's (the investigation) going to go higher than building managers, adding that 'possibly' GSA officials in job levels from GS15 through GS18 (which pay between $38,000 and $47,500 a year) could be implicated."

Mitchell Appoints Aides

SOUTH WINDSOR - Edward R. Reardon and Robert Davin of South Windsor have been appointed co-chairmen of the Democrats for Mitchell Committee.

John Mitchell is running on the Republican ticket for the office of State Representative from the 14th District, which includes South Windsor and a part of northeastern Manchester.

Reardon, a salesman, who lives on Pine Tree Lane with his family, has been a resident of South Windsor for 19 years. He said he feels that "John Mitchell is an outstanding individual who keeps his promises and is the best person for the job."

Robert Davin, the owner of a pavement business, is also a long-time resident of South Windsor, having lived there for 22 years. He lives on Farmstead Drive with his family. Davin believes that "John Mitchell is well qualified for the job and puts the interests of the citizens of South Windsor and Manchester before his own interests."

The chairmen urge fellow Democrats who would be interested in putting John Mitchell in the state House of Representatives, to contact them.

Plane Crash Tapes Show Calm

SAN DIEGO (UPI) - The voices buzz back and forth with clipped calm, almost nonchalant, that marks professionalism in air traffic control. There was only one outburst of "My God" as one pilot put it: "Something happened."

"Something" was the worst aviation tragedy in U.S. history, a 144-death collision between a jetliner and a small plane.

Even as the tape recording of the exchanges between the pilots and traffic controllers was made public Monday, a week after the crash, officials of two federal agencies involved in the crash disagreed over the meaning of what they have discovered so far.

Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Bruce Chambers said a third plane may have confused the jetliner pilot had been "put to rest" by the recording.

But Rudy Kapustin, chief investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board, said it was too early to rule out possible involvement of a third plane. He said radar plots of aircraft in the vicinity were still being analyzed in Washington, D.C. Chambers said the FAA believes the air-traffic control system at Lindbergh Field is "perfectly safe, as it is around the country, and we have not changed any of our procedures... The system is the world's finest."

Kapustin said investigators still cannot say why both planes, both in contact with air traffic controllers, were in the same place at the same time. The FAA earlier in the day made public the tape of the last communications between controllers at Lindbergh Field and the Miramar Approach Control Center and the pilots of the Pacific Southwest Airways 727 and a single-engine Cessna.

The recordings showed controllers issued four separate advisories to the jetliner pilot warning him of the light plane nearby, the last about 71 seconds before the planes collided at 2,600 feet. The pilot acknowledged all four.

Lucas contended it would be damaging for the boys, Mark, 11, and Paul, 9, to see their mother. Mrs. Popp now lives in Newbury Park, Calif., and is fighting to regain custody of her sons. The custody hearing resumes Wednesday.

Mrs. Popp said she left the boys with the Friends for All Children adoption agency in Saigon in 1975 because she feared for their safety as Communist troops approached Saigon in the final days of the Vietnam War.

The adoption agency placed the children with Lucas, who was working in Saigon at the time. He now wants to adopt the boys.

Mrs. Lucas lost her first custody suit in Superior Court, but is appealing to state Supreme Court.

Oil Exec Tries To Block Mother's Visiting Rights

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) - A Connecticut oil company executive who wants to adopt two Vietnamese boys is trying to block temporary visitation rights for the children's mother before custody hearings resume.

An attorney for Richard Lucas of Fairfield Monday filed an appeal of the visitation order in state Supreme Court. Lucas did not bring the boys, already under his care, to Bridgeport Superior Court as he had been ordered by a judge.

The boys' mother, Hao Thi Popp, was told by Judge Robert Testo last week that she would be allowed to see her sons Monday and Tuesday from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. at the courthouse.

It was not immediately clear whether Lucas' appeal served as an automatic stay of the judge's visitation order.

Judge Orders Teachers To Accept Pact Offers

By United Press International A judge has ordered 10,000 striking Cleveland school employees to ratify a contract offer or face legal penalties - a development School Board President John Gallagher said could be characterized as a tentative settlement.

The strike in Cleveland affects 101,000 pupils who are among at least 266,500 idled nationwide by teacher strikes today.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Harry A. Hanna, after a fourth day of marathon negotiations, Monday night ordered union leaders representing 10,000 teachers and support personnel to "intensify" their ratification process to produce a settlement or be held in contempt Thursday.

Cleveland schools are closed and Hanna ruled that schools must open by Thursday. Teachers have been on strike since Sept. 7.

A teachers' strike for a 6.5 percent pay increase, in Tucson, the largest school district in Arizona, entered its second day today although the 59 schools remain open. About 300 substitutes joined nonstriking teachers in teaching classes Monday. Of 2,800 regular teachers, 1,793 failed to report for work Monday. The district has offered a 5.87 percent raise in pay.

The Tacoma, Wash., school board said it would reopen school today. The board said it has enough substitutes and regular teachers willing to cross picket lines to resume classes. The strike began in early September and negotiations have broken down.

Leaders of the teachers union in Washington, D.C., voted to call a strike Wednesday if no progress is made in contract negotiations.

The 5,200 union members have been working without a contract since July 25. About 110,000 students attend the district's public schools.

A strike in Dayton, Ohio, that began Sept. 6 and disrupted school for 37,000 students ended Monday. Teachers approved a contract during the weekend and returned to work.

About 850 striking teachers in Fall River, Mass., resumed picketing despite threats from school officials they may be fired. Most of the city's 14,000 students have stayed away from school although substitutes have been teaching since the strike began 15 days ago.

Court Rules Fronton Can Remain Open

HARTFORD (UPI) — Hartford Jail Alai has been given a green light to remain open until at least Nov. 20 when it will appeal fines and a 10-day suspension.

The decision Monday by Superior Court Judge Alfred Covello blocks the state gaming commission from carrying out the suspension and $70,000 in fines it had ordered to begin Sept. 27.

The commission Sept. 20 issued the suspension and fined five officials a total of $70,000 for failure to report allegations of game-fixing at the Hartford gambling facility.

Covello had issued the gambling facility a temporary injunction and the commission asked him to dissolve it, but he instead ordered both sides to proceed "in accelerated status" to settle the issue at a hearing Nov. 20.

Joseph Skelly, Hartford Jail Alai's lawyer, argued the five officials were the victims of unproved allegations that has affected their personal lives and reputations.

Skelly said his clients were placed in "extraordinary jeopardy" and "under the threat of losing their license" in testifying before the commission investigating allegations of game-fixing.

He said the officials and World Jail Alai Inc., which owns a number of Florida frontons and the Hartford Jail Alai facility, suffered "irreparable harm" from the commission's order.

He said the shutdown would result in betting losses of $300,000.

Sheridan said the five officials knew the risks involved in the gambling industry. "They knew the risk they ran and they now have to live with it."

He said the panel could very well "give back" the 10 days to Hartford Jail Alai by extending the Dec. 9 closing date.

"The status quo need not be preserved because it can be restored," Sheridan told Covello.

But Skelly called a proposed exchange of days "absurd." The company would still lose money because it would have to maintain the fronton and honor contracts during a shutdown. Also, attendance in December, especially with the approaching holiday season, declines, he said.

Sheridan argued whatever harm had been done was caused by the corporation for failing to report the allegations. He said the penalties were ordered to protect the best interests of the people of Connecticut.

Covello said the case was unique in that it was the first time a judge had agreed that a speedy remedy was necessary. He ordered briefs by both sides to be submitted no later than Nov. 10 and a hearing of ten days merits of the case argued on Nov. 20.

Volunteers Active At Junior Museum

When is a children's museum not a children's museum? When the most familiar faces inside it are grown-up ones.

The Lutz Junior Museum, founded and staffed entirely by volunteers 25 years ago, still manages to keep its corps of volunteers busy today.

Museums, like the people in them, have lives. As soon as volunteers get one off the ground, the museum takes on full-time staff members and receives grant monies. In the case of the Lutz, the United Fund and others have supported the museum since the early 1960s.

At this point a museum can easily become an institution that no longer needs help from the parent community — simply a place for residents to use and then go home.

Not so with the Lutz, says Mrs. Edith Palmer, known as "Edie," who for the past ten years has served as the museum's director.

"The status quo need not be preserved because it can be restored," Sheridan told Covello.

Court Overturns Ruling On Utility Inflation Rate

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Supreme Court has ruled the Public Utilities Control Authority does not have to consider giving Northeast Utilities up to $14 million as an inflation allowance.

In a unanimous decision released Monday, the Supreme Court overturned Superior Court Judge Alfred Covello's ruling on Northeast's utility rate cases.

The PUCU would have had to consider giving all utilities inflation allowances in rate cases. The high court ruled there was no evidence that inflation was the only reason Northeast had lower than authorized earnings.

There were other factors, the court said, including a recession between 1973 and 1975, the 1975 ice storm, and the 1973 outage at the Millstone I nuclear power plant.

Zone Hearings Slated Thursday

SOUTH WINDSOR — The Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to consider the following applications:

• Ed Steben's Glass Co., 44 Ellington Road, requests a variance to allow a building lot with less than the required front footage and a sideyard variance for two buildings on an adjacent lot, at 240 Felt Road.

• Mitches Trucking Inc., 90 Brookfield St., requests a temporary and conditional permit to allow operation of a portable crusher for 90 days on property known as the Dren Pit, Barber Hill Road, in an R1Z zone.

• Howard E. Lappen, 53 Meadow Road, requests a variance to allow construction in front of the building line at 53 Meadow Road.

• American Graphic Printing Co. Inc., 735 John Fitz Blvd. requests a variance or temporary and conditional permit to allow a sign larger than permitted at the same address.

• Commercial Credit-McCollough Leasing Inc., 24 Jeffrey Drive, requests a variance to allow a sign larger than permitted at the same address.

• Vaughn L. Moden, 524 Pleasant Valley Road requests a variance to allow a sideyard variance to construct a patio and retaining wall at the same address.

Any persons interested in the applications may appear and be heard at the meeting.

PZC Approves
SOUTH WINDSOR — The Planning and Zoning Commission has voted to approve, with conditions, the application of Atlas Oil Co., 414 Tolland St., East Hartford, for a revised site plan and additional uses at 81 John Fitch Blvd., South Windsor in a GC Zone.

Cotter Mobile
SOUTH WINDSOR — The mobile office of First District Congressman William R. Cotter will be at the South Windsor Town Hall, 1540 Sullivan Avenue on Oct. 4. The office permits district residents to communicate to the congressman's staff their needs and concerns in all matters involving federal government.

PTO Flea Market
SOUTH WINDSOR — The Avery Street School PTO will hold a Flea Market Nov. 11 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the school. Six foot tables may be rented. Admission is free. Added features will be a bake sale, a raffle and refreshments. As there is limited space available, interested persons are asked to make reservations for tables as early as possible. For more information call 644-8836 or 644-2379.

Burglaries Reported
VERNON — The Vernon Police Department said it investigated 29 burglaries during the period of Sept. 15 through 29 with goods reported taken valued at about $4,500.

Breaks were reported into the Municipal Building on Park Place and businesses on Kelly Road. Apartments broken into were on Vernon Avenue, and South Street plus a private building on Windorville Road.

Youth Curfew
STAFFORD SPRINGS (UPI) — The Borough of Stafford Springs has adopted an ordinance establishing a curfew for youths age 15 and under.

The ordinance, adopted Monday, prohibits the youths from loitering in public places between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m.

No other municipality in the state is known to enforce such an ordinance although some are on the books.

School Board Puts Off Activity Period Change

COVENTRY — The Board of Education has temporarily rejected the request of some students and teachers to move the mid-day activity period back to the end of the day.

More than a dozen seniors appeared at the board's monthly meeting to urge that the two-day week periods be changed. Patrick Cromie, representing the student council, presented the board with a petition on the issue.

Cromie said the Student Court had been re-formed and could now deal with students who left school early without permission if the activity period occurred after classes were over. "Some seniors have job commitments and now have to leave school earlier," he added.

But board member Patricia Clark said that her group had arranged the mid-day schedule because some students had ignored the intent of the activity period. "The board has to see if it works to have the activity period in the middle of the day," she claimed. "or whether we should put it back to the end of the day."

Board chairman Joan Lewis suggested that the policy be reviewed in a few weeks. The Education Association of Coventry had filed a grievance complaint on behalf of the teachers regarding the change in schedule, but the board rejected it after an executive session on that matter.

In other business School Superintendent Arnold Eiman recommended Nancy Ballard of Manchester for appointment as a half-time kindergarten teacher at the Coventry Grammar School. Howard Amkraut of Coventry was endorsed to fill a math position at the high school.

Eiman said that substitute teachers are needed for the current school year. "The substitute must be a graduate of a four-year college and at least 21 years of age," he noted. Substitute nurses also are needed and may apply to assistant superintendent Donald Nicoletti at the high school.

Gary Doppiaff submitted a report on behalf of the board's subcommittee on transportation. "Bus company and office personnel will confer on routes at the end of June following the close of school," he told the board.

Doppiaff said the problem of late bus runs at the grammar school had been discussed with Principal William McDermott. School bus supervisor Samuel Sweetman will be asked to correct late runs of about five to ten minutes.

Some parents had complained at their children attending East Catholic High School were not being transported there on Coventry school buses. Doppiaff reported that there was insufficient room on the local buses and that his committee had advised East Catholic officials to set up a meeting with parents to work out the problem.

Spanish teacher Susan Lauchinger told the board about her attempts to develop a Spanish IV program at the high school. She pointed to three students who had completed three years of Spanish and were not taking their fourth year as an independent study. She suggested that the board grant academic credit for such study.

"The goal of the program is to develop a bilingual student, Lauchinger stated. "We also try to give them insight into Spanish culture."

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Connecticut residents participating in the state's second Friendship Force flight will be departing early Saturday evening from Bradley International Airport for Hannover, Germany, for a 10-day exchange visit.

In the meantime, 254 Germans will be winging their way to the New Haven area for a similar visit. Among those I noticed from the Manchester area at the orientation meeting held last week at the Yale University Law School who are going are Irene Pisch, Mary LeDuc and Mrs. Zane Vaughn. Mr. Vaughn is an English teacher at Manchester High School and is advisor to the High School World Staff. Unfortunately, with school in session, he can't go. I will be going accompanied by Connie Costello, my traveling companion on the force's first state flight to Israel in January. We plan to stay with a host family the first four days, then visit Hamburg and Dusseldorf, and as many other places as our dollars will take us.

Incidentally, we were advised to have our U.S. currency exchanged to Deutsch Mark travelers checks, as not all travel checks are acceptable in Germany. This can be done at most commercial banks, but you may have to go to the main office and not rely on the branches which may not be able to obtain them before the week end.

Participants in the trip will meet between 4 and 4:30 p.m. Saturday and check in at the Kanan check-in counter at Bradley Field, International Wing in Hartford. Departure ceremonies for ambassadors will be held at 5:30 and then they will go through pre-flight security inspection before boarding a Trans International Airlines for a 6:30 departure. Arrival time in Hannover is 9 a.m. (Hannover time). Travelers are reminded to bring their ticket, passport and identification name badge and attach colored luggage tags before checking in.

The flight, which originated in the New Haven area, was later opened to all Connecticut residents and I understand most will be from the Greater Hartford area. Hope we meet more from the Herald's 10-town coverage area so we can get their views on the trip.

Hannover, which means "High Shore," is an industrial city, and we had a birdseye glimpse of it through some slides presented at the orientation meeting.

There are several travel options being offered such as a visit to Berlin, one to Munich and a flight to London, during the second four days of our stay. And, of course, we are free to visit Austria, Luxembourg and Belgium, or any country to which we can travel and get back in time for our return trip home.

I'm sure it will be a great trip, and perhaps I can get some recipes for some of that delicious (and fattening) German food.

Holiday Fair
Had a nice note from Marion Winter reminding me that Center Congregational Church Women will be presenting their Holiday Fair on Nov. 4 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. with ample parking space in the rear of the town hall.

ICEA Meets Saturday

The International Childbirth Education Association (ICEA) Connecticut State Meeting will be held Saturday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. This year's meeting will again be sponsored by the Family Oriented Childbirth Information Society in cooperation with Manchester Monitrice Associates, both of Manchester.

The theme of this year's meeting is "Educate, Cooperate, Communicate," which expresses the goals of the ICEA and its affiliates in their work to bring family centered maternity care to the public.

Experts in the fields of psychiatry, nurse midwifery, pediatrics and psychology and instructional analysis who will speak include Dr. Donald Pelt, assistant clinical professor of psychiatry, University of Connecticut Health Center and director of the Educational Center and Associates, Inc. of Manchester. His topic is entitled "Stress and Strain: An Approach to Well-Being."

Alice Fraughar, director of the Nurse Midwifery Program, University of Connecticut Health Center, Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, will speak on "Nurse Midwifery — One of the Oldest and Newest Professions."

Dr. Robert Greenstein, associate professor, Department of Pediatrics, University of Connecticut Health Center and director of the health center's Genetic Counseling Service, will speak on "Planned Pregnancy: Reducing the Risk of Birth Defects."

The final speaker will be Eleanor Sulstan, local practicing psychoanalyst and teacher of transactional analysis, who will speak on "Life Scripts in the Family System." The meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Conference Rooms A, B and C of Manchester Memorial Hospital. A luncheon and maternity tour will be provided.

All those interested in registering may contact Sue Powaski, registrar, at 228-3619. Changing tables will be provided. Babies-in-arms only.

College Notes

Laura Cavanaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Cavanaugh Jr. of 1 Dear Drive, Bolton, is one of the students from Albertus Magnus College in New Haven who is studying abroad during the fall semester.

Miss Cavanaugh, a sophomore, is studying at the University of Salzburg in Austria, under a program sponsored by the American Institute for Foreign Study in Greenwich.

Ronald L. Dougherty of 89C Downey Drive received a doctor of philosophy degree in mechanical engineering in graduation ceremonies at the University of Missouri-Rolla.

Servicemen

Navy Ensign Alan G. Schreiber, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schreiber of 464 Gardner St., has completed the Officer Induction School at the Naval Education and Training Center, Newport, R.I.

The six-week course is designed to prepare newly commissioned officers for duty in the Navy staff field corresponding to their civilian profession (e.g. medicine, law, nursing, etc.).

A 1972 graduate of Manchester High School, and a 1976 graduate of University of Connecticut, Storrs, with a bachelor of science in biology, he joined the Navy in July 1978.

Staff Sgt. John C. Wilson, son of Mrs. Doris F. Cory of North Brantford, has been selected Outstanding Instructor of the Month for the School of Health Care Sciences in his Air Training Command unit at Sheppard AFB, Texas.

Sergeant Wilson was honored for exemplary teaching techniques and devotion to duty. The sergeant is a 1965 graduate of North Brantford High School and attended New Haven University and Wyand Baptist College, Plainville, Texas.

His wife, Marie, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Gilbert of Old Saybrook. His father, George A. Wilson, resides at 67 Walnut St.

Cosmopolitans Meet Friday

Gerald Moshell, instructor of music at Trinity College, Hartford, together with a group of his students, will present a program Friday, at 3 p.m. for the Cosmopolitans Club in the Federation Room at Center Congregational Church.

Refreshments will be served at 1:30 and a meeting will precede the program, which will be introduced by Elizabeth Mottram.

Moshell, who is also the director of the concert choir at the college, has written a new musical which will be produced in the near future. He will be producing a number of other forthcoming production, together with popular show tunes. Members may bring guests.

Dr. Paul C. Calabresi, the physician-in-chief and a cancer specialist at Roger Williams General Hospital, said Dexter's results with DMF were "very interesting."

He cautioned further testing is essential, but he said the first part of Dexter's experiments, in which DMF-treated and non-treated cancer cells were injected into mice, is "significant" and ready for publication.

He said tests on the six mice which already had cancer were "provocative," but, "I certainly would not hang my hat on that."

Dexter, 38, who worked under Nobel Prize winning Dr. Francois Jacob of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, said his DMF research was based on the theory cancer cells can be cured and need not be killed.

He said he is viewing cancer cells as "stuck" and unable to migrate so they multiply rapidly instead.

Human cancer cells treated in the test tube with DMF seemed to mature and turn harmless, he said. Dexter said he had no idea why the human cancer cells died in mice when injected with DMF. He said the chemical did not appear harmful to the animals.

Another chemical, sodium butyrate, will also be examined because it is thought to have the same effects as DMF, he said.

Surgeons will remove a piece of a person's tumor and try to cultivate it in a laboratory dish. The tumor, which can contain up to five kinds of cancer cells, will then be analyzed for its contents.

Drugs which then be custom-blended to attack the different kinds of cancer cells that the tumor has, Dexter said.

There is a hitch. Cultivation techniques are only in their infancy, Dexter said, and "require a lot of technical help and a certain amount of money." He said they would not be widely available for at least "a couple of years."

Kelley-Woodcock

By Betty Ryder

Kathy Ann Woodcock and Kevin J. Kelley, both of Manchester, were married Sept. 29 at St. James Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Woodcock of 76 Garden St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Kelley of 113 Sycamore Lane.

The Rev. William Carol of St. James Church officiated at the double-ring evening ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Quana gown designed with long sleeves and Queen Anne neckline. Her veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a lace headband and she carried a bouquet of roses, carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Maureen Javodjanek of Vernon served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Woodcock of Manchester, the bride's sister; Mrs. Chris DeAngelis of Manchester, the bridegroom's sister; and Eileen Cortio of Enfield.

Scott Kelley of Manchester was his brother's best man. Ushers were Allen Little of Manchester; John DeAngelis of Manchester, the bridegroom's brother-in-law; and James Woodcock of Manchester, the bride's brother.

A reception was held at the Manchester Army & Navy Club in Manchester, after which the couple left for Aruba. They will reside in Vernon.

Mrs. Kelley is employed as a registered nurse at Manchester Memorial Hospital. Mr. Kelley is employed as a machinist at Hamilton Standard in Windsor Locks. (Forrest photo)

Legion Auxiliary Installs

The installation of the 1978-79 officers of the Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post of the American Legion, its Auxiliary, and the Sons of the American Legion (SAL), was held recently at the post home in Manchester.

Mrs. Laura Freeman was installed as auxiliary president for a third term. She recently completed a term as president of the First District American Legion Auxiliary. At the Department Convention, Mrs. Freeman won the award for the District President of the Year.

Other officers installed are: Mrs. Madeline Squillitce, senior vice president; Mrs. Jean O'Coin, junior vice president; Mrs. Mary Walker, treasurer; Mrs. Marjorie Crowder, secretary; Lillian LaMarche, chaplain; Mrs. Irene Pisch, historian; Mrs. Jean Bartlett, sergeant-at-arms; and Mrs. Genevieve Atkins, assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Following the presentation of gifts and introduction of the allied organizations and visiting guests, a buffet was served and there was dancing to the music of Al Carlson.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Alisa Field of Philadelphia to Alan M. Sandals, also of Philadelphia, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Field of Fresno, Calif.

Mr. Sandals is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sandals of Manchester.

Miss Field graduated magna cum laude from Bryn Mawr College in 1977, having spent her junior year at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, Israel. She is currently a first-year student at the University of Pennsylvania School of Law.

Mr. Sandals is a 1976 graduate of Haverford College, and is currently a student at the University of Missouri-Rolla.

All those interested in registering may contact Sue Powaski, registrar, at 228-3619. Changing tables will be provided. Babies-in-arms only.

Area Police

Vernon
Vernon Police filed additional charges Monday against Eric Donze 16, of Adams Street, Manchester, to charges already pending.

The additional charges include five counts of third-degree burglary and one of second-degree burglary, four counts of third-degree larceny, one of fourth-degree larceny and one of second-degree larceny.

The charges stemmed from the investigations of breaks into private homes on Ironwood Drive, Phoenix Street, Washington Street, and Lake Street over the past three months and breaks into two business places at the K-Mart Plaza.

A juvenile male has been turned over to juvenile authorities in connection with the private homes all of the owners had been on vacation. They said the items taken from the home included cash, records and guns and the guns and most of the other items have been recovered.

Sarasin Gets Welcome

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter
ELLINGTON — Republican gubernatorial candidate Ronald Sarasin received an enthusiastic reception from Ellington and Vernon Republicans Monday night at the opening of Republican headquarters in Ellington.

The headquarters were overflowing and many of the people had to stand outside but they heard Sarasin tell them they had to keep the party together from now until the November 7 election to make it work.

All of the other area Republican candidates were also on hand, including Tom Connell, candidate for second-district congressman; Andy Repko, candidate for state senator from the 35th District; Edmund Dwyer, candidate for high sheriff of Tolland County; and the three candidates for state representatives, incumbent Dorothy Miller and Katy McGuire and Nancy O'Brien.

Sarasin noted that many of these people have served before "and they know how important it is." He said they were there because they want to serve.

He told those present they have to get out and work, contact all of their friends and get them out on election day. He said he works an average of 120 to 130 hours a week spending thousands of nights talking to thousands of people. He said in order to do the kind of campaigning that is essential it takes a lot of money.

He said taxes and spending are the things the Republicans are the most concerned about. "We've heard the myth of Ella Grasso — no new taxes and that's a lot of baloney. We've had $1 billion worth of new taxes imposed on the people of this state. The budget this year is 14 percent higher than last year," he said.

Other arrests over the weekend included the following:
Paul J. Gonsky, 18, of 1565 Forbes St., East Hartford, charged with reckless driving Friday night. Court date is Oct. 17.

Marc J. Benoit, 21, of 29 Range Hill Drive, Vernon, charged with reckless driving Friday night. Court date is Oct. 17.

Educators Waiting On Placement Case

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — Whether or not the Board of Education must pick up the costs of educating an identified special education child at an outside facility if it feels the child can be educated locally, may depend on a case which is now before the state Board of Education.

The case involves a Connecticut town which claims it has the programs to meet the prescribed needs of a child who was identified as a special education case. The town board is challenging the placement of the child in an outside facility.

Under the present funding system, the local school board pays the educational costs for a child identified as needing special education. All other costs — such as room and board and special counseling — are picked up by the state Department of Children and Youth Services.

The town involved is saying DCYS should pay the full cost — including education — because the local school board's programs meet the needs of the child, said Francis Coleman, Coleman consultant to DCYS.

DCYS is identified for special education because "for one reason or another, they cannot function in a public school," he said.

DCYS must show that the child meets special education requirements. The parents are called in and the DCYS develops a program for the child.

The hope is that, through a cooperative approach, the child that comes here in East Hartford is a success in the East Hartford school system," he said.

The board currently faces a deficit of $225,000 in special education programs. This is an estimate, he added, and he did not have exact figures.

'I Don't Know Who the Best Team Is' - Jackson

BOSTON (UPI) — Reggie Jackson, the flamboyant Yankee slugger known more for his vanity than his humility, tried to cheer up a library-like Boston Red Sox locker room after the Yankees beat the Sox 5-4 to win the American League East title.

"I honestly don't know who the best team is," said Jackson as he talked to several Red Sox, including George Scott, Carlton Fisk and Jim Rice. "Either of these teams would be representative.

Manager Don Zimmer. "But I told them that no one should walk out of here hating their heads — not the way they bounced back."

The Yankees were bubbling and the most over-the-top of all was unlikely hero Bucky Dent. The light-bulb shortstop connected for a three-run homer to put the Yanks ahead 3-2. They would never trail again.

"I thought the best it could do was hit the wall," said Dent of his seventh-inning homer, which barely cleared the famed "Green Monster" in left. "I didn't know it cleared the wall until I passed first base."

Rose Rejects Redleg Pact

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Pete Rose, who has indicated he'll test his way on the free-agent market this year, has turned down the most lucrative salary offer in Cincinnati Reds' history.

Although not disclosed by the Reds or Rose, the offer Monday was believed to be in the neighborhood of $400,000 per year.

Reds President Dick Wagner said the offer will stand through Oct. 10. "We're hopeful that after considering the offer, he will choose to accept it quickly," he said.

"It is important for the Reds to know where they stand with Rose, since he is eligible for the free-agent draft this year," said Wagner, who talked with Rose and Rose's agent, Reuben Katz for an hour Monday.

Despite the deadline, Wagner insisted he wants to keep Rose in Cincinnati. During a 16-year major league career Rose has never played for any other team.

"We want to assure our fans that Pete will remain with the Reds, where he belongs," said Wagner. "We want him to stay here and we hope he wants to stay."

Although Wagner bragged that the money offered Rose was "the largest in the history of the Reds," he refused to disclose the figure.

"We don't give out figures and I don't intend to in this case," he said. "I had hoped to sign Pete today (Monday). But I'm a born optimist. I still hope to sign him."

Wagner said he has offered a two-year contract but that Pete would be willing to go to a three-year contract if that was a hangup for him.

Hero's Welcome at Plate for Bucky Dent

Roy White (6) and Chris Chambliss (10) offer congratulations to Bucky Dent after latter homered over leftfield wall to give New York 3-2 lead over Red Sox in seventh inning yesterday at Boston. (UPI Photo)

The Yankees added a fourth run in the inning after Rivers followed Dent's homer with a walk to drive Torre from the game. Bob Stanley relieved but allowed Rivers to steal second and Thurman Munson followed with an RBI double to left center for a 4-2 lead.

But it was still up to Jackson, who has often billed himself as "Mr. October," to provide the Yankees with a run that would assure them the championship. Jackson led off the eighth and drilled a vicious liner into the center field bleachers to knock out Stanley.

The Red Sox rallied to 5-4 with a pair of runs in the eighth of Gossage. Jerry Remy led off with a double and Yastrzemski, Carlton Fisk, and Fred Lynn hit successive singles.

Then in the ninth, Rick Burson walked and Remy singled with one out, leaving the Red Sox' fate up to their two best hitters — Jim Rice and Yastrzemski. Gossage got Rice on a fly out and then faced Yaz.

Yastrzemski still believes he can find that gold at the end of the rainbow before his illustrious career ends. "Sometime in the future we're going to get that cigar. Before Old Yazz retires, he's going to play for a world champion."

Dent's Yankees No. 9 batter off his 243 average this season, shocked Boston loser Mike Torrez, 16-13, by connecting with two out and Chris Chambliss and Roy White ahead in the seventh inning to wipe out a 2-0 Boston lead. The homer was only the fifth of the year for Dent, but the real surprise was that he hit it with a borrowed bat after fouling a pitch off his ankle.

"You don't have time to think of situations when you're in a position like that. I made up my mind if I was going to get beat, I would get beat with my best pitch, the fastball. And that was what he hit for the final out. I saw the ball go into the air and Nettles got under it. I can't tell you how it made me feel."

Basically, the Yankees and Red Sox were so evenly matched that it took the end of 163 games only one run separated them. Only one pitch if you want to get technical about it. Years from now, when people talk about Monday's game, as they undoubtedly will, they'll very likely refer to it as the game in which Dent hit his homer. The reason for this was because Dent had hit only four homer previously all season and is much more highly regarded for the comment weeks after the fact. "I was just looking to drive the ball and score a run," he said. "I wasn't even looking to hit a home run."

Dent was as surprised as everyone else that he hit a home run.

In a sense, Boston sportsman Bill Lee supplied the most appropriate comment weeks after the fact. "The Sox locker room after it was all over. He saw all the Red Sox guys lined up neatly, ready to be shipped to Kansas City for the playoffs had the outcome gone the other way."

He looked over the bags and remarked rather sadly: "I guess this means we don't get to go anywhere."

He looked over the bags and remarked rather sadly: "I guess this means we don't get to go anywhere."

History Repeats
BOSTON — History repeated itself yesterday afternoon at friendly Fenway Park.

There have been only two playoff games to decide regular season championship honors in the American League and Boston's Red Sox have been involved in both.

Both playoffs have been staged at Fenway. Thirty years ago, shortstop Lou Boudreau, playing manager (Remember those days?) led the Cleveland Indians to a one-game, sudden-death playoff 3-2 triumph over the Red Sox.

Boudreau enjoyed a perfect day at the plate, collecting two home runs and a pair of singles, which combined with Gene Bearden's live-hit pitching, proved to be too much for Ted Williams and Company, then managed by Joe Cronin.

Yesterday, it was another shortstop, not as famous as Boudreau, not known for his hitting, who led a Mike Torrez fast ball over the leftfield wall in the seventh inning with two mates on base which limited the Red Sox to one run.

Torrez had pitched a brilliant two-inning performance with two mates on base which limited the Red Sox to one run.

Ticket scalpers had a field day with reserved seats going for as much as $100 a seat. Regular season ticket prices were in effect.

It was hard seeing the ball and I just trying to make contact. I never saw where the ball went and I didn't know it was a home run until I reached first base and saw the umpire signaling," Dent said in the crowded but happy Yankee locker room.

The winning blow was stroked by Reggie Jackson, a towering smash into the center-field bleachers leading off in the eighth inning that capped the lead to 5-2.

As he was last year in the World Series, Jackson rose to the occasion and tonight the Yanks will be in Kansas City against the Western Division champions in a best-of-five-set.

Don Zimmer
Boston cut the margin to a single run with two runs in the eighth and had the tying and winning run on base in the ninth with the team's two best hitters coming up, Jim Rice and Yaz. Major league home run king Rice didn't have any more than his bat and his fly ball to right only moved the runner up a base.

Yaz, whose leadoff homer in the second inning off Ron Guidry brought the biggest cheer from the Fenway faithful, got under a Rich Gossage pitch and popped out to third baseman Graig Nettles and the season ended for the Red Sox.

Winning 99 games were not enough for Manager Don Zimmer's crew. The magic victory number 100 was achieved by New York and Manager Bob Lemon, thanks to a young man who answers to the name of Dent, Bucky Dent.

He has seen countless baseballs hit off that wall many times before. Yastrzemski is calculating the angle of the wall. He made a complete turn to grab the carom, but instead the ball carried a foot or so over the wall and landed in the net above it for a home run that put the Yankees ahead, 5-2.

"At first, I didn't think the ball would make it," said the Boston leftfielder in the gloomy, stone-colored Red Sox quarters following their eventual 5-4 defeat. "When the ball went into the net, my insides dropped out of me. I felt bad for the fans and for Mike, who had pitched such a fine game until then."

Fans Arrested
NEW YORK (UPI) — Two football fans who threw a security guard head-first over a railing during Sunday's Jets-Steelers game at Shea Stadium were arraigned Monday on charges of assault and attempted murder. The incident occurred in the loge section of Shea Stadium toward the end of the Jets' 28-17 loss to Pittsburgh.

Movie Set Was Real For Manchester Scenes

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

The Hollywood set showed a street that looked like Haynes Street in Manchester, Conn. It also showed a hospital that looked like Manchester Memorial Hospital.

The set was real. Most of Monday was spent with trucks filled with movie equipment parked around the hospital while directors, prop men and a technical crew worked producing scenes for the upcoming movie "Promises in the Dark."

Manchester police blocked traffic from entering Haynes Street while filming was going on. The only traffic was cars that were purposely driven along the street to provide scene background.

The extras were there from the local area. And there were the peripheral on-lookers.

What seemed like confusion suddenly came to order with a director's command, "Rolling." Everybody is at attention.

"Background." The assigned cars and extras wait at their assigned stations for the next command, "Action." The cars begin to travel in opposite directions on Haynes Street. The extras, looking like doctors and nurses, visitors, begin to move in their pre-directed directions, casually but precisely.

"Cut." Either the scene meets the director's approval, or it has to be retaken, and the routine is repeated. In one instance, an extra had moved into the scene too fast.

Traffic directors with walkie-talkies and ear plugs hide behind trees along the 100-yard frontage of the hospital giving starting signals to the extras in those areas.

It's like watching a film run backwards when the director wants a retake. Cars back up, extras return along the street to provide scene background.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the 15-year-old girl who is begging her mother to let her get married. In some states, the decision to allow teenagers to marry does not lie with the parents. For example, in the state of Washington, no child under the age of 17 may marry with or without parental consent without a court's permission. Kids between 17 and 18 require permission. After 18, they require only a witness. In one case, a 15-year-old girl was pregnant by a 17-year-old boy. Both his family and hers tried to get the judge to let them get married. At first he refused because he talked to the kids and didn't think they were sufficiently "sincere." Only after they attended several months of counseling did the judge feel they were ready for marriage, after which he gave his consent. Another case: A 16-year-old girl asked for permission to get married because she was pregnant. The judge refused, saying that wasn't a good enough reason. The girl had her baby, waited until her 18th birthday, and then got married. Many parents feel it is their right to give or withhold permission to marry, but the state of Washington says differently.

DEAR ABBY: At first I thought someone was giving me a "Snoob" job, but a call to a Washington lawyer confirmed your facts. Thanks for the information. DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for people who would like to leave their worldly goods to favorite relatives and special friends. I don't write "I want Sister Diane to have the gold brooch I got from Aunt Sophie." DO WRITE: "I want my sister Diane to have my 14 kt. gold brooch in the shape of an owl with diamond eyes." If you have more than one gold brooch, so one may remember which one your Aunt Sophie gave you for your 18th birthday (55 years ago). Or, better still, if you don't have one of those instant cameras, borrow one and take a picture of every valuable item you own - and write the name of the person you want to have it on the back of the picture. That way there will be no misunderstanding. MRS. M. IN L.A.

DEAR ABBY: My good idea, but very few people are prepared to accept the fact that they can't take it with them - or indeed, that they can't take it with them. I just wrote a 3-year-old child into our existing family. My husband, our social worker and I were certain the adoption would be a happy one. I was right. I still feel the pain of the six months that child was with us. So much had happened in her little life that the adjustment could not be made. At the time of our anguish, I read every book and article I could find about adoption. No one mentioned the pitfalls or even the possibility of an unsuccessful adoption - only the glowing accounts of the "happy-ever-after" successful adoptions. I have been tempted to publish the story of our failure, but I hesitate because I don't want to discourage others from adopting children who desperately need a loving home. One of the most difficult things we had to deal with was a problem on one mentioned - the actually abandoned child. I wish I still had the child's screams as my loving husband tried to hold her. We finally understood when she told us in detail how "that bad man" had taken her away from her mother. We had hoped that our patience and love would help. Perhaps it did - but not enough.
