Carter Signs Reforms Act

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter made good on his No. 1 campaign promise Friday, signing into law the Civil Service Reform Act and calling it "the first major change of the civil service in nearly a century."

In a ceremony in the White House, Carter said he had made federal reorganization and reform the top priority in his presidential campaign. "This monumental civil service reform bill takes a long step toward meeting that pledge to the American people," said Carter. "This legislation provides a fundamental, and I think long overdue, reform of the federal bureaucracy."

The civil service system, and the ponderous bureaucracy it spawned, was set up 85 years ago to end the widespread turnover of federal employees that accompanied each new administration.

The new law covers 2.1 million civil servants and makes it easier to fire rude and incompetent workers while rewarding those who do their jobs well. It creates a senior executive service comprising 9,000 top-level managers who can be moved among agencies and be given pay increases or demotions based solely on performance.

The bill also protects "whistleblowers" who try to stop mismanagement and waste. It makes limited inroads into veterans hiring by repealing the preference for retired military officers and prevents "double-dippers," those with more than one federal income, from drawing more than $47,500 from the government.

In another workers' reform, the Senate and House voted early Friday to approve Carter's reorganization plan No. 4 clearly defining the administration of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act that sets standards for more than 1.76 million private-pension and employee-benefit plans.

Mackinnon Charges Campaign Violation

PLAINVILLE (UPI) — Daniel Mackinnon, the Republican candidate in the 6th District Congressional race, Friday claimed a brochure promoting the candidacies of opponent Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., and Gov. Ella T. Grasso violates election laws.

Mackinnon said the campaign brochure, titled "The Moffett Record," indicates it was paid for and mailed by the "Citizens for Moffett," a federal campaign committee.

"The brochure is a clear violation of the election laws," he said. Mackinnon said the back page of the brochure promotes the defeat of Rep. Ronald Sarasin as the Republican candidate for governor and as such, advocates the candidacy of Mrs. Grasso, the Democratic candidate.

Mackinnon said Connecticut law prohibits a committee for a candidate for federal office from spending money on behalf of another candidate.

He asked state Republican Chairman Frederick K. Biebel to file a formal complaint charging both the Grasso Campaign Committee and the Moffett Federal Campaign Committee with violations of the Connecticut election finance laws.

Swindle Suspected In Sub Theft Plan

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — An FBI agent testified Friday he suspected a plot to steal the nuclear submarine Trepang from its berth in New London, Conn., may have been a scheme to swindle a businessman out of $300,000 in front money.

But the agent, Michael Haggard, said because there was no hard evidence to support his theory, the government pursued the case as an actual threat to pirate the 292-foot vessel.

Haggard was the only witness to testify at evidence hearings before U.S. Magistrate David D. Nove. At the end of the court sessions Nove transferred to a federal grand jury the cases of two suspects, Edward J. Mendenhall and Kurtis J. Schmidt. Nove set hearings for both men for Oct. 23 before U.S. District Judge John F. Nangle.

Mendenhall, 24, of Rochester, N.Y., and Schmidt, 22, of Kansas City, Kan., are charged with conspiring to steal the Trepang. Both were arrested Oct. 4 at a downtown hotel after a meeting with an undercover FBI agent posing as a potential buyer for the submarine.

A third suspect, James W. Cosgrove, 26, was arrested on the conspiracy charge the same night at his home in Geneva, N.Y. At a hearing Friday in Rochester Cosgrove's attorney waived the right to a removal hearing, clearing the way for Cosgrove's extradition to St. Louis.

Secret Sessions Speed Up Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secret negotiations behind closed doors Friday produced a major breakthrough on two key bills — energy and jobs — increasing chances that the 96th Congress will adjourn on target Saturday night.

And negotiators on the tax bill, which congressional leaders agreed must pass before adjournment, continued trying to hammer out a compromise with reports of some progress.

Speaker Thomas O'Neill and Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd radiated a cautious optimism that despite the potential roadblocks ahead and a huge backlog of bills, Congress would adjourn late Saturday night or in the early morning hours of Sunday.

Byrd told reporters at the start of the day's session, which began at 9 a.m., only eight hours after the close of Thursday's activities, that "chances are still good" Congress will meet the adjournment target.

With the crucial decisions being made off the floor, the Senate and House moved into high gear, rapidly drafting large numbers of bills that were either non-controversial or considered minor.

One of them was the $9.2 billion foreign aid appropriations bill, which barely survived in the House Thursday night when congressmen vented their ire at the veto by President Carter of the public works bill.

After three days of meetings in Byrd's office — close by the Senate chamber — an "ad hoc committee" finally reached a breakthrough on the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill.

The bill — rated "must" legislation by Carter, black leaders and labor — sets a goal of 4 percent unemployment by 1983 with the federal government the employer of last resort.

The breakthrough permitted the Senate to reach a time agreement on the bill, avoid a debate-limiting closure vote and a possible filibuster.

House members, who want to vote separately on the natural gas pricing provision, plan to challenge the rule on the floor.

At the same time, Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., playing his maverick role to the end, refused to stop blocking the only part of the energy package that the Senate has not passed — the energy tax provisions. An attempt was scheduled for Saturday to cut him off with a cloture vote.

Wilson Reprimanded Over Korean's Gift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Friday to reprimand Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., for his failure to disclose a $1,000 wedding gift from Korean rice merchant Tongson Park.

The vote was 328-41, with 29 voting present.

The chamber then moved to consider the House ethics committee's recommendation of a similar writ of reprimand for Rep. John McFall, D-Calif., and a more serious censure against Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., to wind up the Korean influence-buycing case.

Debate on the disciplinary sanctions made it clear there was considerable controversy in the House about the whole Korean probe. Some members said it was a whitewash; others that it was discriminatory; and still others that the whole investigation was an over-reaction to irresponsible charges in the news.

Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., a black, said Wilson and McFall, who are white, "stand for a slap on the wrist" but "one of our brown colleagues" — the Hispanic Roybal — "stands to be totally wiped out" with the more serious censure recommendation.

Wilson was cited by the committee for his failure to reveal a $1,000 cash wedding present he received from Park when he responded to a committee questionnaire.

Wilson, his voice breaking at times, said he believed his action was an "innocent mistake" and "inadvertent." But he said he would not protest the finding because he hoped it would provide "some teaching, some lesson" for future House members.

Neither a censure nor a reprimand affects a member's voting rights but the stigma of censure is considered far worse.

Wilson was cited by the committee for his failure to reveal a $1,000 cash wedding present he received from Park when he responded to a committee questionnaire.

U.S. Jury Convicts Soviets of Spying

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Two Soviet citizens employed by the United Nations were convicted Friday of buying American defense secrets from a U.S. Navy officer who worked as a double agent.

A jury of eight men and four women found Valdis Enger, 39, and Rudolf Chernyayev, 43, guilty of espionage charges after deliberating for eight hours.

The two men were charged with paying the officer more than $20,000 in exchange for defense secrets dropped at spots along New Jersey's toll roads.

The U.S. government claimed the two men were spies who were under orders to pass "secrets vital to America's defense" to their homeland.

The case posed a delicate diplomatic problem for U.S. officials. The defendants were released in the custody of the Soviet ambassador, who assured the government the defendants would not leave the country.

In addition, the trial was postponed for two weeks so it would not embarrass Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who addressed the trial last month.

Two officials with the Soviet consulate who sat through the trial claimed it was a frame-up designed to polish the FBI's tarnished reputation.

"The whole case was initiated, conducted and orchestrated by the FBI. In spite of everything employed by the FBI, they did not have direct evidence, said one official.

During the 10-day trial, Lindberg, who posed as a traitor, testified he infiltrated a network of spies after he took a cruise on a Russian ship.

For nine months, Lindberg said he passed documents for cash at clandestine meetings set up by a man with a foreign accent who identified himself only as "Jim."

The government played tapes of Lindberg as he received orders for documents at public telephone booths. An FBI agent said the voice was that of the defendant Enger.

Your neighbors' views: Can the Yankees still win the World Series?

Julie Sherman, Adams Street, Manchester — "Of course I think they can. I hope so. I really love the Yankees."
Sean Piendel, 22 Warranoke Road, Manchester — "No, I think the Dodgers are better. I've always hated the Yankees."
Pat Cottle, 17 Grandview St., Manchester — "I hope not. I'm a Red Sox fan."
Leo Poudrier, 15 Candlewood Drive, Manchester — "I hope they will, but I have my doubts. Los Angeles has got a stronger team."
Hardy Sawyer, 35 Bishop St., Manchester — "No, I think the Dodgers are going to take it this year. The Yankees have won enough."
Ron Robison, 37 Pearl St., Manchester — "No way. The Dodgers are too good, and Jim Gilliam died, so it gives the Dodgers a better reason to win."

That's Entertainment

By Allen M. Widem

The so-called cynicism supposedly pervading American print journalism is, in truth, negligible when it comes to the quality of the product, even in which its practitioners have out-and-out scorn for the fatalities, detouring for tongue-in-cheek Doc Gooden, and, yes, unending respect for those who would go the extra mile, help the other fellow, amid mankind.

Ernie Pyle understood this in World War II. Mayer Berg's in World Times pieces of life in the steel canyons of America's greatest city were masterpieces of print journalism.

Those constant critics of American print journalism are all too quick to shout, yeah, we had Pyle, we had Berg, who do we have now? And any working journalist, from Manchester to Memphis, from Boston to Berkeley, who reads the craft's essence — is still very much evident. Television viewed broadcast journalism, has its own breed of "superstars" — and, please, I'm not on a soapbox tirade against Cronkite, et al. — as so readily proved in the fleeting fifties and soaring sixties. But, mind you, television programming is primarily concerned with the entertainment; news content, a la "60 Minutes," takes a back seat schedule-wise, to the "sitcoms," the musical spectacles, the hours-long "mini" dramatic series.

A newspaper folds, goes down the drain — in Hartford, New York, Houston, Chicago, and journalism's little brother, television, with its instant taping, comes up with its unapologetic shrugging "We told you so!" Rebuttal never achieves the stature, the very significance of initial impact. The more glibly viewer sits back and product, getting justified responses.

If the Globe had flourished a generation ago, if the Evening Herald had flourished a generation ago, paying little attention to the need for constantly improving, upgrading, these two, too, might have followed the Hartford Times, the New York World-Telegram & Sun, the Houston Press, the Chicago Daily News.

The people concerned with day-to-day news operations of progressive-minded print journalism across America are dedicated — far beyond the obviously surface coverage approach of television newscasting. People in Connecticut and elsewhere want their complete home-town news, their regular column features, their coming-together of all "packaged" brightly, compactly. The newspaper watching the store, in effect, doing its job today a little bit less than yesterday, will be around for a long time.

Let not print people, newspaper people, get disheartened with the barrage of television supersaturating gazings into a camera with headline-commanding news bits, sidestepping the essence, very substance, of stories.

Only the newspapers can wrap up an in-depth story with incisiveness, constantly, continually. Those in the journalism business since 1978 are as enthused as their counterparts groups of years ago.

The detractors, the critics, should accept, nay, embrace the daily newspaper people turning out millions of words every working day, with imagination, with verve, with vitality. Journalism, print journalism, would have it no other way!

Many ministers are ardent followers of Isaac Walton and every chance offered they rush to the lake or river or ocean. One Vermont ladke was fishing near a bridge.

Thought

In "The Living Bible" we read in Hebrews 9:24-28 about man's best friend... "For Christ has entered into heaven itself, to appear now before God as our Friend. It was not once but many times that he offered himself as a sacrifice for the sins of many people, and he will come again, but not to deal again with our sins."

The Press Takes Its Lumps!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK
The American press, as such diverse fellows as Richard Nixon and Bert Lance will tell you, is famed for distorting it. We are not so widely accused of "making it up." But when a few hard lumps come our way, we ought in good conscience to acknowledge the thumping and venture some modest reply.

In the current issue of the Atlantic, Louis Banks gives the press whif-for-percentage in the Feb. 15 issue of Modern Medicine. Dr. Michael J. Halberstam lashes at with his cane. They make substantially the same charge, that once the press gets beyond routine reporting, much of our coverage is ignorant, biased, unfair, imbalanced, or all of the above.

It is not news, alas, when one million automobiles perform satisfactorily; it is news when ten thousand are recalled. It is not news when Kodak names a vice president; it is news when Kodak gets hit with an anti-trust judgment. It is not news when a surgeon performs a thousand successful operations; it is news when he leaves a saw inside. And so on. Yes, we ought to cover more of the "triumphs and advances," and in point of fact much coverage is indeed devoted to the good things. But news is news.

DEAR ABBY: Jim and I have been married for over 40 years. We are both in our late 60s and still love each other deeply. However, due to Jim's impotence, we have not been sexually active for at least three years. This has not altered our relationship one iota. We still have a wonderful marriage and don't feel necessarily deprived.

November Voting Expected to be Light

A record 15 million Americans will have reached voting age by the time of the Nov. 7 mid-term elections. But less than half that number will take part in the balloting for 35 senators, 36 governors, 438 members of the House of Representatives and thousands of state and local officials.

presidential and mid-term elections has been falling since the early 1960s. As a result, many political observers predict this year's turnout will again sink below 40 percent and may reach a post-World War II low.

Social Security: Public Financing For Human Needs

Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Taxation: Myths and Realities." This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Taxation

Each year 1.5 million workers in the United States retire and start collecting monthly checks from the Social Security Administration. In 1977, Social Security dispensed almost $87 billion in benefits to the retired, the disabled, and their dependents and survivors.

government's power of taxation assures that all future obligations will be met, a trust fund balance equal to one year's benefits is usually considered an adequate reserve.

The Payroll Tax

In 1978, the payroll tax amounted to 12.1 percent of the $17,700 of each worker's wages, with the employer and the employee each paying half. Recent legislation dramatically increased the wage base from the current $17,700 to $29,700 in 1981, after which time the tax will be automatically raised each year by the same percentage as the increase in average wages.

Some believe that the payroll tax is excessively burdensome on low-income workers, whose entire salary falls within the maximum taxable limit ($17,700 in 1978).

Others argue that the current Social Security program combines two goals: wage-related benefits and non-wage-related welfare payments.

Facing the Future

Costs for the next 25 years are manageable, but serious financial problems will face Social Security after the turn of century. The recent and continuing decline in the fertility rate will have a dramatic impact on the ratio of Old Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance (OASDI) beneficiaries to the number of workers covered by the program.

After all, they argue, why should a young worker earning only $10,000 a year pay a payroll tax to support welfare payments for an elderly person who may never have contributed a dime to Social Security?

Whether payroll tax ought to remain the sole source of Social Security financing or whether other forms of revenue should be added depends on one's view of the role of Social Security. Observers who view Social Security as a compulsory lifetime ratio implies an inevitable matching increase in taxes.

If Social Security continues to be financed exclusively by payroll taxes, expenditures for OASDI will rise to 18 percent of taxable payrolls in 2025, with Medicare requiring another 8 percent. These high taxes are unavoidable if the current ratio of benefits to pre-retirement earnings is maintained and 65 remains the age of eligibility for full retirement benefits.

However, improvement in health and life expectancy of the aged and the projected decline in the population of working age between 2015 and 2035 may lead to pressure to postpone retirement age to, perhaps, 68. This would substantially reduce costs.

The high costs associated with the current system of financing in the face of population shifts have rekindled discussion about moving Social Security from pay-as-you-go to a funded basis.

It makes a little sense to ask the current generation of low and middle income workers to contribute not only for their own retirement but also, in effect, for that first generation of retirees.

Therefore, the Social Security program will probably continue to be financed on a pay-as-you-go basis, as people from the post-war baby boom retire, however, a choice will have to be made: whether to endure payroll taxes of 18 percent for old age and disability benefits; reduce costs by lowering benefits or extending the retirement age; or add other sources of revenue.

Mass. Police said Siskotos tried to enter the massage parlor while the arrests were in progress and was turned away by one of the Body Shop employees.

Arrested were the manager and a masseuse at the Body Shop, 525 Main St. in a joint investigation by the patrol and detective divisions.

Tony M. Bernant, 36, of 25 Bretton Road, West Hartford, the manager of the Body Shop, was charged with permitting a massage without a permit.

Detective Captain Joseph Brooks said the employees and employees at Cleopatras did not commit any violations of the law and the investigation ended there Friday night.

The question of the effective date for the new ordinance has been disputed recently, but the message parlors were given the benefit of some earlier agreements with the town health officials which made Friday the first effective date, according to a ruling by Town Counsel, David Barry.

Town Director Vivian Ferguson, originator of the ordinance, complained earlier this week that little had been done to put it into effect.

Another arrest was made in connection with an incident which occurred in front of the Body Shop while the two arrests were in process. Journal Inquirer photographer Carmine Filoroma was struck by a car driven by Michael N. Siskotos, 43, of Dedham,

Candidates Woo Retirees' Vote

By CHARLIE MAYNARD Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — Just two days before their campaign moves in front of the television cameras, third senatorial district candidates Esther Clarke and Marcella Fahey pitched for votes from the Hockanum Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons Friday afternoon at the South Congregational Church.

Mrs. Clarke, the Republican, and Mrs. Fahey, the Democrat, will square off again in a live televised debate Sunday at noon on Channel 8, WTNH-TV New Haven. They will answer questions from a panel including the network's moderator and a representative from the League of Women Voters.

The two spent nearly half an hour collectively espousing their concern for the elderly. Mrs. Clarke said she would seek to eliminate the sales tax on burial items while Mrs. Fahey favored dropping the tax on clothing.

Mrs. Fahey defended her stance by saying she would support any act prohibiting the state from issuing a mandatory imprisonment for assaults on senior citizens and Mrs. Clarke said she would try to extend the emergency medical services to the state if elected.

Both ended their brief remarks with pledges of service to the elderly if elected to the senate seat which comprises all of East Hartford and half of Manchester.

"I want to go to the Senate. I want to continue working for you," said Mrs. Clarke. "As humbly as I can say it, I feel I'm qualified for the job."

Mrs. Fahey said, "I will not be up there deciding what you want. I want you to tell me what you need and I will do my damnest to get the legislation passed."

The only break from the routine came during the question and answer period when Mrs. Fahey was again queried on her support for gay rights, an issue her Republican opponent has hit her on during the campaign.

Mrs. Fahey bristled when the question was asked and charged that it was planted by the opposition. "Everywhere I go, that question is always brought up."

Mrs. Clarke shook her head while her Democratic opponent was speaking and later denied the charges that the question was planted.

At the end of the meeting, Edith Carlson, the chapter's vice-president said, "In all fairness, it should be noted that there were no questions planted here today. If there were, we could lose our charter."

Mrs. Fahey said she did not consider her support of the 1977 bill as a big issue and said there were other issues "we have to be working on."

Both candidates said they have planned heavy weekend campaigning before their televised debate. The two are vying for the seat vacated when Mrs. Fahey defeated George Hannon in the Democratic primary in MAY.

Judy O'Connor and Querida prepare for a romp in the yard.

The latest addition to the O'Connor family is a female named "Querida."

We also have a nine-year-old Norwegian Elk Hound named Katrina and she gets along fine with each new puppy. Oh, when I first bring a new home, she barks and scolds me for having her privacy invaded, but she really is a help in training the puppy.

"Outdoors, she barks at 'Querida' if she starts to stray out of the yard. They more or less pick their own territories in the house and are careful not to infringe on each others property."

The O'Connor's four children, Judy, 12, Jo Ann, 15, Jerry, 17, and Jeffrey, 10, all help in training the dogs and proudly display photos of others they have had, "Ellie," "Xintra," "George Girl."

The building, which is 165 years old, was originally the office building for one of the town's many mills but from 1894 to 1964 it was the Town Hall.

A cozy cocktail area nestles in a corner where the town vault used to be. The ladies room was where the health officer's office was and bears the plaque stating that, and the men's room next door has the plaque stating it was the tax collector and assessor's office.

Outside hangs the original Bidwell Tavern sign. The original Bidwell Tavern sign (hotel) was the main stopping point between Hartford and Norwich, Goodin said.

He has really gone into the history of the town and it is all laid out on the walls of the tavern. With the help of John Hetzel of the Coventry Historical Society, Goodin gathered many old pictures and had them blown up and framed.

In the early 1800s Coventry was a mill town, with a variety of about 30 mills flourishing along the Mill Brook which flows through the tavern property. Goodin had a "kissing bridge" built over the brook.

The factories manufactured ammunition, silk, caskets, yarns, eyeglass lenses, wool, wagons, harnesses, carriages, paper and such. The only major factory left is across the street from the tavern where surgical sutures, used in major operations, are manufactured.

Family Raises Puppies For Blind, Police Work

By BETTY RYDER Life/Style Editor

Graduation day is a special day for every family but when the graduate is a German Shepherd and her alma mater is the Second Sight Foundation in Long Island, N.Y., graduation day is especially exciting.

Janet and Jim O'Connor of 63 Wyandring Hill Road and their four children are currently training their fourth puppy, who, when she is 14-months-old will be sent to either the Second Sight Foundation or the Seeing Eye School in New Jersey.

The O'Connors read about a "foster parent" program for German Shepherds about four years ago. "We contacted Fideleo Foundation in Bloomfield, which is operated by Charles Kaman (he's president of Kaman Aircraft) and his wife, Roberta. The Kaman's have been involved in breeding the dogs for 20 years," Janet said.

Roberta and her husband and a small group of others became interested in breeding the puppies and began importing them from Germany.

"All in all, we handle between 50 and 70 dogs a year and during our 20 years have provided more than 1,000 dogs for the use of the blind," she said.

"When our dogs have litters we try to find foster homes for the pups from 4 months to 14 months at which time we evaluate whether they are of the proper temperament and disposition to be trained as seeing-eye or police dogs," Roberta said.

"For us, it's a family project. And we've been fortunate because over 50 percent of our foster families are repeaters like the O'Connors."

The latest addition to the O'Connor family is a female named "Querida."

"People interested in raising a pup should have a fenced-in yard," Janet said. "It makes the dogs very nervous to be chained and the booklet stresses the need to let them be free. However, they do not have to roam as in a common belief. They are content to be in enclosure such as a fenced-in yard. Evidently, it's the feeling of being helpless when chained that causes them to bark and become nervous."

Females are used for seeing eye dogs, after they are spayed. "The male dogs are too macho," she said.

"For a blind person to purchase a seeing-eye dog from one of the schools it costs $150. In reality, the entire breeding, and training program costs $2,000," Janet said.

If anyone is interested in learning more about the program, they may contact me at 643-7432, or Roberta at 877-1590, or write to Fideleo Foundation, Box 142, Bloomfield, Conn."

They are named alphabetically according to the litter," Judy said. "They are rambunctious. Janet admits, but smiles when she recalls, 'I raised four children—now we're on our fourth puppy.'

Diet is important to the well-being of the dogs, and Janet said they are fed dry meal, raw meat (organs) and a coat conditioner. "I obtain the organ meat from Copaco in Bloomfield for 39 cents a pound. 'Querida' at her age, eats three times a day."

A booklet provided by Fideleo informs prospective foster parents about the care needed in raising the dogs.

The big important news for this week is about the flu shots here at the center on Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The next bit of news is that our three buses will be leaving our center at 9 a.m. Thursday for our foliage trip. We won't be seeing the real colorful foliage because it's a little late, however, there will be some around and will make for a nice trip.

Speaking of trips, the Penn-Dutch trip is only a couple of weeks away and this one is scheduled to leave at 7 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 17, at 12:30 a.m. at the Mayfair Gardens and at Westhill Gardens at 2:30 p.m. Then on the 18th at Squire Village at 1 p.m. and at 2:30 p.m. at the new home on Spencer Street. Donations of $1 will be accepted.

On Thursday, because some 135 members will be on the foliage trip, we will be serving a light lunch, and then in the afternoon we'll play a little bingo if we have enough players.

Difficult Road Ahead For Unbeaten Elevens

NEW YORK (UPI) — It might be asking a bit too much to expect the NFL's three unbeaten teams to make it seven straight this week. After rather soft touches last week, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles and Washington are all on the road against difficult opponents Sunday.

The Steelers will be in Cleveland for a rematch of the overtime game won by Pittsburgh, 15-9, three weeks ago. In that one, the Steelers needed one last-minute field goal to win.

The Browns, 4-2, need a victory Sunday to prevent the Steelers from pulling too far ahead in the AFC Central race. A key or the Browns could be their running back Greg Pruitt.

The Steelers have all-Pro linebacker Jack Ham but tight end Bennie Cunningham, who caught the winning five-flicker touchdown pass from Terry Bradshaw in the first Cleveland game, is out six weeks with a knee injury.

For the record, Mel Siebold received clearance from the Board of Directors and Town Manager Boyd Weiss before accepting the position as boys' swimming coach at Manchester High.

Yankees Win Behind Guidry

NEW YORK — Although he wasn't as sharp as usual, 25-game winner Ron Guidry righted the reeling New York Yankee ship and pitched the American League champions back into the 1978 World Series.

Before a sellout crowd last night at Yankee Stadium, Guidry survived several hectic moments, including two bases-loaded situations, to stop the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-1, allowing eight hits.

Game No. 4 will be this afternoon at 3:30 at New York with the Dodgers' margin cut to one game, 2-1, in the best of seven set.

Guidry's performance was a surprise. He had pitched only three games since his last start on Sept. 24, and he had been out of the rotation for almost a month.

Guidry pitched seven innings, allowing two runs, one earned, and striking out 10 batters. He was aided by a strong performance from his bullpen.

Third Straight Victory For Cheney Booters

Eye for the Ball

Cheney's Doug Landry and Bolton's Marty Ferguson eye ball and bump while trying to gain control in yesterday's soccer game at Cheney Tech.

The lone goal for the second straight tilt came off the foot of Mike Gagner at the 30-minute mark of the second half. Gagner blasted a 12-yard drive off a Bolton fullback into the net past Bulldog keeper Jeff Beecher.

Park Injured, To Miss Play

Park will miss at least two games due to the painful knee. He will not play with the team to Pittsburgh where the Bruins take the Penguins Saturday night. Park will not be in uniform for the Bruins' game against the Toronto Maple Leafs at Boston Garden Sunday.

"It's the injury of my right knee that is the concern," Bruins General Manager Harry Sinden said Friday.

"As soon as Brad told us he was having trouble with the knee, we had him to have it checked out immediately."

Sinden said the Bruins will give five defencemen during Park's absence rather than call up a replacement from their Rochester team.

SOLUTION

Action & Adventure

Falling into a neck-deep mud hole or avoiding the lethal hit of a spitting cobra is not anyone's idea of "the good life," but it's all in a day's work for the crew of "Studio See," public television's exciting Saturday magazine for family viewing.

Producer Jayne Adair created this lively series three years ago at the South Carolina Educational Television Network with the purpose of providing an action-packed program with interest for the entire family.

"The Saturday morning cartoon block is a ghetto that isolates kid viewers from the rest of the family," claims Adair, who believes successful programming for children should be more varied than the present commercial schedule:

"Kids are the most challenging audience the media has today. They are so media-wise that they won't spend their time watching anything other than the most action-packed, professionally produced shows."

These ideas have produced a series of real life adventures taped on location all over the United States. Features spotlight gutsy subjects like a behind-the-scenes look at television violence, the response of a New England community to juvenile delinquency problems, and an ecology trip down the Hudson River on board folk singer Peter Seeger's sloop, The Clearwater.

This sampling of teen interests and activities offers no consistent "star" or program "host," but focuses attention on the real kids who are the subjects of the feature stories.

"This is a grass-roots program," comments Adair. "A 'star' only makes the viewer more aware of the distance between himself and whom-ever he's watching. We are attempting to honestly present a world and people that kids can relate to ... people like the viewers themselves."

"We figure that if we're ever bored, that will be the time to stop production," Adair comments, "and from the looks of the schedule, that's not likely to happen."

BLOOD RELATION - I have seen the first show of "Mork & Mindy." Robin Williams is terrific as Mork. Is he any relation to Anson Williams and/or Cindy Williams? - Cindy Dauer, Farmingdale, N.J.

Since Robin Williams, as Mork, is only visiting earth from his home in a distant galaxy, how could he be related to mere earthlings such as Anson and Cindy Williams? Seriously, Robin was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, and moved to the U.S. at the age of one. He's no relation to Bronx-born Cindy Williams or Los Angeles-born Anson, whose original name, by the way, is Heimlick, not Williams.

RISEING STAR - I watch "Happy Days" a lot, and I really think that Scott Baio (Chachi) is a really good actor. Could you give me some information on him and where I could write to him? - C.M., Buffalo, N.Y.

You're 100 percent right, Scott Baio is an excellent actor. In fact, he's so good that NBC gave him a lead role on their new situation comedy "Who's Watching the Kids." Scott plays Frankie Vitola, a 16-year-old, streetwise denizen of Las Vegas. He's pleased with the new role because it gives him more acting opportunities. You can write to this rising star at NBC-TV, 3000 West Alameda Ave, Burbank, Calif. 91523.

CB Convac

Clive Veri, dean of the Northern Illinois College of Continuing Education, in DeKalb, wants to use CB to teach history.

That's a little simplistic because Veri's plan, which has been submitted to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) and the National Endowment of the Humanities (NEH), encompasses knitting together a network of community colleges across the country with functioning base stations. These bases would work to extend the role of historical markers on the highways and in the communities by informing the passing traffic of the events that took place there.

Clive is a CBER whose handle is the "Mean Dean." He has become enthralled with the potential of CB to inform.

"Inform is a better term than teach or educate," he said. "HEW specifically states that resource sharing between a senior university and a network of community colleges to expand continuing education opportunities is an important objective. NEH wants to extend an understanding of the humanities to the population at large. My plan will aim at these goals. That's why I have selected citizens band radio for the test."

Clive will set out to teach personnel at 100 community colleges across the country how to use CB as an effective system for delivering information to the traveling public.

For his pilot program he wants to set up six base stations at each of five community colleges in Northern Illinois. The colleges would supervise development of an effective technique for advising travelers of the history of the surrounding communities.

Ultimately, Clive wants to extend the plan to 80 community colleges. Each would teach 10 other institutions how to use the system until there were as many as 800 community colleges and educational institutions involved — operating a network of 4,800 base stations. "It should be like tossing a pebble into a pool," he explains. "The ripples will flow out from the center. History will come alive to truckers, vacationing families, senior citizen retirees, traveling businessmen and women, all sorts of people who pass the historical markers without a glance."

Clive feels there is a genuine need for complementing the work of the Department of the Interior, which is responsible for the historical markers that are placed alongside roads and highways. In his opinion these are superb, but they don't go as far as they might if electronics were added.

"There's an incredible wealth of information that can be passed along to the traveler, and not only enlighten him, but add a joyment to a trip that can otherwise grow dull," he says. "There is a need. I challenge you to discuss it with your friends and see how they greet the idea of such a network operating throughout the country."

HEARING AID? - I am a big fan of Lou Ferrigno of "The Incredible Hulk." I have heard rumors that he is unable to hear or speak. I find this hard to believe. Please satisfy my curiosity. I hope it isn't true. - S. Harvey, Bruno, W.Va.

Lou Ferrigno, Bill Bixby's beastial other self on "The Incredible Hulk" suffers from a hearing impediment, which, in turn, has effected his speaking voice.

A capsule look at cinema

NEW RELEASES

SOMEBODY KILLED HER HUSBAND (PG) — Farrah Fawcett-Majors, Jeff Bridges. Romantic thriller. Farrah, in her first film since "Charlie's Angels," had the good sense to pick a solid script done with class by good people. She plays an unhappy wife who finds happiness with a department store toy salesman, and then her husband is done in. It builds nicely and has some surprises en route. GRADE: B.

WHO IS KILLING THE GREAT CHEFS OF EUROPE? (PG) — George Segal, Jacqueline Bisset. Comedy-mystery. Against a background of Europe and, especially, great European restaurants, there is a murderer at large. This works very hard — perhaps too hard — to be cute and amusing as it toddles along. The recipe badly needs a pinch of calmness, because it is too contrived. GRADE: B.

GENERAL RELEASE

BLOODBROTHERS (R) — Paul Sorvino, Tony Lo Bianco, Richard Gere. Drama. Confused Bronx youth squares off against his Italian family-machismo code. Decent, sensitive story and fine performances are marred by a heavy touch and immature resolution. Should have had the once over from a pair of shears. But well worth a look. Caution: strong language, some violence. GRADE: B. (Handler)

THE BOYS FROM BRAZIL (R) — Gregory Peck, Laurence Olivier. Thriller. From Ira Levin's gripping novel, this deals with some scientific dirty work the left-over Nazis are up to in South America — including murders all over the world. It works out to be a very nasty plot, but scary. The cast all use different accents, which is disconcerting, but it will keep you watching. Caution: It gets pretty bloody at the end. GRADE: B-plus.

SMOTHERING THE ACT — The famous duo reunited in Broadway's "I Love My Wife," but the Smothers Brothers "act" stays shelved. "We decided to put away the string and bass," says Tom (right) in Oct. 17th's US magazine, "and never pick them up again." In their current stage hit, though, the characters seem familiar: Dick plays the pseudosophisticate to Tom's lovable dolt in the musical about would-be wife-swapping.

You light up my life

Nowadays Saturday night probably finds you "turning on" to the latest disco beat. The phrase may take on a new meaning within a few months when "body lighting" hits the disco scene.

The brainchild of Disco Lite Co. of New York, body lighting is a complete line of clothing designed for the disco dancer. Each piece comes with its own lights sewn into it.

Hot fashion: Body lighting

"The idea is to turn the wearer into a walking light show," says company president Alex Cavallari in September's Billboard magazine.

The initial line will feature bow ties, belts, handbags and slacks studded with multi-colored light emitting diodes (LEDs) and powered by a small camera battery, concealed in the outfit.

Begun as a customizing business, Cavallari's company turned to mass production because of enthusiastic consumer response to the idea.

With body lighting and a portable radio, you can transform yourself into a one-person discotheque.

DAYS OF HEAVEN (R) — Richard Gere, Brooke Adams, Sam Shepard and Linda Manz. Drama. Terrence ('Badlands') Malick's stark, impressionistic story of the relationship between a trio of itinerants and a prosperous but doomed Texas panhandle wheat farmer, circa 1916. Lovely to look at, difficult to become involved with. Not at all the usual fare, which makes it worth a look for buffs, even if it isn't wholly successful. GRADE: B-plus. (Handler)

DEATH ON THE NILE (PG) — Peter Ustinov, David Niven, Bette Davis, Mia Farrow, etc. Mystery. Agatha Christie's dandy puzzler turned into a classy murder mystery. A much-bated heiress is done in aboard a Nile cruise ship and Hercule Poirot tries to find whodunit. More red herrings than you'll find at a Moscow smorgasbord, and an all-star cast to bring them to life. GRADE: A-minus.

INTERIORS (PG) — F.C. Marshall, Geraldine Page, Maureen Stapleton, Diane Keaton. Drama. Woody Allen wrote and directed this, but don't expect humor. It's very serious — and very good, if you can take the heaviness. It's the story of a family full of hidden (and not-so-hidden) problems and emotional traumas. Beautifully photographed and acted, but dark and somber. GRADE: A-minus.

WEDDING, A (PG) — Carol Burnett, Geraldine Chaplin, Deal Arnaz Jr., Mia Farrow, etc., etc. Comedy-drama. Robert Altman's long-awaited analysis of a wedding proves to be just that — he dissects the bridal party brutally. Some of it is devastating but it all lacks a focus and, unfortunately, starts nowhere and leads to nothing. GRADE: C-plus.
