Suspect Held

NORTON, Mass. (UPI) — A 17-year-old Norton youth was arrested early today in North Attleboro and charged with the kidnapping and murder of Police Chief Benton W. Keene Jr.'s mother-in-law.

Authorities said suspect James E. Silva Jr. of 6 Hill St., was taken into custody around 2 a.m. Silva, being held without bail by Norton authorities, was charged with murder, kidnapping and three counts of larceny of a motor vehicle in the death of Mrs. Dianne Diann, 62, whose remains were found in a torched 1973 Oldsmobile Cutlass allegedly stolen Friday morning by the suspect.

The victim allegedly was kidnapped by Silva while sitting outside Haskins Pharmacy in Norton in a car owned by her daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Miller.

Norton Police Lt. James Dunlap said Silva would be arraigned Tuesday morning in Bristol County's 4th District Court in Attleboro.

When a new chairwoman is found, she will be asked to submit new names and to recommend whether the committee should be smaller than 40, the spokesman said.

Cartier dismissed Mrs. Abzug from the advisory position Friday because of a news release issued by the panel that criticized the president's decision to cut back on social welfare programs to fight inflation.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown has recommended changes in the targeting of nuclear missiles and bombs to put more emphasis on hitting Soviet military targets, administration sources say.

In the past, policy documents have described the deterrent principle as having enough weapons survive a strike and be capable of destroying at least 70 percent of Soviet critical industry or to level the 200 major cities of the Soviet Union.

Sources said Brown still wants that but also wants to widen the range of targets to include "conventional" forces — troops and ground or tactical air weapons the Soviets might use to move into Europe or elsewhere in a global war.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Curious — and profit-conscious — American businessmen have almost buried U.S. government offices under an avalanche of inquiries on establishing trade ties with China, officials say.

The United States and the People's Republic of China resumed formal diplomatic relations Jan. 1. In the two weeks since, "business interest in establishing trading ties and contacts with China has been extraordinary," said Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps Saturday.

American officials have said that during the next seven years, China plans to spend between $85 billion and $100 billion to modernize its economy.

Snow Paralyzes Chicago

Forecasters Predict Another Major Storm

Storm's Fury

It may be spring before these cars run again. Chicago was hit with 20 inches of snow over the weekend which left almost all side streets impassable. Early Sunday only major streets could take normal traffic as more than 1,000 pieces of snow removal equipment was pressed into service to clear the snow before Monday morning rush hour. (UPI photo)

CHICAGO (UPI) — With Chicagoans reeling from more than a week of sub-zero temperatures followed by the heaviest snow since the "Blizzard of '67" and then more sub-zero readings, it seems the worst that could happen would be more snow.

And that's exactly what forecasters are predicting. The National Weather Service said a snowstorm in the Rockies could pass through the city as early as tonight, adding to the record 29 inches already on the ground.

A weekend snowstorm accompanied by 40-mph winds devastated the area, dropping more than 20 inches. Auto travel was hazardous if not impossible, roofs collapsed under the weight of the snow, parked cars were buried from view, mass transit was partially shut down and O'Hare International Airport — the world's busiest — was closed for only the sixth time in its history.

The temperature in the city got down to 15 below zero early today, and a stiff breeze brought the wind-chill factor down to 37 below. The surrounding suburbs were even more frigid.

Mayor Michael A. Bilandic, heavily criticized for slow action in removing snow from a major New Year's storm, went to mass Sunday night "to pray for no more snow," as he put it. Work crews will work 12-hour shifts until the snow-removal job is done, city officials said.

"You know it's bad when the mayor goes to church to pray for a break in the weather," said Barry Glace, a North Side resident.

The weekend blizzard also battered the rest of the northern third of the state, prompting Gov. James R. Thompson to declare it a disaster area.

At O'Hare, which officials said would probably reopen sometime today, all available snow-removal equipment was busy clearing the runways.

"This blizzard is much worse than 1967's," Bilandic told a news conference Sunday night, "because besides the heavy snows, we are encountering sub-zero temperatures and high winds."

"Activities within Chicago will be slow, but operating. Fortunately, our forces worked steadily through the storm, allowing us to stay open, unlike many of the cities around Chicago."

Two helicopters, one from the Coast Guard and one from the Chicago Fire Department, battled 45-knot gusts on Lake Michigan early Sunday to rescue four crewmen from a wooden fishing boat caught in the ice.

But not everything about the blizzard was bad. Police reported an 80 percent drop in crime over the weekend, attributing it to the harsh weather.

However, homicide investigator James Dwyer said, "That doesn't mean it's going to stay that way. The longer people stay locked inside together, the shorter tempers get."

Staggering from the effects of a weekend blizzard, the Midwest was swept today with record-breaking sub-zero temperatures and prepared for still another onslaught of snow.

Temperatures reached zero or below early today from Michigan and northwestern Indiana across Illinois, Missouri, much of Kansas and Nebraska, northern Wyoming and nearly all of Montana.

Low-temperature records for Sunday were broken during the evening in several cities, including South Bend, Ind., with 10 below; Chicago with 14 below; and Peoria, Ill., 19 below.

Residents in Kansas and Missouri, just beginning to dig out of a blizzard that dumped 8-foot-high snow drifts and knocked out electricity to 50,000 customers, will be hit with more snow today and Tuesday, the weather service said.

The bitter cold temperatures and weekend snow forced officials to close many Midwestern schools. Several deaths were attributed to the storm.

Three counties in northern Illinois were declared disaster areas, and states of emergency were declared in parts of Michigan.

"All travel is being discouraged," the Michigan state police said. "Side roads all over Michigan were impassable. The northern half of the state has blowing and drifting snow as well."

The snowstorm in Michigan was accompanied by winds topping 40 mph along with sleet and freezing rain.

Travelers advisories were in effect over the upper Ohio Valley as well as along the eastern shore of Lake Michigan, where snow flurries re-coated recently plowed roadways.

A heavy snow warning was called for the Colorado mountains, as well as a winter storm warning over northern Arizona.

Travelers advisories were posted over Idaho, southern Oregon and the mountains of eastern and southern California for snow and blowing snow. An avalanche warning remained in effect over the central and southern Colorado mountains, south of a line from Denver to Grand Junction. Heavy snow and high winds pelted the area.

Rain fell over southern Oregon through the northern half of California. A rain storm hit northern California Sunday with winds of up to 55 mph, resulting in hazardous driving conditions and power outages to at least 12,000 customers.

The storm in the Rockies kept eight rescuers in Utah from bringing down the remaining two of five victims killed in a twin-engine plane crash near the summit of a mountain.

The victims, including a prominent Utah dentist and his family, were found dead in the wreckage Saturday on the steep and snowy slopes of 10,000-foot Maple Mountain.

Shopping Crowds Large As Blue Law Suspended

By United Press International Connecticut merchants said crowds of shoppers were moderate to large on Sunday, the first time stores have been allowed to open without fear of possible prosecution since the end of the Christmas season.

Chief State's Attorney Austin J. McGuigan had asked all Connecticut law agencies to suspend enforcement of the so-called "blue law" until the state Supreme Court rules on its legality.

The ban on Sunday sales was passed by the Legislature last year and became effective Oct. 1. It was to replace a statute struck down as unconstitutional by state courts in 1976.

The parking lots at the Westfarms Mall, a massive shopping mall straddling the West Hartford-Farmington line, were about 80 percent full but only the restaurants and two of the three largest department stores were open. Many small shops were closed.

The Westfarms management has the option to require stores to open, but it has said it will not exercise that option until the state Supreme Court rules on the Sunday closing law.

Shopping mall employees continued to speak out against working on Sundays, but they refused to give their names for fear of reprisal by their employers.

"I hate it," a clerk said Sunday. "There should be one day to close everything and it should be Sunday. It's just a day to catch up on my sleep and recover from Saturday night."

Another clerk said, "They have six days to shop. Why should we be open on Sunday?"

A spokesman for G. Fox & Co. in Westfarms Mall said the store had a "busy" day, but it was not comparable to weekdays or pre-Christmas Sundays.

Jack Bagley, co-owner of Combo Distributors Inc. of Wethersfield, which requested the first injunction issued to prevent enforcement of the law, said business was "average." "It was no better or no worse than previous Sundays, and we've been open Sundays for 10 years," he said. "We feel we'd be better off if all the stores were open Sundays."

Until the high court settles the case, at least one suit, Caldor Inc.'s against Bagley's appliance store for allegedly violating the law, remains pending in Hartford Superior Court.

The assistant manager at Susie's Casuals in Meriden Square reported brisk business and said the mall was crowded for a Sunday.

McGuigan said although the law remains in effect pending the Supreme Court decision, the state is prevented from enforcing the law because of the injunctions issued recently by judges in New Haven and Hartford.

Last week a West Hartford Superior Court judge refused to issue police arrest warrants for department stores which opened in alleged violation of the law.

In November, New Haven Superior Court Judge Nicholas Clouff again declared the law unconstitutional.

Tax Break Ruled On Burnham Land

EAST HARTFORD — The town improperly charged a $7,000 conveyance fee on a piece of land on Burnham Street which was eligible for a tax break as farmland, a Superior Court judge has ruled.

Judge Robert Satter ruled that Albert Burnham owned the land for more than 10 years, which makes him eligible for the exemption.

Under a state law, if an owner sells farmland which he has owned for more than 10 years, no tax can be imposed on it. However, if the owner has not owned the land for 10 years, the town may charge a prorated tax.

The land in question was owned for many years by Kate Burnham, who quitclaimed the land to two businesses. When she died in 1968, the land was devised to her son Albert, and his wife.

In 1970, Burnham applied to have the land classified as farmland. This allows the owner to apply for a lower assessment than is given to land used for other purposes.

Burnham put the land under different trusteeships during the period in question. The town questions whether he actually held the land for the necessary 10 years.

He sold the land in 1977 to Pasquale Salemi.

Burnham changed the trustee ownership of his property to Merwin Orenstein and Albert Kling in 1972. The town claims this was a complete change of ownership and the tax bill should be levied from 1972 to 1977, the date of the sale.

But, Satter said the 1972 agreement gave the trustees no power to sell, mortgage or encumber the property. The trustees were "strawmen within the accepted definition of that term: 'One made to appear as owner of record who in fact held title for another.'" Satter said.

The transaction which resulted in Burnham owning the land in 1968 is similarly exempt from the tax provisions of the farmland statute.

The judge said as a consequence of the 1977 sale, the Burnhams had held the land more than 10 years and should have been exempt. McNamara said Friday the town will appeal the decision soon to the state Supreme Court.

Town Advertises For Revaluation

By CHRIS BLAKE Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — The town is advertising for an appraisal firm to conduct a townwide revaluation of property for 1981, Mayor Richard H. Blackstone has said. Target date for selection of a firm is April 7.

The revaluation would be reflected on the Oct. 1, 1981 grand list and go into effect on the July 1, 1982 tax bills. Revaluation is required by state statute every 10 years. The last one in East Hartford was done in 1971.

Blackstone said the town has a balance of commercial, residential and industrial parcels — a balance which will not change drastically from the 1971 revaluation. In preparation for revaluation, Town Engineer Charles P. Sheehan is updating the town maps in the assessor's office to show new subdivisions and development activity. Tax Assessor Anthony Barber is preparing specifications for an appraisal firm.

Barber will direct the work of the appraisal firm, Blackstone said. The planned revaluation may not take as long as the last one because the town now has a computer to figure out the tax rates based on assessment, Blackstone said.

He said the computer system may allow the town to keep the cost of revaluation close to the $200,000 it cost last time.

Assessments rose 20 percent while the mill rate dropped by five mills after the last assessment was completed.

Dollar's Future Hinges On U.S. Inflation Rate

By United Press International
The Germans are cautious, the French are pessimistic and the British say the outlook is favorable. But the U.S. dollar looks to remain on a merry-go-round in 1979 and the U.S. inflation rate is the spoke that will determine which way the wheel turns.

Money traders queried by UPI generally agreed the dollar's recent gains will be maintained, but almost every one of the foreign exchange specialists hedged all bets on the effectiveness of the Carter administration's campaign to fight inflation.

"There has been a substantial shift in the market attitude toward the dollar the last week — traders are much more positive," said Ann Parker Mills, vice president of Irving Trust Co. of New York. "But this shift has occurred before and has been quickly eroded. "At present, it's a volatile, nervous market with traders looking for continuing evidence that the administration and the Federal Reserve intend to stick to a policy that will bring down inflation rates," she said. The dollar has fluctuated widely in the first two weeks of the year. For example, against the West German mark it has traded in the range of 1.80 to 1.86 marks and it has been even more volatile in terms of the Swiss and French francs and Japanese yen.

But most traders don't see a repeat of 1978, when the dollar depreciated by 35 percent against the Swiss franc, by 23 percent against the mark and by 32 percent against the yen.

"I cannot see in any way the dollar going through the disastrous times it has experienced recently," said Alan Davis, deputy manager of the economics department of London's Barclay's group. "The outlook for the dollar in 1979 is favorable and I think after the short-term, the currency will turn higher still."

West German traders expressed cautious optimism the dollar might gain during 1979, but they were unanimous in the view the future depends on the effectiveness of the administration's campaign against inflation.

"If — and it is a very big if — the fight against inflation succeeds, the dollar might climb a bit off the floor," one German banker said. But a majority of West German bankers were cautious about the administration's ability to control events.

The French are not at all optimistic about the dollar and the administration's ability to do anything about the inflation rate — an opinion that was pretty much summed up by a monetary expert in Paris. "I doubt the Carter administration will be able to hold inflation much under 10 percent. I am concerned about the (U.S.) money in circulation. I am uncertain about how far the central banks of other countries are prepared to go to support the dollar. I am unsure about whether the measures Carter already has taken will be effective and how much further he is willing to go. In a word, I'm pessimistic."

However, an American banker in Paris said "part of this attitude may stem from the fact that the French have lived with almost continuous inflation for the past 30 years and doubt anyone's ability to contain it."

96th Congress To Face Old Problems and New

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 96th Congress can look ahead to insurance plants, arguments over fiscal belt-tightening and foreign policy, but its members before any of these problems can be addressed, the new Congress will be reminded bluntly of a problem remaining from the 96th Congress: When today's swearing-in of new members, opening ceremonies, pro forma elections of the leaders and celebration parties are over, the new Congress must settle down to deal with inflation, priorities in a frugal budget that almost certainly will squeeze out social programs, social security taxes, a new strategic arms treaty, U.S. China policy (and President Carter's failure to consult Congress on it), trade policy, implementation of the Panama Canal treaty and similar problems.

For the first time since the Vietnam War era, lawmakers face the "guns or butter" question of whether to divert federal tax money toward social programs or a stronger military. Today's opening day ceremonies will be followed by receipt of the Carter budget. Jan. 22, the State of the Union address. Jan. 23, and several weeks of committee organization in the House. The Senate, often unpredictable, may launch its battles immediately. Democrats hold a commanding lead over Republicans in both Houses. The House has 278 Democrats and 157 Republicans, including 42 freshman Democrats and 35 new Republicans. In the Senate, Democrats hold a 59-41 edge.

The new Congress, during its two years of existence, must deal with an era of tight fiscal restraint in an effort to get a handle on inflation and other economic problems. As Senate Democratic leader Robert F. Byrd said, the Senate, and presumably the House, will be "a little more centrifugally inclined with its appropriations," shifting away from more liberal spending policies. But Byrd added that, "as it exercises fiscal prudence, it will at the same time look at the social problems of the country."

Employees of Telecommunications of Iran today announced they have gone on strike in solidarity with anti-shah forces. All domestic and international telex communications have been severed by the strike. The Khaban newspaper reported in today's edition that limited crude oil exports would resume in the next few days. Kayhan quoted a highly reliable oil source that "export of some of the product of the world's largest oil refinery at Abadan were essential to make storage space and production progressive."

Bakhtiar said today that he would not send Iranian ambassadors to Israel and South Africa without approval of parliament. Iran already has diplomatic relations with both countries and it was not immediately clear that Bakhtiar's statement would affect the status of the relations. Today's vote of confidence was the second step in a three-tier procedure paving the way for the shah's departure. The creation of a regency council has already been completed, leaving only a vote of confidence from the lower house Tuesday which would allow the monarch to leave.

The shah has purchased a mansion in Acapulco, Mexico, that once belonged to actress Merle Oberon, informed sources said. Foreigners' fearful of retaliation by the pro-shah army once the monarch leaves, continued to flee Iran despite the improved news from the oil fields.

Paul E. Grimm, an American oil expert at Iran's southern oilfields, strikebound since October, was ambushed and killed by unidentified gunmen on Dec. 23, four days before the strikers successfully shut down Iran's crude oil exports.

District Attorney Sten Runerheim, who questioned the teen-ager, said "I have often worked with cases involving young people, and I would have said that this boy was a fine member of today's youth. "It is quite impossible to see a link between the person and his deed," Runerheim said. Dr. Nils Stormby said routine autopsies conducted on patients who had died during the youth's rampage did not indicate they had been poisoned. "When people die in a geriatric ward, poisoning is not the first thing you think of," Stormby said. Runerheim said the youth may not be charged with all the confessed killings because some of the victims have already been cremated. "We are checking his claims by reviewing the hospital autopsy reports for all the deceased patients he named, as all the cases are either buried or cremated," police inspector Sven-Grok Svensson of the Malmö Homicide Department "The boy is a

Rulers Win Iran Vote; U.S. Man Found Slain

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The Iranian senate today gave a vote of confidence to Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar's civilian government. The senate endorsed Bakhtiar with only one member casting a negative vote as thousands of anti-shah demonstrators gathered in the grand bazaar of Tehran for a massive show of opposition to the monarch who is reported planning to leave Iran in the next few days.

The newspaper Kayhan reported today that Martin Berkovitz, a former U.S. Air Force colonel and a Vietnam War veteran, was killed in his residence in Kerman, southern Iran. U.S. Embassy sources said Berkovitz was found dead in an apartment Sunday night. They said Iranian newspaper reports that Berkovitz, age and hometown unknown, was murdered for being Jewish were being checked.

If reports that Berkovitz was murdered are true, he would be the second American to be killed in Iran's current anti-foreign frenzy resulting from the violent campaign to topple Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi. Paul E. Grimm, an American oil expert at Iran's southern oilfields, strikebound since October, was ambushed and killed by unidentified gunmen on Dec. 23, four days before the strikers successfully shut down Iran's crude oil exports.

Killer Could Not Stand To See Patients Suffer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — A 19-year-old Swedish youth charged with killing 19 senile patients of a geriatric ward by giving them a soft drink laced with carbolic acid did it because he "could not stand to see them suffer."

The teen-ager — who is slightly retarded — told police he thought the patients led a "meaningless life" and he wanted to help them. He was arrested Friday at Stra Geriatric Hospital in the southern Swedish city of Malmö.

"I could not stand to see some of the old people suffer, so I helped them to die," police quoted the youth as saying. The suspect, who was not identified, also confessed to giving the drink laced with the corrosive disinfectant to some patients other than the 19 he admitted killing, police said. Three other mysterious deaths at the ward since September, when the youth began working there, are now being investigated. Five more patients have received intensive care since Friday when a nurse caught the youth giving a soft drink containing carbolic acid to a 94-year-old woman.

The nurse heard the woman shouting, "My throat, something burning my throat." The nurse said she snatched the cup

Farming Town Unlikely Spot for Observatory

GOLDENDALE, Wash. (UPI) - Goldendale, a farming town, population 2,500, just east of the Cascade Mountains, looks like an unlikely spot for an observatory that draws astronomers from all over the world.

McConnell, now 79, one of the four, said they began work in 1963 with the idea of presenting the telescope to Clark Community College at Vancouver.

Tolan said when the men got the instrument built seven years later to build the facility needed to house it. So McConnell and his partners - John Marshall, now 88; Don Connor, now 74; and O.W. VanderVelden, now deceased - began looking for a home for their prize. They went east of the Cascades because there are more clear nights there than west of the mountains. "When we came to Goldendale we stopped for lunch," McConnell said.

They told a waitress in the cafe what they were looking for. She told her husband, a member of the City Council. He arrived and the project to move the telescope to Goldendale was born.

The city put in $25,000, corporate donors provided $25,000 and the Economic Development Administration put up $16,000 to build the observatory. The observatory was completed in 1973 and then, said Tolan, it sat unused for three years for lack of operating funds.

Opened in the summer of 1976, it has an annual budget of $25,000, all raised through memberships, admission and use charges and donations, Tolan said.

Chamber To Hire Salesman

VERNON - The Board of Directors of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce may hire, on a commission basis, a membership salesman.

The board took the action in an executive session following its regular meeting Wednesday.

Mr. Anne Flint, executive director, said the program will be on a trial basis and won't start until after the dues schedule has been revised.

She said the program is structured like the one the Manchester Chamber of Commerce has. The person "hired" will be paid a percentage of the dues paid by any new member he or she brings in.

The program will not include membership on the board, or the chamber in general, but also bringing in new members.

Mr. Flint said the person hired will use a very "soft-sell" approach to bring in additional members. The program will be on a trial basis for one year.

HEBRON - The Indian Valley YMCA will start a new course in photography during the winter session.

Robert Pugliese of Vernon will be teaching the course which is for beginners.

Students will be taught about the various parts of the camera and the basic techniques of picture taking. Pugliese has been a photo journalist for 20 years and is now employed by the University of Connecticut office of Public Information.

This course is geared to teens and adults and will run for four weeks beginning Jan. 22 and for three consecutive Tuesdays from 7 to 8 p.m.

The classes will be held in the YMCA offices at Vernon Circle. A fee will be charged and registrations will be on a first come, first served basis.

For registration or information call the YMCA office, 872-7259.

Eighth District Meeting Topic of News Complaint

MANCHESTER - A reporter for the Journal Inquirer has filed a Freedom of Information complaint in connection with a Jan. 4 meeting of the Eighth Utilities District Board of Directors.

The Eighth District's legal counsel, who attended the meeting, said the subject of the session was a privileged matter, and there was no violation of the FOI law.

Ralph Williams Jr., a reporter for the Journal Inquirer, filed his complaint Thursday with Helen Loy, chairman of the FOI commission.

Williams said the Eighth District directors met secretly with its counsel, attorney John LaBelle Sr., on or about Jan. 4. He said the meeting was held to discuss a request of the board that the attorney initiate court proceedings to obtain an order barring the town's Fire Department from using the Backland Firehouse.

He asked that the FOI Commission take the following actions:

- Find that the Jan. 4 session was a meeting within the meaning of the state's right-to-know law.
- Find that the Eighth District directors met illegally because they failed to give notice of the meeting and did not file minutes.
- Void any action taken at the meeting.
- Find that LaBelle "did knowingly and willfully induce the district's board of directors to violate the law."
- Advise and require the district directors and LaBelle to conduct the affairs of the district in accordance with state laws.
- Require the district directors to file a full record of the proceedings of the Jan. 4 session.

LaBelle said Friday the meeting was one that could have been held without public notification.

"It was a meeting between me and my clients," he said. The subject discussed, which he would not identify, was a proper subject for discussion at a closed session under the state law, LaBelle said.

"No action could be or was taken at the meeting," he said.

State NAACP Head Says King Dream Not Realized

HARTFORD (UPI) - The dream of equality and brotherhood that Dr. Martin Luther King advocated in stirring eloquence 15 years ago has not been realized, says the executive director of the Connecticut NAACP.

"For many, Dr. King's dream has been replaced by a nightmare of affirmative action backlash, outcast over school desegregation efforts and a 45 percent unemployment rate for blacks," said Ben F. Andrews, Jr., executive director of the NAACP.

Andrews was among 200 people who heard King's "I Have a Dream" speech in Washington in 1963. King, assassinated April 4, 1968 in Memphis, would have been 50 Monday.

Dr. King's dreams were not unrealistic, but those who control the elements to make the dream a reality do not have the same vision Dr. King had," Andrews said Sunday.

He added although Dr. King's birthday is a state holiday in Connecticut, neither the governor nor any other state leader encouraged towns or schools to commemorate the date.

"We worked seven years to get it a holiday, but there are no pronouncements from leaders saying, 'Let's observe this.'"

Many people believe "things are better today for blacks and other minorities than ever before in our history." But, he said, while some progress has been made, "the gap between black and white earning power is getting even broader."

"You can't look at gains for blacks in isolation. You have to look at gains in comparison to what everybody else is getting and government reports show the economic gap is getting wider," he said.

Andrews said King's leadership spawned improvements for blacks, including a push for quality education, housing for the poor, employment to combat poverty, political involvement and social services.

The violent attacks used by those opposing Dr. King and his civil rights followers prompted a public reaction that defined a new and vocal liberalism in the United States," he said. But, Andrews said, "it is clear that the liberalism that came with Dr. King is dead and has been replaced with a strong conservative swing in the United States."

"If he had lived, his populist movement could have been the ideal home for many working class whites who feel the government is not responding to their needs and is wasting much of their money," he said.

Andrews added the civil rights movement has experienced three phases, starting with King's push for equal access to public accommodations and a worldwide awakening to the plight of black people.

"Dr. King's untimely death came when the civil rights movement was edging into the second phase - gaining access to the economic and employment mainstream," he said.

Andrews said the movement's third phase began in 1975 with a drive to "salvage the basic achievements of the first two phases and get rid of the notion that blacks are moving into middle class suburban society - they haven't."

Asbestos Dump No Threat

STRATFORD (UPI) - No one knows how much industrial sludge containing asbestos fibers has been dumped over the past 20 years, but apparently there is no immediate health threat, says Stratford's conservation officer.

William McCann Sunday said the waste material no longer was being dumped indiscriminately, but old sludge served as a dumping site, McCann said.

When asked if there were potentially hazardous sites which still had been located, McCann said, "Yes, I imagine there could be. There could be one or two truckloads in somebody's backyard."

But, he added, as long as the fill covering the sludge remained moist, the asbestos fibers could not filter into the air very easily.

He said state environmental tests show old dumping sites pose no immediate health threat, but he added officials were still worried because if the sludge was not handled properly, it could become a serious problem.

A 1977 state Department of Environmental Protection study showed of 40 test sites, Stratford had the highest level of airborne asbestos which researchers attributed to proximity to the Raybestos plant.

Temporary Workers Recruited by State

HARTFORD - Gov. Ella Grasso has announced that the state Department of Environmental Protection is recruiting 156 temporary employees for the Young Adult Conservation Corps.

The program was started in August and employs 130 young people.

It is for Connecticut residents between the ages of 16 and 23 who have been unemployed for at least one week. Eligible persons should contact the DEP or the state Department of Labor to apply.

Applicants must be able to provide their own transportation to work sites, and no consideration will be given to an applicant who leaves school to join the program.

In the past, the program has included timber stand improvement, hatchery and other fisheries management projects and trail and wildlife habitat improvement.

It is possible new enrollees may receive special training in firefighting for emergency assistance in state parks and forests, for several months.

Council Meeting Set in Coventry

COVENTRY - The Town Council will hold its regular meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall Board Room. The regularly scheduled Monday night meeting was originally postponed to Tuesday because of the state holiday marking the anniversary of the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr. However, an informal poll of council members revealed that a quorum probably could not be raised on Tuesday, so the meeting was rescheduled for Wednesday.

Council member Patricia White, who was elected to her first term in November 1977, shocked her colleagues by submitting her resignation last week to the Town Clerk's office.

"It is with sincere regret that I find it necessary to resign from the council," Ms. White wrote. "I feel that I can no longer give the time that the council demands and, therefore, I cannot do the kind of job I want to be able to do."

Ms. White has expressed frustration in past months that so much of the council's time has been taken up with emergency matters, such as budget referenda and problems within the police department. She has been an advocate of a satellite health clinic for the area proposed by representatives of Manchester Memorial Hospital.

The council will also be presented with the resignation of George Bolduc from the Board of Tax Review and from the Economic Development Commission. Bolduc said, in a letter to the town clerk, that he plans to move from Coventry in the very near future.

He said the resignation date from the commission was immediate and his withdrawal from the review board would be effective as of today. "It is with regret that I am resigning the above positions but my job and interests are centered around the Hartford area and my wife and I have decided to move closer to both," Bolduc said.

Town Clerk Elizabeth Rychling said that positions on the council and Board of Tax Review are elected ones and therefore, a member of the same party would have to be chosen. Both Bolduc and Ms. White are Democrats.

The council is expected to hear a report by Town Manager Frank Connolly on his warning to residents to stay off the ice on Coventry Lake because of its hazardous condition.

Last weekend three children plunged into the icy water, but were helped out by bystanders before emergency personnel arrived on the scene.

Connolly said the ice is unsafe because of recent thaws and the movement of underwater springs. The lake is usually visited this time of year by ice skaters and fishermen. Snowmobiles were banned from the lake after one fell through the ice two years ago.

Courthouse Begins Cleanup After Fire

VERNON - Cleanup operations have started in the Tolland County Superior Court House. The building, located on Brooklyn Street, was damaged by soot in an early morning fire on Dec. 20.

Since that time court sessions normally held in the Superior Court building have been transferred to the former Common Pleas Court Building on W. Main Street.

The 2 a.m. fire on the 20th was contained in the lawyer's lounge. It has been termed of suspicious origin and is still under investigation.

Court officials said the air and ventilation ducts have to be cleaned before workers can start cleaning the clerk's office and the court rooms.

Court officials said they hope the two court rooms and the clerk's offices will be ready for use within about three weeks but the southwest wing, where the lawyer's lounge is located, probably won't reopen for several months.

Volunteers Start Tax Aide Course

MANCHESTER - Thirty-three volunteers began a week's training session this morning with the Internal Revenue Service at the Army-Navy Club for the training of tax aides to carry on the VITA Program.

VITA is an IRS designed program sponsored by the National American Association of Retired Persons for volunteer income tax assistance to older Americans and persons who can't afford private tax help.

The class will be conducted by Robert Konfala of the IRS under the supervision of Sydney Smith, VITA coordinator for the IRS.

The volunteers are from Manchester, East Hartford, Rockville and the Willimantic/Storrs areas. The VITA Program will get under way in Manchester Jan. 29. Sessions will be held from 11 to 4 p.m. four days a week from then until income tax filing deadline, April 15.

The volunteers will meet Mondays at the South United Methodist Church; Tuesdays at the Senior Citizens Center; Wednesdays at the Knights of Columbus Hall and on Thursdays at the West Middle Turnpike branch of the First Federal Savings. Volunteers will also go to the homes of handicapped persons to help with the tax filing.

The Manchester volunteers are Joseph M. Murphy, coordinator, 24 Lexington Drive; John Dornier, former coordinator and senior volunteer, 25 H. Charles Drive; George Pottery, 171 Avery St.; Chet Farciak, 27 North St.; Robert Simmers, 105 Plymouth Lane; Hugo Benson, 396 Hackmatack St.; Mary Fredrickson, 37 West St.; Robert McComb, 11 Quaker Road; Fred Tomles, 229 Spring St.; Helen McCarty, 37 Lancaster Road; William Stevens, 22 Thomas St.; John Spisito, 145 W. Applications Total 131 In Rehab Loan Program

MANCHESTER - The town's rehabilitation loan program has received 131 applications through the month of December.

The program provides subsidized loans to homeowners seeking to make home improvements. Financial and geographical guidelines of the program must be met by the applicant.

A second investor-owned program has been established that provides loans for non-resident property owners, those who own apartments or other residential units and rent to tenants. Funding for both programs is provided through the Community Development program and some local banks participate in the loan processing.

Of the 131 applicants for the homeowner program, 95 of the applications have been approved for funding. Another 34 have been rejected or withdrawn and two are being processed.

Of the applications approved for funding, construction of 76 has been completed, 15 are in progress and four have not yet started.

A total of $28,425 in bank funds and $6,575 in Community Development funds has been expended for the two projects.

The remaining funds, $136,421.40, have been provided by the Community Development monies.

In the investor-owned program, the town has received only two applications so far and both have been approved for funding. A total of six rental units are involved and work has been completed on all six.

A total of $28,425 in bank funds and $6,575 in Community Development funds has been expended for the two projects.

Goldman's School Budget Show 7.7 Percent Hike

SOUTH WINDSOR - School Superintendent Robert W. Goldman has proposed an $8.2 million Board of Education budget for the 1979-1980 school year - reflecting a 7.7 percent increase over last year's budget of $7.6 million.

The newly proposed budget includes $4,950 for the renovation of school buildings to make them accessible to handicapped. The requirement for accommodations for handicapped children is a new requirement of the federal law.

The budget also calls for the hiring of a full-time health director to initiate a health education program.

The budget also calls for a teacher for the second semester of the graphic arts program, an art teacher for the second semester for the newly renovated art classroom, a junior high basketball coach to initiate a new ninth grade baseball program and a department chairman clerk.

The largest percentage of the budget goes for personnel - amounting to some 80 percent - in last year's budget, 82.4 percent went for personnel.

The elementary school staff will be reduced by six positions and the secondary school staff by 3.5 classroom teaching positions.

The budget, according to Goldman, includes funds for federal and state guidelines such as special education programs, transportation and accommodations for the handicapped.

Class size will be maintained according to Board of Education policy with kindergarten through Grade 3 school buildings to be maintained at 4-4 and middle and high schools will have no more than 25 children in each class.

Public Works Post

Applications for the post of public works director will be accepted until mid-February, according to Town Manager Allan S. Young.

Young said advertisements for a new director were placed in state and local newspapers.

Public Works Department staff members have had to take on additional responsibilities since Young, former public works director, was named to replace former Town Manager Paul Talbot.

It is believed that officials from other communities in the state will be asked to serve on a panel to select the new public works director.

Young said that the candidates will be evaluated on the basis of job description, and that he would look for special qualities in the final candidates.

Auxiliary Sets Meeting

MANCHESTER - The Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will conduct its mid-winter meeting and hold a luncheon at 9:30 a.m. at the Manchester Country Club.

Dr. Julian Streitfeld, clinical psychologist and professor of psychology at the University of Hartford, will be the guest speaker. A graduate of City College of New York with a doctor's degree from Columbia University in clinical psychology, he will discuss behavior modification.

Dr. Streitfeld has a private practice in Simsbury where he specializes in behavior therapy and modification.

The meeting and brunch are open to the public. Reservations are necessary and can be made by contacting Mrs. Laura Myers, 643-1904, by Thursday.

Abbie Hoffman: Man on the Run

WASHINGTON - The aging activist, once a headline figure who shouted defiance at the police, is now on the run from the police. He talked to us about the 1960s and the shaggy-haired generation, with flashes of his old truculence. He also spoke about the 1970s and his flight from the past, with traces of sadness. Once he had to choke back tears.

He's about 40, average size, with dark hair and brown eyes. His CB handle is "Red Runner" and in his car he yammers constantly into the microphone in a sort of twangy Boston poolhall patter. He lives with a willow woman he calls Anna who is a little taller and younger than he is.

His friends know him perhaps as Billy, or Mark, or Joe, or any of a dozen other names. He is, in fact, Abbie Hoffman, America's most flamboyant fugitive. And he expects to be captured.

For five years now, Abbie Hoffman has been hiding out after jumping bail. He faces a New York drug conviction charge that could, if he is convicted, bury him in Attica prison for 15 years to life. He has attempted to portray the arrest in the light of a political frame-up, but the fact is he was caught red-handed selling $50,000 worth of cocaine to an undercover police officer.

Indian Tracksters Suffer Double Loss

Opening its indoor track season Saturday, Manchester High did not find much success as it dropped two decisions, 46 1/2 to 44 1/2 to cross-town East Catholic and 47-42 to Windham High. Windham dined East, 57-34. East's Mark Fountain was a quadruple winner as he capped the 60-yard high hurdles (.88), 300-yard dash (1:35.0), 600-yard dash (1:20.3) and high jump (45-inch, 4-inches). Bright spots for Manchester were senior Rich Getting and junior Jim Stanton in the high hurdles with the pair turning in clockings of .88.2 and .88.6 respectively. Getting's time was one-tenth of a second off the school record. Doug Meek and John Lahda turned

Murdoch Hat Trick Spices Ranger Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — The young recover quickly. Don Murdoch, who couldn't handle regular shift duties towards the end of his first game back in a Ranger uniform Wednesday night, revived enough to score three goals and New York rallied from a 4-1 deficit with five third-period goals to shock the Atlanta Flames, 6-4, Sunday night.

The 22-year-old right wing, who missed 40 games after being convicted of cocaine possession last April, contrasted his weak third-period showing Wednesday with a virtuoso performance last night. Murdoch scored his first goal of the year at 1:28 of the third period, his second at 8:29 and completed the hat trick at 13:48 to put the Rangers ahead 5-4. All three goals came on assists by Phil Esposito. "The nicest thing was to come back and beat Atlanta," said Murdoch. "The first goal I got took a thousand pounds off my back." "This team has a lot of intestinal fortitude," said Ranger goalie John Davidson. "We talked during the break between the second and the third about coming back and we did it. Having Murdoch back is an ace in the hole."

Enfield High Stops Tribe

Success is still a one-time proposition for the Manchester High ice hockey team. The Indians skated, 11-0 to homecoming Enfield High at the Enfield Twin Rinks.

The Silk Towners scored an 8-8 mark in the CCHL. Steve Teucker and Glenn Blackwood each scored two goals and Matt James, Tom Scavito, Wayne Warburton, Tom Aube, Kevin Theriault and Heinz and Mike Corlino one apiece for the Raiders, 6-2 in the league and 8-2 overall. Enfield outshot the Indians, 68-11.

Stylish Fashion Win Scored by Mahaffey

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — As long as there is a Bob Hope Desert Classic on the PGA tour and, for as long as he is physically able, John Mahaffey will play in the tournament.

The 30-year-old Texan, who came back from all sorts of adversity last year to resume a career that seemed ended in 1977, paid back the first installment of a debt he feels he owes Bob Hope — by winning the famed comedian's tournament Sunday in stylish fashion.

Mahaffey won the event, the first of the year on the PGA tour, by sinking a dramatic, 15-foot birdie putt on the final hole at Indian Wells. He had taken the lead in the five-day, 90-hole tournament after the second round and had not trailed since.

Coming to the 18th green, though, he needed to sink the 15-footer to win. Had he missed, there would have been a playoff with Lee Trevino.

"That thought (Mahaffey) never crossed my mind," Mahaffey said

Nets Laughing Days Over, Celts Now Hold that Tag

BOSTON (UPI) — The New Jersey Nets, once the laughing stock of the National Basketball Association, may have handed that dubious title of distinction over to the onetime Boston Celtics.

The Nets, using their second team throughout most of the game Sunday, blew out the Celtics in the third quarter on their way to a 110-100 victory. The win was only the third in the past 11 games for New Jersey, but it moved them back to the 500 mark at 20-20.

"You have to go with the people on the bench," said coach Kevin Loughery, explaining why he stuck so long with the makeshift lineup. "They were playing superb defense."

The Nets got 29 points from star forward Bernard King, but the rest of the attack came from second-stringers. Guard Ed Jordan added 25 and Winford Boynes (17) and Phil Jackson (12) each hit for double figures.

Ice Midgets Up Standard

Increasing its Northern Connecticut Hockey League standard to 5-1-1 Saturday night was the Manchester Midget ice hockey team as it downed the New Britain Midgets, 6-4.

Manchester stands 17-4-2 overall. Don Weinbaum had four goals and Karl Florentine and Scott Verbridge one each for the locals.

Willie Simon and Verbridge each had two assists and Leon Belton, Brian Gullis, George LeBlanc, Dean Tully, George Zdanis and Weinbaum one each.

Scott McKay scored three goals for New Britain with Jeff Stewart adding the fourth. Manchester outshot the visitors, 31-23, with Rick Spiller and Bob Carlson splitting netminding chores.

later. "I was playing to win. When that putt on 18 was a foot away from the hole, I knew the sucker was going in. I hit it good."

The putt enabled Mahaffey to finish with a 69 and a 90-hole score of 17-under-par 343, one shot ahead of Trevino, who had made an 8-foot putt on 18 a few minutes earlier to put the pressure smack on Mahaffey's shoulders.

The victory was worth $50,000 to Mahaffey, who capped a fine comeback last year by winning both the PGA championship and the World Cup. The money seemed almost incidental to Mahaffey, who thought more about how good Hope and several other sponsors had been to him last year when he was shopping around for "exceptions" in order not to have to face the embarrassment of qualifying on Mondays.

"I feel now as if I have paid back some of the debt," Mahaffey said. "I

Activists Claim Knoetze Not Entitled to Purse

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — South African heavyweight Kallie Knoetze won by a knockout Saturday, but he may have just begun his fight with the black activists who want to have his winnings withheld and prevent all future fights.

Sixth Straight Win For Catholic Icemen

Skating to its sixth consecutive win, East Catholic's ice hockey team trimmed Newington High, 8-3, Saturday night at the Bolton Ice Palace.

The Eagle stickmen are now 6-2 overall, 5-2 in C.I.A.C. competition. East scored twice in each of the first two periods and erupted for four tallies in the final 15-minute segment to put the issue of doubt behind them.

Ed Anderson opened the scoring for East at 11:12 as he took Matt Tobin's rebound and lifted it past Iain Indian goalie Skip Clayton. It was Anderson's eighth goal of the season. "Twenty seconds later, East made it 2-0. Dan O'Brien dumped the puck behind the net and John Harvey centered it. Tobin, gliding down to the slot, fired a 12-footer past a screened Clayton for his 10th goal of the campaign."

It went to 3-0 as Tobin tallied his 11th of the year 23 seconds into the middle session. Rob White poked home what proved to be the game-winning at 3:59, taking his own rebound and slamming it into the case. Brother Gregg White set up the goal with a fine assist. It was Rob White's fifth goal of the season. Newington came back with two goals, one on a power play, to trail, 4-2, heading into the final canto.

Any lingering doubts were put to rest as Kurt Peterson (No. 7), Mark Buczek (4), Jerry King (8) and Shawn Finegan (3) all tallied for East. Peterson also had two assists in the final session.

East, which outshot Newington by a 64-17 margin, returns to the ice Friday night against Plainville High at Cheshire Arena.

North Carolina Grads Making Waves in Pros

NEW YORK (UPI) — They sure grow 'em right in Chapel Hill, N.C.

North Carolina Coach Dean Smith perennially has his team in contention for the Atlantic Coast Conference title, but his teaching theories also have a strong impact on the balance of power in the NBA.

Former students Bob McAdoo (1972-73) and Walter Davis (1977-78) have recently gone on to win Rookie of the Year honors and help their teams to the playoffs.

This year, it's a Ford in the league's future. Guard Phil Ford, who ran the Tar Heels' offense for four years, scored all 22 of his points during the first three quarters Sunday to lift the Midwest Division-leading Kansas City Kings to a 124-104 victory over the slumping New York Knicks.

Ford scored nine points in both the second and third quarters, including four twisting, turning layup baskets, to help the surprising Kings maintain their three-game lead over the second-place Denver Nuggets. The Kings, who finished last in the division in a 31-51 record last year, have posted a glittering 25-16 mark midway through this season.

"Ford killed us," said McAdoo, the Knick forward who took game scoring honors with 29 points. "He ran a fast break clinic on us." The loss was the fifth for New York in its last six games.

"New York likes to walk the ball up the court and set up," said the 22-year-old Ford, the midseason choice to replace former Carolina teammate Davis as the league's premier rookie.

Today is the 60th anniversary of the Great Boston Molasses Disaster. In one of the most bizarre disasters ever to happen anywhere, a 50-foot high, 90-foot wide cast iron tank with 2.2 million gallons of gooey molasses burst and gushed through the area killing 21 dead, 150 injured and homes and businesses crushed. (UPI photo)

1919 Molasses Disaster Killed 21 and Hurt 150

BOSTON (UPI) — Sixty years ago today — in one of the strangest disasters ever — a two-block area of Boston was buried beneath a sweet, sticky avalanche of molasses.

The toll: 21 dead, 150 injured and millions of dollars in property damage.

What happened that Jan. 15, 1919, afternoon will always be remembered as The Great Boston Molasses Disaster.

Newspaper accounts of the incident took bigger headlines than the Paris Peace Conference, and events in revolutionary Russia.

The sticky waves of brown, gooey molasses gushed through the city's waterfront area from a huge cast iron tank owned by Purdy Distilling Co., a subsidiary of the U.S. Industrial Alcohol Co.

Inside the 50-foot high, 282-foot-diameter tank was 2.2 million gallons of molasses.

The substance — used in making rum — was as much a part of Boston tradition as the baked bean. The waterfront was a center of the molasses trade, and ships by the dozen moored daily there.

Bostonians were enjoying a mild afternoon for January. About 2:30 p.m., men and women bustled back and forth through cobblestoned waterfront streets busy with Model T cars, trucks, and horse-drawn wagons.

Suddenly the tank broke open, sending a wave of molasses two stories high down Commercial Street.

Traveling at speeds estimated at 35 miles per hour, the river of syrup swept over everything in its path.

It reached a height of 15 feet and a width of 100 feet at one point, then subsided to cover the two blocks with several feet of goo.

Children, children, horses, cars, trucks, stores, and homes suffocated as the molasses spread. There was little warning except for a soft rumble. Witnesses later testified they heard machine gun-like cracklings as the vat burst its rivets.

At the foot of Copps Hill, Boston patrolman Frank McManus had just checked his pocket watch and was calling his precinct station from a signal box.

McManus, perhaps the first eyewitness to the disaster, screamed into his cell box: "Send all available ambulances, all police, everybody!"

He had trouble convincing his superiors there was a wall of molasses traveling down the street. McManus fled leaving the receiver dangling. Several days later he returned to the site and the call box was gone.

Six children were immediately swallowed up in the molasses. Six city workers eating lunch at a public works yard were drowned where they sat.

A fireman was killed as the wave swept into the sea, destroying a nearby elevated railway track.

Hundreds of injured and terrified people and animals wandered through the streets. Priests from nearby St. Mary's church ran about administering last rites to the victims.

Every available ambulance, policeman and fire truck was sent to the scene. The commander of the U.S. Navy cutter moored at North Pier sent 100 seamen to aid in rescue operations.

The force of the bursting tank created a vacuum which sucked in pedestrians, horses and automobiles. A section of the tank toppled onto nearby elevated railway tracks, leaving its superstructure twisted and dangling.

Buildings were knocked off their foundations and roads were impassable for days. The task of cleaning up and recovering bodies lasted days and involved hundreds of volunteers.

The expected Valentine's Day birth was postponed. Grace and Jimmy were childhood sweethearts who attended the same high school.

Even then, Grace said, she knew she wanted to marry Jimmy.

"I was only 15, but I refused to go out with other boys. There was no one else I wanted." Her pregnancy was announced last November.

In February 1977, she was one of several women who had eggs fertilized outside the womb and then replaced. That operation failed. Last May she went to Steptoe's clinic in Oldham to try again and this time it worked.

"Baby Louise" — fertilized in a laboratory and then implanted in its mother's womb — was born July 26 by Caesarian section in Oldham, the child of Lesley Brown 31, and her husband John, 38.

Third Test-Tube Baby Is a Boy in Scotland

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI) — The world's third test-tube baby and the first boy conceived outside his mother's womb was born Sunday in a Glasgow hospital to a 25-year-old cookery teacher.

Doctors said "everything is perfect" with 5-pound 12-ounce Alastair Montgomery and his mother, Grace.

Alastair is Britain's second test-tube baby and the second triumph of gynecologist Patrick Steptoe and physiologist Robert Edwards, the doctors responsible for the birth last July 26 of Louise Brown, the first baby conceived outside the womb of its mother, in Oldham, England.

Another test-tube baby was reported born last October in Calcutta, India, to a couple who had been childless for 15 years.

The baby girl, Durgesa Agarwal, was fertilized under a different procedure involving the storage of the embryo in liquid nitrogen, then placing it in the mother's womb during her menstrual cycle.

An Indian investigating commission expressed doubts over the Indian birth and said the three doctors involved were uncooperative in explaining their work.

However, the doctors said they will publish their findings.

Alastair's birth Sunday at Glasgow's Stobhill Hospital was about one month premature. Mrs. Montgomery had expected to give birth around St. Valentine's Day.

Peopletalk Better Pope Than Roman

Normally, Polish Pope John Paul II is smoothly multilingual, but when he gets in a hurry he sometimes fractures his Italian — and he was in a hurry Sunday.

With a televised downhill ski race just minutes away, the 56-year-old pontiff — an avid ski buff — charged through his moon blossoming to telling in St. Peter's Square in Rome, telling them, "I am always happy, so happy, when it rains."

The masses of faithful, basking in bright winter sunshine, were bemused until — on the rebound — he added, "But I'm even happier when it's sunny."

Two hours later — the ski race over — he was greeted by signs proclaiming him in flawless Italian: "The pope who knows how to be pope better than a Roman."

Donations

Walter H. Annenberg, the former U.S. ambassador to Great Britain who reportedly was playing host to the mother and sister of the shah of Iran, has donated $4 million to the Eisenhower Medical Center in Rancho Mirage, Calif.

Dolores Hope, wife of Bob Hope and chairman of the center's board of directors, says the money will build an Annenberg Communications Center for Health Scientists at the medical center's campus.

The shah's mother and sister reportedly took cover with Annenberg two days after hundreds of Iranian students rioted in front of the students' Beverly Hills, Calif., home.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In his films, John Wayne is noted for his rugged physique and tough characters. Doctors say the actor is as rugged as he looks, and that is helping him recover from cancer surgery.

A spokesman at UCLA Medical Center said early today the 71-year-old actor's condition is "good" and his vital signs normal. He was being led through tubes in his recovery because his stomach was removed in a nine-hour operation, but doctors said they hoped he would be able to eat some food today.

Wayne was in the intensive care unit Sunday, another spokesman reported, after talking with a surgeon, Wayne was "progressing exactly as hoped" and there were no signs of the cancer spreading.

"The two most important factors contributing to his excellent early post-operative recovery are his general strong physical condition and his positive attitude," said UCLA Medical Center spokesman Bernard Strohm.

Strohm said doctors were eager to see if they could change to a partial oral diet to feed into a "substitute stomach."

Surgeons performing a gallbladder operation Friday found a low-grade cancer tumor in Wayne's stomach. The scheduled two-hour operation stretched into nine while the surgical team removed the stomach.

Wayne's surgeons said they were confident they had removed all the cancer.

"His surgeons stated that there was no sign of the cancer spreading to other organs or to the local lymph nodes," Strohm said.

As Wayne recovers, he will have a limited diet, but will be able to eat most foods in small amounts at a time, the hospital said. Doctors said about 95 percent of digestion and absorption of nutrients takes place in the small intestine, so it is possible to eat along fine without a stomach.

North Sector Police Ask for Cooperation

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

Residents of Andover, Bolton, Columbia and Hebron were given a message by State Police Sgt. Anthony Kalkus, north sector manager, this week.

The message — "If you have a problem, whether it be within your family, neighborhood or town or if you don't like the way we handle something, talk to us. Let's work together. Let's understand each other. Let's knock the crime down. That's our ultimate goal."

And if the statistics compiled after the sector police have been in those four towns for one year prove anything crime is being knocked down. Sgt. Kalkus said. "A person committing a crime in the north sector has only a 50-50 chance of being successful."

There were 519 crimes committed on the north sector in 1978: Andover had 86, Bolton 131, Columbia 124 and Hebron 178. Of the total, 256 were cleared for a 49 percent solve rate.

The sector police, a new method of policing, is for towns covered by the Colchester State Police barracks.

Sgt. Kalkus congratulated the north sector team on its excellent performance in 1978. He said, "I know that each one of you has personally sacrificed individual desires to perform as a team and reach the objectives we set for the sector and I commend you — we accomplished our goals and more."

Sector Objectives

One of the sector's objectives was to reduce burglary in Bolton. Sgt. Kalkus, calling that objective successful, said burglaries are down by 35 percent.

In 1977 there were 55 reported burglaries in Bolton, in 1978 there were 25. In Andover there were 13 burglaries in 1977, and 20 in 1978; in Columbia there were 29 in 1977 and 40 in 1978; in Hebron there were 38 in 1977 and 54 in 1978.

Sgt. Kalkus said he doesn't know why there was an increase in the other three towns, but said sector police efforts were concentrated in Bolton.

The burglary solve rate for the towns was — Bolton and Andover, 40 percent, Columbia 22 percent and Hebron 31 percent.

A second objective of the north sector police was to reduce accidents on Route 6 in Bolton and Andover. A third objective was a selective enforcement program directed at Bolton Notch. Both objectives were successful.

The accident rate on Route 6 is now four per cent compared to 13 per cent previously. Deaths were reduced by 23 percent.

In Bolton in 1978 there were 22 accidents without injury, 42 with injury and two fatalities. The figures for 1977 were 22, 55 and four respectively. In Andover in 1978 there were 52 accidents without injury, 15 with injury and one fatal. The figures for 1977 were 57, 14 and three respectively.

In Hebron in 1978 there were 61 accidents without injury, 23 with injury and two fatalities. The figures for 1977 were 56, 22 and two respectively.

Reporting System

Sgt. Kalkus said under a new reporting system more accidents with injuries are now being reported such as complaints and minor cuts. He said they weren't considered injuries in the past.

Sgt. Kalkus said, "We'll have to another year in order to get a better picture of the accidents with injury."

He said, "The active Hebron Constables contributed a great deal to reaching these excellent statistics (for Hebron)."

Although the sector police force is relatively new, only one year old, it is proving to be very progressive changes in the state police department in the next four years.

Sector Teams

There are four sector police teams that cover the towns under the jurisdiction of Troop K. There are seven sector troopers and two sector police on a trial basis.

Lt. Williams is now the commanding officer of the management of Police By Objectives, for the Connecticut State Police.

Sgt. Kalkus said there will be some very good, very progressive changes in the state police department in the next four years.

Residents state troopers in the north sector. The four towns are covered by the sector police on a 24-hour basis.

The troopers in the north sector are Mark Coleman, Jeff Corcoran, Peter Danahy, Mike Foley, David Horan, John Kibney and Richard Walsh. Robert Peterson is the resident trooper for Bolton and John Soderberg for Hebron.

Conventry, the towns covered by the Colchester State Police barracks are the only ones to have sector police teams. But Sgt. Kalkus can see the day, in the not too distant future, when all police programs throughout Connecticut are supplemented by sector police teams.

The sector style of management is becoming an integral part of police operation. There is now an in-service training program at the police academy for all line supervisors to teach them the new concept in policing, Sgt. Kalkus said, "It's here today."

The north sector police group is currently participating in an in-service training program with Terry Sullivan, assistant state's attorney for Tolland County.

Sgt. Kalkus said, "All our cases are now handled in the Tolland County court. Through the in-service training program each trooper in the north sector will spend one week in the court room learning about court procedures, plea bargaining and search and seizure and will get a better understanding of the court process."

The criminal statistics for 1978 were compiled by hand by Sgt. Kalkus, something he probably won't ever have to do again as the state police now has a computer that will be in full operation in about six months.

The computer will be able to give detailed information in a matter of a minutes.

Statistics

The current statistics do not show the "required services rendered by the state police" because they are usually original offences that the services include family problems, suspicious cars in the neighborhood and the like.

Sgt. Kalkus said the problems in the north sector vary but, fortunately, not to any great degree. He said, "We are learning more about the towns the longer we work with the program."

Other statistics compiled by Sgt. Kalkus show there were no criminal investigations in the sector in 1978. There were three sexual assault investigations that were cleared by arrests, two armed robberies (one in Bolton and one in Columbia; the Bolton robbery was solved by arrest) and two assaults that were cleared by arrest.

There were 128 larcenies in the sector in 1978 compared to 169 in 1977. Of the total amount, 25 were cleared. The comparison figures for each town for the two years follow with 1978 shown first, Bolton, 22-56; Andover, 28-21; Columbia, 31-41; Hebron, 45-51. Sgt. Kalkus could not account for the increase in Andover. In the north sector there were 32 reported motor vehicle thefts, 13 were solved resulting in a 40 percent solve rate. Of the total, 73 percent were cleared.

There were 38 class two offenses in Andover, 24 were cleared. In Bolton there were 81 and 64 were cleared, in Columbia there were 52 with 33 cleared and in Hebron there were 79 with 61 cleared. Of the total, 73 percent were cleared.

The current headquarters for the sector police is the Bolton resident state trooper's office at the Community Hall, the Bolton Board of Selectmen recently approved having the office expanded and soundproofed to give everyone the room and privacy they need.

The Bolton Board of Finance will act on the $2,700 request on Jan. 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Hall.

Police Comment

Sgt. Kalkus said, "I hope the sector's home base will be in Bolton. From Bolton there is easy access to the other three towns in the sector."

He said, "We can respond quickly to anything that happens in our territory."

Sgt. Kalkus said, "I like the participatory style of policing where the troopers have a great deal of input from the citizens, businesses and politicians."

He said, "I think it's time we knocked that barrier of mystique down."

Any north sector resident interested in informing the police of anything or discussing anything with them should call the Colchester State Police barracks at 643-6664 and ask to speak to a north sector trooper.

Residents may also write to the troopers at this address: Colchester State Police barracks north sector; P.O. Box 29, Colchester, 06415.

Sgt. Kalkus said, "We're here to help. Talk to us." The north sector police team will form new objectives for the sector for February, March and April, later this month.

School Budget to Increase

BOLTON — A Proposed budget of $1,577,835 was presented to the Board of Education Thursday by School Supt. Raymond Allen. The budget is an increase of $64,900 over the current $1,512,935 school board budget.

Allen was quick to point out that the budget does not include administrative raises now being negotiated, the proposed Bolton High School soccer field, Bolton Elementary School recreation field installations or funds to build the school building containing $3,225 for compliance with the state rehabilitation act.

Allen described his budget as a "hold the line kind of budget." It reflects a 3.5 percent increase over the current budget.

He said that major increases are salaries, $45,612; foreign language and business equipment, $3,200; personnel services, $8,200; capital outlay, $3,000; transportation, $8,200; and insurance, $2,200.

Allen said the budget will be no new taxes as far as affecting the budget are salaries because of staff turnover, $17,000; exceptional children tuition, $13,200; and high school evaluation, $3,000.

'Shadows' Learning Jobs

VERNON — Like the little child in the poem, Vernon area business persons may have "little shadows" that go in and out with them.

The only difference is, they do know the shadows have some use — they are high school students who are learning various careers.

The "Shadowing" program is being introduced in the three area high schools, Rockville, Ellington and Tolland.

Mary Lou Shand, guidance counselor at Ellington High School, explained the program to the Board of Directors of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce.

The program is designed for the student who has considered career options and would like the opportunity to spend time on the job with a person employed in the field.

Under the program students spend a minimum of six hours "shadowing" a cooperating worker on the job of their choice. Chamber members are being asked to cooperate in the program.

The cooperating worker will provide the student with an opportunity to understand and experience the work climate, responsibilities, and given career field. This will give the student an opportunity to evaluate the best suit the student's personality and career interest.

Ms. Shand said such a program makes for a smoother transition from school to work.
