

New National Smoker Study:

"Taste Made It Easy."

Recent research confirms MERIT taste aids switch to low tar smoking.

Can the taste of low tar MERIT ease the transition from high tar to low tar smoking? Read the results of new, detailed, nationwide research conducted among current MERIT smokers—and among high tar smokers who taste-tested MERIT against leading high tar brands.

Results Confirm Taste Satisfaction
Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.
Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!
Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking
 MERIT has proven conclusively that it provides an "easy switch" from high tar brands—and continues to satisfy former high tar smokers.

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: The first real taste alternative for high tar smokers.

Overdue Taxes

MANCHESTER — All Eighth Utilities District taxes that are not paid by Nov. 1 will be subject to a one percent per month interest charge, Betty Sadloski, tax collector for the district, said Tuesday.

The interest charge will affect all tax bill of $2 or more that are due.

Taxes are to be paid regardless of whether all bills were received, Mrs. Sadloski said. There is no charge for any motor vehicle with an assessment less than $200.

Bills were not sent for any tax below $1 because these payments were waived at the district's annual meeting, she said.

Views Differ

Members of the Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night expressed differing viewpoints about the manager's approach to the Metropolitan District Commission matter. See page 10.

Board Vacancy

MANCHESTER — The town's Board of Education may name a replacement for Paul Greenberg at the Nov. 13 meeting, John Yavis, chairman of the board, said Monday.

Yavis said several people are under consideration to replace Greenberg, who has resigned from the board. Yavis did not name any of the candidates for the vacant position.

He said he hopes the board will vote on a replacement at its first meeting next month, Nov. 13. If the selection is not done that night, it probably will be done at the Nov. 27 meeting, he said.

Smallpox Gone

ATLANTA (UPI) — The United Nations and the national Center for Disease Control both are planning special observances Thursday to mark the anniversary of smallpox demise.

Through the ages, smallpox was responsible for millions of deaths around the world, but it's been a year since the last documented case of smallpox was reported.

Dr. Donald Hopkins, assistant operations director for the CDC, said today that "in terms of magnitude of importance, in terms of saving lives, it would rate the eradication of smallpox to the discovery of penicillin and polio vaccine."

Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower Wednesday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 7.11 points Tuesday, was behind 0.94 point to 831.59 minutes after the opening bell. The blue chip indicator skidded 59.08 points last week for its biggest one-week loss in history.

Declines led advances, 335 to 116, among the 612 issues traded.

Early Big Board volume amounted to about 1,010,000 shares.

The dollar plunged to new lows against European currencies and the Japanese yen Wednesday, reflecting disappointment over President Carter's anti-inflation address Tuesday night.

Carter Asks Us All To Battle Inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter wants "every business, every union, every professional group, every individual" in the nation to join a new campaign against inflation.

In a televised address Tuesday night, he urged workers to limit their wage demands to 7 percent, proposing a new kind of "insurance" against rising prices if they do.

He called on business to hold price increases at least 0.5 percent below the amount of increase in 1976-77.

Beyond that, the president proposed to trim federal spending, cut federal hiring, eliminate "needless" regulations, encourage increased competition and oppose further income tax cuts until inflation is reduced.

He called the package "tough" and "fair," and promised no "quick or dramatic" results.

But traders on the Tokyo money market didn't agree. The dollar plunged to a new low of 180.75 yen in heavy selling of the U.S. currency at the conclusion of the president's speech.

Administration economists said the goal is to hold inflation to between 6 and 6.5 percent in the coming year. That's its average for the last decade, but below its recent eight-month spurt to a current annual rate of 8 percent.

The president gave the public a quick economics lesson. "Most companies raise their prices because they expect costs to rise," he said. "Unions call for large wage settlements because they expect inflation to continue. Because we expect it to happen, it does happen, and once it's started, wages and prices chase each other up and up."

He said he hoped the government will withhold its $80 billion annual purchases from firms that don't comply with the voluntary standards. He indicated that in other cases it could deny what he called "economic privileges," such as special franchises, protected wages and prices, subsidies and protection from foreign competition.

He made clear the government will not force firms to keep prices down. Irving Sobolov, vice president in charge of administration at Pioneer Systems Inc., said that although his company has government contracts, he thinks the new proposed regulations will apply more to the companies, such as United Aircraft, which have the huge government contracts attained through competitive bidding.

The proposed regulations regarding union wages will have no implication for Pioneer for another year when the contract for its

Businessmen React to President's Plea

MANCHESTER — Although most area businessmen had not had time yet to thoroughly study President Carter's anti-inflation message delivered Tuesday night, a few had some immediate reactions.

Millard Pryor, president of Lydall Inc. in Manchester, said he feels the strongest recommendation by the president was to cut the federal deficit.

Pryor said the deficit "has clearly contributed to inflation." It is an area in which the government is clearly involved and that the president can have more direct involvement in controlling.

In the area of wage increases, Pryor said he is not worried about union pressure, but thinks pressure in that area should be on the businesses themselves. The wages are basically tied to the ability to get and keep people, he said. If an entire area of industry has a certain level, all the others in that area have to be at that level. "Businesses have to pay whatever it takes to get competitive," Pryor said.

As an example of what could happen, Pryor said he expects the J.C. Penney Co.'s entrance into town will undoubtedly make wages go up because of the overall demand for employees in the town. In terms of price increases, Pryor said he is "clearly in favor of pressure on business to keep prices down."

Betty Tighe, president of the Municipal Employees Group, said she does not think the proposed limit on wage increases will be a major problem for that union which does not yet have a contract for the current year. MEU has asked for increases in the area of six percent.

The town's police union and Local 991, made up of primarily public works employees, have asked for wage increases of 6 1/2 and 7 percent respectively. Both unions are still without a contract.

William Johnson, president of the Savings Bank of Manchester, said that although he had not had time to study the message in detail, he feels employees is ended, Sobolov said.

He expressed hope that the federal government would follow through with the suggested curbs on the federal spending and hiring.

Martin Larson, vice president and comptroller of Multi-Circuits Inc. said he would like to see the proposals but he has serious reservations about the voluntary controls. He said it is a question of "Who's going to take the first step?"

He said it is difficult to get working people to accept the controls on their wages when they see the prices continuing to rise.

Israelis OK Peace Pact

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The Israeli cabinet today overwhelmingly approved the Washington-drafted peace treaty between Egypt and Israel and Prime Minister Menachem Begin said it adopted amendments he made in the document.

The vote was 15-9 with two abstentions.

Begin emerged from the more than six-hour meeting on the third day of the debate and told reporters that Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman were instructed to return to be submitted for approval of the cabinet and the Knesset (parliament).

The issue of linking the treaty to the future of the occupied West Bank of Jordan and the Gaza Strip remained in the pact, according to Health Minister Eliezer Shostak. "There is certainly a very big linkage in the draft," he said.

Begin said the cabinet gave Dayan and Weizman "appropriate guidelines" to take back to Washington and authorized them "to continue negotiations for the conclusion of the peace treaty."

The final draft of a peace treaty with Egypt and all its annexes will be submitted for approval of the cabinet and the Knesset (parliament).

The prime minister appeared in a jovial mood. He strode out of his office, snappily returned the salute of a police guard and approached the microphones to read his statement from two typewritten pages — one in Hebrew, one in English.

Social Welfare Minister Israel Katz said 15 ministers approved the document and two abstained. None voted against.

The abstentions came from the rightwing in Begin's ruling Likud bloc — Energy Minister Yitzhak Modai and Shostak.

"I think we're all satisfied," Katz said. "I think that Prime Minister Begin is satisfied."

Begin told the newspaper Maariv in an interview that President Carter told him in a letter that he would like to come to Jerusalem to sign the treaty as a witness.

But official sources also said Begin raised the idea with some of his ministers of moving his office and that of the foreign ministers to annexed Arab East Jerusalem to show that Jerusalem will remain a united city under Israeli rule. The United States regards East Jerusalem as part of the occupied West Bank of Jordan.

The Camp David peace accords stipulate that a formal treaty be signed no later than three months after the signing of the accords. The accords were signed Sept. 17.

CD Fund Audit Lists Violations

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The town should stop using town funds to pay for Community Development programs and Community Development funds to pay for town programs, according to a completed audit of the CD funds.

Three points were mentioned in the audit, but only two were discussed Tuesday by town officials. One official would not permit the press to see the audit until he has completed a report to the Town Board of Directors before the audit is released to the press.

He and Town Manager Robert Weiss did detail two of the three complaints listed in the audit, however. Both classified all three violations as minor ones.

One complaint in the report concerned the cash-flow management of the CD program.

CD funds have been used to pay immediate town costs, such as payroll expenses, Weiss said.

Likewise, available town funds have been used to pay for CD projects, he said.

The violation apparently resulted in a no-overexpenditure from either account. But, the CD audit records state that the practice be stopped.

"We borrowed back and forth. I'm sure that's already been stopped," Mason said.

Mason said the audit also recommended that the town more accurately forecast how much CD funding be spent each month.

Mason said that the monthly forecasting is difficult, however.

"Outside of administrative costs, there's nothing regular," he said of program costs.

The housing rehabilitation loan program, for instance, might require little funding one month and $12,000 the next, he said.

Another complaint in the audit said the town used lead-free paint for CD projects and the paint was not certified as being lead-free.

Mason would not say what the third complaint in the audit was until he has contacted members of the board.

Specialists Study Drop In Heart Disease Toll

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American heart disease death rates have taken a dramatic downturn in the past 15 years and a panel of specialists is trying to figure out why.

Is it because heart attack victims are getting better care? Or because Americans are changing their way of life by giving up smoking, improving their diet, getting more exercise and lowering their blood pressure?

Or is there a factor nobody has recognized?

This was the topic at the second day today of a National Institutes of Health conference taking a hard look at the declining heart disease health rates and the possible causes.

Dr. Lester Breslow, dean of the University of California School of Public Health at Los Angeles, noted Tuesday that most other major causes of death also are declining and he cautioned fellow doctors not to focus too minutely on factors influencing heart disease.

"It may be well to consider what did begin to affect the health of the American people favorably during the middle or latter part of the 1960s," he said. "We began doing something right, and not just for coronary heart disease. What was it?"

Dr. Robert Levy, director of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, opened the conference by noting that despite an aging and growing population, the number of Americans who died of cardiovascular disease last year was the lowest since 1963.

Heart and blood vessel disease still kills more Americans than anything else, but Levy said the total number of deaths from those causes last year dropped to about 92,000 — 15,000 fewer than in 1963.

"The decline since 1968 in coronary heart disease — in the heart attack death rate — has occurred in both men and women, has occurred in every age range, and has occurred in both our minority and majority populations," Levy said.

Levy calculated that if the 1968

Police Report

Vernon
Maurice J. Thompson, 20, of 54 Franklin St., Rockville, has been charged with failure to keep right on a curve in connection with the investigation of an accident that happened last Sunday on Route 83.

Police said Thompson was injured in the accident and is still undergoing treatment at Rockville General Hospital. His court answer date is Nov. 10.

Kevin W. Bobskill, 16, of 50 Partridge Lane, Tolland, was charged Tuesday with reckless driving, improper passing, failure to drive right on a curve, and driving an unregistered motor vehicle.

He was involved in an accident on E. Main Street. Police said he was passing in a no passing zone and struck a car coming in the opposite direction driven by Lawrence Hutnick, 24, of Wethersfield and then continued on striking a car driven by Richard Turcotte, 37, of Old Stafford Road, Tolland. Turcotte and a passenger in the Hutnick car, Marie Hutnick, were taken to Rockville General Hospital for treatment. All three cars had to be towed from the scene. Bobskill has a court date of Oct. 31 in Rockville.

Ellington
David K. Hanes, 16, of Stafford Springs, was charged Monday night with criminal mischief in connection with the investigation of 10 newspaper tubes being knocked down along Route 83.

A juvenile was turned over to his parents and will be referred to juvenile authorities in connection with the same incidents. Hanes is to appear in court on Oct. 31.

Michael Wallbillich, 19, of 117 Gerald Drive, Vernon, was charged Monday night with first-degree criminal trespassing on a complaint of the manager of the Cumberland Farms Store at the Five Corners. He was released on a $100 cash bond for court on Oct. 31.

'Good First Step'
NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Rep. Robert N. Giaino, DConn., says the key to President Carter's anti-inflation plan is cooperation.

Giaino said Tuesday night because the aim of Carter's plan is reducing inflation to 6.5 percent its success depends on large companies and labor unions working within federally recommended wage guidelines.

The Connecticut Democrat called the economic-control plan a "good first step."

Giaino, chairman of the House Budget Committee, said he met with Carter to discuss the plan several hours before the president unveiled it on national television Tuesday night.

Lunch Canceled

Manchester Police Report

Two young Manchester men were held overnight at police headquarters on charges of third-degree robbery in connection with an assault and robbery of another young man on the roof of Marlow's store on Main Street Tuesday night.

Arrested were Steven J. Chadbourne, 17, of 41 Chestnut St. and Stephen E. Golden, 19, of 55 Fairfield St. Police said the two were picked up separately based on descriptions given by the 17-year-old victim.

Police said the incident began when the three young men were talking in Center Park and it was suggested the go to a friend's house for a party. The victim followed the two other young men upstairs to the roof of the store where they knocked him down, started punching in his face and took about $85 from his pocket. When a resident of the neighborhood arrived at the scene, Chadbourne and Golden fled, police said.

They were both held in lieu of $500 cash bonds for presentment in court today.

Frank H. Lambert, 22, of 9 Bigelow St., East Hartford, was charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and disorderly conduct in connection with an accident on Center Street late Monday night.

Police said his car was in collision with a vehicle driven by Pamela J. Carlson, 20, of 63 Winding Lane, East Hartford. He was released on a $500 nonsurety bond for court Nov. 6.

Larry J. Donahue, 39, of West Hartford was charged with evading responsibility in connection with an accident Oct. 7 at West Middle Turnpike and Tower Road. Police said Donahue's vehicle hit the car of Brenda Eckert, 33, of Farmington while passing it on West Middle Turnpike. Court date is Nov. 7.

Michael L. Laine, 21, of 315 Center St. was charged with operating under suspension and speeding early today on Center Street. Court date is Nov. 14.

Police made 17 motor vehicle arrests Tuesday.

The second break-in in two days was reported at a Center Street home. Some items were stolen during the first break, but entry was not gained during Tuesday's break, police said.

Utility Plans to Seek Electric Rate Increase

HARTFORD (UPI) — Northeast Utilities, which serves about 850,000 Connecticut gas and electric customers, will ask for a rate increase before the end of the year, says a company spokesman.

Michael Dorfman said Tuesday it was too soon to determine how much the rate hike request would be, but he denied reports it was in the range of $150 million.

Northeast owns the Hartford Electric Light Co. and the Connecticut Light and Power Co.

"We are now in the process of preparing our application to the Public Utilities Control Authority," Dorfman said. "We have at least a month's work ahead of us."

Northeast was granted a $35 million rate hike, from a $90 million request, a year ago. It added about 50 cents more per month to the average customers electric bill.

Dorfman said the firm needs a substantial rate increase again because of its "poor financial condition."

MANCHESTER — A luncheon scheduled Thursday by the Manchester Community Services Council has been canceled. Laine Dyer of the town's Human Services Department said today.

Mary Ellen Morgan of the Hartford office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development had been scheduled to speak at the luncheon.

EHS Vote Favors Ella

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — If East Hartford High School students had their way, Gov. Ella Grasso would be re-elected by a close margin.

So would the entire Democratic slate in this year's state election.

That's the way the high school's annual mock election went Tuesday with 1,100 students out of 1,500 voting for their choices.

In what is believed to be a close race for the state senate, East Hartford High students preferred Democrat Marcella Falvey over Republican Esther B. Clarke for the 3rd District seat by a whopping 693-334 margin.

In other races of local interest, incumbent State Rep. Timothy Monihan held a comfortable 484-219 margin over Republican John Lancaster in the 10th District and Richard C. Willard outpolled Republican David Carlson, 406-207, in the 11th District.

Gov. Grasso showed a narrow 508-482 margin over Republican candidate Ronald Sarasin.

The most impressive margin of all was the 724-185 trouncing by incumbent U.S. Rep. William Colter over Republican Ben Andrews Jr.

In other state races, Democrat Barbara Kenelly outpolled Republican Louise Berry, 574-347, for Secretary of State; Democrat Henry Parker topped Republican Margaret Mealey, 532-316, for treasurer; J. Edward Caldwell showed a 679-228 margin over Ralph Capocelatro for comptroller and Democrat Carl Aiello topped his Republican opponent, 475-378.

Incumbent Sheriff Pat Hogan outpolled Republican Helen Bergenty, 618-260.

The poll is taken each year by Neil Guerin, a history teacher at the high school.

Guerin said there were few surprises this year.

"If you look at the town's registration, it's heavily Democratic and the Democrats won in the election," he said.

The Republicans are hoping to better success among the town's voters. Most of the students who participated in East Hartford High's mock election are under 18 and cannot vote in the state elections.

Fires Anger Blackstone

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — Fires of suspicious origin which occurred a little more than a month apart have left the town's two high schools with no press boxes at their football fields. And the annual Thanksgiving Day football game between Penney and East Hartford High School is less than a month away.

Mayor Richard H. Blackstone said he hopes to see some sort of press box facility installed in time for the annual competition. But he reacted angrily to what he termed the senseless destruction of town property.

"Sometimes you think you'd like to leave it the way it is now as a monument to the destructiveness of some people," he said.

"But a new one will probably be built," he said.

Penney High School officials have already taken steps to construct a temporary press box with floor planks and a rail. The temporary press box, however, is not roofed like the one that burned down Sunday night.

"I think a new one could be built by Thanksgiving," he said. "I don't know whether it would be wise to build a new one after what has happened to the last two."

Fire destroyed East Hartford High's press box on Sept. 17. Officials at both high schools have said they would like to believe the two acts were not done by students at the two high schools — but they could not rule it out.

"We have no available information," said Ronald Schmitt, vice-principal at Penney High, who is in charge while Principal Donald Cramer is away this week.

"The fact that another facility was burned down just a month ago makes you stop, but we have no information on it," he said.

Blackstone would not say the two incidents are related or involve some sort of retaliation.

He said he hopes the two fires do not mar the annual Thanksgiving Day game between the two schools.

"The Thanksgiving Day football game is always a hard-fought sports contest and it is a welcome contest for the entire population of the town as well as the two schools," he said.

The town has been hit by heavy vandalism of its property in what seems to be a banner year for vandals.

Last month, vandals broke into the town garage, stole the keys to five town vehicles and "played demolition derby with them," according to a police spokesman.

A vandalism spree in early September during the same weekend resulted in $1,550 in damage to town parks.

Police Chief Clarence A. Drumm has said he sees no end in sight to the problem until parents start showing some concern regarding what their children are doing to town property.

Abuse Counselor Hired

MANCHESTER — A woman who worked previously for a child abuse clinic in Waterbury will start next week in a similar counseling position in Manchester.

Carol Shomo will begin as the local child abuse coordinator starting Monday. She will be paid by a state grant through the Manchester Community Services Council.

Alan Mason, Manchester's director of human services, said that Ms. Shomo held a job in a Waterbury clinic for child abuse. She is moving to the Manchester area where her husband has been transferred.

Mrs. Shomo will be hired on a contract basis by the Manchester Community Services Council and will work out of her home, Mason said.

Police Ask Help in Probe

Janette Reynolds

The Criminal Investigative Unit of the Connecticut State Police, Troop E, Montville, is conducting an investigation into the disappearance of Janette Reynolds, 17, of Griswold.

Police said the girl has been missing from her home since Aug. 27. She was reportedly on route from Middletown, to her home.

She is five feet two inches tall and weighs 98 pounds, has long blond hair, blue eyes (wears contact lenses) and when last seen was wearing a white blouse, blue denim skirt, and high wedge wooden shoes.

She had two blue suitcases with her. She was last seen at about 7:30 p.m. on the 27th, at the Westchester Four Corners in Colchester, getting into an International Scout believed to be blue with a white top. The vehicle then reportedly proceeded east on Route 16 toward Colchester Center.

Anyone who traveled that route on that date and who observed this girl, or who may have seen someone matching that description at another location, should contact Troop E, 848-1201 or Troop K in Colchester, 537-2321.

Courses, field education groups and workshops will be conducted at various locations throughout the North Central Region, but headquarters for the program will be the office of Community Services at Manchester Community College.

Fires Spread Throughout U.S.

By United Press International

The headlines, the whole country might have been burning - wind-driven wildfires consuming 38,000 acres of brushland and 185 expensive homes in California.

The blast erupted at 3 a.m. Tuesday, ripping a crescent-shaped crater in a field beneath which the 30-inch pipeline lay buried at the edge of the trailer court.

Five were dead in the Texas blast, dozens were injured there and in California and 10 store buildings were burned in Atlantic City in a blaze that raged for seven hours before firemen could control it.

Houston District Fire Chief Gene Zamorsky, 48, summed up the Texas pipeline blast that devastated the trailer court in suburban Brookside Village near his home.

"I thought it was either a plane crash, like in California, or a meteor or just plain old the end of the world," he said.

The blast erupted at 3 a.m. Tuesday, ripping a crescent-shaped crater in a field beneath which the 30-inch pipeline lay buried at the edge of the trailer court.

There were no deaths, but 53 injuries were reported and 185 homes - many in the $250,000 to $400,000 class - were destroyed and 50 to 100 more were damaged.

The flames were capricious. Six homes along one private road were reduced to ashes, while other homes 40 feet away across the street, were untouched.

"It's hard to describe the feeling," said Charles Hoffman, who lost his $250,000 home.

"I'm more or less wandering around. There's nothing else to do. Everything is gone."

Mike Brustin lost a $75,000 home in which he never had lived. He said he had closed escrow on his "little piece of paradise" only two weeks before it burned to the ground.

The Atlantic City blaze roared through 10 connected store buildings along the boardwalk just a few blocks from the casino at the Resorts International hotel.

Official Claims Sabotage

HARTFORD (UPI) - A Connecticut Natural Gas Co. official has accused striking Teamster workers of sabotage, saying they have tampered with lines to cut off gas supplies.

CNG Vice President Robert Dixon said Tuesday the employees were responsible for gas shutoffs at four Hartford housing complexes with more than 200 apartments.

About 330 CNG employees went on strike Thursday night. The utility's Rocky Hill plant serves about 100,000 customers in the Hartford-New Britain area.

Dixon said the workers caused 17 gas shutoff incidents since the job action began.

The largest shutoff of heat and cooking gas Tuesday was at a 132-unit building at 1650 Main St., which houses mostly elderly people.

Dixon said new talks have been scheduled, but the company was willing to return to the bargaining table at the union's request.

The strike does not include workers in the Greenwich area, where CNG serves about 12,000 customers.

Candidate Receives Nine Endorsements

EAST HARTFORD — Marcella Fahey, Democratic candidate for the 3rd District state Senate seat, announced she has picked up nine endorsements.

The endorsements come from the following groups: The Connecticut Insurance Political Action Committee, the Greater Hartford Labor Council, the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, the Connecticut Committee on Political Education, the Realtors Political Action Committee, the Women's Political Caucus, the Connecticut State Employees Association, the Connecticut Education Association and the United Auto Workers.

Mrs. Fahey said the nine endorsements indicate she is "the candidate of broad base support and appeal."

Mrs. Fahey also called for the appointment of consumer majorities to state regulatory and licensing boards.

State boards which control activities of various trades and professions are now dominated by practitioners of the affected occupations, Mrs. Fahey charged.

"Regulatory bodies dominated by the regulated occupations have an inherent conflict of interests," Mrs. Fahey said. "It often seems that the rules they pass are anti-competitive — designed to protect the members of regulated occupations at the expense of the public in whose name the boards are intended to act."

Mrs. Fahey noted that legislation has recently been enacted which requires that one-third of the membership of occupational boards consist of public members who have no affiliation with the regulated occupation. The legislation will become effective in January, 1979.

The new law, Mrs. Fahey said, does not alter the "basic balance of power. Occupational boards will still be dominated by those whom they regulate."

Fahey concludes there is "virtual unanimity among economists that advertising bans reduce competition and lead to inflation. Consumer controlled boards could promote the elimination of advertising bans. At the same time, there is no reason to believe that consumer majorities would ignore the expertise of occupational representatives."

Conservation Group Eyes Land Purchase

HEBRON — The Conservation Commission has agreed to contact the Recreation Commission concerning possible acquisition of more property within the town for recreational use. The Conservation Commission is offering to cooperate whenever possible.

The Tolland County Soil and Conservation District has advised the conservation group that it has completed an inventory of the soil erosion and sediment and said it is available to the townspeople.

Cynthia Wilson, chairman of the commission, has advised the members that the Water Pollution Control Authority will be conducting a series of three public hearings within the town for the purpose of obtaining public input.

The commission has also received a report from the Planning and Zoning Commission liaison, A. Pete Dallaire, concerning possible involvement concerning installation of a bridge on Lot 3 of Millstream Park.

The Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct a public hearing Nov. 2 at 8 p.m. at the Town Office Building to hear an application filed by Kevin P. Nicalazzo.

Nicalazzo is asking for a variance to the section of the zoning regulations concerning construction of a dwelling closer to the sidewalks than allowed.

The property is located on the west side of Jones Street, Lot 11 on the assessor's maps, directly opposite the intersection of Jones Street, Burrows Hill Road, and Hope Valley Road. The lot is owned by the applicant and a stop work order has been issued by the town's zoning agent.

Police Officer James McCooe receives a certificate from Red Cross Volunteer Mrs. Grace Bogdan citing him for donating 15 gallons of blood to the Bloodmobile. The award was made recently during the blood collection at the Knights of Columbus Hall. McCooe has been donating blood regularly since 1952.

Red Cross Bloodmobile Visits School Thursday

MANCHESTER — The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Manchester Thursday at St. James School, 73 Park St., from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. The operation is being sponsored this month by St. James Parish.

Through the efforts of the co-pastors of St. James Church and Chester Obuchowski, parish donor recruitment chairman, an extensive recruitment campaign has been conducted. When St. James Parish sponsored the operation last February, 192 pints were collected.

Blood center officials advise that there continues to be a critical need for blood of all types to meet the needs of the many hospitals throughout the state.

Appointments for this Bloodmobile visit may be made by contacting the Manchester Red Cross office at 643-5111. Walk-in donors will be welcome throughout the day. Baby-sitting service will be offered during the early afternoon for mothers who must bring their small children.

Anyone in good health between the age of 18 and 66 may donate blood. Persons age 17 may be donors with a signed parental permission form available from the Red Cross office or at the Bloodmobile.

Town Wins Grievance In Water Department

MANCHESTER — The town has won a grievance filed by a Water Department employee who sought more pay for a period he served as a laboratory director.

A state board has ruled the employee did not assume enough of the director's responsibilities to be entitled to that position's salary for the time he served.

The president of the union involved said it is the first time the union has lost a grievance taken to the state in six years.

The case involves Richard Boucher, a Water Department employee who served as laboratory director for seven months. Boucher has had been a laboratory technician who temporarily filled the director's slot for seven months after the resignation of Gregory Wedman in October 1975.

He filed the grievance and said that he should have been paid the salary of the laboratory director for the period because he performed in that position during that time. The town, however, argued that Boucher did not take over most of the responsibilities of the director.

The state Board of Mediation and Arbitration agreed with the town's stand and denied the grievance filed by the employee.

The board said that the matter was confusing because some of the responsibilities of the director and technician overlapped.

It said that a total of 19 items were included in the director's job and not in the technician's. Of these, Boucher took over three of the duties. A total of 12 were not done and there were questions about the other four, the state board said.

The 12 not done by Boucher included budget maintaining and supervision of testing of reservoirs and water and sewer treatment which were done by other employees, the board said.

Some of the other items were not done at all, the board said.

"It should be noted that Boucher was not doing Wedman's job. Instead, Boucher was doing what needed to be done to keep the lab operating — no more, "the board's report said.

Robert Fuller, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, Local 991, said he was the first time his union had lost a decision on a grievance decided by the state in six years.

"Once we leave town hall," were pretty sure we can win," Fuller said. "The first step in settling grievances is to meet with town officials and discuss the dispute."

Steven Werbner, the town's personnel assistant, said he thought Fuller's claim of six years was long. But, he did say, "It's been a while since the town prevailed."

Fuller and Werbner both estimated that the state board rules on about six cases per year involving the Local 991 union.

Meeting Answers Cancer Questions

MANCHESTER — Local physicians and dentists will be available to answer questions concerning cancer today from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Whittier Library Auditorium.

Participating in the Cancer Information Day, sponsored by the town and the American Cancer Society, are Dr. Harvey Patel, a surgeon; Dr. Salvatore J. Squatrito Jr., a periodontics specialist; and Dr. David E. Prindle, an oral surgeon.

The public is invited to attend from 7 to 8 p.m.

MCC Chess Club Plans Tournament

MANCHESTER — The Chess Club at Manchester Community College will hold an open chess tournament Saturday and Sunday.

Play will begin at 11:30 a.m. on both days in the student center on the main campus. Players will not be charged an entry fee.

The tournament will be divided into two sections, one a reserved section for MCC students and honorary club members, the other an open section. Play will follow the form-round Swiss system.

Medals and shirts will be given to first, second and third place winners in each section. Players are expected to bring their own boards and sets. Refreshments will be served.

Elections Panel Tables Complaint On GOP Money

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Elections Commission has shelved allegations about how Republicans are spending and reporting campaign funds, apparently until after the Nov. 7 election.

The three-member panel Tuesday tabled the complaint filed by Democratic Secretary of State Henry Cohn. The move just about dooms any chance the commission will act on the matter before the general election.

Cohn charged over the weekend that the campaign committee of Republican gubernatorial hopeful Ronald Sarasin apparently paid for undersecretary literature in violation of state election laws.

Cohn also said the GOP undersecretary candidates had failed to promptly report their advertising costs.

The Republicans said Cohn was printing Gov. Ella Grasso back for his recent appointment. They said the undersecretary literature was a printer's error and the finance reports were not due until this week.

Commissioner Richard Jones made a motion Tuesday to table the complaint. The motion was passed unanimously.

Later, acting chairman Daiila Soto tried to set a rehearing date on the matter before the upcoming election. But Jones said he was leaving for a trip within the next few days and would be out of the country until late November.

One month ago, the five-member commission was hit by four rapid fire resignations. Two vacancies were filled by Jones and Rev. James Demetriades. But with Jones away, the commission will not have a quorum to do business.

Cohn claimed literature printed for the Republican undersecretary was marked as paid for by the Sarasin for Governor Committee State election laws forbid one campaign committee from contributing to the campaign of another candidate.

And he said the candidates failed to report they received aid from the state Republican Finance Committee when they filed their finance reports last week.

A commission investigator told the panel the Republicans said the advertising material in question, about 31,000 biographical pamphlets published at a cost of $1,280, was the result of a printer's mistake.

The Republicans said the bill was being paid for properly by either the committees of the individual candidates or by the state central committee's finance unit.

Cohn said he was "only performing my duty" in filing the complaint. He said there was no political motive in asking for the probe less than three weeks before the election.

Louise Berry of Danielson, the Republican candidate for secretary of state, Monday charged that Cohn had singled her out and was attacking her integrity "apparently at the direction of his party's leaders."

The commission, on another matter, voted to dismiss a complaint by state Republican Party Chairman Frederick Beebe that Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., and Gov. Ella Grasso violated campaign laws in a brochure that attacked Sarasin.

The commission ruled it had no authority to act on the complaint against Moffett because he was involved in the federal campaign. It also decided Mrs. Grasso was not aware that the brochure had been published.

The commission also threw out a complaint by the weekly newspaper, The Hartford Advocate. The paper complained Sarasin campaign workers destroyed copies of the Advocate because it carried an article critical of one of Sarasin's past business investments.

Commission Appointed For Historic District

MANCHESTER — The Cheney National Historic District Commission was born Tuesday night.

After several months of discussing such a commission, the Town Board of Directors Tuesday night appointed 11 of the 13 members that will serve on the group.

The commission will oversee work in the Cheney Mills area, which has received designation as a National Historic District.

The Democratic appointments to the commission are Constance Adams, long active in the Manchester Historical Society; Glynnis Berry, curator of Lutz Junior Museum; William Fitzgerald, judge of probate; Gail Krawie, a Lodge Drive resident; Francis Mahoney, state representative and co-chairman of the town's Bicentennial Committee; Louise Nathan, a member of the Economic Development Commission; Aiyce Rawlins, a Waranoke Road resident; and James Reardon, former police chief.

The Republican appointments are Durward Miller, president of Cheney Bros.; Robert Smith, who owns a Cheney home; and John DeQuattro, a member of the Economic Development Commission. Each party will make an additional appointment.

Stephen Cassano recommended that John Sutherland, a Manchester Community College professor who has been active in working for the historic designation of the Cheney Mills area, serve as consultant to the new commission.

The Board of Directors also made new appointments to existing boards: Kenneth Tedford was named to replace Bernard Johnson on the Zoning Board of Appeals; Tedford previously had been an alternate to the ZBA. Johnson, who had served as chairman, did not seek reappointment.

Edward Hachadourian was appointed to the alternate's position previously held by Tedford.

Richard Dyer was named to the Human Relations Commission to fill Werber's old position. Alfred Werber also was appointed to the commission to replace Richard Kenny, who resigned.

Salem Nassif was appointed to the Building Committee to replace Timothy Moynihan, whose term expired.

Odin Coleman and Robin Washington, a junior at Manchester High School, were new appointments to the Commission on Children and Youth.

The Redevelopment Commission was dissolved.

The board also said it will appoint a sub-committee to review the town's Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program. Reductions are expected in the number of CETA positions the town receives, and regulations governing the federal employment program are expected to be revised.

Directors Cassano, Carl Zinsner and a third board member to be named will serve on the subcommittee to recommend which positions to retain.

Republican Candidates Fail to List Spending

EAST HARTFORD — While the candidates in the Third Senatorial District have spent more so far than other local candidates, the Republicans in East Hartford's assembly districts have failed to file any financial reports.

Marcella Fahey, the Democratic candidate in the Third Senatorial District, had received $3,881.54 and spent $3,074.67, according to campaign finance reports filed Oct. 10 at the secretary of state's office.

For the same reporting period, Esther Clarke, the Republican candidate in the district, which includes all of East Hartford and part of Manchester, had received $2,970 and spent $2,257.86.

Both expense totals are more than any other candidates in the Manchester area for the same period.

Mrs. Fahey has received contributions of $100 or more from the following persons: Dorothy Goodwin, Storrs, $200; New Democratic Fund, Hartford, $150; Mary Clifford, 163 School St., East Hartford, $160; Clarence Jones, New Haven, $100; Vito and Roberta Perrone, 107 Downey Drive, $100.

Mrs. Clarke has received contributions for $100 or more from the following persons: John A. Bailey, 1028 Forbes St., East Hartford, $280; Robert P. Lynch, 25 Farnham Drive, East Hartford, $250; Charles E. Stebbins, 220 Grande Road, East Hartford, $250; Roger W. Driggs, 405 Chapman St., East Hartford, $250; Frank C. Collins Jr., 11 Renschele St., East Hartford, $250.

Also, Richard E. Brown, 179 Sandra Dr., East Hartford, $200; Thomas J. Totten, 14 Farm Drive, East Hartford, $125; Robert O. Josephson, 183 Brentmoor Road, $100; Charles H. Cass, 90 Sunset Ridge Drive, East Hartford, $100; D. Anthony Guglielmo, Stafford Springs, $100.

Mrs. Clarke and her husband, Charles, also have contributed $200 each to the campaign, the report says.

The amount spent in the senatorial race is a contrast to the relatively low-spending assembly races in town.

State Rep. Mariel Yacovone had received $856 and spent $588.50 in the Ninth Assembly District race. She is unopposed.

In the 10th Assembly District, State Rep. Timothy Moynihan had collected $895 and spent $515.1. Republican John C. Lancaster, had failed to file any finance report with the secretary of state.

The Republican candidate in the 11th Assembly District, David Carlson, also had failed to file any report.

The Democrat in the 11th District, State Rep. Richard Willard, filed a card that showed he has not collected or spent $500. No full finance report is required until the 500 mark is surpassed. Thus far, Lancaster and Carlson have failed to send in even the minimum expenditure card.

Moynihan listed the following contributors who have given $100 or more: Economic Political Action Committee, $500; Economic Political Industry Committee of the Connecticut Business and Industry Association, $150; Karen and Louis Poirais, 56 Pendleton Drive, East Hartford, $100; Savings Association Political Action Committee, East Hartford, $100.

Clinic Helps Families

MANCHESTER — While there are no "typical" cases, this fictional account should offer a picture of how the Community Child Guidance Clinic, a United Way agency, serves families in our community.

Initially Mrs. N. called the clinic out of concern for her teenage daughter. Anne's increased argumentativeness at home, and the amount of freedom which she was suddenly demanding. Mother, a working single parent of two children, felt overwhelmed with her daughter's rebelliousness to the point that it was interfering with her work and running a household.

Attempts to "talk things out" with her daughter had led to angry and tearful scenes so that a surface peace was accomplished only by staying away from each other as much as possible.

Because Mrs. N. relied on her daughter to help with housework and supervision of her younger brother, the daughter's uncooperativeness was especially upsetting. In addition, mother felt strongly that the often could not give in to her daughter because she viewed Anne's demands as unreasonable and was fearful of her desire to spend more time with boys, some of whom Anne had told her she had experimented with alcohol and marijuana.

Speaking with her pediatrician about her concerns, Mrs. N. gratefully accepted the suggestion that she get professional help, which she learned happily was available at a moderate cost, based on income.

This was explored again later, when the clinic team sent Tim to the waiting room and both mother and Anne met individually with a therapist. Once again, mother repeated her feeling of upset and frustration with Anne, while in a nearby room Anne slowly relaxed and poured out her very mixed feelings toward her mother. In many ways she admired and respected her mother but felt that mother was too demanding and strict and could never understand a teenager's needs. Much to Anne's surprise she was not challenged and seemed to feel that at least, to some extent, she was understood.

This led to a brief focusing on what took place between them that blocked their setting their differences despite their obvious strong positive feelings toward each other.

The interview was then terminated with the strong recommendation that further sessions be held to try to settle their disagreements more calmly.

Both Anne and mother felt surprisingly relieved that each of them could do something about their present sense of upset. Both agreed that it was "quite as bad" as they expected. Perhaps meeting together and discussing things at the clinic would work better than arguing alone and unsuccessfully at home. At any rate, both agreed, it was worth a try.

Services such as this are provided by the Community Child Guidance Clinic, 317 N. Main St., with the help of the United Way.

United Way

After calling the Child Guidance Clinic and arranging an appointment, she suddenly feared that her daughter would refuse to go with her. During the initial inquiry appointment, mother was able to express her concerns about Anne's probable balkiness and relaxed when the worker strongly urged her to focus on their mutual problem and mother's need to get help. She also agreed that it would be a good idea for the whole family to come for the next interview, since obviously all were involved in the disagreements that took place.

Mrs. N., Anne and her nine-year-old brother, Tim, were quite uncomfortable waiting for their appointment. Anne had initially objected, but then reluctantly agreed to go on.

Inside the office, mother quickly brought out her concerns while keeping a careful eye on her daughter. Little brother briefly joined in and expressed his view that she was "really nice." Anne reacted to this by blurring out her feeling that she was grown up enough to help run the house, take care of her brother and even work on weekends; but despite that, mother was ridiculously old-fashioned and strict, and allowed her no freedom.

Andrews Attacks Waste But Defends Programs

MANCHESTER — As the political campaign nears its end, Republican Ben F. Andrews Tuesday night attacked waste in social service programs but also defended their existence.

Andrews, former executive director of the Connecticut NAACP, is seeking the Congressional seat in the First District now held by U.S. Rep. William R. Cotter.

Speaking about the Proposition 13 syndrome, Andrews said, "The talk you hear is toward cutting spending, but what you eliminate waste, you will have saved an awful lot of money, and you will not have changed a thing."

"Millions of dollars were left piling down the pike, not because they were bad but because of the way they were managed," he said.

Citing the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act programs as an example of waste, Andrews said, "They have just passed a new CETA title to put it back on the track it was originally on, but to pump another $100 billion into a highway filled with potholes doesn't help as long as the holes are still there."

Andrews said a U.S. Representative shouldn't just tell people things are going to be different, but should tell the people how things are going to change.

Speaking about the Proposition 13 syndrome, Andrews said, "The talk you hear is toward cutting spending, but what you eliminate waste, you will have saved an awful lot of money, and you will not have changed a thing."

Stabbed to Death

MILFORD (UPI) — A middle-aged woman was brutally stabbed to death in front of her Milford apartment, authorities report.

Police said Mrs. Dorothy Florezak was pronounced dead at the scene Tuesday night, but authorities refused to release any further details about the victim.

Initial police reports showed the victim was a white female, approximately 47 years old.

A police spokesman said they received a phone call a woman was being assaulted in front of the apartment complex at 1110 New Haven Ave., in the city's Woodmont section.

Officials Gather To Start Project

VERNON — Gov. Ella Grasso, town officials, and officials from Barkan Development Corp. of Chestnut Hills, Mass., gathered at the former U.S. Envelope Factory on W. Main Street this morning to begin the start of renovations of the factory into housing for senior citizens.

With the approval of the town's Zoning Board of Appeals, the Planning Commission, the Town Council and funding approved, the development firm is now ready to go forward with the remodeling.

The factory was built in the 1880s and the envelope firm moved out in the summer of 1976. Barkan made its proposal to town officials in Aug. 1977.

Plans are to convert the building into 115 housing units and to give tenants rental assistance under a federal housing rehabilitation program.

The program doesn't involve any administrative responsibility on the part of the town. The developers will pay town taxes. The developers had said that the envelope shop owners, as of last fall, paid the town some $13,000 in taxes and said it would be expected that would triple when the apartments are completed.

At least 30 percent of the units must be available to the lower income persons and 10 percent will be designed for the handicapped.

Of Wolves and Peace

A curious thing about wolves is that, despite their ferocity, they almost never fight among themselves.

Because their teeth and jaws are so lethal, they have developed a complex system of howls, grimmaces, and snarls to settle their arguments. In this way, they are free to live and enjoy their rounds on earth without expending themselves tearing one another apart.

This peaceful habit of wolves is shared by virtually every large mammal in the animal kingdom. It is also shared by large governments in the world community. People have come to understand that conflicts between powerful nations could escalate on such a scale as to bring mutual destruction.

The ability to defend one's self is often the surest guarantee against ever having to fight. It's called deterrent.

We at United Technologies believe that the relationship of technology to America's deterrent is a positive one. And we're proud that our government calls on us often to provide high-technology products that contribute to our nation's defense posture.

America's deterrent gives us all the freedom to live with a sense of national security.

This is neither a sad fact nor a happy one. It's just a fact of life. And technology is a continuing response to the needs of life.

Marshal Reports On Work

BOLTON — Peter Massolini, fire marshal, conducted one investigation, one reinspection and six inspections during September.

Massolini said he was kept busy inspecting a fire of suspicious origin at a house at 1007 Boston Turnpike. He said the fire also is under investigation by the state fire marshal and the state police. He said the cause of the fire is still unknown.

Massolini inspected the three nursery schools and three public schools and found they all met the state safety code.

He also reinspected the Congregational Church and Chandler Hall. He said the church has to replace a fire extinguisher that is obsolete and install signs showing where the fire extinguishers are located.

Democrats, GOP Split On Seeking MDC Data

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Democrats and Republicans Tuesday night offered different feelings about Town Manager Robert Weiss seeking more information about the Metropolitan District Commission.

Democratic members of the Town Board of Directors said that Weiss is doing his job by seeking more information. Republican directors, however, criticized Weiss for not discussing the matter with the first of the Water Study Committee first.

"I've really got to wonder why these things happen. I've got to wonder why we have to read about them in the newspapers," Carl Zisser, a Republican director, said. Republican Vivian Ferguson said, "My feeling is there is a lack of communication here."

Democratic Director Betty Intagliata responded, "Our informed citizenry has the right to all information. If this brings more information to the voter, then that's all well and good."

The discussion at Tuesday night's meeting was triggered by a recent request by Weiss that the town again research the cost of hooking into the MDC system.

The Water Study Committee and Board of Directors both previously had rejected the MDC as an option for a town water supplier. Both bodies agreed that the town should maintain full control of its system and proceed with improvements to that system.

Weiss, however, has met with MDC officials to discuss supplying water to about 270 Glastonbury customers now serviced by Manchester. Weiss said that MDC officials have indicated water from the district might be provided at a lower cost than previous estimates the town had received.

Because of this, Weiss asked that Weston & Sampson do a cost analysis of internal improvements needed to hook into the MDC system.

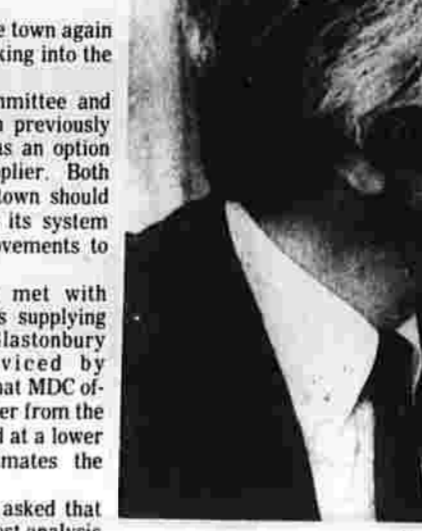

Zisser and Ferguson said the manager should not have taken such a step without consulting with the directors and the Water Study Committee first.

Democratic Mayor Stephen Penny and Directors Joseph Sweeney and Stephen Cassano and Mrs. Intagliata defended the manager's action.

Penny said the water improvements will cost a minimum of $15 million.

"This board had better satisfy itself that it has everybody's last best interest. We just can't afford to make a mistake," Penny said.

Sweeney said that probably no member of the board is more opposed to joining the MDC than he. But he does not oppose seeking more information about possible changes in MDC costs.

Bush Campaigns for Sarasin

George Bush of Texas, right, a Republican presidential aspirant, campaigned in Hartford Tuesday for U.S. Rep. Ronald Sarasin, Connecticut's GOP gubernatorial candidate, left. Bush, former GOP national chairman, said that while his name in not a household word, he is interested in the presidency and would have to enter early primaries to be a credible candidate. He said President Carter is unpopular and will not be a asset to the re-election campaign of Gov. Ella Grasso. (UPI photo)

No Top Endorsement Women Rate Legislators

HARTFORD (UPI) — Although they have not endorsed either gubernatorial candidate, the Connecticut Women's Political Caucus is giving a number of state legislators top notch ratings on feminist issues.

The caucus Tuesday released a chart showing seven state senators and 30 House members had a 100 percent record for their votes on issues related to women, like abortion, day care and shelters for battered women.

They did not endorse Mrs. Grasso because "on the issue of abortion, our positions are diametrically opposed," said chairwoman Christine Patton. The governor does not support broad government funding of abortions.

State senators who received a 100 percent rating were: Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven; Sanford Cloud, D-Hartford; Cornelius O'Leary, D-Windor; Locks; Betty Hudson, D-Madison; Lawrence DeNardis, R-Hartford; Robert Houley, D-Somers; and Audrey Beck, D-Storrs.

There were eight women among the 30 House members who received perfect ratings.

Senators, besides Cuttito, who received a less than 50 percent rating were: Senate President Pro Tempore Joseph Paulino, D-Hartford; William Sullivan, D-Waterbury; and Joseph Flynn, D-Ansonia.

House members, besides Seres, who received the bottom rating in the House — 36 percent.

The Legislature had an average 79 percent positive voting record.

Some 37 percent of the legislative candidates also answered the poll and supported affirmative action, state funded family planning, prevention of sterilization abuse and shelters for victims of household abuse.

The caucus said there is more opposition among legislative candidates this election year than in 1978 to a constitutional amendment to restrict abortion.

Senators who received a 100 percent rating were: Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven; Sanford Cloud, D-Hartford; Cornelius O'Leary, D-Windor; Locks; Betty Hudson, D-Madison; Lawrence DeNardis, R-Hartford; Robert Houley, D-Somers; and Audrey Beck, D-Storrs.

No Move to Recreate Computer Study Panel

MANCHESTER — While the town's Water Study Committee threatens to disband because it feels it has been sidestepped by town administration there is no move to re-form a committee that disbanded for a similar reason.

The Data Processing Committee disbanded in May after four members resigned because they felt town officials were not keeping them fully informed about related matters.

They termed it "a less-than-candid relationship between the town management and this committee" in a resignation letter.

Town Manager Robert Weiss said that nothing has happened about re-establishing the committee since the May resignations.

He said he was supposed to schedule a meeting with Leo Kwash, who served as chairman and was one

Educators Seeking Aid To Keep CETA Positions

MANCHESTER — The Board of Education will ask the Town Board of Directors for up to $36,819 to assure continuation of four teaching positions now funded under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

The board voted formally on the recommendation of School Superintendent James Kennedy Monday night. The recommendation was made in conjunction with a status report on the CETA program, which affects nine positions under the act.

Board member Peter Crombie was in favor of asking the Board of Directors for the entire amount. He said, "We have already handled a good portion of this program ourselves. We have gone more than half way."

He expressed reluctance to give up the idea of hiring the teacher for the gifted students a position which had been a priority on the board's budget improvements.

The Board of Directors organized a subcommittee Tuesday night to meet with the town administration to review the entire CETA program for the town in the near future.

CPEC Sees Rocky Road In State Budget Future

Aerosol Deaths Worry State Medical Examiner

HARTFORD (UPI) — The chief state medical examiner says he is disturbed by recent deaths of three young Connecticut adults who inhaled gas propellants in aerosol cans.

No deaths had attributed to aerosol gas in the past two years, until the three unrelated fatalities in the past few weeks. Dr. Elliot M. Gross said Tuesday.

"The fluorocarbon gas in these cans is extremely dangerous. The containers warn that inhalation may be fatal. I'm disturbed by this new outbreak of deaths," Gross said.

Inhalation of fluorocarbon produces a high, light-headed feeling, he said, and it was a popular form of drug abuse in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

To achieve the effect, persons spray the gas into bags and breathe in the fluorocarbons.

Gross said related deaths decreased when the danger of snif-

Opinion Political Apathy

A group of foreign nationals on a nationwide tour to observe the American electoral system visited Manchester this week.

The three men, a politician from Martinique and two journalists, one from Turkey and one from the Philippines, had been in the country for a little more than a week and their impressions were enlightening.

Part of a group of 19 persons from as many nations, the three men in a short period of time had made assessments of the American political climate.

Their first and the most frightening impression was that of apathy on the part of the American voter.

Apathy, in their eyes, reflected by the low voter turnout in recent elections.

The Filipino explained in his country, voting is now mandatory and he could not understand the complacency of the American public.

The Turkish journalist who also spoke of apathy said in Turkey, citizens are keenly aware of the political situation.

As the men spoke it became apparent in the short time they had been here they had made very astute observations as well as studying the background of American politics.

If the apathy of the American voter is so blatantly visible to foreign guests, it should also be apparent to the American voting public.

Action dispels apathy and in the political spectrum, action means voters voting.

It is not enough to simply complain about the political situation. Unless voters take action there will be no change and therefore no basis for the complaints.

In one of the most powerful nations of the world, it seems evident Americans should take pride in their right to vote.

They should prove to the rest of the world that America, a stronghold of liberty and democracy, will remain that due to the involvement of its citizens.

Canada and the United States export wheat. That fact gives North America a leverage on other grain markets it has not fully utilized, particularly in view of the cartel which formed around oil exports and similar moves afoot in developing countries to control prices on other commodities.

The question is, after working hard to discourage cartels of any kind do the United States and Canada want to form one of their own? And, if they did, what would be the consequences?

As far as some senators from the wheat-producing regions of both nations are concerned, the answer to the first question is yes. As for the second question, given the frequent grain shortages which occur in the world, the chances are good that a wheat cartel could make it prices stick.

There is more to the growing momentum by wheat producers and their legislative representatives to

Capital Fare

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — One reader denounced this space for "embracing the policies of King George III." Like a dozen other correspondents, he listed for residents of the District of Columbia "who are subjected to taxation without representation."

All were annoyed at a column opposing the Congressional amendment to the Constitution that would give D.C. full D.C. status by voting representation in the U.S. Senate and House.

The amendment is now before the 50 states for ratification.

Any response must address itself to the question posed in most of the letters: What difference will it make to the rest of the country if the amendment is ratified? The answer is simple. It will make no difference to people who don't give a hoot how big the federal government gets.

For the majority of D.C. residents ARE the federal government. This is a one-industry town; most of its inhabitants work for Uncle Sam. So, the bigger that industry, the more jobs there are. And, of course, the bigger the federal government, the heavier the burden on taxpayers from Maine to Hawaii.

Thus, ratification of the amendment would present the paradox of the D.C. representatives in Congress representing the interests of the federal government to the federal government. Senators and representatives from other states constantly must balance the claims of competing factions at home. District senators and representatives would consider first the interests of one block — the federal bureaucracy.

In fact, D.C. today has more representation than the states. The bureaucracy is always present, no matter which party is in power. Because the spending of federal money preserves and expands the bureaucracy, the bureaucracy has a deep and abiding interest in practically every bill before Congress.

For example, consider President Carter's efforts to establish a separate Department of Education. If the bill's sponsors needed only three votes for passage, those three votes would come from the District's two senators and one House member. An elected official does not vote against more jobs for his constituents.

There are certainly underprivileged people in the District, most of them black. But the majority — the government workers — is a privileged class. The bureaucracy is inflation-proof, thanks to annual cost-of-living adjustments in their wages. Their pension systems are astonishingly generous.

Washington is also a rich city. Only Alaska has a higher per capita income. It is laughable when Sen. Ted Kennedy declares that the "equal representation" amendment is needed "to help the poor." Thanks to a high welfare and unemployment compensation systems, the District's poor are much better off than those in most other states.

Anyway, the Constitution limits representation in Congress to "the states, but a federal enclave. It is, therefore, more to be compared to a Congressional district. Proponents of the amendment would make a teeny bit more sense if they campaigned to give D.C. a voting member of the House, like Congressional districts. That is no claim to two senators, which elsewhere represent a state, not a district.

In short, the amendment is a bumner. We need Big Brother government voting in Congress for more Big Brother government like we need cancer.

White House insiders insist Jimmy Carter is committed to a roll-back of those big Social Security tax hikes due in January.

He has been convinced, it is said, that no anti-inflation will get anywhere if it increases tax place. That's because business will pass on its extra tax costs to the consumer, triggering demands for more wage increases — and more inflation.

Congress would have to okay rollback. But chances of Congress going along would have been much better during its pre-election session. Given two years, voters will tend to forget that folks on Capitol Hill rejected an opportunity to save workers — and business — money.

I feel very strongly that my child and others like her should be considered and referred to as the school system's responsibility to educate.

I think it is most unfair to single these children out as being more of a "burden" than any other children who are in school.

It was not too long ago that the handicapped children were isolated from the educational mainstream, which merely compounded their problems.

As a parent of a handicapped child, I have been very encouraged and strengthened with the knowledge that there are now laws which require my child to receive a proper education.

I sincerely hope that these special education programs in the future are viewed positively by all concerned.

In this day and age, when there is much attention given to the issue of handicapped, it is time to remember that the handicapped people in this country also have rights.

Probe Uncovers Ethics Questions

By CHERYL ARVIDSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House and Senate investigations of South Korean influence-buying are over, but they have left serious questions about the ability of internal ethics committees to objectively monitor the conduct of their peers.

In the House, the scandal, once rumored to engulf some 115 current members, ended quietly with the vote to reprimand three California Democrats — Reps. John McFall, Charles Wilson and Edward Roybal.

The House ethics committee unanimously urged harsher punishment — a censure — for Roybal because he had lied repeatedly under oath, but the full House overrode the recommendation and softened his penalty to a reprimand.

In the Senate, the ethics committee's role of enforcing conduct codes to another agency, such as the Justice Department, although that might be the most desirable step.

Neither is the House or Senate likely to relinquish its control over the discipline of disciplinary action taken against a member in any misconduct cases. That means any possible reforms would have to come in the early stages of the probes.

One solution might be increasing the role of the special lawyers now hired to handle the evidence gathering stage of disciplinary investigations for the ethics committees.

Those lawyers now step into the field to assist the ethics committees, then submit their findings to the panels, then step aside as the committee members decide whether the charges are serious enough to warrant further action and if so, what charges are appropriate.

Then the same committee conducts the court-like hearings into the alleged misconduct and recommends the penalty.

With the charges already laid out, the ethics committees could sit as "judges," hearing the evidence, deciding which allegations were sustained and setting the appropriate penalty.

Of course, there is always the possibility of an over-zealous special prosecutor. But if he could be removed only by a vote of the full House or Senate or a unanimous vote of their ethics committees, the prosecutor would be given insurance against an arbitrary or capricious firing, and Congress would still have the ability to act if the prosecutor got out of line.

Painting Shingles on the Old Red Barn

A young painter was painting scenery in the late afternoon and the sun was gradually sinking in the western sky.

As the teacher walked by his easel he noticed that one of his pupils was busily applying his brush strokes in the painting of an old red barn. So he asked the painter, "Is that the barn that you painted in your last year's work?"

"Yes," the artist replied, "that is the barn that I painted in my last year's work."

"That is a very good painting," the teacher said. "You must choose between the old shingles on your red barn or the beautiful rays of the setting sun. This is only time for one or the other. You had better make your

Mrs. Anna Rose Gagliardi
EAST HARTFORD — Mrs. Anna Rose Gagliardi, 83, of 1922 Main St., died Monday at St. Joseph's Hospital and Medical Center. She was the widow of Rocco Gagliardi. Mrs. Gagliardi was born in Corteta, Province of Potenza, Italy, and lived in East Hartford for 26 years. She was a communicant of St. Mary's Church, East Hartford, and a member of the church's Ladies Guild. She was also a member of Congrega Di Maria SS. Delle Grazie of Hartford.

Survivors are a son, Rocco Daniel Gagliardi of East Hartford; a daughter, Mrs. Annette Dunn of East Hartford; a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Cataldi of Enfield and four granddaughters, all of East Hartford, and eight great-grandchildren. The funeral is Thursday at 8:15 a.m. from the Callahan Funeral Home, 1602 Main St., East Hartford, with a mass at 9 a.m. in St. Mary's Church. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, East Hartford.

Friends may call at the funeral home today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Miss Alrene T. Casey, HEBRON — Miss Alice T. Casey, 73, of 182 Wall St. died Tuesday in Manchester Hospital.

Miss Casey was born in Williamstown and lived in Hebron all her life. For the past seven years, she had spent her winters in Sarasota, Fla. She was employed in the Williamstown office of the Southern New England Telephone Co. for 43 years. At the time of her retirement in 1967, she was serving as assistant chief operator. She was a member of the Telephone Pioneers Club of America.

Survivors are a sister, Mrs. James M. Kelly of Columbia, and several nieces and nephews. The funeral is Thursday at 9:30 a.m. from the Potter Funeral Home, 458 Jackson St., Williamstown, with a mass at 10 a.m. in St. Joseph's Church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home today from 7 to 9 p.m. The family suggests that those wishing to make memorial gifts to the St. Joseph's Altar Fund. Mrs. Eugene P. Ayotte, EAST HARTFORD — Survivors of Mrs. Ruth Berube Ayotte, 38, of 63 Grande Road who died Monday, besides her husband include two brothers, whose names were inadvertently omitted from Tuesday's obituary in the Herald.

Survivors are her husband and two brothers, both of East Hartford. The funeral and burial were today. The Newkirk & Whitney Funeral Home, 318 Burnside Ave., East Hartford, was in charge of arrangements.

Body in River Not Identified
EAST HARTFORD — Police are still trying to identify a man whose body was pulled out of the river near East River Drive Tuesday afternoon. A police spokesman said today the man was described as 50 or 60 years old, 5-foot-9, 170 pounds, with reddish-brown hair. The man was wearing a dark jacket, plaid pants and black shoes. A pair of eyeglasses was found in his pocket.

Police were alerted to the finding at 3:45 p.m. and responded to the call along with the fire department. An autopsy will be performed by the medical examiner in Farmington today, the spokesman said.

Woman Dies, Hit by Auto
EAST HARTFORD — A 76-year-old local woman was fatally injured Tuesday after being hit by a car near her home on Brewer Street. Margarette E. Annan of 210 Brewer St. was pronounced dead on arrival at Hartford Hospital. She had returned from visiting her husband in the Silver Lane Pavilion on Applegate Lane at 9:15 p.m. After getting out of the cab, she crossed the street and was struck by the car. The driver, John I. Carozzo, 28, of Glastonbury, was not charged.

Petition Drive
WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — Anti-spending forces have gathered enough signatures to force a referendum on this community's recently approved $2.7 million bond issue. Mayor Anne P. Streeter said Tuesday a special town council meeting will be held next week to set a date for the referendum. The referendum is the latest in a series of obstacles thrown up by disgruntled taxpayers to block implementation of a budget. The same budget critics were successful last June in getting the town council to repeal a $5.3 million fiscal package for 1978-79. The town has been without a budget since its fiscal year began July 1.

Board Not Sure of Housing Needs

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Members of the Board of Directors Tuesday night expressed concern that the housing needs in town have not been properly documented. Housing goals based on these needs would be pursued until the needs were verified, board members said. So, they asked town officials involved in housing and planning to need and provide detailed information about housing needs in town. The directors spent two hours Tuesday night discussing housing policy goals proposed by the Community Development Advisory Committee.

First, though, Mayor Stephen Penny questioned whether the needs goals are based on an accurate. "We're trying to establish goals for needs we haven't even discussed," Penny said.

He and other directors questioned at length Jerry Altman, who serves as a consultant for Imaginex Inc. and who wrote the original housing study report. The study included needs for housing in Manchester.

Altman said that the data base for drawing up the report about housing needs was not as complete as it should be. This led to sometimes incomplete conclusions, he said.

Penny questioned whether the board could place any confidence in the housing goals report that followed the housing needs study. Altman said that the housing study was only one source of information that the goals are based on.

At the end of the two-hour meeting, the board requested that town officials, including Alan Mason, human services director, Dennis Phelan of the Manchester Housing Authority and Alan Lamson, town planner — provide more detailed information about the town's housing needs.

Penny recommended that each goal listed in the report be reviewed individually. "If the need is not established to my satisfaction, I'll reject the goal as part of the report," he said. The housing goals report lists several steps the town might take to reduce the need of housing in Manchester and provide a wider range of housing opportunity in town. Tuesday night's meeting also included a discussion of the approach to satisfying lower cost housing goals. Director Carl Zinsner spoke against any such government involvement. "The report is injecting too much money into the housing market. It seems to me the housing industry in Manchester has been getting along very well without government interference," Zinsner said.

College Student Injured In Movie Lot Incident

EAST HARTFORD — A 20-year-old Eastern Connecticut State College student was injured Tuesday night when he was dragged by an automobile against a chain link fence near a movie lot in Manchester.

The student was identified as Robert J. Gibeault, a member of the ECSC students, and both groups confronted each other near a stop sign in the parking lot. Police said the driver of the Chevrolet became panic-stricken and started to drive off. Gibeault jumped onto the car, but fell off when he was dragged against the fence.

The incident is still under investigation. Chevrolet occupied by three males sped by them. There was a verbal exchange between the occupants and the ECSC students, and both groups confronted each other near a stop sign in the parking lot.

Dental Clinic Prospect Declines

MANCHESTER — The Advisory Board of Health Tuesday declining to recommend a dental clinic prospect that would be located in the town of Manchester.

The board of health, which meets weekly, was informed by Dr. Walter M. Schardt, chairman of the health board, that he had received a letter from a prospective dentist, Dr. Robert Schardt, who proposed an interim clinic in their dental suite, where they would care for welfare patients. The proposed site would also help to determine if the need for a dental clinic exists. There was no action taken by the board Tuesday on Dr. Goodman's proposal, but Dr. Schardt expects a report from the dental committee next month on the proposal. In other business, Dr. Turek strongly suggested that if there are no funds available to keep the staff nurse, who is currently paid with money from the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, the board of health should propose to the board of directors that a health inspector be let go to release town funds. CETA funds could be wiped out by Nov. 30, but Ronald Kraatz, assistant health administrator, said he sees a gradual phaseout of CETA funds. Dr. Turek said that the staff nurse does many tasks which allow more time for Dr. Turek to do administrative work and plan health care programs.

At that meeting, local dentists Dr. Norman Dutton and Dr. Ronald Stephens said that the arrival in town of three new dentists plus an increased federal allowance to pay dentists who treat welfare patients, indicate that other welfare patients are being treated by private dentists. At the same meeting, Head School Nurse Lynne Gustafson said that so far this year, she had had no problem finding private dentists to take emergency welfare dental patients from school.

The idea of a dental clinic is located in the renovated Bentley School was abandoned recently when the cost was reported to be greatly in excess of the original estimate. Dr. Michael Goodman, a member of the dental committee, and his associates proposed an interim clinic in their dental suite, where they would care for welfare patients. Residents Seek Rehearing

MANCHESTER — Residents of Bigelow Street will ask for a rehearing of the town's zoning board decision to deny a rezoning application for a two-story, four-unit apartment building on the street.

The group and its attorney, Malcolm Barlow, believe they have uncovered material, including a recent conflict-of-interest for one voting ZBA member, that would require a new hearing.

The proposed rezoning division of property at 36-38 Bigelow St. Zoning Enforcement Officer Ernest Stephens ruled the rezoning is permissible, but the residents disagree and appealed Machell's ruling to the ZBA.

The board voted 4-1 to deny the appeal. The residents met Tuesday night with Barlow and agreed to ask the ZBA for a rehearing.

Barlow said that a conflict-of-interest has been found for one ZBA member.

Mr. Senkow was born in East Lyme and lived in Groton many years. He was a building contractor. Before he died, he was working on a subdivision in Waterford. He had built many homes in the Groton area, and recently constructed the On-The-Thames Motel-Hotel in Groton.

He was the foreman for the boardwalk construction at Ocean Beach Park after the park was destroyed in the 1938 hurricane. Other survivors are his wife, Mrs. Sophie Klinskow Senkow, another son, two brothers, a sister, and seven grandchildren.

The funeral is Friday at 9:15 a.m. from the Byles-Groton Memorial Home, 310 Thames St., Groton, with a mass at 10 a.m. in Sacred Heart Church, Groton. Burial will be in Col. Ledyard Cemetery, Groton.

Whistling in the Dark

Whistling in the dark following the New York Yankees' triumph over Los Angeles in the World Series was George Steinbrenner when he said this year's American League champions were "the greatest Yankee team of all-time."

So are Babe Ruth, Earle Combs, Herb Pennock and Waite Hoyt among the 1927-28 championship squads in baseball's shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y.?

Ask yourself now, would you prefer the current players over those who played under Manager Casey Stengel when the Yankees dominated the baseball world?

Yogi Berra did the catching for the likes of Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi, Ed Lopez and Joe Page, Hank Bauer, Mickey Mantle, Joe DiMaggio, Charlie Keller, Gene Woodling, Irv Noren and Jackie Jensen were in the outfield with Jerry Coleman, Phil Rizzuto, Billy Martin, Gil McDougald and Johnny Mize among the infielders in the '49-'53 span.

CCIL X-Country Title Won By Indians' Squad

By LEN AUSTER
 Herald Sports Editor

It took almost two decades but Manchester High is back at the summit where it used to exclusively live — atop the CCIL boys' cross country standings.

The Silk Towers captured the 1978 championship with a thorough 19-44 thrashing of nemesis Windham High yesterday at Center Springs Park. It's believed to be Manchester's first title effort since 1960 when the Indians were guided by Bob Sims.

"No question, we should have it," voiced pleased Manchester Head Coach George Sutor even before the first runner crossed the finish line, checking progress of the race The Sutor, in his fifth year, has come out on top against Windham.

"Everyone ran well today, it wasn't a case of just five guys. They did a real good job," Sutor stated. "I do feel we're ready for the states now. The last couple of weeks we've come along well."

"Eddie ran well today and I'm pleased to see Tim DeValve run as well as he did." DeValve, in his first race of the season, garnered eighth place with a 14:48 clocking. The junior had been sidelined with a severe case of shingles and had only been running for about two weeks.

Junior Jim Grzymkowski took third place for the Silk Towers, only 17 seconds behind Lemieux, with Dave Timbrell, Paul Johnson, John Lahda and Doug Meek following in order. Joe Neubelt took 10th place and sophomore Dave DeValve 12th. Windham winds up 6-2 in the league and sports a 9-6 overall mark.

Results: 1. Lemieux (M), 14:00 (MHS school record); 2. Grzymkowski (M), 14:17; 3. Grzymkowski (M), 14:28; 4. Timbrell (M), 14:43; 5. Johnson (M), 14:49; 6. Lahda (M), 14:54; 7. Meek (M), 15:07; 8. DeValve (M), 15:14; 9. McCrowell (W), 10. Neubelt (M), 15:44.

"We ran two races without Eddie," Sutor noted, "and it took a lot of the kids but they did the job." DeValve, in his first race of the season, garnered eighth place with a 14:48 clocking. The junior had been sidelined with a severe case of shingles and had only been running for about two weeks.

Whalers Keep Unbeaten Pace

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Floyd Smith, coach of the Cincinnati Stingers, is sure the New England Whalers would be a terrific team if their ageless center Gordie Howe was still a young man. Howe tallied the first goal in his team's 2-1 World Hockey Association win over the Stingers Tuesday night on a play setup by his son Mark and Andre Lacroix. "It's fortunate for this league that he's not the player I remember," Smith said about past times when he and Howe were teammates on the powerful Red Wings of the rival National Hockey League. They parted ways after the 1968 campaign. "He's a strong, strong man," Smith said. After Howe scored at 1:04, Lacroix battled in what proved to be the deciding tally just 59 seconds later. Cincinnati rallied later in the first period, when Peter Marsh mustered his hot scoring pace. The big winger got his seventh goal in six games at 8:34, but two clubs failed to get on the scoreboard the rest of the way as 4,544 hockey fans watched. "This team is not going to fold up or quit," Smith said. "They tried their hardest and it simply wasn't their night. We will have a few more games against them this season." Rick Dudley, the captain of the Stingers, said "It was a good hockey game but unfortunately we were on the wrong end. Concerning the two quick New England goals, he said, "We had a had shift that killed us. They (Whalers) were anticipating what we were going to do, consequently we didn't get the puck into their end properly."

Tie Pleases One Coach, Not Other

NEW YORK (UPI) — Philadelphia Coach Bob McCammon was pleased New York Islander Coach Al Arbour was visibly upset. A tie in the National Hockey League means different things to different people. "Of course it would have been better to win," said McCammon after his Flyers earned a 2-2 tie with the Islanders on Long Island last night. "They're (the Islanders) the defending champs of our division and we intend to overtake them. We wanted a win or a tie in their building because we feel we can take them to our building." At the other end of the Nassau Coliseum hallway, Arbour was angry with the effort — or lack of it — shown by his club. "If you don't work, you don't make things happen," said the usually-calm Arbour. "I want our club to

Bullpen Aided Perry Gaining Young Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gaylord Perry, with an admitted assist from an eager bullpen, has become the first pitcher to win the Cy Young Award in both leagues — and the oldest as well. The 40-year-old Perry, whose 21-6 record for the 40-year-old pitcher in both leagues is a record. Perry was named first pitcher to win the Cy Young Award in both leagues — and the oldest as well. Perry's impressive win-loss mark and 2.72 earned run average, Perry, who was acquired by the Padres from the Texas Rangers in January for reliever Dave Tomlin, also passed two other milestones in 1978. On June 21, he notched his 25th career victory, and by striking out 10 Los Angeles Dodgers in his final start of the season, he became only the third pitcher in major league history to pass 3,000 lifetime strikeouts. His total of 3,001 ranks behind only Walter Johnson and Tom Seaver. "The awards are starting to add up — the no-hitter, winning 15 games in a row, winning over 100 games in each league and the 3,000 strikeouts," he said. "But this is the second Cy Young award." Perry was named first on 22 ballots by the BBWAA. Hooton, who won 19 games for the Dodgers, got no first-third with 17 points was San Francisco's Vida Blue, who, overtook former pitcher Tom Seaver for the honor as the first pitcher to win the Cy Young in both leagues. Houston's 18-game winner J.R. Richard was fourth with 13 points and Pittsburgh Pirate reliever Kent Tekulue was fifth with 12.

only every shift of six or seven players and they only had five or six playing like that in the first two periods. We were so nonchalant that we made dumb plays." The Islanders were forced to come back in order to maintain their modest four-game unbeaten streak. Bryan Trottier's power play goal 28 seconds into the third period knotted the count and the game ended in a tie, even though both teams seemed bent on giving it away the rest of the period. Glenn Resch, who looked shaky in surrendering the four goals on just 15 shots in the first two periods, was willing to accept the blame.

Webster 'New Look' Pays Off for Knicks

NEW YORK (UPI) — It isn't easy to look Marvin Webster straight in the eye, but the 7-foot center for the New York Knicks says he can feel himself playing better because of a new pair of contact lenses. Webster, who said he has astigmatism of the right eye, wears the lenses for the first time Tuesday night against Atlanta and led the Knicks to a 113-109 victory over the Hawks. It was Webster's finest all-around game of the young season. "I had a lot more confidence on the court tonight," said Webster after his 20 points, 10 rebounds and six blocked shots. "I can focus a lot better on the basket. I feel comfortable, not only in seeing better, but in

Major Hoople's Football Forecast

By Major Amos B. Hoople
Football Forecaster
Egad, friends, your Fearless Football Forecaster has a special treat for you. Once each fall we share our forum with my perspicacious nephews Alvin and Leander. The lads are well-versed in pigskin prognostication having had 'em schooled in the rare privilege of rubbing elbows with their football-erudite Uncle over the years — um-kump! For reasons best known to themselves, the boys have developed their expertise along geographic lines. Alvin likes football as it is played in the East, the Midwest, and the South. Leander prefers the teams from the Southwest, the Big Eight Conference and the West Coast. With that we'll turn over to the boys, with Alvin leading off: "There's a batch of big games in my area, Uncle Amos, with the spotlight shining brightest on the Maryland-Duke showdown meeting the Southeastern and the Georgia-Kentucky League, Harvard will take the measure of Princeton, 28-21. Litwin Wins Grid Contest

Despite another week of ups and downs, Jerry Litwin of 69 Shannon Rd., East Hartford, was still able to tag eight of the 14 games correctly to win The Herald's weekly "Beat the Expert" football contest involving National League teams. Litwin is the third straight winner from East Hartford and he is now eligible for next season's end. The weekly prize is $15 in merchandise.

Gordie Howe Speaker Here Saturday Night

"Mr. Hockey," Gordie Howe, will make his first public speaking appearance in Manchester Saturday night in the headline role at the annual Sports Night of the Manchester Lodge of Masons at the Masonic Temple. A dinner is slated at 6:15. Proceeds will go to the lodge's scholarship fund. Howe, the ageless veteran of play sports and on the TV screen in both the National Hockey League and the World Hockey Association, is currently starting with the New England Whalers at 688-2681. He's one of the sports all-time greats. Despite the advanced age of 50, Howe still takes his regular shift on the ice and last season led the Whalers in scoring. Howe's remarks will follow a film on the Whalers with a question and answer period to be handled by WTIC sportscaster Arnold Denn. Tickets are still available and may be purchased by calling Warren Potter at 649-2901, Bill Bryce at 643-0384 or Russ McCallahan at 568-2681. The committee expects 300 men, women and children to attend.

East Hartford Men Pace Turkey Shoot

The East Hartford Sportsmen held the fifth in a series of turkey shoots Sunday. The trap shooting trophy was won by Roger Nolet of East Hartford who shot a perfect score of 25. Eleven people walked away with turkeys after competing in the lucky targets events and in addition the trophy prize was won by James Emerson of East Hartford. The day's special was won by Michael Bai of East Hartford. Winners in the lucky target events included Edward Brett, George Clavette, Ronald Courtis, St. Laurer Zuhauskas, all of East Hartford. Also winning were Gary Jankopick of Rockville, Joseph Muller of Glastonbury, Mike Saravano of Hebron and Everett Rorifers of South Windsor. Shoots are held every Sunday from noon to dusk at the club's grounds located in the North Meadows of East Hartford. The area may be reached by following signs posted in the north end of town. The parks are free admission and parking are free and refreshments are available. Safety is stressed and a variety of targets are available in open trap shooting to suit both the novice, intermediate and the expert shooter. Trophies and prizes are given each Sunday.

Status in Doubt

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Rookie Jim Chaidis, a wide receiver for the St. Louis Cardinals, underwent surgery for internal bleeding Tuesday and may miss the rest of the season. The Cardinals said Chaidis was visiting relatives in Petersburg, Va., when the injury was noticed. He underwent surgery at Petersburg General Hospital for stomach bleeding.

Blowout Ends Test

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Danny Ongas Tuesday was the first driver to test the newly repaved surface at Daytona International Speedway — but a blown tire sent him into a 1,000-foot spin and ended the test prematurely. Ongas of Costa Mesa, Calif., was in a turbo-powered Porsche 935 when a tire on the right side blew as he entered the high northeast bank. Ongas kept the machine away from the wall during the violent skid that covered 1,000 feet and managed to stop unhurt.

Injured List

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Broncos said second-year pro Ron Egloff will be placed on the injured reserve list to make room for a new tight end on the roster. Coach Red Miller said Tuesday the decision was made to put Egloff on the injured reserve list after he became apparent his recuperation from a pulled hamstring would last the rest of the season.

Forbes to Stingers

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Stingers purchased left wing Dave Forbes from the Washington Capitals of the National Hockey League Tuesday. Forbes, a 5-foot-10, 175-pounder, is expected to join the World Hockey Association team this week but not in time to play against Quebec Wednesday night.

Free Agent

BOSTON (UPI) — Pitches Luis Tiant, seeking a multi-year contract at age 38, has decided to become a free agent, the Boston Globe reported Tuesday. Tiant has told Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players' Association, he wants his name placed on the free agent list for the Nov. 3 draft. The Red Sox would not comment on the move, but indicated they still were interested in Tiant. "It doesn't mean he's not interested in us or we're not interested in him," said Dick Brezian, assistant public relations director. Tiant has been the most consistent Red Sox pitcher the past few years. He has won 20 games three times for the Sox while compiling a 128-81 record since joining the club last in 1971. The wily veteran, who will turn 39 on Nov. 23, has reportedly been offered a one-year contract by the Red Sox. He has a lifetime record of 204-148.

Doctor's Nightmare Ends With Acquittal

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UPI)—The nightmare began 12 years ago for Dr. Mario E. Jascalevich. It ended Tuesday in a Bergen County court room when a jury cleared him of charges he murdered three patients with overdoses of curare.

The six-man, six-woman panel found the surgeon innocent of charges he administered lethal doses of curare to three patients at Riverview Hospital in Oradell, N.J. Farber was jailed for 40 days for refusing to turn over his notes on the case.

The surgeon's trial — the longest criminal case in New Jersey's history — began in February. It combined the mystery and drama of murder-by-poison with a constitutional confrontation pitting the right of a free press against the right of a defendant to a fair trial.

The panel deliberated just over two hours before returning the verdict in the sensational murder trial. The audience broke into applause.

"Thank God, justice is done," Jascalevich said. He flashed a broad smile and blew a kiss to his wife.

Airlines Scrambling As Regulations End

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Carter has jubilantly signed the end to 40 years of federal control — and protection — of the airlines, and carriers were poised today for an "Oklahoma land rush" scramble to claim idle air routes.

Representatives of more than a dozen airlines have camped in line outside the Civil Aeronautics Board for a week, day and night, rain and shine, through heat and cold, to reap this first reward of the airline deregulation law.

CAB officials said they would be admitted this morning — some trying to hang onto non-stop routes their lines have not used, others seeking to take over routes their competitors no longer serve.

The first carrier to ask for a specific dormant route will get it, but each must serve all the routes it requests.

United Airlines, the nation's largest carrier, was first in line. CAB Chairman Alfred Kahn — who fought for deregulation and now is being sought by Carter as the nation's top inflation fighter — was laughingly departing after the signing of the deregulation bill. He said the scramble for unused routes would be like "a second Oklahoma land rush."

Singing Driver Fired By Connecticut Transit

HARTFORD (UPI)—Connecticut Transit's "singing busdriver," widely known for his cheery demeanor as he runs his bus to a sour note with the firm.

Benford C. Stellmacher said Tuesday he has been fired for allegedly mishandling an estimated $8 in fares on his New Britain to Hartford trip.

He admitted violating some company rules and accepting cash fares. But, the associate manager at Hartford's Mount Olive Baptist church vehemently denied stealing any of the firm's money.

Transit officials confirmed Stellmacher was fired Thursday, but refused further comment.

The driver said he allowed two under-cover bus company security personnel to give him dollar bills when told they didn't have any change for the 50-cent fare.

Pictures Win Prizes

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Art Association has chosen the following pictures as winners for October:

First place — "Cape Ponopone," a watercolor by Sister Eileen Gillian, at Mary Cheney Library.

Three works were tied for second place. They are: "Autumn Leaves," mixed medium by Louise Frignano, at Johnson Paint Co.; "Out and Dried," acrylic by Kit Starr, at Savings Bank of Manchester on Main Street; and "Spring Bouquet," in pastels by Mary Daly, at the First Federal Savings on West Middle Turnpike.

Gov. Ella Grasso has taken several trips with him, and she and three mayors gave Stellmacher proclamations commending his efforts to improve the image of mass transit and increase bus ridership. "I just want my job back," he said. "I want to make the happy bus happy again."

UFO in Australia

Officials Deny Cover-Up

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI)—Officials today denied they were withholding a vivid description of an unidentified flying object given to air controllers by a young pilot who said an alien craft was chasing him. The pilot then vanished.

A stepped-up land, sea and air search has turned up no sign of the pilot, Frederick Valentich, 20, or his single-engine Cessna 182 aircraft. Radio contact was lost as he was flying from Melbourne to King Island, 130 miles to the south, shortly after 7 p.m. Saturday.

The nationally circulated newspaper The Australian reported the Department of Transportation was withholding parts of the tape-recorded conversation between Valentich and controllers.

According to the department's transcript of the conversation, Valentich began to describe the object he said was hovering above him over Bass Strait.

The transcript reads, "It's not an aircraft. It's ... [break in transmission]."

The newspaper said a Transport Department source, which it did not identify, indicated there was no break in transmission, and that the pilot went on to describe the UFO in detail.

A spokesman later denied the recorded conversation had been released.

"The text of the radio messages between the aircraft and the ground began when the pilot requested the flight service unit at Melbourne airport for information on other traffic below 5,000 feet," the spokesman said.

"It finishes about six minutes later at 7:12 p.m. when the aircraft did not respond to further calls from the ground."

The pilot's father, Guido Valentich, said he had been told only part of the tapes had been made public, and he believes his son is alive "and being held by someone from another world."

"They may be waiting for me for a week or so before returning him," Valentich said.

"I have been told the tapes contain a lot more about the UFO and that my son's voice was calm right through the transmission."

In the transcript released by the Department of Transport, the pilot described the UFO as a long object with "a green light and sort of metallic light on the outside ... flying at a speed I cannot estimate."

Officials say Valentich may have been flying upside down and seeing reflections of the King Island and Cape Otway lightships in clouds when he was describing the UFO.

Ahearn Is Farmers' Friend; Urges Them to Stay on Land

BOLTON—Al Ahearn, Democratic candidate for state representative from the 55th Assembly District, urges the encouraging of farmers to stay on the land.

Ahearn, a former legislator, said as a member of the legislature's Environment Committee, he co-sponsored the first Agricultural Preservation bill to pass in 1975.

He said farmers need to be encouraged, not discouraged. "Preserving our farmland is the key to the future of our society. Connecticut depends heavily on local farmers for dairy products, apples, vegetables, and poultry products," he said.

Ahearn commends farmers as the basis of America's strength. If I am returned to the legislature I will do all I can to help our farmers. Any other policy would be contrary to the best interests of all of our people," he said.

Ahearn will be running again as a Republican incumbent Dorothy Miller. The 55th District includes the towns of Andover, Bolton, Columbia, Hebron, Marlborough, and part of Vernon.

Ahearn has expressed interest in efforts to attract new industry and create new jobs in the state, making a stronger commitment to clean up air and water pollution; distributing state funds more fairly to that poorer towns can provide a good education for all of the children; increasing state assistance to allow rural towns to develop effective police protection.

Also, a restructuring of the tax system to reduce the dependency on local property taxes and to feel an income tax is not the answer; giving serious thought to the elimination of the sales tax for all citizens over 65; welfare reform, taking measures to eliminate fraud and inefficiency; and reducing waste and red tape for greater efficiency in running the government.

After dinner.....

South Windsor Field Service (AFS) students at South Windsor High School were treated to a spaghetti supper Friday night at the school. Proceeds from the supper, to which the public was invited, will benefit AFS. The students are, front row, Jose Benite of Spain;

Vivi Cachias of Chile; Matthias Hilsle of Germany; and Francois Schepmans of Belgium. Rear, Hisaya Sugiyama of Japan; Keiran Barrett of Australia; and Juan Pedrini of Argentina. (Herald photo by Strempler)

Candidates Speak on Issues

SOUTH WINDSOR—There will be three opportunities for South Windsor voters to examine the positions of local candidates before Election Day.

On Thursday, a Candidate Night will be held at 8 p.m. in the Council Chambers at Town Hall, 1540 Sullivan Ave., sponsored by the League of Women Voters. League members will moderate and questions will be accepted from the floor.

The second opportunity voters will have will be during the week of Oct. 30, when WINV will air individual interviews with the General Assembly candidates, incumbent Abraham Glassman and John Mitchell. These state interviews will be taped the week before air time.

What is the most important problem facing the citizens of your district? Can you suggest any solutions?

In view of the present taxpayers efforts to ease the burden of taxes, to which state programs would you give highest priority?

Would you favor a referendum or legislation designed to place a general limitation on state government spending? If so, how?

What sources of funds should be used to implement a program of educational equalization?

In view of the Connecticut towns' option to reject landfill sites within their boundaries, how should the state handle its growing volume of solid waste?

League to Sponsor Candidate's Night

VERNON—The League of Women Voters will sponsor a "Meet the Candidates" night Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Nye Street fire station.

Candidates from the 35th, 36th, and 37th Assembly District and from the 35th Senatorial District have been invited to speak. Following the speeches the public will be invited to ask questions of any of the candidates.

Republican incumbent, Dorothy Miller, represents the 35th district which includes a section of Vernon. Her Democratic opponent is Aloysius Ahearn, both are of Bolton.

Democratic state Rep. Chester Morgan is seeking re-election to a second term from the 36th District. His Republican opponent is Nancy Osborn. This district is one entire section of Vernon.

Teresale Bertinson of East Windsor, Democrat, is seeking re-election to a third term as state representative from the 37th District, which also includes a portion of Vernon. Her Republican opponent is Kathleen McGuire of Ellington.

Michael Schlegel of Tolland, a Democrat and Andrew Repko of Willington, Republican are running against each other for the 35th senatorial seat.

League to Sponsor Candidate's Night

A food store employing five persons and having less than 5,000 square feet of space, can stay open on Sunday yet the same store employing six persons, must remain closed.

He said that during his two years of service on the General Law Committee, he had had the opportunity to hear the testimony of hundreds of people on the Sunday closing laws.

Overwhelmingly, they favor freedom of choice on whether to be open or closed on Sunday. Accordingly, I intend to sponsor legislation in the upcoming session to repeal the Blue Laws," Morgan said.

Morgan is seeking re-election against Nancy Osborn, Republican, in Vernon's 36th District.

Repeal of Blue Laws Supported by Morgan

VERNON—Democratic State Representative Chester Morgan has announced his support for repeal of the Blue Laws which prohibit some businesses from opening on Sundays.

The current Blue Laws, which I voted against in the 1978 legislative session, have again created doubt and indecision about for businessmen and prosecuting authorities in every recent legislative session, the General Assembly has attempted to grapple with the problem of Sunday closings. The result has been a series of laws, none of which has withstood constitutional attack," Morgan said.

He termed the present law "totally discriminatory." He gave as an example that for the first portion and then assemble at the Wolcott Building with their classes for the remaining portion of the service.

A coffee hour is hosted in the lower hall each week by one of the church families. Baby-sitting is provided for infants.

P/E Meeting
VERNON—The Committee on Public Education (COPE) will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Stop & Shop on Route 30.

The meeting will discuss parental involvement in the schools, the Board of Education survey results, and Proposition 13.

The public is invited to attend.

Police Report
VERNON—During the week of Oct. 6 through 12, the Vernon police Department investigated eight burglaries. The estimated value of goods taken was $6,900.

The breaks were into homes on Huntington Drive, Forrestview Drive, Orchard Street, Robert Road, Grand Avenue, Davis Avenue, and an apartment on Talcottville Road plus a business on Union Street.

Supports Dwyer
VERNON—Corina Lane of Campbell Avenue, has announced her support for the election of Edmund Dwyer, former Veron Police Chief, to the post of sheriff of Tolland County. Dwyer, a Republican, is running against Democratic incumbent Frank Curran.

Ms. Lane said Dwyer would make a fine high sheriff because of his past year experience in police work. "His training and knowledge resulted in a well-protected Vernon-Rockville area for many years," she said.

Robert Bryda, Veteran's coordinator for Sarasin for Governor, also announced his support for Dwyer. He said of Dwyer, "During his years of police work in Vernon, he was well-known for his ability, integrity and congeniality."

Sales, Earnings Rise at Lydall

MANCHESTER—Lydall Inc. has announced third quarter 1978 sales of $23 million, a 51 percent increase over the same period last year. The company earned $726,000 for the quarter, 13 percent higher than the third quarter of 1977. On a per-share basis, Lydall earned 38 cents compared to 33 cents for the same quarter last year.

While earnings per share were 15 percent higher than last year, results were not as strong as anticipated, the company said. The Fiber Materials Group's profits were 52 percent higher than last year, but results of the Sphero Group and the Packaging Group were off slightly from the previous year.

The Sphero Group's ball operations were considerably ahead, but its steel rack business, which is still encountering cost and production problems, posted a small operating loss. The Packaging Group achieved record sales of injected-molded applicators and made excellent progress in completing the Barrington, New Jersey plant reorganization.

During the period, the Formed Products Group's well-timed new product operations were shifted to the Fiber Materials Group, and the newly acquired Western Acadia Division was divided into separate fiber and elastomer divisions. Because none of the units of the Formed Products Group were profitable this time last year, a comparison of third quarter 1977 results with the group's third quarter 1978 results is meaningless, the company said.

The group showed a profit for the period this year and has initiated a number of programs aimed toward significantly improving performance.

Congress enacted legislation this fall which enables the company to determine when to manufacture the use of nontoxic steel shot for hunting waterfowl. Most eastern states have elected to remain in the nontoxic steel shot program. However, indications are that most western states not yet in the program will elect not to require hunters to use nontoxic steel shot. This suggests that the demand for Ecoshot, one of the company's fastest growing products, will stabilize, at least for the near future.

Business

Helped Win Award
MANCHESTER—William E. Sullivan, sales manager and vice president of The Purdy Corp., was largely responsible for the achievement award presented recently to the company by one of its customers, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft of Canada Ltd.

The award, presented annually, was instituted by the Canadian firm to recognize the best performers within the ranks of its many suppliers in Canada, the U.S., and abroad.

Sullivan has been with Purdy 10 years. He lives with his wife, Cassandra, and four children at 165 Clinton Drive, South Windsor.

The Purdy Corporation was founded in 1946 by the late John M. Purdy Sr., who was later joined by his two sons John M. Purdy Jr. and G. Jeffrey Purdy, who now operate the business.

The Purdy Corp. has served the commercial, defense, aerospace, and other related industries more than 32 years in the manufacture of close tolerance machined parts.

Solar Energy Used In NU's New Center

TOLLAND—The Northern Regional office and Service Center of Northeast Utilities, being built on Stage Road, will utilize solar energy.

When completed sometime next summer, the new center will use a heat pump system for heating and cooling but also will contain an operating demonstration installation for heating with solar energy.

Donald C. Switzer, vice chairman for the firm, said the installation will provide a working model from which it can measure the actual performance of a solar-assisted heating system.

The roof of the complex will have 80 solar collectors with reflectors to heat the office portion of the center. A large tank will be installed to hold the solar-heated water. The heat pump will take the sun's heat collected by the rooftop units and convert it into high-temperature energy.

Switzer said that the application of solar energy is attractive to this type of building system since a relatively low temperature, 70 to 90 degrees, is required for the water source for the heat pumps. He said an electric boiler will be used as a backup source on days when the sun doesn't shine.

Extensive instrumentation and data recording equipment will be installed to allow the utilities firm to monitor the solar system's performance and to help evaluate its cost-effectiveness.

About 168 employees will work in the new regional center which will contain about 45,000 square feet.

Joins Realty Firm

MANCHESTER—James F. Shaw has joined the real estate firm of E.R.A. Blanchard & Rossetto Inc., 189 W. Center St., and will manage the firm's new office at 232 Burnside Ave., East Hartford.

LEND AN ARM

We don't want it for long. We do want it for life. For the life of some patient in a hospital here or in a nearby community.

You see, it's more than your arm itself that's important to us. It's what can come from your arm.

That's blood. Blood that can mean life to an infant, a student, a parent, a retiree. Or maybe all of them.

We're not fussy whether it's your right or left arm you prefer to lend us. We're looking for the arm that stretches out to hug people back to health. You can help us find it.

SOUTH WINDSOR—The South Windsor Square Dance Club will have its Halloween dance Friday from 8 to 11 p.m. at Wapping Elementary School. Cliff Broeder will call for the squares and Russ and Anita White will cue the rounds.

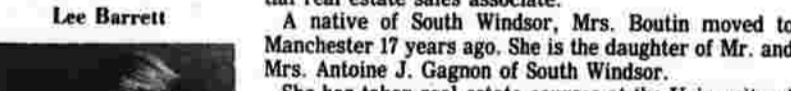

Story Hour
The preschool story hour program at the Avery Street Christian Reformed Church will begin Thursday. The programs for children age four and over will be at the church monthly from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Each story hour will consist of a Bible story, crafts, games, songs and refreshments. There is no fee, but it is suggested that children register in advance. For preregistration call the church, 644-896.

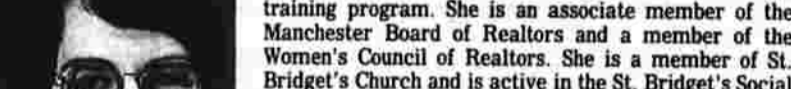

Church Schedule
SOUTH WINDSOR—The First Congregational Church will be holding services at 10 a.m. for the fall through spring season. Children will attend church

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your advice that mothers should give their daughters sex education is ludicrous. If a daughter confides to her mother that she is shopping to support a drug habit, would you see advice the mother to instruct her daughter on how to shoplift without getting caught?
If not, may I say that sex without marriage is just as morally wrong as shoplifting and drug use.

DEAR RIGHT: Wrong! The crime of shoplifting cannot be equated with the crime of premarital sex. I hear from enough teenagers to know that once they have gone all the way with someone they think they love, they will continue to have sex every chance they get. The sex drive is one of the most powerful of all natural urges. It is the responsibility of every parent to teach their children ALL the facts in order to protect them from VD and accidental pregnancies.
Uninformed kids who are sexually active lead place a massive sex and health burden on society with the problems of VD and unwanted children.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old and want to become a famous actress. I think I would be very good at it because ever since I was a little girl I have been very good at 'pretending' and that is what acting is, isn't it? Do I have to finish high school to be an actress?
FUTURE ACTRESS
DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to say that several years ago she falsified her birth date on her driver's license because she didn't want her husband to know how old she was, and now that she's eligible for Social Security she's afraid to apply for fear they will revoke her driver's license, fine her, or put her in jail.
She asked what the penalty would be if she confessed, and you said all she had to do was send a copy of her birth certificate to the department of motor vehicles, and all would be forgiven and forgotten.
It's not quite that simple. In most states (and certainly in Missouri) it is a misdemeanor to falsify one's driver's license. Minors have been known to do this in order to pass for legal age to buy alcoholic beverages.
Perhaps the lady who falsified her driver's license by deducting a few years committed no serious offense, but minors who falsify their driver's licenses should be made aware that this is a very serious offense which should not be taken lightly.

DEAR READER: Thanks for making an important point which I overlooked.
If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send it to a long, stamped 25 cent envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

The answer was that if South were to break 3-3 his fourth spade would give him a parking place for a diamond. Declarer quickly drew two rounds of trump. He could see no losers in hearts or clubs. But there was a trump loser in both diamonds and spades.
Could he use the spade suit to eliminate the diamond loser?
The answer was that if South were to break 3-3 his fourth spade would give him a parking place for a diamond. Declarer quickly drew two rounds of trump. He could see no losers in hearts or clubs. But there was a trump loser in both diamonds and spades.
Could he use the spade suit to eliminate the diamond loser?
The simple play when you hold queen-jack opposite the ace is to lead the queen or jack for a finesse, but that play can do no good here. Whether or not the finesse works South is sure to lose a spade. So the winning play is to draw trump and lead a spade from his own hand toward dummy.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag
South opened one club because he considered his hand, which contained all four aces, too good to open no trump. The tendency of most players when holding all four aces is to add another point to their hand. The remainder of the auction was a slam-bang affair that ended in a slam with poor possibilities. However, declarer's chances improved when the opening lead of the 10 of diamonds.
