On West Bank

Israeli news reports said today the Jewish state plans to build four new settlements in the occupied West Bank in two weeks, and Israeli troops and crack border guards clashed with Arab students in the occupied town of Ramallah.

The Israeli troops dispersed the students who were demonstrating against the razing of the home of a suspected Arab guerrilla in the neighboring West Bank town of Silwad, witnesses said.

The occupation authorities moved in after the students, shouting anti-Israeli slogans, blocked roads and gathered in front of the Ramallah City Hall for a protest rally.

Witnesses said the dispersed students regrouped in other parts of the city for a possible demonstration in Silwad itself.

Earlier merchants in Ramallah shuttered their stores to protest the demolition of the house Silwad.

Radar System

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — NATO defense ministers today formally approved the purchase of an American-made airborne radar warning system to cost about $1.8 billion and which should add a vital half-hour to the warning time should Russia attempt a sneak attack.

NATO officials said the defense ministers overcame their last doubts about the Airborne Warning and Command System (AWACS) system and its financing this morning, just five years after the United States first conceived the plan.

The plan calls for the purchase and stationing in Europe of between 17 and 20 Boeing 707 aircraft. Jammed with radar warning devices, the fleet will patrol the west-east political border from the northern reaches of Norway to the Turkey on the southern flank.

A Bad Rumor

GROTON (UPI) — A spokesman for Rep. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., says a report that the Navy may not retire the submarine Nautilus is only a "bad rumor."

The New London Day had quoted Navy sources Saturday as saying Navy officials were reconsidering whether to retire the Nautilus and might return the nation's first nuclear submarine to sea duty instead.

Joseph Connolly, a spokesman for Dodd, Tuesday said staff members of the Office of Navy-Congressional Liaison told him the Navy is not considering returning the Nautilus to sea duty, however.

Dies in Crash

GLASTONBURY — A 41-year-old Windham man died early this morning from injuries sustained in a one-car crash on Route 2 in Glastonbury.

State police said Thomas E. Angell was pronounced dead on arrival at Hartford Hospital after being ejected from his vehicle. Police said the car apparently left the roadway and hit the center divider. It rolled over and Angell was thrown from the car.

Police could not give the extent of the injuries, but said an autopsy would be performed in Farmington today. The accident, which occurred at 12:06 p.m. is still under investigation.

J.C. Penney Trucks To Take I-86 Route

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter
EAST HARTFORD — About 100 trucks will come into the J.C. Penney catalog warehouse in Manchester and most will use Interstate 86 entering and leaving the area, a J.C. Penney spokesman told the Town Council Tuesday night.

One of the most important factors in choosing the Manchester site was proximity to the highway, said Frank Engel, expansion and support manager for J.C. Penney's catalog division.

"Trucks expect to roll out to the biggest highway they can find as fast as they can," he said, "because getting rolling is money in their pocket."

"The less time they spend on back roads, the better off they are," he said. Engel said a "great majority" of the trucks will be coming off I-86 in Manchester and leaving the same way. Residents of Burnham Street have raised the fear of increased car and truck traffic on their street when the J.C. Penney warehouse opens in 1980.

Engel said the company will use common carriers almost exclusively. The warehouse will operate with one shift which will run from about 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., he said. The company has found second and third shifts difficult to manage because it would mean massive increases in personnel.

He said trucks will follow the hours of operation. Most of the orders come from the J.C. Penney stores and the company is under strict schedule to have our trailers in and out at a certain time," he said.

J.C. Penney now has five warehouses operating in the U.S. All operate on a single shift.

The Manchester warehouse will serve all of New England and most of New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

Engel said about 30 J.C. Penney stores are located north of the warehouse in New England and about 20 more are located north of the warehouse in New York.

"The bulk of the freight is going to be going in the other direction (southwest rather than north and northeast)," he said.

Local J.C. Penney stores would be served by the same common carriers. Council members raised questions about the most expedient route to the J.C. Penney store in Esfield, but Engel assured them the store will be served by the same truck that would serve other area stores.

As far as the closing of Burnham Street goes, Engel said that is a local decision and the company does not have an opinion one way or the other on closing the street to through traffic.

However, the company does want to open a back entrance to the warehouse, a move that Councilman Harry Egazarian said he opposes.

Egazarian said this would encourage trucks coming from a northerly direction to use Burnham Street and other routes to and from Interstate 81.

Engel said the company could not commit itself to closing off the back entrance.

However, he said the company will try to suggest trucks avoid some local streets.

"We want to be a good neighbor," he said. "We've got to be a good neighbor to survive here. We will urge truckers to use I-86 to the Tollard Street connector when they are coming into the warehouse."

Members of the East Catholic High School Parents Club prepare centerpieces and decorations for the third annual Holly Brunch to be held Sunday at the school.

FBI Head Pledges Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director William Webster conceded the public will never know the full extent of the bureau's past illegal surveillance activities, but he says reforms and his firing of two top agents should assure the practices do not recur.

What's most important to me... is that the bureau is now structured in a way so that the men and women who work here and serve their country know we mean what we say and we will exact compliance, Webster said in announcing the firings.

Data Sought on Body

DARIEN (UPI) — Police have issued a public appeal for any information on the identity of a man whose body was found in a vacant house on Lodge Road.

Police Chief John Jordan said the man had been shot once below the left eye and once in the neck. The victim carried no identification when discovered Monday.

Spain Votes on Reforms

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — With the army and police on nationwide alert, Spaniards voted today on a new democratic constitution that would liquidate the last vestiges of the Francisco Franco dictatorship.

Reformist Premier Adolfo Suarez cast his vote at a high school, saying, "As a politician I feel a great satisfaction at having arrived at this day in which Spaniards are going to vote on a constitution of freedoms."

The premier's centrists and other major political parties supported the referendum and the post-Franco document was expected to be approved by a substantial margin.

Long Island Sound

Fair weather today and tonight. Increasing cloudiness Thursday with chance of rain late in the day. A weak trough of low pressure moving across area today. A high pressure will build over the region from the northwest tonight, developing low approaching from the southwest.

Board Creates New Post Once Funded Under CETA

MANCHESTER — The Town Board of Directors Tuesday night agreed to create a personnel supervisor position now funded through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program.

The directors agreed to make the position a town-funded one and also took other steps to lessen the impact of cuts in CETA funding to the town.

Democratic Caucus Faces Touchy Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Democratic Caucus faced its toughest issue today — what to do with members who have been censured, reprimanded, indicted or convicted.

The issue of members in trouble arose because of Diggs conviction; Flood's indictments by the grand jury, and last session's House reprimands of California Democrats John McFall, Edward Roybal and

Two other present CETA employees will be candidates to fill available clerk positions in the assessor's and controller's offices.

River's Sandbars Mean High Heating Oil Prices

MIDDLETOWN (UPI) — Stubborn sandbars in the Connecticut River prevent oil barges from carrying full loads — posing a danger as well as higher oil bills for some Connecticut waterway users.

John Alban, operations manager for the Pelee Transportation Co., a New York City firm that operates oil barges, Tuesday said the sandbars have forced river pilots to load less on each barge so it will float higher.

He held the Middletown Press the river is about three feet shallower than it should be.

To transport as much oil as possible, Pelee has to run more barges up the Connecticut River. Alban said although the pilots are extremely careful, the extra barges mean "anything could happen."

"The consumers in the Connecticut River Valley are the losers in this thing" because in the end they have to pay more for delivery of their oil, he said.

GOP Gets Deficit News With Pep Talk, Scolding

PLAINVILLE (UPI) — Republican officials got bad news, a pep talk and a scolding Tuesday night when faced with the financial music of the last month's election defeat in last month's election.

GOP State Chairman Frederick Biebel asked the Republican State Committee, in their first monthly meeting since the Nov. 7 debacle, to help cancel out a $275,000 deficit left over from the governor's and underfunded races.

He said $1.3 million was spent on the losing campaigns of gubernatorial candidate Rep. Ronald Sarasin, R-Conn., and the underfunded party fielded against Gov. Ella Grasso and her Democratic slate.

Biebel, blamed by some party members for the Democrats' stunning victory, was penitent. But he brushed aside reported calls for his resignation, saying he will remain chairman, at least until his tenure expires next summer.

Controversial General Dies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retired Air Force Gen. George S. Brown 69, whose comments about Israel and the Jewish influence in this country got him into trouble while he was chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, is dead of prostate cancer.

Brown died Tuesday in a hospital at suburban Andrews Air Force Base, Md. He had retired June 20 after more than 37 years in the Air Force.

Brown was known as a general who spoke his mind and sometimes thought out loud — a quality that earned him harsh criticism a number of times.

Postal Innovations

The Postal Service lost $379 million in 1978 but hopes to break into the black with a $180 million surplus next year before recording another deficit in 1980, says Postmaster General William F. Bolger.

The proposal would permit the town to shovel sidewalks that a property owner has failed to clear after a snowfall. The town then can charge the owner for its work to shovel the walk.

Walks are to be cleared 24 hours after a storm. The lines now are $2 per hour for every hour the walks are not cleared with a maximum of a $20 fine.

Eastford Still Dry

EASTFORD (UPI) — Residents of this northeastern Connecticut agricultural community are apparently content with Prohibition.

Voters Tuesday rejected the fourth attempt in five years challenging the 58-year-old ban on the sale of alcoholic beverages within the town. Last year a similar proposal was defeated by 10 votes.

Only 94 residents voted to allow the sale of all alcoholic beverages. Permits to allow grocery stores to sell beer was approved by 108 voters, but 264 opted to continue the liquor ban.

The question drew 466 of the town's 600 registered voters to the polls. Eastford remains one of Connecticut's four dry towns.

Rham Meetings

HEBRON — The Grade 7 and 8 teachers at Rham High School will conduct parent conferences today from 6 to 9 p.m. and Thursday and Friday from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

All interested parents are invited to attend at any of these times. No appointments are necessary. If any parent is unable to come any of these days they may contact the guidance office, 228-9446 to make a specific appointment.

Lawmakers Consider Reduced Pay

By United Press International Starting with President Carter and exploding into angry public sentiment, the reaction to hefty pay raises approved by Ohio and Illinois lawmakers has caused talk of rolling back their new salaries.

Legislative leaders in Ohio Tuesday discussed the possibility of special action to reduce their 28.6 percent raises. But in Illinois — where three sets of lawmakers are expecting raises of from 30 to 60 percent — political leaders discussed the possibility of a rollback.

Shovel Rules Questioned

MANCHESTER — A proposed snow-shoveling ordinance is good in theory, but some residents Tuesday night questioned whether it would work.

The ordinance was one of three the Public Works Department submitted to the Board of Directors for public hearing Tuesday, and it was the only one of the three that drew public comment.

The proposal would permit the town to shovel sidewalks that a property owner has failed to clear after a snowfall. The town then can charge the owner for its work to shovel the walk.

Wapping Luncheon

SOUTH WINDSOR — The Wapping Church Women will hold its annual Christmas Luncheon on Dec. 12 at 11 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall. The event will be a covered dish lunch with dessert and coffee provided.

Following lunch, the South Windsor High School Music Group, led by Nicholas Lesbines, will present a program.

This year each woman is asked to bring a gift, for a woman or a child, which will be distributed at the Interval House in Manchester. Friends and members are invited to attend.

Returning to School Topic of Workshop

"New Beginnings: Women Returning to School" will be the theme of a workshop next Wednesday at Manchester Community College.

The workshop, sponsored by the Women's Center, will begin with registration and coffee at 9 a.m. in the Women's Center trailer.

A panel discussion among five women who have re-entered college for different reasons will be held in the Student Center at 9:30 a.m.

Non-traditional ways to earn credit will be discussed at 10:40 a.m. Those methods of earning credit outside school include independent study, work experience, on-the-job training and vocational training programs.

Other topics to be discussed by representatives from the college will be the Community Services Division, child care for student-mothers, financial aid, registration and counseling services. The day will conclude with questions at 1:30 p.m.

Jamie Schmitz and Ruth Morrison will serve as co-hostesses for the workshop. No pre-registration is necessary.

Board Cited For Reports

BOLTON — The Bolton public schools have won two "Awards of Excellence for Educational Communications" in a contest for Connecticut school districts, sponsored by the Connecticut Association of Boards of Education.

The awards were given for the "Annual Report" and the "Board of Education Budget, 1978-79."

Joseph Haloburdo, chairman of the board, accepted the award for the annual report and Michael O'Connor, vice chairman of the board, accepted the award for the budget.

Entries were judged by consultants from outside Connecticut not affiliated with the association and awards were based on the entry's "overall effectiveness as a communications vehicle."

School districts entering the contest were divided into three groups based on size, and five awards were given within each size group. The five awards were for newsletters, district annual reports, district budgets, parent-student handbooks and special projects.

Scandia Festival Slated Saturday

MANCHESTER — The annual St. Lucia Festival, sponsored by Scandia Lodge No. 23, Vasa Order of America, will be held Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Emanuel Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Cathy Dufour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reno Dufour, will portray Lucia.

The pageant tells of St. Lucia who lived in Italy during the early years of Christianity. Her fiancé, who became enraged when she gave her dowry to the needy Christians, brought about her martyrdom. Christian missionaries carried the story of her many kind deeds to the Scandinavian countries.

In Sweden, a Lucia festival opens the Christmas season, which begins Dec. 13. Early in the morning, the eldest daughter in the home dresses as Lucia, wearing a white robe and a crown of candles on her head, and carries krus and coffee to the other members of the family who are in bed.

St. Lucia's attendants will be Lisa Christensen, Karen Eddy, Debbie Anderson, Jennifer Haberen, Amanda Torstenson, Kim Erickson, Lisa Erickson, Carlin Andersen, Adrienne Dufour, Amy Fournier, Beth Fournier, Elise Niler, Cindy Miller and Sandi Stauffer.

Norwegian girls will be Karen Benson and LeAnn Stauffer. Playing the Tomtars will be Michelle Jolly, Kathleen Lessard and Randy Norris. The baker boys will be Kevin Andersen and Steven Gustafson. Carl Benson will be cast as the star boy.

Appearing in the family scene will be Mr. and Mrs. R. Benam, Michael Arner, Betsie Arner and Melissa Arner. The pageant is directed by Mrs. Robert Benson and Mrs. Astrid Wilder. They will be assisted by Mrs. Clara Torstenson and Herbert Bengtson. David Torstenson and Robert Benson, lighting and sound.

Mrs. Herbert Bengtson and Mrs. Edna Werdelin are in charge of refreshments.

The public is invited.

Applications Approved

SOUTH WINDSOR — The Planning and Zoning Commission has voted to approve, with conditions, the application of Kenneth and Nina Nichols for a subdivision into four parcels to be added to adjoining lots on Long Hill Road in an RR Zone.

Also approved, with conditions, is the application of New England Silica for a special exception of the zoning regulations for special use of property at 1370 John Fitch Boulevard.

Senior Citizens News

Hi! Things are moving along now, and I wonder if you folks know that even though we did exceptionally well with our Holiday Fair, we had a lot of nice items left. These items make great Christmas gifts and because many of you missed the fair, we have them on sale on Thursday evenings and all day Saturday in the store next to Peter's Furniture in downtown Main Street. This store is known as The Hospitality House and open to the public. Santa Claus is there to greet the youngsters. So stop by and see what we have to offer. All of the people working there are volunteers from the center. We could use some more help for hostesses and a Santa Claus because in another week it will be open every day till near Christmas. If you're interested in volunteering, just call our office 647-3211. The monies we make during this affair will go to us for our meal program. Stop by and take a look, we'll be glad to see you.

By the way, speaking of volunteers, you know from time to time, we write asking for new volunteers and yet although we do get a few new helpers, we know there should be many more who could help. We could use volunteers for many things. For example not all seniors like to play cards or bingo, but have other interests. Well, why not tell us about them and together we could start new programs.

Once in a while we get the word that we have a clique here at the center, that only certain ones get to do everything. Well, in some ways this is true because when we ask for new helpers not many sign up. Therefore, we end up relying on the so-called old faithful. If any of you are connected with outside organizations I know you'll find quite often it's the same ones who carry the load. Here at the center we want you to help. We want you to suggest ideas for new programs. This is your center and we want you to come to it. So think it over, come visit with me or call me and let's talk about your ideas and see what can be done.

You know that we here at the center do take quite a few trips, and those of you who have been on them realize that many of the places we stop to eat, or take in some entertainment, we meet many seniors from other towns. It becomes quite a chore for us to identify our members at times, and so we have purchased a number of name pins, the type you can clip on or pin on and we are hoping that you will drop by to purchase one. It costs 50 cents and will certainly be a big help to us and also it will be nice to let others see who we are and where we're from. I made some the other day so those who put in their order can pick them up anytime now.

Here's the news of the happenings here at the center. It all starts with our usual door prizes. Tickets for this event are now available at our office. I don't know how many of you happened to read The Herald this past Monday but I know some did, because I received about a dozen calls to tell me my name was in very fine print, making me eligible to win $5. I felt sort of obligated to get up early because the rules were that the first one of the few names on the page to go to The Herald would receive the money. I made it and want to thank everyone who called to let me know about it.

By the way, there are still a few openings for our 13-day bus trip to sunny Florida. Call our office if you're interested.

Council Meeting Set

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Community Services Council will hold a special meeting Thursday at 7:30 a.m. at Center Congregational Church.

The council will have no regular luncheon meeting this month due to the holidays.

The Thursday meeting has been scheduled so members can discuss needs in the human service areas that may be presented to legislators as issues. The council will be meeting with state legislators from the area at its January meeting.

Nobel Preparations

A royal guard watches the surroundings of the old Akershus Castle in Oslo, Norway, Monday, a few days before the Nobel Peace Prize ceremony will take place behind the walls Dec. 10. Security measures are believed better here than at Oslo University in downtown Oslo where the ceremony has been held every year until now. President Anwar Sadat of Egypt will not be attending the ceremony, and there remains a question whether or not Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel will attend. (UPI photo)

Baking Regulations Costly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An organization of the nation's independent bakers say federal regulations governing labeling of their baked products are too costly. The Independent Bakers Association, whose 214 members produce more than 50 percent of the nation's wholesale baked goods, Tuesday vowed to explain to Congress, the White House and consumers why the regulation should be eased. At a news conference, IBA president William Boty of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., said, "What we're really trying to do is get FDA (Food and Drug Administration) to give us relief."

IBA chairman Robert Schaus of Waterbury, Conn., said "small businesses, especially smaller bakeries, cannot absorb the costs of excessive regulations and survive." He added, "In our absence, perhaps the conglomerates could produce the goods, but who will employ the people left because a bakery is forced to close, and, too, what will happen to prices? We all know that when competition ends, prices rise."

Dissent Says Top Court Invites Abuse of Search

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four dissenting justices say the Supreme Court is inviting police to abuse their search powers when they stop cars containing passengers. Leading the dissenters, Justice Byron White said a court decision issued Tuesday amounted to "open season" on automobiles. The five-man majority ruled two Illinois defendants, later convicted of armed robbery, were not entitled to protest the introduction at their criminal trial of a sawed-off shotgun seized in an allegedly illegal search of a car in which they were riding as passengers shortly before their arrest.

"This narrows the number of situations in which a criminal defendant can complain about improperly seized evidence when he is a guest in an automobile," said Melbourne Noel, Jr., Illinois' assistant attorney general. White said, "this decision invites police to engage in patently unreasonable searches every time an automobile contains more than one occupant," and predicted the court's decision would "emasculate defendants and police in needless litigation."

The majority essentially rewrote a 1960 court decision outlining individual rights in this situation. That decision allowed anyone "legitimately on the premises where a search occurs" to challenge the legality by seeking to have the evidence suppressed at his criminal trial. Justice William Rehnquist, delivering the majority opinion, said that was "too broad a gauge" to measure whether an individual's rights against unreasonable search and seizure have been violated.

The question now, Rehnquist said, is whether a person had a "legitimate expectation of privacy" in his location at the time of the search. Justice Rehnquist said that was "too broad a gauge" to measure whether an individual's rights against unreasonable search and seizure have been violated.

Trial Is Postponed In Sub Theft Plot

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Trial for two New York men charged with plotting to steal a nuclear submarine has been postponed indefinitely, apparently while the government considers reducing charges against the men. U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith said the trial of Edward J. Mendenhall, 34, of Rochester, and James W. Cosgrove, 26, of Chicago, which had been scheduled to begin today, would be put off indefinitely. The trial originally had been set for Monday but was put off because of a crowded court docket.

At that time sources said prosecutors may be considering reducing the charges against Mendenhall and Cosgrove from conspiracy against the United States to attempted wire fraud.

Defense attorneys have maintained that the two suspects never intended actually to hijack the USS Trepang from its base at New London, Conn., but developed the scheme only to swindle $300,000 in front money from a businessman.

Charges of wire fraud could develop from telephone conversations about the scheme. Mendenhall, Cosgrove and Kurtis J. Schmidt, 22, of Kansas City, Kan., were arrested Oct. 4. Charges against Schmidt were dropped, but Mendenhall and Cosgrove remained in custody in lieu of bond of $50,000 each.

Federal authorities say Mendenhall telephoned Charles E. Roscoe, a St. Louis heating and air conditioning contractor, on July 25 and asked him to help find a buyer willing to pay $150 million for the submarine.

Sewer Charges Discouraging

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

VERNON — A proposed $400 tie-in charge to the Vernon sewer system won't encourage residents to hook in, David Somerville, told a public hearing of the Town Council Monday night. The hearing was on a proposed amendment to an existing ordinance which states that the tie-in charge will be $100. Along with user charges the town is also proposing to increase other sewer related charges to recoup the costs of running the new treatment facility. Somerville also objected to a provision that would allow those who tie in before April 15 to do so at the existing charge. Another resident said there wouldn't be enough contractors to tie everybody in before the April 15 date.

Herbert Slicer agreed that the proposed $400 charge would not be an inducement to tie-in. He said he feels that $200 might be reasonable because the residents still have to pay the contractor's charge which was $600 a few years ago, he said.

Erik Santini, a local builder and owner of apartment complexes, said the tie-in charge should increase gradually, not go up 300 percent in one year.

The proposed amended ordinance calls for house connection laterals to be assessed against the abutting property owners on a uniform front foot basis.

A special exception is made for those who own corner lots or a lot belonging to the same owner and abutting on more than one sewer street. In that case, the owner won't be assessed for more frontage than its longer side on the sewer line.

In addition to the house connection lateral and the street sanitary sewers benefit assessments, each property owner will also pay a sewer connection charge at the time the property is connected to the sewer line. The $400 charge is for one- and two-family dwellings and $600 each for the first two units of a multi-family dwelling plus $300 for each additional unit.

The special charges for institutional-type buildings such as schools and churches, will be based on acreage at $2,000 per acre to the nearest one-tenth of an acre with a minimum of $1,000.

For retail, commercial and industrial property the charge will be the same as for churches, schools and such.

The provisions of the charter, just noted, won't apply to those who tie-in by April 15 and who have paid, in full, the connection charge previously established.

The council will take action on the proposed amendment at a special meeting scheduled for Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building.

Ski Program Set in Vernon

VERNON — The Bill Koch Ski League will set up its mobile ski shop at Henry Park from 10 a.m. to noon and from 2 to 4 p.m. on Dec. 16. The Bill Koch Ski League is a Nordic skiing program for children age 13 and younger and will be offered in this area by USSA which is a nation-wide consumer-oriented skier's organization, the national governing body for amateur ski competition and the largest supplier of recreational skiing benefits in the country. The league is made possible through a grant from the Travelers Insurance Companies of Hartford.

The mobile shop is equipped with 125 sets of cross country skis available on free loan to children interested in trying this sport.

A ski training clinic will be conducted by a specially trained ski coach. Activities will include cross country skiing, on synthetic track if there is not enough snow, special U.S. Ski Team training drills, and many ski games.

There will not be any charge for the sessions. Children who attend should be dressed properly for outdoor sport. All equipment for the clinic will be provided by the van. Parents and interested cross country skiers are welcome to attend and to help out with the program or be spectators. The coach will be on hand to answer questions about the league and about Nordic skiing in general, immediately following the clinic.

For further information contact the Indian Valley YMCA office at 672-7329. The YMCA is cosponsoring the clinic.

Budget Battle Over For West Hartford

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — The long fight over West Hartford's budget is over, with residents approving a $52.7 million package by slightly more than 1,000 votes. The budget referendum drew 42 percent of the voters to the polls Tuesday, a record turnout for a non-election issue.

The controversy began last June and has spurred the repeal of one budget, two tax cutbacks and a Hartford Superior Court battle over the right to hold a referendum.

Residents voted 10,063 to 8,198 to support the revised $52.7 million budget and

Board Lifts Sunday Booze Ban

MANCHESTER — Before Christmas arrives, somebody somewhere in town, probably will be buying a drink at a restaurant or bar on Sunday.

Although Manchester has had a long ban on Sunday sale of liquor, that person won't be breaking the law.

Tuesday night, the Town Board of Directors agreed to lift the ban and permit Sunday sale of alcohol in all establishments permitted to be open on Sunday by state law.

The board's vote followed an advisory referendum in November when town residents voted 8,580 to 7,054 to permit Sunday sale of alcohol.

According to the Town Charter, the proposed ordinance change to permit

Sunday sale must be advertised three times. Then, it goes into effect 10 days after the third advertisement.

A challenge to the ordinance would require a petition signed by five percent of the town electors within those 10 days.

Ironically, the first day liquor could be served in Manchester might be Dec. 24, Christmas Eve, if the expected timetable is followed.

One opponent did speak at Tuesday night's public hearing on the proposed change.

Sally Phillips of Kennedy Road said, "This would be a miserable ordinance if passed." She referred to the possibility of bars being opened on such days as Christmas Eve this year and Mother's Day every year.

Workers at restaurants and bars will have to work now on Sundays, she said.

Other speakers, however, mentioned the November referendum and said the board should follow the vote of the town residents.

Board members agreed and passed the ordinance change unanimously. The vote included a change by Republican Carl Zinsner, who originally had voted against having the Sunday liquor proposal the subject of a referendum question.

Zinsner's opposition had been because the board had not been brought to the question by a petitioning effort done for some referendum questions. Instead, the board's other

School Move-In Due in January

By SUE VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The new addition to Washington School and the new West Side Recreation Center should be ready for occupancy Jan. 15, Building Committee Chairman Paul Phillips said Tuesday night.

The $1.5 million project has been plagued with many delays and as recently as two weeks ago the Building Committee threatened to withhold payment to the general contractor because of the delays.

Richard Lawrence, architect for the project, also told the Building Committee Tuesday night that the work was moving along faster now and that the contractor, Custom Concepts of Simsbury, was making an effort to push the work along smoother and faster.

The committee spent most of its meeting going over a list of $16,000 items still pending at the school. The items included a dangerous low steel beam over a stairway, a miniature toilet and a buried sidewalk.

The committee members criticized Lawrence and Francis Conti, the town building inspector, for not noticing earlier the steel I-beam on the landing of a service stairway from the third floor to the roof. Phillips called it a dangerous situation which has already caused one custodian to hit his head, but he said the cost to modify the landing should not be part of the project. It would cost $1,625 to pay for it. He instructed Lawrence to get together with the steel contractor and the general contractor and come up with a solution to the problem.

A 12-inch high toilet in a new classroom was the subject of lively debate. Apparently the toilet was meant for a kindergarten, but since older children will occupy the room, the committee decided it would be replaced at a cost of $276. Since the minitilet cannot be returned, Lawrence equipped. "We could send it to the museum,"

Lawrence also reported that construction workers had found a buried sidewalk near the recreation building which they did not know was there. It has been removed at a cost of $379. The committee also approved a $4-061 expenditure to replace the termite infested wood floor and other work in the pre-primary room.

Lawrence told the committee he has had a problem getting the furnishings for the media center. The $12,000 in bookcases, chairs and tables ordered from E&J Associates of Old Saybrook has not been delivered. The company has not answered the committee's calls about the delivery.

The committee also approved a motion to allocate $9,000 to the Recreation Department for new equipment for the gymnasium and rec center.

The committee also briefly reviewed the progress on the Police Station and on plans for the new senior citizens center at Green School.

The senior center project should be ready to go out to bid Jan. 15, Phillips said.

Officials Review Busing Proposal

BOLTON — Representatives from the Hockanum Valley Community Council spoke to the Board of Selectmen Tuesday about the possibility of Bolton obtaining a bus that would serve the elderly and disabled.

The agency currently has one bus and serves people in Vernon, Ellington and Tolland.

A second 15 passenger bus should be in service by the end of this month and the agency has the opportunity to purchase a third bus in July.

The agency suggested Bolton ask to buy into the operation of the third bus on a percentage basis, depending on its need.

The cost to use the bus half-time would be $5,563 and full time would be $11,126.

First Selectman Henry Ryba said he will have Bolton's Senior Citizens Committee and Human Services Study Committee contact the agency for more information.

Ryba and Selectman Ernest Shepherd, the only selectmen at the meeting, were receptive to Bolton having a bus for its elderly and handicapped.

On Nurse Staff
MANCHESTER — Ms. Maureen Bartosiewicz has joined the nursing staff of the Manchester Public Health Nurses Association.

A native of Connecticut, she is a graduate of the University of Connecticut School of Nursing.

She was employed at the Arizona Health Science Center since 1972, her most recent position there was head nurse of urology and orthopedics, before moving to Manchester last September.

Resignation Probe Requested

VERNON — Leonard Jacobs, a member of the Town Council, has called for a complete investigation into recent resignations of five volunteers of Vernon Fire Department Company 2.

Jacobs made the request at Monday night's council meeting stating, "There is obviously a serious problem." And Mayor Frank McCoy objected to this choice of words calling it a "damaging statement."

Jacobs said the Charter Review Commission had voted to retain the structure of the fire departments. It had been considered to merge the departments but it was felt this might cause problems so it was decided to leave them the way they are. Both departments are volunteer and some residents feared merging them might lead to a paid department.

Jacobs said this action of the revision group was taken in 1977 in June and noted the problems seemed to have increased since that time rather than improve.

Jacobs said if the existing Fire Study Committee couldn't handle the investigation then he would suggest that another special committee be appointed.

"I'm not satisfied with the way the study committee handles the investigation I will seek additional study," Jacobs said.

The existing Fire Study Committee was appointed by Mayor McCoy several weeks ago, to make a study of the fire departments and to come in with a recommendation as to organization and a location for a new fire station to replace the Company 3 building.

Reynolds Circle
MANCHESTER — The Reynolds Circle of South United Methodist Church will have its Christmas party and potluck tonight at 6:30 in Cooper Hall. Members are asked to bring a covered dish and cash contribution for needy families. Hostesses are Mrs. Helen Diehl, Mrs. Virginia Beggs, Miss Virginia Perkins and Miss Virginia Ryan.

Undaunted
Despite cold weather and the coming of winter Roaring Brook, Glastonbury, still continues faithfully on its way.

Inflation Based on Endless Cycle

WASHINGTON — On the subject of fighting inflation, I don't trust anybody — including thee and me, Jack.

We are not a people dedicated to self-sacrifice, although individually we endorse it for the guy down the street. That guy, in turn, endorses belt-tightening by the family two blocks away. It's always "they" who are responsible for the high cost of living.

Big Business says President Carter's inflation-fighting program won't work because Big Labor is all the time asking for wage increases. Big Labor says the program won't work because Big Business cares about nothing but fat profits.

Thus, I was not impressed by Carter's speech before a meeting of the National League of Cities, described by White House staffers — naturally — as hard-hitting. Carter did all right when he warned the mayors not to expect "constantly expanding ... federal programs and agencies." But then, as usual, he promised that he would avoid "starting useful programs."

There's the old Catch 22. Everybody wants money for "useful programs." Housewives, bankers, union leaders, U.S. Steel, unilaterally decide which programs are "useful."

NBC's Tom Brokaw, who is not poor, thinks it is "useful" for the Small Business Administration to lend him big bags of dough to buy into the broadcasting business. Chairman Sterling Tucker of the Washington City Council declares that "we can't sacrifice the tools of urban revitalization — jobs, housing, schools, elections, and community development."

Jimmy Carter, a smart politician, recognizes this Me-First syndrome. His demand that wage increases be held to 7 percent and price increases to 6-8 percent is tantamount to what the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn used to call "spitting in the ocean."

Carter says it will take 10 years to whip inflation. With wage-price standards of the kind he has more or less imposed, the American who doesn't belong to a union or own General Motors will be reduced to penury by 1988. But given the country's youth and anti-sacrifice philosophy, that was all Carter thought he could get away with without becoming a one-term president.

Should both business and labor comply with those standards — and don't bet the mortgage money on it — it would be like a dog chasing his tail. Raising wages "to keep pace with inflation," and raising prices to cover the cost of wage increases at best will merely reduce the rate of inflation, not end it.

There is one step that could stop this spiral. The cause of inflation is not multiple and complex as so many economists depose, but simply the result of printing too much money. That means a sharp reduction in government spending.

But, fat chance. The U.S. prints money to please people who want more and more services. They are aided and abetted by bureaucrats seeking to enlarge their empires with bigger appropriations and more bodies, and by members of Congress who demand pork-barrel dough lest their constituents retire them to private life.

Here, Carter seems to have seen a little light. He has promised to submit a new budget in January with a deficit of $30 billion or less. That, he says, "is less than half the deficit in the fiscal year 1976 when I was running for office."

That's a start, anyway. The question now is whether we the people, suffering from a bad case of the gimme's, will let Jimmy Carter save some of our money.

Out of the Pickle Barrel

They came, some 4,000 of them, on an overcast Sunday last October, for birthday hoopla in Norway. They toured the plant, looked at movies and exhibits, ate free hot dogs and ice cream. Spouses and youngsters saw where their breadwinners work and viewed some of the products they help build.

Employees of our Norden Systems, Inc., and their families came for an open house at the Norway plant in observance of the 50th anniversary of the company's founding.

During World War II, the name Norden was widely familiar because of what the company made — the Norden bombsight. People sometimes ask if we make bombsights nowadays. No, we don't. But our Norden Systems subsidiary, an operating unit of United Technologies since 1958, still builds products for national defense and security: electronic systems such as airborne radar, military minicomputers, TV-like display equipment.

Up until last year, Norden developed itself principally to the design and manufacture of hardware for flight. Then Dynell Electronics of Melville, New York, was merged with our corporation. This added a line of shipboard electronics to the Norden portfolio of products, all based on electronic technology that's among the most advanced in the world.

Norden came into being a year after Charles Lindbergh fired the world's imagination with his non-stop solo flight across the Atlantic, awakening people everywhere to the potential of aviation.

American military strategists soon saw that air power could be a decisive factor if another war came. What they needed was a device that could drop a bomb accurately from an airplane onto moving ships, munition plants, and other military targets.

So, in 1928, the U.S. Navy asked a soft-spoken, Dutch-born engineer named Carl L. Norden to build two prototypes of a bombsight, a mechanical computer on which he'd been doing research. When World War II erupted, the Norden bombsight was fully developed and ready for production. More than 25,000 were built during the war.

The bombsight's accuracy at high altitudes became legendary. It performed so precisely that fliers boasted, with a touch of hyperbole, about its ability to plunk a bomb into a pickle barrel from 20,000 feet.

Production ended on the day the war was over. Norden then turned to developing new devices built on the fledgling technology of electronics, which was displacing the mechanical engineering that went into the bombsight.

Today, at 50, Norden Systems is a major supplier of electronic systems to the armed forces of the U.S. and our allies. Norden's people, now numbering 2,000 in Norway and Melville, are still helping to keep our nation's defenses strong and ready.

Thought

Our theme for today is the 'lookup!' From the book of Luke we have this verse: "And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth near" (21:28).

I would like to share another devotional thought from the pen of Vance Havner: "Some of life's valleys are so low that there is no lookout but there is always a lookout. We are walked around but not roofed over! The outlook today is cloudy, we are fogged in by foul conditions. There is no way out, but there is a way up. We need not drop our heads in despair or shake them in bewilderment. Our redemption draweth nigh. Sometimes God brings us to depths where the view all around is dark and desolate and we can escape only by taking off like a helicopter — straight up. Do not worry too much about your lookout but keep the lookout open!"

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A couple of weeks after Republican Roger Jepsen blindsided Dick Clark and ended the Iowa Democrat's Senate career, Clark sat down with UPI reporter Cheryl Arvidson to explain what happened.

First, he says, the one issue special interests ganged up on him. In a coalition of convenience, groups espousing the right to life, the right to work and the right to have guns all jumped on the Iowa senator. There may have been some overlap in terms of the voters contacted, but the effect was similar to that of the ancient Chinese torture called "the death of a thousand cuts."

Second, six out of 10 Iowans eligible by age to vote did not. As is becoming clear to students of elections, the one issue people thrive on low turnouts.

These people, whether left or right leaning, have cohesion and organization. The rest of the electorate, with at the most only a general interest in good government, is expected to pump itself up and find its own way to the polls.

This is especially true in congressional elections, which seldom get the kind of media hype characteristic of presidential campaigns.

Clark summed up the common denominator of his opposition as general feeling that government cannot solve the problems it has tried to deal with. He suggested the result would be the ascendancy of politicians who campaign against government intervention in social problems.

That will be the case, the senator added, until other groups such as workers, the elderly and the poor come to realize that the people making decisions in Washington and the state capitals aren't doing anything for them. Then, he thinks, the pendulum may swing back.

Now that is a fascinating prospect. Clark says he was ambushed by a coalition of one-issue zealots and predicts that the outlook for politicians like himself will be grim until a different group of special interests coalesces to support them.

Clark would suggest that the groups he hopes will come together to support liberals are on the side of the angels, but he certainly seems to be talking about the same kind of political force that was responsible for his defeat.

And in this, Clark may have put his finger on the political pulse of the United States in the 1970s: People with specialized interests they want to protect or advance appear to be the only ones who care enough to give their time and money to politics; if you don't have an axe to grind, you probably aren't even going to vote.

Opinion Political Raises

An apparent blatant misuse of political power is upsetting the residents of Chicago and the entire state of Illinois.

The apparent misuse of power involves money.

The money concerns salaries of state legislators and Chicago city officials who are seeking raises.

Raises, which most of their constituents think are unfair and not keeping with President Carter's guidelines for fighting inflation.

In a national television report, it was explained state legislators are seeking a pay raise of 20 percent and the members of Chicago's Board of Aldermen are seeking a 60 percent increase.

Both of the proposed raises are increases which can be approved by the persons seeking the pay hikes.

It is easy to see why the citizenry is upset.

A few weeks ago President Carter explained his inflation fighting package and recommended a ceiling of seven percent for pay raises throughout the country.

While there has been opposition to the proposed guidelines, in Chicago and Illinois there are public officials outwardly refusing to follow the suggestions.

While actual dollar figures were not given for the proposed increases, it is safe to say that 60 percent of any amount would represent a pretty hefty raise.

Not only do the politicians

Letters to the Editor Proposed Plan Questioned

To the editor:

On page one of the Manchester Evening Herald for Monday, Nov. 27, under the heading, "Plan Would Bill For Snow Removal," it is reported that Manchester municipal authorities propose to charge property owners for the cost of having town employees clean sidewalks which have not been promptly cleared of snow by said owners.

If we keep in mind the elementary idea of justice expressed in the venerable saying, "Sauce of the goose is sauce for the gander," possibly our townfathers should start to remedy the present faulty situation by insisting that every owner of street-abutting property should have a sidewalk to begin with.

For instance, when West Middle Turpike was recently remodeled from New State Road east to Green Manor Boulevard, sidewalks were installed on both sides of the street at great expense.

A walker or a jogger can now come down the hill on either side in style as far as the Parkade.

From there on to Broad Street, it's catch as catch can.

Continuing east from Broad Street there is sidewalk flanking the Waddell School playground.

What is on the other side of the street? Woods, right down to the edge of the road.

The town has to clean the sidewalk along the playground, the only sidewalk provided for that stretch of the road.

Should the town bill the property owner on the other side for half of the cost of sidewalk snow removal? Our objective of course is to provide continuously safe walking conditions for pedestrians, in addition to the mailman.

When we face the realities of the sidewalk clearing situation we may arrive at the solution which prevailed in Rochester, N.Y., when I was growing up there.

One didn't have to look out of the window to know if it had snowed in the night.

The sound of the city horse-drawn sidewalk plow going past the house announced the weather condition.

Clint Hendrickson,
72 S. Hawthorne St.

Despite cold weather and the coming of winter Roaring Brook, Glastonbury, still continues faithfully on its way.

Inflation Based on Endless Cycle

WASHINGTON — On the subject of fighting inflation, I don't trust anybody — including thee and me, Jack.

We are not a people dedicated to self-sacrifice, although individually we endorse it for the guy down the street. That guy, in turn, endorses belt-tightening by the family two blocks away. It's always "they" who are responsible for the high cost of living.

Big Business says President Carter's inflation-fighting program won't work because Big Labor is all the time asking for wage increases. Big Labor says the program won't work because Big Business cares about nothing but fat profits.

Thus, I was not impressed by Carter's speech before a meeting of the National League of Cities,

Eaglettes Impressive Winning First Game

With a handoffing defense and excellent teamwork, East Catholic girls' basketball team opened its 1978-79 season with an impressive 54-26 win over Hartford Public yesterday in Hartford. The Eaglettes enjoyed a comfortable 26-4 halftime advantage, having not yielded a basket until the second quarter. Excellent teamwork was exhibited as four players, senior Captain Laurie Barry, senior Trish O'Connell and sophomores Monica Murphy and Kathy Skehan combined on 16 assists. Defensively, the quickness of Karen Lueker and Kathy Skehan accounted for eight steals. Senior Ellen Petkaitis led East's balanced attack with 13 points with O'Connell and Barry clipping in 8 apiece. Phyllis Clapis had a game-high 14 markers for Public. East's Jayvees, under new Coach Mike Barry, opened with a 22-12 victory. Freshman Pam Cunningham netted 6 points and Lisa Johnson and Fionna Campbell 4 apiece.

Key to Patriot Defense Steve Nelson Sidelined

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — New England Patriots' linebacker Steve Nelson, a key to the team's defense, has been sidelined with possible ligament damage to his right knee, which has been placed in a cast. The Patriots face the Buffalo Bills Sunday, and Nelson will definitely miss that contest, a team spokesman announced Monday. The Patriots' 17-10 loss to the Dallas Cowboys last Sunday, still can clinch the AFC East title with a win over Buffalo. A victory would assure them of their second playoff berth in three years and a Dec. 31 game, possibly at Schaefer Stadium. Patriots' spokesman Pat Horne said doctors have not yet determined exactly how Nelson's knee was hurt, but ligament damage is highly possible.

Defensive end Tony McGee said he hoped the Patriots would get a rematch with the Cowboys in the Super Bowl next month in Miami. "I hope we play these guys again. I really do," McGee said. "In my opinion, we looked like the better team out there. We controlled the ball more and played well enough to win." The Patriots also felt they were victimized by the referees. They felt the officials erred in calling one fumble dead and in giving another to the Cowboys. In addition, quarterback Steve Grogan was penalized for a "clothes line" by linebacker Tom Henderson. "If two of our players did that to Staubach, they would have been thrown out. The official said (Henderson) missed me. All I know is that my head was wringing," Grogan said.

Bowling Campbell Still Has Problems

BOSTON (UPI) — A team physician says ace Boston Red Sox reliever pitcher Bill Campbell, plagued throughout the 1978 season with a sore arm, still has shoulder problems. Dr. Arthur Pappas, in Orlando, Fla., for the winter baseball meetings, said Campbell is "still feeling discomfort in the right shoulder." He said Campbell will be brought to Boston next week for further tests. The million-dollar free agent, picked up two seasons ago from the Minnesota Twins, had chronic elbow and shoulder problems throughout the 1978 season. His continual shoulder problems spell trouble for the Red Sox, who are trying to juggle their pitching staff after losing Luis Tiant to the New York Yankees via the free agent draft.

Team officials were concurring on a healthy Campbell to anchor the bullpen so he could turn Bob Stanley into a starter. Stanley was the mainstay of last year's bullpen, and pitcher Andy Hassler, who was operated on for a torn ligament in his hand, were progressing well. "Both Campbell and Hassler have been coming along nicely," he said. "In fact, Hassler says that he has much motion and less discomfort in his elbow than he did in 1974 and 1975, when he was sound." Hassler had been bothered by bone chips in his elbow for the past two seasons. Hassler, a southpaw, had ligament damage in his left hand.

Granted Back Pay — BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Two Stratford women teachers who filed a sex discrimination suit claiming they were paid less than half white men were paid for coaching sports have been granted $4,500 in back pay and legal fees. U.S. District Court Judge John Newman, in a decision on file Monday, told the Stratford Board of Education to pay Lea Dixon $1,571 and Barbara Hall $1,489, plus back pay. The judge also ordered the school board to pay $1,700 to the Connecticut Women's Educational and Legal Fund Inc. The group represented the two teachers in court.

Whalers, Stingers Struggle to OT Tie

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Goals by Dave Debol and Craig Norwich rallied Cincinnati from a two-goal deficit to a 2-2 overtime tie with the New England Whalers, keeping the Stingers alive atop the World Hockey Association. After a scoreless first period Tuesday night, New England jumped to a 2-0 lead on second period goals by Mike Rogers and Mike Antonovich. Debol pulled the Stingers to within one goal in the second period, when he skated the puck out of his own end into the Whalers' zone, ducked two defencemen and slipped the puck past goaltender John Garrett. Norwich scored his second goal of the season in the third period for the night and Cincinnati goalie Mike Lut 26.

Illing Pupils Will Present Folk Musical

MANCHESTER — Students in the choir and voice class at Illing Junior High School will present "The Small One," a legendary Mexican folk tale, Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

In addition to preparing the music, students are creating a Mexican dance, collecting Mexican decor, sketching scenery and making flowers for the show.

The story concerns a donkey and young boy at Christmas time in Bethlehem.

Ralph Macaronone and Mrs. Betty L. Nurdene of the school's music department are in charge of the production.

Cast members include Mathew Falkowski, Teresa Enroth, Maureen Flanagan, Pam Brace, Lisa Seise, Zola Popple, Kim Hart, Allison Hayes, Mark Gadoary, Kim Vichi, Donna Munday, Lisa Isko, Kimberly Connell, Steven Jonas and Judy Dalune.

Also, Gahan Fallone, Patty McNamara, Lianne Darna and Terry Pagan.

Accompanists will be Susan Cain and Mrs. Norden.

Production crew members include Pasquita Lippolis, Michelle McQuade, Sandra Trombly, Lisa Isko, Laurie Fossum, Brian Coetz, David Richardson, Gary Davenport and Kevin Mather.

The program will also include selections by the 52-piece Illing concert band directed by Leonard Bonfiglio.

A special performance is scheduled for the morning of Dec. 15 for prospective junior high school students.

At UConn Saturday

The Prince Street Players of New York will present two performances of "Alice in Wonderland" at the University of Connecticut's Jorgensen Auditorium in Storrs Saturday at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. (486-4226)

CBS Plays It for Laughs

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS is playing the ratings game for laughs, counting on comedy — four new situation comedies and one hour-long "comedy adventure" — to help close the ratings gap in the winter "second season."

The new programming will go on the air at a date to be announced.

The network also has two "returns" — "WKRP in Cincinnati" and the revamped "Mary Tyler Moore Hour."

"WKRP" — WKRP in Cincinnati — a product of Miss Moore's MTM Productions, has a definite spot on the new schedule but her own show does not — yet.

The only hour entry among the newly scheduled shows is "The Dukes of Hazzard," about three young cousins fighting corruption in the rural south.

The sitcoms include "Onward and Upward," starring John Amos as a former football hero turned con-gressman, and "Flatfish," about five newly graduated high school baseball teammates with, in the words of CBS, "comedy never far from the surface of the sideways."

"The Stockard Channing Show" features the star of "The Cheap Detective," "The Fortune" and "The Big Bus" as a woman, estranged from her husband, who works for an oddball at a Los Angeles health club.

"Co-Ed Fever" makes CBS the third of three networks to schedule a half-hour sitcom meant to draw the "Animal House" crowd.

This one concerns the coeducationalizing of a women's college. The cast includes Alexa Kenin, David Janssen's daughter in "The Word," and Jane Rose, Cloris Leachman's mother-in-law in "Phyllis."

CBS also is reshuffling a number of its prime time regulars, but for that you need a score card.

Nielsen Ratings
The top network television shows for the week ending Dec. 3, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:

1: Laverne & Shirley; 2: Happy Days; 3: Three's Company; 4: (tie) Little House on the Prairie, M-A-S-H, 60 Minutes; 7: Eight is Enough; 8: "And I Alone Survived" (NBC movie); 9: Alice; 10: (tie) One Day At a Time, Love Boat.

THE ORIGINAL BUFFALO BLIZZARD KIT
THE PERFECT YEAR-ROUND GIFT

Necessity Spawns Inventions

In Buffalo, N.Y., a city that became synonymous with the blizzard in 1977, people have learned to look at the lighter side of cold weather. Here, a specialty shop clerk adjusts a display of "The Buffalo Blizzard Kit," which includes a "help" sign for stranded motorists, a Buffalo blizzard dime for one telephone call, a flask for "emergency" consumption of two ounces of alcohol, aspirin, a razor, toothbrush and toothpaste, and instructions on "How to Survive a Buffalo Blizzard - Anywhere." ### Directors Eye Education In Hiring Requirements

MANCHESTER — Again this week, the Town Board of Directors took some time to discuss education requirements for a laborer position was too low.

This week, some directors felt a college education requirement for some jobs is too high.

"You're making barriers again," Director John FitzPatrick said of some proposed changes that would require college degrees for certain department head positions.

Such department head jobs generally require a college degree, according to town requirements.

FitzPatrick said the stereotyped picture of someone without a college degree is a 17-year-old dropout. But, there are many adults without college educations who might now have the training and experience to handle such jobs. Director Thomas Connors said that the equivalency of a college education should be considered if equivalency can be measured properly.

But, he said it is important for the town to seek the best possible candidate for such management positions.

The discussion about the education requirements was part of the board's debate about approving a new classification pay plan for management personnel. The plan was approved.

"We're trying to implement a management system, we should try to get the very best instead of the mediocrity we have sometimes obtained in the past," Connors said.

Director Vivian Ferguson mentioned some examples of persons who have become business executives without a college education.

"There are college graduates who can't find their way out of the rain," she said.

Town Manager Robert Weiss put an end to the discussion with a recommendation that the college education requirement be expanded to include the phrase "or equivalent combination of education and experience."

Fronton Lawyer Claims Agency Went Too Far

HARTFORD (UPI) — A lawyer for Hartford Jai Alai says the gaming commission ventured outside the realm of justice in Western civilization when it recently suspended the fronton's license and fined its officers.

Last an assistant attorney general says Hartford Jai Alai is just mad because the gaming commission did its job.

Superior Court Judge Alfred Covello says he'll decide who's right in the next "10 days to two weeks."

In the meantime, Hartford Jai Alai will stay open.

Last year, the gaming panel began hearings on the way professional gamblers were betting at Connecticut's three jai alai frontons. During those hearings, a Hartford Jai Alai employee testified one better told him he had "players in his pocket."

In September, the gaming commission decided Hartford Jai Alai should be punished for not coming forth with the game-fixing allegations. The gaming panel voted to suspend the arena's license for 10 days and to fine four of its officers a total of $70,000.

Hartford Jai Alai appealed the decision. The appeal was heard Tuesday by Covello.

Joseph Skelley, Hartford Jai Alai's attorney, asked Covello to overturn the gaming commission's decision, saying his clients' constitutional rights were violated.

"The rules of evidence did not apply to these proceedings," Skelley said. "These people were not given a fair hearing."

Skelley said the Hartford Jai Alai officials were forced to prove their innocence when the gaming commission should have been proving their guilt.

"There was no evidence at all by the commission," Skelley said. He said the statement by the fronton employee who overheard the game-fixing allegations was "hearsay," not evidence.

Skelley also said four of the nine gaming commissioners had already made up their minds before the case was heard because they had conducted the professional betting hearings.

"The gaming commission 'created a new standard unknown in Western civilization — that of the gut reaction,'" Skelley said.

But Assistant Attorney General Richard Sheridan, who represents the gaming commission, said "there is a fundamental error" in Skelley's logic.

"He equates the criminal process and regulatory rulings," he said. "We were not in a criminal trial."

Sheridan said the gaming commission was well within its rights to suspend the fronton's license and fine its officers.

"You know what the real complaint against the (gaming commission) is?" Sheridan asked Joseph Covello. "We did our job too well."

He repeatedly reminded the judge that running a legalized gambling facility is "a privilege."

"Nobody has a constitutional right to engage in that action," he said.

New Council Procedure Isn't Speeding Matters

COVENTRY — A formal procedure manual adopted by the Town Council a few months ago has had little effect on expediting issues before that group and on leading to earlier adjournments.

The first draft of the manual was worked out by Town Manager Frank Conolly last year and includes sections on the conduct of meetings, relations with other municipal boards and commissions, and planning.

The purpose of the guide is to direct "the actions of the Town Council during its deliberations and activities. The council may suspend its rules and shall otherwise act in accordance with 'Robert's Rules' in dealing with procedural matters."

Under the manual, council agendas are issued by the town manager following a preparation outlined by the council chairman. Council members may suggest agenda items to the chairman.

The usual form of the agenda is a call to order and a roll call, approval of minutes, an audience of citizens, reports of committees and the manager and the chairperson, correspondence, old business, new business, and adjournment.

Farmer council chairman Jessie Brainard, who failed to win reelection last year, said the Republican majority was more effective when it was in control because caucuses were frequently held to iron out differences of opinion before council meetings.

"The handling of correspondence also has been a topic of dispute. Residents have complained that their letters have not come before the full council or been acknowledged by the secretary. The Republican Town Committee has claimed that endorsements of candidates for local agencies sometimes have not been received by the council.

Although the manual aims at a 10:30 p.m. adjournment time, most meetings continue beyond that deadline. Executive sessions (closed meetings) are usually scheduled at the end of the agenda so that members of the audience who have come to hear other agenda items are not unnecessarily delayed.

The council requires that correspondence from boards and commissions that request council action contain the actual motion voted by the agency and the numerical vote result.

Prayers Were Answered For Airplane Survivors

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Huddled in blankets and spare ski outfits against a blizzard, the 21 survivors of a commuter plane crash endured the night with prayer and mutual comfort inside the snow-covered aircraft shell.

The twin-engine Rocky Mountain Airways plane crashed near the summit of 10,500-foot Buffalo Pass in a blizzard Monday night, killing one person and injuring the other 21.

"I haven't done a whole lot of praying before, but I did last night," Joseph Garbina, 39, said. "We all huddled together in small groups. We used blankets, clothing, suitcases from the baggage compartment."

In addition to praying and offering self-care, the survivors helped care for an 8-month-old boy whose mother lay into unconsciousness. To protect themselves from the snow-whipped by 75 mph winds and 36-degree cold and wind-chill factor that dropped the temperature to minus 25, they blocked a hole in the fuselage with everything from seat cushions to a wedding dress.

The aircraft was on a 50-minute flight from the Steamboat Springs area to Denver Monday night when the pilot reported the wings had ice over and he intended to return to Steamboat Springs. Flying low because of the storm, the plane snagged on a 230,000-volt power line.

"The plane came down and seemed to tap a high tension wire. Some of the others said they saw sparks, but I didn't," said Garbina, a Bloomington, Minn., resident. "It snapped a wing off and we went down on the side."

The line remained intact, but the resulting brief power outage helped guide a rescue force on a snow-cast vehicle with tracks like an Army tank used to groom ski slopes — to the wreckage. Searchers forged through 5-foot snowdrifts to reach the site by mid-morning Tuesday, 15 hours after the crash.

"There was blood on the snow, blood on the clothing, there was blood everywhere," said Peter King, the first member of the medical team to reach the snow-covered aircraft.

"The cockpit was like a cracked eggshell."

The National Transportation Safety Board dispatched investigators to the site and a spokesman said the inquiry would center on whether passengers were alerted to the crash in time to prepare for the impact.

"When we got to the site, a few of the passengers were getting ready to start a fire. We found several of the passengers unconscious outside on the snow," said King.

Using a fleet of snowcats and seven ambulances, dozens of medical workers evacuated survivors to a first aid station, then to area hospitals.

Hospital Has Porta-tel

VERNON — The Emergency Department of Rockville General Hospital is now equipped with "Porta-tel" a telephone device for use with the deaf.

To use the system the deaf person must have a similar unit in his or her home. Some area individuals, businesses, and agencies have their own units and the system has its own phone directory of names and numbers.

By calling 872-2165, the deaf person will reach the hospital's Emergency Department directly. Tapping on the home phone's microphone will alert hospital personnel that this is a call from a deaf person and the Porta-tel system is put into operation.

The unit handles both incoming and outgoing calls. When a call is initiated by the hospital, the deaf person is alerted by a flashing light in the home.

DEP OK's Rham Permit

HEBRON — The Department of Environmental Protection has informed the town's Planning and Zoning Commission that it plans to issue a permit to the Regional District 8 Board of Education to discharge 10,595 gallons of effluent per day from the conditional septic tank leachfield system for the proposed Rham Junior High to the ground waters of the Town of Hebron.

The Planning and Zoning Commission was informed that the permit will be issued on the basis of a preliminary review done by staff members of DEP, subject to certain effluent limitations and other terms and conditions.

A public hearing on the proposed issuance of the permit is scheduled for Dec. 14 at 10 a.m. in Room 1 at 122 Washington St., Hartford. Anyone interested is invited to attend and participate. Written comments may be submitted for consideration before the hearing.

John Hibbard was recently re-elected chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission and Wilbur Dennis was re-elected to serve as secretary. David Marnicki, chairman of the Water Pollution Control Authority will serve as liaison to the commission.

The commission has also voted to reaffirm its action taken Oct. 24 to change the fees for subdivision proposals to a minimum of $50 with a charge of $25 per lot.

Variety of Ideas Heard For Using Vernon Grant

Francis Pitkat, executive director of the Housing Authority, asked the council to consider applying for funds to repair the walks and parking areas in Franklin Park East which is the town's oldest housing project for the elderly.

He also asked for funding to equip the addition to the community hall in the other portion of that project and $90,000 to buy land for future housing projects.

Pitkat said he was changing hats and he also put in a plea for the Rockville Public Health Nursing Association for funds to expand into larger quarters.

The public hearing was conducted by the Town Council. The Planning Commission held a similar hearing last Wednesday and many of the same suggestions were made.

John Kaminsky, a spokesman for the Village Street Neighborhood Association, said the Village Street area is one of the oldest and poorest sections of town.

Village Street is in the Rockville section which is the target area for the funding.

Kaminsky suggested that some of the money be used to set up a fund to help relocate poor people who live in condemned housing and don't have the means to find adequate housing.

He further suggested that $20,000 of funding be used to demolish four houses in the area that have been abandoned; that another $20,000 be used to upgrade the West Main Street playground with a new fence, more equipment, and a wading pool; that another $20,000 be used to buy land across from the playground to build a baseball field; and another $20,000 be used to buy three vacant lots on Village Street to build a parking lot for residents.

Recital at Church

Lappens Opens Bolton Store

After 86 years of service and four generations of experience Lappen's Fireside Center has opened a third store in Bolton.

The new store, located on Route 44A, features a complete selection of working fireplaces and wood and coal-burning stoves, along with a large selection of Glassfire Screens, energy saving devices and decorative accessories.

Lappen's Bolton store also includes a unique collector's corner of unusual gifts of brass and porcelain items that range from andirons to authentic old-fashioned toy banks. The Lappens' three stores, located in Hartford and Avon as well as Bolton, are managed by Seymour and Stan Lappen, the third and fourth generation, respectively. The family's business was started in 1892 in a small shop on the corner of Hartford's Main and Talcott streets by Seymour's grandfather, Israel Lappen.

New York Has Lloyds, But Will it Prosper

By LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) - New York soon may have its own counterpart to Lloyds of London but the insurance industry is divided over how successful the venture is likely to be. The Sentry Insurance group of Stevens Point, Wis., recently commissioned Mc Bain & Small, a New York research firm, to find out what insurance people really think about the proposal, which was authorized in a bill signed by Gov. Hugh Carey in July.

The bill created an insurance free trade zone in New York, which already is in operation, and authorized an insurance exchange modeled after the famous exchange built around Lloyds coffee house in London.

The survey found that 71 percent of the insurance people queried think the exchange is a good idea and 78 percent feel it would bring new capital into the business. Some 82 percent believe it would cut down on the large amount of American insurance premium dollars that go abroad to buy reinsurance in London and stem a noticeable loss of business by American insurance companies in the international markets.

There was considerable disagreement, however, over the business outlook for the proposed exchange. Some were dubious that it would generate a big volume. Others doubted if there is sufficient individual underwriting talent on this side of the Atlantic to operate a Lloyds type exchange where the representatives of syndicates of individual underwriters meet all day in close physical contact and work out instantaneously deals for insurance and reinsurance amounting to billions of dollars.

In the United States, by contrast, big underwriting operations are put together via telephone or teletype by widely scattered corporations and a few big individual investors.

J. Patton Kline, chairman of Marsh & McLennan, Inc., an insurance giant active in fostering the exchange, said assembling adequate underwriting talent presented no problem, but he said only actual operation can show how much new reinsurance and direct insurance business for American companies would be generated by the proposed exchange.

In a recent speech to an underwriters seminar in Houston, Kline hit on a theme that was echoed strongly in the answers to the Sentry

Phone Store Extends Time

MANCHESTER - Evening hours at the Phone Center Store, 52 East Center St., will be in effect for the Christmas season.

The extended hours will be until 7 p.m. on Thursdays, Dec. 7, 14 and 21. Paula Kraiger, local manager for Southern New England Telephone, said the extended hours will enable shoppers to more conveniently conduct their phone business with the store.

Restaurants Limit Smoking

The Bonanza Restaurant and the Ponderosa Restaurant, both on Spencer Street in Manchester and Rein's Deli on Hartford Turnpike in Vernon, are among 30 Connecticut restaurants currently offering non-smoking dining sections.

Restaurants on the list range from fast food to family and formal dining facilities.

The Connecticut Lung Association said that 10 restaurants have added non-smoking sections in the past year. The updated list was compiled by Janet Riberty of Vernon, a volunteer with the association and secretary of its Board of Directors.

Also included on the list is the Red Lobster Inn of America, with one located on 922 Silver Lane in East Hartford.

Davidson Honored

Phillip T. Davidson, president of D&L Stores Inc., New Britain, will receive the Independent Retailer of the Year Award to be given Jan. 16, by the National Retail Merchants Association (NRMA). The presentation will be made during the NRMA's 6th Annual Convention at the New York Hilton Hotel.

"The inventiveness essential to sustaining momentum and growth in independent retailing is exemplified by Phillip Davidson's D&L stores and subsidiaries," said James R. Williams, president of NRMA. "This award also recognizes Mr. Davidson's willingness to share his successful techniques with others through NRMA," he added.

Davidson, an NRMA director, serves on the association's government and legal affairs and national economic committees. He has also been an NRMA state director and a regional vice president.

His company, founded as The Fair in 1912, is now comprised of eight D&L Stores for family fashions; 30 Weatherwaves for junior apparel; and two Sandpapers for contemporary misses' clothing. The stores are located in the Northeast and North Carolina.

Davidson is a past president of the New Britain Chamber of Commerce and a former economic advisor to the city's mayor. He is a director and chairman of the executive committee of the New Britain Bank and Trust Company.

Worker Honored
Jerry Desmarais, right, a 20-year employee in the kitchen of Cavey's Restaurant, East Center St., was honored Thursday night by the restaurant's operator, Steve Cavagnero, left. Desmarais was presented a watch for his 20 years of service.

Coin Club Plans Show

MANCHESTER - The Manchester Coin Club will hold a coin show Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 138 Main St. Admission is free and the public is invited.

There will be 24 dealers from Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York for buying, selling, trading and appraising coins and currency.

Club members will exhibit U.S. coins and currency. There will also be an exhibit of the last of the two dollar "United States Note," commonly known as the two dollar bill, with the photo of Thomas Jefferson on the obverse and a picture of Monticello on the reverse.

The exhibits will also include a large display of philatelic numismatic covers. Some of these covers were made and hand painted by one of the club members. Two of these philatelic numismatic covers won a first prize plaque last August at the American Numismatic Association's convention in Houston, Texas.

A featured exhibit will be a complete set of Christmas Seals from the first one until the most recent edition.

Trophies will be awarded to the prize-winning exhibitors.

Nuclear Plant Gets State OK

HARTFORD (UPI) - United Illuminating, the state's second largest utility, has tentatively been given the green light to invest $604 million in nuclear power plant construction over the next eight years.

More than 62 percent of U.I.'s investment would be spent on the controversial Seabrook, N.H. power plant now under construction.

The Public Utilities Control Authority, which is hearing U.I.'s request for a $28.8 million rate hike, gave tentative approval to the utility's construction program Tuesday.

Three of the commission's five members voted to "reluctantly approve" the program and suggested U.I. re-evaluate its investment in various nuclear generating facilities.

U.I., which has a 20 percent investment in Seabrook's construction, already has spent $125 million on the New Hampshire power plant. It serves 274,000 customers in 17 towns in the New Haven and Bridgeport areas.

If the request is approved, rates would rise by about 15 percent. The average consumer's bill would increase by about $3.50 a month.

Although the construction plan was approved, the commission said costs have been rising on the Seabrook project and "the economic impact of unfettered plant expansion on ratepayers cannot and will not be ignored."

Commissioner Paul Weiner abstained from the vote after he withdrew his motion calling for U.I. to divert its entire investment in Seabrook "within a reasonable amount of time."

Commissioner Thomas Standish voted against the construction plan because U.I. failed to prove Seabrook was a sound investment. Standish also said an efficient conservation program by U.I. "would obviate the need for this plant."

Harrington said the company must be allowed some flexibility and he was against sending U.I.'s investment "down the drain."

During the two months of hearings in the case, U.I. said its investment in Seabrook was necessary to accommodate projections of increased consumption of electricity while at the same time lessening its reliance on oil, which is now at $2 per barrel.

Weiner said U.I.'s plans to invest an additional $378 million on nuclear production plants would place "an undue and unjust burden on rate consumers in Connecticut."

He said original cost estimates for Seabrook over four years "have jumped by 400 percent. This staggers the imagination when compared to the fact that inflation has increased only 30 percent over the past three years."

He said U.I. has no way to control labor costs and the utility should act now "to cut its losses."

But, said Harrington, U.I. was committed to a nuclear program and "should be allowed the flexibility to extricate themselves without taking a bath."

"Voting with Harrington were Commissioners Miriam Butterworth and Gerald McCann.

PUCA Freshman Isn't Convinced

HARTFORD (UPI) - The newest member of Connecticut's utility regulator isn't convinced nuclear power is the cheapest or safest path for the state's future energy needs.

In fact, Paul Weiner believes the consumer is caught between the wiles of the oil industry and the rush by utilities to nuclear energy, no matter what the cost.

Weiner, a University of Connecticut economist who joined the state Public Utilities Control Authority last June, says the state continues its heavy reliance on nuclear energy, it will eventually cost consumers more than fossil fuels.

Weiner, 52, was named to the five-member commission to fill the unexpired term of Albert Kleban which ends in June 1980.

In an interview Tuesday, Weiner said there has been so much confusion over oil embargoes, foreign imports and the status of domestic supplies that alternative power sources such as solar energy have not been given full consideration.

Also being overlooked are conservation programs, the full use of existing energy pools, the excess capacity already available at Connecticut's three nuclear power sites and more efficient use of oil-fired plants, he said.

Weiner, an analyst who presents his arguments in a steady, low-key style, believes the oil industry "has undue influence over the government." He cites President Carter's energy program "a very weak" attempt to solve growing energy problems.

Carter "backed down to all the pressures of the vested interest groups and his energy program" does not represent the majority of the American public," he said.

Weiner said he favors rationing of fuel oil and gasoline applies as one positive step toward solving the energy crisis. And he believes Americans would accept that conservation measure.

"But it would not be anything like World War II. Consumers would only have to do with about 5 percent less than they now use and there would be enough for everyone," he said.

Weiner believes consumers eventually will be paying more for nuclear power as the state continues its heavy reliance on it. He sees nuclear suppliers of uranium eventually holding power companies hostage, as they advance to a no-return stage of nuclear dependency.

As for potential safety dangers, Weiner said if a major nuclear accident occurred somewhere in the country, "Connecticut would be in deep trouble" because the Nuclear Regulatory Commission would probably order a nationwide shutdown of nuclear facilities as a precaution.

About half of Connecticut's electricity is generated by the state's three nuclear power plants.

Building Permits Tallied

MANCHESTER - The town's Building Department issued 115 building permits during the month of November. The estimated cost of the projects issued permits is $794,542, according to the department's monthly report.

Most of the permits, 84, were issued for alterations and additions to existing structures.

Permits also were issued during November for the following projects: single-family homes, five; garages, two; miscellaneous, six; swimming pool, one; fences, five; food sheds, five; signs, seven.

The department also issued three affidavits, 28 certificates of occupancy, 41 electrical permits, 18 plumbing permits and 16 heating permits.

Heart Drive Needs Help

MANCHESTER - Volunteers from the Heart Association will be telephoning for volunteers. Anyone who can help continue the fight against heart disease by becoming a Heart Days volunteer, is asked to contact the American Heart Association of Greater Hartford Inc., at 310 Collins St., Hartford, or call 522-4155 or 623-5545.

"But it would not be anything like World War II. Consumers would only have to do with about 5 percent less than they now use and there would be enough for everyone," he said.

Weiner believes consumers eventually will be paying more for nuclear power as the state continues its heavy reliance on it. He sees nuclear suppliers of uranium eventually holding power companies hostage, as they advance to a no-return stage of nuclear dependency.

As for potential safety dangers, Weiner said if a major nuclear accident occurred somewhere in the country, "Connecticut would be in deep trouble" because the Nuclear Regulatory Commission would probably order a nationwide shutdown of nuclear facilities as a precaution.

About half of Connecticut's electricity is generated by the state's three nuclear power plants.

Although nuclear power plants have been on the scene for only a couple of decades, experts predict the average life of a plant is only about 40 years.

The cost of shutting down a nuclear plant once it becomes too old will be an expensive proposition.

Weiner is concerned that utilities will be asking their customers to pick up the tab long before the plants shut down. "These costs could become equal or greater than the costs of building a nuclear plant," he said.

Hebron Sends Tax Bills

HEBRON - All Hebron residents who brought and registered a motor vehicle between Oct. 2, 1977 and June 30, 1978, will receive a tax bill for that vehicle within the next few days.

This tax is the result of new state legislation, passed by the General Assembly in 1976. Before this law, only vehicles registered in a town or city on the October 1 assessment date were taxable.

However, under the new legislation, a motor vehicle registered between Oct. 2 and June 30 will be taxed as though it had been assessed on the Oct. 1 Grand List. For vehicles registered after Feb. 15 but before July 1, the tax will be based on 50 percent of that Oct. 1 assessment.

The assessor's office is open 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Monday through Friday and Mondays from 7 to 9 p.m. The tax collector's office is open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Monday through Friday and Mondays from 7 to 9 p.m. The assessor or the tax collector may be contacted by phone by calling 228-9406.

Maine Losing Timber

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) - Maine's conservation committee says the state faces a potential $30 million loss in timber unless it sprays more than 3 million acres of spruce and fir against spruce budworm infestations next year.

"We simply cannot afford to lose three million cords of spruce and fir at a time when we are enjoying the benefits of significant timber expansions and when it appears that our annual harvests are approaching the annual allowable cut," Richard Barringer told a public hearing Tuesday.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

He's Hooked On a Fish

DEAR ABBY: Most husbands carry pictures of their wives and children in their wallets. Not my Ralph. He carries pictures of himself with the blue marlin he caught. He had this 600-pound monster mounted, expecting to hang it over the mantle in our living room, but I put my foot down and told him he could hang it in the amusement room in our basement, but only if I was going to have that ugly thing in our living room. He's hooked for about a week, but I refused to give in, so now it's hanging in our basement.

Ralph still nags me about how unfair I am. Finally, he said: "Write to Dear Abby and let her settle it!" So I'm asking you: Where does that blue marlin belong?

RALPH'S WIFE IN FLORIDA

DEAR WIFE: Now that you ask, I find mounted specimens of ANY of God's creatures, outside of museums, delectable, killing for food is one thing. Killing for sport - sorry, I don't see it.

DEAR ABBY: Our 20-year-old son has just told us that he must quickly marry the little girl with whom he has gone steadily since junior high school. She is 19. Both are in college and hope to graduate.

Abby, the girl is really a sweet child, and she has adorned our son for years. He was her first (and only) love, and she was his.

Since the wedding plans have come up so suddenly, everyone suspects it is a "have-to" marriage. I am not going to deny it and look foolish three months from now.

What do I say when people congratulate me and kindly call me "Grandma"? Some have even tried to "comfort" me with the stories of how things had "have-to" marriages in their families and things have worked out well.

Please help me.

NEARLY A GRANDMA

DEAR NEARLY: To all congratulations, say "Thank you." There is no such thing as a "have-to" marriage. Every day, pregnant girls are being deserted by bums who refuse to accept the responsibilities of married life and a baby. No law in the land can force a man to marry a girl. If he marries her, it's because he WANTS to, not because he HAS to, so hold your head up, Grandma.

DEAR ABBY: Although I don't attend church regularly, I believe in my religion and I'm satisfied with it.

What should I tell strangers who come to my door, invite themselves in and sit down to discuss religion with me? I don't know the Bible as well as they do and I'm not able to defend myself against their arguments when they start comparing their religion to mine, and insisting that theirs is the only true religion. They go on and on. I don't want to be rude, so I buy their magazine just to get them out of the house. These missionaries keep coming back. How can I discourage their visits? I am sure others would appreciate knowing how to handle this problem.

"I ALREADY BELIEVE"

DEAR ABBY: After they have introduced themselves and stated their mission, tell them politely but firmly that you are satisfied with your religion and don't want to take up your valuable time. Tell them that you are with the "God bless you, and have a nice day."

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (25 cent), self-addressed envelope, please.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about my husband's behavior. He has been very distant and uncommunicative lately. I'm not sure if he's just going through a rough patch or if there's something more serious going on. Can you help me understand what's going on?

DEAR ABBY: I've been thinking about my future and I'm not sure I'm ready to get married. I've dated a few guys, but none of them seem to be the one. Can you give me some advice on how to find the right person?

DEAR ABBY: I've been feeling really sad lately and I don't know why. I've been thinking about my life and I'm not sure I'm happy. Can you help me figure out what's wrong?

Broad Spectrum Due For 1979 Calendars

By United Press International
Whether you buy calendars or get them free, the spectrum of 1979 issues is the broadest ever, ranging from Old Masters to young misses.

About $350 million worth of calendars will be distributed gratis this year, according to a UPI survey of industry sources. This represents a 10 per cent increase over 1978. Five years ago, only $174 million worth of calendars were given away by the likes of insurance companies, other businesses, banks and mortuaries, an indication of soaring demand teamed with soaring printing costs.

In spite of the freebies, which represent about 80 percent of calendars printed, sales of store-bought ones are as much as 20 percent higher than last year.

Giveaways tend to be 12-picture wall calendars. Shops offer a wide variety of desk, pocket, novelty book, and even kitchen towel calendars.

Prices for store-bought calendars range from $1 to $5 for the gift box type. Freebies can cost distributors even more, up to $6 or $7 for fine art reproduction issues that are limited to very select clients. But most free calendars come in under 50 cents.

Calendar art sticks to tried, dignified themes. A rigue calendar is hard to find. As Hallmark Cards calendar product manager John Jacobs put it:

"Calendars that interest people most are ones that deal with long-established values and customs. Almost 10 per cent of our calendars are religious by nature. Another 10 per cent deal with cooking and crafts. Twelve per cent feature scenes from nature. There are humorous, recreational, juvenile, and just cute types of calendars."

At one end of the spectrum is the magnificent annual art calendar of America Hoechst Corp. The 1979 version pictures masterpieces in Australian museums. The cover reproduces a portrait of a noblewoman by Sir John Reynolds.

At the other end is the last of the pimp girl calendars, the 4th annual issue of Rigid Tool Co. Its cover features 11 Miss Rigid Tools in provocative but wholesome poses.

Christmas Surprises

Patients who will be in Manchester Memorial Hospital on Christmas will have their day made a little brighter when they see their dinner trays arrive decorated with favors made by members of Brownie Troop 620. Shown working on some of the favors are, left to right, Patty Robinson, Wendy Smith, Kerry Luoma, and Kristen Bassos. The girls are students at the Keeney Street School in Grade 2. The favors are in the form of candy canes and wreaths made out of beads. The Brownies will deliver the favors on Dec. 11 and at the same time will have a tour of the hospital. Their leaders are Mrs. Patricia Luoma and Mrs. Marilyn Bassos. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Second Year Nearing End For VERSA

VERNON — December 12 will mark the second anniversary of VERSA, the Vernon Citizens Band Emergency Radio Service Association Inc.

Although primarily a Vernon organization, working closely with the Vernon Police Department, the association's members also come from Ellington and Tolland.

All of the men and women belonging to the group are Citizens Band radio operators licensed by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC.)

The group is also licensed as an association and is strictly a non-profit organization dedicated to giving assistance to persons needing help in almost any kind of emergency in almost any kind of emergency.

During its first year of operation VERSA members responded to 5,475 incidents of various kinds and George Prouty Sr., one of the leaders of the group, said statistics gathered thus far this year indicate that this number will be exceeded.

Besides offering all kinds of emergency assistance, VERSA members also work with the Vernon Police Department in crime prevention activities and have a mobile team that can be called out on short notice to assist police in such tasks as searching for missing persons or the investigation of suspicious activity of any kind.

With 30 base stations and more than 50 mobile units manned by experienced operators VERSA renders a community service second to none in the emergency communications field in the state of Connecticut, Prouty said.

"The group is prepared with emergency power to help those in distress under all conditions. Having no national affiliation VERSA is strictly devoted to the Tri-Town area, Prouty said.

Applications for membership in VERSA may be obtained from Vernon Police headquarters located on Vest Street.

Money Sold at Discount

CINCINNATI (UPI) — It wasn't exactly free money, but it sounded like a pretty good deal. Money was being sold at a 20 percent discount.

Newspaper advertisements said $100 bills would be sold for $80, and smaller bills also discounted 20 percent, in a promotional stunt Sunday designed to attract Christmas shoppers to the Western Hills Plaza shopping center.

Although the ads did say only one bill per customer, they did not say that the $10,000 sale would include only 20 of the obviously highly sought-after $100 bills.

Many of the 700 people — some of whom had waited in line three hours in the rain — were angered when they found out that more than half of the $100 bills in the sale were only $1 and $2 bills.

Amid the boos and obscenities, one woman threw a cup of coffee at a woman selling bills after the $100 bills were gone and security guards said a man "started raising a lot of heck."

Plaza promotion director Jack Richmond, after things finally quieted down, said, "I look abuse that I never took in my life. I was just thankful we got through it without a free-for-all."

"... If this is over done again, it won't be me doing it."

While the stunt originally was designed to drum up goodwill for the shopping center, some unhappy people left threatening to boycott the stores.

Bolton School Fate Subject of Meeting

BOLTON — The second of a series of public forums on the future of the Bolton Schools will be sponsored Thursday by the Board of Education, and an update of enrollment projections.

Santa's Elves Present GIFTS FROM THE KITCHEN

The holidays find everyone including Santa's elves cooking up ideas for unique Christmas gifts. Whether it's cookies for friends to munch on or something gourmet for the holiday hostess, a gift from the kitchen is always well received.

Thumbprint Cookies

1 cup corn oil margarine 2 1/2 cups unsifted flour
1/2 cup sugar 2 cups finely chopped walnuts
1/2 cup dark corn syrup Tart jam or jelly
2 eggs, separated

In large bowl with mixer at medium speed beat margarine and sugar. Beat in corn syrup and egg yolks until well mixed. Stir in flour. Chill 30 minutes or until firm enough to handle. Roll into 1-inch balls. Dip into slightly beaten egg white. Roll in nuts. Place 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. With thumb make indentation in center of each cookie. Bake in 325 F oven 20 minutes or until golden. Remove from oven. While still warm fill with a small amount of jam. Makes about 4 dozen.

Chocolate Dipped Fruits

4 squares (1 oz. each) semisweet chocolate
4 squares (1 oz. each) unsweetened chocolate
1/4 cup corn oil margarine Assorted dried fruits
1/4 cup light corn syrup Strawberries

In 1-quart saucepan heat chocolate, margarine and corn syrup over very low heat until melted; stir until smooth. Remove from heat; beat with wooden spoon until cool but still pourable. Using two forks dip fruit halfway into chocolate. Place on waxed paper. Refrigerate overnight. Store in one layer in tightly covered container in refrigerator. Makes 1 1/2 cups coating. Note: Recipe may be halved.

Christmas Tree Bread

2 eggs, lightly beaten 1/2 cup warm water (105-115 F)
8 cups unsifted flour (about) 2 envelopes active dry yeast
Fruit Nut Filling (recipe follows) 2 cups milk, scalded
Red and green candied cherries, drained 2 teaspoons salt
1 tube (8 oz.) white decorator frosting 1/2 cup sugar

Apricot glaze (recipe follows) 1/2 cup corn oil margarine
In large bowl with mixer at medium speed beat margarine, sugar and salt. Add milk, beating until margarine is melted. Sprinkle yeast over water, stir until dissolved. Add to margarine mixture with eggs. With mixer at low speed add 4 cups of the flour, 1 cup at a time, beating until well mixed. Stir in remaining flour with wooden spoon. On lightly floured surface knead 8 to 10 minutes or until smooth and elastic. Place dough in greased bowl, turn to grease top. Cover with towel; let rise in warm place 2 hours or until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough; form into ball; cut into quarters. Set 2 quarters aside; cover with towel. Use reserved quarters to make 2 Fruit Nut Loaves. On lightly floured surface roll out one quarter into rectangle 15 x 12 inches. Cut into 2 triangles each with a base of 10 inches, a height of 12 inches and 15-inch sides. Place one triangle on large greased cookie sheet. Reshape into triangle if necessary. Spread 1 cup of Fruit Nut Filling over dough on cookie sheet to within 1/2-inch of edge; moisten edges with water. Place second dough triangle over fruit filled one pressing to seal edges. Roll out second quarter of dough to 1/2-inch thickness. With 2 1/2-inch doughnut cutter cut 17 circles; remove centers. Overlap cut circles on tree triangle. Roll out scraps of dough to 1/2-inch thickness; cut 12-inch square. Place in center of base of triangle to form "trunk" of tree. Cut 1 (3-inch) star; place on top of tree. Cover; allow to rise in warm place 1 hour or until almost doubled in bulk. Bake in 350 F oven 25 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oven. Place cherries in center of circles. While warm, brush lightly with Glaze. Decorate tree with decorator frosting. Makes 1 tree and 2 loaves.

Fruit Nut Filling: In small saucepan stir together 1 1/2 cups light corn syrup, 1/2 cup chopped mixed candied fruit and 1 1/2 cups sliced almonds. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 2 minutes. Cool. Makes 3 cups.

Apricot Glaze: In small saucepan stir together 1/2 cup light corn syrup and 1/2 cup apricot preserves. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Makes 1 cup.

Fruit Nut Loaves: Grease 2 (8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 inch) loaf pans. Roll out each quarter of reserved dough into 15x9-inch rectangle. Spread 1 cup of Fruit Nut Filling over each rectangle of dough to within 1/2-inch of edge, roll each rectangle up from short side. Press ends to seal; fold ends under; place seam side down into prepared pan. Cover; let rise about 1 hour or until doubled. Bake in 350 F oven 40 to 45 minutes or until bread sounds hollow when tapped. Remove from oven. While still warm, brush with Apricot glaze. Makes 2 loaves.

Keeping Grapes on The Right Track

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA) — To take the grape from vine to wine requires a skilled chronologist. But more than that you need someone who knows what means "enologist."

Mary Ann Graf: "Wines can spoil a lot of different ways."

Gray and brown haired, 36, makeup-less and resembling a disillusioned philosophy major until she smiles, Ms. Graf earned enology at the University of California. "I was majoring in food sciences—the development and preservation of food—until I took a course called Introduction to Wine Appreciation," she said, near collapse one morning in a Pasadena hotel. Fatiguing promotion tours are part of her job.

"I knew research wasn't for me and enology was something I could specialize in," she continued. In other words, she thought she could get a job later on. So she paid attention to the school's marketing, plant and animal science, and wine appreciation. "I was not only responsible for supervising the cellar workers who pump the wine from the hose from one place to another, he's responsible for the wine's soundness. If he leaves a tank empty with no protection, for example, it will become moldy."

At the least, then, the bouquet of any wine you store in that tank will recall the Jersey swamps. That can happen, too, if the fermenting grapes are too warm or too cold or if the wine sits on sediment that shouldn't be there. Winemaking can be one enologist plays watch the Simi's red grape varieties — the Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinot Noir and Pinot Noir — are put to rest in open redwood tanks for seven to 10 days. "Redwood" because it's neutral and doesn't influence the flavor of the grape as oak does.

And the reward for her vigilance and aggravation? "Recognition," she said. Hearing the consumer or the connoisseur she respects say, "Ms. Graf, that was one bottle of wine you made."

That's worth working seven days a week, 12 hours a day during harvest. And 5 a.m. to 5 p.m. the rest of the year including wine-tasting on weekends "to educate people about our wines."

At night, home in the new home she's landscaping, she can lay back and read "Sherlock Holmes," scan a Mexican or French cookbook, fix a dish or two — with wine — and savor it with a glass of her own or some other enologist's.

And laugh about pretentious wine drinkers who make a sip and say things like, "Um, aggressive without being assertive."

If she can get the bottles, she's at her best physically, she's in the fermenting room, how much they've fermented, how much the temperature has varied.

When she says go, the juice moves to the cellar's 2,000 oak barrels which hold 600 gallons of wine and sop up the flavor of the oak.

"I also taste the wine that's aging to see what level it has acquired," she said, and I determine when it's bottled. Most of our white wines are bottled in September and bottled in April or May. Red wines are generally bottled two years after production."

"We're having tremendous problems getting glass," she said. "Last year was really critical. We were bottling '79 Cabernet Sauvignon this summer and couldn't finish until November which was in September. Until we got bottles we had to keep that wine in redwood (neutral) storage tanks which could have been used to make new different forms of dizziness and causes which can occur. As you will see, it is not a simple problem. I'm concerned about your story of taking thyroid. If your letter is correct, and you are taking five grains of thyroid a day, that is an enormous amount. Usually the most a person needs even without a thyroid gland at all is about three-and-a-half grains. Most people with low-thyroid disorders do very well on two or three grains a day.

If you happen to be taking an excessive amount of thyroid, that could contribute to your nervousness and dizziness. Also, I hate to see you become habituated to Valium.

Send your request to me in care of The Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. I will explain to you the different things. If you have a true lase sense of motion, it is called vertigo. That is usually associated with the balance canal system in the ear, or circulation to the brain or ears. A lot of other people have dizziness which is really an onset of fainting.

The respiratory infection you had may have caused inflammation of the balance canals in your ears. In that case, the condition is usually self limited and will disappear in time. We call it labyrinthitis. Antivert and other anti-motion sickness type medicines are commonly used in the treatment of such disorders.

If you are continuing to have dizzy spells, ask your doctor to refer you to a neurologist. If you were below 50 years of age, then I might suggest that you see an ear, nose and throat specialist first. There is no rule that the balance canals everyone, but older people more often have dizziness from problems related to circulation to the brain or ear. Younger people are more likely to have a problem in the ear itself.

At any rate, I am sure you will have a Christmas dinner Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the church library.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Suddenly I developed dizziness. I noticed it first after having a sinus head cold. The dizziness was particularly bad when I went to bed at night. My head would just swim around. When I'd get up from lying down, I would still sit for several minutes before I started to walk, or I'd walk sideways.

Beat The Bureaucracy

Grants, of course, are even better than loans for financing a college education, since they don't have to be repaid. Grants are also a bit more difficult to obtain. But they are not as hard to get as many students and their parents think.

Fix It

The sounds of a slapping, banging window shade gene work are enough to scare the daylight out of anyone. A shade that won't go up or down the way it should is a thorough nuisance.

THEN and NOW

THEN: The 19th century was one of amazingly important breakthroughs. The pony express established communications across the 3,000 mile wide continent in 1860 by making the final connection between St. Joseph, Missouri and San Francisco in a mere 240 hours; then the east and west coasts were linked by a transcontinental telegraph line in 1861, making it possible to relay a telegram across the country in only two hours.

LATER: The early part of the 20th century saw another breakthrough. The relics from the crypt of Egyptian Pharaoh Tutankhamun were men for the first time in over 3,000 years - relics that make up the award-winning "King Tut" art exhibit currently touring the United States.

NOW: Not only kings can cross the country with ease. Telephones do it today in seconds, and satellites beam live television pictures across oceans. Merit cigarette's new book, Breakthrough, is getting around quickly, too. This hardcover book features headline stories of great human achievements from 1851 to 1976. It's available free during the month of August in special store displays with the purchase of a carton of Merit, known for its breakthrough in cigarette taste technology.

VA News

Q — Can a service-disabled veteran receiving compensation get additional payment for a spouse in need of aid and attendance?

A — In lieu of the additional compensation a disabled veteran rated 30 percent or more is entitled to receive for a spouse, the veteran may elect to receive a special allowance for a spouse who is in need of the aid and attendance of another person.

Q — Can a veteran make more than one change in an educational program approved for GI Bill benefits?

A — Any change of an educational program beyond the first change could necessitate mandatory VA counseling. Consult VA for assistance.

Q — Where may a veteran go to seek a VA guaranteed home loan?

A — The veteran may go to places one normally would go for real estate financing, such as mortgage companies, savings and loan associations and banks. Most financial institutions are familiar with details of the VA loan program.

Q — Is a prescribed VA Form necessary when making a change of beneficiary on government life insurance?

A — Beneficiary designations are best submitted on VA Form 28-336, available at any VA office. However, any written request over the insured's signature, received by the VA during the insured's lifetime, will accomplish a change of designation.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Kim Evan Hunt to Timothy David Shaw, both of Portland, has been announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm L. Hunt of 59 Crestwood Drive, Tolland.

On Second Thought

By Jan Warren

Cooking Without Gas

Someday my husband will probably earn a medal for energy conservation.

His automatic reaction to anything that uses electricity or gas is to turn it off. He turns off lights, air conditioners, irons and coffee pots with fanatic regularity.

"We all applaud your efforts at energy conservation," I said to him last night when his knob-turning delayed dinner for 30 minutes.

"But, when you start turning off my stove you are carrying this thing too far."

"I'm sorry about dinner," said my husband. "But when I went out in the kitchen, pots were boiling and smoking and no one was supervising."

"I thought you'd forgotten them. Sometimes you do forget and leave the stove on," he reminded me.

"Once! The time I left the tea kettle on when we went to Florida. But that was 10 years ago and besides we're not talking about me, we're talking about you."

"It's a simple Pavlovian response," explained our daughter Kate who is studying psychology.

"When Dad sees something plugged into an energy source, he has an uncontrollable urge to plug it out."

"Hump!" said my husband. "If a few more people around here were like Pavlovian our utility bill would be a lot lower and our country's energy supply would be a lot higher."

At the time you are using energy, by the time you reach middle age, you'll be back to rubbing two sticks together.

John raised the question of the energy bill just passed by Congress and he and my husband proceeded to pick the bill apart. It was a high level and stimulating discussion. But it didn't do anything toward solving the problem in our household.

"Let's get back to the real issue," I said. "How do we keep your father from turning off the stove while dinner is cooking?"

The energy experts at the table were temporarily stumped.

Finally Kate came up with an answer. "Pavlov would suggest negative reinforcement. It's very simple. Every time Dad turns off the stove and looks up supper, we make him take us to a restaurant."

What's the difference between being robbed and being burglarized? Between libel and slander? Between a warranty and a guarantee?

In today's law-minded society, legal terms are being used — and misused — more often than ever. Here (allowing for the local variation) are some basic distinctions:

Burglary vs. Robbery: Burglary does not require a threat of personal violence. Robbery does.

The intruder who steals something from your house while you are away is a burglar. If you are at home and threatened, he is a robber.

Slander vs. Libel: Slander is spoken; libel is written. Slander is traditionally less serious because "the spoken word dissolves, but the written word abides."

However, modern inventions are blurring the difference. A lie spoken on TV may be far more hurtful than a lie written on a postcard.

The all-purpose word, covering both slander and libel, is defamation.

Summons vs. Subpoena: A summons orders a defendant to appear in court. A subpoena orders a witness to appear in court.

Crime vs. Tort: A crime is wrong against society. A tort is a wrong against an individual, entitling him to damages. It is a crime to drive while drunk, even if you don't hit anybody. If you do, it becomes a tort as well.

Residence vs. Domicile: Your residence is where you live right now. Your domicile is where you live and intend to remain.

Murder vs. Homicide: Murder is the malicious and unlawful killing of one person by another. Homicide is any killing, lawful or not. Killing is self defense, though lawful, is still homicide.

Adultery vs. Deposition: An affidavit is a sworn statement made voluntarily, with no cross-examination. A deposition is a sworn statement made by court order, subject to cross-examination.

Warranty vs. Guarantee: In everyday consumer law, there is no difference at all.
