Carter Sees Talk Failure

Breakfast Meeting

U.S. President Jimmy Carter and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin leave breakfast cabinet meeting where Begin was to inform Carter on his all-night cabinet meeting over the Mideast peace proposals. (UPI photo)

JERUSALEM (UPI) — President Carter conceded today in a speech to the Israeli parliament that "we must again contemplate the tragedy of failure" but told reporters he would decide tonight whether to return to Washington or stay on in hopes he could achieve an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

At one point today while attending a turbulent debate in the Israeli Knesset, or parliament, a U.S. official said Carter blew up in anger when Prime Minister Menachem Begin interjected what American sources called a "new serious complication" that brought Carter's quest for peace nearer to failure.

It was clear that success or failure hung in the balance as Carter met with the Israeli parliamentary committees on foreign affairs and defense committee and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance met with the Knesset's military council to try to resolve the major differences remaining.

The Israeli cabinet in an all night session accepted some but not all of his proposals for a peace treaty. Then Begin told parliament that the treaty could not be signed until after parliamentary debate — a process that could delay a treaty for weeks or even months.

The U.S. official said Carter, listening with earphones to a translation of the Hebrew inside the Knesset blew up, but he gave no further details.

American officials said they considered the Begin statement a serious and perhaps fatal complication because it came during a crucial hour of decision. They said if the treaty became entangled in Israel's turbulent and unpredictable political situation there might be no signing for weeks or months.

The usual practice is for a treaty to be initiated, then signed and then ratified after debate. The cabinet debated the issues throughout the night and then Carter breakfasted with the members this morning to hear the results — the first foreign leader to attend a meeting of an Israeli cabinet.

An American source said it was understood that the Egyptians and Israelis were able to agree on the complicated issues of a target date for calling elections in the West Bank and Gaza Strip and on the priority of treaty obligations with the change of some of the language.

But the question of guaranteed oil supplies remained one of the remaining complications. Israel has developed oil production in captured Sinai oil fields and wants Egypt to continue to supply Israel with oil. Vance's meeting with the cabinet defense committee also was considered crucial. During a lunch break Vance was quoted as saying it was still up in the air whether he would fly to Cairo today or Tuesday to brief President Anwar Sadat.

Carter appeared somber today when he addressed the Knesset in almost defeated tones, blaming the leaders of Israel and Egypt for failing to grasp the opportunity for peace.

"The people of the two nations are ready now for peace," Carter said. "But the leaders have not yet proven that we are ready now for peace. They must persevere. With or without a peace treaty, the United States will always be at Israel's side."

"Despite the progress of the past six months, we still fall short," Carter said in slow, almost painful tones. "We have not yet fully met the challenge... We must again contemplate the tragedy of failure."

He was followed by Begin who in a speech marked by continuous heckling said, "the problems separating us are serious ones. We don't play around with words or niceties. It is not a matter of words. It is a matter of essence."

Begin indicated that one of the major unresolved problems was Egypt's rejection of wording giving the treaty priority over its defense commitments to its Arab allies.

"This is the heart of the matter," Begin said. "We have security problems" on the Lebanese, Syrian and Jordanian frontiers "where hostility remains." Israel fears Egypt would ignore the treaty with Israel and join other Arab states in any new Middle East war.

The National Radio, in what obviously was leaked information, outlined the unresolved issues as follows:

- An Israeli demand for the establishment of full diplomatic relations with Egypt nine months after the signing of a treaty. Egypt insists on exchanging ambassadors only after implementation of Palestinian self-government in the occupied territories.

- Israel agreed to an Egyptian demand to implement self-government in the Gaza strip first but insists it will not accept an Egyptian liaison office there.

- Israel agreed to a U.S. proposal to a target of one year by which negotiations on self-government should be complete. Sadat wants self-government implemented 14 to 15 months after the signing of a treaty.

Weicker Enters Race For the White House

HARTFORD (UPI) — Republican Sen. Lowell Weicker, a maverick millionaire who frequently tangles with his party's elite, today officially launched his uphill battle to become the nation's first foreign-born president.

Connecticut's liberal junior senator, whose star shone brightest during his party's Watergate trauma, kicked off his candidacy by urging Americans to get off their complacent duffs.

"Just as with this candidacy I want the nation up, out and looking for trouble — not running away from it," Weicker said as he became the fifth Republican to officially announce his presidential intentions. He is the only liberal so far.

Five other Republicans have formed campaign or exploratory committees, but none has made an official declaration. At a news conference in Hartford's Old State House, the 6-foot-6 congressman told reporters Americans have lost their hope for the future and he means to restore it.

"Now it is 1979 where Democrats and Republicans alike in a cheap quest for votes spit on the word government and tell a nation used to dreaming and accomplishing the impossible that the future of America is no more than a good day today," Weicker said.

"My words this afternoon — my campaign in the year ahead — will be a hardheaded refutation of that kind of expediency," he added.

"Now my friends, I'm told that all this talk of investment for a future during times of economic difficulty runs against a tide of conservatism. That's right," Weicker said. "That's what I'm going to be all about."

Earlier, Weicker said he plans to run in all of the GOP primaries next year.

Weicker's relentless and righteous condemnation of dirty tricks during nationally televised hearings helped to fuel the public outrage that eventually tumbled President Nixon's White House.

The Yale graduate has thrived on his party maverick, "truth at any cost" image and hopes it will prove as alluring to the American people as President Carter's grass roots, anti-Washington campaign did three years ago.

"I don't plan to change my style to gain that office," Weicker said recently. "I'm not about to become a political whore to win an election."

Weicker says he would never change his lifestyle to become president because Connecticut voters elected him to serve in the Senate and "not to go roaring around the United States leathering my own political nest."

But Weicker's outspoken ways have repulsed more than one Republican, particularly in his home state. In his younger days in the state Legislature, Weicker, then a soft-spoken representative from the affluent New York suburb of Greenwich, was considered a conservative. But as his political aspirations rose and were fulfilled, Weicker rapidly swung to the liberal side.

In 1974, Weicker threatened to break with the GOP unless it became more open, more aggressive and more liberal. The same year, he accused the party's gubernatorial candidate of using mud-slinging campaign tricks against Democrat Ella Grasso — who ended up winning the election.

Recently, Weicker blamed GOP State Chairman Fred Biebel for the Republicans' disastrous showing in the November elections and said he wanted a new man to run the party.

This type of public indignation has enraged many Connecticut Republicans, but even the most ardent Weicker foe has bitten his tongue on more than one occasion. Weicker — elected once to the House and twice to the Senate — has proven to be the party's No. 1 vote getter.

Fifth Launch

MOSCOW (UPI) — The fifth in the Soviet series of Progress automatic cargo capsules was launched today toward a linkup with the manned Salyut 6 space lab.

Progress 5, bearing a cargo of fuel, life support supplies and other equipment, was launched from the Baikonur Cosmodrome in Soviet Central Asia at 8:47 a.m. (12:47 a.m. EST).

If all goes as planned and the Soviets follow standard procedures established in the four previous launches, the Progress 5 capsule should dock with the space lab early Wednesday, about 48 hours after launch.

Ready for Jail

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — Claiming New Hampshire's courts support nuclear power, 15 members of the Clamshell Alliance say they are ready to go to jail for their part in past demonstrations at the Seabrook nuclear power plant.

They were among a group of about 1,200 people who have lodged appeals with Rockingham County Superior Court. The appeals stem from convictions on criminal trespass charges in Hampton District Court after Seabrook demonstrations dating back to 1976.

"We represent about 15 people today. But we expect this is just the beginning. I think as more and more come to see the court process is really corrupt and do not want to pay their fines in support of that system, the only alternative is jail," Mary Wentworth of Amherst, Mass. said.

Questions Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Surgeon General Julius Richmond said today he seriously questions the wisdom of subjecting small children to a barrage of television commercials promoting sugary foods.

"I think we should consider seriously the need for government intervention to protect the very young from unfair commercial exploitation," Richmond told the Federal Trade Commission as it opened the second of five weeks of hearings into its controversial proposal to crack down on children's TV advertising.

"Tooth decay... is the No. 1 chronic disease of childhood," Richmond said in testimony submitted to the hearing. "By the time the average child enters school, he or she has five decayed teeth; by age 15 the number of decayed teeth has doubled to 10."

"This represents a considerable amount of needless human suffering and causes an unnecessary addition to the high costs of health care in this country," he said.

Big Seal Hunt

ST. ANTHONY, Newfoundland (UPI) — The main seal hunt got under way today as about 300 hunters began to club harp seal pups, unhampered by either protesters or journalists.

Eleven sealing ships — seven Canadian and four Norwegian — made their way to the herd about 60 kilometers from St. Anthony through treacherous ice floes during the weekend.

Bad weather prevented the Greenpeace Foundation and dozens of newsmen from boarding helicopters to observe the hunt. Weather forecasts indicated it might be several more days before shore-bound observers could join the sealers.

Even if the weather clears, access to the hunt may be highly restricted because not enough fisheries officials are available to accompany observers. Under federal regulations, a fisheries officer must accompany each helicopter load of protesters or journalists.

Heiress Battles Eviction

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Louise Vanderbilt, heiress to the family that built Newport's most lavish mansion, says her struggle to avoid being evicted from her two $950-a-month apartments has opened her eyes to tenants' rights.

Newport County Superior Court Judge Thomas H. Needham Friday ordered Mrs. Vanderbilt evicted from one of her two apartments because her March rent was late. The judge's Friday order was the latest chapter in an eight-month rent dispute between Mrs. Vanderbilt and her new landlord, Newport Sheriff Harry Casey.

Needham stated the order so she could appeal to the state Supreme Court. Mrs. Vanderbilt said she would appeal today.

"I suffered so in that court yesterday that I will do everything I can for people who are being put out," she said Saturday.

"It is a deplorable situation in a country that people can be evicted. There's too much of a one-sided thing," she said. "Unscrupulous landlords can do the same to other people."

Mrs. Vanderbilt, who joined a low-income tenants group last summer, is fighting Casey's attempt to triple her $950 rent. A District Court judge last year ordered her to pay the rent. The judge refused to dismiss her other appeal, saying that rent came on time.

Mrs. Vanderbilt said her New York bank was late this month in sending her monthly rent payment. "This has never, never happened before," she said. "For the past nine years, these rent payments have been paid by my bank. They've never been late."

Mrs. Vanderbilt is the widow of George Vanderbilt. His grandfather, railroad magnate Cornelius Vanderbilt, built the Breakers, Newport's most imposing mansion.

Mrs. Vanderbilt said she would like to buy the house where she has lived for nine years, but said Casey wants $600,000 for it. Mrs. Vanderbilt said that's an unfair price because he paid $250,000 for the mansion last year.

"I've been here 30 years as a summer resident. I love Rhode Island," she said. "It's very hard at this time in my life to pick up and go somewhere else."

U.S. Feminist Is Gutsy

American feminist Kate Millett is gutsy if not alone. Asked Sunday if she considers Ryan's powerful religious leader, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, a male chauvinist because of his demand that Iranian women go back to wearing the traditional head-to-ankle chador, or veil, she said: "Yes, if only because the rights promised women at the beginning of the revolution are now being threatened by what he says and does."

And how does that make the author of "Sexual Politics" feel? She said it is in Tehran where Americans are none too popular even when they aren't criticizing the Ayatollah.

Press Rights Cases Stir Media Debates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The spate of court decisions eroding rights the press once thought were guaranteed under the First Amendment is stirring great debate within the media over how to fight back.

At least two camps of opinion emerged Sunday from a weekend First Amendment Survival Seminars — the "get tough" approach that could involve using "tricks" to cover an event, and the more moderate alternative of trying to cooperate to some degree with courts and law enforcement agencies.

"If there was ever a time when the press had to be particularly aggressive and imaginative, it is now," said Lyle Denniston, Supreme Court correspondent for the Washington Star.

Few Seek CETA Jobs

MANCHESTER — A recent group of federally funded jobs approved by the town has not resulted in a stream of applicants racing to the town's Municipal Building.

There are applicants for just about all of the jobs, which will be funded through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). But, the number of applicants is small, and town officials are hopeful that qualified persons can be found among those few.

"It's extremely low as far as numbers are concerned," Steven Werber, the town's personnel supervisor, said. "I just hope the quality of the candidates is good."

Pupil Spending Disparity Hurts School Fund Plan

By BRUNO RANNIELLO
HARTFORD (UPI)—Connecticut communities are spending more money on fewer students. But the growing disparity in town-to-town per pupil spending may throw a monkey wrench into the Legislature's effort to equalize education.

Connecticut's 169 communities are spending a record $1 billion in the current fiscal year on education.

Since the state's system of funding education was declared unconstitutional in 1973, poor towns have been increasing their per pupil expenditures. But they have not been doing it as fast as the state's more affluent communities.

New statistics from the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council show that the amount spent on each pupil in the state rose by 11 percent from 1977 to 1978. At the same time, student enrollment declined by 19,602.

This raised the average per pupil expenditure from $1,562 to $1,667. West Hartford ranked first with an expenditure of $2,448 per pupil and Griswold was last with $1,069 per pupil.

Last year, Griswold upped its spending per student by $80, according to the CPCEC. But West Hartford increased its per pupil expenditures by $262 between 1977 and 1978.

This growing gap appears to fly in the face of the Superior Court order in the Horton vs. Meskill case handed down in 1973 and later upheld by the state Supreme Court.

The court ordered the state to get rid of the disparity in the ability of towns to finance education and "establish equal educational opportunity" based on per pupil expenditures.

Connecticut's current system of educational funding relies heavily on local property tax revenues.

Mark Goodrich, state director of research for the CPCEC, said the latest figures show the disparity is growing and the formulas being studied by the Legislature's Education Committee "doesn't narrow the gap between a pupil dollar and equalize the education of their children."

"You've got to correct both in order to have equity if your going to solve the problem," Goodrich said. "He said the formulas 'would boost the low towns up but it doesn't get them to the top not to go any higher' in spending money for education."

Goodrich said "the only measurement the court found relevant to guaranteeing equal educational opportunity was per pupil expenditures."

He said the formulas under consideration "fail to meet both the spirit and letter of the law" because they can neither equalize school tax rates or per pupil expenditures.

Only seven weeks remain for the Education Committee and the full Legislature to come up with a formula on how to plug in $196 million in new education money over the next five years. A Superior Court judge has given them until May 1.

Some observers believe the amount of money won't be the issue that will be challenged, but rather whether the final formula allows per pupil dollar gap or equalize the education of their children.

Proposed Phone Change Will Mean Toll-Free Calls

HEBRON — Proposed regulations concerning the telephone exchanges in the Town of Hebron call for a change over a one-way toll-free calling to two-way toll free calling, within five years, representatives of the Southern New England Telephone Co. said at a recent public hearing.

They said the changeover for the Columbia-Manchester exchanges will be in conjunction with the installation of a new central office electronic switching system for the existing Columbia exchange.

At this time, company officials said, the proposed electronic switching system is not slated for the Colchester users until 1984. Robert Little, assistant vice president of revenue requirements for the phone company, was the prime speaker at the hearing.

Little promised that when the Columbia to Manchester toll-free calling becomes effective, residents will not have to pay a toll to any other section of town, even if it means adjusting bills manually.

When asked about the possibility of conducting a survey in the Columbia exchange, to mandate a toll-free service at an earlier time, Little said that it wouldn't make sense to build into the present Columbia exchange to eliminate tolls, at a cost of $10 million when the entire system is to be replaced by the new electronic system.

He also cited the need to provide additional equipment to take care of the estimated 250 to 350 percent increase in calls once the toll barrier is eliminated, as another factor which would again delay implementation of the toll free area until 1981.

A cost of $43 was estimated as the expense of converting to the one-way toll free for the entire town. This cost will be passed on to the customer.

David Sheehan of the Public Utilities Control Authority (PUCA) said the authority adopted a set of regulations proposed by the telephone company. However, the proposal was rejected by the attorney general's office. Sheehan said that the problems of calls between non-contiguous exchanges in Regional School District 8, Marlborough in the East Hampton exchange, and Colchester to Andover in the Coventry exchange, and Colchester to Andover in the Coventry exchange, would require initiation of a survey of subscribers under new regulations, when adopted.

Phil Andrews, speaking for the Hebron Businessmen's Association, hosts for the hearing, said that the local subscribers in the Columbia exchange are paying as much for their limited services as other areas with many more exchanges which they can call toll-free.

Hung Jury Doesn't End Aillon Murder Charges

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The four-month murder trial of Guillermo Aillon returned a hung jury, but the former anti-poverty worker may face again the charges of fatally stabbing his wife and her parents.

Superior Court Judge Francis Quinn Sunday night declared a mistrial after the jury announced it was hopelessly deadlocked. It is expected that State's Attorney Arnold Markle will request a third trial.

The panel of seven women and five men returned at 10 p.m. after a record 56 hours of deliberations to announce it could not agree whether to convict Aillon, 41, of murder, a lesser charge of manslaughter or whether he should go free.

It took about a half hour after the jury returned for Quinn to declare a mistrial. Juror Carol Heath, 55, sent a note out saying she agreed the jury was deadlocked on the murder charge but that she was not satisfied proper procedure had been followed on the manslaughter charge.

"I believe it will not take long for us to reach that verdict but my conscience will not allow me to let it go without a vocal affirmation of each and every one of us," she wrote.

Quinn over Markle's objection, agreed with the jury that no decision could be reached.

Markle immediately pressed for a new trial May 8, but Quinn said "we can talk about that at a later time."

MACC News

Volunteers Cure Loneliness Of Elderly, Shut-ins

One of the happiest men in Manchester these days is Bill Rice, chairman of the newly launched-MACC Auxiliary to Convalescent Homes. A toolmaker at Pratt & Whitney, Bill "retired" on June 30, 1977 and promptly went to work for those he loves, visiting and serving the elderly and those in convalescent homes. Since beginning his new career, unpaid in dollars but richly rewarded in personal satisfaction and challenges, he has served not only on the local Commission on the Aging but on the regional Area Agency for the Aging Board.

The Killers
 Identifying the three big killers of the elderly—heart, cancer and loneliness, Bill explains that the medical profession is working hard to conquer heart disease and cancer. "But, the volunteer," he says triumphantly, "is the one who can tackle the disease of loneliness."

He answered a request from Fenwood last spring to volunteer to operate a cheer cart, Linda Vischo, Project Service, is the volunteer coordinator to convalescent homes.

Volunteers from St. Bartholomew's responded to the plea; and the cheer cart began rolling into patient's rooms.

The Fenwood team includes Helen Keefe, Edna Woods, Bea Cowing, Cecile Bessette, Mary Hewitt, Valerie Boland and George Wood. Edna Woods who began operating the cheer cart with Helen Keefe (the pair still arrive faithfully once a month) enjoys talking to patients—many of whom have become friends. "They look forward to seeing you and I look forward to seeing them," she relates.

A meeting of convalescent home volunteers was held by MACC last May, with Bill Rice nominated as chairman, and the service organization went into action.

Cher Cart
 Volunteers now staff 3 cheer carts operating in Manchester convalescent homes, Fenwood, Crestfield and Meadows East and one about to begin operation at Meadows South.

Inlike many cheer carts, these are strictly non-profit and all items are sold at cost.

All carts began with the convalescent homes putting up the original $100-$150 needed to purchase items to stock the cart.

Carts include cheese and crackers, candy bars, combis and brushes, shaving needs, perfumes and toilet waters, baby powder, hair sets (all kinds of toilet articles), greeting cards, note paper, pens and pencils and postage stamps.

All the little items that you and I (being mobile) take for granted. Magazines are included in the cart and can be taken without charge. The Auxiliary encourages people to donate newspapers and magazines to the cheer carts for the free use of patients.

Welfare
 Slightly more than 50% of all people who come or who are referred to the churches (through MACC) for help with food or clothing or financial help are on "welfare" programs of one kind or another. Many of these are single mothers, raising small children by themselves on AFDC payments. The other recipients are primarily people physically or emotionally/mentally handicapped to dispel some of the myths surrounding welfare, we have prepared information sheets which are available at the MACC office.

Myth No. 1 The Welfare rolls are full of able-bodied bachelors.

Fact: Less than 2% of recipients are able-bodied bachelors.

Who is on Welfare? The majority are children on AFDC and general assistance, the figures show:

1978-97,000 — children
 1977-101,000 — children
 1978-101,000 — children
 37,000 relatives, usually the mother
 37,000 sometimes the grandmother
 40,000 sometimes the grandmother

62% of these 40,000 other 9,800 are aged and relatives are women with children under six and state assistance.

Senators Attack Policy Of Energy Conservation

By United Press International
Sen. George McGovern wants Energy Secretary James Schlesinger fired. Sen. Henry Jackson predicts "a deep recession" as a result of soaring fuel prices and a research institute says an oil shortfall is expected before the late 1980s, unless it is at hand.

In Beirut, Lebanon, radical Palestinian guerrilla leader George Habash called on Middle Eastern nations to turn "the oil weapon" against the United States. Against that backdrop Sunday, oil prices kept right on going up. McGovern, D-S.D., told CBS-TV "Face the Nation" the administration's energy policy is "a disaster."

U.S. Shoe Exports Soar After Big Ad Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. shoe manufacturers, hurt badly a few years ago by escalating imports of shoes from Italy and elsewhere, hired Madison Avenue-style advertisers to fight back. And exports are soaring. The combination of dollar devaluation and an advertising drive — which the government helped pay for — to sell foreigners on the joys of "American life style" footwear is paying off in a big way.

Arab Unity And Strength

You'd never know it from front-page headlines, but there's more going on in the Mideast these days than the Iranian revolution and its escalating oil prices.

There are a number of interested — not to say concerned — observers of the least Israel. Iraq has been a tough talker but a taken participant in Arab-Israeli conflicts.

Both countries are also ruled by branches of the socialist-oriented Baath (renaissance) Party, but in the unenviable context of Mideast politics that is an obstacle to the overcomer rather than an advantage.

Other Editors Say

The President and two of his top officials now stressed that the United States will use its military forces whenever vital interests of the country are threatened.

The Gulf states and the world at large unquestionably would be assured by such actions that the United States is not afraid of its

Jack Anderson Carter Appointee May Be Involved

WASHINGTON — Another President Carter's sub-Cabinet appointee may be caught up in a financial scandal. It is Sterling Tucker, a respected District of Columbia political figure, who is Carter's newest assistant secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

Tucker ran unsuccessfully last year for mayor of Washington, D.C., and had the usual campaign debts.

The affidavit also charges that Tucker did not voice any surprise or objection when the creditor told him of the alleged offer.

Unlike Tucker's other campaign creditors, most of whom agreed to settle for about 25 cents on the dollar, Tucker refused to accept partial payment for his services.

Tucker was recommended for his new $50,000 post as an assistant secretary by HUD Secretary Patricia Bates Harris. Quickly confirmed, he has taken up his duties at HUD.

But while the appointment was still pending, Tucker, according to our sources, felt he would stand a better chance of White House approval if his campaign debts were cleared up.

Angle and Walters 'Latch Key' Kids Need Help

WASHINGTON (NEA) — You can see them every weekday afternoon, in any city in America, in any type of neighborhood. Kids — little kids — wearing a house key on a string around their necks.

They are the "latch key" children, the youngsters of working mothers who trudge home from school each day to an empty house where a television set and a telephone are the only available "child care" resources.

Nobody knows for sure how many there are, although the Census Bureau estimates at least 10 million children ages 7 to 13 are left alone each day without supervision.

Policy-makers at all levels of government, but especially federal have been typically slow to recognize and respond to the obvious need for larger child care support.

Washington Window Misreading Racial Attitudes

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is not much mystery about the angry reaction of some black leaders to a recent Louis Harris poll on racial attitudes.

The survey says leaders, black and white, "perceive the country is in a period of severe regression on race relations and therefore it is a time for tempered speed and high caution."

St. John's Shock Duke, Advance to Showdown

NEW YORK (UPI) - When the NCAA selection committee announced St. John's would participate in this year's tournament, more than a few eyebrows were raised. A team that had lost 10 times during its regular season certainly didn't belong among the elite.

As the tournament enters the semifinal stage, the Redmen are still hanging around. They surprised 13th-ranked Temple to kick off the East Regional on Friday, then shocked sixth-ranked Duke 90-78 Sunday to advance to a showdown Friday night with Rutgers in Greensboro, N.C.

It was Reggie Carter who broke a designed play with five seconds remaining, hitting an eight-footer from the baseline instead of driving the lane to score the winning points and complete a miserable day for the Atlantic Coast Conference. Penn knocked off No. 3 North Carolina 77-71.

"We really didn't want to take the shot with that much time on the clock or from that position," said Carter, whose failure to hit the front end of a 1- and 1 seconds early allowed Duke to gain a 78-78 tie. "It was a set play, but not for that shot. I was really supposed to be coming to the middle but instead I went to the baseline."

Wayne McKay's defensive work on Duke's Mike Grmnicki was instrumental for the Redmen, though the All-American team was suffering from a stomach virus. Grmnicki still managed to score 18 points and grab eight rebounds, but McKay scored 18 points and had seven rebounds.

Before the Redmen disposed of the Blue Devils, Coach Bob Weinbauer's Penn Quakers were making a point for the Ivy League.

"What we're asking people to do is look at us with a clear eye and respect us for what we are," Weinbauer said after his club shocked the Tar Heels. "We respect other people, but we absolutely fear no one."

With the victory in the East Regional contest, the Quakers helped shed a lot of myths about the "weak" rebounds and handed off seven assists to make top-ranked Indiana a success. Bird, playing with a rubber pad on his left thumb, also hit two shots and had one steal to advance the unbeaten Spartans to their Midwest regional game Thursday against Big 8 champion Oklahoma.

The tandem of Steve Schall and Scott Hastings combined for 22 points and 12 rebounds to give the Razorbacks a victory over Weber State. In eliminating Weber State from the tourney for the second straight year, Arkansas earned the right to meet 16th-ranked Louisville in the Midwest semifinal. Sidney McRietel became the first player in Razorback history to top 2,000 career points with 19 against the Wildcats.

Second-ranked UCLA ran into some unexpected trouble before prevailing and earning the right to face 17th-ranked University of San Francisco in the semifinal of the West Regional at Fresno, Calif. Thursday night. Peppercine led 48-44 early in the second half before the Bruins ran off 10 straight points for a 54-48 lead they were never relinquished. David Greenwood paced the Bruins with 18 points and four rebounds.

Curly Watkins scored 27 points and freshman Mark Aguirre added 25 to lead the Wolfpack. The Blue Demons advanced to the West Regional semifinal Thursday night against 13th-ranked Marquette in Indianapolis. Friday afternoon against LSU, but may have to continue without Vincent, who left the game on crutches with an apparent ankle sprain.

Steve Dame moves to Friday's Midwest semifinal against Toledo after the Irish without a late for the Ivy League.

352 Penalty Minutes Assessed in NHL Tilt

NEW YORK (UPI) - When they discover a way to stop hurricanes, they might put an end to fighting in hockey but, as demonstrated in the Spectrum Sunday night, neither's been done yet.

"They talk about eliminating violence in hockey, but it's just like the weather, what can you do about it?" said Los Angeles Coach Bob Berry after a first period brawl in the Kings' 6-3 loss to Philadelphia broke nine NHL penalty records.

"It was a disgrace, but what could the officials do about it when 38 players are involved?" he said. To put it mildly The Brawl, which apparently started when King defenseman Paul Paulin hit Flynor Blake Dunlop, was quite a fight.

The Flyers collected 194 penalty minutes and Los Angeles 186 for a 352 total, eclipsing the previous record of 256 minutes set in a game between St. Louis and the New York Rangers in 1974.

Holt was penalized 57 minutes in the period for hitting the chest of Jim Dorey of Toronto in Oct. 1968 and upping the record for penalties in one period to nine.

Other records broken included: most penalties for one team in a game (51), most minutes for one team (194), and most penalties in one period (48) and minutes in one period (352). Ten players, five from each team, were ejected from the game and eight needed stitches.

Holt, who hit his wrist in the melee, was kind of proud and neither team felt the fight hurt them, so it looks like the fighting will simply continue.

Maple Leaf-4, Pittsburgh 0. Hookie Rocky Saganak scored his first NHL goal in the first period. He had two assists and scored his fourth shutout of the season for Toronto, which posted its fifth straight victory since Coach Roger Neilson was fired and rehired.

Brad Park scored a power-play goal at 5:38 of the third period when Boston came back from a 2-goal deficit. Mike Bossy, the NHL's leading goal scorer, notched two power-play goals for his 53rd and 54th goals of the year.

Salvo 9, Flames 4. Rene Robert scored two goals and Andre Savard added a goal and four assists to power Buffalo. Buffalo grabbed a 5-0 advantage before Guy Chouinard fired in his 58th and 59th goals 22 seconds apart midway through the second period.

Hangers 5, Black Hawks 2. Don Maloney scored a goal and assisted on Phil Esposito's tally in the third period, leading New York to its third straight victory. Ron Duguay snipped a 1-1 tie at 17:28 of the second period when Pat Hickey set him up with a pass from the corner and Dave Maloney added an empty net goal with 51 seconds left.

Blair MacDonald scored two goals to lead Edmonton over Birmingham. After a scoreless first period, Brett Callighen, Dave Langevin and MacDonald all scored in the second. Mike Rogers tallied on a 20-foot slapshot in the third period to lift New England over Cincinnati. Goalie John Garrett stopped 25 shots, holding the Stingers scoreless until Claude St. Sauveur scored late in the second period.

Thompson Sidelined In Nuggets' Setback

NEW YORK (UPI) - When David Thompson is on the court, people usually notice. But he's noticed even more when he's not on the court.

"The game was over in the first half," Thompson said Sunday after the Washington Bullets trounced his Nuggets 119-98 while he sat and watched with an inflamed throat. "We just didn't have it today."

Washington is the only team with a winning record on the road. The Bullets placed seven men in double figures with Elvin Hayes and Mitch Kupchak scoring 13 points apiece.

"Denver did not play as well as we were capable," said Washington Coach Dick Motta. "They missed some foul shots early and that got them into a hole. I think the missed foul shots slipped them up a little bit, but of course, they missed Thompson."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Boston 108, Los Angeles 106; New Jersey 104, Philadelphia 103; Indiana 112, Phoenix 111; Detroit 125, Milwaukee 115; Atlanta 113, Seattle 111 in overtime; Portland 115, Kansas City 100 and Chicago 109, Golden State 107.

Dave Cowens scored a game-high 27 points to help end Boston's four-game losing streak. The Celtics, trailing 94-90 with 4:42 remaining, rallied behind the clutch foul shooting of rookie Jeff Judkins, who hit four free throws in the last eight seconds to assure the victory.

Neil 104, Sikorski 103. Bernard King took a feed from Ed- die Jordan and scored on a driving layup with two seconds to play, giving New Jersey a triumph over Philadelphia, loser of nine of its last 11 games. There were nine technical fouls called in the contest.

Pacers 112, Suns 111. Billy Knight's pair of free throws with 29 seconds to play gave Indiana a three-point lead and assured Indiana of a victory over Phoenix. The Pacers, winning their third game in a row, were led by Ricky Sobers with 26 points and James Edwards with 21.

Training Camp Notes

NEW YORK (UPI) - Cincinnati's home opener of the exhibition season was as gloomy for the Reds as the cold and overcast Florida weather was Sunday in Tampa.

Phil Garner's bases loaded pinch hit triple off of left-hander Dave Tomlin sparked a four-run seventh inning that carried the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 victory over the Reds.

Garner's triple was one of 10 hits, including three by Lee Lacy, off of four Reds pitchers - Paul Moskau, Mario Soto, Tomlin and Doug Bair. Ray Knight, who figures to replace Pete Rose at third base, batted out of two seven hits collected by the Reds off of five Pirates pitchers. Rose left the Reds to play this season for Philadelphia.

Ed Whitten, the third of the Pirate pitchers, was credited with the win even though he gave up the Reds only one hit. It came in the fifth, when Ken Griffey singled home Knight.

The game was the home opener for the Reds and attracted 4,815 fans on a gloomy day.

In other exhibition baseball matchups, the Red Sox downed the Chicago White Sox 7-0; Houston rallied to defeat Los Angeles 2-1; California beat Oakland 7-2; Atlanta defeated Montreal 3-2; the Chicago Cubs defeated Milwaukee 10-8; Philadelphia shooed Toronto 10-0; Kansas City nipped Texas 6-0; Detroit downed Minnesota 2-0; Baltimore crushed the New York Yankees 7-3; San Diego roared to 4-1 win over Seattle; San Francisco defeated Cleveland 3-1 and St. Louis knocked out the Mets, 4-2.

Andy Haskler, Steve Renko and Jim Wright, three possible starting pitchers for Boston, combined on a five-hitter to lead the Red Sox as Boston got all the runs it needed when Fred Lynn and Jim Rice belted solo homers in the first inning off Chicago loser Fred Howard.

Ninth inning singles by Jesus Alou and Jim Sexton scored a pair of runs to rally the Sox over the Dodgers. The win was Houston's first in three spring games and Los Angeles' first loss after a pair of victories.

Rod Carew's three-run homer in the first inning, his second home run of the spring, led the Angels over the A's. Nolan Ryan, making his first appearance of the spring, pitched the first two innings for California, giving up three hits, two runs, two walks and striking out three Oakland batters.

Veteran Mike Lum hit his second home run in two games to lead the Braves in a win over Montreal. Lum, signed as a free agent just prior to spring training, honored with a man on in the sixth to tie the game 3-2. Rookie Ted Harper then singled home Pat Rockett with the winning run in the ninth inning with two out.

Gene Clines drove in three runs with a triple and a single and Bill Backner and Jerry Martin had three hits apiece to help the Cubs outlast the Brewers for their first exhibition victory of the spring.

Jim Morrison belted a 3-2 pitch into right field with the bases loaded and two men out in the 11th inning to give the Phillies the win over the Blue Jays.

Rookie Dennis Webb's eighth-inning infield single scored U.L. Washington from second base Sunday to lift the Royals to their third straight exhibition victory, over the Texas Rangers. Washington led Kansas City's 11-hit attack with three hits and Frank White added two hits and knocked in two runs with a third-inning single.

Detroit's runs came after Paul Thordogard walked Jason Thompson and Jones with two out in the eighth. Dave Stigman lined a single to left field and the throw to the plate was mishandled by Minnesota catcher Butch Wynegar. Doug DeCinces drove in two runs with a single and a double to hand the world champion New York Yankees their fourth straight spring training defeat. The Birds chalked up their second straight win against the Yankees before a crowd of 9,257 at Miami Stadium as winning pitcher Sammy Stewart, Tippy Martinez and Ozzie Smith led the Yankees to victory in the last six innings.

Randy Jones and Gaylord Perry limited Seattle to three hits and no runs through eight innings as the unbeat Padres took the win over the Mariners. The Padres jumped on Seattle starter Glen Abbott for two runs in the first, inning on singles by Ozzie Smith, Jerry Turner and Andy Dyes.

Giants pitcher Ed Harker shut out the Indians in the first three innings and struck out four while free agent Dave Roberts struck out two in two innings. Free agent Tom Griffin finished the Cardinals with the win over the Mets after St. Louis loaded the bases against Roy Lee Jackson on Tom Griev's walk, a single by Tony Scott, a stolen base, a walk and Kennedy's single.

Burlington, Vt. (UPI) - Injured Italian ace Leonardo David, 19, remained in serious condition at the Medical Center Hospital early today.

A spokesman said late Sunday the young pitcher's condition, which doctors said improved slightly last week, has remained "basically the same" since then.

Four Years, Four Shows

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — McLean Stevenson's odyssey of four TV series in as many years is like no other in recent Hollywood memory.

McLean Stevenson

The tall, lean McLean, a relative of late presidential aspirant Adlai Stevenson, came to acting relatively late in life after dropping out of Northwestern Law School and becoming assistant director of Athletics at that university.

He studied acting in New York's Music Theatre Academy and worked as an understudy at Manhattan's famed Upstairs at the Downstairs club.

After moving to Hollywood he did some comedy writing for the Smothers Brothers and became a regular on "The Doris Day Show" and "The Tim Conway Comedy Hour."

Viewers discovered Stevenson in "M-A-S-H" playing Lt. Col. Henry Blake, the laconic commander of the foiled-up hospital unit.

In actuality, "M-A-S-H" was Stevenson's third series and was followed in quick succession by three more — an unsuccessful variety show, "The McLean Stevenson" sitcom in which he played the head of a family and "In The Beginning," portraying a Roman Catholic priest.

Currently McLean stars in the title role of "Hello, Larry," another sitcom in which he plays a divorced father of two daughters trying to raise the girls as a single parent.

He joined "Hello, Larry" a scant 10 days after receiving word that "In The Beginning" was canceled.

Obviously, somebody up there loves McLean Stevenson, who is now in his sixth series. At the moment that somebody is Fred Silverman, who, as president and chief executive officer of NBC, is one of the most powerful men in television.

Silverman personally telephoned Stevenson when "In The Beginning" was canceled by CBS to say that NBC had a first-rate series for him.

The merry-go-round effect of one series after another has left Stevenson somewhat shaken. Since leaving "M-A-S-H" he has been a square peg in a round hole.

Television executives and producers like him. The public has demonstrated a fondness for his low-key style of comedy. But Stevenson has not really caught on with a hit.

"Hello, Larry" so far has a spotty Nielsen record. Sometimes it is respectably rated, sometimes it isn't.

Stevenson, analyzing "Hello, Larry," says it started off on the wrong foot.

"We couldn't get the ensemble together in the pilot," he said. "Partly because there was a time element involved. We didn't know if it was to be an 8:30, family-oriented show or a 9:30, more sophisticated show.

"After the first six weeks we made a complete turnaround in the direction of the series. The emphasis was put on Larry and his daughters instead of Larry's job as a radio disc jockey."

"In the pilot episode Larry was a buffoon, the cliché TV father. He was changed into a man dealing with the teen-age problems of his daughters, a strong, secure father who takes on some of the responsibilities of a mother."

"I'm a divorced father personally. The two girls who play my daughters, Kim Richards and Donna Wilkes, both live with single parents. We've been communicating with one another off the set as well as on."

"We're developing a real relationship which is beginning to show on the screen. They're behaving like real kids and I'm reacting as a genuine father, not a TV caricature."

"I also made the mistake when I began the role by announcing I was the new Bonnie Franklin of TV (One Day At A Time) — the single parent raising a couple of daughters. The show started that way, but that's not the way it is now."

"We're fighting to overcome the image we first presented."

"I've worked harder on this show than any of the others. I've contributed to the concepts and writing. Fred Silverman is convinced we'll get a large family following for the show."

Stevenson is confident NBC will give "Hello, Larry" time to find its audience no matter what the ratings indicate.

To bolster the show's ratings, Silverman has slotted the series immediately following "Diff'rent Strokes," highest rated NBC sitcom on the air, hoping to pick up that show's ratings. But "Hello, Larry" has trailed "Diff'rent Strokes" considerably.

Even so, Stevenson is sure Silverman will stick by his series. He certainly hopes so. The last thing Stevenson needs at this stage in his career is yet another series.

To bolster the show's ratings, Silverman has slotted the series immediately following "Diff'rent Strokes," highest rated NBC sitcom on the air, hoping to pick up that show's ratings. But "Hello, Larry" has trailed "Diff'rent Strokes" considerably.

Even so, Stevenson is sure Silverman will stick by his series. He certainly hopes so. The last thing Stevenson needs at this stage in his career is yet another series.

Stevenson, analyzing "Hello, Larry," says it started off on the wrong foot.

"We couldn't get the ensemble together in the pilot," he said. "Partly because there was a time element involved. We didn't know if it was to be an 8:30, family-oriented show or a 9:30, more sophisticated show.

"After the first six weeks we made a complete turnaround in the direction of the series. The emphasis was put on Larry and his daughters instead of Larry's job as a radio disc jockey."

"In the pilot episode Larry was a buffoon, the cliché TV father. He was changed into a man dealing with the teen-age problems of his daughters, a strong, secure father who takes on some of the responsibilities of a mother."

"I'm a divorced father personally. The two girls who play my daughters, Kim Richards and Donna Wilkes, both live with single parents. We've been communicating with one another off the set as well as on."

"We're developing a real relationship which is beginning to show on the screen. They're behaving like real kids and I'm reacting as a genuine father, not a TV caricature."

"I also made the mistake when I began the role by announcing I was the new Bonnie Franklin of TV (One Day At A Time) — the single parent raising a couple of daughters. The show started that way, but that's not the way it is now."

"We're fighting to overcome the image we first presented."

"I've worked harder on this show than any of the others. I've contributed to the concepts and writing. Fred Silverman is convinced we'll get a large family following for the show."

Stevenson is confident NBC will give "Hello, Larry" time to find its audience no matter what the ratings indicate.

Town May Shift Its Office Sites

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - If a space study done by town officials is fully implemented, it could confuse visitors to town hall a few years from now.

The town manager would be upstairs, the controller would be down the hall and the hearing room wouldn't even be in the same building.

The study, however, is just a proposal to Town Manager Robert Weiss, and Weiss already has indicated he make some changes to the suggestions.

The report was prepared by Jay Giles, director of public works, Alan Lamson, town planner, and Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager. They said the three buildings now used for office space - the Municipal Building, the Hall of Records and the Lincoln Center - will be adequate for town office space in the near future.

This, however, would require a relocation of the Sheltered Workshop, which now occupies the entire first floor of the Lincoln Center. The workshop is expanding and eventually will outgrow the present location, so it is expected to seek another site.

The space study, which has not yet been presented to the Town Board of Directors, proposed a six-step process for relocating town offices. Those six steps would include the following:

Phase One - Relocate the Sheltered Workshop and move the Hearing Room from its present second-floor location in the Municipal Building to the first floor of the Lincoln Center.

Phase Two - Relocate the collector's office into the present assistant manager's office and have the registrars of voters and personnel division operate out of the existing manager's office.

Phase Three - Expand the collector's office into the present assistant manager's office and have the registrars of voters and personnel division operate out of the existing manager's office.

Phase Four - Expand the collector's office into the present assistant manager's office and have the registrars of voters and personnel division operate out of the existing manager's office.

Phase Five - Relocate the controller's office to the Probate Court. The budget analyst will work in the controller's office - is not efficient.

Phase Six - Shift the Civil Preparation office to the present registrars office in the Municipal Building basement.

The closed-off area in one part of the Municipal Building's second-floor balcony should be removed. That area now is used for offices.

Police File Reports On Sighting of UFO

MANCHESTER - Police released Friday written reports in connection with rumored UFO sightings by a Manchester police officer the evening of March 1.

The written reports coincided with oral reports on the sighting of Broad Street by Officer Jonas "Josh" Searle. Searle told the Herald last Friday that he saw a low flying object above the Taccorral Restaurant on Broad Street the night before. He said he did not offer another possible UFO, but did not write up a report. Duty officers would not corroborate the reported sightings last Friday.

An investigation of the incident by Captain Henry Minor produced the following information:

Searle described the low-flying object he saw as blue and green in color and cylindrical in shape. He said the object made no noise when observed and traveled at a fast rate of speed.

Searle said he told Officer Frederic
