PEKING (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says the United States and China will exchange agricultural specialists early next year — the second major cooperative program between the two countries announced in a week. At the end of his second day in China, Bergland said in addition to a swap of agricultural specialists, technicians and students, American marketing experts also will be sent to Peking. Bergland told a news conference Wednesday he was "encouraged by the prospects and potential for further growth" of the expanding Sino-American trade in farm goods. The announcement of an agricultural cooperation program came one day after Energy Secretary James Schlesinger disclosed the Carter administration will help China develop its energy resources. Bergland said the specialists to be exchanged include seed technologists, animal health and insect control experts. Earlier Wednesday, he met with Chinese Vice Premier Li Hsien-min. Bergland said privately Tuesday night that China must buy feed and feed supplements if it is to expand livestock production. "Agricultural trade between the People's Republic of China and the U.S. has been growing rapidly and we are encouraged by the prospects and potential for further growth," he told reporters. Bergland said China asked detailed questions about the U.S.-Soviet year grain agreement and inquired whether the United States might enter into other bilateral grain agreements. "The answer to that last question was no," Bergland said.

Big Firms Participate In CofC Product Show

MANCHESTER — The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce today released the list of major industrial and manufacturing firms planning to participate in the Chamber's 1978 Manchester Product Show to be held at Manchester High School.

Among the companies preparing displays and attractions are Rogers Corp., Millers Falls Division of Ingersoll Rand, Lydall Inc., Roosevelt Mills, and Pratt and Whitney.

In applauding the decisions of these major firms to participate in the product show, the Chamber praised their commitment to the community and their willingness and desire to be a part of this low-profile effort.

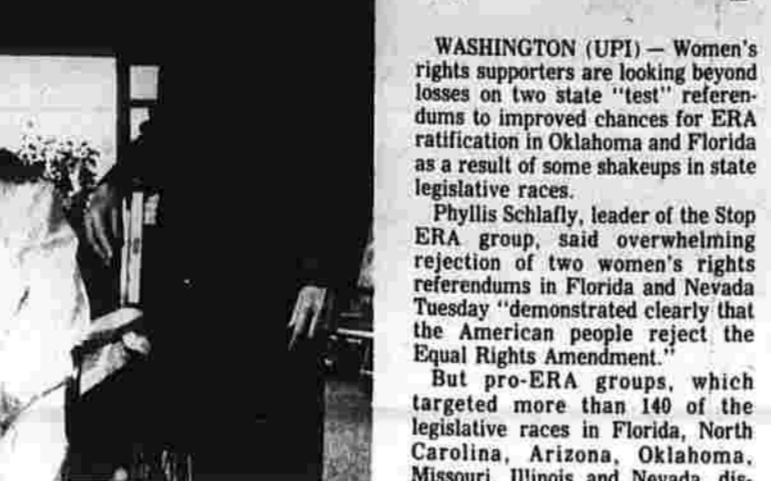

"These companies are all nationally recognized leaders in their fields, and as such certainly are not dependent on the local consumer to meet their marketing requirements. They do, however, realize their importance as employers, taxpayers, and corporate citizens and are anxious to continue their active involvement in the community. The Chamber views their participation as an added bonus that will offer visitors to the show direct contact with some of the area's most important firms."

The 1978 Manchester Product Show will open 10 a.m. Nov. 18, and noon Nov. 19. The nearly 100 exhibits will be on view to the public will be augmented by games, door prizes, contests for children and adults, and on-going entertainment.

Anyone seeking further information is invited to call the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce at 257 East Center Street.

ERA Losses Are Offset by Shakeup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Women's rights supporters are looking beyond losses on two state "test" referendums to improved chances for ERA ratification in Oklahoma and Florida as a result of some shakeups in state legislative races.

Phyllis Schlafly, leader of the Stop ERA group, said overwhelming rejection of two women's rights referendums in Florida and Nevada Tuesday "demonstrated clearly that the American people reject the Equal Rights Amendment."

But pro-ERA groups, which targeted more than 140 of the legislative races in Florida, North Carolina, Arizona, Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois and Nevada, disagreed.

ERA supporters said they lost a couple of seats in Arizona in a GOP sweep of the state, called it "basically unchanged" in Illinois, and said a conservative swing in Nevada on all issues — including defeat of a non-binding state referendum on whether the legislature should approve the ERA — left the ERA "lily" in those areas.

Although Missouri experienced a strong Democratic showing, ERA supporters could not tell immediately whether ratification prospects improved. But pro-ERA groups were pleased with Oklahoma and Florida.

Florida rejected a proposal to amend the state constitution to outlaw sex discrimination, but ERA backers blamed that vote on a public that wanted to vote "no" — and did so — on eight other proposed changes to the state constitution.

Director Angry

A Republican member of Manchester's Board of Directors said he should have been told of Wednesday press conference that involved two Democratic directors. See page 3.

Steel Strike

Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers' President Bill Hill said picket lines would be set up at steel-making facilities in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Alabama, Indiana and New York when members of FASH begin their strike against the industry — scheduled for midnight tonight.

FASH has vowed it will shut down most of the nation's steel industry, in spite of the fact the Teamsters Union is urging its drivers to stay on the road. Law enforcement officials have set up contingency plans to deal with any possibility of violence that has marked the bitter dispute between FASH and the Teamsters in the past.

The Town of Manchester's Cheney Mills Historic District Commission met for the first time Thursday and gave strong support to forming a museum in the old Pine Street firehouse. See page 12.

No More Loans

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza told foreign correspondents Thursday, "Every loan facility that the United States government could give Nicaragua, they have suspended because of the troubles we had in September. ... We have tried to overthrow me, overthrow my government."

Last September the Sandinista Liberation Front guerrillas led a nationwide uprising to overthrow Somoza but the National Guard crushed the rebellion in two weeks of fighting. At least 1,500 people were killed. Diplomatic sources earlier this week said the United States is now convinced that the only solution to the Nicaraguan crisis is Somoza's resignation.

Snow in West

The first major snowstorm of the season bowled across the Rockies and pushed into the Plains today, heaping snow on the mountains and clogging roads and passes with deep drifts.

Howling winds whipped up a blizzard in portions of Wyoming and Montana, filling the air with dense clouds of blowing snow. Temperatures plunged well below zero in much of the area.

At least three traffic deaths were blamed on the storm and rescue crews were searching for a single-engine plane with four persons aboard that reportedly went down in the wilderness of northwest Wyoming.

The storm dumped more than a foot of snow in the higher mountains of Utah, Wyoming and Montana and piled nearly a foot in the canyons and foothills.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices were mixed at the opening today in moderately active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 3.64 points Thursday, was off 2.16 points to 801.80 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 332 to 256, among the 883 issues crossing the tape at the outset.

Early turnover amounted to 1,200,000 shares.

Skeptical Cop Nabs Fugitive Porn Czar

HARTFORD (UPI) — A skeptical deputy police chief wouldn't believe the 6th stranger's story, so today pornography tycoon Mike Thevis was wanted by the FBI in the killings of two business rivals — was behind bars.

Seized with Thevis Thursday was a 1978 Chevrolet Caprice which Thevis told police contained $1 million in jewelry about $600,000 in cash, and a 28-caliber snub nose revolver. The car and its contents were impounded about one month, the last week at the Executive Inn in Simsbury where he also made a $6,000 down payment on a house, police said.

Thevis, 46, was arrested when he and a woman, police identified as Anna Jeanette Evans, 40, of Marietta, Ga., went to a bank in suburban Bloomfield to withdraw $31,500 in cash.

Thevis later appeared before U.S. Magistrate F. Owen Egan and was remanded to the custody of the attorney general, Miss Evans, charged with harboring a fugitive, was taken to Niantic Correctional Center to await a Nov. 15 hearing.

Her lawyer, Raymond Cantin, argued for her release as a substitute citizen, told Egan she had not been arrested previously.

But U.S. Attorney Richard Blumenthal said Thevis was preparing to flee the country with her help.

Thevis, using the alias Arbi Jonathan Evans, lived in Connecticut about one month, the last week at the Executive Inn in Simsbury where he also made a $6,000 down payment on a house, police said.

FBI Director William Webster said Thevis' empire, valued at $100 million, consisted of 238 corporations through which the former Raleigh, N.C., altar boy controlled 40 percent of the nation's pornography business.

Two weeks ago Thevis opened accounts and deposited $31,500 in the Bloomfield State Bank and $55,000 in the Bloomfield branch of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. Bank executives immediately tipped off authorities.

Until Thursday, Bloomfield Deputy Police Chief Anthony Toce, 40, and FBI Special Agent Richard A. Foster Jr., 35, thought it was a check swindle case involving forgery.

They were at the State Bank when Thevis showed up Thursday to close the account and withdraw $31,500 in cash. Thevis parried Toce's questions for six hours. Miss Evans waited in the car.

"We went through a whole bunch of craziness. There were a lot of lies. A lot of things that didn't add up," Toce said. "We asked reasonable questions and got suspicious answers," Foster said.

"What it came down to was: Could we out think him? We did. We got lucky," said Toce, who described the bank robbery as "well-dressed, well-spoken, obviously well-educated."

Thevis was charged in the 1970 killing of Kenneth "Cap" Hanna, a competitor in the pornography business. A former Thevis aide, Roger Dean Underhill, told the FBI and a grand jury in Atlanta that Thevis shot and killed Hanna.

Thevis was also charged Thursday with killing Underhill and is also accused in the killing of another rival in the pornography business, James E. Mays Jr.

In addition, a federal grand jury in Atlanta indicted Thevis on arson charges in the burning of competitor's businesses, extortion involving strong-arm threats to competitors and mail fraud.

Thevis was serving 8 1/2 years on federal convictions for arson and interstate transportation of obscene material when he escaped April 29 from a New Albany, Ind., jail.

Carter Says Talk Failure Is Damaging

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, complaining that Egypt and Israel have "partially undone" some of the progress made in the current Middle East peace talks, says "any failure ... could rebound to the discredit of the leaders" who sought an accord.

Carter had no official public schedule today, but was being kept informed of developments in the treaty negotiations between representatives of Cairo and Jerusalem.

During a speech Thursday to a Future Farmers of America convention in Kansas City, Mo., Carter gave some insights into his own attitudes, telling approximately 21,000 young men and women, "The fear of failure is one of the greatest obstacles to progress."

He cited the Middle East as an example and said an easy alternative would be to sidestep the negotiators' "because any failure there now or in the future could rebound to the discredit of the leaders who tried to bring peace."

Earlier, during a regional news conference in Kansas City, Carter chided what he said amounted to steps backward in the negotiating process.

"I do not have any intention of doing this," he said, adding he was determined "to make the anti-inflation package work. I don't intend to back out."

During his Kansas City stop, Carter said he favored a moderate farm set-aside program with no farm bargos on the shipment of agricultural products.

"Expressed doubt that 'my presence either caused a victory or defeat' during his campaign efforts. * Said he has found it "much more difficult to be a leader in a time of calm than in a time of crisis" because it is easy to arouse support in a crisis situation.

Agent Admits Crime Payoff

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joseph Stabile, the first FBI agent ever to be indicted in the agency's 54-year history, has pleaded guilty to conspiring to cover up a $100,000 payoff from a reputed organized crime figure.

The 59-year-old Stabile resigned from the FBI before entering his plea in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, Thursday.

He faces a maximum penalty of five years in jail and a $5,000 fine at his sentencing in six to eight weeks.

Stabile, who lives in Commack, Long Island, and was assigned to the bureau's Queens office, also faces federal perjury charges. However, it was expected they will be dismissed when his trial on those charges opens next Monday.

An FBI spokesman said Stabile tendered his resignation, effective immediately, to the bureau in the late afternoon and it was accepted.

Stabile then went into the Brooklyn court and reversed his innocent plea to guilty of conspiring to obstruct justice, in response to a six-count indictment charging he tried to "falsify, conceal and cover up by trick, scheme and device" a $100,000 payoff from reputed mob figure John Caputo.

He was indicted on the charges Monday. According to the indictment, Stabile claimed $7,000 of the payoff money was actually a loan from a relative, identified only as "Frank Roe." The indictment said Stabile wrote a $2,000 check to Roe to give the impression he was repaying the loan. However, it said, Roe returned the money to Stabile in cash.

The indictment did not account for the rest of the $10,000. According to the perjury indictment handed up Sept. 15, the money was part of a $15,000 bribe paid to Stabile and New York City police Sgt. Eugene Stabile, who was accused of taking $5,000 of the payoff, subsequently quit the force.

After the indictments were announced, Stabile who joined the FBI in 1962, was relieved of his duties. Caputo reportedly is involved with the mob family of the late Joseph Colombo, who died last spring, seven years after he was shot in a gang war.

Justice Department sources said that when the payoff occurred, Stabile was working on an investigation of gambling activities by members of the family.

The sources said Stabile had been assigned to convert Caputo into an FBI informant.

Stabile then went into the Brooklyn court and reversed his innocent plea to guilty of conspiring to obstruct justice, in response to a six-count indictment charging he tried to "falsify, conceal and cover up by trick, scheme and device" a $100,000 payoff from reputed mob figure John Caputo.

The indictment said Stabile wrote a $2,000 check to Roe to give the impression he was repaying the loan. However, it said, Roe returned the money to Stabile in cash.

The indictment did not account for the rest of the $10,000. According to the perjury indictment handed up Sept. 15, the money was part of a $15,000 bribe paid to Stabile and New York City police Sgt. Eugene Stabile, who was accused of taking $5,000 of the payoff, subsequently quit the force.

GOP Leader in City Asks Biebel to Quit

HARTFORD (UPI) — At least one Republican leader has asked for the resignation of state GOP Party Chairman Frederick K. Biebel following the overwhelming Democratic victory Tuesday.

Donald B. LaCroix, a Hartford Republican Committee member, sent a telegram to Biebel Wednesday asking him to quit so Republicans "could seek new leadership."

"Connecticut Republicans can no longer afford the luxury of an over-paid, ineffective chairman using his position as a springboard for national ambitions," LaCroix said.

Biebel, who draws an annual salary of $30,000 as GOP chief, has been mentioned frequently as a possible GOP national chairman.

Republican gubernatorial nominee Ronald Sarasin and lieutenant governor candidate Lewis Rome — Biebel's so-called "dream ticket" — were defeated soundly by Gov. Ella T. Graham Tuesday by more than 189,000 votes.

Parties Organizing For 1979 Assembly

By BRUNO RANNIELLO

HARTFORD (UPI) — With the dust of the 1978 elections settled, Democrats and Republicans are organizing their respective campaigns to grab the leadership posts in the 1979 Connecticut Legislature. Four of the leadership seats are now vacant. They are the House majority seat of Lieutenant Governor-elect William O'Neill, the Senate minority chair given up by Lewis Rome, the defeated GOP candidate for lieutenant governor, the House minority leader slot left open by retiring Gerald Stevens and the deputy Senate majority leader post lost by Sen. William Strada at the polls Tuesday.

Democrats Tuesday increased their majority in the House from 91 to 103 seats. The Republicans slipped from 60 to 48 seats. In the Senate, Democrats raised their 22-14 margin to 26-10. A battle for House Speaker is expected between incumbent James Kennedy of Hartford and Rep. Ernest Abate of Stamford. Almost assured of re-election as Senate President are Joseph Fusillo of Hartford and Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman of New Haven. One announced candidate for Strada's job is Sen. David Barry of Manchester. Rep. Irving Stolberg, one of the lawmakers shooting for House majority leader, said Thursday he felt he was "clearly in the lead" for the job. He said he had 15 House members "committed to me and another dozen colleagues working for me."

Stolberg said his supporters included Reps. William Dyson of New Haven, Joseph Farriselli of Branford, David Lavigne of Durham, John Giovanni of East Hartford and A. Boyd Hinds of Hartford. Farriselli said he was working for Stolberg's election because "with him, there always has been an open door to discuss the issues. You know where you stand with him," he added. Also seeking O'Neill's job are Reps. Timothy Moynihan of East Hartford and Joseph Costantino of Cromwell, both assistant majority leaders, and Robert Carragher of Hartford, deputy majority leader. Another contender before he lost Tuesday was Rep. Robert Vicino of Bristol, the deputy House Speaker. Kennedy said Thursday, "I feel comfortable" about being re-elected to an unprecedented third term as House Speaker. Kennedy's wife, Barbara Bailey

Kennedy, was elected Secretary of the State in the Grasso victory, and some feel he would be too close to the executive branch of government. Also, they argue against a husband and wife holding two major public offices. Mrs. Kennedy's father was the late John Bailey, the long-time state Democratic chairman. Kennedy is an articulate lawmaker who prides himself on parliamentary procedures and his power base could see him returned as Speaker unless there is a big movement for Abate. Abate, an equally articulate lawyer, showed his deftness many times in the last session. When sharp-tongued House Minority Leader Gerald Stevens would pick on one of the weaker links in the Democratic legislative chain, the majority party would turn to Abate to defend its position. The handsome Abate drew admiration in the lower chamber of another party. Last year, when female legislators were asked in an informal poll which male lawmaker would they like to spend the rest of their life with on a deserted island, Abate was the overwhelming choice. Stolberg also prides himself on his parliamentary knowledge but is considered a long shot because he is a liberal in the chamber although he says he has the support of moderates and conservatives. Carragher is a solid contender and Moynihan, it appears, won't make a run for the job unless a lot of people get in the contest and no clear favorite emerges. Some lawmakers feel the job is John Grupp's if he wants it. But the popular representative from Winsted is expected to continue to stay in his position as House chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Those seeking the House minority leader job include Reps. Ralph Van Norstrand of Darien and John Mannix of New Canaan, two unopposed winners in Tuesday's elections. In the second half of the last session, Van Norstrand was called on more and more to espouse his party's position and Mannix is a long time member of the Appropriations Committee and the right hand man of Stevens for the past two years. Sen. Lawrence DeNardis of Hamden, chief deputy minority leader, and Sen. Richard Bozzuto of Waterbury, deputy minority leader, are expected to battle over Rome's seat. "I wish I was in the mood to attend but I'm not. I'm going to be practicing law," he said in his Bloomfield office. Rome said he had no present plans to return to politics. Biebel, however, repeated his vow to remain at the GOP helm until his term ends in July 1979 and when told of Rome's feelings, would say only, "Law Rome is the finest individual I've ever met."

Rome, the Senate minority leader, early in the year began a drive to obtain the Republican gubernatorial nomination. But Biebel talked him into accepting the second spot behind Rep. Ronald Sarasin, R-Conn., of Beacon Falls at the party's state convention in July. As for the outcome of the election, Biebel said, "We feel we did everything we could. We have no guilt feelings whatsoever. I just think it wasn't in the cards... the people were satisfied with her (Mrs. Grasso) leadership, there was no great scandal."

Biebel said "the issue of taxation never caught on" and the low voter turnout "proved people were indifferent." Biebel took over the GOP chairmanship in 1975 and steadily built up an well-financed organization of professionals aiming at a Republican victory. But Tuesday's results only increased the Democratic strength in the Legislature and dealt a serious blow to some speculation that Biebel might be considered for nomination to become the Republican national chairman. Democrats won four Senate seats and 12 House seats to raise their majority to 26-10 in the Senate and 103-48 in the House.

A Hardy Perennial

Harold Stassen, a hardy perennial in presidential politics, listens to a question at a Thursday news conference after he announced he will go "all out" to win the Republican nomination for president in 1980. "I'm serious," the 72-year-old lawyer said. (UPI photo)

Rome Suggests Biebel Quit Republican Post

HARTFORD (UPI) — Lewis Rome, one of the members of Connecticut's Republican "dream ticket" that went up in smoke in Tuesday's elections, has suggested the ticket's architect consider resigning. Rome, the defeated GOP candidate for lieutenant governor, said Thursday that state party Republican Chairman Frederick Biebel should consider quitting his post. Rome said state Republican leaders should meet to discuss "alternatives to revive the viability of the two party system" as a result of Tuesday's smashing election victory by the Democrats. Asked if he meant Biebel should resign, Rome said, "He ought to consider that." Rome said there should be a meeting of the party leaders to discuss the leadership makeup — but he did not intend to take part in it. "I wish I was in the mood to attend but I'm not. I'm going to be practicing law," he said in his Bloomfield office. Rome said he had no present plans to return to politics. Biebel, however, repeated his vow to remain at the GOP helm until his term ends in July 1979 and when told of Rome's feelings, would say only, "Law Rome is the finest individual I've ever met."

Election Choices Not Good Enough

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Some folks in town didn't like the choice between Democrat Ella Grasso and Republican Ronald Sarasin for governor. They thought such folks as John Wayne, Nate Agostinelli and Mickey Mouse would have been better. These were just some of the write-in votes cast Tuesday in Manchester's election according to records compiled in the town clerk's office. Agostinelli, a town resident who once served as state comptroller, and Wayne, a California resident who often served as filmfod's leading cowboy, each received one vote. Mouse garnered two votes for governor.

The most write-in votes for governor — four — were for Robert Killian, the Democrat who had challenged Grasso in a September primary for the party's nomination. Others who received write-ins for governor included Stephen Cassano, the town's deputy mayor, Sol Cohen, retired political reporter for The Herald, State Sen. Joseph Lieberman and U.S. Rep. Christopher Dodd. Of course, there were write-in votes for other positions. Linda Lovelace, a film star of a different genre than Wayne, received one vote for U.S. representative. So did Manchester's Clarence "Bud" Brown, an active Republican, and Charles Morse, editor of The Hartford Courant's op-ed page. Pat Nixon received a vote for secretary of the state. While Bert Lance had to drop out of the Carter administration because of past financial matters, someone felt he was qualified enough to serve as the state's comptroller.

A write-in vote for judge of probate went to Debbie Gemme. She is the daughter of William FitzGerald, who was unopposed for re-election for the probate position. Mouse appeared again as a write-in candidate for the judge of probate job. Three area state senators received write-ins for lieutenant governor. They were David Barry of Manchester and Joseph Paulino and Sanford Cloud, both of Hartford. Wallace Irish Jr., an active Manchester Republican, received a vote for state representative from the 13th Assembly District, even though Irish lives in the 12th Assembly District, a seat he has held in the past.

Water Plan Questioned By McCoy

Herald Reporter

VERNON — An application to the Public Utilities Control Authority asking to merge the Broad Brook, Collinsville and the Rockville Water & Aqueduct companies, has drawn criticism from Mayor Frank McCoy. In a letter sent Thursday, to Henry Mierwa, executive secretary of the P.U.C.A. Mayor McCoy said he had some comments to make on behalf of the town which is an intervenor in the merger application.

McCoy said the plan of merger describes a corporate integration of the subsidiary companies, into and with the Connecticut Water Co. and, according to the Plan, each subsidiary will therefore operate as a "division" of the surviving corporation and maintain separate rates, accounts, and operations. "This organizational structure assumes that each 'division' of a public utility enjoys independent rate making capabilities," the mayor said. He advised the authority that there exists statutory authority or legal precedent allowing this rate-making capacity.

The mayor told Mierwa that the plan of merger alleges to equalize rates as an ultimate objective of the Connecticut Water Company. "The application provides no information concerning the financial condition of each subsidiary nor any proposed future construction and or expansion of each subsidiary," the mayor said. He explained that the Town of Vernon is a large municipal consumer of Rockville Water & Aqueduct Co. and that the majority of the town's residents are also consumers. "We are concerned that the costs of the other subsidiaries will ultimately be reflected in rate increases for consumers of this area, disproportionate to the actual costs of the present Rockville Water & Aqueduct Co. We feel that a comprehensive review of this problem is necessary," he told Mierwa.

The mayor also expressed concern, on behalf of the town, that the proposed merger will result in a further dissipation of the natural water supply of the Rockville Company, through transportation or distribution to other subsidiaries and their service area. He said that history has shown this to be true in the past and current problems of water supplies called for a full review of this situation also.

Bolton Parents Pushing To Maintain High School

By DONNA HOLLAND

Herald Correspondent

BOLTON — A small group of parents strongly, and at times emotionally, Thursday urged the Board of Education to make its decision about the future of the Bolton schools. The parents are members of the newly formed Bolton High School Positive Action Council. Four of those parents attended Thursday's meeting of the school board to talk in support of a letter they had sent.

According to the letter the group was "formed to support the positive aspects of the Bolton school system, particularly Bolton High School, with the primary goal of advocating the maintenance of a quality high school in Bolton." "Recognizing that the board is in the process of evaluating options for the future of the high school of the BHS/PAC feels very strongly that the decision making process and evaluative criteria should be detailed answers as to costs, course available to the town as soon as possible. We request this information by the end of November." The group will have its first public meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Bentley Memorial Library. Harvey Harpin, PAC member, told the board, "People are worried as to whether or not Bolton High School will be closed. You are doing people an injustice (by not making a decision) and forcing them to make a decision (about their children's future) that could compound the problem (of declining enrollment)."

The board is currently in the process of a study that will lead to some basic decisions about the future of the school system. The study includes visiting other schools. Time and again the board has said, "No decision has yet been made about the future of the schools which are all being affected by declining enrollment." However enrollment at the high school and elementary school is slightly higher than originally anticipated. Harpin said, "You shouldn't visit other schools unless you've made a decision to close our school. If that decision is made, then go and find the best school for us, not before." Board member Barbara Smith, who at an earlier meeting told the board a decision should be made as soon as possible to avoid panic, said, "It's my time to say, I told you so." She said, "We've got to move as quickly as we can." Board member Gil Boissoneau asked how many parents have been heard from and how the people who have not been heard from feel. Harpin said, "It's hard to get parents out but the night you go to close the school they will be there and you won't sleep all night." James Marshall, board member, asked about the feelings of 60 percent of townpeople who don't have any connection with the school. Harpin said, "Your job is to do the best thing for the students of Bolton. People realize the value of a good solid school system." Board member Lou Cloutier said, "We now have a positive opinion but we have to listen to all people, we have to get a feeling of how they will respond at budget time." Harpin said he doesn't think people will object to reorganizing the school system. "Nobody said it has to stay just the way it is." The board has discussed the possibility of hiring outside person with experience to serve in a consultant capacity and give insights into the entire situation. The board plans to make basic decisions about the schools at a special meeting March 29. School Superintendent Raymond Allen said, "I know there is concern out there but I urge everyone not to be hasty in making judgments until all the facts are in." Allen said, "I urge you to go cautiously but as speedily as possible."

HIGH SCHOOL WORLD

Past HSW Editors Broaden Horizons

The High School World like everything else, runs in a seemingly endless cycle.

Papers are meticulously produced every Friday afternoon and the deadlines, no matter how much of a rush there is to meet them, always seem to be met.

Well beneath this superficial cycle there lies a deeper, more personality-oriented world, a world that is always changing. This is the cycle of the editors.

Each year new people move into the spotlight of the editorial position of High School World, but scarcely a glance is given to those leaving the spotlight. Just for a moment let's move this heretofore stationary spotlight to follow the present lives of last year's editors, they're really doing some interesting things.

As you recall last year's editing staff was composed of five seniors and two juniors.

The two juniors, Grace Jaworski and Mike Wilson are now seniors and are still with High School World. Grace is Art editor for the year and Mike has remained Sports editor, but his time will come for nostalgia, so now let's dwell on the five graduating editors.

Mari Brennan, a co-editor last year, is now living at, and attending the University of Connecticut. Mari is studying theatre at UConn and is looking forward to her trip to Australia. She will be leaving for Australia in January and will be living there for one year. This trip should be a great experience for her and we wish her the best of luck.

Steve Latham, also co-editor, seems to have gained greatly from his term as editor. Steve is attending Harvard this year and is trying diligently for a cherished spot in the Harvard Crimson's editing staff. The Crimson, one of the most renowned college newspapers in the country, is a very demanding paper and as of this writing Steve had survived the first cut (the first step to Woodward and Bernstein, I guess). Academically Steve is undecided about a major, but he seems to be leaning in the direction of political science.

The news and art editors of last year seem much more decided academically and professionally oriented than their editing friend, Steve. Marc Lauffer and Paul Turek are both preparing a premed curriculum. Marc is studying at the University of Pennsylvania and is working on a double major, psychology and biology. Marc is also working as a lab technician at the Rhode Island School of Photography. This school is a two year school and should develop all of Lynn's photographic talents. When she graduates she will be able to enter the business world with a marketable skill.

It's quite interesting to discover that these past editors are doing what we have contributed to what High School World is today and will continue to contribute to all endeavors in which they engage themselves. We at High School World, wish them luck and are glad that we got to know them. — Peter Krupp

Sock 'n Buskin Praised

Sock 'n Buskin's fall presentation, entitled "The Future of West Revelation," is made up of a lot of nice things.

The play, which is an original by Dr. Lee Hay, premiered last Friday in front of a disappointingly small audience. It ends its run tomorrow night.

The story is set in an imaginary town called West Revelation, and deals with the demise of the town and the townsperson's love for it. Early in the story, the people of the town learn that there is a strong chance that their railroad station will be closed down, an action that will bring an end to the only industry in West Revelation — meat packing.

The central role is played by junior Laurie Paterini. Miss Paterini does an exceptional job in her debut with S 'n B, bringing life to the character of Alvina Phillips, who is the resident operator of the railroad station. Like everyone in the production, Miss Paterini remains solid throughout.

In a play in which all inter-personal relationships are caused beautifully, one stands out above all. Randee Traubitz, who plays the ratchet old Rose Perkins, has some tremendous arguments with Alvina.

Misses Traubitz and Paterini shine brightly, delivering cranksy remarks to each other at every opportunity. Randee is funny, annoying, and lovable in the role of Rose, a part that is demanding for the duration of the act.

Playing the daughter of Alvina is junior Timothea Kargl, who will never have to change her name should she go on acting. Tim is incredibly sweet in the role of Mandy — but the sweetness beautifully grabs the attention of the audience. Everyone loves Mandy by the time the lights go down. In the role of Mandy's fiancée is junior Mike Flanagan. Flanagan shows a certain air of assuredness for the duration of the show; he is a natural actor.

Gideon Smythe, the major of West Revelation, is portrayed by senior Paul Marie. Marie surprised no one as he turned in a great animation of the bumbling, yet well meaning leader of the town. Some of the other S 'n B veterans in the production include Jaqui Hedlund (as Blanche), Judy Wilson (as Irma), Kristi Farrell (as Hilda), and Robert Lenhardt (as the stranger).

All of the above mentioned actors and actresses turned in convincing performances in their respective roles. Lenhardt, Gerry Ganley (as Rev. Thyssen), and Rick Spiller (as Ernie). Deserving of special recognition is Rich Walden, who plays J.D. S. Clair. Walden's dashing good looks match attention for the short time he is on.

"The Future of West Revelation" is fun, sad, cute; it makes one think. The actors (without exception) are solid, and the backstage crew carry out their functions nicely. Conclusion: attend "The Future of West Revelation." — Mike Wilson

Child Development: Not Child's Play

By now, most of Manchester High School's students have become aware of two sets of 16 little pre-school children and six different classes of senior classmen playing with them in the quadrangle.

It's quite interesting to discover that these past editors are doing what we have contributed to what High School World is today and will continue to contribute to all endeavors in which they engage themselves. We at High School World, wish them luck and are glad that we got to know them. — Peter Krupp

When asked a question they will answer it to the best of their ability. Seniors can see lost qualities of their own in the children, such as innocence, believability and trust. Some retained qualities are also reflected.

Child Development is probably one of the better classes taught at Manchester High School. The knowledge gained will, without a doubt, be used, whether on a former student's own child or on the kid next door. Because no matter what happens, there will always be children around. — Jim Richardson

The children are in class two or three times a week and the other days are spent discussing the previous day and learning more about child psychology.

Working with the children is both an interesting and learning experience for both parties. The learning is shared by both the child and the senior, despite a difference of age or a decade between them. Young children haven't learned how to disguise their feelings or learned to lie. Yet.

These two organizations helped to clean up the cafeteria, as well as informing the MHS students of the need to keep it clean.

The publicity crew from Student Assembly put up a large banner asking all students to take Your Garbage and Stuff! This, along with announcements over the intercom, helped to inform students that the cafeteria should be kept clean.

Each day, during seventh period, the N.U.T.S. club (Nocturnal Union of Top Seniors) would wander through the cafeteria and pick up trays and other stray garbage. Not only did they pick up the garbage, but they also very subtly asked students to remove their trays and help keep the cafeteria clean.

The result of this monumental effort on the part of the students was the eventual return of the juke box. Hopefully, this time, it is here to stay.

Someone in MHS, presumably a student, is going through a second childhood. A children's book and a tricycle were stolen last week, the former from Child Development, the latter from a Patterns of Human Behavior class.

The most useful table in the entire of MHS is not in a chemistry lab; it's not even in a mathematics room; it's not even in a SAA, dance, football, Aridian and yearbook room.

The Annual IOH Bake Sale is tomorrow. Literally tons of confectionary goodies will be on sale, with the instructors of handicapped students crisscrossing the town's streets in station wagons. There will also be a station wagon located on Main Street. Of all of Manchester's fine charitable organizations, IOH has to be among the finest.

The Intellectual Level of High School World Editors Department: The High School World publishes an unending flow of rock record reviews — but never, ever a book review. Think about it.

If you've ever considered taking an achievement test in a foreign language, make sure you know what you're getting into. The tests offered by the College Admissions Testing Company are quite difficult. If you don't have to take a foreign language achievement, don't. — Mike Wilson

Cop Dress Leads to Arrest

EAST HARTFORD — The owner of the Eastview Cafe, 389 Main St., East Hartford, was arrested on a warrant Wednesday night.

Thomas A. Lombardi, 47, of 16 Crosby St., was charged with one count charging the permittee as responsible for the actions of his employees and three violations of state statute.

The three state statute violations pertain to sections dealing with: per-

On Oct. 22, police said an officer observed a man wearing a police uniform outside the Eastview Cafe. The man was clad in a tall stetson-type hat, the type usually worn by the state police, and dark pants with a stripe down the side.

He was also wearing a black leather jacket and a badge that bore

Warning: Class Off and Running

It's hard to describe the feeling I got when I first walked into Manchester High School. It was definitely a mixture of many emotions. Being only a sophomore, I was apprehensive as to how the over-performers would treat our class.

My major problem was simply finding my classes! I must have walked twenty miles inside on that first day at MHS. While everyone else seemed to be adjusting to the large and extremely confusing building, I continued to get totally lost after every turn I took. While one might suggest asking a junior or a senior for directions, this sounds easier than it is.

After my first few attempts at politely asking, "Where am I?" and receiving disgusted looks of "Oh! You must be a sophomore!" I finally gave up and increased my walking pace to a near sprint as I raced around the halls in circles desperately searching for my next class and finding it just a few seconds after the bell rang. After almost two months at the high school I am beginning to recognize where I am. (now and then)

Another problem was lunch in the cafeteria. I can still imagine myself entering the cafeteria and looking around hoping to find someone, anyone, to sit with, so as not to seem totally soporific.

I remember seeing a few sympathetic looks from juniors who could remember feeling the same way last year. After finally finding a friend or two to sit with and having bought my lunch, I found that eating was close to impossible! I felt as if the entire junior and senior class were watching me. So taking a few sips of milk and a few bites of my sandwich I hastily fled to the nearest exit to escape outdoors for the remaining minutes of the period.

However, not every aspect of being a sophomore is bad. The class of '81 looks like an outstanding one. So watch out over-performers, the sophomores are coming!! — Patty Cone

Non-Profit Groups in Show

MANCHESTER — The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce today announced that the overwhelming response of the local business community has made it possible for the Chamber to include several local non-profit organizations in its upcoming Manchester Product Show.

Scheduled to be held on Nov. 18 and 19, the product show will include nearly 100 exhibits by retail, commercial, and industrial firms. The show will offer local residents an opportunity to view the wide range of products and services available in the Manchester area.

Through the generosity of several local businesses and a decision by the Chamber's show committee a number of local charitable, civic and educational organizations will be receiving display space.

Among those groups now scheduled to participate in the show are the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, St. Vincent's Workshop, and Manchester High School COEP Program. Also slated to be present with exhibits are Lutz Museum, Public Health Department, Nurses health screening staff, and a licensed guard service put him in Manchester High School.

The Chamber has expressed its gratitude to the local businesses who have chosen to donate their exhibit space to these worthwhile groups.

"The Manchester business community has a long history of support

Fewer Pupils Will Mean Cut of 10 Teacher Jobs

MANCHESTER — Ten teaching positions are expected to be eliminated from the public schools next year because of continued declining enrollments.

The figure was reached by administrators working on the beginning of the school year because of the preliminary budget for next year.

Of the 10 positions, it is probable that six will be on the elementary school level and four in the junior high schools. School Superintendent James P. Kennedy said.

He said he hopes an actual layoff of teachers will not be necessary and that the cuts can be made through attrition. However, the school board is required to notify teachers by March 1 if it is not known by that date if their positions can be retained.

Last year about 18 teachers were notified of the possible layoffs, but all of them were retained by the beginning of the school year because of retirements, resignations and leaves of absence by other staff members.

The projected decline in the enrollment for schools and hospitals was part of recent legislation enacted by Congress.

The administration is putting together statistics on energy use in some of the school buildings which are less energy efficient.

Students Surprise Staff By Not Speaking English

MANCHESTER — School administrators were a little surprised to find a large number of students in the school system whose dominant language is not English.

A count was made as a result of a survey required by the state Department of Education. About 20 different languages among more than 150 students were reported as the dominant languages.

A breakdown of the languages included 32 Spanish, 31 French, 29 Lao, 22 Italian, 12 Polish, eight Vietnamese, seven Latvian, three Korean and two each of Portuguese, Greek, German and Russian. Other individual students speak Hindi, Danish, Persian, Tagalog, Estonian or East Indian.

The schools are required by state law to report the non-English speaking students each year and are required to provide a teacher if there are 20 or more students who have the same dominant language in one school. School Superintendent James P. Kennedy said.

However, because there are no concentrations that high in one school, Kennedy said, part-time tutors are provided to help the

The announcement is in conjunction with the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce 1978 Product Show, which will be held Nov. 18 and 19.

The Indo-Chinese children seem to have the greatest difficulty with the language and assimilating into the culture. Alan Chesterton, pupil personnel services director said.

Election Factors

The anti-tax revolt which is sweeping the country was one of the important factors in Tuesday's election. However in two major New England states, other election factors were won or lost for apparently different reasons.

In New Hampshire, the only state in the nation without a state sales or income tax, the major issue in the election involved the largest construction project in the state's history. In Massachusetts, apparently the personal problems of an incumbent was a major factor.

Dominica Remains Unchanged

By PETER VAN BENNEKOM ROSEAU, Dominica (UPI) - The joke goes that if Christopher Columbus came back to life today and went around to all the islands he discovered in the New World almost 500 years ago, Dominica is the only one he would recognize because nothing much has changed here. Officially, traffic keeps to the left as in most British Commonwealth nations, but on the one-lane road it hardly matters unless a truck comes around the corner and one of the two vehicles meeting head-on must back up to find a safer spot in the crumbling pavement.

Thoughts

"Our Father... forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us." I pity the man who feels he has never sinned, who feels that God is remote from our lives and does not care what we do, who feels that forgiveness is the product of a long process of self-justification for his own selfishness.

Thoughts

Zacharias. These are given to us by the Lord Jesus Christ and they are meant to teach us about the forgiveness of God and also how we are to forgive each other. When we pray the Lord's Prayer how hypocritical are we as we pray to God Himself for forgiveness and also promise God Himself that we will forgive those who have offended us?

Reed's Job in Danger With Knicks in Skid

NEW YORK (UPI) — All is not quiet on the Western front for the New York Knicks. The Knicks completed their six-game Western road trip in Denver Thursday night, and the Nuggets gave them something serious to consider on the flight home. Denver, after leading by as many as 30 points, ripped the Knicks, 116-109, which did little to enhance whatever feelings of job security Coach Willis Reed may have had. Reed has come under heavy criticism of late in what has thus far been a rugged season for the Knicks. The Knicks dropped four of six games on the road swing and just what direction the rest of the season will take is anyone's guess.

Most of damage was provided by Denver's George McGinnis, who scored 13 points in the first quarter. Nuggets placed six men in double figures to win their sixth straight at home and retain their lead in the Midwest Division. "We didn't come to play until the second half," said Reed. "I'm not sure why, but there could be a couple of reasons. Sometimes it's hard for a young team like ours to come back after a good win like last night in Seattle. Our players were really high after beating the team with the best record in the league."

Comeback Player of Year In AL Honor to Caldwell

NEW YORK (UPI) — He was the pitcher no one wanted. "Damaged goods" was the reply whenever his name was mentioned.

But Mike Caldwell refused to believe his big league career was over just because a surgeon's knife cut into his elbow four years ago. It took time and a lot of self-evaluation and heartache before the 30-year-old left-hander proved himself this season by becoming the top winner in the history of the Milwaukee Brewers.

As the culmination of his dogged determination, the United Press International Wednesday named Caldwell the American League's Comeback Player of the Year for 1978.

Caldwell was an easy winner in a balloting of 30 UPI baseball correspondents from across the nation. He received 15 votes to beat out pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the New York Yankees by six votes. Pitcher David Clyde of Cleveland, first baseman Andre Thornton of Cleveland, pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of Texas and outfielder Amos Otis of Kansas City each received one vote.

But Mike Caldwell refused to believe his big league career was over just because a surgeon's knife cut into his elbow four years ago. It took time and a lot of self-evaluation and heartache before the 30-year-old left-hander proved himself this season by becoming the top winner in the history of the Milwaukee Brewers. As the culmination of his dogged determination, the United Press International Wednesday named Caldwell the American League's Comeback Player of the Year for 1978.

Penn State After No. 1 Standing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Penn State's elusive drive for a No. 1 ranking continues Saturday when the Nittany Lions face North Carolina State in a showdown of Heisman Trophy candidates. With a 9-0 record and a No. 2 ranking in the polls, Penn State will resume what has become its annual quest: a national title. Saturday, there will be an added attraction at Beaver Stadium: Penn State quarterback Chuck Fusina vs. Wolfpack running back Ted Brown. Fusina broke three Penn State records by completing 23-of-38 passes for 315 yards last season and his 11-yard touchdown pass to Scott Fitzkee with 58 seconds remaining gave the Lions a tough 21-17 win at Raleigh, N.C.

Brown Bomber Cited

Night With Champ Salutes Joe Louis

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Joe Louis, confined to a wheelchair since suffering a stroke a year ago, was honored at a $500-a-place "A Night With the Champ" dinner Thursday night. World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes, who will defend his title against Spain's Alfredo Evangelista tonight in Las Vegas, also was in attendance as was Max Schmeling, the Beele-browed German who defeated Louis with a 12th-round knockout in 1936.

Both teams enter with 4-1 league marks and two games remaining. Brown was favored to win the title, but slumped in September due to injuries. Yuliska inherited a Big Green squad which deserved its nickname. They had few starters returning and were cast as an also-ran by pre-season prognosticators. Both coaches expect the contest to be a battle of quarterbacks. Yuliska lauds the play of senior tosser Buddy Teevens while Anderson is high on Mark Whipple. The coaches also see the opposing signal-caller will be the one to watch.

Loose Football

Streiking Patriots Prepared for Oilers

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The streaking New England Patriots entertain the Houston Oilers Sunday with thoughts of the playoffs in the minds of both clubs. "You can't help thinking about it," said quarterback Steve Grogan, who leads a balanced New England offense into the game. "But we have to be realistic. We can't overlook the things that got us to where we're at."

Sabres No Longer Have Winning Ways

NEW YORK (UPI) — The once-powerful Buffalo Sabres, who compiled the fourth-best record in the National Hockey League last season, settled for a 4-4 tie Thursday night against the Pittsburgh Penguins and are floundering in last place in the Adams Division with only three victories in 12 games. "This team is so tight, every time we touch the puck it's like a hot potato," said Buffalo forward Rene Robert, who scored his first goal of the season. Robert has been on the trading block but wants to stay with Buffalo.

"I was kind of disappointed earlier in the season because I wasn't playing," said Robert. "I was just hoping for a chance and once I got my chance I just hope I've proved to them I belong to this club." The tie was the sixth straight deadlock between the teams. Pittsburgh's Randy Carlyle scored a fluke goal with 2:33 remaining to startle both Sabres goalie Doc Edwards and a Memorial Auditorium crowd. Carlyle dumped the puck into the Sabre zone from 60 feet away, but it took a bizarre hop and skittered past a bewildered Edwards. "It hit the ice and went dead left," said the Sabre goalie. "It probably hit on its edge and changed directions. These are nightmares — I would rather face a slap shot than Winnipeg.

Holmes Risks Title Against Evangelista

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes, trying to get out from under Muhammad Ali's shadow, puts his title on the line tonight for the first time, meeting underdog Alfredo Evangelista of Spain in a scheduled 15-rounder at Caesars Palace.

Holmes, 28, inherited the WBC crown when he scored a split decision (by one point) over Ken Norton at Las Vegas June 9. He fought for the last of the Holmes-Evangelista fight. He said he had to fly back to Matchev, Miss. where he's making a movie. Holmes, a 2-3, boxer-puncher with 18 knockouts, will get his biggest payday with $1.4 million. His first title opponent, the Uruguayan-born Evangelista, 24, is the European heavyweight champion on the basis of an 11th-round kayo of Lucien Rodriguez at Madrid Sept. 9, 1977, and has a 22-1 record with 18 knockouts. Evangelista will receive $200,000 for his challenge of Holmes. The oddsmakers figure Holmes, who's won the heavyweight event scene with an easy 12-round decision over Earnie Shavers at Las Vegas March 28, shouldn't have much trouble with Evangelista.

No bets on Holmes are accepted although a bettor can take Evangelista at 14. All World Boxing Association titleholder with his easy win over Leon

Strings Bring Record Prices

LONDON (UPI) — A Stradivarius violin belonging to Yehudi Menuhin went for the record price of $290,000 at the exclusive Sotheby's auction house.

The violin, one of two instruments sold from Menuhin's collection, surpassed by $60,000 the previous record from the price of a musical instrument sold at an auction.

Another Menuhin instrument, a rare Joseph Guarneri del Jesu violin, sold for $224,000 at the Wednesday auction.

Both instruments were bought by London dealer Peter Biddolph. The violin was made by Antonio Stradivari in Cremona, Italy, in 1710 during his "golden period."

DOT Ecology Chief Explains Road Plan

VERNON - The many aspects that have to be considered when planning a highway were explained to members of the Tolland County Soil and Water Conservation District by Vernon Land, environmental coordinator for the state Department of Transportation.

Lund spoke recently at the Tolland County Agricultural Center and used slides to demonstrate his talk. He pointed out that many aspects, such as archeology, protection of wetlands, erosion and sediment control, noise, and dust, must be taken into consideration when planning a highway.

Because Route 86, which goes through Vernon, is being widened, Vernon officials have expressed great concern about siltation and other environmental problems.

Lund said there are problems, but added that solutions have been found. He said people now are more concerned about the environment and citizen participation is welcomed by his department.

Other business at the meeting included election of officers. Lawrence Small of Tolland and William Kralovich of Andover were re-elected to serve three year terms on the Board of Supervisors.

Also at the meeting, Timothy Dodge, district conservationist for the soil conservation service, presented a report highlighting the service's activities within the district.

Singing Group Due At Calvary Church

MANCHESTER - ASLAN, a singing group from Red Bank, N.J., will present a program of music and song tonight at 8 in the Fellowship Hall of Calvary Church, 647 E. Middle Turnpike.

The concert is sponsored by the Maranatha Christian Coffee House with Bruce Pajot, director. A free-will offering will be received. A time of informal fellowship with refreshments will follow the program.

ASLAN includes several young adults who share their Christian beliefs and teachings through singing and have pioneered a full-time missionary outreach to Black teenagers and families in a low-income, highcrime area of Monmouth County, New Jersey [just outside New York City].

They sponsor regular Bible classes, sports, cooking, games, crafts, and a basketball league for young people, ages 10 to 18. The group "Aslan" means "lion" in the Persian language, and Jesus is referred to in Revelation as the "Lion which is the tribe of Judah." Aslan is also the name of the lion which is Jesus in the C.S. Lewis Books, "The Chronicles of Narnia."

A Rude Awakening

HERBON - Mrs. Lorraine Nelson of Bakeshop Road, had a rude awakening Tuesday morning in the trustest sense of the word.

Mrs. Nelson was awakened by a loud crash that she said sounded like a bomb in the lamp exploding but it turned out to be a large owl that flew into the room through the thermopane window shattering glass all over the room and onto the bed where Mrs. Nelson had been sleeping.

The owl apparently suffered a broken neck and died instantly. The impact not only broke the window but also the screen.

Padick Tells Concerns On Plans for Region

COVENTRY - A draft memo has been prepared by Town Planner Gregory Padick for the Windham Regional Planning Agency outlining the concerns of the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Town Council on the regional land use and housing plans recently drawn up by the agency.

A public hearing in Coventry on WRPA proposals drew resident criticism last month, and the agency is currently revising its plans in preparation for a subsequent hearing next month. Daniel Manley and Betty Gardner are the town's representatives on the WRPA.

"The town is very concerned with WRPA's failure to designate any industrial areas in Coventry," Padick noted. "The suggested regional tax base sharing approach appears unrealistic within the current governmental structure and is therefore in apparent conflict with Coventry's goal to strengthen its limited tax base."

The planner asked the agency to review the industrial component of the town's plan of development draft and to consider the site of an existing industrial park on the southern end of Route 31 that has good highway access and may be serviced by a proposed sewer system.

Padick is also critical of the agency's recommendation for a high-density suburban classification for the Wangunburg Lake (Coventry Lake) area. "Regardless of the ultimate solution to the area's health problems, additional high-density development should be discouraged in this area due to documented lake eutrophication problems, very poor roadway and storm drainage systems, and the basin's topography, soil, and ground water characteristics," he said.

The planner asks that higher density residential sections be designated to the east, south, and west of the village area to help the town meet its future low and moderate income housing needs. It would also promote commercial revitalization there and an energy-efficient pattern of development and delivery of public services, he said.

Ownership Has Advantages

More than just a dream coming true, owning your home has some real advantages. Of course, there are disadvantages, too, if you have no desire to look after the upkeep of the complicated structure, or don't plan to live in the community but a short while, but that's problems you'll have to decide before purchasing.

Some reasons frequently cited for owning a home:

Money put into a home instead of rent is a fairly safe form of investment. If you make a good choice, the property will likely increase in value and you can sell for a profit.

Owning is a hedge against inflation. If inflation comes, the value of the property will rise. If you have a mortgage you will be paying it off in inflated dollars. However, in time of deflation the dollars paid on a mortgage are worth more than at the time of the contract.

Homeownership offers some advantages on income tax. Real estate taxes and the interest charged on the mortgage are proper deductions, if you itemize deductions.

Buying a home encourages the family to save. A family that otherwise might be unable to save is forced to do so when mortgage payments must be met.

Homeownership gives the family a feeling of security. This is especially true after a home is paid for.

Buying a home gives the family greater opportunity to provide a desirable environment for the children.

Money invested toward paying off the mortgage may be used as security for an emergency loan.

Homeownership is a symbol of achievement.

Owning improves the family's credit rating.

Owning enables the family to make alterations to the house and yard it can afford. If the family enjoys painting, decorating, yard-work, and other tasks associated with caring for the home, these activities can be a diversion and at the same time increase the value of the property.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If a doctor is not stable in his personal life, would you consider him as a physician?

I think my doctor is the best for miles around, but now that he is in the process of getting his fourth divorce, I wonder if it's possible for his judgment to be so bad in one department but not in another.

His first wife was a fine, attractive woman. He simply tired of her and found a new love. It was the same story with the other three. He made generous settlements on all of them.

How would you feel, Abby? Would you still have confidence in him as a doctor?

WONDERING IN TEXAS

DEAR WONDERING: I know it's possible for some people to be brilliant in their own fields, but I suspect, and hopelessly naïve in other matters. Personally, as long as my physician provides me with competent professional care, how he handles his personal life is his own business.

DEAR ABBY: I am 42 and very much in love with a beautiful, 27-year-old model. Her divorce for which I am paying is now pending. She has three children. I bought her a new car, and have spent more than $15,000 on clothes for her and her children in the last six months. She says she loves me, but I don't see much of her. I see her only on Monday nights because on Tuesdays she sees her boyfriend she says she has to "let down easy." On Wednesday night she goes out with her boss. On Thursday night she goes out with the girls. On Friday night she stays home and does her laundry, and she lets her husband come over on weekends because he misses the kids.

My friends say I am being taken for a ride. Am I?

SAMMY IN MIAMI

DEAR SAMMY: Not only are you being taken for a ride, you're lucky if you aren't killed in the traffic.

DEAR ABBY: My conscience is bothering me and I have other problems, too. I'm a 15-year-old who everybody thinks is a "very nice girl." But I'm not as nice as they think. My girlfriend and I went to a movie one Saturday and let ourselves be picked up by a couple of guys. They had a car so we went for a ride afterwards. We parked and made out only light kissing—nothing serious. We really aren't pickups and don't know what made us act like that.

Well, I've seen a guy a couple of times on the sneak since then, but he never wants to come in and meet my parents. All he ever wants is to park and make out. I really like him. How can I make this a respectable relationship? I feel ashamed and dirty.

AIRIES

DEAR AIRIES: Even nice girls sometimes act on an impulse, so don't be so quick to get yourself down. You can make your relationship respectable by telling the boy that you (a) are through sneaking around to meet him, (b) insisting that he meet your parents. If he doesn't agree, leave him. He's only interested in using you.
