Israeli Cabinet OKs Proposals

JERUSALEM (UPI) - The Israeli cabinet today overwhelmingly accepted President Carter's two compromise proposals for a peace treaty, paving the way for a parliament vote that could mean a peace treaty with Egypt within two weeks.

The cabinet voted 15-0 for the proposals with one abstention and one absence, cabinet sources said. Another cabinet meeting will be held Sunday for approval of the treaty document as a whole, but that was viewed as only a formality.

The American proposals are possible to live with. Otherwise the government would not have accepted them. Minister-Without-Portfolio Moshe Nissim said.

Begin told reporters after today's meeting that he telephoned Carter and informed him of his ministers' decision.

"I informed him that the last two outstanding issues were resolved today by a positive decision of the cabinet," he said.

Iran Guerrillas Given Warning

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Iran's new government today served notice on armed guerrillas to turn in their guns or be dealt with as counter-revolutionaries.

The 78-year-old Khomeini issued his warning of a conspiracy among oil consumers to a meeting called to rally support for his Islamic republic, which he plans to establish after a referendum March 30.

"The foreign criminals, those who used our oil freely, have not given up," Khomeini said.

"Let Carter mind his own business," Hassan said to cheers and applause from the crowd estimated at 20,000.

Some 300,000 weapons were seized from army arsenals and bases during the revolution that ousted Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

"This is being done for security reasons," he said.

Plan Could End Town Hall Rush

By GREG PEARSON Herald Reporter MANCHESTER - Anyone who has ever had to rush to town hall during lunch hour to pay a tax bill or obtain a license will appreciate a suggestion by John FitzPatrick, a member of the Town Board of Directors.

FitzPatrick has suggested that certain town offices might be kept open one night a week to better serve the public.

Directors Not Sold On Service District

By GREG PEARSON Herald Reporter MANCHESTER - It apparently will take more selling for the Town Board of Directors to buy the idea of a bill that would permit the establishment of a Central Business Service District for downtown.

The idea was supported by some Main Street businessmen who spoke at Tuesday night's meeting of the Town Board of Directors.

He also said the town board has to support the bill for it to be successful since it was submitted by a Manchester legislator.

Perhaps Mayor Ed Koch should stick to New York and leave Italian to the Italians. There he was Tuesday, arm in arm with Sophia Loren in front of television cameras and reporters.

Maggie's Memoirs Margaret Trudeau didn't exactly make it as Canada's first lady, and she fared little better with brief forays into photography and acting.

Says her Montreal publisher, Michael Baxendale, "The book sales alone will be in the millions of dollars. I don't know how much she herself will make out of it but she had a royalty percentage. It's destined to be a world best-seller."

Extranged husband Pierre may not be so thrilled. The book, in which he's bound to figure prominently, hits the stands just as he hits the hustings in a bid for re-election as prime minister.

Madam President

Jane Fonda for president? Why not, says Gore Vidal. "She would make a damn good one."

But Miss Fonda laughed off the nomination Tuesday in San Francisco. Says she, "I think there's a danger of confusing politics with Hollywood. I call it Hollywood. If that's what you want, then you can make statements like that."

Candid Camera

Nobody, but nobody, asks a member of the British royal family to pose for pictures. Well, almost nobody. Norma Bennett did Tuesday — and to the surprise of press photographers following Prince Charles in Perth, Australia, he cooperated.

If happened when the prince spotted two little girls — Mrs. Bennett's daughters — and stopped to talk to them. Whipping out her camera, Mrs. Bennett ordered the prince to "hold still." He did and she snapped away.

Royal protocol says nobody, but nobody. And nobody in the press corps ever has.

Availability Of Clean Oil Impossible To Determine

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut officials say they have to take the word of fuel suppliers when they ask for clean air waivers, claiming they have nothing but dirty, high sulphur oil to burn. Len Bruckman, director of the air compliance unit at the Department of Environmental Protection, said "it's impossible" to find out how much low sulphur oil is left, except from the oil companies.

Crowd Debates Plan On Gasoline Outlets

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut lawmakers have been told the federal government's failure to deal with the fuel crisis leaves it up to them to protect gasoline retailers in the Nutmeg State. He said that 250 persons crowded into the Hall of the House at the State Capitol to hear retailers and suppliers argue over a measure to support UI in March and April, but it had plenty of the less expensive, "dirty" fuel for the time being.

Asbestos Water Piping Poses No Health Hazard

By GREG PEARSON Herald Reporter MANCHESTER — The town's water system contains about 1,600 feet of asbestos lines. With the recent concern about the possibility of asbestos being a cancer-causing substance, that might seem like quite a bit. But, when one considers the system contains 130 miles of pipelines, the amount is very small. It poses no health problem, according to local and state officials.

Board Rescinds Layoff Notices

MANCHESTER - The Board of Education approved several personnel actions this week including rescinding of three layoff notices for teachers.

The rescinding of three of 13 layoffs was made possible because of vacancies created by retirements and leave of absence requests. The teachers who were granted the rescindments are Virginia Barry and Mary Ann Will, elementary teachers and Deborah Palmer, junior high school Spanish teacher.

The name of Lynn Rhodes, an elementary school teacher, was added to the non-renewal notification list because of an administrative oversight. The board stressed the action was not taken based on job performance, but because of the declining enrollments.

The retirement of Mary R. Leslie, a third grade teacher at Highland Park School and a teacher in the Manchester school system since 1961, was accepted.

Approved resignations included Kathleen W. Dyer, an Early Learning Resource Center teacher at Washington School from 1973 and on leave of absence since December 1977 and Deborah P. Gallagher, a first grade teacher at Washington School since January 1974 and on leave of absence since November 1977.

The request for a leave of absence by Gwen E. Brooks, vice principal at Bennet Junior High School for the past year, and a teacher in the system since 1963 was approved. Mrs. Brooks will fulfill her residency requirement for her doctoral degree.

Other leaves approved were Paula M. Barry, third grade teacher at Robertson School and Marilyn Cantor, half-time speech and language clinician at Washington School.

An extension of a leave to Kim A. Geyer, a four-fifths time Spanish teacher at Hill Junior High was approved for the 1979-80 school year.

Directors To Consider Revisions In Agenda

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - The Town Board of Directors may operate under a slightly different agenda than the one it now uses.

Director Joseph Sweeney submitted a revised agenda that would include two new items each month - presentation of bid waivers and a consent calendar.

The consent calendar has been suggested by Mayor Stephen Penny. It would establish a monthly agenda item which would allow the board to approve appropriations, approvals and other actions that are expected to be unopposed.

All of these items would be listed under the monthly consent calendar, and the entire package would be approved by one vote of the directors. An item could be removed from the consent calendar and acted on separately if a board member objected to it being included in the consent group.

The board now holds individual public hearings and acts separately on several items, such as small appropriations or required fund transfers, that usually are not opposed.

The consent calendar approach would eliminate these separate public hearings for such items, unless there was an objection, and would speed up the board's meetings.

Sweeney's proposal also establishes a monthly agenda item for the presentation of bid waivers. The board is asked to approve waivers by the town manager, and the manager's presentation of such waivers now is done under the reports section of the agenda.

Board members have complained in the past that the presentations have been incomplete. The separate agenda item would insure a specific time to review and discuss the proposed waivers.

The directors are expected to discuss the proposed agenda changes, which were presented Tuesday night, at an upcoming meeting.

Bolton Hall Ramps Topic for Meeting

BOLTON - How to make the Community Hall accessible to the handicapped will be one of the topics to be discussed at the March 20 meeting of the Board of Selectmen.

Douglas Cheney, chairman of the Public Building Commission, will discuss the situation and present proposed sketches of ramps.

Cheney said two ramps will be required, one for the offices on the main floor and one for the lower level offices. He said the bathroom facilities will also require work.

Cheney presented sketches to the board at its recent meeting but First Selectman Henry Ryba said, "This will be a costly project and all board members should be in attendance to see the sketches and discuss the plans."

Town Was First In City's Parade

MANCHESTER - The Town of Manchester won first prize for the best participation by a large town in Saturday's St. Patrick's Day Parade in Hartford.

The Manchester Police Department and the Eighth District Fire Department also won first place awards. The Police Department placed first in the senior marching unit division. The fire department won first prize as the best overall volunteer fire department.

It was the fourth time in the last eight years that Manchester has won the prize, according to Bridget Marceau, awards chairman for the parade. The parade is sponsored by the United Irish Societies.

Another area winner in the parade was the South Windsor town float which won a second prize. The Parade officials asked the South Windsor representatives to enter the float, called Finnegan's Wake, in this Saturday's St. Patrick's Day Parade in Holyoke, Mass., Mrs. Marceau said.

The participants from Manchester in the parade, besides the winning departments, included town officials, led by Mayor Stephen Penny, the parade committee, the Knights of Columbus, Bishop McMahon Honor Corps, and the Campbell Council of Manchester Knights of Columbus, the Manchester Army-Navy Club, the Veterans of World War I and Manchester Senior Citizens. Thomas Humphrey served as marshal for Manchester's contingent.

Groups which were committed to march, but did not march because of the rain were Young's Pipe Band and the Bennet Junior High and Manchester High School bands.

The Bolton Volunteer Fire Department and its ladies auxiliary also marched with the Manchester contingent.

There were a total of 18 towns represented in the parade. Manchester was in a category of town's with over 35,000 population.

Absentee Ballots To Be Available

MANCHESTER - For the first time in a town special election, absentee ballots will be available for the April 17 vote.

Manchester residents will decide two key issues that day - a proposed $20 million bond issue for water improvements and a proposed two-year ban on town participation in the Community Development program.

Absentee ballots will be available because of a new state law requiring them for such special elections. The law was passed last year by the state General Assembly.

Tomkiel had asked the town attorney's office to clarify the law, which he said "wasn't written in the best manner."

Because of some confusion about whether absentee ballots would be needed for such an election, Tomkiel called the secretary of state's office. The office recommended he refer the matter to the town attorney.

The matter has been cleared through the attorney's office, and the ballots will be available later this month.

The process for applying for the ballots will be the same as a regular election, Tomkiel said.

Applications for the ballots must be filled out and submitted to his office. These applications may be given or mailed to the town clerk's office now, but the absentee ballots will not be mailed out until March 29.

The voter then must fill out the ballot and return it to the office.

All registered voters in Manchester may vote April 17. Persons may register as a voter until 4:30 p.m. Monday, April 16 and still be eligible to vote in the special election.

Police Search Home, Seize Illegal Drugs

SOUTH WINDSOR - Armed with a search warrant, South Windsor Police searched the home of Bernadette Ekstrom, 55 Judy Lane, Monday night, and found a large amount of "suspected illegal substances."

Police said all of the substances were field tested and indicated positive results. Captain William Ryan, acting chief, said warrants will be obtained for the arrests of several persons in connection with the raid.

Found in the Judy Lane home were about 100 grams of suspected cocaine, about 10 ounces of suspected marijuana, 10 capsules of what is believed to be amphetamines, about 10 grams of methadone crystals, five assorted scales, cutting boards, spoons, and packaging materials.

Capt. Ryan said the substances have an estimated street value of about $13,000.

He said the search warrant was obtained on confidential information given to the department.

Hebron Financiers Plan Budget Talks

HEBRON - The Board of Finance has established a schedule of meetings to review budget requests for the 1979-80 fiscal year.

Today the Board of Education will present its budget at 8 p.m. in the Town Office Building.

The General Government budget request will be reviewed on March 22 at 7 p.m., also in the Town Office Building and on March 29 at 8 p.m., in the same place, an added session will be held to receive any additional budget requests, if necessary.

Richard M. Grant, chairman of the board, said that the budget requests should include a detailed breakdown of the items, not just a lump sum request.

April 16 has been set as the date for the public hearing and the annual budget meeting will be May 14 at 8 p.m., also at the elementary school.

The Regional 8 Board of Education will conduct its budget hearing on April 23 at 7:30 p.m. at Rham High School and its annual budget meeting, May 7, also at Rham.

Costs And Source Key to Questions

As a result of last week's Board of Directors meeting additional proposals will be facing voters in the April 17 referendum concerning Community Development Fund.

The referendum was originally designed to have voters decide whether or not to have the town continue its participation in the Community Development program.

The new wrinkle in the referendum are two questions, both of which will only take effect if the two-year moratorium is passed.

The first question will ask if town funds should be used to pay for administrative costs of Community Development programs.

The second will ask if town funds should pay for the cost of completing projects that had been funded through CD funds but are not completed as of June 30.

Anyone who can read or listen is well aware in the past few weeks of the deluge of statements, facts and figures being presented by both sides of the moratorium question.

The same holds true for information concerning the two questions which have been added by the directors.

It is not fair to expect an intelligent response to either question unless background information is provided so there

Decision Draws Mixed Reviews

Last week's court decision received the expected negative reaction from Eighth Utilities District supporters.

Judge Norris O'Neill ruled a consolidation attempt by the Committee For One Manchester was proper. He said district residents violated the state's Home Rule Act when they failed to appoint members to a consolidation commission.

He ordered another meeting to make such appointments, but it appears that will be delayed until the district appeal of O'Neill's decision is heard.

District residents have said consolidation should take place according to the Town Charter, which requires the district to initiate the effort. O'Neill disagreed, however, with this opinion.

Some of those active in the district protested that the state law will mean a swallowing up of the district by the town. Robert Blechman, a would be some understanding of the ramifications of the questions if they are accepted. The information should be presented in dollars and cents. It would be presented in as exact figures as possible as to how much it will cost to administer CD programs and complete unfinished CD-funded projects.

It is the duty of the directors to provide these figures. In these days of escalating inflation, the majority of people are concerned with costs—costs of food, housing, gasoline and the cost of government.

The effect of the two questions, if passed, on the taxpayer's pocketbook should be put out in the open.

Not only should the information as to the costs be provided, but also information as to where the money will come from and if additional taxes are to be necessary, how much?

The Board of Directors were elected to be the representatives of the people in town government.

One cannot be a true representative if costs are hidden and people are asked to vote on what could turn into a blank check.

Without the cost information, the voting for the questions would be like buying "a pig in a poke."

The directors must be honest, provide the information and let the chips fall where they may.

district director, said the STEAL committee, an anti-consolidation group, will reorganize and work again against the consolidation effort.

The decision, however, received applause from town residents who support consolidation. They have long said the existing arrangement of two separate fire departments is confusing and cumbersome.

A survey done by State Rep. Walter Joyner shows strong support for stricter nuclear energy controls, a higher drinking age, a statutory limit on state spending and mandatory jail sentences.

Joyner circulated the poll among residents of Manchester's 12th Assembly District, which he represents.

Some of those who responded showed the most support for mandatory jail sentences for felons. This was supported by 113 of the 128 persons who minister of Israel, Carter invited him to the White House and took him upstairs into the family quarters. For two hours, Carter expressed his deep personal feelings for Israel. He swore to Rabin that the United States would preserve Israel. He would see to it, the president said, that "Israel continues to exist for a thousand years."

The whippers, of course, got back to Begin. Inimates say he was hurt and angry. He was also disillusioned over the way his private understandings with Carter began to develop, into misunderstandings. The Israeli leader, ever blunt, spoke privately of Carter's "deception" and "duplicitous."

The relationship turned colder after Begin ordered the retaliatory invasion of Lebanon in March 1978. Begin, thereafter, paid a call at the White House where he found the president chilly. He returned to Jerusalem to find his political base being undermined. Rightly or wrongly, Begin suspected that Carter was trying to promote a coalition between his own Defense Minister, Ezer Weizman and Labor Party leader Shimon Peres. But Brzezinski even more than Carter offended Begin. According to one report, Brzezinski once lectured the Israeli leader in language that Begin felt was insulting. Angriely, he reminded Brzezinski that he was talking to the head of an allied nation. Thereafter, Begin referred to Brzezinski privately as "ocher Israel," meaning anti-Israel. When reports of this remark were published, the Israeli embassy vehemently denied it.

Carter hasn't had much better result with other Middle East leaders. He did his best, for example, to woo the shah of Iran whose armies dominated the Persian Gulf, where tankers come to load up on oil for the United States.

Carter pumpered the shah outrageously, granting him in public and flattering him in private. This was no different than previous presidents had done. But Carter continued to sustain the shah long after the Iranian people had taken to the street against him.

Then in panic, Carter abandoned the shah in a belated attempt to appease his conquerors. A bitter shah spread the word around the Middle East, according to intelligence reports, that Carter had "double-crossed" him.

Carter also courted Egyptian President Anwar Sadat assiduously, showering him with letters and calling him on the phone. The Egyptian leader, our sources say, had private misgivings about the shah. But Carter helped to persuade him that the shah, as a loyal American ally, was deserving of support. Sadat was in the midst of welcoming the fleeing shah to Cairo when Carter abruptly dropped him.

Sadat was left with the uneasy feeling, Arab sources say, that Carter would be just as quick to turn away a new leader in Cairo. Saudi Arabia's royal family has also developed doubts about Carter's ability to cope with Middle East problems. In earlier columns, we have detailed how the royal princes have started flirting with Moscow and tightening their ties with the radical Arab regimes.

This doesn't necessarily mean the push for peace will falter. Sadat's bold approach to the Israelis has antagonized most of his Arab neighbors. It may be too late, therefore, for him to turn back. His best course may be to plunge ahead on the road to peace.

Begin is also determined, say intimates, to earn the Nobel peace prize, which he has already received in anticipation of an Israeli-Egyptian treaty. His wife told us that he is a one-track mind who has never let overwhelming obstacles deter him. Right now, his eye is on peace.

So much for the Special Theory. Einstein's General Theory published in 1915, is somewhat easier to assimilate. Here were aided by a number of postulations that have sprung out of the master's basic reasoning.

"Take, for example, his theory that light rays are "bent" by the force of gravity as they travel through space. That has produced the postulation that if we were to travel straight out into space for a long enough time we would eventually return to the point of departure.

Aha! Now we are getting somewhere. You don't need trains to grasp the General Theory. Just visualize making a round trip on a one-way street and you've got it.

Chicago Democratic mayor nominee Jane M. Byrne, commenting on Mayor Michael Bilandic's reaction to his primary defeat.

Almanac

Today is Wednesday, March 14, the 73rd day of 1979 with 292 to follow. The moon is moving from its full phase toward its last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Pisces. German-American scientist Albert Einstein was born March 14, 1879.

On this day in history: In 1743, the first town meeting in America was held in Boston. In 1812, the U.S. government authorized issue of the first war bonds. They were floated to buy military equipment for use against the British. In 1947, military and naval bases in the Philippines were leased to the United States for 99 years. In 1964, Jack Ruby was found guilty of murder in the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, assassin of President John F. Kennedy. Ruby was sentenced to death but the conviction was overturned, and he died while awaiting a new trial.

A thought for the day: Scientist-inventor Albert Einstein said, "The most beautiful thing we can experience is the mysterious. It is the source of all true art and science."

The Lighter Side Einstein Made Easy

By DICK WEST
"There once was a young man named Dwight. Who could travel much faster than light."

"He set out one day in a relative way. And returned the previous night."

WASHINGTON (UPI) - In his later years, Albert Einstein, whose 100th birthday anniversary we are celebrating today, denied having once said that only a dozen people could understand his Theory of Relativity.

There is no gaining, however, that his famous education about the nature of the universe remains beyond the ken of a dozen or more people.

It would be a fine tribute to the great thinker on the centennial of his birth if everyone still a little vague about how relativity works were to spend a couple of hours mastering the rudiments.

Toward that end, I have prepared a few pointers that may help those in the dark take the first steps toward enlightenment.

You will note as you tackle the Special Theory, which was published in 1905, that Einstein used trains to illustrate certain phenomena. Readers are required to visualize effects that would transpire aboard a train moving at a uniform velocity with respect to the ground.

It could be that in 1905 some trains did move at a uniform velocity with respect to the ground. Today, however, it is nearly impossible for anyone, regardless of how keen the brain, to visualize a uniformly moving train.

Thoughts

Grant, O God, thy holy and life-giving Spirit may move every human heart, that the barriers which divide us may crumble, suspicions disappear, and hatreds cease; and that, with our divisions healed, we might live in justice and peace; through

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Don't Bring the Bride A Gift-Wrapped Burden

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your advice to carry no wedding gifts to the reception. You said gifts should be sent to the bride's home before the wedding or to the bride's mother, who already had enough on her mind. You also said it was a pain in the neck to have to haul a carload of wedding presents home. Boy, I should have had such a pain in the neck!

DEAR J: Although the mail has been passing 2 to 1 in your favor and against me, here's one for my side:

DEAR ABBY: Let me add a loud "Amen" to your opinion that taking wedding gifts to the reception is very inconsiderate. I recently married off a daughter, and of the gifts that were brought to the reception, many mysteriously disappeared - having been either lost or stolen. Some were broken when I got them home, and many cards were lost and mixed up.

Abby, please keep repeating your advice to send the wedding gifts to the bride before the wedding, or to the couple afterward.

POST-MARRITAL HEADACHE

DEAR ABBY: I was jogging the other morning and when I came to an intersection that particularly busy one! A passing motorist leaned out his window and yelled, "They, you jerk, get off the street! What are you trying to prove? I ignored him and kept right on jogging. Abby, this wasn't the first time I've been insulted by a hostile motorist. Other joggers tell me they've had the same experience.

What do you think motivates these people to put down joggers?

KEEPING FIT IN SAN MATEO

DEAR KEEPING: Jealousy, probably.

DEAR ABBY: On Valentine's Day the gentleman I've been dating gave me a bottle of perfume in my favorite fragrance. He also took me to dinner and presented me with a beautiful erized corsage. Then he spoiled it all by handing me a $100 GIFT CERTIFICATE!

I tried not to show my shock and disappointment, but I still haven't been able to bring myself to cash it. Should I drop it?

INSULTED IN ELMHURST

DEAR INSULTED: I can't see any reason that you should be shocked, disappointed, or insulted. But if you decide to drop this gentleman, let me know where you drop him. I know several women in Elmhurst who would love to meet him.

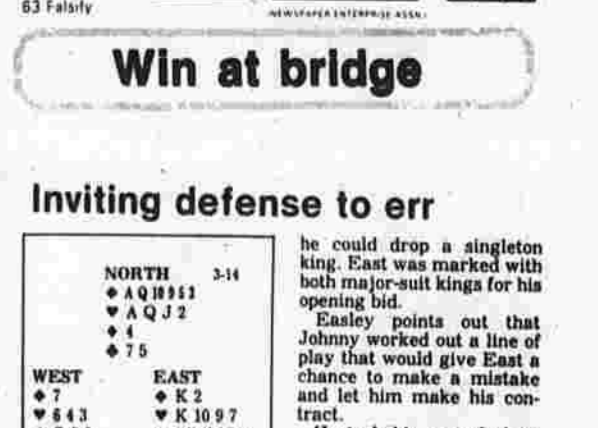

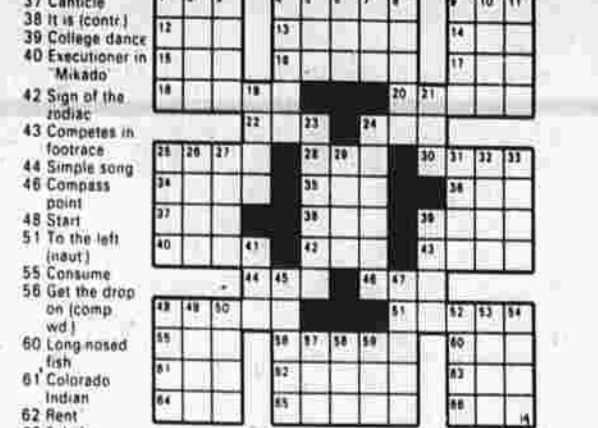

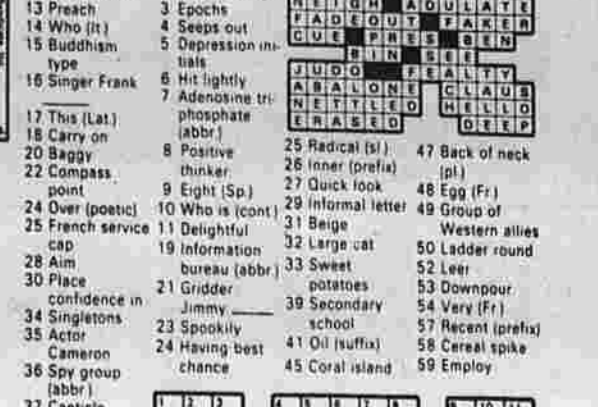

CONFIDENTIAL TO FAITHFUL FAN IN BREMERTON, WASH.: Your character is what you ARE, your reputation is what people THINK you are, and what you get a reputation as an early rise you can sleep till noon.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular." Write to: Abby's New Book, P.O. Box 488, Radio City Station, 488 Broadway, New York City, N.Y. 10101.

he could drop a singleton East was marked with both major-suit kings for his opening bid.

Easy points out that Johnny worked out a line of play that would give East a chance to make a mistake and let him make his contract.

He took his ace of clubs immediately and ruffed this suit and a small spade. East was in with his ace and wanted no time thinking. He cashed his ace of diamonds.

East assumed that John would ruff in dummy, but East would not play at trick six.

East had gotten himself caught in an end play at trick six.

If he had a heart he would take care of John's heart loser for him, so East led a fourth diamond. This allowed John to discard a heart and take a ruffing finesse against East's king to get his 10 tricks.

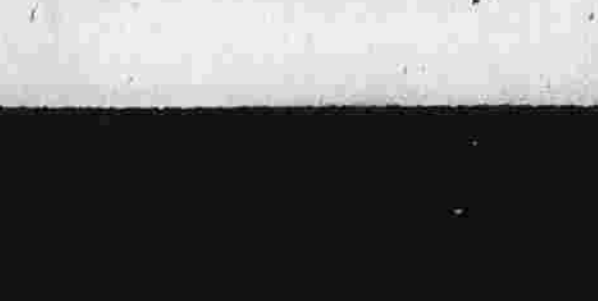

East had stopped to think he could have led a low diamond instead of the ace, but all defenders are not perfect and East led one.

Here is an excellent hand from Jack Blackwood's new, delightful book on play. It shows the late John Crawford, one of the greatest players of all time, in action. Crawford won the first trick with the king of diamonds and shifted to the queen of clubs. John was looking at one loser in each suit unless

Coventry Cop Becomes UFO Investigator

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

COVENTRY - Police Officer Lawrence Fawcett will be doing some extra investigative work for the next year - but not in the field of crime.

Fawcett has been named an investigator for the Center for UFO Studies of Evanston, Ill. His appointment was made by Dr. J. Allen Hynek, scientific director of the center.

Dr. Hynek had served as an advisor for "Project Bluebook" for 20 years. Bluebook was the investigative arm of the air force to investigate UFO sightings. When that project ended the center was esablished in 1973 to promote serious research into UFO phenomena.

Fawcett, being a police officer, has had a lot of experience in investigation. He said he has always been interested in UFOs and conducted investigations in that field for the University of Colorado in 1966.

Fawcett said there is some misinterpretation of natural phenomena. Usually reports of UFOs differ in details but have many similarities.

He said he investigated three reports in this area in the past couple of years. The most recent was in Coventry on Jan. 25.

Fawcett said he thinks more people report what they see now than they did several years ago because the phenomenon is more common and they aren't thought of as "kooks."

Fawcett said that 7,000 police departments across the country have full-time numbers to the center in Illinois to report any information they receive on UFOs.

He wants to keep interest stimulated and asks any one who sees something unusual to contact him at 471 Goose Lane, Coventry 742-7988.

He said the recent sighting in Coventry was described by the observer as being two objects, seen about 9 p.m. They were described as having a series of nine lights, being 150-200 feet in length, shaped like a football and hovering about 500 feet off the ground.

Most sightings are misinterpretations of natural phenomena, Fawcett said. This could include lights, meteors, planets and stars or even man-made objects.

Sightings are usually broken into different categories, Fawcett said. The relatively distant sightings are categorized as nocturnal lights which are sightings of well-defined lights in the sky at night and appear most often as red, orange, or white.

Daylight discs are usually of oval or disc-shaped metallic appearing objects and appear either near the ground or high in the sky.

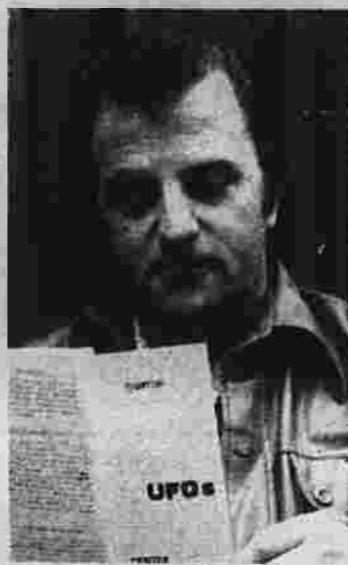

Relatively close sightings come in three groups. Close Encounters of the first, second, and third-kind. With close encounters of the first kind, scientists say that although the witness observes a UFO nearby, there appears to be no interaction with either the witness or the environment.

Close encounters of the second kind include details of interaction between the UFO and the environment which may vary from interference with car ignition systems and electronic gear to imprints or burns on the ground.

Close encounters of the third kind involves occupants of a UFO.

Investigators, of course, do have to put up with people who attempt to play tricks on them, especially with photographs but the investigators can usually expose the hoax quite fast.

There's an old Irish saying that laughter is gayest where the food is best. If true, you can count on the merriest St. Patrick's Day ever when you pair up two of Ireland's favorites - beef and potatoes. This popular duo, prepared with Gaelic flair, is sure to send spirits soaring.

Thoughts will happily turn to the rolling meadows and country kitchens of County Cork and Killarney when a hearty and homey beef pot-roast comes to the St. Paddy's Day table. In the recipe for Barley Beef Pot-Roast a compact boneless beef chuck eye roast or cross rib pot-roast braisely cooks to juicy tenderness along with flavorful potatoes and leeks. For a unique accent, tuck is added to the thyme-seasoned cooking liquid for a tempting gravy. You can round out the main course in fine fashion with other Irish favorites such as boiled cabbage and soda bread.

If entertaining is in your St. Pat's plans, create a party mood with festive Irish Heroes - super sandwiches guaranteed to make all eyes smile. Spicy corned beef, shredded Swiss cheese and tangy sauerkraut are piled high on Sesame Potato Bread Shamrocks. The clever cloves are fun to make from a potato yeast dough that bakes up tender and tasty. For a perfect salad accompaniment, serve Potato Salad O'Brien, a variation of the Irish potato favorite. The diced potatoes are tossed with a buttermilk dressing.

A look at the nutritional ratings for beef and potatoes suggests that it is not just the "luck of the Irish" that accounts for the robust good health of the inhabitants of the Emerald Isle. In fact, at one time the Irish survived on a diet of mostly potatoes. This popular vegetable is an excellent source of vitamin C and provides B vitamins, iron and other minerals. Lucky were the Irish in more prosperous times when beef was added to their diet. For beef, be it fresh or corned, is a top source of the high quality protein needed to build, maintain and repair body tissues. It also is an important source of B vitamins and minerals.

1 1/2 cup instant beef bouillon
1 teaspoon leaf thyme
6 medium potatoes, peeled and halved
1 pound leeks, sliced in 2-inch pieces
1/2 cup tea
2 tablespoons snipped parsley

Sesame Potato Bread Shamrocks

lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes, working in only as much additional flour as necessary to prevent dough from sticking (about 1 cup). Place dough in a buttered bowl, turning to butter all sides. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 1 1/2 hours. Punch down; divide into nine equal portions. Divide one portion into eighths; shape each piece for stem of shamrock by rolling to form a roll, 2 inches long and 1/2 inch in diameter. Divide each of remaining 8 parts into 3 equal portions; shape each into a ball. Place 3 balls and a stem on greased baking sheet to form a shamrock roll. Repeat with remaining portions of dough to form a shamrock roll. Repeat with remaining portions of dough to form 8 rolls. Cover; let rise in warm place until almost doubled, 20 to 30 minutes. Gently brush tops of rolls with egg white mixture. Sprinkle generously with sesame seed. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) for 17 minutes or until golden brown. Remove rolls to rack to cool. Roll. *For rectangular rolls, divide dough into 8 equal portions; form into rectangular rolls, 5 inches long by 1 1/2 inches wide.

Lemony Poached Pears

Fresh pears, lopped with a creamy lemon custard sauce, will make you wish dessert wasn't last on the menu. Even, if you're celebrating St. Patrick's Day with Steak and Kidney Pie with Puff Pastry.

Before we get into some traditional recipes, here's one for these super Lemony Poached Pears.

1 1/2 cups water
1/3 cup sherry
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cinnamon stick
3 whole cloves
6 medium-sized firm pears
1 cup milk
1 package (3 1/2 oz.) instant lemon pudding and pie filling mix
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place large size (14" x 20") Brown-in-Bag in 12x22-inch baking dish. Combine brown sugar, water, sherry, lemon juice, cinnamon and cloves in bag; turn bag gently until sugar dissolves. Pare pears; core from blossom end, leaving on stems. If necessary, cut a thin slice off bottom of pear to level. As each pear is pared, roll in syrup and stand up in bag, arranging in circle. Close bag with twist tie; make 6 half-inch slits on top. Cook 30 minutes or until tender.

To make custard sauce, combine milk and 1 cup syrup from bag in medium mixing bowl; add pudding mix and beat with electric mixer on low speed 2 minutes or until well-blended. Chill until ready to serve; custard will thicken, but not set. To serve, spoon custard sauce over pear or chilled pears. Makes 6 servings.

Irish Potato Pudding

1 pound potatoes-cooked
3 eggs, lightly beaten
1/2 cups (1/2 lb.) butter
2 cups castor sugar
1/2 cup mixed spices
1/2 cup white sauce
1/2 cup brandy or Irish Mist
Pastry

Mash the hot potatoes until they are perfectly smooth and stir in the remaining ingredients. Turn the mixture into a pie plate lined with rich pie dough and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for 10 minutes. Reduce the oven temperature to 350 degrees and continue to bake for about 30 minutes longer, or until the filling is set and crust is browned.

Another old favorite, for any time of year is Irish Stew.

Microwave Oven: Follow directions above except close bag with rubber band, string or 1/2-inch strip cut from open end of bag. Microwave on high power setting, 6 to 8 minutes, turning dish periodically.

Now, for the main course, how about Steak and Kidney Pie with Puff Pastry?

8 oz. flour
8 oz. butter
2 teaspoons orange juice
2 teaspoons water
Pinch of salt

Sieve flour and salt and rub in 1 oz. butter. Add orange juice and enough ice cold water to make a stiff dough. Knead well on a lightly floured board. Then sprinkle with flour, cover with slightly damp cloth and leave for about 15 minutes. Flour the remaining butter and shape it into a 5-inch square. Roll dough into an oblong 1-inch by 8-inches. Place the slab of butter on top end of dough; leaving a 1/2-inch margin all round.

Fold the rest of the dough over the butter. Seal the three open edges by pressing lightly with the rolling pin. Roll out into a strip about 9-inches by 6-inches, first of all flattening slightly, then rolling gently and finally rolling right out into shape. Fold pastry in three again, seal edges and roll out a second time. Fold in three again and seal edges; place pastry on a floured plate, sprinkle with flour and cover with damp cloth.

Leave to rest in a cool place or

Mixing Drugs With Some Foods Can Be Hazardous

By Dale Singer

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — In an age of specialization when doctors and patients may need an interpreter to understand one another, Leber has a likely candidate — the pharmacist.

Leber, a pharmacist himself, has prepared a detailed chart for health professionals to warn of the possible hazards of drug interactions. He and his associates also wrote "Drug Awareness," a book for consumers on the same subject.

"This is an age of specialization," Leber said. "A patient may go to six or seven doctors in a year and be given six or seven prescriptions. But the doctors usually don't ask whether they are seeing other doctors or taking any other medicine. That's usually left up to the pharmacist."

"Give a patient some medicine, and he'll ask, 'Can I drink with this?' You'd have to go into a medical book to look it up, but most people don't want to wait around all day for that kind of information."

His complex chart, distributed free to health professionals by the Upjohn Co., warns of potentially harmful effects from drug interactions with other drugs or with certain foods and beverages. Among the risks are tremors, glaucoma, hypoglycemia or internal bleeding.

Leber said taking certain drugs with certain types of food can increase or decrease the drug's effectiveness or result in more dangerous conditions.

Ber plus Allerest, for example, may cause drowsiness when driving. The book warns that mixing alcohol and a number of drugs could result in severe impairment of breathing and mental ability.

The effectiveness of tetracycline may be lessened if it is combined with milk and dairy products, according to Leber's book.

A similar effect could arise from combining a number of drugs, such as diazepam and liquor.

with leafy green vegetables.

Leber said tetracycline and ampicillin are best taken on an empty stomach, unless directed otherwise by your physician.

Ferrous sulphate should not be mixed with milk or fruit juices, and gantarin and a number of sulfa drugs should be taken with a full glass of water.

In both his chart and book, Leber emphasizes that the information is based on the latest data available but cannot be guaranteed for each individual case. If any doubt exists, he says, consult your doctor.

The chart, book and television appearances in which Leber explains various aspects of medicine-related hazards all give straightforward advice to help close the gap created by too many persons just too many drugs.

"People taking too many drugs are taking too much medicine. I'm not saying they don't. But they receive most of their information from the detail men who call on them from drug companies. Pharmacists keep track of drugs all the time. Doctors and pharmacists should work together, not put each other up on a pedestal."

"People may have to ask more questions of their pharmacists to learn what they want to know, but that's what the pharmacists went to school for."

You have to go up to the pharmacist and ask. The pharmacist can't very well go up to a customer in the store and say, 'Do you have any questions you'd like to ask me?'

(Single copies of "Drug Awareness" are $3.95 each from P.O. Box 20649, St. Louis, Mo., 63141)

A. If an eligible person is living in another person's household and received support and maintenance in kind from that person, the basic SSI amount is reduced by one-third. This reduction takes the place of counting dollar value of the support and maintenance received. Your mother should notify Social Security of her change in living arrangements.

China Trade May Drop Silk Price

NEW YORK (UPI) — Never mind diplomacy or politics. Normalization of relations with mainland China means the price of silk and cashmere will be coming down — way down — by the end of the year.

At least that's what the fashion industry is saying, hoping and praying for.

Allen Tucker, chief designer for Calvin Klein Sportswear, says the opening of the Chinese silk and cashmere market could mean up to 20 percent savings — some of which may actually find their way to the American buyer, started for such luxury materials but for years unable to afford them.

The House of Klein, however, has been forward-thinking and acting.

"Three years ago, we decided that pretty soon the U.S. and China had to open up relations," Tucker said. "So we started working out an arrangement with Peking to actually supply us with part of our cashmere. Now that the Chinese market is opening up, we figure we have a head start because we know the people and the way the Chinese work."

Pierre Cardin, of course, nearly upstaged President Carter's diplomatic coup by announcing a few days before that he would travel to Peking to meet with the Chinese.

But for pure business purposes, Tucker figures Calvin Klein is ahead of the competition.

"The Chinese business mind is a lot different from anywhere else. They offer by far the best quality silk and cashmere, and the least expensive labor. But they don't offer any perks — no samples. They don't take back any material that's not up to standard. They figure. Let the buyer beware."

"They're very open and in front about this from the beginning, so they give no guilt at all in telling you they're not interested in your problems. It's the whole honorable merchant mentality."

The Calvin Klein collection this year will include vast quantities of charmeuse silk in both sportswear and formalwear. Silk quality is judged by the number of nannies, or weaves, per square inch, and Tucker says Klein will use only the highest grade — 20 nannies.

The silk costs about $12 a square yard, but a shirt which may take two or three square yards will retail in the stores for about $120.

After the China connection is going full swing, however, Tucker said the price for the same article may drop as low as $90.

The same will be true of cashmere sweaters. Calvin Klein's 3-ply sweater, which retailed last year for $135, will probably be down this fall to $95, Tucker said.

"Going to China is going to be a real experience. They don't have a sense of fashion yet, but they're very fast learners. And we expect to bridge the fashion gap within a couple of years," Tucker said.

Big Purchase

Over one-third of the present United States came by way of purchasing the territories of Louisiana and Alaska, 1803 and 1867, respectively. The combined price for the two purchases, totaling approximately $2.5 million, averages out to a little over $15 per square mile.

Daytime Honky Tonk Cheers Housewives

By WILLIAM C. TROTT

DALLAS (UPI) — A business. Taylor says. "But for every marriage that breaks up here, I bet you've entered the Palms Dance and for a good five minutes stood quietly, allowing his eyes to adjust from the early afternoon sunshine to the darkness of the club. The darkness is by design. Had the club's design been sitting, dancing or hugging with another man, she would have had the chance to spot him before he spotted her, slip out the back way and head home before husband could catch her and make a scene.

He looked it over, and then he said to her, "I'll be ready for another afternoon in one of the most unglorious spots in the country. The Palms is a honky tonk for honky tonk, a daytime heaven for bored housewives, shift workers, off-duty policemen, transient business. "Wiley" call the office," reads an inscription on the restroom wall and anyone else looking for a good time between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

When co-owner Don Taylor arrives at the Palms shortly before 9 a.m. five days a week, several women already are waiting in the parking lot. By noon the club will be filled with men and women abiding by the unwritten house rules that men buy the ladies' beer it's free for them otherwise and no one ever asks for a last name.

We have all types in here," Taylor says. "Housewives, telephone operators, truck drivers, people playing hooky from their jobs. There's even a Baptist preacher that comes in I won't point him out to you, though. We've got three women that walk and hit-bike about three miles to get here.

"There's another woman who has a husband who goes fishing every Sunday. While he's gone, she jumps in the kitchen and whips up supper for the rest of the week. That way supper'll be ready every night.

"What amazes me is the mixture of people. You've got ditch diggers and laborers and business executives and they all just get along fine. But at night you get a bunch of rednecks and they can't mix."

Taylor says his customers have one thing in common — they're looking for a good time to break the monotony. Some do it by having a few beers, some by dancing and intimate conversation, others through adultery.

Hay Carr Center in that adultery — or the fantasy of adultery — is the Palms' strongest selling point. To accommodate, there are two day-care centers nearby. One is operated by Taylor's ex-wife; the other disallows Taylor's customers and a motel with two-hour rates.

'Astrobeans Out of Soybeans' - A Possibility

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (UPI) — The prospect of cultivating soybeans in space — "astrobeans," if you will — to feed future astronauts has researchers at the University of Maryland-Eastern Shore looking for a way to launch their project.

The researchers want to send their soybean experiment on the inaugural U.S. space shuttle flight, scheduled for later this year, but there's no room, according to Dr. William A. Lynk, head of the research team.

"We would like to be on the first flight if we could, but we don't have a reservation," Lynk said.

Nevertheless, an experiment with space-age soybeans is continuing at the UMES Soybean Institute. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is backing the project with an initial 18-month grant of $40,000.

The UMES researchers got NASA's attention by submitting a proposal for growing "astrobeans" in an artificial outer-space environment. Their hope is to get 25 plants, in an hydroponic (liquid environment) using artificial light, to grow to maturity in 70 days — about a little more than two-thirds the normal time needed.

Soybeans, according to Lynk, were chosen for the project because they contain substantial protein and some fat, two basic food items that will be needed for long-term nutrition in space. UMES also chose soybeans because of extensive research already done by the college's Soybean Institute.

The institute has started the hydroponic environment experiment at its facilities on Maryland's Eastern Shore. But a space experiment would be of immense help, said Lynk.

"One of the things we want to look at is how these experiments we're conducting on earth will behave under zero gravity. We want to see how weightlessness affects plant growth, shape and nutrient uptake," he said.

He noted the results of such a flight may prove there is no need for artificial gravity for future space agriculture.

Lynk has the soybeans' first flight all planned. A small plastic container will house the soybean plants. The tank-like setup will provide a completely automatic and artificial environment for the plant growth.

Including simulated sunlight and liquid nutrients.

If soybeans can be successfully grown in space, researchers estimate that four more years would be needed to come up with a plant strain that would produce the highest food yield in the least amount of time.

A separate effort under the direction of Dr. Jagmohan Joshi is working with about three dozen varieties of fast-growing soybeans imported from Canada, Lynk said.

After the most suitable type of bean is selected, Joshi, a plant geneticist, and his team will manipulate the genetic traits to create the perfect "astrobean" strain.

"We're trying to develop a very early-maturing variety of soybean that can be grown in a space habitat," said Joshi. "We WINGATE, N.C. (UPI) — Felt tip pens, crayons and an iron come in handy for repairing minor damage to some furniture, says J. Ben Helms, a furniture and decorative accessories executive.

Because hardwood is increasingly scarce, softwoods such as country pine are more widely used for furniture crafting and decorative accessories, Helms says. They are more easily damaged than hardwood.

Helms, president and design director of MaLack Woodcraft, offers these tips for do-it-yourself home repairs:

• Minor scratches with a child's crayon color-matched as closely as possible to the original stain. Or try shoe polish, nutmegs, linseed oil, iodine or a felt tip pen.

• Draw along the scratch. Rub it with your finger, then polish with a soft cloth.

• In many cases a wet pad and hot iron will raise a dent in wood. Before starting, remove surface wax so moisture will penetrate the wood and make it swell when you place the wet pad on the dented surface and iron it.

• Treat white spots from water condensation, alcohol or coffee with a fine abrasive such as fine steel wool or table salt and a lubricant. First, rub the grain gently with an abrasive, then with mayonnaise, lard, cooking oil or salad oil or petroleum jelly. When the white spots disappear, wax or polish the wood.

• To remove burns, scrape away the charred material with a sharp, curved-blade knife. Smooth the surface with fine sandpaper or fine steel wool. Clean the debris, restrain the wood if necessary, then fill the gouge: use common paste wax, or for deeper gouges, build up with plastic wood or stick shellac before polishing or waxing as usual.

• Candle wax drippings: lift them off with a fingernail after the wax has hardened. Do not use a knife. To speed up hardening, wrap an ice cube in a clean cloth and hold it on the wax.

CONESUS, N.Y. (UPI) — Two cousins and fourth generation members of a California winemaking family have bought an upstate New York wine company and will release their first premium, cork-finished wines this month in their growing area. Skip and Ted Crerar said production will be limited to 200 to 500 cases per label of the Barry Reserve bottlings.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A major manufacturer has introduced a wall-hung microwave oven that combines the functions of that appliance with that of a vent hood and overhead light. Company officials said the design was produced in response to consumers who complained of a lack of counter space for conventional counter-top microwave units.

Stop & Shop Says...Don't Beef, Switch!

Over the past year, beef prices have been going up because of decreased supplies and increased costs of cattle. Consumer reacted and beef consumption declined.

We expected price relief. However in the past few weeks, there has been a meteoric rise in beef prices due to severe winter weather which decreased the herds even further. As of this week, we're paying 44% more for cattle than a year ago!

We recommend that consumers buy alternatives such as poultry, fish, pork and dairy products. Even though prices for these have gone up too, they are still better buys than beef.
