Carter Greeting Cool, Oil Talks Will Begin

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — President Carter got a cool reception and a public tongue-lashing from Mexico's sudden interest Americans have displayed in Mexico's newly discovered vast oil and gas reserves.

"Mexico has thus suddenly found itself the center of American attention — attention that is a surprising mixture of interest, disdain and fear, much like the recurring vague fears you yourselves inspire in certain areas of our national subconscious," he said.

"A certain amount of that, I suppose, permissible in the nature of things for home consumption, given the history of the relationship," said an American official, "but one would hope that they don't get carried away with this. We do have some serious matters to negotiate over the next few years and it (the ranch) doesn't serve anyone's cause."

The official also said that "having high-ranking Mexican officials call high-ranking American officials liars certainly doesn't help things. Whether it detracts remains to be seen."

Mexican Foreign Minister Santiago Roel called Energy Secretary

U.S. Urges Evacuation From Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The U.S. embassy today urged all Americans to leave Iran because their lives could no longer be protected. But officials immediately ran into growing opposition from the Iranian government over implementing contingency plans for the evacuation.

Ambassador William Sullivan, who was captured and then released in the leftist guerrilla attack on the U.S. embassy Wednesday, issued a directive to American citizens saying: "We cannot protect American lives in Iran. We strongly recommend evacuation from Iran. You should prepare for evacuation."

The ambassador said every person should carry only one suitcase and we have aircraft planning to arrive on Saturday, February 17.

All Americans were told to make contact with the embassy and then we will contact you where to go for processing. We are still recommending limited movement within the city.

His message said: "We are in phase three of the emergency evacuation."

Britain also planned an evacuation for citizens of Common Market countries, possibly starting Friday, with a Royal Air Force shuttle. The British Embassy advised its citizens they should leave because it might be "inhibited" from helping them in any emergency.

Government marshals were withdrawn from the British Embassy today, leaving it with no protection. Western embassies estimated there were now a total of 14,000 to 15,000 foreigners in Iran.

Although the U.S. Embassy was hard at work on the evacuation plans, the compound remained tightly shut to all but official visitors. "I've seen a lot of shooting but yesterday's can't compare with anything except what I saw in Iwo Jima in World War II," Less Penn of Orlando, Fla., the manager of the embassy commissary, said.

Protest Issued In Envoy's Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, deeply angered at the murder of the American ambassador to Afghanistan, protested harshly to the Kremlin over the role of Soviet advisers in the events that led to Adolph Dubs' assassination.

The United States also charged that Afghanistan's pro-Soviet government shared responsibility for the death of the diplomat.

But the protest to the Soviet Union was the more significant action. A State Department statement read to reporters late Wednesday stopped just short of accusing Moscow of responsibility in Dubs' murder.

Dubs, 58, was kidnapped by Moslem extremists Wednesday as he drove to the American Embassy in Kabul. A few hours later at a downtown hotel, in a shootout between the extremists and Afghan police, he was killed.

The American protest was conveyed late Wednesday to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, called to the State Department by acting Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

Spokesman Hodding Carter said "expressed in the strongest terms our shock of the U.S. government over the role played by Soviet advisers to the police of Kabul in the events which led to the assassination of our ambassador to Afghanistan."

Other American officials went further, saying one of the four Soviet officials on the scene was a security agent from the Soviet Embassy when American officials had been in touch regarding the possibility of negotiations to seek Dubs' release.

Two Penney Students Face Assault Charges

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — Penney High School officials will "deal quickly and harshly" with students who inflict violence in the schools, said Penney Principal Donald Cramer today.

Cramer has recommended expulsion for two Penney High students charged Wednesday with assaulting a third student.

Police charged Stacey Pettway, 16, of 57 Mill Road with first-degree assault, and Robin Jackson, 16, of 70 Wakefield Circle, with criminal attempt to commit first-degree assault.

The arrests were made in connection with an incident where Joseph Terrini, 17, of 246 Main St., received several stitches after being struck on the head with a three-foot tree limb.

Terrini had complained about a headache Wednesday morning and went to Vice Principal Jane Skehan's office for permission to go home.

The two male students were carrying the branch because they feared reprisal from another student stemming from an incident two weeks ago, said a Penney High student.

The student said the suspects, who told the youth if he did it again, he'd get clubbed.

Terrini then said to the youth, "What did you say?" The youth repeated the warning and Terrini said he tapped the suspect on the shoulder and was hit with the club.

Pettway was being held Wednesday night at the Hartford Correctional Center for appearance in lieu of $500 bond. Jackson was released on a written promise to appear Feb. 28.

Cramer said the incident occurred at about 11:45 a.m. outside of the vice principal's office.

He said a hearing will be held with School Superintendent Eugene Diggs, at which time he will recommend expulsion of the two students.

"The reaction to any kind of problem should not be to resort to violence," he said.

"I cannot tolerate this," he said. "It's just completely unnecessary."

He said, "Circumstances should

Feds Join Rate Cases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Energy Department, for the first time exercising its new authority to argue for electric rate reform before state agencies, says it will intervene in utility rate cases in Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware and Virginia.

In each case, a department spokesman said Wednesday, federal participants will ensure consideration of rate-of-return provisions designed to conserve electricity, make production of electric power more efficient assure fair rates to power users.

The action will be the first exercise of the department's intervention authority under the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978, part of the National Energy Act, the spokesman said.

Among the various reforms advocated by the department are time-of-day pricing, providing lower rates for those who consume electricity at night when demand traditionally is reduced, and an end to the historic practice of providing discount rates for those who use large quantities of electricity.

Cases in which the department plans to intervene include:

—The Arkansas Public Service Commission's consideration of a pending $29 million rate increase sought by Arkansas Power and Light Co.

—The Connecticut Public Utility Control Authority's consideration of a $131.5 million rate increase requested a week ago by Northeast Utilities.

—The Delaware Public Service Commission's design of new rate policies, which the commission required as part of its approval in September of a $8 million rate increase by Delmarva Power and Light Co.

—The Virginia State Corporation Commission's anticipated rate design hearings related to a pending decision on a $24 million rate increase sought by the Virginia Electric Power Co.

Utility Hearing

HARTFORD (UPI) — A lawyer for Connecticut consumers has filed a formal request asking that all five commissioners for the Public Utilities Control Authority hear a $131.5 million rate hike request by Northeast Utilities.

State consumer counsel Barry Zitser also asked the PUC Wednesday to be given full party status in the hearings, which means his testimony would have the same weight as that of the utility's.

PUC commission chairwoman Marian Butterworth last week sided stepped a request from Gov. Ella Grasso that the full commission hear the rate case. Mrs. Butterworth said she only could spare three commissioners.

Sprinkler Damage

MANCHESTER — Manchester police reported a hot alarm Tuesday afternoon at the Meadows Convalescent Home on 333 Bidwell St. was caused by a broken water sprinkler pipe.

According to police, Town Fire Department Deputy Chief James McKay estimated about $200 worth of damage done to ceiling tiles and the floor in the generator room of the South Building where the break occurred.

Major Storm Aims Toward Great Lakes

By United Press International

A major winter storm that ripped through the Pacific Northwest produced blizzard conditions on the Northern Plains and appeared headed for the snowbound Great Lakes region today. Arctic cold persisted in the Northeast and record-breaking heat settled in Texas.

The National Weather Service posted winter storm warnings and status in the northern two-thirds of the nation from Montana to the Ohio Valley today.

The storm, which lashed the Washington and Oregon coasts Monday causing heavy property destruction and at least seven deaths, carried high winds, heavy snow and bitter cold temperatures.

Temperatures dropped more than 20 degrees — well below zero — in less than an hour as the system moved through Montana with a blizzard's fury. Winds were clocked at more than 25 mph.

Freezing drizzle and heavy fog enveloped much of the upper two-thirds of the nation from Montana to the Ohio Valley ahead of the storm. icy streets caused numerous automobile accidents in the Chicago area.

The nation's second largest city, which topped its seasonal snowfall record only Monday, was told to expect an accumulation of several inches of snow late today.

Massachusetts State Police Trooper George May said every towing company in the area was "busier than a one-armed pig hanger."

Teachers Hear Disputes On CD Fund Involvement

By JUNE TOMPKINS, Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Town directors who agree in the overall philosophy of Manchester's participation in the Community Development Block Grant program presented their personal differences Wednesday afternoon at the Manchester Education Association's Representative Council.

Presenting their opposing views were Democratic Elizabeth J. Intagliata and Republican Peter DiRosa, both former teachers in the Manchester public school system.

Intagliata's presentation centered on what Community Development funds have already achieved for Manchester and named the Charter Oak Project, Cheney Mills Study, Nathan Hale playground and Green School conversion to the Senior Citizens Center.

DiRosa's concern is that Manchester is setting goals it can't keep.

Intagliata said that although most of the money has not been spent on housing, it has been spent on programs which affect those who live in the downtown target area composed of low- and moderate-income families.

Town Officials Blasted For Stand on CD Funds

By CHRIS BLAKE, Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — Mack Hawkins, chairman of the Human Rights Commission, had words of damnation and words of praise Wednesday night.

The words of praise were for Manchester's Board of Directors, for supporting the town's participation in the federal Community Development Program despite harsh criticism from some residents.

The negative words were for East Hartford's town administration and Mayor Richard H. Blackstone for reaching a compromise on the estimates of low income housing needed.

Hawkins also criticized the Town Council for "rubber stamping" the mayor's application to HUD for Community Development funds.

"I hope East Hartford doesn't get to the point like Manchester," said Hawkins, referring to a strong anti-CD movement in Manchester.

"I think some people in Manchester are looking at East Hartford as a high percentage of low-income housing and a good balance of residential."

Union Fights Meter Job

MANCHESTER — The union representing public works employees Tuesday filed charges because the town has hired a private contractor to install water meters.

The union — the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, Local 991 — plans to file an unfair labor practice charge against the town because of the hiring of the private firm.

The union's president, Robert Fuller, could not be reached for comment this morning. Steven Werber, the town's personnel supervisor, said today that town officials and the union had met last week to discuss the matter. No final agreement was reached at that meeting.

EB Seeking 'Best' Site For Center

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — The Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. is shopping for the "best" site in southern New England for a multimillion dollar high technology center for its marine engineers and designers.

The first stop Wednesday for two EB officials was Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy's Statehouse office. In short order, they picked up a quick promise of his help in finding a Rhode Island location from the chief executive.

Larry Hartshorn, General Dynamics' program manager for new facilities, said the firm will also look at sites in Connecticut, and possibly Massachusetts for the facility. It carries an undisturbed price tag and one-year building time.

"We haven't chosen a site. We would like to give every state in this area a chance to provide for us the best site. Whoever has it will get the building," said Fred Tovar, general manager of Electric Boat's Quonset Point, R.I., operation.

Hartshorn said his firm's decision to publicize the initial contact with Garrahy — something expanding firms usually try to keep quiet — was purely intentional.

"We have to see who really wants us," he said.

The company seeks a 40-to-50 acre "campus-type atmosphere conducive to research," Hartshorn said. The facility would house about 500 employees and have expansion capability to double the operation.

"We're also interested in diversifying our (shipbuilding) business into other fields. I'm not prepared to say anything more, but it's a natural outgrowth in a high-technology industry. There is some consideration for new product lines," he said.

One site already under study for the expansion is EB's main shipyard in Groton, Conn. Hartshorn said the decision will be based on the setting, taxes, land costs, utilities provided, available housing and traffic patterns.

Garrahy said state officials were already at work on the request and he planned to soon present EB with a "complete digest" of sites and facilities available.

"We're very enthusiastic about Electric Boat looking favorably upon Rhode Island for the possible location for this facility," Garrahy said. "It is something that would be very attractive for Rhode Island."

Electric Boat recently began work on an $80 million automated submarine hull construction facility at the former Quonset Point navy base in North Kingstown.

Officer's Son Held in Death

STAMFORD (UPI) — The son of a veteran Stamford police officer was in custody today on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of a 14-year-old high school freshman who disappeared after leaving her home for her first babysitting job.

Bruce Williams, 26, was charged Wednesday with first-degree sexual assault and first degree sexual assault, police said.

An employee of the U.S. Post Office in Stamford, Williams has been a special Stamford police officer for three years and is the son of veteran Stamford policeman Bruce Williams Sr., police said.

The body of Sandy Hoy of Stamford was found Wednesday afternoon lying face up in the snow near the Merritt Parkway.

Police said the cause of death, but added an autopsy would be performed today at the medical examiner's office in Farmington.

Police said the girl had gotten a telephone call to babysit Tuesday and left her home to meet a man about the job. A spokesman said it was apparently the first time the girl had babysat.

Police received reports that the girl was seen in the company of a man pushing a child in a baby stroller on Haig Avenue.

The body was found Wednesday afternoon, near Parkway exit 33 at the Stamford-Farmington line.

The victim was a freshman at Stamford High School.

Aillon Takes Stand And Denies Murder

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Taking the stand in his own defense, Guillermo Aillon has denied he stabbed his wife and her partners in their North Haven home in August 1972.

Under questioning Wednesday by defense attorney Howard Jacobs, Aillon testified he loved his wife Barbara and got along well with his father-in-law, wealthy New Haven lumber executive J. George Montano, said "they're dead, they're all dead" when he came out of the Montano home to tell Aillon of the deaths.

The defendant said he went into the house and saw Bernice, and then his wife and "I froze."

Aillon testified he went over to wife the blood streaming out of his wife's mouth and he was told not to touch anything.

He said when he heard the cries of his seven-month old daughter Catherine he picked up the child and held her close. She was unharmed.

Aillon said the blood on his shirt was from blood spots on the child's night clothes.

The defendant also described the time between when his wife left him until the killings were reported and said it coincided with prior testimony from other witnesses.

He told the jury the five marks police found on his body when he was arrested for the slaying were all burns — three from cooking, one from ironing a shirt and one from fixing something in his car.

Aillon said a black and blue mark on his leg happened when he tripped going down the stairs trying to carry a bibachi and a two-by-four piece of wood.

Several small cuts and scratches on his hand were from pieces of chrome which were peeling off his car's gear shift, the defendant testified.

GOP Considers Changes To Elect State Delegates

By GREG PEARSON, Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Local Republicans are considering a change in the method of electing delegates to State Central Committee conventions.

The possible changes in party thinking about the committee seats could include challenges to a few of the present committee members.

Two persons are elected from each of the state's 38 senatorial districts to serve on the Republican State Central Committee. That committee often makes decisions affecting the Republican Party's operation in Connecticut, including voting for the party's State Chairman.

Manchester presently has one representative on the committee — Wallace Irish Jr., who represents the Third Senatorial District. The other senatorial district that includes Manchester — the Fourth Senatorial District member, E. Charles Gleason of Glastonbury and Fenton "Pat" Futner of South Windsor.

Irish announced this week that he is seeking re-election to the committee. Ms. Owen and Futner also said Wednesday they plan to run again. The other Third Senatorial District member, Charles Gleason of East Hartford also will seek re-election.

Manchester's newly elected Republican town chairman, Richard Weinstein, said Wednesday he supports a change in the local party's method of electing delegates to the conventions at which the state committee positions are filled. Those conventions will be held later this year.

He also supports the idea of a Manchester resident running for one of the Fourth Senatorial District seats, which traditionally have been held by residents of other towns. He also said a challenge to Irish might be made.

The change in the election of delegates would have the entire Republican Town Committee vote to directly endorse a person or persons for the State Central Committee seats, Weinstein said.

In the past, the town committee has chosen the delegates, who then made the final decision to vote for at the convention.

"I support that philosophy, but it doesn't necessarily mean I'm going to force it on the town committee," Weinstein said.

Monsieur, after seeing the reports offered a subdued assessment of the meeting.

"We were not looking for magic solutions," Adams said in closing remarks. "We just wanted to know if it was realistic to try."

Re-Inventing Autos Slow and Expensive

BOSTON (UPI) — The re-invention of the automobile may take a lot longer than expected.

The nation's top automotive experts, ending a two-day gathering Wednesday, told U.S. transportation officials that developing a more fuel-conserving car in the next two decades could be a slow, expensive process.

They said no "miracle car" is likely to arise in time to stave off fuel shortages in the 1990s.

But, they said, with some gradual changes in today's cars and a boost thrust to find new sources of fuel, U.S. energy needs should be met for the foreseeable future.

The response by spokesmen for some 550 automotive experts was not what Transportation Secretary Brock Adams had hoped for in calling the national conference which was to be the first step in a concerted search for a revolutionary fuel-efficient vehicle.

He earlier had called for a "redesigning of fuel economy" above the 1985 federal standard of 27.5 mpg. In one report, a panel of engine experts said they were "not able to identify a specific engine technology which could be classified as superior" for use in future cars.

However, they said engines in today's cars can be improved to provide "very large fuel conservation benefits to the nation."

Califano Asks to Change Social Security Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Citing discrimination against women in the Social Security System, HEW Secretary Joseph Califano said today that the benefit structure must be changed to ensure fair and adequate payments to both men and women.

But he warned that eliminating the inequities will cost money, and require either higher taxes or cutting other benefits.

"The issue is not whether, but how to change the current structure to correct the inequities while maintaining the strengths of the existing system," he said.

"Over the long haul, however, we must recognize that eliminating inequities and improving the adequacy of benefits in the current system will either require increased funding or mean reducing other benefits. The nation must begin to face this difficult choice.

Califano made the comments in remarks prepared for a news conference on a new report that said the current system could be made more fair to women either by pooling each couple's eligibility, or by simply guaranteeing everyone a basic retirement income.

"The report - which listed options but made no recommendations - said another more limited change might be to put homemakers under Social Security, so the dollar value of their work under the house would be credited to them in retirement.

Califano listed these examples of discrimination against women in the current system:

- If a woman works for 15 years at an average annual income of $11,300, then works for 10 years raising three children, she will wind up with a Social Security benefit $50 a month less than a woman who worked 25 years at an average wage of $11,300, even though both women had 25 years of productive work.
- If a husband and wife each had average earnings of $6,000 per year ($12,000 for the family) they would receive benefits of $50 per month, compared to benefits of $58.60 per month for a couple with just one wage earner who made $12,000 per year.
- A woman who worked for 15 years in Social Security-covered jobs and then took five years out to raise children, would not be able to claim disability benefits if she became disabled, because she has not worked "recently."
- The report, published Wednesday, was issued by the Health, Education and Welfare Department in compliance with a 1977 law that ordered it to examine ways to eliminate sex discrimination in the system.
- "Many believe that Social Security should be changed so that it accommodates the diversity of roles and work patterns of men and women in today's society," the report said.

Vitamin A Derivative May Be Cure of Acne

BOSTON (UPI) - Although it is still too early to call it a cure, researchers say preliminary tests have indicated that a form of Vitamin A may be the answer for those plagued with unsightly acne.

Still at least three years away from commercial distribution - a drug known as 13-Cis-Retinoic Acid, was tested successfully on 14 volunteer patients by physicians at the dermatology division of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md.

According to the research results published in the New England Journal of Medicine Wednesday, the drug is a variation of the active form of Vitamin A, and is taken orally in capsule form.

The patients who underwent testing had severe acne on their faces, chests and backs. And in all but one case, the acne was cleared completely.

CofC Backs Downtown Bill

MANCHESTER - A committee from the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce has endorsed a proposed bill that would permit the establishment of downtown service districts.

Such districts, known as Central Business Service Districts in the proposed legislation, would be able to convey real or personal property as well as plan and construct capital improvements that might benefit the area.

Robert Gorman, chairman of the Central Manchester Action Council, recently wrote to Town Manager Robert Weiss to express that group's endorsement of the proposal, which has been introduced by State Sen. David Barry of Manchester.

The committee is a branch of the local Chamber.

The special service districts would improve the development climate in the downtown areas. Gorman wrote to Weiss.

The district would operate from funds raised through taxation in the district. One-third of the general fund income raised in the district would remain in the area to fund improvements and projects.

Joyner Polls Constituents

MANCHESTER - State Rep. Walter Joyner has prepared a questionnaire about 10 issues that he will circulate to his constituents.

Several hundred of the questionnaires are available at both of the town libraries. Another 500 have been mailed to some of the homes in his 12th Assembly District. The questionnaire provides for responses from two persons.

Questions ask the voters' opinions on the following subjects - mandatory one-day closing, mandatory retirement for state employees, liberalization of environmental protection laws, statutory limit on state spending, raising of the drinking age, mandatory jail sentences, repeal of the capital gains tax, right to work laws, stricter controls on nuclear energy and waste and an amendment to provide for a referendum on force referendum questions.

During his campaign, Joyner mailed questionnaires to every home in the district. He promised to be available to his constituents and has held regular comment sessions.

Weicker Proposes To Cut Ethics Unit

HARTFORD, (UPI) - Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., who formerly served on the post-Watergate Senate Ethics Committee, says he will file legislation to abolish the committee.

Weicker, a possible candidate for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination, said his bill also would terminate a conduct code for senators, though requiring public disclosure of all assets, liabilities and tax returns.

He resigned from the committee last year in a fight over how the panel was handling its investigation into the Korean influence peddling. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., also is a former member of the committee.

There are five members left on the ethics committee. Weicker, speaking from his Washington office Wednesday, said his bill further would require that the senators' financial disclosure statements be audited by the General Accounting Office.

School Board Adopts 'Hold-the-Line' Spending Plan

MANCHESTER - The Board of Education Tuesday night adopted a hold-the-line budget of $16,371,170 for the coming school year, less than a $1,000 more than that proposed by School Superintendent James P. Kennedy.

"It's almost on the button" with the 6 percent increase limit set by the Board of Directors, Kennedy said.

Health insurance rates were more favorable than expected, making "fringe benefits" lines overbudgeted in the superintendent's proposal by about $40,000.

This allowed several adjustments in the budget, giving the PTA Council Budget Committee three of the projects it had recommended. The budget now includes $10,000 to provide transportation for the gifted child program so that it can serve all elementary schools, $6,500 to add one full-time art teacher and $3,000 to hire a part-time nutritional consultant to implement recommendations of the PTA Nutrition Committee.

It will also provide $2,000 additional to Lutz Junior Museum, $4,000 for field trips for elementary school children and $3,750 for five tuitions for each of the secondary schools to the Talcott Mountain Science Center Program on Saturdays for gifted students.

The remaining $10,750 will be added to the utilities budget (fuel oil and electricity), which is expected to be needed because of the likely increase in fuel costs.

Other reallocations made it possible to provide $32,000 to implement a closed campus for first semester sophomores at Manchester High School. This was also recommended by the PTA Budget Committee.

"The only item on the PTA list that is not in the reallocation list is the hiring of three additional aides to provide an aide in classes where elementary enrollment exceeds 25," Kennedy said.

Kennedy explained that he did not want to set a policy where automatically an aide would have to be provided when a class enrollment hit 25.

Lost in the shuffle of funds was a recommendation by Kennedy to reinstate the purchase of a truck for the buildings and grounds department. He hoped that $5,000 of the fringe benefit savings could be used to replace a 1969 truck. However, this was the money allocated to Lutz Junior Museum and for elementary field trips.

Funding Switch Asked for Road

SOUTH WINDSOR - Members of the Town Council will speak to state officials about the possibility of using funds, earmarked for the reconstruction of Pleasant Valley and Chapel roads, for construction of an industrial bypass road.

The bypass road, which would run along the planned route for the proposed Interstate 291, is necessary to carry traffic from the J.C. Penney warehouse, preventing a burdensome traffic problem on local residential streets.

Councilwoman Jacqueline Smith, however, told the council in work session Tuesday night that completion of such a bypass road could be up to eight years away.

Mrs. Smith said she feared residents of the Pleasant Valley and Chapel Road area, who presented a petition signed by 600 citizens, might be under the impression that the bypass road could be constructed immediately.

The petition, presented to the council last week and discussed during Tuesday's work session, called for the construction of the bypass road and no reconstruction of Pleasant Valley and Chapel roads.

Residents fear that reconstruction of the two streets would make them appealing to commuters and endanger the property value of the homes in the area, as well as the health of the many older residents living on Pleasant Valley and Chapel roads.

Although Town Manager Allan Young has advised proceeding with plans to rebuild the two streets, Councilman Robert Myette and Robert Sillis have expressed concern that once the funds were spent for reconstruction of Pleasant Valley and Chapel roads the state would then decide to hold off possible construction of the bypass road, connecting Interstate 86 with the Bissell Bridge.

In other matters, an item placed on the agenda by Deputy Mayor Myette, calling for a discussion of informal meetings between council persons and the town manager, was postponed until 6:35 p.m. Monday because of the late hour Tuesday night.

The agenda item, according to Myette, was placed for discussion because of meetings between Mayor Nancy Calfyn and Young. Myette said today that "the mayor doesn't realize that she has no more authority than other council members, and her title of mayor is strictly ceremonial."

Myette said that the council receives no report about the meetings that occur between she and Young.

Italy Needs Doctor Calls

The disputes began in early 1977 when both nations extended their fishing limits up to 200 miles off their coasts.

The State Department, in the statement issued Wednesday afternoon, said both Vance and Jamieson expressed their desires to have both treaties ratified as early as possible.

One of the treaties refers to fishing quotas in overlapping territorial waters in the Gulf of Maine and the rich fishing grounds of the Georges Bank. The latter lies east of Boston and south of Nova Scotia.

She said in 1975 special lake zoning regulations were enacted to respond to the problem of numerous septic system failures in the lake area. Increased minimum lot size, she said, has "eliminated lot of record status for hundreds of small lake lots."

School Unit Urges Keeping Hockanum

By CHRIS BLAKE
 HERALD REPORTER
 EAST HARTFORD - The Task Force on School Building Use voted 12-4 Wednesday night to recommend retaining the Hockanum School as a K-5 school. Hockanum School is in the final year of a three-year phase-out as a middle school. Task force subcommittee proposals have recommended either returning the school to a K-8 school and closing another middle school, or retaining it as a K-5 school and leaving the five other middle schools open. Task force Chairman John Christensen said the Hockanum School "is the key to many of the other proposals we're going to make."

For example, the Hockanum School would now have more room for students from other schools, should the task force decide to recommend any closings. The task force considered three proposals Wednesday night. They rejected a school administration plan to close Willowbrook School by voting to keep it open through 1980-81, but not necessarily beyond that year. The vote to leave Willowbrook open prevented a vote on a second proposal.

Club Cites Two Students

By CHRIS BLAKE
 EAST HARTFORD - The Exchange Club of East Hartford has announced selection of two outstanding high school seniors as recipients of its Youth of the Month awards for January. The award winners are Carol Doak and Carol Coburn, both seniors at East Hartford High School. Carol Coburn, a member of the National Honor Society, has expressed leadership throughout her high school years. She has been active in the Student Council, serving as president this year. As member of Quill and Scroll, she developed her writing abilities which enabled her to participate in the Hartford Courant Youth Forum.

Her volunteer work with the Red Cross Bloodmobile and her visiting of shut-ins epitomizes the qualities that brought her the award as the Exchange Club's Youth of the Month. Carol Coburn is a recipient of the Connecticut Women's Deans and Counselors Outstanding Student Award and is listed in Who's Who Among High School Students. Carol has been president of both her junior and senior classes. She also, was a representative to the Hartford Courant Youth Forum. She has done volunteer work for the Red Cross Bloodmobile and has served in U.S. Sen. Lowell Weicker's Internship Program.

Town and Police Union Reach Tentative Contract

By CHRIS BLAKE
 HERALD REPORTER
 EAST HARTFORD - The town and the police union have reached a tentative agreement, ending months of stalled talks which took the police officers to the streets for an informational picket.

Town Personnel Director G. William Miller said the agreement reached Wednesday at Town Hall. He would not disclose any details of the agreement, but he did say compromises were made on both sides. Mayor Richard H. Blackstone said he would seek ratification of the agreement by the Town Council. Police Union President Robert Buffington called the contract "a good package," adding neither side got everything it wanted. The new package would give union members a 10.5 percent pay increase over two years and the same insurance benefits and medical and prescription rider that two other town unions have received in settlements last year. The contract also gives the 88 members of the union the work schedule that union officials had wanted. The union wanted a reduction in the work schedule which would allow officers to work four, nine-hour days with three days off. Their work four, 10-hour days with three days off.

 EAST HARTFORD - The men's club of the Hockanum United Methodist Church, 178 Main St., will meet 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 27 in the Church Fellowship Hall. The program will be a presentation by Mr. Jerry Daigneault of Newton. Daigneault, also known as the "Flag Man," will show a flag that grew on the moon on the first landing of our country's astronauts. He will also tell of his collection of hundreds of flags of our country and of most of the countries around the world. He has obtained the flags from kings, queens, dictators and other potentates. Members of several church men's clubs in this vicinity are invited as guests. There will be no charge for the program. An offering will be taken to assist Daigneault in his flag work; especially, the obtaining of new, for transporting all his flags around the country to various showings at schools, fairs, churches, and other groups. Refreshments will follow. Reservations will help provide enough refreshments for all who come. Men may call in reservations by calling the church at 568-3948 or 568-3842.

Teen Center Closed
 EAST HARTFORD - The Teen Center at Penney High School cafeteria will be closed Wednesday, Feb. 21 due to the showing of films at East Hartford High School Auditorium.

Cross Country Trip
 EAST HARTFORD - The parks and recreation department has announced that there is still room on the bus to the Pine Mountain Cross Country ski trip planned for Feb. 18. The bus leaves Town Hall parking lot at 9 a.m., and returns at about 5 p.m. All those wishing to attend should call 269-2771 ext. 317 to register and send a check, payable to Pine Mountain, to the Department of Parks and Recreation, 740 Main St. For fee information call the parks and recreation department.

Advanced Lessons
 EAST HARTFORD - The department of parks and recreation will offer advanced disco lessons to be given at Barnes School for six weeks, beginning Wednesday, Feb. 28, from 8 to 9 p.m. Class size is limited to twenty-five couples.

Please call 269-2771 for cost and registration information.

Vacation Programs
 EAST HARTFORD - The department of parks and recreation will conduct various recreation programs during the February vacation from Feb. 20-23. No programs will be in operation on Monday, February 19, in observance of Washington's Birthday. Regular evening programs will be held with the exception of Hockanum, O'Connell, Pitkin, and Sunset Ride programs.

The following gyms will be open from 3-4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday: O'Brien and Woodland. Penney and East Hartford High School swimming pools will be open for recreational swimming from 1-4 p.m. on Tuesday through Saturday. Regular evening programs will prevail.

Supervised ice skating will be available at Maris Park, where skating is permitted from Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. through 9 p.m. For additional information, contact the department of parks and recreation.

Bloodmobile Visit
 EAST HARTFORD - East Hartford Lodge 107, Loyal Order of Moose, 484 Prospect St., has scheduled a visit by the Red Cross Bloodmobile for Saturday, Feb. 17, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Assisting, as well as donating blood, will be the chapter members and the ladies of the Lodge 1470, Women Of The Moose.

The accessibility of the lodge makes it an ideal location for "walk-in" donors. It lies between Connecticut Boulevard and Governor Street, on the bus lines from Manchester, Glastonbury and Hartford. Taking the Governor Street exit off I-84, it is only two right turns to the lodge.

First, they were going to name a director of operations and then a head coach. But Wellington and Tim couldn't get a compromise candidate for the former post. It's assumed Wellington, who hasn't done too well as director of operations, stubbornly wanted to hold onto the post. Then, when they couldn't figure this post out, it was announced, by one and then the other - not jointly - that a coach would be the first one hired.

What's going on? Nothing unusual. For the New York Knicks, that is. The Maras are living proof that 50 percent co-ownership of a franchise just isn't working.

Bits and Pieces
 Seen pointed on a concrete rampway in Boston near Oliver Street: "Who is Stan Papi?" Red Sox fans are warning up for the upcoming season already. If you have not purchased Red Sox vs. New York Yankee tickets at Fenway yet, forget it. They're gone. All that's left are unreserved bleacher seats, if those haven't been gobbled up already, too.

Can't confirm it but the rumor mill says 6-foot-8 John Pinone of South Catholic will wind up at UConn. His list is down to five... Can't figure out why the Yankees aren't getting the talented Red Sox pitcher they've been looking for. Not now but in a couple of years when the veteran variety officials begin to retire, only a handful of the Yankee officials will have a 15-year downward flight.

Yastrzemski Serious About New Contract

BOSTON (UPI) - Boston Red Sox star Carl Yastrzemski's contract situation apparently is more serious than expected, with the 18-year veteran threatening to sit out the upcoming season if his demands aren't met.

In a story in today's Boston Herald American, Yastrzemski said there are communications problems with the Red Sox, and if he doesn't get the "figure" he's asked for, he'll sit out the season. Yastrzemski met for an hour Wednesday at Fenway Park with General Manager Haywood Sullivan, Secretary Joseph LaCour, and a personal lawyer. "There is a communications problem between me and the Red Sox," Yastrzemski told the Herald after the meeting, reading from what he called a prepared statement. "We are further apart than I thought, but I'm sure there will be no problem."

"After all that the Red Sox and Boston meant to me, and the contributions I feel in 18 years that I've made to the team, I'm sure we will reach an agreement," he said.

He said he was actually negotiating for the 1980 and 1981, and intends to "honor" the pact he has signed for next year. But he said the Herald, that contract reportedly contains a clause giving him the right to renegotiate, which is causing the problem.

When asked about his plans for the next few days, Yastrzemski told the paper, "I'm going home to Florida in the morning and watch my son Mike play baseball. Haywood and (vice-president) Buddy (DeRoos) know what I've asked for. They have my telephone number."

"They're going to have to get back to me," he said. "Meanwhile, I'm going to sit out. If I don't get the figure I've asked for, I could end up sitting out the entire 1979 season."

Sullivan indicated after the meeting that he wasn't concerned about the negotiations.

Sullivan Not Impressed With Eckersley Demand

BOSTON (UPI) - Dennis Eckersley says he wants a new contract by the time the Red Sox leave spring training but team General Manager Haywood Sullivan says he's not too impressed by the ultimatum.

Eckersley, who led the team with a 20-8 mark in 1978, said last week he wanted a contract extension by the beginning of the season and did not see the new pact should call for significantly less than the $5.4 million given to Jim Rice over a seven-year period.

His agent followed up by saying that Eckersley's showing meant his client was entitled to a multi-million dollar pact or else the Sox should be prepared to lose the stylish right-hander to free agency.

"I'm not optimistic about signing him before the season starts," Sullivan said Wednesday after a showing of the 1978 World Series highlight film. "I've been reading his comments in the papers and I don't like them. But it's not a serious problem."

Eckersley's contract binds him to the Red Sox for the next two seasons. Sullivan said he expected to spring training, and said he hoped to discuss

Faces in the News

UConn DA John Taylor announced today the 1979 Connecticut Men's Basketball Classic at New Haven Dec. 28-29. Another problem is pitcher Dennis Eckersley, who according to his agent, will opt for the free agent market if the Red Sox don't sign him to an extension or new pact this year.

Valdez and a couple of pitchers to Houston for Bob Watson was dead. He said the Red Sox did not want to surrender the young talent the Astros wanted.

He also said he would like to talk to Oakland's owner Charles Finley regarding a possible deal. Finley recently sold promising catcher Bruce Robinson to the Yankees. He said he was hoping to buy by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who is said to be unhappy about the Yankees buying another player for an estimated $500,000. The Red Sox have been known to be interested in pitchers Matt Keough and Bob Lacey.

Nine Red Sox players are assigned for the year, including pitcher Andy Hassler, infielders Stan Papi and Larry Wolfe, and outfielder Gary Harwood.

Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda is the star of the World Series film. The hitting of Brian Doyle had the Dodgers skipper so perplexed that when he went out to yank Don Sutton in the sixth game, he mumbled to himself, "Who is this guy. Pie Turner. Pie Turner."

And there is the scene, repeated again, of Lasorda requesting advice from an umpire regarding a pitching change. The verbal reprieve gave him enough time to Lasorda finally decides to bring in reliever Terry Forster.

Carl Yastrzemski has threatened to sit out the 1979 season with Boston unless his demands for a new contract are honored.

Red Sox pitching ace Carl Yastrzemski has threatened to sit out the 1979 season with Boston unless his demands for a new contract are honored.

Bob McAdams was impressive in making his debut with the Red Sox last night. However, it wasn't enough and San Antonio won.

Marvin Barnes has the support of the NBA Players Association in his bid to get full payment from Boston although no longer with the club. Celtics claim Barnes owes money to them.

New York Yankee owner George Steinbrenner defended his trade and negotiations in talk before Harvard Business School students.

Tommy John has had higher offers from other teams but he chose Yankee tradition and pride. That's what we're trying to develop in New York. Just like Harvard," he said.

Steinbrenner said the biggest problem facing the Yankees is to report for the third time, an achievement he said was virtually impossible in this competitive day and age. But he said the inability to sign Red Carew would not deter the Yankees from contending for a third straight title.

"I Carew needs World Series tickets, I'll get 'em for him," he said.

Whalers Fall Apart And Blow Big Lead

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) - New England Whalers' Coach Bill Dineen says the Birmingham Bulls were desperate, but the Whalers should have been able to hold them.

But the Whalers succumbed to the Alabama team Wednesday night as John Stewart and Rick Vaive scored two goals each, leading the Bulls to a 2-4 win.

Stewart's two goals came within 21 seconds of one another during the second period, enabling the Bulls to come back from a two-goal deficit.

Whalers' George Lyle and Blaine Stoughton scored in the first period, while Birmingham's Rick Addino countered with a short handed goal.

Rick Lyle gave the Whalers a 3-1 lead at 8:53 of the second period. But Stewart scored at 10:35 and added his 11th of the season 21 seconds later to tie the game, 3-3.

Dineen said his biggest disappointment in the game was "the lack of killer instinct when we were ahead 3-1 and the breakdown in defense."

But he said the Whalers hadn't entered the game taking Birmingham for granted. He called the Bulls "a desperate club looking for a playoff spot."

Lyle scored his second of the night and 11th of the season at 13:51, but Dave tied it up again, 4-4, with only three seconds left in the second period.

Birmingham's Dave Gorman scored the game winning goal in the final period and assisted on that by Gaston Gingras 49 seconds later.

Vaive scored his second of the night with 10 seconds left in the game.

Vaive said his team "needed a good win because we had played well against Winnipeg and Edmonton and lost by one goal in each game."

"It's good to get a couple of points on the road," he said, adding "it's hard to come back against an experienced team like the Sox who when you're down two goals."

"This is a team that is incredibly young," said Vaive's teammate, John Stewart. "If we get a goal or two behind, we have a tough time coming back, and that's what happened in the first period."

But Coach John Brophy gave us a good talk between the first and second period," Stewart said. "He told us that we were a better team and that with our young legs there's no way we should be a step behind any player."

Rangers Surprise Bruins

NEW YORK (UPI) - The Boston Bruins after the week-long break for the Challenge Cup series, looked a bit rusty in Wednesday night's game against the New York Rangers.

Unfortunately for them, the Rangers played as if they had been off at all, and the result was a 5-1 New York victory.

Before the game was eight minutes old, New York had a 3-0 lead. Don Maloney, playing in his first NHL game, scored a goal at 5:14 and Atlanta defenseman Ed Kea stopped the puck past Chicago goalie Mike Veisor at 9:50 in the final period, enabling Atlanta to tie the Hawks.

Kings 3, Red Wings 2
 Marcel Dionne scored his first goal with 6:40 left to give Los Angeles the win.

Stars 2, Islanders 1
 Ric Sellinger scored on a breakthrough with 7:32 left, as Buffalo registered the surprise victory.

Pro Hockey
 assisted on Phil Esposito's 27th tally at 6:00. Ulf Nilsson added his 28th goal on a power play at 7:39.

And while the Rangers were making pinpoint passes, the Bruins couldn't even get a shot on goal until 1:52 into the second period. Carol Vadnais and Pat Hickey later added New York goals to make it 5-0, and Terry O'Reilly spotted the shutout at 14:59 of the third period with his 16th goal.

Boston Coach Don Cherry said, "I don't think it was the luck that hurt the Rangers had the same time off we did. They just seemed to want the game more than us, that's all."

In other NHL games, Philadelphia and Toronto played to a 2-2 tie, Atlanta

Steinbrenner Sets Record Straight In Talk at Harvard Business School

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) - George Steinbrenner patronized the Harvard Business School audience, telling them he wasn't smart enough to gain admission to the Ivy League school, settling instead for Williams.

But New York Yankee boss was all business Wednesday when he told the group he thinks the world champions are being singled out as seven other teams.

Cougars Triumph in OT

Avenge an earlier setback, Manchester Community College nipped Mitchell Junior College, 75-74, in overtime last night at East Catholic.

The Cougars, 13-10, hit the hardwood again tonight against the Eastern Connecticut State College jayvees at East at 8 o'clock. MCC had a 20-30 halftime lead but it took a John Zito hoop with one second to go in regulation to put the Cougars in overtime.

Zito combined with freshman standout Carlton Butler to score all of the Cougars' points in the extra session. Zito accounting for 6 and Butler 5.

D. J. Frederick had 10 points and Butler and Sean Thompson 9 apiece. MCC built a halftime edge. Mitchell responded in the second half, knocking it at 56-56 with 6:50 to go.

The visitors took their first lead at 60-58 with the sides exchanging baskets until Zito's 8-foot baseline jumper

Perfect Season

Bennet girls capped an unbeaten 14-0 basketball campaign, yesterday with a 49-36 duke over cross-town rival Iling at the Rams' gym.

Karen Wright paced Bennet with 16 points. Pam Brown added 10 markers and Shana Hopperstead 7 for the Bears. Sue Donnelly and Stacy Markham were defensive standouts.

Nancy Curtin paced Iling with 16 markers with Denise White and Toby Brown contributing 7 tallies apiece. Iling winds up with a 9-5 mark.

Martina In Easy Net Win

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — It took Martina Navratilova only 29 minutes to dispose of Maria Redondo, and the world's No. 1 ranked woman player knew exactly why.

"I never let her in the match," Navratilova said. "I never made a mistake. I never gave her a chance to breathe."

The top-seeded Navratilova defeated Redondo, 6-0, 6-0, Wednesday night in a second-round match of a $150,000 tennis tournament at the Forum. It was one of her most flawless games.

College Women Outscore MCC

Racing to a 30-14 halftime lead, Mitchell Junior College had some anxious moments near the end but had enough to subdue Manchester Community College, 57-48, in women's basketball action last night at East Catholic.

The triumph was Mitchell's 13th in 16 outings while the setback was the Cougars' 12th in a row after a season-opening victory.

MCC returns to the hardwood at East tonight entertaining Dean Junior College at 8:30.

The Cougars closed to within five points, 50-45, against the No. 2 ranked club in New England with 3:40 remaining. Mitchell, however, was able to get two fast break baskets in succession to diminish any doubts of success owned by the locals.

Giants Tab Young General Manager

NEW YORK (UPI) — After two months of open managerial warfare, the co-owners of the New York Giants declared a temporary cease-fire Wednesday night.

At a crowded press conference, club president Wellington Mara and his nephew, Timothy, announced the selection of George Young, former Miami Dolphins' director of pro scouting, as their general manager.

"We're very pleased and happy to announce a five-year contract with George Young as general manager," said Wellington, who said the Giants were going back to the title of general manager for the director of operations' post vacated by Andy Robustelli Dec. 18. The Giants, owned jointly by Wellington and Tim, are still looking for a coach to replace fired John McVay.

McEnroe Stunned, Loses to Teltscher

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Eliot Teltscher joined Bruce Manson as an upset winner Wednesday when he stunned third-seeded John McEnroe, 6-7, 7-5, 7-6 during the $250,000 tennis tournament at the Mission Hills Country Club.

In the first round on Tuesday, Bruce Manson beat Bjorn Borg, 7-0, 2-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Junior High Cagers Boast Lot of Talent

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sportswriter

The only way a basketball program can remain successful is if an influx of talent continues to flow.

Bennet, under 12-year Coach Fred Lennon, was victorious (4 of 15 times while coach) Iling, led by seven-year Coach Craig Phillips, compiled an 8-5 ledger.

Joe Maher, 6-foot-1 left-handed guard, 6-foot-3's Derek Reed, 6-foot-1 Tim Ellis and 6-foot-1 1/2's Chris Carmel are the top Bear prospects. Lennon reports.

Maher is a "good offensive threat. He has tremendous patience on offense. He's a very handy player who is a good passer. He has to work on his defense. But all he did; they're a year away maturation-wise," Lennon states. Maher's averaged 24 points per game.

Reed, averaging around 14 points, is a deft shooter who "has trouble with his back 2 second shot to score. He has shown tremendous talent to be a starter."

Phillips said, "He's a raw individual who'll get better as he puts weight on and gains experience," adding the team coach.

"We all like to win but the most important thing is his gain experience at this level," Phillips said.

"He's got good potential," is how coaches see their players. Time will tell which prospects fulfill their promise, and which miss the mark.

Finley Wants Campaneris; Giants Talked to Scannella

NEW YORK (UPI) — Next time Gene Autry rides off into the sunset, he'll find his saddle bags much lighter — he has committed himself for more than $4 million with Rod Carew and his chief executive, Chuck Bavasi, the go-ahead to pick up 36-year-old Campy Campaneris for insurance.

Finley, who said he would make the deal with the Rangers, they'll be getting an over-the-hill shortstop who, in addition, has a no-cut contract guaranteeing him $750,000 for the next three years.

Manager Jim Fregosi would like Campaneris for insurance but Bavasi doesn't know whether he wants to make the deal. The Rangers also would give up catcher Dave Roberts and get third baseman Dave Chalk.

That "amateur" Soviet National hockey team, which skated rings around the NHL All-Stars, left this country with a lot more than pleasant memories.

Frank Cashen, former general manager for the Baltimore Orioles and more recently vice president of marketing for Jerry Holtzberg's brewing company in that city, is back in baseball after three years. He has taken over as administrative officer in the commissioner's office, filling the job previously handled by Johnny Johnson, now running the minor leagues.

Sports Celebrity Carnival Benefited Special Olympics

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — A World Series baseball autographed by the Los Angeles Dodgers was auctioned for $500 and Bobby Orr's hockey gloves went for $300. Smiles were plentiful.

Several thousand area residents turned out Monday night for the Rhode Island Sports Celebrity Carnival at the Providence Civic Center. They met favorite pit athletes, collected autographs and spent money to benefit the Special Olympics program for the handicapped.

Providence native, sat atop a dunking pool where tries to douse him were priced three for $1. He splashed into the water after an accurate pitch from Kenny Neal, 6, of East Providence.

Lopes said the evening "put everything in the proper perspective for me. It makes me thankful that the good Lord blessed me with talent."

"When I see young individuals who weren't as fortunate as I was, I realize I was one of the lucky ones. It makes me want to do whatever I can to contribute to the success of this worthy cause."

"A lot of the athletes have already come up to me and said, 'Mike, you do it again, I want in,'" Lyons said.

"Maybe that's the bottom line. Red Sox pitcher Dennis Eckersley went over a bit as 10-year-old Joey Commora climbed a small ladder and draped a "Special Olympics" gold medal around his neck.

McAdoo Nets 21 But Celtics Bow

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob McAdoo, the five-time All-Star traded Sunday from New York to Boston, received a rude Texas welcome Wednesday night when the Celtics were trounced, 149-119, by the San Antonio Spurs.

"I don't know what their (Boston's) plans are for me," said McAdoo, who scored 19 of his 21 points in the fourth quarter. "It will take me a few games to get into the flow."

Son Antonio's points flowed like a raging river against hapless Boston, as the Spurs set a season record with 47 points in the third period and shot a torrid 64 percent overall in ripping apart the Celtic defense, which had played well during the last two weeks.

"This (Boston) is going to be a good team," said Spurs' Coach Doug Moe, who called off the horses early in the rout. "Bob McAdoo is great."

Cedric Maxwell's jumper pulled Boston to within 53-58 in the second quarter, but the Celtics could get no closer.

NBA scoring leader George Gervin tallied 16 of his 32 points in the Spurs' big third quarter and Larry Kennon added 22 for Central Division first-place San Antonio.

Maxwell finished with 19 points for the Celtics, who still dwell in the Atlantic Division basement.

Squirts Win Three Games

The Regal-sponsored Manchester Hockey Squirts finished the weekend with three wins. In a 4-1 victory over Vernon, Jeff Lampron scored twice and had an assist. Also scoring were Kyle Backus and Ted Fitzgerald. Assisting were Mike Horn, Ron Smith, Dave Molin and Roger Leblanc.

In a later contest Lampron, Jim McKeown and Gerry Rothman scored and Bill Fitzgerald recorded an assist as the locals blanked Wethersfield, 3-0.

A 3-1 win over Wethersfield concluded the weekend sweep by Coach John Lampron's charges. Rothman tallied a three-goal hat trick on assists by Fitzgerald and Keith Chris, Reichardt and Backus.

Steve Cavallo and Rod Cottrell shared goal-scoring duties and were credited with many saves.

Mark Gehowski and Steve Gallagher starred on defense. Team newcomer Bruce Datsny played well as Wayne the locals' record now stands at 24-5.

Artists Must Be Practical

CHICAGO (UPI) - In these days of make-like bureaucrats, Ten Horwitz says artists often must know more than how to sculpt and paint to be successful in their pursuit of creativity.

For instance, he says, it can pay for artists to know how to write effective grant applications, to be aware of the rules governing tax exemptions, and to know how to keep account books suitable for the Internal Revenue Service.

Horwitz, 34, is director of the Chicago-based Lawyers for the Creative Arts, one of a growing number of organizations seeking to help artists wage their fight against the proliferation of legalese and bureaucratise they face in trying to mold masterpieces.

"For artists living in this time and place there is a bureaucratic maze which often is hard for them to master," Horwitz said in an interview. "Many are unprepared for it because most art schools don't give them any preparation. Many have kept themselves removed from these kinds of concerns and tend to be naive about them."

Horwitz's non-profit organization with its $30,000 budget, funded through private and government grants has 150 volunteer lawyers who are willing to give free legal advice to fledgling artists.

"We get questions on all types of problems," Horwitz said. "Some art organizations want to become non-profit organizations and gain tax exemption and that often is complex. Attorneys are needed."

He help artists with contract problems, get copyrights to protect their work, collect money from galleries.

"We give advice on how to make grant applications."

"Many try to write zippy things and tend to be obscure about their project. Straightforward writing is better."

"We also can tell them where to call. Some may brood over a problem for months where we can solve it with one quick call."

The organization has volunteer certified public accountants willing to help artists group set up books and establish an accounting system, a necessity in dealing with the IRS.

Horwitz said increased public bodies for the arts and requirements which in many cases make funds available only to non-profit groups have made it more important for fledgling artists to have access to legal help.

He said the organization last year aided artists with 1,000 queries and 170 cases were referred to volunteer attorneys for further help. Some artists have established continued relationships with volunteer attorneys and in some instances attorneys have received words of art to hang in their office for their efforts, he said.

Free legal help generally will be given by the attorneys to artists with less than $5,000 annual income or organizations with less than a $100,000 budget.

The organization was formed in 1972 and similar groups exist in New York and San Francisco, Horwitz said. About 25 other groups recently have been formed or are in the planning stages across the country and art schools are becoming more aware of the bureaucratic problems faced by artists, Horwitz said.

Sugar Snap peas are a new vegetable variety for 1979, announced by All-America Selections with award of a gold medal. The round pods are edible and can be "snapped" into pieces for serving. The drawing is from All-America Selections.

Gardening Several Varieties Added to Catalogs

BY FRANK ATWOOD

Each year about this time we are given the names of new varieties of annual flowers and vegetables, developed by plant breeders somewhere in the country and given awards as All-America Selections.

The new varieties are announced after the flowers and vegetables have been grown in test gardens scattered across the United States and southern Canada and graded there by experts.

There are 31 test gardens for flowers and 27 separate gardens for vegetables.

After the scores have been compiled, announcement is held back until seed can be produced in sufficient quantity to meet national demand and this may mean another year or two.

This year six flowers and six vegetables have met the qualifications, an unusually large number. The new varieties are listed in 1979 seed catalogs and packets bearing the little red-white-and-blue shield of the All-America Selections will be found on seed display racks.

The varieties thus honored will be marketed also with a higher price than others. There is a financial reward from this higher price that goes to the individual or institution that has originated the new variety.

There is only one gold medal among the One Gold Medal 12 awards. It goes to an edible-podded snap pea that I think can truly be called a new vegetable. We have had flat-podded "sugar" peas or "snow" peas, to be cooked and eaten pods and all. The new snap peas have thick walls and can be "snapped" into bite-size pieces for use raw in salad or lightly stir-fried, or boiled or steamed. They are said to have a distinctive flavor. Sugar Snap is the variety name.

The vines are tall, growing four to six feet, and need support. Mature pods have "string" like old-fashioned "string beans." Peas should be planted as early as the garden can be worked.

There is only one silver medal among the 12 winners and it, too, has been given for a vegetable variety, Grand Duke Hybrid kohlrabi. The ancient and honored member of the cabbage tribe, grown for its swollen stems which resemble above-ground turnips. The new variety was bred for rapid growth.

There are two winter squashes, "Early Butternut" and "Sweet Mama," a small drum-shaped winter squash. When planted in mid-summer so the fruits are harvested in cool, fall weather, they reach maximum sweetness.

There is a cucumber, named "Flintstones," first animated cartoon series to be aired in prime time, returns to the tube as a Saturday morning show for kiddies on NBC-TV. "Just goes to prove that television is still operating back in the stone ages," said Joseph Barbera,

St. Rose Ladies Set Flea Market

EAST HARTFORD - The St. Rose parish Ladies' Guild will sponsor a flea market in the school auditorium, 33 Church St., on Saturday, March 31, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Along with a rummage sale in the music room, a tea cup auction, a raffle, and baked goods and plant booths are planned. A mini-cafe will be available.

Tables for the flea market are available on a first come, first served basis. There is a rental fee. For table reservations and further information, please call Mrs. Sadie A. Hodgdon at 528-8630 or Mrs. Laurette Pelletier at 289-5650.

MCC Drama Club Plans Auditions

MANCHESTER - The Drama Club at Manchester Community College will present "The Bong Show" in the college auditorium at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 28. Auditions for the show will be held in the auditorium tonight at 7:30 and Thursday at 1:40 p.m.

All kinds of acts and performers are welcome to audition. On the night of the show, the best act will receive the first prize of $40. The most original act will receive the second prize of $15. The act that displays the worst taste will receive a prize of $2.

Tickets will be sold at the door.

For further information, call the student activities office at 646-6800, extension 229.

Peopletalk Faces of Look Reunite

The faces were younger and the magazine was older the last time they got together, but most of the original cover photos came out Tuesday at a Beverly Hills, Calif., party celebrating the revival of Look magazine.

All-time Look covergirl champion Janet Leigh was there. She graced the original six times. So was Rita Hayworth who made it three times. Others were Milton Berle, Gene Kelly, Hugh O'Brian, Nanette Fabray, Kay Gable - the late "King's" wife - and Natalie Wood.

Natalie never made the old publication, but she'll be in the new one soon. Husband Robert Wagner was commissioned to shoot a photo layout for an upcoming edition on a movie she'll be making in Russia.

Identity Crisis

Chicago Mayor Michael Bilandic couldn't seem to decide if he's more like Jess Christ or the bush of Iran, so he mixed both in his metaphors Wednesday.

In a podium-pounding speech rallying 500 Democratic precinct captains to his re-election cause, a beleaguered Blandic shouted, "In the early history of Christianity, you see a leader starting with 12 disciples. They crucified the leader and made martyrs of the disciples." Minutes later, he likened criticism of his administration to problems besetting the shah, saying, "The same seeds of subversion are being planted in Chicago ... the same attempts are being made to destroy." The primary test comes Feb. 27.

The Breaks

No one ever accused Gabe Kaplan of being a method actor, but he seems to be gravitating in that direction.

He makes his movie debut playing a delicatessen clerk turned basketball coach in "Fast Break," but he was forced to cancel a personal appearance tour on behalf of the film this week in New York.

Seems he broke a finger in California - playing basketball.

Quote of the Day

U.S. Ambassador William Sullivan, living up to his reputation as a cool and dapper diplomat in Tehran after being rescued from leftist guerrillas who overran his embassy, took him prisoner, slapped him and brandished guns and knives at his throat: "Well, it's been an interesting Valentine's Day ... You win a few, you lose a few."

Glimpses

New York's Holiday Inn became a movie set again this week - this time with Van Johnson shooting "Corlene to Brooklyn" in two of the rooms and planting a Valentine's Day kiss on hotel sales director Pat Kiss ... People magazine staged a Valentine's Day Prom at New York's Roseland Wednesday with Margaux Hemingway, Francesco Scavullo, Paul Stanley of "Kiss" and Arlene Dahl among judges in a clutch of competitions ... George Burns has been added to the cast of presenters at the Academy Award ceremonies this year in Hollywood ... June Haver is in Hollywood, taping "A Clay Fisted Idol" for CBS-TV's "Paper Chase" series.

'Superman' Has Flying Start

NEW YORK (UPI) - Superman is off to a flying start, pulling in an average box-office gross of $1 million a day, but among movie immortals the Man of Steel probably will finish third behind a pair of robots and a mechanical shark.

Since its release in mid-December, the movie "Superman" has grossed $75 million at the box office, says Robert Dorfman, a spokesman for Warner Communications, Inc.

The early figures indicate the movie will worth the $50 million spent on it before its release.

"It definitely will be the biggest in Warner Brothers' history," Dorfman said, "and it will probably end up in the top three to date."

But Dorfman conceded "Superman" probably won't catch the No. 1 grossing movie, "Star Wars."

At the time "Superman" was released, "Star Wars" already had grossed $75 million in the United States and Canada since it came out in May 1977.

Dorfman says "Superman" does have a chance to overtake the top two, the original "Jaws" released in June 1975.

Dorfman said "Superman" won't be released in some foreign countries until June, and if the film is extremely well-received in the Orient it "could pass 'Jaws' personally I kind of doubt it will pass 'Star Wars'."

But no matter what the final outcome, "Superman" already has created a legion of followers, the same sort of sea-toga-and-again-fans who boosted "Star Wars" to the top.

"We can tell from the letters we get," said Dorfman.

Singers' Trip Not Sanctioned

By ALICE EVANS
HERALD Reporter

MANCHESTER - The Round Table Singers of Manchester High School will make their annual trip to Hawaii during spring vacation, but this time without the blessing of the Board of Education.

Conflict of interest was cited as the reason for the board's refusal to sanction the trip, because the process used to obtain quotations or bids for the trip was "flawed."

Miss Martha White, director of the Round Table Singers, is also vice president of Travel Time Travel Agency, which booked seats for the trip late in late October, almost three months before the trip was officially advertised to other travel agencies.

Superintendent of Schools James Kennedy also said that the bids were returned to Miss White, which he thought was an incorrect procedure. The Travel Time bid was substantially below that of the other two quotations received, he said.

An attorney representing Travel Time said that a proposal to re-open the bids and that Travel Time make available to the lowest bidder the block of seats it had secured for the trip was unacceptable, Kennedy said.

After meeting with Kennedy twice, the parents group voted to sanction the trip, whether or not it is approved by the board.

Dr. Samuel Smith, speaking for the parents, told the board Tuesday that Miss White had acted only in the best interest of the students. Parents had been concerned that former trips would have been cheaper.

"What will Martha White gain from her inside information (as vice president of Travel Time). The cost for the trip is $130 lower than the other bids, so, she has eliminated profit by the bid," Smith said.

"Who should suffer and how much, when there is only an appearance of conflict of interest? I ask the board to consider this as a learning experience," he said.

Board Chairman John Yavis told Smith that a waiver for public bidding also was not sought. However, Smith didn't think that Miss White knew that such a waiver could be sought.

With or without the board's sanction the students will make their annual trip to Hawaii.

Without the board's sanction, the faculty involved in sponsoring or chaperoning will not be covered by town liability insurance, fund-raising for the trip cannot be conducted at school or during the school day, and discipline follow-up from the school administration will not be available, Kennedy said.

It is also possible that one or more of the days during the April vacation may be actually a school day, he said.

Ice Cutting Time

Subdivision Rules Ready

BOLTON - Copies of the revised subdivision regulations prepared and approved by the Planning Commission are now available at the building inspector's office at the Town Hall.

There is a fee for the booklet. Do-it-yourself packets of the revised pages are available free.

The major changes in the regulations are more detailed requirements to protect against erosion during grading and road building; more specifics on performance bonds; and requirements for traffic control signs.

Special Service Offered

ANDOVER - Andover Elementary School offers services for eligible preschool children with physical, mental or emotional problems.

Project Child Find is intended to help identify children with problems who might need special services or programs.

The project began in 1976. For more information call David Kravet, principal, 742-7289.

Family Night Supper

The Andover Congregational Church missions and stewardship board will have a family night supper Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the church. Those attending should bring a hot dish or salad and a place setting for each family member. Coffee and dessert will be provided.

There will be a narrated filmstrip about the history and scope of the Connecticut Conference.

Volunteers Needed

Volunteers are now working on items for the upcoming Andover Congregational Church fair but more volunteers are needed.

The volunteer workers have a potluck luncheon the last Tuesday of each month. For more information call Chris Hoile.
