Although the grass is still a little green, these three young people are "thinking snow" as they model winter outfits they will be wearing in "Autumn's Forecast of Fashion" a fashion show to be sponsored Nov. 4 at 12:30 p.m. at Willie's Steak House. GOP Candidate Says Foe Wrong on Hike

VERNON — Nancy Osborn, Republican candidate for state representative from Vernon's 5th District, today challenged a claim by her opponent concerning the state budget and state grants.

Mrs. Osborn is seeking election over incumbent Democrat Chester Morgan. She said Morgan claimed that a 14.4 percent increase in the state budget and a 14.4 percent increase in state grants to towns do not equal one another.

"A percent of $1.915 billion does not equal 14 percent of $483 million, and membership on the Finance Committee will not make $150," Mrs. Osborn said. Morgan serves on the Legislative Finance Committee.

Mrs. Osborn explained that while she is well aware that Vernon received about $600,000 in state aid, "This was not our fair share of the amount allotted by the General Assembly. Vernon lost about $127,000 from state grants because out-of-date population figures were used," she said.

She said that Morgan voted against using more up-to-date population figures and added that since Vernon has grown about 40 percent since 1970, this vote took money away from Vernon in favor of towns which have not grown. "The $157,000 lost represents almost one mill in property taxes," Mrs. Osborn reminds voters.

School Board Eyes Committee Changes

VERNON — The Board of Education will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Middle School and one of the items scheduled for discussion will be a proposal to change the format of the board's committees.

The Personnel Policies Committee was directed this week to draft a proposal for presentation to the entire board based on matters discussed at the committee meeting.

Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools since last July, has proposed that the board eliminate its existing standing permanent committees except Personnel Policies and Budget Committees.

He further suggested that other areas that now have full committees could be changed to appoint board members to act as liaisons to the school administration and that person would become the board's expert in that particular area such as transportation, curriculum, building and grounds.

Daniel Wodwich, who was re-elected chairman at the last meeting of the board, said he had plans to change the format of the meetings also.

Ahearn Says Miller Refuses to Debate

BOLTON — Aloysius Ahearn, Democratic candidate for state representative from the 55th District, this week criticized his Republican opponent, Dorothy Miller, for turning down an invitation to discuss the issues with him at a public forum.

Ahearn said Mrs. Miller, who is seeking re-election, said in a response to him, "My experience over the years has shown that there is very little interest in such a confrontation even with a sponsoring group to supply an audience."

Ahearn said he issued the invitation formally on Oct. 5 and again in a formal letter on Oct. 16 and "In her Oct. 22 reply, Mrs. Miller said her time was completely taken up."

Ahearn expressed regret that "Dot Miller sees no value in a public discussion of the issues. I totally disagree with her on the value of such discussions. That's what a political campaign is all about to give the voters a chance to see, hear, and question their candidates."

He said he is sure voters would like to know why Mrs. Miller voted against the Property Tax Relief Bill which returned $20 million from state surplus to the towns in the state.

"If it weren't for that money, every town would have had to increase their tax rate by at least one mill," Ahearn said, while stating he would also like to know why she voted against increasing the state's share of local school building costs. He said both bills were good legislation and passed both houses of the legislature easily.

Town Sets Study In Historic Area

MANCHESTER — The town can begin work soon on a planning study involving the Cheney National Historic District.

Town officials received word Friday that the Connecticut Historical Commission has approved a $23,000 survey and planning grant for the town to use for the historic district work. The town will match that grant with $23,000 that will come from Community Development funds.

The study will be the first step for revitalizing the entire Cheney area and tie it in with the rest of the town.

A consultant will be hired to do the study work. The work in the district area will aim to maintain and preserve the historic significance of the buildings and the surrounding property.

Grasso Strikes Back On Crime Rate Issue

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella Grasso tried to arrest opponent Ronald Sarasin's "war on crime" Friday by producing a letter his office sent a constituent saying there was little government could do about crime.

Sarasin, a three-term Republican congressman from Beacon Falls, said Mrs. Grasso quoted the April 18, 1977, letter out of context and challenged her to read it in full as he was in their third televised debate.

Mrs. Grasso said the letter from Sarasin did not name asked about the rising crime rate and Sarasin said the problem was "serious" but "cannot be easily resolved, either by politicians or local officials."

"There is no research to support the view that crime could be dramatically reduced by some specific governmental action," the governor read from Sarasin's letter.

"Neighbors should contact each other if they see anything suspicious going on and contact your local police," she said, again reading from the letter.

Sarasin, who has accused Mrs. Grasso, a Democrat, of being soft on crime, said she quoted the letter out of context. He said he meant that crime was caused by more than one factor.

At one point, he tried to grab the letter from the governor's hand, but Mrs. Grasso yanked it back.

"Have we got time, we'll read it all," she said. Time did not allow Mrs. Grasso to read the entire letter in the live debate on WTVT, Channel 30.

In response to another question, Sarasin said he has no feelings "one way or the other" about expanding or putting the lid on gambling in Connecticut.

Sarasin's running mate, state Sen. Lewis Rome, has called for a ban on new gaming facilities. Asked if he agreed with Rome, Sarasin replied: "I am not uncomfortable one way or the other. I think Lew feels a little more strongly about it than I do, and that's fine."

Sarasin said approval of dog tracks should be left to local communities, but said a second dog track might not be a bad idea.

Mrs. Grasso said she would not approve any legislation to expand gambling in the state, but said attempts to remove what gambling already exists would be difficult.

"I understand that there is a wide range of public opinion that disagrees" with removing present gambling facilities, she said. "I do think it would be possible to put a stop to new forms of gambling."

The two also covered topics that have been part of the campaign from the start — a state income tax, both are opposed, this year's 14.7 percent budget increase and state spending in general.

Sarasin said Mrs. Grasso's comment taxes cannot be cut by $156 million, as he has promised, only was accurate if "Mrs. Grasso is the governor."

Egyptian Negotiators Told to Return Home

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Premier Menachem Begin Friday shared the 1978 Nobel Peace prize. President Carter was named for his "great role" in promoting a Middle East peace.

The Norwegian Nobel Committee cited Sadat for his historic, lonely journey to the enemy camp in Jerusalem which launched the Middle East peace drive and earned him the wrath of fellow Arabs.

The committee said the joint award was given "to encourage further efforts" toward achieving a realistic Middle East peace.

The prize, 725,000 Swedish kronor and now worth $172,600 at the declining dollar rate of 4.20 kronor, will be awarded Dec. 10 — the anniversary of Alfred Nobel's death — at the Oslo University Festival Hall.

Neither Sadat nor Begin had any immediate comment but a government official in Cairo said Sadat would donate his share of the prize to his Nile Delta village of Mit Abul Kom, 40 miles north of Cairo.

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, joint Nobel Peace laureate in 1973 with Vietnam's Le Duc Tho and who nominated Sadat, told ABC: "I think (Sadat's) trip to Jerusalem was the decisive step in this process, but one also has to give credit to Begin for receiving it in the spirit in which he did and to President Carter for bringing it to a conclusion."

Carter congratulated Sadat and Begin on their award, adding that "the work you have done so far must not be left uncompleted."

"I know that this award will be an occasion for you and for all of us to rededicate our efforts, for it makes clear how much the people of the world value your search," his statement said.

The Palestine Liberation Organization denounced the awards and many Egyptians expressed disappointment that Sadat had to share the award with Begin.

The committee also praised President Carter for his initiative which brought Sadat and Begin together at Camp David, Md., in September.

"In the efforts to reach a realistic peace order which could build bridges between former enemies and prevent conflicts or interests, the positive initiative taken by U.S. President Jimmy Carter also has played a great role," the Committee said.

Egyptian Negotiators Told to Return Home

Egyptian delegation by telephone Friday and will do so again Saturday. Khalil also said it was unlikely Sadat would join Begin in New York Tuesday night to receive the "Family of Man" award from the Council of Churches of the City of New York.

Official Cairo Radio, in a strongly worded commentary, said the Israeli move aroused "surprise, resentment and apprehensions" about the future of the peace negotiations and Egypt would not "remain with folded arms."

"The Israeli decision is a basic obstacle facing the continuity of the negotiations," the radio said. It added that the Israeli decision "aroused big question marks about the continuation of the negotiations while Israeli spears hang over them."

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan Friday acknowledged deep differences with the United States after he and Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman held a brief meeting in Washington with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance but he insisted that the settlement issue would not block a peace treaty with Egypt.

Eliahu Ben-Elissar, director general of Begin's office, dismissed the U.S. anger at Israel as "artificial and meant to serve certain ends." He did not elaborate. And in what could be a new snag he said he hoped new settlements would be built in the West Bank, starting in mid-December.

Ben-Elissar, who headed Israel's delegation to the Cairo peace conference in December, said Egypt was informed at the Camp David summit of Israel's intention to strengthen the settlements but would not build new ones before mid-December — after a peace treaty was concluded.

That's Entertainment

By Allen M. Widem

Television news, let's concede straightaway, is big business. When something happens, just about anywhere in the civilized world (and that, in itself, defies definition), television must indeed be cited time and again.

And, Dave, smile. There's the storm off Cape Hatteras. Use the pointer now, Dave! ... Well, not exactly off Cape Hatteras. More like the Bermuda Triangle. Townwide Survey Ends

MANCHESTER — For interviewers who worked on a townwide survey project, Friday marked the end of what one called an enjoyable experience.

Another said he was just glad to know there is life after CETA.

The survey crew, which started with eight interviewers and two administrators, was funded through Title VI, special projects, of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program.

By Friday, however, only three interviewers and one organizer remained.

The project director, Wanda Lalasius, will continue for a few more weeks to complete tabulation work. The three interviewers—Rick Horton, William Fox and Richard Marconi—worked their last day Friday.

"We have tears in our eyes. We really enjoyed doing it," Fox said with a smile.

He said that virtually everybody he asked cooperated and answered the 88 survey questions. Fox only had 20 rejections for the entire time he worked, he said.

Horton said his total of rejections was higher, but he was pleased with the cooperation of those who answered.

The final percentage of how many names were surveyed has not yet been calculated. Ms. Lalasius said.

The crew managed to knock on every door in Manchester, but some residents were not home and others refused to answer the questions.

Marconi said that some persons were surprised he had all the questions memorized. But, after months of asking the same questions over and over, it wasn't hard to know them by heart, he said.

Horton, for instance, kept track of his interviews during the seven-month project. He listed the names of persons and got their responses to the questions, which asked about town services and facilities.

Horton has already lined up another job as an animal caretaker at Lutz Junior Museum.

"It's good to know there's life after CETA," he said.

The questions also praised the work of Ms. Lalasius, who headed the survey work.

Investment Income Rises

By CHARLIE MAYNARD
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — The town's investment income rose this past fiscal year after a two-year decline and should show another increase by the end of this fiscal year.

Finance Director Richard Harvey said the 1977-78 figures showed an income of $448,120, an increase of $111,912 over the previous fiscal year.

Harvey attributed a rise in interest rates over the year to the town's increase in investments. He said interest rates on 30-day certificates of deposit had a rate of 6.2 percent in January of this year, up from the four percent rate from the previous January. The town invests in either 30- or 90-day deposits or in Treasury bills to keep idle funds working.

Harvey said his department is constantly updating its information to ensure that the proper amount of money is maturing when it is needed for payrolls.

"The main determinant is the money market," he said. "It's doing so strongly because the stock market isn't doing well."

An audit was recently completed on the town's financial records and it showed an unappropriated surplus of $182,787. The town earned $25,000 more than it had anticipated from its investments.

Harvey said the last time interest rates were high was during the 1974-75 fiscal year when the income from investments reached $541,172. "Those were during the days of 10 or 12 percent rates," he said.

Jury To Convene

LITCHFIELD (UPI) — A Superior Court grand jury is scheduled to convene Tuesday in spite of objections from an attorney for Stephen M. Asherman, charged with the murder of his friend and medical school classmate.

Judge Walter M. Pickett ruled Thursday there was no justification for attorney Richard L. Albrecht's request to delay the grand jury proceedings.

Asherman, 28, of New York City, is charged with the July 31 death of Michael H. Aronow.

Collectors' Corner

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

If you are a collector of trunks—here is a beauty! It is best seen by holding the paper overhead like a star map, then it all makes sense. The trunk in this case is a roof-pin. It is not to be collected by anyone right now because it is busy holding rafters in place at a house in Dovercourt, Maine. This particular trunk (from "Iron-mall") has had the same job since 1821.

The rafters are about 4 by 4, evidently hand-hewn with a broad-axe and smoothed with an adze. They were fitted together with a mortise and tenon joint, a hole was drilled with a big auger, and the roof-pin driven into place.

When trunks were used in ship-building (in the days of "wooden ships and iron men"), they were first well dried and then would swell and become immovable with moisture. Another type of trunk is a "drift pin." They were made ragged as they were meant to be hammered out and replaced with something else after the beams they connected were settled in and seasoned.

Carpenters had some very special wooden tools in the old days. There was a "maul" for striking the tenon. This one looked something like a potato masher. The "maul" used to strike the mortise chisel was a heavy squarish chunk of wood on a handle. The granddaddy of all clouters was a "beetle." This seemed to be a section of a tree-trunk reinforced with iron hoops. Equipped with a Bunyanesque handle to swing it by, the monster was used to pound barn beams into place.

Blue Book Ready

The new Blue Book is now ready. This is the lesser known of the Yeoman pair. It may come as a surprise to hear that it is older than the famous Red Book — it is now coming out with the 36th edition while the Red is in its 32nd.

The Blue gives wholesale prices. You would be safe in paying whatever it says for a properly graded U.S. coin.

The sticker price is $2.95; it should be available at any of our three Main Street coin outlets.

Club Seeks Liquor OK

EAST HARTFORD — A Massachusetts racquetball club developer has proposed a change in the zoning regulations which would allow racquetball clubs to have accessory cafes which serve alcoholic beverages.

Presently, a section of the zoning regulations allows bowling alleys to serve alcohol as an accessory use providing there are no signs visible from the outside which advertise the alcoholic beverages or liquor company names.

"A cafe (as defined by state statute) serving alcoholic beverages may be permitted by the Planning and Zoning Commission only as an accessory use to a bowling alley," the section now reads in part.

The proposed new section would add "or to a racquetball club" after the words "bowling alley."

The petitioner, Frank A. Sola, will bring his proposed amendment and a petition for a special permit to allow a cafe as an accessory to a proposed racquetball club on the northwest corner of Roberts and Hillside streets to the Nov. 8 meeting of the PZC.

Sola represents Computer Partners Inc. of Wethersfield, Mass.

Last month, Sola came to the PZC requesting special permit approval for a racquetball club on the opposite corner of Roberts and Hillside streets.

The application was tabled after Commissioner Fred

Expansion Planned For Product Show

MANCHESTER — The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce has announced that the overwhelming support of the local business community for the upcoming 1978 Manchester Product Show has led to a major expansion of the show.

When the idea for the Nov. 18 and 19 Product Show was first conceived, Chamber officials optimistically hoped for 50 exhibitors, feeling that number would produce a show worthwhile both to the public and the exhibitors, according to Jim Breitenfeld, executive vice president of the Chamber. As the number of exhibitors rose beyond 50, the focus for the show changed from securing enough displays to providing adequate space for all the firms seeking to participate. To date, 90 businesses have signed up to exhibit.

Also indicative of the enthusiasm and support of the local businesses has been the response to the Chamber's request for door prize donations. Breitenfeld said. The Chamber has been flooded with donations and expects to give away many hundreds of dollars worth of products to show visitors.

The Product Show is viewed as a unique opportunity for area residents to explore the world of services and products available locally. Breitenfeld said.

Area firms not yet involved, but seeking information about the Product Show are invited to call or visit the Chamber at 257 E. Center St. The show will be at Manchester High School.

GOP Chief Questions Endorsements by MEA

MANCHESTER — Thomas Ferguson, Democratic town chairman, has questioned the endorsement of five local Democratic candidates by the Manchester Education Association.

"The endorsement of the Manchester teachers seems of dubious value," the GOP head said.

The teacher's Political Action Committee is headed by William Brindamore, son of the Democratic Party's vice-chairwoman, Dorothy Brindamore, Ferguson said.

"Does this indicate that the supporters of Mr. Cummings have been led to stay away from Mahoney because he doesn't take orders well?" Ferguson said.

Cummings responded that he did not seek the MEA or any other endorsement he has received.

Mr. Ferguson is not going to drive a wedge between Mr. Mahoney and myself," Cummings said.

He said that he and Mahoney have had different views on many subjects, but "we still manage to work together." "Because we work together and win together, people say people take orders from me," Cummings said. "This one thing I've never been good at — giving orders."

Methodists Set Speaker

MANCHESTER — The Rev. John O. Parker of Worcester, Mass., district superintendent of the Connecticut and Western Massachusetts District of the United Methodist Church, will be the guest speaker at the 9 and 10:30 a.m. services Sunday at North United Methodist Church.

Before the Rev. Mr. Parker's appointment to his present post last November, he had about 20 years' experience in churches ranging from eight-member congregations to his most recent one of about 1,400 members.

Pastor Parker began his career as youth director of Lyndfield-Wakefield United Methodist Church in 1959 after graduating from the University of Massachusetts.

He received an advanced degree from the Boston University School of Theology and has served Pastorates in Newburyport, Byfield and Needham Heights, all in Massachusetts.

The minister and his wife, Catherine, have three children.

Canadian Unity Strained

By JOHN USHER

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King said Canada had "too much geography" as a few Canadian politicians still agree — though not everybody sees big as necessarily bad — and some would carve up the country. Others believe that regional differences give Canada a strong national unity.

First among the separatists of course, though for reasons of language rather than geography, is Premier Rene Levesque with his province of Quebec. He is Canada's 11th-year-old confederation. Levesque and his governing Parti Quebecois see independence, despite the federal government's policy of bilingualism, as the only sure way to preserve and foster Quebec's French language and culture.

Canada's other regional differences, though not as emotional as those of Quebec, nevertheless place strains on national unity.

Mar Lalonde, the minister for federal-provincial relations, said much of the resentment in the western provinces for the "Eastern establishment" was based on myth and an instinctive reaction that anything that comes from Ottawa will be slanted against them.

"It's nothing new," he said in an interview with UPI. "It's a challenge for us."

Lalonde said one of the oldest bugaboos is that the federal government is dominated by French Canadians who don't understand western problems and are too preoccupied with Quebec anyway.

External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson, a Newfoundlander, said he hears the same old irrational complaints.

"The cry is always that there are too many goddam Frenchmen running the country, while I and my English-speaking colleagues are seen as a tired old bunch," he said.

Lalonde said this mistaken view is "due to the high visibility that French-Canadian ministers have over the last 10 years — and Prime Minister (Pierre) Trudeau in particular."

There are 10 French-Canadian provinces, including Quebec, in the present 32-member Liberal government.

Lalonde said his colleague pointed out that there were only 10 French-Canadian members and that they had never at any time in Canada's history constituted half the cabinet.

"There has been an increase in the last decade," Lalonde said. "But obviously people feel threatened by these myths and the myths are cleverly exploited by some people — politicians and members of the media."

But clearly some of the suspicion and resentment felt in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba is created by what westerners consider intrusions by the federal government in the provincial domain.

The premiers of the four western provinces that have taken place over the course of the year. Obviously there is much more to be done to prevent and to resolve these kind of concerns.

This summer Trudeau proposed the creation of a new constitution with several changes intended to strengthen the voice of the provinces in Ottawa.

Under the changes, which Trudeau wanted passed in two stages with the first part pushed through next year, the Senate would be replaced with a House of the Federation appointed equally by the federal and provincial governments.

Another change would give the provinces a say in the appointment of Supreme Court judges.

However, the provinces have criticized all the proposals. Some fear that increased provincial power based in Ottawa would undermine the authority of provincial governments.

Income Taxation in an Inflationary Economy

Editor's Note: This is the eighth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Taxation: Myths and Realities. This series was written for Newsweek by a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Income taxation in an inflationary economy is a complex subject. Inflation causes a problem for our progressive tax system — in which the rate of taxation increases with the amount of income.

However, the increase in their nominal wages would push them into a higher tax bracket. As a result, they would owe almost $1,700 in taxes — a tax increase of about 116 percent.

The "bracket rate" problem can be easily and completely remedied by changing the tax law so that all of the relevant dollar amounts — including the standard deduction, personal exemptions and bracket limits — change automatically with the price level.

Reforming our tax law to recognize the effects of inflation and thus to eliminate the resulting excess taxation of income from savings would not be difficult.

By MARTIN FELDSSTEIN Our income tax laws were written for an economy with little or no inflation. Yet from 1972 to 1977 consumer prices rose by 46 percent, and this year they will probably rise at least 6 percent.

Thus, after subtracting inflation, "real" wages — what wages were

How to Divide the Spoils I was at a dinner party in Colchester recently where I heard this story that had been told at an ecumenical worship service by the local rabbi just before the offering:

After a business meeting of the clergy the conversation turned to how each one divided the regular collections. One remarked it was after all very simple. He drew a chalk line on the floor, tossed up all the money, and that which came down on one side belonged to the Lord, the other side belonged to him. The second one indicated that was wrong. He said, "A much better way is to draw a small circle on the floor and throw up the collection with the understanding that all that fell and stayed in the circle was for God, the rest was for himself." After taxes, the individual is left with $2.10 — less than the $2.10 he needs to maintain the purchasing power of his original $2.00 deposit.

Our current tax system, by taxing the real income earned on savings at more than 100 percent, is both grossly unfair and a strong penalty to saving. This problem affects anyone who buys bonds or stocks as well as those who save in banks.

A recent study of the national Bureau of Economic Research showed that individuals who sold corporate stocks in 1973 had combined "real" losses of nearly $1 billion. Because our current tax law ignores the effect of inflation, however, they were required to pay taxes on nearly $5 billion of nominal gains.

By adjusting the definition of taxable income, our tax law would be fairer and the reward to saving would be increased.

The views expressed in Courses By are those of the authors only and do not necessarily reflect those of the University of California, the funding agency, the distributing agency, or the participating newspaper and colleges.

Next Week: William D. Andrews, a law professor at Harvard University, discusses a tax on personal spending as an alternative to our present income tax.

One, Two, or Three with God is a Majority You have heard UNICEF. Do you know what the letters stand for? Think for a minute. The UN is obviously the United Nations. The C is for children, and the F undoubtedly is for Fund. But what is the P? Is it the first letter of international? But what about the letter E? I called two religious workers in town who did not know the answer.

By adjusting the definition of taxable income, our tax law would be fairer and the reward to saving would be increased.

It might be of interest to know that it all began in 1950 that over $50 million have been raised to benefit the neediest children throughout the world. We have a saying that "Great oaks from little acorns grow." How true that is from the origin of UNICEF! A Sunday School class in western Pennsylvania raised $17,000 to support the work of UNICEF. So, if when the little girls and boys ring the world bell and men like as Peter came by at least his shadow might fall on some of them... and they were all healed." (15:45, 16:)

Wings of Morning By CLIFF SIMPSON

This verse is generally a springboard for a discussion of "spiritual healing" and on occasion I have so interpreted it, but this sermon has the title "Unconscious Influence." What happens when you enter a group? Does the conversation turn up or down? Are you a guide for the high road or the low? Peter's shadow was a healing one. It was said of Dr. Phillip Brooks of Boston that when he walked down the street, people who were blind would touch him and then they would see.

Incidentally, a call to the Herald Theological Seminary answered the question — UNICEF stands for The United Nations International Children Education Fund. Now we know.

I am reminded of the customer who entered a store and asked for a certain article. The clerk replied that she was in the wrong place. She should go next door and in the unisex store she would find it. As she left the clerk heard her say, "Is that what I gave last Halloween?"

"No Man is an Island" The poem by Edwin Markham which he called "The Creed" has some relevance here:

"There is a density that makes us brothers; None goes his way alone: All that we send into the lives of others Comes back into our own. I care not what my temples or his creeds, — One thing holds firm and fast: — That into his fateful heed and fate of deeds And fate of soul." So the soul of man is cast."

Unboundedly you and I will never have the batting average of a Pippa for one day's singing or living, but maybe we can attain the 300 mark if we run more over we have. For ultimately our "unconscious influence" will flow from our "conscious" intent so to live that others may find salvation. How about it? It's worth a try.

A Good Word from "Silent Call" No person was ever honored for what he received, honor has been the reward for what he gave. — Calvin Coolidge

A thought for the day: President Theodore "Teddy" Roosevelt said, "The first requisite of a good citizen in this republic is that he shall be able and willing to pull his weight."

One of man's greatest weaknesses is aversion to controversy. It's good to be as agreeable as far as one's conscience will allow. But to remain silent in the face of what you believe to be error is to compromise your convictions.

Religious denominations outside one another in suppressing their doctrinal differences. If such distinctions are so insignificant that they can be sacrificed in the interests of harmony, they should be surrendered entirely. Divisions among God's people are sinful, ICor. 1:10-13:3-15.

When disagreement disturbs fellowships people should be willing to study the matter openly, instead people tend to gloss over the difference, pretending to be one when they are people are not.

U.S. Deficit Said Lower

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration's budget projections for fiscal 1979 Friday, forecasting a deficit of $38.9 billion, down nearly $10 billion from earlier estimates.

It also projected an inflation rate of 6 to 6.5 percent for the year that began Oct. 1, based on President Carter's inflation fighting program and lesser hikes in food prices.

Carter met with budget director James McIntyre Friday to discuss ways of holding down spending increases in fiscal 1980 while lowering the deficit in that year to $28 billion.

For fiscal 1979, which ends next Sept. 30, revenues were estimated at $452.7 billion — $12.2 billion above an estimate made last January.

Spending was targeted at $491.6 billion, $2.4 billion less than predicted 10 months ago.

The difference between revenues and spending works out to a $38.9 billion deficit. When Carter took office 21 months ago the annual deficit was running at $66 billion.

If the fiscal 1980 target is reached it would be the smallest deficit since 1974. There has not been a budget surplus since 1969.

Statistics released by the Treasury showed the actual deficit for the fiscal year 1978 that ended Sept. 30 was $48.7 billion, a reduction of $2.4 billion from July's estimate.

The Treasury analysis also contained a set of "inflation assumptions" that predicted an inflation rate of 6 to 6.5 percent in 1979 "as a result of the new anti-inflation program and a more moderate rise of food prices."

The projection was identical with Carter's inflation goal announced Tuesday night.

The current annual rate of consumer prices increases over the first nine months of this year was 9.5 percent.

The Treasury also said the economy should grow at an annual rate of between 3 and 3.5 percent next year after a 3.75 percent rise in 1978. The 1978 prediction is slightly below the previous official estimate of 4.1 percent.

Carter Signs Job Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter signed the Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" bill into law Friday and called it his co-author, the late Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., a "great and compassionate American."

The bill sets national goals to reduce unemployment from its current 6 percent to 4 percent by 1983 and to cut inflation to 3 percent by that year and to zero by 1988.

At the largest bill-signing ceremony of his presidency Carter also signed a measure he said would begin to reach the unemployment goal — an $11 billion extension of CETA job and training programs for four more years.

Carter defended the compromise version of the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, worked out in the final days of the last Congress against critics who have called it merely "symbolic."

"It is filled with great and important substance," Carter said, noting that the bill calls on the president, Congress and the Federal Reserve Board to coordinate their policies toward reaching the economic goals.

Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., the other co-author, said the bill was "a beginning" and now needs to be followed up with other implementing legislation in addition to the CETA

Pope Shakes Up Vatican

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II began a shakeup of the Vatican bureaucracy Friday by lifting a noted conservative Italian cardinal as head of a commission on liberal church reform.
The removal of veteran Cardinal Pericle Felici as president of the Commission for the Interpretation of the Second Vatican Council Decrees was signaled indirectly by a communique issued following a private audience between him and the newly elected Polish pope.

In the communique, the 77-year-old Felici was reconfirmed in his posts as prefect of the Vatican appeals tribunal and as president of the Commission for the Revision of Canon Law.

But pointedly left out was his previous post as president of the key Commission for the Interpretation of the Second Vatican Council Decrees.

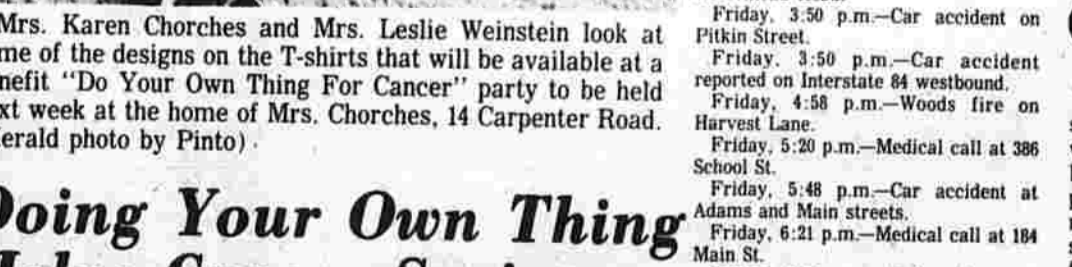

Vatican sources said the pope, a firm backer of church reforms decreed by the Second Vatican Council, probably would name a new chief of the commission shortly.

The move to replace Felici as head of the commission that interprets the council decrees came two days after the pontiff temporarily reappointed French Cardinal Jean Villot as Vatican Secretary of State, the chief administrative officer.

Church officials said the temporary nature of Villot's reappointment meant he would be replaced in about six months, probably by an Italian.

A noted conservative among Italian cardinals, Felici was secretary general of the Second Vatican Council that ended in 1965 and as senior cardinal deacon announced to the world in a booming voice Oct. 16 that the former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Poland had been elected pope.

Several cardinals said one of the main reasons Wojtyla was chosen pope was his staunch support of the Second Vatican Council reforms and firm determination to carry them out despite opposition by conservative churchmen.

Doing Your Own Thing Helps Cancer Society

MANCHESTER — Karen Chorches and Leslie Weinstein are doing their own thing to benefit the American Cancer Society.
Called the "Do Your Own Thing, But Do Something For Cancer" program, it is exactly that.
The program calls for a direct appeal to either individuals or organized groups to conduct a "thing" for the benefit of the society.

Such a "thing" could be a garage sale, a crafts sale, a gourmet breakfast, a wine and cheese party, card playing for cancer, coffee, or whatever your "thing" is.
This is a new fund raising project sponsored by the Manchester unit of the American Cancer Society.
Anyone wishing to discuss their ideas with a member of the Do Your Own Thing committee may call 643-2168.

Democrats Want Money Released

MANCHESTER — Democratic members of the Town Board of Directors, angered that the town has not received its Community Development funds, have asked Town Manager Robert Weiss to meet with federal officials and demand the immediate release of the funds.

The federal Department of Housing and Urban Development has been withholding $73,000 of the town's Community Development grant until the town meets certain requirements.

HUD told the town that the idea of a proposed fair housing brochure is acceptable, but HUD would like more details about the brochure it releases the rest of the funding.

Democratic Director Stephen Cassano asked Weiss to meet with HUD officials and ask for the immediate release of the funds.
"It is time that a decision be reached as this has gone too far," Cassano said. He said that he conferred with other Democratic directors before writing to Weiss.

We are annoyed at what is taking place. We have to date more than met the requirements that were determined necessary to be eligible for HUD funding," Cassano wrote.

He listed several of those steps, including completion of a housing study and hiring of a fair housing coordinator.

The program will be launched next month by the Southern Connecticut Gas Co. and Connecticut Light & Power Co., a subsidiary of Northeast Utilities.

Bills to allow about $3,000 CLAP customers in the firm's eastern division will show how much more kilowatts were used for the same billing period last year and whether it was colder than last year.

Directors of Courant Nix $70 Million Offer

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Hartford Courant's board of directors Friday rejected a $70 million buy offer from Capital Cities Communications Inc., a broadcasting and newspaper conglomerate.

The New York-based Capital Cities offered in June to buy the Courant for "at least $70 million."

The Courant polled its shareholders this month. The board voted Friday to turn down the bid.

Seven members voted in favor of a resolution which said they were "not interested at this time in discussing further a possible sale of the company to Capital Cities Communications Inc." One member abstained and one was absent.

The board had said earlier this year that the Courant should remain independent under local ownership.

President Edmund W. Downes said he was "very happy" with the results.
"This has been a time when all of us have been very concerned and disturbed. It has been an emotional experience as well," Downes said.

People/Places

Interest, Growth Noted By Historical Society

The Manchester Historical Society has come a long way since it was established 13 years ago this month through the joint action of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and Miss Hazel Lutz.
Now, with approximately 500 members, it meets in November, January and March, at either the Whiton Memorial Auditorium or the Nathan Hale School.
The purpose of the organization is to carry on any and all activities appropriate for an historical society such as meetings, educational programs and maintaining for preservation and research those things relating to the history and to the citizens of Manchester.
The Cheney Homestead at 108 Hartford Road is owned and operated by the Manchester Historical Society. The property stretches between Hartford Road and Main St.

In compiling data on the homestead, Lillian T. Seger, co-chairman of the Cheney Homestead Committee and a retired teacher and department chairman at Tilling Junior High School, wrote, "An account book of Timothy Cheney has recorded in it in 1784 that 'lumber for my new house' was paid." (He was the son of Benjamin, whose home on E. Center St. was known as the Old Orford Farm.)

(It was torn down in 1966 to make way for construction of the Ivy Apartments.)

Timothy Cheney was a clockmaker, farmer, grist mill operator and a lieutenant in the Army of His Excellency King George III. He served only a short time tradition says, as he was detailed by Gen. George Washington to return home to help in the making of gunpowder. Upon his death in 1795, he willed the homestead to his oldest son, George, who at that time was about 24 years old.

George Cheney married Electra Woodbridge and they had nine children, eight sons and one daughter. Five of these brothers, Charles, Ralph, Ward, Rush and Frank comprised the original Cheney Brothers. A son, George, died at 42 and had no part in the founding of the silk industry. The other two brothers, John and Seth, became accomplished artists and traveled extensively in Europe. They are said to have been largely responsible for much of the fine 18th and 19th century furniture in the homestead today, according to Ms. Seger.

Visitors can tour 10 rooms, all fully furnished. Although almost all the furniture was in actual use by the various owners of the house, a few major acquisitions and numerous small items and accessories have been donated and are used in appropriate settings.
A standing committee of seven Historical Society members are appointed by the society's president with the approval of the executive council. They supervise the operation and maintenance of the homestead. They serve a five-year term and from time-to-time select volunteers to assist in carrying out specific responsibilities and programs.

An annual event, "Holidays at The Homestead," is traditionally held on the first Sunday of December and features Christmas decorations, music, crafts and refreshments. This year, Dec. 3, will mark the 11th celebration of this affair. A nominal admission is charged for adults who are not members of the society.
The house is open to the public on Thursdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

34 Years in School System Secretary Finds Work, Children Enrich Her Life

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

Ask Rita McVey just about anything or about anyone involved with the Manchester school system over the last 34 years or so and she will probably be able to give you an answer, or at least find it for you in her files.

Bits of such information are what comes of being a secretary for four decades at Bentley School in Manchester. She is now principal of the school for 34 years in several states.

Mrs. McVey, or Rita, as everyone, including all the students at Bentley School, affectionately call her, is one of the persons who is most enjoying the new look at Bentley since renovations were completed this fall.

She is undoubtedly the one who could give the most detailed account of all the changes in the former Hollister Street School, since she graduated from its first eighth grade class in 1930. The new annex was built on the school's previous year.

She returned to the school after graduation from Manchester High in 1934 and worked in the afternoons "just for the experience." The principal, Thomas Bentley, asked if her young husband's mother, Rita could help him out in the afternoons as he was supervising principal for Buckland and Robertson schools, as well as Hollister Street School.

"That was during the Depression," Mrs. McVey recalled, "and you couldn't get anything then. You took what you could." But her volunteer work ended after three months and she was hired full time as secretary half days at Hollister Street School when Anne Mrosek left the job.

Mrs. McVey did the secretarial work for the three schools on the North End in one morning then walked during her noon hour to Nathan Hale School on Spruce Street to help out Miss Huldah Butler, the teaching principal. (The newest wing of the school was named after Miss Butler.)

As if that wasn't enough work for her, Mrs. McVey told how she carried the portable typewriter from Nathan Hale on the bus to her Oakland Street home at nights to keep up with the work. "Recalling her young husband, Mrs. McVey laughed and said, "I wouldn't do that anymore. You learn the ropes after awhile."

Mrs. McVey grew up on Oakland Street, the daughter of George W. Capping, a Civil War veteran, and Ida May Baxter Copping.
She married Robert McVey in 1935, but continued to work at the schools until she had her first daughter in 1942. She had a summer home and came back for a few more months. After her husband left to serve in World War II, she worked during the war years until January 1946 at former Norton Electric Co. office in the North End also.

In 1950, Mrs. McVey went back to work again full time at Nathan Hale School through March 1953 until she had her second daughter in 1953. She took off a year and a half, then returned to work again at Hollister Street School in February 1955, where she has been continuously since then.

Mrs. McVey can easily recite all the names that have become names of schools and are part of Manchester's education history because she served under all of them. She was hired by Fred Ayer Verplank, the first superintendent of schools after the town's school districts were consolidated in 1932. Mrs. McVey recalls that Verplank was not as stern as his pictures look. She has also worked for the schools during the superintendencies of Arthur Iling, William H. Curtis, Donald Hennigan and the present superintendent, James P. Kennedy.

At Bentley School, which was renamed in 1961 after Bentley retired, Mrs. McVey worked with three other principals, Florence Florence Woods from 1961 to 1973, Nathan Joy from 1973 to 1975 and currently with Douglas Townsend who has been principal since 1975.

Mrs. McVey also pulled out of her extensive files clippings of about five principals, or former principals in Manchester schools who all started as teachers at Bentley School. They are Hyatt Sulliffe, retired from King Junior High, and current principals, Leo Diana from Nathan Hale School, Robert Heins from Washington School, and William J. Keegan from Robertson School and Allan Cone at Bannet Junior High School.

Some of the changes Mrs. McVey has witnessed over the years in the schools, included the change in the neighborhood around Bentley, the dress code for teachers and some changes in her working conditions.
She said, "We have always had a good class of children at Bentley. It's been more settled than some of the neighborhoods," but she noted more of a turnover since apartments were built in the school district. She said

Further information can be obtained by calling the resident hostess at 643-5388.
Through the influence of William Buckley, the first president of the society, a small area of the basement of the Mary Cheney Library was allotted as a working place for the establishment of the society's library.

Many residents have volunteered their services including Miss Anna McGuire, former Manchester High School English teacher; Miss Marion Jessiman, former librarian at Mary Cheney Library; and Miss Ellen Adams, former teacher at Howell Cheney Regional School.

Office Acquired
When the Cheney Historical Foundation leased the Cheney Homestead to the Historical Society in 1962, the wooded located in the southwest corner of the homestead was turned into an office through the efforts of several civic-minded residents.

Through the help of residents, the society has been able to collect a great deal of material of historical interest to the town.
Mrs. George Walker has interviewed several citizens who have been life-long residents and has taped their experiences. Mrs. Walker's work is now being carried forward by Lennart Johnson, who recently retired from teaching at Howell Cheney Regional School.

Slides Available
In addition to its collection of articles, pictures and documents all relating to the history of Manchester, the society also has a collection of 33mm slides which depict various phases of the history of the town. It presently contains more than 300 slides.

The collection had its beginning when Miss Hazel Lutz, then director of art in the elementary grades of the schools brought together a set of slides which could be used in that part of the curriculum which dealt with the history of Manchester.

Officers of the Manchester Historical Society are Mrs. Paul Adams, president; Richard Egan, vice president; Miss Jeanne Low, secretary; and Miss Emily Smith, treasurer.

Those interested in membership in the society may contact Lil LITTLE, 355 Burnham St.

Dagon Backs Clean-up

EAST HARTFORD — The proposed Hockanum River clean-up would be a worthwhile project for the town because the river "has great potential," said Town Council Chairman George A. Dagon. Dagon spoke in reference to a five-point report prepared by Pasquale J. Salemi Jr. of the Conservation and Environment Commission. Salemi unveiled his program Wednesday night at a commission meeting and hopes to present it to the council in the near future. His program calls for an effort by the town to take "short range" clean up steps — such as removing debris. With this effort, he said, the town should launch a publicity campaign to let residents know where the river is. He said the river suffers from a bad image and is "beautiful in parts."

Plans for Bridge Progressing

COVENTRY — The Town Council is moving ahead with plans to rebuild the Pucker Street Bridge, which has been closed to traffic since last fall. The plan is to make final architectural drawings for the Flanders River Road Bridge, which was reopened last year after undergoing temporary repairs. Town Manager Frank Connolly told the council that Columbia selection of the engineering firm of Fuss and O'Neill to do the Pucker Street Bridge design work plans. The council wishes to hold the costs down to an estimated $30,000, for which town meeting action will be necessary. The engineers will be doing some additional investigative work, the manager said. "They will advise the council if they do run into any design problems relating to the estimated cost."

Slugging Not Worried

BOSTON (UPI) — Slugging Jim Rice says he wants to stay in Boston and play for the Red Sox. And that's what he'll be doing for the next two years unless he is traded. Rice's contract with the Red Sox runs through 1980, his option year. But his lawyer, Tony Penacchia, wants the Red Sox to sign his client to a lifetime contract as soon as possible. Penacchia claims the Red Sox have made it a policy not to discuss contracts during the season. He has indicated the next offer season would be too late to talk about a new pact for Rice, who led the majors in most hitting and slugging categories. "I feel the Red Sox will give me what I ask for," Rice said Friday, shortly before leaving to visit his parents in Anderson, S.C. "I'm not worried. I'm not even thinking about it. All I'm thinking about is next year and bettering my performance of last year."

Brown Big Obstacle for Holy Cross

NEW YORK (UPI) — Holy Cross football coach Neil Wheelwright says Brown University's team could end up being the Bad News Bears for Crusader fans. And in this case, the bad news spells defeat for Holy Cross. "We think Brown has better overall balance than any team we've faced," said Wheelwright, "who has been 5-4 with wins over the likes of Army and Air Force." "We have an awful lot of respect for their offense and defense. We think they are the best we've seen as an overall unit." "To beat Brown, we'll have to be a better football team than we've been all season," he said. Brown was last year's encounter 41-13 and many of the same faces will be along the scrimmage lines in front of ABC cameras Saturday in Providence. But Brown Coach John Anderson says names are the only similarity between last year's Crusaders and this year's edition. "It's a completely different football team than we saw last year," Anderson said. "We have a lot of new players and a lot of new coaching staff." "We need four good quarters of football and we have not done that all year."

Field Hockey Team Tournery Qualifier

Mark down another sports achievement for a Manchester High squad. Coach Mary Faignant's field hockey team qualified for the State CIAC Tournament for the first time in history yesterday afternoon with a tremendous effort against Simsbury at Memorial Field. Play ended in a 3-3 stalemate. It also marked the first time in the eight-year history of the sport that a Manchester combine posted a 500 or better record. Play was exciting from start to finish as both teams went all out in the CCIL encounter under sunny skies. The offensive fireworks started early when Cindy Mills of the home team filled a penalty corner pass from Liz Neubelt with just nine minutes into the first half for a 1-0 lead. Simsbury kept the pressure on the Indians defense and several goal attempts were thwarted by sweeper Debbie Dawson. However, twice within a five minute span, the invaders tallied on penalty shots. Gail Jaekel fired the ball over the right shoulder of goalie Lois Diani for a 2-2 tie. The Simsbury lead was short-lived as Mills again slammed home the equalizer on a penalty corner situation. At haltime the teams were deadlocked, 2-2. Center half Mills enjoyed the best game of her career with two goals and with nine minutes showing on the clock to be played, Lisa Tilden send home a rebound pass from Mills to deadlock matters. Liz and Mary Neubelt, Tilden and Lisa Schwartz all continued super efforts. Manchester's record is now 5-3-4 with two games left, the first at Fenwick Monday. Simsbury is 7-1-4 record-wise. The state tournery starts Nov. 6, site to be announced. The Manchester Jaycoves drew a 4-4 decision to Simsbury through Lori Wiggins and Kelly Ray turned in outstanding efforts. The locals boast a 4-3-4 record.

Midget Grid Slate Sunday

Midget Football League games Sunday afternoon at Mt. Nebo list the Giants (2-2-1) against the Patriots (1-4-0) at 1 o'clock and the unbeaten but tied Eagles (3-0-1) facing the winless Jets (0-4-1) at 3. One week from tomorrow, the showdown will develop if the Eagles win Sunday. The season finale lists the Eagles and Chargers who also sport a 4-0-1 record and are idle this week.

Tankers Step Nearer Crown

Only two more steps stand in the way of Manchester High girls' swimming team from annexing its second straight CCIL championship. The Silk Tankers moved closer toward goal with a 112-57 dunking of Enfield High yesterday at the locals' pool. The Indians won their eighth in a row and stand 7-0 in the CCIL. They finish the season with Tuesday at the home against Fernal High and Friday at Windham High in Williamite before state competition. One Manchester record was shattered in the 200-yard freestyle. Sophomore Beth MacDonald turned in a 2:03.6 clocking to go well under the previous standard of 2:08.1 set by Chris White earlier this season. Beth MacDonald was the lone individual double winner, taking the 100-yard backstroke also. Manchester took ninth of the 11 events with Shelby Valentine, LeeAnn Stauffer, Diana Siebold, Marcy MacDonald, Anne Morison and both relay foursomes victorious. Results: 200 medley relay: 1. Manchester (McDonough, Scott, Geagan, Creighton), 2. Enfield, 3. Manchester, 2:12.4. 200 free: 1. B. MacDonald (M), 2. Mazzotta (M), 3. Wagner (E), 2:03.6 (new school record).

Illing Loser

After dominating the first half and holding a 1-0 lead at intermission, Illing Junior High varsity soccer team dropped a thrilling 1-2 decision to Kennebec High of Enfield yesterday at the local school. Mike St. Laurent's goal in the first half was the only time Illing could get on the scoreboard. Two second-half Enfield tallies proved enough to win and Illing's record dropped to 5-4-1. Played well offensively for the losers were St. Laurent, R.J. Jones, John Bonacarsi and Bryan Pease. Defensively, the same unit, anchored by Paul Peck, Bill Corso, Scott LaBree, Joe Cosgrove and Phil Whinn played well. Illing scored in the 67th minute as Kennebec's Keith Szekowicz of Enfield Tuesday at home at 3:15.

Candidates Speak on Issues

By JUDY KUEHNEL Herald Correspondent SOUTH WINDSOR — John Mitchell, Republican candidate for 14th District General Assembly, told local residents Thursday that he believed the J.C. Penney Warehouse would have "a severe impact on South Windsor's highly residential area." Opposing Democratic candidate, incumbent Abe Glassman however, said he believed residents were "pushing the panic button." "There's no way to know," said Glassman. "The J.C. Penney firm will create some 2,300 jobs and all the engineers to whom I have spoken agree that, at best, the traffic flow will be as severe." Glassman and Mitchell along with Democrat David Barry and Republican Fenton "Pat" Futner, contenders for 4th Senatorial District seat, were guests of the South Windsor League of Women Voters in a "Meet the Candidates" session Thursday night at Town Hall. South Windsor High School Principal Gregory Plunkett was also on hand to explain the referendum question, giving voters the opportunity to decide on a proposal to renovate the high school and a portion of Wapping Community School. Plunkett explained that the project — with its $550,000 price tag — was half refundable by state funds. The proposal is designed to increase space for badly needed vocational programs as well as to free space for the art program. Public Works Director Allan Young spoke in favor of another referendum question asking for approval of a $4,700,000 increase and bond authorization for sewer system extensions. In his opening statement incumbent David Barry said he believed the overriding issue was going to be "how do we do all that has got to be done without any new taxes." Barry said he thinks "it all can be accomplished" without new taxes and said he thought there might even be areas where taxes can be reduced. He said he would like to see this General Assembly "come up with a plan to provide education around the state within the present framework of taxation." Glassman, Democratic contender for the 14th District, said he was opposed to an income tax. He said he believes "we can handle the needs within the framework of our present tax structure." He agreed with the need for the equalization of education. Glassman said he "was proud to have been selected as House Chairman of the Education Committee and said that the method used to equalize education and the method using to finance it have a bearing, not only on the next two years but for many years to come." GOP candidate for the 4th Senatorial District, Fenton Futner, said he thinks the major issues are all taxes and spending. "In the last four years it has cost the taxpayer over $1 million in additional taxes to administer the state," he said. "There are a lot of other issues that need attention," said Futner. "Highways are a concern as well as crime. Crime in Connecticut has grown by leaps and bounds. Our climate for economic development is zero. We are out of competition. We talk about education but we have a poor vocational learning opportunity. If we don't have skilled labor in Connecticut then we can't attract industry." Mitchell, GOP candidate for the 14th Assembly District, criticized a 40 percent increase in spending over the past four years. "We have had a tax increase of $1,042 billion in four years," he said. Mitchell called for a limit in spending and for a referendum on whether to have a balanced budget.

Brewers' George Bamberger Named AL Manager-of-Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—George Bamberger, despite his name to the contrary, was named the American League's Manager of the Year Friday by the United Press International for guiding the Milwaukee Brewers to their best season in history.

In his first season as a manager after 10 seasons as pitching coach of the Baltimore Orioles, Bamberger led the Brewers to a 95-69 record and a third place finish in the tough American League East Division.

The 52-year-old Bamberger was an easy winner in the balloting of 30 UPI baseball correspondents from across the nation. He received 20 first place votes to nine for Bob Lemon of the New York Yankees and one for Earl Weaver of Baltimore. Lemon, who took over as Yankees' manager at mid-season and guided them to the world championship, won the award last year when he was with the Chicago White Sox.

Although he admits to respecting the award, Bamberger was a reluctant winner. In fact, he campaigned against receiving it.

"I respect the award, but I wouldn't want it," Bamberger said during the last week of the season. "I'm going to be busy enough in the winter of my off-season without having to go to a bunch of banquets. I like commitments as much as anybody, but I don't need to hear them in front of 1,000 people."

"There are a lot of egomaniacs in this business, but I'm not one of them. No, I'd rather stay home with my family."

It was difficult to overlook Bamberger's accomplishments, however. A man of extreme candor, Bamberger confronted the club at spring training and told them they had "no respect in the American League." Using a direct approach and an ability to communicate with the younger players, he set out to change that image and succeeded beyond the Milwaukee organization's greatest fantasies.

"After trying everything and seeing it all go sour, this year has fulfilled my wildest expectations," said owner Bud Selig. "It's like I'm in a different business."

The strength of the Brewers was in their batting attack led by Larry Hise, Cecil Cooper, Ben Oglivie, Don Money, Sal Bando, Robin Yount, Sixto Lezcano, Gorman Thomas and rookie Paul Molitor all turning in solid seasons.

But Bamberger's greatest achievement was making significant winning pitchers out of Mike Caldwell (22 victories) and Larry Sorenesen (18). An outstanding developer of pitchers, Bamberger told the left-handed Caldwell to start challenging right-handed batters and helped Sorenesen gain the confidence he needed. In fact, if it hadn't been for early season injuries to Bill Travers and Moose Wilson, Bamberger believes the Brewers would have won the division.

Wild Scene at Bowl

There was a wild scene at Yale Bowl last Saturday in the closing seconds of the Yale-Columbia football game which could have developed into a real story.

The two Ivy League foes battled through a hum-drum 3-3 deadlock through an estimated crowd of 19,000 which seemed lost in the 7,000 seat concrete saucer.

On the final play of the game, with Yale in possession of the football, a razzle-dazzle, double lateral found Yale players heading deep into Columbia territory just as hundreds of youngsters came rushing out onto the playing field.

Fortunately, for all concerned, the Yale ball carrier was stopped short of the goal line by a Columbia tackler.

But, what would have happened if the youngsters had brought the ball carrier down?

Or, if the Yale man got into the end zone because the crowd interfered with Columbia defenders?

Chick Toomey, of Manchester, said he had never seen such a weird ending to a game.

Kicking Game

Speaking of Yale, the Elis latest effort, the 3-3 deadlock with Columbia, found the rival team punters busier than the ball carriers on offense.

Yale punted eight times, Columbia 12 times. The total yardage was 803, which meant the average boot carried just over 40 yards, which is some pretty fair work in any league.

As could be expected under the circumstances, the day's only scores were the result of kicks - field goals.

Kevin Sherry, former East Catholic High griddler who starred with the Columbia Fresh last fall, is not with the varsity this season.

Notes Off The Cuff

George Beeny, winner of the Retired Swingers' Golf Tournament this fall at the Manchester Country Club, will captain next season. He succeeds John Lomenzo. George Budd has been named secretary with Reggie Curtis as tournament director.

Frank Kiel has returned for his second season as basketball coach at the Manchester Community College. The Cougars open a 26-game schedule Nov. 27 against the Eastern Connecticut Jayves. All home games will be at East Catholic with the first Nov. 30 against Post.

Larry Morrison, Jim Herdic and Dick Thorpe will referee volleyball league play in the Rec Department's

Hoop Tryouts At East Side

Attendance to both sessions is advised.

The East Side Rec is looking for coaches and assistant coaches for the midget and junior leagues. Those interested should contact Bill Maloney or Jim Clifford, 647-3183 Monday thru Friday between 6 and 8 p.m. Coaching involves working with players approximately 2-4 hours per week from November to March.

BOSTON (UPI) — Doug Moe, coach of the San Antonio Spurs, says the Boston Celtics have the capacity to be a good team if the players ever get to know one another.

Among Top 10 in Nation

The 11 members of Connecticut's crop of basketball freshmen has been selected as one of the top 10 in the country by Basketball Hall of Fame.

The other nine leading recruiting schools named were Minnesota, Duquesne, Wake Forest, Kentucky, Maryland, San Francisco, Lamar, Arizona State and Marquette.

The 11 freshmen were: Larry Thompson, a 6-8, 230-pound forward from Middletown who was one of the most sought-after prospects in the country; Mike McKay, a 6-5 guard-forward from Haddam Point who played in the all-Ivy League basketball tournament in Boston, the only high school player to score over 100 points in his career and a 6-4 guard; Jay Johnson of Waterbury who is the first walk-on All-Star at Holy Cross High.

Stingley Begins Therapy

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — New England Patriots' wide receiver Darrel Stingley, paralyzed from the neck down, has begun therapy following removal of a neck brace by doctors at the Rehabilitation Institute in Chicago.

Stingley has been paralyzed since colliding with Oakland's Jack Tatum in an Aug. 12 NFL exhibition game. He was moved recently to Chicago after undergoing treatment at Eden Hospital in Castro Valley, Calif.

The Patriots said Friday doctors have removed the "halo brace,"

which was holding Stingley's spine in a stable condition after spinal fusion surgery. The team said Stingley can now participate in a variety of therapies scheduled at the Institute. Stingley's recuperation is under the direction of Drs. Vinod Sahgal, a neurologist and physiatrist, and Maynard Pont, a Castro Valley neurosurgeon. He is wearing a neck collar for continued spinal stability now, and is being fitted with an orthopedic body brace, through range-of-motion exercises.

Stingley's first choice in the 1977 draft was when his original two-year contract with them ran out and there was talk he might jump to the Quebec Nordiques of the World Hockey Association. The Canadiens hurriedly signed him to a new 10-year contract.

That contract guaranteed Lafleur $1 million, which still was considered enough to feed a family of four back in 1971 when the Canadiens' Golden Boy accepted it, so naturally it made him quite happy.

But then something happened, and suddenly Lafleur wasn't that happy anymore.

What happened was that the New York Rangers went out and signed a Swedish player, Anders Hedberg, and Ulf Nilsson, who were around $600,000 a year apiece. The

Lafleur Hottest Thing on Ice Got Heated Up Over Salary

BY MILT RICHMAN NEW YORK (UPI) — Any way you look at it, Guy Lafleur is the hottest thing on ice today, numero uno, the best player in all hockey, and for a while he was the happiest one also.

Only for a while, though.

That contract guaranteed Lafleur $1 million, which still was considered enough to feed a family of four back in 1971 when the Canadiens' Golden Boy accepted it, so naturally it made him quite happy.

But then something happened, and suddenly Lafleur wasn't that happy anymore.

What happened was that the New York Rangers went out and signed a Swedish player, Anders Hedberg, and Ulf Nilsson, who were around $600,000 a year apiece. The

Gun Handling, Gun Etiquette

Now that the bird season has started, I thought I'd ramine a little about shotgun handling and gun etiquette.

I ran into a friend the other day, who asked me if I wanted to take a day off and go partridge hunting with him. I thanked him, and made some kind of lame excuse about maybe getting together a little later in the season. He said he was going out hunting and that he would be waiting for me to get home.

I finally had to tell him the reason he was having trouble was because he had a very bad habit of "letting fly" at a bird, without waiting to see where anyone else was situated.

It's just good manners, as well as good safety, not to shoot to the left, if another hunter is situated on that side. Even if the one man is not close, a shotgun blast in close proximity to your ear is not very conducive to enjoying the rest of the day.

One of the first things a man should learn to do when hunting is to learn to think and be aware of the people and dogs around him.

It's like learning to drive defensively. When going through the brush, or across a field, it is essential to know where dogs and man are at all time. It is just plain good sense not to shoot if a bird takes off flying low in front of a dog. The dog can be hit by low flying shot.

Another item that really gets sticky, is taking a safety at the right time. When a dog is on point and you are waiting for it to flush, get in the habit of releasing the safety as the gun is being brought to your shoulder after the bird has "blown out." The hunter who takes it off early, waiting for a flush, could stumble, and an accident could occur.

One of the safest ways to be invited to hunt again with a man who owns a dog, is to give instructions, or reprimand his dog. You can bet you'll never be asked to share his dog and time again.

Joe's World

Closing the action on a pump, double, or auto-loader, with the pointed in an unsafe direction, can also make a person very unpopular with hunting companions.

A firing pin could stick, or a rifle could go off. This happened to me once on a skeet field with a pump gun. I had a broken firing pin that projected, and when I closed the action, preparing to mount the gun, it went off. I was truly happy, that I had been taught the kind of gun handling that made it instinctive for me to have my shotgun pointed out toward the center of the field, and in a down canted position. In that situation, no one could get hurt.

Going over a fence of sturd wall with a shotgun in hand is strictly a no-no. Either hold your gun on your hunting partner's shoulder, or with both hands free. If you are alone, place the gun on the ground or atop the wall. Then pick it up from the muzzle toward you.

It is also good manners, to swing to the right or left of a dog on point if hunting within the area of the bird breaks to the right of the dog. If it is to the right of the dog, it is his right to shoot.

It's his shot and his bird. — to the left, it's yours. This way there are no accidents, and no "hard" feelings.

One final note. Always check your hunting jacket pockets, to be sure that all the shells therein are of the gauge you are using. It's really bad practice to keep 12 and 20 gauge shells in a jacket at the same time. A 20 gauge shell can lodge in a 12 gauge barrel, and, on firing, burst a gun barrel and cause injury.

Most hunters know this, but sometimes little tidbits of information are overlooked. If I've made somebody think a little more, or taught someone something new, — then the object is accomplished. — How do you do? — and to be re-acquainted with the game of hard-nosed basketball.

Need Togetherness

BOSTON (UPI) — Doug Moe, coach of the San Antonio Spurs, says the Boston Celtics have the capacity to be a good team if the players ever get to know one another.

Celtics' Coach Bill Sanders has a simple request: He wants his players to forget the "how do you do?" and to be re-acquainted with the game of hard-nosed basketball.

Women's Flag Grid Crowned On Line Sunday Morning

EAST HARTFORD — The Parks and Recreation Department Women's flag football title will be decided Sunday at 10:30 a.m. with Elm Pharmacy and Wishes Restaurant meeting for the championship at Martin Park.

Last Sunday, Wishes beat Blasting Techniques 12-0 and knocked Blasting out of the playoffs. Once again Wishes was led by quarterback Leslie Collier who passed to Tony Foster for one touchdown and won the game with a handoff to Tex Szyksu for the other TD.

Blasting made numerous interceptions but was unable to score despite the efforts of quarterback Steve Gustafson and a fine team effort.

On lower Martin, Elm edged Lou's 6-0 to place Elm in the playoffs against Wishes. Both sides displayed a strong defense, and neither team scored in the first half. With 10 minutes left, Elm's Cindy Opsaki in-

Surprising Jets Points for Upset

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The surprising New York Jets, missing their prime signal caller but still sending distress warnings to their AFC East rivals, hope to shoot down the New England Patriots Sunday and grab a share of first place.

The Jets, 5-3, have not played a game since their 1977 win-first place at stake since 1972. They have won three straight but of their five wins, only one (over Miami) was against a team with a 5-0 record or better.

New York has a return match with the Dolphins, two fills with the Patriots and contests with Philadelphia and Denver in the next five weeks.

"We've worked hard and we've picked things up, but we're not there by a long shot," said Jets Coach Walt Michaels. "We've got to keep getting better. We're in a tough division, a tough league."

Chris White Specializes In Winning Swim Events

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
She's the strong but silent type but deadly — to opponents that is. And to think, White wouldn't have gotten into competitive swimming if it wasn't for a friend's advice.

White has been a mainstay for the Indian girl tankers since entering the high school ranks. A year ago when she met Mel Siebold of the CCIL title, she swept her specialty, the 50 and 100-yard freestyles, five times. Included were key doubles against East Catholic and Windham, the latter meet deciding the league championship.

The senior, in comparison to some, went to a late start, joining Mel Siebold's Rec team in the eighth grade. "I always liked swimming but never got into it. I really didn't know about the Rec team until friends told me about it," White explained.

White capped her two event meet the first five meets of this season before running her long event friends told me about it," White explained.

White capped her two event meet the first five meets of this season before running her long event friends told me about it," White explained.

White swam AAU and readily admitted, "on the AAU scale, I'm not as highly placed as hege." But White, as former East Catholic star Katie Tucker previously discovered, has found other benefits. "I like swimming for the high school, a lot better than AAU because I like swimming for the team rather than myself," she states.

Frost states, "She is not an attention grabber. Chris is the kind of swimmer who doesn't need a lot of attention or praise to get the job done. She's very dependable and has a good sense of team importance. "She works hard, she will push herself in practice," Frost continued. "As we try to tell the younger kids, it's not the number of yards you do but how you do them."

"It blanks my swimming because," it blanks my mind out. It clears out everything in my mind, it has a bad day." She tries to keep a clear head but revealed, "in the 50, I think of a song which has a fast beat and try and keep to the rhythm."

The Indian record-holder in the past primarily depended on her strength and desire. Other factors are now starting to fall into place. "Chris is always in condition and works hard. Now she's getting better with the technique, her starts and turns," Frost pointed out. "Her weak point in the 50 last year were poor starts. She's still in on the blocks while the others were in mid-air. This year she's out over half-a-second on her starts," the Tribe coach noted.

"I always feel pressure when swimming, I don't like to get beat," White stated.

When you check the record, White has done a good job of avoiding exactly that.

Stingley Begins Therapy

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — New England Patriots' wide receiver Darrel Stingley, paralyzed from the neck down, has begun therapy following removal of a neck brace by doctors at the Rehabilitation Institute in Chicago.

Stingley has been paralyzed since colliding with Oakland's Jack Tatum in an Aug. 12 NFL exhibition game. He was moved recently to Chicago after undergoing treatment at Eden Hospital in Castro Valley, Calif.

The Patriots said Friday doctors have removed the "halo brace,"

which was holding Stingley's spine in a stable condition after spinal fusion surgery. The team said Stingley can now participate in a variety of therapies scheduled at the Institute. Stingley's recuperation is under the direction of Drs. Vinod Sahgal, a neurologist and physiatrist, and Maynard Pont, a Castro Valley neurosurgeon. He is wearing a neck collar for continued spinal stability now, and is being fitted with an orthopedic body brace, through range-of-motion exercises.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are the parents of six children, 6 through 18. We have told all our children that if they are interested in furthering their education after school, we will give them each $1,000 a year toward their education.

DEAR ABBY: My oldest son is a freshman in college. He works part-time and summers to help pay for his education, and he also takes advantage of my $1,000. I have to brag a bit—he made a grade point of 4.0 his first semester!

DEAR ABBY: My problem is our second child, a daughter. She will graduate from high school next June. Despite years of counseling, lots of love and our best efforts, she is a rebel. She's been in all kinds of trouble from shoplifting to drugs and alcohol. She says as soon as she turns 18, she's splitting and wants no part of college.

DEAR ABBY: My husband thinks that when she leaves we should give her the $4,000 we have given her for a college education so that in years to come she can't say, "You never gave me the same chance you give the others."

DEAR ABBY: I strongly disagree. We have already spent a lot on money on her that we didn't spend on the others. Besides, I think giving her money would do her more harm than good.

MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you. To give your rebellious daughter money before she's able to handle it might do her more harm than good. Your children are being offered $1,000 a year toward a college education—not to spend it all!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old boy with an 8-year-old brother, named David, who is a rebel. He has been in all kinds of trouble from shoplifting to drugs and alcohol. He says as soon as he turns 18, he's splitting and wants no part of college.

DEAR ABBY: My husband thinks that when she leaves we should give her the $4,000 we have given her for a college education so that in years to come she can't say, "You never gave me the same chance you give the others."

DEAR ABBY: I strongly disagree. We have already spent a lot on money on her that we didn't spend on the others. Besides, I think giving her money would do her more harm than good.

MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you. To give your rebellious daughter money before she's able to handle it might do her more harm than good. Your children are being offered $1,000 a year toward a college education—not to spend it all!

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are the parents of six children, 6 through 18. We have told all our children that if they are interested in furthering their education after school, we will give them each $1,000 a year toward their education.

DEAR ABBY: My oldest son is a freshman in college. He works part-time and summers to help pay for his education, and he also takes advantage of my $1,000. I have to brag a bit—he made a grade point of 4.0 his first semester!

DEAR ABBY: My problem is our second child, a daughter. She will graduate from high school next June. Despite years of counseling, lots of love and our best efforts, she is a rebel. She's been in all kinds of trouble from shoplifting to drugs and alcohol. She says as soon as she turns 18, she's splitting and wants no part of college.

DEAR ABBY: My husband thinks that when she leaves we should give her the $4,000 we have given her for a college education so that in years to come she can't say, "You never gave me the same chance you give the others."

CBers' retaliation Fuzzbuster dulls Smokey's edge

By Ink Dipper

In the next year there will be more than a million radar detector units sold to motorists in the United States and Canada. There are already between four and six million in operation, according to industry estimates.

The Smokeys — from county mounties to state bears — are concerned about those devices. To them it's almost guerrilla warfare, with the cars and trucks holding their own against the forces of law as a result of the detectors.

To the four-wheelers and truckers, the officer with his picture machine represents an invasion of privacy.

detection was largely inaccurate and that the motorist was defenseless. The CBER who "stepped on the bear's toes" was immediately guilty.

Reportedly, the Fuzzbuster was created immediately after Smith got a ticket.

The officer with his picture machine represents an invasion of privacy.

He felt he did not deserve. And today, millions of truckers and traveling motorists have equipped their vehicles with Smith's Fuzzbuster to alert them to radar surveillance.

Smokey has responded. He has switched frequencies to beat the detectors. He is now working with "on-off" keyed radar which permits him to wait until he sees a likely offender before he hits the radar gun. He waits until the very last minute, so drivers equipped with detectors won't pick up the radar signal in time.

The detector people got wise to the police frequency changes and fell back on microwave surveillance. It doesn't make the speed limit any more effective and it doesn't save any lives.

Safety officials as well as experts in the field express a similar view without endorsing individual speeders. Their studies indicate that catching individual speeders is not the best way to increase road safety.

Instead, they say, it is the presence of plainly marked police cars, moving at the prescribed speed, that keeps everyone under control.

FOILED AGAIN - Are you sure about the date of conductor Paul Whiteman's birthday, listed as 1941? I believe he was born in 1890 and died in 1967. So my almanac says... Dorothy Hanekrat, New Philadelphia, Ohio.

I was sure about it when I wrote it as 1891, but the typesetting gremlins struck again, and somehow turned it into a 1941. Obviously, Pops Whiteman couldn't have become famous before he was born. My source is an old Who's Who, but 1890 might be the correct date. There is usually some lying about birthdates when dealing with celebrities.

DISCO TRIO - Could you please give me some information on the Bee Gees, such as how old they are, which ones are married, where they live, where to write them, and what they are doing now that Sgt. Pepper is released? - Lois Rizzuti, Waterbury, Conn.

The Bee Gees, the Australian rock 'n' roll group that turned disco to copiose the "Saturday Night Fever" soundtrack, then flipped back to rock for "Sgt. Pepper," will be making a rare TV appearance this January. All three of the Gibb brothers, Barry (b. Sept. 1946) and twins Robin and Maurice (b. Dec. 1949), are married. Maurice and Barry have homes in Miami, Fla., and Robin has a home in England. However, all three spend a lot of time together recording in care of their recording company, RSO Records, 1775 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019

STILL SILENT — I just came across a poster advertising "The Perfect Crime," starring Irene Rich and Olive Brook. Could you please tell me the year of the movie and whether or not it was a talkie? — Mrs. V.L. Georgia, Shinglehouse, Pa.

"The Perfect Crime" was committed (released) in August of 1928 — a bit before talkies really came into their own. It was a silent film.

TV Dialogue

ROCK ON — This is not a television, question, but maybe you can help. I am a member of a rock band, and we have been trying to get on a decent billing with some top names in the business. We are still at the amateur level and don't know too much about such things, so would you be able to give us the name of a promoter or someone who might be able to sign us? — Jerry Corbett, Charleston, S.C.

Often, the record companies of the headlining artists have more to do with what band is the opening act at a concert than the promoter running the show. But if you'd like to give it a try by this route, a rock promoter in your area is Carolina Attractions, 203 Culver Ave., Charleston, S.C. 29407.

SIBLING RIVALRY — I can't tell you how thrilled I am to have David Cassidy back on TV. They can keep Shaun on ABC; I'll take his big brother anyway. But, to my question: When is his new series going to be put on the air regularly? Will it be a mini-series, or full-time? — Andrea Goulardi, Canton, Ohio.

Well, I'm thrilled that your thrilled — and I'm sure David is thrilled, too. "David Cassidy — Undercover" has been given the go-ahead to shoot 10 new episodes, and will become a regular series
