WHAT'S NEWS

Town Phones Working Well

MANCHESTER — The town's new telephone system is completing its first work week, and Maurice Pass is pleased with its on-the-job performance. Pass, director of general services, said that there were minor problems and headaches during the first few days, but these are to be expected when such a large system is changed. Aside from that, though, there have been no troubles with the new phone system.

The system permits callers to dial town and school offices directly. Previously, callers had to dial a main number and then be transferred to the proper office. Tuesday, the first day the system was in operation, found many people calling the old Municipal Building number and town employees puzzling over the new system.

"The biggest problem is getting people adjusted," Pass said. Even after less than a week, however, many of these problems have started to fade.

Pass said that 85-90 percent of the calls being made to town offices are being done properly, and there are fewer and fewer problems transferring calls.

"When you change a major system, you're bound to have some problems. But, things have gone smoothly," he said.

Salter's Pond

Manchester's Conservation Commission discussed a number of issues Thursday night and recommended the town acquire property adjacent to Salter's Pond. See page 8.

Big Oil Spill

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — A damaged, sinking Greek tanker carrying 35,000 tons of crude oil spilled thousands of greasy black tons into the Irish Sea today, spreading an oil slick 12 miles long and 4 miles wide, harbor officials said.

British marine experts went to work trying to refloat the stricken vessel, the 58,829-ton Christos Bitas, while detergent-carrying tugs moved in to begin spraying the affected area in hopes of dissipating the grimy slick before it threatened beaches on the Irish coast.

Merit System

Some Town of Manchester employees have raised questions about recent hirings and promotions. They feel the merit system is not being used, but the town manager thinks the complaints are caused by a misunderstanding of the system. See page 10.

Growth Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If present trends hold and if the Census Bureau's estimates are accurate, states in the booming South and West will grow at more than twice the rate of their northern neighbors in the last quarter of the century.

Continuing population shifts from the Northeast and Midwest to the Sunbelt and the West would mean that Florida, Arizona, Nevada and Colorado will grow the fastest, and the District of Columbia, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and the Dakotas will be the slowest, the bureau said in a report Thursday.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower Friday in slow trading on New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 4.66 points Thursday, was behind 0.24 point to 896.39 shortly before 11 a.m. EDT.

A Double Hazard

If the ladder doesn't get him, it looks like the bucket will. Earl Chevannes of Hartford, formerly of Jamaica, works on the renovation of K-Mart on Spencer Street, Manchester. Apparently, Chevannes isn't superstitious about legendary Friday, the 13th hazards. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Relief of Friday Isn't Here Today

By United Press - International
The relief that Friday usually brings just isn't here today. Friday the 13th is upon us for the second time this year. While some laugh at the notion of ill luck superstitions, there are enough stories of Friday the 13th disasters around New England to keep some people on edge.

"The people of Maine are very superstitious, especially the seamen," contends John Grindie, a retired history teacher from Belfast, Maine. "They don't like to set sail on Friday the 13th."

Even today you can spark an argument in the port district of Maine's biggest city, Portland, over the ill-fated wooden bark "Solferino."

The "Solferino" was due to set sail from Portland on a Friday the 13th in the 19th century, during the heyday of Maine's shipping industry.

When a rumor spread that a crewman had killed a black cat the day before the vessel was to depart, the first mate had to hold the crew at gunpoint to keep them from jumping ship, Grindie says.

Three days into the voyage, the "Solferino" sank with all hands. There were no survivors.

Psychiatrists have heard the bad luck stories too — from their patients.

"I wish we could skip the day altogether," says Dr. Lee Macht, chief of psychiatry at Cambridge Hospital and professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School.

"There are those who will really believe that something bad is going to happen to them and then there are those who will not even think a second time about it," he says.

Triskaidekaphobia, or fear of the number 13, probably has to be learned, suggests Dr. Morton Horowitz of the University of Massachusetts' Psychology Department.

"Phobias (or fears) can be attached to 13," or almost anything

Peace Negotiation Moving Smoothly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Egyptian and Israeli peace talks today moved smoothly into the second day of negotiations after a day of good progress in the first sessions on Thursday.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and the American delegation met the Egyptian negotiators this morning at 9 a.m. The three delegations were scheduled to meet together later today and then take a one-day break for the Jewish Sabbath.

The conference, which has the double duty of forging an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty and setting the stage for a comprehensive Arab-East settlement that would involve all the Arab confrontation states, began Thursday with a glittering ceremony in the East Room of the White House.

The working sessions are being held in the crowded second-floor library of Blair House, under the stony gaze of the busts of several American presidents and Benjamin Franklin.

Security around the historic guest house across the street from the White House is extremely heavy.

President Carter laid out the assignment for the negotiators.

"This peace between the two great nations must be the foundation and the first step toward the larger, even greater, more important result we all seek — a comprehensive and lasting settlement between Israel and all her neighbors."

Under the direction of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, the conference quickly set a pattern of alternating bilateral sessions and brief plenaries involving all three countries.

In the 6 hours and 20 minutes of the day, all three delegations met together briefly, and then Vance and his delegation met separately with the Israelis and the Egyptians.

Then all delegation heads of the three countries met to review together what was later described by a conference spokesman as "good progress."

Manchester May Get $1.5 Million CD Fund

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The town has been told it could receive $1.5 million in Community Development funding for the upcoming three years.

Lawrence Thompson of Hartford's U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development office sent a letter this week to Town Manager Robert Weiss and included the estimated funding for the present fiscal year as well as the next two.

The dollar figures, however, are preliminary estimates and are subject to significant change, Thompson said.

The Community Development

Block Grant program provides federal funding to communities based on population and other factors that measure need.

The town still has received only part of its funding for the fiscal year that recently ended.

It is still seeking to meet a requirement by HUD that it take more steps in the area of fair housing education.

Thus, while some funding has been released to the town, almost $400,000 still is being withheld.

The Community Development program has been criticized by some town residents because they feel HUD makes too many requirements that the town must meet to receive the funding.

Past Community Development funding, however, has been used for such items as housing for the elderly, the housing rehabilitation program and day and playground repairs.

The town's Community Development Advisory Committee will have to begin work on a three-year plan for use of the future funding.

The plan will be based on the estimates included in Thompson's letter. These are $492,000 for the present fiscal year, and $524,000 for each of the fiscal years ending in 1980 and 1981.

Thompson said the 1981 estimate is the same as 1980 because the program only has been extended to 1980.

MHS Principal Says Normal Air Returns

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — It has been a good week at Manchester High School and the atmosphere has returned to normal after last Friday's problems, Principal Jacob Ludes said today.

Ludes called a press conference last Friday afternoon after several incidents, some with apparent racial overtones, developed during the day.

This week, however, there has been little sign of the trouble that developed at the end of last week, Ludes said.

"We've had a pretty good week. I'm confident it's going to continue," he said.

Attendance has improved throughout the week.

There were 254 absences reported Tuesday, the first day of school after Friday's incidents. That figure is "higher than normal, but not bad coming off a three-day weekend," Ludes said.

Since Tuesday, attendance has improved throughout the week and is back to normal, he said.

One student was suspended Tuesday in connection with Friday's incidents.

There have been several more suspensions during the week, but none were related to last Friday, Ludes said. He did not have an exact figure of the number suspended but said all the suspensions were students who were caught skipping classes.

Class cutting and other infractions can lead to problems like those of last week, but the suspensions were not connected to those problems, he said.

In all cases, the suspensions occurred after previous warnings steps, including warnings and detentions, were followed, he said.

Sen. Bayh Denies Any Wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh, confronted with evidence by the Senate Ethics Committee that he may have broken campaign contribution laws, said today he does not believe he is guilty of any wrongdoing.

The committee, in a final report on its Korean influence-buying investigation that was obtained by UPI, said it is turning over all evidence in the Bayh case to the Justice Department to determine "whether prosecution is appropriate."

The matter concerns whether Bayh received a campaign contribution from Korean businessman Tongsun Park, or an intermediary, in his Capitol Hill office. It is a crime to receive a political contribution in a federal building.

Today, Bayh said, "The question at issue is whether a campaign contribution was received in my office. I do not believe this to be the case."

The committee's final report contained no new facts — beyond those which I have freely made public on numerous previous occasions during the past year," he said.

The possible Justice Department prosecution stems from a case involving an Oct. 8, 1974, meeting in the Capitol of Bayh, Park, Washington businessman Edward Merrigan and Jason Berman. Bayh's administrative assistant, where at least one campaign contribution may have changed hands.

At issue is whether either Park or Merrigan — or both — contributed to the Bayh campaign at that Capitol meeting.

"Mr. Park says that both he and Mr. Merrigan made contributions at that meeting," Mr. Merrigan says that he, but not Mr. Park, made a contribution at that meeting; and both Sen. Bayh and Mr. (Jason) Berman (Bayh's former aide) say that neither Mr. Park nor Mr. Merrigan made a contribution at that meeting," the report said.

"The ethics panel also said Bayh was in 'neglect of his duties as a United States senator' in failing to disclose in a July 1977 letter to the committee and in a subsequent questionnaire an offer of a large cash contribution from Park — an offer that Bayh says he rejected.

"I have openly stated from the outset that my relationship with Tongsun Park was social," said the Indiana Democrat, "and the committee has found nothing to contradict this fact."

Bayh said he is "deeply disturbed that the committee or its staff should conclude that I tried to mislead them. Nothing could have been farther from my intention."

"Neglect of duty" is apparently an unprecedented finding that carries no disciplinary penalty and requires no action by the full Senate. A spokesman for the ethics panel refused to discuss the finding until the report is made public next week.

Congress Nearing End With Little Progress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As the clock winds down, some members say Congress is taking two steps back for every one step forward. And whispers about a possible postponement of Saturday's adjournment deadline begin to be heard.

In near round-the-clock sessions Thursday and early today, three of the top bills made virtually no progress toward passage.

—Conferees started work on the tax-cut bill, but suffered a setback when the House instructed its negotiators to accept a Senate-approved Proposition 13 type amendment tying a $163 billion tax cut over a five-year period to restrained federal spending and a balanced budget.

President Carter renewed his threat to veto anything resembling the Senate-approved version.

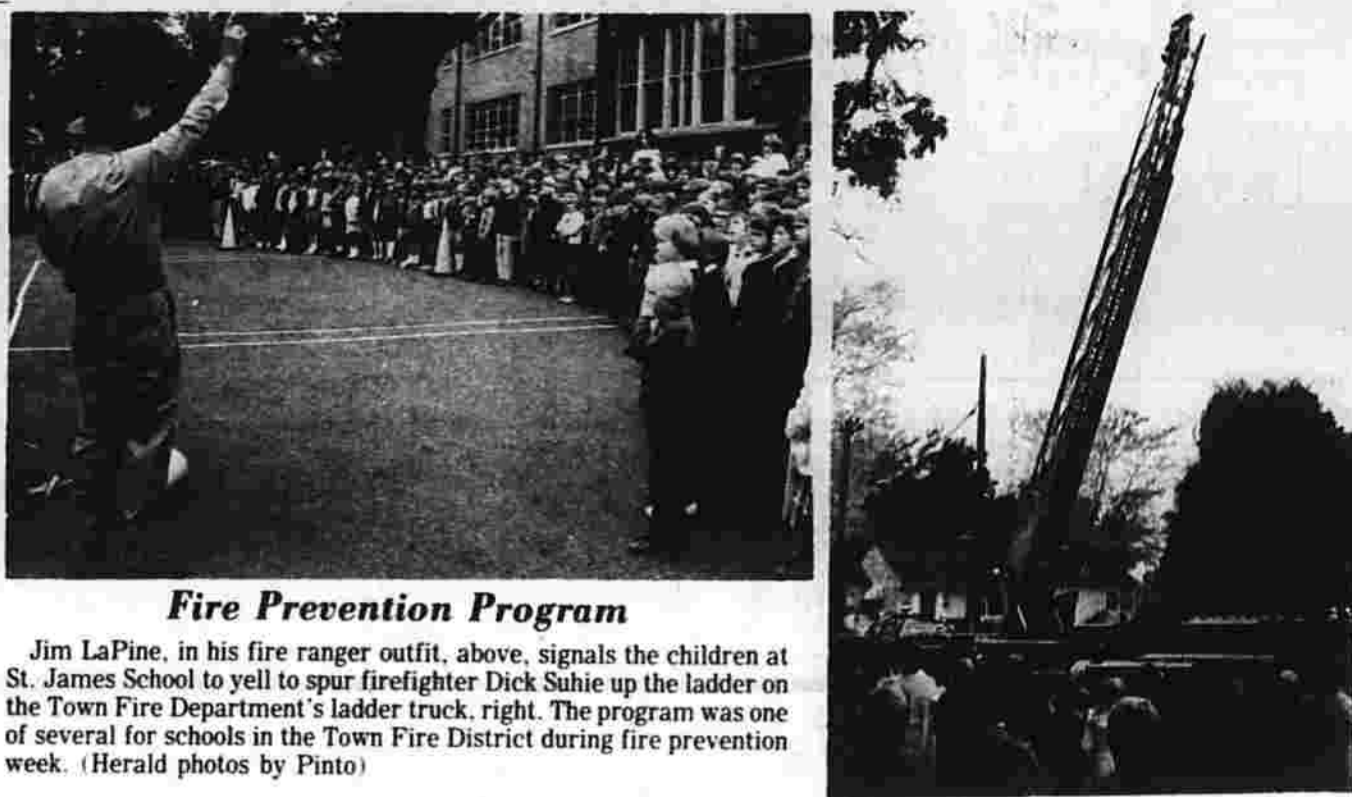

—The energy package, President Carter's key domestic initiative, met two new obstacles: delaying tactics by Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., an opponent of gas price deregulations, and a setback in the House Rules Committee that refused to wrap up the five separate bills into one neat package for an up-or-down vote of the House.

The committee meets again today.

—A coalition of proponents and critics of the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill reached a compromise that immediately drew objections from the Congressional Budget Committee, the same group that has lobbied so hard for the bill and persuaded Carter to throw his power behind it.

The causes objected to tying the bill's goal of reducing unemployment to another goal: reducing federal spending to 20 percent of the Gross National Product by 1985.

The House also remained entangled in

Panel Votes to Pay Bill For Hockanum Park Pool

Better late than never, the Public Building Commission Thursday night approved payment of $109,578 to Kane, Ferrill and White Associates for work completed on the Hockanum Park pool construction.

At last month's regular meeting, the PBC voted unanimously not to pay the bill because $15,000 worth of pool equipment was signed for, but delivered to a general contractor in Hartford.

What caused the delay was confusion over who had legal responsibility for pool equipment until it was installed on site. The PBC did not know of the agreement between the town and the architect to east Hartford High School science wing. The PBC budgeted $700 for it and had to transfer the additional money from its advertising budget to pay for it.

Cummings Won't Talk to STEAL

MANCHESTER — State Rep. Theodore Cummings repeated Thursday he will not attend a meeting about consolidation and answered criticism from two Republicans.

Cummings, who is Democratic town chairman, is seeking re-election in the 12th Assembly District. He is being opposed by Republican Walter Joyner.

He said he will not attend a discussion about consolidation scheduled for Monday, Oct. 23. The session has been scheduled by the Stop Tampering with the Eighth's American Liberties committee (STEAL). An anti-consolidation group.

Consolidation would combine the Eighth Utilities District with the Town of Manchester. Cummings has been a prime mover to bring about consolidation, which is opposed by District officials and many of its residents.

Cummings has scheduled a discussion session and meet-the-press forum for himself and Joyner on Oct. 23, the same night as the proposed consolidation meeting.

Wallace Irish Jr., an active Republican and deputy fire marshal in the Eighth District, charged Cummings is ducking the consolidation issue. The issue is important in Cummings' district because much of it includes the Eighth District.

Another Republican, Carl Zisser, who serves on the Town Board of Directors, criticized Cummings and his role in support of the phase-in legislation.

"It's becoming plainer there is a definite choice between Joyner, his friends and myself," Cummings said.

He said he is not dodging the consolidation matter.

"Anyone who knows me well enough knows I don't dodge anything. This campaign has many issues," he said. "I'm not going to make this a one-issue campaign."

He charged Joyner is becoming a one-issue candidate, referring to the consolidation meeting.

Cummings also said he gave his Republican challenger an opportunity to set up a debate between the two. He said Joyner did not take any action on the matter, so Cummings established the Oct. 23 session.

He also said he realizes the phase-in legislation does include an inequity for new construction. He will work to correct that, he said.

"If you don't do anything, you don't make any mistakes," he said and repeated his belief that the phase-in legislation is helpful to Manchester homeowners.

Bridgeport Fire Kills Two

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Authorities say a 6-month-old infant and man died in a suspicious fire that swept through a 21/2-story tenement shortly before midnight.

Fire officials said today the blaze broke out in the 12-room wood-frame building at 2306 Main St. in the city's north end about 11:45 p.m. It was put out about 30 minutes later.

Officials said Charles Dahr, 27, Donna Dahr, 21, and Sophie Golembeski, 49, who lived in the building, were admitted to the burn center at Bridgeport Hospital. They were listed in fair condition.

A spokeswoman at St. Vincent's Hospital identified the infant daughter of Charles and Donna Dahr as one of the fire victims.

The spokeswoman identified the other fire fatality as John Kosinski, age unknown, of 2306 Main St.

Fire officials said the blaze, which was under investigation, damaged the building extensively.

Manchester Police Report

MANCHESTER — A case of forgetfulness resulted in a missing bank bag containing $800-$1,000 in cash and small checks, police said. Police said that Joseph Spagna of 7 Cherry Street placed the bank bag on top of his car, which was parked on Main Street near Center Park. He forgot that he had left it there when he drove off, police said. The incident was reported after 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

The bag fell into the street, and witnesses told police that two unidentified persons grabbed it and ran.

A search of the area found no bag, no money and no free-spending patrons at area businesses, police said.

Police are still investigating the incident.

A dead deer was found under a bush off Parker Street, police said. The deer, found Thursday afternoon, apparently was struck by a motor vehicle, police said.

A mini-bus used by the town for transporting elderly and handicapped residents was involved in an accident Thursday shortly before 2 p.m.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Maple and Cottage streets, police said.

There were no passengers in the bus at the time, and the operator, Carl E. Gustafson of 149 Vernon Ave., Vernon, was not injured. The bus still was operable after the accident.

The driver of the other vehicle, Cindy Dittiger, 18, of 66 High St., East Hartford, was charged with failure to grant the right of way, police said.

Police charged Harry J. Leister, 56, of 689 Main St. with breach of peace. No court date was listed.

Police also charged John J. Costello, 53, of 378 Summit St. with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. Court date is Oct. 31.

A total of 15 other motor vehicle violation arrests were made Thursday, including 11 for excessive speed, police said.

Police also issued five warnings for defective equipment.

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Foes of nuclear power who contend the Seabrook plant is being built in part on a public right-of-way headed for U.S. 1st Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston today in their fight for permission to march on the disputed land.

The Rocks Road Concerned Citizen Action Group sought a temporary restraining order that would let 60 members march across part of the plant site Saturday without being arrested. The order is needed because an injunction issued two years ago by a state court bans trespassing on the plant site.

Thursday in Concord, U.S. District Judge Shane Devine refused to grant a temporary restraining order. Devine said he could not determine from the evidence given him whether the land where the demonstration is planned is public land or not.

In other Seabrook activity Thursday, 14 members of the anti-nuclear Clamshell Alliance were turned down when they asked a Superior Court judge to release them without cash bail pending trial on charges of criminal trespass last Saturday.

A Clamshell spokesman said the judge denied the 14, all from the Boston area, did not have sufficient ties to New Hampshire to qualify for release on personal recognizance.

All Items Approve

HEBRON — A special Town Meeting Thursday night approved all items on the agenda, asking questions on only one of them.

Those attending approved accepting a parcel of land designated as Open Space in the North Hills section of a final subdivision plan filed by William L. Monaco and John Lache Jr.

The meeting also approved the appropriation of $13,450 for fire department equipment. This money will be transferred from the surplus account to the capital account and will be used to renovate existing equipment as recommended by the Board of Finance.

Also approved was the signing of a contract with the Transit District to acquire vehicles and equipment for the benefit of the town for use in operating a mass transportation service for the elderly and the handicapped.

While no real objections were raised to the contract, those attending did express concern as to how the vehicle would be maintained, where it would be housed and such.

Council Unit Rejects Buying Club Property

By CHARLIE MAYNARD
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — Fearful of vandalism in the area, the Land Acquisition and Disposition Committee of the Town Council decided to pass up the purchase of the so-called Lithuanian Club property off High Street near the Connecticut River. The committee members agreed that the area was difficult to police and also had flooding problems in the spring. "Although it's a desirable piece of property, we're going to pass it up," said Warren Sullivan, director of development. It was reviewed by all the various departments and all of them passed it up at this time. There is nothing you can put in there because of the flooding in the spring, added Chairman William Dailey. The committee took no action on a second round of property which abuts Martin Park. Dailey said the acquisition must be referred to the Town Council before it could go to the committee, which merely buys and sells property. A memo circulated by Fred Balet, director of Parks and Recreation, indicated that his department had expressed an interest in the area. The memo said the uncultivated land could be used as a buffer and continuation of park land. In other matters, the committee outvoted the Old Ferry Road to its adjoining owners, the Chase Glass Co. on Village Street and to the Redevelopment Agency. The agency will retain the land until it is titled to its new owner, Racquetball Equities, Inc. Sullivan said both Chase Glass and Racquetball Equities wanted to expand the parking space available around the two buildings. The action would give each firm an additional 10 or 11 feet for expansion. The committee agreed to quit claim the land, but reserved a right-of-way for the town so it could get to the dike system.

Dump Permit Revoked After Brook Violation

EAST HARTFORD — The Planning and Zoning Commission has revoked the dumping permit of a Goodwin Street resident, because he illegally placed landfill on the banks of the Burnham Brook. Town officials discovered the violation at a routine inspection of the dump, which is owned by Patrick Garufi of 722 Goodwin St. Town engineer Charles Sheehan and Director of Public Works Arthur J. Milligan discovered the violation, last June. Town regulations state the PZC must review and approve engineering drawings before the landscape can be regraded. In regrading without filing such papers with the PZC, Garufi violated the regulations. Sheehan and Milligan requested Garufi to take action on June 21, but Sheehan said, "He took no action whatsoever. So we turned it over to the PZC." The PZC notified Garufi by mail that he must comply or he would lose his permit. In revoking the permit Wednesday night, the PZC stipulated that prior to any development activity taking place at the site, the applicant must submit plans indicating compliance with the regulations. The PZC granted the permit in June of 1974 for stockpiling of fill only in designated areas.

Psychics Called to Help In Hunt for Lost Plane

NORTH CANAAN (UPI) — The family of one of three men on a commuter plane that disappeared on the way to Albany, N.Y. from Stratford has called in psychics to help find them. Estelle Schatz said Thursday searchers have already followed up on several leads called in by the psychics, some of whom were called in to help solve New York City's "Son of Sam" case. Mrs. Schatz is the wife of Leonard Schatz of Stratford, a manager of operational planning for General Electric's industrial gas turbines program department. Schatz and James Heap of Trumbull, manager of financial planning and analysis for the GE division, were aboard a chartered Business Computer 310 piloted by Wayne Wilmette of Bridgeport Sept. 25 when it failed to show up at its destination. Two weeks of exhaustive searching in Massachusetts, New York state and Connecticut failed to turn up any clues to the plane's whereabouts. "We feel very strongly that there have been many miracles in life," Mrs. Schatz said. "I just can't give up hope until you know for sure. We live with hope." Several psychics from a New York-based psychic research institute have contributed information and a noted Canadian psychic has been called into the case, she said. General Electric has set up a hot-line telephone number anyone with information can call collect. The number is 357-4538.

Jury Choice Delayed In Trial of Tax Rebel

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Jury selection in the trial of tax rebel Iwan Schiff has been postponed to Nov. 14 to allow the Harnden attorney time to meet with a court appointed lawyer. Schiff, 50, who wrote "The Biggest Con — How the Government is Fleecing You," is being tried in federal court on two counts of failing to file income tax returns for 1974 and 1975. He has pleaded innocent to both counts. He told Judge T. F. Gilroy Daly Thursday he has not had enough time to prepare his case and did not know whether to continue to act as his own attorney or have a lawyer plead his case. Schiff, who lectures nationally on the evils of government spending and taxation, fills in the blanks of his income tax returns with asterisks because he claims it's "impossible to pay taxes." The asterisks refer to footnotes he writes along the margins of his IRS forms indicating he does not understand the tax laws because they are unconstitutional. What the government calls money comes in the form of Federal Reserve notes that are not backed with anything of value. They're worthless," Schiff said. The judge gave Schiff until Oct. 27 to tell the court if he will accept Raymond Ganza of Stratford as his court-appointed attorney. Since federal charges were filed against him last April, Schiff has engineered a series of pre-trial legal motions testing the constitutionality of the charges and the court's jurisdiction. Each charge carries penalties of one year in prison and $10,000 in fines. Schiff contends the court has no jurisdiction over him because he has not been indicted by a grand jury.

PZC Closes Hearing On Subdivision Plan

COVENTRY — The Planning and Zoning Commission has closed its public hearing on Ralph Zabara's application for a seven-lot subdivision on Lewis Hill Road. The 14-acre parcel is owned by Harry England and his heirs. Engineer David Booth explained that existing watercourses will lead water drainage to paved watercourses as well as into a detention area he plans to construct. Town Planner Gregory Fiedick read a letter from Santarian Donald Holmes stating that most proposed improvements had been made by Zabara. He advised construction staking be done to ensure proper roadway widths. PZC member John Pagni felt that use of the existing wetlands to hold drainage water would be preferable to setting up an artificial pond. But other commissioners expressed a little serious concern about the plan. Several residents voiced their fears of increased water runoff to their property because of the development. "I live at the bottom of the hill," said Anthony D'Amrosi, "and I would like to see Lot 7 left as open space." Padick noted that the commission would have to decide about how to deal with the drainage concern. "There is some question about the engineering data," he stated. "And digging out wetlands and addressing smaller storms are concerns." Padick advised that the open space requirement be met through a development rights deed restriction on wetland areas. Local regulations require that subdivisions of 10 acres or more allow at least 10 percent open space. He also noted that all road and drainage work, including preconstruction meetings and staking, should be under the direction and supervision of the town engineer and superintendent of streets. Road and drainage improvements must be bonded. In other business Zoning Agent Ernest Wheeler told the commission that a gravel operation by Mark Sanderson on Brigham Tavern Road, was causing erosion onto the roadway. Padick suggested that a ditch between the road and the slope might be helpful. Padick also read a letter from the State Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) that had been sent to town's Sewer Authority. Robert Norwood, principal sanitary engineer for the DEP's Water Compliance Division, said that the authority's facilities plan for a municipal sewer system "has adequately considered the reasonable alternatives to the recommended solution to the lake area problems." Some local conservationists are opposed to severing of the lake area. But authority chairman Richard Broun has stated that all other alternatives have been studied and rejected by his group as not being feasible. The PZC at first also turned down sewers for the lake area fearing that they would encourage development there. But the commission recently modified its position, advocating sewers for the village area and a limited system for the lake area to take care of existing problems. The PZC and the authority have apparently reached an impasse on how extensive a lake sewer plan should be. However, Norwood said, "the crux of this facility plan is to abate pollution and public health problems in the area of Coventry with an essentially urban density. This need not tie the town to an ongoing sewer service expansion program accompanied by urban sprawl in areas outside the service expansion program."

SA Officers Due Back For Homecoming Event

MANCHESTER — Among the many reservations received for the Homecoming Banquet at the Salvation Army on Saturday, Oct. 21, at 6 p.m. are persons living out of town who trained in the School for Officers Training in New York City from Manchester, or who had some of their early experience in the local Corps. Some of those who will attend are Col. Florence Turkington who entered in 1917 and became one of the famous Salvation Army Donut Girls serving in France during World War I. Others include Mrs. Brig. Joseph Heard (Edith Leggett) and Mrs. Col. Horace Weatherly (Mina Maxwell) who went in training in 1927. Brig. Jessie Larder who went in in 1929. Brig. J. Hudson Lyons in 1935, and Brig. Luella Larder, 1936. All of the above are retired. Also, Mrs. Brig. Bramwell Crawford (Elizabeth Barber) and Mrs. Lt. Col. Eldred Churchill (Ellen Lyons), both in 1936. Mrs. Maj. James Watson (Beverly Russell) in 1948, and the Rev. Wayne Cole in 1950, now a minister in the United Methodist Church. Also, Mrs. Lt. Col. Kenneth Howarth (Enma Turkington), and Brig. Dorothy Bartlett, whose parents were the Corps officers from 1918 to 1920, and Mrs. James Frye (Mary Ritchie), in training in 1922. Reservations with payment for this event must be in by Monday, the dinner will be preceded by a social hour in Faith Hall at 5 p.m. and will feature pictures and memorabilia of early days in the Corps. Mrs. Maynard Clough of East Hartford is in charge of the event. Persons having items for the display are asked to bring them to the Manchester Citadel by Sunday with information as to names, dates, and ownership. After the catered meal, Col. Andrew Miller, chief secretary of the U.S. Central Territory, will give the welcoming remarks. Capt. Carlson said most of the out-of-town officers, retired and active, will take part in the Sunday activities which include an adult reunion at 9:30 a.m. in the sanctuary, morning worship at 10:45, and a musical praise service at 3 p.m. which will feature the local Salvation Army Band and Songsters. "The festivities will conclude with a fellowship in the youth center. "An event of this nature has been long overdue for members and friends of the local Corps, not only to engage in a time of reunion but also to develop a sense of spiritual renewal," Capt. Carlson said.

VFW Member On Committee

James Lusby, a member of the Manchester VFW Post, has been appointed to serve as a member of the National Legislative Committee of the VFW. The appointment was made by Eric G. Sandstrom of Tacoma, Wash., VFW commander in chief. Sandstrom, head of the 1.8 million member organization of overseas veterans, commented, "Mr. Lusby understands and is concerned about the many vital national and international issues which face this nation and has demonstrated a willingness to sacrifice his time and give of his talents in the task of following the position the organization has mandated." "Our programs touch every citizen in the community, they help the young, the old, the Vietnam veteran, the World War I veteran. I am pleased to make this appointment because I know Mr. Lusby will do an outstanding job for the VFW National Legislative Committee. Sheltered Workshop Boosts Independence

Lynn Comeau, a congenial, friendly young lady, says that since she has been a client at the Manchester Sheltered Workshop she has gained a feeling of independence that makes her more of an equal with her brothers and sisters. Lynn hastened to explain that she has a wonderful home, wonderful parents and great brothers and sisters. "But," she confided, "I always felt that I should be working and earning money. When my younger brother and sister earned money at summer jobs or working after school hours I wished that I could do the same thing. This friendly lady will be 24 years old Oct. 25. During those years she has struggled with multiple handicaps. Lynn is a victim of cerebral palsy and has sight in only one eye. She attended Oak Hill School for the Blind and following her graduation entered South Windsor High School. She spent two years there and received her diploma at graduation exercises in June, 1976. Lynn, the second of six children, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Comeau of 84 Mark Drive, South Windsor. Lynn's parents say they are proud of Lynn and the progress she has made. They are grateful and happy that Lynn is at the Sheltered Workshop where she is gainfully occupied each day and where she has had the opportunity to make new friends. Lynn has many interests. She collects salt and pepper shakers, many of them coming from several of the fifty states as well as from other countries. She enjoys card games, jigsaw puzzles and is presently looking at a rug. She proudly tells of going to her sister's home and "keeping an eye" on her one-year-old niece while her sister does her housework. In spite of her physical disabilities, Lynn has household responsibilities. She makes her own bed, helps with the dishes and cleans her own bedroom. In 1971, Lynn had the unique distinction of being the only American invited to participate in the 1972 Olympic Games for Handicapped Seniors held in Germany. Lynn was selected for this honor by the Connecticut Valley Girl Scout Council while she was a student and Girl Scout at Oak Hill School. That participating in the Sheltered Workshop program has further enriched Lynn's life is obvious when she tells you, "Coming to the workshop every day is better than staying home watching TV or doing puzzles. That's fine for the weekend, but it is pretty boring every day!" This well-adjusted young lady with the impish smile and twinkle in her eyes is enthusiastic about her work at the Sheltered Workshop. Since here entrance into the program last spring she has been trained in a variety of jobs such as collating, preparing mailings, packaging and many other services performed by the Sheltered Workshop under contract to local industry. Other jobs performed by clients are repairing industrial hammers, light assembly work, packaging plastic trash bags and numerous other services, such as rags and hangers. Lynn receives a check for her work each Friday as do all the clients. She told us her pay check really makes her feel great. "Wow! Now I'm really like my brothers and sisters." The Manchester Sheltered Workshop is operated by the Manchester Association for Retarded Citizens Inc., a United Way agency.

HIGH SCHOOL WORLD

Editorial Page History Outlined

Because this is National Newspaper Week, and because of our fortunate situation in this year, it seemed appropriate to break from tradition and offer some reflections of my own concerning the High School World's history and progress.

Normally, MHS students do all the writing on these pages, which, by definition, qualify them to be truly called a student publication.

But before getting into something about the World's past, it should be said that the paper owes its entire existence to The Manchester Evening Herald, and one cannot be thought of in isolation of the other.

For 48 of The Herald's 97 years of continuous publication, the two have been inseparable.

Readers have come to expect that on Fridays (occasionally other days) they will be able to get closer to their schools and perhaps penetrate the soft-focus misty images gleaned from various sources.

Although not always pleased with what they see, and, perhaps, sometimes dismayed, or even appalled, I think students and adults alike have sensed a certain fidelity in the efforts of their children, their neighbor's children, and friends.

It was on Sept. 13, 1933, when the High School World first appeared. The Depression was in full swing, and Somahan (South Manchester High School), which served the triple purpose of literary magazine, newspaper, and for its last issue, yearbook, had to be curtailed because of financial considerations. The business community simply could not afford to advertise in its pages.

Outgoing Principal Clarence P. Quimby made the first overture which resulted in The Herald's agreement to publish a part as a substitute for Somahan's Owner and publisher Thomas Ferguson established at that time the community-oriented, non-partisan policies that have prevailed to this day, changes in owners and publishers notwithstanding.

While mutual accommodation and good will have characterized our relationship throughout, we have been nevertheless, had our moments of disenchantment. Most cases, I think, can be traced to faulty understandings of each other's specific purposes and needs. For instance, the extremely busy and diverse schedules of staff members have in the past and continue to be a troublesome. We simply cannot operate with the efficiency of a full-time newspaper staff. We have deadline difficulties and a continuing training factor that is sometimes not well understood, we feel. In addition to these constant factors, it is well known among our high school faculty themselves in a variety of extra-curricular activities, which often cause conflicts of time and allegiances.

On the other hand, we of the World cannot be aware of the numerous human, technical and commercial factors involved in the operation of such a highly competitive enterprise as that of a daily newspaper. What is pertinent and appropriate for

The instructors of the Handicapped recently held their first classes of the October 8th at the MHS pool. The classes will be held weekly until May and should prove, as in the past, to be a great community service.

Student Reacts to Incident

This year Manchester High has enjoyed a large amount of publicity because of its winning football team and its renewed school spirit.

Until last Friday there had been no major problems, and it appeared as though there wouldn't be any more acts of vandalism, theft, etc., which plagued the school last year. It is a shame that such a promising start should get bad publicity due to what has been termed "incidents with racial overtones."

Hopefully, Friday's conflicts will not be repeated. The students involved should realize that fighting and name calling are not the best method by which to resolve an argument. This is something that we were taught in elementary school; it may be rather basic in principle, but it is definitely true.

MHS has a new principal this year, as well as a new vice principal, both of whom were surely disgusted by Friday's problems.

All students should try and be on their best behavior for our new administration, and for that matter should conduct themselves with behavior indicative of their ages, regardless of the situation. Our open campus privileges were threatened last year by the action of a small segment of the students, and if Friday's sophomore incidents continue, then Mr. Ludes may have to reconsider this year's policies.

In order to prevent other problems from arising, everyone should make it a point to know what is going on. If you see a fight or an act of vandalism, make it your responsibility to report it and help stop it. We can't let any more problems arise, racial or otherwise.

Some students feel to begin with the problem is to begin eliminating students. This is a very ignorant way to approach the problem.

Everyone has to work together to form a cohesive student body. This is the only way to approach it. Once we have graduated and are no longer in an "enclosed society," we won't be able to merely eliminate people to solve a problem.

If high school is meant to prepare us for "the big world," then it is our responsibility as students to prepare by working out things in a diplomatic fashion.

Saturday morning both The Herald and The Courant had lengthy articles in prominent places dealing with MHS and the racial problems.

We received a large amount of publicity on incidents which involved only a few people, yet there was nothing about the fact that student assembly is so far, having its best year, or that the sports teams are all doing excellently.

Let's not let the public get a misconception of MHS, for it is all too often that the bad and unusual is reflected in the media.

If MHS is to have a reputation, let it be a reputation that is gained from the good and not the bad.

World Notes

The Team of the Week (for the week ending Friday, Oct. 6) is the varsity soccer team. The Indian booters scored two impressive victories, beating Fermi of Enfield on Tuesday and Windham on Friday.

Players of the week are Junior Jim Glubosky and senior Bert Pina. Glubosky scored two goals in the 7-0 win over Fermi, and added another in the 8-0 win over Windham. Pina's outstanding defensive play was a key factor in both games. He scored his first goal of the year against Fermi. Congratulations from HSW.

Does anybody know what got into the football team? For a team that was thought to be permanently laid to rest in the loss column, they have been playing mighty well.

Do you have anything to say about what goes on at MHS? Are you tired of quiet study halls or gym class? Do you wish you could skip off every question, and you'd like to complain a little bit, write an article. We love complaints.

The following Manchester High School athletic teams are currently in first place in the CCLL: Cross country (boys' and girls'), soccer, football, and swimming. Let's face it — MHS is the best.

If the students of this school expect to eat their twinkles in the time of the Bee Goes or Billy Joel, they had better get their act (and the cafeteria) together. And that's no joke, my friends. — Mike Wilson

Experts Favor Self-Care

NEW YORK (UPI) — A self-care revolution in America today promises healthier and longer life to those conscientiously joining it, claim experts writing in a new "Help Yourself" booklet.

Dr. Keith W. Schriber, known as the father of the self-care movement, writes in the free booklet put out by Blue Cross and Blue Shield Associations.

"Education in self-care may be as simple and informal as your doctor's taking five or 10 minutes to explain an illness, to answer all of your questions ... or it may be as structured as a 34-hour adult education course given by the School of Nursing at Georgetown University."

Persons taking the Georgetown course graduate with "black bags" of their own and know how to check vital signs, use stethoscopes, sphygmomanometers (blood pressure cuffs), otoscopes to check ears and some other medical equipment.

Persons expert in self-care, according to the former Georgetown University Medical Professor, learn to keep their own health histories, and keep the perils of eating too well.

"They're instructed in body talk — the symptoms that tell them when to seek professional help. They learn what to put in their medicine cabinets (or refrigerators) and what to throw away as well as how to find — and rate — a doctor."

Schriber said those in the self-care movement learn simple yoga exercises that may help banish sleeping pills and insomnia.

What can self-helpers do about minor injuries and chronic conditions that account for three out of every four visits to the doctor? They're taught to tell the difference between what helps on a do-yourself basis and what needs professional attention.

Special PTA Sets Meeting

MANCHESTER — The Manchester PTA for Exceptional Children will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Keene Street School.

Guest speakers will be Mrs. Lynn Gustafson, head nurse in the Manchester school system, and Ms. Jolly Cozzi, nurse at the Regional Occupational Training Center. They will discuss the dimensions of the exceptionality in the handicapped child including such topics as social and sexual development, in addition to offering basic guidelines for parents. A question and answer period will follow. Refreshments will be served.

The Manchester PTA for Exceptional Children was founded in 1971 to improve communication between parents of exceptional children, and to provide a meeting ground between those who serve these children and their parents.

The exceptional child is anyone who deviates from the norm for any reason, be it intellectual, physical, capacity, emotional makeup whether of a temporary or permanent nature.

The groups most commonly recognized as comprising the exceptionality are hearing, speech, visual, perceptual, physical, emotional, mental (for both the gifted and retarded), and any other special interest group.

Included in the PTA's membership are principals, speech clinicians, teachers, social workers and school department heads.

The goals of the PTA for Exceptional Children are to provide parents with an opportunity to express their needs and concerns on a personal level and as a group, to educate the community about the exceptional child and to correct misconceptions wherever they exist, to establish new programs and to improve existing ones for exceptional children, to encourage parents of exceptionality wherever they exist, to become aware of new and existing legislation, and to cooperate with other groups concerned with the various types of exceptionality wherever possible.

Anyone wishing further information may call Mrs. Cecile Mulhern, the group's president, at 643-1866 evenings.

Juke Box Removed

On Tuesday of last week, the administration announced a change in the status of the juke box in the cafeteria at MHS. Mr. Boudo, speaking to the entire school Tuesday afternoon, said that the juke box affiliated with the Student Assembly would be removed from the corner of the cafeteria in lieu of the negligence of the student body.

When the juke box first arrived, the administration brought to the students' attention the fact it was a privilege, and the leaving of trays or general sloppiness in the cafeteria, would result in the removal of the juke box.

Commenting on the administration's decision, Mr. Boudo said, "I am hopeful that it may encourage a reasonable amount of cleanliness on the part of the fine young adults. After all, part of the educational process is learning to be responsible for one's own actions. If and when the cafeteria is clean and orderly, it is my understanding that the juke box will be replaced again."

The first day of the change in policy brought several students' reactions. Senior Carolyn Egan said, "I'm glad they did it, but it makes me disgusted with the student body."

Sophomore Marge Butteron explained, "I wish it was just 'Lousy' tactic! It didn't bother me that much. It was kind of nice having it, though." Junior Pat Adams said, "Another Junior, Lou Albano, stated, 'I was never in favor of the thing at all. There's enough noise, in the cafeteria already.'"

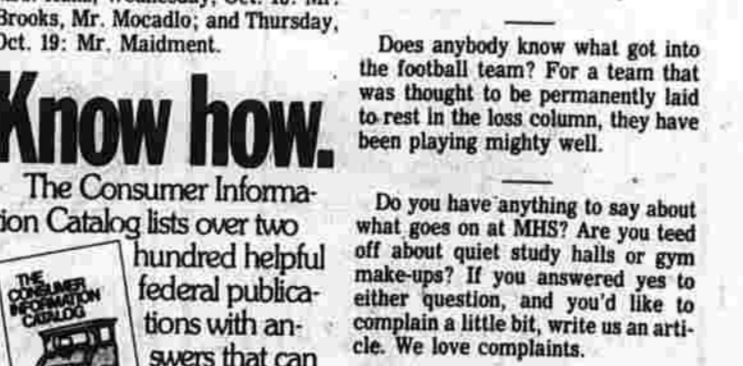

It was announced at the Student Assembly meeting Sept. 27 that the juke box makes a profit of $7 a day. Hopefully, this needed profit will resume in the future with the return of the juke box. — Elizabeth Busky

Throughout the evening there will be a group of clown entertainers with the crowd. These clowns are led by Handee Trabitz and should really add some vivacity. Soon after the pep rally, the records will start hopping and the dancing will begin.

Come, participate, and enjoy. Take interest in MHS and show your spirit. We're off to a great start this year, and tonight could be no more pleasant item. — Rob Saunders

Firemen Disagree On Plans

VERNON — Responses to a survey of Vernon and Rockville firemen, taken by the Town Council's Fire Study Committee, reveal that members of the two departments have differing views about the way the departments are now managed and the way they would like to see them run in the future.

The study committee was appointed by Mayor Frank McCoy to investigate and recommend concerning consolidation of the two departments. When the town governments were consolidated the fire departments were the only departments that were not consolidated also.

Panel Wants Pond For Town Property

MANCHESTER — Residents of the area may disagree, but the Conservation Commission Thursday night recommended that the town acquire property surrounding the Hilliard Pond.

The commission also said it will seek rail and bus transportation improvements in the area, will try to purchase more property at Case Mountain, and will provide input for the Interstate 86 expansion plan.

Residents in the Salter's Pond area have opposed the town's acquiring of property adjacent to the pond. Two small chunks of property would be donated to the town by Lydall Inc. and Green Manor Estates, the present owners.

Neighbors have complained about groups now hanging around the pond. The residents fear an increase in vandalism and loitering in the area if the property becomes town-owned.

"For the free gift of eternal salvation is now being offered to everyone, and along with this gift comes the realization that God wants us to turn from godless living and sinful pleasures and to live good, God-fearing lives day after day, looking forward to that wonderful time we've been expecting, when his glory shall be seen — the glory of our great God and Saviour Jesus Christ."

Merit System Concerns Manchester Employees — By GREG PEARSON Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Some town employees are concerned that personally and not performance is playing the major role in recent promotions.

Town Manager Robert Weiss, however, feels that such complaints result from a misunderstanding of the town's merit system. He suggested today that the town may prepare a booklet to better explain the system to town employees.

Merit System Concerns Manchester Employees

MANCHESTER — Some town employees are concerned that personally and not performance is playing the major role in recent promotions.

Town Manager Robert Weiss, however, feels that such complaints result from a misunderstanding of the town's merit system.

He suggested today that the town may prepare a booklet to better explain the system to town employees.

Town department heads make the final selection for a job opening.

They are given a list of the three applicants who scored highest on a test for the job.

Employees who talked about the matter said to too often the top-scoring candidate is passed over.

One employee said he has had the highest score on an exam but did not obtain the job.

"You ask why you were not chosen. The answer was, 'You were not well-qualified as the person chosen, but ...' They never really had an answer," she said.

She and others said there were several instances they knew of where the high scorer was not selected for the job.

Employees who spoke asked not to be identified. "I think it's personality," one employee said. "I think it's who they like rather than who's the most qualified," she said.

The employees themselves did differ about how the system should work.

If there is an opening in a department, and someone from that department ranks third in the testing, he or she probably will be selected over the two non-department employees, the town workers said.

Some felt this was wrong. "Who's to say that the person who finishes first wouldn't work out just as well?" one employee asked.

Others felt the selection of the present department worker is proper. "If I were a department head and one of the names was from my department, I probably would pick the known quantity," Weiss said.

A department head agreed that there are benefits to selecting the person who already has a "working knowledge" of the department.

The department head also said the town does not do enough recruitment of non-town workers when an opening occurs.

"There's always been a policy to recruit internally. But that's not always fair. The best qualified applicant might be walking down Main Street and has never heard of the Town of Manchester," the department head said.

The act of promotion from within the present group of employees tends to conflict with the idea of a merit system and obtaining the best candidate, he said.

Burnham Resident Says Traffic Effects Ignored

By CHRIS BLAKE Herald Reporter — EAST HARTFORD — A Burnham Street resident claims the town is ignoring the long-range traffic effects of the J.C. Penney catalogue distribution center in Manchester on East Hartford streets.

Richard L. Mouray of 785 Burnham St. said a report prepared by Town Planner John J. Sveno for the Town Council is based on traffic data that's "probably inaccurate" and ignores long-range ramifications.

Shemo will present the report to the council at next Tuesday's meeting. Mouray said he and many other Burnham Street residents will attend to voice their opposition to the report.

"You have to look at the ramifications of the four or five years from now," Mouray said today. "He said there are no clear estimates of how many trucks other than J.C. Penney trucks would use the site and, he said, there is no indication of what route they would use."

Shemo's report estimates the average number of truck movements at 50 per day with a peak of 120 during "the rush season." He estimates "well over 90 percent" of the trucks would use Interstate 86 and avoid Burnham Street entirely.

The report also says about 100 additional vehicles would use Burnham Street in 1980 when the J.C. Penney industrial site opens — a figure which Mouray says is "much too low."

He said Burnham Street is "a straight shot" from the industrial site to Rt. 5 north. Traffic which waits to go through Hart- ford via 148 to 154 and onto 141 north, could instead get to I-81 north by using Rt. 5 to the Bissell Bridge, he said. "Suppose Burnham Street stays open, he said, discounting the possibility that the town might decide the street. Then what happens is the traffic pounds the street to pieces because there's no base under the pavement."

"What happens next? The town decides to repave and widen the road," he said. "If they widen the road to 35 feet (it's about 17 feet wide now), they're about 15 feet from my front door."

Mouray said "the thing that has irritated me, purely aside from our own interests, is the fact that East Hartford apparently hasn't paid any attention to this development and what it means for the town."

He said South Windsor has put up "a good argument" in its contention that residential areas are protected against excessive traffic. "I wish East Hartford showed the same concerns," he said.

Despite Winds of Turmoil Again Yankees' Lifesaver Remains Calm

NEW YORK (UPI) — In spite of the winds of turmoil and potential disaster swirling all around him, New York Yankees' reason-long lifesaver, remains calm.

With the Yankees trailing in the World Series two games to none, his teammates are squabbling again. His manager, reportedly voted only a half-share of the World Series booty, is finding that patience and good fortune can be fleeting. And, his opponents, the Los Angeles Dodgers, are pointing to him and thinking "sweep."

Opposing Guidry for the Dodgers will be rightshander Don Sutton, a formidable veteran of post-season play. Until his loss to Philadelphia in last year's playoffs, Sutton had won five straight post-season games including two in the World Series.

Meanwhile, the Yankees appeared to be seeking their motivation from a familiar source — turmoil. Prior to Wednesday's game, center-fielder Mickey Rivers attempted to bring a relative on the team bus. When Bill Kane, the Yankees' traveling secretary refused him, Rivers began shouting and shouting. Earl Yost Sports Editor — Johnstone First — It took 75 years of World Series play before a Manchester native, long since removed to California in that onetime City of Village Charm, to qualify for the annual October classic by being a member of one of the competing teams.

Johnstone made a major contribution each year with the Phillies but was seen only limited action since joining the Yankees in mid-season. Purchased mainly as a left-handed DH, Johnstone hardly saw any duty in this department and fashioned just one hit in eight official trips for a .125 batting average. He did get in a little playing time in addition in the outfield.

Johnstone acquired a reputation as a "flake" during his career in California with the Angels, and in Philadelphia with the Phillies. His zany doings on and off the field, all in good taste, resulted in as much copy at his .300 batting averages with the Phillies.

Major Test for Steelers Against Browns Sunday

NEW YORK (UPI) — It may be all over but the yawning in the AFC Central Division if the Cleveland Browns can't bring the Pittsburgh Steelers back to earth Sunday.

The Steelers are unbeaten in six games and looking better each week as they continue to make the pre-season punters, who predicted their demise, look foolish. Pittsburgh, 6-0, leads the AFC Central by two games over the 4-2 Browns and they meet this week in Cleveland.

The Browns are seeking sweet revenge after unleashing a barrage of sour grapes three weeks ago, when they dropped a 15-9 overtime decision to the Steelers after a controversial non-fumble call went Pittsburgh's way early in the fifth quarter. Revenge will have to be earned, however.

Pittsburgh has scored the most points (151) and allowed the fewest (63) in all of pro football, and veteran quarterback Terry Bradshaw is enjoying his best season ever. Rated the AFC's No. 1 passer, Bradshaw has reunited with his favorite receiver, Lynn Swann, to form perhaps the league's deadliest aerial combination. Swann leads the conference with 25 touchdowns.

NFL

The Browns counter with a less intimidating, but scarcely less effective defense of their own. Cleveland hasn't allowed an opponent over 16 points this year and the Steelers have to rely on a razzle-dazzle pass to tight end Benny Cunningham to beat the Browns in Pittsburgh.

Shifty Greg Pruitt, who spearheads the Cleveland running game, returns to action against Pittsburgh after being sidelined for four weeks, but Pittsburgh gets Jack Ham back, called "probably the best outside linebacker in pro football," by Cleveland Coach Sam Rutigliano. Bennie Cunningham, who was blossoming into a star, is out for the year after suffering a knee injury in last week's 21-7 triumph over Atlanta, and the Steelers will miss his presence.

Bradshaw is going to find it a little more difficult this time without the big tight end, Rutigliano predicted.

Elsewhere Sunday, Los Angeles is at Minnesota, Washington at Philadelphia, Buffalo at Houston, Kansas City at Oakland, Miami at San Diego, New England at Cincinnati, the New York Jets at Baltimore, Dallas at St. Louis, Detroit at Atlanta, New Orleans at San Francisco, Tampa Bay at the New York Giants and Seattle versus Green Bay at Milwaukee.

Denver hosts Chicago Monday night.

Midget Twinbill

Midget Football League play tonight at Mt. Nebo will find an attractive doubleheader under the lights.

Opening test pits the Eagles against the Giants at 6:30 with the Jets and Chargers in the nighttime. The Patriots will be idle.

Penney Nips Conard To Remain Unbeaten

Grabbing the first three places, Penney High's girls' cross country squad nipped Conard High in a spine-tingling meet yesterday at Penney, 29-30.

Spearheading the ninth straight victory without defeat were Cindy Arico, Cathy Bokjo and Kathy Abbott, who finished in that order wearing Penney colors.

Arico was clocked in 15:03 for the 2.5 course and established a school record set this season.

Bokjo was timed in 15:15 and Abbott 15:16 for Coach Dick Brimley's squad.

The individual winner looms as a strong threat to capture the State Class I title. After each meet must be applied to her knees but she never complains and is always out to improve on her previous efforts.

Coming up Tuesday will be a big test for Penney against Manchester High.

Soccer

Manchester Jayvees Scoring once in each of the last three periods, Manchester High's Jayvee squad blanked Conard's Jayvees yesterday afternoon.

Jim Voland, Matt Maloney and Scott Goehring tallied the goals with Tom McCarthy outstanding in the nets.

Halback line of Scott Lagis, Jeff Daigle and Jeff Michael played well as the locals upped their record to 4-2-1.

Bennet Jayvees Defense dominated play yesterday as the Bennet Jayvees upped their record to 4-1-1 with a 2-1 decision over Vernon.

Tom Finnegan collected both Bennet scores, the first on a penalty kick and the second a blast over the goalie's head 20 seconds later.

Outstanding game was turned in by Bennet goalie Bill Perry who came up with several spectacular saves in the final five minutes to preserve the decision.

Reduce Roster

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors placed forwards Wesley Cox and E.C. Coleman on the injured list, reducing their roster to 11 players.

Coleman has had the flu and Cox has been suffering from "a restrictive pulmonary disease," a spokesman said. He added that Cox has suffered from asthma in the past. Players placed on the injured list must remain there for five games according to NBA rules.

Shumate Injured

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Detroit Pistons forward John Shumate was placed on the injured list because of a bruise on his back sustained during the game with Boston Bruins on Oct. 1-3.

The ECAC decided to keep the tournament here until facilities under construction in Worcester, Mass. and Hartford, Conn. are completed. After that, the tournament will be rotated among the three sites.

Gary Gates Paces Illing To Invitational Triumph

Paced by individual winner Gary Gates, Illing Junior High's cross country squad copped the first annual Columbian Day Invitational meet yesterday in East Hampton with a point total of 24.

The meet was timed at 10:40 for the 8 mile run. Murphy Junior High placed second, Shawn Bennet of Murphy trailed Gates in 10:44.

Other illing runners and their placements and times were: Doug Potter 5th, 11:38; George Cappalia 7th, 11:42; Jim Frallicciardi 8th, 11:44; Paul Fowlis 16th, 12:11; Fred Hughes 20th, 12:23.

There were 11 teams and 77 runners.

The girls' squad placed fifth among nine entries and 63 runners. The placements were: Troy Brown 15th, Ann Pillard 31st, Cheryl Wilson 41st, Marie Boober 44th, Kris Vichi 51st, Felicia Nikowski 52nd and Kathy Reagan 57.

Bennet Junior High took part in a 7th and 8th grade division and gained a third place in the girls' division behind Murphy of Montville and St. Patrick's of Norwich.

The Bennet runners and their places were: Mario Wiatrath 3rd, Maureen Lacy 8th, Beth White 11th, Brenda Allou 13th, Sharon Luzzi 19th.

Whalers Sign Warner, Farm To Springfield

HARTFORD (UPI) — The New England Whalers have signed right wing Jim Warner, 23, a rookie from Colorado College.

Jack Kelley, the Whalers' director of hockey operations, said Thursday that Warner has been assigned to the Whalers' American Hockey League affiliate, the Springfield Indians.

"Jim is a complete hockey player who does a lot of things right," Whalers Coach Bill Dineen said Thursday. "He plays the full range of positional hockey and goal defensively."

Warner, a native of St. Paul, Minn., played for the U.S. National Team in 1975, 1976 and 1978.

76ers Ship Free to San Diego

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — After much haggling, the Philadelphia 76ers decided to send Lloyd Free to San Diego in return for the Clippers' first-round draft choice in 1984.

The trade, which resolved the extra guard problem, reduced the 76ers roster to the NBA limit of 11 players in time for tonight's season opener against the Los Angeles Lakers.

Free is scheduled to report to the Phoenix where San Diego tonight opens its first season.

The 24-year-old Free was batting for the Sixers' fourth guard spot with veterans Ralph Sampson, obtained from Denver in the trade of George McGinnis.

The bone felled her as she nibbled at fried chicken in the kitchen at a political dinner. Says Warner campaign aide Bill Kline, "She is in good spirits and is under the care of several doctors who were
