

Lawmakers See Problems Dictating School spending

By ANDREW NIBLEY
HARTFORD (UPI) — Critics of the state's school funding system have complained for years that Connecticut should make its cities and towns spend their educational aid on education.
From time to time, the critics have charged municipalities are using their state educational money to balance their budgets or lower their property taxes.
But, the new House chairman of the Legislature's Education Committee thinks it would be "silly" for lawmakers to mandate that state educational dollars be earmarked for education. And, her Senate counterpart pretty much agrees.

Rep. Dorothy Goodwin, a 64-year-old Emeritus associate professor at the University of Connecticut, and Sen. Cornelius O'Leary, a 34-year-old public school teacher, are both new to running the Education Committee. But, both are considered knowledgeable about educational problems, particularly Mrs. Goodwin in the funding area.
This expertise will be needed, because a Superior Court judge has ordered the Legislature to produce a constitutional funding plan by May 1. The state's current system of financing public education was declared unconstitutional in the spring of 1977 by the state Supreme Court.
Some have said any plan passed by the Legislature should require cities and towns to spend their state educational aid on just education. But, Mrs. Goodwin said laying state aid directly to education is senseless, because the state doesn't have any control over what municipalities do with their property taxes and other revenue.

The way it stands now, state educational aid generally goes into a city's general fund. The local board of education and the city's governing body then decide how much of their general fund money will be spent educating children.
"If you can't control what they do with their property tax money, it doesn't do any good to dictate what they do with the other half of it," said Mrs. Goodwin, a Storrs Democrat, recently elected to her third term. O'Leary, a second term Democrat from Windsor Locks, agreed the state cannot dictate educational spending policies to cities and towns. But, he said it is essential the state do what it can to ensure a sufficient amount of money is spent to educate Connecticut's children.
The Connecticut School Finance Advisory Panel has come up with a plan to require communities to spend at least $1,400 per student, but that sum could come from whatever revenue source the municipality favored. The State Board of Education has endorsed the idea.
"We have to have minimum expenditures for each student. It's the best way that I've heard of so far," O'Leary said. "But, I'm sure I'll hear a lot more before the session's over."
Mrs. Goodwin wasn't totally enchanted with the concept, but she said it may be the best the state can do.
The Storrs Democrat said there are a number of other ways the state can try to improve quality of education. Reducing classroom size by hiring more teachers would help, she said, but that requires more money.
Mrs. Goodwin said by and large Connecticut's communities have made sound judgments, and she's not sure the state can do any better.
"The decisions are probably as good as any the state could make," she said.

School Picks Head Teacher

MANCHESTER — Lucy Maulucci of Rocky Hill has been named the head teacher of the Manchester Community College Child Development Center as a full-time head teacher in the nursery school.
Ms. Maulucci is a graduate of Eastern Connecticut State College and is certified to teach nursery school through third grade. Her experience includes kindergarten teaching at the Montessori Academy of Rocky Hill and teaching in the Glastonbury public school system.
A few openings remain in the nursery school classes for spring semester which begins Jan. 17. Further information can be obtained from the director, Susan Adamek at the college.

Ansonia Vote Nixes Track

ANSONIA (UPI) — Voters in a referendum have rejected the Natchez Kennel Club's proposal to build a $15 million greyhound racing track which would have brought an estimated $800,000 in annual tax revenue to the city.
About 20 percent of the 10,191 persons eligible to vote turned out Saturday despite Saturday afternoon's ice storm. If approved, the dog track would have been the second in Connecticut which already has one track in Plainfield.

WHAT'S NEWS

Severe Quake

A severe earthquake rocked northern Iran today, earth monitoring stations around the world reported. There was no immediate damage or casualty reports, but scientists said the jolt could have had serious consequences.
The National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., said preliminary data indicated the tremor was centered about 80 miles south of Mashhad — an earthquake zone near the point where Iran, Afghanistan and the Soviet Union meet.
The U.S. Geological Survey and earthquake centers in Honolulu and Sweden reported the shock was measured at 6.7 to 6.8 on the open-ended Richter scale. It hit at 4:50 a.m. EST, early afternoon in Iran.
Any quake above magnitude 6.5 is considered capable of causing severe damage.
"It was strong enough to cause damage," a geophysicist in Colorado said. "The area is populated and there are chances of injury."
A spokesman for the Uppsala (Sweden) Seismological Institute said the powerful quake could have caused structural damage if it had occurred close to the surface of the earth.

Tax Problems

NEW YORK (UPI) — The two-paycheck household, in which both husband and wife work, has become "one of the major economic phenomena of the 1970s," according to Money magazine, but the publication says tax problems for such couples are immense.
The January edition of the magazine says such working couples earn 52 percent more than their one-paycheck counterparts, but that "the second earner in a family is the most heavily taxed of all Americans."
"The first dollar of a working wife's income is taxed at the same rate as the last dollar of her husband's," Money says. "If, for example, he earns $25,000 and she earns $15,000, her salary effectively starts being taxed in the 43 percent bracket."
The magazine quotes the Bureau of Labor Statistics as saying "total assets of two-salary families are less than those with only one wage-earner."

Bermuda Trip

Beginning in today's Herald is an opportunity for readers to escape the winter doldrums and weather and possibly relax on the sun-drenched beaches of Bermuda.
Today marks the beginning of a contest which will award an expense-paid trip to Bermuda for two for three nights and four days.

Shah Starts A 'Vacation'

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi piloted a military jet out of Iran today, weeping openly but insisting he was only taking a vacation to give to the government a chance to end 14 months of rioting. High sources said, however, that the monarch was headed for permanent exile in the United States after the departure of the Shah's daughter remained on duty.
The capital burst into a crescendo of celebration as the shah, at the controls of a blue-and-white air force Boeing 727, flew over the city to Aswan, Egypt.
Military units made no attempt to stop the demonstrations. High palace sources said the shah's children and his mother-in-law arrived at Reese Air Force Base near Lubbock, today, to await the shah.
The shah's mother-in-law, Farideh Diba, and the three children, Princess Farahnaz, 17, Prince Akhram, 17, and Princess Laila, 8, had left Iran Monday.
The paper said when the crown prince was reunited with his family, he hugged the small boy and threw him in the air.
Officials at Reese would not confirm the presence of the monarch's family.
There were indications the shah and his family might plan to take sanctuary, at least temporarily, at the 900-acre Wall California luxury estate of multimillionaire Walter Annenberg.
Annenberg, former U.S. ambassador to Britain, confirmed Monday night he had extended an invitation to the ruler to stay at his palatial estate near Rancho Mirage, at least temporarily.
In a suburb of Paris, Khomeini said the shah's departure was "a great victory for the Iranian people." He also said the new government he intends to set up in Iran would confiscate the shah's vast fortune, including any funds in foreign bank accounts.

Third Storm Brews, Threatens Midwest

By United Press International
A storm brewing in the Rockies today — the third in four days — again threatened the blizzard-bound Plains and Midwest.
Residents of the nation's midsection were still reeling from a heavy weekend storm when record cold hit Monday, then lifted for another snowstorm. Today they braced for a third storm that began in the Rocky Mountains and was heading east.
At least 52 deaths were reported from the first pair of storms, including 17 in Illinois, 12 in Wisconsin and six each in Kansas and Michigan. Many of the fatalities were due to heart attacks from shoveling snow, officials said.
Highways throughout the central states were hazardous — many of them snow-packed and with only one lane open.
Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, closed Saturday, had one runway open by Monday morning and a mammoth backlog of flights.
"It's lousy," a United Airlines spokesman said.
"We've been delayed here for three days and I have five children waiting at home," said a Utica, Mich., woman stranded at O'Hare.
Chicago Mayor Michael Bilandic, whose city was besieged by a record 19 below zero temperature, said it was "worse than the blizzard of '67."
At the time he spoke, the city had 20.3 inches of snow on the ground, a record 29 inches on the ground. Another 2 inches fell later in the day. In 1967, the city got a total of 23 inches.
In Milwaukee, workers gave up trying to actually clear main streets.
"We're just trying to push it back and make room for the new stuff," said Edward Downer, assistant to the superintendent of sanitation services in Milwaukee.
The Iowa Legislature convened in Des Moines for 10 minutes Monday and adjourned until today because many lawmakers were snowbound.
"We had to put all our patrol cars away," said Des Moines County Sheriff Robert Glick. "Deputies were using their own four-wheel drive vehicles."
National Guardsmen airlifted food to isolated families and fed and watered isolated livestock in Kansas.
Governors declared numerous states disaster areas and sought federal help. One of the governors seeking aid for his state was James R. Thompson of Illinois, who escaped the storm for a Florida vacation.

Vietnam-Led Forces Fight Last Holdouts

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnamese-led forces battled holdouts of the toppled Khmer Rouge regime today in a battle for Cambodia's northwest fringe less than a mile from the Thai border.
Vietnam assured Thailand the northern onslaught that overran Cambodia in less than a month will not cross into Thailand.
Intelligence sources reported Khmer Rouge guerrilla activity in the rugged northeast mountains but said the heaviest fighting was in the north-west — Cambodia's back door.
The sources reported continued heavy Khmer Rouge resistance around Pursat, 90 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

Tavern Ruling Still Disputed

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER — The town attorney's office and the state Liquor Control Commission apparently have contrasting views about whether state law permits taverns to open on Sunday.
The opening of taverns on Sunday has been a subject of controversy in town since Manchester lifted its ban on Sunday sale of alcohol Dec. 31. The tavern owner, Paul Fitz of Irena's Tavern, stayed open on Dec. 31 in apparent violation of the town law. He has not opened since and is waiting to see what happens with the matter.
A tavern license permits the establishment to serve only beer and hard cider. There are four such businesses in town.
The town ordinance permitting liquor sale on Sunday did not include provisions to permit taverns or package stores to open on that day.
William Shea, assistant town attorney, has issued an opinion that state law does not allow taverns to permit taverns to open on Sunday.
An inspector for the state Liquor Control Commission said, however, that restaurants do have the authority to open taverns if they wish. It requires a vote by the governing body of the town, which in Manchester is the Board of Directors.
The tavern question centers around section 30-91 of the General Statutes of Connecticut.
The inspector for the state Liquor Control Commission, who asked not to be identified, said the section has been amended within the past four years to include the provision where towns can vote to open taverns Sunday. Other towns have permitted taverns to open Sundays.
"That part of section 30-91 reads, 'any town may, by a vote of a town meeting or by ordinance, Paul Fitz of Irena's Tavern, stayed open on Dec. 31 in apparent violation of the town law. He has not opened since and is waiting to see what happens with the matter."
Shea, however, said the statute is "a little ambiguous."
He said that the opening part of section 30-91 includes a list of permits covered under the statute. Many permits are listed, but taverns are not among the list, he said.
The town has the authority to limit what is and is not open on Sunday, he said.
He said some members of the board had discussed with him the possibility of keeping taverns closed.
The original proposed Sunday liquor ordinance would have been limited to restaurants and private clubs. It was later expanded and when approved included all except taverns and package stores.
"There were some police reasons behind it," Shea said of the continued restriction against taverns.

territorial integrity and had no intention of supporting Thai Communist guerrillas.
Intelligence sources said invasion forces were cleaning up pockets of Khmer Rouge resistance in many parts of Cambodia which were bypassed during the initial blitzkrieg. The operation is now in its 23rd day.
Deposed Prime Minister Pol Pot and the Khmer Rouge leadership still in Cambodia have vowed to carry on "a protracted people's war."
The chairman of the newly formed People's Revolutionary Council in Phnom Penh, Heng Samrin, today appealed to Khmer Rouge holdouts to return from the jungle and surrender.
At the United Nations Monday, the Soviet Union vetoed a Chinese-backed resolution demanding an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal of Vietnamese forces from Cambodia.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 96th Congress began its two-year life with ceremony and parties, then subsided into several weeks of legislative inactivity to organize its committees and squabble over a handful of chairmanships.

Smoking Study Shows New Pregnancy Risks

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI) — A new study shows a mother's smoking significantly increases the risk of miscarriage and crib death, but does not, as generally believed, affect a child's intelligence or long-term growth.

"There's no reason for mothers with children who have school problems to be blaming themselves for smoking during pregnancy," said Dr. Richard L. Naeye in adding a fresh chapter to the controversial issues of smoking and pregnancy.

Naeye, chairman of pathology at Pennsylvania State University's Hershey Medical Center, said some of his findings, based on a four-year analysis of the records of 53,518 pregnancies, were so new they were not included in the surgeon general's new report on smoking.

He said in releasing his findings today at an American Heart Association meeting there is no question that women who smoke have an increased number of miscarriages, and he said there was no doubt their offspring had more major birth defects.

"The most controversial area is the relationship of cigarette smoking to congenital anomalies (birth defects)," he said. "We found a very strong relationship between cigarette smoking and congenital anomalies."

But Naeye said the societal impact of these major birth defects was not great because most of the affected infants died before birth or right after birth.

After eliminating a variety of other factors that might have a role in miscarriages, Naeye said he and his co-workers determined that smoking independently increased the risk of three disorders that cause miscarriages.

These include premature separation of the placenta (increased by 65 percent by a mother's smoking), a blood incompatibility known as Rh disease (up 81 percent by smoking) and major birth defects (up 43 percent).

Naeye said a mother's smoking history also influences a disorder in which the placenta implants in the wrong place on the wall of the mother's uterus. This can cause hemorrhaging — a problem for both mother and fetus.

He said smoking also increases the chance that large segments of placental tissue will die during pregnancy, affecting the amount of nutrients flowing to the unborn child.

While premature separation of the placenta is directly affected by the amount of smoking during pregnancy, Naeye said other problems affecting the placenta appear to be influenced by a mother's long-term smoking practice.

"This raises the possibility that chronic changes are taking place in the blood vessels of the mother's uterus which are supplying the placenta," he said. The placenta is the organ that connects the fetus to the uterus.

As far as crib death is concerned, Naeye said many factors apparently play a role in this ailment in which infants die without warning during sleep. But he said his study found that a mother's smoking during pregnancy increased the risk of this problem, also known as Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, by 52 percent.

Naeye said dozens of previous studies have placed great emphasis on findings indicating that smoking affected a child's growth and intelligence. But he said those studies were not able to eliminate other factors that could have been responsible. His study did consider those factors.

"We have now finished two very detailed studies on this and it's very clear that we do not find any evidence that the cigarette smoking is having any permanent effects on either the child's growth and development, or school performance, or mental and motor development."

Naeye's work, financed by the National Institutes of Health, did not consider what effect alcohol drinking by the mother might have had on her offspring. But he said it is known that heavy drinking can cause fetal brain damage, and this did not show up in the smoking study.

Seabrook Hearings Resume

NASHUA, N.H. (UPI) — The U.S. Atomic Safety and Licensing Board today resumes hearings on the suitability of Seabrook over seven other alternative sites in New England for a nuclear power plant using cooling towers.

On Monday four U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff members testified they had studied all the proposed sites and concluded in a two-inch thick report Seabrook is the best site in the region for the atomic plant.

A ruling is expected soon from the U.S. First Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston on whether the $2.3 billion Seabrook plant must be built with cooling towers instead of an open ocean cooling system.

The Seacoast Anti-Pollution League opposed the decision in the towers would recirculate the same cooling water, while the open system would take in cold ocean water and return it to the ocean 20 degrees warmer.

Construction has been continuing at the Seabrook plant, which has been a favorite target of anti-nuclear forces since it was first proposed in 1972. It took four years of state and federal hearings for a construction permit to be issued to the Public Service Company of New Hampshire.

Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Douglas Costle ruled in August 1978 the open ocean cooling system was acceptable and towers weren't necessary.

The Seacoast Anti-Pollution League opposed the decision in the

Jeff Jacobs Selected Rotary's Man of Year

MANCHESTER — Jeff Jacobs, vice president and general manager of WINF Radio, has been named Community Man of the Year by the Rotary Club of Manchester. He will receive the special Rotary award and will be honored at the Rotary's Fifth Annual Scholarship Fund Ball Saturday, Feb. 17, at The Colony in Talcottville.

A native of England, Jacobs has participated in many community fund-raising activities. His most recent efforts have been in support of the World Hunger Drive before the holidays.

He has also conducted marathon radio appeals at the Hartford Civic Center, the Manchester Armory, the Rotary Antique Show and the Manchester Parade.

The Scholarship Ball is open to the public and the project by the local Rotary Club raises funds for scholarships given to graduating seniors from Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School, East Catholic and Manchester high schools.

Tickets may be reserved by calling John Garofalo, chairman, at 649-5306, or John Fogarty at 649-4539.

Ratchford Achieves Life Dream

WASHINGTON (UPI) - William Ratchford achieved his lifelong dream Monday. He was sworn in as Connecticut's 5th District congressman.

He was actually sworn in twice - once for the nation and once for his friends. On both occasions, House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, D-Mass., administered the oath of office.

At noon, Ratchford and 76 other newcomers to the House of Representatives were given the oath of office in their new chamber. Later in the day, O'Neill performed his duties again in Ratchford's office where 125 Connecticut residents congregated to congratulate the new congressman.

Over the years, others on Connecticut's political scene have talked of running for the U.S. Senate, the governor's chair or just higher office in general. But Ratchford has always made it clear he had only one goal - to become the state's 5th District congressman.

To serve in Congress was a lifetime dream for him, Ratchford said. It's a tremendous thrill to represent the 523,000 people in my district.

In 1974, Ratchford, a former speaker of the Connecticut House, ran for Congress, but lost to the Republican incumbent Ronald Sarasin.

After his defeat, Ratchford accepted an appointment as Connecticut's commissioner on aging.

Ratchford decided to run again for Congress last year when Sarasin gave up the 5th District seat for him.

In November, Ratchford beat his Republican opponent, state Sen. George Guida of Weston, to become the 15th Democrat in Connecticut's six-year congressional delegation. At the same time, Gov. Ella Grasso demolished Sarasin.

Barbara Ratchford and her three teen-age sons - Shaun, Scott and Brian - watched as O'Neill administered the oath of office to Ratchford in the House of Representatives. The Ratchfords then went on a special tour of the White House.

Presidential adviser Anne Wexler and Civil Aeronautics Board Commissioner Gloria Schaller - a pair of Connecticut politicians who now work in Washington - joined the state's congressional delegation at the afternoon swearing-in ceremony in Ratchford's new congressional office in the Cannon Building.

IRS Training Session

Volunteers receive instructions at a training session Monday with the Internal Revenue Service at the Army & Navy Club in Manchester so they can tax aids for the elderly and persons who can't afford private tax help. Feds Short Manpower To Catch Illegal Aliens

HARTFORD (UPI) - There may be as many as 5,000 illegal aliens in Connecticut and they're getting harder and harder to catch, Immigration and Naturalization Service says.

In November, the Connecticut branch of I&NS caught and deported 1,055 illegal aliens. Every year since, the number has shrunk slightly, but steadily.

I&NS District Director R.B. Albina, a 17-year veteran with the federal government's alien monitoring agency, said several factors have contributed to the decline.

They (illegal aliens) are getting more sophisticated and our staff size is inadequate," Albina said in an interview. "We have an insurmountable amount of paperwork. We just don't have the manpower we need."

A ruling by a Chicago judge a year and a half ago has also made it tougher to find illegal aliens, Albina said.

"We used to be able to stop people at airports or bus terminals because they looked foreign," Albina said. "But because of the ruling, we can't do that now. We have to have reasonable doubt to stop someone."

Although Connecticut does not have the illegal alien problem that New York, Florida and California have, there is still enough of a problem to keep the 60 people who work in the I&NS office in Hartford busy.

"I wouldn't be surprised if we have 5,000 illegal aliens in the state of Connecticut," Albina said.

Most of the illegal aliens living in Connecticut, apparently come from South America.

"It's a lot easier to get here from South America than it is from Europe," Albina said.

"We also have quite a large Spanish-speaking population. It's easy to come here and get assimilated and well - disappear. A German on the other hand would stand out," he added.

Albina said a large percentage of Connecticut's illegal aliens apparently reside in Fairfield County, just a stone's throw from New York City.

The Big Apple traditionally has had a tough time keeping tabs on the hundreds of thousands of immigrants who flow into the city each year.

"If they can't find jobs in New York, they come north," Albina said.

Another source of illegal aliens in Mexico, where unlawful immigrants often pay to be smuggled into the United States.

"They have gotten the word that it's easy to get in through Mexico," Albina said.

Authority Still Fights For Coventry Sewers

COVENTRY - A joint meeting between the Water Pollution Control Authority, the Town Council, and the Planning Commission indicated that the authority is still fighting an uphill battle with town officials to gain approval for its proposal for a municipal sewer plan for Coventry.

The WPACA, under the chairmanship of former councilman Richard Breault, was formerly designated the Coventry Sewer Authority.

Two previous plans for a regional sewer system with the Town of Mansfield went down to defeat by taxpayers.

Opening arguments were set for Flood's trial today, and prosecutors were ready to call their chief witness - his former top aide, Stephen Elko. Documents made public by prosecutors indicated the subject of the surveillance was a "hostile" foreign power, political party or agent, but revealed little else about the nature of the surveillance.

A more detailed report on it was turned over, under seal, to U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch, but defense lawyers were denied access to it.

The report was accompanied by an affidavit from Attorney General Griffin Bell saying, in part, "I certify that it would prejudice the national interest to disclose the particular facts contained in the sealed exhibit and concerning the surveillance other than to the court."

The significance, if any, of the documents to Flood's trial was not immediately clear.

While a jury was picked Monday, the powerful Pennsylvania congressman hurried during a recess to the House chamber to be sworn in for a 16th term.

Flood's lawyers are targeting their defense around Elko's credibility. They sought, even after the jury was empaneled, a last-minute postponement - saying they wanted more time to study Elko's personal financial records.

Walter Fleischer, an attorney for Flood, contended the "central issue" in the case is whether Elko took the money for himself. He said bank records obtained so far show "tens of thousands of dollars going in and out and back and forth" from Elko to his relatives and colleagues.

He called it a "great tragedy" that Flood ever was indicted on charges he accepted $50,000, 100 shares of bank stock and the promise of $100,000 more.

Prosecutor Mark Tuohy argued defense lawyers had plenty of time to obtain the documents they need and said the transactions shown in the bank records "are absolutely irrelevant to this case."

"Much of what you are discussing, Mr. Fleischer, may never surface."

Guest Speaker

MANCHESTER - Sister Marylouise Pennell, RSM, of Hartford, will be the guest speaker for the PZC meeting Monday, Jan. 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Her topic will be "How to Raise a Crazy Kid."

Sister Pennell is currently the educational consultant for the Manchester Counseling Center, and director at the Pastoral Counseling Institute at St. Joseph College, West Hartford.

Her membership in professional organizations includes the Connecticut Mental Health Association and the Association for Counselor Education and Supervision.

PUCA Gives Permit For Lydall Express

MANCHESTER - The state Public Utilities Control Authority has approved Lydall Express Inc.'s request to transport paper products and metal and plastic balls to points in Connecticut.

Lydall Express Inc. will make the deliveries from Lydall Eastern Inc. plants in Manchester and Hartford.

The PUCA has to approve such requests for intrastate transportation.

The firm filed its application July 13 and a subsequent hearing was held.

Representatives of Lydall Express Inc. said at the meeting the combining of the proposed intrastate operations with existing interstate operations will make the firm's overall work more efficient, productive and economically feasible. No one spoke against the proposal at the hearing.

King Fund Drive

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Martin Luther King Youth Fund Drive will try to raise $60,000 in 1979, Charles W. Parker said Monday.

Parker is chairman of the Northeast Utilities and the Massachusetts Metropolitan District Commission have proposed both projects to divert water from the river and the Northfield pump station project for use by communities outside the river basin.

Connecticut River Committees have been formed in Connecticut and Massachusetts by environmental, business and governmental units to oppose the river's diversion.

Ladies Night Saturday

MANCHESTER - Hose Co. No. 4 will host the Town Fire Department's 35th annual ladies night Saturday, Feb. 17 at Garden Grove. The event will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The Rhythm Airs Orchestra will play for dancing until 1 a.m.

The annual ladies night is sponsored and organized by the volunteer firemen of the department's four fire companies.

In charge of the event are Dick Moore, chairman; Dan Pryor, secretary; and George Truman, treasurer.

Tickets are available by calling any of the following: Dan Pryor, 649-5902; Art Massaro, 643-8027; Randy Brown, 643-5506.

Catholic Women

MANCHESTER - The Manchester Council of Catholic Women will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the St. James School cafeteria. Guest speaker will be Sister Joan Heilly, CSI, pastoral assistant at St. James Church. Her topic will be "The Ministry of Women."

Cotter Asks Gov. King To Oppose Water Plan

HARTFORD - U.S. Rep. William Cotter has asked Massachusetts Gov. Edward J. King to oppose two water projects involving the diversion of water from the Connecticut River to eastern Massachusetts communities, and regional agencies before a decision is made.

Cotter wrote last week to the recently elected governor. The administration of King's predecessor, Michael Dukakis, had opposed both the Millers River Basin and Northfield Mountain Water Supply projects, Cotter said.

He said the projects are a potential threat to the environmental balance of the Connecticut River and may pose a problem for the communities along the river below the project sites.

MANCHESTER - State Sen. David Barry wants an early hearing scheduled for a proposed bill to repeal the Sunday closing law that was passed last year.

Barry believes the law is unfair and unconstitutional and is seeking its repeal this year. State courts also have ruled against the law and that decision is pending appeal.

The law was being enforced at times in some towns, but Barry no longer are being sought for stores that remain open on Sunday while the question is unresolved.

Barry, who is from Manchester, opposed last year's bill that required closing on Sunday for most stores.

He said the General Assembly should "end once and for all the dilemma that the merchants, police and general public find themselves in."

He wrote to the co-chairmen of the General Law Committee and urged an early hearing on a bill filed to repeal last session's law.

"Merchants are unsure about opening on Sundays, police are unsure about making arrests and in recent days a Superior Court judge has denied arrest warrants following complaints," Barry said.

He said the Sunday closing law "has outlived its usefulness and its public support."

"People do not need any direction from us as to what they should or should not do on Sundays," he said.

FBI Agents Monitored Rep. Flood

WASHINGTON (UPI) - FBI agents monitored at least one conversation involving Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., but the Justice Department refuses to divulge the subject matter on grounds that "it would prejudice the national interest."

The use of electronic surveillance involving the indicted, 75-year-old congressman was disclosed in court papers filed before Flood went on trial Monday on charges of bribery, conspiracy and perjury.

Opening arguments were set for Flood's trial today, and prosecutors were ready to call their chief witness - his former top aide, Stephen Elko. Documents made public by prosecutors indicated the subject of the surveillance was a "hostile" foreign power, political party or agent, but revealed little else about the nature of the surveillance.

Britain Leaders Try For Industry Peace

LONDON (UPI) - Prime Minister James Callaghan's Labor government today worked to restore the industrial peace threatened by railroad and truck drivers who struck to reinforce pay demands.

The railroad network throughout the nation came to a halt as the 28,000 workers staged the first of two 24-hour strikes at midnight Monday (7 p.m. EST).

The nation's largest railroad workers' union representing porters, guards and cleaners rejected productivity pay proposals put forward by the British Rail board and threatened to join the drivers on the picket lines.

Striking truck drivers tightened their stranglehold on Britain's economy by ignoring pleas from their union and the government to let essential supplies of food and animal feedstuffs through picket lines.

The government said it will prohibit the picketing by truck drivers of their union and the government to let essential supplies of food and animal feedstuffs through picket lines.

The last time it was used was during the crippling coal miners' strike in 1974 that forced a three-day work week.

The Confederation of British Industry, representing 10,000 industrial firms, estimated 120,000 workers already have been laid off as a result of the picketing by truck drivers of ports and factories and predicted the number of layoffs will soar.

In Lancashire, in northwest England, thousands of homes were without water because of a wildcat strike by water and sewage workers.

The two 24-hour strikes by the train drivers will cripple the railroads for most of the week, and there are fears the strikes will be repeated again next week unless an acceptable offer is made to the drivers.

Amtrak Is Late Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) - It's probably not news to northeast travelers, but Amtrak is going to be late again.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams says the government needs until 1983 and $2.5 billion to improve service from Boston to Washington.

But then, he said, the trains will be "clean, fast" and "run on time."

His plan "balances" the passenger and freight needs along the congested rail corridor, one of the busiest in the nation, Adams said. "I think we can have clean, fast trains that run on time," he said.

Congress in the 1960s began discussion of a fast train from Boston to New York and from New York to Washington.

The 1976 Railroad Revitalization and Regulatory Reform Act called for a regular schedule of the high-speed trains running at two hours and 40 minutes between New York City and Washington and three hours and 40 minutes from New York City to Boston.

Currently, Amtrak's best service on the Metroliner is three hours seven minutes from Washington to New York and five hours from New York to Boston.

Adams said 1981 was unrealistic because it would have required so many people working on the tracks that all rail traffic would have to be halted during construction.

Adams said previous planning was a "classic case of a good idea gone sour... due to waste, inefficiency, too much planning and not enough action."

He said his new plan, which calls for the addition of 67 new locomotives and refurbishing 34 Metroliner cars, balances the conflicting interests of commuter, freight and interstate passenger service.

He said the project could have cost more than $3 billion, but he trimmed costs such as those for a rail line around the congested New York City area.

Some trains meeting the Congressional timetable for speed may be phased in, Adams said.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said Adams' program is a "realistic appraisal of what's needed to complete an energy efficient, reliable and comfortable alternative to our overloaded highways and airlines."

Late Rec Signup Set

MANCHESTER - The Recreation Department will have a late registration today through Friday for the winter cultural program. Registration is open to residents of Manchester and surrounding towns from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Arts Building on Garden Grove Road.

Cake decorating is offered for beginners on Tuesday mornings and will meet for eight weeks beginning Jan. 23.

The instructor is Edward Bombardier from Flo's Cake Decorating.

Needlepoint for beginners, taught by George Fister, will meet on Wednesday mornings for six weeks beginning Jan. 24.

Further information is available by contacting the Arts Building, 647-3089.

McKinney Goes Home

FAIRFIELD (UPI) - Rep. Stewart B. McKinney, R-Conn., went home Monday to recuperate for six to eight weeks after undergoing heart bypass surgery Jan. 2 at St. Luke's Hospital in New York City.

McKinney's press aide Gerald McKiernan said the 77-year-old lawmaker returned to his Fairfield home feeling "tired but otherwise pretty good."

McKinney's colleagues were sworn in Monday, but they introduced a privileged resolution to allow House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. to designate Rep. Robert N. Giannino, D-Conn., to administer McKinney's oath of office.

U.S.-Chinese Relations In Spotlight in Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The new status of U.S.-Chinese relations, and what it portends politically and economically, is in the spotlight in the nation's capital as it prepares for the forthcoming visit of Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

The new Congress primarily was concerned with the political implications, and several members introduced legislation to bolster Taiwan's security. The White House, as expected, said envoy Leonard Woodcock would be named the first U.S. ambassador, and a State Department conference is moving ahead on plans to create a private corporation to handle relations with Taiwan on an informal basis.

The corporation is to be known as "The American Institute."

The administration also is developing legislation to extend formally 60 executive agreements and treaties with Taiwan and to place, we expect Taiwan to continue to prosper," Vance told the businessmen.

All these proposals will be referred to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which plans extensive hearings. Aides said Taiwan an effort will be made to draft two bills - one dealing with Taiwan's security and the other on trade relations.

Conservative senators who object strongly to breaking formal ties with Taiwan are expected to bargain hard to improve Taiwan's diplomatic and security situations.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, just back from a trip to China, told a news conference Peking is willing to accord Taiwan "full autonomy," but their ideas seemed to go "more to appearances" than to any substantive change in the present situation.

He said China's apparent price for "full autonomy" is to lower the Nationalist Chinese flag, raise the Communist flag, and declare Taiwan part of the People's Republic of China.

Ceramics Class Due

VERNON - The Indian Valley YMCA will sponsor ceramics classes for children, teens, and adults, during the winter session.

Carol Trovato of Ellington, a certified ceramics teacher, will conduct the classes.

Children, age 8-12, will be taught how to pour molds, learn the fundamentals of the art, and will complete a minimum of three projects. These classes will be on Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9 p.m., starting Jan. 23 and will run for six weeks.

Classes for teens and adults will be held on Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. This is a beginner course in the fundamentals of ceramics. Projects will be completed in class.

The cost of materials will vary according to the participants' choice of the projects. Classes will be limited in size. Those interested should contact the YMCA office at Vernon Circle, 872-7329.

Nutrition Take It Off, Men!

By Gaynor Maddox

Despite the current craze for jogging and bicycling, too many American men are a bit fat.

There are two ways to reduce your weight. One is to eat less. The other is to exercise more.

Men complain - with some justification - that it is almost impossible for them to diet because of their heredity. American men are, on average, 10 percent heavier than men in other countries.

Jack Anderson Lance's Stock High in Calhoun

WASHINGTON - There is a fascinating human story behind the rise and fall of Bert Lance, the rustic sophisticate who hobnobbed with White House muckamucks and Arab potentates while he is under federal investigation.

He came out of the genteel Southern town of Calhoun, Ga., where he worked his will with the finesse of one of his prize bulls.

His beginnings were modest enough, he was the son of a low-paid school official. But Big Bert resolved to go after three things: an advantageous marriage, a million dollars, and the governorship of Georgia.

After Carter stepped down as governor, Lance tried to succeed him in 1974. As a banker, he knew how to arrange loans from his campaign, and as a gentleman farmer, he knew how to spread the fertilizer around.

Our sources claim that David's widow, Linda, was shocked to learn of his indebtedness and asked Lance to release some of his assets to settle the estate.

Lance went on, meanwhile, to a bigger Atlanta bank, the National Bank of Georgia. Under his management, this bank made its largest loan to Jimmy Carter's peanut business - a whopping $4.7 million.

President Carter's first choice to come to the White House with him, he told us a year ago, was Bert Lance. On the eve of Lance's nomination as budget director, the U.S. attorney in Atlanta abruptly closed an investigation into Lance's financial manipulations.

MHS Open Campus Plan Would Limit Privileges

MANCHESTER — First semester sophomores at Manchester High School would not have the privileges of an open campus if a proposal by the school administration is accepted by the Board of Education.

The proposal was presented Monday night at a board budget workshop. It was explained this morning at a press conference called by Dr. James Kennedy, school superintendent, and Jacob Lades, MHS principal.

Another proposal was one which would provide a day treatment program of emotionally disturbed children, possibly in a separate wing at Bentley School as a way to reduce the cost of tuition at facilities outside the school system.

Fight Against CD Funds Can Stop Senior Center

MANCHESTER — If the petition to ban the town's involvement in the federal Community Development program succeeds, it may affect existing current CD funds to complete work at the new Senior Citizens Center as well as other projects.

That's what Alun Mason, coordinator of CD funds, this morning told members of the new group, JOIN, which supports its involvement in the CD program.

Manchester Police Report

MANCHESTER — Police reported thefts or attempted breaks at four homes Monday.

Some money was reported missing from a Lydall Street home, police said.

A radio is missing from an Otis Street where an apartment theft was reported to police Monday.

A home under construction on Patriot Lane was broken into Monday, police said. The only item taken was a box of glasses. Police said the person or persons who broke in were workers working on the property.

An attempted break into a Ludlow Road home also was reported. The home was not secured, police said.

However, if the town gets out of CD, it won't stop low-income housing being built in Manchester. It doesn't prevent a developer to go into low-income housing. Anytime a developer goes to the Planning and Zoning Commission and gets approval for a project, he can then go to HUD for financing, Mason said.

Conflict Ruling Asked

MANCHESTER — A Republican member of the Town Board of Directors has asked the town attorney's office to issue an opinion about whether a local prominent Democrat has a conflict of interest because of work done for the Manchester Housing Authority.

Nearly AWOL

Bill Cosby didn't make it to Manchester last Friday night. He left early enough to arrive in plenty of time for his scheduled match at 7:30 against Dave Molomoly, but he encountered minor car trouble on route.

The television personality arrived 10 minutes late and an anxious Jack Redmond, home pro and the main responsible for Cosby's appearance, took a deep breath when the well-known visitor pulled into the Racquet Club's parking lot.

A-1 Caterer Flunks Test

MANCHESTER — A local sandwich catering business has failed an inspection given Monday by the town's Health Department.

The business, A-1 Industrial Food Services, 270 Main St., missed a passing grade, and a Health Department inspector expects the firm to pass its next inspection in two weeks. The Health Department later cited the business, which makes sandwiches for mobile snack units, for violations. The department will be investigating to see if the corrections were made.

Radio Club

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Amateur Radio Club will meet Wednesday, Jan. 17, at 7:30 p.m. at the former Turner Center at the Nike Site.

Stuart Gilbreth of Higganum will be the guest speaker. He will show movies of his participation in a Russian scientific expedition to the South Pole.

Manchester Grange

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Grange will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Grange Hall on Olcott Street. The lecturer's program is titled "Warm and Cozy" Members are reminded of the auction table. Refreshments will be served.

Offered Rematch — "I offered him a rematch, a chance to get even, but I don't think he'll take me up. He said it was a two-hour drive down from Greenfield." Dave Molomoly said when he had a chance to come down from Cloud Nine after meeting and beating Bill Cosby on the tennis court.

"It was quite an experience, really a lot of fun," the former Manchester High faculty member said as he looked back on his match against the well-known comic entertainer. The occasion was a first round match in the Junior Veterans Tennis Tournament last weekend which was hosted by the Manchester Racquet Club.

Home hero pro Jack Redmond wound up the winner, as expected, but it was Cosby who shared top billing with the singles' finalist champion.

Cosby is so humpty dumpty on the tennis court. With his own admission, he's a Class A club player and displays enough talent with the racket to make this judgment sound.

Molomoly defeated the Bay Stater in a five-set match, 6-3, 3-6, 7-6, in the first round but the cigar-smoking (not while playing) Cosby displayed a fine all-around game.

"I felt like I was riding around in circles before I got to the club," he said as he penned his signature to a collection of papers, magazines and business cards that sponsors and adults placed in front of him before stepping out onto the court.

East Hosts Notre Dame With Other Clubs Away

By LENA AUSTRER
Herald Sports Editor

There are few, if any, easy marks on the East Catholic baseball schedule.

That point will be borne out again tonight as the Eagles entertain once-beaten Notre Dame High of West Haven in a non-conference game.

The other two local quints find themselves on the road. Manchester High visits co-CCLC leader Simsbury High while Cheney Tech travels to vastly improved Rocky Hill High in a Charter Oak Conference clash.

There are three CVC and a pair of CCLC bouts along with a meeting of the top two CVC clubs listed in the area.

Coney High, 6-3 in the CCLC and 8-3 overall, entertains 2-7, 2-8 Fermi High in East Hartford while East Hartford High, 9-9 in the league and overall, is at 1-8 Endfield High. Endfield's lone triumph is over the Hornets.

Bolton High, 0-7, 0-9, hosts 1-6, 1-7 Vinal Tech; 5-2, 8-2 Blum High is at 5-1, 6-2 Portland High, and 3-4, 4-5 Coventry High visits 1-6, 2-7 East Hampton High in the CVC matchups.

In the key CVC encounter, conference-leader 5-0, 7-3 South Windsor High entertains 4-2, 6-4 Rockville High. The Bobcats captured the first meeting, 69-66, that being Coach Charlie Shanos' 300th career victory.

On the distaff side, slumping Manchester, 2-8, 2-9, entertains 5-3 Simsbury High at Clark Arena.

Notre Dame is coming off a victory over previously unbeaten Holy Cross Saturday night at the New Haven Coliseum.

"This is considered to be one of its best teams ever," Eagle Coach Jim Penders reported. "Eagle Coach Jim Penders reported that Notre Dame High school has state titles to its credit."

East and Notre Dame have had one common opponent, South Catholic. The Rebels demolished the Eagles, 84-69, but bowled to Notre Dame, 67-59.

"They are very strong in the front court. We will have to play close to perfection to beat them," Penders envisioned.

The Eagles take a 6-4 overall mark into the fray.

Simsbury is 8-0 in the CCLC, 8-1 overall. The Trojans have taken four victories in the waning seconds, including a 38-37 overtime duke over the Silk Towners in the season-opener.

"They've caught a lot of breaks," Indian Coach Doug Pearson spoke of the Trojans. "Maybe I'll be our turn to catch the break this time."

Manchester had its four-game winning streak stopped last Friday evening and goes in with a 5-4 league mark and 5-5 aggregate docket.

Pearson fully expects Simsbury to play its usual deliberate style.

"Of course I expect them to hold the ball, they do it every game," Pearson replied. "They're a very well disciplined club which doesn't make many mistakes."

"What we've got to try to do is set the tempo," but they usually refuse to rattle," he reminded.

Cheney broke its six-game losing streak last Friday with a come-from-behind 72-67 duke over East Hampton High. The win boosted the Techmen to 3-4 in the conference, 3-6 overall.

"It was a very big win for us," cited Beaver Coach Phil Crockett.

"I was in a tough game. I figured at the start of the year that Rocky Hill was one of the teams we could play with. But now they're playing well," Crockett voiced.

Reggie Simmons, a junior transfer from New Haven, and Greg McLeod have been consistent double figure scorers for the Terriers and Crockett points out "they've been getting at least two and sometimes three-to-four in double figures."

Crockett, in his first year, feels his club is "somewhere around where I figured it would be. I feel things are starting to come, but we do have a lot more to learn."

College Basketball Roundup — College basketball's undefeated teams were reduced to just one over the weekend, and now it is Indiana State's turn to see how well it thrives under the spotlight.

In the latest college ratings, Notre Dame has moved into first place, but only Indiana State — in fifth place — claims a perfect record.

The Scymaers raised their record to 13-0 Monday night with a 73-69 victory over New Mexico State in a Missouri Valley Conference game, but it looked as if the endangered moders, 11-2, were led by Mike Rhodes with 25 points and Davis with 19.

Charles Davis tipped in a shot at the buzzer to overturn Monday night to send surprising Vanderbilt past the Terriers in a 90-82 upset at Washington.

In other games, Tom Channell scored 27 points as Boston U. dumped Vermont, 92-65. Jeff Lamp's 28 points and Lee Baker's 27 sparked Virginia to a 99-81 triumph over Delaware; Mike Zagardo had 6 points in overtime to give George Washington a 91-89 victory over American; Cedric Carter's 18 points carried Cornell to a 66-65 win over Creighton; Terry Dueroed had 26 points as Detroit stopped Western Michigan, 92-77; and Leo Rautins tipped in a shot with one second left to give Minnesota a 69-68 decision over Northwestern.

Mitchell Anderson's 21 points pushed Bradley to a 70-69 triumph over Creighton; Ray White hit a 22-foot shot to control the boards in a 73-65 win over Mississippi State beat slumping Kentucky, 68-61; Elston Turner scored 22 points as Mississippi downed Florida, 58-45; Joe Holston's 14 points sent Tulane past New Orleans, 55-54, and Doug True scored all 10 points in a 60-57 victory at California tech Washington, 45-39.

Three-Week Rest Period Paid Turnbull Dividends — HOUSTON (UPI) — Wendy Turnbull's three-week rest apparently paid off in the first round of the women's pro tennis circuit tournament Monday night.

The third-seeded Australian defeated Florida's Janet Newberry in a 6-2, 7-5 victory — Turnbull's first tournament since Christmas.

She didn't pick up any immediate health hazards, he said. Most of the problems are maintenance ones that he feels can be corrected easily and quickly.

Stenmark Leads In Giant Slalom

ADELBODEN, Switzerland (UPI) — Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden outclassed the competition in the first heat of a men's World Cup giant slalom Tuesday and was well ahead of the competition with one heat to go. Stenmark flashed down the track in 1:11.11, nearly a full second ahead of Andreas Wenzel of Liechtenstein, who was holding down second spot with a time of 1:12.03. Heini Hemmi of Switzerland took third spot in the first heat, Leonardo David of Italy was fourth, Jean-Pierre Fourmier of Switzerland was fifth and sixth place was shared by Piero Gros of Italy and Bojan Križaj of Yugoslavia. Stenmark is out to prove he is still the top skier on either the short slalom or giant slalom tracks as he had in World Cup points to gain by winning the Adelboden event. The Swedish ace has already won

Pittsburgh Coach Ready To Meet Next Challenge

MIAMI (UPI) — As enjoyable as the season has been so far, the lingering memory of it for Pittsburgh Steelers Coach Chuck Noll will be formed by Sunday's Super Bowl against the Dallas Cowboys. It is not because Noll is worried about securing his place in football history as the first coach to win a third Super Bowl. The demands of Noll's ego are not that high, it is simply the next challenge, the one that will stay with him until next season. "To me, it's just that you always remember the last game you played in," Noll said Monday after the Steelers arrived in Miami. "I've never been a history buff. It's today and tomorrow." After being supplied with a new jet when their charter was snowed in at Chicago, the Steelers flew from the cold of Pittsburgh to the 70-degree temperatures of Miami Monday. "We worked mostly on running, things that didn't require a lot of space," Noll said. "We needed to get down here so we could get out in the air, run a bit and throw the ball. Tuesday will emphasize the passing game, which we haven't been able to work on." With quarterback Terry Bradshaw having his best year, the Steelers this season emphasized the pass more than ever before. Bradshaw completed 56.3 percent of his passes for a career-high 2,915 yards to become the first Steeler ever to win a passing title. His NFL high 28 touchdown passes was the highest total since 1955. The Steelers' explosive passing game is a factor in making the Steelers a 3½-point favorite to beat Dallas in the Super Bowl. "That attitude carried right through the season into the playoffs. In fact, our intensity in the playoffs has been very good."

Names in the News

Greg Polis — NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Rangers announced Monday wing Greg Polis has been acquired on waivers by the Washington Capitals. Polis played in only six games for the Rangers and had one goal and one assist. The Rangers also announced they were calling up rookie defenseman Tim Bothwell from the New Haven Nighthawks of the American Hockey League. Ted McClain — PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Ted McClain, a well-traveled 6-foot-3-inch guard with seven years of professional experience, was signed Monday by the Phoenix Suns. The signing of McClain brings the Suns' roster to 11 players. The Suns were one under the limit after obtaining forward Truck Robinson from New Orleans last week in a two-for-one trade.

Coaches Like Steelers

MIAMI (UPI) — If you can believe those closest to football, the Pittsburgh Steelers will rout the Dallas Cowboys in Sunday's Super Bowl XIII — but don't count on it changing the odds. The predictions were published Monday by The Miami News, which polled 23 National Football League head coaches. Seventeen picked the Steelers and 20 predicted the score, which averaged out for Pittsburgh, 20-15. "If you have any smarts, you'll bet the opposite of what I say," quipped the Washington Redskins' Jack Pardee, who chose the Steelers. Sam Rutigliano of the Cleveland Browns, who also picked Pittsburgh to win, agreed, saying, "The worst handicappers in the world are the coaches. We deal too much with the fact, and it's blinding." The only coaches who picked Dallas to win were Bud Grant of the Minnesota Vikings, Bart Starr of the Green Bay Packers, Bud Wilkinson of the St. Louis Cardinals, Neil Armstrong of the Chicago Bears, Dick Nolan of the New Orleans Saints and Dick Vermeil of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Mike White — SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mike White, who coached the California Bears from 1972 to 1977, Monday was named the offensive line coach of the San Francisco 49ers. Coach Bill Walsh said White, who played end for the Bears, also will handle administrative duties. Geoff Pietre — ATLANTA (UPI) — Geoff Pietre is back with the Atlanta Hawks but doesn't expect to play basketball again because of a knee injury. "I have to accept the fact my knee's no good," said Pietre. "I'm through playing." Pietre has some business interests in Portland but he said he would like to remain in basketball — perhaps as a coach. Pietre watched the Hawks win two games and plans to remain in Atlanta until after a visit by Portland Wednesday.

Catholic Girls Trim Aquinas

With every varsity player hitting the scoring column, East Catholic girls' basketball team trounced St. Thomas Aquinas, 75-30, last night at the Eagles' Nest. The triumph was the Eagles' eighth in 10 starts and moves them within one victory of qualifying for the State Tournament. It also was East's 11th consecutive win. East utilized excellent teamwork and a tenacious defense in racing to a 39-15 halftime advantage. The reserves took over down the stretch, holding the visitors to 7 points in the final canto. Senior Ellen Petkaitis led four Eagles in twin figures with a game-high 18 points. Monica Murphy threaded the nets with 13 points. Sue Dailey 12 and Karen Lucier 10 for East. Murphy shattered a long-standing Eagle rebounding mark, established in 1974, with 23 cars. Kathy Bassola had 16 points to pace Aquinas, now 2-7. East's layovers also were victorious, 46-20, with their biggest scoring output of the campaign. Anne Hoffman and Felicia Parr each netted 8 points and Leisa Ritchie and Paum Cunningham 6 apiece for the young Eagles. East's next clash is Thursday night against Mertry High in a key HEC match-up at the Eagles' Nest at 8 o'clock. East Catholic (75) Shehan 1 0 4 2. Barry 1 0 2. Laneri 2 0 4 8. Cunningham 0 1 2 1. Ray Lata hooped 9 points, Kiffie Silver and Clarence Zachary 8 apiece and Ben Grzyb 12 in leading Telo to an 89-72 victory over One Hour Marting last night at Tilling. Bob Garman netted 19 points, Pete Denz 18 and Bob Boland 14 for the Cleaners. In other action, Foss whipped Police, 101-71. Farr's trimmed Fred's Athletic Club, 89-57, and Bogner's outlasted Western Pharmacy, 78-72. Kevin Dunn led five performers in twin figures for Puss with 19 markers, Rich Marcucci (17), Norm Daigault (12), Marc Schardt (11) and Paul Russillo (11) also had double digits for Puss. Sandy Ficera and Frank Pisch paced Police with 22 and 16, tallies respectively. Jerry Santava had 22 points, Tom Neilan 18, Ken Shoppman 17 and Tom Sapenza 14 for Farr's while Paul Frenette (22) and Bob Plaster (17) topped Fred's. Ron Riordan and Jim Grimes had 37 and 12 tallies respectively for Bogner's while Craig Phillips had 25 points and Bob Hartnet scored 14. Bogar 13 apiece for Western. MIDGETS — Moriarty's topped the All-Stars, 35-26, last night at Verplanck. PEE WEEK — Mike MacDonald and Steve Gay each had 6 points as VFW missed CBC, 18-16, in overtime last night at the V. Jay Mistretta and Kelly DuBuis each had 6 points for CBC. Rich Brophy popped in 15 points and Sean O'Donnell 4 as Willie Garage overwhelmed Blue Moon, 25-5. Manny Fendell had 4 tallies for Blue Moon. Jerry 8-0. VFW 4-2. Blue Moon 2-4, CBC 0-6. Sent Out — PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Flyers have sent left wing Barry Dean to the Maine Mariners of the American Hockey League. The team announced Monday. A Flyers spokesman said Dean had cleared NHL waivers before being sent to Maine. Dean was acquired by the Flyers in August, 1977, and picked up seven goals and 18 assists last season.

Hank Aaron Speaks Out

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Home run champion Henry Aaron said today's baseball managers are "just puppets" trying to tell the game's high-paid superstars what to do. "For example," said Aaron Sunday night at a baseball dinner, "how can (Boston Red Sox manager) Don Zimmer go out and talk to Jim Rice or Yuz (Carl Yastrzemski) when all these guys are getting all that money. "A manager is just a puppet today. He can't go up to players who are making nine or 10 times what he's making and tell them what to do." "Sometimes I feel sorry for a manager. A lot of managers are going to lose their jobs because they don't know how to handle guys who are making $3 million, $4 million or $5 million a year," Aaron said. The former Milwaukee Braves and Brewers' star said baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn should have "done something a long time ago" to control the problems of free agency and high salaries.

Golf Season Never Not Over Yet

Golfers know that it never rains on the golf course and for some die-hard players, winter weather does not mean an end to the season. This hardy golfer at the Manchester Country Club, who wished not to be identified, managed to get in a few swings on the weekend. (Herald Photo by Pinto)

Baseball Managers Tabbed 'Puppets'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The most impartial witnesses you can find in football are the scouts. They have no axe to grind. When their teams are not involved, they don't care who wins. Jim Royer is a man like that. He's strictly neutral. His team isn't involved in Super Bowl XIII. Royer is chief scout and pro personnel coordinator with the New York Jets, one of five teams in the NFL who met both Dallas and Pittsburgh this season, and he followed and scouted both the Cowboys and Steelers. "When it comes to evaluating Sunday's Super Bowl competitors, Royer says you can flip a coin, they're that close. And if you're a manager, you can or plan to watch it on TV, he adds, keep an eye on Pittsburgh's offense. "That could be the key to the game," Royer says. "The determining factor I think will be how well Pittsburgh can run the football. If Dallas can limit Pittsburgh's rush, that will force the Steelers to throw the ball more, and that would play right into the Cowboys' hands because one of their greatest strengths is their pass rush." The basic difference in the teams, says Royer, is their style of attack. "Pittsburgh is more physical, more offensive and defensively," he reminds. "Dallas goes in more for finesse. The Cowboys try to finesse

Steeler Offense Key In Super Bowl Tilt

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Both teams use the standard 4-3 defense except the Cowboys make use of the flex, which means they keep adjusting to the opposing team's offense depending upon where the tight ends and running backs line up. The Steelers have the strongest defense in the league. They gave up less points than any other team this season and what makes their Steel Curtain even tougher yet is the fact it never comes down on the other club the same way twice. "Pittsburgh's defense is always doing something different," Royer says. "You'll see Joe Greene and Jack Lambert fooling around on the middle, jumping around or doing something to confuse the offensive blocking patterns. They have a way of forcing the other teams to do something it doesn't want to do. "The quarterback sees something like that and he has to change the play. That causes indecision, and you know what that does." Terry Bradshaw is more physical than Staubach, Royer says. "On occasion, he'll still challenge the tackler Roger does, but that isn't a negative point against him. He's smart. He'll go for the sideline more often than Terry will, preferring to lose the battle but win the war. That doesn't mean Roger won't run the ball if he gets the chance or feels he has to. If push comes to shove, he and Terry will both go for it, knowing they have all winter and summer to get well." Both teams use the standard 4-3 defense except the Cowboys make use of the flex, which means they keep adjusting to the opposing team's offense depending upon where the tight ends and running backs line up. "That's one I don't think anyone could call in advance," says Royer. "You'll see Joe Greene and Jack Lambert fooling around on the middle, jumping around or doing something to confuse the offensive blocking patterns. They have a way of forcing the other teams to do something it doesn't want to do. "The quarterback sees something like that and he has to change the play. Sports Briefs

Workouts Postponed — LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Heavy rain Monday postponed the opening of winter workouts for the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers. The field at Dodger Stadium was soaked by an inch of rain and forecasters said the rain would continue Monday night. The practice session was rescheduled for Wednesday morning. Workouts are scheduled three times a week until the team leaves for Vero Beach, Fla., at the end of February. C Calder Resigns — SEATTLE (UPI) — Les Calder has resigned as coach of the Seattle Breakers, Ephraim Steinke, general manager of the Western Hockey League club, announced today. Steinke said the resignation was by mutual agreement. Seattle's current record is 11-24-4 and the Breakers are fourth place in the league's West Division. Top Players — CENTERVILLE, Mass. (UPI) — Sly Williams of Rhode Island and Tony Price of Pennsylvania Monday were chosen the Eastern College Athletic Conference's Division I co-players of the week. Williams, a junior forward from New Haven, Conn., scored 77 points in leading the Rams to three wins. Price, a senior forward from New York, helped the Quakers to two victories.

Finals Date Set

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The North American Zone finals of the Davis Cup international tennis competition will be held March 16-18 in Cleveland, Ohio. U.S. Tennis Association Chairman Joseph E. Carrico has disclosed. The event, in which the United States will host Colombia, will take place at the Cleveland Stating Club in suburban Shaker Heights. Coach Payoff — NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — University of Oklahoma head football coach Barry Switzer, whose Sooners averaged their only loss of the season with a 31-24 win against Nebraska in the Orange Bowl, was given a $2,000 raise. In addition to raising Switzer's annual salary from $38,000 to $40,000, the OU regents provided him a $3,000 expense allowance and reaffirmed his five-year contract.

Young on Spree With Five Goals

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are times Tim Young looks lost, but there also are times he suddenly becomes a devastating player who can single-handedly control a game. Young absolutely wrecked New York Monday night, scoring five goals and assisting on a sixth to give the Minnesota North Stars an 8-1 victory over the Rangers. He was everywhere. He was unstoppable. "I'm just thrilled," he told a mass of reporters. "Everything I shot went in. But in all honesty, I haven't played very well this year. Maybe the points will start coming a little quicker now." "Timmy's got a world of potential," said North Star Coach Gene Simmer. "He's got a lot more talent than he's been showing. It doesn't surprise me to see him have a game like this. There's nobody in this organization that ever doubted his ability." But there's nobody in the organization that fully understands the up-and-coming Young has exhibited in his three-year career. With the talent he possesses, 50-point seasons are mediocre. Young, who now has 15 goals and 21 assists this season, assisted Jim Roberts with his first Minnesota goal at 2:06 of the first period. He rifled a 45-foot power-play goal past Doug Soetaert 49 seconds later and Kris Manery gave the Stars a 3-0 lead at 6:41 of the second period. Four minutes after Manery's goal, Young scored his second of the evening on a breakaway and four minutes later, drilled a sinking 70-footer under Soetaert's right shoulder to achieve his first NHL hat-trick. In the third period, Young offset a goal by New York's Dave Maloney (UPI Photo)

Rhode Island Tops Pack

BOSTON (UPI) — The University of Rhode Island, coming off a pair of impressive wins over Boston College and St. Bonaventure, continued its lock on the top spot in New England basketball in the weekly coaches' poll. The Rams, 12-2, received 12 first-place votes for a total of 64 points. URI defeated BC, 97-75, earlier in the week and followed with a 39-47 win over the Bonnies. Connecticut, 10-3, placed second, receiving 43 points. The Huskies managed an overtime squeaker over Boston University, but were then dumped, 74-60, by nationally ranked Syracuse. BC, 11-4, received the only other first-place vote, despite their loss to Rhode Island. The Eagles, who also beat the University of Baltimore last week, received 39 points. Holy Cross, 9-4, captured fourth place with 25 points. The Crusaders belted Division II rival Assumption and squeaked by Canisius, 94-91, in two overtimes. Northeastern, 9-6, received nine points to place fifth, followed by Fairfield, 9-5, with eight. BU and Maine rounded out the list with one point each.

U.S. Motorists Discover Diesel-Powered Autos

DETROIT (UPI) — When General Motors came out last year with the first American-made diesel car in modern times, Thomas Mallovec, a truck driver from Albuquerque, N.M., rushed out and bought the first one in town.

Doctor Keeping Eye On Shipyard Probe

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The doctor whose investigation spurred federal scientists to study radiation caused cancer at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard has pledged to keep "holding a sword over their heads" to make sure they do a good job.

The Center for Disease Control began its study last February after a Veterans Administration doctor from Massachusetts, Thomas Najarian, found shipyard nuclear workers had cancer rates far higher than the national average.

A nine-member panel of scientists named by Congress to oversee the study has been split by dissent. One scientist quit, a second accused the CDC of a cover-up and a third suggested turning the study to a private consultant to restore its credibility.

CD scientists say their efforts are hampered by Najarian's refusal to turn over all his information. Najarian Monday criticized the federal scientists' efforts. He said he hadn't told them everything he knew because otherwise he couldn't double-check their work.

Refinery Permit Nixed To Protect Bald Eagle

BOSTON (UPI) — The American bald eagle — the nation's symbol — has spread its wings in the way of construction of a proposed $600 million oil refinery in Eastport, Maine.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Monday rejected a water discharge permit needed to build the proposed 250,000 barrel-per-day refinery, saying it would endanger a major nesting area of the eagle.
