WHAT'S NEWS

Dies in Jump

HARTFORD — A 24-year-old man died after jumping from the Founder's Bridge shortly after 5 p.m. Friday, according to Hartford police.
The man was identified as Wayne B. Morrison.
Police said a citizen driving by saw Morrison jump and called the Hartford Police Department.
Arriving at the scene besides the Hartford police were the Hartford Fire Department, the East Hartford Police and the East Hartford Fire Department Emergency Medical Team.
Police said that East Hartford Emergency Medical Technicians worked over Morrison trying unsuccessfully to revive him. He was taken to Hartford Hospital by East Hartford Fire Department ambulance, where Morrison's parents, who live in Glastonbury, later identified him.
Police said that a Utah's driver's license was found on Morrison's person.
Police said it was apparently a suicide.

Fuel from Waste

STORRS (UPI) — A group of University of Connecticut scientists has received a federal grant to study economical ways to convert old newspapers and other waste into fuel to substitute for gasoline in running engines.
Chemical engineering professor Herbert I. Klei will head the team, which will try to find a quick, cheaper way of producing a gasoline substitute.
The U.S. Department of Energy awarded Klei and two other researchers $50,000 to study the topic.

Denies Rage

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Guillermo Aillon Friday denied "lying into a rage" when he learned his wife had moved herself and their baby from their home.
Aillon, 40, a Bolivian native, is being retried for the stabbing deaths of his wife, Barbara, and her parents, wealthy lumber executive J. George Montana and his wife Bernice, in the Montana's North Haven home Aug. 14, 1972.
Aillon Friday finished his third day of testifying in his own defense. He has denied committing the three murders.

Police To Strike

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — For the second time in eight days, riotous police union members voted to strike Friday.
Chants of "Strike! Strike!" filled the room as union leaders distributed strike signs among the crowd of more than 500 officers.
City officials said before the strike would force cancellation of at least the first three days of Mardi Gras parades. Other marches in the suburbs are unaffected by the strike and law enforcement agencies in those areas are bracing for larger crowds due to an influx of revelers from the city.

Says Carter Weak

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — The United States is no longer taken seriously by the Soviet Union, according to Natalya Solzhenitsyn, wife of Nobel prize winning Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn.
And the blame rests with President Carter's weak human rights policy, Mrs. Solzhenitsyn said.
Meeting in Washington Thursday with Rep. James Jeffords, R-Vt., she said the lack of a firm policy has contributed to the arrests and abuse of citizens in the Soviet Union.

Weicker Decision Due on Weekend

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — He spoke of the country's government and its need for leadership, but he has yet to make the announcement many have been awaiting — whether he will seek that leadership.
U.S. Sen. Lowell Weicker, the state's highest ranking Republican, spoke Friday night to Manchester Republicans. His speech, like others he gave Friday in the state, did not include any hint about whether or not he will seek the U.S. presidency.
In a brief interview before Friday night's speech, though, he did say he expects to make that decision this weekend.

It will require discussion with his wife, Camille. They will spend the weekend at their Stoughton home and decide whether Weicker will seek the GOP nomination for president.
"It's as much her decision as it is mine," he said.
The senator, serving his second term, said personal matters will play a role in his choice. He has an eight-month old son and his wife is pregnant.
"That's more than a little bit important," he said.
Weicker has a meeting Sunday with some of his top advisors. He plans to tell them at that session what his decision is.
He did not say when the public announcement would be made, but it should be soon.
Either way, the formal announcement will be made in the state, he said.

Weicker also commented on the recent dispute that has developed about the Republican state chairmanship.
The senator has asked Frederick Biebel, the present chairman, to step down. Biebel had talked with Henry Kissinger about accepting the party's nomination for the state's other U.S. Senate seat now held by Democrat Abraham Ribicoff.

This did not please Weicker.
"We have awfully good talent in this party," he said of the state Republicans. He named four persons he felt would be excellent choices to run for the Ribicoff seat — Richard Bozzuto, state Senate minority leader; Ralph Van Norstrand, state House minority leader; Gerald Stevens, former House minority leader; and Robert Steele, former GOP candidate for governor and former congressman.

"I clearly disagreed with his whole handling of the Kissinger affair," Weicker said. He indicated others feel the same way.
"The party cannot afford this type of warfare," he said.
Biebel now is working on his re-election while the party should be concentrating on the 1979 election, Weicker said.
His speech to the 200 local Republicans gathered at Willie's Steak House centered on the greatness of the country's government.
But, he said, the government does need proper and strong leadership — something he feels is now lacking.

Purge of Generals Stepped Up in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The new Moslem regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini stepped up its purge of former generals and government leaders loyal to the shah Friday. Six have been killed by firing squads and 20 others were reported sentenced to death.

A Pan American World Airways Boeing 707 flew into Tehran and evacuated 152 Americans and other foreigners in a maverick first airlift flight that was denounced by U.S. and British embassies for possibly "compromising" their own evacuation plans.

Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan and his 7-man cabinet approved a bill confiscating palaces, lands, factories and businesses worth billions of dollars of the now departed shah. The edict did not affect the vast fortune the shah and his family have stashed away overseas.

Bazargan also announced creation of special revolutionary courts throughout Iran to try hundreds of former officials of the old regime.

The revolutionary radio called on all armed forces and police units to report back to their posts Saturday.

Khomeini has called on all striking Iranian workers to return to their jobs Saturday and diplomats said a major test of his strength would be how many workers and police obey his instructions to go back to duty.

The U.S. Marine Guards who were overwhelmed in Wednesday's attack on the U.S. Embassy were again on duty Friday but each was accompanied by an armed Khomeini guard. The Marines did not have weapons.

Armed Khomeini marshals also accompanied most of the U.S. Embassy staff on their jobs Friday.

The first four leaders of the shah's fallen regime to be executed were Gen. Nematollah Nassiri, former head of the shah's feared SAVAK secret police; Gen. Manuchehr Khorosroddad, the tough leader of the army's paratroops; Gen. Mehdi Bahmini, martial law administrator for Tehran; and Gen. Reza Najji, martial law administrator in the city of Isfahan where some of the most violent anti-shah rioting took place.

Tehran newspapers later reported that two more senior Iranian officials had been executed, that 20 more had been sentenced to death.

The other two executed officials were identified as Abdol-Azim Vailian, 55, a former governor, general of Khorasan province northeast Iran, and former member of parliament Salsar Jalil.

Morgue officials said all six bodies were riddled with bullets. The four generals were machine-gunned to death and the other two were shot with rifle fire.

The evacuation of thousands of foreigners began with the arrival of a Pan American World Airways Boeing 707 on an "unofficial" flight to airlift foreigners out of Iran.

The jet was halted by armed gunmen at the end of the runway and searched. Passengers were frisked several times and at least 12 were turned back for "visa irregularities" before it took off.

China, Vietnam Swap Border Accusations

United Press International
China and Vietnam Friday accused one another of launching new attacks across their border and China warned the Vietnamese would bear "full responsibility" for the consequences of the escalating border war.

In an angry protest by its Foreign Ministry, Peking accused Vietnam of crossing its border nearly 30 times in the past week to attack two trains and plant landmines that killed 14

Chinese and wounded 20 others.
In a nearly simultaneous protest, the official Vietnam News Agency charged that a force of 150 Chinese soldiers had shelled a Vietnamese border village with "hundreds of 82-mm mortars." But it did not list casualties or say when the alleged attack occurred.

The new reports of fighting coincided with a new flurry of diplomatic activity over the issue that sparked the border war — Vietnam's Christmas Day invasion of Cambodia.

Hospital Group Bolts, Promises Cost Cutting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of 100 community hospitals defied the American medical establishment Friday and promised to try to keep soaring health care costs within the Carter administration's strict guidelines.

The National Council of Community Hospitals, which represents a fraction of America's 7,000 hospitals, said members would try to hold 1979 increases to any administration target — even if lower than the 9.7 percent already proposed.

John Horly, president of the community hospital group, told a White House news conference his organization would attempt to meet the administration guideline "even if it's 4 percent."
"We'll come as close to the goal as we can," Horly promised.

Alfred Kahn, the administration chief inflation monitor, expressed his "genuine appreciation" to Horly for the support of the community hospital group.
Horly, in a letter to President

Carter, said his organization of non-profit hospitals decided to break with the medical establishment because of the danger of inflation.
"We're doing it because we believe inflation is the nation's most critical domestic problem, and hospitals ought to do all they can to fight it," he said.

The giant American Hospital Association, the American Medical Association and the Federation of American Hospitals have rejected the administration guidelines.

Tony Moses, Sutton Park, Bloomfield — "No, I don't. If you allow youngsters to vote, if you allow them to fight our wars, you can't tell them not to go into our bars. If you allow them to do something legally, you won't be driving them to something else."
Will Colman, 10 Heather Road, Ellington — "I think they should raise it again to 21. I just think kids get into trouble too early."
Mrs. Frank Hipple, 50 Elms Village Drive, East Hartford — "Yes, to 21. I'd like to see it back to where it was. I don't think 18-year-olds are responsible."
Tom Hamilton, Knowlwood Drive, Glastonbury — "Yes, it should be raised to 21. I think the responsibility of young people is just not what it should be at 21."
Roger Perron, 192 Hazard Ave., Ellington — "It's hard to say. When I was 18, I was wishing they'd bring it down to 18. But there's an awful lot of accidents. 19 won't solve too much of the problems. 21 would be best."
Mrs. James Asmuth, 269 Stanley Drive, Glastonbury — "Yes, to 19, because it's less likely to be in the high school."
Joan Dufford, 1047 Main St., South Glastonbury — "Well, I thought about it. But the kids are going to get it anyway. I hate to be cynical, but I work with young people and that's the way it is."
Costa Totoni, 203 Candlelight Drive, Glastonbury — "Yes, because there's a lot of accidents on the highway."

That's Entertainment

A Lot Of Difference

BY ALLEN M. WIDEM

Broadcasting, like newspapering, takes a heap of pride in what it is doing. And while broadcasting, to its extent and purpose, must be defined as a combination of entertainment/news/public service, it is not.

Where broadcasting will opt immediately — and, inevitably, this implies sizable, substantial use of explanation points — big brother goes about his business, more conservatively, getting the facts, getting the faces down and putting said facts into printed record.

Bureaucrats Censor Voice of America

WASHINGTON — The Voice of America is supposed to provide accurate, unbiased news to listeners in countries where government censorship turns news reports into propaganda. But there is increasing evidence that the Voice is itself being censored for propaganda purposes — a situation that will ultimately destroy its effectiveness.

Six months ago the Voice had scissored out of a broadcast to the Soviet orbit a reference to the World War II massacre of thousands of Polish officers by Soviet troops. The official explanation was that the deletion was simply an error of editorial judgment, but our associate Howard Rosenberg has obtained written evidence that belies the official alibi.

MANCHESTER — Eligibility rules have been relaxed to allow non-residents to play in the Feline Softball League so that Class A women's softball can survive in Manchester.

Death and Dying V: Death and Social Change

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Death and Dying: Challenge and Change." This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

By ERIC J. CASSELL
Man is the only creature conscious of the inevitability of his own death, and the awesome fact of death has justifiably occupied the human mind since time immemorial.

As a receptacle in which a dread disease was in control, he was often shunned by others, set apart from his usual social connection. The boundaries of his world thus shrank to the size of his hospital room, or to the size of his bed.
The nightmare of terminal illness became not death itself, but the process of dying — alone, away from friends and family, suffering, fearful, uncertain, utterly dependent on a depersonalized technology, tied to tubes, tests, and machines, and unable to act in one's own behalf.

Technology for Human Needs
The work of the noted psychiatrist Elisabeth Kubler-Ross and of Dr. Cicely Saunders, founder of St. Christopher's Hospice in London, arose in an attempt to meet the needs of such patients as Jay Green, finding ways to put technology back in the service of persons, giving physicians definite choices for action, restoring and fostering the dignity and authenticity of patients even in the face of death.
This work, though still unfinished, has begun to revolutionize the treatment of the terminally ill. From the point of view of both doctors and patients, though physicians cannot cure their patients' illnesses, they are by no means helpless. They can offer effective relief of major symptoms — pain, nausea, shortness of breath. Diagnostic tools allow them to predict the course of the disease and to give dying persons concrete information about their illness — what to expect, what not to expect — and thus reduce fear.
These tools are technical tools, but they can be used in the service of sick and dying persons — to keep them in control, to minimize their uncertainty, to keep them well and functioning as long as possible. Knowledge imparted by the physician to the patient, to keep them well and functioning as long as possible. Knowledge imparted by the physician to the patient, to keep them well and functioning as long as possible.

Activity Planned Indoors

COVENTRY — The Parks and Recreation Commission will sponsor several indoor activities for the remainder of the winter weather.
According to Recreation Director Lionel Jean Jr., a volleyball league for both sexes meets Monday night, and women's volleyball is played Tuesday evenings at the Coventry Grammar School.

Wings of Morning

By CLIFF SIMPSON

Simon's Ignorance
I hope you will read the scripture (Luke 7:27-36) to understand clearly this third incident about "the righteousness that needs no forgiveness."

As society sees them, these two figures—Simon, a "good" Pharisee and "the woman who was a sinner"—stand in marked contrast to each other. Even Jesus says "her sins, which are many..."

Note that Simon was a "good man," presumably he fasted, tithed, prayed, attended the temple, and followed the law, but note especially that it was "the woman who was a sinner" that heard both "Your sins are forgiven" and "your faith has saved you" (verses 47 and 50). She was well aware of her sin. She stood behind him, at his feet, weeping.

Jesus did not approve of pride. "For everyone who exalts himself will be humbled" (Luke 14:11) or self-righteousness ("I thank thee, O God, I am not like other Pharisees and scribes" (Luke 18:11 Moffatt) or, I might add, "the pride that aches humility."

"All sin and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). Or again, "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us" (1 John 1:8). Remember that Jesus warned the chief priests and the elders, "The taxcollectors and the prostitutes go into the kingdom of God before you."

God is his own interpreter, and he will make it plain.

Methodists Challenge Good News' Movement

By DAVID ANDERSON

UPI Religion Writer
For more than a decade, the Good News movement in the 10-million-member United Methodist Church has been the principal voice calling for a strong, biblically conservative, evangelical tone for the denomination.

It has been highly visible and, both critics and supporters agree, influential and successful in putting forward its concerns at both the institutional and the grass roots level.

Now, however, the Good News movement has itself come under attack and from no less a prestigious organization than the 72-year-old Methodist Federation for Social Action.

Collectors' Corner

Stamp Honors Steinbeck

By RUSS MacKENDRICK
This 15-cent stamp will be released on the 77th at the John Steinbeck Public Library in Salinas, Calif., as the first of a new series featuring the literary arts. It will be printed in blue, intaglio, much like the recent Bobby Kennedy, only in rectangular format, as we see, instead of a square.

These single-color issues may only please numismatists—a great news for collectors. The stamp was designed by the ubiquitous Bradbury Thompson of Riverside, Conn., and is based on a photograph by Philippe Halsman.

Gold Weights Witty, Varied

LONDON (UPI)—Even by British Museum standards the exhibition's title makes it seem starchy and dull. Why spend time on "Ashanti Gold Weights?"

Yet, here is a delightful and unexpected world, revealed in an exhibition of more than 400 tiny brass sculptures, none more than two inches high.

They come from "The Gold Coast," that aptly named stretch of West Africa which is now Ghana. They were everyday, useful objects which were not designed as art, yet they have the charm and appeal of an outlandish Grandma Moses painting in three dimensions.

An important word was left out of a letter written by E.J. Tighe that appeared in Friday's edition of The Herald.
The paragraph where the mistake was made should have read, "Ask about such officers as Gary Wood and Rich Busick and if you don't hear remarks like 'Nice Guys,' and 'Real Good People,' I'll eat my hat, badge and all."
The word "don't" was inadvertently dropped from the paragraph.

Meeting Set to Spur Interest in Downtown

MANCHESTER — The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a "future of downtown" meeting Tuesday that it hopes will trigger discussion between downtown property owners and the town officials who will make the decisions about the area.
The meeting, which will include a dinner and a half-hour complimentary bar, will begin at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Army & Navy Club. There will be a brief presentation about the downtown area and round table discussions about the subject. James Breitenfeld, executive vice president of the local Chamber, said, "This is an attempt to get as much input from the people living and working down there as we can." he said of the event. Downtown merchants and property owners have been invited along with town officials and the Town Board of Directors. Breitenfeld said the event will give the merchants and property owners a chance to meet and talk with the town officials who make decisions about such things as downtown. Representatives of Fuss & O'Neill also will be present at the Tuesday session, he said. That firm has been selected for the engineering and planning of the reconstruction of downtown Main Street project. The town has received federal funding to pay most of the cost of that project, which includes reconstructing Main Street from Ford to Charter Oak streets.
Another project — the reconstruction and redesign of the Center and Main streets intersection — also has received federal funding. These two projects are seen as keys to the redevelopment of downtown and probably will be discussed Tuesday. Also, the town has approved Community Development funds to hire a planner to coordinate the entire downtown effort.
But, most of all, the evening is seen as an opportunity for all those interested in downtown to meet and discuss the matter.
Some important steps, such as approval of the planner position, have occurred in recent months, he said. "The work of the past several months has now led to the point where active involvement and input by those living, working and owning property downtown must increase," he said.

Driver Blamed in Death

MANCHESTER — Scott T. Aiken, 17, of 115 Hemlock St. has been found negligent in a car accident that occurred last July involving Robert E. Robinson III, 26, late of 20 Knox St., who died from injuries received in the accident.
The Hartford County coroner, Henry Ramenda, made inquiry concerning Robinson's death after he died at Manchester Memorial Hospital July 26, 1978, after an accident at Oak and Spruce streets. Investigation revealed that the vehicles driven by Robinson and Aiken collided at the intersection and the van, driven by Robinson, ended up on the lawn of an Oak street property. According to the investigation, Robinson was thrown out of the van, and never regained consciousness. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.
Police officers who observed and testified Aiken differed on whether or not he was under the influence of liquor and capable of operating a motor vehicle, according to the report submitted by William Galligan, deputy coroner.
Galligan said he found Aiken negligent because he was operating a motor vehicle while his ability was impaired by alcohol, and that he saw the van proceed with a green traffic signal, Aiken had no right to proceed through the intersection after he had seen the van approaching, without slowing down and stopping if necessary, Galligan said.

Cited for Dedicated Service Veteran Firefighter Still Going Strong

By BETTY RYDER
Life Style Editor
MANCHESTER — For some people, retirement means a complete change of pace, usually slower, than their former lifestyle. But, not for Frank "Snitz" Mordavsky, who resides in a comfortable home at Sherwood Circle with his wife, Bernice.

People/Places

Frank Mordavsky displays plaque presented to him by the Eighth Utilities District for 40 years of dedicated service.

Mordavsky, who retired after 23 years with Cheney Bros., and then served 22 years as sexton at St. Bridget Church, retiring a year ago, is still going full force. As sexton, he also served as school crossing guard and was a familiar figure to youngsters and parents alike.
Now, at an age when many of his contemporaries relax and contemplate on a job well done, Mordavsky still serves as assistant chief of the Manchester Fire Department, 8th Utilities District, a position he has held for the past five years. He is also deputy fire warden for the State of Connecticut, Department of Environment Protection for Manchester.

The veteran firefighter served five years with the South Manchester Fire Department, Co. 4, and was recently cited by the 8th Utilities District for "40 years of dedicated service of the highest caliber," to the district.
Mordavsky, tall and slender with long arms and large hands, is remembered by sports enthusiasts as a top player on the volleyball court. For more than 25 years, he was one of New England's premier volleyball spikers playing with both Moriarty Brothers and the Recreation Department when those teams won the New England championship several years.

He also played a little basketball with the Polish-Americans, a natural because of his size, but his best sport was volleyball.
"Whatever the referee's call, for or against the team, he retained a happy-go-lucky attitude," a former teammate recalls.
Currently, recuperating with a bout of skin cancer, Mordavsky reflects on the "good old days" and in some respects, liked them better. Commenting on changes in the fire department, he said, "I remember when we used to drill at the Cheney Mills three-story fire tower. We sure used to get fantastic response to fire calls. Some of us worked at the mill, others at Cheney Lumber Co., the A & P Store, or Carlyle Johnson, and within minutes after the call came into the station, we were there. Of course, today many of the volunteers are employed within a short distance of the station, so response is quick. I remember, years ago, there was a little coffee shop near the firehouse. When the alarm would ring, the men would come swarming out of that place like water over a dam."

Bernice and Frank Mordavsky reminisce as they look at photographs of the North End as it once looked.

Time brings about many changes and Mordavsky recalls the old Buldoz Mads (fire trucks) they used to use.
"Now we have new ones, even one with the aerospace, I never thought I'd see it here," he said.
The Mordavsky household was not always as serene as it is nowadays. "Frank and our two sons, David and Donald were all members of the 8th District and many a night we'd just be sitting down to dinner and a call would come in. Off they'd dash, many times not returning home for several hours," she said.
Retirement doesn't mean STOP in Mordavsky's way of life. In addition to his fire department duties, he and his wife are polka enthusiasts and go to several polka festivals each year, some at Hunter Mountain, N.Y., and others at Three Rivers, Mass.
And, would you believe it, he even does a little gardening and is an avid trout fisherman!
In his spare time, of course,

Debate on Abortion Makes Tempers Flare

HARTFORD (UPI) — The emotionally draining issue of abortion drew hundreds of community leaders, state officials, child-toting mothers and clergy to the Capitol Friday in the largest public hearing turnout of the year.
Tempers flared during a tense, packed afternoon session which saw a ping-pong match of moral arguments. At one point, staunch pro-life advocate Sen. Richard Cunningham, R-Stamford, walked out of the Hall of the House in protest.
"The quality of life of the poor does not improve by destroying their children," said Carol Murphy, president of the Pro-Life Council of Connecticut.
"I believe that all women should be able to have legal and safe abortions — not just the middle class and the rich," countered Joan Sillin, president of Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut.
More than 200 persons showed up at a morning hearing conducted by the Public Health Committee on bills that would prevent Connecticut teenagers from obtaining the pill or intrauterine devices without their parents' consent.
An equal number of witnesses appeared for the Human Services Committee's afternoon hearing on a bill that would use state tax dollars to fund abortions for the poor, not of the "moral dilemma" of abortion. But Cunningham persisted.
"If the Supreme Court says it's all right to kill unborn children, then should we use tax dollars to pay for abortions?" he asked M. Gable.
"I do not think abortion is killing," she replied.
Cunningham asked Rabbi Harold Silver of the Beth Israel Congregation in West Hartford when he thought life began. The rabbi told the senator it was none of his business. Cunningham walked out.
Later, the senator said he had to go to another hearing in the building, but his departure included "an element of protest" at the actions of the House committee chairman, he said. "I think the House side of the committee is being unfairly steered by Rep. Walsh."

Carter Visit Ends On Agreeable Note

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — President Carter and Mexican leader Jose Lopez Portillo ended their troubled talks Friday by agreeing to rare high-level negotiations on natural gas purchases and another summit meeting in the summer.
Both Carter and Lopez Portillo said in separate statements that the major issues dividing the countries remained unresolved — trade, the U.S. purchase of Mexican oil and gas, and the flow of tens of thousands of illegal Mexican workers into the United States.
White House spokesman said Carter was returning to Washington late Friday for an immediate meeting with top security officials including CIA director Stanley Turner, National Security Affairs Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and Vice President Mondale to "review events around the world."
Lopez Portillo told a news conference after Carter left that he was deeply satisfied with the results of his seven hours of talks with Carter over a period of three days, particularly the Carter decision to have former Florida Governor Reubin Askew go to Mexico and study the immigration problem.
Carter, speaking in Spanish to a joint session of the Chamber of Deputies, talked briefly of energy, migration and trade.
"Each of these issues defies easy solution," he said. "Now and for years to come each will require our best efforts to narrow our differences and to find common ground."
The American president, who twice cautioned Lopez Portillo in private that his criticism of the United States "will only have adverse effects," told the Mexican lawmakers that "we have made good progress" and expect relations to warm further.
"Our friendship has been marred by mistakes, and even abuses of power," Carter conceded, but he pledged that nothing improper would be involved in any oil or natural gas agreements.
"We respect the imperative that Mexico will produce at a rate suited to your development objectives," he said. "As a good customer, we are prepared to pay a fair and just price for the gas and oil you wish to sell."
Carter received a standing ovation when he finished his 24-minute speech.

A WEEK-LONG SAVINGS EVENT... SALE STARTS TOMORROW

Part of the Lifestyle Cocaine Routine in Bolivia

By CLIFFORD CHENEY
Logan (Utah) Herald Journal
CHULUMANI, Bolivia (UPI) — The terraced hillside rising behind the patio was bright green with this season's first crop of coca leaves, the source of cocaine for the illicit drug market in the United States.
Our host, a LaPaz banker, took a sip from his glass and nodded toward the crop growing next door to his vacation home.
"The campesinos have been raising coca here since long before cocaine was ever heard of," he said. "It has been one of their basic crops since before the time of Christ. To them, it's just like a crop of tobacco."
The day before, in the newsroom of one of La Paz's daily newspapers, a Bolivian editor took a puff on his cigarette then held it up and told me, "This is worse for you than coca."
A few days later, in the lodge of Celacallaya, the world's highest ski resort at a dizzying 17,000 feet above sea level in the Bolivian Andes, I sipped on a cup of hot tea brewed from coca leaves. "Good for altitude sickness," I was told.
Indeed, the coca leaf — known in the United States only as the source of illegal cocaine — is a routine and integral part of the lifestyle of Bolivia.
Highly educated people in La Paz drink coca tea to fight altitude sickness and to aid digestion. The campesinos of the bleak Altiplano chew the leaves daily to help them withstand hunger and cold. The tin miners of Oruro chew the leaves because they believe the plant prevents lung disease.
Coca is widely used as a folk remedy and pain reliever. Aymara Indians use coca leaves, as Gypsies use tea leaves, to tell fortunes and predict the future.
Yet, alongside Bolivia's traditional and legal market for the coca leaf as an herb, there is a booming illegal market. The biggest purchaser of the coca leaf is an international narcotics smuggling organization which produces and sells millions of dollars of Bolivian cocaine each year in the United States and Europe.
One of the top priorities of the U.S. Embassy in La Paz is to work with Bolivian police and other agencies to cut off the flow of cocaine at its source.
"The coca problem is one area where non-developmental objectives play a significant part in our AID (Agency for International Development) programs in Bolivia," said U.S. Ambassador Paul H. Boeker.
Perhaps half of the coca leaves grown in Bolivia — in the Yungas region around Chulumani and the Chapari region near Cochabamba — go into the illegal drug market.
First the leaf is ground into a pasty "base," which is then refined into cocaine hydrochloride. Much of the refining and most of the international distribution takes place in Colombia.
Boeker said the fight to keep Bolivian coca out of the narcotics trade is important not only to the United States, but to the political future of Bolivia.
"If the cocaine mafia gains more power in this country," he said, "it is going to make it more difficult to achieve the transition to a democratic government."

Coca production has been increasing in Bolivia in the past few years, primarily as a result of an expanding illegal market in the United States and Europe. One irony of American foreign aid to Bolivia is that the biggest expansion of coca acreage occurred in the Chapari after the United States financed new roads into that previously used area.
"We think the domestic demand for coca, the legitimate market demand for chewing and tea, is about half the supply that is presently being grown," said Howard Steele, a U.S. economist assigned to the U.S. Embassy.
Steele's job is to provide the campesinos with substitute crops and give them an economically viable alternative to growing coca for the illicit market.
The project was formerly called the Coca Crop Substitution Pilot Project, but is now dubbed Agricultural Development in Coca Zones. Financed by U.S. foreign aid payments, it is one half of a double-edged effort to fight, at its source, the traffic of cocaine to the United States.
The other half is a Bolivian law enforcement campaign involving narcotics officers from the U.S. State and Justice departments.
"There was not any narcotics law enforcement of any kind in this country until this program was started," said Lopez, a former California policeman. "The Bolivians still lack the records, training and laws to do an adequate job. We still have a long way to go."
The week I arrived in Bolivia, I visited the headquarters of Bolivia's newly organized National Division for Control of Dangerous Substances. There I saw the beginning of Phase 2 of the U.S.-financed Narcotics Control Program — registration of coca vendors in the La Paz area.
Most of the vendors were Aymara and Quechua Indians, dressed in simple native clothing — the men and women standing in line to fill out forms and have their photographs taken. In coming weeks, vendors in the rural areas of the country were to be registered.
Eventually, there would be fines or imprisonment for those who sold coca leaves without a license. It doesn't make much sense to the campesinos, but to Lopez and the other U.S. officials working on the coca problem in Bolivia, vendor registration is another barrier to stop the northward flow of illegal cocaine.
"The more barriers we have, the more chances we'll have to nail them," said Lopez.
Other barriers include coca taxation, new Bolivian narcotics laws, customs checkpoints on roads, stationing of narcotics agents around the country, and registration of coca growers which was Phase 1 of the program.
Eventually, according to the plan, the registration of coca will be restricted to the amount needed to meet legal market demands, he said.

High-Flying Smuggler Had Thrills and Spills

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Robert Eby was a member of the Young Republicans and the owner of a Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., sailboat company in 1972 when friends offered him $12,000 to smuggle six tons of marijuana into the United States.
Eby was initially hesitant, but was persuaded by his friends, whose marijuana-laden ship had run aground in the Caribbean.
"It was a thrill, a challenge," he said. "I never smoked pot. I got high smuggling."
Eby said he was paid an estimated $1 million — "all in cash in fives, tens and twenties" — for smuggling, but that he squandered the money as fast as he made it.
He was captured when the aircraft he was piloting got stuck in the mud at Hanover Airport, drawing the attention of authorities.
A co-pilot was also convicted, although federal authorities were never able to determine who owned the aircraft or where the marijuana was to be delivered. Authorities admit it is difficult to stop the trade, but they are spending several millions of dollars trying. At best, they intercept only two of every 10 marijuana shipments.
"I doubt they are catching that many," said Eby. "There are all sorts of people out there smuggling and they are making big money doing it."

News for Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

Hey! Hey! How is everybody hiding out through this bitter weather? We have been busy both at our center and at the Green School.

At the center we have a couple of time changes. Both the oil painting class and the crewel embroidery class will start at 9:45 a.m. and end at 11:45 a.m.

Next week is school vacation, so we will not be serving meals. You folks who usually come in the morning and stay for the afternoon program should bring your goodies for lunch and we'll have hot water available for tea or instant coffee.

While the schools are closed for the week, our center will be closed Monday in celebration of Washington's Birthday, so our action starts on Tuesday.

The other day we received a card from our good friend Robert Schubert who thanks all you folks for sending him cards. He is now recuperating at the Gaylord Home, Hooker II, Room 225 in Wallingford.

Also James McDowell, Georgia Vince's son, is now back home at 51 Sycamore Lane, recuperating after a stay in the hospital with a heart attack.

We extend our condolences to the family of George S. Risley who passed away this week.

We express our condolences to Marion Crossen, whose sister, Alice Bates, passed away last week and also to Mr. C.J. Packard and his family on the death of his wife, Rena, last weekend.

Just a reminder that our new telephone number is 647-3211.

In a way, we have a bit of sad news to talk about. We have lost a very close friend of all seniors, Phyllis Saich, who was a geriatric nurse practitioner for the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association. Phyllis is picking up a new challenge in nearby County. We certainly are going to miss her because of her deep concern for seniors. She started the weekly health clinic. Phyllis also had many other ideas and projects and was instrumental in the free Blood Pressure Clinics on a periodic schedule and also started our exercise class.

Yes, we lost a good friend, one we all will miss. However, we understand the opportunities presented to her, and we all sincerely wish her every success in her new endeavor. Our loss is County's gain. We all thank her wholeheartedly for her concern and personal interest and wish her the very best.

By the way, Phyllis' replacement is Louise Letour, who will carry on her health clinic and welcome her aboard and look forward to a good working relationship with her.

The action here starts with our bowling league last Tuesday. Class A high triple, Ida Cormier, 437; Ivor Johnson, 527; high single, Ida Cormier, 182; Bob McComb, 215; Class B high triple, Ken Nettleton, 318; Irvin Secor, 599; high single, Kay Nettleton, 131; Irvin Secor, 194.

On Wednesday morning we had 32 players for our pinocle games despite the cold weather and the winners were Jennie Fogarty, 575; Audrey Dures, 565; Arvid Peterson, 558; Josephine Schaez, 544; Bill Stone, 551; George Last, 548; Ann Thompson, 548; Bert Turner, 541.

On Wednesday morning we had 32 players for our pinocle games despite the cold weather and the winners were Jennie Fogarty, 575; Audrey Dures, 565; Arvid Peterson, 558; Josephine Schaez, 544; Bill Stone, 551; George Last, 548; Ann Thompson, 548; Bert Turner, 541.

In the afternoon we had four tables of bridge and the winners were: Rene Maire, 430; George Last, 430; Nadine Malcolm, 320; Kay Ellsworth, 300.

Also keep in mind that on Monday, Feb. 26 we will be signing up for a day trip to Boston for the annual flower show. You'll also have a chance to spend some time at the Quincy Market Place where you can find some nice restaurants for your meal.

The price of the trip is $9 which includes bus fare and ticket to the flower show. By the way, the trip is scheduled for March 22.

Speaking of trips, keep in mind one that we are thinking about, and that is a week in the Grand Canyons. We'll fly to Las Vegas, spend a couple nights there and then travel by bus to take in Bryon, Ninon and Grand Canyons, staying over night at two of them before heading back to Las Vegas and home. If you haven't had the experience of seeing the canyons, then I urge you to think about this trip. Words can't really express the scenery and you must see it for yourself, it's really beautiful and breathtaking. More on that later.

Our Variety Show rehearsal will be from 5 to 7 p.m. tomorrow - Sunday. So be sure to eat something before you come to the rehearsal because it will go right along those two hours.

Gustamachio Sets Mark But Cheney Five Loses

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Editor

Too many first-half turnovers, coupled with the work of Reggie Simmons, spelled doom for Cheney Tech as it dropped a 68-54 Charter Oak Conference basketball decision last night at the Beavers' gym.

There was some consolation for the Technicians as senior captain Dave Gustamachio became the school's all-time career leading scorer at the 64.1 mark of the opening canto.

Gustamachio tallied the Beavers' first field goal at 7:52 on an offensive rebound to draw into a tie with previous record-setter Tom LetCourt and broke it with an inside hoop. He wound up with 75 points to place the current record to 878 points.

The contest ended on a sour note for Gustamachio as he suffered a twisted left ankle with 28 seconds left and had to be helped to the bench.

Rocky Hill, 11-5 in the conference and 12-7 overall, took a 24-10 lead after one quarter with Simmons and Bob Dixon each accounting for 10 points. The Terriers were 11 for 21 from the field with only one turnover while the Technicians were 5 for 11 with 8 turnovers.

"We had too many turnovers," agreed Cheney Coach Phil Crockett, "and we didn't communicate on defense. Our defense was poor in the first half. That was the big difference."

The Beavers cut it to 28-24 midway thru the second stanza as it ripped off 8 unanswered points but Rocky Hill outscored the locals, 10-4, the last 3:25 for a 38-28 halftime edge.

The visitors' defense was the closest Cheney coming in the final canto 62-53 with 2:10 remaining.

Simmons, flashy guard with fine moves, also had the Terriers with a game-high 24 points followed by Tom Rooney (15) and Dixon (12).

Gustamachio, a tower of strength on the boards as well as his point-production, was supported by sophomore Scotti Cable and Mo Harrison, each with 11 markers.

Cheney had 11 turnovers at the half and finished with 21 while the Terriers turned the ball over twice in the first 16 minutes and 13 times overall.

Cheney, which dropped its 10th straight, slipped to 3-14 in the COC and 3-16 overall with the setback. It winds up its season Tuesday with a home date against Coventry High.

Rocky Hill also took the jayvee contest, 53-40. Mike Switzer had 18 points in the first half and 18 points for the young Beavers.

Windham Tops Indians

One play that turned around last night's important battle for fourth place in the CCIL standings in Wilimantic was caused by a mini-blackout followed by an official's call which shook up the visitors from Manchester.

When the smoke of battle cleared, Windham treasured a 50-47 victory, second of the year over the Indians and broke it with an inside hoop. He scored the margin to 53-46 at the end of the third quarter.

The Eagles were a torrid 43 for 69 from the field.

D.J. Patenaude and Mike Stowell paced Glastonbury with 18 and 11 markers respectively.

East also took the jayvee contest, 75-42. Galligan had 20 points, Tim Skoly 15 and Tom Fortin 10 for Coach Tom Malin's young Eagles, now with a splendid 16-3 mark.

Coach Jimmy Penders' quintet extended the margin to 53-46 at the end of the third quarter.

Murphy, standout guard, topped East with a game-high 23 points and also dished out 8 assists. Pete Kiro chipped in 18 markers and 17 rebounds. Venora had a dozen markers and 17 rebounds while Pagan had a career-high 12 points. He also handed out a team-leading 10 assists.

Catholic in Romp Over Glastonbury

Running up its highest point production of the season, East Catholic routed visiting Glastonbury High, 107-49, in non-conference basketball action last night at the Eagles' Nest.

The win was East's 12th in 19 outings with its final contest Tuesday night against cross-town Manchester High at 8 o'clock start. The Tomahawks slipped to 3-16 with the setback.

The Eagles roared to a 34-4 advantage after the first period with Matt Atwater and Mark Murphy each accounting for 7 points. Mark Pagan 6 and Bob Venora 5.

Coach Jimmy Penders' quintet extended the margin to 53-46 at the end of the third quarter.

Oilers Turn Back Whalers

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Dennis Sobchuck's 18th goal of the season proved to be the winner for the Edmonton Oilers over the New England Whalers 4-2, in World Hockey Association action at the Springfield Civic Center Friday night.

It was Edmonton's sixth straight win and the third straight loss for the Whalers.

First period saw Bill Flett of Edmonton and Dave Kenn of New England exchange goals. Edmonton, with a three goal outburst in the second period, sealed the win. Tallying for Edmonton were Paul Schur, Wayne Gretzky and Sobchuck. The loan New England goal in the stanza was from Andre Lacroix.

Alcott Out Front

MIAMI (UPI) — Amy Alcott finished with two birdies for her second straight round of 70 Friday to take a two-shot lead at the halfway point of the 1979 LPGA tour's opening event.

A stroke back in the $100,000, 72-hole tournament was veteran Sandra Post, who shot a 71 Friday for 142 total. First round leader Hollis Stacy shot a two-over par 74, but stayed within reach in third place at 163.

Nancy Lopez, the rookie sensation last year, was at 72-148.

Penney Too Tough For East Hartford

Capping off a fine 1978-79 regular season, Penney High tripped cross-town rival East Hartford High, 81-45, in CCIL basketball action last night at the Black Knights' gym.

Penney winds up 14-1 in the CCIL, 16-4 overall, while the hapless Hornets finish at 1-17 in the league and 1-22 overall.

Penney had a 12-8 lead after the first quarter and 28-20 halve at the intermission. The Black Knights broke it open in the third quarter, leading 44-28 going into the final canto.

Ef Huppe and Mike Picard each had 6 points in the third quarter for Penney as the Knights moved out to a lead which was never threatened.

Huppe and Dan Lima each had 14 points for Penney with Picard chipping in 13. Picard had a rebounding 11 rebounds and Huppe and Karl Schultz 11 apiece.

The Knights effectively shut down East Hartford's high-scoring Tyler Jones with a diamond-and-one defense. Jones, who wound up with 17 points, had only two field goals in the first half and finished 5 for 26 from the field.

Hectic Off-Season Kept Guidry Busy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Ron Guidry promises a reclusive off-season next year, but he'll have a hard time fulfilling the prophecy if his 1979 season is as successful as 1978.

"It's been a hectic off-season," the ace Yankee southpaw said at a recent sports dinner here, where he was honored as the top professional athlete of 1978. "Next year, I think I'll just take my season once it's over and become a recluse."

The American League's Cy Young Award winner has spent much of this off-season hunting near his Carereno, La., home.

"I never work out during the winter," Guidry admitted. "I get all my exercise hunting and doing a lot of walking. I never touch a baseball in the off-season."

But when the 5-foot-11, 153-pound Guidry does pick up a baseball, it usually means trouble for opposing pitchers.

The 25-game winner last season says he needs an extra day of rest between pitching stints because he throws so hard.

"I didn't start this escalation of salaries and I'm not going to top it. But I can call it a sign of the times or getting whatever the traffic will bear. That's all I need. I admit ego and pride are a big, big part of my motivation for jumping on the band wagon," he said.

He warned the Red Sox management that the longer it waits to meet his salary demands, the more expensive it may get.

"Right now, I don't even want to talk about it. I've had four very tough meetings with them. They could have resolved the entire matter last fall, either before or after they signed Jim Rice.

"They could have signed me two weeks ago and saved themselves $200,000. I might wake up in the mor-

Rick Getting copped the high hurdles in red and white colors in 8.2 and Kelley won the high jump at six feet.

Move Approved

Once again the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission has been asked for an opinion regarding the use of non-residents in Manchester Recreation Department programs.

The latest request was aired Thursday night at the commission's regular monthly meeting and came from the Feline Softball League.

The commission related and said it would approve the request with a limit of no more than five non-residents on any one team, on a one-year trial basis effective next season.

The Feline League considers itself in the Class A non-resident completed players who take the game seriously, unlike the Rec Women's League which fits into the fun category.

The Feline League, once numbering six entries, dropped down to four last year. Two of the clubs were strong and of near equal strength with the two others also near equal, but of less ability.

The Fellers sought the non-residents to make a more competitive circuit, thus the commission bowed and give its blessing.

It wouldn't be too surprising if the male teams in various leagues sought the same ruling allowing non-residents to be sprinkled on their rosters.

Although there is a Rec Department rule that a non-resident be barred from playing in the adult program, there are a number taking part in basketball league play. The Rec is content, as is, to allow infractions, and there are so many in one league none of the entries want to make it an issue.

Yaz Says He's Overpaid But Wants More Money

HIGHLAND BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Carl Yaztremski of the Boston Red Sox says he doesn't think he's worth what he's being paid but he wants more. One report says he wants $2.1 million for his next three years.

Yaztremski told the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel in a copyrighted interview published Friday he's prepared to sit out the 1979 season unless the Red Sox meet his salary demands.

Yaztremski, interviewed by the Sun-Sentinel's Craig Barnes at his Highland Beach, Fla., home, said, "I don't believe I'm worth the salary I'm asking and I don't think there's a player in the game worth what he's getting."

"If you tore up all the contracts and started over, everybody would be making less if they were judged on their true value and ability," he said.

The Patriot Ledger newspaper of Quincy, Mass., reported Friday that Yaztremski is demanding a $2.1 million contract for what would be his last three years with the Red Sox.

The total was confirmed Thursday by team officials about 24 hours after Yaztremski made known his financial desires in a meeting with team officials Wednesday at Fenway Park, said Bob Finnigan, baseball writer for the Ledger.

Yaztremski, who has spent half of his 29 years in a Boston uniform, left the season, saying "I'm not going to alter the numbers one cent. If I can't be satisfied on my contract, then I don't even want to put on a uniform."

Finnigan said Yaztremski was demanding a simple power play in demanding the Red Sox more than double his 1978 salary, estimated at between $75,000 and $80,000.

But Yaztremski, in the Fort Lauderdale interview, said his views about the true worth of professional baseball players has no bearing on his salary demands.

Cozza Nixes Princeton Offer

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Yale University football coach Carmen Cozza said Friday he wants to keep his job and has decided not to pursue an offer to become Princeton University's athletic director.

Cozza, Yale's 32nd head football coach and the most successful in the school's history, said he discussed the job offer with Princeton officials but decided not to accept the post.

"I just decided not to pursue it any further," he said. "I went down and discussed it with them. Then I came back and re-evaluated my position here at Yale."

"I talked to our people and to my family and decided I still wanted to coach at Yale."

Cozza was appointed Yale head coach in January, 1965, succeeding John Pont, his former college roommate and teammate at Miami of Ohio. Cozza was assistant coach at Yale under Pont, who left to become head coach at Indiana University.

It was the second time Cozza succeeded his former roommate in a coaching job.

In the Princeton job any more," Cozza said.

He said his desire to keep coaching was "the biggest single factor in my decision — coaching and coaching."

During his 14 years as head coach at Yale, Cozza has chalked up an 89-34-3 record — including a 70-25-3 mark in Ivy League play. His teams have piled up 12 straight wins over Princeton.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
How the Other Woman Sees The 'Other Woman'

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago you had some advice in your column for a woman who was in love with a married man. I started out, "Never expect to see him on Sundays or holidays."

I cut it out and stuck it in a book, but now I don't remember which book it was, and it's driving me crazy. (My husband is a college professor and we have at least 10,000 books in our library!)

I need that letter to show to my daughter who is in love with a married man. Can you locate it and print it again, please?

L. IN NEW HAVEN

DEAR L.: Here it is:

Dear Abby: May I give your readers the benefit of my very valuable experience? I address this to any woman who is "in love with a married man."

Never call him at home. Don't ever expect to see him on Sunday or holidays. Be prepared to entertain HIM at all times. He may bring a bottle or the steaks occasionally, but in actual dollars and cents you will spend more on him than he'll spend on you. Never depend on him in times of personal crisis. Don't believe him when he tells you his wife is a shrew, dumb, hateful, too fat, too tall and she hasn't slept with him for 10 years.

Don't ever expect his wife to divorce him - even if she catches him. She knows you are not his first, and won't be his last. Also, she is not about to give up her social status, financial security and retirement income because of you.

Now my evenings are filled with a variety of activities - potluck dinners, dances, Bible studies, to name a few. I have met several eligible, intelligent and beautiful young women. (And they're not graduate either!)

For every lonely man reading this, there are probably two lonely women wishing they could meet him. No more singles for me. I've got him to handle now. In case you're wondering, I'm a 27-year-old physician.

DOC. K.G. MO.

DEAR DOC: Your prescription will send a lot of people to church. (Especially those who never had a prayer.)

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple day-afternoon ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (10 cent) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 152 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Win at bridge

NORTH 317
WEST 317
EAST 317
SOUTH 317

West won and led a diamond, but South just hooked up with dummy's ace. Then he led a third heart from dummy. South's ace and the ruff of another heart to set up his partner's fifth heart as a winner.

Now South cashed his ace of spades and led a third club. If West ruffed high, South would discard a diamond. If West ruffed low, South would discard a diamond.

South ruffed and led a diamond. West's last heart in order to discard his last trump. He still lost two trump tricks and the heart lost earlier, but he had avoided any diamond losers.

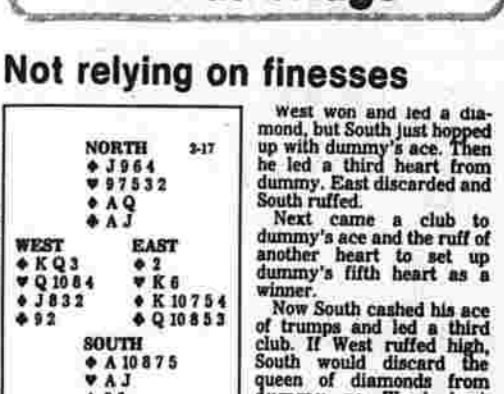

Ask the Experts
Your left-hand opponent has opened one diamond. After a pass overall, by your partner, you find you're on lead against a four-heart contract.

Colorado reader asks which spade you lead from queen-4.

The standard lead is the four-spade. (SEE ENTERPRISE ASK.)

Do you have a question for the Experts? Care of this newspaper. Individual questions will be answered if accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes. The most interesting questions will be used in the column. You will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.

'Roots 2' Is Going to Make Her a Star

By JOAN GEOGHEGAN

Petite Debbi Morgan can't stop her enthusiasm for "Roots: The Next Generations" from bubbling out. Two magnificent dimples on either side of her face deepen as she smiles and discusses her role of Elizabeth Harvey, Alex Haley's Aunt Liz.

As Aunt Liz, Debbi ages from 18 to 83. Her's is the miniseries' largest role; she's in 12 out of the total 14 hours.

She thinks the impact of "Roots: The Next Generations" will be "just as much or more" than "Roots."

"The physical slavery isn't there," she says, "but the struggle is."

Tom Morgan's attempt to vote is snuffed out by an impossible literacy test. The Ku Klux Klan burns a white store-owner's shop to the ground because he helps the blacks.

The blacks have more contempt for their lifestyles than the characters in "Roots" did. Most are determined to better themselves.

For instance, Will Palmer buys a lumber company and builds a grand house. He's able to send his daughter Bertha, Haley's mother, off to college.

According to Debbi, the conflict between the races takes on a new dimension in this miniseries.

"It's always dealing with prejudice between races, even within our own people."

When Miss Carrie, the black school teacher, marries a young white man (Richard Thomas), he's ostracized by the whites.

"It just was not done then," Debbi says. "As far as his father was concerned, he was a black man."

Like many Americans,

Prejudice can come in all colors, and Debbi Morgan's whole life is altered when her father forbids her marriage to a light-skinned black man because he is "too white" in the opening episode of "Roots: The Next Generations" airing on ABC on Sunday, Feb. 18.

Debbi was enthralled by the original "Roots" miniseries. But she insists that all the good roles in the first miniseries were for men. "Roots: The Next Generations" has all the best roles for actresses.

A 22-year-old former New Yorker, Debbi moved to Los Angeles in 1976. She contends that she was always a Californian at heart, in spite of the years she spent growing up in New York City.

She also spent many of her childhood vacations with relatives in North Carolina, which helped her understand the rural Southern atmosphere of ing episode, when Liz Harvey falls in love with a light-skinned boy.

"The boy I'm in love with," Debbi says, "my father refuses to let me marry him. It completely shatters her; she never marries."

Instead Liz goes to Memphis, Tenn., and becomes a school teacher. She gives up teaching and comes home to Henning, Tenn., when her father dies.

Other scenes, which are small but very important, feature Aunt Liz with young Alex Haley. She tells Alex about his ancestor, Kunta Kinte.

Haley is played by three actors. Christoff St. John portrays him as a child; Damon Evans, as a young adult; James Earl Jones, as an adult.

Haley visited the set of "Roots: The Next Generations" a number of times, and Debbi became friendly with him.

"He's a great story teller," she says. "I could talk to him for hours. He'd tell me some stories about Elizabeth that would really crack me up."

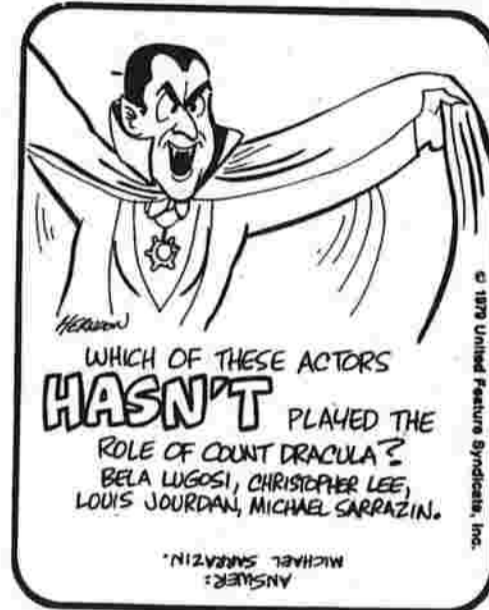

If "Roots: The Next Generations" is as successful as "Roots," Debbi is headed for stardom.

She is keeping a level-headed attitude towards her work, despite her excitement.

"I'm hoping I'll be a working actress. I'd like to make a good living. I want to be a good actress and grow in my craft."

She has a series pilot lined up with Warner Brothers. Hopefully, it will become a weekly series.

When she considers the hours she spent in make-up to transform her young face into that of the aged Aunt Liz, Debbi coos, "I hope I end up like Lena Horne, I could throw this 'Roots' look out the window."

WHICH OF THESE ACTORS HASN'T PLAYED THE ROLE OF COUNT DRACULA? BELA LUGOSI, CHRISTOPHER LEE, LOUIS JOURDAN, MICHAEL SARRAZIN.

The Precision Haircut Explained Precisely.

TV Dial-ogue

INVESTIGATORS - My husband says that Raymond Burr played a journalist in a series within the past few years. Could you tell me if he did and what the name of it was? Also, would we like to know the name of the series that Robert Forster starred in. We saw him recently in "Who Is Killing The Stuntmen." - Mrs. Lincoln Womack, Streater, Ill.

Burr tried to recreate the success of "Ironside," with a series called "Kingston." The only difference was he played an investigative reporter instead of a police department. Burr walked as Kingston, but the series didn't have a leg to stand on and was cancelled before the 1977 season was over. Forster also sleuthed his way through two series. He was a private eye in "Banyon," which, unfortunately, flopped despite some nice '30s atmosphere. Prior to that he played an Indian deputy sheriff in "Nakia."

Dial-ogue
HIGH-KICKER - I recently saw "A Holiday Tribute to Radio City Music Hall." My mom was a Rockette back in the '50s, and I want to surprise her with a picture of them back at that time. Is it possible? - Kenneth Longview, Texas.
They should have old publicity photos on file, the question is whether or not you can wrangle a copy of your mom in her dancing days. Try writing the public relations department at Radio City. The address is 1280 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036. Can she still tap-dance her way around the dinner table?
FUN MONEY - When contestants win money on game shows, do they get to keep it all? - Mark Tanner, Longview, Texas
If they take the money and run, they do. Otherwise, the government gets a split by way of taxes.

Taj Mahal offers a unique synthesis of American and Third World music on "Austin City Limits," Monday, Feb. 19, on PBS.

Hillbilly Jamboree

With roots in folk, rock, jazz and what city folks used to refer to as "hillbilly" music, progressive country music over the past several years has - thanks to the likes of Willie Nelson - taken the nation by storm.

Those scheduled to appear on "Austin City Limits" this season include: Taj Mahal, Lightning Hopkins, Norton Buffalo, Leon Redbone, Steven Fromholz, Little Joe y la Familia, Bobby Bare and Tracy Nelson, Marcia Ball, Alvin Crow and the Pleasant Valley Boys, Doug Kershaw, Clifton Chenier, Esteban Jordan, Delbert McClinton, The Nashville Super Pickers, The Neville Brothers, Robert Shaw, Pure Prairie League and, in a special "jam," John McEuen with Vassar Clements, Byron Berline and Elizabeth Coltrane.

Just as the more traditional country musicians call Nashville home, the new sound has been nurtured in Austin, Texas, and for the fourth season, public television shares the Austin sound with the entire nation as "Austin City Limits" swings into its new season this spring.

Over the past several seasons, "Austin City Limits" has distinguished itself as a showcase for up-and-coming talent, as well as a preferred "gig" for established performers.

In each of 13 weekly programs this season, one or two acts perform "in the

TV Dial-ogue

COWBOY - Can you tell me the name of the actor who played Cowboy in the recent TV movie, "Amateur Night at the Dixie Bar and Grill"? I'm going crazy because I don't know his name or anything. - Suzanne Woods, Providence, R.I.

Here's a little something for your sanity - his name is Don Johnson. He's worked fairly regularly the last few years doing guest shots, and there's still a possibility a series pilot he made for ABC, "The Two-Five," will sell. The fact that not one, but two, pilots for the series were shot and that ABC aired both means something, I suppose.

MISSING PERSON - I have been watching "The Lawrence Welk Show" ever since the 50th. I enjoy it very much, and I would like to know what has become of the little dancer Cissy King. The show is not the same without her. - Mrs. Wayne Stevenson, Bakersfield, Calif.

Ever since the 50th what? Bubble, maybe? Anyway, after a long stint with the show Cissy King has decided to make a go of it away from Welk. She is currently working as a choreographer-dancer in L.A., trying to establish herself as a solo artist.

SCHOOL DAYS - What subject did Mr. Novak (James Franciscus) teach? - Ida Farnum, Moorhead, Mich.

Unlike most TV teachers who seem to stick to the social sciences, Mr. Novak was an English teacher.
