That's Entertainment Stage Fact and Fantasy

By ALLEN M. WIDEM
Theatre, the out-and-out buff, aficionado — call him or her what you will, the living expressiveness of prime import, prime impact — in Herdiland and elsewhere, can be said to be the continuing link between fact and fantasy. While motion pictures and television can provide a more permanent record, perhaps a capable, credible, competent crew, most especially leading principals and directorial talent, can make of a stage musical classic something that is at once immediate and impressive. Meredith Willson wrote "The Music Man" more than 20 years ago for Broadway. With Robert Preston and Barbara Cook, this strikingly sentimental story about boy-meets-girl, boy-loses-girl, boy-gets-girl against a backdrop of Iowa setting before World War One, hit a responsiveness that carried the show to Hollywood (Robert Preston again, Shirley Jones was his co-star) — yes, Shaun Cassidy's "Shogun".
The very timelessness of romantic dalliance is at the crux of "The Music Man" and, let it be noted straightaway, that Sam and Ruth Belkin's newly-arrived production at their Coachlight Dinner Theatre Breakout will provide intimacy with pinpointed accuracy. There's a tilt to the evening, a bounce to the

Upcoming Visit Puts Village In Limelight

(L)ILICO EL GRANDE, Mexico City — Not many people had ever heard of the town of Ixtitlico de Grande until the White House announced that President Carter would visit it next Thursday. On the other hand, plenty of local residents didn't know who Jimmy Carter was either. But when informed who was coming, the townspeople burst into enthusiastic preparations. They set to repairing the red tile roofs and painting the facades of their shacks and houses and in general refurbishing the small town. Ixtitlico de Grande, a quiet and tropical farming town of 3,500 persons 100 miles southeast of Mexico City and 55 miles southeast of the resort city of Cuernavaca, does not show on most maps of Mexico and is not even listed in standard gazetteers. But it has been here 100 years. "We are very happy that he is coming, although we really don't know who he is," said 18-year-old grocery clerk Rode Cortes. "Anyway, we are getting ready to give him a beautiful welcome just like the ones we give the governor of our state of Morelos." Other villagers echoed the youth's remarks and added that they all felt very proud that their town had been chosen above many others "much one knows where the town is and the closest reference on the map is Jonacatepec, about 15 miles away. From Jonacatepec, one proceeds on the road to Izucar de Matamoros which eventually leads either to Puebla or Tlaxcala. Suddenly, on the far side of a ravine there is a town sign which says: "Ixtitlico de Grande, 6 kilometers" and points to the right. Then it is four more miles of rough, unimproved road along which farmers are busily collecting onions. Just before one arrives, the road dips down steeply to cross the Tepalcingo River and then goes up to the main downtown area of Ixtitlico, an adventure itself. Practically no allow us, we will ask President Carter to help us out with our sewage system, paving of the road leading into Ixtitlico and a list of other things," he added. The town has electricity, running water and a health center but it lacks a sewage system. Carter is scheduled to visit this town on the second day of his three-day visit to Mexico. The president will fly in on a helicopter about midday, tour the village and eat lunch with some 50 peasants and 100 school-children at the town's square before returning to Mexico City. Getting to Ixtitlico de Grande, which means "place of the wide dark eyes" in the Nahuatl Indian tongue, is an adventure itself. Practically no

Importance of HUD Grant Stressed

To the editor:
On Jan. 24 the Manchester Housing Authority announced that it had rejected an offer of a grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to build up to 150 apartments for poor families with two to four bedrooms each. "We need low-income housing," said the executive director, "but we don't need this kind of housing."

Thoughts

"Take heart, stand up, he is calling you." (Mark 10:46-52)
Some of our readers are blind persons. Have you who have sight ever thought much about blindness? Not being able to see the beauty and reality around you - yet knowing it is there? Everything is dark in your world, yet you know that light exists.

light? Why are we content to remain spiritually handicapped? We do not even have to shout as Bartimaeus did. All we have to do is whisper somewhere deep within, "Lord, that I may receive my sight." Are you sitting in darkness? Listen! Can't you hear a voice saying, "Take heart, stand up, he is calling you."
"The love full of kindness Hath milk and honey given.
O heart, my mortal blindness, Open thy eyes upon heaven.
And fix my heart on heaven."

The Almanac

Today is Saturday, Feb. 10, the 151st day of 1979 with 234 to follow.
The moon is between its first quarter and a full moon.
The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.
The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.
American journalist William Allen White was born on Feb. 10, 1868.
Durante (1893) and Robert Wagner (1900) also were born on this date.
On this day in history:
In 1942, the American auto industry shut down its civilian car assembly lines for the duration of World War II and converted to military production.

In 1962, U-2 spy plane pilot Francis Gary Powers was returned to the United States in exchange for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel.
In 1964, an Australian aircraft carrier and a U.S. destroyer collided in the Tasman Sea, killing 100 American naval men.
In 1974, Britain's 360,000 miners went on strike in wage dispute.
A thought for the day: Kansas journalist William Allen White said, "Consistency is a paste jewel that only cheap men cherish."

29 percent of the homeowners and 53 percent of the renters. (It is also the bracket favored by HUD regulation for choosing members on the Community Development Advisory Committee.) Anyone supporting the referendum to suspend the Community Development Program should be aware that they are writing off the needs and efforts of the federal government to service them, of more than a third of Manchester's population. Politicians should take heed of those votes they will be soliciting in the coming elections.

"Low- and moderate-income" has still another, and higher, definition, for another housing program yet to be discussed in Manchester, the Section 225 program for the construction of new homes for eligible, prospective homeowners. Given current economic conditions, and the limits of the program, this ownership today generally takes the form of a subsidized condominium or cooperative. Because the income limits here are higher, $14,400 for a family of two, $18,000 for a family of four and $22,500 for a family of eight, this program would be open to even a larger segment of Manchester's population, 46 percent made up of 38 percent of the town's homeowners and 64 percent of its renters.

This HUD subsidized program does not depend on the existence of a Community Development activity, but can be initiated by any organization or private developer and be provided subsidies for dwelling units up to $52,000 in value. An ongoing Community Development activity can, nevertheless, assist materially in spurring the initiation of such new housing construction.
The opponents of the CD program, and unfortunately some of the supporters as well, are diverting the attention of the electorate by concentrating on the alleged "strings" of the CD program, actually trivialities when the main thrust of the program is considered. There are no "strings" to the CD program. There is only one goal clearly stated in the statutory provisions of the Act: "The housing and Community Development Act states as its primary objective the development of a viable urban community, by providing decent housing and a suitable living environment and expanding economic opportunities, principally for persons of low- and moderate-income."
The act then proceeds to elucidate the rules of the program beginning with: "Consistent with the statutory objectives, the following rules

Mortality and survivorship also differ substantially with race, again a difference that has persisted throughout the century. Whites live on the average of 5.2 years longer than nonwhites. This inequality in mortality rates is greatest during infancy and early life and again at ages 24-44, when a nonwhite is twice as likely to die as a white. The difference tapers off during mid-life to the point where nonwhites actually enjoy a lower rate of mortality than whites after age 75.

By MONROE LERNER
Perhaps humanity's greatest achievement in the endless quest to control nature is our success in reducing mortality and increasing the average duration of our lifetimes. This success was particularly marked for Western society in the mid-17th century and, for the entire world, in the second one-third of the 20th, when a substantial proportion of the world's population began to live well beyond the economically productive years and to enjoy many years of retirement.
These gains in longevity, however, have not been uniform for all elements of our population. In the United States, for example, whites have benefited more than nonwhites, women more than men, suburbanites more than the urban poor. Nevertheless, the striking changes in the average age at which people die and in the causes of their deaths have profound implications for our society.

Next week Dr. Eric J. Cassell of Cornell University Medical School explores a major philosophical change brought about by advances in medical technology.
About the Author
Monroe Lerner is a professor in the Department of Health Services Administration of the School of Hygiene and Public Health of The Johns Hopkins University. A sociologist, he also teaches in the Department of Behavioral Sciences and the Department of the History of Ideas. A frequent consultant to various city, state, and federal agencies on matters of health care, he is coauthor of "Health Progress in the United States, 1900-1960."

The death rates for nonwhites is higher for all major causes of death, but especially for hypertension, cerebrovascular diseases, kidney diseases, and homicide; however, nonwhites have a lower suicide rate.
Certain high-mortality groups in this country also suffer from higher mortality rates than others. The United States is considered here as a whole. The unique life styles: a white-collar middle class, blue-collar workers, and the poor.
The middle class generally lives in suburbs and the better areas of cities. Most blue-collar workers - those in mass production and service industries - live in cities; in addition, because they generally resemble them in life style, lower-level salespeople and clerks, as well as small farmers, rural nonfarm people, and small-towners are included here with blue-collar. Finally, the poor include many in both large city ghettos and rural areas.
Studies of mortality in Maryland, a state much like the country as a whole, show that suburbanites and Baltimore middle class, as well as its blue-collar workers and even the rural poor, have substantially lower mortality than the urban poor, from infancy to old age.

Declining Mortality Rate
Paralleling the increase in life expectancy, the mortality rate - the number of deaths per 1,000 population - declined sharply. In 1900 it was 17.2, but by 1977 it reached a low point of 8.7, nearly half the earlier rate. However, even this understates the "true" decline because the older population, for whom death is more likely, has increased relative to the total. Adjusted for age, mortality declined by about 65 percent during the 20th century.
By age, mortality is relatively high during infancy, drops to a low at ages 5-14, and then peaks at the upper ages. Between 1900 and today the largest relative declines occurred during infancy and childhood. The declines at the older ages were also very substantial.

Questions:
1. What is the average life expectancy in the United States today?
2. What accounted for the rapid increase in life expectancy between 1927 and 1965?
3. What three factors must be considered in estimating human longevity?
4. Between what ages can we expect the lowest mortality rate?
Answers:
1. Almost 73 years.
2. Discovery of sulfa drugs and penicillin.
3. Race, sex, and income.
4. Between the ages of 5 and 14.

New Churches Planned
In 1973, the 18-member United Church of Christ started three, maybe four, new churches. This year, however, the liberal, mainline denomination hopes to start a minimum of 25 new congregations. And, according to Howard Sprague, executive vice president and chief executive office of the UCC's Board for Homeland Ministries, that is just a beginning. The denomination has embarked on an ambitious five-year plan of new church development that looks to a minimum of 25 new churches each year.
About half of those new churches will be in the Sun Belt area where the denomination's regional jurisdictions have embarked on a "Sun Belt strategy" of cooperation in church development.

In the late 1960s and early 1960s, Sprague said, "there were some starts and some retreating of existing congregations, but really, the social concerns took over."
Nor will the new emphasis on church development mean an end to the concern with social issues, Sprague said.
The UCC stress, said Sprague, will involve several new black churches, Spanish-American churches and a Formosan congregation on the West Coast.

Women Subject to Stress Because They're Female

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Women are subject to stress in their lives just by virtue of being female, a counselor told a group of women at the Manchester Community College Women's Center this week.

The women quickly agreed with Carolyn Walker, who runs her own counseling agency, Women Associates, in Hartford. The women had no trouble in finding causes for stress in their lives which ranged from birthdays to finances to unfair treatment in their jobs and at home.

Ms. Walker said, "Any group which is subject to discrimination always is in some low grade stress situation." She included women in those groups. She said stress can be a problem for persons who invest a lot of energy in seeking approval, or those who are dealing with repressed anger. The latter situation is commonly called depression.

Being lied to "can cause a lot of stress, anger and anxiety, especially because there is nothing you can do about it," Ms. Walker said.

One stress situation named by Ms. Walker which surprised some of the women was shyness. Ms. Walker said that "Shyness is a disease at epidemic proportions now." She said there is much stress for the shy person whenever he or she has to go to work, school, a doctor, or in any kind of interacting with people. "A shy person is better able to deal with a loved one dying," Ms. Walker said. She noted that a lot of persons are leaders because they are trying to hide their shyness. They talk a lot," Ms. Walker said she finds that about half of persons in leadership roles are subject to shyness.

Other causes of stress offered by Ms. Walker included "cleaning up the mess so you can make decisions." "You've got to take some of it out of your insides," she also said.

She pointed out that the stress has "nothing to do with the other person. It has to do with your reaction."

Ms. Walker encouraged the women to identify their phobias, or irrational fears, and ask why those situations are threatening.

Other techniques suggested for dealing with stress included identifying the situation and looking at the reasons. "Remember that you're going to survive, whether you like it or not," Ms. Walker also said.

Part of the solution may be coming

Some woman added, "You don't always know the reason." Ms. Walker said it is important to distinguish between avoidable and unavoidable stress situations. "In some situations, you can stop the stress from occurring," she said.

Other solutions for dealing with stress, Ms. Walker recommended were taking assertive training and relaxation exercises, and being aware of what's happening physically in stressful situations.

"Why is a discussion on stress relevant for women?" Ms. Walker asked. Women are still the object of discrimination in their jobs, schools and in admission to organizations, she said.

Ms. Walker told the women that it is important to "be yourself wherever you are. You have to come up with self-acceptance." She suggested asking questions such as, "What do I need? What am I responding to? Is it threat that I'm losing this?"

Risley Dam No Immediate Danger

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The dam at Risley Reservoir is in need of some repairs, but there is no immediate danger of any serious mishap, a soon-to-be-released report says.

The earth dam at the reservoir was inspected more than a year ago by the Army Corps of Engineers as part of a nationwide dam inspection program.

The report from the engineers group still has not been released but it should be soon, E.P. Gould, project manager for the corps national dam inspection program, said.

"There is no emergency situation,"

Gould said of the dam. The Army Corps of Engineers will have recommendations for repairs and improvements, including work on the spillway at the dam, he said. None of the improvements are ones that must be made immediately to prevent a dam failure, however, he said.

The dam holds back the water of the Risley Reservoir, which is used as a supply for the Town of Manchester's drinking water system.

The reservoir actually is in Vernon. It is off Lake Street near the point where the Bolton, Vernon and Manchester town lines converge.

Town and state officials accurately had surmised that nothing was seriously wrong with the dam because of the length of time it has taken for the Army Corps of Engineers to report.

"If they were seriously concerned, they would have gotten back to us by now," Victor Galgowski, superintendent of dam maintenance for the state Department of Environmental Protection, said.

Jay Giles, Manchester's director of public works, had made a similar comment at a Tuesday night public hearing.

Galgowski said the spillway at the dam is inadequate and probably will need some renovation. He said Manchester does monitor the dam and spillway during heavy rains, such as those that occurred last month.

Gould confirmed that the Army Corps of Engineers make immediate contact when a serious problem is found with a dam. Otherwise, the information on proposed improvements is released with the report. That report should be coming to the town and the state within a few weeks, he said.

The question of ownership of the dam still has not been resolved. The town and a private resident, John Risley, both have ownership rights to the dam itself, although the town does own the reservoir. The state attorney general's office and the town attorney's office are working to resolve the ownership question, which is seen as a complicated one by those involved.

VERNON — Phil C. Hopen of Vernon was the recent winner of $20,000 in the Connecticut State Lottery program.

Hopen bought himself a Christmas present of a subscription ticket which he won.

He is a disabled veteran having served in the U.S. infantry in Italy during World War II. He plans to move to Lenox, Mass. next fall.

Hosts at Lutz MANCHESTER — Mr. and Mrs. John Papa of 87 Waranoke Road will be host and hostess at the Lutz Junior Museum, 136 Cedar St., Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. The public is invited. Admission is free.

Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN
Hi! Well, I must say our Florida travelers knew just when to take off, because they left Friday morning, leaving behind them bitter cold weather and a few inches of snow. They didn't exactly leave the snow, because I'm sure they'll see some as they move through Washington, D.C., and on to Virginia.

We, the unfortunate ones, wish them a very enjoyable and successful trip and will be looking forward to their safe return some 13 days from now.

This month is what is known as worker's delight because we celebrate two super birthdays, Lincoln and Washington. What does that mean? Only that we will be celebrating the new two Mondays, giving us that long weekend to do our thing. How about that?

Don't forget. Starting Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. and on Fridays at 10 a.m. for the next few weeks we have our exercise class. Bring a comfortable pair of shoes (sneakers) if you have them and dress comfortably. For the ladies, slacks would be the best. It's all free, so drop by and have a little fun as you keep in shape.

Our annual variety show is now forming and this Sunday will be the final day for new people to try out. We had a nice turnout last Sunday and were happy to see a number of new faces. We have room for more drop by. You'll enjoy it. I'm sure. Rehearsal starts at 2 o'clock this week.

Action at the center starts with our Tuesday afternoon Senior Bowling League at the Parkside Lanes with the following results: Class A high triple, Sue Purcell 465; Ivar Johnson 549; high singles, Blanche Brown 183, Norma Lander 212, Class B high triple, Bert Clulow 319; Anthony Golas 470; high single, Bert Clulow 131, Anthony Golas 170.

We had a nice turnout for our oil painting class and next Tuesday will be the last day for newcomers.

On Wednesday, because our large bus spent the day in the hospital and the threat of the storm, we had only 28 players for pinocle. The winners: Gladys Seelert 609, Al Gates 608, Bass Moon 577, Mina Reuther 575, Martin Bakstan 559, Archie Houghtaling 559, Joseph Carline 554.

We had a nice turnout for our Friendship Circle and also for our crewel embroidery class. We could use a few more in this class. If you're interested, just show up at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Because of the threatening weather we postponed the bridge games and our craft class broke up a little early.

'Sad' Irons Didn't Mean Emotional State

By Russ MacKendrick

The item on the left is a plain garden variety sad iron, the one on the right is the famous Mrs. Potts sad iron made by the Colebrookdale Company of Pennsylvania.

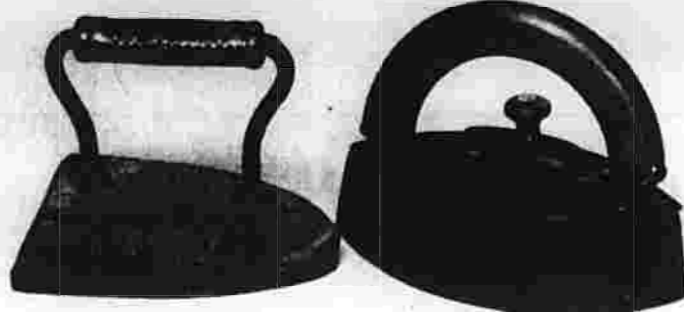

The Potts version with its removable wooden handle usually came in a set of three together with a metal stand. The irons were of slightly different sizes — perhaps running from four to six pounds.

The "sad" does not refer to an emotional state. Away back in the mists of language, it meant the same as heavy or solid. A sad iron is to be distinguished from any of the box or other hollow type irons.

We see in an old catalog that there was a rival for Mrs. Potts' irons that had a straight removable handle. The ad blurb for this pointed to the fact it could not be accidentally detached. The handle of the knob which lifts a projection to free the agine the fire results if it slipped out in transit in the absence of safety shoes.

Another handle offered, to replace the Potts type, was asbestos-lined — "the coolest handle made."

The collecting of irons is neglected by the Kovelers in their "Complete Antiques Price List," but a very good article by Ann Bland appeared in a 1978 copy of the stand. They should be around somewhere waiting to be "collected." And watch your feet!

Postal Offering
The U.S. Postal Service is offering a hardcover book entitled "The Prominent American Mint Set." It has mini-biographies of the individuals pictured together with one each of the mint stamps. This is the 1965-1968 series that starts with the 1-cent Jefferson and ends with the $5 John Bassett Moor. The joker is that no one thought to lay in a supply of the 14-cent Gallitans or the 6-cent Roosevelt so we will have to scratch those up for ourselves if we buy the book. The reported price for the volume and the stamps is $12.00.

Antique Trader Weekly
The author names some reference books: "Antique Sad Irons," by Opal M. Bowlin (1965); "The Evolutions of the Sad Iron," A.H. Glissman (1970), and "Antique Irons," by Gerald J. Rubin (1972).

As far back as the 16th century they had a charcoal iron in Europe. It was a metal box with a handle and chimney. The charcoal pellets were kindled somehow, then kept burning within to keep the iron hot — no doubt adding a quantum of monoxide to the atmosphere. Later versions used kerosene, gasoline (!), natural gas or alcohol.

The manufacture of irons in this country began about 1770. There was a hollow lidless type that depended for heat on metal slugs inside that were changed when they cooled.

When stoves replaced fireplaces, someone got the idea to cast irons in solid pieces and heat them on the stove.

These were the first sad irons. They had to be manipulated with something like a pathholder. Then after the mid-1800's came the Mrs. Potts' improvement we see here. Don't be satisfied with anything less than a full matched set of Mrs. Potts sad irons with the handle and 3-legged metal

Hoffman Is Buyer Of Car Dealership

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Motor Sales Inc. land and buildings have been bought by Burt Hoffman, owner of East Hartford's Hoffman Oldsmobile Inc., who paid $852,000 at a court-ordered auction Jan. 30.

Hoffman was represented at the auction by his attorney, Jeffrey Mines, who at that time refused to reveal the name of his client.

Hoffman is an Oldsmobile dealer at 700 Connecticut Blvd., East Hartford. He also operates Hoffman Porsche Audi and is a dealer of Rolls Royce.

Hoffman has not said how he will use the facility at 512 W. Center St., which was formerly used as an Oldsmobile and Mazda auto dealership and service department. The building is surrounded by a large parking lot. Hoffman is on vacation and could not be reached for comment. His attorney was also unavailable for comment.

The Manchester Motor Sales Inc. is a 44-year-old auto dealership started by Robert Schaller, was up ordered put up for auction because the former owner and son of the founder William R. Schaller, had run into financial difficulty. His debts amounted to $786,000 which included local property taxes, state sales tax, bank mortgages and $100,000 to the estate of his father, the late Robert Schaller.

The Heritage Savings & Loan Co., which held the mortgage on the motor sales facility, foreclosed when the debt owed them reached $375,000. Heritage was the only other bidder for the dealership's property at the auction. AS holder of the first mortgage, the bank is entitled to first receipt of proceeds from the foreclosure sale.

Foreclosure of the property won't occur until the court which ordered the sale approves the high bid, which was Hoffman's. The court was scheduled to review the auction's results today.

Ecology Panel Invites Commons Developer

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The Conservation Commission has agreed to invite a representative of MAP Associates, developers of the proposed Buckland Commons, to a future meeting to explain their plans for open space at the new shopping plaza.

MAP Associates gave a presentation of the planned development a few years ago to the Conservation Commission, but the commission wants to hear the group's updated plans. The commission is concerned with that open space in that area be a top priority, and that a quarry in the area be preserved for historical reasons.

"This is going to have more impact on Manchester than anything that has happened in Manchester," commissioner Frank Sheldon said, referring to the proposed shopping development in northwest Manchester.

The commission also considered sending representatives to a meeting Tuesday night at Hill Junior High School when Michael Dworkin, an environmental advocate, will meet with the South Windsor Conservation Commission to organize a protest against the proposed Buckland Commons.

In other business, the commission discussed the possibility that the Sheltered Workshop might take over the paper recycling station at the town landfill off Olcott Street.

"They're looking for sustaining, stable work," said Jay Giles, public works director, and as he explained that the clients would also get paid for working on the project.

Commissioner Frank Sheldon remarked that if the handicapped ran the recycling station, there might be better reaction from the public than from Lydall Inc., which supplies the trailer to collect the papers on the site.

Hebron Education Board Starts Reducing Budget

At its next meeting it plans to discuss the possible deletion of one classroom teacher. This requires formal board action and the teacher would have to be notified by March 1.

The board has also voted to return students participating in the Area Special Education Association program and to establish one classroom in the Gilead Hill School for this purpose.

In connection with this move the board also voted to hire one learning disabilities teacher and an aide and to buy supplies to start this class. This move reduced the transportation and tuition accounts in the proposed budget by a total of $38,018.

Other reductions were made in the following accounts: Substitute teachers, $2,500; Summer activities, $380; cafeteria aide position, $2,700; medical life insurance account, $4,000; unemployment compensation, $2,000; local in-service programs, $300; psychological services, $400 and snow removal, $300.

Also: Regular transportation, $3,550; meetings and conferences, $500; postage, $400; advertising, $100 and several other small amounts.

The board also made a few additions to the budget during its review. It added $11,007 for the learning disabilities teacher and $3,300 for the aide plus $1,000 for transportation for special education students; $1,440 for special education tuition fees; $1,000 for instructional supplies and $500 for textbooks and $500 for paint.

Bulb's Birthday

It was just 100 years ago that Thomas Edison gave us the universal symbol of modern technology, the electric light bulb. Preparing for the 132nd anniversary of the great inventor's birth on Feb. 11, Robert Kookakian, keeper of the Menlo Park laboratory complex at Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Mich., inspects a display of early Edison bulbs. Henry Ford moved the entire Edison lab from New Jersey to Dearborn in 1928, forming the nucleus of a 260-acre historic compound dedicated to Edison. (UPI photo)

Vernon Mayor Missing One Commission Report

VERNON — On request of Mayor Frank McCoy, several town boards and commissions have filed quarterly reports with the Mayor's Office for the past quarter.

However, it was noted at the Town Council meeting Monday that the report of the Economic Development Commission (EDC) was conspicuous by its absence.

The mayor said while all other boards were asked to file quarterly reports the EDC had been asked to file monthly reports "but I haven't seen any yet," he said.

He said the matter is getting serious and he will talk with commission members and report back to the council.

The Planning Commission noted that it held four meetings in the past quarter. The Nov. 29 meeting was a public hearing to explain the town's application for the 1979 Community Development Block Grant funding to get citizen input.

At another meeting the commission acted on several Town Council referrals and made recommendations concerning a drainage easement to KKR Association on Route 30 and the sale of land to the state Department of Transportation for widening Interstate 86 in front of the Vernon Elementary School on Route 30.

The Traffic Authority reported it acted on a variety of matters during the quarter. These included traffic changes, crosswalk requests, street light requests, parking problems at various locations, various road sign

Jobless Claims Decline

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) - The number of workers filing for unemployment benefits in Connecticut dropped by about 3,000 for the two-week period ending Feb. 3. Labor Commissioner P. Joseph Peraro said Friday. The latest statistics show an average of 47,569 state residents filed for unemployment checks. Peraro said new claims filed with the state decreased during the latest period, dipping from 7,876 a week to 5,547. He said continued claims also dipped from 43,067 to 41,822. An average of 1,454 of those who filed for benefits were out of work because of seasonal closings, the commissioner said. Another 246 persons lost their benefits because of expiration limits each week during the latest period. The rate of continued claims, which is the number of persons reporting was 2.4 percent, an increase from a 2.2 percent rate in late January, Peraro said.

MCC Offers Tax Advice

MANCHESTER - Assistance in preparing federal income tax returns is now available free of charge at Manchester Community College. Under a program developed by the Internal Revenue Service called Volunteers Income Tax Assistance (VITA), members of the MCC Accounting Club, the MCC Administrative Management Society and Manchester chapters of AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) are volunteering their time and knowledge to provide this service. The program is available to anyone, but it is primarily intended to provide assistance for retired people, students and others who would not normally use professional income tax services. Those interested should bring appropriate financial records to the Hartford Road Campus of Manchester Community College. The service is offered Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Room H103, and Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9 p.m. in the main office of the Hartford Road Building. With the exception of state holidays and spring vacation (March 19-23) when there are no classes at MCC, the service will be offered through April 13. Volunteers from AARP and MCC who are working as preparers have attended training sessions provided by the IRS and funded this year for the first time by the federal government. Patricia Long and Alan Gates, members of the MCC Business Careers Division faculty and coordinators of the VITA Program for the college are supervising the preparers. Twenty-one business students and three faculty members will participate in VITA. The University of Bridgeport, through its Law School, Business School and Language Department, is also participating in the VITA Program. The University of Connecticut Law School and Yale Law School are presently considering participating. Persons wanting to avail themselves of the free VITA service at MCC may park in the regular student parking lot adjacent to the Hartford Road Building. No appointments are necessary. Further information may be obtained by calling Ms. Long or Gates at 646-4900, ext. 205.

Panel To Prepare Report

HEBRON - The Water Pollution Control Authority, after a lengthy discussion, has voted to establish a committee to draw up a recommendation which will be presented to the Board of Selectmen for action. During a previous meeting, the authority had voted to recommend that the Town of Hebron retain the engineering firm of Consulting Environmental Engineers (CEE) to draw up a 201 Facilities plan in accordance with an abatement order served on the town by the state. The primary reason for the recent discussion was because the committee members were told of the receipt of a letter from another firm which had been a finalist during its considerations. This was the Center for the Environment and Man. In a letter to First Selectman Aaron Reid, the agency said, "We have been notified that the Hebron Water Pollution Control Authority has made a recommendation that CEM not be awarded a contract to conduct the Hebron 201 study despite our substantial record of achievement for other clients in this area and despite the fact that our bid was $40,000 lower than the approximately $100,000 bid by the other contending proposer. CEM further said, 'In the light of this substantial difference in price and the effectively even rating in the

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

No Wedding Bells, No Wedding Bills

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, Karla, is 20, and Bill, her boyfriend, is 22. They've been together for nearly two years and have just announced that they plan to live together for a year. Then, if they are compatible, they'll get married.

Bill's parents seem to approve of this, but I do not. It's immoral and that they would be living in sin. My husband doesn't really approve of the idea, but says it doesn't work out it will be easier on Karla than a divorce.

Abby, I say if Karla and Bill love each other and want to live together they should get married now! Karla is the youngest of three daughters. Her sisters both had beautiful church weddings without any "compatibility tests" beforehand, and they are happily married. I promised Karla a lovely church wedding, too, but told her if her life with Bill for a year, a wedding would be a mockery, and not to expect us to give her one. Am I wrong to feel this way?

SYRACUSE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You are entitled to feel any way you wish, but children who are of age (and self-supporting) have a right to determine their own lifestyles. If you believe a church wedding would be a mockery, it's your right to refuse to host the bill for one.

DEAR ABBY: Someone asked your whose name should be listed first, the man's or woman's, when couples sign something. You said "Ladies first," but I think the reverse is true. I've made a list of some famous couples, and found many more in which the man's name comes first. Examples: Adam and Eve, Romeo and Juliet, Sonny and Cher, Napoleon and Josephine, Donny and Marie, Anthony and Cleopatra, William and Mary (the college), Punch and Judy, Burns and Allen, Jack and Jill.

On the other hand, I could come up with very few famous couples in which the woman's name is mentioned first. Names: Nancy and Clyde, Frankie and Johnny, Maggie and Jiggs. How come?

EDIN VAIN NUY

DEAR ED: Whose you're right, you're right. Beasie me. Readers.

DEAR ABBY: This is not a prank, I have heard there is a place in Texas where I could send created ashes to be made into pottery. If there is such a place, one's ashes would not have to be kept in a container and possibly lost. My husband's ashes would be cremated, and the would be an ideal solution for our remains. Can you help us, please?

MAKING PLANS

DEAR MAKING: I am not aware of such a place. But if one exists, I'd surely be interested.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's books! "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," $6.95 and "Long Stamped 25 cent, self-addressed envelopes to Abby," $2.95. Larky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212

Today's article is the 200th Jacoby article for Newspaper Enterprise Association.

Seventy-six year old Oswald Jacoby hopes to go to at least 100, including turning the column over to younger writers. Of course, he asks a lot of help from young Alan Sontag, as well as from his wife, Mary Zita and his son James.

Today we see the A for Analyze the lead at work to insure the success of South's four-club contract.

A heart lead would give the defense one heart, one club and two diamonds. But West elected to open his fourth-best diamond.

It doesn't take much analysis of the lead to place the ace of diamonds over the East hand. South sees that if he rises with dummy's king, East will take it and West will lead back a low diamond. This will give West time to lead a heart before South can set up 20,000 cards on clubs.

Therefore, South simply plays low on that first diamond. East can cash two diamonds, but nothing can keep West from getting his ace of clubs, but there will be no heart trick for the defense.

Still on the Road

Bob Hope Maintains a Hectic Schedule

By DAN LEWIS

"I can't believe I'm 75," Bob Hope declared. "I'm working better, and having more fun than I ever have had."

He's still spry and active. Collect three people on a corner, and Hope will perform. At least he says he will. He finds performing irresistible. It has hardly ever been a chore for him.

He flew into Miami for a one-night engagement recently. On the way from the airport to the hotel, he noticed the name of an old-time comic and friend, Gene Baylos, on the marquee at a motel. Hope called the motel, told them he was coming in to see the late show and reserved a table.

When he arrived, deliberately disruptive in the middle of Baylos's act, Hope walked immediately to the stage and kibitzed with his old-time friend and fellow comic. It was an added, free show for the handful of people in the audience.

The next night, Hope received more than $30,000 for appearing at a posh hotel in Miami Beach.

"Hell, it's a lot of fun," Hope said. "I walk on stage at 10 o'clock, do a lot of talking, some singing, fake a few dance steps and have a ball for about an hour. Then I walk off stage, right to the waiting limousine, and either to the hotel or the airport."

"I play golf every day - weather permitting - on the road or when I'm home," he confided. "It's like a perpetual vacation."

The miracle of the space age makes it possible for him to play his one-night concerts at opposite ends of the country, north or south, east or west, frequently on consecutive nights.

Bob Hope continues to do one special a month for NBC-TV. His next show will air in March.

He manages more than 100 one-nighters a year.

He'll also deliver to NBC eight and one-half hours of television specials by the end of the regular season. On Jan. 28, he aired a tribute to the late Bing Crosby, his close friend and movie sidekick in the "Road" pictures. Proceeds went to the Bing Crosby Youth Fund.

Hope will follow with specials in March and April at NBC, continuing his one-a-month policy.

For years, Hope has been talking about several film projects. Although he hasn't appeared in a film in recent years, he had expected to do another picture with Crosby. This one, "The Road to the Fountain of Youth," is still on the agenda.

Hope tried to talk George

Burns into co-starring after Crosby's death, but Burns won't be available. Hope reports that he is discussing the project with English star David Niven. Lew Grade, the English entrepreneur, may finance the project, Hope reports.

"I'm going to London to play Lord Grade's theater for a week. We hope to put the thing together," Hope reveals. He will tape the engagement in London and edit it into his April television special.

Hope also clings to the desire to do the film biography of Walter Winchell, the powerful newspaper columnist of the 1930s and '40s. He confesses that the problem is in developing a script.

So why does he keep working and planning new projects?

"I work to pay my taxes," he claims. "My real estate taxes (for his Toluca Lake, Calif., estate and other properties he owns) used to come to $1 million a year. That Proposition 13 vote cut it down to $400,000."

Hope also is preparing to move into his multimillion dollar, mountain top mansion in Palm Springs, Calif.

The house was nearly completed five years ago, but it burned to the ground. Hope says he lost interest in rebuilding it for a while, after the designer was killed in an accident shortly after the fire.

"I was ready to walk away from it. I got very discouraged," he recalled. But his wife, Dolores, had other ideas. She persevered, and now the showpiece will be ready for occupancy in March, according to Hope.

Hope has come a long way from his days in Cleveland. He likes to recall a particularly distressing period as a young, starving, would-be entertainer without a job and $500 in debt "for coffee and donut sponging."

"I thought about that lean period when I received the Congressional Gold Medal (marking his 75th birthday in Washington) and had a chance to stand in the Cabinet Room at the White House all alone. And I figured moments like that make life worthwhile."

TV Dial-ogue

JUMPING FOR JOY - I recently saw a GE Theatre movie called "Champions: A Love Story." It starred Jimmy McNichols and Joy LeDuc. Can you tell me where to write Joy LeDuc? - John Pierce, Kingston, Mass.

Judging from the torrent of mail that has hit my desk since "Champions" aired, I would say you have a lot of love-sick competition, John. You may all write the professional skater and actress in care of CBS, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA. 90036. And may the best man win. FACT OR FICTION - In October there was a Dustin Hoffman movie on TV called "In Little Big Horn." Was the old man portrayed in the movie really the lone survivor of The Little Big Horn? And was the old man that they talked to at the beginning of the movie the real survivor? - Alice Thurler, Bloomington, Ind.

It's a commendation for the filmmakers that you found "Little Big Man" (the actual title) so convincing. The movie was based on a novel by Thomas Berger about the 121-year-old Jack Crabb - a fictional character, who survived Custer's Last Stand only in Berger's imagination. Since Crabb never really existed, he could not have appeared in the film. Crabb as an old man was also Dustin Hoffman. He wore heavy make-up for those scenes.
