

Food for Americans Hail The Earl of Sandwich!

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

What would our diets be like had it not been for the gambling habits of an English lord?

History records that the fourth Earl of Sandwich inspired one of our favorite foods by being too busy gambling to stop for a meal. Instead, he would bid a waiter to bring him a piece of ham between two slices of bread, which he ate without stopping play.

That was the sandwich born. Next time friends drop in unexpectedly, turn to pollock and whip up a special sandwich in the Earl's honor. For a different creation, combine slices of bread, ham and Cheddar cheese, season with butter and Worcestershire sauce, skewer and bake until the cheese is melted. Serve hot with green salad, celery and pickles for a quick meal.

LORD SANDWICH LOAF

1 1/2 slices (1 pound) firm-textured white bread
1 thin slice about 1/4 pound cooked ham
1 large slice (about 1/4 pound) Cheddar cheese, cut in half
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.
Sandwich 2 slices of ham and 2 slices of cheese between 2 slices of bread. Stack sandwiches together and secure with 2 skewers. Place lengthwise on a buttered jelly-roll pan.

Melt butter. Add Worcestershire sauce, skewer and bake until the cheese is melted. Serve hot with green salad, celery and pickles for a quick meal.

SKEWERED ham and cheese sandwich makes a well-seasoned quick meal.

Prible-Pabst

Kathy Lynn Pabst and Steven Lewis Prible, both of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., were married Dec. 16 at St. Mark's Church in Palm Beach Gardens.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Pabst of 170 Ferguson Road, Manchester. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Giles V. Prible of Harton-non-Humber, South Humberstone, England.

The Rev. Terry Hobb of St. Mark's Church performed the double-ring ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown she made of Ujama and chiffon. Her veil of lace and net was attached to lace cap and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis, baby pompons, baby's breath and English ivy.

Cynthia Pabst of Palm Beach Gardens, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Barbara K. Anderson of Florida and Susan Prible of Pennsylvania, the bridegroom's sisters. David Sztyniewski of Jupiter, Fla., served as best man. Ushers were Kim E. Prible of Pennsylvania, the bridegroom's brother, and Ray Glass of Seminole, Fla. A reception was held at the Hilton Inn of Sugar Island, Fla., after which the couple left on a golfing trip. They are residing in Palm Beach Gardens.

WHAT'S NEWS

Labor Chief

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella Grasso today named Joseph Peraro, a 49-year-old state mediator from Enfield, as Connecticut's new labor commissioner.

Peraro, who was endorsed for the post by the executive committee of the state Labor Council earlier this week, will take office on Feb. 2. He will replace the current labor commissioner, Peter Reilly, who is resigning to take a job in the private sector.

Mrs. Grasso's selection of Peraro, a Democrat, was somewhat of a surprise because Peraro last held union office 16 years ago when he was president of the Textile Workers Union of America local at the Sanford Carpet Co. in Enfield.

For the past 16 years, Peraro has been a state labor mediator. He is currently mediating in the Teamsters strike against the Connecticut Natural Gas Corp.

Reilly, a Newington resident, is expected to go back to work with his former employer, the Ironworkers Union.

Second Heart

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet researchers, led by Anatoly Fyodorovich Tsyb, made a discovery with the use of ionized rays, similar to X-rays, under laboratory conditions, that has determined the thoracic duct, "is an actively functioning organ, continually pulsating, and that its role in the life support of the organism is in no way less than the role played by the heart," the official Communist Party newspaper reported Wednesday.

Hitherto it was believed the duct was a purely passive organ dependent on other body functions, such as breathing and heart activity.

She Can Stay

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Liliana Gasinskaya, known in the nation's press as the red bikini defector, will be allowed to stay in Australia.

Minister for Immigration Michael Mackellar granted permission Thursday to Miss Gasinskaya, 18, who defected by squeezing through the porthole of a cruise ship in a red bikini and swam ashore to stay in Australia.

Miss Gasinskaya fled from the Soviet cruise ship Leonid Sobinov Sunday after a trip more than half way around the world.

The decision became Mackellar's responsibility Wednesday when Miss Gasinskaya withdrew her application for political asylum after government officials indicated she had no chance of qualifying for that category.

Hostages Freed

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — A leftist youth group has released 112 hostages captured and held for two days in the Mexican Embassy, surrendering their arms in exchange for political asylum, diplomatic sources reported. Ambassador Alberto Sales Hurtado said he is negotiating with the band of guerrillas to determine when they will end their takeover of the embassy and where they want to go.

Sales Hurtado earlier had reached an agreement with the Salvadoran government that would permit members of the leftist United Action Front to leave El Salvador.

Snow Caught Us by Surprise

By United Press International
More than 400 state snow plows were out sanding Connecticut roads today after a fast-moving storm left snow accumulations of 24 inches and caused scores of traffic accidents — mostly minor.

"We have had some state trucks out all night taking care of slippery spots and about half the force turned out at 5 a.m.," said Jerry Sylvain of the Department of Transportation's Storm Control Center.

State Police listed more than 100 accidents on Interstates 84 and 91 in Hartford County alone Wednesday afternoon. Several accidents also were reported in southwestern and northeastern Connecticut.

But, a state trooper said most accidents were "minor fender benders" and "only about half a dozen were serious enough to call ambulances."

The storm, which had not been expected to arrive in the state until Wednesday night, apparently caught the commuters by surprise.

"People forget how to drive, that's the problem," a State Police spokesman said in Hartford. "They panic the minute there's a little snow on the ground."

State Police closed the two interstates and highways in the afternoon and urged motorists to use other routes as they attempted to tow away cars involved in accidents and get traffic moving again.

Traffic also was reported stalled during rush hours in Fairfield and New Haven counties. State Police said there were a number of accidents on Interstate 84 in the Stafford Springs area and on the Merritt Parkway and the Wilbur Cross Parkway in the Westport area.

Bradley International Airport's runways were closed for about half an hour for plowing, but the airport remained open. A spokesman said the dry, light snow was "comfortable snow to handle" and didn't cause much problem for the airport.

The New England Whalers, however, canceled a Wednesday night game in Quebec City, saying the weather system prevented them from leaving Hartford. The game will be rescheduled for a later date.

Public and private employees in many parts of the state were allowed to go home early in an attempt to avoid traffic problems. State workers went home at 3 p.m. in Hartford while New Haven city employees went home at 3:30 p.m.

The versatile potato can be prepared as a side dish or turned into a main dish. A different entrée is creamed tuna in potato nests topped with colorful sliced carrots. Serve with green vegetable and a fresh-fruit compote.

Another treat is Hungarian-style potatoes, so called because of the paprika and onion cream sauce which is combined with whipped potatoes and onions for an extra special side dish that goes well with your meat or poultry.

Easy Reducing Tips

By Gayner Maddox
Obesity is a major contributing factor in high blood pressure and obesity are mass phenomena in the United States, even a partially successful effort to persuade the public to reduce might have little effect. With long-term methods of weight control — such as better long-term nutrition and exercise habits — an important advance could be achieved in the control of high blood pressure, the report concludes.

A relatively painless way to reduce is never to eat seconds. If you stick to it, you will be surprised how quickly you can adjust. Second helpings are often just a matter of courtesy to the cook, glutiny or eye appetite.

If you are served meat, trim off all visible fat. With poultry, remove the skin before eating. These are two more simple steps to reduce your calorie intake.

Another change is to switch from whole milk to skim or non-fat fluid milk. That means the animal fat in milk will be withdrawn from your diet painlessly. That animal fat also contains vitamin A, which can be replaced in your diet by any other vitamin A non-fat food.

Non-fat milk contains all the calcium of whole milk. And calcium is milk's major nutritional contribution. As to calories, an 8-ounce glass of whole milk has 160 calories, while an 8-ounce glass of non-fat milk contains about 90.

And cut down on salt. Take the salt shaker off the table. If your doctor recommends a more strenuous diet, follow his or her advice. If not, this simplified reducing method may be the solution for both your blood pressure and your waistline.

Plowing Behind From the Start

MANCHESTER — Wednesday's snow came so fast, it left town highway crews scrambling almost immediately and caused a number of rush-hour traffic problems.

There were, however, no serious accidents during the storm, Police Chief Robert Lannan said this morning.

Frederick Wajcs, highway superintendent, reported that the snow moved in quickly after the first flakes fell around 1 p.m.

The town got about 2 1/2 inches of snow in the first 2 1/2 hours, he said. "When it does that, you have to give up."

Town trucks began salting and sanding at about 1:30 p.m. and plowing started about a half-hour later, Wajcs said.

He said he was surprised by the number of people who continued driving during the afternoon hours despite the bad weather and travel warnings.

Even so, his department had few major problems. One sanding truck broke down and one private contractor who plows for the town got caught in traffic and was delayed in starting his plowing route, Wajcs said.

Work on the roads was completed at about 4 a.m. today, he said. Traffic was the main problem for the Manchester Police Department. Lannan reported there were many accidents in town, including one involving a school bus.

"There were no inconveniences other than a lot of people getting home late," Lannan said.

Carter Is Proud

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says his 1800 anti-inflation bill — $1 billion under his cost-cutting goal — cut everything but defense to the bone to spare human needs programs sought by liberals.

Carter said Wednesday the new budget which goes to Congress Monday will include only about $23 billion in deficit spending, compared with $30 billion estimated earlier. It's the smallest federal red ink total since 1973.

The president called it a "very austere, stringent, tough fiscal policy."

He placed himself squarely at odds with potential 1980 presidential rival, California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who has called for a constitutional amendment to require a balanced budget.

Sadat Sets It Up

ASWAN, Egypt (UPI) — Former President Gerald Ford, the shah of Iran and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat conferred today for an hour and a minute in an impromptu conference at the Great Aswan dam on the River Nile.

Sadat brought Ford and the shah together in a four-floor hotel suite within five minutes after the former American president's arrival at the start of a Middle East tour.

The three men did not immediately detail their talks. But Ford's aides said the former president went into the meeting expecting to greet the shah as an old friend and answer his queries about the United States, where the Iranian leader was expected to take up residence following his departure from his troubled homeland.

The shah appeared somber although sure of himself at the start of the meeting, greeting Ford and Sadat at the door of suite 427 of the Aswan Oberoi Hotel.

At the meeting's conclusion, the shah opened the door with a smile and look Ford and Sadat onto his balcony overlooking the River Nile.

Region's Winter Could Be Worse

By United Press International
Residents of New England today fought what Midwesterners battled earlier this week — a major snowstorm, the first for southern New England this winter.

New Englanders, who have enjoyed a relatively mild winter, took it in stride.

"It could be worse," a Concord, N.H., woman said while sweeping snow from her car. "We could be in Chicago."

The storm closed many roads in the area, snarled traffic and caused an epidemic of fender-bender traffic accidents.

Maine got the bulk of the snow. Portland received 16 inches of snow. Brunswick had a 16-inch total on the ground, 8 that fell since Wednesday night, and Rumford got 5 inches of new snow.

Freezing drizzle mixed with the snow in Massachusetts, where 2 to 5 inches fell, and southern New Hampshire received 5 to 8 inches of snow.

Heavy snow warnings remained in effect today for southern Maine and the western mountains and for New Hampshire. Travel advisories were still posted for southern New England.

More Pardons Blocked

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) - Republican Lamar Alexander, with the backing of leaders of the Democratic-controlled Legislature, abruptly took over as governor of Tennessee Wednesday night in a move to block more mass pardons of felons by outgoing Gov. Ray Blanton.

day, also said he was saddened by the turn of events. The dramatic move climaxed three days of controversy that began Monday night with Blanton's granting of executive clemency to 52 convicts, including 24 murderers.

Volunteers Agree to End Bias

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter MANCHESTER - Representatives of the volunteer Hose and Ladder Co. 4 Wednesday signed an agreement at the state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities which says that they will not discriminate against women who apply for membership in the company.

The company members had been reluctant to sign the agreement previously, fearing that it would be an admission of guilt related to a complaint issued with the commission last year by Barbara Demers. Gunther said most of the company decided to go along with the commission stipulations once they were assured by Kevin O'Brien, assistant town attorney, that the agreement included a clause that the company is admitting no wrong if it signs the agreement.

Commission did pertain to the fire company because it served the town. He also said the Town Fire Chief John Rivosa had the right to withhold the company's annual payment because the company's alleged discrimination could jeopardize the town's $65,000 in revenue sharing funds. Rivosa said today the company had already received its past two payments of $500 each based on the vote Tuesday night. He said he had no qualms about the company's membership in the companies' ranges from about 25 to 60.

Violence Continues in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Troops fired on demonstrators celebrating the shah's departure in two southern towns today and workers threatened a total shutdown of oil supplies to the nation, now in the grip of a cold wave. More than 30 demonstrators were reported killed. Meanwhile the supreme military command announced that Kurdish insurgents attacked and encircled a border police base near the Iraq border.

Hundreds of plainclothesmen were reported en route to Abadan, site of the world's largest oil refinery, to punish oil workers who cut off Iran's oil exports Dec. 27. A strike representative said the workers would retaliate by completely shutting off oil supplies to Iran, currently in a cold spell, if the plainclothesmen attacked. Hundreds of troops, provoked by the shah's farewell, left their base in Ahwaz Wednesday, driving tanks, armored cars and jeeps. They opened fire at crowds in the street who were passing out candy and shouting anti-shah slogans.

IRA Blamed in London Blasts

LONDON (UPI) - Bombs blamed on the Irish Republican Army blew up a storage tank filled with 7 million cubic feet of gasoline in East London today and ripped through a Texas tank holding 100,000 tons of aviation fuel. Another fire broke out in a block of offices in the city's Strand district, less than a block from Trafalgar Square and close to Charing Cross railway station. Eighteen fire engines responded to the blaze, but police said they did not think anyone was trapped inside.

"This fire is bigger than anything I've ever seen," said a witness. "The building is completely obscured by flame and black smoke. There are firemen swarming everywhere." The attacks on the highly flammable storage installations came hours after police arrested four suspected IRA bombers in London. Another bomb was found beside a motorway in the English midlands but did not explode. No one was reported injured. The blast at a gas works in Greenwich at 12:46 a.m. (7:46 p.m. Wednesday EST), on the banks of the Thames River, destroyed a storage tank filled to capacity with 7 million cubic feet of gas.

Manchester Working On Cleaning Digester

MANCHESTER — The town still is working on cleaning out a digester that blew its top early last month. Sludge in the digester tank has to be removed before the tank can be inspected, Bob Young, of the Water and Sewer Department, said.

The cover of the tank was knocked out of place in early December. An apparent buildup of gas inside the huge tank caused the displacement of the cover.

Jay Giles, director of public works, said the cause of the incident has not been determined.

"There was an excess buildup of pressure. Exactly how that occurred is still a question," he said.

The town also is looking into the possibility of changing the method of fastening the cover to the digester. Giles said. Bolts that held the cover in place were dislodged when last month's incident occurred.

Some town officials have questioned whether the bolts used on the digester were adequate. They were smaller and of a different shape than the original plans had called for, officials said.

Engineers who worked on the project said such changes are common, however. They said any such change would have been tested to insure it could meet the requirements of the design.

The apparent buildup of gas should not have occurred and no bolts would have held the top in place, they said.

The digester is part of the process in the treatment of sewage.

Sludge stored in the digester has to be transferred to another tank, Young said. The cleaning process had to be stopped, Young said.

It has been delayed a couple of times. At one point, the transferring of sludge left little room to handle new solids, so the cleaning process had to be stopped, Young said.

A mechanical problem developed earlier this week and caused another delay, he said. He had hoped to complete the cleaning this week but now expects it will be done sometime next week.

Metcalf & Eddy, a Boston engineering firm involved in town sewage treatment design, is expected to visit and look at the digester once the cleaning is completed.

Man Denies Move Of Stolen Collection

Joseph Rydel Jr., 36, of Placentia, Calif., farmer of 74 N. Lakewood Circle, Manchester, has pleaded innocent to charges that he transported a stolen beer can collection across state lines.

Rydel, known throughout Connecticut for his vast collection of beer cans, must answer to a grand jury indictment charging him with taking the collection worth about $5,000 from East Hartford to Roseville, Mich., in January 1977, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Hartman.

Hartman said the collection had been stolen from a collector in Newton, but that Rydel was not charged in connection with the theft.

Rydel was released on a personal recognizance bond. He could face a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine if convicted.

Jury Selection Resumes

HARTFORD (UPI) — Jury selection is expected to continue Friday in the Superior Court trial of Thomas Guica, 27, charged with the fatal stabbing of a young Vermont.

Guica, a Windsor resident, is charged with the murder of Lee Norris, 25, on May 21, 1977, in a wooded area near Westledge School in Simsbury.

Service Council Invites Local State Legislators

MANCHESTER — Local state legislators have been invited to this month's meeting of the Manchester Community Services Council.

Several topics, including home health care, landlord-tenant law, juvenile justice and education, are scheduled to be discussed at the meeting.

The session will be held Thursday, Jan. 25 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Emanuel Lutheran Church, 60 Church St.

All of the legislators who represent Manchester — State Sens. David Barry and Marcella Fahey and State Reps. Muriel Yacovone, Walter Joyner, Francis Mahoney and Abraham Glasman — have been invited to the meeting.

Coffee will be served at 9:30 a.m. and discussion with the legislators and panelists from the Manchester Community Services Council will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Lunch will be at noon, and Barry will be the luncheon guest speaker.

The following topics and panelists will be part of the program: Income maintenance, panelist, Carol Angelli; home health care, Hyalie Hurwitz; executive director of the River East Homekeeper-Home Health Aide Service Inc.; Deinstitutionalization, Inez Moran; Proposal for state legislation on tenants' rights, Ben Rubin, Manchester Tenants Association; Juvenile justice, Patricia Graves, lieutenant, Manchester Police Department; Education, Richard Corrie, Manchester's special education supervisor.

Lunch will be available at the meeting for a small cost. Anyone wishing to make a lunch reservation should call the Human Services Department at 647-3052 by Monday.

Meeting Tonight

HEBRON — The Hebron Center Nursery School will have its open board meeting tonight at 8 in Phelps Hall.

The meeting was postponed from Wednesday night due to the storm.

Panel in South Windsor To Study Old Firehouse

SOUTH WINDSOR — The Town Council has authorized the appointment of a facilities task force to study and evaluate the old Firehouse 1 on Ellington Road.

The old building has been termed unsafe, and was replaced with the New Fire Headquarters, officially Firehouse 1, located across the street on Ellington Road.

Numerous local organizations have expressed interest in the old building. Storage for such things as recreational equipment or town equipment has also been mentioned as possible use for the building.

Last year former Town Manager Paul Talbot told the council that the costs for renovation for "people use" of the structure seemed "prohibitive."

The task force will be appointed by the council and will issue a preliminary report on or before March 5, with a final report due no later than April 15.

The council has also authorized the appointment of a Youth Advisory Committee to study the needs of local youth.

There has been much criticism over the past year that South Windsor has no facilities or activities especially geared to the 13-18 year old group.

The Rotary Club recently constructed a winter sports area at the Pudim property on Barber Hill Road.

John Mitchell, spokesman for the Rotary project, said that the organization has decided on the winter sports area because they felt they wanted to do "something for the town's youth."

All work was done completely by volunteers with donated equipment, however, because of the heavy rains in December the Rotary asked residents to temporarily avoid using the area because of fear of ruining the seeding in the soft ground.

Junior High Schools Use Team Method of Placement

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Team performance is what Manchester school curriculum program is all about. This is what was described to the Board of Education curriculum committee Tuesday night by staff officials from Iling and Bennett junior high schools.

Administrators of the two schools — Allan Cone, principal of Bennett Junior High School, and Andrew Vincens, vice principal of Iling Junior High School — described the existing levels system and team, or grouping practices used in their schools.

Although the system differs somewhat in each of the schools, it is basically the same.

Cone said that at Bennett, this year's 340 Grade 7 students are organized into three teaching teams of 110 to 115 students and five academic teachers — two English/reading, one math, one social studies and one science. Each team is divided into five sections which are grouped in four or five levels of ability.

Generally, these levels represent students who are grouped as follows:

- Well above average in academic achievement and ability.
- Somewhat above average in academic achievement and ability.
- About average in academic achievement and ability.
- Somewhat below average in academic achievement and ability.
- Below average in academic achievement and ability.

Teachers teach these sections with different materials, techniques and pace, Cone said.

Students are assigned to a section on the basis of a sixth grade teacher's recommendation.

Marsha Gunther, a reading consultant at Bennett, explained that she and Elaine Schultz, a reading consultant at Iling, compile all the students' data sheets from the town's six grade teachers. During the summer, they sort them, using the teachers' evaluations and comments in placing the student in a particular level and team.

They would take into consideration, for instance, a teacher's remark that a student has emotional upsets, is capable but sensitive.

Commenting on the placement teachers' placement abilities, Vincens said later that Gunther and Schultz have extraordinary memories and can recall almost every student's data input individually.

With this knowledge, Gunther said she and Schultz, with the cooperation of the various guidance counselors and the team teachers, can keep a running check on a student's placement. It may be that a student isn't following through with his original placement, Gunther said, and may need to be "juggled" within the team.

"Teachers know these kids pretty well, know their potential, and watch them," she said.

Sometimes it's necessary to consult the student's elementary teacher and principal to help establish a satisfactory junior high school team assignment, Vincens said as he emphasized the educational system's team performance.

Cone said he would like to see an intensified program for improving the reading level. He said this was a request made this year.

Gunther expressed a fear that reduction in school population, might eventually mean a reduction in teaching staff, which would upset the team concept.

"It would mean more kids in a team, more paper work for the teacher, and physically, this creates a problem," she said.

Becker agreed that it's a hazard to think about.

"You've heard that guidance counselors don't know the kids," Viani said. "In our school, they do know the kids."

Becker also voiced her approval of the presentation.

Money Gone for Water Repair

MANCHESTER - A private contractor hired to repair a broken water line charged the town $100 per hour and has completed the work he could for the $2,500 maximum the town could pay.

Frank Kapsia & Son of Glastonbury worked on the line for four days. Jay Giles, director of public works, said.

The water line broke last month under a culvert for the Bigelow Brook. The break occurred on West Middle Turnpike just west of the Manchester Shopping Parkade.

The area where the break occurred was segregated by shutting off water on both sides. This created two dead lines, but no customers lost service. It did reduce firefighting capability in the area.

The town has decided to reroute the line around the culvert and under the brook rather than try to make the repair under the culvert.

Giles said the town selected Kapsia to do the work last week. The firm worked at the site since Friday and was expected to finish Wednesday.

The town can pay the firm a maximum of $2,500 since no formal bids were made for the repair project.

Kapsia already was doing sewer work in the New State Road-Adams Street area, so it had the equipment needed for the water line repair, Giles said.

A private contractor had to be hired because the town does not have the heavy-duty equipment needed for such a project, he said.

Thus, Kapsia was picked and is charging the town at a rate of $100 per hour. It can work a maximum of 25 hours, and that time limit was expected to be reached today.

The remaining work will have to be done by town crews, Giles said.

"The toughest work is already done," he said. He thinks town workers and equipment will be able to complete the work not done by the private contractor.

The work done by the town, however, may have to be delayed. Kapsia has hit some frost while digging, and town equipment may not be able to dent those harder areas.

The town may have to wait until the weather warms and the ground thaws before it continues digging.

"It would have been nice to continue with him," Giles said of the private contractor.

But, because of the bid requirements, the town may have to leave the job partly done for awhile.

Still, Giles is glad it was started now. If the town had decided to bid the entire project, it still would have been at least a few weeks before work even started, he said.

Poll Shows Tax Cut Initiatives

By United Press International
 Proposition 13 lives. Tight budgets and tax cuts are the hallmark of this year's state spending plans. A UPI survey shows there are hopes for tax reductions, rebates, spending limits or hold-the-line budgets in 49 of the 50 states.

Only Arkansas - where voters rejected a tax cut - seems immune to the ripples of tax revolt started by California's approval of Proposition 13.

But Arkansas are in a definite minority. In California, where Howard Jarvis led Proposition 13 to victory and a $7 billion cut in property taxes last year, there are already plans for another billion dollar tax break.

In Louisiana, legislators are faced with the happy prospect of spending $100 million of the state's budget surplus on a tax rebate that would amount to $100 for every person.

And in Texas, legislators will implement a $1 billion reduction this spring and the incoming governor is calling for another $1 billion reduction.

The plans and promises for tax relief roll on: up to $1 billion in Wisconsin, up to $695 million in Indiana; $500 million in Massachusetts; $200 million in Illinois; $170 million in Oregon; $145 million in North Carolina; $140 million in Missouri; $95 million in Colorado; $75 million in Georgia; $73 million in Kentucky; $70 million in Utah; $52 million in Mississippi; $50 million in Nevada; $30 million in Delaware and Maine; $15.5 million in West Virginia.

Even in New York, considered the most profligate of prodigals by the more parsimonious states, there are plans for $225 million in state tax cuts.

State officials give different reasons for why money is available for tax cuts: inflation, overtaxation in the past, a strong economy in some areas. But it is obvious they are all aware that their state's voters have heard the cry of Proposition 13.

"As with the Boston Tea Party our citizens are rising in protest," said Utah Gov. Scott Matheson in his budget message.

And in the states where legislators say there is no ready money for tax relief, proposals for spending ceilings and hold-the-line budgets that barely break even with inflation are popular.

"Given the mood of the people on taxes, I think there will be a definite effort to hold down spending," Republican Homer Harding, the Senate majority leader in South Dakota, said in a refrain echoed by his colleagues from coast to coast.

Pennsylvania, Montana, Nebraska, Wyoming, Virginia and Ohio are among the numerous states where spending limits are proposed. And the Vermont House of Representatives is on record as favoring freezing spending at current levels.

Hospitals Plan Forum For Kin of Drinkers

MANCHESTER - Rockville General Hospital's Department of Human Services and Alcoholism Care, in cooperation with Manchester Memorial Hospital and the Manchester Health Department, will offer a family four-week forum for relatives and friends of problem drinkers.

The sessions will be held four consecutive Mondays at 7 p.m. They will be held at Manchester Memorial Hospital, and the first session will be Feb. 5.

Lois Ann Beckwith, staff nurse with Manchester's Health Department, and Joseph Futschik, who helps to a national organization of social workers, will conduct the sessions. Mrs. Beckwith has been trained in the family approach to problem drinking and Futschik is a certified family forum specialist.

The sessions will provide basic education on alcoholism and problem drinking. The program includes materials and activities designed to increase awareness of the effects of a drinking problem on families and to enhance an individual's appreciation of self and communication skills.

Any person wishing to participate may confidentially contact Mrs. Beckwith at 647-3178 before 4:30 p.m. or 649-5188 after 5 p.m.

Lobbyists Upset By House Limits

HARTFORD (UPI) — The people who make a living but lobbying state lawmakers are upset with a order barring all but the news media, lawmakers and their friends from the House lobby.

Some lobbyists Wednesday called the sudden move "irresponsible and ridiculous" and dismissed claims by the Democratic leadership that their activities were disrupting legislative sessions.

Lobbyists were not the only ones to take exception to the Democratic leadership's order.

So did reporters until House Speaker Ernest Abate, D-Stamford, said the order would not apply to the press because they have always had "total access" to the House.

"Look, if a legislator is too busy to talk to me or any other lobbyist when he steps into the House lobby all he has to do is say so," said Betty Gallo, director of Common Cause, a public interest lobbying group.

"We are professionals. We want to offer input and our expertise on the legislation that is going to affect our groups and the public. I don't see how they can close themselves off like this," she said.

Deputy House Speaker and Coatsworth, D-Cromwell, said the move was intended to "allow House members access to open space during the session without their being accosted by lobbyists or special interest groups."

"This way if three or four members want to walk off the floor during session to discuss a bill they won't have to worry about being buttonholed by lobbyists or other special interest groups," he said.

But Connecticut Business and Industry Association lobbyist John Anderson called the sudden move "irresponsible and ridiculous."

"I have never seen anything like it," he said.

Referring to the two-foot by two-foot white and black lettered signs that read "House Lobby Reserved for Legislators and Staff during House Sessions," Ms. Gallo said the move to rope off the lobby "wasn't so sudden that they couldn't put up the signs. It was just secret."

"It was not a responsible way to act," she added, questioning the propriety of the House move.

"What it means is that we will not be able to reach the people we need to in order to provide input on all the legislation they have to act on," she said.

Prosecutor Asks Change In State Wiretap Laws

HARTFORD (UPI) — Chief State's Attorney Austin McGuigan says he wants Connecticut's present wiretap law amended so state police will be allowed to provide wiretap information to federal authorities.

McGuigan said Wednesday Connecticut has "the strictest wire surveillance in the United States" because of the stipulation that no information can be given outside the state.

He called the present wiretap law "a good statute especially in dealing with drugs." But he said Connecticut's prosecutors need more sophisticated tools and more money to effectively combat illegal gambling and organized crime.

McGuigan spoke at a Senate Republican caucus about a package of 18 anti-crime proposals drawn up by McGuigan and the 11 state's attorneys.

"These proposals are not cast in stone. They are concepts and there may be better ones or better approaches," he said.

"We're sorely in need of more manpower and we certainly need additional personnel in the fight against organized crime," he said.

On another subject, McGuigan would not say what the new evidence was in the continuing investigation of the 1973 murder of Barbara Gibbons in Falls Village.

Her son, Peter Reilly, who was 18 at the time of the slaying, was convicted of manslaughter in his mother's death. But the charge against him was dismissed in November 1976 when it was disclosed that Walsh was released on a $2,000 nonsurety bond for appearance in court in East Hartford on Jan. 29.

Opinion Policy Change Good for MHS

One of the ironies of Manchester High School's open campus at which has been the focus of so much attention recently is that it is not the result of an educational philosophy at all. It is mere economic accommodation to the fact that there are not enough student spaces at the school to keep all the students there for all of the school day.

Now the school administration proposes to modify it in two important ways. One would be to require incoming sophomores to remain on campus for the school day and to have supervised study halls. By their second semester, the sophomores would have been exposed to the atmosphere of open campus.

Jack Anderson U.S. Efforts Failed in Iran

WASHINGTON - For three decades, Iran has been overrun with U.S. observers. The Central Intelligence Agency, which saved the shah's throne in 1953, had access to the palace. A case officer was actually assigned to shah, who thereby became a confidential CIA informant.

Now Humpty Dumpty has had a great fall, and all our houses and men aren't going to put him back together again. The United States, thanks to the close association with the shah, is left with few friends in Iran.

From presidents on down, U.S. officials have pampered the shah out rationally. Former President Richard Nixon wrote obsequious letters to the shah and catered to his slightest whims.

Angle and Walters The New Kids in Town

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The new senators taking office for the 96th Congress constitute the largest freshman class in more than 30 years - and the most Republican.

Go For Broke David Durenberger, the Republican elected to Hubert Humphrey's old seat, was the first of the new senators to be sworn in but it didn't do him much good financially.

Crane Hopes to Qualify Rep. Phil Crane of Illinois, the first declared GOP presidential candidate for 1980, has concluded he will probably have to seek federal matching funds for his campaign despite his philosophic objections to such public financing.

TELEVISION NETWORK EXECUTIVE OFFICES CH. 1 KNOW SHE'LL HELP THE RATINGS... BUT WHO'S GOING TO BREAK IT TO WALTER CRONKITE?

The Secretary saw the shah in late winter 1975 and reported back to King Faisal that he had indeed tried to persuade the shah to reduce oil prices.

Yet powers in Washington made no attempt to bring the shah into line. This convinced the Saudis, according to State Department documents, that the United States was secretly conspiring with the shah to keep oil prices up.

Reported Kissinger: "In one of Kissinger's last meetings with King Faisal, the king urged him directly to take oil prices up with the shah, and the secretary agreed to do so.

Conflict Diffused, Not Gone

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi is gone but the conflict that swirled around him for 14 months is only diffused, not ended.

His followers and his enemies still confront one another across a wall of suspicion and hatred. On the one side the majority - Iran's 84 million people. On the other are the shah. Caught in the middle is the new prime minister, Shapour Bakhtiar.

Gen. Abbas Qarabaghi, the chief of staff, Monday took the unusual step of summoning Iranian reporters to announce the military had no intention of staging a coup - apparently because of the shah's appetite for the generals to support Bakhtiar.

More concessions to opposition demands do not appear to be Bakhtiar's solution. They have had concessions in abundance: the shah's "vacation," the cutoff of oil supplies to Israel and South Africa, the dissolution of the dread SAVAK secret police, an unconditional release of political prisoners, official non-interference in religious affairs and phased withdrawal of martial law.

Rather, Bakhtiar must restrain the shah's forces from striking too hard at the favored servants the monarch has left behind. Otherwise, the military might well step in, either in the name of the shah or to impose their own authority.

MANCHESTER - Local Social Security officials have threatened to discontinue a weekly clinic in town, but town officials have received a continuation of the program because they feel lack of attendance is due to lack of publicity.

Carew Near Agreement

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Angels and Rod Carew were expected to announce a contract agreement today but the Angels face a tougher problem — satisfying the Minnesota Twins.

Carew and his agent, Jerry Simon, met with Angels' Vice President and General Manager Buzzie Bavasi for nearly six hours Wednesday. After the session, Bavasi said, "We see no complications and should have an affirmative report tomorrow. We are very close to a signed, sealed agreement. There are a few details to work on but they should be taken care of by noon tomorrow (today)." Simon said, "We had a very pleasant meeting with the Angels and should have something to report tomorrow."

The Angels reportedly have offered the Twins a package of players including outfielder Ken Landreux, infielder Dave Chalk and a choice of either pitchers Ken Brett or Dyer Miller. The Twins balked at that deal, however, and owner Calvin Griffith said Minnesota would settle for nothing less than third baseman Arnesen Lansford. Bavasi has said the Angels would not trade Lansford. The Angels gained the inside track on signing Carew Monday when the San Francisco Giants, upon learning Carew would veto any trade to the National League, withdrew their offer of a five-year, $4 million contract.

Bavasi said Tuesday he wanted to wrap up the deal as soon as possible. "If we can do anything tomorrow (Wednesday) we might as well forget it," he said. "If we can work on it for five or six hours without disturbance we can make a deal."

Carew, whose present contract expires at the end of the coming season and could enter the free-agent draft at that time, has said the Angels were No. 1 on his list.

College Basketball Roundup

North Carolina Nips Chief Foe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dean Smith's coaching has been a factor in many North Carolina victories over the years. But the head Tar Heel was quick to point out it wasn't any great coaching genius that pulled out Carolina's 70-69 victory over North Carolina State at Raleigh last night. In fact, it may have been just dumb luck.

"We were just trying to foul a man," Smith said. "Dudley Bradley's steal and slam dunk two seconds remaining gave the third-ranked Tar Heels a victory over the Wolfpack. But we were quick that Dudley got there first and first."

The Tar Heels, 13-2, had to fight off a furious comeback by State after the Wolfpack came back from a 21-point halftime deficit to take the lead, 69-68, on a four-point play with 32 seconds remaining. North Carolina came up with a rebound of a North Carolina shot. But Bradley stole the ball at midcourt and drove in for the slam-dunk.

Good led the Tar Heels with 21 points and Whitney paced the Wolfpack with 19.

In other games involving top teams, Texas A&M defeated Arkansas, 74-69, in overtime. Syracuse murdered Siena, 114-92, and Missouri scored 22 points to lift DePaul to an 80-73 victory over Loyola.

Ski Notes

By BILL SACHEREK

Skating all over is now at its best, thanks to yesterday's storm.

Bromley will host the Lisa Tuttle Memorial Jan. 20. The junior qualifiers will race on the East Meadows a FIS sanctioned trail.

Hogback isn't just a fine friendly area, it also has a real commitment to the school kids that live close. At the present time the area is cooperating with local schools and giving free skiing and lessons to 300 each week.

A new ski area, Monteeu ski area at Swiftwater Valley, N.H. Here they have alpine and nordic skiing. A 5,500-foot double chair and a rope tow service three trails, a slope and glade skiing with a vertical of 850 ft.

Found a Manchester family, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Knauth are co-owners of Monteeu. The rental rates are unbelievably low. No waiting lines. One tired man, with a big grin, said he had over 60 runs, and the most skiing ever.

The cross country trails again from the novice to the expert are all well groomed, a short 2.2 km for the novice to the 4.5 km for the expert.

Head man for the cross country area is none other than Bill Spencer, head coach for the U.S. Olympic biathlon team.

Monteeu is open only on weekends, holidays and school vacations. The Knauths, plan to enlarge the area next year. The motto is "Ski Safety and Enjoy Yourself."

Directions to Monteeu: North on 91 to Wells River, Vt., 12 miles east on Route 202 and 112 NH will bring you to Swiftwater Valley and Monteeu. Area is well marked.

P.S. Skiing was great at Mt. Southington last night.

Austria Skier Repeats Win

MEIRINGEN, Switzerland (UPI) — Austria's Annemarie Moser-Proell, boasting later "there was nothing to it," Wednesday won her fourth consecutive World Cup downhill ski race.

"I have a good chance for the combined title," she said. "I'm hoping for a good result in the Slalom on Friday."

For Moser-Proell, Wednesday's win was her 56th victory in a World Cup race.

Epple, asked about finishing 1.3 seconds slower than Moser-Proell, to a massive margin in skiing terms said, "Annemarie is in a class by herself and the only way someone else can win is if she falls."

Bernadette Zerbinger, of Switzerland placed third while Petite, 18-year-old French skier Caroline Attia, who weighs just 101 pounds, again lost to Moser-Proell's weight of 132 pounds, finished fourth.

Edith Peter of Austria placed fifth while Moser-Proell's main rival, Marie-Therese Nadig of Switzerland, managed only sixth spot.

Moser-Proell won no World Cup points for her victory because she had already won the first three downhill of the season and totalled the 75 point maximum for that discipline.

The Austrian remained on top of the standings with 115 points against 106 points for runnerup Nadig, who squandered a chance to overtake Moser-Proell with her sixth place finish.

Moser-Proell said, however, she thinks she can still leave Meiringen with an additional 25 points earned in the U.S. in the combined downhill-slam event.

Trade Pleases Knight

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — "Nobody likes to pack his suitcase at mid-point to another from one last place squandered a chance to overtake Moser-Proell with her sixth place finish."

The straight player swap involved the offensive-minded Knight, who Wednesday maintained he had "nothing but good memories" concerning the Pacers, and rookie Rick Hobe, who said he was "very happy" to join the struggling Celtics.

"Even if the Pacers don't win another game, I prefer to be in Indiana with Knight, a high scoring forward who was obtained by the Pacers in a one-for-one National Basketball Association trade with the Celtics Tuesday."

Knight played 228 games in three seasons with the Pacers.

Was Woody Hayes victimized by power?

JUST ASK
Murray Olderman

By Murray Olderman

The tipoff:
With all the critics coming out of the woodwork following the firing of Woody Hayes, let's put in a word, Woody, for all his foibles, was a fine football coach who knew how to build a winning program. Ohio State wasn't always a winner. But Woody was victimized by the paranoiac atmosphere of big time college football, which has become a contest they've produced in a single game by a keystone combination? — George M. Sullivan, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

None other than the immortal George Herman Ruth holds the major league baseball career slugging record, with a percentage of .690. The on-base record was set by Stan Musial, with 5,287 trips to first base or further in his career. There are no percentage figures kept in this area.

On double plays, I don't know the precise answer for a keystone combo. Bobby Knop, playing second base for the California Angels, figured in six double plays during a game Tuesday at the New York Yankees at the Houston Astros in 1969 hold the major league record of doubles in a single game.

Q. In your opinion, do you think it is right for fans to vote for the major league all-stars? — Bill Osha, Weymouth, Pa.

No. It leads too easily to abuses when fans in one city lobby excessively for their own baseball stars, as happened in Cincinnati a few years ago. Also, it becomes a popularity vote rather than based on merit. My own feeling is that the all-star teams should be determined by all the players in both major leagues (each voting for their own leagues), with their ballots excluding teammates.

Q. My favorite player is Ken Stabler, and recently I have seen Snake run with the ball at all. I thought he'd be a runner like Jim Zorn or Steve Greaser. Why doesn't Stabler run? — Kelly Fung, St. Catherine, Ont.

You know Stabler got his nickname, Snake, in his school because of his open field running ability on kick returns. And he was a fine option quarterback at Alabama. Also, early in his pro career he was a superb punter, scrambling out of the backfield, most notably when he took over as starter for the Raiders' regular quarterback in 1973. But knees in recent years have limited his mobility and made carrying the ball too severe a risk.

Q. Here is an old one for you. In regard to the New York Yankees and wife-swapping. Two New York Yankee pitchers, Sparky Lyle and a guy named Pete, are sure you know what I'm talking about. The Sparky Lyle worked out fine, but Pete was a disaster. Please put a little light on this subject. — Charlie Klette, Covington, Ky.

You're dredging up almost ancient history... and you've got your facts wrong. It was Sparky who was traded to the Yankees — when left-handers Fritz Peterson and Mike Klerch and the restive spouses got romantically involved. Klerch didn't work out, in fact, he was quickly traded by the Yankees. The New York Yankees had Sparky Lyle and other pitchers, with other teams, have since faded from the majors.

Parting shot:
If all the facts behind the Fairbanks-Sullivan split on the New England Patriots ever emerge, they'll make some spicy reading that has nothing to do with football. I'm sure you'll find it interesting, but something that had been building for some time.

Cowboys' Dorsett Found He Had Many Friends

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — From here on in, it figures to be all downhill, a real breeze for Tony Dorsett.

Why? Because the Dallas Cowboys star running back has made it through the toughest part of Super Bowl XIII already.

He took care of as many of his friends from Pittsburgh as he could with tickets to Sunday's game and he's just getting back up on his feet again after being thrown from more than he in financial loss along the way. Now that he has coped with his friends, all he has to do is contend with the enemy Steelers. They shouldn't be nearly as much trouble. "All my tickets are gone," Dorsett says without bothering to camouflage his delight and relief. "They were all gone before I even got down here."

Dorsett was raised in Alliquippa, Pa., only 14 miles up the road from Pittsburgh, and he was far and away the most electrifying runner in the history of Pittsburgh's sports before signing with the Cowboys two years ago. The more famous he gets in Dallas, the more his friends keep reminding him they knew him when he still was in Pittsburgh.

"I kept getting calls from a lotta long-lost friends, and all of 'em were looking for tickets," says the Cowboys' former Heisman Trophy winner. "What people don't realize is that each ballplayer has a quota. We was a produced in a single game by a keystone combination? — George M. Sullivan, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

None other than the immortal George Herman Ruth holds the major league baseball career slugging record, with a percentage of .690. The on-base record was set by Stan Musial, with 5,287 trips to first base or further in his career. There are no percentage figures kept in this area.

On double plays, I don't know the precise answer for a keystone combo. Bobby Knop, playing second base for the California Angels, figured in six double plays during a game Tuesday at the New York Yankees at the Houston Astros in 1969 hold the major league record of doubles in a single game.

Q. In your opinion, do you think it is right for fans to vote for the major league all-stars? — Bill Osha, Weymouth, Pa.

No. It leads too easily to abuses when fans in one city lobby excessively for their own baseball stars, as happened in Cincinnati a few years ago. Also, it becomes a popularity vote rather than based on merit. My own feeling is that the all-star teams should be determined by all the players in both major leagues (each voting for their own leagues), with their ballots excluding teammates.

Apart from Roberto Clemente, probably no other sports figure in the last 25 years had a greater impact on the city of Pittsburgh than Tony Dorsett. That includes such personalities as Chuck Noll, Terry Bradshaw, Franco Harris, Bill Mazeroski and Steve Blass, all of whom helped bring an assortment of world championships to the western Pennsylvania metropolis.

Was Woody Hayes victimized by power?

JUST ASK
Murray Olderman

By Murray Olderman

The tipoff:
With all the critics coming out of the woodwork following the firing of Woody Hayes, let's put in a word, Woody, for all his foibles, was a fine football coach who knew how to build a winning program. Ohio State wasn't always a winner. But Woody was victimized by the paranoiac atmosphere of big time college football, which has become a contest they've produced in a single game by a keystone combination? — George M. Workforce Lifestyles Meet Topic

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Lifestyles of America's workforce topped the agenda as executives from corporations and unions started three days of "health simulation exercises" Wednesday at a Dulles Airport hotel.

This first National Conference on Health Promotion in Occupational Settings, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, expects to learn the latest in the state of the art of smoking control, weight control, drug and alcohol control, exercise, stress management and measures against health hazards at the work place.

It is hoped the labor and management chiefs catch on to the good health news and spread it in factories, offices and other work places.

Dr. Julius B. Richmond, U.S. surgeon general, opening the "exercise," asked the executives and health experts, to think of methods that will lead workers to physical fitness, good dietary habits and stress management.

Some 80 "health game" players at the start were sorted into three teams - make-believe companies that by Friday will come up with the perfect health promotion program for a hypothetical firm. Exemplary.

The need for such programs was underlined by Richmond. He said account for 75 percent of all deaths but "these diseases are not inevitable but largely preventable through changes in lifestyle and behavior."

For instance, he said, "25 percent of heart disease deaths and 80 percent of all lung cancer deaths are related to (cigarette) smoking."

Dr. Alice M. McGill, conference coordinator from HEW's Office of Health Information and Health Promotion, said a person's lack of motivation often is named as the primary failure factor when one selects a less than healthy lifestyle.

Training Class Slated To Aid Town Employees

MANCHESTER - As part of an established employee assistance program, the Town of Manchester will begin a series of training classes for town department heads and supervisors beginning Monday at 9:30 a.m. The classes will be held at the town hall and will be led by Hal Alderson, a counselor associated with the Greater Hartford Council, which manages the program.

Each class will have two sessions and each session will last two hours. The employee assistance program is designed to help employees whose work performance begins to decline due to personal problems. Supervisors will be taught how to carry out supervisory procedures in ways that will encourage troubled employees to seek counseling assistance.

One of the goals of the program is to help town employees retain the highest possible levels of work performance.

The counseling services are available to any town employee or family member who could benefit from counseling. To learn more, call the Manchester Health Department at 647-3173 and ask for the town's employee assistance program liaison.

Board Hears Bus Pleas

VERNON - Daring a hearing that lasted close to five hours, Tuesday, hearing officer for the State Board of Education, Ronald Harris, listened to pleas made by parents of the Fox Hill Apartments for bus transportation for their children attending Northeast Elementary School.

The pleas were heard several times by the local Board of Education, which finally denied the request.

The parents contend that it is unsafe for children from that area to walk to school. In denying the request, the local school board decided to stick by its present policy for walking distances to school. This policy basically follows guidelines set by the state but does allow for extenuating circumstances.

The guidelines state that children attending elementary schools can walk a distance of one mile. The board had the police calibrate the distance from the apartment complex to Northeast and police determined it was 3/4 of a mile.

The parents claimed the board's decision was "unreasonable, capricious and arbitrary." Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, disputed the claim. He said the board's decision represented a sincere effort on the administration's part to meet concerns of the parents.

As he has in the past, John Kelly, a parent, spoke for the parent's group and dispute the fact that the administration had decided to change the entrance the children would use to go into the school building.

He claimed that this represented a change in rules.

However, Dr. Sidman explained that under the school board's policy, where the entrance is located had no effect on the distance measured from the apartment building to the school.

Harris will review the testimony given at the hearing and is to submit a decision to the full state board in March or April.

Baha'is Plan Religion Day

MANCHESTER - The Baha'is of Manchester invite the public to attend an event Sunday in observance of World Religion Day.

The program will be held at 256 Green Road starting at 2 p.m.

Bill Thomas of South Windsor will speak about the oneness of religion and how it will be the cause of unity of the world's people.

Baha'is believe that all the prophets of God proclaim the same faith and the world's great spiritual leaders, among them Christ, Moses, Buddha and Muhammad, received their inspiration from the same divine source.

BOLTON - A request for $520 to replace and install a thermopane window at Bentley Memorial Library was not acted on by the Board of Selectmen Tuesday pending an investigation into the matter.

Selectman Joann Neath said, "There's been problems with the window since the library was built and we should find out just what the problem is."

Selectman John Carey was authorized to investigate the matter. The Board of Library Directors said several months ago a crack was found in the window. The board felt it was wise to repair it immediately.

Margaret Baris, library employee, said the interior pane of the thermopane window is cracked and she

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you printed a letter from a man who undertook to explain why older men prefer younger wives:

"When buying a car," he said, "who would opt for an old, used model when he could get a new, unused model for the same price? In an old model, the bumper sag, the frame is crooked, the paint job is poor and the pickup is gone. And if it's 60 years old, it usually comes with a crank."

I decided not to list that one pass without rebuttal, especially when my wife came to me with your column in hand and fire in eye.

"Something must be said for us old, used models" she declared. I, of course, agreed.

For the record, my wife is nowhere near 60. In fact, there was a time when she could not conceive of the possibility that she might reach 60; now she is beginning to realize this is a possibility.

Abby, I have had new models (speaking of cars) which, despite expensive attention, stubbornly refused to give me a desirable creature of the earth, and even if they were not looking over my shoulder at this moment, I don't think I could stand playing the dating game again.

Those awkward preliminaries. Those pretenses. Those doubts. That loneliness when doubts prove well-founded. Those failures. That forced enthusiasm. Those silly conversations: "Oh! You're a Pica, and you just ran that exciting! Pardon me while I throw up. I guess maybe I've been away too long."

DEAR ABBY: My married daughter asked me to spend the Christmas holidays with her. I was glad to accept because they live quite a distance from me and I don't see them often.

Besides my daughter and son-in-law, there are four children, two dogs and a cat. My daughter is a rather careless housekeeper who allows the pets to sleep in the children's beds.

The first night I slept there I noticed that something was disturbing my sleep. After the second night I decided to look at the mattress. There I found a nest of fleas and their eggs. I knew I couldn't spend another night there, so I told my daughter I didn't feel well, and wanted to go home to see my doctor. I cut my vacation short and left.

Abby, I couldn't bring myself to tell my daughter my truth. Now I'm wondering what to say if I'm invited again.

DEAR BITTEN: You should have told your daughter the truth! Reconcile. Put a bug in her ear at once.

Win at bridge

Win at bridge

There is a way for him to do this. His five notrump is a variation of the old grand slam force. Normally the grand slam force asks partner to bid the grand slam if he holds two of the three top honors in trumps. But in this case, South already has guaranteed that good a trump suit. What North wants South to do is to bid seven spades with an eight-suit to the ace-king-queen or seven-suit to the ace-king-queen. He can do this by playing a strange partner.

Ask the Experts

A Canadian reader asks if we ever rebid a four-card suit when partner responds with two of a lower-valued one.

We do not and will show how to avoid this in tomorrow's article.

There is a way for him to do this. His five notrump is a variation of the old grand slam force. Normally the grand slam force asks partner to bid the grand slam if he holds two of the three top honors in trumps. But in this case, South already has guaranteed that good a trump suit. What North wants South to do is to bid seven spades with an eight-suit to the ace-king-queen or seven-suit to the ace-king-queen. He can do this by playing a strange partner.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you printed a letter from a man who undertook to explain why older men prefer younger wives:

"When buying a car," he said, "who would opt for an old, used model when he could get a new, unused model for the same price? In an old model, the bumper sag, the frame is crooked, the paint job is poor and the pickup is gone. And if it's 60 years old, it usually comes with a crank."

I decided not to list that one pass without rebuttal, especially when my wife came to me with your column in hand and fire in eye.

"Something must be said for us old, used models" she declared. I, of course, agreed.

For the record, my wife is nowhere near 60. In fact, there was a time when she could not conceive of the possibility that she might reach 60; now she is beginning to realize this is a possibility.

Abby, I have had new models (speaking of cars) which, despite expensive attention, stubbornly refused to give me a desirable creature of the earth, and even if they were not looking over my shoulder at this moment, I don't think I could stand playing the dating game again.

Those awkward preliminaries. Those pretenses. Those doubts. That loneliness when doubts prove well-founded. Those failures. That forced enthusiasm. Those silly conversations: "Oh! You're a Pica, and you just ran that exciting! Pardon me while I throw up. I guess maybe I've been away too long."

DEAR ABBY: My married daughter asked me to spend the Christmas holidays with her. I was glad to accept because they live quite a distance from me and I don't see them often.

Besides my daughter and son-in-law, there are four children, two dogs and a cat. My daughter is a rather careless housekeeper who allows the pets to sleep in the children's beds.

The first night I slept there I noticed that something was disturbing my sleep. After the second night I decided to look at the mattress. There I found a nest of fleas and their eggs. I knew I couldn't spend another night there, so I told my daughter I didn't feel well, and wanted to go home to see my doctor. I cut my vacation short and left.

Abby, I couldn't bring myself to tell my daughter my truth. Now I'm wondering what to say if I'm invited again.

DEAR BITTEN: You should have told your daughter the truth! Reconcile. Put a bug in her ear at once.
