Clean Air

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has started enforcement proceedings against the United Illuminating Co. for burning high-sulfur oil.

EPA spokeswoman Elizabeth Stock said Tuesday the proceedings could result in fines of $25,000 a day for the company.

UI, of Connecticut's largest power companies, began burning the dirtier oil March 10 with the state's approval to generate electricity during a shortage of cleaner low-sulfur fuel.

Ms. Stock says the federal agency believes the state doesn't have the power to grant such a concession, but is directing enforcement at UI.

System Weak

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Department of Corrections officials say weaknesses in the promotion systems are keeping minority employees in state prisons and jails from becoming supervisors.

Raymond Lopes, deputy commissioner of institutions, said Tuesday more minority members are needed in supervisory roles, but many have problems taking the exams because the tests don't take cultural background into account.

The failure of minorities to do well on the exam discourages other minority persons from taking the test, he said.

Carl Robinson, warden of the state maximum security prison in Somers, said minority positions have increased at that institution over the last seven years, but the prison "still hasn't been able to attract enough minorities."

The Economy

WASHINGTON — With the government trying to hold pay raises to 7 percent, profits earned by U.S. business firms increased by 26.4 percent over last year, provoking a harsh rebuke from the White House Tuesday.

NEW YORK — Stocks fell Tuesday as the Carter administration blasted a rise in corporate profits and announced plans to unveil a new energy initiative. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.28 points to 860.31.

NEW YORK — Consumer buying plans for cars, homes and household appliances soared last month, an indication that "the hot pace of inflation" will continue for a while, the Conference Board business research group reported.

WASHINGTON — President Carter told Democratic congressional leaders he is "very concerned" unions will not comply with the inflation control program if Congress does not pass his wage insurance proposal.

WASHINGTON — White House press secretary Jody Powell praised the American people for the good will they have shown in accepting moderate wage increases, saying they have "exercised remarkable restraint."

LONDON — The U.S. dollar closed lower Tuesday on all major European markets except Brussels and Milan. Dealers said the American economic talks at Camp David, Md., inhibited trading.

PITTSBURGH — The Aluminum Co. of America Tuesday announced it has reduced its price for unalloyed aluminum ingot by 11 cent a pound after a review by the Council on Wage and Price Stability last week.

Moscow Housecall Present to Doctor

MOSCOW (UPI) — It was an unusual housecall — from Boston halfway around the world to the Soviet Union — and an unusual story of international cooperation for the sake of medicine.

For the American doctor flown here on five hours' notice to save the life of an important patient, it was the best birthday present he ever got: The patient regained full consciousness for the first time in 19 days — and smiled at him.

Dr. Warren Zapel of the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, a leading world authority on anesthesiology, told a news conference Tuesday he turned 37 last Saturday while working on the patient, a 28-year-old woman.

"She just looked up and smiled," said Zapel, who flew to Moscow March 3 without either an entry visa or a ticket. "That was the best kind of birthday present, the best I've ever had."

Zapel, director of Mass General's Center for Research of Adult Respiratory Failure, said the patient's prospects now look very good despite more than a 90 percent chance of fatality to start with.

But he added that it was still too early to speak of full recovery.

"I generally takes Americans at least 10 days to two weeks to gain an entry visa to the Soviet Union. If there are no complications, the urgency of the case was underlined by the fact that Zapel's visa was issued after he had arrived to take over the case.

He worked for almost 72 hours straight, grabbing only six or seven hours sleep in the first three days.

Zapel declined to identify the patient. But Western sources said she was the daughter of Dr. Vladimir Barakovsky, director of Moscow's

Board Partially Backs Downtown Proposal

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — It wasn't exactly a vote of confidence, but the Town Board of Directors Tuesday night did agree to give some support to a proposed bill that would permit the establishment of a Central Business Service District.

Making it clear it does not support the idea for Manchester, the board agreed that the enabling legislation should be the subject of a public hearing at the state Capitol.

The bill would permit a town to establish a Central Business Service District. According to the bill, that district would get back one-third of the General Fund taxes its property owners pay.

This money then would be used for renovation and improvement projects to upgrade the area.

State Sen. David Barry submitted the bill at the request of several persons interested in downtown Manchester. Barry said, however, he and other legislators probably would not back the bill unless the Board of Directors supported it.

The board apparently does not like the idea for Manchester's downtown area. But, it did agree Tuesday night that the concept of such enabling legislation, which would permit but not require the formation of such a district, might be beneficial.

Stephen Penny, chairman of the board, admitted he had "somewhat of a change of heart" on the matter. He previously had spoken against the bill, but he supported the idea of it being the subject of a public hearing at the Capitol.

The enabling concept of the bill would permit some communities to adopt it if they so desired. Penny also asked that the one-third return of taxes be amended to read that a maximum of one-third of the taxes would be returned.

He added, however, "I do not foresee myself supporting the proposal, which would create another district in Manchester."

Other directors also spoke strongly against the idea.

John FitzPatrick said, "You're asking for taxpayers to bail out the merchants who will not spend their own money."

Thomas Connors questioned the constitutionality of the proposal.

FitzPatrick, however, voted along with five other directors — Penny, Betty Intagliata and Republicans Carl Zisser, Peter DiRosa and William Diana — to support a public hearing and a letter backing the concept of such enabling legislation. He said he would not support such a proposal in Manchester, though.

Directors Connors and Joseph Sweeney voted against sending the letter in support of the bill's concept. Director Stephen Cassano was absent.

Zisser was the strongest supporter of the bill.

He said the Main Street area "is a prime candidate for a potential slum." He referred to a recent television newscast about Manchester and said the town is becoming known as "a smut capital."

He said the bill would provide local money to make downtown improvements.

Penny and Mrs. Intagliata both argued that federal and state funding will be needed for a complete improvement project in the area. Penny also pointed out that the potential of a sign on Main Street is one argument in favor of continuing in the Community Development program.

Egypt To Sign Treaty Despite Begin's Blast

By MATTHIS CHAZANOV
United Press International

THOUGH angry and chagrined, Egypt still plans to sign a peace treaty with Israel despite Prime Minister Menachem Begin's declaration that Israel will never allow a Palestinian state or return to its old borders.

Begin's tough comments, made partly to assuage domestic critics, partly in response to earlier Egyptian statements, coincided with the first unofficial hints from the Palestine Liberation Organization that it may reconsider its opposition to the peace treaty if it leads to true Palestinian self-determination.

The Israeli Knesset (parliament) today opened the second day of bolder debate over the treaty, with shouting matches flaring up often between hawks and doves.

The session was expected to go well past midnight but the Knesset was expected to give the treaty an overwhelming endorsement, as Begin recommended in his keynote speech that opened the debate Tuesday.

Begin's keynote address to the Knesset in effect set the stage for the next diplomatic struggle with Egypt by listing three "nevers":

"I hereby serve notice that the government of Israel will never return to the borders of June 4, 1967," Begin said. Israeli forces seized the Jordanian West Bank, Gaza Strip, Sinai Desert and Syrian Golan Heights in the 1967 war.

"Jerusalem is united as the eternal capital of Israel and it will never be divided."

"A Palestinian state will never rise in Judea, Samaria (the West Bank) and the Gaza Strip."

How do I know this? Begin asked. "We won't agree to it. We won't allow it. We will not make it possible."

What Mr. Begin said violates the peace framework reached at Camp David and corrupts the atmosphere we hoped would prevail at the time of treaty signing," complained Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil in Cairo.

Asked if Begin's statement would change President Anwar Sadat's plan to fly to Washington for the treaty signing Monday, Khalil said, "I don't think so." The authoritative newspaper al-Ahram said today Sadat will stop overnight in Madrid Saturday for talks with King Juan Carlos and government leaders.

As Begin spoke in Jerusalem, a senior PLO official in Beirut who declined to be named said the group may reconsider its opposition to the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, despite comments from the Palestinian leadership to the contrary.

The statement by the official, who is considered a moderate, was made privately and was not approved by the PLO leadership.

Besides some head-bobbing from Communist members of the Knesset, Begin's remarks also were challenged by the opposition Labor Party, which ruled Israel from its birth in 1948 until Begin's election in May 1977.

In his speech, Labor leader Shimon Peres praised the government for its peace-making efforts, but criticized the proposed self-government plan for the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

"Do we want the army to rule forever over an occupied population that does not want us?" Peres asked.

Hanoi Ready For Peace But Withdrawal Imperative

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) —

VIETNAM said today it is ready to talk peace with China but threatened to attack the 10,000 Chinese troops it claims are still in Vietnam if they fail to withdraw.

A statement by the Vietnamese foreign ministry and broadcast by Hanoi radio said the Chinese troops remained up to 12 1/2 miles inside Vietnam.

A second statement delivered to the Chinese Embassy today said peace talks could begin in Hanoi March 29 "if Chinese troops withdraw completely to China" within a week, the radio said.

"If Chinese troops continue to occupy Vietnamese territory, then the Vietnamese armed forces and people will resolutely use their legitimate right to self-defense," the note to China said.

Analysts interpreted this to mean the Vietnamese would be ordered to attack Chinese forces along the troubled frontier.

Radio Hanoi, monitored in Bangkok, said the qualified acceptance of a Chinese proposal to begin talks next week was delivered to Chinese Charge d'Affaires Lu Ming by Nguyen Tien, head of Vietnam's China Department of the foreign ministry.

Vietnam said Chinese forces were occupying "three areas and 16 places" along the border.

"The Peking rulers said their troops had been completely withdrawn from Vietnam as of March 15," the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said in a Radio Hanoi announcement. "This statement is untrue. It is aimed at fooling the Chinese people and... the rest of the world."

"As of March 18, there were about 10,000 Chinese aggressors remaining in Vietnam," the radio said.

Western military sources confirmed the Chinese had retained control of some Vietnamese land after their claimed pullout. China was believed to have had about 10,000 troops inside Vietnam at the height of the invasion.

Radio Hanoi said the biggest Chinese force was a two-regiment buildup — between 5,000 and 6,000 men — near That Khe district town some 95 miles north of Hanoi.

"Enemy forces here are stationed 10 to 20 kilometers (6 to 12.5 miles) inside Vietnamese territory," it stated.

The official Communist Party newspaper Nhan Dan (People) Tuesday played down the possibility of talks with Peking, saying the Chinese "are expecting us to drop our guard so that they may embark on new adventures."

"We must... stand ready to smash any new plot of the enemy," it said.

In a related development, Vietnam reported 80,000 of its citizens had demonstrated in three cities to back its claim of victory over China.

Anthropologist Discovers Evidence Of Earliest Man

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anthropologist Mark Leakey today announced the discovery of a 75-foot-long trail of footprints made by two individuals walking on a fresh layer of volcanic ash 3.6 million years ago in what is now Tanzania.

The prints are those of the oldest-known hominids and Dr. Leakey believes they are direct ancestors of humans.

The footprints, representing a frozen moment in Earth's history, were discovered at Laetoli in northern Tanzania last summer.

Ms. Leakey and coworkers found five fossilized footprints in the area in 1976 and announced that find in 1977.

Ms. Leakey said the creatures that made the prints were walking upright, with a free-striding gait not unlike that of humans.

Affirmative Action Plan Seen To Be Unrealistic

By SUSAN VAUGHN

Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The timetable for the town's Affirmative Action plan may be unrealistic, Steve Werber, personnel supervisor, told the Human Relations Commission Tuesday night.

The goals in the town's plan for hiring minorities and women are aimed at 1982, but Werber indicated that delaying some of the goals in some of the departments until 1987 might be more realistic.

Werber said the goals of the plan are basically realistic, however, he said "Manchester will probably never reflect the (recommended) percentages in the labor market" of the Greater Hartford area.

Werber said he had no concrete reasons by Manchester and other towns east of the Connecticut River are not attracting more minority applicants for town jobs.

Another problem, Werber indicated, is that there is not a lot of turnover in town departments other than the Police Department, so that is the area where the recruitment efforts are being centered now.

The majority of recruiting efforts are aimed at hiring local talent, Werber said. The town does not have the money to recruit nationally, he said.

Werber also described for the commission the procedures for hiring, including the merit system, exams, the oral panel of outside residents and the final selection process by the department head.

Werber said he would expect more minority candidates for positions because of the higher pay offered in Manchester.

Another stumbling block may be the travel costs.

Werber said that person-to-person contact by town recruiters is needed in order to attract more minority and female applicants.

Complaints Prompt Panel Appointment

MANCHESTER — Complaints for administration and completion of Community Development projects not finished by June 30 (the ban goes into effect).

Residents have complained about the lack of information provided on the subject.

Thus, the board agreed Tuesday night to establish the subcommittee, and the other board members agreed to the idea.

Town voters will decide two issues April 17. One is whether the town should bond for $20 million to pay for improvements to the water system.

The board also has added two advisory questions in connection with the Community Development issue.

The meeting will be at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Building's Hearing Room.

Official Sees Need For Improved Housing

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Economic Development Commission Commissioner Edward Stockton says there are "thousands" of Connecticut families in substandard living conditions.

Stockton told the Legislature's Planning and Development Committee Tuesday night that there is a "critical need" for more and better housing in the state.

"Thousands of families in Connecticut are living in substandard living conditions," he said. Stockton said the state is aware of the problem and now must do something about it.

He testified in favor of a bill to set up a state Department of Housing to coordinate housing policy and planning in Connecticut.

Stockton's comment was repeated by Arthur White of Stamford, chairman of the Connecticut Housing Finance Authority.

"We need this (agency) because we haven't been doing the job for housing that we should be," White said. "Nobody else is going to do the job."

Michael Sharpe, the state housing advocate, said present efforts to find additional housing and homes affordable for low to middle income residents are fragmented.

"We cannot afford to shuffle it out every 10 years to a different division and hope it will work out," Sharpe said.

The governor, in a statement submitted to the committee, said the housing department was a good idea because it would be headed by a full-time commissioner who could give it his "undivided attention."

Mrs. Grasso also said such an agency would be in a better position to lure federal dollars for housing and would "breathe new life into Connecticut's housing effort."

Directors Approve Waiver For Sidewalk Repair Work

MANCHESTER — The Town Board of Directors this week approved a bid waiver it had questioned last week.

The waiver is for sidewalk work to be done by S. Aleria & Sons of East Hartford. The board approved the waiver after Thomas Prior, assistant town manager, said the waiver was permissible.

Prior made a couple of minor changes in the waiver's wording so it would conform to changes in the Town Charter about bid waivers.

The firm has done sidewalk repairs in town and was the low bidder for a large sidewalk repair project on the town's utility lines.

The board also took the following actions:

Approved a Comprehensive Employment and Training Act grant to cover the cost of a forestry project through July 21.

Appropriated $18,240 grant for vocational education.

Appropriated $619 to the Board of Education. The money is restitution ordered by a court for damage done to the school by vandals.

Appointed Robert Faucher of 16 Laurel St. to the Community Development Advisory Committee. He replaces Barry Van Camp who resigned.

Accepted the resignation of Dr. Kenneth Wichman from the Advisory Board of Health.

Approved a bid waiver for an automatic signal traffic light controller at the School and Spruce streets intersection.

Transferred $23,520 from contingency to fund the April 17 townwide vote — $11,250 — and a new curtain at Manchester High School's Gymnasium — $12,270.

Transferred $3,355 from various accounts to the Public Works maintenance division. This money will pay for telephone services.

Approved the early retirements of five employees — Julia Melnick, George Miller, John Mirski, Doris Terrence and Esther Malon.

Legislators Plan Railroad Strategy

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Legislators from Connecticut and Massachusetts will meet Friday to develop strategy aimed at saving the Montreal, one of New England's last long-distance inland trunk lines.

Legislators from every district along inland rail routes from New Haven, Conn., to Boston will attend the meeting, scheduled for 10 a.m. in Springfield City Hall.

It was prompted by Rep. Louis R. Nickinell, chairman of the Massachusetts Legislature's Transportation Committee, and Connecticut Rep. Thom Serrani, his counterpart in the Connecticut Legislature.

The Montreal is a high-speed train that runs from Washington to Montreal.

Gov. Ella Grasso has announced the appointment of two local men to state boards.

David Heint of Manchester has been named to the Governor's Vacation-Travel Council. His term will run through June 1, 1981. The council works to encourage tourism in the state.

Dexter Burroughs of East Hartford was appointed to the Advisory Council on Children and Youth Services.

Student Chosen

HEBRON — Scott Richards, a sophomore at Hebron High School, has been selected as a member of the All State Mathematics Team to represent Connecticut at the Atlantic Regional Tournament at Brown University in June.

Richards received this honor by being the highest scorer at the New London Mathematics league competition.

In the annual high school math examination conducted at Hebron this month, with 59 students participating, Kevin Spaulding scored the highest with 88 points, Richards was second and Mark Reichelt, third.

Holiday House Residents See Student Magic Show

MANCHESTER—Holiday House on Cottage Street for the first time treated its residents recently to a magic show. But for Daniel Krutt of 109 Elizabeth Drive, a University of Connecticut student, it was one of many magic shows he has been giving since his interest in magic began when he was 12.

Since then, he has performed at convalescent homes, schools and civic and religious groups. He hopes to major in psychology with a minor in political science, and eventually go to law school.

Krutt's performance at Holiday House involved the residents who participated in some of the tricks, including one where he drove a sword through a square object placed on the person's head, making it look like the sword penetrated the head. There were also the usual scarf and rabbit-out-of-a-hat tricks.

Looking for Gold Dust

VIELLA, Spain (UPI)—Villagers in this ski town are filtering the water from their faucets these days, but not to get out the impurities. They're looking for gold dust.

Prospecting began a week ago when a mining company discovered gold deposits in an old mine dating from Roman times.

Skiers abandoned the slopes to visit the mine in the hope of picking up gold chippings, but were thwarted by snow drifts and the mine owners guarding the entrance. Villagers, however, scorned pans and river-sifting to filter faucet water.

Chamber To Cite Digan For Services to Youth

MANCHESTER - The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce today announced that the recipient of the 1979 Community Service Award for youth activity is Robert J. Digan, director of the Manchester Board of Education Youth Services Department.

The announcement of Digan's award marks the first in this year's series of Community Service Awards. Well known both locally and throughout the state as a pioneer in developing the concept of youth service departments, Digan has headed the local department since 1960. Before joining the Manchester Board of Education, his experience included a five-year stint as a probation officer with the Connecticut Juvenile Court and three years as an independent adoption investigator for the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare.

Born and educated in Springfield, Mass., Digan received his undergraduate degree from St. Michael's College in Winooski, VT and his masters degree from the University of Notre Dame. He has done additional post graduate work at Notre Dame and the University of Connecticut.

Presently living in Manchester, the Digan family includes Susan; Robert, a senior at Notre Dame; Marybeth Lambert, a senior at Hahmehann Hospital School of Nursing; Timothy, a sophomore at St. Anselm's College; Judith, a Manchester High School student, and Maureen Lambert, a student at Hing Junior High School.

The Chamber announcement released by James Breitenfeld, chamber president said, since 1960 Digan's efforts and leadership have been an integral part of the delivery of services to the young people in Manchester. "Whether performing the role of attendance officer or counselor, job finder or administrator, Bob has continually placed the welfare of young people at the top of his list of priorities," Breitenfeld said.

As the problems of young people became better understood, Digan molded the youth services department into an agency capable of providing a wide-range of services to students, non-students, families, and the community as a whole. From around the state and northeast, towns and cities looked to

Robert J. Digan

Manchester as a model for addressing the needs of their youth, the chamber noted.

Often called upon and always ready to volunteer his services, Digan has played a prominent role in the development and activity of several local and state organizations.

In Manchester he was a founding member of the Drug Advisory Council and has served as president of the Manchester Scholarship Foundation. He is a member of the Manchester Community Service Council, serves on the Advisory Board of the Manchester Youth Commission and is a member of both the Connecticut Justice Commission and the Connecticut Youth Services Association.

In addition, he has served as executive director of the Regional De-Institutionalization of Status Offenders Project and was a member of the Regional Advisory Committee of the Connecticut Department of Children and Youth Services.

Finally, he is a founder of the Manchester Running Club, "Silk City Striders," and can often be seen jogging the streets of Manchester recruiting new runners. In releasing the name of Digan as recipient of the Chamber's Community Service Award for Youth Activity, the Chamber also notes that two additional Community Service Awards will be announced this week as the Chamber leads into its April 4 annual banquet. The decision to present Community Service Awards to local residents who have demonstrated outstanding leadership, service, and devotion to specific areas of involvement is a continuation of the Chamber's effort to draw attention to the good that exists within Manchester, Breitenfeld said. "The Community Service Awards, and the 'M' Award to be announced next week, are symbols of what local residents are doing to take an active role in determining the future of our community," he said.

The celebration of local achievement extends beyond the bounds of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber invites local citizens to join the ceremonies honoring this year's award recipients by attending the Chamber's 78th Annual Banquet on April 4. Ticket information can be obtained by visiting or calling the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce at 257 E. Center St.

Potluck Luncheon

ANDOVER - The Andover Congregational Church will have a potluck luncheon March 27 at noon. Those attending should bring a hot dish or salad and their own place setting. The group will work on a project for its upcoming fair.

Drinking Age Poll

ANDOVER - Most parents of Andover Elementary School students feel the drinking age should be raised to 21. About 110 parents responded to a ballot sent home by David Kravet, principal.

There were 30 parents who felt the age should be left at 18 but 80 felt it should be raised, seven felt it should be 19, 18 felt it should be 20, and 55 felt it should be 21.

Vision Screening

BOLTON - The Hans Christian Andersen Montessori School, in cooperation with the Connecticut Society for the Prevention of Blindness, offers free preschool vision screening Thursday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the school.

Student To Become West Point Cadet

MANCHESTER - An East Catholic High School senior who currently enjoys a full school year with time for fun and social activity is headed for a schedule of strict discipline, but of her own choosing.

Peggy Laneri will have barely time for a vacation to Puerto Rico after graduation June 14 before packing herself off to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point on July 2 where she will enter the freshmen class of plebes.

This is the fourth year that females have been accepted at West Point. One of the criteria for Peggy's choice was a school that provided a good educational and women's sports program.

"I looked through a lot of catalogues, and I was pleased with the opportunity that the academy and the U.S. Army has to offer," she said.

Although her family accepted her choice reluctantly at first, a visit to West Point and talks with some of the female cadets and administration changed their minds.

An honor student all through school, Peggy is a little apprehensive about meeting the rigid demands of a military career. "But I look at it as a challenge," she said. "There's so much that the academy offers."

All her life, Peggy says she has wanted to pursue a medical career, but now she is more interested in international affairs. She has enrolled in the National Security and Public Affairs Interdisciplinary program, one of several general programs offered at the academy, which will eventually relate to a government placement, she said. She will receive training in Portuguese.

Last summer, Peggy was chosen as a Girl Scout representative to visit Brazil. She is secretary of the National Honor Society and is active in ECHS sports activities.

She is a member of the Big Sisters program, a member of the executive council of the student council at ECHS, and a joint volunteer at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Peggy is the daughter of Raymond Laneri of Glastonbury and Mrs. Maureen Ayton of 271 Love Lane, Coventry. Peggy lives with her mother and her grandfather, Charles E. Connolly.

Atomic Energy

ANDOVER - The use of atomic energy for the production of power will be discussed by speakers at a series of meetings at the Andover Congregational Church.

Thursday at 8 p.m., Kenneth Burton of Northeast Utilities will talk about his company's use of atomic power.

On April 5, Dr. Charles Prewitt, professor of science at Eastern Connecticut State College, will speak against the use of atomic power.

Bletchman Reviews Stand

MANCHESTER - Eighth District Director Robert Bletchman Monday night reviewed his stance on consolidation for the Eighth District Board of Directors.

Bletchman said a recent ruling by Superior Court Judge Norris O'Neill, which ordered the district to cooperate on consolidation efforts with the town has "brought some confusion."

Bletchman preceded his stand against consolidation Monday with a complaint against a recent article by another newspaper. He said the article which referred to secession of the Eighth District from the town had a misleading headline.

South Windsor Promotes Cops

SOUTH WINDSOR — Two members of the Police Department have been promoted to the rank of sergeant, according to an announcement made by Acting Chief of Police William Ryan.

"I am pleased to announce that Edward Kasheta Jr. and Thomas C. Hart have been promoted to the rank of sergeant," said Ryan. "and both officers have been assigned to the patrol function and assumed their duties this week."

Kasheta, 31, joined the department in August, 1969 as a patrolman and was assigned to the Detective Bureau in June, 1971. Kasheta has taken law enforcement courses at Manchester Community College and graduated from the F.B.I. Academy in September, 1976. He is married, has two children and lives in South Windsor.

Hart, 36, joined the department in August, 1966 as a patrolman and worked with the Capital Region Crime Squad as an undercover agent. He attended Manchester Community College and graduated with a degree in Law Enforcement in June, 1976.

Hart was the town's first youth service officer, assigned to the position in July 1972. He attended the F.B.I. Academy, graduating in December 1977. He is married, has three children and lives in South Windsor.

Acting Chief Ryan also announced that Sgt. Charles Jurgelas, senior sergeant, has been assigned to head the town's detective bureau.

Jurgelas, 60, joined the department in August, 1959, as a full-time Constable and has taken numerous police courses during his 19 years in South Windsor. He was one of the town's first sergeants. He lives in South Windsor.

Officer Francis Felber has been named the new youth service officer. Felber joined the Police Department in February 1973, as a patrolman. He attends Middlesex College, working toward a degree in law enforcement.

"Felber has shown deep interest in the local youth and the problems which are evident," said Ryan. Acting as direction from the Town Council, the Police Department has made great efforts to curtail the sale and use of illegal drugs and alcohol in South Windsor.

The department has set up a post office box in hopes of encouraging local residents to inform police of such illegal sale or use. The post office box, has produced only one "tip" so far, according to Acting Chief Ryan.

Ryan said recently during a work session with the council that the department hopes for an increase in arrests during the coming weeks.

Residents may write the police at P.O. Box 1000, South Windsor.

Scholarship Group Gets Match Grant

SOUTH WINDSOR — The Hartford Foundation for Public Giving has voted a challenge grant of $2,000 to the South Windsor College Scholarship Organization (Dollars for Scholars.)

Under the terms of the grant, the community foundation will match, dollar for dollar, up to $2,000, any increase in contributions from the general public or businesses over that raised a year ago.

Mrs. Joan Oberg, president of Dollars for Scholars, said the board of directors has accepted the challenge.

The foundation offered the grant in recognition of the importance of the community-based scholarship program and to give the all-volunteer organization in South Windsor a boost in its efforts to increase support from the public.

The South Windsor College Scholarship Organization, a chapter of the national Citizens Scholarship Foundation, has been providing local college students with financial assistance for 17 years.

Mrs. Oberg said the solicitation campaign is being broadened to include direct contacts with businesses and individuals.

"Those wishing to make contributions may send them to Mrs. Oberg, 178 Valley View Drive, or the organization's treasurer, W. Richard Davison, in care of the South Windsor Scholarship Organization, Box 197, South Windsor.

FISH Group Plans Mental Health Talk

SOUTH WINDSOR — FISH (Friends In Service Here) has invited a guest speaker from the Manchester Center for Mental Health to its March 29 meeting because of what a spokesman for the group called "an increase in mental illness evident in our own community."

The organization has been receiving a record number of calls during recent months, according to co-chairman, Janet Ferwerda.

During the month of February a total of 57 calls were received by volunteers. Previously, the record call for one month was 52, set in 1977.

Mrs. Ferwerda said that a third of the calls requested some form of transportation to the Manchester Center for Mental Health.

"This confirms recent observations that a steadily increasing percentage of callers are seeking mental help or related help," said Mrs. Ferwerda.

Eleven rides were provided for medical care during the month of February, with six to family services.

Other rides were provided to banks, unemployment organizations and for groceries.

Selectmen To Protest Mr. P Liquor License

BOLTON — The Board of Selectmen voted unanimously at its meeting Tuesday, to send a letter to the state Liquor Control Commission saying it objects to the granting of a liquor license and hotel permit for Mr. P's Cabaret on Boston Turnpike because it is a detriment to the community.

Paul Barron, lake area resident, suggested to the board that it write the letter to show that "the town doesn't want that kind of stuff."

Selectman John Carey said, "I agree. I think the town should do all it can to discourage that kind of entertainment."

Selectman Henry Ryba said, "A place like that will take away from the character of the town."

Selectman Joann Neath said, "We have no basis to condemn it unless we have facts. I don't personally want that type of business but we should have to face it."

Carey said, "We're not condemning it, we're objecting on the basis of its advertising."

The selectmen's letter to the liquor commission will include the allegation that the establishment is in violation of a pollution abatement order and should be investigated.

A protest against having a liquor license and hotel permit issued to Mr. P's Cabaret is being circulated throughout town.

The remonstrance will be filed with the liquor commission to guarantee that a public hearing about granting the license will be held at which the public may voice its concerns.

At the Bolton Ecumenical Council meeting held at the United Methodist Church, its members agreed to take the remonstrance for circulation at their respective churches.

Legal And Clean Operation Pledged By Club Owners

BOLTON — "When we get our liquor license, we will invite everyone in Bolton to visit us and see what we're really like. We're totally within the law. We're clean all the way."

That is how Philip Parlapiano, part owner of Mr. P Cabaret on Boston Turnpike, introduced himself and his establishment to the Board of Selectmen and the Town of Bolton Tuesday night.

Parlapiano owns the establishment along with his father, brother and James Toscano. Parlapiano and Toscano attended the selectmen's meeting after having been mistakenly told their establishment was on the agenda and would be discussed.

Before their arrival a lake area resident spoke during the audience portion of the meeting asking the board to formally object to the granting of a liquor license and hotel permit for the establishment.

Parlapiano said the club has been serviced with exotic entertainment since 1975 and there has been no complaint about it.

Carey said the advertising for it is more explicit now.

Parlapiano said, "The club will cater to everybody. There will be a variety of entertainment including country, rock, jazz, exotic and show people." He said they plan to have outdoor clambakes and tennis courts and are checking into having a sound wall installed.

Selectman Ernest Shepherd asked the men, "Just what is exotic dancing?"

Toscano said, "It's a total expression of music. Everybody has the impression it's a dirty business but it isn't, it's clean all the way."

Parlapiano said he has applied for a liquor license and it all goes well he could have it by the end of the month.

He said, "We're making an effort to get the building site into compliance with the law. We're making the effort, not the Negro Brothers."

The Negro Brothers Inc. are the owners of the building and land on which it sits.

Parlapiano said, "We have been fixing the water problems at our expense but we intend to bill the Negro Brothers." He said, "The situation had to be straightened out before we could get our liquor license so we're working on it. It should be fixed within two weeks."

The premises are allegedly in violation of a pollution abatement order from the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and a court order.

The state attorney general has filed a motion for contempt with the Hartford Superior Court, that should be heard within two weeks.

Parlapiano said, "We're making an effort to get the building site into compliance with the law." He claims people from the DEP came out last week to dig test holes and while doing so broke one of the pipes.

He said, "They won't fix it even though they did it. We have to."

Panel Awaits Parcel Price

MANCHESTER — The Parking Authority is waiting for a reply from the owner of a vacant downtown lot concerning the price of the parcel that the authority is interested in buying.

The authority last week voted to look into buying the lot to expand the parking services of the Parcel Lot.

The authority had tried unsuccessfully to negotiate an acceptable offer a couple of years ago. By the authority's favorable financial status has given it reason to renegotiate.

Bottle Banishment Brings Back Battle

HARTFORD (UPI) — The battle of the bottle bill — fought for six emotional years in the Connecticut Legislature — has returned, bringing with it the familiar adversaries and arguments of former debates.

The General Law Committee Tuesday held public hearings on a pair of proposals to postpone implementation of the bottle bill law until July 1, 1981. The law which would ban flip-tops and require a 5-cent deposit on all beer and soda containers is supposed to take effect Jan. 1, 1980.

Bill Minnaugh, vice president of the Connecticut Soft Drink Association, presented the traditional industry argument.

"I'm here fighting for my job, fighting for my industry," he said, complaining about how much it will cost the bottling industry to manufacture refillable containers.

Minnaugh said it was unfair for lawmakers to point to successful bottle bill experiences in Vermont and Maine because they don't have very big soda drinking populations. He said Connecticut should look to Michigan which has similar sized cities.

"We sell more 7-Up in Bridgeport than they do in the whole state of Vermont. We sell soda in the ghetto. We don't sell soda in Weston," he said. "It's going to be a zoo here. It's a zoo in Michigan now."

Barry May Not Decide On Dentist's Petition

MANCHESTER — Neither Town Attorney David Barry nor his assistant, Kevin O'Brien may make a decision on the petition signed by 27 dentists who protest the town's new low-cost dental service program.

Town Manager Robert Weiss received the petition Monday which implied that the program may be improper or even illegal. The program, which will be administered by a group of dental associates at 452 Tolland Turnpike, was approved by the Town Health Department, but because of the dentists' objection, Weiss has asked the health department not to make any more referrals for the service until the town attorney's office rules on the matter.

Weiss has turned the petition over to the town attorney's office.

Barry said he has not seen the petition yet. "As far as I know, Kevin hasn't seen it either," he said.

Barry said that because his brother, Dr. John F. Barry Jr. is one of the petitioners, he doubted that either he or O'Brien would make the decision. "until I know what the question is."

Mrs. and Mrs. Paul Herbst

Mrs. Herbst Continues Being First

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON — Mrs. Marie Herbst was the first woman to hold a seat on the Vernon Town Council, was at one time one of only two women on the Board of Education, and now she intends to seek nomination for mayor on the Democratic ticket, also a first.

Mrs. Herbst is also the first to admit she never felt she was getting voters, or not getting votes, because she is a woman.

She made the announcement of her intention to seek her party's nomination at a press conference at her Brandy Hill Road home, Tuesday night, in the presence of some of her family and friends, and reporters.

In the 22 years she has been a resident of Vernon, Mrs. Herbst has served for 10 1/2 years in public office on the council, the school board, and the Planning Commission. She has always been a top vote-getter.

She has also served on many governmental committees and is active in her church.

At the press conference she said she sees the years in which she has been actively involved as years in which she has not only gained experience, but insight and knowledge into the needs of Vernon and the workings of town government.

"I believe that these years of service have given me the necessary credentials to take this step tonight," she said.

She said when she first came to Vernon it was a rural community and today it is a small city and still growing.

She sees the need to ensure the citizens of the town that it will become a well-planned community and envisions how this should be accomplished.

Detailing these ways she said a broadened tax base is needed to ensure tax stability. She also cited the need for a planned, orderly approach to government spending and saving and the strong encouragement of citizen input into governmental processes.

Above all of these things, Mrs. Herbst sees the necessity of strong leadership, "leadership that recognizes the daily needs of our community and plans for the future — and this is my goal," she said.

She admitted she has no magic formula for swift successes but added, "Through hard work, cooperation, openness and total commitment, we can plan and build a better Vernon."

Asked if she thought she will have the backing of the Democratic Town Committee, Mrs. Herbst said she has solicited some support and has received some unsolicited support and she will be contacting other committee and party members.

So far, Mrs. Herbst is the first announced candidate for the November elections, from either party. Although he hasn't made any announcement yet, it is expected that Frank McCoy, Republican, now serving his fourth term as mayor, with a two-year break, will seek re-election again.

Former Democratic Mayor Thomas Benoit, who lost to McCoy in the last election, hasn't announced any plans yet although reportedly he has expressed interest in his party's nomination.

Mrs. Herbst said there is no question it will be a vigorous campaign. She said she believes in a grass roots campaign, knocking on every door, coffee hours and such.

Mrs. Herbst and her husband Paul have five children, Paul, Janet, Kathryn, Laura, and Debra.

More Study Time Requested

HEBRON — Town counsel Duane Totten has asked for more time to study the question of the Water Pollution Control Authority and the obligations of the town as far as an abatement order served last year by the Department of Environmental Protection is concerned.

The authority was appointed by the Board of Selectmen in the summer of 1978. However, members claim they have no legal status because the authority wasn't appointed by a town meeting action as required by state statutes.

The selectmen were told that Totten is asking for additional time to permit additional study of the question because he has found that the abatement order was served before the effective date of the statute which mandated the appointment of authorities.

First Selectman Aaron Reid said that there may be questions as to whether the town has to appoint the authority. He said it should be decided that appointment of the authority is not mandatory, it will not prevent the town from naming such an agency if it wants to appoint the authority. He said it should be decided that appointment of the authority is not mandatory, it will not prevent the town from naming such an agency if it wants to appoint the authority. well as an across-the-board five percent pay increase for all road crew employees.

The gasoline account is increasing from $10,000 to a request of $14,000. Another major item is the proposed budget is a request for $29,000 for a new town truck.

Other capital expenditures include a new jet sander at a cost of $5,000.

Consideration of the clerical salaries and a few miscellaneous items will be discussed at Thursday's meeting of the board and at that time the budget will be finalized.

The selectmen plan to recommend the establishment of a committee to study possible pension plans for town employees and elected officials of Vernon, Mrs. Herbst said.

Raymond J. Bart, said that he is opposed to any pension plan for elected officials, because they only serve a few years.

Reid said he is concerned about the pension plan because of the many years Gladys T. Miner spent as town clerk. Other long-term elected officials and town employees were also mentioned as reasons for considering the establishment of such a committee.

Bart said he expects a letter to come in from the Historical Society asking that a committee be established to study the feasibility of erecting one or more historical districts within the Town of Hebron.

Thursday's meeting of the board will be at 3 p.m. Starting with the March 29 meeting the time will change to 5 p.m. The 7 p.m. meeting of the board, held on the first Thursday of each month, will remain the same.

Pilot Nutrition Program Teaches Eating Habits

By BETTY RYDER
Lifestyle Editor

If your children complain because the lettuce you serve isn't as green as what they get in school, they probably were munching on Popo's Salad (made with spinach) being served in the Manchester school cafeteria as part of a pilot nutrition program, now through April 20.

"Eat to Learn and Learn to Eat," was the theme of a crossover session presented Monday afternoon at Nathan Hale School in Manchester to acquaint nutritionists, teachers, food service personnel, school principals and parents with the month-long program.

The Connecticut Nutritional Education and Training Program (NETP) and how it will be effectively implemented into the various participating schools was explained.

Dr. J. Gerald Fitzgibbon, assistant superintendent for curriculum instruction in the Manchester public schools, said, "It is a milestone for us (Manchester) to participate in this model program. After the first meeting in November, sponsored by the PTA, we became acquainted with the program, moved quickly and all systems were geared towards our participation."

"It too the combined efforts of the University of Connecticut, the staff, school principals and cafeteria personnel — all working toward the same goal," he said.

Citing the need for good eating habits at an early age, Dr. Eva Vavrousek-Jakuba, consultant in the Nutrition Education Training Program at UConn, presented slides showing the required nutrients needed for healthy bodies.

Speaking of sugar in the diet, she noted that statistics show that in 1919 in the United States, each person consumed 2 pounds of sugar; in 1968, 11 pounds; and in 1977, 25 pounds.

"We have doubled our consumption," she said. "A good part of it comes from soft drinks. The NETP is geared to have children make a wise selection, to have a basic knowledge of foods."

It was explained that today children are spending more time eating away from home, their purchasing power has increased, and it is necessary for them to make good and healthy food selections.

"Our target is the primary grades — elementary school children," said Lois Schuman, R.H., coordinator of NETP for the State of Connecticut.

"It is through a cooperative effort that we will help children realize the need to develop good eating habits not only in school but when they are out of school. And, to carry it over to later life. They need to have a better understanding of the school lunch program and what it's all about."

"This program is pushing the consumption of milk, fruits and vegetables," she said.

Dr. Janina M. Czajkowski, professor in the Department of Nutritional Sciences at UConn and project director, introduced the youngsters in town schools who will serve as team teachers for NETP.

"Sixth graders from Highland Park School will teach a nutrition mini-course to students in the first,

Famous Brand Children's Clothing for Less. Once upon a time, Moms used to dress their little girls and boys up in beautiful playthings and dress clothes. But times passed, costs went up, and Mom had to start buying less clothing, and couldn't afford real good quality anymore. We think little boys and girls deserve to wear nice clothing, so we're helping Moms buy them more easily.

You see, at Children's Wear-House, Moms find the children's and pre-teens' brands they love to buy and prices they can easily afford. We thought children's clothing, cost too much...so we brought the prices down. So now, little girls and boys can play together happily ever after in good, old fashioned quality clothing at old fashioned prices.

ZBA Fees To Increase

MANCHESTER — Persons making applications to the Zoning Board of Appeals will have to pay a higher fee beginning with the May applications.

The ZBA voted Monday to increase the fees by about 100 percent.

Town Planner Alan Lamson explained that the handling costs, advertising fees and increased postage has made the application increase necessary.

The fees will be affected as follows:

- Variance, from $20 to $50.
- Appeal, from $20 to $50.
- Special exception, from $25 to $50.
- Motor vehicle use, from $30 to $50.

CETA Lacks Applicants

MANCHESTER — The town apparently may not be able to fill seven clerical positions that had been established through the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program.

There presently are no applicants for the seven jobs. Steven Werber, the town's personnel supervisor, said, "There had been five applicants for the seven jobs at one time, but the persons have found other jobs or are no longer interested in the town positions, Werber said.

The low salary of the clerical positions apparently is one of the reasons for the lack of candidates. Although the clerical positions have been difficult to fill, other CETA jobs proposed by the town will be filled soon, Werber said.

Area Police Report

South Windsor

Mary Heath, 60, of Hartford, was charged Monday night with driving under the influence of liquor or drugs and driving without a license. Police said she was observed driving erratically on Route 5. Court date is March 27.

South Windsor Police are investigating three breaks into homes on Ash Road, Benedict Drive, and Pleasant Valley Road.

On Ash Road $27 worth of liquor was taken; on Benedict Drive, stereo cassettes, jewelry and clothes were taken; on Pleasant Valley Road $8 in pennies was taken.

In connection with the Pleasant Valley Road break, two juveniles were apprehended on charges of third-degree burglary and fourth-degree larceny and then referred to juvenile authorities.

Vernon

Lester Waite Sr., 37, of 23 Spring St., Rockville, was arrested Monday on two warrants charging him with two counts of fourth-degree sexual assault, injury or risk of injury to or impairing the morals of children, and possession of a sawed-off shotgun.

Police said the first three charges stem from incidents in spring 1977 and summer 1978.

Police said the weapons violation was lodged after the shotgun was found in Waite's home. Police said the weapon was not used, merely possessed. The names of the youths involved have been withheld because they are juveniles, police said.

Waite was held at the police station on a $10,000 surety bond and was to be presented in court in Rockville, today.

Lionie D. Keniston, 17, of 22 Church St., Vernon, was arrested on a warrant charging him with second-degree larceny in connection with the theft of goods from Hyeck Flooring in Rockville.

Court date is March 27.

High St., Rockville, was arrested Monday night on a warrant charging him with third-degree criminal intent to commit burglary. The arrest was made in connection with a Jan. 28 incident. Court date is March 27.

Steve Gosselin, 16, of Lake View Terrace, Coventry, was charged Monday afternoon with third-degree burglary and third-degree larceny in connection with an alleged break into a home. Court date is April 3.

Burglaries in Vernon

VERNON — Police investigated 14 reported and attempted burglaries during the week of March 9-15 with goods taken valued $1,838.

Breaks were reported in eight apartments on Parkwest Drive, homes on Merline Road, Merline Drive, and Dalley Circle, a garage on Dart Hill Road, and businesses on Route 83 and Route 30.

Spreading o' the Green

Spring toddlers in officially this week. Now comes the welcome greening of Connecticut.

United Technologies spreads green around the state in large dollar amounts all year round. That's to be expected from the biggest industrial operation in Connecticut and the state's largest employer, with more than 53,000 people on our payroll here, out of worldwide employment exceeding 150,000.

What we spent in the state as a company last year breaks down to an average of $26 million a week in payroll, purchases, and state and local taxes.

The total — over $1.3 billion — is equivalent to 60% of the entire state operating budget of $2.2 billion for the current fiscal year.

Our largest single outlay — approximately $1 billion — was for wages and salaries paid to our Connecticut employees.

We bought some $325 million worth of goods and services from our suppliers and subcontractors in Connecticut.

We turned over about $35 million in taxes to the state and its cities and towns.

Of the $217 million we invested in capital programs during the year, about $125 million went for improvement of our facilities and equipment here in Connecticut.

In addition, we earmarked another $150 million for new capital projects in the state. They include expanded helicopter production capabilities in Stratford and Bridgeport, new jet engine test facilities in East Hartford, machine modernization in Windsor Locks and Norwalk, and a new engineering center in Farmington.

United Technologies made corporate charitable contributions in Connecticut totaling $2 million, chiefly in support of health care, education, social services, and the arts. Our corporate gifts to United Way appeals in the state came to $468,000.

We just thought you'd be interested in knowing about the dollars we plow into our home state.

Andrew Tully Nation Needs Loitering Law

WASHINGTON — At the height of the turmoil in Washington caused by those farmers and their tractors, asserted cops at various levels of authority proclaimed that what the country needed was not a cup of coffee selling for less than 95 cents but a national loitering law.

I couldn't blame the poor harassed dukes of the constabulary because although the farmers were an amiable lot and, indeed, rescued many automobiles from a snowy grave during our catastrophic blizzard, they mostly made a mess of traffic and good nature.

But it would be a Herculean job to write an anti-loitering law that would be constitutional. The courts, including our Supreme one, have ruled often that first you must define loitering. If localities wish to prevent people from blocking sidewalks, obstructing traffic, and otherwise fouling up other people's lives, they must eschew the faltering ambiguity.

Our asserted statemen, for instance, cannot decree that because a given action is a blasted nuisance it is illegal. They must show that the alleged violators created a disturbance, and then specify what illegal acts produced the disturbance.

Washington once had a law that forbade actions "in such a manner as to annoy, disturb, interfere with or be offensive to others." The Supreme Court knocked that one down because it made it a crime to "annoy."

The word won't wash constitutionally. A lot of people annoy me — spellers on TV commercials, economists, morticians, and members of the Beautiful People set. But as a cop I would not feel it was my duty to arrest any of them.

Today is Wednesday, March 21, the 80th day of 1979 with 285 to follow. This is the first day of spring. The moon is moving from its last quarter to its new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Mercury, Saturn and Jupiter. Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries. German composer Johann Sebastian Bach was born March 21, 1685.

On this day in history: In 1790, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia became the first U.S. secretary of state. He later was the third president of the United States.

The second petition of the Lord's Prayer leads us into the very core of what lay nearest the heart of Jesus: "Thy kingdom come!" This distant, longed-for, pleaded-for something, the kingdom of God — what is it?

If we want to realize what its first, unique awakening was like we must read the Gospels. Again and again Jesus speaks of the kingdom of God in His parables. In one of the Parables the kingdom of God is compared to a treasure in a field.

Forthwith the tenant-farmer sells all his tools and belongings because he knows that by doing so he will acquire something more precious than all he gives for it. Then, again, the kingdom of God is a leaven which a woman takes and hides in a measure of flour. Here the kingdom of God is something which operates inwardly, working its way through one particle to the next, affecting and transforming the whole.

The kingdom of God means that God rules, directly and powerfully; that God, in the freedom of His love, has forgiven sin, and that man, sanctified by the holiness of Christ, belongs entirely to God.

We are to pray to Him that His kingdom may come. The sisters of St. James Convent, Manchester.

Letter to the Editor Regulations Seen As Threat

To the editor: Many residents feel it is not in the best interests of Manchester to participate in the 5th and 6th year CD Program.

The rules specified by the Federal Register, Vol. 43, No. 41, dated March 1, 1978, require the applicant (Town of Manchester) to participate in Hartford's problems. The citizens of Manchester have not been asked if they want to be part of Hartford's problems on a regional basis.

In the 1960's, Greater Hartford Process Inc., under the name of Devco, tried to start a new town in Coventry. The purpose was to relieve Hartford of a growing problem. In September, 1972, a group of public and private citizens from the Capital Region met in Washington with HUD to create a "regional arrangement." HUD agreed and the City of Hartford became the first target area in the country for this program. CHCOG and HUD issue joint reports and that is the "quota rule book" for the Metropolitan region.

The City of Hartford sued the seven surrounding towns for not providing housing for the city's low-income people. Hartford has 20,000 people in public housing projects with 9,700 subsidized units.

When Congress started community development, it was for local people — not regional development. The State of Connecticut "Commission on Human Rights" was funded by HUD, Contract SB 34-08-73726, to make a report on zoning. The Commission engaged the Suburban Action Institute of New York to compile the report dated May, 1978. According to newspaper reports of December 21, 1978, a spokesman for the State Commission says: "The problems of the inner city are regional in nature and solutions must be regional." He is entitled to his opinion but many of us disagree.

In this report of May, 1978, it shows Manchester zoning in a very favorable position. 1578 multi-family units were built in the 1970-1976 period. We have 10,270 single-family units and 5,513 multi-family units, which are 21 percent of the total in the State of Connecticut.

Backland Commons is zoned for 1-025 units and they have asked for HUD assistance. If they choose to build 750 units, we can have 6,260 multi-family units and 1,320 subsidized units. This is over 30 percent of the total in the State of Connecticut.

The Town Manager's office has actively supported out-of-town and out-of-state developers which would make our HUD quotas. The Town's HUD application shows 200 more new construction rental units. The Hartford quota is "Zero."

We have done our share. Are you ready for Regional Housing, zoning, water, police and fire protection and annexation of financial boundaries by Metropolitan Hartford?

Puerility Rides Herd at Texas A&M

WASHINGTON — American women may have been liberated by the courts, but some male chauvinists are dragging dead possums across the path of progress.

It has happened quite literally at Texas A&M where some male ROTC cadets deserve bad conduct medals for making life miserable for the women cadets.

Apparently feeling that their male image was threatened by the admission of women five years ago, these overgrown small boys resorted to childish harassment.

Dead armadillos and possums were thrown through windows of the women's dorm at night. Barryard manure and vials of foul-smelling liquids were also tossed into the women's quarters. Even threats of physical violence were made on occasion.

As a typical case history, we have chronicled the experiences of cadet Melanie Zentgraf. Zentgraf at first found the evidence of the "no women wanted" attitude hard to believe. But other "Waggies" — as women students are demeaningly called on the Aggie campus — assured her the dead animal and stink-bomb routines had been going on ever since women first broke the ROTC sex barrier. But Zentgraf had won a ROTC scholarship and was hoping to qualify for Air Force pilot training upon graduation. She not only had to take ROTC training; she had to do well at it. And she did.

By her sophomore year, Zentgraf had achieved a high-B average and the hard-earned rank of 1st sergeant. She tried out for the traditionally all-male color guard, an honor that her academic and military standing easily entitled her to. But she was rejected by vote of men. She was similarly rebuffed on three more tryouts before she finally gave up.

Even Col. Kenneth Durham, head of the school's Air Force ROTC, admitted to us that "there was sex discrimination there." He also acknowledged that women cadets have never been able to gain entry into such elite groups as the cavalry unit and the Ross Volunteers, which serves as the government's official escort at ceremonial functions.

Last November, on a special day when juniors are allowed to assume the prerogatives of seniors, Zentgraf showed up wearing riding boots — an accoutrement traditionally reserved for seniors. She was surrounded by 20 outraged male cadets and forced to take the boots off.

The 21-year-old San Antonio woman resigned as 1st sergeant shortly after the incident. "I couldn't be effective as a leader after that," she explained. "My word was nothing."

Under the relentless hectoring of the male cadets, Zentgraf's health has dropped noticeably, and she is seriously considering a transfer to another school. But this could cost her credits and her scholarship.

Footnote: Aggie officials have belatedly recognized that there may be a problem of discrimination in the ROTC. So they have appointed an expert on the subject — Melanie Zentgraf — to a committee studying ways to negotiate a cease-fire in the battle of the sexes.

investigation found that a million dollars' worth of gold had disappeared from the New York Assay Office between 1973 and 1977.

Although it is conceivable that more than half the missing gold could literally have gone up the flue in the normal course of melting and refining gold bullion, the rest may have been pilfered by dishonest employees.

The disturbing thing about the loss is that no one has been able to say for sure where the missing gold went. That's because security controls at the assay office have been slipshod for years, despite repeated crackdown efforts.

As long ago as 1975, a General Accounting Office examination of the nation's gold reserves found controls to be adequate at all five depositories — except one. The deficient facility was not named in the GAO study, but our reporter Jill Hendrickson learned that it was the New York Assay Office.

Corrective management and security procedures were instituted, but problems have continued to crop up. Last May, an employee was arrested when he tried to smuggle out $9,000 worth of gold — more than 20 pounds. Days later, his girlfriend was arrested in similar circumstances.

Questionable management practices and inconsistencies in internal audits have been the subject of investigations in recent years. Last December, Treasury Undersecretary Robert Carswell had to admit, in a letter to the Senate Banking Committee, that the investigations revealed "significant irregularities in accounting and management procedures in the New York Assay Office that appear to go back a number of years."

Now, more investigations are under way. After all these years, the custodians of our gold reserves are still wondering where the yellow went.

Senators Act to Solve Own Problems

BY STEVE GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A salary of $57,500 plus a potential $8,625 in moonlighting sounds like a decent struggle through the year on that.

Not, however, members of the U.S. Senate who apparently cannot make ends meet on the sum in these days of spiraling inflation. Blithely ignoring President Carter's suggestion that wage increases should be held to 7 per cent this year, the Senate voted its members a 200 percent boost in allowable outside earned income.

Translated, that means $26,000 in honorariums instead of $8,625 for speeches, lectures and all other permissible kinds of outside earned income.

Whether the increase is justified or not is debatable. Good points can be made on both sides. But the way the Senate went about raising the income of its members — as it always does in this politically sensitive area — earns no one a chaplain as any version of "Profiles in Courage."

The idea, spawned in the fertile minds of Sens. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, and Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., was cleared with Senate leaders who gave them the go-ahead and their backing.

What Stevens and Moynihan proposed was that the go-ahead date of the $8,625 ceiling — adopted last year as part of a wide-ranging ethics code — from Jan. 1, 1979, to Jan. 1, 1983.

In the early evening hours of Wednesday, March 7, Stevens and Moynihan teamed to introduce their resolution. Byrd ruled that the vote would come around the middle of the day, Thursday.

Although three senators spoke against the change, there was — to no one's surprise — no demand for a rollcall vote. As a result, any senator can tell an irate constituent that he was against the increase all along. After all, who can prove him wrong.

The method used to put through the change disclosed a certain lack of courage but there is a hollow sound to the pious statements of some senators that they would have fought it to the bitter had they only known.

The Congressional Record, available to every senator on that Thursday morning, contained verbatim the remarks of Stevens and Moynihan. The four-page digest which is at the end of the Record, specifically stated that the vote would come no later than 12:30 p.m.

It is hard to believe that a senator or a member of his staff — no matter how busy — can ignore the Digest which lets him know what is going on in the Senate that day.

If that actually was the case, there are a number of senators who should clean house and get a new staff. One should be assigned to read the Digest.

Far more refreshing were the remarks of Senate Republican leader

Howard Baker who was out of town on that day but told reporters on his return, "I would have voted for it added Senators Stevens and Moynihan."

He freely acknowledged talking it over with Moynihan and Stevens and added, "It is far better to let them earn income from sources outside the government. I support what was done."

Asked if he also was comfortable with the method used to rush the change through the Senate, Baker said, "Yes, I support that too."

Speaker Thomas O'Neill and House Democratic leader Jim Wright have assured reporters that no such thing could or is going to happen in the House which is still stuck with the lower ceiling.

But there are those who believe that if senators don't get too much heat, members of the House will soon have a shot at a little moonlighting. After all, they have been hit by inflation, too.

Board Delays Regional Proposal

MANCHESTER - The Town Board of Directors Tuesday night tabled action on an ordinance that would require a townwide vote for any proposal to have municipal services transferred to a regional government.

The board moved to reject the matter, but only four of the seven directors present voted to reject. Five votes are needed to take such an action, so the matter was tabled.

Even though the matter was tabled, its originator, former Republican Director Vivian Ferguson, issued an angry attack this morning.

She originally proposed the idea of a referendum for the switch of any service to a regional government. Kevin O'Brien, assistant town attorney, helped draw up an ordinance that would require such a vote.

Ironically, a fifth Democratic director, Joseph Sweeney, arrived at the meeting after the vote was taken. He said the matter has to be handled by a change in the Town Charter.

Mrs. Ferguson disagreed with this morning's office for issuing answers wanted by the majority party.

The town attorney is supposed to represent the town. They come up with the answers the majority wants," Mrs. Ferguson said.

Forum On HUD Slated

MANCHESTER - The League of Women Voters and the town's Human Relations Commission will sponsor a forum on whether or not the town should continue its involvement in the federal Community Development Block Grant program.

The forum is scheduled for April 9 at 7:30 p.m. at Hill Junior High School.

The sponsors are planning to present a balanced discussion on the issue of Manchester's continuation with the Community Development program.

This is being done to give the people in town who are lacking in hard

Youth Suffers Injury In BB Gun Incident

MANCHESTER - A 17-year-old youth suffered an eye injury when he was accidentally shot by a BB gun used by a 16-year-old companion Tuesday evening.

Scott Jones, 19, of McKee St. was treated and released from Manchester Memorial Hospital following the incident which occurred shortly before 7 p.m. in a wooded area near the West Side Recreation Center.

Police said Jones and two friends were "looting around" with the B.B. gun when one of the youths accidentally shot it in the direction of Jones, with the shot hitting his right eye.

Police Take In Custody Man Posing as Agent

MANCHESTER - A man who was posing as a federal agent when he stopped a school bus and a Buckley School student Monday afternoon has been taken into custody Monday night on other charges in connection with mailbox thefts in an area off Keeney street.

The man, whose identity has not been released, has been taken to the Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was released for court April 2.

A burglary at Ability Machine, 315 Broad St. was reported late Monday night. Desk drawers were opened, but there was no money missing. A cutting tool and a fire extinguisher were taken.

The first incident Monday afternoon about 3:30 occurred when the man stopped a school bus which was occupied only by the female driver. He flashed a badge and identified himself as a federal agent, police said. He made some remarks about the several girls who have been missing from Vernon and warned the bus

Realtors Challenge Signs Law

HARTFORD (UPI) - A Realtors association is challenging the constitutionality of regulations adopted by two towns in the mid 1970s to help prevent racially motivated "block-busting."

The regulations, adopted by Bloomfield in 1973 and Hartford in 1974, restrict real estate agents' use of "for sale" signs and door-to-door solicitations for business.

Block-busting is the practice of selling one or more homes in a neighborhood to minority buyers with hopes of bringing down the cost of other homes which racially motivated panic-selling results.

In two suits, the Greater Hartford Board of Realtors asks U.S. District Court Judge J. Newman to declare the ordinances unconstitutional. The suits claim the regulations deprive both agents and homeowners of freedom of speech and equal protection under the law.

The escape occurred outside the court room in a hallway between the court and the adjoining East Hartford Police Station.

Daley sustained a cut over his eyebrow.

Police Nab Escapee In Vernon Motel

EAST HARTFORD - A Manchester man who escaped from police custody at the East Hartford Superior Court Tuesday morning was found in a Vernon motel late Tuesday night and taken into custody by Manchester Police.

David D. Sawtelle, 19, of 4 Tanner St., Manchester, was being presented in court Tuesday on charges lodged Monday night when he hit Officer William Daley of the Manchester Police Department on the back of the neck and ran into a concrete block wall. When Daley recovered his balance, he said he tried to grab Sawtelle, who escaped out the door.

Cruisers were sent out to patrol the area, but Sawtelle was not found until 11:30 p.m. Tuesday night. He was taken into custody without a struggle, police said.

In addition to his original arrest for third-degree larceny and weapons in a motor vehicle, Sawtelle will be charged with assault on a police officer and escape from custody.

Conference Called On Water Question

MANCHESTER - Town Manager Robert Weiss has announced a press conference will be held March 29 about the upcoming water improvement question.

Town voters will decide April 17 on a proposed $20 million bond issue to improve the town's water system.

Weiss said the press conference, which will be held at 10 a.m. in his office, will start an educational program about the water issue.

"We feel we have an obligation to give the taxpayers all the information that will help them make an intelligent decision," he said.

Weiss also said a public forum, which will include a question-and-answer period, will be held early next month.

Speakers from town also are going to meetings of local civic groups and an informational brochure will be distributed to water customers.

Silent Bird Ready to Talk

NEW YORK (UPI) - There is very little Larry Bird can do on a basketball court that elicits surprise. Excitement maybe, but not surprise. Because everybody knows by now that Larry Bird is one incredible player.

NCAA
forward from French Lick, Ind., has led top-ranked Indiana State from basketball obscurity to an unbeaten season and a berth in the final four at Salt Lake City. The Sycamores play DePaul Saturday with the winner advancing to Monday night's championship game against the winner of the Michigan State-Pennsylvania game.

Penn Preparing For Biggest Test
NEW YORK (UPI) - The limelight continued to shine Tuesday on three of the four teams headed for Salt Lake City and the NCAA semifinals. Fans forced the closing of Michigan State's practice session for the first time ever, the governor of Illinois proclaimed Saturday Big Ten Demon Day in honor of DePaul and Indiana State's Larry Bird finally talked.

Spartan Coach Judy Heathcote hopes that's not true. All week he's been trying to get his players to forget they are obvious favorites. He knows that Penn's done something Michigan State hasn't.

MSU has lost only three games outside the Big Ten in the past two years - to Syracuse, North Carolina and Kentucky. And Penn just beat the first two.

"I hope our kids have respect for a club that beat two of the three teams that beat us in the last two years," Heathcote said. "Am I think they will?" Penn starts four seniors including Tony Price, the 6-foot-7 forward who has scored over 20 points in each of the four tournament games.

Michigan State still is uncertain whether 6-foot-8 starting center Jay Bynum will be officially recovered from a sore foot to play Saturday.

But the Earvin Johnson-Greg Keller bit spearheading the Spartans' show should be a challenge. Top-ranked and unbeaten ISU enters the final round of four the 1979 Princeton square don't have as many distractions to deal with. They are the underdogs and they know it.

There's a tremendous opportunity waiting out there for us," said Coach Bob Weinbauer. "I have feeling Michigan State feels about the way Syracuse and North Carolina felt, that 'We're playing an Ivy League School.' I'm sure there's not one player on their team who has even heard of one of our kids."

But the way he's been playing so far this year, defending champion Nicklaus could be hard-pressed to even make the cut.

Nicklaus will be playing for the fourth straight week when the $40,000 TPC begins Thursday. He normally prefers to space out his tournament appearances, but his inability to regain his previous form has kept him on the tour.

"I usually start a bit slow, but have my game rounding into shape by now. I point toward the Masters (barely three weeks away)," said Nicklaus. "I know my scores haven't shown it, but I've been making considerable improvement."

"I'm hitting the ball well, but I'm not getting it in the hole. My putting has not been what I would like," Nicklaus said he doesn't like playing four weeks in a row. "I need to get off by myself and work on my game," he says.

However, he feels playing this week at Sawgrass, where he won with a 1-over-par 289 last year, will be to his advantage.

"I have always felt that playing on a tough course gave me a bit of an edge," said Nicklaus. "You don't have to shoot low numbers at Sawgrass to win."

Youngblood Won Point And Salary Increase

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Anybody can disagree. To disagree without becoming disagreeable, though, is something else again. Not many have that capacity. Joel Youngblood obviously has.

He wasn't happy at all with the salary the Mets were offering him this season. He felt he wasn't being compensated properly for what he did last year.

The Mets couldn't understand his beef.

He was a utility player who hit only 252 last season with 30 RBI and seven home runs. They paid him $78,000 this year, a whopping 79 percent raise, and he was turning it down. What did he want, blood?

The Mets' 27-year-old infielder-outfielder didn't want that, he just wanted $91,000. He and his lawyer, Dick Moss, went to arbitration to get it but they lost.

Nobody likes to lose, and Joel Youngblood certainly is no exception, but a curious thing happened to him when he went to arbitration.

He came away feeling he had actually won and his entire attitude reflects that now. Moreover, the Mets were so tremendously impressed by the presentation he made before arbitrator Quinn Mills that they estimated him as an individual and a ballplayer as well as appreciably.

"I've sat in on any number of arbitration sessions but I've never seen a ballplayer make a finer case for himself or a better impression on everybody who heard what he had to say than Joel Youngblood," says Joe McDonald, the Mets' general manager, who attended the hearing with Chris Kager, one of the Mets' administrative men, and C. Raymond Grebe, who heads the major leagues' player relations' committee.

"His presentation was so good, I couldn't help being proud of him," McDonald adds. "And when he did lose, he lost graciously."

The arbitration procedure took four hours. Youngblood was the last one to speak and he spoke for about 15 minutes.

"I was nervous at first," he says. "At the end, I felt comfortable and confident. The most important thing was that I felt the Mets understood me better. That was my primary purpose, even more than the money. I wound up with a good raise, anyway, and I got a lot of publicity. People got to know Joel Youngblood better and he got to know them better. I think that's a curious thing that happened to me."

The most difficult aspect of baseball is not the playing or the traveling so much as it is the head-to-head negotiating, according to Youngblood.

"Negotiating is Joe McDonald's job, but it is my life," he says. "I know people talk about 'greedy ballplayers' and the salaries some of them make. But few people ever consider what a player has to look

Fred Lynn Injures Knee

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (UPI) — Twelve years ago, as a sophomore at El Monte, Calif., High School, Boston Red Sox outfielder Fred Lynn hurt his right knee playing football.

Along with everything else, my thinking was that I was 27 years old and that I had better make a move financially. If I couldn't do it for myself, who else would do it for me?"

Youngblood's pinch homer with one on powered the Mets to a 5-4 win over the Pirates in San Juan Monday.

He would like to do now is win the starting job at third base with the Mets.

Joe Torre is giving him the chance. "He could do it," says the Mets' manager.

Lynn went to Winter Haven Hospital where they told him he had strained ligaments. "If there is no swelling in the morning, there's no sweat," the Golden Glove outfielder said. "If it balloons during the night, I'm in trouble."

Lynn has been hampered by injuries the past three seasons. His only healthy year was in 1975 when he won the American League MVP award.

"I'd like to skip spring training. Seriously, I could come in, play four or five games to get my arm in shape and my batting eye, and be ready," he said.

"When something like this happens, so freakish, I've got to wonder what's in the cards for me. One thing for sure, somebody doesn't like me."

Lynn is doubly frustrated because he lifted weights all winter and came to spring training in excellent shape. "My whole body is stronger and an old injury comes back to get me. The doctors said the weight lifting probably strengthened the knee, and kept this from being worse than it is."

"When I walked into the hospital today, the same doctors were there," he said. "They not only remembered me, they thought I had messed up the ankle again."

In his first roster cut of the spring, Manager Don Zimmer sent rookie right-handed pitcher Warren Miller, who was acquired by the Yankees last year, to the Yankees. Zimmer sent Miller to the Yankees last year, to the Yankees last year, to the Yankees last year.

Phil Esposito In Milestone

NEW YORK (UPI) — Phil Esposito knows all about the 40-goal plateau, having reached it eight times in his career, but seldom has he seen milestone goals become as important as one did Tuesday night.

"We are just happy to get a point out of this," Esposito said, after scoring with five seconds to play to give the New York Rangers a 2-2 tie with the Washington Capitals.

"It's an important game for us guys," said Esposito, who blew a kiss to the crowd when introduced as the game's second star. "We are fighting with Atlanta and Philly for second place."

Esposito's goal made him the first player since Bobby Hull to achieve eight 40-goal campaigns.

In other games, Detroit hammered Chicago, 5-3, and Los Angeles overcame Atlanta, 4-3.

In the World Hockey Association, New England edged Quebec, 7-6, and Cincinnati blasted Birmingham, 5-2.

Dan LaBreaux scored two goals to help Detroit stretch its unbeaten streak to six games.

Kings, 4, Flames 3

Dave Taylor scored his 40th goal of the season with 3:25 remaining to lead Los Angeles into a second-place tie with Pittsburgh in the Norris Division.

Whalers' Triumph On Miller OT Goal

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — The New England Whalers remained unbeaten in their latest stretch of on-the-road games by topping the Quebec Nordiques 7-6 in overtime Tuesday.

The victory kept the Whalers' hopes of catching Edmonton and Quebec alive in the World Hockey Association race. New England, in third place, now trails second-place Quebec by two points.

Edmonton, which played a game with Finland to add to its WHA standings, is on top of the rankings.

Warren Miller, who was acquired by the Whalers last summer in a trade with the Nordiques, caught Quebec goal tender Jim Corsi out of the blue line to send the game into overtime.

Earlier in the third Cloutier tied the game at 4-4 taking a deflected shot from inside the circle. Miller scored his first goal of the night to clinch the game.

The New England right wing poked the puck past Corsi while both players were sprawled on the ice in the midst of a scramble before the Nordique net.

Miller's display offset the three-

Basketball

Greg Dameron tossed in 7 points, including the winning hoop in the waning seconds, as VFW nipped Manchester Police, 19-18, last night at Verplanck.

John Dougan had 9 markers to lead the winners with Mike Woodhouse accounting for the other 4 tallies. Paul Lantry had 9 points and Jason Standfield 5 for Police.

In other action, Crispino clinched the title with an 11-6 win over WINF. Bobby Knapp and Joe Prignano had 5 and 4 markers respectively for the Supremes while Bruce Rosenberg had 4 tallies for the Radiomen.

Final standings: Crispino's 11-4, Police 10-5, VFW 9-9, WINF 3-12.

Cougars Drop Third Twinbill

Dropping its third straight doubleheader Monday in South Carolina was the Manchester Community College basketball team.

The latest defeats were tacked on by Montreal-Anderson College, 6-2 and 8-6.

Highlights for the locals were the hitting of Gino Zeris, who collected 5 hits in 9 at bats, and Dan Roulet who homered.

The locals will conclude the southern trip Friday and hope to acquire the services of Mike Fitzsimmons at that time. The latter did not accompany the team south. He was counted on to be the No. 1 pitcher.

Daigneault Selected Eagle Girls' Mentor

Dave Daigneault, a student at Central Connecticut State College, will serve as head girls' track coach at East Catholic High it has been announced by Cliff Demers, school director of athletics.

Daigneault is a member of the Central track team but is unable to compete this year because of an injury.

Pat Angeri, former Xavier High pitcher, was appointed head boys' track coach last week.

Approximately 140, including 90 girls, went out for both squads, Demers reported.

Golfers to Meet

The women's nine-hole group at Minnechaug Golf Club will start play April 17. Anyone interested in joining should contact Barbara Higley, 649-6128, or Marg Grant, 649-5908.

PHILADELPHIA PHILLIES

Cardinal Batters Explode

NEW YORK (UPI) — Starts the wind was blowing in the right direction.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who finished just three games ahead of the New York Mets for the National League's worst record last year and haven't changed their roster much since, slammed four homers in one inning Tuesday to defeat the Toronto Blue Jays, 7-2.

The win was the fourth straight for the Cardinals, boosting their record to 7-3.

With one out and one on in the fifth, Terry Kennedy, Roger Freed and Ken Reitz hit successive home runs, off Blue Jay starter Phil Huffman.

One out later, a Jim Lentine singled, Mike Tyson then capped a six-run inning with a two-run homer.

Bob Sykes became the first Cardinal pitcher to work six innings this spring, allowing just two hits. Reliever George Frazier permitted the only two Toronto runs in the seventh when Batsch Alberts homered after a walk to Joe Cannon.

In other exhibition games, Minnesota shelled the New York Yankees, 15-7. Houston topped Montreal, 6-4. Boston edged Cincinnati, 4-3, in 10 innings. Detroit blanked the Chicago White Sox, 2-0. Kansas City drubbed Atlanta, 8-2. San Francisco downed San Diego, 6-4. Baltimore defeated Philadelphia, 4-1, and the New York Mets outslugged Pittsburgh, 8-3.

The Cleveland-Oakland, California-Cubs and Seattle-Milwaukee games out West were all rained out.

Pirates Added Speed To 'Lumber Company'

BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI) — They're no longer "The Lumber Company," burying the opposition under an avalanche of heavy bats. The Pittsburgh Pirates have merely ordered 'new tools of destruction.

The Pirates gave new meaning to the phrase "Speed kills" last season when they stole a National League-high 213 bases. They also almost stole a pennant.

Trailing the first-place Philadelphia Phillies by 1 1/2 games on Aug. 12, the Pirates won 37 of their last 49 games — running off winning streaks of 10 and 11 games — and finished only 1 1/2 games out of the inspiration behind this late-season rush was outfielder Dave Parker, called by Phil's All-Star shortstop Larry Bowa, "the most awesome player I've ever seen."

Parker won Player of the Month honors in both August and September, hitting 14 home runs and driving in 58 runs over the two-month span. Manager Chuck Tanner, however, says the biggest factor in the stretch drive was the club's character.

"Attitude is the biggest thing," says Tanner. "You can have all the talent in the world but if you don't have a good attitude, you won't win."

A good year out of Willie Stargell didn't hurt, either. The 38-year-old first baseman won NL Comeback Player of the year honors for hitting .295, with the starting totals of 28 homers and 97 RBI in only 390 at-bats.

Stargell isn't likely to repeat those kind of numbers in 1979 but the Pirates have improved in other areas. Utilityman Lee Lacy, who hit 13 homers in only 245 at-bats for Los Angeles last year, was signed as a free agent, and reliever Enrique Romo came over in a trade from Seattle, where he won 11 games and saved 10 others for the worst team in baseball.

STRENGTHS — Parker may be too good for this league; superb bullpen in Romo and Kent Tekulic, solid front four of John Candelaria, Bert Blyleven, Don Robinson and Jim Rooker; enough springers to enter an Olympic relay team; deep bench.

WEAKNESSES — Team's fielding led by shortstop Frank Taveras' 38 errors, was league's poorest; mediocre catching; perennial slow starter.

NEW FACES — Lacy could prove valuable pinch-hitter; Romo will take some of bullpen burden off Tekulic; rookie catcher Steve Nicolson looks like a hitter.

OUTLOOK — Pirates looked like league's best team over last two months of 1978 but Philadelphia's newly acquired Pete Rose may prove a thorn in their sides. Team figures to contend all the way behind Parker's heroics and the best legs since "Chorus Line" opened.

Whatever Happened to Franz Klammer?

JUST ASK
Murray Olderman

By Murray Olderman

The tipoff: You can just about scratch Pete Rozelle from taking over the 1984 Olympics for Los Angeles. The city of the angels has been so impressed with the job management ace Pat Spurney has done in reviving the 1960 Games for Lake Placid that feelers have already been sent out to lure Spurney west again (he also ran the World's Fair in Spokane).

Q. Greg (Shoofisto) Page was offered the chance to fight Cuba's (Trevino) Steve twice last year, but instead Jimmy Clark was the American fighter both times. Do you think Page was afraid of Steve? Also, since Page turned pro, there's no chance of meeting Steve again, not even in the Olympics next year. Don't you think a victory over Steve would have enhanced Page's career as a pro? — George H. Chang, Santa Cruz, Calif.

A. Buried in the pages of the "Herald" is a story that is pretty well buried, too: it is a victory over Cuba's awesome heavyweight in the Pan Am Games, though Bobick was punched out easily by Stevenson in the 72 Olympics. You saw how much good Bobick's victory did him. I'm sure Page was leery of Stevenson. But Page's main reason for turning pro was to take advantage of a wide open heavyweight class with Muhammad Ali on the verge of abdication and all the other active bodies, including Larry Holmes, on the verge of 30 or over.

Q. Did Cassius Clay legally change his name to Al Baha? Did Abdul-Jabbar do the same? — William Miracik, Santa Cruz, Calif.

A. Under English common law, which prevails in the United States, you simply adopt a name you want and use it legally. Some states require that you implement it through court procedure. Clay simply announced one day that he was Muhammad Ali. And the former Lew Alcindor emerged similarly as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. For all legal purposes, that's who they are.

Q. Could you tell me what happened to Harvey Haddis, who once played for the Pittsburgh Pirates? — Jeff Hildebrand, Dallas, Pa.

A. Haddis did more than just play. On May 26, 1969, the slugger (5-9, 165) left-handed turned in the greatest pitching performance in the history of baseball. He hurled 12 perfect innings against the Milwaukee Braves but lost the game in the 13th, 1-0. He pitched in 1969 (14 seasons) then became a pitching coach, most recently with the Cleveland Indians from 1975 through 1978. You'll be glad to hear he's the new pitching coach of the Pirates, hired quickly when Don Osborn had to resign because of illness.

Q. Whenever I watch a college football game, the commentators always seem to mention that the Big Eight Conference is the best in football. It seems in the last few years that the Southwest Conference has been slugging out some very good teams and players. I would like your comment on this issue. — Mike Jenson, Seymour, Mo.

A. The Big Eight rightfully deserves mention because Oklahoma and Nebraska have been consistent challengers for the national championship in recent years. Teams like Missouri and New Iowa State are not far behind. Overall, I don't put the Southwest Conference on the same plane as I do feel that the Pacific-10 Conference measures up favorably with the Big Eight, though, and can cite the recent bowl game results to bolster my thesis.

Parling shot: The appointment of Tom Flores as head coach of the Oakland Raiders means a more active role for front office boss Al Davis in the operation of the team on the field. Davis claimed with resigned John Madden over offensive philosophy (Davis favored the long bomb, Madden went to ground-foot football) and was disappointed with the defensive strategy. Flores will listen to him.

World Series In Phillie Plans

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — Boston's Jim Rice, the American League's Most Valuable Player last year, sided up to Philadelphia shortstop Larry Bowa and asked: "Where do you guys want your seats for next year's World Series? Left field line or right field line?"

"On the first base side," Bowa answered with a grin. "You can see better from over there." Then the two All-Stars laughed and slapped palms.

Phillies, indeed, need those tickets to see the 1979 Series, the addition of second baseman Manny Trillo to what was already the league's best defense.

"Our pitching is the weakest part of the team — we only have three starters," says Manager Danny Ozark.

The pitching may not have to be that good with the Phil' artiler and the addition of second baseman Manny Trillo to what was already the league's best defense.

STRENGTHS — Four Gold Glove winners, led by brilliant shortstop Bowa; excellent blend of power (led by Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt) and speed (Ted Stepien and the Pirates figure to improve with the additions of Lee Lacy and Enrique Romo. But the Phillies may blossom even more, led by a fellow name: Rose. Pete Rose brings his 310 career batting average to Philadelphia but his most significant contribution may not be found in numbers.

"He's just a guy who plays every day like he's a 20-year-old kid," says Bowa about the 37-year-old first baseman. "I guess management feels he's the guy who can put you on the top."

Perhaps the best way for Rose to do that is by working on his curve ball. The Phillies will score enough runs to short-circuit the Veterans Stadium scorers but their pitching staff figures to get rung more times than the Liberty Bell.

WEAKNESSES — Lack of depth behind Steve Carlton on generally weak pitching staff, big question mark with Larry Christenson's shoulder injury; stigma of not being able to win big ones.

NEW FACES — Addition of Trillo mark with Steve Carlton's leadership may mean more than his 200 hits.

OUTLOOK — Brotherly love will be at a minimum between players and fans if Phil can hit and get into Series this year. Team can hit and field with anyone in baseball and five or six good innings is all they need out of starters.

News for Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN
 Hi, everybody!
 The first important news is that we have to change the date to see the "Crazy" at the Coachlight on Monday we started registering just before 8 a.m. and by 8:45 a.m. we signed up 96 people. Then we made a check with the people at Coachlight to see if they could handle a third bus. It was at this point that we were told that there was a mix-up and they couldn't handle us for what we had. Therefore, we had to cancel the April 18 date and we are now scheduled for Wednesday, May 9. We can take three buses if we can fill them. So if any of you who have signed up, find you cannot make the change you can drop by and your money will be refunded.

 While on trips we remind you that this coming Monday, we will be signing up for two different trips. One will be the one to the dog track on Thursday, April 19. This will kick off our Furnishing Fund Raising. It will include the bus ride, entrance to track, tip sheet, and a roast beef dinner, all for $5.
 The other trip is a three-day jaunt to Washington, D.C. This trip has a package that consists of accommodations at the High Rise Quality Inn, sightseeing at the White House, J.F. Kennedy Center, National Archives, Arlington Cemetery, and you cannot make the Washington Monument and others. The cost is $94 per person, double, and $114 single. When signing up you can pay $50 or more now, and the rest in a few weeks.

 Now to the happenings. I'm happy to announce we now have another worker on our staff. Through the CETA program we were able to hire an ambitious young fellow to help us. He is a golf professional and was an assistant at the Manchester Country Club for a few years. He also is quite a fisherman and comes with quite a bit of experience in many areas. It is our hope that he will be able to put his ideas to work, especially in getting some men interested in our programs. He will be talking up ideas and I'm sure you men will be interested. He'll be around to see the ladies and help with their programs as well.

 Oh, yes, his name is Joe Diminico. He certainly comes at a good time because as you know Gloria is at this time traveling by air almost half way around the world. She will be landing in Java where to visit her son, a major in the Army. She will be gone for the next five weeks. I'm counting on you to welcome Joe and make him feel right at home.
 The happenings here start with 46 players for our Friday afternoon setback games. The winners are Arvid Peterson 138, Paul Oltone 134, Lillian Rutchik 133, Al Cheliman 127, Mike DeSimone 127, Clara Hemingway 127, Anna Demko 123, Gladys Seibert 120, Mina Heutter 117, Betty Jesania 116, Joseph Martino 115, Helena Gavello 115, Hans Frederickson 115.

 On Saturday, it was rehearsal time for our variety show and things are really shaping up. It will be another super show and one you won't want to miss. Tickets are now on sale. We have to sell about 1,200 tickets for Friday and another 1,300 for Saturday. Our big bus will pick up for the Friday night show only. The rehearsal this week will be Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.
 Monday was a busy day, starting with registration for the Coachlight. In the afternoon it was pinocle games. We had 56 players and the winners are Martin

Bakstan 81, Ed Scott 81, Olive Houghtaling 81, Andy Noke 79, Josephine O'Connor 76, George Last 76, Paul Sheets 75, Al Cheliman 74, Frank Gadomski 75, Jennie Fogarty 74, Burt Turner 74, Leon Fallo 73, Tom Regan 73.
 We want to remind you again about the Hawaii trip May 7. Any questions, just contact Paul Ryan at 329-3221.
 Keep in mind our other trips like Wildwood and the Grand Canyon. The Wildwood trip is scheduled for the week of June 4 and if we get more than two buses we'll go again, the week of June 11. The complete package will be $115 and we will talk about this a little later. We haven't any details on the Grand Canyon trip as yet but will be putting things together soon.

Conservation Panel To Present Budget

HEBRON — The Conservation Commission will present a proposed budget of $3,865 to the Board of Finance Thursday, for its consideration before it goes to the annual budget hearing and town meeting. Of the total, $3,000 is proposed for use to buy or develop land. The town has $5,000 in its reserve account for this purpose, to date. The requested amount would be added to this.
 The budget request represents an increase of $525 over the current budget. The major increase is $200 for survey and development of a plan for the use of property being acquired as open space land in the Northam Hills and Joshua Farms subdivisions; and $300 to implement recommendations in the plan, for the property.
 Some of the preliminary work will be done by the Tolland County Soil and Water Conservation District. Implementation would then be initiated as a project by one or more students, possibly from either Eastern Connecticut State College or the University of Connecticut.
 The remaining amount is budgeted for the: Town picnic, $175; meetings, $50; trees for the Arbor Day program, $50; and $30 for miscellaneous.

Free for Foster Parents

MANCHESTER — A free open house for foster parents will be held next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the music room of Emanuel Lutheran Church, 60 Church St. The event is sponsored by the Foster Parent Program of Manchester Community College. Prospective foster parents and adoptive parents also are welcome.
 "The Foster Care System" is the topic of a panel discussion. The panelists are Dom Maio, centralized home-finding unit manager; Barbara Hinkley, home study worker; Kathy James, recruiter; and Gene Marquet, protective service worker. A film, "Talk to Me," will be shown.
 To learn more call Virginia Collins, 646-3977.

Spring Fashion Show Set

VERNON — St. Bernard's Home & School Association will sponsor a fashion show, "Burst into Spring," April 1 at 2:30 p.m. at the Country Squire Restaurant on Route 83.
 Mrs. Annette Grenier is chairman of the event which will feature staff and students of the school, as models as well as other members of the families including fathers and younger children.
 The fashions to be featured will be from Harvey's of Manchester, and the Village Bridal shop and Zahners of Vernon as well as the Youth Centre of Manchester.
 Tickets are available from members of the association or by contacting St. Bernard's School.

MCC Prof To Appear At Language Hearing

MANCHESTER — Dr. Toby Tamarkin, associate professor of romance languages at Manchester Community College, has been selected to represent the goals of foreign languages educators in the Northeast region of the United States at a public hearing in Bolton in May. She is one of only two representatives from Connecticut. The other is Jane Bourque from Stratford.
 Representatives of foreign language education, international studies and social studies will appear before a May 4 regional hearing of the President's Commission on Foreign Language and International Studies to discuss ways to overcome the lack of emphasis given language and international studies in American schools and colleges.
 The Northeast Conference on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (NCTFL), is coordinating the hearing.
 The representatives will present a set of recommendations to help guide the president's commission in its efforts to implement within the United States the objectives of the Helsinki Agreement relating to foreign languages, cultures and civilizations. "We are deeply concerned that the

Bolton School Club Sets Roman Banquet

BOLTON — The Bolton High School Latin Club will have its Roman banquet March 31 from 6 to 11 p.m. The banquet is in honor of the founding of Rome in 753 B.C. by Romulus and Remus.
 Members attending will be dressed in togas and will serve Roman style. There will also be Olympic games and a fashion show.
 More than 100 people are expected to attend the banquet.
 Janina Ryba and Jim Kowalyszyn are general chairmen for the event. Subcommittee chairmen are Karen Manning, food; Maria Stoppeworth, decorations; Brian Winkler and Marty Ferguson, entertainment; Kirsten Wagner, set-up.
 The club's officers are Ann Stoppeworth, president; Tom Maneggia, vice-president; Karen Manning, secretary; Adam Teller, treasurer; Susan Murray, Latin teacher, is club adviser.

Eighty Students Compete

BOLTON — Eighty Latin students competed in a national Latin exam recently. The exam is sponsored by the American Classical League and the Junior Classical League.
 The exam consists of 40 questions including Latin grammar, mythology, history and word derivation. It is taken by more than 9,000 students nationwide.
 The exam was proctored by Joseph Shanahan. The exam results will be known in May and awards will be presented.
 Later this spring Bolton students will compete in an exam sponsored by the Connecticut chapter of the Classical Association of New England.

State Eyes Bolton Roads

BOLTON — While actual construction details and cost estimates were beyond the scope of a road condition survey conducted by the state, Anthony V. Milano, secretary of the Connecticut Office of Policy and Management, said it is hoped the survey report will prove of value in establishing a road improvement program in Bolton.
 The survey was made on the request of Henry Ryba, first selectman and the project was carried out with three basic goals in mind, Milano said.
 The goals were to provide Bolton with an overall condition report on the town roads, to provide information as to high hazard locations, and to provide a ranking of roads on both accident and deficiency data.
 Milano said, "The town roads suffer mainly from three problem areas which do not appear to require complex solutions."
 The report notes there is pavement deterioration as a result of poor base conditions and poor drainage; there are numerous road-side obstructions such as trees and poles; and also heaving at culvert locations caused by a combination of ground water build-up and poor installation. The report concludes that pavement deterioration can be alleviated by rebuilding the poorest sections and removing and resetting pipes in the culvert areas.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

Needs To Shed Weighty Complex

DEAR ABBY: My mother lives in another town. She keeps asking me to visit her, but it's such a drag I seldom go, so she comes to visit me.

I am 28, female and married. For years I avoided visiting mother because her sister lives in the same town and I always had to go to see her, too. The minute I walked through my aunt's door she would "weight" me with her eyes, then start in on me about how I should lose some weight. Now my mother has started to do the same thing.

Abby, I have tried every diet there is and none has worked. So I've decided to accept myself as I am, and as long as my husband is satisfied, to heck with everyone else!

When mother left, she asked when I was coming to visit her, so I wrote her a letter (which I haven't mailed yet) and told her that I would visit her after I shed 50 pounds.

Am I being overly sensitive and unable to accept criticism, or am I justified in my feelings of irritation?

Win at bridge that declarer had all the remaining high cards except the heart king. He realized he had one chance, which was to play declarer for the hand he laid in the diagram. If declarer was void in hearts, the singleton queen of diamonds in dummy would cause him serious transportation problems between the two hands. Accordingly, East allowed the jack of spades to win. Declarer returned to his hand with the 10 of clubs and played the king of spades, which East now won with the ace. East then made the crucial return of a club that caused declarer incurmountable problems. He could no longer take his three diamond tricks. Declarer won the club in dummy and cashed his ace of hearts, he would have to overtake dummy's queen of diamonds with the king in order to return to his hand and cash his ace of hearts. If declarer won the club in hand, he would have to take the ace of diamonds to dummy's queen in this case he could not return to his hand to cash the king of diamonds and the king of hearts would be the setting trick. In this case, made possible by East's refusal to win with the ace of diamonds, declarer had no difficulty collecting four spade tricks, one heart, three diamonds and four clubs. East looked deeply into the hand.
