

Legislators Favor Tough Sentences

By ANDREW NIBLEY
HARTFORD (UPI) — The 1979 Legislature would like to get tough with criminals and legalize gambling, but apparently isn't interested in some issues that have haunted the Capitol for years, a UPI survey shows.
 UPI recently gave newly elected legislators a list of 20 potential issues and asked them to rate their significance. The lawmakers were also asked to indicate their positions on the issues.
 There are 187 representatives in the Connecticut Legislature. UPI's survey received responses from 115 of them.
 The issue that received the most one-sided response was fixed sentences for habitual criminals.
 Eighty-three of the lawmakers who responded to the survey favored predetermined sentences for chronic criminals, while only 9 percent opposed the idea. The rest were undecided.
 The legislators also rated fixed sentences for habitual criminals as the second most important issue confronting the Legislature. Only finding a constitutional cure for Connecticut's education funding problems was given a higher priority.

 On a related issue, 81 percent of the legislators felt the state should pick judges on the basis of merit, rather than through the traditional political patronage process. Only 12 percent opposed merit selection.
 The 1979 Legislature also appears ready to take a closer look at legalized gambling in Connecticut.
 Eighty per cent of the legislators said they favor a moratorium on new gaming facilities in the state, while only 16 percent were against the idea.
 At the same time, 76 percent of those who responded to the survey favored a state financed study of the gambling industry which now includes three jai alai frontons and a dog track.
 While the incoming legislators appear inclined to approve the gaming and crime proposals rejected by previous Legislatures, they have apparently tired of some other issues that have been hanging around the Capitol for years.
 Fifty-one percent of the lawmakers said they weren't interested in passing another "blue" law. Only 38 percent said they were ready to adopt a new Sunday closing law to replace the one that was recently declared unconstitutional.

 The survey also showed that 50 percent of the lawmakers opposed putting a moratorium on the construction of new nuclear power plants — an issue that has surfaced repeatedly in past Legislatures. Thirty-eight percent favored the moratorium.
 Gun control, another old issue, was opposed by 48 percent. Only 36 percent wanted stricter state regulation of guns.
 The rule on open-front seats has not been a big problem in service stations, office buildings or other public places. But it has been for homeowners, especially in towns where regulation-conscious building inspectors go by the book, because most toilet seats made for the home are oval.
 The Legislative Regulations Review Committee is expected officially to repeal the regulation next Tuesday.

Toilet Law Repeal Due
HARTFORD (UPI) — In Connecticut, it's illegal to sit on a toilet seat that isn't horseshoe-shaped. You can be fined up to $100.
 It's been that way since 1939 when the state decided all toilet seats — in the home and on the road — should have an opening in the front.
 That was the year World War II broke out. It was also a time when many people still believed you could catch venereal disease from toilet seats.
 Consequently, Connecticut passed a regulation outlawing one-piece, oval toilet seats and imposed a maximum $100 fine on violators. It is believed to be the only

Squirrel Scars

To cope with the problem of power outages caused by squirrels, the New England Utilities came up with the idea of 18-inch styrofoam owls. The owls, a natural enemy of squirrels, were purchased for $6 each from a company in South Dakota. The owls were placed atop two substations buildings in Weymouth, Mass., two months ago and since then there have been no squirrel-caused power failures or traces of squirrels in the area. Steel Lack Delays Coliseum Reopening

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Hartford Civic Center Coliseum reopening may be delayed because of difficulties in obtaining steel for the $27.5 million reconstruction project, city officials report.
 City Manager John A. Sulik and construction manager Albert Daley Thursday said the delays could jeopardize the extremely tight timetable to re-open the coliseum on Jan. 1, 1980.
 The coliseum roof caved in Jan. 18 under tons of snow and slush.
 Sulik and Daley said they couldn't estimate whether the steel shipment lag would throw the project behind schedule.
 Daley, an employee of the George A. Fuller Construction Co., said the problems stemmed from the steel handlers' strike and steel mills not meeting production deadlines.
 He said the strike has forced the roof contractors, Karl Koch Erecting Co. of Carteret, N.J., to switch from trucks to rail in transporting steel from Bethlehem, Pa. and Sparrows Point, Md. to its fabricating plant.
 Trucks could make the interstate trip in a day, while the rail route takes two weeks, Daley said.

MYSTIC (UPI) — Three rarely exhibited Commerson's dolphins exhibited Friday when they were brought into the country illegally from Argentina have a new home at the Mystic MarineLife Aquarium.

Aquarium spokeswoman Laura Keizer said Friday the dolphins were confiscated at John F. Kennedy Airport in New York by the U.S. Department of Commerce's National Marine Fisheries Division.

She said the aquarium plans to petition the government for permanent custody of the mammals, "which rarely, if ever, have been exhibited in the United States."

Federal agents learned of the dolphins late Thursday after the "pilot of an Argentinian charter plane routinely radioed into the Port Authority and listed four live dolphins as part of his cargo," Ms. Keizer said.

Band Plays On
NEW LONDON (UPI) — Sunday's holiday performance by the Coast Guard Band may be the last of its free public performances unless attendance improves, Coast Guard Academy officials said.

Academy spokesman Lt. George Whiting said "only 100 people" showed up at the band's last performance.
 In the past, it was standing room only when visitors packed the academy's 1,500-seat auditorium to hear the band play during the summer and winter performances.

Whiting said apparent waning interest and resulting increased expense means the concerts may have to be dropped.
 Coast Guard plans to move the 45-member band to Washington two years ago were scuttled after area residents wrote to Coast Guard officials protesting the move.

Local Coast Guard officials hope the band's rendition of holiday works, a Christmas carol singalong, and traditional folk songs this Sunday will spark new interest among area residents.

Suspect Captured

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Police said Friday night they captured Reginald Jones, Jr., a street gang member known as "Sunshine" who was sought in the fatal shooting of a New Haven high school teacher.

Police said they arrested Jones, of New Haven, about 7:30 p.m. at a two-family home on State Street in Hamden. They said he was in an attic crawl space in the house, but surrendered without incident.

He was wanted in connection with the shooting Thursday afternoon of business education teacher Anthony Annunziata during an attempted robbery at Wilbur Cross High School.
 Jones was charged with murder and was being held at the police station on $100,000 bail pending transfer to the state correctional center in New Haven. Jones is to be arraigned Monday in New Haven Superior Court.

Annunziata, 56, of Orange, a business education teacher for 19 years, was slain Thursday while manning the counter of the student store. He was shot once in the chest and died two hours later at Yale-New Haven Hospital.

Power Outage Darkens Town

GLASTONBURY — There were plenty of cold sippers eaten by candlelight in town Friday.

A power outage, affecting the entire town, occurred shortly after 5:30 p.m. and still had not been repaired by 7 p.m., a Connecticut Light & Power Co. spokesman said.

The cause of the outage still was not known at 7 p.m., he said.
 The outage resulted in a quieter Friday night than usual for most residents. But, for the CL&P office that services the town, it meant a barrage of telephone calls that kept workers busy.

 "They're plenty of them," the spokesman said of the ringing phones. "We're just answering the telephone calls."

He said a crew was sent out to check all lines, and the problems still have not been found as of 7 p.m.
 There were no reports of any major automobile accidents that would have caused such a problem, he said.

While the outage darkened the entire town of Glastonbury, no other communities were affected, the spokesman said.

Study Says State Needs Money to Clean Its Air

HARTFORD (UPI) — A massive study reported Friday more money is necessary to keep Connecticut from eventually wallowing in waste and suffocating from polluted air.

The funding necessary to meet the many requirements to safeguard Connecticut's environment was cited as a major pitfall in an exhaustive study by The Council on Environmental Quality, its first in four years.

"Environmental protection, while of great importance to the welfare of the state, consumes less than 2 percent of the state budget," said the council.

The advisory council is supposed to report annually on the progress of the Department of Environmental Protection, as required by the Legislature, but hasn't because of a lack of funds. Its last annual report was issued in 1975.

The nine-member citizen council said although improvements have been made under DEP Commissioner Stanley Pac, it was critical of the DEP air and solid waste programs.

But the council praised the DEP's water, land conservation and recreation programs in the face of personnel and money shortages.
 The council said transportation is the largest cause of smog problems and so difficult to control that the state will probably have to ask to extend the 1982 deadline to reach federal air quality standards to 1987.
 The council said the solid waste crisis is staggering with Connecticut citizens generating over 10,000 tons of trash and garbage each day.
 This comes out to six pounds per person, enough to cover over two acres of land three feet deep each day.

Delays in the Connecticut Resources Recovery Authority program to build giant modern recovery plants has left it up to communities to dump waste at 164 landfill sites. But the number of landfills will be closed by 1983 and not able to absorb over 5.6 million tons of solid waste expected by then.

Cimino Says Old Plans Will Cut MHA's Fees

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Dominic Cimino, the architect for Spencer Village, has told the Manchester Housing Authority it can reduce the architect's fees for additional housing by five percent if the same plans are used.

Spencer Village is the 40 units now located off Spencer Street. Cimino was the architect for the project.

The MHA now is planning an additional 40 units on a three-acre tract adjacent to the Spencer Village property.

Cimino wrote to the MHA and said the cost of the architectural work can be reduced by five percent if the same Spencer Village plans are repeated on the new parcel.

Some minor redesign would be required, but the same basic plans could be used.
 The housing authority is in the process of selecting an architect for the additional 40 units. It met this week with four other firms who are interested in the architectural work along with Cimino.

Pascal Mastrangelo, chairman of the MHA, said the group may select an architect for the project at its meeting Wednesday night.

The architectural fee will be 5.9 percent of the total construction cost of the project, Mastrangelo said.

The MHA has received $600,000 for constructing the new units, and some of the architects who met with the MHA feel the figure is low. More money may be needed.

The architect's fee, based on the $600,000, would be about $40,000. A five percent reduction would reduce that figure by about $2,000.

Mastrangelo said that such a reduction in the cost can only be offered by Cimino since he designed the existing units and has plans already used at the site.

There has been some criticism of the appearance of those 40 units, but Mastrangelo feels they are acceptable considering the final cost figure.

"You can say they look like chicken coops, but we can't build a model palace with the money we're getting," he said. While some have not liked the units, others, including some of the residents, are pleased with them, he said.

On his way out, Dobrynin told reporters tersely the Kremlin would not be involved in the Soviet ambassador, Anatoly Dobrynin, Friday afternoon to inform him privately of the impending announcement.

The U.S.-Chinese announcement was reminiscent in its suddenness to the original breakthrough scored in 1971 by Henry Kissinger.

U.S. Will Recognize Peking as Sole China

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter announced Friday the United States will establish full diplomatic relations with Communist China on Jan. 1 and end official relations with Taiwan in a complete and historic break with the past.

Wiping the slate clean in one dramatic move, Carter informed the nation of his decision to abandon the traditional post-war alliance with the Nationalist government formed by Chiang Kai-shek — including the defense treaty — and fully recognize mainland China.

U.S. troops, numbering about 2,000, would be removed from Taiwan within four months.
 — Chinese Vice Premier Teng Tiao-Ping would visit Washington at the end of January.
 — The United States and China would exchange ambassadors starting March 1.
 In a hastily arranged television address, Carter called the move "a final historic agreement" that culminates the process begun by President Richard Nixon and the late people of both the United States and Taiwan in a complete and historic break with the past.

 "The change I am announcing tonight will be of long-term benefit to the peoples of both the United States and China — and, I believe to all the peoples of the world."
 U.S. critics of the Peking regime were sure to disagree bitterly, however, and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., was one of the first to weigh in with a scathing denunciation of Carter's move issued even before the president appeared on television.

"The president's decision on China represents one of the most cowardly acts ever performed by a president of the United States," Goldwater said in a statement. "The action stabs in the back the nation of Taiwan, one of the most faithful and trustworthy friends our country has ever had."

The U.S.-Peking reconciliation — combined with the rupture of official relations with Taiwan and the withdrawal within four months of all U.S. troops — were sure to have worldwide repercussions. Sources close to the Taiwan government said its leaders scheduled an emergency meeting at dawn.

Carter's address culminated a day of building suspense in which the White House announced he would have a statement of international significance to make but refused to say what it was. Word of the China breakthrough leaked out nevertheless in general outline.

 Simultaneous with Carter's announcement, the government released the text of the U.S. Chinese Communiqué and a separate U.S. statement making clear the United States would maintain unofficial cultural and social ties with Taiwan while abandoning the diplomatic and military links that have existed since the creation of Communist and Nationalist China.

In its key passages, the communiqué said: "The United States of America and the People's Republic of China have agreed to recognize each other and to establish diplomatic relations as of Jan. 1, 1979."
 "Within this context, the people of the United States will maintain cultural, commercial and other unofficial relations with the people of Taiwan."

Carter's address and the separate U.S. statement spelled out that would mean the end of official U.S.-Taiwan relations, nullification of the 1954 U.S.-Taiwan mutual defense treaty and withdrawal of the estimated 2,000 U.S. troops from the offshore island within about four months.

Attempting to soften the blow, Carter assured Americans the United States would continue its concern for the welfare of the Taiwan people. The U.S. statement added:
 "The U.S. continues to have an interest in the peaceful resolution of the Taiwan issue and expects that the Taiwan issue will be settled by the people themselves."

 Nonetheless, Carter also made clear he considers the shift of alliances an idea whose time has come and he underscored that by paraphrasing an acknowledgement the United States first made in the 1972 Shanghai Communiqué culminating the Nixon visit.
 "There is but one China," he said, "and Taiwan is part of China."
 The communiqué said the two nations would actually exchange ambassadors and open embassies as of March 1, allowing a two-month transition period.

It also summarized a number of principles that will guide U.S.-Chinese relations.
 These included pledges that neither nation would "seek hegemony in the Asia region or in any other region of the world" — a standard Chinese slap at the Soviet Union.
 The move was sure to create ripple effects on U.S. relations with the Soviet Union, which has been a close ally since Carter took care to call in the Soviet ambassador, Anatoly Dobrynin, Friday afternoon to inform him privately of the impending announcement.

On his way out, Dobrynin told reporters tersely the Kremlin would not be involved in the Soviet ambassador, Anatoly Dobrynin, Friday afternoon to inform him privately of the impending announcement.

The U.S.-Chinese announcement was reminiscent in its suddenness to the original breakthrough scored in 1971 by Henry Kissinger.

Scott's World

Ann-Margret Acts Again

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ann-Margret Olsson was professionally born in "Bye, Bye Birdie" in 1963, a year after Marilyn Monroe's death at a time when Hollywood was looking for a successor to the world's greatest sex symbol.

Ann-Margret

To be sure, she had appeared in "Pocketful of Miracles" and "State Fair." But "Bye, Bye Birdie" revealed her as a leggy, lusty prospect to fill the void left by Marilyn.

For a time it appeared Ann-Margret would do just that. She was red-haired, full-figured and lent herself easily to the big glamor biopic.

Jayne Mansfield was still around. Raquel Welch was yet to come along. For several years she played roles in which her curves were more in evidence than her talent — "Via Las Vegas" with Elvis Presley and "Kitten With A Whip."

But the Swedish-born beauty was as bright as she was alluring, and determined to become more than a sex symbol. Today Farrah Fawcett-Majors has ascended to the goddess status of Monroe while Ann-Margret has safely established herself as an actress. She received Academy Award nominations for her performances in "Carma Knowledge" and "Tommy."

Her husband-manager, former actor Roger Smith, was busy putting the house in order. They have spent only three months at home this year. "It's hectic and frantic, but performing is what I do," Ann-Margret says. "As long as I'm healthy and love my job, I'm going to keep it up. I plan to take four months off in January for a rest, my first vacation in five years."

Ann-Margret starred in two television specials — "Rockette: A Holiday Tribute to the Radio City Music Hall" this month and "The Dony and Marie Show" in October. As if in two new movies and a brace of TV musicals were not enough, Ann-Margret will have dazzled Las Vegas on stage eight weeks this year.

College Paper Remains

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter MANCHESTER — The New College Press will stay in print, but in a shortened format, next semester at Manchester Community College.

The fate of the college newspaper was in limbo this week after stories in last Friday's edition announced that the paper was going to close down because of lack of help from students and faculty.

The announcement brought responses from the faculty and Student Senate and resulted in a meeting Thursday which brought positive results. Andrea Paterna, student activities director, said Friday that the general feeling of those who attended Thursday's meeting was that the paper should continue but be reduced from an eight page to a four-page format, at least initially, when it resumes operations in January.

Other actions which came out of the meeting included five faculty members volunteering to work with the newspaper staff. The Student Senate members also suggested that an advisory board be established to review the paper and offer suggestions on a monthly basis.

The first "get acquainted breakfast" of the new year will be Jan. 23 at 8 a.m. at Howard Johnson's. The next meeting of the chamber's Board of Directors will be Jan. 30 at noon with the place to be announced later.

Meeting Set on Buckland

VERNON — Because of the size and nature of the proposed Buckland Commons development for Manchester and South Windsor, the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce is asking chamber members, and others interested, to attend a meeting planned for Thursday at 8 a.m. at the South Windsor Community Center.

The proposed 500-acre development would include residential apartments and homes in Manchester and commercial and industrial development in South Windsor.

Russell Trotman, executive director of the South Windsor Chamber of Commerce, has contacted MAP Associates, the developer out of Houston, Texas, to have an informational meeting between the towns affected with a spokesman to be there from MAP.

Rockville chamber officials feel that because of the size and nature of the proposed project, it will have an impact on all towns in the area and perhaps most particularly on the Vernon Circle area.

Anyone wishing to attend may obtain further details and directions to the Community Center, by calling the chamber office. The Executive Committee of the chamber will meet Dec. 27 at 8 a.m. at the chamber office and the Retail Committee will meet Jan. 4 at 8 a.m.

Square Dancing Slated Tonight

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Square Dance Club will have an open dance tonight from 8 to 11 p.m. at Vermont School. Russ and Anita White will cue the rounds.

Bruce Reimold and Lynn Glidden will have door duty. Refreshments will be served by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Riley, Mr. and Mrs. John Roberto, Arlene Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Moser.

The club will have a Christmas party Tuesday from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at Waddell School. Those planning to attend should bring a $2 gift for a grab bag, marked with the sex for which the gift is intended. Refreshments will be served.

MANCHESTER — The recreation director showed Mrs. Susan Nelson at her 100th birthday party at the Crestfield Convalescent Home in Thursday's Herald as Deborah Venna. She is incorrectly identified.

Leaders Like Poll Result On Funds, Crime, Judges

HARTFORD (UPI) — Legislative leaders said Friday they are encouraged by a UPI survey that shows the 1979 Legislature is ready to hold down spending, get tough with criminals and revise the way judges are selected.

"I'm encouraged by the results," said Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven. "I'm very optimistic about what can be accomplished during the session."

"I'm sure we will be addressing most, if not all, of the issues in the poll," added House Speaker Ernest Abate of Stamford. Lieberman said he was particularly pleased with the determination of most of the newly-elected legislators to keep state employee raises below 7 percent as requested by President Carter in his anti-inflation program.

The UPI survey showed that 76 percent of the 115 lawmakers who responded to the poll favored holding the line on state employee raises. Obviously the budget and budgetary issues, which include school financing, are of major importance, Lieberman said. Lawmakers rated school finance as the most important issue they will deal with in the session that begins next month, twenty-nine percent said they would like to see state educational aid to municipalities increased by $40 million or more.

Lieberman said he was disappointed that a majority of lawmakers opposed a constitutional ceiling on annual budget increases. The survey revealed that 52 percent of the legislators opposed the government "The, it seems to be a universal feeling," Abate said. In the UPI survey, 79 percent of the lawmakers favored the gaming moratorium on new gaming facilities and a state financed study of the legal gambling industry.

"I'm surprised I thought there would have been an outpouring for a ceiling on spending," he said. The UPI survey showed that he was pleased to see 77 percent of the lawmakers favored a clear language bill that would require businesses to write contracts in "plain English" that consumers could understand. Abate said he was encouraged by the large percentages of lawmakers who voiced their support for merit selection of judges (81 percent) and fixed sentences for chronic criminals (83 percent). "I think this year a system of determining sentences will pass," he said. Abate also said it appears the Legislature will approve a moratorium on new gaming facilities and a state financed study of the legal gambling industry.

Slain Teacher Remained Despite Advice to Leave

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Fifteen minutes before teacher Anthony Annunziata was fatally shot during an apparent robbery at Wilbur Cross High School, he complained of chills but brushed aside a colleague's advice to go home.

Annunziata, 56, of Orange, a business education teacher, died Thursday of a single gunshot wound in the chest. He was slain while manning the counter at the student store. A warrant was issued for the slaying of Annunziata, a 19-year-old member of a street gang which took its name from the Brooklyn, N.Y., slum known as Bedford-Stuyvesant. The UPI survey showed that 76 percent of the 115 lawmakers who responded to the poll favored holding the line on state employee raises.

"I saw him about 15 minutes before he was shot," said Gerald Cuddy, a Wilbur Cross teacher. "We passed by one another and he told me he wasn't feeling well, he had the chills and was nauseated. I told him to go to the office to get permission to go home. But he said he wanted to go home. He was in the school store," he said.

Annunziata, who had taught at Wilbur Cross since 1966 after transferring from Hillhouse High School, told a colleague, business teacher Stanley Lysack, he should not have gone to school on Thursday. "He said he wasn't feeling well and should not have come in this morning," Lysack said. "I'm so upset and sad."

Another teacher, James Balsamo, said he was in the store when Annunziata was shot. He was nearby when Annunziata spoke to ambulance attendants who rushed him to Yale-New Haven Hospital where he died in the operating room. "I saw him lying on the floor in the store. He was conscious and requested to go to St. Raphael's (Hospital). But he went to Yale-New Haven. When they put him in the ambulance he was breathing but I didn't like his color," he said.

Annunziata worked each day in the store which sells such items as candy, cookies, typewriter ribbons and pencils. The store is used to give students experience in running a business. A teacher for 20 years, Annunziata was one of the union leaders jailed at Camp Hartsell in Windsor Locks in 1975 when New Haven teachers went on strike.

Melchior Benson, a Wilbur Cross history teacher, said Annunziata organized softball and card games to try to make the other teachers feel comfortable in confinement. "He tried to make us feel everything would be all right," Benson said. "I remember that he played center field during the softball games and was very good at it. We listened to him because he'd been teaching for so long and had more experience than the rest of us," Benson said.

Industrial Park Road Will Open Next Week

MANCHESTER — The road through the Buckland Industrial Park will open next week, Jay Giles, director of public works, said Friday. The road runs from Tolland Turnpike to Burnham Street and will be the main route through the industrial park.

The Board of Directors Tuesday night approved the name of Chapel Road for the road. Construction work on the street has been finished, Giles said. He wants to check early next week for a couple of road signs that will direct travelers from the South Windsor area to the commuter parking lot at Burr Corners and to the Bissell Bridge. If it will take a week for the signs to arrive, the road will be opened without them. If the signs can be shipped in a couple of days, the road opening will be delayed until the signs are installed, Giles said. No formal ceremony is planned for the road opening, he said.

Panel Discover Errors in Plans

HEBRON - During a review of engineering plans for the location of wells and septic systems for several lots in Millstream Park, it was discovered that lot 3 had not been approved.

The commission is also sending a letter to the Hebron Building Department stating that no building permit can be issued for the lot in question until it is approved for building, by the commission.

The Spirit of Giving
It was approaching Christmas and the teacher was discussing with her class how they might celebrate a true holiday by giving.

A "Touching" Christmas
When you read the heading for this paragraph, did you think that a "sob story" was coming? Certainly there are plenty of them and each of us should all be able to help the less fortunate — toys, money, food, time, and in every way possible.

The Parable of the Birds
Some of you may have heard me tell this parable on the radio (WOPF) or on television (Channel 3), but at any rate I think it bears repeating. I read it one summer in the "Lewiston Sun" and it was written by Louis Herlihy, a UPI religious writer. This is a paraphrase:

Once there was a man who was kind and decent to his neighbors, generous to his family, and upright in his dealings with businessmen, but he did not believe much in Christmas, especially that part about God coming to earth as a man.

Weiss Asks Police For Fire Call Data

MANCHESTER — Town Manager Robert Weiss said Friday that he thinks the controversy over the double response to a fire call last Saturday by the Town and Eighth District Fire departments has been blown all out of proportion. That was one reason why he asked the Police Department to prepare a report on what their records show on the incident.
 Weiss said he has received varying reports on what "might have happened and what could happen in regard to the fire call and he would like a full range report on what actually went on.
 The fire call in question occurred last Saturday about 4:49 a.m. The Town Fire Department was first called by the state police and told there was a car fire with occupants trapped inside the car on Interstate Highway 86, near Exit 84. The town relayed the call to the Eighth District Fire Department which normally covers that area of town.
 District Fire Chief Ted Lingard accused the town department of delaying the call to the District and of speeding by the District Firehouse, causing a hazard.
 Town firemen countercharged that the district's truck entered the highway on an exit ramp and traveled the wrong direction on the highway to reach the car.
 The car was not on fire and there was no one inside it when the two fire departments arrived.
 The Police Department said it has a record of the calls on the monitoring system despite claims by the fire departments that there was no record.
 Weiss said he expects to have the findings from the police early next week.

Tables Need Replenishing

These tables, once full of toys for the children of Manchester's families in need at this holiday season, are now almost empty. If more toys are donated, they will be available to local low-income families who are not eligible for welfare today and Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. at the former Economic Electric store on Main Street, between Park and Locust streets. (Herald photo by Pinto)

More Toys Needed

MANCHESTER — Many children from Manchester's low-income families may go without toys Christmas unless other members of the community help.
 Most of the approximately 2,000 toys collected during the Toys for Joys program disappeared in a little more than one half hour Friday afternoon.
 Mrs. Nancy Carr, executive director of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches, sponsor of the annual Seasonal Sharing Appeal, said.
 The toys were available Friday afternoon to mothers of Head Start children and those families on state and town welfare. The need was so great that the toys just "seemed to vanish," Mrs. Carr said.

Buses Decked

MANCHESTER — The town's elderly and handicapped residents will get a special holiday treat when they ride the two mini-buses in their transportation system.
 The buses have been decorated for the Christmas season by Laine Dyer, human services aide, who helps coordinate the transportation system for the elderly and handicapped residents. Holiday trim and decorations have been hung in the mini-buses. Santa hats have been made for the drivers.
 The two buses are rented by the town to provide transportation. The system is paid for primarily by federal funds. The town is awaiting the arrival of two buses it has purchased, which will replace the vehicles being rented. The purchase also was funded primarily by federal money.

Costly Money Spurs Adding to Homes

MANCHESTER — As mortgage rates and the costs of homes increase, so do the number of applications received by the Building Department for additions to existing homes.
 Francis Conti, the town's chief building inspector, said the number of additions has jumped in recent years and he expects the trend to continue.
 "As long as the money market is the way it is, it's going to continue," he said.
 Office records show that the Department issued 911 permits for additions and alterations in the fiscal year 1977-78. The estimated cost for the projects is listed as $4,327,000.
 In 1983-84, the department issued 395 such permits and the estimated cost was $970,198.
 The totals of both years included commercial and industrial additions as well as residential ones.
 A family that has a home at a 7 or 7½ percent mortgage is not going to be encouraged to sell the home and buy another one at a mortgage rate of 9 or 9½ percent, Conti said.
 Families often used to start in neighborhoods with smaller Cape Cod-style homes and then move to larger homes as their families and pay checks grew, he said.
 Now, the families are more apt to stay in that smaller home and just add to it.
 "It was unthinkable 10 years ago to put a $25,000 addition on a home, but not it is happening," Conti said.
 The number of permits for additions and alterations has dropped some so far this year compared to last, but the cost for the projects is more.
 Part of the increased cost estimates over the years, of course, is due to inflation and rising prices. But, families also are making larger additions now than in the past, according to Conti.
 He said one recent addition to a Manchester home cost 2½ times the original cost of the home, which was purchased 18 years ago.
 So, while homes still seem to sell as soon as they go on the market in Manchester, many families are opting to stay in their old, small home and just convert it to a bigger, newer one.

 "I'm delighted by the whole thing," she said of her selection as vice chairwoman.
 The committee is co-chaired by State Sen. Richard Scheller and State Rep. Gardner Wright.

Manchester Police Report

Manchester
 Manchester Police have arrested a 16-year-old youth and charged him in connection with five thefts from homes.
 All five of the breaks — three on Otis Street and one each on Chestnut Street and Spring Street — occurred during the last two weeks of November, police said.
 David Abele, 16, of 73 Chestnut St. has been charged with five counts of second-degree burglary, and one count each of third-degree larceny and fourth-degree larceny. Further arrests may be made in connection with the breaks, police said.
 Douglas W. Jones, 17, of 4 Pearl St. was charged with fourth-degree larceny Friday. Manchester Police said. The arrest was made in connection with a reported shoplifting from the U Save Food Warehouse at 725 E. Middle Turnpike. Court date is Jan. 8.
 Joseph S. Bemer Jr., 22, of 117 King St., East Hartford, was charged with operating under the influence of liquor or drugs and failure to obey a state traffic control signal Friday afternoon. Court date is Jan. 8.
 Michael Foster, 16, of 153 Edgerton St. was charged with criminal trespass Friday in connection with the theft of some mail from the lobby of a building on Edgerton Street. Court date is Jan. 8.
 Alan G. Cyr, 33, of 465 Talbotville Road, Vermont, was charged with evading responsibility and reckless driving. Court date is Dec. 18.
 The charges were made in connection with a two-car accident Thursday on Route 82. There were no serious injuries. State Police reported an accident Friday on Route 2 in East Hartford near Exit 5A. There were no injuries, but the accident did tie up rush-hour traffic in the late afternoon.

Costly Furniture Not Found Illegal

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Rhode Island officials were careless but did nothing illegal when they bought overpriced furniture for the Statehouse last year, Attorney General Julius C. Michaelson said Friday.
 "There is no evidence to support a conclusion that any of the persons involved in the transactions... derived or attempted to derive illegal benefits," Michaelson said.
 WAAR-TV reported last summer the Joint Committee on Legislative Affairs bought $28,000 worth of new furnishings without getting bids. It said some items were purchased at prices 55 percent above those available to the everyday consumer.
 The state bought the furniture from Brian Supply Co. of Providence through its Worcester, Mass. subsidiary, Standard Steel Warehousing Inc. Joseph Brian, owner of Brian Supply, said Standard Steel was overcharged by a supplier.
 "The reasonableness of the cost of items sold to the state of Rhode Island was never checked by any person connected with the state," Michaelson said in a 16-page report.

Trimming Inside and Out Songailos Share Christmas

By BETTY RYDER
 Family/Travel Editor
 At the home of Edwin and Emma Songailo, it's Christmas all through the house — and outside too!
 The Songailos have been collecting antiques since they were married 36 years ago and Emma decorates all year round with various items they have acquired.
 "But, Christmas is special, she said. "I see and shop all year for Christmas." Her living room, warm and cozy with the heat from a wood-burning stove, is filled with stuffed dolls and animals, some for giving, others that belong to her son's collection.
 One attractive item, a pillow, she made from a dish towel which had the picture of a dog looking over a fence on it. She cut out the dog and fence, sewed them to a large pillow and applied the dogs head and paws giving them a raised, three-dimensional effect.
 A large wooden cheese box has been covered and applied with blue print hearts and Emma made a matching quilt to go with it.
 "The quilt took nine months to make, about four hours a day. From 7 to 11 at night is my time and that's when I worked on it," she said proudly.
 It's truly Christmas all through the house with rooster door stops, a bedroom with an antique doll carriage and a German doll.
 "I saw the doll at an antique show long ago," Emma said. "My husband steered me away and when I went back, it was gone."
 But, when Christmas morning came, Emma was delighted to find the doll under the tree, a gift from her husband.

Destination Bangladesh Young Couple Recall Four-Month Trip Through Asia

By JUNE TOMPKINS
 Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER — Carrying 50-pound back-packs each, James Crowe, formerly of Manchester, and his wife, Terry, traveled by foot, bus and train through parts of Asia last year before reaching their destination — Bangladesh.
 The four-month trip began when they left the U.S. in August 1977.
 After sightseeing in Europe for a while, the Crowes outfitted themselves with their tents and back-packs and set out north of Istanbul and traveled by bus about three-quarters of the length of Turkey. A trip from there to Tehran in Iran was through snow and cold in an unheated steam train with only their own food supply to sustain them. The next leg of their journey was a 24-hour bus ride through the Iranian desert.
 On into Afghanistan, the Crowes went up in the Afghanistan mountains, the foothills of the Himalayas, then to Pakistan and into Northern India.
 They celebrated their birthdays, both on Nov. 13, and Thanksgiving in Nepal. They enjoyed a superb birthday dinner in Kathmandu, both their faces lit up as they described the sumptuous meal of steak, apple pie and ice cream.

"We saw so much poverty, so much hunger," they said. "It was incredible and beyond imagination."
 Terry said that since being in a portion of the world where the poverty situation is so intense, "we are trying to bring the situation a little closer to others."
 They have spoken to church and civic groups about the hunger crisis. "It's easy not to think about it," James said. "Everyone is so busy. There's an unequal distribution of the world's resources."
 Through their public appearances, they're trying to spread enthusiasm for an alternative Christmas — donations that will help those who are in need. "Sometimes Americans don't think beyond America," James said, as he explained that there's a class system in India where the poor are either very wealthy or very poor.
 They were impressed with Mother Theresa, whom they met, who organized the Sisters of Charity. Terry said Mother Theresa lives in the slums of Calcutta and, with her group, feeds many of the citizens daily in Calcutta and Dacca, and operates several orphanages and centers for the handicapped. Her work is run mostly by donations.
 James, who is the son of Mrs. James Crowe and the late Mr. Crowe of 169 Center St., met Terry while they were attending Colorado State University.
 When Terry is doing graduate work in pediatric therapy at Boston University, the Crowes are running a residential group home for retarded adults near Boston.
 "It's in the back of our minds to go overseas again, whenever an attractive opportunity may arise," James said.
 In spite of the depressing living conditions which they saw on their trip, and in spite of some of their non-luxurious accommodations (they slept in all kinds of places, even on the street in Iran), they wouldn't trade the experience for anything in the world. They met all kinds of people also traveling — doctors, lawyers, economists, teachers, of all ages.
 One of the advantages of meeting so many travelers was the book exchange that was part of it.
 Terry managed to read about 80 books during the trip, books that were acquired through exchange with those she met enroute. Some, she said, she didn't really care about, but she read them anyway.

Cheney Tops Vinal In Wild Hoop Play

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

Cheney Tech had Vinal Tech on the ropes at the half, leading by a whopping 43-17 margin.

The Beavers, however, let the Hawks off the hook and in fact the Middletown-based visitors took a 56-55 lead with 2:41 remaining. But the coaches refused to wilt and made a comeback of their own behind Dave Gustamachio and Blayne Cohen to register a wild 65-59 COC basketball win last night at the Beavers' gym.

"We weren't patient enough and when we tried to get them out of the zone we threw the ball away," explained relieved Cheney Coach Phil Crockett. "We weren't in any offense well enough."

Gustamachio canned a 14-foot jumper from the left side with 22 seconds showing giving the locals, now 2-0, the lead for good. Cohen latched onto a big rebound off a Vinal miss and was fouled.

He converted the front half of the one-and-one with Gustamachio latching onto the rebound and, in return, was fouled. He made the first and missed the second, his first miss after 14 straight successes from the charity stripe, with Cohen hauling in his 17th rebound. He was fouled and made both ends for the final icing.

Cheney completely dominated the first half with Cohen, 6-foot-4 junior center, and Gustamachio gobbling up any miss of both glasses. They combined for 20 of Cheney's 59 first-half corners, 14 off the offensive glass.

Vinal, which committed 32 personal fouls in its opening defeat to Cheney, meanwhile was being assessed with 17 personals in the opening half along with three technical fouls. Cheney, which led 17-6 after one quarter, stretched it in the second half in which it was only 7-26 from the floor but 12-for-14 from the charity stripe.

The Hawks battled the Beavers hard the third quarter, making their presence felt on the boards and forcing the locals into 8 turnovers. It cut the lead to 49-35 after three quarters and continued the surge in the final canto until the Technicians regained their composure, reasserted themselves on the boards, and came away with the win.

Gustamachio paced the Beavers with 29 points and 18 rebounds with Cohen chipping in 13 markers. John Demelis, Geczewicz and Bob Bruzik paced Vinal with 14, 13 and 11 points respectively.

Cheney was 26-for-39 from the foul line. Vinal 13-for-22. The Hawks were charged with 29 fouls with three players fouling out while the Beavers were hit with 18 personals and one player leaving early with five fouls.

Super Bowl Contenders Spice NFL Slate Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — A nationally televised NFL doubleheader Saturday offers viewers a comparison between two Super Bowl contenders eagerly anticipating the playoffs and a pair of disappointments whose memories of 1978 will be mostly painful. It is a contrast which also mirrors the difference between the league's two conferences.

The first game matches a pair of NFC teams, Chicago, 6-6, at Washington, 8-7. Despite having lost four straight games for the first time since 1970 and seven of their last nine, the Redskins still have a chance to reach the playoffs as an NFC wild card team. No one, however, regards the Redskins as serious Super Bowl threats.

Washington needs a victory over the Bears plus losses by Philadelphia and either Minnesota or Green Bay to gain the playoff berth it narrowly missed last year when the Redskins current coach, Jack Pardee, led the Bears to the NFC wild card spot.

Three Post-Season Football Games on Today's Schedule

Gift Giving

This is gift giving time, and it puts me in mind of a gift I received almost 30 years ago.

Anyhow, 30 years ago or thereabouts, Joyce, at holiday time, bought me a fly tying kit. Not a large kit, not a well put together kit, but a little better adjustment based bunch of feathers, fur and tinseled, with a note that led to the table with a thumb screw, and held the fly with just a little better adjustment.

Believe me, the individual who bought me the kit, had to be a simple himself, because the instructions would have confounded a genius with an I.Q. of 160.

Before the traditional Big Four bowl games on New Year's Day, there will be four other post-season contests. On Christmas Day, Arkansas meets UCLA in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz., and Purdue faces Georgia Tech in the Peach Bowl at Atlanta; on Dec. 23 Clemson takes on Ohio State in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.; and on Dec. 31 Stanford meets Georgia in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Tex.

On New Year's Day, Houston meets Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, Penn State faces Alabama in the Sugar Bowl, Michigan takes on Southern California in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., and Texas A&M meets Iowa State in the Hall of Fame Bowl at Birmingham, Ala., on Jan. 1.

The Eagles hit 18 of 22 foul tries in the first period and topped the record to 16 points at intermission, 20-13 as Bulkeley had a cold shooting 16 minutes getting just five baskets in 24 attempts.

Pantyhose Popular Garment Today Against Cold for Football Players

NEW YORK (UPI)—On the banquet circuit after the pro football season, special team ace Vince Papale of the Philadelphia Eagles says there's always at least one person in the audience who pops the question:

"Do you really wear pantyhose under your football uniform in cold weather?"

"No," Papale replies. "I wear a panty girdle."
It's true, folks. At least one manufacturer of shape-up garments for the ladies is producing a line for football players who wear them for warmth. And it came on the market just in time to preserve the dignity of players like Papale.

Late last year, when the cold was filtering through the support bandages on his ailing hamstrings and aggravating his problem, Papale discovered there was no specific football equipment to cover the situation. It was time for desperate measures.

With his wife at his side, he went shopping at a lingerie counter. His wife did the talking. She told the salesgirl she wanted a long-legged panty girdle. Then she inquired about size ranges.

"Once she let them know what size, the salesgirls realized it was for me," says Papale. "And they giggled a lot. Even after I explained I was a football player and needed it for my legs, they still thought it was semi-funny. It's a good thing my wife was with me."

When it chills, or cold winds blow and the chill factor plunges to flesh-numbing numbers, those rugged pros of the NFL swallow mainly pride in the interest of high performance.

They resort to all sorts of gimmicks, gadgets and costumes to keep warm during a game.

Space heaters, heated benches, special heaters for kicking tees and fleece-lined parkas or capes help out on the sidelines.

On the field, protective items include thermal underwear, regular Long Johns, turtle-necks, pantyhose, girdles, mittens for linemen, golf gloves, ski gloves or baseball batting gloves for passers and receivers and pouch pockets on jerseys.

Some players slather on grease or a deep-heating analgesic. Defensive end Gene Harston of the Eagles smeared petroleum jelly over his entire 6.3, 245-pound body for a recent game and didn't feel the cold too badly.

The Chicago Bears, who get a heavy dose of freezing weather in the NFL Central Division that includes Minnesota and Green Bay, wear thermal suits by a party of climbers on Mount Everest.

But at Minnesota, where Coach Bud Grant believes cold is a state of mind, the Vikings may be as frost-proof as their nannies or they don't stay on the roster. Upon request, the club provides space heaters for the visiting team. Some Vikings wear thermal or pantyhose. Players who don't handle the cold can wear mittens. Most of them, though, just rough it out.

At Pittsburgh, site of AFC playoffs into January, the Steelers gear their snow and cold weather gear a week in advance. They wear thermal suits Dec. 9 and they're obviously prepared, come what may. Many Steelers favor pantyhose. Terry Bradshaw warns his hands before playing by holding them under his arms. Other quarterbacks have pockets sewn on their jerseys. A portable heater on the sidelines is for warming hands or toes. When not on the field, players wrap up in huge capes.

When it snows, as it did throughout the game with the Colts, a tractor with a cylindrical brush mounted on its front periodically sweeps the snow from the yardline and sideline markers.

Denver, often a playoff site, had an eight below zero day early in December but in 19 years it's been below freezing only four times in game days. Sideline heaters, handwarmed petroleum jelly over his entire 6.3, 245-pound body for a recent game and didn't feel the cold too badly.

Yacavone Urges Unit For Women

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD—State Rep. Mariel Yacavone (D-9th District) is sponsoring an effort to form a bipartisan women's caucus in the Legislature.

The women legislators who are interested among the 37 women in the General Assembly are scheduled to meet at the Hartford Hilton on Dec. 19.

Mrs. Yacavone said the purpose of the caucus will be to discuss and clarify issues of common concern to women in the Legislature.

"We would like to come together on issues we agree on," Mrs. Yacavone said. "I think we can be helpful in clarifying women's issues to our male colleagues on the Legislature."

The proposed women's caucus has the support of the Connecticut Women's Political Caucus and the State Permanent Commission on the Status of Women, she said.

Mrs. Yacavone and others tried unsuccessfully to form a Democratic women's caucus in 1974. The effort failed in part because many of the women legislators were new at the time and "they were anxious to just get on."

Budget Cuts Lifeguards

COVENTRY—The Parks and Recreation Commission has voted to eliminate lifeguards at Sandy Shores next summer in order to reduce expenses.

The town's major swimming area is at Lislike Beach, where lifeguards will remain on duty.

Removal of the guards at Sandy Shores was first recommended by Head Lifeguard Tom Duffy two years ago. He claimed that the number of swimmers who used that area did not justify the expense to the town.

Townpeople will still be able to swim at Sandy Shores but at their own risk. The beach had become more attractive in recent years to those who normally go to Lislike because of numerous jagged rocks at the larger facility.

However, at the commission's urging, the Town Council appropriated $600 to remove the rocks and add sand to the Lislike swimming area. Work is expected to begin this week by the Upton Construction Company.

The emergency phone, toilet facilities, and picnic area will remain at Sandy Shores, and lifeguards may be reappointed if finances permit, commissioners said. The council has under consideration a proposal to purchase a 16-acre beachfront owned by the Salvation Army that is adjacent to Sandy Shores.

If townpeople approve this plan, which includes the purchase of the Army-owned land, Sandy Shores and the abutting area could become the town's major recreation area. Although the commission favors purchase, it is opposed to shutting the Lislike Beach recreational facilities as a concomitant.

Lislike Park was temporarily closed by the commission to allow the completion of cleanup of the large tract on the northern end of town near Goose Lane. The council recently appropriated money to build a fence around the ballfield, which is expected to be used for athletics next summer.

In other business the commission drafted a letter to Town Manager Frank Connolly expressing opposition to using a five-acre site behind the high school for a town garage. The recreationalists claim that roads to the proposed facility would reduce playing fields used by the high school and the middle school.

GOP Probes Keefe's Jobs

HEBRON—The Republican Town Committee has agreed to establish a commission to investigate the fact that Keefe had given a building permit to Kevin Nicolazzo for a 2826-foot dwelling at the intersection of Jones Street-High Valley Road and Burrows Hill Road.

Last month the Zoning Board of Appeals had denied a Request for Variance filed by Nicolazzo to allow the construction of a dwelling closer to a sideline than permitted by zoning regulations.

During the discussion town committee members also expressed concern that Keefe had initially issued a verbal building permit which allowed Nicolazzo to construct a building that was found to be in violation of zoning regulations, at the second-story stage, at which point Keefe then issued a stop work order.

Committee members also discussed and agreed that another way to solve the problem would be to find a good qualified candidate for the position of first selectman so as to insure the position of building inspector-zoning agent would go to a qualified person. At the present time, state statutes authorize the first selectman to take this appointment.

Another course of action suggested was that the position in question be held by two separate people. Committee members said that when the original decision was made to combine the two jobs, the town was small. However, the town is starting to grow which could possibly mean that these positions should be separated and should be appointive positions.

The building permit in question was issued to Lewis Construction of Avon. The company is owned by Lewis Delaney and the owner of record is listed as Nicolazzo.

Town Committee members appointed to the fact-finding group were Francis Danaher, Gardner Targell II, and Frost Krist.

Nutmeg Editor Gets Award

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—A weekly newspaper editor whose editorial commentary was credited in part with winning freedom for a young man wrongfully accused of killing his mother was named the winner of the 1978 John Peter Zenger award given by the University of Arizona.

Robert H. Estabrook, publisher and publisher of the Lakeville, Conn. Journal, will receive the turquoise and silver Zenger plaque Jan. 20 at the annual award ceremony of the Newspaper Association, Donald W.

Carson, head of the UA Journalism department said.

Estabrook's selection for the honor of "distinguished service in behalf of freedom of the press and the security of the citizenry" was made through ballots sent to 325 newspapers throughout the United States.

The solid reporting and biting editorial commentary of his 6,000-circulation local weekly was a key factor in the awarding of the Zenger award, the 18-year-old who was wrongfully accused in the slaying of his father.

Reilly was convicted of manslaughter in the 1973 death of Barbara Gibbons. A new trial was subsequently ordered but the prosecutor died before the case came up again. Examination of the prosecutor's files disclosed the names of two witnesses who placed Reilly miles away from the murder scene shortly before the killing.

The witnesses were not called to testify. The case was still unresolved.

All-Star Choices Puzzle Murphy

NEW YORK—Calvin Murphy is frankly puzzled. The 5-foot-10 sharpshooter of the Houston Rockets would like to know what a fellow has to do to be picked for the NBA All-Star Game.

"Sure, I've always wanted to play in the game," said Murphy, an Eastern Conference candidate on the NBA ballot. "I have pride. But I can't understand why I never was chosen."

The statistics stoutly support Murphy.

This is his ninth NBA season. At the end of last year, he had 12,022 points, enough to put him 50th in the league's all-time standings. Since the start of this season, he has moved into the 47th spot, passing Willis Reed, Tommy Heinsohn and Johnny Green. Murphy, incidentally, is the only one in the top 50 never to have played in an All-Star Game.

He is the Rockets' all-time leader in games, points, assists and steals. Murphy is one of the NBA's greatest in NBA free throws, with an 880 career mark, topped only by Rick Barry's 896 and Bill Sharman's 894. This year he's again among the leaders.

"Despite what has happened, I still feel my game is good," Murphy said. "I thought I could get the coaches' vote, but they never voted me in. It was hopeful the Houston fans would vote for me when the balloting started four years ago. But Houston is a football town. They don't go that

Angels Bid Farewell For Carew

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—The California Angels have joined the bidding war for the services of Minnesota first baseman Rod Carew, it was announced Thursday.

The Angels are attempting to trade Carew before the end of the 1979 season when he becomes eligible as a free agent. Carew has the right to approve any trade and reportedly wants a $3.5 million contract.

The Twins are one of the clubs he has said he would consent to joining.

"We talked to the Twins this morning," said Angels Vice-President Buzzie Bavasi, "and they tell us we're No. 1 on Rod's list."

"Until now we had not pursued Rod for two reasons. One is that until the interleague trading deadline last Friday we thought we had a deal made with Philadelphia for a first baseman (Richie Hebner). Then, the Phillies said they wanted to wait until the next interleague period in February before making a decision.

"The second reason is that we had tightened our belt last year and financially I didn't want to put it in hold again without Gene's unqualified approval. Gene Autry (Angels owner) gave me that approval today, but we're still talking common sense. It comes down to economics for us."

"When Pete Rose got $850,000 a year for three years, I'm afraid Rod said to himself, 'Hey, I should be able to get $850,000 a year for five years.'"

Grogan Motivates Pats, Result Was Division Title

BOSTON—Mike Taliferro, John Hurte, Tom Yewick, Don Trull, Joe Kapp, Neil Gaff, Brian Downing, Jim Plunkett. Patriots? Yes. Playoff heroes? Not in New England.

Then, along comes Steve Grogan to achieve what eluded these quarterbacks of seasons past: a division title.

Last Sunday, the Patriots clinched a playoff spot by capturing the AFC Eastern title, their first since the 1963 American Football League days of the Boston Patriots.

New England's thrilling 26-24 comeback over Buffalo before 59,598 chilled fans in Schaefer Stadium under a post-season berth for the second time in three seasons. In 1976, Grogan's first full year as a starter, the Patriots qualified as the AFC Wild Card but were eliminated by the Super Bowl XI-bound Raiders 21-17 in Oakland. This year, Coach Chuck Fairbanks' club will have the home field advantage in the Divisional Playoffs on the weekend of December 30-31 against either Western Champion Denver or Wild Card Houston (if the Oilers defeat the Dolphins in the Dec. 17 first round).

New England completes its regular season schedule Monday night in the Grogan Bowl against the Dolphins (AFCV) and CBS-Radio at 9 p.m. EST. Miami Coach Don Shula is one of Grogan's biggest admirers and gives the fourth-year quarterback a great deal of credit for the Patriots' recent success.

"Grogan has proven that he is a winner," says Shula. "He gets the job done. There was a lot of early criticism about him but he gets it done when he has to. They've won a lot of games with him behind the center. He's a great athlete. He's strong, a good runner, and a tremendous competitor. I've had to compete against him twice a year over the last three seasons and, from my view on the field, I don't see all the problems a lot of other people seem to."

"People say I run too much and don't throw enough." Grogan says. "Last year only two teams in the whole league threw fewer times than I, and we ranked 10th in the AFC in passing yardage. I think that's because my running makes me a better passer. It keeps the defense loose and adds dimension to our offense that some other teams don't have. Sometimes, I just feel we need something to get the momentum going, so I run a little more. My idea of quarterback isn't one of those guys who runs out of bounds to protect himself. I like to run, so I do it. Despite what people might believe, I don't take foolish chances."

Grogan has earned the admiration of teammates and opponents with clutch performances like last Sunday's final winning drive against Buffalo.

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Cincinnati Reds Manager John McNamara completed his four-man coaching staff by adding long-time friend and veteran coach Harry Dunlop.

Dunlop, 46, who grew up with McNamara in Sacramento, Calif., was a coach for Kansas City and the Chicago Cubs from 1969 through 1976. He also spent 10 years managing the minor leagues, including the last two with Wichita of the American Association.

McNamara earlier named Bill Fischer to be his pitching coach. Coaches Russ Nixon and Ron Plaza will be the only two coaches returning to Cincinnati's front office.

The spokesman said DeLaurentis was complaining about fees Boston unions charged for weekend work and meant to

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Her Problem: A Buss Stop

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 20-year-old girl who works at a place that's way out in the sticks and not easy to get to. My problem is a neighbor who's given me a ride to work and back for nearly a year. He's about my father's age. It call him Pops to keep him in his place.

I started giving Pops a little peek on the clock every time I said goodbye. It was just a friendly little kiss, but now he's started to grab me and kiss me long and hard on the lips!

I know I shouldn't have started up with him in the first place, but I never thought he'd act like that.

I don't drive. This man picks me up at home every morning and drops me off at work. If I need a ride home, he'll know I'm there. He's never asked for a dime, so he's right there to take me. He's never asked for a dime, so he's right there to take me. He's never asked for a dime, so he's right there to take me.

The free transportation was a good deal before he got so chummy. How can I keep his hands off me without losing my rides?

TOUGH PROBLEM IN CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: You probably can't. Thanks to inflation, the price of everything keeps going up, and what you need to get a peek on the clock might soon cost you a stop at a motel. So kiss the free rides goodbye, and find other transportation.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for your answer to CALIFORNIA PARENTS who were angry with a doctor for treating their 15-year-old son for VD without telling them. They ought to thank that doctor, not reproach him. I don't remember I thought I had VD. I was only 17 and had had enough for me to confess my fears to a doctor, but had it been necessary to tell my parents I wouldn't have gone, and I just couldn't face them with that kind of problem.

As it turned out, I didn't have VD, but I got a much appreciated lecture and some very good advice from a very understanding doctor.

GRATEFUL GIRL

DEAR GRATEFUL: Many readers disagreed with me, but I heard from many doctors and nurses who said, "Right on. Read on for a letter from a registered nurse."

DEAR ABBY: I was pleased to see that I let in your column concerning miners and VD because I work in a clinic where VD is treated and I know how serious the problem has become.

It takes a lot of guts for a kid to come in for treatment. If miners were told that their parents would be notified, at least some of them would walk out untreated. Then what? Unchecked, they might end up sterile, suffer blindness, a crippling disease or a serious nervous disorder.

And what about the number of people they might infect? Many girls never even know they have it until they are hospitalized with a serious pelvic infection.

Those parents ought to thank their lucky stars that their raised a kid who had enough courage and a sense of responsibility for his or her actions to report to a doctor who, backed by the law, was able to treat him.

AN R.N., PORTLAND, ORE.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new headliner, 13-year-old "Youngster Wants to Know," writes Abby 132 Lady Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Send $5 and a long, stamped (25-cent) self-addressed envelope, please.

thing. Neither finess worked for him this time, but he had not needed to try them.

Here is the winning line of play: Win the heart in dummy, cash the top spades, lead a third diamond and ruff with the 10 of trumps. Now lead a low trump to dummy. West will lead a low trump, you make seven. But West is too smart for that. He rises with his queen and leads another heart.

It is in your hand to lead a second low trump to dummy. Ruff another diamond, discard a low trump, get to dummy with a heart and discard your queen of spades on a good diamond.

Ask the Experts

A Kentucky reader asks what a gonorrhoe hand is. In many games there are several cuts, but no shuffling and cards are dealt five at a time. Five at a time and three at a time to the partners. Care of this new player. Individual questions will be answered. If accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.

Heathciff - George Gately

South wanted no time with his simple slam contract. He won the heart lead in dummy and lost a club. He then tried to West. Back came a second heart. South was this one in his own hand, drew trumps, got back to dummy with the remaining high heart, discarded two spades on the ace and king of diamonds, lost the spade finesse and the slam.

"Finesses work for every one else. Never for me," lamented South. He was right about one.

Silverstein Gets Army Citation for Human Services Work

VERNON — Lee M. Silverstein, director of Human Services and Alcoholic Care at Rockville General Hospital, has received a citation from the Department of the Army, Military Traffic Management Command, Eastern Area.

The citation was presented in appreciation of Silverstein's instruction in human services to members of the Army's Employee Assistance Program Advisory Council.

Silverstein, author of the book "Consider the Alternative," is continuing his lecture tour of the United States and Canada. In January he will address the Greater Phoenix (Arizona) Alcohol Counselors and Centers. His topic will be the counseling techniques and program development at Rockville Hospital in the area of alcoholism.

Also in January, Silverstein will be in Colorado Springs, Col., to address the chief counselors of the Army. The counselors who will attend this session will be from Army installations all over the world.

Coffee Celebration

The Human Services Department will sponsor its annual New Year's Eve "coffee celebration" in the hospital's emergency department's waiting room from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. on Sunday.

Silverstein, other staff members, and their families and members of volunteer organizations will be on hand to extend holiday hospitality.

Everyone is welcome to stop in and have a cup of coffee as their "one for the road."

AA Meeting

The regularly scheduled Sunday Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon meetings at the hospital will be held as usual on Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve. The meetings will start at 8 p.m. and will be in the hospital cafeteria on Christmas Eve and in the staff room, New Year's Eve.

"BAD" Program

The hospital is coming into the final week of its "BAD" Program (Buck-A-Day). The program was started as an incentive for employees to suggest ways the hospital can save money and pass the savings on to the patients.

Through last Friday the hospital administration received 352 ideas from staff members. Many need more study to determine their feasibility and some need research to assign them an accurate dollar savings.

So far, 64 ideas have been implemented, representing a savings of $14,181. The administration said this figure will climb as dollar savings are computed for those ideas whose dollar value haven't been determined.

The employees submitting prize-winning ideas have received little gifts in return. The winner of a "BAD Guy" vest this past Friday was Dick LeBlanc of the nursing department.

The nursing staff, which makes up the largest group of employees, also had the largest number of participants in the program. Of the entire staff, there was 41 percent paricipation in the program.

Some of the money-saving ideas presented this past week included the dispensing of handwashing soap from a small bottle rather than the large bucket which promotes waste. This was submitted by Helen Paniezko of the dietary department and would mean a savings of about $100 a year.

Zoanne Bazzini, of the laboratory, shared her idea on saving time and money with a new patient record system which would result in saving about $390 a year.

Business office employee Betty Karpuska suggested that time could be saved by eliminating an extra sheet in the emergency room record form. This would save about $350 a year.

A big money-saving idea came from Diana Burke of the laboratory. She suggested that certain cultures be evaluated by the nurse epidemiologist so as to eliminate unnecessary tests resulting in a savings of some $1,000 a year.

Banned in most of Europe CBers enjoy little freedom abroad

By Ink Dipper

"Social discipline outweighs social advantages," wrote Lord Wells-Pesell, of the British Home Office, in turning down a request by Englishmen that the CB services there should be allocated to 235 megacycles. He said it would conflict with other necessary services utilizing that part of the spectrum.

The freedom CBers enjoy in the United States is unusual. Sometime ago it was noted in this column that, except for Australia and Canada, many countries had already banned citizens band radio, or were seriously considering it.

In England, it is reliably reported, a black market in CB gear has sprung up. Units that sell in the United States and Canada for $50-$65 are worth four times as much. In Germany, according to the same source, hefty fines are now being imposed for any use of citizens band. We put the CB question to representatives from a number of European countries. CB has been banned so that the spectrum can be utilized for "more meaningful services," came the reply from embassies of Germany, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark and Italy.

Fritz Donat, of the German Embassy, surmised in a recent interview that the restrictions in his country are the result of misuse, both currently and potential. He pointed out that the vast variety of languages in a comparatively small land area make monitoring by local police virtually impossible, particularly if terrorists or gangsters wished to use the medium for illicit activities.

By Japanese law possession of a CB is not unlawful. Transmitting is not; therefore, an estimated 20,000 unauthorized operations take place daily.

In one prefecture in western Japan, police reportedly found a secret CB club with 995 members. The Ministry states that the biggest offenders of their rules are motorists and truckers. Americans and Canadians
