Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 17, pregnant, and not sure what I want to do about it. Some say I should marry the father, but I'm not sure who the father is because I was going with three guys at the same time.

DEAR IN: Please quit talking to friends. Get some sound advice from a professional counselor. Call Planned Parenthood. It's listed in your phone book. Tell them Abby told you to call for an appointment for counseling.

DEAR ABBY: I am happily married to a handsome, hard-working, successful executive. I've never had any reason to doubt him until last week. While hanging up his overcoat, a key from a local motel fell out of his pocket.

DEAR L: Your husband says he's concerned about gossip. What does he think he'll cause if people find out he goes to a motel to talk business with his new secretary who's an attractive young divorcee with a reputation as a swinger?

DEAR ABBY: I discovered quite by accident that one of my children has an entirely different blood type than mine. I made some inquiries and have been informed that it is not possible for me to be this boy's father.

DEAR SHOCKED AND UNDECIDED: You have been misled. It is possible for a child to have an entirely different blood type than the father. So unless you have more conclusive evidence to support your suspicions, the word from here is cool it, Dad.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Trust nothing to luck today where your resources or the assets you are managing. Double-check your contracts. Double-check your backlogs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you may be tempted to stretch your achievements today. It could embarrass them. They may never get around to them. CANCELS (June 21-July 22) Be on your best behavior all social occasions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This may not be a very productive day for you, owing to a tendency to put things off. You may never get around to them. CANCELS (June 21-July 22) Be on your best behavior all social occasions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Be wary of butting in today where you don't belong, or assuming responsibilities of others that are beyond your scope. You may mess things up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Do not trust promises that could turn out to be rather costly today if you lack expertise. Look before leaping. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Flattery will get you nowhere today, so think twice before laying it on a bit too thick. Sincerity is a safer option to adopt.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Think twice before requesting favors from associates or companions today. It could embarrass them. They may never get around to them. CANCELS (June 21-July 22) Be on your best behavior all social occasions.

Scott's World

An Upper Class Actor

By VERNON SCOTT HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Edward Fox is English. Very English. He is also upper class English. That is to say he comes from wealth, position and privilege. Not the average to be sure, not even remotely connected to royalty. But he is, unpretentiously, an aristocratic man. His father was rich. His great-grandfather was very rich, having invented corrugated iron. Fox is a product of the Ashford school and a graduate of Harrow, upon whose legendary playing fields against Eton the Empire produced its great generals and statesmen. Fox won international fame as the assassin in "Day of the Jackal" and such other movies as "The...

Collectors' Corner Costly Scraps of Paper

By RUSS MACKENDRICK This is called a "Watermelon Note" - you can see why. It is a piece of paper money from the Series of 1890. The other side has a bust of the first man to hold the rank of Admiral in the U.S. Navy, David G. Farragut (1810-1870). The number of this note is Friedman's "Paper Money of the United States" is F-377. Another costly scrap of paper, with three watermelons, is F-379, the thousand-dollar note with General George Meade of Gettysburg fame shown on the face side. The picture of the double watermelon was supplied by the Bowers & Ruddy Galleries of California. They are announcing the recent purchase of an outstanding collection of United States currency. This piece alone is listed at $20,000 as there only about a dozen exist. This 3-melon note is so rare it is not even priced in Friedman's catalog. The Bowers & Ruddy press release also mentions a couple of "Porthole Lincoln's" - a silver certificate of 1923 that shows the head of the president enclosed in a perfect circle (F-282). Anyone doesn't have to own these things to enjoy them as they are well pictured in Friedman's volume. Another of the sportively-named bank notes is the Black Diamond. This has a length plus the usual 25 same bison who "sat" for the sculpture on the buffalo nickel. Here he is standing with lowered head, looking right at you, on a 10-dollar United States note, series of 1901 (F-114). The famous "Jackass" note has an eagle which, if viewed upside-down, takes on the appearance of a head of that faithful and much-maligned draft animal. At one time the government put out some currency with little strips of paper, bearing interest, that could be torn off and cashed when due. They are excessively rare now with coupons still attached, but at least a few of them can be seen as Friedman numbers F-212, d.e.g.

The very first silver certificate (1886) has a portrait of Martha Washington (F-215-221). On this she is alone, but the same picture may also be seen with George, her well-known spouse, on the back of the recent purchase of an outstanding collection of United States currency. For illustrations of coins on bank notes see the $5 silver certificate of 1886. It shows five silver dollars with the middle one head-side up and the proper date showing. A real constellation of gold coins, from the $1 through the double eagle, is pictured on Friedman numbers 1136-1166. The only issue of U.S. paper money with an Indian as the central figure is the $5 silver certificate of 1899. It depicts Chief Running Antelope in a full Pawnee headdress (F-271). Friedman numbers 387 through 393 are the "Lazy Twos." The name comes from an immense "2" shown lying down along 2/3rds of the length of the bill. You can see some good locomotive pictures on F-564 and F-822. If you collect battleships, don't miss the Design 128 on page 119 of the ninth edition of Friedman. This book and many others may be seen in the library of the Central Connecticut Club, 138 Main St., (K of C Hall) on their meeting nights. The next one is this coming Tuesday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m. Visitors are welcome and membership applications are being processed at this time. The dues are $4 a year. $1000 Something to Do Tomorrow, March 4, at the Ramada Inn, 100 E. River Drive, East Hartford - Gerry Gerath's First Sunday Stamp Bourse. There is nothing special on the docket for this day but there will be the usual 25 dealers in the U.S. Postal Service in attendance. Free parking and admission.

Youth Committee Member Backs Adult Participation

MANCHESTER - Michael Pohl, a young member of the Youth Commission, Friday disagreed with a suggestion that the commission be turned over entirely to youth, with adult members having only advisory status. That suggestion, which was made by Youth Services Director Robert Digan, was supported Thursday by Betty Inagliata, a member of the town's Board of Directors. The proposal came after dissent in the committee arose when the directors appointed Alan Anderson, a policeman, to fill a commission vacancy. Four adults have resigned since then, but not all of them attributed their resignations to Anderson's appointment. Seeing a political motivation behind the no-vote proposal for adults, Pohl said: "One would be led to believe that there are certain Democrats who have been attempting to eliminate a Republican appointment. They failed once, so by offering to take Bob Digan's suggestion that the adults would be non-voting under the guise of turning the commission over to youth, they would eliminate the need for adults to be present, damaging the commission." Pohl said the last time the Youth Commission was made up of youth only, it failed. He said that without the right to vote, adult members would have no reason to come to commission meetings. The only change Pohl favors, he said, is one which would reduce the quorum rule from 7 to 6, a bare majority. Pohl, who has been acting as head of the commission, said a subcommittee has been established to study the resolution which reactivated the commission. Members are Pohl, Anderson, and Robert Von Deck. Pohl also said when the commission was reactivated, Deputy Mayor Stephen Cassano said a member of the Board of Directors would attend each meeting. Pohl said a director came to only the first and second meetings.

Wright To Be Honored As New Lay Minister

MANCHESTER - Roderick A. Wright of 102 Green Road, a member of Second Congregational Church, has completed a three-year program leading to certification as a lay minister of the United Church of Christ. A service of recognition for Mr. Wright is planned for 4 p.m. Sunday in the sanctuary of Second Congregational Church. Recognition as a lay minister means that he will be available to lead worship services in churches and to do special preaching. He will also assist the pastor of Second Congregational periodically in areas such as worship and visitation. Participating in the service of recognition will be Dr. James D. MacLaughlin, pastor of Second Church; George Dickie, chairman of the church's board of deacons; the Rev. Robert W. Wright, brother of the new lay minister, and pastor of the River-West Hartford churches; the Rev. Dr. Nathaniel M. Gupitt, minister of the Connecticut Conference, United Church of Christ; the Rev. Arthur H. Dunham, vice moderator of the Hartford-East Association and pastor of the First Congregational Church of South Windsor; and the Rev. Robert C. Lane, pastor of the Edgefield Congregational Church. After the service of worship, there will be a reception. Members of the Hartford-East Association as well as the public have been invited to attend the service.

Archeological Society

SOUTH WINDSOR - Kevin McBride, University of Connecticut archeologist, will be the guest speaker at the March 15 meeting of the Albert Morgan Archeological Society. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Wood Memorial Library, 783 Old Main St., South Windsor. The public is welcome. McBride's speech will focus on the results of his 1978 archeological survey of South Windsor and on plans for forthcoming surveys.

Director Queries Stand On Development Sewers

MANCHESTER - Robert Bletchman, an Eighth Utilities District director, took issue Thursday with a letter to the editor by Evelyn W. Grogan, another director, who wrote on the issue of severing the proposed Backlund Commons development. Bletchman said he objected to Mrs. Grogan writing the letter in her capacity as public relations director for the district board and also questioned her new stand on the issue. The town has asked the Eighth District for permission to provide the sewer service to Backlund Commons, which is in the Eighth District. The district residents will vote Monday night at Whittier Library on whether to allow the town the right to the sewers or whether to have the district take on the project. Where Is Isaac Elkowitz?

WASHINGTON - Nearly 30 years ago, a Brooklyn-born, 18-year-old American citizen named Isaac Elkowitz left the sanctuary of the American embassy in Moscow and disappeared without a trace.

Kalinsky was undergoing extended interrogation on trumped-up charges when he met young Elkowitz in a subterranean cell in Lubianka. Fluent in eight languages, Kalinsky was the frightened American teen-ager's confidante by speaking to him in Yiddish, and the two became friends.

As a child of 7 he was brought to the Soviet Union by his parents in 1940 to visit his father's aged mother. Here is what he told him:
As a child of 7 he was brought to the Soviet Union by his parents in 1940 to visit his father's aged mother.

"Say when."

Faced with the prospect of spending the rest of his life in virtual prison, Elkowitz agreed to the deal. He arranged to send embassy officials a weekly postcard as a sign that he was all right. Then he reported to an induction center.

Denied the all-important exit permit by the Soviets, young Elkowitz remained a virtual prisoner in the American embassy. He was given a room and board at the American House, the bachelor quarters for embassy clerks and military personnel a mile or so from the embassy.

Friendship is Precious
Next to my faith in God as He is revealed in Jesus, I count among my most valuable gifts the gift of friendship. How rich indeed is this couple for more than 40 years, yet wonderful. They had heard the news from another mutual friend in Switzerland. The Acton couple is returning to Manchester soon and I will gladly pass on any information about a 'Spiritual Healing Group.' Thank you.

Individual differences matter much in how composed one is and in the means used to reach emotional equilibrium. For some, a mist of medication offers a comfort that should not be denied. For others, consciousness is a boon that is not given up willingly.

The Author

Avery D. Weisman is professor of psychiatry at the Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School. He is also principal investigator for Project Omega, a research group studying coping and vulnerability in cancer patients. Widely recognized as a pioneer in the study of death, he is the author of several books, including "On Dying and Dying." A Psychiatric Study in Termination.

Questions

- 1. Name the "essentials of a good death."
2. Although each dying patient has different personal needs, what need is common to most of them?
3. Why shouldn't pain medication be withheld from a dying patient?

Answers

- 1. Care and choice, communications, continuity, compassion, knowing and truth, "desire."
2. Someone to share and care during the final phase of life.
3. It can ease suffering, and addition is unlikely.

Closure

Healthy people can scarcely imagine the reality of a good death. For the dying patient, it is within reach, regardless of the distress endured during earlier periods when treatment and recovery were uppermost.

Mark Of Protest

The farmers' protest is nearing its end, but it has left its mark on Washington, including these tractor tracks on the mall Thursday. Members of the American Agriculture Movement have been in town for more than three weeks, but are expected to leave this weekend. Damage at the mall is estimated at $500,000. (UPI photo)

U.S.-Chinese Agreement Fair For Both Nations

SHANGHAI, China (UPI) - Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal said Friday the $100 million U.S.-China agreement to settle property claims unresolved since the Chinese revolution is "good and fair to both sides and we can be very satisfied with it."

Under the plan, one UI plant in Bridgeport and one plant in New Haven will be allowed to burn high-sulphur fuel mixed low-sulphur fuel. The utility's three other plants will have to continue to burn low-sulphur fuel.

Special Funding Sought For Deaf-Blind Persons

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Legislature's Education Committee was asked Friday to approve funding to send deaf-blind persons over the age of 21 to special live-in educational facilities. The bill would allow the state to spend $10,000 per fiscal year for each deaf-blind person over 21. Currently state assistance ends at 21 for the handicapped persons.

State Waives Air Ban For Energy Emergency

HARTFORD (UPI) - State officials Friday declared an energy emergency and agreed to waive clean air standards so that the United Illuminating Co. can burn dirty, high-sulphur oil in March and April. Officials from the Department of Environmental Protection said their decision might have a slight impact on vegetation and property in southeastern Connecticut, but won't present a health hazard to people.

Vision Tests Proposed

HARTFORD (UPI) - All drivers would have to undergo vision tests before their license could be renewed, under a bill proposed by Rep. David Lavine, D-Durham. Lavine said Friday 20 states already require such eye examinations and four states have special requirements for elderly drivers. His bill requires that failure to pass such a vision test would preclude individuals from having their license renewed.

Elections Russian Style

Soviet citizens read election posters Friday for the national parliament elections to be held Sunday. Poster at right is for Premier Alexei Kosygin, one at left for prime ballerina Natalya Bessmertnova. In a major speech at an election rally Friday, Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev renewed Kremlin pledges of support for Vietnam and demanded "an immediate end to the Chinese aggression against Vietnam." Beast Boasts Boots

By BRUCE NICHOLS
HOUSTON (UPI) - Hans the elephant developed the world's largest case of athlete's foot from standing around in a dirty stall for 30 years. So Friday he was fitted with the world's largest pair of custom-made boots.

Like any Texan with new boots, the 62-year-old Asian elephant inspected them, using his trunk to savor the fresh smell of half of a cow hide. The five-ton bull then stretched gingerly and trumpeted around his lot to test them out.

Ms. Sweeney said Dr. Gary Harwell, the Houston Zoo veterinarian, persuaded Maida to use materials donated by citizens to make the boots.

Asked if Hans had the world's largest case of athlete's foot, Ms. Sweeney laughed and said, "In a sense, yes, but it's not a fungus. It's a bacterial infection."

Thompson, 43, said he got the idea for the tool in 1972 when he was laboriously hand-scraping part of the side of his house while on vacation from his job as an engineer in a local firm that makes garage computers. He recalls thinking: "There's got to be a faster way. My vacation's going to be shot. So I went downstairs and made kind of a clunker-looking tool."

Stockard Puts Show on Air

By DAN LEWIS

HOLLYWOOD — When CBS first offered Stockard Channing her own television series, the network figured so many millions saw and enjoyed her performance in "Grease" that they might as well capitalize on such recognition.

The program executives struck upon the brilliant, creative notion to call the series "The Stockard Channing Show."

"It was never my intention to have it named after me," declares a somewhat embarrassed Miss Channing. "I exist, and the show exists," she explains.

She says she might have gone along with the title if she were a major star — a Mary Tyler Moore or a Bob Hope — or, if she was hosting her own variety hour.

But this series is not variety. What's more, she has co-stars and featured performers. Nor does she do a stand-up comedy routine; it's an ensemble series.

"Others are contributing. If the show fails, I don't fail alone," she asserts, noting that there could be a grim finality over having a show in one's own name canceled.

So, when Miss Channing's new series hits the air this week, it's new title will be "Just Friends." She plays an Easterner who decides to leave her husband, a successful business man who is very conservative, straightlaced and treats her like a child. She heads for Hollywood, land of diversified looks, and lands a job in a health club.

It may sound like routine situation comedy, picking up shreds from "Mary Tyler Moore" or "Rhoda." If so, it's an asset. The series has great promise, if the quality of the writing and most of the performances of the pilot hold up.

This will be Miss Channing's first series for television; ironically, the plot reflects her own life. She was a young married woman ("We were kids in college when we met and married," she recalls) who separated from her husband because she felt that she was "not my own person" and came to Hollywood.

She had studied drama and worked in college and community workshops and theater.

But her marriage and husband controlled her lifestyle. "I was living someone else's life," she recalls. "I wasn't bitter, or angry. I just left."

Stockard Channing's new series begins Sunday, March 4, on CBS.

Her entry into the Hollywood scene, if not spectacular, was quickly noticed and recorded. She got roles with luminaries Warren Beatty and Jack Nicholson in "The Fortune," then starred in "The All-American Girl," which never was released.

Despite films that were consigned to obscurity, or unfavorable reviews and weak box-office grosses, Miss Channing's own reputation grew. She attracted good notices for a television movie, "The Girl Most Likely To..." and then came "Grease." She played the tough high school senior with the bad reputation, who winds up pregnant and scorned by girls who once were her followers.

Producers, studios and networks all considered her a strong talent; consequently, she never lacked for offers. Her CBS series has been in the works for more than a year.

Miss Channing explained the care with which the project was brought along. "I didn't want to play a character who would be so far from myself," she explains. "That would be like being a ventriloquist's dummy."

CBS gave her company, "Little Bear Productions" (named after her dog), development dollars and option money for her services. She was to cultivate a series and TV movies.

"It's been like an education for a year," she says. "I met people, and was fascinated by it all. I figured that the way the world was going, everyone must end up doing television."

Her agreement with CBS, she reports, gives her artistic control. "I wanted the chance to have so much say in what I was doing," she explains. "When I was back east, I kept thinking of what it would be like to work in Hollywood. I had to do it because, unfortunately, I was totally obsessed with acting."

Miss Channing has remarried. Her husband is a writer and producer, who is associated with her in Little Bear Productions.

Two miniature versions of Supertrain are used to film exterior shots of the mighty train as it crosses the country. One miniature version is built to 1½-inch scale; another is built to correspond in size with an actual train and is used for interior shots.

TV Dial-ogue

TYCOON RETURNS — Last year one of the local stations ran a TV series called "The Tycoon." What is the name of the young actor who flew the plane for the tycoon? Will he be seen in anything currently in production? Is he as nice as he looks? — Karen Hoffman, Palm Springs, Calif.

Staying on the air was one deal that fell through for "The Tycoon." That's an old series you're talking about, circa 1964. Van Williams is the fellow in question, of whom I've never heard it said he wasn't as nice as he looks. Williams still turns up on TV, though he's a bit older now.

PRE-CABBIE DAYS — I'm hoping you can help me. Can you please tell me if Jeff Conway ever guest starred in an episode of "Julie Farr, M.D."? I've been thinking of this ever since I first saw him. — Lynn Frey, Williamsville, N.Y.

Close, but no prize. Conway appeared in the TV movie "Having Babies," which in turn gave birth to the short-lived series, "Julie Farr, M.D."
