Layoffs Stated

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Trying desperately to prevent municipal bankruptcy and a state takeover of Cleveland's finances, Mayor Dennis Kucinich prepared plans today to lay off 3,500 municipal employees — including half the city's police and firefighting forces.

Temple's Will

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (UPI) — The People's Temple of the Rev. Jim Jones planned to will more than $7 million to the Soviet Communist Party to help "the oppressed peoples all over the world."

The information was contained in letters presented Sunday at a coroner's inquest into the slaying of Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., and the subsequent mass suicide-murder at Jones' Guyana commune Nov. 18.

One letter signed by Annie G. Moore, 70, a nurse and the cult's financial secretary, was addressed to Soviet Embassy official Fedor Timoshev.

It said, "I am doing this on behalf of the Peoples Temple because we as communists want our money to be of benefit for and to help the oppressed peoples all over the world or in any way your decision-making body sees fits."

Assassin Try

TOKYO (UPI) — A knife-wielding man posing as a reporter today tried to assassinate Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira as the conservative politician was about to leave his official residence, police reported.

Police officials said Ohira narrowly escaped injuries but that two private guards who subdued the suspect, identified as Sumio Hirose, 21, suffered minor cuts.

Hirose was placed under arrest and taken into custody. Reporters assigned to cover Ohira, who became Japan's prime minister Dec. 7, reported that Hirose had been in the press room of the prime minister's residence since earlier in the day.

Battered Dollar

Oil Price Effect Due Soon

Yule Brings Happy Talk From Neighbor Governors

By CHARLIE MAYNARD
Herald Reporter

GLASTONBURY — Not to be outdone by the Camp David summit, and before Jimmy Carter holds talks with Soviet and Chinese leaders, the governors of Nayaug and Connecticut held their own summit conference Sunday to further "cement relationships between the neighboring states."

The occasion was the 21st annual Nayaug Carol Sing in South Glastonbury, located behind Nayaug Gov. Elmer Gardiner's residence on Tryon Street.

The two chiefs of state, their spouses and the good citizens of the 51st state sang Christmas carols and Nayaug folk songs, accompanied by a five-piece brass band.

Connecticut's governor arrived at 4:05 p.m. Mrs. Grasso, reputed to be the only Democrat who ever carried Nayaug in an election, presented a proclamation honoring the "good old-fashioned 51st state."

"Whereas the 51st state," she said, "is the scene of the 21st annual carol sing . . . and even the angels on high don't invoke a sound as sweet as that . . . I propose a meeting in January to cement the relationship between the neighboring states."

Mrs. Grasso proposed an exchange of diplomats and chocolate chip cookies, accompanied by a one-gun salute.

The meeting will be held at her Windsor Locks home.

Gov. Grasso also brought accolades to retired Col. Louis O. House III, the man in charge of Nayaug's elevating him to general. The star can be worn on either shoulder.

To accentuate the peaceful nature of the Nayaug denizens, House said, "We have no weapons here except for love and peace."

"Those are the most formidable weapons of all," replied Mrs. Grasso. Gov. Grasso appeared relaxed and jovial at the event. "This is the only place the governor can come and really enjoy herself," said Ruth Witherspoon, Nayaug's social director.

Nayaug first caught the governor's attention two years ago when the self-proclaimed 51st state asked for amnesty for Lord Cornwallis, the Redcoat leader against the patriots in America's fight for independence.

Since then, she's kept contact with the state, Mrs. Witherspoon said. Meanwhile, the other governor, Elmer Gardiner, had little to say. He welcomed both Mr. and Mrs. Grasso to the state and concurred: "I've said it all."

It was later reported that Gardiner would try again for the presidency in 1980.

His platform will be "Bring the St. Louis Browns back to St. Louis."

The surplus from his last presidential campaign will be deposited in a NOW account, earning .04 interest per month. The dividends will be used for the next campaign, as an inflation hedge, and "as a possible bet on the Red Sox next year."

Announcements were intermingled with Christmas songs, folk songs about Nayaug and one chorus of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," sung by Ella, Tommy, (Grasso), Esther (Gardiner) and Elmer.

No one seemed to mind the blustery winds and the menacing sky, although Mrs. Witherspoon admonished the crowd to keep warm by wiggling their toes.

There were other health warnings from the Nayaug state physician. Cold weather brought on the threat of the state disease — hemorrhoids.

Dr. Archibald Asoulbrook said, "Keep standing, run around, but don't sit down."

It was left to Nayaug historian E.P. Mangan to provide the final tribute.

Mangan quoted Gardiner as saying "the light at the end of the tunnel is off." Apparently, the 1924 Lincoln penny fell out of the fuse box. It was put back and the light was on again.

"You might say," quipped Mangan, "that Nayaug has tunnel vision."

By United Press International Americans will start feeling the first effects of the latest OPEC price increase almost immediately.

That was the initial reaction of the utilities, the transportation industry and countless other oil-dependent businesses who were attempting today to assess the impact of OPEC's decision to increase the price of crude oil by a total of 14.5 percent next year.

The price increases, announced Sunday by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will take effect in four stages, with the first one, of 5 percent, slated for Jan. 1.

The response was almost immediate: a spokesman for Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, for example, said 2 cents will be added to the price of gasoline within the next two weeks.

Consolidated Edison Co., which provides electricity for about 3 million customers in New York City and Westchester County, predicted the full price increase for oil to run its power generating plants would boost its own rates by 4 percent.

Con Ed also has 2,400 steam customers in Manhattan, all owners of large buildings, and their rates were expected to shoot up 10 percent.

In Washington, Energy Secretary James Schlesinger predicted an overall increase of 5 to 6 cents a gallon at the gasoline pump next year because of the OPEC hike and because of an expected shortage in unleaded gasoline.

Although the administration seemed resigned to the first increase, it urged OPEC to reconsider imposing the other three hikes.

Noting the full hike would add another half percent to the rate of inflation in the United States, Schlesinger said: "We would hope . . . that these price increases slated for the other three-quarters of the year will be reviewed in view of the circumstances at that time."

The price increases also eventually will be felt in the cost of kerosene, the fuel for airplanes. Jim Kennedy, a spokesman for United Airlines, explained it this way:

"If the cost of kerosene is increased by 1 cent a gallon, it boosts our fuel bill, now at $437 million, by several millions a year. Certainly the increase in any magnitude of this type is eventually borne by the consumer."

However, he said he could not predict the specific effect of OPEC's 14.5 percent increase.

The overall reaction by the administration, and many businesses, was one of dismay at the size of the hike.

"You don't necessarily prosper by impoverishing your customers," said Alfred Kahn, the administration's top inflation fighter. "We are terribly disappointed. It can only enormously complicate our job of holding inflation in check."

Herb Hugo, senior editor of Platts Oilgram, said the 14.5 percent figure came as a surprise.

"Things had been looking rosy," he said. "Saudi Arabia had been trying to hold the price at 5 percent and everyone thought that the price would not go higher than 10 percent."

For some companies, the effect was not expected to be dramatic.

Stanley Ragone, president of Virginia Electric and Power Co., said his utility's consumption of oil, which has been declining steadily, will drop once again next year with the opening of a fourth nuclear power plant.

And Charles Boyd, a spokesman for Arizona Public Service Co., the electric utility serving Phoenix, said, "We don't use much oil for generation — only a small amount — and most of the oil we do buy is domestic."

Goodwill Follows Choice on China

HONG KONG (UPI) — In a flush of goodwill between China and the United States, Americans visiting Shanghai were cheered by their hosts and Radio Peking announced today two peace envoys would be dispatched to Taiwan.

Leonard Woodcock, chief of the U.S. liaison office to Peking, said Americans favor normalization of relations with Peking and predicted it would lead to expanded economic and cultural contacts with the two nations.

Woodcock also announced Sunday that Vice Premier Teng Hsiaoping will visit the United States Jan. 29.

American tourists sang "God Bless America" and "Home on the Range" to the applause of Chinese at a banquet in Shanghai shortly after President Carter's announcement Friday night that relations would be normalized Jan. 1.

The Chinese responded by singing their national anthem and clapping merrily as American visitors toured the streets of Shanghai.

Americans in Peking joined Chinese at newspaper stands to buy a special edition of the People's Daily, the official Communist Party newspaper, bordered in red to mark the historic occasion.

Woodcock, former president of the United Auto Workers, was widely quoted by the official New China News Agency.

"There will be a substantial additional improvement in our relationship, commercially, culturally and in areas particularly of science and technology," Woodcock told a news conference in Peking.

Citing earlier agreements on an exchange of scholars, students and delegations, Woodcock said, "There are many things that possibly will be speeded up somewhat by virtue of our new relationship."

"The American people have been substantially in favor of the normalization with the People's Republic of China for some time and I am sure the action is met with wide support," Woodcock said.

Israel Won't Talk With U.S. Proposal

By United Press International Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said today Israel will not resume peace talks with Egypt unless Cairo drops recent treaty proposals endorsed by the United States. Egypt accused Israel of obstruction and "prevarication."

The exchange came after the deadline for signing an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty passed. The deadline Sunday was marked by a terrorist bombing in Jerusalem and an Egyptian columnist predicted today the United States will soon sacrifice Israel as it did Taiwan.

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman quoted Dayan as telling his staff: "I do not think Israel will initiate a renewal of the negotiations."

Dayan's remarks were in reaction to a statement Sunday by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance in which he said he hoped Israel would reconsider its rejection Friday of the 1977 proposals brought from Egypt.

The four proposals were:

— To Set December, 1979, as the target date for implementing Palestinian self-government in the occupied West Bank of Jordan and the Gaza Strip.

— To exchange ambassadors only after self-government was in operation in Gaza.

— To change Article 4 to provide for a review of the security arrangements in Sinai after five years.

— To attach a letter to Article 6 that effectively would not give the treaty priority over Egypt's defense obligations to its Arab allies.

Police Anger Area Man In Defense of Property

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

ANDOVER — An Andover man's use of arms in defense of his property caused disagreement between the resident, Robert Post, and a state policeman Saturday. At that time Post alleges he caught two men taking trees from his property and held them at bay with a rifle until the police arrived.

Post, the owner-operator of Burnap Brook Farm on Route 6, said about 20 years ago he planted a variety of trees for ornamental and conservation purposes on a two-acre area of his property. The trees now range in size from nine feet to 20 feet tall.

Post visits the area frequently as it is his favorite and he like to keep it clean.

Two weeks ago, while walking the area, Post noticed about 18 trees were missing — they have been cut about three feet off the ground. He became very upset and started checking the area at different times but all he found was more trees missing.

He said the police were called but he didn't hear from them and he didn't see them check the area.

So Saturday afternoon, just before dark, he took his sleeping bag and rifle and went to the area, planning to camp there for the night.

As he was setting up for the night, he saw "two guys lugging a tree out."

Post said, "I fired one shot into the air and told them to put their hands in the air and come out, which they did."

Post said he marched the two men to the nearest neighbor and asked them to call the police.

Post said when the police arrived one of them "started in on me because I had a rifle and I was in big trouble."

Post said, "I explained to the officer I was missing about 30 or 40 trees and had just caught these two men, but the officer said he couldn't arrest them because then he would have to arrest me because I had the rifle."

Post said, "The officer told me the judge would take my farm and everything I have and hand it to those two guys."

According to Post the officer then asked what the tree was worth and I told him $25. "The officer then told me, you better settle for that and call it a day," Post said. "And he told the two guys I caught to hurry up and pay it so we can get out of here."

Post said, "I kept thinking, should I place myself under arrest or not but the officer's statement that the judge wouldn't be concerned with anything except the fact that I had a rifle and would give everything I own to those two thieves frightened me." So Post accepted the $25 for one tree.

Taiwan Ups Arms Budget In Wake of U.S. Moves

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — Taiwan said today it will increase its military budget to develop and manufacture advanced weapons, including long range missiles that sources said may be armed with nuclear warheads.

In a speech to an emergency meeting of the Central Committee of the ruling Kuomintang Party, Premier Y.S. Sun said all steps would be taken to guard Taiwan against the consequences of the decision by the United States to recognize the communist government in Peking and end its defense pact with Taiwan.

Military observers noted Sun made no mention of whether the proposed "long range missiles" would be equipped with nuclear warheads.

"But you don't spend billions of dollars on such weapons to send a firecracker," one informed Western military source said.

Taiwan already has assembled the necessary facilities to reprocess spent nuclear fuel from power plants and produce plutonium to develop nuclear arms, the source said.

The central committee session today was closed to reporters but a copy of Sun's speech circulated among some newspapers.

"We now have an army of more than half a million men whose morale is high and a reserve force of more than 2 1/2 million," Sun said.

"We are going to increase our military budget in the future, modernize the equipment of our armed forces, increase our purchases of advanced weapons and also to improve our own capabilities of manufacturing important new weapons. These include new types of warships, mines, heavy artillery and long range missiles."

The Nationalist Chinese government has periodically vowed not to manufacture nuclear weapons, but reminded the world it had the capacity.

Sun also said the government was using its martial law powers to "take all necessary precautions to keep military units on increase alert."

Vernon Group Asks Time To Document Grant Bids

VERNON — The recently formed Village Street Area Neighborhood Association, which made a presentation at a recent hearing of the Planning Commission, is asking for more time to document requests concerning an application the town will be filing for a Community Development grant.

The Planning Commission and the Town Planner have already prepared a priority list for the application and the list doesn't include requests made by the organization.

John Kaminski, spokesman for the organization, said the neighborhood has serious problems but also listed several "positive" things about the neighborhood.

The Town Council is scheduled to act, at its meeting tonight, on the priority list prepared by the town planner and the Planning Commission. The neighborhood group is asking the council to defer action for a short time to allow the group to work with town staff in "preparing whatever additional documentation is necessary to justify our proposals for priority consideration."

"We also believe that the town should seriously consider applying for a $1.2 million Small Cities Comprehensive Grant rather than the $600,000 small Cities Single Purpose Grant now being considered," Kaminski said.

The town has a chance of applying for the one-time smaller grant or a larger grant which would be allotted over several years. The organization feels that the larger grant has significant advantages, not the least of which is related to the organization's proposal for a teen center.

The group has also recommended a number of immediate actions the council could take with resources it says are available now.

The group recommends continued processing of more applications for the Owner-Occupied Rehab Program in the Village Street area.

The group also recommends full implementation of the Investor-Owned Rehab Program "including rigorous and fair code enforcement and demolition and preservation of condemned properties as necessary."

Another item suggested was to provide relocation assistance, short of monetary benefit, for any tenants who are displaced by rigorous code enforcement and street and drainage improvements to Becker Place and Village Street.

Also suggested was updating the Union Street traffic improvement project and pursuing it to completion along with implementation of an agreement with the developers of the Envelope Factory property to renovate the "toddlers" playground on W. Main Street.

The organization suggests, as long-term proposals, for inclusion in the grant application in an attempt to swing front money for the plot from Charles E.N. Rose, a St. Louis heating and air conditioning contractor.

Cosgrove and Mendenhall, who met while working as salesmen for the same insurance company, originally were charged with conspiring to steal the USS Trepang from New London, Conn. However, the charge was changed Dec. 6 to wire fraud, and the government began to argue the plot was too incredible to have been anything but a swindle scheme.

ACLU Seeks Creche Ban

CHICAGO (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union has filed suit to ban nativity scenes from government property, charging the use of public money violates constitutional separation of church and state.

"We think it is dangerous to all religions when the government becomes involved," said Jay A. Miller, executive director of the ACLU's Illinois Division.

In another controversial case, the ACLU earlier this year defended the right of a neo-Nazi group to march in the heavily Jewish suburb of Skokie.

In particular, the ACLU is critical of nativity scenes in City Hall and at Water Tower Park.

"The nativity reflects an attitude. It promotes one religion," Miller said. "We are not talking about Christmas trees and Santa Claus, but the nativity was taken from the Bible and it is clearly a religious thing."

Miller's organization filed its suit Friday in U.S. District Court and a hearing is slated today before Judge Thomas R. McMillen.

"I have problems when people try to draw lines like that," said Rev. Timothy J. Lyle, pastor of Holy Name Roman Catholic Cathedral, located a few blocks from the Water Tower's nativity scene.

"I think we have grown up in a country in which religion is part of our culture. Religion does not exist in a vacuum, but it seems that's what we're trying to do (through the ACLU suit)."

Woman Dies in Crash; Firemen Skid on Way

COVENTRY — Joan E. Hemingway, 31, of Willimantic, was pronounced dead at the scene of a two-car accident on Route 196 in Coventry at 2:15 a.m. Sunday, and the driver of the other car, Kathy A. Murphy, 27, of Duncaster Lane, Vernon, has been charged with negligent homicide with a motor vehicle.

A Coventry fire engine responding to the report of the accident was heavily damaged after it skidded on the ice-covered roadway in Mansfield.

Mrs. Hemingway was the passenger in a vehicle driven by her husband, George E. Hemingway, which was traveling west on Route 196.

Ms. Murphy was traveling east, police said, slid on the icy pavement, crossed the center dividing line, and struck the Hemingway vehicle.

Hemingway was admitted to Windham Community Memorial Hospital with a fractured arm and abdominal injuries and was listed in good condition.

Ms. Murphy and three passengers in her car, were all treated and released at Windham and Rockville hospitals. The passengers were: Matthew Lilly, 26, of Huntington Beach, Calif.; Michael Foster, 27, of Kings Park, L.I., N.Y.; and Barbara Smith, 25, of Duncaster Lane, Vernon.

When the fire truck skidded, it knocked down several guardrails before going down an embankment.

Sub Plot Was Front?

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The government is expected to argue in court this week a plot to steal a nuclear submarine was a front for a scheme to try to bilk a businessman of $30,000.

The argument was stated to be advanced in U.S. District Court, where James W. Cosgrove, 26, of Geneva, N.Y., was scheduled to go on trial today on a reduced charge of wire fraud.

The trial was scheduled to begin after sentencing of Edward J. Mendenhall, 24, of Rochester, N.Y. A jury Thursday night deliberated only 17 minutes before finding Mendenhall guilty of wire fraud in the same case.

Sentencing was set by Judge James H. Meredith. Maximum punishment on the charge is five years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Mendenhall was convicted of using the telephone in an attempt to swindle front money for the plot from Charles E.N. Rose, a St. Louis heating and air conditioning contractor.

Cosgrove and Mendenhall, who met while working as salesmen for the same insurance company, originally were charged with conspiring to steal the USS Trepang from New London, Conn. However, the charge was changed Dec. 6 to wire fraud, and the government began to argue the plot was too incredible to have been anything but a swindle scheme.

White House To Seek Federal Pay Overhaul

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House will seek an overhaul of the federal structure in the new Congress as a sequel to its 1978 civil service reform, plus deregulation of the rail, trucking and perhaps busing industries.

The multi-item legislative agenda planned by the White House for the 96th Congress also includes a strong, early push for an innovative proposal that would help ease the inflation burden on certain workers, it was learned.

The major item on President Carter's schedule today was a meeting of the National Security Council. Carter and his wife spent the weekend at the Camp David, Md., the 38th weekend they have been at the mountaintop retreat.

The legislative agenda, prepared by Vice President Walter Mondale, was disclosed in interviews with key White House staff members. Whether the agenda will be included in Carter's State of the Union address early next year is not yet known; one aide said no drafts on the address have been completed yet.

Two or three times on the agenda reflect Carter's frequent statements that his top domestic concern in 1979 will be inflation.

One is real-wage insurance, an innovative proposal in which wage earners who receive less than a 7 percent raise will get a tax break if the cost of living goes above 7 percent.

"The president will push for it as hard as anything," one aide said. He added that enactment will be difficult, in part because of lack of any previous congressional consideration of the proposal.

Fires Kill Seven In Massachusetts

BOSTON (UPI) — State fire marshals today begin investigating the causes of two separate house fires that claimed seven lives Sunday in eastern Massachusetts.

A Christmas party ended in tragedy when fire ripped through the two-story home of Philip Martin, 56; his wife, Ellen, 52 in the Boston suburb of Natick. The couple and their son, Stephen, 22, died in the blaze.

Firefighters said they found three new smoke detectors among Christmas gifts.

The Cape-style home was destroyed and officials were trying to determine whether the fire, that struck at 4:54 a.m., ignited from smoking materials.

Fire Chief Richard Fahey said it appeared the victims died from smoke inhalation and autopsies were scheduled.

Special police officer Robert Moller was on his way home from work when he spotted the second fire about 4:40 a.m. in Middleboro, about 35 miles south of Boston. Police said the officer tried to break into the Cape Cod style house to rescue Robert and Betsy Dunham and their two teen-age daughters, but was driven back by the fire and smoke.

He ran to a neighbor's house and called for help, but Fire Chief Joseph Oliver said the interior of the house was ablaze by the time firemen arrived.

The Dunhams, both 40, and their daughters, Deborah, 16, and Denise, 13, were pronounced dead at the scene. The fire followed an engagement party that had been given for Dunham's son, Michael, 21, who was away from home Saturday night, police said.

Fire officials said the house fire appeared to have been started by a wood stove, but further investigation was needed.

Oil Magnates

Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Oil Minister of Saudi Arabia told a news conference at the close of the Abu Dhabi OPEC meeting Saturday that he was not happy with the outcome. He said that he would have preferred a smaller increase than the decided 14.5 percent and also wanted small increments. Story on front page. (UPI photo)

Council Eyes Proposals For CD Grant Spending

VERNON — The Town Council will discuss the recommendation of George Russell, town planner, and the Planning Commission, for a list of proposals for the Community Development Block Grant funding application at its meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Memorial Building.

In connection with the application the council will also hear a request of the Village Street Area Neighborhood Organization to postpone its decision on the application to allow that group to work with the town staff to discuss its proposal for priority consideration.

Jane Lamb, a council member and chairman of the council's Fire Protection Study Committee, will make a recommendation for a new fire station on the south side of Interstate 88. The committee is recommending that the station be built in the Lake Street-Tunnel Road area and that the engine-tanker now housed in Company 2 station (the one the new station will replace) be moved to the new station and that two new pieces of equipment, yet to be bought, a brush truck and a 2,000-gallon capacity engine-tanker, also be housed in the new station.

The council will also hear reports on new personnel hired during the month of December, a revenue report for the month of November; budget reports for October and November; and the report of the Rockville Public Health Nursing Association for November. A letter from the Hockanum Valley Community Council concerning CEPA employees will also be discussed along with a request for the interdepartmental transfer of funds and the signing of a stipulation concerning a Freedom of Information complaint against the Fire Study Committee.

MACC News Council of Churches Prepare for Annual Appeal

Nancy Carr, Executive Director of the Council of Churches, says that it is "a fantastic response this year." She was really impressed with how much people brought in and how much they enjoy doing it. James describes one woman who came with a whole bag full of gifts for teen-age girls, saying that she had all girls and asked for ideas for gifts for teen-age boys. She then returned with a soccer ball and Frisbee for teen-age boys. Two Christmas spirited anonymous donors contributed gifts of $100 and $25 respectively only asking that it be "used for whatever was most needed for children."

Some 40 members of Sharing Families and Pat Pelletier gathered on Sunday to move the toys from Consumer Sales to Economy Electric in Dave Hartford's truck. Janet tells me everyone had a ball, which is good news indeed.

Christmas Sparkles — To the Policeman's Union, and specifically Sgt. John Hawthorne and Jerry Calve for the carload of new stuffed toys, dolls, trucks and games donated to our needy children.

— To Jeff Jacobs of WINP, Mrs. Swartz, new president of the Manchester Parkade Association and particularly to Marty of Consumer Sales for a most successful Toys for Joy Collection.

— To Dennis Santoro of the Lion's Den who has been most cooperative in making the Hospitality Center available for the Sant's Workshop.

Gigantic Christmas Party Sheridan Vernon of the Main Street 7-11 store came up with the Christmas inspiration of 1978. Knowing that a considerable amount of discontinued merchandise was sitting in a local warehouse, he received permission from the corporation to have it released to him to give the biggest Christmas party ever in Manchester.

So big in fact that the party was held at the Army and the National Guard helped move the estimated $75,000 worth of items. It certainly is shaping up to be quite a Christmas for us all.

"The Christians," a Division of Christian Unity is urging everyone to watch "The Christians," a 13-part series that traces the repercussions of Christianity on past and present civilizations. Four years in production, the Christians span 2,000 years of power, pagentry, philosophy and politics. The scope of its material ranges from the tiny Spanish village of Verges and the island monasteries of Ethiopia to ornate splendor of the Russian Orthodox Church and the austere American communities of the Old Order of Amish.

The Christians will air each Friday evening from 10 to 11 p.m. starting Friday evening and running every Friday till March 16, Program 1. "The Beginning," traces the first centuries of the development of Christianity. Starting at Palestine, the desert outpost of the Roman Empire, host Bomber Gascoigne discusses the spread of Christianity through the Roman Empire to Rome itself. Next, the program follows Constantine's march on Rome to claim his Empire's capital city and how he was converted to Christianity on the way. The program also explores the question of whether or not Christ was actually born in the Bethlehem stable.

Students Talk Frankly About Drugs and Booze

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — With three Manchester High School teachers and a police officer looking on, a group of high school students spoke frankly Friday about smoking grass and drinking liquor, peer pressure and relationships with their parents.

Their classroom comments were prompted by a follow-up on their reactions to the presentation that was made earlier this week by three inmates from the Enfield Correctional Institute. Members of a "Get Smart" team, they warned an audience of about 600 seniors about the dangers of getting hooked on drugs and alcohol, which led them to commit the crimes for which they were serving prison sentences.

"They weren't preaching, they were just trying to show us what could happen, trying to warn us," the youths commented. They unanimously agreed that the prisoners' sentences were just, and that they would probably "go straight" when let out on parole.

Then the dialogue became more personal and directed more to the youths' opinions about their own involvement with alcohol and drugs.

When asked by one of the teachers to give a show of hands for those who have smoked grass ("taken some herbs") or drunk liquor ("sucked the suds"), nearly all raised their hands. A few indicated that they had indulged, but no longer did.

The comments went like this: "We mostly get high on weekends. No way can you get high on a school night and get it all together the morning."

"There's no danger of getting hooked if you know your limits. You use your judgment."

One butted in and said, "That's the first thing that goes — your judgment."

When asked about peer pressure, the consensus was that peer pressure hits you when you reach junior high school, but that by high school, it becomes a matter of individual choice.

"Peer pressure isn't as great as society thinks it is," one senior observed. "You can take it or pass it."

But one young man said that when you're at a party where they're all either drinking, or smoking grass, "you figure you might as well join them." The same person, who no longer takes the herbs, acknowledged that he had never lost a friend by not indulging, but "some thought better of me because I sucked on a stick."

One senior chose not to follow the social whims of the crowd out of respect for his parents. He said he would not want to embarrass his parents, or to displease them.

This same student, however, said that when he goes to college and is on his own, he might do differently.

Most of the group felt their parents were aware that they smoked grass, drank, or both. Most said that their parents have offered to pick them up all a party if they feel they're unable to make it on their own. One senior, however, said his parents had warned him that if they ever caught him on any drugs (liquor included), they would offer to help him out of his jams.

One girl's mother has tried smoking grass, to see what it's like and what the young people see in it. "She got sick and didn't like it," the girl said. But the girl also said that she believes parents should know if their kids are on drugs or liquor. "How else can you maintain perfect trust between you and your parents unless you're honest with each other?" she asked. She agreed she would want her parents to know.

The group felt that most parents were aware whether or not their children were using drugs or liquor. Some also said that parents have to set an example, by their attitudes. Most agreed that most parents drink anyway, "social drinking," and some parents smoke or have smoked grass.

They also agreed that they wouldn't hesitate to warn or advise a friend they thought might be getting hooked. "But we couldn't tell them what to do, they would have to decide for themselves," they said.

Most felt that the social indulgence aspect in high school, the desire to "relax and get high," would diminish after high school. "After high school, you settle down," one said. "At college, you're on your own and have to spend more time studying. It's your choice to go to college, and because of that, you'll be more serious and settle down." Another said that those who get jobs after high school will also have to settle down and be "more on their own" to keep up a good work record.

One girl waited after class to say that although she had drunk and smoked grass "a little," she knew it wouldn't become a habit, and she wouldn't do some things she might otherwise do because "they really made an impression on me," she said referring to the "Get Smart" presentation.

She may be one of those referred to by one of the prisoners who said the team would feel they had been successful if they could prevent any of the seniors from committing one of their mistakes.

The decision was unanimous, among the group, however, that "we really think we have to find out for ourselves."

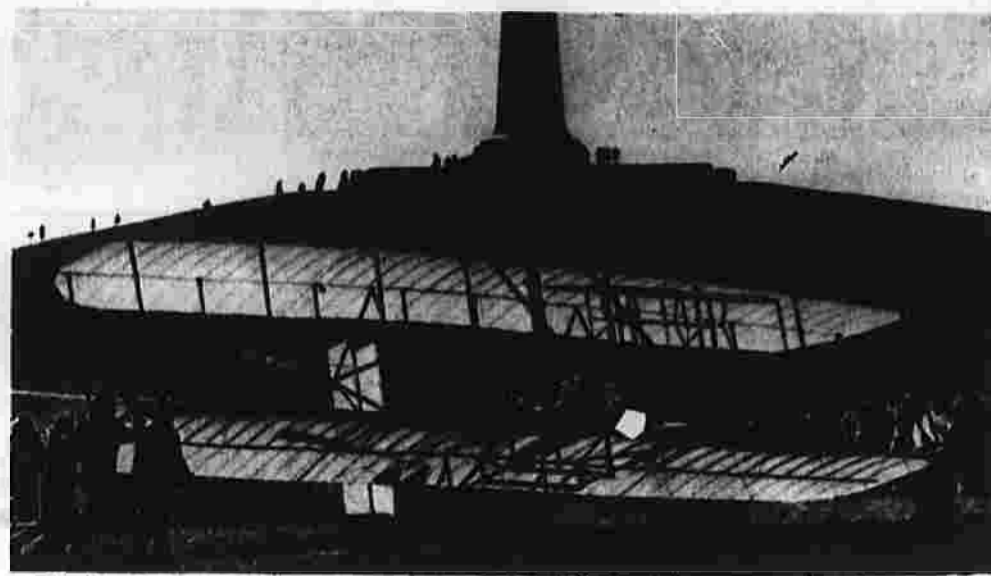

Officer James McCooe, public relations officer for the Manchester Police Department, plays a big part in the law and social study program at the high school, in cooperation with Elgin Zatursky, who teaches the law and order class. Until the police department began its renovation program the law and order classes were held at the department.

The kids have become accustomed to seeing McCooe, in his uniform, in the school halls. Once they used to hiss "Pig" at him, but now he gets a friendly reception.

SNET Workers Survey Shows Stress Increase

HAMDEN (UPI) — Southern New England Telephone Co. commercial-marketing employees are turning to alcohol and prescription drugs to ease stress stemming from mounting work-related pressures, a union survey reports.

The 900-member Connecticut Union Telephone Workers said it conducted the mail survey in response to growing complaints of increasing job stress in the department, but no longer did.

The union said the problem has caused both morale and productivity to decrease, and is adversely affecting customer service as well as each worker's family life.

Of the 228 who responded to the survey, 86 percent said "yes" when asked whether they were going home upset due to job pressures.

Thirty-nine percent said they're drinking — liquor, 32 percent said they're taking tranquilizers and medicine to calm their nerves and 12.3 percent said they are using both alcohol and drugs, a potentially lethal combination.

Additional questions indicated that 36 percent felt a need for counseling by an outside expert. About 44.7 percent suffer from such illnesses as colitis, ulcers and high blood pressure directly related to job tension.

Understaffed offices and poor training were cited most often as the causes of stress, the union said.

Freshmen Congressmen Learn How to Do It Wisely

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Three dozen newly elected congressmen, having convinced voters they should be trusted to spend billions of tax dollars, last week went to Harvard to learn how to do it wisely.

Harvard's Institute of Politics sponsored the program, utilizing the university's faculty, professors from nearby Massachusetts Institute of Technology and top Washington officials.

This year's weeklong crash course was modified since it began as a pilot in 1972 for four new members of Congress. Seminars on the nuts and bolts of legislative life — how to run an office, introduce a bill, push it through the system — have been dropped. Such things are now taught in an orientation session in Washington run by Congress that took place earlier this month.

So the new lawmakers are given the opportunity for two weeks of orientation — one in Washington, one in Cambridge — a sharp contrast to before 1972 when a new member of Congress was rarely told how to find the bathroom.

Having dropped the nuts and bolts program, Harvard is emphasizing the congressional process and with the newly elected lawmakers will deal with when they take the oath of office next month. Among the topics are the federal budget, economy, taxes, health care, welfare, national defense and international relations.

The purpose of the program is to stretch, to broaden their views, their concept of both their own roles as congressmen in the overall governmental and political process and with the complex cross-cutting of issues they will be legislating about," said Jonathan Moore, director of the institute.

The new lawmakers are an experienced group. Some have been former leaders in their state legislatures and others have served on Capitol Hill as aides. Others are lawyers with experience as prosecutors and there is even a minister in the group.

"To me the nuts and bolts training has a more immediate use," said Ed Bethune, who last month became the first Republican to represent Arkansas' 2nd District — once considered the personal property of Wilbur Mills. "But I think over the long haul, the type of things we're dealing with here at Harvard will serve us better."

But William Ratchford, among the new members of the new congressmen, thinks the seminars will be just as valuable.

"I feel more comfortable becoming a new member of Congress and less intimidated by the process than I might otherwise be," said Ratchford, a former speaker of the Connecticut House and a member of Gov. Ella T. Grasso's cabinet.

Non-Food Shopping

NEW YORK (UPI) — One way to save money on your food budget. Comparison shop supermarkets and discount variety stores and drug outlets to determine which offers the best buys in non-foods such as cosmetics.

One cosmetics executive said recently the working woman is his best customer because she tends to use more beauty aids than other women, says Elaine Rose of Cornell University's extension service. Ms. Rose says working women often pay higher prices for cosmetics at food markets because they are trying to save time by patronizing only one store.

WASHINGTON — Let's put it this way: If you have a lousy, low-paying job and the government offered you a guaranteed minimum income that would meet your basic necessities, would you quit your job, or work fewer hours at it?

The income-maintenance program was tested among 4800 low-income families in Seattle and Denver. It found that all the beneficiaries worked less, especially blacks, Hispanics and teenagers.

But the income factor is involved. The concept of a free lunch has always been attractive. It explains, among other things, why members of Congress vote themselves fat pensions and corporate executives enjoy luxurious fringe benefits.

Education Today Teachers Building Political Clout

At the ballot box and in the national and state legislatures, teacherpower across America is translating as political clout.

The National Education Association, with 1.8 million members, fuels this movement. It helps elect candidates fine-tuned to education needs and then lobbies for education legislation.

Lee Roderick Taxpayers Pay for U.S. Diplomacy

WASHINGTON — "Anyone can be a diplomat if he has a big enough purse." That's how Republican Rep. George V. Hansen, a conservative from Idaho, characterizes the bills U.S. taxpayers are picking up to pay for the Carter administration's foreign policy initiatives.

Asked about the government's perennially expensive defense budget, the costs, chief State Department spokesman Holding Carter said, "This has been such an extravagant, mind-boggling tragedy that we decided to do the job. It's a one-time thing; we don't regard it as setting a precedent."

Never underestimate the influence of a prospective tax break on the consumer dollar. It is spent. The tax credits for home insulation expenditures written into the new National Energy Act are generally being greeted with surprising curiosity.

For individual homeowners, the insulation investment should yield both savings on fuel bills and on next year's federal tax return. The tax credit amounts to 15 percent up to a maximum of $300 for expenditures on home insulating materials, retroactive from April 20, 1977, through 1984.

McAdoo Returns with Bang, Tosses in 41 Points in Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Near the end of Willis Reed's tenure as New York Knicks coach, he wished aloud for the return of the injured Bob McAdoo. Current Coach Red Holzman had also been missing his Big Mac.

Can one man really make that difference? "What we saw was an outstanding performance by a truly great player," Atlantic Coach Hubie Brown said Sunday of McAdoo's return, which included 41 points and a 111-105 Knicks victory over the Hawks.

McAdoo, out of the lineup with a bruised toe since November 18, played 42 minutes to lead the Knicks to their second straight victory. The 6-foot-10 star made his appearance with 8:37 remaining in the first quarter and the Knicks trailing 12-2. He scored nine straight points, including a three-point shot from the floor and grabbed a game-

high 11 rebounds. McAdoo surprised himself with the amount of playing time he contributed. "I just had more energy than I thought I would," he said. "It's the first time in four weeks I really ran and jumped on the toe. But I was ready to play. I decided I had to be aggressive right away."

"The last time I was injured, I laid back a little and tried to get the feel of things when I got back. It didn't work so I learned from the last time and started to play right away."

Marvin Webster blocked six shots — including three in the pivotal third quarter when New York ran off nine straight points and grabbed the lead for the first time, 73-71, on a McAdoo basket. The Knicks took the lead for good early in the fourth quarter and led by

of the Bucks two years ago. Marquet Johnson added 19 for Milwaukee. Artis Gilmore scored 23 and John Mengelt 20 for Chicago.

Sixers 103, Lakers 96. Reserve guard Henry Bibby scored six points in the final two minutes to rally Philadelphia, which lost a 19-point, first-half lead. Los Angeles twice tied and score in the fourth period. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 25 points, but missed five of seven shots in the final period.

Trail Blazers 123, Nuggets 110. Tom Owens scored a career-high 35 points to lead Portland, which defeated Denver for the second time in three days. David Thompson, who was attacked by a man as he got off the team bus on arrival at Memorial Coliseum, was high for the Nuggets with 22 points.

Clippers 116, Suns 110. Lloyd Free, doubtful starter because of a sore back, scored eight of his 30 points in the final six minutes. Free has scored 20 or more points in eight games this year. Randy Smith, playing in his 546th consecutive game, scored 22 points for the Clippers. Phoenix's Alvin Adams led all scorers with 32 and Walter Davis added 27.

Very Regimented — COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Researchers at the University of South Carolina say many high school football officials are neither the free spirits nor the iron-willed rulers-pictured in referee stereotypes.

"They have to answer to higher-ups and are very regimented — shoes shined, hat on straight, et cetera," Dr. John Spurgeon said.

"They have to be very diplomatic about their gridiron confrontations. That's why you need someone who can smooth ruffled feathers rather than a pinstriped dictator."

as many as eight points with 2:10 remaining. The Hawks, 15-14, were led by John Drew, who scored only seven of his 24 points in the second half, and Dan Roundfield, who added 19.

Lavallois 101, SuperSonics 91. Campy Russell scored a game-high 23 points and Austin Carr added 19 in Cleveland's 12th victory in its last 13 games against Seattle. It moved the Cavaliers within 4 1/2 games of the Central Division lead. Jack Sikma, who also grabbed 21 rebounds, and Dennis Johnson topped the Sonics with 17 points each.

Warriors 104, Jazz 96. Sonny Parker led five Golden State players in double figures with 19 points. Clifford Ray added 16, Phil Smith 15 and Robert Parrish and Tom Luce 13 each as the Warriors snapped a three-game losing streak. Truck Robinson scored a game-high 26 points and Pete Maravich added 24 for New Orleans.

Bucks 117, Bulls 101. The Milwaukee bench, paced by Junior Bridgeman's 23 points, outscored Chicago's reserves 69-24 to spoil the first visit for Bulls' Coach Larry Costello since he left as coach

Kentucky Winning Streak Ends in Defeat to Indiana

NEW YORK (UPI) — Those easy warm-up games are almost all over, the holiday tournaments are 10 days away and last year's national champions have finally lost. The college basketball season has begun.

The end of Kentucky's 16-game winning streak, which came in a routing 66-47 over time to Indiana Saturday, wasn't really unexpected, but not anything either of those teams has been predictable so far this year.

The Wildcats — a young team that was rated 14th in the preseason poll — had apparently disproved those skeptics when they upset Kansas and jumped to sixth place in last week's ratings.

Indiana, meanwhile, having slipped off the charts from their preseason No. 11 placing with some spectacular early-season losses, seemed doomed to failure when three players were suspended and five more were put on probation for disciplinary problems early last week.

But logic failed once again as the Hoosiers prevailed and Kentucky dropped its first game since over-coming a loss at Louisiana State last season. Still, Wildcat Coach Joe Hall wasn't surprised.

The game went into overtime when Kentucky failed to sink a last-second shot. With the score tied at 58-58, the Wildcats were trying to get the ball to their playmaker Kyle Macy. Hall explained later.

Mike Woodson, one of five Hoosiers on probation, led all scoring with 27 points, including the two free throws in the final six seconds of overtime that gave the Hoosiers their victory. Ray Tolbert, also on probation, scored 21 points before fouling out.
