

Get an Eye Exam: Good Specs Offer Clear Outlook

By HAROLD BLUMENFELD
Nearly all Americans over 40 have vision problems in need of professional care, says the American Optometric Association. Inability to see well often prevents older people from doing what they want to do.

When the lens segments are properly placed, the wearer should be able to see clearly and comfortably at most distances. The first step in getting multi-focal lenses is to have a complete vision examination. The exam should include: — A complete review of your medical history, including the health of your eyes. — An examination of the exterior and interior of the eye for symptoms of eye disease or general health problems. For instance, signs of diabetes may cautions the American Optometric Association. Not only must such people be concerned with getting the right lens prescription, but they must also be certain the different prescriptions are positioned properly within the lenses. Improperly placed lens segments can make seeing difficult; that's why bifocal or multi-focal wearers complain about their glasses. Poor placement of lens segments can even result in accidents, especially when walking, ascending or descending stairs or driving.

Test to determine nearsightedness, farsightedness or astigmatism. All are common problems that can blur vision and make eyes work overtime. — A check of eye coordination and eye muscle function to insure that eyes are working together as a team. — A test of your ability to change focus easily from near to far and from far to near. — A glaucoma test for people over 35 and others whose families health histories indicate a need for it. The glaucoma test is very important; if not treated, glaucoma can lead to blindness. During the vision exam, wearers of bifocal or multi-focal lenses should tell the ophthalmologist or optometrist about their seeing tasks both on and off the job. In that way, the lenses can be designed to meet those needs most effectively. The traditional placement of the prescription for close vision on the bottom of the lens and the prescription for distance vision on top may not be satisfactory for everyone. For example, cashiers, dentists, painters, carpenters and others who need to see at close range above eye level need a second lens segment at the top of the lens. Barbers, hair stylists, musicians and others working close and at eye level often need a higher-placed bifocal. Homemakers and others who do a variety of tasks and need to be sure of their steps might find the barber's bifocal difficult to wear. Instead, they need a low-set bifocal or a ribbon bifocal that can look beneath. Such bifocals are also better for watching television. The American Optometric Association cautions bifocal and multi-focal wearers to check out carefully glasses advertised at low prices. Often, these glasses contain only a single prescription. If bifocals, they may not be adjusted to meet the individual's special seeing needs. Unfortunately, many people over 40 are not receiving the eye care they need because much optometric care is not covered by Medicare. With the spiraling cost of living, proper fitting of glasses has become a financial burden for many of the elderly. Medicare usually will not pay for routine eye examinations or for the new eyeglasses we need for effective vision. Several new health bills are being prepared by congressional committees. Let's hope one of them will provide repayment of the money we should spend to have a clearer outlook on life.

Nuclear Waste Burial Said Safe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The dangerous leftovers of nuclear fuel and weapons can be stored safely underground, a federal review group concluded today.

But it said such a program can be successful only if there is "much more attention to institutional issues" such as environmental concerns, a greater role for state and local officials, and a regional approach to storage.

The report, which will be subjected to a month of public comment before becoming final, was made by the interagency review group set up by President Carter to look at nuclear waste disposal problems.

"We think the technical basis exists for reliance on disposal of high-level wastes in geologic media," said John Deutch, chairman of the review group.

His panel suggested a facility could be operating on an intermediate scale by late 1988, while work continues on potential sites for long-term and larger-scale repositories. He defined the intermediate-scale facility as something larger than merely a research-and-development facility, furnishing a full test of technical and engineering aspects of getting rid of atomic wastes.

Downtown, Housing Top Fund Priorities

By GREG PEARSON
MANCHESTER — The town has developed a plan for dividing next year's $402,000 Community Development Plan. It includes $115,000 for the downtown area and $315,000 for housing programs.

Two other local organizations — the Instructors of the Handicapped and the newly formed Manchester Tenants Association — also would like a slice.

Alan Mason, the town's Community Development coordinator, Wednesday night presented the town's plan for spending the money for the year beginning July 1979.

A total of $115,000 was set aside for work in the downtown Main Street area — (see related story) — and $315,000 was recommended for housing — $180,000 for the housing rehabilitation loan program, $15,000 for housing code enforcement, $20,000 for fair housing, and $100,000 for site improvements at elderly housing projects.

Second Union Rejects Offer

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter
EAST HARTFORD — The Public Works union will be the second town union to go to fact finding, the union president said this morning.

Disatisfied with the town's salary offer of a 10 percent salary increase over the next two years, the union membership voted 25-20 to reject the town's latest offer in a union meeting last Thursday, said Ronald Durler, president of Local 1174 of East Hartford Public Works employees.

Durler said the town has offered the union the same basic package it has offered the town's other three unions.

This package calls for a 10 percent salary hike over the next two years, increased major medical coverage and a free prescription drug rider.

MHA Pledges Program Won't Hurt Neighbors

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Housing Authority assured a questioning resident Wednesday night that the housing rehabilitation program it plans with HUD funds will not update surrounding neighborhoods.

Eugene A. Sierakowski of 101 Strawberry Lane expressed fear that the rehab program would diminish surrounding property values, particularly if the tenants do not properly maintain their property.

Manchester was recently offered a housing grant of $1,165,110 for acquisition and rehabilitation of 20 family units to be administered by the MHA.

The MHA presently is considering eight duplexes and four single family homes, according to Dennis Phelan, MHA executive director. He said that plan would include 16 three-bedroom units and four four-bedroom units.

"We may have to look for two or three up-and-down family units," he said, referring to two- or three-story apartment buildings.

The buildings purchased would be around town and not all in one place, Phelan said, so as to avoid a ghetto tendency.

"We would purchase a building that needs rehabilitation, if rehabilitation would provide safe housing for the tenant family, and then rent it to that family if it is qualified," Phelan said.

He explained that MHA would pay to relocate the family until it could move back into the renovated housing unit.

He further explained that if the MHA bought six duplexes, it wouldn't mean that all the families would be relocated at once.

"We would relocate only one family at a time until one unit is completed, and so on," he said. Relocation funds are provided in the HUD grant.

"We're thinking of buying older rundown properties. We're shooting for duplex houses because HUD gives more money for duplexes," Phelan said.

First consideration for tenants will be given to those living in the units, if they are eligible, Phelan said.

Sierakowski asked what about residents in the neighborhood who don't want low income housing nearby.

Phelan replied that if MHA is buying a piece of property among other rundown properties in the neighborhood, it would update the neighborhood.

Mrs. Mary D. Negro, a commission member, wondered if there wouldn't be problems with tenants who don't keep the property up to MHA regulations.

"We don't want any undesirable tenants. They have to be acceptable

Clarke Urges Flu Shots

EAST HARTFORD — Esther B. Clarke, Republican Town Council minority leader, urged the mayor Wednesday to authorize participation in a federal immunization program to aid East Hartford's elderly.

Mrs. Clarke said the federal program is designed to protect senior citizens and the chronically ill from strains of Texas, Russian and Hong Kong flu.

"This is the first year East Hartford won't be offering the flu shots and I'm concerned about our elderly," Mrs. Clarke said. "I think this program — which offers the protection, free of charge — should be made available again this year."

Under the program, the federal government purchases large quantities of the flu vaccines and then distributes them to the states, Mrs. Clarke said. The individual states, in turn, parcel out the vaccine to the towns requesting it.

"But towns that haven't agreed to participate in the program won't get the much-needed vaccine," she said. "That's why I feel it important that

Youths Say Curfew Rule Will Be Hard to Enforce

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Although members of the Youth Commission could get to a consensus on a proposed curfew for the town's parks Wednesday night, most agreed that it would be a difficult ordinance to enforce.

The ordinance to impose a curfew on three town parks — Center Park, Center Springs Park and Case Mountain — is under consideration by the Board of Directors and has been referred to the town council's office to be drawn up.

The action was prompted by a group of residents in the Center Springs Park area who have been the victims of harassment, noise and litter caused by youths gathering in the park late at night.

Commission member Michael Pohl said he would favor a curfew to help the town solve the problem.

Member Terry Capshaw said a curfew is a most difficult ordinance to enforce. He said it would be a waste of police officers' time to try to enforce it. He also said it would help already difficult police youth relationships.

Robert Von Deck, also a member of the commission said the only place where the curfew could be enforced would be Center Park. Referring to a lottery law passed a few years ago, Von Deck said, "If we're not going to enforce loitering, I would have definite reservations about enforcing a curfew."

Chairwoman Toni Freese said she would like to see the existing laws on vandalism and similar offenses more strictly enforced.

Capshaw said a curfew is really a policy to make a problem go away. "It's not going to go away," he said.

Commission members agreed to ask a representative of the Police Department to attend the next Youth Commission meeting to see if the police think it is a realistic law to enforce.

Commission members agreed not to take a stand to present at a public hearing on the ordinance until they have more information.

In other matters the commission almost decided to drop a previous ordinance to install a turnstile at the Manchester High School football field because they thought it might not be within their jurisdiction to recommend such an action. Pohl said he had some question whether the youth commission could make a recommendation regarding the Board of Education property.

Von Deck, however, pointed out that the field is used by youths and adults anyway, both evenings and weekends, despite the fact it is locked up. They climb the fence, he

Housing Proposal Opposed

MANCHESTER — A group of residents has voiced its opposition to a proposal that federal funds be used to buy private housing in Manchester for low-income residences.

The Manchester Property Owners Association met earlier this month and said that it did not want the town to accept the proposed $1.2 million in funding from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The funds would be used to purchase homes in town for residents for low-income persons.

"The Town of Manchester rejected Hartford's attempt to buy housing for its residents in Manchester. HUD's attempt is no different, and the intent is the same," John Tucci, secretary of the MPOA, wrote.

"We urge all Manchester property owners to reject this funding because it subverts local zoning to the whims of the social planners," Tucci wrote. He also said that the MPOA rejected the "dangerous concept" of a community or HUD owning private housing in town because the idea has failed in large cities.

The MPOA also discussed a proposal being considered by the Board of Directors that would require town residents to vote approval before the town joined any regional body.

The matter, which was proposed by Republican Director Vivian Ferguson, was tabled by the board at its last meeting.

The MPOA questioned why the town board did not approve the ordinance last week.

Meeting Housing Costs Subject of New Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How high are the monthly housing expenses facing today's home buyers? It all depends on where you live.

But if it's San Francisco or Washington, D.C., you can almost count on $75 to $90 monthly housing bills, while if you're in Morrisville, Tenn., or even St. Louis, your bills, including mortgage, real estate taxes, utilities and insurance are less than $50 a month.

That is part of the results of a new study, "Homeownership: Affording the Single Family Home," released Wednesday by the U.S. League of Savings Associations.

The league's study, which looked at 850 conventional mortgage loans made in 1977, found the typical American home buyer's monthly housing costs are $400.

"The fact is the American home is still an integral part of the great American dream — so much so that literally millions of Americans home buyers are willing to stretch their budgets to accommodate a housing mortgage," league Vice President Joseph T. Benedict said.

The league's study sought to show how home buyers were managing to meet housing expenses in an inflation-fueled economy.

"Our study indicates two main ways," Benedict said, including the use of two incomes and the decision by a number of home buyers to break the once standard rule-of-thumb that only 25 percent of income should go toward housing.

Another major factor, particularly for first time buyers, was that lenders were writing what Benedict called "surrendering number" of low down payment loans.

Benedict said the typical home buyer facing $400 a month in housing payments was paying $273 on the mortgage principal and interest, $90 for utility bills, $54 for real estate taxes and $13 for hazard insurance.

In the larger cities, however, the home buyer paid $442, while in medium-sized cities the figure was $382 and in smaller cities, just $351.

The league study says San Francisco, with monthly expenses averaging $614, was the nation's highest housing cost city, followed by Washington, D.C., at $578; Los Angeles, $567; New York, at $497, and Miami, at $443.

Benedict said 18 percent of all those buying homes for the first time last year did not have sufficient income to house they bought without a second income. The same was true of 11 percent of all purchasers.

In addition, the study said 38 percent of those who bought in 1977 exceeded the 25 percent of income rule and nearly 14 percent spent more than 30 percent on their housing costs.

Canary Islands Crash Blamed on Dutch Pilot

MADRID (UPI) — A Dutch pilot, considered one of his country's best and featured in an ad campaign on caution, has been blamed by Spanish investigators for aviation's worst disaster — the collision of two jumbo jets that killed 583 people.

"The fundamental cause of this accident was the fact that the KLM captain took off without clearance" from the control tower, an investigative commission said in a report released Wednesday.

The crash between a KLM jumbo and a Pan American Airways jumbo taxiing on the runway at Tenerife Airport in the Canary Islands.

The report, issued Wednesday by the Spanish Transport Ministry, placed the blame for the March 17, 1977, crash on Jacob Louis Veltjhuysen van Zanten, one of the pilots with the greatest prestige in KLM and the company's chief flight instructor.

Veltjhuysen van Zanten died in the crash along with all the other 247 crew members and passengers aboard his plane, which slammed into the Pan American jumbo jet.

The Pan Am plane carried 353 persons. Only 61 survived.

The Spanish report, which was described as a technical rather than legal judgment, said fog was heavy the day of the accident and the Dutch pilot mistakenly thought the Pan Am jumbo had cleared the runway.

When the KLM flight engineer asked his pilot if the Pan Am plane was out of their path, "the captain replied with an emphatic yes and, perhaps influenced by his great prestige, making it difficult to imagine an error of this magnitude on the part of such an expert pilot, both the co-pilot and the flight engineer made no further objections," the report said.

The impact took place about 13 seconds later.

Candidates Make Pitch For Business' Support

EAST HARTFORD — Seven candidates for state or federal office made a pitch for business support this morning at the East Hartford Chamber of Commerce's annual "Breakfast with the Candidates."

Five Democrats, including lieutenant governor hopeful William O'Neill, were on the roster while the one Republican present were state senatorial candidate Esther Clarke and first Congressional district candidate Ben Andrews.

Each candidate made introductory remarks and then fielded prepared questions from the chamber's moderator.

Ben Andrews, the only candidate for federal office, reiterated his stance against meaningless tax cuts which never reach the consumer. Andrews, who is trying to unseat incumbent William Colter, said there has been a deception of the public by the tax cut. He perceives and the actual benefits accrued to it.

"Many of our political candidates across the country are talking about that (cutting taxes)," Andrews said. "But it's how and where you cut and James Flannery, 24, of 829 Main St. was charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with a shoplifting incident at the Memorial Corner Store on Main Street Wednesday.

Vandalism incidents were reported by police at two town recreation sites Wednesday. Seven white males were seen skateboarding inside Saller's pool Wednesday afternoon. When they saw the police, they crawled under a fence and fled into nearby woods, police said. A search of the area was unsuccessful. Damage to the pool, other than marks from the skateboarders, was not evident.

At the Northview Ski Slope, four unregistered motorcycles were seen by police riding up and down the east slope, causing damage to the turf. The motorcycles fled into the woods when they saw the police cruiser, but returned again a few minutes later. The police officer was unable to apprehend them.

Also while surveying the Northview area, a police officer found a truck loaded with logs and with a chain saw on top in a wooded area. The driver of the truck was found crouched beside it and said he had no permit to be on the town property. Police said there was no sign in the immediate area that the wood had been taken there, however, the man was warned that an arrest might be imminent before he was released. Police also noted that there are no posted signs in the area prohibiting trespassing or stating that it is town property.

State Probes Fatal Fire

STAFFORD (UPI) — The state fire marshal's office today was investigating the cause of a fire that swept through a two-story wood frame home early Wednesday, killing an infant and her father.

Dead from smoke inhalation were Sabrina S. Germain, who was 12 months old Tuesday, and her father, Robert, 21. The baby's mother, Yvonne, 15, escaped the flames and was discovered in a hallway outside one of two upstairs bedrooms.

Two passing motorists spotted Mrs. S. Germain on the roof of the six-room house and helped her down.

The home is located on Route 190, about 500 feet from the Somers town line.

Sabrina's body was found at the foot of the staircase.

First Lady Blesses Democrats in State

GREENWICH (UPI) — First Lady Rosalynn Carter swept through Connecticut like a swirling autumn breeze Wednesday, pausing only long enough to praise her husband's Democratic faithful who practice it.

Borne by one of the president's official jets, Mrs. Carter landed at chilly Tweed-New Haven airport to a throng of Connecticut politicians eager to have their candidacies blessed by the White House.

About three hours and three stops later, the first lady's black limousine accompanied by two New York State Police cruisers motored across the state line, leaving a lot of happy candidates.

One of the happiest, Gov. Ella Grasso, was the first to reach Mrs. Carter as she gingerly stepped off the plane in New Haven.

Mrs. Grasso, who faces three-term Republican congressman Ronald Sarasin in the November election, has lured the president's mother, wife and vice president to Connecticut in recent weeks. President

About Town

The Democratic Club of Manchester has canceled a "Meet the Candidates" night scheduled Tuesday. The event conflicted with a party fundraiser that most candidates previously had made a commitment to attend.

The Nathan Hale School PTA will sponsor its annual Ice Cream Social on Wednesday from 5:45 to 7:45 p.m. in the school cafeteria. The public is invited.

The Exotic Fish Society of Hartford will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the children's museum, Little School, Trout Brook Drive, West Hartford. Lance Voboril will speak on aquarium filtration.

Youth choir of Center Congregational Church will meet tonight at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary.

The church council of Center Congregational Church will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Robbins Room.

Center Congregational Church will sponsor a tennis party Friday at 7 p.m. at the Manchester Racquet Club.

Town Lets J.C. Penney Do Its Own Inspection

MANCHESTER — Most of the inspection work at the J.C. Penney Co.'s construction site is being done by the firm itself.

Town officials said Wednesday that the practice is a common one and there is no other way to handle inspection at such a large project.

Inspectors from the Town Building Department also are at the site almost every day to insure that state building regulations are being followed.

"We have to rely on them," Francis Conti, Manchester's chief building inspector, said of the inspection process for the J.C. Penney building.

The firm started construction this year of the two-million square foot catalog distribution center, which is located near Exit 83 of Interstate 86. The building will be one of the largest enclosed structures in the northeast.

Because of the size of the project, it would be impossible for the town to be expected to handle all inspection, Conti said.

Under the state regulations, the authority for inspection can be placed on the architects and engineers of the firm, he said. The town has taken such a step in this case.

If his department handled inspection itself, Conti said that he would have to hire several more persons to do the inspection work required at the J.C. Penney site.

His department does try to send an inspector to the site every day to check what is being done.

"We make sure the rules and regulations are abided by," he said. A firm that puts up a building like the one J.C. Penney is involved in has to be well-established and have a reputation for its integrity, Conti said.

"A company of that magnitude, you have to rely on its integrity," he said.

Game Unit Seeks Data on Players

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — The state gaming commission is going to require more information about jai alai players brought to Connecticut.

The commission voted Wednesday to have a subcommittee revise application forms with the aim of obtaining more background, such as the player's win-loss record, where else in the world he has played and if he has any previous violations.

The proposal came from commissioner Lester Snyder of West Hartford. He said it appeared odd to him that the commission knew more about dog racing in Connecticut than the players at jai alai fronts.

Snyder's proposal received support from Richard Donovan, president of World Jai Alai, the parent firm of Hartford Jai Alai.

Chief Cites Repair Costs in EMS Van Request

EAST HARTFORD — Although the Emergency Medical Services vehicle is in "good running condition," its maintenance costs are high partly because of the type of engine in the vehicle.

Fire Chief Michael Fitzgerald told the EMS Commission Monday night that $1,250 has been spent on repairs to the vehicle in the past 11 months.

Most of the problems are with the electrical system, the alternator and the brakes, he said in a memo to the EMS Commission.

"At the present time it is in good running condition," he said. "But it does use oil, this is a problem that exists with the 664-cubic-inch engine."

The two-year-old vehicle is a Chevy box-type van.

"It does foul spark plugs quite often," he added.

Fitzgerald said it takes 24 hours for alternator repairs, 48 hours for brake repairs and one-half to three hours for lesser repairs, such as oil and filter changes.

The Fire Department uses a station wagon as a substitute when the EMS van is in the shop.

Since July 1, the vehicle has been in the shop for repairs on six separate occasions. It has required repairs to the brakes, the wiring for the "back box" of the van, right rear springs and three alternator repairs.

"We took it to two different places and they can't seem to figure out what the problem with the alternator is," he said.

Fitzgerald said the life expectancy of the vehicle depends upon how much money the EMS Commission wants to sink into it.

"You can keep the wagon running forever depending on the amount of money you want to spend," he said. "The older it gets the more it will cost to repair."

The vehicle now has about 55,000 miles on it.

Fitzgerald has requested about $22,000 in funds in next year's Fire Department budget for the purchase of a new vehicle.

The EMS Commission last month voiced its support for the purchase in the form of a motion which was passed unanimously.

Group Hears Ideas On Downtown Work

MANCHESTER — Future work to improve the downtown area could include gardening, litter removal, parking lot improvements and renovations to the storefronts.

These ideas were among those discussed at Wednesday night's meeting of the Community Development Advisory Committee.

In the past, the committee has discussed steps it can take to find improvements to the Main Street commercial area, which is in the target area for the spending of the federal Community Development money.

A spending plan proposed by Alan Mason, the town's Community Development coordinator, includes $115,000 for downtown improvements for the year beginning July 1979.

A total of $50,000 of that would be spent on parking improvements. This could include buying additional parking space or improving the existing lots, he said.

The town also might consider increasing off-street parking for residents who live on Main Street or its side streets.

Another $40,000 has been proposed for sidewalk repairs. Most of these would be for the residential areas between Main and Spruce streets, Mason said.

The plan proposed by Mason also includes $10,000 for a neighborhood drop-in center in the downtown area and $15,000 for the design of storefront upgrading.

Some members questioned the appropriation for the store work because similar proposals have been started or tried in the past.

The drop-in center might include some places to sit and bathroom facilities that could be used by downtown shoppers.

All of the suggestions in the plan presented by Mason are subject to change while the advisory committee reviews and establishes spending of funds for the next three years.

Members also had other suggestions for downtown improvements.

Marilyn Pet asked about the upgrading of plants along the street.

"I'd say candidly the merchants look to the plants and the town looks to the merchants," Mason said about the upkeep of the planters. He said that the use of Community Development money could be a sign of the town's commitment to the area.

James McAuley said that there is trash in the area, including a brush in the Main Street area.

There often is litter in the gutter and along the curb, he said.

"The town is very poor in its housekeeping duties," he said.

McAuley said that weeds have grown in some areas, including the corner of Main and Forest streets.

"It's pitiful to see the looks of that," he said.

Irish Says Cummings Protects Paid Firemen

MANCHESTER — Wallace Irish Jr., Wednesday charged State Rep. Theodore Cummings with protecting a special interest group — the union representing town firefighters — because of his support for consolidation.

Irish, a member of the Republican State Central Committee, referred to Cummings' support for the Buckland firehouse and his stance favoring consolidation, which would combine the Eighth Utilities District and the Town Fire Departments.

The Eighth District has a volunteer department. The town has a paid department.

"Ted Cummings doesn't know enough to fill two pages about fire service in the Town of Manchester," Irish said in reference to the past involvement of Cummings in fire-related matters.

Cummings said he will not participate in a debate about consolidation scheduled by the anti-consolidation committee. Stowing Tampering With the Eighth's American Liberties.

Irish said that Cummings received unanimous endorsement when he ran two years ago from the union representing town firefighters — Local 1579 of the International Association of Firefighters.

"This whole attempt is based on protecting that union," Irish said of Cummings' refusal to attend the anti-consolidation meeting and his involvement in fire issues.

Cummings is refusing to face the Eighth District and other residents who are opposed to consolidation, Irish said.

A town firefighter is a member of the Democratic Town Committee — a technical violation of the Town Charter, Irish said.

He also said that attorney John Fitzgerald, brother of William Fitzgerald, who is judge of probate and a contributor to the Cummings campaign, issued an opinion at one time that the town proceed with the Buckland firehouse.

State Sen. David Barry, a Democrat, also serves as town counsel, a position in which he is involved with the fire union, Irish said.

"It's just too democratically cozy. That's why Ted's afraid to face the people," he said.

New Handicapped Panel Told It Needs Surveys

By CHRIS BLAKE Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — The president of the Handicapped told East Hartford's fledgling commission Wednesday night that it needs to take door-to-door surveys to find out who the handicapped are and what services they would require from the town.

Frank Vaccaro said Manchester took a similar survey and found it at least identified the handicapped and gave his town's commission some data with which to work.

"You have to find out who the handicapped are and what their needs are," he said. "You can't do it by putting a survey form in the newspaper because the handicapped won't answer it."

The most effective way to find out who is handicapped is through door-to-door surveying, he said.

He also said the handicapped should become involved in the commission. It's the task of the commission to get the handicapped to participate, he said.

However, Vaccaro said the first step is finding out who the handicapped are in town.

Surveys can be taken by many groups, he said, including Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Vaccaro also suggested the commission compile a booklet of services which are available for the handicapped in East Hartford.

"When a person becomes handicapped it's a shock," he said. "Boom — all of a sudden you have this handicap. Who do you see? What's available to them?"

He said many of the same services which are offered to the elderly are also offered to the handicapped.

Too many handicapped persons are afraid to speak out, he said.

He said knowing that there is a commission whose members, for the most part, are handicapped themselves and know the needs of the handicapped can help these persons.

Vaccaro said the commission should take an active role in lobbying for legislation for the handicapped.

Lease Probe Nears End

HARTFORD (UPI) — State police say they will begin to forward information from their probe of state leasing practices to prosecutors and the chief state's attorney this week, after the investigation is "substantially complete," State Police Commissioner Donald Long explained in a brief letter to Sen. George Gutner, R-Stratford, who had complained delays in the probe would keep police from finding anyone guilty of wrongdoing.

A special legislative panel reported in 1974 that the state's $8 million leasing program involved political favoritism in the awarding of lucrative leasing contracts.

Three principals in the legislators probe were former Gov. Thomas J. Mesli, and J. Brian Gaffney, his close political friend who served as state Republican chairman and Paul Manafort, former Public Works commissioner.

The most controversial deals involved the award of a lease to Gaffney's uncle for a highway garage in Waterford and a vacant Hartford building that now houses Hartford Community College. The Public Works Department passed up an opportunity to buy the building for $4.5 million in September 1973 and ended up paying two private developers $7.5 million for it a short time later.

The probe resulted in some legislative reform of leasing policies but no formal charges were issued by the lawmakers and some of the cases were turned over to the state police.

Long's letter said the investigation "is substantially complete and this week we will begin the process of furnishing the investigative reports to Hartford State's Attorney George Stoughton and Chief State's Attorney Austin McGuigan for their review."

UB Faculty Delays Vote

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — University of Bridgeport professors have delayed until Friday a decision on a new three-year contract allowing them to retain some control in academics.

Norman Douglas, president of the 250-member campus chapter of the American Association of University Professors, told the teachers gathered for a vote Wednesday night, "I would like us to vote tonight, but I am not asking anyone to vote in ignorance."

Douglas said many teachers had not received copies of the contract recommended by a three-member mediation panel. Many professors attending the meeting objected to voting on a contract they had not seen.

The mediators were appointed as part of an agreement to end the professors' two-week walkout which began Sept. 22. Faculty members went back to work Oct. 9 under a 30-day extension of their old contract while differences between them and the administration were worked out.

The university Board of Trustees unanimously approved the proposed contract Tuesday night. Professors are expected to pass it Friday at 4 p.m.

Under the proposal faculty and administration would continue to share responsibility in curriculum, subject review and final decision and could delegate its authority to the president. The board of trustees would have the power of increased 8 percent during the first contract year and 6.5 percent the second and third years. Minimum salary for a full-time professor would be $11,000.

Meeting Due in Coach Dispute

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Members of the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission, still concerned over a recent appointment of Melvin Siebold, town recreation director, as boy's swim team coach at Manchester High School, will meet tonight with Town Manager Robert Weiss.

The commission members learned about two weeks ago through The Herald that the appointment had been made. They were upset at the time because they had not been advised of the appointment.

Joel Janenda, chairman of the commission, said today he had written to Weiss asking about his giving Siebold permission to coach during the hours of his regular job with the town.

Mr. Janenda said he was not satisfied with the answers that he received in a letter from Weiss and he asked for tonight's meeting.

In the letter to Janenda, Weiss outlined the changes that Siebold would make in his recreation department scheduled to accommodate the swim team job from 3 to 5 p.m. daily from November through March.

At a meeting held last Monday, Siebold would go to work a half-hour earlier in the morning, take only a half-hour for lunch and make up extra time evenings and weekends.

Yankee Arrival Closes Airport

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — The crowd stormed the airport runway. They jumped over barricades, ignoring the orders of the outnumbered policemen.

The Yankees' plane landed near the airport's North Terminal — an area that has been used for such visiting dignitaries as President Carter and Queen Elizabeth. Then, three buses carried the team to safety from their Delta Air Lines jet.

When the crowd got near taxiways and runways, two firetrucks used in fighting aircraft fires were moved into place, and airport manager John Dickerson ordered one team fan to be taken to the hospital.

Another Ruth?

Before homering off Dodger pitcher Bob Welch in the seventh inning of World Series game Tuesday night in Los Angeles, Reggie Jackson of New York called for time. Next pitch landed in bleachers 425 feet away as Yanks won, 7-2.

Knight Leads Way In Celts First Win

ATLANTA (UPI) — It took Billy Knight a quarter to warm up. Then he shot the Boston Celtics to their first win of the NBA season. The Celtics forward was scoreless until the second quarter of Wednesday night's game with the Atlanta Hawks, but he scored 37 points the rest of the way to lead the Celtics to a 116-99 victory.

Coach Satch Sanders, whose Celtics now are 1-2, said the game "obviously was our best effort. We had very good intensity from the second quarter on out," he said. "We were offensively sharp due to Knight's scoring and (Nate) Archibald's passing and floor work. John Drew led Atlanta with 30 points. It was Atlanta's second loss in three games and Coach Hubie Brown was disgusted.

Always Something To Do!
Fishing fun doesn't have to end with the onset of winter. There are many things you can do while awaiting the return of warm weather that will add enjoyment to your fishing next spring.

Other ideas for winter-bound fishermen include fixing up your boat to be more functional next spring, attending a local course in boat handling and safety, taking Red Cross first-aid training and visiting your local marine dealer to see what's new and to swap lies about the big fish you didn't catch last season.

Guess What, Mama? Susan Ford is full of surprises — apparently even for her mother. In Betty Ford's memoirs, excerpts of which have just appeared in Ladies' Home Journal, the former first lady writes of a teen-age romance between Susan, now 21, and a Val, Colo., ski patrolman. She says there have been no men in photographer Susan's life since — that the only thing developing in that darkroom are 8-by-10 glossies.

Add one of Charles F. Vance. Susan says she'll marry the 37-year-old Secret Service agent — assigned as her bodyguard after the Fords left the White House.

Vance, who is divorced, has been with the Secret Service for 13 years.

Millie Segal never thought of herself as a midwife, but she became one swiftly Tuesday when her neighbor suddenly went into labor in Chicago.

Mrs. Segal went into action when it became evident that Libba Mayfield, who had called her for help, never would be able to outrun the staff to a hospital. She calmed the expectant mother and minutes later delivered a 7-pound baby boy.

The out-of-towner — Oberburgermeister — that's German for Mayor — Klaus Bungert of Dusseldorf, a German bank recently expressed interest in buying the towers that dominate New York's skyline. Koch says their tax-exempt status costs the city $65 million a year — that, "when you buy, you'll pay taxes ... So, as far as I'm concerned, take a tower — no, take both towers."

But Bungert wanted to talk about civil servants. Said Koch, "I'm familiar with that problem. We Oberburgermeisters have to stick together."

Former President Gerald Ford and Mrs. Ford announced Wednesday that their daughter Susan is engaged to Secret Service Agent Charles Frederick Vance. Miss Ford is 21; Vance, 37. The couple plans to marry in June. (UPI photo)

ZBB System Proposed

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

VERNON—The school administration is proposing implementing a new budget system for the 1979 school year, Zero Based Budgeting. Some elements of this system were developed in the 1977-1978 budget.

Dr. Bernard Sidman, told Board of Education members that the administration is prepared to add this component to the budget now being prepared.

He said Zero Based Budgeting doesn't mean zero increases but it will afford the administration the method to determine the effect of budget cuts on individual programs.

Charles Brisson, business manager for the school system, said the Zero Based method will enable the management to cut budgets rationally; to relocate resources from lower to higher priority items; will involve program managers and principals; and will offer a better link between budgeting and operational planning.

He said there will be three levels in terms of each program. The first service level will be items of highest priority, activities where there is the most critical need.

They said that allocations to scarce programs has been a problem that will increase in future years. They said Zero Based Budgeting is a budgeting method which is particularly useful in the allocation of scarce dollars.

Alternative approaches to accomplishment of program goals are rarely examined or even thought of.

Transit for Handicapped Considered Big Problem

By CHRIS BLAKE Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD—Transportation for the handicapped is so great a problem that it even kept some of the handicapped away from Wednesday night's open meeting of the Commission on the Handicapped, said those few handicapped citizens who did attend the meeting.

The commission held its monthly meeting and invited all handicapped citizens to come and express their concerns and needs.

"We're incensed about the business of transportation," said Anne Wrobel of East Hartford. "There are no means for some people to get here."

Mrs. Wrobel said several persons she knew did not attend because they could not get transportation. She attended only because she contacted Town Councilman Henry Gungu, who arranged a ride with the Call-A-Ride service.

"What the best good is to have a handicapped committee meeting if no one can attend?" Mrs. Wrobel said heatedly.

Mrs. Wrobel said the town is lacking comprehensive transportation for the handicapped and a swimming program for the handicapped. Chairman Carl Baird said he is going to visit the indoor swimming pools in town with Fred Balet, director of Parks and Recreation, to determine the estimated cost of setting these pools up for the handicapped.

Petitions Oppose Bolton I-84 Plan

BOLTON

Government officials from the Bolton Board of Selectmen to Gov. Ella Grasso, have received copies of the first 100 signatures collected to oppose the completion of Interstate 84 through Bolton.

Copies were also sent to the state Department of Transportation, and state and U.S. senators and representatives.

Edith Peterson of Boston Turnpike is leading the petition drive. Mrs. Peterson, who has lived in Bolton since 1942, said she is trying to stop the destruction that construction of the highway will cause in Bolton.

Mrs. Peterson agreed there wasn't a lot of activity against the highway from Bolton residents but said, "They feel demoralized. They feel there is no chance to do anything about it, but I feel there is."

She said she is "thinking of future generations, the destruction to our own will be horrible, pollution will be terrible and taxes will increase as homes and businesses are removed."

Mrs. Peterson is not collecting signatures door to door. She contacts people by phone and they recommend others. A few people even came forward to help after reading her letter to the editor in The Herald expressing opposition to the highway.

But, said Mrs. Peterson, the letter was printed at the end of August when a lot of people were still on vacation so my timing could have been better.

Mrs. Peterson and her husband Herman live near the path of the proposed highway but do not know whether they will lose their home.

Mrs. Peterson said so far she has received one reply to the signatures — from Congressman Christopher Dodd. He wrote to say she would get more recognition of the matter from William Cotter so she forwarded the signatures to him. But, Mrs. Peterson said, "We already sent Mr. Cotter copies of the petition and signatures so now he will have two copies."

Copies of the petition are at the Needlepoint Shoppe at the Bolton Notch Shopping Center.

Anyone who is interested in helping to fight construction of the highway through Bolton or is interested in circulating petitions may call Mrs. Peterson at 648-1238.

Clarke Claims Foe Hurts Road Efforts

EAST HARTFORD—Esther B. Clarke, the Republican minority leader of the Town Council and a state senate candidate, said the activities of her opponent may have had a detrimental effect on efforts to build Interstate 84 connector.

Mrs. Clarke said the council, at her urging, adopted a resolution calling for quick action on the connector for which would join I-84 in East Hartford with I-84 in Manchester—after federal officials informed her they were considering separating construction of the connector from completion of I-84 to Rhode Island.

"I was told that such a separation was being considered by officials at the Federal Highway Administration," Mrs. Clarke said, "and that a decision would be made soon. I only hope that [Democratic state senate candidate Marcelle] Fabey's hijinks have not changed the minds of federal officials."

Mrs. Clarke said that her opponent — whom she said had not made a public statement on the connector until now — jumped on the bandwagon after learning the council was considering the resolution and announced that she was making a trip to Washington "at her own expense to talk with officials about the connector.

"I only hope that her naivete has not endangered the connector," Mrs. Clarke said. "That often happens when someone who doesn't know what they are talking about enters the picture."

Mrs. Clarke said she has worked along with other town officials for the connector for more than five years. She said Mrs. Fabey didn't pay for that trip to Washington herself.

"I note that Mrs. Fabey listed her trip as a political expense," said Mrs. Clarke. "It was obviously a political ploy. Where was Mrs. Fabey when town officials were fighting for the connector? Was she looking out for her other 'outside interests'?"

Mrs. Clarke said residents of the area, especially along Forbes Street, have been plagued for years by traffic congestion. The traffic problem would be greatly alleviated by construction of the connector, she said.

"Our citizens have been waiting much too long for this relief," Mrs. Clarke said. "Now that a solution may be around the corner, I hope my opponent's desire for votes has not postponed the connector indefinitely."

Mrs. Grasso said budget must include fiscal manager says it will be a tight balancing economic development, urban action, human services, collective bargaining and equalization of education funding.

Relly said one factor in computing total budget is the increments in revenues. Projected roughly at about 8 percent, the budget would cover a like increment in the apportionments.

Also, he said, "this year we're using $115 million, roughly, of past surpluses which reduce our requirements for expenditures. It's a question as to what our revenue growth will be and what expenditure growth has to be," he said.

Another factor in the budget-making process is that agencies that initiate new programs may have to sacrifice another program that may not be needed," Relly said, adding "It's catch as catch can sometimes."

Relly said as five agencies have not yet turned in their expenditure estimates. All of them, he said, will be eyed to trim away all unnecessary costs. "Historically we cut about $300 million in the requests," he said.

Relly said it would probably be Nov. 5 before any idea of a budget total is reached.

Carter Takes Step For Neutron Bombs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In a signal to the Soviet Union, President Carter has moved one step closer to production of the so-called neutron warhead by ordering modernization of missiles and shells capable of carrying the anti-tank weapon.

But Carter's chief U.S. arms negotiator Paul Warnke said Wednesday the neutron warhead announcement does not reflect a change of policy on the part of the administration.

"That decision was made some time ago," Warnke told a group of religious editors at the State Department.

Warnke noted, however, the Soviet Union has not taken the "compensating action" the president hoped for last spring when he temporarily halted development of the neutron bomb — technically named the Enhanced Radiation Warhead — which sickens and slowly kills personnel without inflicting wide damage on the countryside or its structures.

The State Department confirmed Carter Wednesday's announcement that the warheads and howitzer shells that could carry the warheads.

Other officials sources considered this move "a signal" to the Kremlin that Carter eventually will order production of the long-deferred neutron weapon if Moscow does not offer military concessions today.

State Department spokesman Tom Roston said the president's decision "preserves the option to produce ERWs, but doesn't prejudice the final decision."

"The president has not made the decision to produce the ERW" or to deploy it in Europe, the spokesman added.
