

Social Security

Q. When I started getting SSI payments, Social Security sent me a booklet which listed all the changes I have to report. I've lost the booklet. Can you tell me if I have to notify Social Security that I'm going into a hospital next month?

A. Yes. You should notify Social Security promptly if you either enter or are released from a hospital, public institution, skilled nursing facility, nursing home, intermediate care facility, or other institution. The notice should give the name of the institution and the date you entered or were released. You can get another copy of the booklet, "What you should know about SSI" at any Social Security office.

Q. When my sister and brother-in-law were killed in an auto accident two years ago, I was appointed guardian of their retarded son. He gets Social Security checks and we get assistant from Aid to Families with Dependent Children. But I think he'd be eligible for SSI payments. Can he get both SSI and AFDC?

A. No. A child cannot receive SSI payments and take part in the AFDC program. But if a child is eligible under programs, the parents or guardian can choose whichever one best suits the family. You can get information on both programs at any Social Security office.

Q. My husband died last month. There were no children from our marriage, but I have a son from my first marriage. Can he get survivor benefits on his stepfather's Social Security record?

A. A stepchild may be eligible for monthly survivor checks if he or she was the stepchild of the worker for at least nine months before the worker's death.

Q. I've hired a man to do repair work around my home this fall. Is he considered a household employee for Social Security purposes?

A. Yes. Household employees include people who do repair work, or house-cleaning, gardeners, baby-sitters, cooks, and chauffeurs — anyone employed in or around some one's home.

Q. Every month, I have to stand in line at the bank for 20 to 30 minutes to deposit my Social Security check. Can I arrange to have my monthly check deposited to my checking account?

A. Yes. You can have your monthly benefit deposited directly to a checking or savings account at the financial organization of your choice. All you need to do is complete a direct deposit form SF-1199. You can get the form at your financial organization, and the people there can help you fill it out.

SS Number Needed
People who plan on getting a job during the Christmas shopping season but do not have a Social Security number should act quickly to get it, Salvatore Anello, Social Security manager in East Hartford said recently.

Most employers require job applicants to show their Social Security card. Not having one may mean difficulty in getting a job, Anello said.

People who need a Social Security number can apply for one at the East Hartford Social Security office. If the person is 18 or older, he or she must apply in person. A person should allow 6 weeks after applying to receive the number.

Everyone, regardless of his or her age, must furnish proof of age, identity, and U.S. citizenship or lawful admission status when applying for a number.

A birth certificate or church record of birth or baptism recorded before the person's fifth birthday is preferred evidence of age and place of birth. For evidence of identity, the document should show a person's signature, photograph or other identifying data.

People born outside the United States must present evidence of their U.S. citizenship, such as a U.S. passport, naturalization certificate, citizen identity card, certificate of citizenship, or consular report of birth.

People not citizens of the United States must present their immigration documents.

A leaflet, "Applying for a Social Security number," lists different documents which should be used as proof of age, identity and citizenship status. Free copies can be obtained at the East Hartford Social Security office, located at 677 Main St. The telephone number is 344-9717.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY — One of our children got ballpoint ink on our kitchen booth. I have tried everything on it but nothing has removed the spots. Can you help me?

A cheap way to have a better picture is to use empty tin pie plates under paper plates. MRS. G.T.B., Jr.

DEAR MRS. G.T.B. — I do wish you had explained a bit more about the "booth." I am presuming you refer to built-in seats around a breakfast table. Usually such seating is covered with a plastic or vinyl material and, if so, you might try rubbing in a bit of petroleum jelly and then washing with detergent suds. I am surprised that hair spray in an aerosol can did not do the job. It has always worked on such materials for me. POLLY

DEAR POLLY — All who sew know how annoying it is to lose needles in a pin cushion. I pinned a strip of colored felt to my pin cushion and use it just for holding sewing needles. They are easy to find and always separated from the pins. — MARGE

DEAR POLLY — When you take a barbecue grill to the beach rub the grill under the sand after using it. All excess food is rubbed off and the cleaning is much easier when you get the grill home. — LINDA

DEAR POLLY — Several years ago the timer on my spin dry washer was no longer working so I bought a minute minder. The washer was working fine otherwise and I did not want to pay a repair man to just fix that one little thing. The few dollars I paid for this timer have been repaid many times. I use it for timing my cooking, telephone calls, etc., as well as my washing.

My Pet Peeve is with the glass left in the street after an accident. No one sweeps it up and other motorists drive over it unknowingly. I wish the police would sweep it against the curb after they make their investigation. It would be such a help. — MARY B.

What's up in bridges?

"Don't cross that bridge until you come to it," grandmas used to say. Increasingly, you might not want to cross the bridge even then.

The Federal Highway Administration reports that one highway bridge out of five is deficient and dangerous. According to the agency, these are the states with the largest numbers of deficient or obsolete bridges:

1. Iowa 14,000
2. Oklahoma 8,942
3. Pennsylvania 8,939
4. New York 8,750
5. Kansas 5,346
6. Texas 5,346
7. Missouri 4,782
8. Tennessee 4,752
9. Nebraska 4,500
10. Illinois 4,498

WHAT'S NEWS

Closed Friday

MANCHESTER — The town's municipal building will be closed Friday in observance of Veterans Day. Emergency telephone numbers for the day are highway, 647-5233; refuse, 647-2248; and water and sanitary sewer, 647-3111. Schools in town will be open Friday.

Budget Limit

Democratic members of the Town Board of Directors have set a six percent limit on increases in budget proposals from Manchester's town and school administrators. See page 2.

IOH Bake Sale

MANCHESTER — The instructors of the Handicapped (IOH) will be traveling door-to-door throughout Manchester Saturday with carloads or little red wagons full of homebaked goods. IOH will also be stationed on Main Street for their annual mobile bake sale. The sale will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the weekly swim program for handicapped individuals from area towns.

Spending Plan

The Town of Manchester's Community Development Advisory Committee has developed its spending plan for the next $492,000 grant. See page 3.

District-Town

The subcommittee of members of the Town of Manchester and Eighth Utilities District Board of Directors asked about funding a phone system and a map at Wednesday's meeting. See page 12.

Food Drive

EAST HARTFORD — The local REACT Team will hold a food drive at Stop & Shop in the Charter Oak Mall, Silver Lane, Nov. 18 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The food drive will benefit the Community Renewal Team to help needy persons during the winter.

Fireman Dies

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — A fireman was electrocuted shortly after 2 a.m. today when a ladder he was raising with three other firemen came into contact with an overhead power line. Authorities identified the victim as Nicholas Auriemma, 25, of Bridgeport, a one-year veteran of the department. Three other firemen suffered smoke inhalation and electrical burns at the suspicious 224 Fairfield Ave. apartment building, authorities said. Two were admitted to St. Vincent's Hospital. Another fireman was treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released.

U.S. Energy Plan Signed Into Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter signed the five parts of his national energy plan into law today, giving homeowners tax breaks for insulation costs, opening the door to the deregulation of natural gas prices and taking other steps to solve U.S. energy problems.

Carter said the energy plan will help reduce costly reliance on foreign oil suppliers by saving 2.5 million barrels of oil a day by 1985, less than he had hoped when he submitted the plan to Congress almost 19 months ago, but still "a substantial improvement."

"Today we can rightfully claim we have a comprehensive national energy policy dealing with our energy problems," Carter told some 200 congressional, Energy Department and energy industry representatives who crowded into the White House East Room for the signing of the six-inch stack of legislation.

"We have acquitted ourselves well as a nation. While the world watched, we have shown the will and courage to face up to this complex problem."

Congress passed the five-part program covering conservation, industrial conversion from gas to coal, natural gas pricing, utility rate reform and energy taxes — on Oct. 15, the final, hectic day of its session.

Along the way, however, Congress discarded the president's $45 billion industrial use of oil and gas and $50 billion in taxes on gasoline to discourage use.

Eventually, the estimated savings of 4.5 million barrels of oil a day by 1985 were scaled down to between 2 million and 2.5 million barrels.

The energy package was the keystone of Carter's domestic legislative program, and he once called his fight to get the country's energy use under control "the moral equivalent of war."

The linchpin of the energy plan — and the focus of one of the biggest and longest battles of the 95th Congress — was the natural gas pricing bill, which will mean higher gas prices almost immediately and an end to federal controls on the production price of new natural gas by 1985.

It took nearly a year for a House-energy conference committee to come up with a pricing compromise acceptable to both sides. The Senate had wanted deregulation, while the House had supported Carter's plan of higher ceiling prices.

Carter originally bitterly opposed deregulation of gas prices, but last spring he told House and Senate leaders he would settle for almost any compromise they could reach in order to prod the rest of the package through.

Problems Seen In Peace Talks

By United Press International
Egyptian President Anwar Sadat says peace talks with Israel will be suspended and the Jewish state today acknowledged the negotiations have run into difficulties that could cut short Prime Minister Menachem Begin's trip to Canada and bring his home.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said they did not know the nature of the problems but cited news reports from Washington. The reports said the talks have bogged down over the issue of linking the treaty to the future of other occupied Arab territories.

On the West Bank, a bulldozer destroyed bulldozers from a 250-acre site at the settlement of Maale Adatum to prepare for construction of 1,500 apartments in line with a government decision to expand existing Jewish outposts in the area.

Several reserve soldiers guarding the site refused to permit photographers to take pictures of the area. "No pictures — we've got orders," an armed soldier told one photographer.

Wednesday construction workers at the site beat up an Israeli television crew filming the work on the work. A TV crewman said the work was begun in secret hours before dawn.

The Jerusalem Post said a 12-word sentence setting out the linkage was holding up progress in the talks — began Oct. 12 — based on the Camp David accords engineered by Carter.

"There seem to be some difficulties in the negotiations with Egypt, the nature of which we do not know yet," one official said.

Asked about reports from Montreal that Begin may cut short a six-day official trip to Canada to return home for a special cabinet session, the official said: "It has not been decided yet."

Sadat spoke of a possible suspension in the negotiations Wednesday in an interview with the Kuwaiti newspaper Al-Sayassah. "There is a possibility of a break in the negotiations. But I am confident that if this happens the Israelis will come back within one month to resume the dialogue."

Sadat also said Carter supports his position. Both have served for several years, are popular and would be tough to defeat.

Barry said earlier this week, before Tuesday's election, that he planned to seek the deputy majority leadership role, not Strada's new reelection.

"I want to be a part of the Democratic leadership in the senate," Barry said of his bid for the deputy post. Other challengers for the job might be expected, especially after Strada's defeat.

The deputy position is high in the leadership role of the senate but does not rank below president pro tempore and majority leader.

The senators who hold those positions, Joseph P. Moynihan of New York, who is president pro tempore, and Joseph Lieberman of Hartford, are considered secure in their positions. Both have served for several years, are popular and would be tough to defeat.

Barry has sent a letter to the other 35 senators elected Tuesday announcing his plan to run for deputy majority leader.

Barry could rate as a favorite over most other contenders for the position because of his years of service and his reputation as a legislator.

Barry easily won re-election Tuesday. He defeated Republican Fenton "Pat" Futner by almost a 2-1 margin in the Fourth Senatorial District.

Barry had promised during his campaign that he would seek repeal of the Sunday closing law. After filing the legislation to repeal, he said he would contact all house and senate members and invite them to join as co-sponsors of the repeal.

Residents seeking nursing or home health services after hours should contact the participating public health agency, in advance, which makes the referral to the consortium coordinator.

Barry Running Again For Leadership Post

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER — Having just won re-election by a wide margin, State Sen. David Barry now plans to start running again.

Barry will seek the deputy majority leader post in the state Senate. Also, the senator from Manchester Wednesday filed a bill to repeal the blue laws that prohibit Sunday sales for most stores.

Barry, who was elected Tuesday to his fifth overall and third consecutive senate term, has served during the past term as an assistant majority leader.

There are several such assistants, and the deputy leadership post is considered a step up from those.

The deputy majority leader for the past two terms has been State Sen. William Strada of Stamford, but Strada was defeated in his bid for reelection.

Barry said earlier this week, before Tuesday's election, that he planned to seek the deputy majority leadership role, not Strada's new reelection.

"I want to be a part of the Democratic leadership in the senate," Barry said of his bid for the deputy post. Other challengers for the job might be expected, especially after Strada's defeat.

Bolton May Change Government

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent
BOLTON — Bolton residents will probably be asked to consider a new form of town government for the coming fiscal year — 1979-1980.

The work load experienced by all five members of the Board of Selectmen, during the past 16 months, has led to the board's personnel committee suggesting that an administrative assistant be considered.

The selectmen spend an average of 20 hours a week in the positions. The first selectman spends many more hours in his position. The proposal was presented to the selectmen at Wednesday's meeting.

Although all five board members agree on the need for an assistant, they did not make a decision on exactly how that need should be realized.

Selectwoman Joann Neath, committee member, recommended establishing a new position — that of an administrative assistant — that of an administrative assistant be considered.

Mrs. Neath said the reasons for her recommendation are, "the complexity of government today and the increased volume of the work which has resulted from this and because of the lack of full time personnel to supervise and coordinate necessary town work, activities and personnel."

Selectman Ernest Shepherd had several suggestions to alleviate the board's workload and better organize the town government.

Shepherd suggested a "full time first selectman to manage the town with the board acting as a policy and legislative body, a full time appointed employed officer directly under the supervision of the first selectman and responsible to the board, or a full time appointed town manager to administer town services and programs under the general supervision of the board."

Shepherd said the committee recommends hiring an administrative assistant. He said, "Mrs. Neath and I agree, we just say it in different ways."

The committee proposed a salary range of $15,000 to $17,000 and listed a position description and responsibilities, and examples of duties and qualifications.

The salary was questioned by Selectman John Carey who felt it was too high. He said, "What you're looking for is a town manager without responsibilities but you're calling it an administrative assistant."

Thanksgiving Food Collection

The annual collection to provide Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for Manchester families opened this morning at Consumer Sales store at the Manchester Parkade. Non-perishable food items may be left at the center until 7 tonight, Friday from 10:30 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Delivering food donations to

Citizens Take Aim, Fire On Absent Police Chief

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter
EAST HARTFORD — Even though Police Chief Clarence A. Drumm was absent, members of the East Hartford Citizen Action Group and others took aim and fired away at the chief during Wednesday night's Town Council meeting.
EHACG members, who have heavily criticized Drumm's cruiser beat system in recent weeks, broadened their attacks Wednesday night.
And they found support from others who spoke about lack of protection and lawlessness in town. One man who is not an EHACG member called for an investigation regarding why lawlessness is not being stopped.
EHACG President Alvin Levie said Drumm has ignored his request for foot patrols and has failed to respond to a five-point proposal he submitted last spring.
The five-point proposal included a return of the cruiser district system; foot patrols on Main Street, especially near the rail underpass, to prevent assaults; a police-community program to search out problems in neighborhoods; foot patrols in the Shea Park-Hockanum Village area; and an attempt to gain federal funds to help fight crime from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Fund.

"These are all positive, productive proposals, but they have been ignored by the police chief," Levie said.
Robert Nixon of 25 Clement Road, owner of Stark's Express Co. of 51 Thomas St., said his building was damaged by fire Sunday morning.
But, he said, he did not hear about it from the police. He read about the fire in the newspaper.
He said the police did not protect his building — which was open to vandals after the fire — and he had to watch it himself until he could board it up Sunday.
"I don't believe it would be too much to ask for a cruiser to come down here once an hour," he said.
He asked why there was such a lack of communication.
Russell Crane Sr. of 28 Governor St. said he has appealed to Drumm and to Mayor Richard H. Blackstone on several occasions. Problems in the Governor Street area include speeding, vandalism and drinking on school property, he said.
Crane said he has received no cooperation from the police department. "That's why I'm coming to the council for the third time," he said.

Police Seek Hijackers

HARTFORD (UPI) — Police were searching today for a pair of gunmen who kidnapped two deliverymen and hijacked their liquor truck.
Police said William Moore, 23, and John Polombo, 23, employees of Johnny Barton Wine and Liquors of North Haven, were kidnapped about 11:15 p.m. Wednesday outside the Pierce Pharmacy in Hartford after making a delivery.
Moore and Polombo were discovered uninjured about two hours later.
The bandits forced the deliverymen into the back of the truck and drove it a short distance before removing the liquor, police said.

The council took no action on the matter Wednesday. The council did take the following actions:
• It approved a resolution authorizing the mayor to seek 50 percent federal reimbursement for the town's Call-A-Ride system. The reimbursement comes to a little more than $20,000.
• Interim Audit Committee Chairman Henry Genga announced that copies of the town's annual audit for fiscal 1977-78 are available for public inspection in the Town Clerk's office.

Democrats Set Limit On Budget Increase

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER — A proposed school or town budget with more than a six percent increase will be sent back for more cutting, Democratic members of the Town Board of Directors announced Wednesday.
Republican directors supported the proposal but again repeated their concern that they were not consulted about the idea before Wednesday's announcement.
Town administrators admit they have a tough job ahead, but they expect to stay within the six percent limit when they present their budgets early next year.

The six percent limitation is the town's role in meeting the inflation control standards established by President Jimmy Carter, Mayor Stephen Penny and Deputy Mayor Stephen Cassano said.
Penny and Cassano called a press conference Wednesday afternoon to announce the limit that the directors plan to maintain. They said the other four Democratic directors have been consulted and have agreed to the limit.

Salary increases already have been approved and these are about six percent for most school personnel. Thus, increases for "standard" purchases that go up more than six percent could mean cutbacks in other areas.
The same situation holds true for the town, where salary increases being discussed generally are around the six percent figure.
The three Republican directors — C. Zinner, Vivian Ferguson and William Dina — all were pleased the Democrats appear to be considering such budget limitations. All three expressed concern, however, that they were not notified before Wednesday's announcement.
Zinner also said he would like to see some action in line with the limit on spending. He mentioned two items now being considered by the directors — providing town funding for CEPA positions that will no longer receive federal funding and proposed pay increases for mid-management personnel that average 10 percent.
Funding for both items has been included in the present budget, but Zinner said the action by the Democratic directors on these issues might set a tone similar to the one indicated by Wednesday's announcement.

Panel on Handicaps Loses Its Chairman

MANCHESTER — After rejecting money for a tenants group and downtown rehabilitation, the town's Community Development Advisory Committee Wednesday night resigned from the commission because its "professional commitments" will keep him from attending commission meetings during the next few months.
Bernstein, a physical education instructor in Manchester public schools, is now coaching wrestling at Manchester High School, and doesn't feel it would be fair to the commission if he took a sabbatical for the next three months, he said.
His resignation was effective as of last night. However, he will remain as a resource person for the commission.
Roger Ouellette, vice chairman, was elected to succeed Bernstein as chairman.
The commission, at its December meeting, is planning to draft a survey form to be used to determine the accessibility to the handicapped of various types of buildings.
The commission is looking for civic organizations to assist with the proposed survey of local firms.

Earlier in the day, a forum on inflation sponsored by the White House had been held in Hartford.
President Carter spoke by telephone to the business, labor and municipal officials who attended.
Penny said the limitation on spending was considered by the Democratic members even before Carter's announcement about voluntary controls to curb inflation.
"This approach is a product of our experience in preparing this year's budget," Penny said.
Both said the town must do its part to meet the voluntary inflation control.
This year's total town budget, after cuts by the directors, was an increase of seven percent over the previous year.
That budget also included some generous appropriations by the town.

Developers Ask Zoners For School Housing OK

By CHARLIE MAYNARD

EAST HARTFORD — A group seeking to purchase St. Mary's School brought its bid for a special permit use under the Planning and Zoning Commission Wednesday night.
Greenwich Development Partnership has proposed buying the 48-year-old landmark and converting it into 56 units of housing for elderly citizens. The church and the developers received eight variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals two weeks ago and needed the approval from the PZC to move ahead with the plans.
Because of the lateness of the hour — it was after 11 before the petitioners presented their case to the commission — the PZC did not vote on any of the six requests before it. Chairman Walter F. Forrest announced that those decisions would be made in a regular session next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Council chambers.
Attorney Francis C. Vignati, who represented the church and the developers, brought forth witnesses who said the building would not create traffic congestion and would not depress the property values surrounding it.
St. Mary's School closed in 1973 because of declining enrollments and other financial burdens. The Rev. James J. Nock, co-pastor of St. Mary's Church, said it costs the parish $2,000 a year to maintain the building and it has been hit hard by vandalism. He urged that it be converted into housing for the elderly.
The building presently lies in two different zones, one residential and the other business, and the developers sought the special permit use under the town's zoning regulations.
Those who spoke in favor of the petitioners said the school was an East Hartford landmark. (Councilman Dick Torpey referred to it as "that grand old lady") and its conversion into elderly housing units was something the town desperately needs.

President Predicts Food Cost Stability

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — President Carter, in a telephone call to an inflation forum in West Hartford, forecast the rapidly increasing cost of food will stabilize next year.
"I think food prices will be more stable than in the past," Carter said. "My own guess, reinforced by the economists, is that food prices will not increase nearly as much in 1979 as they did in 1978."
The White House forum on inflation at the University of Hartford Wednesday was the second of its kind in the country. Several hundred business, labor and political leaders attended.
President George Meany's stance that labor had to bear the biggest share of his anti-inflation program. "The standards for business are a little more stringent than for labor," Carter said. "I believe in general, it's a very well balanced program."
For two consecutive months and that projection has now been scrapped.
During the telephone question-and-answer session, Carter repeated his determination not to impose mandatory wage-price controls, saying it "would be a very serious mistake."

Area Police Report

Verion
Edward I. Konarski, 39, of 12 McClean St., Rockville, was charged Wednesday with disorderly conduct in connection with the investigation of a disturbance at a home.
He was released on his promise to appear in court in Rockville on Nov. 14.
June W. Ireland, 57, of 49 Duran St., Manchester, was charged Wednesday with failure to obey a stop sign while being involved in a two-car accident at the intersection of Bolton and Feeder roads.
Police said the Ireland car pulled into the intersection and collided with a car driven by Debra Shimanski of Mark Drive, Coventry which was traveling south on Bolton Road. No injuries were reported at the scene. The Shimanski car was towed. Ms. Ireland has a court answer date of Nov. 24.
South Windsor
John McNelis, 71, of Abbey Road Ext., South Windsor, was charged Wednesday with evading responsibility.
Police said he allegedly struck a car in the Sullivan Avenue Plaza, causing damage, and left the scene. He

Tenants, Downtown Lose But Fire Engine Funded

By GREG PEARSON

MANCHESTER — After rejecting money for a tenants group and downtown rehabilitation, the town's Community Development Advisory Committee Wednesday night reviewing some of the proposals it has received for spending money. Much of the discussion centered on Manchester's center — the downtown area.
The committee voted not to provide $15,000 for design of storefront rehabilitation in the downtown area.
Al Reale, who serves as the committee's liaison on the Downtown Action Committee, proposed inclusion of the funding. It would have provided money for beginning planning of rehabilitation of storefronts along Main Street.
A cluster of opposing views were raised to the idea of spending the $15,000.
Stern said he feels some of the existing fronts are good looking and just need to be cleaned up.
John Crowley and others were concerned about the lack of support from downtown committee members and merchants of the area.
Crowley later proposed $7,000 for the recently formed Manchester Tenants Association.
He said tenants generally are in a lower-income bracket, and this is the group the CD money is aimed at helping.
The idea did not receive much support from others, however.
"There are many groups in town that started without any funding," Elsie "Biz" Swenson said.
The committee also discussed the idea of a downtown neighborhood center, which might include a meeting room and restroom facilities for shoppers as well as offices for service groups.
Members were concerned that the center might become a gathering place for youths rather than a place for shoppers and the elderly to meet.
No details were worked out Wednesday, but the committee agreed to provide $20,000 for the idea. Alan Mason, CD coordinator, also announced that the instructors of the Handicapped have dropped a request for CD money for their pool work. If the group had received CD money, it would be forced to pay federal labor rates. Without the CD money, it does not have to meet those federal rates, he said.

White House Says Vote Echoes Carter Concerns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's aides are attempting to portray the midterm election results as an expression of the people echoing Carter's own concerns about spending.
They attributed no particular reason for the Democratic losses, but said:
"In general, the Democratic candidates benefited from the sense of the country that Congress and the president had done a good job the past two years in the nation's business."
One top aide said, "On the down side, there is certainly no issue or series of issues that caused specific losses."
"It seems to me that this was a rejection overall of extreme solutions," said another. "The public just did not swallow this idea that you could cut everybody's taxes 33 percent, balance the budget, reduce unemployment, increase services and get a grip on inflation at the same time."

"That is certainly consistent with the president's philosophy."
Carter himself planned to sign the energy bill this morning, then fly to Kansas City for a nationally televised news conference and a speech to the Future Farmers of America, an organization to which he once belonged.
The analysis of the midterm election, in which the Democrats maintained powerful majorities in Congress and among the nation's governors, continued through the day Wednesday in conversations at the White House.
A group of aides briefed reporters under ground rules in which they could not be quoted for attribution.
They said the White House decided last December to help Democratic candidates with "all the resources we could muster." The result, one said, was that for the first time since the 1960s, the Democratic National Committee involved itself in "a meaningful way" in state and congressional elections.
According to the aides' calculations, Carter campaigned 22 days in 31 states. This probably included all states the president visited during the year, because UPI counted only 23 states where Carter made specific partisan trips.
The aides said Carter campaigned for 49 candidates; Vice President Walter Mondale, 30 states and 75 candidates; Rosalynn Carter, 17 states and 30 candidates since Labor Day; Lillian Carter, the president's mother; 18 states; Chip Carter, 22 or 23 states; and members of the Cabinet, about two days a month each — all told, about 1,100 appearances.
UPI counted 16 races for senator or governor in which Carter campaigned for a winner, and 18 losers.

Renovated School Eyed For Community Concept

MANCHESTER — School administrators are contemplating using the renovated Washington School and new West Side Recreation Center to try out the community school concept, School Superintendent James P. Kennedy said Wednesday.

The community school concept involves using a public building for programming for the entire community. It could mean, in addition to regular daytime school and recreation operations, extra space available could be used for adult education, cultural and artistic activities, services for senior citizens and health or dental services, such as a flu clinic, Dr. Kennedy said.

The "lighted school concept" is common in the Midwest, Kennedy said, but has only been tried in this area on a limited basis. At least one school in Hartford and one in West Hartford are trying the community school program. The program would also mean that the school be used for community activities during the evening hours.

Kennedy said Washington School has been chosen to try out the idea because of its new physical layout and because of its access to the entire West Side and downtown areas.

The new facilities at the joint school and recreation center include a good art room, a music room which could be used for small community meetings, a new gymnasium and stage and a game room.

proposals for use of the facility, staffing and budget to present to Kennedy. He also said it will involve a lot of work and planning before anything can be done and he is not sure if the community program can get under way soon.

He said he is not against the idea, but is concerned if it involves more staffing. He said he could not afford a full-time director for the program because of the expected town budget limits and the increase in minimum wage for all his part-time workers.

The new plan is just in the initial talking stages, Kennedy said. It will take a lot of careful planning involving staff and coordination with the Recreation Department. The new addition is not expected to be open until Jan. 1, Kennedy said. Melvin Siebold, recreation director, said today he is working out

Satellite Studies X-Rays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency plans to launch an orbiting observatory Monday to give astronomers their best view yet of puzzling celestial objects — such as white dwarfs, neutron stars and maybe even black holes — which emit X-rays.

The invisible universe, as viewed by X-ray detectors, is a bizarre and violent place and program scientist Albert G. Opp said the spacecraft will use an automated X-ray telescope to enable astronomers to "see exactly where the action is taking place."

"You'll be able to see in X-rays the motions of gases and the presence of the matter that's creating the X-rays," Opp said in an interview Wednesday. "Since you can't see these in visible light, you can only speculate as to what's creating the X-rays."

The $87 million satellite, called HEAO 2 because it is the second of three High Energy Astronomical Observatories, will radio back data scientists will reconstruct into pictures showing the size, structure and neutron-star density — a billion tons per cubic inch.

HEAO 2 is to be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., into an orbit ranging from 280 to 335 miles high. That vantage point will place the satellite well above the Earth's atmosphere which keeps X-rays from reaching ground observatories.

The first HEAO was launched 15 months ago on a sky mapping mission. It has spotted an estimated 1,500 celestial sources of X-rays — five times the number previously known.

HEAO 2's job is to zero in on particularly interesting X-ray sources.

Among its targets will be compact celestial objects ranging from stars known as white dwarfs to theoretical black holes.

Their existence has not been confirmed, but astronomers believe they have identified four black-hole candidates which can be studied by examining the X-rays emitted from matter drawn toward them.

Medium-sized stars crash down to their cores, forming black holes. Heavyweight stars are believed to shrink even more, to material so densely packed that the resulting immense gravity prevents even light waves from escaping. These are what scientists call black holes.

They exist because they are so dense that the force of their own gravity is so great that nothing can escape them. Their existence has not been confirmed, but astronomers believe they have identified four black-hole candidates which can be studied by examining the X-rays emitted from matter drawn toward them.

White dwarf is what is left over when a star the size of our sun runs out of nuclear fuel and collapses. HEAO 2 is to be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., into an orbit ranging from 280 to 335 miles high. That vantage point will place the satellite well above the Earth's atmosphere which keeps X-rays from reaching ground observatories.

Their existence has not been confirmed, but astronomers believe they have identified four black-hole candidates which can be studied by examining the X-rays emitted from matter drawn toward them.

Veterans Day Kennedy Talks Saturday

MANCHESTER — Everett R. Kennedy Sr. of 81 Phelps Road will be the principal speaker Saturday at the annual Veterans Day/Armistice Day observance starting at 10:45 a.m. at the front of Manchester Memorial Hospital.

This year's Nov. 11th observance, which will be conducted by the Veterans Council, will mark the 60th anniversary of the armistice that ended World War I in 1918.

Walter A. Von Hone, past chairman of the Veterans Council, will give the invocation and benediction. The Sons of the American Legion will be in charge of lowering the flag.

Placing wreaths at the World War I Memorial in front of the hospital will be Mrs. Laura Freeman, president of American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs.

Doris Laterriere, president of the VFW Auxiliary, and Mrs. Florence Streeter, past commander of the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary.

Kennedy, a World War I veteran, enlisted April 1917 at the age of 16 in the Navy. He served in the Armed Guard, a little known branch of the Navy that manned deck guns mounted on merchant ships to ward off German submarines on Atlantic Ocean crossings. Over the past 55 years, he has served in many capacities in Manchester and in 1978 was the recipient of the Community Service Award by the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the various veterans organizations and their auxiliaries will meet at the American Legion Home at 10:15 a.m. and then proceed, with their colors, to the front entrance of the hospital to participate in the program, which is open to the public.

Youth Arrested

HARTFORD (UPI) — Hartford police credited elementary school students with aiding an investigation which led to the arrest of a 15-year-old boy charged with slaying a 5-year-old girl in a Mary Hooker School lavatory.

Democrats Will Have Stranglehold on Legislature

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democrats will have a virtual stranglehold on the Connecticut Legislature when it convenes in January with overwhelming majorities in both the Senate and House chambers.

Boosted by the smashing victory Tuesday of Gov. Ella Grasso over Republican Ronald Sarasin, Democrats picked up four new seats in the Senate and 12 more in the House.

The only dent in the Democratic sweep was the defeat of four-term Sen. William Strada of Stamford, the deputy minority leader, and Rep. Robert Vicino of Bristol, the deputy House speaker. Vicino, a six-term veteran, lost to Republican Edward Krawiec Jr.

The makeup of the 36-member Senate will include 14 new faces. Democrats raised their total from 22 seats to 26 seats. Republican senators dropped from 14 to 10. In the House, Democrats increased their advantage from 91 seats to 103. The Republican House members fell from 60 to 48.

The new 26-10 Senate makeup will give Senate Democrats a two-thirds majority, something they already have in the House. One benefit of the two-thirds power is that Democrats could suspend the rules in pushing favored legislation through the General Assembly.

Five Senate Republicans who lost Tuesday were Douglas Putnam, Elmer Mortensen, Barbara Reimers, Bernard Madden and Philip Costello Jr. GOP newcomer Richard Cunningham defeated Strada, whose law partner was recently acquitted on federal conspiracy charges in connection with a fee paid the law firm by a gambling promotion group.

Strada was co-chairman of the General Law Committee that wrote legislation to expand legal gambling in the state. The new Democratic faces in the Senate will be Clifton Leonard, William Curry Jr., Marcella Fahey, Regina Smith, Amelia Mastone, John Prete, Eugene Skowronski, Joseph Ruggiero, Steven Casey, Frederick Knous and Michael Skelley.

White Sarasin was losing the governor's race, his younger brother, Warren Sarasin, won his first term as a member of the House.

Two former Republican House members — Russell Post and John Matthews — were elected to the upper chamber. Post is the successor to the upper chamber seat abandoned by Senate Minority Leader Lewis Home, the defeated Republican nominee for lieutenant governor.

Democrat Dean Markham won the seat vacated by House Majority Leader William O'Neill, who was elected lieutenant governor.

Death of Ex-Fed Still Remembered

SUGAR HILL, N.H. (UPI) — One year ago Thursday, Nov. 9, a young deer hunter saw a flash of brown and white in the gray light of dawn, raised his rifle to his shoulder, and fired a shot that reverberated around the world.

Robert Daniels Jr., 21, of neighboring Lisbon, testified later he thought he had seen a deer's tail through his telescopic sights. What he really saw was the white turtleneck shirt and brown hat of William Sullivan, the retired No. 3 man of the FBI, who also was out hunting near his home.

A bullet from Daniels' .30-06 rifle tore through Sullivan's neck, killing him instantly. The death caused an uproar because of Sullivan's former official position. At the time of his retirement he had custody of wiretaps reporters and National Security Council aides, ordered during the Nixon Administration after the New York Times reported in 1969 the U.S. Air Force was bombing Cambodia.

Sullivan was forced to quit the FBI in 1971 after an unsuccessful attempt to make the late FBI director J. Edgar Hoover retire. Sullivan later referred to Hoover as being "raving mad" and "a master blackmailer."

The Soviet news agency Tass said it was "a strange story" that Sullivan was killed in a hunting accident. It hinted he might have been killed because he could have been a dangerous witness to some unnamed persons.

Sugar Hill Police Chief Gary Young said the U.S. Senate Select Committee on Assassinations tried to enter Sullivan's house before he was buried and seize any papers there. Young declared himself caretaker of the Sullivan house and ordered the committee's investigator out of this White Mountains hamlet of 238 residents.

Penthouse Magazine later hired attorney William Kunstler to look into the death, and Kunstler held a series of news conferences at which he maintained Sullivan "was murdered." He never implicated Daniels in any way or offered any new evidence in the case.

Crash Cuts Power in Area

VERNON — A one-car accident at 5 a.m. today caused a power outage in the Loveland Hill area of Route 83 forcing school officials to cancel classes at Rockville High School.

Power was restored at about 7 a.m., a high school spokesman said, but at the time the announcement was made that the school would be closed, Connecticut Light & Power officials thought it would be much later before it was restored. The driver of the car was Mark Patten, 22, of Mountain Street, Rockville. Police said he was traveling north and west of the road and struck the utility pole causing numerous wires to fall.

Route 83, in that area, was closed to traffic due to the wires on the road. Early this morning the commuter traffic was being rerouted by way of Old Town Road or Windorville Road.

Most Victims of Leprosy in U.S. Are Foreign-Born

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An average of 144 cases of leprosy have been reported annually in the United States during the past decade and most of the victims are foreign-born, the Public Health Service reports.

Four specialists from the government leprosy hospital at Carville, La., said the total of 1,432 newly reported cases between 1967 and 1976 represented a significant increase in the number of people developing the dreaded disease compared to the previous 20 years in the United States.

The Public Health Service counted a total of 1,820 leprosy cases in the nation between 1949 and 1968.

The report said most of the extra cases reported during the past decade resulted from an increase in the number of leprosy cases among people born in other countries, primarily Mexico and the Philippines.

There has been no change in the location of most of the cases. The majority of the victims were living in six states — California, Florida, Hawaii, Louisiana, New York and Texas.

Leprosy is found worldwide but most cases occur in a broad equatorial band that includes Africa, Southeast Asia and South America.

The disease is an infectious ailment caused by a form of bacteria, but only a small percentage of people exposed to the germ acquire leprosy. According to the Merck Manual of Diagnosis and Therapy, evidence suggests many more are infected but their immune systems prevent leprosy development.

The Public Health Service report said only 25 percent of the new leprosy victims whose cases were reported in the continental United States had any known contacts with people who had leprosy, and for 85 percent of those, the contact was a family member. Contact information was not available in Hawaii.

There are two main forms of leprosy. In one form the skin becomes thickened and irregular and is covered by large nodules which may ulcerate. The second kind invades the nerves causing paralysis and deformities of the limbs.

The Public Health Service report said treatment is considered a way to control the disease in the United States and anybody who has leprosy will be admitted to the Carville institution whether or not he or she is an American citizen.

Of the 267 cases reported from Texas during the past decade, 176 were natives of the United States and most were born in Texas. The report said four areas of the state had the largest number of cases — the southern tip of the state in the Rio Grande Valley, the area around Corpus Christi, the northern seacoast area including the counties of Harris, Galveston and Jefferson, and the San Antonio area.

All of the 134 people in New York state who developed leprosy during the period were foreign-born, and all but one case came from New York City.

Teamwork Key With Portland

BOSTON (UPI) - The key to success in the NBA is teamwork. If you have it, you win like the Portland Trailblazers did over the Boston Celtics Wednesday night, 112-109.

Boston looked in a state of disarray. Their defense was often porous and their offense spotty. The last person to dispute this was Boston Coach Tom Sanders.

Red Sox Announce Two New Positions

BOSTON (UPI) - The Boston Red Sox have announced that two long-term employees, Bill Crowley and Ed Kenney, have been named vice presidents in the organization.

Kenney has been with the club since 1946 and has directed the Red Sox minor league affiliates since 1969. Wednesday he was named vice president of Player Development.

Second Club Seeks Tiant

BOSTON (UPI) - The attorney for Boston Red Sox pitcher Luis Tiant says his client has been approached by a second American League team - besides the Yankees - bidding for the services of the veteran right-hander.

Attorney Paul George said Wednesday he has been in touch with the Red Sox and the New York Yankees, who selected Tiant in last Friday's free-agent draft. George said another AL club had since shown interest.

Run 'n Gun Spurs Set Scoring Mark

NEW YORK (UPI) - The run-and-gun San Antonio Spurs set a team single-game scoring record Wednesday night in a 163-125 romp over the San Diego Clippers.

The victory pushed the Spurs over 500 at 74, and this strange blend of deadly shooters and usually un-inspired defenders impressed Coach Doug Moe with their efforts, despite the 125-point effort.

"Our defense was there tonight... we've got to play defense like this more often," said Moe, whose team leads the NBA in offense but ranks last in defense.

George Gervin scored 38 points on sizzling 17-for-20 shooting and Billy Paulk came off the bench to add 22. The Spurs topped their previous record of 160 points set in 1970 in the American Basketball Association.

The Spurs' major weaknesses are defense and rebounding, but they beat the Clippers 61-43 of the boards. Paulk hit 11-of-14 from the field and said he didn't want to spoil the Spurs' party.

Bobby Orr Rules Out Any Future Comeback

CHICAGO (UPI) - Legendary Bobby Orr, who has undergone six operations on his left knee, officially retired from the Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday and ruled out any future attempt to resume his hockey career.

"I will not make another comeback attempt," he said. "I know now my leg cannot handle playing."

Orr, who has not cashed a paycheck from the $3 million contract he signed as a free agent with the Hawks in 1976, accepted a new "downward" pact as assistant coach with some front office duties.

"I didn't play and I did not collect my checks," he said. "But I was being taken care of very well. I have no complaints. I was fortunate to have the talent and to be able to play it."

Black Hawks Went Out And Shacked Toronto

NEW YORK (UPI) - With Bobby Orr - who finally gave up his ailing knee against endless knee surgery - sitting in the stands, the Chicago Black Hawks went out and shacked Darryl Sittler & Co. with a 2-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Orr announced his retirement Wednesday after playing six games and scoring two goals and two assists. He will continue with the Black Hawks as an assistant coach as well as performing other organizational duties.

"This is my final decision," said Orr, winner of eight consecutive Norris Trophies as the league's best defenseman between 1968 and 1975. "I felt great in training camp but the more I skated the worse it got."

John Marks scored the game-winning goal - his seventh goal of the season - on a sharp angle shot at 2:18 of the third period.

"It was a good game for both teams, but I can't help feeling that it was too bad Orr had to hang them up under these circumstances," said Stan Mikita, who held Sittler to just one shot on goal in the game.

Tony Esposito was brilliant in the Chicago goal, stopping 30-of-31 shots. Bob Murray scored the other Chicago goal on the only shot Paul Harrison faced during his 2:45 stretch in relief of an injured Mike Palmatore in the Toronto nets. After Marks made it 2-0, Larry McDonald broke up Esposito's shutout bid with his 10th goal of the season.

In other NHL games Wednesday night, Minnesota defeated the New York Rangers, 5-3, Vancouver downed Detroit, 6-3, Pittsburgh beat Colorado, 6-3, Montreal blanked Washington, 6-0, and Philadelphia took Los Angeles, 5-3.

In the World Hockey Association, Cincinnati shut out Indianapolis, 4-0, and Edmonton shredded Quebec, 6-5. North Stars, 5, Rangers, 3. Minnesota snapped New York's seven-game winning streak with the help of first-period power-play goals by Kent-Erik Andersson and Gary Sargent.

Tom Owens combined for 64 points as Portland handed Boston its ninth loss in 11 games. Cincinnati's Indianapolis 0 and Edmonton 6, Quebec 5.

Successful three-point plays by Bob Lanier and M.L. Carr gave Detroit a fourth-period lead it never relinquished.

Lakers 113, Pacers 111. Adrian Dantley, who scored a game-high 34 points, hit two free throws with 22 seconds left to put Los Angeles back ahead and the Lakers held on after blowing a 19-point lead.

Ron Lee scored 24 points off the bench and reserve guard Mike Bratz added 20 points and eight assists as Phoenix placed six players in double figures en route to victory over Cleveland.

Kings-Birds Warriors 95. Doug Collins scored six points in the final 2.35 to lift Kansas City over Golden State and snap the Warriors' six-game winning streak.

Knicks 104, SuperSonics 100. Bob McAdoo scored 31 points, including eight of New York's last 10 points, to lead the Knicks to a victory over Seattle, snapping a Sonics' 17-game home winning streak dating back to last season.

Restrictions on what I could do more than pain that bothered me. If I thought I could contribute, I would go on, but I feel our defense can contribute as much as I can.

Orr, twice National Hockey League scoring champion, three times most valuable player, and eight times voted to the All-Star team, said he was "disappointed but relieved" with his decision.

"This is my final decision. I said when I started skating during training camp that this would be my last comeback, and it is. I'm not coming back."

Bob Arum of Top Rank, who has a contract to promote four Spinks bouts annually for the next two years, says, "It's my opinion that Spinks will never fight again."

Q. How many quarterbacks now playing the National Football League were picked up by their teams as free agents? — Drew Cummings, Ventura, Calif.

Q. I would like to know how many players in the NFL were drafted in three sports. I say Dave Logan of the Oakland Raiders were scheduled for nine national telecasts this season, including two exhibition games. But they went on for six successive weeks. It may seem so because of the area in which you live. Folks in Maine wouldn't see them that often. One reason for the broad exposure, though, is that the Raiders and the Dallas Cowboys play the best numbers, in terms of audience size, according to the networks.

Q. Please send all sports questions to Murray Olderman, P.O. Box 8940, Incline Village, Nev. 89450. Because of the volume of mail, there will be no individual responses.

Run 'n Gun Spurs Set Scoring Mark

NEW YORK (UPI)—The run-and-gun San Antonio Spurs set a team single-game scoring record Wednesday night in a 163-125 romp over the San Diego Clippers.

The victory pushed the Spurs over 500 at 74, and this strange blend of deadly shooters and usually unimpressive defenders impressed Coach Doug Moe with their efforts, despite the 125-point yield.

"Our defense was there tonight... we've got to play defense like this more often," said Moe, whose team leads the NBA in offense but ranks last in defense.

George Gervin scored 38 points on sizzling 17-for-20 shooting and Billy Paultz came off the bench to add 28. The Spurs topped their previous record of 160 points set in 1970 in the American Basketball Association.

The Spurs' major weaknesses are defense and rebounding, but they beat the Clippers 61-43 off the boards. Paultz hit 11-of-14 from the field and said he didn't want to spoil the Spurs' party. "I didn't want to get in and play poorly because everyone else was playing so well."

Gervin hit "only" 8-of-11 from the field as the Spurs took a 78-59 half-time advantage, and the 6-foot-7 All-Star guard followed with an 8-of-9 second-half performance. He also led a 20-13 Spurs scoring spurt in the third quarter with 17 points. Lloyd Free paced the Clippers with 26.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Philadelphia 137, New Jersey 133, in double overtime; Portland 112, Boston 109; Detroit 117, Milwaukee 106; Los Angeles 113, Indiana 111; Phoenix 118, Cleveland 96; Kansas City 105, Golden State 97; and New York 104, Seattle 100.

Doug Collins, scoreless in the first half, poured in 27 points after intermission to spark sluggish Philadelphia to a double overtime win over New Jersey, which was played by eight technical fouls.

Bobby Orr Rules Out Any Future Comeback

CHICAGO (UPI)—Legendary Bobby Orr, who has undergone six operations on his left knee, officially retired from the Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday and ruled out any future attempt to resume his hockey career.

"I will not make another comeback attempt," he said. "I know now my leg cannot handle playing."

Orr, 30, who has not cashed a paycheck from the $5 million contract he signed as a free agent with the Hawks in 1976, accepted a new "downward" pact as assistant coach with some front office duties. "I didn't play and I did not collect my checks," he said. "But I was being taken care of very well. I have no complaint. I was fortunate to have the talent and to be able to play it."

Williams, who scored a career-high 37 points for Boston, had mixed emotions. "Sure, it was my career high, but it would have been a great game personally if we'd won. But losing ruins everything," he said.

Portland reserve center Tom Owens, who has logged more minutes than Walton, feels in spite of his 21-point effort he will return to the bench.

"I don't think they will make me a power forward like they did with Cowens. Both Lucas and Thompson (Mychal) are natural forwards and there isn't room for it. If it was anyone else but Bill (Walton), I might have something to say, but he's the best player in the game," Owens said.

The Celtics will try to improve their 2-9 record Friday night against the Atlanta Hawks. The Trail Blazers Friday host the Denver Nuggets.

was fun and I was rewarded unbelievably for having fun. It hadn't been a dawner. I felt great in training camp, but the more I skated the worse it got. My decision is based on the feeling in my knee and what I know I'm contributing. I knew before camp started I might not be able to do some of the things I wanted to do."

Orr said "eventually" he would need a seventh knee operation. "I have very little joint space. It's gone on bone, and there are bone chips that break off. The doctor has told me I will need another operation. I do feel discomfort after I skate."

"I have not skated in five days and it feels better now than five days ago," Orr said, he was not playing "in pain, nor in sharp pain. It was restrictions on what I could do more than pain that bother me. If I thought I could contribute, I would go on, but I feel our defense can contribute as much as I can."

Orr, twice National Hockey League scoring champion, three times most valuable player, and eight times voted to the All-Star team, said he was "disappointed but relieved" with his decision.

"This is my final decision. I said when I started skating during training camp that this would be my last comeback, and it is."

Hawks' Coach Bob Pulford said, "We're very lucky to have Bobby, even though he won't be playing. He was the Arnold Palmer, the O.J. Simpson, the Mickey Mantle of hockey. We feel this is not the end of a career, but the start of another one."

Black Hawks Went Out And Shacked Toronto

NEW YORK (UPI)—With Bobby Orr—who finally gave up his losing battle against endless knee surgery—sitting in the stands, the Chicago Black Hawks went out and shacked Toronto Victory & Co. with a 2-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Orr announced his retirement Wednesday after playing six games and scoring two goals with two assists. He will continue with the Black Hawks as an assistant coach as well performing other organizational duties.

"This is my final decision," said Orr, winner of eight consecutive Norris Trophies as the league's best defenseman between 1968 and 1975. "I felt great in training camp but the more I skated the worse it got..."

John Marks scored the game-winning goal—his seventh goal of the season—on a sharp angle shot at 2:18 of the third period.

"It was a good game for both teams, but I can't help feeling that it was too bad Orr had to hang them up under these circumstances," said Stan Mikita, who held Sittler just to one shot on goal in the game.

Tony Esposito was brilliant in the Chicago goal, stopping 30-of-31 shots.

Bob Murray scored the only Chicago goal on the only shot Paul Harrison faced during his 2-4 stretch in relief of an injured Mike Palmateer in the Toronto nets. After Marks made it 2-0, Lanny McDonald broke up Esposito's shutout mid with his 10th goal of the season.

In other NHL games Wednesday night, Minnesota defeated the New York Rangers, 5-3; Vancouver downed Detroit, 6-3; Pittsburgh beat Washington, 6-0; and Philadelphia took Los Angeles, 5-3.

George Stastny and Philadelphia's North Stars 5, Rangers 3

Minnesota snapped New York's seven-game winning streak with the help of first-period power-play goals by Kent-Erik Andersson and Gary Sargent.

Markle 6, Red Wings 1

Thom Gradin and Dennis Verreger scored two goals apiece to power Vancouver over Detroit.

Edwards 5, Kings 3
Blake Dunlop, just recalled from the minors, fired in two goals and Bill Barber added a goal and two assists as Philadelphia held off Los Angeles.

Peter Marsh scored a goal and set up two others to back Mike Liut's shutout goaltending and pace Cincinnati. Blair Macdonald scored the hat trick for Edmonton.

HONG KONG (UPI)—Tournament favorite Ken Rosewall overcame fellow Australian Steve Docherty, 4-6, Thursday in the third round of the Hong Kong Tennis Classic.

The 44-year-old Rosewall polished off Docherty in 46 minutes and recorded shutouts in the last three games of the second set. Walking off the court, Rosewall mused, "I'll never do that again."

Ironically, Rosewall double-faulted in the first game of the match, but then took the next four points on the way in an easy romp. The longest game of the match, the fifth game of the first set, went to deuce four times. Docherty enjoyed an advantage three times after deuce but failed to get the last point.

Reggie Leach of Philadelphia eyes corner of net as he prepared to maneuver around Los Angeles goalie Mario Lessard. Leach lifted puck over fallen player, to score last night. (UPI Photo)

Murray Olderman
By Murray Olderman

The tipoff:
Biggest cause for worry in Darryl Stingley's battle to recover from the paralysis suffered in his tragic pre-season accident against the Oakland Raiders is his alarming loss of weight in the early stages. The wide receiver of the New England Patriots has been a valiant patient.

Q. I only want to know the answer to a simple question—why have the Oakland Raiders been on national television for six straight weeks? Personally, I think they stink—Calvin Pickens, Myrtle Creek, Ore.

A. Cleveland Browns is the only one. Is that right? —Marty Faragher, Olean, N.Y.

He's the only one I can think of. The Cincinnati Reds topped him in baseball and the Kansas City Kings in basketball. He's so versatile the Cleveland Browns even tried the big wide receiver briefly as a quarterback in training camp. There are several instances of guys being drafted in two sports — Ken Carter comes to mind — but Logan seems to be unique.

Q. What is Weeb Ewbank, the former coach of the New York Jets, doing these days? Is he still active in football? —Sam Dodd, Elizabeth, N.J.

Only as an interested spectator. The little man who was the only coach of champions in both the American and National Football Leagues and who developed the two super quarterbacks of our time, John Unitas and Joe Namath, is living in retirement in Oxford, Ohio. He went to school at Miami in Ohio and until a year ago was helping tutor their quarterbacks. A frequent visitor from down the road, in Dartmouth, is Smokey Alston, the former manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Weeb also takes in the practice sessions of the Cincinnati Bengals with his old mentor, Paul Brown.

Q. What is Leon Spinks doing now? Is he going to fight again soon? Did anyone hold the heavyweight title a shorter time than he did? —G.A. Cape Girardeau, Mo.

I read where the troubled Spinks was arrested again in Ohio recently for some auto fracas, while ostensibly searching for a training site. Bob Arum of Top Rank, who has a contract to promote four Spinks bouts annually for the next two years, says, "It's my opinion that Spinks will never fight again." His seven-month tenure as champion this year was the shortest in the history of the heavyweight title since Primo Carnera's reign from June 29, 1933, to June 14, 1934.

Q. What is your opinion of Earl Campbell as a running back for the Houston Oilers? Who do you compare him to? —H.D. Corpus Christi, Tex.

I compare him to no other runner because he has his own style. I would call it a cross between the acrobatics of Walter Payton, the quick moves of O.J. Simpson and the power of Jim Brown. In short, I think he's a fantastic prospect, already up with Payton and Simpson as a man who can bust for extra yardage. But he's got to do it over a period of time, without injuries, before I put him up there with the all-timers.

Parting shot:
I've never understood why coaches outsmart themselves by going to the so-called "prevent" defense in the final stages of a game to protect a lead. Here they've weakened the other team all game long with their normal defense, and in the clutch they resort to a new alignment, using men coming cold off the bench. No wonder they get burned so often.

Martin in National Run

Mike Martin, a member of the Manchester Community College cross-country team, says he feels "psyched" and is looking forward to going to the NJCAA Nationals at Parkland College in Champaign, Ill. Saturday and Sunday.

Twenty-one of the nation's premier junior college cross-country teams will participate in the national championships. Pima Community College of Scottsdale, Ariz., and Allegheny of Pittsburgh, are pre-meet favorites. Martin earned the right to the Nationals by winning the New England Championship last Saturday.

Gaming Commission OKs Hartford Fronton Sale

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — The Connecticut state gaming commission has given the green light for an Oklahoma millionaire to purchase the Hartford Jai Alai and its parent Florida-based company. The commission, which had delayed acting on the sale for three weeks, decided Wednesday by an 8-1 vote to allow the WJA Realty Co. of Tulsa, owned by businessman Roger Wheeler, to buy the gambling facilities.

Judge Rejects Request To Free Mafia Suspect

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — A federal judge has rejected a request by imprisoned "Crime" magazine attorneys that the reputed Mafia chief — reportedly the target of an assassin's contract — be released from protective custody. U.S. District Judge T.F. Gilroy Dally said in his ruling Wednesday the FBI's information that Galante would be murdered in prison was "reliable and fresh."

School Funding Method May Hurt Poorer Towns

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — One method of funding public schools — under consideration by a panel named Gov. Ella Grasso — would handicap, rather than help, poorer towns, the Connecticut Conference on Municipalities said today. The new guaranteed tax base formula would be based on the median income of the town in 1977, the panel said.

Women Get More Posts With State Department

MOSCOW (UPI) — Marilyn Johnson, ambassador to Togo, says the attitude in the U.S. State Department toward women is changing and more top positions are opening up for female foreign service officers. Miss Johnson, 56, joined the foreign service in 1964 in Cameroon as an officer for the U.S. Information Agency. She was nominated by President Carter in August to become ambassador to Togo, a tiny nation on the west coast of Africa.

Sixteen Manchester boys and girls are studying vocational agriculture this year. 10 at Glastonbury High School and six at Rockville High School. At both of these regional vocational centers the enrollment from Manchester is at a new high figure. The increase is in line with what is happening generally in Connecticut. The state's program of combining groups of towns into regional centers has meant larger enrollment at each center than any single town could provide. The total number of students, once counted in the hundreds, is about 2,000.

Just One More Vote

It was a bit more than a victory speech. It came within an act of being a proposal. New York's newly re-elected governor, Hugh Carey, Wednesday told his cheering campaign workers, "I know you've been waiting for me to make a personal announcement for some time."

Viewers Vote 'No'

NEW YORK (UPI) — No matter whether the listening audience voted Republican or Democratic, in large numbers they elected not to watch the proceedings on television. The national Nielsen ratings for election night have not yet been tallied, but the "overnights" — the ratings in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles — show the three networks combined earned a 37.2 percent share of the audience. A decent percentage of viewers for a single network entertainment show would be 30.

Gay Role Is No Bother

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Billy Crystal, who plays homosexual Jodie Dallas on TV's "Soap" series but who is a very straight married man and father of two daughters in real life, isn't bothered by his gay characterization. Says Billy, "I get teased a lot about playing Jodie, but it's usually good natured and it doesn't bother me a bit."

Billy Crystal

Billy and his wife, Janice, have been married eight years. Their daughters are Jenny, 5, and Lindsay, 8 months. The Crystals moved to Los Angeles two years ago and found real estate prices so exorbitant they decided against buying a home. They rent the second floor of a stately mansion in one of Los Angeles' established neighborhoods. Their nine-room nest is furnished with antiques and contemporary playing Jodie, but it's usually good natured and it doesn't bother me a bit.

CHICAGO (UPI) — The promoters call it a cheap way for advertisers to become household words and compare it to buying a chunk of the "Monopoly" board. It's a new parlor game called "Tropyoly" and promoters say, in addition to being a compelling game for players of all ages, it could be the start of a new trend in advertising.

Voters Ignored Labels, Favored Tax-Cutting Ideas

By United Press International
Voters in the 1978 mid-term elections ignored party labels, ousted incumbents with glee, and indicated they wanted a more conservative Congress that would cut taxes and hold the line on government spending.

although the opponent of Chicago Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva conceded defeat Wednesday.
While voters in Michigan and Oregon decided against it, 11 states voted measures for cutting taxes or limiting government spending.

Seven senators were defeated and six other Senate seats changed parties. Five governors lost their races and eight other governorships changed parties. Altogether, voters in 21 states decided to split their ballots to have someone of the opposite party as senator and/or governor.

GOP's Gamble Paid Off

By United Press International
The Republican Party's $2 million gamble to capture control of more state legislatures paid off handsomely.

The most promising aspects of Tuesday's election, which saw the party gain in the U.S. House and Senate.
Data compiled by UPI bureaus and the National Conference of State Legislatures showed the GOP capturing state senates in Arizona, Indiana, Iowa, Utah, and New Hampshire, and possibly Montana.

The result: Republicans gained control of eight state legislative chambers, were engaged in close battles to win four others, and took an estimated 225 state seats away from Democrats.

A spokesman for the Republican National Committee said its figures showed a gain of 278 seats, with nine states yet to be counted, and he was confident the final number would exceed 300.

Democrats, meanwhile, failed to wrest control of a single state legislative chamber away from Republicans.
The GOP's moderate wing, represented by the Ripon Society, said the state legislature outcome was one of

Purchase of Camp Property May Be Reconsidered by Town

COVENTRY — The Salvation Army property on the southern end of Coventry Lake is in the spotlight again. The Town Council has decided to revive the Land Purchase Study Committee.

Another 50 acres near the Robert Covert site on an aquifer and would be purchased for conservation and open space. Several members of the council this week stressed the importance of protecting the watershed in the heavily populated lake area.

Rep. Donald Dumont has proposed eliminating four lots from the original offer and reducing the price to $275,000. Since the referendum rejection, the town has been informed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that it includes 16 acres of prime beachfront.

In other business the council appropriated $1,275 toward a regional senior citizens center that will open in January on Fairview Street in Willimantic. The facility will serve 11 area towns.

Stanley Harris, representing the Windham Regional Federated Services for Older Americans, said Coventry's share is based on a $1 million regional center that would be 60 years of age in the town. The center, to be named the McSweny Senior Center, will provide nutritional, health, legal, and transportation services for the elderly.

The council also allocated $850 for the Windham Regional Community Council. This agency provides services to area towns and had requested the matching funds grant from Coventry.

November 27 was set as the date for a joint meeting of the council with various boards and commission to discuss building a town garage on property located behind the high school. Among those groups invited are the Board of Education, the Highway Department, the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The town has been seeking a new site for the deteriorated facility on Main Street since last year, when townspeople rejected a proposal to buy a lot on Talcott Hill Road for a new garage and other municipal facilities. However, former councilman Robert Olmstead, a resident of Ripley Hill Road, has threatened legal action if the town decides to use school land across from his home to house road equipment.

Aircraft To Save House Though Road Comes First

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — A Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group spokesman said the company must proceed with its plan to widen the driveway into its Wilgous Laboratory off High Street by using the land where the 150-year-old Brewer Homestead sits.

However, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft spokesman Robert Azinger told the Town Council Wednesday night the company will give the house to any responsible group and will help to preserve it.

"Pratt & Whitney has not decided to demolish, destroy or wreck the Brewer House," Azinger said. "It is looking to them (Pratt & Whitney), as our neighbor, to accommodate us because they are our neighbor and they are part of our community."

Alvin Levine, president of the East Hartford Citizen Action Group, said he is looking to them (Pratt & Whitney), as our neighbor, to accommodate us because they are our neighbor and they are part of our community.

Mrs. Blackstone said the town "is looking to them (Pratt & Whitney), as our neighbor, to accommodate us because they are our neighbor and they are part of our community."

He said East Hartford's "most powerful and influential citizen" can take one of two courses of action — either it can preserve or destroy the house.

Any renovation would cost an additional $100,000 and the rear of the building would have to be replaced, the consultants said.

This added up to an expense of between $200,000 and $300,000 to preserve the house.

Last week, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group announced it had found no use for the house and could not justify the expense needed to save the building.

The Brewer house issue will be put on the Town Council's next agenda for discussion.

Enthusiasm and Support Keep Program Operating

By CHARLIE MAYNARD
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — October's passing marked the fifth anniversary of the East Hartford Police Explorers Post 497.

Unofficially, there are 30 other such posts for young people across the state, but Post 497 members emphatically say theirs is the most active. Enthusiasm from the ranks and support from the top keeps the East Hartford post going while others fold for lack of interest.

"We are a strong part of this department," said John Lavoie, a three-year veteran of the Police Explorers. "We have our place. As far as Chief (Clarence) Drumm is concerned, we're here to stay."

Other members cited both Drumm's support and the work of the post advisor, Officer Al Kerling as "some of the reasons we can keep our membership up."

However, an observer can sense the zeal the explorers themselves have for the post and for law enforcement in general.

Organized in 1973 with Kerling's help, the explorers' post gives young men and women of the town an opportunity to decide if they want a career in law enforcement. And one of the best ways to determine this is through on-the-job training.

Mark Jameson, who is completing his first year on the post, said explorers must finish a course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) before they are allowed to go on the ride-along or work the dispatcher at the desk.

After the CPR training, the explorers are eligible to take instruction in emergency medical techniques.

The explorers accompany officers on patrol and observe them at work. They are allowed to participate in non-hazardous duty, such as traffic direction, crowd control, dispatcher assistance and may also help at scenes of motor vehicle accidents.

"Most of the officers here like us," said Lavoie. "They're interested in helping us learn."

The post's motto is "Learning to serve and to protect."

Although most of the young men and women are there to pursue law enforcement careers, Tom Hogan, the post president, says that isn't necessary to join.

Tom Hogan

"People come out of here with respect for the police and what they do," Hogan said. "They have a pride in the community and feel a sense of civic responsibility."

Hogan has represented the post, both locally and regionally, at seminars in Washington as well as serving as president (his term ends this month).

One of the most capable of the 30-member force, Hogan is a 19-year-old sophomore at the University of Hartford. He's a public administration major with a minor in law enforcement, and would like to join the East Hartford Police Department ranks upon graduation.

"I've lived in East Hartford all my life and I really love it here," he said. "I think the department here is a good one and would like to be a job here."

Two former members of Post 497 have joined the ranks of the Glastonbury force as special officers who

Man Held in Van Theft

EAST HARTFORD — An East Hartford man was charged with seven counts for various alleged offenses Wednesday in connection with a stolen van which belongs to a food service company.

Kenneth R. Righenzi, 22, of 76-78 Connecticut Blvd. was charged with third-degree burglary, second-degree larceny, third-degree larceny, possession of less than four ounces of marijuana, possession of gambling devices (betting slips), operating without a license and reckless driving.

Police said two officers observed a van parked in the parking lot of Hartford Bodies Inc., 392 Tolland St., a truck body shop at 11:15 p.m. Wednesday.

The van said "Sabco" on the side. One of the officers recalled that a Sabco Food Services van had been reported stolen two days ago.

The officers' suspicion was also aroused when the lights in the van went out as the cruiser passed by.

The officers turned their cruiser around to approach the van and the driver of the van started the vehicle up and took off, police said.

Police said the van pulled out in the path of a tractor-trailer truck, narrowly missing an accident. This resulted in the motor vehicle charges, police said.

The van then stopped and the driver told the police he was picking up the van for Sabco Food Services. A Sabco spokesman was called and could not identify the man. The spokesman said a Sabco van had been brought into Hartford Bodies for repair a few days earlier.

While Righenzi was being taken to the police station, other officers checked the building and found it had been broken into. Glass had been broken on a door and the door had been opened, police said.

Meanwhile, officers who searched Righenzi said they discovered a half-smoked marijuana cigarette on his possession and three suspected football betting slips.

Police said they also found about 20 keys allegedly taken from the pegboard at Hartford Bodies Inc. The keys were later identified by the owner of Hartford Bodies.

Righenzi was held on $5,000 bond. He was presented in court today.

False Alarms Alleged

MANCHESTER — A Manchester High School student was arrested Wednesday in connection with pulling fire alarms at the school.

David W. Butler, 16, of 30 Channing Drive was charged with falsely reporting an incident. Three separate duplicate the work of the Manchester Arts Council, but to support it. James Brienfeld, chamber executive vice president, said.

"We want to act as an informational source so that the business group can become supportive," he said.

Committee member Phil Harris, owner of Harrison's Stationers, suggested that the chamber sponsor a special event, and mentioned the annual Manchester Civic Orchestra pops concert. Chamber members might help underwrite part of the cost, Harris said, and added that such a gesture might enhance the position of the chamber in the community.

Arts Group Sets Survey

MANCHESTER — A survey of community arts groups is planned by the committee for the arts of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce as an initial step toward chamber support of the arts locally.

Committee member Dr. Francis Helfrick criticized the chamber's latest brochure because of its limited coverage of the cultural offerings in Manchester. He specifically referred to only one line of reference for the Manchester Civic Orchestra and Choral compared to a couple of paragraphs given to other groups.

He said he is impressed with how little the town citizens know about the arts in Manchester.

Teen-age Parents Get Help

MANCHESTER — A pilot program for teen-age parents is being launched jointly by the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association, Child and Family Services Inc. and the YWCA under a grant from the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving.

The program will be conducted at the Nulmeg Branch of the YWCA, 78 N. Main St., on Tuesdays from 1 to 3 p.m.

The $7,356 grant from the community foundation will provide for a nurse and a social worker to act as resource leaders for a weekly group session for young parents.

Transportation to and from the sessions, where needed, is also provided by the grant, as well as provision for child care during the group meetings which will be held throughout the school year.

The sessions will be kept informal and flexible and focus on peer support. The project seeks to provide a special opportunity for the parents to discuss mutual problems, develop parenting skills, explore personal options and promote self-sufficiency.

The program is also expected to

Course Slated on Pain

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Unit of the American Cancer Society is offering an instructional program for nurses called "Control of Chronic Pain in the Cancer Patient."

The program will be Thursday, Nov. 16, at 7 p.m. in Conference Rooms A and B at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Speakers will be J. Ken Walters Jr., clinical pharmacist at Hartford Hospital, and Jackie Wilson, R.N., oncology practitioner with the Hartford Visiting Nurses Association.

For registration, call 643-2168. A modest registration fee is required.

The Make Today Count Club, a group that deals with death and dying, will meet tonight at 6 in the Faculty East Conference Room at Manchester Community College. For information, contact Paul Paradis, 102 West St., Vernon, Conn. 06066, telephone, 875-0987.

The Manchester Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2046 and its ladies auxiliary will visit the Rocky Hill Veterans Hospital Monday, Nov. 20. Members are asked to meet at the post home, 608 E. Center St. by 6:30 p.m.

The Manchester Veterans of Foreign Wars Ladies Auxiliary will meet tonight at the post home, 608 E. Center St. at 7:30 p.m. Officers are requested to wear uniforms.
