

Fitness Expert Will Teach How to Erase Pains

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter
 MANCHESTER — A nationally known physical fitness expert will come to Manchester to teach her special methods of erasing pain from a variety of chronic problems from backaches to arthritis.

The town Recreation Department will sponsor a Bonnie Prudden workshop June 1 and 2 at the new West Side Recreation Center on Cedar Street. The two-part workshop will include a pain erasure clinic Friday evening, June 1, and a jogging workshop Saturday morning, June 2, according to Laura Dunfield, recreation supervisor who is coordinating the special program.

Ms. Dunfield was responsible for getting Ms. Prudden, who does similar workshops all over the country, to come here. Ms. Dunfield said she attended a Bonnie Prudden clinic in New Haven last fall and was impressed that she wanted her to come here.

Besides demonstrating her own pain erasure method called myotherapy in the clinics, the 65-year-old energetic Ms. Prudden operates her own Institute for Physical Fitness in Stockbridge, Mass. Ms. Prudden was the first chairman for the President's Council on Physical Fitness when it was established by the late President John F. Kennedy. She recently held an extensive and more expensive clinic in Hartford.

The clinic in Manchester will be for very reasonable rates. Ms. Dunfield said, to allow anyone who is interested to learn about the myotherapy technique.

Myotherapy involves looking for "trigger points," the irritable points which cause the pain. Ms. Prudden asks participants to go back into their personal history and try to remember what could be related to the particular pain that is bothering them. She attributes them to an incident at birth, athletic injuries, accidents, diseases or even job related pain. Nine out of ten times, the chronic pain probably began during childhood, Ms. Dunfield said.

Once the pain is located, pressure is put on the spot by the elbow or knuckle of the partner. The pressure is followed by brief loosening exercises. The relief from pain can be immediate and the method can be used regularly whenever the muscles go into spasm.

Chronic pain problems that can be eased through the technique include backaches, stroke, sciatica, arthritis, shoulder syndrome, tennis elbow, TMJ (jaw pain), shin splints, headaches, whiplash, sprains, bursitis, dizziness, and leg cramps. Pain related to such diseases as multiple sclerosis, osteo and rheumatoid arthritis and Parkinson's can be relieved through the myotherapy, Ms. Prudden claims.

Ms. Prudden gives the clinics for all ages from infants through senior citizens. She also encourages family members to attend the clinics with the person who is experiencing the pain, so that they can learn to apply the technique.

Ms. Prudden has recently written a book on this method so people won't have to spend so much money on medication," said Ms. Dunfield. The method is simple, she stressed, as it can be done by a family member and the trigger points always stay the same.

The jogging workshop from 9 to 11:30 a.m. will be for joggers and "would-be" joggers. It will teach preparation for running, prevention of damage to feet and leg muscles, and provide a technique that will give the most running pleasure. It will also include a method for erasing muscle cramps in the legs and back.

Ms. Dunfield said that she thinks the clinics could be especially beneficial for athletic coaches and team managers.

To learn more about the clinics and to register, call Ms. Dunfield at the Recreation Department, 647-3084. The costs of the individual workshops will be $8 or $14 for both.

Lacks Wallop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A consumer group said today the government proposal to force beer, wine and liquor manufacturers to list ingredients on the label does not pack enough wallop.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest said it particularly is disturbed that the proposal would permit ingredients to be listed randomly instead by predominance.

Consumers, the group said, are used to seeing ingredient labels that list the contents — sugar, water, milk, etc. — in the order by which they make up the product, with the first being predominant. Simply listing the ingredients of an alcoholic beverage in any order, it said, would break that tradition and offer no real information.

Heavy Firing

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Heavy firing erupted near President Idi Amin's official residence at Entebbe today but the nation's official radio said the Ugandan dictator was at the front leading his army against the Tanzanian invaders.

A resident in Entebbe contacted by telephone said there was heavy firing in the town on the shores of Lake Victoria 20 miles south of Kampala during the night and early today.

Western analysts said earlier it appeared the fighting was between troops trying to stage a coup and forces still loyal to the beleaguered Amin.

The Entebbe residents said many women and children were now leaving the town as the situation worsened and the mystery of Amin's whereabouts deepened.

A Radio Kampala broadcast denied a report by the British Broadcasting Corp. that Amin had fled the country three days ago.

Historic Test

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Saying "the right to life is greater than the right to publish," a federal judge has pushed the case of The Progressive Magazine's hydrogen bomb article closer to an historic test in the Supreme Court.

The magazine's editors Monday rejected a compromise proposed by U.S. District Judge Robert Warren to allow at least partial publication of the article.

"First Amendment freedom cannot be mediated," Erwin Knoll, editor of the small circulation liberal monthly, said in rejecting the compromise.

Warren, noting the historic import of his decision, then barred publication of the entire article. The magazine's editors said they would appeal and Warren called their decision a "great risk" to press freedoms.

Union Serious

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Teamsters union has gone into federal court to show its seriousness about a possible nationwide trucking strike at midnight Saturday.

Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons Monday asked the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia to order the government to disclose information it would use in requesting a Taft-Hartley injunction if a strike occurs.

The government, in order to get the 80-day "cooling off" period, must show the nation's health and safety would be endangered by a strike.

Judge George Hart Jr. set a hearing on the suit today.

During bargaining between the Teamsters and the industry Monday at a hotel in nearby Arlington, Va., most activity centered on non-monetary issues.

Signing Completed

Egypt Moves First Against Other Arabs

By United Press International
 Egypt, anticipating its expulsion from the Arab League, today announced it will boycott the 22-member organization it helped found 34 years ago and which has been based in Cairo ever since.

Egypt's action came barely 12 hours after President Anwar Sadat signed a peace treaty with Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel in Washington — and only hours before the start in Baghdad of an Arab conference called to implement anti-Egyptian sanctions.

In Israel, a bomb in an open-air fruit and vegetable market today killed one woman and wounded 20 people, two seriously. The bomb, claimed by the Palestine Liberation Organization, exploded in the town of Lod near Ben Gurion airport and followed a hand-grenade attack in the Old City of Jerusalem Monday that injured nine people, including two Americans.

Hundreds of thousands of Arabs marched through the street of Baghdad and Damascus today, chanting slogans denouncing the new peace pact in general and Sadat in particular, accusing the Egyptian leader of treason to the Arab world.

The official state television leftwingers Egypt from active membership in the League warned that "those who are seeking to isolate (Egypt) will be isolating themselves from their peoples and from the Arab nation that esteems Egypt's unceasing struggle in the service of Arabism and Islam," the statement said.

"Egypt, in the face of these attempts to undermine the Arab League charter, declares that it is freezing its activity until the day comes when emotionalism and irresponsibility take second place to wisdom and seriousness," the statement said.

This meant that Egypt will boycott all Arab League functions but will remain on the membership list. The decision stopped short of total withdrawal from the League, which appeared likely to follow, depending on the attitude of other League members at the Baghdad conference.

The peace treaty signing was received with joyous dancing in Tel Aviv, applause and restraint in Egypt, but was condemned by much of the Arab world.

Speaking to newly recruited guerrillas Monday, Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat vowed to "chop off the hands" of President Carter, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel.

Israeli military sources said a special alert was called in the north against the threat of guerrilla attack. Levies were cancelled and border patrols increased.

Some 70,000 Israelis gathered in the square in front of the Tel Aviv city hall to watch the signing ceremony on a giant screen and were later entertained by fireworks displays.

Most Egyptians took the new peace with Israel in stride, with a few showing bursts of enthusiasm. The big celebration was planned for Sadat's return home from Washington.

Church bells in Egypt pealed for five minutes and the minarets of all mosques — about 1,000 in Cairo alone — were brightly lit. A government-organized display of fireworks lit up the night sky.

Many Egyptians clustered in neighborhood cafes to watch the signing ceremony, relayed live by satellite from Washington, sipping strong black tea or played backgammon as the ceremony got under way on the White House north lawn. They cheered and applauded as the three leaders shook hands after the signing.

U.S. officials said the pricing formula change apparently cleared the way for countries like Iran to continue charging as much as $18 per barrel for prized light crude oil. Iran boosted its prices when it resumed production after the revolution, and a number of other OPEC nations have taken similar steps.

The official OPEC base price is pegged to the price of Saudi Arabian light crude oil. Even under the old formula, some producers such as Nigeria were able to charge a premium for particularly desirable grades of oil.

A 9 percent increase in OPEC prices alone would bring an estimated increase of $13 billion into the OPEC bank accounts. Oil sources in Europe said the Common Market countries alone would face increases of $3.6 billion annually.

It was still too early to predict how long it would take for the price increase to be passed on to consumers. Saudi Arabia officials, who had argued against any additional increase at all but wanted to stick with the original 3.8 percent hike in quarterly stages.

According to an agreement last December, the price was to have increased by just 3.8 percent on April 1 to $13.65 per barrel.

Alan Mason Will Leave Town Post

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
 MANCHESTER — Alan Mason, the town's director of human services for the past six years, has announced his resignation.

He wrote to Town Manager Robert Weiss Monday to announce his decision, which will become effective June 1.

The resignation comes in the middle of a swirl of activity about the Community Development Block Grant program. Mason has been coordinator of the program for the town.

But Mason said the program controversy and recent calls for his resignation had nothing to do with his decision.

"It's been something I've been thinking about for quite while," he said this morning. Mason said he had discussed the possibility of resigning previously with Weiss.

Weiss confirmed this morning that Mason had been thinking of taking such a step even before the recent Community Development matter.

Mason said he had just received Mason's letter and had no other comment on the matter.

Mason, as coordinator of that program, has 80 percent of his salary paid through Community Development funding received by the town.

Thus, approval of the ban would have meant the town would have had to provide funding to continue Mason's position or the job would have been disbanded until, and if, the town became reinvolved in Community Development.

Mason last week had said that racism was a reason for the opposition to the Community Development program, which is aimed at aiding low- and moderate-income persons. His statement was made at a meeting of the Capital Region Council of Government's Region Council of Government's review committee, which was studying the Manchester Community Development matter.

He was criticized for that statement. Weiss said Mason used "poor judgment." Democratic Director Joseph Sweeney and Republican Carl Zinner both asked for retraction of the statement and mentioned resignation as an alternative.

Mason later issued a statement that he had not completed his answer about the Community Development matter. He said several other factors, including frustration with bureaucracy and concern about inflation, figured into the opposition's stand.

Mason, who was the town's first director of human services, said he felt he had reached a "plateau" in his Manchester position.

"You reach a point where you've done everything you want to do," he said.

In his resignation letter, Mason mentioned several of the programs that have been established, including legal aid, transportation for the elderly and handicapped and outreach to the elderly.

He praised the work of his staff and townspeople in helping develop these and other programs.

OPEC Oil To Cost 9% More

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The 13 OPEC nations announced today an immediate 9 percent increase in oil prices plus surcharges by individual members that could bring a pricing free-for-all on world markets.

The OPEC oil increase had been scheduled for Oct. 1 but OPEC members in heated debate decided to impose it on April 1 instead. This would increase the price from $13.34 a barrel to $14.54.

The price rise will mean an immediate jump in U.S. gasoline and heating oil prices but the decision to impose a surcharge meant that the final cost of crude oil is unpredictable, depending on the whims of individual OPEC members.

Generally an increase of $1 a barrel for crude raises gasoline by 2 cents a gallon in the United States and heating oil similarly. Surcharges now ranging as high as $5 a barrel — and possibly higher later — and possibly more would be lacked onto this.

Saudi Arabia, the largest source of oil for the United States, and the United Arab Emirates indicated they would not impose a surcharge.

U.S. energy officials said rough initial calculations showed the basic OPEC increase alone might boost gasoline prices by 2.4 cents a gallon, add $2.4 billion to the nation's trade deficit, increase overall inflation by almost one-half of 1 percent and add perhaps three-tenths of 1 percent to the rate of inflation.

But officials said the cartel's decision to abandon its old pricing policy and let each nation add a surcharge could make the impact much greater.

"We're not able to calculate the actual impact until we know what this premium things means," one official said.

An Energy Department spokesman said the administration would have no formal comment until it could study the pricing strategies likely to be followed by individual OPEC members under the new formula.

U.S. officials said the pricing formula change apparently cleared the way for countries like Iran to continue charging as much as $18 per barrel for prized light crude oil. Iran boosted its prices when it resumed production after the revolution, and a number of other OPEC nations have taken similar steps.

According to an agreement last December, the price was to have increased by just 3.8 percent on April 1 to $13.65 per barrel.

The $14.54 price had been planned to come into force Oct. 1.

An official communiqué read out by OPEC Secretary General Rene Ortiz of Ecuador said that besides going directly to the end-of-year level, each OPEC state is free to add to their oil prices "whatever premium they deem to be justified."

Many OPEC countries already are charging premiums as much as $5 per barrel on top of the official OPEC price level.

The immediate move to the Oct. 1 price level was based by the OPEC countries on disruptions in the oil market following the cutback in Iranian production and what they called the "unjustified windfall profits" being reaped by the major oil companies.

Saudi Arabian officials, who had argued against any additional increase at all but wanted to stick with the original 3.8 percent hike in quarterly stages.

April 1, also said they doubted whether Saudi Arabia would be going beyond the OPEC level.

MANCHESTER — Wilfred Dion, director of buildings and grounds for the Manchester public schools, recommended Monday night that the first step in dealing with leaky roofs be moisture analysis.

Dion said it is impossible to tell where the problems are in the flat roofs without the analysis by a company which specializes in that kind of work.

He estimated the cost for the analysis of the Manchester High School and portions of the Hiling Junior High School roofs would be between $8,000 and $12,000. Those two schools have had the most serious problems with leakage during the current school year. The problem at the high school has been a recurring one for several years.

Dion said his first recommendation on the roofs which he submitted to School Superintendent James Kennedy is to make a punch on the high school roof. He said the work could be done with the school maintenance crews a little at a time.

The analysis would be a preliminary step to other temporary solutions, Dion said. If a complete replacement of the roofs is done, the analysis is not necessary.

Vernon Budget Increase Kept To 3.8 Percent

MANCHESTER — Mayor Stephen Penney said today that the town's budget for 1979-80 will be increased by 3.8 percent over the 1978-79 budget.

Penney said the increase is necessary to cover the cost of a new fire station and to pay for a new police car. He also said that the town will be able to save money by cutting back on other services.

The mayor said that the town's financial situation is stable and that he expects to continue to keep the budget under control. He also said that he will be looking for ways to improve the town's services.

Penney said that the town's budget for 1979-80 will be $1,252,192, an increase of $46,000 over the 1978-79 budget. He said that the increase is necessary to cover the cost of a new fire station and to pay for a new police car.

Residents Query Charge Formulas

MANCHESTER — Residents of the town are questioning the formulas used to calculate the charges for water and sewer services.

The residents said that the formulas are unfair and that they are being charged more than they should be. They said that they want the town to look into the matter.

The town's officials said that the formulas are based on the cost of the services. They said that they are not responsible for the charges.

ALL AUTO POLICIES ARE NOT CREATED EQUAL

While all auto policies have the same basic coverage, some cost more than others — perhaps as much as $90 to $100 more each year.

ARE YOU PAYING TOO MUCH?
Some auto policies are 6 months or more in arrears on charges for installment payments. However, we can offer you an auto policy written on a yearly basis with a quarterly or semi-annually paid premium and no finance charges.

ARE YOU PAYING FINANCE CHARGES?
Some auto policies are not carefully reviewed each year. The result can be increased premium charges due to the use of outdated driver information. You could be entitled to credits for carpool or driver training, good student discounts or savings because of higher collision deductibles.

Before you renew your present policy, ASK YOURSELF
DO YOU WANT TO SAVE MONEY?
DO YOU WANT AN ANNUAL POLICY WITHOUT FINANCE CHARGES?
DO YOU WANT YOUR AUTO POLICY TO BE CAREFULLY REVIEWED EACH YEAR?

Porter and Pitkin Area Needs Drainage Project

MANCHESTER - Storm drainage improvements in the Porter-Pitkin streets area are needed even if Community Development funding is rejected, Jay Giles, director of public works, said.

The proposed project includes storm drainage improvements from the pond at Adelaide Road to the Porter Brook.

There have been flooding problems in the area. A home at 82 Richard Road had serious flooding problems during periods of wet weather this winter. Flooding also has occurred on the property of another Richard Road home, Giles said.

The flooding occurred when the nearby pond overflowed.

Giles said the pond may have developed because development of the Porter Street area altered the normal drainage pattern.

"It's just a pond with no outlet. Something has to be done," he said of the present situation.

There presently is $80,000 set aside in Community Development funding for the work. Another $70,000 in future-year funding also is expected for the job, Giles said.

The project also would improve downstream flood control, which would include improvements to flood control in the Main Street area.

Community Development funding is in question because town voters will decide April 17 about a Proposed two-year ban on town participation in the program.

If this is done, it could eliminate the Community Development funding for the project.

Giles said the project has been considered by the town for 15 years. He feels something has to be done now. If the project cannot be funded with Community Development it sees two other possible options.

One would be to buy the home at 82 Richard Road and make the property a detention basin area to help control flooding.

A similar house purchase on Bremen Road, however, was voted down by the board.

"The Board of Directors pretty much indicated that's a precedent they don't want to see," Giles said, so he does not expect to propose this idea.

The other possibility would be a pump from the pond, which, along with piping, would cost about $100,000. While this would be cheaper than the full-fledged project, it would not be as effective, he said.

Alfred Sieffert, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission, also supported the sewer project. He and the PZC have to act on an inland-wetlands permit sought by the town for the project, and the commission members toured the area Saturday.

"That is one heckuva mess," he said.

March 23, 1979
TO: BOARD OF DIRECTORS
FROM: R. B. WEISS, GENERAL MANAGER

SUBJECT: Recommended Budget Fiscal Year Beginning July 1, 1979

In conjunction with the preparation of the budget for this year, the Board of Directors changed their normal practice of entering the process after the presentation by the Manager of his recommendation by stipulating that the Manager should come forth with a maximum expenditure increase of 6% overall. This goal setting approach while very helpful in some ways, was difficult to achieve due to the uneven effect of inflation and fixed costs on various portions of the budget. This is indicated in the General Fund Summary below.

	ADOPTED 1978-79	RECOMMENDED 1979-80	PERCENT INCREASE	DOLLAR INCREASE
Board of Education	$15,582,756	$16,517,934	6.0%	$935,178
Insurance & Debt Serv.	1,672,926	2,015,836	20.5%	342,910
Balance of General Fd.	9,318,602	9,615,871	3.2%	297,269
	$26,574,284	$28,149,341	5.9%	$1,575,057

As you review this budget you will note severe reductions in most departments - some of which represent lowered levels of service. I am particularly concerned with the reduced level of Capital Improvements which in the long run can prove costly. Due to extremely tight control of expenditures in the present year by management and the cooperative efforts of operating departments, most of the salary adjustments anticipated to be funded from the Contingency Account have been absorbed within departmental budgets. I am therefore recommending that $100,000 from Contingency be transferred in the current year to Capital Reserve to help ease this problem.

On the reverse side of the budget - the overall amount to be raised by taxation shows an increase of approximately 6%. Fortunately, we have had a healthy increase in the Grand List, as well as a substantial surplus from prior years available for appropriation. While the phase-in makes comparisons on a year-to-year basis difficult, tax rate increases in some departments - we would probably have required no increase for large users and an increase for large users, all of whom will represent a significant savings to most residential taxpayers over the five-year period.

The General Fund Budget as recommended will require a tax rate of 46.41 mills - subject to any adjustments by the Board of Tax Review.

The Fire District recommended budget anticipates a 3.6% increase in expenditures and a rate of 6.37 mills. Unfortunately the loss of the increased tax rate. Funds are also in this budget pending a possible legal action by the Eighth Utilities District to remove $65,000 in revenue sharing funds from this agency. The Water Budget for residential users and the Sewer Budget a slight decrease will require a 16% rate increase and an increase for large users, all of whom will now pay at the same rate. The Data Processing Center Budget is down 20%.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Well, the Irish mystery has been solved—in part. A letter arrived today from Elaine Benvenuto, who handles women's news for Carl Byoir & Associates, Inc. in New York City.

The St. Patrick's Day reference which an Irish lady challenged has been answered, I hope.

Here is Elaine's letter: "Thanks for sending along the challenges of your observant Irish resident. The questions raised are legitimate and possibly result from the subtleties of language."

When Sally Hopkins (researcher for Hallmark Cards) said that 'leghs' says St. Patrick invented 'leghs' the key word was meant to be LEGEND, or stories from the past that many people have believed but are not necessarily true.

Also, the shamrock is similar to some varieties of clover, but there is some dispute that the original shamrock WAS a clover. The important fact is that this clover, or clover-like leaf was used as an illustration of the Blessed Trinity.

"Hope this is of some help, Sincerely, Elaine Benvenuto."

Tower Trips

The 1979-80 edition of "Touring With Tower," the directory which lists thousands of hotels and motels that welcome guests with pets, can help dog owners save time and gas.

In addition to updated listings for more than 2,000 independently-owned hotels and motels, the all-new edition lists nine nationwide chains that welcome pets as a matter of policy at more than 4,000 locations.

With the directory, a dog owner can plan a motor trip weeks or months in advance and can write or call to make reservations or receive additional information about each stop along the way.

And, did you know, the popular Jerusalem Artichoke is neither from Jerusalem nor even an artichoke. It belongs to the sunflower family and was first brought to market from the gardens of Cape Cod Indians in Colonial days. Sliced and eaten raw it has the bland flavor and crunchy texture of a water chestnut.

Did you know in the 10th century, when doctors first paid attention to a new brew called "coffee," they considered it a drug for producing "highs." Mohammedan priests considered it intoxicating and addictive and coffee was prohibited in many Eastern countries. However, when it reached Constantinople in the 1500s, it immediately became so popular that a husband's refusal to supply a wife with a daily ration of coffee would be considered grounds (if you'll pardon the pun) for divorce.

Police Report
MANCHESTER — Police have made follow-up arrests in connection with raid of an illegal gambling club in the basement of the Parkside Apartments, 468 W. Middle Turnpike.

Arrested on warrants Monday were Joseph A. Gonthier, 34, of Bloomfield and John A. Drew, 35, of 292 School St. Both were charged with illegal possession of a gambling device and dispensing liquor without a permit.

Drew was arrested during the March 4 search on a charge of possession of marijuana. A slot machine was also confiscated at that time.

The original investigation was the result of a complaint of an assault on a woman inside the club, police said. Both men were released on non-surety bonds Monday for court appearances April 27.

Evelyn W. Lavigne, 57, of 71 Main St., East Hartford, was charged Monday on a warrant with two counts of injury to a minor. Police said the arrest involved Ms. Lavigne transporting two runaway girls out of town. One of the runaways was reported missing to East Hartford police last October, police said.

The other was a girl from New Hope Manor in Manchester. Other towns, including East Hartford, have similar warrants for Ms. Lavigne's arrest. She was presented in court Monday.

Several persons were arrested on charges of issuing bad checks Monday in separate incidents, police said. Charles L. Cheneil, 28, of Naugatuck, two counts; William Leonard, 22, of 4 Lincoln St., East Hartford, four counts and Florence Palmer, 43, of Andover, two counts. Cheneil and Leonard were presented in court Monday. Palmer was released on a non-surety bond for court April 9.

Downtown Panel Favors CD Role

By ALICE EVANS
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER — The Downtown Coordinating Committee, by a vote of 6 to 2, endorsed the town's continued involvement with the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Community Development Block Grant program.

The "no" votes were cast by Robert Gorman and former Manchester Mayor James Farr because they felt that the committee should not get involved in such a "political issue."

Town Director Thomas Connor and William Sleith, a committee member, both argued that the issue is more economic than political.

Farr countered with "No matter what you say, it is a strong political issue. This is a coordinating committee and it is wrong for us to go on record by taking a stand on such a political issue. The committee will lose its effectiveness if it does."

Connor, who had presented his views on the issue, also told the committee that he didn't believe that any part of the town's tax money should be earmarked for any special area in town.

Michael Missari, a downtown merchant, said he thought the downtown merchants were paying more than their fair share of taxes.

Remarkable on the lack of cohesion in the downtown area, Connor said he would like to see an indication that the town was getting its fair share, and suggested that the committee gather facts and present them to the Board of Directors.

There will be 23 people talking about the budget at the town's public hearing, and I can name them all. I would like to see the committee there, at least 50 of you.

Connor called the board's public hearings, the "biggest free entertainment in town."

Charges Dropped
VERNON — Charges of third-degree burglary and second-degree criminal mischief filed against Jeffrey F. Trotter, 17, of 27 Legion Drive, Vernon, last December, were dismissed in G.A. 19 Court, Rockville.

Trotter had been charged in connection with a Sept. 22 incident at Legion Field during which damage was done to the contents of the clubhouse.

18 of 25 on NHL Lists

Eighteen members of the New England Whalers' 25-man roster would revert back to National Hockey League clubs if not protected for the proposed expansion draft.

The non-protected players are goalie Al Smith, wingers Gordie Howe, Dave Keon, Blaine Stoughton, Mike Antonovich, Tim Sheehy, Tom Webster and Andrea Pelofsky.

That's not the nucleus for an entry in the NHL, to say the least although Keon would be able to hold his own in the other league.

Of the other 18 players, the Whalers could protect two most likely: Mark Howe and Gordie Roberts, plus two goalies, John Garrett and Smith are the top net-minders and the latter is not owned by any NHL club.

Up for grabs could be Rick Ley and Alan Hangleben, two players the Whalers would have a hard time replacing on defense.

Gordie Howe will be back with the Whalers, if he desires to play again next year at the age of 51. At best, he'd have to be a spot performer.

Nickname 'Magic' Perfectly Applied

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — It's one of those nicknames that ballplayers hang on each other, or themselves, and hope the pro scouts remember it — but in Earvin Johnson's case it really is "Magic."

The 6-foot-8 guard from Lansing, Mich. didn't pull rabbits out of hats or walk through walls, but he captivated the crowd and mystified the defense to lead Michigan State to its first-ever NCAA title Monday night.

Named the tournament's outstanding player, Johnson scored 53 points in the final two games, including a team-high 24 in the Spartans' 75-64 win over Indiana State in the final.

Only a sophomore, Johnson has been rumored to be on his way to the NBA as a hardship case.

But Monday he said, "I've got to enjoy this first." Johnson said he'd make his decision on a pro career "in a couple of weeks."

Like Indiana's All-American and "Player of the Year" Larry Bird, Johnson's value to his team involves more than putting the ball through the hoop, he scores, but he has that uncanny knack of hitting the open man and an always-talking broad floor leadership.

Playing either guard or forward, Johnson directs the Spartans, cajoling, encouraging, hand-slapping his teammates and hard-pressing his opponents.

'Magic' Too Much for Bird In NCAA Tournament Final

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Michigan State coach Jud Heathcote says sophomore Earvin "Magic" Johnson has many talents, but a lot of people don't notice that more often than not he connects when the outcome is on the line.

It was the 6-foot-8 Johnson who connected time after time with scoring and passing in the second half of Michigan State's 75-64 win over previously unbeaten Indiana State Monday night in the NCAA tournament final.

The Spartans' victory, in their first title-game appearance, ended the Sycamores' dream of becoming only the eighth team to win the national collegiate crown without a loss.

"Our players rallied around each other and saved the best for last," said Heathcote. And it was Johnson who led the way scoring a game-high 24 points in his show-down with ISU's Larry Bird. MSU was coasting on a 48-32 lead when Greg Kelsler picked up his fourth foul and was benched with 15:33 to go. During the next 10 minutes the Sycamores — 33-0 coming into the final — ignited a scoring barrage that carried them into 57-50 of the Spartans.

But Johnson grabbed a rebound, cleared the ball to Kelsler, and took a return pass for a dunk over Bob Heaton. Johnson was fouled after making the shot, and then sank two free throws for a four-point play to keep MSU ahead.

In the closing five minutes Johnson added four more points and fired passes to Kelsler for two easy stuffs that kept ISU at a comfortable distance.

Kelsler finished with 19 points, a team-high eight rebounds, and a season-high nine assists. Kelsler and Johnson led the all-tournament team with 17 points, fouling out with 2:43 to go, while Heaton added 10.

Bird led all rebounders with 13, but he had only two assists. "We were together," he would have said, "but we didn't want to cut us apart with his passing," Heathcote added.

Indiana State coach Bill Hodges pulled Bird in the final minutes, and the 6-foot-9 senior sobbed on the bench as MSU scored 12 of its final 16 points at the foul line in running out the clock on the Sycamores.

Bird then stayed in the locked dressing room until the University of Utah Special Events Center emptied. Hodges said, "I asked him to come to the press conference. But he said he didn't want to come."

Hodges said his team had had "a tremendous year. Anyone disappointed with the success we have had this year has to be a lesser man than I am. We and the shots we have been getting all year but just didn't hit."

ISU shot only 38 percent in the final 16 points at the foul line, while MSU hit a blistering 60.5 percent from the field, and the Spartans stayed with the Sycamores on the boards, edged by just one — 37.8.

Heathcote said his team had a long road just getting to the NCAA playoffs, but won 10 straight games in the Big 10 to finish first for first.

Ailing Whalers

HARTFORD (UPI) — New England Whalers left winger Mike Antonovich and defenseman Rick Ley have pulled leg muscles and won't travel to Alabama with the team for Tuesday's World Hockey Association matchup at Birmingham.

BOSTON (UPI) — There will be the good wishes, the congratulations on a season well done. That will come first.

Then there will be the suggestion that the two sides get together in the near future. And so begins the start of the Boston Celtics effort to revive the sagging franchise and ink All-American Larry Bird to a contract.

"I'll probably call him tonight or tomorrow and we'll take it from there. When he gets representation, we're ready to go from there. And, as I've said many times before, we're going to make every effort to sign Larry Bird," Auerbach said Monday.

From now until the end of June, Larry Bird's professional rights are held by the Celtics. Auerbach assured the Celtics monopoly on the pride of French Lick, Ind., when he selected him last year in one of his many drafting coups.

The Celtics will have to shell out millions for Bird and player-coach Dave Cowens wondered from where the money would come.

"I'm sure the front office will deal with what when the time comes. I don't know where the money will come from. (Bob) McAdoo makes a lot and Bird wants a lot. And I make a pretty fair year's pay. I don't know if there's enough to pay everyone. Who knows, I may be the one who's gone," Cowens said.

Bird recently said he would probably sign with Boston, but might prefer to play in New York.

"He's trying to grease his palm a little bit more," Cowens said. "Why not make the statements, it's only going to drive up his price."

Auerbach said earlier he hoped Bird could join the Celtics at the end of this season. But with Boston dire in the cellar of the Atlantic Division, and only a handful of games left, the idea has been shelved.

Several of Bird's would-be teammates fantasized about the 6-foot-9 forward, all agreeing he would be of immense help. Cowens was impressed with Bird's performance under pressure.

Citizens Group Suggests Ending MHS Privileges

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A special citizens committee has presented recommendations to improve the overall climate at Manchester High School as well as focusing on the racial issues.

The committee, appointed by Principal Jacob Ludes last fall after several racial incidents erupted, made its final report to the Board of Education Monday night.

Included in the major recommendations were proposals to phase-in and eliminate the "open campus" privilege, adopt a "house plan" organization for the school, provide more in-service training for teachers and guidance personnel in dealing with minority students and change some of the discipline methods.

The consensus among the five-member committee, headed by Odie Coleman and Mary Sears, was that the open campus contributes to many of the problems at the school. The committee recommended that the open campus privilege be eliminated entirely for incoming sophomores and then every year thereafter until it applies to all grades, except for those granted senior privilege.

Mrs. Sears said, after visiting the school on several occasions, she felt that the behavior of the kids was not to be disciplined. They want structure and they want to be guided.

All members of the committee agreed that there is a "racial problem" at the school. Coleman said he perceived it as similar to the underlying racial climate of the town and society at large.

Committee member Nancy Carr said, "There is obviously a racial problem, not only in the high school, but in the town and the nation. The children reflect that. It adds to their problems of struggling to identify."

Among the 18 major problems identified by the committee, one stated, "An increasingly hostile atmosphere is evident between black and white students in the high school reflecting home prejudices and building racial/social pressures and confrontations." The atmosphere is maintained and fed by the problem of segregated groupings, the report stated. The segregated groups of students is especially evident in the school cafeteria where the students socialize, the committee noted.

The potential for serious, if not critical, problems here cannot be overstated," the committee stressed.

To alleviate some of the racial problems, the committee recommended securing a federal grant which would focus on education aimed at combating prejudice and bigotry among students, and teachers. The committee recommended a similar program be instituted in the curriculum starting in kindergarten.

Coleman said he would like to see the high school administration make positive responses toward preventing racial problems before they become more serious.

Some of the problems contributing to the polarization between black and white students noted by the committee pointed to faculty attitudes and disciplinary methods in dealing with the students. One problem stated that "Some faculty members need to face the issue of their own discomfort in dealing with blacks."

Another problem said that "Some faculty members are inconsistent in their dealings with black and white students." The committee attributed part of those problems to ignorance of minority group cultures.

Another recommendation was that a black counselor for the high school be hired because the committee found that a majority of the black students do not have an advocate. There is only one black teacher at the school.

The committee also recommended a complete review and increase in staff of the Guidance Department.

The committee expressed concern for the "average student" at the school who feels a lack of identity. They said the large size of the school contributes to that problem and prompted the recommendation for a feasibility study on the "house plan" idea of breaking the school into smaller groupings.

Ludes said that several of the rap installed all the way from Oak Grove Street to Porter Brook, that rip rap be placed along the bank of the Porter Brook and that there should be planting along the bank of the Porter Brook.

Road Expert Testifies Against Street Closing

By HERALD PEARSON

HARTFORD — A traffic engineer who prepared a study for South Windsor said there is no reason for a traffic standpoint — to close Burnham Street.

Ronald Morra presented his view Monday during the first day of a trial, held at the town of Manchester and South Windsor, who are battling over the proposed closing of Burnham Street.

William Shea, Manchester's assistant town attorney, and Aaron Slitt, an attorney who represents a group of Burnham Street residents, both objected to Morra's answering the question about whether or not the street should remain open.

"I don't think there's enough evidence to ask him that question," Shea added.

Judge Aspell overruled the objection and permitted Morra's response. He said she should have five it the weight it deserved when making her decision.

Manchester has said it will close Burnham Street May 1. South Windsor officials have said that much of the traffic that now uses Burnham Street would be rerouted down a new road that runs north and south through the industrial park.

Morra said the industrial park road will receive some of the traffic but cannot be considered a substitute for Burnham Street, an east-west route.

Morra said Burnham Street is better designed for traffic than the South Windsor roads. It is wider, safer and has fewer curves and hills, he said.

The South Windsor roads could handle the increase in traffic, but that increase would result in more accidents and traffic congestion, he said.

The judge did not permit the entire traffic study to be submitted as evidence. Shea and Slitt objected to the study being submitted because it contained irrelevant material, they said.

The judge agreed and asked that the study be submitted because it brought out all necessary information.

The judge also asked if a sign could be posted to prevent left turns onto Clark Street. This would force traffic onto the industrial park road.

Morra said, however, that such signs, particularly in a rural setting, often are not obeyed by motorists.

Treaty Signing Thrills Couple

By BETTY RYDER

"It was really thrilling," said the way Barbara Weinberg of Manchester described witnessing the signing of the peace treaty between Israel and Egypt Tuesday on the north lawn of the White House.

Barbara, along with her husband, Stanley, was one of 1,400 people who crowded the White House lawn to participate in the 45-minute ceremony.

"It was so festive. The band played 'Hail to the Chief' and we heard three national anthems. It was just marvelous."

The word "thrilling" has been over used, I know, but the whole ceremony just moved us. Before the signing, President Carter hugged Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin — it was such a good feeling to watch.

"I wish they had had a receiving line. I would have enjoyed shaking hands with Sadat and Begin, but with 1,400 people it would have been a time-consuming event."

"We were so touched by the kind things Sadat had to say about Jimmy and attributing the success of the treaty signing to our president. It was a very moving experience."

The energetic state director of the Friendship Force and her husband, Stanley, who heads the Small Business Administration for New England, were also vigorously in Connecticut during Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign.

Tuesday evening, they were guests of White House people for dinner and later boarded a plane arriving in Hartford just before midnight.

Ron Guidry Hit Hard

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last October, Ron Guidry was the winner and Don Sutton was the loser, but it hasn't been that way this spring.

Like their respective teams, the world champion New York Yankees and runner-up Los Angeles Dodgers, these two pitching aces have gotten off to very different starts.

Guidry, who won the third game of the World Series for the Yankees, saw his earned run average skyrocket to 8.70 Monday when he was blasted for 10 runs in 3 1/3 innings in the Yankees' 11-5 loss to the Chicago White Sox.

Meanwhile, Sutton, a two-time loser in the Series, pitched a nine-inning two-hitter, improving his ERA to 1.84 and his record to 3-0, in leading the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

The disparity of the two pitchers' ERA at this point is not unlike that of their teams: the Yankees' record led to 4-4 while the Dodgers are 11-3. As Guidry pointed out after his loss, the real season hasn't started yet.

Guidry, the 1974 Cy Young Award winner, walked six and threw three wild pitches. Junior Moore, a non-roster player, hit a grand slam home run to cap a five-run outburst against Guidry in the second inning.

Chicago's Rich Wortham held the Yankees to three hits in five innings to post his fourth win in as many starts.

Sutton retired the first 15 batters he faced before giving up a sixth-inning single to Bobby Randall. Three other hit came in the ninth when Roy Smalley singled with one out. Sutton struck out eight and walked just two.

The Dodgers scored both runs off Roger Erickson on a double by Steve Garvey and a sacrifice fly by Gary Thomsen.

In other exhibition matchups, Montreal topped Atlanta 5-2. Detroit edged Philadelphia 4-3. The New York Mets drubbed Toronto 7-3, the

Fisk Reinjures Elbow While Snapping Throw

COCOA, Fla. (UPI) — The minute he threw the ball, Carlton Fisk knew something was wrong.

Fisk played his first exhibition game of the year Monday, and reinjured an elbow that has been giving him trouble all spring. And when the game was over, the Boston Red Sox all-star catcher was wondering aloud about the extent of his elbow problems.

The injury occurred when Fisk was trying to throw out a Houston runner trying to steal second during Boston's 3-0 Grapefruit League loss to the Astros. The runner, Jeff Leonard, beat the throw. But from Manager Don Zimmer's point of view, the throw wasn't bad.

"I thought he threw good," said Zimmer. "Then he came into the dugout after the inning and said it hurt him. I told him if he tried to steal any more, to let them go."

After playing his prescribed four innings, a discouraged Fisk talked about his arm afterward.

"I thought I broke my arm on that throw," he said. "I thought I was ready. I have taken my time and built it up. When I was throwing in the out-of-field before the game, I felt great. But when someone is trying to steal a base, it's a whole other kind of throw. You've got to snap it."

After snapping the throw, Fisk told Zimmer, "I think I let my elbow go on the mound. If anybody else goes, I'll have to stick it in my pocket."

He said he can catch, and throw the ball to the pitcher, "but that's about it. And that doesn't matter, because they can't steal the mound, can they?"

After first hurt the elbow last August after changing his motion to compensate for broken ribs. He was in pain when the season ended, but different doctors told him, rest was the answer.

After resting all winter, Fisk reported to Winter Haven, Fla., where the elbow got worse, instead of better. So he stopped throwing and swinging a bat.

"It didn't feel any better for about two-and-a-half weeks," he said. "Then about eight days ago, it started to come around. I started throwing harder and harder and I finally went to Jim and told him, he'd play today (Monday)."

Fisk hopes the pain is merely the elbow's way of getting readjusted to game conditions.

"Maybe it was just that the first real throw was a shock to the elbow," he said. "No matter how hard I prepared, the action is much different in a game. Maybe I just had to get that one throw out of the way, but I doubt it."

"I guess I'll have to wait and see how it feels tomorrow," he said. "Right now, it feels like it did two-and-a-half weeks ago, like it's hyperextended."

The injury leaves Boston in a quandary in what has been their strongest position since Fisk joined the team in 1972. Backup catcher Bob Montgomery has a stiff neck, and spent part of Monday in traction.

The other two catchers are Gary Allen, last year's International League Player of the Year, and Mike O'Berry. Allen can hit, but has had trouble throwing runners out.

O'Berry is just the opposite.

Cops Probe Weekend Burglaries

MANCHESTER — Burglaries over the weekend included one at a home on Barry Road where several rooms were ransacked and food was poured all over the kitchen floor and walls. Police said some liquor was taken, but they had not determined if anything else was missing.

Two tuners were reported missing from Tech Stereo at 1139 Tolland Turnpike. The manager of the store reported seeing a green van leaving the area in a hurry Thursday night. The value of the tuners was $1,170.

Two shotguns and shells were reported stolen from an Oakland Street home during the day Friday.

About $50 in bills and coins were taken from a cash register and an unknown amount of coins from a jukebox at a business at 937 Center St.

A business at 917 Center St. reported an attempted break-in, but police said the burglar did not gain entry and nothing was missing or damaged except the broken window in the door.

A radio and some coins were reported missing from an Oliver Road home Friday.

Two antique jars were taken from a nearby vacant home on Cumberland Street sometime last week.

A burglary to a storage shed at the J.C. Penney construction site off Tolland Turnpike was reported Saturday, but it was not yet known if anything was missing.

Bids on Bridge Repair Due in About 3 Weeks

MANCHESTER — The town expects to open bids in about three weeks for repairs to its tumbled bridge over Park Street.

The bridge has been closed since early this month because its metal grid has corroded and needs to be repaired.

Jay Giles, director of public works, has said the repairs could take several months or even a couple of years, and the bridge will be closed until the repairs are completed.

The town hopes to advertise this week for bids for the bridge repairs. The bids usually are opened about three weeks after such advertising, Giles said.

The bridge problem was noticed earlier this month when town work crews found that corrosion had developed in the bridge grid. The bridge had been paved, and water and chemicals had leaked through cracks in the pavement and corroded the grid underneath.

This caused holes in the grid. There was no danger of the bridge collapsing or of a vehicle falling through, but further corrosion could have caused more serious problems. Also, the jagged gridwork caused by the corrosion could have punctured tires of vehicles.

Giles said the bid will include two possible repair steps. One would be to repair just those areas of the deck that were corroded. The second would be to buy and install an entire new deck.

The purchase of an entire new deck would be expensive — Giles said it could cost as much as $150,000 — but the town included it in the bid for price comparison and also if it seems impossible to repair the existing grid.

"There might be some firms who might not even think it's worthwhile to repair the existing one," Giles said.

The bridge, when repaired, will have a new look, he said. This time, it will be left unpaved but metal studs to provide better traction, will be installed in the grid, Giles said.

He said the bridge studs improve traction and do not cause much wear on tires.

Associate Pastor Called

MANCHESTER — The Rev. Chester "Chet" Copeland has been called to serve as associate pastor of the 200-year-old Center Congregational Church.

At a special congregational meeting Sunday, the call was extended to the Rev. Mr. Copeland, who has served as the associate pastor of the First Congregational Church of Willimantic since 1974. After the presentation by the search committee chairman, Alan Cone, the moderator, Milla Whitney, called for the vote which "overwhelmingly and enthusiastically" agreed with the committee's recommendation.

The Rev. Mr. Copeland received a standing ovation when he was ushered into the meeting. Earlier in the day, he met with members of the congregation at a reception prepared by the Center Youth Fellowship.

Copeland, 41, was born in England in July 1937. He returned to the U.S. in August, he will fully assume his responsibilities in the areas of adult ministry, youth ministries, confirmation and fellowship.

A native of Minneapolis, Minn., the new associate pastor has lived in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, for several years. He was ordained in 1974 by the

Rev. Chester Copeland

Windham Association of the United Church of Christ.

Receiving his undergraduate degree in philosophy, summa cum laude, from Marquette College, St. Paul, Minn., he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He holds two degrees in theology, a master of divinity from Union Theological Seminary, New York City, and a master of sacred theology from Yale Divinity School. He currently is working toward a doctor of ministry degree at Boston University.

While in Willimantic, he has been active in the area church association together with campus and youth ministry of the Connecticut Conference of the United Church of Christ. He also has served as dean of the summer music conference at the Silver Lake Conference Center. An ardent cyclist, he will lead this summer's U.C.C. Bicycle Conference for Youth through the state.

He has been avid jagger since 1964, has an interest in the theater and has cycled 1,000 miles to the Thousand Islands and Canada.

Other members of the search committee, which was initiated last July, are Andrew Browne, John Donaghy, Patricia Pelletier, Jane Franklin, Jeffrey Hall, Patrick Kennard, Sally Marie and Jeannette Smith, with the Rev. Mr. Curtis as an ex-officio member.

The Rev. Mr. Copeland will have an active role in the church's 200th anniversary week-long festival in September. As part of its celebration, the church will also host the 112th annual meeting of the Connecticut Conference of the United Church of Christ in October.

Angels Pulling Hard To 'Win For Cowboy'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — From Manager Jim Fregosi on down to the clubhouse boys, everyone in the California Angels' organization is pushing this year to "win it for the Cowboy." The Angels could make it if they get all the breaks.

The "Cowboy" is Angels owner Gene Autry and Fregosi, who replaced Dave Garcia last year as Angels manager, describes breaks as "no injuries."

"When key players get hurt, it changes everything," says Fregosi. "If we can stay healthy, then we have as good a chance as those other clubs."

Those other clubs are Kansas City, which has won the American League West title three straight years, and the Royals, Rangers or Angels.

The Angels tied Texas for second place last year, each finishing five games behind Kansas City. Such key California players as Bobby Grich (.251), Joe Rudi (.256) and Nolan Ryan (10-13) had off years, though. Fregosi expects them to bounce back and with the addition of seven-time AL batting champion Rod Carew and pitcher Jim Barr, this finally might be the year the Angels go over the top and give Autry his first championship team.

"That's our goal this year," says Fregosi, "to win it for Mr. Autry. I can't think of anyone who deserves a championship as much as he does."

Carew, obviously, is being counted on to carry the team. He'll play first, with Grich at second and Carney Lansford, last year's rookie find, at third. The only question is at shortstop. Dave Ball has been counted on for play short but he will start the season on the disabled list. That leaves the job to Rance Mulliniks or Orlando Ramirez.

The outfield is set with Rudi in left, Rick Miller in center and Dan Ford, who came over from Minnesota with Carew, in right. Don Baylor, who hit 34 homers and drove in 89 runs last year, is as good a designated hitter as there is in the AL.

So, it all comes down to pitching, where Ryan will have to do a lot better than he did last year. Frank Tanana, Chris Knapp, Don Aase and Dave Frost are the other starters in a five-man rotation with Barr, Dave LaRoche and Dyer Miller are set in the bullpen.

Strengths — Hitting with Carew, Waylor, Rudi and Ford, and pitching, long a club weakness.

Weaknesses — Lack of depth and hitting from the catching corps of Brian Downing, Ike Hampton and Terry Humphrey, who combined for nine homers between them last year.

Brindamour Quits As Vice Chairman

MANCHESTER — Dorothy Brindamour, vice chairman of the Democratic Town Committee, surprised that committee by announcing her resignation Monday night.

The announcement was made in a letter to Ted Cummings, Democratic Town Chairman, who read the letter at Monday night's meeting of the committee.

Mrs. Brindamour is recuperating at home following a recent operation.

The resignation, both as vice chairman and as a member of the Democratic Town Committee, was unexpected and obviously surprised some of those in attendance.

In fact, some of the committee members were not ready to accept the resignation from the popular vice chairman.

Herbert Stevenson, Democratic registrar of voters, moved that a committee be appointed to talk to Mrs. Brindamour and see if she would at least remain as a committee member.

Cummings praised Mrs. Brindamour for her work for the party and as vice chairman.

"She's just been an outstanding person," he said.
