Bakery Strike

Members of the Teamsters union struck bakery plants throughout New England today after contract deadlines expired midnight Saturday.

In East Hartford, union drivers set up picket lines Sunday at Continental Baking Co., producers of Wonder Bread and Hostess products.

Wonder Bread Hostess Products in Natick, Mass., Drakes Baking Co. in North Reading, Mass., and the Continental Baking Co. plant in Pawtucket, R.I., were also on strike.

Continental officials at the company's Rye, N.Y. national headquarters declined to comment on the walkout.

Joseph Padellaro, chairman of a Teamsters' affiliate, New England Bakery Drivers Council, said strikes were averted at five other union bakeries.

Party Labels

Change Delayed

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Prime Minister Ian Smith claims to have won what amounts to recognition of his government by the United States and has virtually ruled out black majority rule in Rhodesia by 1979.

Smith, in a Sunday news conference, listed the itinerary of the U.S. tour to his white countrymen.

Smith said that because of the work of drawing up a new constitution to achieve black majority rule had fallen behind schedule, "it would mean the exercise would spill over a few months" beyond the previous Dec. 31 deadline for independence.

He emphasized, however, that the turnover of power after nearly nine decades of white rule was still basically on course.

Economy Shows Healthy Gain

Carter Leaves Trail Of Happy Democrats

HARTFORD (UPI) — A smiling President Carter breezed through Connecticut this weekend, lending his support to the state Democratic ticket and trading words of praise with Gov. Ella Grasso.

The Governor was the first to greet Carter Saturday when his plane flew into Bradley International Airport from Buffalo, N.Y. Under sunny skies and unusually warm temperatures.

The president later joked about Mrs. Grasso snubbing him during a campaign stop in 1976.

"The first time I met Ella I didn't think she believed I would be president," he said, displaying his now famous down-home smile at a Democratic fund raiser. "I told her I would."

During the presidential campaign Mrs. Grasso was an avid supporter of Democratic hopeful Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson. She declined to invite Jackson's opponent at the time, Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, to her mansion — a courtesy traditionally afforded visiting Democratic dignitaries.

This time there were not enough things Mrs. Grasso could say about the president.

"He is our very special peace prize winner," Mrs. Grasso said, adding that it was Carter who won the Nobel Peace Prize for Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israel Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

Carter hugged the governor and planted a big kiss on her cheek. "She's a person who cares deeply about people," the president told the partisan crowd.

Carter recited a long list of achievements Mrs. Grasso has accomplished during her first term, including transforming a budget deficit into a huge surplus, containing hospital costs and cutting the state's unemployment rate in half.

"I've just about decided to ask her to quit Connecticut and come to Washington," the president said jokingly. "But just to show how much I think of Connecticut, I'm going to make the sacrifice and let her stay here."

A large airport welcoming party awaited the president. After shaking hands with National Guardsmen and their wives, Carter, Mrs. Grasso, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff and other state Democrats piled into a long line of limousines.

As the motorcade wound its way along the 15-mile route between the airport and the Hartford Hilton hundreds of onlookers lined the highway, craning their necks to catch a glimpse of the president.

Thousands of well wishers, including a marching band, ringed the hotel where Carter attended a $100-a-couple wine and cheese fund raiser for various Democratic candidates.

A handful of demonstrators carrying signs that read, "No Nukes" and "Normalize U.S.-China relationships" also stood outside the hotel.

Carter also heaped praise on Ribicoff and called Connecticut's congressmen "one of the greatest and strongest congressional Democratic coalitions I have ever known."

The president said Ribicoff "exemplifies in the finest way the word statesman," and told the crowd he never could have borne the fruits of Camp David without the senator's help.

Democratic Reps. Christopher Dodd, Anthony Moffett, William Cotter and Robert Giaino as well as Democratic congressional hopeful, William Ratchford, were also praised by the president.

Carter teased Cotter about his name.

"In the south, people would think he's my brother," he said.

After the Hilton reception, Carter motored across town through the streets of Hartford to the Hotel Sonesta for another fundraiser. Democratic couples attending the function lined up to pay $500 to have their pictures taken with president.

Connecticut Democrats expect to raise between $50,000 and $70,000 from the two affairs.

After making a similar speech at the Sonesta, Carter and his entourage were whisked back to Bradley for a campaign flight to Lynn, Mass.

When the Connecticut campaign sweep was finished, Carter was only in the state about two hours. But the president left behind him a trail of happy and grateful Democrats.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A key government index designed to forecast the economy rose 0.9 percent last month — largest advance since April, the Commerce Department said today.

The September increase in the government's index of Leading Indicators represented the second consecutive healthy gain and offered additional evidence the economy should maintain a moderate growth rate.

The administration has projected the economy should expand at an annual rate of 3.75 percent this year and between 3 and 3.5 percent in 1979. Officials say those levels should help fight inflation and keep unemployment from rising.

The 0.9 percent rise in September was the largest since April's 1.1 percent increase. The indicators rose a revised 0.7 percent in August. The department attributed much of September's gain to an anticipated high level of construction activity and a growth in the basic money supply.

The index is comprised of 12 components used to measure changes in general economic activity and to anticipate future trends.

The department said the newest index stood at 138.3 of its 1967 average, compared with 137.0 in August.

Five of the 10 indicators available rose last month: the basic money supply, building permits, the layoff rate, vendor performance and change in total liquid assets.

Four other indicators fell: change in sensitive prices, contracts and orders for new plant and equipment, stock prices and new orders.

Inflation Fighter Prefers Controls

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) — Alfred Kahn, President Carter's new inflation fighter, says if it came to a choice, he would prefer mandatory wage and price controls to an economic recession.

But he said he believes the country can walk the tightrope between the two, and he's confident the American people can be persuaded to hold down wages and prices voluntarily.

"If I am forced to choose between the two of them I just have to choose the controls," he said.

Kahn and Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal took to the television interview circuit Sunday to defend President Carter's anti-inflation program against skepticism on Wall Street and in money markets around the world.

Kahn was interviewed on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers." Blumenthal was the guest on CBS-TV's "Face The Nation."

Blumenthal predicted that investors in the falling stock market eventually would accept the merits of the Carter program.

"I have no doubt that the market will reflect that in coming months," he said. "I think these programs take awhile to analyze and understand."

Kahn said he's not a miracle worker with a quick cure for America's economic ills. "I'm not a huckster. I'm not interested in pretending that I'm going to pull rabbits out of the hat or create miracles."

Kahn said he does "not intend to fail and I do not think it is necessary to fail."

But he laughingly conceded he may be crazy for thinking he can succeed at one of the toughest jobs in America. "It was once said that whom the Gods would destroy they first made mad," he said. "And maybe I've been made mad." Blumenthal predicted the anti-inflation drive will need more than six months or a year to succeed.

Quick Acts Avert Big Lumber Fire

MANCHESTER — Quick action by a Manchester Police officer and town firefighters kept a potentially serious fire from becoming a full-scale blaze at Manchester Lumber Co., 255 Center St., early Sunday evening.

A portion of one building at the lumberyard was burned in the fire in which arson is suspected.

Police Officer John Maston smelled burning wood while on routine patrol behind the former Spree building on Broad Street, just west of the lumberyard. He reported a possible fire to the Town Fire Department, then climbed over a barbed wire fence surrounding the lumberyard and found part of a building wall on fire.

Maston was joined by Jack Hughes of the Town Fire Department, and the two began tearing away the burning pieces of the wood. The rest of the fire department arrived and quickly put out the fire, which burned a total area of about 10 by 6 feet.

Deputy Chief William Griffin of the Town Fire Department said "It's pretty definite it was a set fire." Paper and grass were found stuffed between the siding and the building foundation.

Police said there was no burned grass around the building.

A fire which may have been connected with the lumber fire was reported at 295 Broad St. at about the same time, fire officials said.

Threat by Amin Conceals Revolt

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Ugandan President Idi Amin threatened today to invade neighboring Tanzania to repel an "attack" but diplomats said he was using the threat to conceal an insurrection mounted by elements of his own army.

Radio Kampala which has been broadcasting a series of bizarre war communiques since Friday, quoted Amin as saying he will decide late today whether to send his ground and air forces against the Tanzanians "if the situation does not improve."

The Amin-controlled radio also said a number of Ugandans had been arrested "for spreading rumors" but did not elaborate.

In Nairobi, the Daily Nation newspaper today quoted sources in Kampala as saying that the army had mutinied against Amin three weeks ago in southern Uganda and wiped out an entire unit of 150 soldiers loyal to the mercurial dictator.

The Daily Nation said truckloads of bodies have arrived at a military barracks near the capital.

The newspaper said the mutiny was in support of former Vice President Mustafsa Horisi who was reportedly wounded in a car accident earlier this year. He was flown to Cairo for treatment where the Daily Nation said he had received political asylum from the Egyptians.

The newspaper said a major assault by Amin's forces on Friday was turned back by the rebels with a government jet shot down.

So, serious is the situation that Amin has told his remaining loyal troops "to prepare now to die in defense of their motherland."

The latest report Sunday, obviously false, said Amin's own troops were surrounded by Tanzanians.

One theory gaining credibility in Kenya is that the alleged Tanzanian invasion is intended to conceal battles between Amin's troops and dissident Uganda soldiers south of the capital.

The latest Radio Kampala report said Amin's armies "have been cut off by the invading Tanzanian Forces," announced an air force plane was shot down by Tanzanian aircraft and said the situation was growing worse.

It also said Amin asked his Soviet Air Force advisers to leave for "a short holiday" while his troops stop the invasion "in an African way."

Reading Workshop Due

EAST HARTFORD — As promised in September, the Board of Education will hold a workshop tonight at 7:30 in the Center School on its reading curriculum which was introduced two years ago.

The board agreed to hold the workshop after parents criticized the effectiveness of the Dale Avenue curriculum at a regular board meeting last month. Named for the place where it originated in Paterson, N.J., the curriculum is designed to test student skills in 10 different areas, including reading, listening, speaking and writing.

According to a report released by Superintendent Eugene A. Duggs, 16 of the 29 students in the Dale Avenue curriculum, or 55.2 percent, were reading at or above grade level while 44.8 percent were below grade level.

John Christensen, parent of a Center School child and president of the school's PTA, said the figures showed why the program was not working. He criticized the class size as preventing teachers from giving individual attention to their students.

However, both teachers and the administration have defended the curriculum, saying it provides a broad range of skills and allows students to move at their own pace.

Employees Sign For Extra Time

EAST HARTFORD — Sixteen public works employees in the street division signed up for voluntary overtime for the coming winter, despite rumors which indicated there would be few sign-ups because of the contract hassle between the town and the public works union.

A street division foreman sent out a letter Oct. 19 announcing the sign-up for winter overtime, a practice which is done every year.

However, this year's letter from Nick Callahan said there was a "forecasted complexity" in getting employees to volunteer.

The letter said a rumor was going "through the grapevine" that very few would work overtime this winter.

The letter concluded, "I would also like to remind you that with or without you, the streets of East Hartford will be maintained to the high standards of the past."

"That's basically true," said Mayor Richard H. Blackstone, who did not see the letter, but heard about it. "The streets will be maintained this winter," he said.

"If we have to use private contractors, we'll use private contractors," Blackstone said.

Blackstone said private contractors are frequently used in severe snowstorms to supplement the public works crews.

Callahan said the letter is sent out every year because there is no compulsory overtime.

"It's much easier if you have a list of people who want to work overtime," he said. "Then you don't have to call up people who don't want to work in the middle of the night."

He said he had heard rumors there would be fewer volunteers this winter than in the past. He said these rumors may have been raised because the town and struggle which the public works union are locked in a contract has seen the union reject two packages from the town.

The contract dispute has moved beyond a state fact-finder, who is reviewing briefs submitted Oct. 23 by the town and the union.

Despite the contract impasse, Callahan said this year's total of 16 is higher than the average. The average is 14, he said.

"We did better this year than we usually do," he said.

Man Hurt in Crash

MANCHESTER — James S. Deuse, 31, of Griswold St. sustained multiple injuries as the result of a two-car accident on Wadwell Drive late Sunday night. He was taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital immediately after the accident and was listed as having a head injury, multiple fractures and lacerations. He was transferred to Hartford Hospital where he underwent surgery this morning, but his condition was not yet known, hospital authorities said.

Police information on the accident was incomplete. Police said one other car, not yet identified, was involved in the accident.

Revenue Sharing Plan On Coventry's Agenda

COVENTRY — Revenue sharing appropriations will be the topic of a special town meeting tonight at 7:30 in the high school auditorium.

Residents will be asked to approve the expenditure of $135,492 of the federal funds, of which $110,907 is for town government and $24,585 is for the Board of Education.

Included in the general government list is $10,000 for engineering costs on the Pucker Street Bridge. "Approval of this amount will enable the town to initiate design work on the bridge, which is anticipated to cost approximately $80,000," said Town Manager Frank Conroy.

Other education items include $1,400 for microscopes, $1,600 for gym wall mats, $1,500 for a double-drafting work station, $1,000 for cafeteria curtains, and $1,440 for a power back saw.

The council is expected to hold a meeting following the special revenue sharing session.

At a recent public hearing, only the dump truck aroused controversy. Some residents felt the town did not need a new vehicle of that capacity.

The Board of Education is seeking to "fund some items that were cut from its capital expenditures during budgetary slashes last summer. A metal lathe for the high school is sought for $3,400.

Ahearn Urges Sales Tax Cut

BOLTON — "It's time to make a commitment toward tax relief," former state representative Al Ahearn said today.

Ahearn is running on the Democratic ticket for state representative from the 53rd District. His Republican opponent is incumbent Dorothy Miller.

Ahearn said if he is elected he will introduce legislation that would eliminate the sales tax for all elderly people over 65 years of age.

Ahearn said that people over 65 make up 13 percent of Connecticut residents, but own less than four percent of the wealth.

"The sales tax is regressive and hurts those least able to pay. The majority of our elderly are on fixed incomes. They are most hurt by inflation and least able to do anything about it. Many are subsisting at the poverty level. The government must respond to their needs," Ahearn said.

He said the precedent exists for such relief, adding that "Many enlightened business, stores, and shops recognize the plight of the senior citizen and give them a discount. These businessmen are willing to sacrifice a share of their profits. The state should make a similar commitment to help all elderly, not just homeowners," he said.

Ahearn said that the bill might run to $10 million but said when you consider that's less than the cost of a fighter plane, the price is small compared to the financial and psychological impact it will have on the elderly.

"I see no reason why this plan could not be as practical as the exemption on children's clothing. I believe it's just as necessary," Ahearn said.

South Windsor Sets Maximum on Sewage

SOUTH WINDSOR — Although some of the sewage from the newly proposed Buckland Commons development in Manchester may be handled in South Windsor, the combined sewage flow from Buckland Commons and the J.C. Penney Industrial Park cannot exceed the 430,000 gallons per day agreed upon in the recently approved Manchester-South Windsor sewer agreement.

According to a recent release from the South Windsor Public Works Department, Manchester had originally proposed that South Windsor agree to accept 800,000 gallons of sewage per day. The quantity finally agreed upon totaled 430,000 gallons per day from all sources within Manchester, with the town of Manchester responsible for any additional sewage from either Buckland Commons or the J.C. Penney Industrial Park.

"Manchester implied, incorrectly, that South Windsor had agreed to handle Buckland Commons sewage," said a spokesman for the Public Works Department. "The fact is, that to service the property presently being considered (Buckland Commons), either the town of Manchester or the developer must install an interceptor sewer from the property to the Clark Street pumping station. The agreement provides that the costs for installation — including engineering, easements and construction — cannot be assessed to abutting property owners."

Opinion

System Backed

The cruiser beat system instituted by Police Chief Clarence A. Drumm in East Hartford works, despite the recent claims of the East Hartford Citizen Action Group.

Drumm changed the system in 1974. Under the new system, the town is divided into northern and southern sections and the watch commanders have a "game plan" which they give to the officers each week.

Drumm has said this system is designed to deploy officers where the crime is happening. He uses computer printouts to pinpoint areas of high crime.

Iowa Will Test Voter 'Anger'

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS. DES MOINES (NEA) - In a year when the country is supposedly swinging to the right, an American for Democratic Action rating as the most liberal member of the U.S. Senate is not exactly a political asset.

No one understands that better than Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, holder of the dubious distinction. But he isn't about to change his spots simply because liberalism is out of fashion.

"I decided when I came to the Senate that I'd do what I felt was right and I'm not going to start flapping now," Clark said. "I'd rather not be here than to become a nothing."

Stubborn allegiance to principle is easy enough for a Ted Kennedy, who can be as liberal as he wants without risking his Senate seat, but it is a genuine gamble in a state where no Democrat has ever been re-elected to the Senate.

So far, the gamble seems to be paying off. The respected Iowa Poll of the Des Moines Register shows Clark clinging to an 11-point lead over his conservative GOP challenger, former Lt. Gov. Roger Jepsen.

The margin has remained essentially unchanged since July. Jepsen is as conservative as Clark is liberal - maybe more so, since he is darling of the "New Right" who focuses as much on inflammatory social issues like abortion as he does on traditional economic and foreign policy matters.

And it is those social issues - especially the emotional abortion controversy - that threaten Clark's reelection at this juncture. About 20 percent of Iowa voters are Roman Catholic, and the church is playing an active role in the campaign.

Clark's opposition to tuition tax credits for private and parochial pupils has further antagonized many Roman Catholics, who would normally vote Democratic.

In Iowa Clark and Kennedy, who was in Iowa this month to campaign for his Senate colleague, appeared at an airport rally in Dubuque, a Roman Catholic stronghold, where they were all but drowned out by strident jeers from anti-abortion activists.

Jepsen, on the other hand, has problems within his own party. GOP regulars aligned with moderate Gov.

Politics Pearson

The Manchester Education Association has endorsed four incumbent Democrats seeking re-election and the Democratic candidate in the Third Senatorial District.

The group endorsed Marcella Fahey, who is running in the Third Senatorial District. Mrs. Fahey defeated incumbent State Sen. George Hannan in a Democratic primary earlier this year.

The four incumbents endorsed by the MEA are State Sen. David Barry, Fourth Senatorial District, and State Reps. Theodore Cummings, 12th Assembly District; Abraham Glassman, 14th District; and Muriel Yacovone, Ninth District.

All the endorsed candidates, with the exception of Mrs. Fahey, are incumbents with favorable voting records on educational issues.

Barry, Cummings, Mrs. Yacovone and Mrs. Fahey also have received endorsements from the Connecticut State Employees Association.

Other local candidates endorsed by the CSEA are: State Rep. Francis Mahoney, 13th District; State Rep. Robert "Skip" Walsh, 53rd District; State Rep. Chester Morgan, 56th District; and Andrew Repko, the Republican candidate in the 35th Senatorial District.

U.S. Rep. William Cotter, seeking re-election in the First Congressional District, has received endorsements from the following groups - the United Transportation Union, the Connecticut Marine Trades Association, the state and northern area CAP council of the United Auto Workers, and the political action committee of the American Nurses' Association.

Cotter has said he will re-introduce a bill in next year's Congress to help women who are victims of abuse by their husbands.

The bill would provide more government funding for shelters for these women.

Meanwhile, Cotter's opponent, Republican Ben Andrews, says the congressman has voted consistently against the interests of senior citizens in the district.

Cotter voted against removing or raising the income levels for Social Security recipients. He also voted against a proposal that would have required federal employees to pay Social Security taxes, Andrews said.

Other area candidates who responded included: 35th Senatorial District - Republican Andrew Repko, 85 percent; Democrat Michael Skelley, did not respond.

53rd Assembly District - Independent George Hasspes, 65 percent; Republican Claire Connor, 50 percent; Democratic State Rep. Robert Walsh, 40 percent.

Other Editors Say:

Given the profound changes within the Roman Catholic Church since the second Vatican Council, it was inevitable that a Cardinal from outside Italy would one day ascend to the throne of St. Peter.

The election of John Paul II quickens the pace of that renewal process, while giving the church a young and vigorous leader schooled in the complexities of a divided world.

Who might be better equipped than a Polish Pope to be the symbol of reconciliation between East and West, between the past and the present? He is, after all, the spiritual bridge for a departure from four- and one-half centuries of custom.

The election of John Paul II was also a dramatic gesture of openness to all mankind. It was a reminder to people everywhere that the church is as enduring, as abiding, and as resilient as human nature itself and its ministry transcends the iron curtains of ideology or political practice.

It was also a reminder that one reason the church has survived with its essential doctrine in fact is its capacity to recognize the world as it is and to adapt to the tides of history.

Now the world must wait to see whether John Paul has the richness of humanity necessary to realize the possibilities opened by his election.

Meanwhile, the possibilities themselves are reason for joy.

Other area candidates who responded included: 35th Senatorial District - Republican Andrew Repko, 85 percent; Democrat Michael Skelley, did not respond.

53rd Assembly District - Independent George Hasspes, 65 percent; Republican Claire Connor, 50 percent; Democratic State Rep. Robert Walsh, 40 percent.

55th Assembly District - Democrat Aloysius Ahearn, 85 percent; Republican State Rep. Dorothy Miller, did not respond.

56th Assembly District - Republican Nancy Osborn, 100 percent; Democratic State Rep. Chester Morgan, did not respond.

57th Assembly District - Neither candidate responded.

Of course, Andrews has criticized the congressman, but the criticism has been aimed at his record and not him personally.

Cotter does feel this is unjustified. Andrews has said that Cotter's voting record on the Ways and Means Committee is a poor one.

The committee is one only three that meets regularly when the House is in session, Cotter said.

"Sometimes it's necessary for me to be on the House floor to vote. It is a question of how being able to be in two places at once," he said.

Andrews also has questioned whether Cotter's incumbency is a real benefit to the area. The Republican challenger has said that others who became members of the House with Cotter have moved into high-ranking leadership positions.

Cotter, however, said that the Ways and Means Committee is "the most prestigious" and he is the first Democratic congressman from the state to serve on it.

If re-elected this year, he will become the seventh-ranking member on the committee.

"That ordinarily takes 30 years to do," he said.

Cotter also said he responded quickly this year when the problem developed with Hartford's Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program.

"Believe me, everything that could have been done was," he said. He said legislation passed by this year's Congress will tighten control of CETA.

Cotter Used To Campaign Woes

By GREG PEARSON, Herald Reporter

He did not start his full-time campaign until two weeks ago. And he picked up a cold just before that to slow himself down a bit more.

U.S. Rep. William Cotter, however, is used to such problems and is confident of a fifth term as congressman from the First Congressional District.

Cotter, first elected to congress in 1970, was tied up at the Capitol until the early morning hours of Oct. 14. It was the longest and busiest session he has been involved in, he said.

The late end to the session left him with only three weeks of full-time campaigning before the Nov. 7 election. He also suffered through the first few days with a cold picked up during the last hectic days of Congress.

While Congress was in session, Cotter followed the ritual of incumbents seeking reelection. He flew home most Friday nights to campaign and returned to Washington for the start of the work week.

Those work week days were some of the busiest Cotter could remember. "I think the amount of legislation that came out of Congress this year is a record," he said.

His first year in the Capitol, the House of Representatives had about 250 roll call votes. This year, it had about 850, Cotter said.

The congressman, who lives in Hartford, also is pleased with this year's campaign.

Two years ago, his opponent, Lucien DiFazio, ran what Cotter termed a distasteful campaign. It included personal attacks on him, Cotter said.

This year, the Republican candidate Ben Andrews, is concentrating on the issues, he said.

He thinks one of the major accomplishments this year was the approval of a long-awaited energy bill. "As weak as it was, it was a start," he said of the recently approved bill, which was one of the reasons for last-day marathon.

He also called civil service reform and deregulation of airlines other key proposals approved by the 95th Congress.

Cotter, like all candidates this year, is talking about spending and taxing. He believes the federal government can have a balanced budget in two years.

"This would do more for cutting inflation than anything," he said.

"We've got to cut waste in the government. We've got to curtail new programs and balance the budget," Cotter said.

He said he is pleased with President Carter's recent proposal to seek voluntary control of wages and prices.

"I'm delighted he's taking the initiative. We've got to get the cooperation of the people," Cotter said of the President's voluntary program to control inflation.

Hebron PZC OKs Animal Keeping

HEBRON - The Hebron Planning and Zoning Commission voted unanimously to allow Donald Steiner, Route 85, Hebron, to keep five animals on his property. In so doing, the commission heard a letter from the town sanitarian who had been asked to investigate the complaint about the animals, lodged by John and Mary Kelley, abutting neighbors.

In his letter, the sanitarian states "there was no apparent violation of section 19-13 (b) of the State of Connecticut Public Health Code, which states: that the following conditions are specifically declared to constitute public nuisances: Barns or stables, hogpens, chicken yards or manure piles or accumulation of organic material so maintained as to be breeding place of flies. No other violations of the Public Health Code were charged."

Pat Mancarella, Slucom Road, presented the commission with a petition signed by 180 persons in support of the Steiner's position.

In other business, the board passed a resolution commending member Henry I. Snider, whose term expires this month, for his service on the commission.

Willard Miles, M & S Sales, was asked to present a plan of development, showing paved areas for his business. The regulations specified that all cars used by owners or workers, must be parked on an asphalt bituminous surface that is dust free. Also, that drainage and curbs must be to specifications.

A decision was tabled on an application from Donald Robinson, pending Wetlands application for Lot 3, Millstream Park. The maps were referred to the Conservation Commission for review and findings.

John Luchs presented preliminary plans for development of 24 lots in North 4. Three lots will be located on Old Colchester Road, four on Reddy Hill Road and the remainder on a proposed street.

Commission chairman, John Hibbard, drew attention to a proposed cul-de-sac in the subdivision. He said that the Hebron Zoning regulations were included in the building of cul-de-sacs, that they are difficult to plow and service, and it is sometimes difficult to fire equipment. Also, that the proposed plan would have to be funded and suggested.

Zoning Agent, Richard A. Keeffe, in a letter to the commission, informed them that he had sent a letter to property owner, Martin Schadt, Martin Road, Hebron. In the letter, Keeffe said that during a routine inspection, it was determined that there was a violation on the property. No building permit application and filed and that the building was in violation of the town's building regulations.

The Zoning Board of Appeals voted on the Planning and Zoning Commission requesting information on the July property at Amston Lake. The inquiry concerning the change in status from summer to year round was raised because of a letter which stated that the status of the property would change with the installation of a well on the property.

The commission voted to notify the town sanitarian and building inspector about the situation, and ask that they in turn determine whether or not a well can be installed.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I read that the voters in California now have another controversial proposition that is causing a heated battle. It's Proposition 5, having to do with smoking. If passed, exactly what will it do - and NOT do? I do not live in California, but there's been talk of imitating the same kind of legislation in my state.

LIKES TO SMOKE

DEAR LINES: If passed, Proposition 5 will recognize both the right to smoke and the right to breathe clean air. Establish non-smoking and smoking sections in restaurants. Guarantee non-smokers smoke-free places of employment while providing smoking areas for employees who smoke. Create smoke-free hospital rooms unless a smoking room is requested. Prohibit or restrict the sale of tobacco products. Regulate smoking outdoors. Restrict smoking in designated smoking sections indoors. Affect smoking in private places. Cost the taxpayers money, instead, it will save tax dollars.

Be carried in granite, since the Initiative allows the legislature to amend it with a mere majority vote.

DEAR ABBY: Our son and daughter-in-law have a son in college senior who announced that he plans to marry the girl with whom he has gone for a long time. It seems that our son and his wife feel that this girl is not right for their son, so they suggested that the young couple live together for a year while he is in graduate school, hoping the love affair won't survive beyond that time. This doesn't seem like the right solution to us. What do you think?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Although your son and daughter-in-law prefer to have their son live with the girl rather than marry her, the final decision will be made by the young couple, and not by either the parents or the grandparents. (Or me.)

DEAR ABBY: What in the world do they put on this newspaper that causes an instant jaw ache? Two minutes after I start reading my newspaper my eyes begin to water, my nose itches and I start to sneeze! In five minutes I'm weeping. Has anyone else ever complained about this?

HOWARD E.

DEAR HOWARD: Much in this world's news would make anybody cry. As for your itching nose, maybe you have no nose for news. (P.S. An allergist might be more helpful.)

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklets, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a self-addressed envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Old friends will play important roles this coming year in helping you to have a easier road to now. Stand by them when they need you. They, in turn, will stand by you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a good day to review your goals. You may have been chasing an unattainable objective. The more realistic your target, the more likely your success. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail 50 cents for each and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 480, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify your birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your logic must take precedence over your hunches today, or you could be sent spiraling down off-course. Steer safely in charred waters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day to launch a new enterprise in an area where you have knowledge, experience and expertise. If you get out of your ballow, however, it might be costly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don't make foolish concessions today in negotiating important agreements. Your position is strong. Deal from your strengths.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I read that the voters in California now have another controversial proposition that is causing a heated battle. It's Proposition 5, having to do with smoking. If passed, exactly what will it do - and NOT do? I do not live in California, but there's been talk of imitating the same kind of legislation in my state.

LIKES TO SMOKE

DEAR LINES: If passed, Proposition 5 will recognize both the right to smoke and the right to breathe clean air. Establish non-smoking and smoking sections in restaurants. Guarantee non-smokers smoke-free places of employment while providing smoking areas for employees who smoke. Create smoke-free hospital rooms unless a smoking room is requested. Prohibit or restrict the sale of tobacco products. Regulate smoking outdoors. Restrict smoking in designated smoking sections indoors. Affect smoking in private places. Cost the taxpayers money, instead, it will save tax dollars.

Be carried in granite, since the Initiative allows the legislature to amend it with a mere majority vote.

DEAR ABBY: Our son and daughter-in-law have a son in college senior who announced that he plans to marry the girl with whom he has gone for a long time. It seems that our son and his wife feel that this girl is not right for their son, so they suggested that the young couple live together for a year while he is in graduate school, hoping the love affair won't survive beyond that time. This doesn't seem like the right solution to us. What do you think?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Although your son and daughter-in-law prefer to have their son live with the girl rather than marry her, the final decision will be made by the young couple, and not by either the parents or the grandparents. (Or me.)

DEAR ABBY: What in the world do they put on this newspaper that causes an instant jaw ache? Two minutes after I start reading my newspaper my eyes begin to water, my nose itches and I start to sneeze! In five minutes I'm weeping. Has anyone else ever complained about this?
