Vernon Bank Income Rises

VERNON — Vernon National Bank has reported a substantial increase in net income for the year ending Dec. 31, 1978. Net income rose from 62 cents per share in 1977 to $1.32 per share in 1978, an increase of 113 percent.

James M. Troy, president, said the increased earnings were due to an increase in net interest margin as well as a better ratio of operating expenses to total expenses.

Bond Insurance Cuts Taxes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The comparatively new business of insuring municipal bond issues is saving hard-pressed cities and their taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars annually in interest costs.

The business began in the current decade with the rapid rise in interest rates on tax exempt municipal bonds and the big consequent increase in investor interest.

The Milwaukee firm also insures against default on principal or interest municipal bond portfolios of $50,000 or more for individual investors, and insures six municipal bond trust funds for the management companies.

Inflation Report Dismal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paced by a sharp surge in the cost of beef and veal, inflation at the wholesale level began the new year on a dismal note by climbing 1.2 percent in January for the largest gain in more than four years, the government reported today.

If overall wholesale prices increased at the same level during each month of 1979 as they did in January, the annual rate of increase would be more than 16 percent.

Prices for dairy products and processed fruits and vegetables also moved up, but by considerably less than in most recent months.

Sales Promotion Unique to Town

Committee Supports CD-Funded Programs

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter. MANCHESTER — The Community Development Advisory Committee Thursday night joined groups in town taking a position on the controversial Community Development program, but not without some dissent of its own.

Committee member Judith Moller agreed with Crowley. She said, "I can't see that it is inappropriate for us to act as an information source. I feel we have an obligation to do it."

Sweeney Decides No Second Term

By GREG PEARSON Herald Reporter. MANCHESTER — Joseph Sweeney, a first-term Democratic member of the Town Board of Directors, announced today he will not seek re-election in the other five years of his term.

Sweeney, along with the three Republican directors, supports a proposed two-year ban on town participation in the Community Development program. The other five Democrats all are opposed to such a ban.

Transit Chaos Coming

HARTFORD (UPI) — A systems analyst says time is running out for Connecticut to implement a permanent public transportation system and prevent chaos in a possible future energy crisis.

The need for a high speed, rapid transit system that will take thousands of vehicles off Connecticut roads is becoming acute because of the recent turmoil in Iran, according to Adrian H.G. Forester.

Prosecutor Seeks Reversed Ruling

HARTFORD (UPI) — The judge who overruled the jury which convicted former state Rep. Bernard Avocelle of murdering his wife had no right to "overrule the verdict of the people," the Connecticut Supreme Court was told Thursday.

The court, which heard final arguments in the state's appeal of Avocelle's acquittal, will decide whether Superior Court Judge Simon Cohen had the right to reverse the jury's July 1977 conviction.

"A murder has been committed. The question is whether it will go unprosecuted and if the man convicted of it, Bernard Avocelle, will go free," declared State's Attorney Francis McDonald, the prosecutor in the original trial.

GOP Leaders Not Happy But They'll Back Budget

HARTFORD (UPI) — Top Republican leaders aren't totally satisfied with Democratic Gov. Ella Grasso's proposed $2.4 billion budget, but they have vowed to fight any members of her party who try to inflate it.

"We will support the 'bottom line' of the governor's budget and will resist all efforts to the free-spending Democratic legislators to increase that figure," House Minority Leader Ralph Van Norstrand, R-Darien, and Senate Minority Leader Richard Bozatto, R-Waterbury said Thursday at a Capitol news conference.

Although Van Norstrand and Bozatto agreed with the overall budget figure — only $1.1 percent higher than this year's budget — they were distressed with the inner workings of the spending plan.

"We have no quarrel with the total spending figure," the GOP leaders said, "but we are disappointed in the way the governor has chosen to spend our money."

"Her priorities, needless to say, are not ours and while we may perhaps not be able to sway many Democrats to reject her 'shopping list' in favor of ours, we intend to speak out so the public understands that the Republicans in the Legislature would have treated the governor differently," the GOP leaders said.

The Republicans chastized the governor for not providing enough aid to cities and towns.

"This means property tax increases for the citizens of Connecticut," Van Norstrand said.

But both Republicans admitted even by shifting money around in the budget, they could not come up with all of the $46 million the Connecticut Conference of Municipalities says is necessary to avoid property tax increases.

The GOP leaders also said they were disappointed that Mrs. Grasso did not concentrate her spending efforts on reducing crime, putting able-bodied welfare recipients to work and providing basic educational training for the unskilled workers.

Bozatto said he was disturbed by Mrs. Grasso's Urban Aid Act, a $12 million bond proposal the governor says will help improve Connecticut's "quality of life."

"The major innovation in this budget is covered in one line item without explanation," Bozatto said.

Van Norstrand found it interesting that Mrs. Grasso — who has repeatedly voiced her opposition to gambling — should propose a hike in gaming taxes so the state can take in more money.

"If there ever was a governor who could end legalized gambling this is it," he said.

Proposed Utility Rates To Raise Monthly Bills

HARTFORD (UPI) — Northeast Utilities has filed the largest rate hike request in Connecticut history — a $121.2 million package that would raise monthly bills by about $5 for electricity customers and by about $3.50 for gas consumers.

"The simple fact is that Northeast Utilities is financially crippled," the firm's president Leland Sillin said Thursday.

But the state's largest consumer group — the Connecticut Citizens Action Group — saw the rate filing differently.

"The filing of this rate hike makes official what can only be viewed as an unprecedented display of utility arrogance and disregard toward ratepayers," CCAG director Marc Caplan said.

Northeast filed the rate request with the Public Utilities Control Authority on behalf of two of its subsidiaries, Hartford Electric Light Company and Connecticut Light and Power Company.

The request was $300 million smaller than the rate request Northeast had originally planned to submit.

CL&P asked for an $87.6 million — or 18 percent — rate hike for its gas and electric customers. For the average consumer, this would mean a $5.47 a month increase for electricity and a $3.72 a month hike for gas.

HELCO requested a $43.6 million — or 16.4 percent — rate increase. For the average electricity customer, this would work out to an extra $4.76 a month. Gas customers would pay an additional $3.45 a month.

"The financial limits placed upon us in the last few years are undermining our energy delivery system," Sillin said.

Sillin complained that Northeast's common stock is selling between 25 and 30 percent below its book value.

"Employment levels for the NU system are 9 percent lower than in 1973 and are no higher today than they were in 1969, the end of the era of declining energy costs," Sillin added.

A large part of the rate hike would be used to finance an ambitious $1.2 billion construction project Northeast has planned through 1984.

Half of the construction costs would be used to improve transmission and distribution, while the other half would be used to build Millstone III, which would be Northeast's fourth nuclear power plant.

"The filing of this rate hike makes official what can only be viewed as an unprecedented display of utility arrogance and disregard toward ratepayers," CCAG director Marc Caplan said.

Stager Explains Cult Experience

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — It takes only about $3,000 a year from each person contributing to a commune to establish a multi-million dollar corporation. That fact and the way certain communal societies or cults take advantage of tax laws and their non-profit status under the guise of religious or social development is what Jay Stager, associate professor of philosophy at Manchester Community College, objects to most.

Stager spent his sabbatical time last year visiting various types of communes, or "intentional communities." He described some of his experiences to staff and some students at MCC this week. Stager said that cults, which have become the object of a current congressional investigation since the massacre in Jonestown in Guyana, are actually offshoots of communes. "They provide the communal framework through which to support an ideology," Stager said, and added, "The two terms cannot be separated."

A cult implies some kind of living arrangement where the members support each other financially, emotionally, and socially. Stager said, "There is a lot of excitement and absolute commitment" in such groups. He added, "We know from historical experience the power of such groups."

The cultists which everyone is most concerned about are the "Moonies" of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church and the Hari Krishna and Divine Light groups. Stager said, "Stager related a personal experience with a Moon organization about two years ago in San Francisco. Up to that time, he said he had always felt he was very tolerant toward many types of communal groups. However, he said, the experience which directly involved him and his son hardened and angered him toward the Moonies and similar cults. Stager said the group which he visited used deliberate deception to get his son to join them. They did not identify themselves as Moon organization. His son was able to resist the "tremendous pressure" the Moonies used to get him to detach himself from his family. The experience frightened and embarrassed Stager because he was not able to perceive the deception immediately.

Stager described how the Moonies and other communes have used money in very capitalistic ways to become potentially powerful religious movements. The "tremendous profitability" of some of the communes he visited is what impressed him most. But Stager objects to the way the groups have become multi-million dollar organizations by circumventing all the laws of the country relating to business.

Stager said the financially successful communes have everyone working for free. There are no labor unions. There are no child labor laws. They are not accountable to anyone but themselves. They pay no taxes. He told of one commune where the members got CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) jobs to rebuild their own buildings on their own. He spoke of others which are taking over the fishing industry in Gloucester, Mass. and New Orleans.

Stager said he resents the way such organizations as the Moonies have distorted their perception of what their role is in society from a sociological purpose to making money.

Weiss Gives Detail On Town Efficiency

MANCHESTER — Town Manager Robert Weiss has submitted a report on his performance to the Town Board of Directors and included a section that says Manchester's government is run efficiently compared to other communities.

The manager's report is part of a review of his performance done every two years by the board. The Town Charter requires the review to be done in November, so the present one is more than two months overdue. Weiss previously submitted a two-page report to the directors, but they overrode more information about the performance of town departments and government in general. This time, Weiss prepared a six-page report summarizing work done by town departments. He also included a report about state and federal funding received by the town and a comparison of local government operations. "This comparison, prepared by the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council, covers the fiscal years from 1976-78. It lists Manchester as having a $60 per capita cost for its government operation in the 1977-78 fiscal year. Five of the ten communities in the state with populations between 45,000 and 57,700 spent more per capita for government than Manchester. Among 10 capital region municipalities listed in the report, eight spent more than Manchester. In comparison, East Hartford spent $65 per person to operate its government.

Another aspect of communes Stager noticed was the "absence of negativism" except in one — a Tibetan Buddhist commune in Vermont which operates in a completely different way. What the communes and cults have in common, Stager said, is "romance." "It's like a super high. It's almost like being in love. You can see it in their (the participants') eyes," he said. He added, however, that the romance wears off and the cultists find contradictions within their communities. "Communes don't have any panacea shortcuts," Stager said. There are not as many communes today as there were a few years ago. Stager said there used to be about 10,000 communes of various types. Most of them were in the cities and many were temporary living arrangements among college students. The groups surviving today are the astrans, many of which call themselves churches and the Hari Krishnas. Stager noted the extensive handling operations for which the Hari Krishnas are known and which are very profitable. The cults and communes attract especially white, upper-middle class, Protestants and Jews and more women than men, Stager said. "They are mostly unattached adults looking for a dream," he said. He said pre-existing families who go to communes almost never make it. Communes are incompatible with the nuclear family, he said. Stager said he had some direct opportunities to live out "the fantasies and learn about the complications" of the commune living through the Downtown program he runs in Maine through MCC. He has also conducted weekend and week-long sessions using different communes practices. There are basically three kinds of communes or cults: secular, religious and historical. Some of each kind which Stager visited included Amara in Iowa, Onseids in New York, Sabbathday Lake in Maine, and Karme Choling in Vermont. He has also observed Twin Oaks in Virginia, Finders in Scotland, Yogaville East in Connecticut and the Renaissance Church in Massachusetts.

Benefit Dance Planned

MANCHESTER — The Verplank PTA will sponsor its first scholarship benefit dance, Saturday, March 3, at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Main Street.

Music for dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. will be provided by the Electric Company.

A limited number of tickets are available and may be obtained by calling Rose Donnelly, 646-5286, or Carol Spiewak, 646-4134. There will also be a raffle drawing.

The PTA has offered a scholarship for several years to former Verplank students who continue their education beyond high school. Verplank School is the only elementary school in Manchester to offer a scholarship of this kind.

Parents and Teachers Questioned in Vernon

VERNON — Parents of the elementary school students and members of the teaching staff have been given questionnaires this week to give school officials an idea of how they feel about the elementary program. Dr. Albert Kerkin Jr., assistant superintendent of schools, said the survey is being made in response to the results obtained by the Board of Education in its survey made at the close of the last school year. Dr. Kerkin said specific information is being sought in regard to the programs and management of the total elementary program. He said the input will be important in future plans for the elementary program. He said the Board of Education survey revealed general approval of the overall school system along with the need for more specific information. He said the new survey is specific to elementary schools. "If a majority of people approve our programs and procedures, we would like to know that. If a majority do not approve, we would like to know that also," Dr. Kerkin said. School officials also want to know if parents find the preschool screening program is helpful. As to Grades 1 and 2, where there is controlled grouping, the school officials also want to know if parents would prefer heterogeneous or homogeneous grouping. The same questions apply to Grades 3-5. Regarding the degree of movement of elementary pupils during the school day, parents and teachers are being asked to say whether they would prefer an increase or a decrease in movement or keep it at the same level it is now. They are also being asked if they feel a booklet explaining the elementary program by grade level is necessary, not needed or useful and if communications between parents and schools should be increased, decreased or if it's all right the way it is. Other questions deal with how parents feel about openness of communication between them and the schools and if it needs improvement. Survey sheets should be returned to the principal of the school the respondent's child attends by Feb. 15.

State Educators Talk on Closing

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON — It townshippeople have any strong objections to the proposal to close the Sykes School on Park Street, Rockville, very few have come forward to say so at two public meetings the Board of Education and its committees have held. Thursday night the board had, as guests, three speakers from the state who outlined possible alternate uses for the building, should the board make the decision to move the Grade 6 students it now houses into the Middle School. John Ryan, bureau chief of the adult education division for the state, said the question of what to do with Sykes is a very serious one. The proposal to close the school was made by Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, who said that the prime purpose is not to save money but to offer more to the Grade 6 students.

Ryan said, "It's a major closing that might affect Vernon for the next 15 to 20 years." He asked the school board, as it looks at what is going to do, look at the needs of all of the people in town. "He said the state has great hopes for community education." Dr. Robert Kelley of the state Board of Education said that many towns are getting involved in "community education" and the board is important to consider that Vernon competes with other states in getting industries.

Richard Warren, associate director of the New England Community Education Center at the University of Connecticut, said, "Since last November the most serious question in our center was what to do with available (school) space." He said school systems have moved from being overcrowded to declining enrollments and too much space. He said if the building is closed and boarded up it would rot slowly. Dr. Sidman said, "I'd be the last one to recommend leaving it (the school) if I thought one nail would be put in to board up a window. It's a very viable building." Warren outlined numerous uses to which the building could be put such as an adult learning center, children's museum, and a satellite center for a community college. He said the students could be kept in the building and it could be used as a combination center to serve communities.

While some parents have said they and their children like the idea of Grade 6 students having their own building, no group effort has been asserted to give the school board to vote against the proposal to close Sykes. Leonard Jacobs and Marie Herbert members of the Town Council, said Thursday night that they feel that already a dead issue because there is talk about what to do with the building. Mrs. Herbert, a former school board member, said, "I don't want to see that school closed. We're breaking our backs trying to revitalize that area and to close that school would be demoralizing." Dr. Robert Liston, assistant superintendent of schools, suggested that the building might be used as a satellite for Cheney Tech. Nelson Gotler, a resident, asked what the limitations are on the lease for the school building. The building is leased to the town for 8 1/2 years through the will of George Sykes. The trustees pay for most maintenance. Dr. Sidman said the trustees are open minded about the use of the building as long as it is used. But they also specified they don't want to be put in the position of being landlord.

Vernon Budget Reviewed

VERNON — The Budget Committee of the Board of Education has started to review the education budget as recommended by the superintendent of schools. The budget of $11,179,748 reflects an increase of $975,157 over the current budget. Most of the budget is fixed costs such as salaries and employee contract according to state statutes, fringe benefits agreed to by the employee-employer contract, statutory requirements such as enumeration, bus contract, fuel and utilities and miscellaneous other contracts. The proposed personnel salaries at $3,386,495, reflects a $27,864 increase or 8.1 percent; employee benefits, $724,428, an increase of $99,311, 16 percent. Also: Instructional services, $21,212, an increase of $2,812 or 13.3 percent; property services, $208,423, an increase of $14,636 or 7.1 percent; transportation services, $393,847, an increase of $42,812 or 12.2 percent; and tuition, $125,000, an increase of $35,000 or 28.0 percent. Also: Supplies, $224,446, an increase of $14,503 or 6.5 percent; other materials, $2,000, no increase; equipment under capital outlay, no money included but in the current budget $12,484 was included; 100 percent decrease; insurance, $64,452, an increase of $10,049, or 15.5 percent.

Warning Predicted

Irish Knocks CD Plans To Buy Town Fire Truck

MANCHESTER — Wallace Irish Jr., an active Republican and member of the Eighth District Fire Department, said the town should consider purchasing a fire truck instead of a CD plan. Irish said the money could have been better spent by providing improved emergency medical services or an upgraded telephone call box system. The money is being used to supplement the Town Fire Department budget, he said. The town department does not cover the entire town. The Eighth District Department services its own area, which includes much of the North End of Manchester. "We need another fire truck in Manchester like we need a dome stadium," Irish, who is a member of the Republican State Central Committee and deputy fire marshal for the Eighth District, said. The Community Development funds are aimed to assist the low and moderate income residents in town. While the School Street station is in the program's target area, the actual area of Irish said is most needed for has some of the town's most expensive homes. Irish said, "There are fire hydrants in the downtown target area," he said. The new truck, which has a increased capacity for carrying water, also will serve areas such as Betts and Blue Ridge drives, which have expensive homes. There are no hydrants in these areas, so the increased water capacity of the truck is most needed there. Irish said he was disappointed that the Republican members of the board voted for the truck purchase. He also disputed a remark by Stephen Penny, chairman of the board, that the town department responds faster than the district's volunteer department to fires. He said Penny should make public any information he has about the matter. Penny has been monitoring all fire calls to check the response times of both departments. The monitoring, done by police as a "political abuse" of the Police Department, Irish said. He also said the district's department is a high-quality firefighting unit. "They may be faster but they're not better," Irish said of the Town Fire Department.

Comment Session Gripe Familiar Through Nation

MANCHESTER — An often-heard nationwide gripe — government costs too much — was voiced by a town resident at this week's comment session. The Summit Street resident said government costs are too high, salaries of management positions are too high and there are too many teachers in the school system. The person also said Summit Street is one of the last to be plowed following snowstorms. Snow is plowed on sidewalks and one plow was seen recently at 2 a.m., idling and not doing any plowing, the resident said. The resident also complained about the sharp increase in property assessments because of revaluation. The town also might consider an ordinance similar to one adopted in Pittsfield, Mass., which prohibits jilting of a vehicle for more than three minutes. Another resident asked that the town issue a certificate of occupancy each time a residency is sold or a new tenant moves into a rental unit. This would insure that housing code violations have not developed. The resident also complained about the make-up of the Community Development Advisory Committee, which has said does not meet federal requirements. Another resident said that sand in the area of the Buckland Industrial Park has been blowing much recently. The person suggested an ordinance that would restrict the height of piles of sand. The comment sessions are held twice each month and offer residents a chance to talk with a member of the Town Board of Directors about any matter that involves local government. Stephen Penny, chairman of the board, presided at this week's session.

River Walk Stated

MANCHESTER — A walk along the Hockanum River is being planned for Sunday, starting at 1 p.m. across from the Sunbrook Arms, on New State Road. Walkers will go along the north bank of the river as far as Center Street and return. The walk, which is open to the public, is being sponsored by the Hockanum River Linear Park Committee. Two previous walks have been canceled because of rain. The event of rain Sunday, the walk will be postponed until the following Sunday.

HIGH SCHOOL WORLD

New Fast Food Course Offered

As Manchester High School has 2000 or so odd students, it would seem to be a safe guess that half or more of these students are employed, whether through the COEP system or on their own. Some have more than one job, often in varying fields. Some end up working in department stores and get great discounts on their clothes, and maybe one or two lucky individuals land an ushering job at the Manchester Twin Cine, but most end up in the same slot, fast food.

This, of course, is no recent development but one which has found its niche in American society and has been firmly entrenched in for twenty years or more. In recognition of these two factors, the Home Economics Dept. and the COEP Dept. have joined forces to put out a

Author Stages New Play

What does Manchester High School's senior Mike Wilson have in common with Tennessee Williams? Besides the fact that both their last names begin with W, both are dedicated playwrights. Williams became famous with such plays as "The Glass Menagerie," "A Streetcar Named Desire," and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

The latter two earned him Pulitzer Prizes. But Wilson, not to be outdone, will soon have all of MHS talking about his latest piece of work entitled "Musical Chairs."

Mike Wilson started writing "Musical Chairs" last summer. In the fall he became more serious about his work on the play and involved himself in an independent study with Dr. Lee Hay to finish constructing the piece.

Dr. Hay is an English teacher at MHS and he himself writes many plays for the school's theatrical club, Sock and Buskin. Meeting weekly with Mike, he provided constructive criticism and advice from his knowledge of playwrighting toward "Musical Chairs."

A cast of two months was all that was needed to complete the play which consists of one act. The basic storyline of the play deals with the breakdown of the friendship of three long time friends.

After finishing it, Mike decided that he would like to stage it to see what the dialogue would sound like when acted out, and simply for the experience of producing a play. He has therefore independently undertaken the project of producing, casting, and presenting his own play, March 7, 8, 9 have been set for the performance dates.

The casting was completed last week and the actors for the three parts were chosen. Mary Simon will play the part of Jack, Mike Flanagan as Ace, and Jim Richardson will play the role of Ray.

The production promises to be one you won't want to miss. So mark it down on your calendar. Who knows, maybe someday people will be reading about the Pulitzer Prize winner Tennessee Wilson who wrote his first big play while a student at MHS. — Joanne Weiss

Book Review: Gnomes

Regardless of the polish and Gnomes falls far short of contemporary expectations of fantastic readings.

Unfortunately Huguen, the writer of the text, is following or perhaps basking in the glory and popularity of the recent Tolkien revival rather than realizing fame in his own right. If it weren't for the brilliance of illustrator Povrlet, one wonders whether Gnomes would have ever gotten off the ground, let alone soared as it has.

Gnomes is a history and report on the political, economic, social, and cultural world of a race of Earth-dwelling beings called Gnomes. They are hobbit and dwarf-like people who stand approximately 15 centimeters off the ground. Their average life span is 90 years, while their childhood lasts a total of 100 years.

They are a frowning, bearded lot who dress in camouflaged clothing and pointy caps, which never leave their scalps. They live in holes in the ground, preferably near a tree, which are burrowed into quite acromnodating quarters with the help of

MHS Notes

Nobody noticed department: Tables have been set aside in the cafeteria at which students can leave their dirty trays. With the tables set up, no student will ever have to walk more than ten steps to dispose of his used tin here.

The boys hoop teams play at home tonight, against Westford. Javee action begins at 8:15, varsity at 8:45. Admission is cheap.

Tables Turned On Cafe

Now that we've all mastered 3-a-m programming for midterms and evasive tactics to elude the hall monitors, we are faced with yet another dilemma. How do we eat in the cafeteria in a split second and grab a table for 20 kids who eat lunch together?

A few weeks ago there were more tables all crammed in the usual, conventional manner of straight rows. Things are a little different now, and nobody seems to really know why. What's so obvious, though, is that the cafeteria has now been divided into four sections, and now it is possible to squish more people into a table than ever before. That's O.K., but why the change?

After talking with Mr. Mazotta, an administrator at MHS, the set-up begins to take on a little meaning. There's no one who hasn't heard his share of complaints about the condition of our cafeteria, and who probably hasn't voiced one or two himself.

It's a mess, and the new set-up is an attempt at change. According to Mr. Mazotta, they are trying to improve the atmosphere in the cafeteria, but really the only way to do that is to change the attitude of the students towards one another.

Students need to show more consideration towards others who follow by cleaning up the mess they've made. The administration, says Mrs. Mazotta, is trying to be understanding in dealing with the situation. The cafeteria is not an unpleasant place. There's a friendly atmosphere there that the administration doesn't want to change, but the place is a mess, and it must change, so they're trying a new approach.

The cafeteria is arranged to create the appearance of four different sections to help with supervision. Each of these sections, consisting of 20 to 25 tables, is designated to several tables. There have been a few schedule changes in order to provide adequate supervision which really didn't exist last semester.

Tables for trays have been set up in each corner of the cafeteria in hopes students will place trays there for the student people to pick up later. They are trying to encourage students to take a tray when they buy a drink.

Overall, Huguen borrows his ideas from Tolkien and other fairy tales, then colors and alters them a bit. His people are small and are never seen by humans, not unlike hobbits. They eat normal foods and when they do come in contact with something out of the ordinary, it is only with nymphs or trolls which have appeared so often in other works.

The role of publisher of the female gnome is markedly male chauvinistic — playing her in the home all day with the sole chore outside of caring for hubby) of raising the family children.

It is not fair to judge Gnomes wholly on its text, since it is just as much a book of illustration. Povrlet, then, makes up twofold for Huguen's basically unimaginative, "blah" descriptions. His work lights up the pages and makes the world of the gnomes very palatable. His consistency in following the text and text descriptions are to his credit.

His illustrations, which are enough temptations in themselves for one to buy and treasure the book always, are disarming at times, and breath taking at others. Never before has illustration been so effective and overwhelming in its usage.

Even the text contains positive and charming highlights. The gnome cafeteria at which students can leave their dirty trays. With the tables set up, no student will ever have to walk more than ten steps to dispose of his used tin here.

MHS Artists Work Cited

The names of local Scholastic Art Awards were published in the Hartford Courant this past Sunday. Manchester High School had a fine showing, as usual.

The awards were as follows:

- Kimberly Holland-First place in a three-dimensional design, Tim O'Brien-Second place in a three-dimensional design (Both recipients of the Frances Felton Memorial Awards), Karn Benson - Senior blue ribbon in textile design, Scott Gaebrie and Diane Popik-Senior places in pottery. Heather Platt and Laurie Turkington-Senior places in jewelry. Elaine Dezzo, Beth Gallup, Dana Gilbert, Kimberly Holland, and Tim O'Brien-Senior blue ribbons in three-dimensional designs, and Grace Jaworski, Chris Nelson, and Bill Nighan-Senior places in the same category.

The awards ceremony will take place at 1 p.m. on Saturday at the Austin Center of Trinity College in Hartford.

Major Mallory is being displayed from February 10 to the 25 at the Austin Center. One of the winners will go on to be entered in national competition. — Patty Shirer

MHS Movie Criticism: 'Force 10 From Navarone'

Are you tired of John Travolta's idiosyncrasy? Have you had enough of the mindless drive of Star Wars? Then this has got to be your movie.

Spectacular scenery, excellent camera work, and superb acting are all quite evident in "Force 10 From Navarone." The movie is based on Alistair MacLean's novel that has the same title and is directed by Guy Hamilton.

The movie is set in 1943. A group of commandos, led by Lieutenant Colonel Barneyes of the U.S. Army Rangers, is about to be sent on a high risk mission.

British intelligence, however, has another job planned in addition to Barneyes's foray. Two British officers are to accompany the commandos to their objective, which lies deep within German-occupied Yugoslavia, and then they're to carry out a mission of their own.

Barneyes doesn't like the idea of a couple of deceitful limes tagging along with his outfit of top-notch Yankee fighters, but orders are to be obeyed, so he doesn't have much of a choice.

The two British officers are Major Mallory and Sergeant Miller. What Lt. Col. Barneyes doesn't know is that these two men are the only survivors of the daring raid that destroyed the menacing guns of Navarone. The two Britons prove to be far from "tag-alongs," and eventually play an integral part in the entire operation.

Major Mallory is portrayed by Robert Shaw, and if you like him as Quint in "Jaws," you'll enjoy his performance immensely in this film. Shaw has most of the clever quips in the movie, and he provides an interesting blend of humor and military efficiency.

Unfortunately, "Force 10 From Navarone" is Shaw's farewell performance. He died shortly after the Student Council Gathers

A student assembly meeting was held last Wednesday night in the high school cafeteria. The turnout seemed to my inexperienced eyes, somewhat sparse. This article, however, is not going to chastise you for your lack of participation in school activities. I, too, am guilty of that, and I'm also tired of hearing about how guilty I should feel. I must admit to share with you some of my first impressions.

Yes, it was my first Student Assembly meeting, horrible as that sounds. I've been attending MHS for a year and a half now, and I've never been to one before. (The guilt grows.) I went to observe; no obligation involved, and I was surprised at the small dedicated group of students who make up Student Assembly. There are about fifteen regular participants, headed by President Bob Saunders.

The discussion involved an imminent fundraiser for Camp Hemlocks, a camp for the handicapped in Hebron, run by the Easter Seal Society, and a possible dance to benefit Andy West's "Run for Muscular Dystrophy" campaign.

The "Guest Panel" then entered the cafeteria in an impressive procession: Principal Ludes, and Vice-Principals Boudo and Miller. They bore a close resemblance to the Godfather and two hitmen, as noted by a student sitting nearby. They came to discuss changes in the MHS Open Campus policy and the newly enforced tardy policy.

The atmosphere was very relaxed and casual. The students felt free not only to speak directly with Mr. Ludes, but also to joke with him. It was in fact, quite a humorous meeting.

I came away from the meeting with fresh confidence in our administration, and the knowledge that we, the students, matter a great deal to Principal Ludes, and his staff. We actually have a say in school affairs! It is a good feeling, and a stimulus for my participation as a full-fledged member of Student Assembly.

Record Deficit Again Recorded

Well, we've done it again. The United States closed out 1978 with another all-time record trade deficit - $28.4 billion...

The rough balance, if you can call it that, just reported by the Commerce Department is subject to some further adjustment as dealings with the rest of the world other than direct exchanges of physical goods are figured in...

But whatever the changes in the final figure, they will not change the basic fact that the United States is deeper in the hole than ever in its economic relationship with the rest of the world.

The problems are a product inflation, continuing to suck foreign goods into the U.S. economy, and are the major factor in the weakness of the dollar in world markets.

So much for the bad news, which we've heard before. The better news is in government forecasts for a slowing of both inflation and economic growth during the current year in the United States...

Whether an effect of a life to turn masses of otherwise law-abiding citizens into willing lawbreakers, there is a serious question as to whether the disadvantages may not outweigh its advantages.

Audit Shows Loose Aid Spending

WASHINGTON - Just about every nation in real or apparent need has received aid from the United States.

The move to return legal speeds to pre-energy crisis limits is in defiance of the federal Transportation Department, which is authorized to cut off highway aid funds to states not conforming to the 55 limit.

The rebellious states, all western and which disregard of the 55 limit has been more widespread than anywhere else in the country, are reported continuing on their numbers to deter contribution from Washington.

The better news is in government forecasts for a slowing of both inflation and economic growth during the current year in the United States...

Whether an effect of a life to turn masses of otherwise law-abiding citizens into willing lawbreakers, there is a serious question as to whether the disadvantages may not outweigh its advantages.

Frederick J. McCormick
MANCHESTER - Frederick J. McCormick, 82, of 274 Bluefield Drive died early this morning at Manchester Memorial Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack at his home. He was the husband of Mrs. Gertrude Fiske Lincoln McCormick.

Mr. McCormick was born Nov. 29, 1896, in Manchester where he lived all his life.

Before his retirement in 1961, he was employed as a carpenter at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, United Technologies Corp., in East Hartford 20 years. He was one of the first life guards at Globe Hollow swimming pool when it first opened in the 1930s.

Other survivors are a son, Frederick W. McCormick of Dallas, Texas; three stepsons, John M. Linnell of Manchester, Michael E. Linnell of Enfield and Robert P. Linnell of East Hartford; two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Gross of Bolton and Mrs. Margaret Treussart of Denville, Iowa; seven step-daughters, Mrs. Elmer Berggren, Mrs. Beverly DeSimone and Mrs. Jeanette Tomlinson, all of Manchester, Mrs. Lilian Acto and Mrs. Patricia Krebs, both of East Hartford, Mrs. Hazel Gustafson of Mansfield, and Mrs. Audrey Laroche of Enfield, four sisters, Mrs. Florence Copeland, Mrs. Betty Stanton and Mrs. Esther Hogen, all of Manchester, and Mrs. Mica Andrea of North Weymouth, Mass.; 31 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

The funeral is Monday at 11 a.m. at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Manchester. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9.

Chester A. Pansullo Sr.
GLASTONBURY - Chester A. Pansullo Sr., 63, of Salmon Brook Drive died Thursday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Blanche Vogel Pansullo.

Mr. Pansullo was born in Hartford and had lived in the Manchester-Glastonbury area most of his life. Before his retirement, he had been employed as a truck driver by several beer distributors in the Hartford area.

He is also survived by three sons, Chester A. Pansullo Jr. of Phoenix, Ariz., Robert Pansullo of Ashford and John Pansullo of New London, a daughter, Mrs. Francis Sullivan of Glastonbury, 15 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral is Saturday at 8:15 a.m. from Fairley-Sullivan Funeral Home, 96 Webster St., Hartford, with a mass at the Cathedral of St. Joseph, Hartford, at 10 a.m. Burial will be in Mount St. Benedict Cemetery, Bloomfield.

Friends may call at the funeral home Friday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Philip Scharr
WEST HARTFORD - Philip Scharr, 78, of 125 Leveque Ave. died Thursday at Hartford Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Mabel Richmond Scharr.

Mr. Scharr was born in Schenectady, N.Y., and lived in the Hartford area the past 60 years. He was an engineer associated with Scharr Industries, Bloomfield.

Other survivors are a son; two daughters, Mrs. Irvin (Merle) Kurtzman of Lynn Windsor and Mrs. Daniel Lynn Sharp of Glastonbury; a brother, a sister, Mrs. Beatrice Zwilling of Vernon and three other sisters, and seven grandchildren.

A private funeral was held today in the Westminster Mortuary, 480 Farmington Ave., West Hartford. Burial was in Fairview Cemetery, West Hartford.

The memorial period will be observed at his home through Tuesday.

Manchester Police Report

MANCHESTER - A color television set, a tape deck and amplifier, valued at $750, were taken from a Rachel Road apartment sometime Thursday. Police said there was no sign of forced entry.

Two television volleyball games were taken from a Beacon Hill apartment which was ransacked during the day Thursday.

A furnace circulation pump was stolen from a home under construction by MAK Construction Co. on Love Lane Wednesday night.

Raymond M. Meyer, 19, of 42 Spring St., Rockville, was charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor Thursday night on Tolland Turnpike. Court date is Feb. 27.

Tom Barber, 21, of Hartford, was arrested on a warrant Thursday on a charge of second degree failure to appear in court. She was presented in court Thursday.

Stephen Penny, chairman of the Board of Directors, asked the town attorney's office to make sure the proposed ban is a proper subject for such an ordinance.

Forester said the three regional transit districts are in need of the state. The New Haven to New York district is pretty well set under the present Conrail speed, providing no federal curbs are made, he said.

"Northern Connecticut and the New London-Groton area would make up the other two districts. The New London-Groton region would need the most work," he said.

"There are now seven rail lines into Hartford that could be improved to create an effective rail hub within a 20-mile radius."

Forester, who helped develop Britain's coastal defense during World War II and repair England's subway during the Blitz, said the state still has a chance to avoid serious problems. But he said that chance decreases daily.

"I'm critical of a race like Boston because major corporations are getting large amounts of commercial advertising and publicity, but they still ask the runners to pay a high entry fee," Rodgers said in Phoenix where he is in training.

Reggers has been speaking up in the best interests of runners, and himself, for a number of years. He dropped out of the local race because the sponsors didn't offer equal treatment for runners.

Officials in Glastonbury 'Understanding' on Water

By CHARLIE MAYNARD
GLASTONBURY - Initial reaction Thursday from town officials to the Manchester Board of Directors' latest proposal was one of understanding.

However, both Town Manager Donald Peach and Town Council Chairman Henry Kinne said all the 270 families in East Glastonbury would be to be examined carefully before any final decision is made.

The council chairman said it's a problem which has to be worked out among the two towns and MDC and MDC are looking at several alternatives. However, he said, the alternatives do not include Rep. Fran Mahoney's proposed legislation allowing Manchester to simply discontinue its water service to the Glastonbury users.

The water service problem emerged in January when Manchester announced plans to bond an estimated $20 million for capital improvements to its distribution system. The improvements have been mandated to conform with the influence of liquor Thursday night on Tolland Turnpike. Court date is Feb. 27.

Tom Barber, 21, of Hartford, was arrested on a warrant Thursday on a charge of second degree failure to appear in court. She was presented in court Thursday.

Zinsser Asks Opinion On Legality of CD Ban

By GREG PEARSON
HERALD REPORTER
MANCHESTER - The town attorney's office has been asked to issue a legal opinion by Tuesday about the proposed Community Development ordinance.

Carl Zinsser, a Republican member of the Town Board of Directors, asked the town attorney's office Tuesday, which is the next time the board meets.

"It told him we would do it by then if we could," Kevin O'Brien, assistant town attorney, said.

The town attorney's office has been asked to issue a decision on the legality of a proposed ordinance that would place a two-year ban on town participation in the Community Development program.

That ordinance was the subject of a petition drive, which obtained signatures from more than 3,000 residents.

Stephen Penny, chairman of the Board of Directors, asked the town attorney's office to make sure the proposed ban is a proper subject for such an ordinance.

Forester said the three regional transit districts are in need of the state. The New Haven to New York district is pretty well set under the present Conrail speed, providing no federal curbs are made, he said.

"Northern Connecticut and the New London-Groton area would make up the other two districts. The New London-Groton region would need the most work," he said.

The Spartans stayed in front, partially due to Johnson's nine free throws in the second half. Iowa was led by 6-foot-10 center Steve Waite, who had 18 points.

The Hawks' Ronnie Lester, the league's leading scorer, fouled out with nearly 10 minutes left. Teammate William Mayfield fouled out with four minutes to go. Michigan State's Jay Vincent also was lost on fouls.

Johns, which had been tied with Ohio State for the Big Ten lead, fell to second place with an 83 conference record and 15-8 mark overall.

Hawkeye Coach Lute Olson praised the Spartan defense, saying it "was a very tough ballgame, especially from the statistics standpoint. They made us press for our shots."

Rodgers Sounds Off
Standing tall on the soap box again and hoping to get his point across is Bill Rodgers, America's leading male marathoner.

Rodgers' latest tirade was directed at sponsors promoters of the Boston Marathon.

The former Wesleyan University grad, who has been an absentee in Manchester's Five Mile Road Race on Thanksgiving the last four years, feels major corporations are cashing in on America's best known marathon.

"I'm critical of a race like Boston because major corporations are getting large amounts of commercial advertising and publicity, but they still ask the runners to pay a high entry fee," Rodgers said in Phoenix where he is in training.

Catholic Girls in Upset As Murphy Sets Record

By LEN AUSTER
HERALD SPORTSWRITER
Led by Monica Murphy's record-setting performance, East Catholic upset Northwest Catholic 67-58, last night at the Eagles' Nest to move into joint possession of second place in the HCC girls' basketball standings.

The 5-foot-7, left-handed shooting sophomore threated the cords for a career and school-record 36 points to lead the Eagles. Murphy, working almost exclusively inside along the baseline, was 16 for 26 from the floor and 4 for 10 from the charity stripe in surpassing the old mark of 29 points, which she set last Thursday in a win over Aquinas.

The triumph boasts the Eagles to 7-2 in conference play, 13-3 overall, and drops the West Hartford-based Catholics.

Northwest moved to within five points, 56-51, with 3:51 left but that's the closest it came. Murphy, working hard off the backboards, netted East's last four buckets to keep Northwest at a distance.

"We were hitting the open player under the boards and we got a couple of outside shots which opened things up," Ridel cited.

"We weren't in shape to get back where we were in the first time," Ridel reflected. "We worked very hard in practice in getting people made one last charge, which proved to be futile. MCC ripped off 10 unanswered points in a one-minute span, 8 by Butler who also had 3 blocked shots, to put the contest away."

Zito added 17 points to the Cougar effort followed by Paul Litke (13) and D.J. Frederick (10). Zito and Thompson each dished out 10 assists as MCC moved the ball crisply, getting the good percentage shot.

Tom Gontarski, who had 41 points in the first class, and Riley paced Mattatuck with 22 and 21 markers respectively.

Manchester (104) Thompson 23 & 3, Zito 7-3-4-17, Butler 17-8-11-2, Frederick 4-2-5-10, P. Litke 6-2-13, Murphy 11-2-13, D. J. MCC's Butler's 42 Points Best Individual Production

Ripping off the first six points, Manchester Community College averaged a last-second loss by whipping Mattatuck Community College, 104-77, last night at East Catholic.

The victory improves the Cougars' mark in the CCCAA basketball standings to 5-5 and 10-9 overall. MCC is at Tunxis Community College Saturday night.

Balanced Scoring Keys Rockets' Win

NEW YORK (UPI) - Without all-star forward Marquis Johnson, the Milwaukee Bucks Thursday night managed to score 129 points on 56 percent shooting from the field and win playdoffs from their coach and compliments from an opposing player.

The Bucks' appearance in any race would help attract thousands of spectators.

They also managed to lose their sixth straight game.

They didn't have an inside game tonight - only their great outside shooting made it close," said Barry, who also dished out 13 assists.

With Johnson out with a mild respiratory ailment, Junior Bridgeman picked up part of the slack with a season-high 36 points. But that day, may not be in the too distant future when money will be made available to lure the biggest names in road racing.

While their baseball paths didn't cross on the diamond, Stanley "Mickey" Katkaveck and Hank Aaron came face to face last night in Waycross, Ga.

Katkaveck, a native of Manchester and a fine all-around athlete who made it all the way up the baseball ladder from Class D to Triple A - one step below the major leagues - in the St. Louis Cardinal farm system as a catcher, was the recipient of the first J.J. Jones Humanitarian Award in Waycross.

Aaron, baseball's all-time home run king, was the principal speaker. Before the night ended, Katkaveck produced a baseball, autographed by Babe Ruth when the two played in an exhibition game with the Savit

Katkaveck left baseball in 1950 to assume his current position as recreation director in Waycross. Katkaveck was singled out for his contributions in organizing the city and country recreation program that developed into a model for the state and nation.

Danielson Woman Fights Haunted House Proposal

DANIELSON (UPI) — Norma Collin says she will fight her community's planned haunted house fundraiser because it is "scripturally wrong" and especially harmful to children in an already troubled world.

She said Thursday she wants other people to join her in asking her employer, the Windham Area Community Action program, to scrap the project which hopes to raise money by opening a "haunted" house which children can visit around Halloween.

From the many children I've talked to and seen, she says, they are not interested in a "haunted" house but rather in something that would help them in their own lives.

She also said the fundraiser is wrong for an "emotionally and psychologically stressed world," especially children.

It supports the occult," Mrs. Collin said. "The affects might very well lead into the occult and black magic arts in some instances."

For the haunted house fundraiser, she said the agency would lease or have a large house donated for the project in the rural northeast corner of the state. Children could visit it for about 10 days around Halloween.

She suggests that the agency instead create what she terms a better, more creative type of fundraiser that would involve the entire family, such as a Fourth of July celebration or a music festival, like the agency sponsored two years ago.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren
'From Whence' Comes Offense
DEAR ABBY: You wrote, "Ten weeks for me with a stack of Presbyterian Outlooks, from whence can you get 'from whence'?"

Peanuts - Charles M. Schulz
'GOOD EVENING, MISS BONSOIR, MADEMOISELLE!'
'MAY I INVITE YOU TO DANCE? PLEASE, I'D LOVE TO INVITE A DANCER? YOU DANCE VERY WELL, NOUS DANSEZ TRÈS BIEN!'
BONSOIR, MONSIEUR
RATS! I SWALLOWED MY PHRASE BOOK!

Captain Easy - Crooks & Lawrence
IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO CHANGE YOUR MIND!
NO USE! I TOLD YOU BEFORE PRISON. I'M NOT THE MARSHALING MAN. WE'RE ALL HERE TO STAY! YOU AREN'T EITHER!

Alley Oop - Dave Graue
BOY, YOU REALLY LOOK CARE OF OK!
I TOLD YOU BEFORE, I KNOW FOR A FACT THAT I'M NOW A SUPER PERSON!

The Flintstones - Hanna Barbera Productions
POST OFFICE
IS THIS FRAGILE?
NO! YOU CAN THROW IT OVERBOARD IF YOU WANT TO!

Winthrop - Dick Cavalli
I DON'T THINK TELEVISION IS MAKING FULL USE OF THE GARGOYLES' ABILITIES.
I THINK THEY SHOULD MAKE THEM AWAKE OF THE GARGOYLES' SHOW!

Short Ribs - Frank Hill
CLANG
EXCUSE ME.
I SHAMPOOED MY PLUME AND CAN'T DO A THING WITH IT!

Bugs Bunny - Melndahl & Stoffel
VA! LOVE THIS APARTMENT. IT IS RIGHT.
THERE'S A GREAT VIEW OF THE MOON'S DEVELOPMENT GOIN' UP NEXT DOOR.
