Gallbladder Colic

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 38-year-old female and for over a year I've been having pain in my right side where my gallbladder is located. I went to my doctor and he sent me to have my gallbladder and colon X-rayed, but nothing showed up. Then, he gave me some tablets for what he thought was a spastic colon. I still have the pain.

from time to time despite the tablets. I was hoping you could give me some information on gallbladder colic. I had never heard anything on this before I read one of your columns and you mentioned, briefly, that a low-fat diet was helpful for gallbladder colic. Could this possibly be my problem? If so, what other information could you give me about treatment of the colic? DEAR READER — It is unlikely that your pain is caused by gallbladder colic. Why? Because you don't have any gallstones. Most attacks of gallbladder colic are caused by sudden obstruction of the bile duct — usually from a stone lodged in it. The pain is quite severe and may be in the pit of the stomach or under the margin of the right ribs. Sometimes it radiates to underneath the right scapula (shoulder blade) or even into the side of the neck. It is often associated with vomiting. The pain is intense and persistent. It may last for several hours. After the pain goes away there may be residual soreness along the rib margin. The pain is sometimes in the pit of the stomach or under the margin of the right ribs. colic sometimes benefit from a low-fat diet. Fat stimulates the gallbladder to contract, resulting in colic. This is not true of either pure protein or carbohydrates. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-9, Gall Stones and Gall Bladder Disease. It will give you more information on this disorder. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101. Mild indigestive complaints, gasiness and nausea are often not related to gallbladder disease at all. Many of these patients have a spastic colon. The pain caused by the spastic colon where it bends under the rib cage near the gallbladder region may be confused with discomfort from gallbladder disease. When such patients have their gallbladder removed, often they don't get relief from their symptoms because the pain wasn't caused by the gallbladder to begin with. Of course, the doctor is sometimes in a difficult situation because the patient may have silent gallstones along with a spastic colon. At least 30 to 40 per cent of the patients who have gallstones don't have any symptoms from them. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

What's up in auto theft?

Think twice about parking your car on a Boston street. According to a recent survey by a leading insurance company, Seantown has the highest auto theft rate in the nation. Here are the auto theft rates per 100,000 people as well as the costs of a comprehensive theft policy on a medium-size car for eight U.S. cities:

City	Rate	Price
Boston	1,548	399
Chicago	691	152
Detroit	1,640	114
Houston	632	78
Los Angeles	880	81
Miami	515	67
New York	1,095	277
San Francisco	745	88

The national average is 446 thefts per 100,000 people. The average cost of a comprehensive theft policy on a medium-size car is $29. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Mob Storms Into Tehran As Oil Halts

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Thousands of anti-shah demonstrators stormed through Tehran today screaming "Yankee get out" and production in Iran's oilfields was completely halted in what Western diplomats said may be "the crunch" for Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. In its strongest statement yet, the Soviet Union today accused the United States of meddling in Iranian affairs and said the Carter administration has dispatched to State Department and CIA operatives to help the shah. Witnesses said a mob in Tehran attacked a car belonging to the Soviet Embassy, turned it upside down and set it ablaze. It was not immediately known if the driver or any diplomats were injured in the incident. "This is the crunch," said one Western diplomat. "Sometime in the next few days either the military is going to come in hard with something akin to a coup or the man on the hill (the shah) is going to leave." Iran has exported no oil for three days and long lines of cars waited outside every gasoline station in Tehran. In the rich southern oilfields, workers moved from well to well shutting off valves and bringing the flow of oil to a complete stop. Oil industry sources said production today would barely reach 200,000 barrels in a country that once produced 5.9 million barrels a day. Thousands of demonstrators filled the streets of the capital, where six consecutive days of violence has left at least 76 persons dead. The main streets were barricaded with bulks of burning cars, piles of stones and street signs. Troops wearing gas masks strode cautiously down the center malls while hands of demonstrators shouted "Death to the shah." Thousands of posters demanding "The shah must go" were plastered on the walls of nearly every central building and demonstrators took up the chant. One group of demonstrators set the office of the Israeli airline El Al on fire. The office had been ransacked by demonstrators at least twice during previous protests. "This situation is a disaster," said a Western diplomat. "The army can't get all these people off the streets or stop the burning." In Moscow, the official Soviet Communist Party daily Pravda said the United States was interfering in Iran's internal affairs in an attempt to protect its own interests. Pravda based its commentary on the fact that Washington had sent a special team of 60 diplomats and intelligence experts to Tehran to beef up the U.S. Embassy in the developing political crisis. "Formally this landing party went to Iran for an on-the-spot study of the situation — but in fact its members are looking for politicians who in their opinion could be included in a new government and work out ways so the shah could keep his power," Pravda said.

Pravda Says U.S. in Way

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, in its sharpest attack yet on U.S. involvement in Iran's crisis, charged today that Washington was interfering in Iran's internal affairs and attempting to keep the shah in power. The official Soviet Communist Party daily Pravda said the United States was interfering in Iran's internal affairs in an attempt to protect its own interests. Pravda based its commentary on the fact that Washington had sent a special team of 60 diplomats and intelligence experts to Tehran to beef up the U.S. Embassy in the political crisis. "The Soviet Union is strongly opposed to foreign interference in the internal affairs of Iran by anyone, in any form and under any pretext as was authoritatively and decisively declared," Pravda said. Blackstone Urges Vote Against Police Pay Hike

By CHRIS BLAKE Herald Reporter EAST HARTFORD — Citing the voluntary wage controls issued by President Carter and the salaries accepted in contracts by two town unions, Mayor Richard H. Blackstone has urged the Town Council to reject a state fact finder's recommendation for a 13 percent pay increase for police officers over two years. "It would appear that the award is not a reasonable award in comparison to other contracts negotiated and accepted by other bargaining units of the town," Blackstone said in a memo to the council. Officials said three survivors and four bodies, including the captain of the 315-foot Tenorga, had been recovered but feared that "the rest of the crew is lost."

Broker Urges Seeking Grant

By CHARLIE MANNARD Herald Reporter GLASTONBURY — The Housing Authority should aggressively pursue federal allocations under the Section 8 rehabilitation program, according to investment broker Dale Richter. Richter, who spoke at a Housing Authority Wednesday night because of "personal and professional interests" in the federal program, said the preliminary work should be completed soon to take advantage of any available funds. "You should get it with a full house and say, 'We've got the money — put up or shut up.' Richter told the commissioners. "You have a show then you're in."

Towing Stolen Car

This car that was involved in an accident on Interstate 86 this morning was later reported stolen from a Hartford parking lot, state police said. The driver of the car had left the scene before police and firemen arrived. The accident happened in the eastbound lane between Exits 93 and 94 in Manchester. Several guardposts were knocked down and the car went over an embankment and flipped over. Police and the Eighth District Fire Department searched the immediate area for the driver. FIX IT

By Herb Alexander If you do any amount of repair work around the house you will soon find a need for a chisel. This is no all-purpose tool. It fills a special need and, when the need exists, no other tool will do. With it you can cut and dig wood out of places that no other cutting tool will reach. The chisel is a metal tool with a forward edge that has been honed to a fine cutting edge. It has a wooden handle with a large, tough, comfortable end. You can pound on the handle without damaging it, hit it with your hand without hurting yourself. While there are many wood chisels marketed, the one called the bolt chisel is about the most useful. Get yourself a set consisting of, say, quarter-inch, three-eighths, half, three-quarters, and one-inch. There are other sizes but these will handle most jobs you are likely to encounter. The socket chisel has a handle that fits into a hole in the metal chisel. The fit is loose and the handle is easy to replace. Use a mallet (wood or leather) for hammering on a chisel handle but never a metal hammer. Eventually the handle end will become bettered; keep it smooth by sanding. You will need a chisel when you make a shallow mortise in doors and door-frames for hinges, deeper mortise for locks. To make a deep cut, make a straight cut at each end of the work to the right depth. Then, holding the chisel at an angle and driving it with the mallet, make shallower cuts. Keep the bevel side of the blade down. Clean out the cut by holding the chisel flat side down and leveling and tapping it or pushing it with your hand.

Cummings and Swensson Outspent Winners

MANCHESTER — Democrat Ted Cummings and Republican Elise "Bibi" Swensson, both losers in races for the state assembly, far outspent their victorious opponents.

Financial reports filed with the secretary of state's office show that Cummings outspent Republican Walter Joyner by more than $1,000 and Mrs. Swensson outspent Democrat Francis Mahoney by almost $2,000.

Joyner upset Cummings in Manchester's 12th Assembly District, and Mahoney easily won reelection to his sixth consecutive term in the 13th District.

The financial reports were due Dec. 22 and are the final ones filed by candidates in the 1978 election. They show final total for contributions and expenditures and provides detailed information about both for the period from Nov. 1-Dec. 22.

Cummings, Democratic town chairman who was seeking a third term in the house, received $4,103 in campaign contributions and spent all of it. The Manchester Democratic Town Committee also spent $222.48 on behalf of him.

Joyner received and spent $2,880.53.

Cummings received one contribution of $100 or more during the final reporting period, a $100 one from Connecticut Lawyers for Excellence in Government, a group with a Hartford address.

Joyner received one contribution of $100 or more for the period, $300 from the Connecticut Republican Finance Committee.

In the 13th District, Mrs. Swensson ran an active campaign and spent $2,612.34, all of what she received in contributions. Mahoney's campaign was a low-key one. He received $753 in contributions and spent $689.46.

The Democratic Town Committee also spent $222.48 on behalf of Mahoney.

Mrs. Swensson received a $186.85 contribution from the Republican Town Committee during the final reporting period, the only contribution of $100 or more listed by either candidate.

Despite his lack of expenses, Mahoney won routinely in November by a 4,228-3,074 margin.

While the two losers outspent the winners in the assembly races, the opposite was true in the two senatorial races involving Manchester.

State Sens. Marcella Fahey and David Barry, both of whom won by comfortable margins, outspent their opponents.

The race between Mrs. Fahey and Republican Esther Clarke in the Third Senatorial District was the most expensive campaign in the area. Each candidate spent more than $9,000.

The district includes all of East Hartford and part of Manchester.

Mrs. Fahey spent $9,685.11 of the $9,727.27 she received in contributions. Mrs. Clarke received and spent $9,109.86.

Barry, who won in the Fourth Senatorial District, spent $6,713 compared to the $2,420 spent by his Republican opponent, Fenton "Pat" Putner. Both spent all of the money they received in contributions.

During the final reporting period, Mrs. Fahey received contributions of $100 or more from the following persons and organizations: Connecticut Lawyers for Excellence in Government, Hartford, $150; Ophthalmic Political Action Committee, Bristol, $150; Connecticut Agents Political Action Committee, Wethersfield, $100; Frank C. Schroll, 85 Randolph Drive, Glastonbury, $100.

Mrs. Clarke received contributions of $100 or more from the following groups during the same period: Economic Political Industry Committee, Hartford, $300; Northeast Utilities Political Action Committee, Hartford, $300; Locette Political Action Committee, Newton, $300; Manchester Republican Town Committee, $202.86, the committee office had contributed $400; and Optometric Political Action Committee, Hartford, $100.

The following persons and organizations contributed $100 or more to Barry's campaign during the final reporting period: Fourth Senatorial District Democrats, 28 Berle Road, South Windsor, $256; Connecticut Republican Town Committee, $164.75; William Mitchell, 2 Christine Drive, South Windsor, $100; and Joseph M. Mitchell, 50 Brookfield St., South Windsor, $100. The Manchester Republican Town Committee also spent $175 on behalf of the candidate.

Mrs. Swensson received two $100 contributions during the same period from W.L. Brown, Derby, and Matthew M. Moriarty Jr., 52 Hillcrest Road, Manchester, a former mayor of Manchester.

Two Democratic Committees also spent money on behalf of Swensson. Manchester's spent $222.48 and South Windsor's spent $225.

In the Ninth Assembly District, which includes parts of Manchester and East Hartford, State Rep. Muriel Yacavone ran unopposed for reelection.

She spent $1,221, even though no one ran against her.

The East Hartford Democratic Town Committee spent $125 on behalf of Mrs. Yacavone and the Manchester Democratic Town Committee spent $120 on her behalf.

Grasso Renames Fourteen

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella Grasso today reappointed 14 high-level commissioners, including her budget chief Anthony Milano, to serve in her second-term administration.

All of the reappointments have to be submitted to the Legislature for approval.

Milano, a Bridgeport resident, will continue to head up the Office of Policy and Management, one of two major departments in Connecticut's reorganized government.

Mrs. Grasso also made the following reappointments:

- Leonard Krog of East Granby, agriculture commissioner;
- David Neiditz of West Hartford, banking commissioner;
- Joseph Mike of Bristol, insurance commissioner;
- Francis Maloney of Storrs, children and youth services commissioner;
- Mary Heslin of Hartford, consumer protection commissioner;
- John Manson of Orange, corrections commissioner;

Winter Storm Spreads

One new winter storm with snow, strong winds and cold spread from the Northern Rocky Mountains today in all directions. Another snow storm began in the Northeast.

Snow in the Northern Rockies spread into portions of the Pacific Northwest, across the Plains toward the upper Mississippi Valley and south toward the Central Plateau and Central Rockies.

Spokane, Wash., received 2 inches of snow Wednesday night and Missoula, Mont., received an inch. Winds of 35 to 40 mph, higher in some places, caused snow to blow and drift in parts of Montana and Wyoming.

Temperatures dipped into the teens during the night from the Northern Rockies across the Northern Plains. Below zero temperatures extended from North Dakota into Minnesota.

Snow also extended into sections of Wisconsin and the Lake Superior area, through the lower Great Lakes into western New England. Snow squalls damped from 6 to more than 12 inches of snow on parts of western New York state.

An inch fell at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Burlington, Vt., and Syracuse, N.Y.

Hail fell over much of Florida. More than a half inch was reported at Tampa, Orlando and Daytona Beach. Skies were mostly clear from the Southern Plains across the lower Mississippi Valley and the lower Ohio Valley into Lower Michigan and the Middle Atlantic Coast area.

Egypt Won't Join Syria

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Egypt has promised Israel it would not join Syria if Damascus launched war against the Jewish state, a newspaper report said today.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan told the parliamentary Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee Wednesday he had received such a commitment from Egyptian Prime Minister Mustapha Khalil, the newspaper Maariv said.

The Foreign Ministry spokesman refused to confirm or deny the report on grounds it was a leak from a secret session of a Knesset (parliament) committee.

Such a commitment would have a direct bearing on the dispute between Egypt and Israel over Article 6 of their draft peace treaty. Israel wants the treaty to take priority over Egypt's defense commitments to its Arab allies.

Dayan told the committee, according to Maariv, that Khalil sided with Syrian demands on Israel to return the Golan Heights, captured in the 1967 war. But Khalil said the return should be made through a treaty, not through war.

"Egypt does not intend to join Syria if she will initiate hostilities against Israel," Dayan quoted Khalil as telling him during their pre-Christmas meeting in Brussels.

Ella Asks Study To Police Games

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso is taking still another step toward improving the present system to police legalized gaming in Connecticut.

Mrs. Grasso, who claims she has no compassion for gambling, told a Capitol news conference Wednesday she will ask New Britain attorney Paul McQuillan to review a 1976 study for possible changes on how to manage gambling.

The study was done in 1976 by the late J. Walter Kennedy, a former commissioner of the National Basketball Association and mayor of Stamford. He died in June 1977.

Kennedy recommended the nine-member state gaming commission, whose members serve part-time, be abandoned and replaced by a three-member board. The board would establish public policy and in turn appoint a three-member board to carry out, regulate and control gambling regulations.

The governor said she has a "great concern" over the growth and way legalized gambling has been administered. Although personally opposed to all forms of gambling, Mrs. Grasso said she recognized it as a revenue-producing reality.

"I don't think abolition of gambling would carry in the General Assembly, but if (gambling) has to be contained," she said.

Mrs. Grasso also said she might favor a suggestion by the gaming commission that it reduce the instant lottery from two games to one game per year.

As for the loss of about $12 million it would cause, Mrs. Grasso felt the state "could make every effort to supplement the dollars that might be involved here."

The embattled gaming commission has been getting heat from all sides for allegedly failing to exert enough control on gambling at the state's three jail facilities and the Plainfield dog track.

The commission recently told the governor it needs more security monitors and may have to reduce present gambling programs if no help is provided.

A grand jury is presently investigating alleged irregularities of lottery prize drawings and the governor has requested a management study of the gaming commission.

On other topics the governor said:

- She had "no regrets" in looking back over the year's events.
- Has yet to receive an answer from Washington on her appeal for relief to Connecticut and New England from rising prices for home fuel and gasoline.
- It was "terrible" that political campaigns ... like her own that cost almost $1 million ... continue to become more costly.
- Her selection of former CIA agent John Downey as secretary of business regulation was in the best interests of the people of Connecticut. Although some have criticized his qualifications, Mrs. Grasso said Downey, who spent 20 years in a Chinese prison, is "eminently qualified. He cares about people," she said.

Governor's Task Force Mulls School Violence

HARTFORD (UPI) — In the minds of some members of a special task force, the fatal shooting of a New Haven school teacher recently was the result of a rapidly "decaying" society — not Connecticut's public school system.

On Dec. 14, Anthony Annunziata, 56, was fatally shot while he manned a candy concession stand at Wilbur Cross High School in New Haven. Authorities have arrested three youths in connection with the shooting.

Shortly after Annunziata's death, Gov. Ella T. Grasso appointed the Interagency Task Force on School Security, a group of state agency heads who will investigate violence in Connecticut's schools and make recommendations on what should be done to curb it.

At the task force's first meeting Wednesday, Mrs. Grasso said, "Every act of violence in a school disrupts the learning process. It creates a climate of fear for the children and the staff. It defeats the very purpose of our schools."

"Clearly the state has the responsibility to take a leadership role in helping to make our schools safe for the students and staff," she added.

But several members of the task force said finding a quick solution to school violence will not be easy.

"I'm not convinced the murder had anything to do with school," said Kenneth Rouz, superintendent of the Long Lane School. "We have a decaying society in which we're living."

State Supreme Court Chief Justice John Cotter and Human Rights and Opportunities Commissioner Arthur Green agreed.

"Society has broken down in that churches aren't important, families are of little importance, politics and political parties are not important any more," Cotter said.

"It's not just a school problem," Green said. "It (Annunziata's death) could have happened in any other public building."

Mrs. Grasso has asked the task force to come up with its recommendations in two months.

"I'm not sure that we can do too much (about school violence) in two months," Rouz said.

Some of the suggestions kicked around at the task force's meeting at the Capitol included educating teachers and innocent students about what they can do to prevent violence by delinquent students.

Fronton Penalty Perplexes Panel

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — Although backed by a court decision, Connecticut's gaming commission can't make up its mind whether to uphold, reduce or drop a 10-day suspension it gave Hartford Jai Alai.

The nine-member panel put off the question until next week amid criticism by two commissioners that any leniency would make the panel "look like jellyfish."

Last week, Superior Court Judge Alfred Covello upheld the commission's right to punish Hartford Jai Alai for failing to report allegations of game-fixing at the gambling arena. The allegations were never proven.

But Covello cut in half the $70,000 in fines imposed by the commission against five Hartford Jai Alai officers and said the commission could reconsider the length of the suspension, if it wished.

Wednesday there was disagreement among the commissioners on what action, if any, they should take. So they tabled a motion by Commissioner Robert Cagenello to reconsider the suspension penalty.

Two commissioners, Walter Stecko, a former state police official, and James Keltis said the suspension should stand.

Commissioners Gloria Morris of Wallingford and Cagenello were inclined to reduce or drop the suspension in view of the fact that the ownership of Hartford Jai Alai arena has recently changed hands.

But Stecko charged the same people who drew the writ of the gaming commission have been retained by the new owners to operate the arena.

Gerald Coakley, general manager of Hartford Jai Alai and one of five officers fined by the commission, protested Stecko's statements during the meeting.

He said, "there's no evidence of a crime" and he accused Stecko of inferring the arena was being operated by "a bunch of rascals."

Stecko said he was not referring to the jai alai players but the fronton's officers. He stood by his claim "that nothing's changed" at the arena.

Coakley is currently being retained by the new owners to continue to operate Hartford Jai Alai.

Hartford Jai Alai and its parent firm, World Jai Alai Inc. of Florida, were given fines and the suspension in September after the commission said they violated regulations in not reporting allegations of game-fixing. No formal charges were ever filed and no one was arrested.

World Jai Alai last month sold the Hartford facility to WJ Realty Inc., a Tulsa, Okla., based firm owned by millionaire Roger Wheeler.

Wheeler's firm had agreed with the commission as a condition of purchase that it would be responsible for the fines or suspensions that it could be sustained by the court.

Fake Agent Charged In Premium Swindle

HAMDEN (UPI) — A Longmeadow, Mass., man convinced an ailing 87-year-old woman to drop her health insurance policy for one he never planned to deliver and walked off with her premium, officials allege.

Ned A. Newhauser, 31, was arrested on charges of second degree larceny, criminal impersonation and selling insurance without a license. Chief State's Attorney Austin J. McGuigan said Wednesday.

Newhauser, who apparently was licensed to sell insurance in Massachusetts but not in Connecticut, allegedly sold hospitalization insurance to an unidentified 87-year-old Torrington woman and took her premium of $565, they said.

"As far as we can tell, Newhauser and the woman did not know each other. He got her name through another agent of an agency in Springfield," said Jerome O'Malley, deputy assistant state's attorney.

"This case was referred to us by the state insurance department, which had complaints from people who said they bought policies and they never got them. Certain names kept reappearing and this guy was one of them, he said.

The victim told authorities Newhauser claimed he was an agent for the Guaranty Trust Life Insurance Co. of Chicago, Ill., and that the company was issuing a policy superior to the woman's existing insurance policy.

Newhauser allegedly advised the woman to drop her Travelers insurance policy and buy the Guaranty Life Insurance policy for hospitalization and nursing home care, authorities said.

O'Malley said the woman was living at home but was in ill health, and allowed Newhauser to fill out the check which she then signed.

U.S. Negotiations Brave Taiwan Demonstrations

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — U.S. negotiators, braving thousands of demonstrators screaming "Down with Carter" and "Sell-out," met Taiwan's President Chiang Ching-kuo today to map out relations with the island nation after Washington cuts diplomatic ties at midnight Sunday.

The U.S. team, led by Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, were "physically and emotionally exhausted" by the anti-American outburst that greeted their arrival Wednesday and continued today, an American spokesman said.

An estimated 20,000 Taiwanese besieged the Foreign Ministry where the meetings were scheduled to be held and security police were apparently powerless to disperse them. The protesters smashed peanuts on the pavement to symbolize their rage at President Carter, a former Georgia peanut farmer.

Christopher and his colleagues, accompanied by Deputy Foreign Minister Frederick Chien, switched the site of their meeting and met with Chiang at the presidential building for about 10 minutes. A second meeting took place at the Grand Hotel several hours later.

Although the United States has decided to sever its diplomatic ties and abrogate a U.S.-Taiwan military treaty on Jan. 1, 1980, Washington has pledged to continue selling arms to Taiwan and the thriving commercial ties between the two countries are expected to continue.

U.S. officials said the attack prompted Carter to consider recalling the Christopher mission, but the meetings with Chang today apparently indicated the president had decided to allow the talks to continue.

Area Campaigns Walsh Led Spending In Re-Election Effort

State Rep. Robert "Skip" Walsh spent almost three times as much as his opponents in winning re-election in the 33rd Assembly District.

The district includes Coventry, Tolland and Willington.

Walsh received $3,235.72 in contributions during his campaign. He spent $2,960.00.

His Republican challenger, Claire Connelly, received and spent $1,045. An independent candidate in the race, George Hasapas, received and spent $93.20.

The information was provided in financial reports filed at the secretary of state's office. The reports, which were due Dec. 22, provide final totals for candidates' expenses and contributions. The reports also list detailed breakdowns of expenses and contributions for the period from Nov. 1 to Dec. 22.

For that period, Walsh received contributions of $100 or more from the following: David Shefrin, Avon, $150; Will Brown, Decatur, $100; Irene Haszke, West Willington, $100; and the Connecticut AFL-CIO Official Political Committee, Hamden, $100.

There were no individuals or organizations that contributed $100 or more to Hasapas or Mrs. Connelly during the period.

In the 55th Assembly District, Aloysius Ahearn outspent and defeated the incumbent, Republican Dorothy Miller.

Ahearn received $3,495.11 in contributions and spent $3,492.80. Mrs. Miller received and spent $2,746.80. Neither person listed any contributors of $100 or more for the final reporting period.

The 55th District includes Andover, Bolton, Columbia, Hebron, Marlborough and part of Vernon.

In Vernon's 56th Assembly District, State Rep. Chester Morgan far outspent his Republican challenger, Nancy Osborn.

Morgan received $4,558 in contributions and spent $4,453.42. Ms. Osborn received and spent $1,250.

For the final period, Morgan listed one $100 contributor, the Greater Hartford Labor Council.

The Vernon Republican Town Committee made a $301.78 expense on behalf of Ms. Osborn. That money is in addition to her $1,250 in expenditures.

The 57th Assembly District, Republican Kathleen O'Leary McGuire, outspent the winner, State Rep. Teresalee Bertinsson.

Ms. McGuire received and spent $2,095.63. Ms. Bertinsson, running for re-election, received and spent $1,848.40.

1978 Started for Vernon with Big Storm

VERNON — With the new year of 1978 barely under way, the wrath of winter struck the area and literally closed down the town in early February.

The storm left many impassable roads, most stores were closed, schools and town buildings were closed and all meeting activity came to a halt.

Also in the town the town lost its Town Planner John Loranger and its Director of Administration and superintendent of schools. George Russell replaced the planner; Robert Dolson, the director; and Bernard Sidman, the superintendent.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell retired as superintendent of schools after being in the school system for more than 30 years. He was feled at several parties in his honor.

In the early spring the voters approved the education and general government budgets and set the mill rate at 60, just 1.5 mills higher than the year before. A $125,000 cut imposed in the education budget pitted Republicans on the board against Republicans on the Town Council.

During the summer the Town Council approved an ordinance that bans the use of alcoholic beverages in any town parks. The ordinance was drawn and passed after several residents in the area of Henry Park petitioned the council.

During a referendum in March the townspeople approved the buying of a new ladder truck for the Rockville Fire Department but rejected a request for an aerial truck made by the Vernon Department.

A Fire Study Committee was formed and it has recommended to the Town Council that land be bought on the south side of Route 83 for construction of a new fire station to replace Company 2 station on Route 30.

The committee has also agreed, but not officially recommended, that the Rockville and Vernon departments remain volunteer but be merged.

In November's state elections all five voting districts in Vernon favored the Democratic candidates.

Also on the election ballot were proposed charter revisions which all passed. Most of the changes were minor but one changes the terms of Board of Education members. The terms have been for six years and the change calls for the election of three members for two years and three for four years.

Before the election State Sen. Robert Houley announced he would seek re-election and in his place, on the Democratic ticket, a newcomer Michael Skelley ran and won.

Another new administrator in town this year was Brian McCartney, principal of Rockville High School. He replaced Martin Fagan who had resigned just before the end of the year.

The Board of Education filed a suit against the state concerning paying for special education students who were placed in outside school system by other than the board's Planning and Placement Team.

The board contended it should only pay that portion of the cost which would be equal to what it would cost to educate a student in the Vernon School system.

The Vernon board was the first in the state to institute such a suit and it was eyed with interest by all other boards in the state.

The suit was later dropped as new legislation promised the towns will be reimbursed 100 percent of students placed outside the school system, for the cost above the average per pupil cost.

The school system was also plagued with problems about the vaccination program and several students had to be excluded from school because they didn't comply with the state laws concerning immunization.

In the early part of the summer vandals extensively damaged a large area of the high school with the estimated damage set at $10,000. This prompted the school administration to ask for legislation to raise the maximum limit on parental liability for vandalism done by juveniles, to $5,000. It's now $1,500.

The town also received approval to start a regional project for the early childhood education of the severely and profoundly retarded to be housed at the Skinner Road School. It involves handicapped students from Bolton, Coventry, Ellington, Ashford, Columbia, Mansfield, Somers, Stafford Springs, Tolland, Willington, and Vernon.

Patricia Maurice was named valedictorian of the 1978 graduating class at Rockville High School and Suzanne Niemann, salutatorian.

Lee M. Silverstein, head of the human services department at Rockville High School had a book published, "Consider the Alternatives," and is now being asked to speak on it in the United States and Canada.

Construction was started on a new wing for Rockville Hospital and construction is almost completed on the new police station, with moving day expected to be in early February.

Monster Survives in Cold

As long as it stays cold, this prehistoric monster will remain crouched on a snow bank in a corner of the parking lot at the corner of Main Street and East Middle Turnpike, across from the Pinehurst Grocery. Only a rise in temperature and lots of warm sunshine will remove the threatening looking animal. The sculpture was created this week by Dean Hansen and Wayne Bolduc, both eighth grade students at Iling Junior High School, and Chris Kilpatrick, a tenth grade student at Manchester High School. ### Full Gospel Church Plans Yule Program

MANCHESTER — The Full Gospel Interdenominational Church will have a special program celebrating the real meaning of Christmas Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the church, 745 Main St. In case of storm, the program will be presented Monday, Jan. 1, at the church. The program, which is open to the public free of charge, will include singing by church groups and individuals, skits, choral speaking arrangements and treats for the children. "A Change of Heart," an original play by Patricia Sprengelmeyer, a church member, will be presented. The play takes place during the time of the birth of Jesus and tells of the complete change of heart a "good-for-nothing" shepherd has when he visits Bethlehem and sees the Christ child.

Mrs. Gunderson Named By Cedarcrest Hospital

MANCHESTER — Mrs. Lee Ann Gunderson of 115 Olcott Drive has been appointed director of volunteer services at Cedarcrest Regional Hospital, Newington. In this post, she will organize volunteer services for the hospital. Mrs. Gunderson, chairwoman of the town's Human Relations Commission, founded and organized the Pastoral Services Organization supported by the United Church of Christ and attached to the Anna M. Fulling Chaplaincy at Hartford Hospital. Her previous work experience has been in personnel, public relations, writing and administration. According to the Cedarcrest Regional Hospital superintendent, Dr. Vincenzo Cocciolo, the work of

Vernon Mulls Plan Update

VERNON — If the town receives a $600,000 Small Cities Grant, $18,000 of it is earmarked for a program to revise the town's Plan of Development. Before the former town planner, John Lorange, left the employment of the town last summer, he described how he would like the revision approached. He sees it as being divided into five components: Housing, transportation, public facilities, recreation, open space-environment, and economic development. He said each of these sections would be further broken down into four general parts: Goals and objectives, data base, identification of problem areas and potentials for improvement, and development of alternatives to solve problems or take advantage of potential improvements. He said that each of the major plan components is not independent and gave as an example the fact that the road capacity of an area would have to be known before the type of residential development best suited for that area could be talked about. He cited as the role of the Planning Commission making sure that all ties are investigated and incorporated into any recommendation for action. Some of the work has already been done. The data collection on the existing housing stock, development patterns, current residential zoning, has been completed. But analysis of problem areas and potentials for improvement, and development of alternatives to solve problems or take advantage of potential improvements. Traffic counts have been taken of most town roads and intersections; and data is being collected for an open space plan. Successful Sale The all-night bake sale conducted by the Senior High Pilgrim Fellowship of the Union Congregational Church netted $300 for the summer project fund of the fellowship. The young people baked more than 150 dozen Christmas cookies, more than 100 pounds of fudge, and about 125 loaves of fancy breads. They worked in the church kitchen through the night two weekends ago and finished the last of the baking as the sun was rising Saturday morning.

Yale Appoints Black Dean

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The new dean of the Yale School of Drama, director Lloyd Richards, will be the first black to head a professional school at the Ivy League university. Yale officials Wednesday announced Richards' appointment, effective July 1, 1979. He will also become artistic director of the Yale Repertory Theater. Richards succeeds Robert Brustein, who is leaving the post after 13 years to run the Loeb Theater at Harvard University. Richards has directed many Broadway productions, the most recent being "Paul Robeson" starring

James Earl Jones. In 1959 he directed the highly praised Broadway production of "Raisin in the Sun." In accepting the position, Richards said at Yale "a tradition of excellence in the study, training and practice of theater arts has evolved. I am pleased and honored that I have been selected to become part of that tradition." Richard, a professor of theater at Hunter College, City University of New York, is also guest speaker at the Yale School of Drama. He has been the artistic director at the Eugene O'Neill Memorial Theater in

The Smiths' electric bill is 18% lower than their neighbors'.

Even with too many lights on, the Smiths are saving more energy than their neighbors. And more money. Because the Smiths have taken other, and bigger, steps toward energy conservation. Like turning the thermostats in their all-electric home down six degrees before they go to sleep. They've also weather-stripped and caulked their doors and windows. They take more showers than baths to save on hot water. They've even planted trees along the south and west side of their home to provide protective shade against the sun in summer. Northeast Utilities wants you to know all the Smiths' energy tips. So write to: Ralph Marrone, Northeast Utilities, P.O. Box 1953, Hartford, Connecticut 06144 for a free booklet. ### Millions in Art Missing

CHICAGO (UPI) — The $3 million worth of paintings by French impressionist master Paul Cezanne stolen from the Art Institute of Chicago was this week's second theft of art. Experts say it is probably destined for wealthy private collectors in foreign countries. "There is absolutely no way a person can sell them. They are very famous paintings, and any reputable dealer would know about them," said J. Patrice Marandel, curator of earlier painting. Marandel said the theft was the largest ever from the Art Institute and probably one of the largest from any museum in the nation. The three oils were discovered missing from a locked storage room Wednesday. It was the second theft from the museum in 10 days but the earlier theft involved a painting valued at only $5,000. A Rembrandt painting valued at $1 million was stolen from San Francisco's De Young Museum on Christmas Eve. The missing Chicago paintings are: "Madam Cezanne in a Yellow Arm Chair" (1893-95), "Apples on a Table Cloth" (1896-1899), "House on the River" (1895-1899). Arnold Miller, a widely known insurance adjuster and private detective, said the Rembrandt theft probably was ordered by a wealthy private collector. "My hunch is that it was a contract job ordered by some guy in a foreign country who could go to any length to possess Rembrandt's 'The Rabbi,'" Miller said. The Chicago paintings, which were removed from their frames, were being kept in a storage area while a gallery space was being prepared.

Heart Attack Recovery at Home

By Gaynor Maddox Shifting heart-attack recuperation from hospital to home is a growing trend. More than 45 percent of patients suffering acute myocardial infarction — damage to the heart resulting from blocked coronary arteries — could safely be discharged from the hospital after one week, according to a study at Duke University. The shortened hospital stay could save patients much emotional upset — not to mention expense. Should a heart patient be allowed to convalesce at home under a doctor's daily surveillance? The answer is generally yes, says Charlotte Anzalone R.N., director of consumer and professional relations for Ujipon Healthcare Services. For those who live with their families, other changes may be necessary. The bathroom timetable may have to be readjusted to accommodate the patient. Other family activity may have to be rescheduled to give the patient more time to rest. Bedrooms may have to be changed so that unnecessary walking can be eliminated. At home, patients can comfortably readjust to their own routines of bathing, sleeping and eating. They can also begin to work back into their own social patterns at a quicker rate than is possible at a hospital. Knowing that home care doesn't cost as much as a hospital stay may reduce strain on the patient. And it may be advantageous from a family's standpoint as well, because members of the family can take a more active role in the care of the patient, says Mrs. Anzalone. Eating with enjoyment plays a decisive role in recovery. Keep the patient's trays attractive and uncluttered. Provide extra napkins. Be sure all hot dishes are hot and cold dishes cold. Banish, if possible, any suggestion of hospital routine. A friend suffering from acute angina was sent home immediately after diagnosis. He is a nervous person who loves his home. His wife is extremely competent. At the time of the attack, his son was away at college. The doctor's advice was: Keep him in bed in his room with the door shut. Disconnect his telephone. Allow no one to see him during the first week. Feed him with particular care — no salt, little sugar, little animal fat, only non-fat milk, one cup of coffee a day. (His lunch, for example, was soft scrambled eggs with stewed tomatoes, two slices of unbuttered, fish-textured bread with crabapple jelly, a glass of nonfat milk and a dish of canned pears. He enjoyed it all.)

Coping with Expected Beef Prices

By JEANNE LESEIM UPI Family Editor Coping with the average 10 to 14 percent increase in beef prices forecast for next year can be done — several ways. You can compromise on cheaper cuts and smaller portion sizes, switch to other meats or alternative sources of protein such as dairy products and beans or other legumes. You can substitute rendered meat and poultry fat for purchased fats in cooking — in casseroles, pan-fried potatoes or other vegetables and frying or browning meats. Even the time of day and day of the week you shop makes a difference. Early shoppers get a wider choice. Shop early in the day and early in midweek, when most fresh meat packages are put into cases or meat is cut, writes Anne Anderson, assistant food editor, in the Jan. 23 issue of Woman's Day magazine. "Avoid mornings after long weekends or holidays," she writes. Mrs. Anderson makes her own heat-and-serve gravies and sauces by dissolving pan drippings with a little water before wash-up time. She refrigerates the mixture for later use, to thicken or not with a little flour. She buys boneless roasts unless she plans to use the bones for soup. She uses fresh pork shoulder rind to season rice, potato and noodle casseroles. Scrape the fat away first with a sharp knife and render it to use in cooking. Place the cut-up fat in a skillet with a little water. By the time the water has evaporated, most of the fat will have melted without browning. (Pork rind also adds richness and flavor to baked beans. It makes a great substitute for salt pork in baked beans for people trying to cut their sodium intake.) Bacon ends are just as good for cooking as slices, and a lot cheaper. Mrs. Anderson adds meaty flavor to such dishes as lentil, pea, potato and barley soup with cooking liquid saved from salty food such as New England boiled dinner, smoked pork shoulder and beef brisket. She stretches meatloaf and other ground beef dishes with things other than the traditional bread crumbs: mixed vegetables, mashed white or sweet potatoes, rice or pasta. She extends bulk pork sausage with soft bread crumbs, chopped onions or green pepper to make meatballs in tomato sauce to serve with rice, pasta or potatoes. Bring back an old boarding house trick when you serve steak or roast, she writes. Slice the meat thin, spread out the slices and add garlic, onion and parsley to make it look like more. Some other ideas from her sources: With a food processor, you can turn a few scraps of meat or poultry into a sandwich spread in seconds. If the meat or poultry is totally lean, add a little butter or margarine or vegetable oil to a greater variety of vegetables instead. You can always increase protein at meal with other foods: cheese or nuts in the salad or with raw fruit for dessert or a dessert containing eggs and/or milk or seeds or nuts.

Church Needs Restoration

GODFREY, Ill. (UPI) — A Chapel Restoration Committee has been formed to save the Godfrey Congregational Church, one of the first examples of Greek Revival architecture built in the Midwest. Built in 1853, the church was declared a historical structure by Interior Secretary Harold Ickes in 1955. Ickes said the church was "worthy of most careful preservation for future generations." But in the mid-1960s, the congregation moved to a new building several blocks away and appraisers now estimate the cost of refurbishing the old church at nearly $150,000.

Voters' Duties Begin

The time for concerned Connecticut citizens to fully exercise their voting privileges is about to begin. With the inauguration of Gov. Ella Grasso for a second four-year term and the beginning of terms for federal and state officials, the time has come for citizens to follow through on their commitments made during the Nov. 7 election. It has been written before the duty of the voter is not only to elect a candidate, but also to follow through and closely watch the action of the elected officials to be sure they fully carry out the duties of the office in the best interest of all concerned. The time has come for voters to begin watching the actions of persons elected in November to make sure they live up to promises made during the heat of the campaign and to act as responsible leaders. Concern over financial matters is something everyone can understand. Although the high finances of state and federal government may be a little mind-boggling at times, it can be broken down to the simple level of what it will cost each citizen. Every leader elected in the last election must be held accountable for their actions and their actions in financial matters should be of great concern. Citizens should make themselves aware of the actions of governmental leaders and in the event of irresponsible actions, should make their disapproval known. The days of governmental leaders being in complete control and answerable to no one should be over. An elected official relies on the vote of the people in order to attain a position and consequently they must act in a manner to prove themselves worthy of the vote and worthy of subsequent support. It is easy for a person to go to a voting machine and pull a lever for the candidate of his or her choice. The difficult part of responsible voting is to monitor the actions of officials. The easy part is over. The difficult part is just beginning and will continue until the next election. It will then begin all over again.

Soviet Economy

Although the Soviet Union doesn't talk about its internal problems, U.S. intelligence finds that there will be continuing shortages of some foods and other consumer goods next year. The economy is ailing, due to vast expenditures for defense and "incredible inefficiency in the bureaucracies." The ruling Brezhnev clique "just doesn't know how to institute needed reforms" in the country's management.

Letters to the Editor

Director's Performance Praised

To the editor: The resignation of Director Vivian Ferguson is a serious blow to our town government. She has given unselfishly of her time and effort to the service of the townspes, always in the best interest of Manchester ahead of political considerations. Director Ferguson always took the time to listen to the people and to hear them out as well. While many public officials give lip service to democracy in government with little or no depth of sincerity, Vivian Ferguson never failed the people when it came to letting important issues be settled by the use of the ballot. In short, she believed in the people's right of self-determination, as an inalienable American right.

The Polish Pope: A Matter of Style

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — There are times when Pope John Paul II suddenly abandons the solemnity of his office and, facing a cheering crowd, thrusts his fists aloft as if to accept the power and the glory of the papacy. At those moments the humble memory of his smiling predecessor fades away and the world sees only one John Paul — the former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Poland. His 58-year-old frame stands erect, his stroll is firm, his diction in the Italian he knows well is crisp and powerful. The new pope's personality is so strong, as is his desire to keep moving and shake hands, that it sometimes threatens to overwhelm the gentle memory of the John Paul I, who died Sept. 23 of a heart attack following a 34-day reign which was the fourth shortest in history. The late pontiff left behind a legacy of smiles, jokes, anecdotes and stories about his mother's kindness. But he also set the stage for the man who followed him by transforming the once-staid tradition of papal audiences into popular events. "Without John Paul I, the Wojtyla phenomena would have taken longer. Someone broke the ground ahead of the pope," says Bruno Bartoloni, a long-time Vatican watcher. But the first non-Italian to sit on the throne of Peter in 455 years is still a bonafide hit. He draws so many people to his weekly audiences that church officials have divided up his appearances. First he sees children and young people in St. Peter's Basilica, and later daris to the ultra-modern Nervi hall for his regular general audience. The Vatican estimates more than 20,000 people have attended John Paul's audiences since his Oct. 16 election. Counting his numerous trips to churches and monasteries the figure tops 1 million. Some church insiders suggest the Polish pope, the youngest in more than 100 years, may be on his way toward surpassing the popularity of the late Pope John XXIII, still revered by most Italians. The Wojtyla explosion stems as much from his foreign origin as his manner, which is grandfathersly and occasionally stern. In a country accustomed to seeing the same political faces, John Paul, with his firm gestures and slight accent, has put a new twist in an old institution. Much to the dismay of Vatican security agents and city police he spends hours among crowds, shaking hands and lifting sometimes not-so-young children high over his head. Some women find him attractive and gossip magazines have invested time and money trying to prove he was once engaged to a Polish girl who died in World War II. Yet time and time again the former Archbishop of Krakow has shown his indebtedness, in word and deed, to Cardinal Albino Luciani — John Paul I. Both popes spoke off-the-cuff and shunned the papal "we" in speaking of St. Peter's Square crowds following their elections. The Pole said he was "afraid" of receiving the papal nomination, while Luciani had spoken of "the danger for me." In his audiences, John Paul I repeatedly suggested the pope, like any other man, was human and fallible. He called schoolboys to his side and thanked them for "helping the pope." He compared faith "to a good soap capable of cleansing us all and making us into saints." The crowds loved every minute of it. Though Wojtyla has none of Luciani's sweet deference, he does have a sense of humor. "It's time for lunch," he said from his Vatican palace window following his investiture service, "and even pope must eat." On a later visit to a Rome hospital, the pope started to leave when an aide reminded him he had not blessed the patients. "You see, he told people in the town," even the pope has to learn to how to do his job."

The Lighter Side By Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although fairly new at the job, Alfred Kahn, President Carter's numero uno inflation fighter, already has several battle scars — mostly inflicted by President Carter. One scar evens the time Kahn ventured to suggest that a certain combination of economic conditions could bring about a depression. His mention of a possible depression so depressed the White House that Kahn, who is occasionally given to drollery, began using the word "banana" as a euphemism for that term. Kahn was scarred again recently when he ventured to suggest that consumers should boycott companies that violate the president's wage-price guidelines. That scar was inflicted at a news conference at which Carter commented that he personally opposed boycotts. Apparently, it was the word more than the tactic that bothered Carter. For Carter also said that consumers "should be conversant with the relative compliance" with his guidelines. What Kahn needs now is a word to substitute for "boycott." I would venture to suggest "kumquat."

Mrs. Eleanor L. Clifford MANCHESTER — Mrs. Eleanor Lofth Clifford, 61, of 50 Downey Drive, former librarian at Penney High School of East Hartford, died Wednesday at an East Hartford convalescent home.

Mrs. Clifford was born Sept. 9, 1917 in Galton, Pa., and had lived in Wethersfield for many years before coming to Manchester. She was employed as librarian at Penney High School before her illness.

She is survived by a son, Joseph E. Clifford of Manchester; two sisters, Mrs. Helen Birdsall of Ormand Beach, Fla., and Mrs. Ruby Howard of Pittsfield, Mass.; and a granddaughter, Elizabeth Clifford of Manchester.

The funeral is Friday at 2 p.m. at St. John's Episcopal Church of East Hartford. Burial will be private at the convenience of the family.

The James T. Pratt Funeral Home, 71 Farmington Ave., Hartford, is in charge of arrangements.

There are no calling hours. The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to the Eleanor Clifford Library Fund, in care of Edward Girard, Penney High School, East Hartford.

CRRA Is Last Resort In New Waste Plans

MANCHESTER — The town can take advantage of any existing or new landfill, as part of the 20-year waste management plan submitted to the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) by the town.

The Town Council Tuesday night approved a resolution adopting the plan. Public Works Director Robert Fryzyly said in the agreement between the town and DEP, the town can use any existing or new landfill available for waste disposal.

The town is unable to get landfill, it reserves the right to enter the regional Connecticut Resources Recovery Agency as a last resort.

Park Department Needs Manager of Ski Slope

RECREATION — The Parks and Recreation Department is looking for a ski slope manager at the J.B. Williams Park ski tow, according to Recreation Supervisor Deborah Plimpton.

The position would be full-time, weather permitting, and the slope would be open from 3 to 5 p.m. on weekdays.

Ms. Plimpton said the slope would be in operation all day on weekends and begin in the morning or at noon during weekdays when school is not in session.

"It takes a pretty responsible, mature person to do this," she said. "The person would be responsible for the safe operation of the ski tow and make sure the children get on it without any problems."

Ms. Plimpton said she would prefer an applicant with previous experience in operating a ski tow, but said it was not necessary.

Anyone interested should call Ms. Plimpton at 633-5231, extension 238.

Meet Will Close Pool

GLASTONBURY — The swimming pool at the high school will be closed to the public Jan. 7 after 1 p.m. because of a Recreation Swim Meet. The pool will also be closed Jan. 1.

Senator's Win Costly According to Records

GLASTONBURY — State Sen. David Barry spent almost three times as much as his Republican challenger during this year's campaign.

The money, however, paid off because Barry easily won re-election in the Fourth Senatorial District, which includes part of Manchester and all of Glastonbury and several other small towns.

Financial reports filed with the secretary of state's office show Barry received and spent $67,113 during his re-election campaign. The Republican candidate in the district, Fenton "Pat" Futner, received and spent $2,420.

Barry defeated Futner by almost a 2-1 margin. He won Glastonbury by 6,400-3,659.

Futner did not run an aggressive campaign. He is a full-time worker at the Republican State Headquarters, and some viewed his run for office as one made only because no other viable candidate stepped forward.

The final financial report filed by the candidate was due Dec. 22. It lists the final expenditure and contribution figures as well as detailed breakdown of contributions and expenditures for the period from Nov. 1-Dec. 22.

The following persons and organizations contributed $100 or more to Barry's campaign during that period: Fourth Senatorial District Democrats, William Young, treasurer, 38 Berle Road, South Windsor, 2550; Connecticut Lawyers for Excellence in Government, Hartford, $200; Connecticut Agents Political Action Committee Hartford, $150; Connecticut State Employees Association, $100.

The following persons and organizations contributed $100 or more to Futner's campaign during that period: Glastonbury Republican Town Committee, $250; East Windsor Republican Town Committee, $100.

Manchester's Republican Town Committee also spent $175 on behalf of Futner. This expense is in addition to the $2,420 in contributions he received.

While the winner outspent the loser in the senate race, the opposite was true in Glastonbury's assembly district.

Republican State Rep. Antonia Parker won re-election in the 31st Assembly District and spent $450, the same amount she received in contributions.

Glastonbury's Republican Town Committee also spent $876.89 for Ms. Parker's campaign.

Even with the town committee expenditure, Democrat Margaret Berg outspent Ms. Parker. Ms. Berg received $2,490.01 in contributions and spent $2,484.44. Thus, she ended the campaign with a balance of $145.57.

The following contributed $100 or more to Ms. Parker: Lottite Political Action Committee, Newington, $150; Optometric P Political Action Committee, Plainville, $100.

The following contributed $100 or more to Ms. Berg: Deborah H. McInnes, 54 Pippin Drive, Glastonbury, $100; Greater Hartford Labor Council Organization Political Committee, $100; Connecticut Education Association Political Action Committee, $100; Glastonbury's Democratic Town Committee also spent $180.82 on behalf of the candidate.

Square Dancing GLASTONBURY — The regular square dance lessons for the senior citizens will be held Jan. 4 at St. Paul's Church from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. with a hot lunch to follow.

There will be cards, perkins and relaxation from noon to 3 p.m. Reservations for the hot lunch must be made by calling the Recreation Office, 633-5231, ext. 302 or 219, no later than noon Wednesday.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cabbage is a more stable source of vitamin C than most leafy vegetables if it is stored in a refrigerator vegetable crisper where humidity is high, U.S. Department of Agriculture home economists say 90 percent of cabbage's vitamin C will be retained if the amount of water used to cook the vegetable equals about one-third the amount of cabbage by volume. If the ratio of water to cabbage is four to one, vitamin C retention drops to less than 50 percent.

Denver has five wins and a tie in its last seven engagements with the Steelers. The clubs collided in the regular season finale with Pittsburgh prevailing, 21-17, with the Broncos stopped on the two-foot line. It must be recalled that Steeler QB Terry Bradshaw played only the first half when a 21-0 lead was erected.

The Broncos have a sound defense, but Pittsburgh's equal and the Steelers possess a better offense. Look for the Steelers to escape with a hard-fighting decision.

Don't look for the Patriots to last long in the playoffs. No matter how much protesting — methinks they doo protest too much — the players do about the Fairbanks affair, the turnout should have its negative affect. Besides, the Oilers are playing very well as of the moment.

East Catholic Quintet Deliberate Beating Cold-Shooting Manchester

MANCHESTER — It was very pleased with him," Penders noted. "He got the two big assists and stuck one in at the end of a break. He hits the open man and is very intelligent for a sophomore. He could help us."

It was 26-26 heading into the final period with the closest Manchester coming eight points. The Indians trailed, 42-34, and had possession. But John Reiser was tied up for a jump ball by Venora. The latter pulled it to Murphy who fired to a streaking Ayer for an easy layup with 1:05 remaining to all but put it out of reach.

"We didn't capitalize on our opportunities," Pearson repeated, probably recalling this segment.

East protected its edge in the final period converting 10-of-13 from the foul line. In contrast, Manchester was 4-for-8 and missed the front end of three one-and-one situations. "We missed a million foul shots in the clutch. They made the foul shots and we didn't," Pearson commented.

The Eagles opened in a man-to-man defense but quickly switched to a zone. "We're a zone team and they were beating us one-on-one. They had trouble with our zone," Penders remarked. "Manchester crashed the boards very well on us. It got 2-3 shots and it seems most of his hoops were off of missed shots. That concerns me."

Murphy and Venora paced East with 18 and 10 points respectively with the latter grabbing onto 14 rebounds, 11 off the defensive glass. Joe King had a season-high 7 markers and added 10 carrots. East was 18-for-33 (54.5 percent) from the field. John Haslett paced Manchester with 12 markers with Reiser and Charles Cohen adding 8 tallies each. Cohen did a fine job on the boards with 6 rebounds.

East also took the jayvee contest, 51-49, on Jim Wyse's rebound bucket. John Butler and Wyse topped the young Eagles, 5-0, with 12 and 10 points respectively while Bill Anderson netted 15 markers for the young Indians, 2-1.

Cheney shot just 25.7 percent from the field (14 for 54).

Gustamachio led the Beavers with 20 markers. Teammates Mike Kenyon and Scott Cable each chipped in with five points.

Besides Friedberg's performance, John Gorman had 11 tallies for the Falcons and 6-5 center Ken Bilodeau contributed nine points.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — National Football League coaches pulled by the Sports News have chosen Jack Patena of the Seattle Seahawks as the 1978 Coach of the Year. The Sporting News said Wednesday.

The Seahawks under Patena's direction have shown steady improvement, going from 2-12 in their first year in 1976 to 5-9 in 1977 and 9-7 last year.

Taft had few complaints after the game.

"I think we were just much bigger than them," Taft pointed out. "We beat them bad on the boards. We shot well, too. We got the open shots and put them in. We're a good shooting team."

While shooting 52.3 percent (34 of 65) from the field, the Falcons also made good on 12 of 14 tries from the charity line. Cheney converted 11 of 17 free throws.

Beaver Coach Phil Crockett said that Avon's hot hand from the field was the big factor.

"They shot too well for us," Crockett said from the visiting team's locker room. "That was the big thing. Their shooting didn't allow us to do much. They are a good team."

Cheney Bombed In Tournament

When a high school team shoots better than 50 percent from the field and has a decisive height advantage, the opposition is in serious trouble.

Playing in the Avon Christmas Tournament, the Cheney Beavers were caged by tourney-hot Avon High, 80-39. The loss drops the Beavers to 2-3, while the Avon Falcons improved their record to 5-1.

Cheney plays East Granby High tonight at 6:30 in the consolation game. Farmington High in the first game last night sunk East Granby, 69-61, and takes on Avon for the championship at 8:15.

Shooting 52.3 percent from the field and outrebounding Cheney 34-22, Avon jumped to a 14-point lead after one quarter, 24-10. Cheney's Dave Taft had eight of the eight of the Beavers' 10 first stanza points.

With two minutes gone in the first quarter, Falcon Don Friedberg hit a jumper, the first of his eight 25 tallies, for a 6-2 lead. At that stage, Cheney committed four consecutive turnovers which resulted in six Avon markers, and the Falcons were off and flying.

Avon led balloned to 10-19 at the half and only got larger as the game wore on.

Avon Coach Jim Taft substituted freely as the lopsided score enabled him to constantly shuffle players in and out.

WALTHAM, Mass. (UPI) — Bob Kelley, a 1975 Brandeis University graduate, was named Wednesday to serve as interim head basketball coach at his alma mater.

Kelley, an assistant coach the past three seasons, fills a vacancy left when coach Bob Brannum was hospitalized after suffering a broken pelvis when a horse he was riding threw him and then rolled over on him.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bobby Orr has been named assistant general manager of the Chicago Black Hawks, the Hawks announced Wednesday.

Orr, 30, who retired as an active player Nov. 8 because of chronic knee problems, will assume "many new and important responsibilities with the club," said Bob Pulford, general manager.

Time to Select Super Bowl, Super Bowl, we'll win the Super Bowl. Well, if you asked me... The combatants come Jan. 21 should be Dallas and Pittsburgh, with the former finding the path the easiest of the pair.

The field in the NFC playoffs is of poor quality with only the Cowboys, defending Super Bowl champs, and Los Angeles Rams held in high esteem. Atlanta, which has pulled off its share of miracles, is not a championship caliber club — yet, and Minnesota is on the down side of its glory years.

The AFC playoffs could prove to be most entertaining with Pittsburgh squaring off with the Denver Broncos, with which it hasn't had success against in recent times, while Houston visits Foxboro, Mass., for a second time against the Chuck Fairbanks coached '77 New England Patriots.

Denver has five wins and a tie in its last seven engagements with the Steelers. Off the court, Manchester High's basketball team received good news. Ron Apter, 6-foot-4 senior captain who was injured in a snow blower accident Monday, should begin full use of his hand reports Trainer Coach Doug Pearson.

points in the final stanza. Picard paced the Knights with 16 points and 11 rebounds while Garen chipped in 11 markers. Schultz led all rebounders with 12 carrots. Lionel Foster topped Glastonbury with 6 points.

Penney snapped out of its cold-shooting habits in the second quarter to take a 22-10 halftime margin. The Knights tallied 8 straight points down the stretch, two from the foul line when coach Bob Brannum was hospitalized after suffering a broken pelvis when a horse he was riding threw him and then rolled over on him.

Penney's 10 points, including a pair of free throws, were the key to the victory. He shot 10-for-12 from the line and 12-for-14 (85.7 percent) overall. East was 34-for-78 (43.6 percent) from the floor.

"We had good shot selection inside the key," Trish agreed. "And it probably was Fred's (O'Connell) best offense game."

If there were any doubts, they were dispelled in the third quarter as East outscored Manchester, 28-6, to go into the final canto with a whipping 63-20 bulge. O'Connell netted 8 points and Daley 6 in the stanza to pace East.

Cheney's Murphy, 5-foot-11 sophomore forward, paved the way for East with 17 points along with a team-high 11 rebounds. Pekatits followed with 15 tallies, while O'Connell (12), Daley (10) and Laurie Barry (10) also in twin digits. Barry dished in 9 rebounds while Cheney copped the jayvee contest, 56-28, to run its record to 4-2. Georgetown Ebersold and Darlene Jordan each netted 16 points and Kallan played well. Hughes 8 points for the young Indians. Marge Bottom played well defensively for Manchester. Fiona Campbell, Felicia Farr and Chris Harvey each had 3 markers for the young Eagles, now 2-3.

Manchester travels to West Hartford Friday night to face CCHL foe Hill High. East is home to non-conference foe Tolland High.

Patriots Gearing Up For Shot to Advance

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The New England Patriots feel the "Fairbanks Factor" is no longer a burning issue and are gearing up for the chance to advance to the AFC championship game for the first time in history. The Fairbanks Factor erupted Dec. 18 when coach Chuck Fairbanks was suspended by owner Billy Sullivan after accepting a job to coach at the University of Colorado. But Fairbanks was reinstated two days later after agreeing to coach New England through the playoffs. Both Fairbanks and his players agreed Wednesday the Colorado fusion has been put on the back burner. The prospect of stopping the Houston Oilers in Sunday's AFC game is the top of their mental agenda. "I know I'm not thinking about it and I don't think anyone else is," said Fairbanks. "I don't think it's a factor or any reason to concern ourselves with. It's over." Fairbanks avoided what most feel will be a move to coach Colorado once the NFL season concludes. And he said he thought the team was in the right frame of mind for their first home playoff game in New England's 18-year history. "This team is loose and they're excited in their preparation. I don't feel this thing will have any effect on them at all. I know I can't work any harder preparing a team than I have now. I don't see any problems," Fairbanks said. "I'm deeply interested in what this game means to me, the team, the New England Patriots, the fans, everybody. We're doing the best we possibly can," he said. Defensive captain Steve Nelson, expected to start at his inside linebacker post after missing two games, said he felt the playoff tilt — not the Fairbanks lift — was on everyone's mind. "I think the whole thing is behind us and I don't think it's going to affect how we play Sunday. We have a lot of togetherness on this team. We've been to the playoffs before and we have a very positive attitude," he said. Oilers' mentor Bum Phillips, a close friend of Fairbanks and a one-time colleague at the University of Minnesota, said he didn't expect the Patriots to be rattled by the probable departure of their coach. "I'm sure it upset them when it came out in Miami. But it has been two weeks since then. No matter if Santa Claus is coaching them, the money's on the line and they'll be ready to play. I'm sure Chuck will leave no stone unturned," Phillips said. Fairbanks said he was concerned over the steadily improving play of the Oilers while his own club has slipped its last six games. "We're catching Houston at a time when they're playing exceptionally well. They held Miami to seven points. We're doing an accomplishment. We haven't been playing as well as we were earlier in the year. But we're in better physical condition than we have been the past five weeks," Fairbanks said. Fairbanks also said he thought the key to the Oilers' offense was quarterback Dan Pastorini. But he made it clear that was no slight to super rookie running back Earl Campbell. "Campbell is a great back. But the key for them is Pastorini. The key guy for any offense in pro football is the quarterback. But it's hard to reduce it down that fine. Every player has to perform," Fairbanks said. Oilers' mentor Bum Phillips, a close friend of Fairbanks and a one-time colleague at the University of Minnesota, said he didn't expect the Patriots to be rattled by the probable

Goalie Sparks North Stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Minnesota North Stars are moving and a big reason is the goaltending of Gilles Meloche. "He's just a tremendous goalkeeper and he gives his team a lot of confidence," Washington Coach Danny Bielese said Wednesday night, after Meloche backstopped the Minnesota North Stars to a 5-1 victory over the Capitals. Bobby Smith and Tim Young each scored two goals for Minnesota, which has now gone 9-3-1 for the month of December. Besides Meloche, Bielese credits North Star Coach Glen Somoos. "He really turned this club around," said Bielese. Meloche frustrated the Caps in the second period. "I thought we played well. In the second period we just started playing hockey as a team instead of on an individual basis," McKenzie said. The win put the Whalers in first place in the World Hockey Association. WHA teams are playing games this year against both the Czechs and a team from the Soviet Union. "We made it too easy for them," said Somoos, recently promoted from scout. "That's why we gave them those 18 shots. But it's the same old story. Gilles held us in there." Meloche, who started his 11th straight game, stopped 29 shots while his counterpart, Jim Bedford, stopped 35 shots. In other games, Boston tied Toronto, 1-1; Chicago nipped St. Louis, 4-3; Buffalo swamped Colorado, 5-2, and Pittsburgh topped Los Angeles, 5-2. In the WHA, Edmonton beat Winnipeg, 5-3. New England ripped Czechoslovakia, 10-4, and Quebec edged the Soviet Union, 5-4, in an exhibition game. Bretas 1, Maple Leaf 1. Rick Middleton deflected in Brad Park's power-play shot at 2:10 of the third period to equalize a goal by Jimmy Jones. Black Hawks 4, Blues 3. Ted Bulley scored to snap a 3-3 tie with 7:26 left to play and Chicago held on. Three Rockies 2. Jacques Richard and Rick Martin scored first-period goals, igniting the quarterback. Ric Seiling and Rene Robert lallied in the second and Gil Perreault iced the game in the third. Penguins 5, Kings 2. Wayne Bianchin scored two goals to lead Pittsburgh over Los Angeles into second place in the Norris Division. In the NHL, Edmonton beat Winnipeg, 5-3. New England ripped Czechoslovakia, 10-4, and Quebec edged the Soviet Union, 5-4, in an exhibition game. Bretas 1, Maple Leaf 1. # NBA Coach's Lashing Paid Off

NEW YORK (UPI) — After the Detroit Pistons' humiliating loss to Milwaukee Tuesday night, Coach Dick Vitale started yelling at his players and didn't stop until they took the court again. Houston 24, Detroit 10. And when he stopped, the Pistons started making amends for the lopsided loss in the team's history by crushing Houston, 131-119, at the Silverdome. Elsewhere, New York nipped New Jersey, 115-104, Atlanta defeated San Antonio, 115-107, Philadelphia bested Indiana, 122-110, Boston downed Kansas City, 112-100, Seattle tripped New Orleans, 122-102, and Los Angeles shaved Golden State, 106-104. Hawks 115, Spurs 107. Led by John Drew's 28 points, Atlanta held off a furious San Antonio rally to hand the Spurs their first loss in nine games. Knicks 115, Nets 104. Bob McAdoo scored 21 points, including 24 in the second half, to lead New York over New Jersey. Sixers 122, Pacers 110. Doug Collins poured in 25 points and substitute Henry Bibby added 21 more as Philadelphia beat the Pacers. Celtics 112, Kings 103. Marvin Barnes and JoJo White combined for 40 points to lead last-place Boston over first-place Kansas City. SuperSonics 122, Jazz 103. Fred Brown came off the bench to score 27 points as Seattle broke its six-game losing streak. Lakers 106, Warriors 104. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar connected on a hook shot with 20 seconds remaining, lifting Los Angeles to a come-from-behind victory over Golden State. Thomas Endorsed. MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — George Thomas, 41, assistant coach of the University of Minnesota basketball team, has been endorsed to succeed late head Coach Dick Siebert. He was recommended for the job Wednesday by Paul Giel, university men's athletic director. His appointment is subject to approval by the university board of regents. "I don't like taking over under these circumstances," said Thomas, who had worked with Siebert, who died earlier this month, since 1972. "But this is something I've always wanted to do."

MIDGETS Action last night saw Automatic Comfort stop the Knicks, 30-21. Mortuary's dump Manchester Police, 34-25, the Elis, 30-19, and the Pizza House slip past Modern Janitorial, 32-29. Susan Wallace and Keith Bychowski led Automatic with 10 points apiece. Teammate Jim French added eight markers. Cameron Dietrick was high for the Knicks with five points. Jim Loughlin and Matt Gallagher added four points each. Moriarty's was led by Kliffie Silver who scored a game-high 14 tallies. Teammates Clarence Zachary and Billy Prignano contributed eight and six points respectively. Scoring for Police were Scott Hempstead, Jim Loughlin, and Matt Gallagher. The Elis were led by Greg Turner with a game-high 17 points. Paul Teresutti chipped in with 10. Wyman Oil top scorer was Chris Petersen who had 14. John Tracy put down seven. Paul Marsale was top man for Pizza with 10 markers. Bruce Kelsey notched six tallies. Janitorial got a 16-point performance from Glen Bogdani. Chris Stifnagle added six markers. PEE WEE Crispino's crushed WINF, 18-6 and VFW slid by Manchester Police, 20-16. Joe Prignano was high man for Crispino's with eight points. Mike Craig notched four. Sean Gorman had four of WINF's six points. Joey Colletti and Greg Dameron were the top scorers for VFW with eight points each. Paul Lantry led the losers with seven tallies while teammate Jason Stansfield popped for six markers. Funeral Held LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — A funeral was held Wednesday for Ronald MacKenzie, 76, late president of the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee, who died Saturday. An autopsy revealed that MacKenzie died of an embolism, not a heart attack as was thought, an LPOOC spokesman said. More than 500 people, including state and federal officials and members of the United States and International Olympic Committees, attended the service at Adirondack Community Church.

Lacroix 'Hat Trick' Leads Whaler Win

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — The New England Whalers' Andre Lacroix says the Czechoslovakian All Stars always have an excuse for losing, but it isn't always valid. Lacroix, who scored a hat trick in the Whaler's 10-4 rout of the Czech's Wednesday night, said New England simply dominated and out-hit the visiting squad. Czech Coach Stanislav Nevedely said after the game it was a "different situation for our club. It was our first time together. We only had our first practice today." Lacroix termed Nevedely's comment sour grapes. "That's no excuse. They got here before Christmas," he said. "No matter how you beat this team they never lose in their own mind. They'll always have some reason." Lacroix scored his first goal at 18:20 of the first period while New England was trailing 3-1 and Mark Howe tied it with seven seconds left in the opening stanza. Lacroix scored two more goals in the second period. Johnny McKenzie and Dave Keon also scored to put the

A disputed goal in the last second of play in the first period broke Manchester High's spirit as it succumbed, 11-2, to Conard High in ice hockey action last night at the Bolton Ice Palace. The victory was the first for the Indians Chieftans skaters while the Indians lost 1-6 overall with the setback. Kelly McSweeney, who tallied four goals in his last outing, put Manchester on the scoreboard at 14:59. Dave Kilpatrick scored at 14:59, unassisted to make it 3-1. Manchester Coach Dennis Doyle and his bench protested, arguing the buzzer went off before the puck completely crossed the goal line, but the referee ruled otherwise. "It was the goal that broke the spirit of the team or gave them a lead-down for a few minutes that Conard took advantage of," noted Clyde Miller, team publicist. The Chieftans tallied four times in the second period, outshooting Manchester, 27-6. Jim French, Bob Ahamed, Fred Finnigan and Tom Hamlin lit the lamp for Conard in the middle session. Tom Joslin, Phil Corbin, Carucci and Gene Holsinger tallied for the Chieftans in the final period while Manchester countered with one goal. Kelly McSweeney scored four straight goals in the final period while Tom Roach assisted by McSweeney, Mike Schoeneberger and Scott Brown played well for the Indians as did netminder John Mumford. The Elis were led by Greg Turner with a game-high 17 points. Paul Teresutti chipped in with 10. Wyman Oil top scorer was Chris Petersen who had 14. John Tracy put down seven. Paul Marsale was top man for Pizza with 10 markers. Bruce Kelsey notched six tallies. Janitorial got a 16-point performance from Glen Bogdani. Chris Stifnagle added six markers.

White Leads Celts In Return to Home

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Jo Jo White came home to play a basketball game for the first time in about 10 years and the city occasioned the occasion with a plaque. White, who played for McKinley High School on the city's South Side in the early 1960s, had a legion of relatives and friends at the Checker-dome Wednesday night as he helped the Boston Celtics beat the Kansas City Kings 112-103. "It's a great feeling any time you come back home," White said. "I had quite a few people in the seats pulling for me." White, who last played in St. Louis as a Kansas Jayhawk against St. Louis University 10 years ago, scored 25 points against the Kings. He had 16 of them in the first half before being presented the plaque proclaiming "Jo Jo White Day in St. Louis." When Kansas City narrowed the Celtics' margin to four points with 5:40 remaining in the game, White fed Corbair Maxwell for a basket, then scored twice to restore a 10-point ledge. The game also was a homecoming for Marvin Barnes, former star of the Spirits of St. Louis who lasted two years and then moved to Utah and went out of business before the ABA merged with the NBA. Barnes scored 29 points, including 16 in the

Michel Rebounding Nicely After Field Goal Misfired

By MILTON RICHMAN NEW YORK (UPI) — For those of you out there who are a little worried about him, this is to assure you Mike Michel is coming out of it nicely although it goes without saying he won't be kicking any more footballs this year. You remember what happened the last time he did days ago. Poor fellow flubbed it. While he was doing that, completely oblivious to all the pandemonium around him, linebacker Greg Brezina, walked over to his side. Brezina wanted to console the completely devastated Eagles' punter, who had never tried a field goal for them before and had done it now because Nick Mike-Mayer, the team's regular place kicker, was on the injured reserved list. Seeking to comfort Michel, Brezina bent over and tried to convey the way he felt inside, attempting to explain he knew exactly how Michel felt and to soften his extreme distress somewhat. I caught up with Greg Brezina just before he went to practice Tuesday and asked him whether he had any objection to telling me what he said to Michel last Sunday. He said he didn't have any objection at all. "I said to him, 'Look, I don't know if you can understand what I'm about to say, but it doesn't really matter if you made the kick or missed it. What matters far more is if you have peace in your heart, which comes through Jesus Christ.'" Michel nodded without saying anything. All he did was keep staring at the ground. "I tried to explain to him what I was trying to say but I wasn't sure whether he heard me or not," said Brezina. Brezina said and told me so over the phone from Philadelphia. "What bothers me," Michel said, "is that I feel I left without really letting him know how I felt about what he did for me. I never said before. When I see him again, though, I'd like to thank him for his words... they probably were, anyone who took the trouble to anyone could say to me. To have done what he did... was a real example of a true brother, someone who took the time to go far beyond the meaning of the game. I believe in Jesus also." Michel, who didn't join the Eagles until mid-October, said without a single exception, all of his teammates were absolutely "magnificent" in their understanding of his failure. "I really found out the true meaning of the word 'team-mates,'" he said. As for Greg Brezina, he also believes in miracles. He feels the Falcons will upset the Cowboys in Dallas Saturday. "That will be miracle No. 6," he said. "No matter what, though, Brezina says the most important thing that has happened to him since he started his pro football career was his becoming a Christian seven years ago. "Doing that made me believe in biblical principles," he explained. "I used to go out and get drunk a couple of times a week. Now I don't drink anymore. I don't use profanity anymore and I have no more racial prejudice. I think I'm a much better man this way." Mike Michel wouldn't argue that at all.

Ski Notes

By Bill Sacherek School is out and what a ball skier are having. The snowstorm last Sunday was worth well over a million dollars to ski areas in New England. Natural snow was a bit scarce until last week. With over 14 inches at the Mohawk area in Connecticut, Walt Schenmeyer is aglow. The snow pets deeper as you go north. "Up at Jay Peak, Al Cahill tells me there is about 2 1/2 feet of powder. This beautiful ski area, with an international flavor is going to have a lot more this winter. The mountain has been acquired by the owners of Mount St. Saviour, one of Canada's oldest and most highly regarded ski areas. A new triple chair is scheduled in the near future. Over the years, Hans Thorer, president of Magic Mountain, has pretty well maintained its enviable reputation for short lift lines. It's too bad a few more mountains don't take a page from Han's operational manual. Some of the best snow sculptors in the nation show up every year during the Snow Winter Carnival. This year the carnival will run from Jan. 15-19. The theme this year will be "The Snow Glow" and Coca Cola has given a hefty chunk for 20 prizes. Michelangelo. See you on the mountain.

Physical Conditioning Important Lifting Weights Assisted Dibbs

NEW YORK — Jack Kramer has advised, "The best conditioning for playing tennis is to play tennis." That may be true, but what do you do if you're Eddie Dibbs or Harold Solomon and as talented in stroke-production and strategy as anyone in the world — but only 5-7 or 5-6 tall and desperately trying to catch up with the bigger power hitters? It turns out that Dibbs, now ranked as the 61st year-end professional, is a personal challenge. "It's how it helps you," says Dibbs, "not a pre-tournament race with your court opponents." What's the most comforting thing that anyone could say to me. To have done what he did... was a real example of a true brother, someone who took the time to go far beyond the meaning of the game. I believe in Jesus also. "I said to him, 'Look, I don't know if you can understand what I'm about to say, but it doesn't really matter if you made the kick or missed it. What matters far more is if you have peace in your heart, which comes through Jesus Christ.'" Michel nodded without saying anything. All he did was keep staring at the ground. # Cougars Resume Slate Saturday

"We're going to have to go back and practice things we've been doing well. We shall attempt to play a more aggressive game of basketball." This is how Manchester Community College basketball Coach Frank Kinl analyzed his club's present standing in the young season. The Cougars, 4-2, have just finished taking final exams. They are enjoying a Christmas vacation before resuming their rigorous schedule Saturday night at 8 at home against Hartford State Technical College at East Catholic. Kinl, second-year mentor, said he was disappointed that his charges do not have a 5-1 record. "We've got to improve, because we face tougher opponents in January and February." The Cougars will be battling such seasoned teams as Housatonic, Manhattan, Roxbury and Mitchell. These teams are among the best in New England. Kinl is pleased by the performance of forward D.J. Frederick, who "plays 100 percent every time he goes out on the floor. Frederick has amassed 79 points and handed 74 rebounds. Another key person has been 6-3 forward Paul Little from Bloomfield who has been averaging 7.8 points a game, for a total of 47 points in six games. Michael "Crip" Robinson, from Weaver High, a 6-4 forward, has scored 55 points and made 40 rebounds in the three games he's played. Guard John Zito from Windsor, has scored 69 points. Leading in assists is Sean Thompson from East Catholic. He also has scored 46 points. But, beyond these figures, Thompson is a born leader, the squad's quarterback. Joe Bazzano from South Catholic leads with 15 steals and has averaged 7.6 points a game. The Cougars' leading foul shooter, Peter Murphy, never played basketball when a student at Hartford High. Yet, he's Manchester's leading foul shooter, 11 for 13. Bernardo Collazo from Buckley High has made 12 steals and has averaged 7.6 points a game. Frank Beupre from Manchester High has been averaging 4.2 points. He has shot 8 for 14 from the floor for a 4.2 average. Dave Wyman, also of Manchester High, has made five steals and averaged 1.3 points a game.

UCLA, 61, stayed No. 3, garnering 41 points after easy victories over Fordham and Boston College. Michigan State, 41, 37 points, continue in fourth place with a triumph over Cincinnati. North Carolina, 61, defeated Cincinnati, rather than finish with 269 points and idle Michigan, 41, retained its seventh-place ranking with 256 points. LSU, 74, moved up from tenth to eighth with 212 points on victories over Montana State and Army. North Carolina State, 73, fell from 11th to ninth after losing to Maryland. Louisville, 72, beat Providence and moved into 10th with 178 points.

UConn Co-Favorite, Ready for Classic

Connecticut and Tulsa, opening round rivals in a Friday 9 p.m. game in the Connecticut Mutual Basketball Classic at the New Haven Coliseum, were tabbed co-favorites to win. Both carry 5-2 win-loss records, Connecticut riding along on a four-game win streak. Manhattan (2-7) and East Carolina (3-5) open the joust in a 7 p.m. pairing. Friday's winners play for the title at 8 Saturday night while third-place will be settled on Saturday at 7 when Friday's losers play. Tickets will be on sale both nights at the Coliseum but offer all this week. Connecticut Coach Don Perno expects to start the same lineup that carried his team to four straight wins. Corey Thompson, a 6-5 freshman, paces the scoring with 18.3 points a game, followed by 6-5 freshman forward Mike McKay with 17.3 tallies. Next are 5-10 sophomore Bobby Dulin (11.1), 6-3 senior Randy LaVigne (9.4) and 6-8 senior Jeff Carr (9.0). Tulsa, averaging a powerful 66.7 points per game, distributes its scoring among 10 players, all of whom have seen just about equal playing time. Terry Sims, a 6-3 senior guard, averages 18 points while 6-5 junior forward Billy Keys and 6-3 junior guard Russell Sublet contribute a dozen each. Manhattan's 2-7 record is deceiving. A basket here and there might have given the Jaspers a winning record. They average 72.7 points per game while giving up 71.6. Sixteen-year-old forward Mike Walters is the leader with 25 points. East Carolina's 6-3 senior guard David Mack leads the Pirates with a 17-point average.

Engineer Eyes Funds For Coventry Sewers

COVENTRY — Fuss and O'Neill engineering representative, Lon Hultgren, told the Water Pollution Control Authority (formerly the Sewer Authority) that the town could finance a proposed $9.5 million municipal sewer system entirely through state and federal grants and loans.

The authority is developing a facilities plan for sewerage of the lake and villages areas in response to a pollution abatement order placed against Coventry by the State Environmental Protection Agency in 1971. Two previous proposals for a regional sewer system with Mansfield were rejected by Coventry voters, and Mansfield dropped out of the picture earlier this year.

State and federal grants will pay up to 90 percent of the cost of interceptor and treatment plant construction. The town could have to come up with the remaining 10 percent, or $950,000, plus $3 million for lateral sewer lines and connectors to houses.

Hultgren said Coventry could get an additional grant of over $15 million for lateral lines from the federal government, plus over $2 million in loans at five percent interest. Road reconstruction in sewer areas would run about a quarter of a million and would have to be financed by the town.

The lake area especially would benefit from the roadwork, according to authority chairman Richard Bressit. Many private roads there are in a deteriorated condition and would have to be ripped up anyway to lay the sewer connectors.

Hultgren speculated that a 1-1/2 mill tax hike for the town would pay for the federal loan. Systems users would have to pay for maintenance and other costs, estimated at about $20 per month per home by engineer.

A final draft of the facilities plan is expected to be ready by the end of January. Bressit has asked for meetings with the Town Council and the Planning and Zoning Commission for the final writing.

Council members are split on the issue of a major system for the town, although the group has supported the efforts of the authority to bring another referendum proposed before the voters.

The Planning and Zoning Commission would like to see sewer lines in the village area to encourage development there but only limited sewerage of the lake area, which is already heavily populated. The authority favors sufficient sewer lines around the lake to cope with anticipated growth in addition to existing potential health hazards.

St. Peter's Church Plans Special Holiday Service

HEBRON — St. Peter's Church will have a service of Lessons and Carols for Christmas, this coming Sunday during the 10 a.m. church service.

This service of Biblical readings interspersed with Christmas carols, an Anglican tradition for over a century, tells the story of God's promise to mankind and its fulfillment in Christ.

The junior high church school class will present a dramatic version of "A Christmas Carol" following the Lessons and Carols Service. There will be no church school classes on that day.

Again this year, all members of the parish, their friends and guests are invited to an open house at the rectory, New Year's Day between 2 and 5 p.m.

The 1979 annual parish meeting will be held Jan. 13 beginning at 6:30 p.m. with a potluck supper. The business meeting will start at 8 p.m.

As in the past, the parishioners will hear reports of the past year, discuss the 1979 budget, and elect officers and vestry members.

Jane Donnelly, Henry Knapp and Nelson Moore, whose terms on the vestry committee expire this year, make up the nominating committee to recommend officers and vestry members for the coming year.

The present Vestry Committee reports concern for the 1979 budget due to inflation. Committee members project the need for more than $2,000 in pledges to see the church through the coming year. In addition, the committee reports it is committed to raising a large sum for some "absolutely necessary capital improvements" including the roof that has already been installed, improvements to the parking lot and repairing the church exterior.

In connection with these improvements a capital funds drive will be conducted to raise money. The committee feels the time to start the drive is during the Lenten season with a final accounting packet to be ready by Easter.

The Christmas Fair Committee reports a profit of more than $1,800 from this year's fair run by the Episcopal Churchmen.

The women have voted to donate $250 of the profit toward buying a senior citizen van for the Town of Hebron and to give $2,000 to the church to be used in the fund up to date plus donating a brand new Christmas creche for the church.

HEBRON — The Hebron Lions Club will have a New Year's Eve party Sunday at the Hemlock Outdoor Center. A buffet supper featuring roast beef will be served. The admission charge will also include drinks, prizes, and games. Entertainment should bring their own choice of live refreshments. The Mystics will play for dancing from 8:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m.

For information, call 643-2529 or reservations call 228-3259 after 6 p.m.

Proceeds from the sale of tickets will go to the Lion's Club sign conservation program, the Hemlock Outdoor Center.

Breakfast Drink

ROSEMOENT, 111 (UPI) — Cow juice is losing ground to orange juice as a breakfast beverage in the United States. The annual Menu Census survey by the Marketing Research Corp. of America shows 91 percent of U.S. households serve juice for breakfast, while milk drinking at that meal has declined six percent in the past 10 years.

Children 2-12 years old account for a large percentage of the decline, says the United Dairy Industry Association of Rosemont.

Milk drinking during the day by this age group dropped almost 30 percent between 1968 and 1975.

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

TV'S Soap-Spielers Put Her in a Lather

DEAR ABBY: Please publish this as the people who want to sell a product will know how one housewife feels about some of the stupid TV commercials. I get so irritated with some of them I actually turn the volume down so I can't hear them.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old married woman who recently applied for membership in our fire department. There are no women in the department. I was the first to apply. I received four blackballs among the 22 men who were at that meeting. That was enough to keep me out. I know I was blackballed because I am a woman.

DEAR ABBY: My 8-year-old daughter has been sulking for a week because I refused to buy her a brassiere. Take my word for it, Abby, she has nothing to get in it, but she wants one anyway. She says all her friends at school wear them. I've seen her friends and I don't know why any of them would be wearing a brassiere.
