Chemical Plant Fire Kept Under Control

By SUSAN VAUGHN

Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A hazardous fire in the E.F. Houghton and Co. chemical mixing plant and distribution center on Stock Place early this morning burned out about one hour after firefighters arrived.

State fire marshals investigators were on the scene this morning and indicated that the fire may be of suspicious origin. There were indications that someone may have entered the building through a paneless window in the south side garage type door.

Several precautions were taken in fighting the fire against the large storehouse of chemicals and lubricating oils stored in the one-story plant. Only two Eighth District firefighters were sent to the hospital to have their eyes flushed as a precautionary measure against the toxic fumes.

Other firefighters felt sick from breathing some of the fumes and had to use air pacs to enter the very hot fire which was discovered by police on patrol at 2:44 a.m., according to Deputy Fire Chief John Christensen.

The Eighth District volunteers responded to the call immediately with three pieces of equipment and the airtel truck, and within five minutes the fire was fully involved with flames shooting 15 to 25 feet above the building, according to Deputy Fire Chief John Christensen.

Other companies which responded to the district's call for help were the Town Fire Department, Vernon, South Windsor and Bolton. The different departments were stationed around the entire plant and aided in bringing water from other hydrants across the railroad tracks behind the plant and from the Hockanum River, once the hydrants from North Main Street were emptied.

Irish praised Fire Chief Ted Lingard for directing the tactical operations which he said kept the fire from destroying the entire complex. Irish called it one of the most serious fires in the district since the Orford Soap Co., known as Bon Ami which destroyed that company Jan. 8, 1973.

Don Burton, chief field inspector from the Hazardous Materials Emergency Response Unit of the Department of Environmental Protection, also praised the work of the fire departments in containing the fire to the one area.

Burton called the situation in regard to the hazardous chemicals "relatively stable" this morning. His unit was at the scene of the fire at 4 a.m. and directed the town trucks to dam up water which had accumulated from the fire to keep it from running downhill into the river.

Burton said he does not expect any serious effects from the chemicals that ran into the river because they were in a very diluted solution. The chemicals were mostly nitrates and phosphates.

The soluble chemicals which mixed with the water from the firefighting were being pumped out and equipment from Manchester, Bolton, Vernon and South Windsor responded to the alarm. (Herald photo by Vaughn)

Rights Unit Asks Delay Of CD Fund

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities, questioning the town's performance in meeting employment and housing goals, has recommended at least temporary withholding of the town's fifth-year (1979-80) Community Development grant.

The commission has recommended the town take certain steps before it receives the funding, including placing a higher priority on the construction of new rental units.

The town, however, has said the commission's recommendation is based on incomplete information and is in conflict with the stance of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, which operates the Community Development program.

HUD wrote to Manchester earlier this year and said the town would not be expected to take any additional steps to receive Community Development funding in the next year.

The town this morning completed a letter in response to the state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities. The strongly worded letter pointed out the previous information the town has received from HUD and the town's belief that the state commission based its recommendation on inadequate information.

Town Manager Robert Weiss wrote to Arthur Green, executive director of the commission, and said he was "dismayed" by the commission's recommendation.

Comments by Ron Black (HUD's assistant area director) as recently as April 9 indicate that HUD is not in agreement with your unsubstantiated judgments on the Manchester Housing Assistance Plan," Weiss wrote.

HUD makes the final decision on what steps a town has to take if it wants to receive Community Development funding for the next year. Its letter to the town earlier this year had been a preliminary assurance that no further requirements would have to be met by the town before it receives its fifth-year grant.

Town officials have said HUD has given no indication that it has changed its stance.

HUD now is doing its annual review of the town's Community Development application. Part of that work includes A-95 reviews by other agencies and commissions, including the state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities.

That commission's review has been completed on the Manchester Housing Assistance Plan," Weiss wrote.

Nairobi Eatery Booming

CHARLES P. WALLACE, NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Wilbert F. Mello thought the place reminded him of Denver. He predicted it would become a "permanent center devoted to a great American institution."

The subject of this controversy is Buffalo Bill's Saloon and Eatery, located in Nairobi, Kenya. Formerly a drab hotel restaurant 10 minutes from the center of Nairobi, Buffalo Bill's is arguably the first establishment in Black Africa devoted to the glorification of the hamburger and American restaurant kitsch.

There is a "horseshoe bar" with saddles for bar stools, some snicker that they are English saddles, walls covered with Wild West memorabilia and a steady diet of country and western music.

Patrons munch cheeseburgers and baked beans while sitting in ersatz chuck wagon or cowboy jail.

Walters wear cowboy outfits. A waitress in denim miniskirt, freckle-gallon hat and high leather boots twirls a black plastic pistol as she proclaims: "One oala mbili baridi asante sana (one very cold cola)." "Business is fantastic," says Michael Handelman, the bearded Londoner who dreamed up the restaurant and its décor.

"I think Americans miss hamburgers," he says. "After all, coming to Africa is enough of an adventure for most of them. They feel a little lost without clean sheets and American food."

Curfew Covers Disaster Area

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (UPI) — A dusk-to-dawn curfew shrouded the disaster-stricken area of Wichita Falls today while survivors of the worst tornado disaster in five years tried to bring some degree of normalcy back into their lives.

It will not be easy. Some said it will take 10 years for the city of 100,000 to recover from the killer tornado that reduced homes to kindling, concrete to rubble, and steel to twisted masses along its six-mile-long, six-block-wide path at sunset Tuesday.

Most residents early today had power and water, lessening the danger that fire might sweep through the homes reduced to matchsticks. But many still were uncertain if any of their friends and relatives lay dead in debris-strawed areas yet unsearched.

A second day of the grisly search for more victims began at dawn and Mayor Kenneth Hill said he feared the death count would continue to rise as workers continued the slow process of sifting the rubble.

The twisters had dropped at sundown all along the Texas-Oklahoma border and left 56 dead in 600 communities and more than 600 injured. The Department of Public Safety confirmed at least 42 people had died in Wichita Falls alone, with hundreds more injured.

And while Wichita Falls and other towns all along the Texas-Oklahoma border, the same weather front spread into Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas, also spinning tornadoes and causing some damage and injuries, but no fatalities.

City officials in Wichita Falls Wednesday imposed all-night curfews and price freezes to curb looting and profiteering.

Uganda Regime Claims Victory

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — Uganda's new provisional administration declared today "we have won the war" against Idi Amin and appealed to thousands of men, women and children who had stripped most of the city bare in an orgy of looting to return the stolen goods.

The arrival of the provisional government's new president, Youssef Lule, 47, from neighboring Tanzania was delayed, probably on Friday, and tens of thousands of people who thronged downtown Kampala were ordered to disperse.

"We have won the war," Information Director Robert Sebunya said on Uganda Radio. "An era of peace and reconciliation will follow." The crowd that had gathered for Lule's arrival — including many people fresh from looting nearby homes — clapped, chanted and sang, "Lule! Lule!"

Sebunya urged the crowd to stop looting "in the spirit of oneness. We'd like to see another demonstration tomorrow, but this time with people marching back to government offices and homes with the things they have stolen."

Many people heard Sebunya's appeal while still carrying things they had looted only a few minutes before. Looters sat on stolen chairs and tables.

Panel Criticizes McCoy On Police Fund Question

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter
VERNON - Mayor Frank McCoy came under fire at the meeting of the Permanent Municipal Building Committee Wednesday night for his response concerning spending of the balance of the money in the police station building account. In a letter to the mayor, Eugene Pinto, chairman of the committee, said that the town attorney's office had been asked to advise the committee concerning disposition of the balance of the funds in the Economic Development Administration (EDA) grant. Pinto said that inasmuch as he hadn't heard from the town attorney's office the committee asked Police Chief Herman Fritz to prepare a priority list of items needed in the amount of the balance left in the account. The town is involved in a suit with the contractor hired for Phase I of the building project. The mayor, in his response to Pinto's letter, said he was working through Senator Lowell Weicker's office to try to derive the actual situation with EDA. He said a representative from Weicker's office was working with the EDA "and they are reviewing the type of agreement which might be drawn up to hold these funds in escrow." Referring to the suit, the mayor said, "Obviously, the Town of Vernon does not want to remain with open liability and no financial reserve to an ultimate judgment. Undoubtedly, the plaintiff in the court action will derive a judgment and the town should be protected as to the extent of the balance of funds in the project," the mayor said. He said the committee shouldn't take any action towards committing or spending any of the balance in the account but rather should wait for word from EDA. "In the future, your committee should rely solely on the advice of my office or the town attorney's office and not on unconfirmed vague discussions conducted by other persons," the mayor said. Pinto said, at last night's meeting, "I find this letter very insensitive to this committee's needs and very unacceptable. It sounds like we haven't been trying to get any answers." He said he wondered if the mayor was going to wait too long so the committee will lose the money. Pinto said he thought the mayor was trying to circumvent the system to get the money escrowed into a special fund. In making mention of "unconfirmed vague discussions conducted by other persons," the mayor was referring to Pinto's statement that Cal Norton, clerk of the works, had been in conversation with EDA officials in Washington and that they had indicated they would not authorize this money to be escrowed in anticipation of using it for the payment of litigation. Following the discussion the committee voted to give Chief Fritz an additional $1,100 for a 20-channel recorder for the station. The chief had ordered a 10-channel recorder but the larger one was sent by mistake. The firm sending it offered a good deal rather than having the bother of exchanging it. The chief also gave the committee a list of items to use up the balance of the money. The list included $500 for the transfer of radio equipment; $2,025 for more TV camera monitors and to change the lens on the camera in the station's sallyport and $360 for mats to put under rolling chairs to preserve the floors. He said they are in the process of obtaining bids for shades and drapes for the station. Pinto said he would like to see some money used to put sign up on the station. Drost suggested that the town be asked to make a donation for this purpose and it was agreed to send a letter to the Town Council to this effect.

House Will Get Tough With Unruly Students

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Connecticut House has voted to get tough with unruly school children and writers of bad checks. But the lower chamber has also decided the handicapped deserve an easier lot in life. On a 108-29 vote, the House Wednesday approved and sent to the Senate a measure allowing businesses to call an individual's bank to see if that person has enough money in his account to cover a check he wants cashed. "It is a two-edged sword," explained Rep. John Spotholmer, D-Derby. He said the bill would simultaneously help consumers who have trouble getting checks cashed at their neighborhood stores and businesses who get stuck with checks that eventually bounce. "I've received some checks in my day where there were no funds in the account and there were no funds in that account the month before or the month before that," the lawyer said. But Rep. Pauline Kezer, R-Plainville, said the measure would allow businesses to invade the privacy of consumers and snoop into their financial affairs. "This opens the door for a lot of possible abuse," she said. Under the bill, a store cannot ask a bank how much money is in a person's checking account. The business can only ask if the account has enough money to cover the check the consumer wants to cash. On a related matter, the House rejected 71-69 a bill that would have prevented banks from charging customers for post-dating checks. The House also approved a pair of bills dealing with the expulsion and suspension of students. Under existing law, a school can only expel an unruly pupil until the end of the school year. Theoretically, this means a student could assault his teacher on the last day of the school year and only be expelled for one day. The House approved 120-12 and sent to the Senate a bill allowing school boards to expel students for up to 180 school days. Another measure approved and sent to the upper chamber would allow a principal or a school board to look at a student's past disciplinary behavior when determining how long to suspend or expel him. On another front, the House unanimously approved and sent to Gov. Ella Grasso a bill allowing physically disabled motorists to pass through toll gates without stopping to pay tolls. The House also approved and sent to the Senate two other bills dealing with the handicapped. One would require supermarkets which keep metal posts designed to keep shopping carts from being stolen to provide a 36-inch opening between the posts so that wheelchairs can get through. The other bill would require curbs cut in sidewalks to help the handicapped get about.

State Backs D.C. Rights

HARTFORD (UPI) - Connecticut has become the sixth state to approve a proposed constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia full voting representation in Congress. The Connecticut Senate, after more than 90 minutes of debate, voted 21-14, Wednesday to approve the proposal giving the District of Columbia two senators and a second representative in the House. Democrats control the state Senate, 26-10. The Democratic-controlled House earlier approved the resolution, 86-54. Ten other states have rejected the proposed amendment. Three-fourths of the states must ratify the resolution before an amendment to the U.S. Constitution can be made. The District of Columbia now has one non-voting representative in the U.S. House. Sen. Stephen Casey, D-Bristol, said the nation could no longer ignore the disenfranchisement of District residents "that has relegated them to second class citizenship and refused them full civil rights."

Senate Approves Bill On Utility Panel Ethics

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Connecticut Senate has approved a bill preventing members of the Division of Public Utility Control from taking jobs with the utilities they regulated until one year after they quit working for the state. The bill, which would apply to DPUC commissioners and the state's consumer council, was unanimously approved Wednesday and sent to the House. At least three states now restrict state commissioners from going directly to the businesses they regulated. Michigan has a six-month ban, Pennsylvania has one year and Texas requires two years. Sen. William Curry, D-Farmington, said the state could enforce the legislation by going to court to get an injunction to prevent a former state employee from going to work for an industry he regulated. On a 23-11 vote, the Senate approved a bill that would prevent firms from refusing employment to a job applicant, simply because the applicant has a blood relative who works for the company. Another approved measure would require utilities in the state to provide a secret ballot on any issue at meetings when such a ballot is requested by a member. Also approved and sent to the House was a proposal to allow minors to work at certain jobs until 11 p.m., instead of 10 p.m., on school nights. The bill applies mainly to require uniforms in fast food chains. Another measure that was approved would protect a municipality or its agencies from being sued if a child has an adverse reaction to a vaccine that is required by law. The Senate also approved a bill that would set up a study to look into establishing a closing circuit system that would allow citizens to speak and listen in on legislative committee hearings in various locations in the state.

Barry Opposes Efforts To Postpone Bottle Bill

MANCHESTER - State Sen. David Barry of Manchester said Wednesday he will oppose any efforts to delay implementation of the Bottle Bill. Barry, who is the deputy majority leader of the senate, has been a supporter of the Bottle Bill, which would promote returnable containers for beverages. The bill was approved last year by the State Legislature. A bill this year would postpone the implementation of the bill's effective date to July 1, 1981. The Legislature's General Law Committee has approved the proposal. Barry said he would oppose any attempt to delay the Bottle Bill. "The people of this state previously have expressed their support for the Bottle Bill. We in the General Assembly heard them and responded by passing a Bottle Bill last year. Let's not thwart the will of the public," he said. Persons seeking delay of the bill would said the state Department of Environmental Protection needs additional time to prepare regulations to enforce the bill. Stanley Pac, DEP commissioner, has said the regulations can be prepared in two weeks, Barry said. "Pac also said that the law is clear and simple and that the beverage industry does not need the additional time to prepare for the change," he said. "Public support in the states which already have a Bottle Bill is overwhelming. Connecticut citizens have waited seven years for a Bottle Bill. We should not make them wait any longer," Barry said.

Competition Unfair: Gray

HARTFORD (UPI) - Harry J. Gray, president and chairman of the giant United Technologies Corp., says the United States is preventing American businesses from fighting back against unfair foreign competition. "More and more we're facing competition of a different kind," Gray said in prepared remarks to be delivered in Syracuse, N.Y. Wednesday night at a reception at the Carrier Corp. "I'm talking about competition resulting from the deliberately orchestrated policies of some foreign governments. The goal is to increase the consolidation of their large industrial-based corporations to achieve economies of scale. Carrier is the latest addition to the Hartford, Conn., conglomerates' diversion of their large industrial-based corporations to achieve economies of scale. Gray said proposed American anti-trust legislation would further erode American business' ability to fight back.

Services Slated On Good Friday

Good Friday, which marks the day of the suffering and death of Jesus and is called Good because from its terrible events came the gift of salvation, will be observed tomorrow in many Manchester area churches.

Manchester churches planning special observances include Concordia Lutheran, 7:30 p.m., Good Friday liturgy; Emanuel Lutheran, open all day for meditation and at noon, a service with those attending invited to bring a bag lunch and join in fellowship and discussion after the service.

East Hartford Sets Community Service

EAST HARTFORD—As has been the custom for many years, St. John's Church at Main Street and Burnside Avenue will host the annual community Good Friday Service starting at 12:30 p.m.

The service will continue to 2 p.m. and will feature three meditations on different dimensions of the passion as related in scripture. A reading of the passion as told in the Gospel of John, in a dramatic narrative form with congregational participation, will also take place.

Sharing insights in the meditations will be: The Rev. Carl Holt, assistant pastor of the First Congregational Church; the Rev. Gordon Gail, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church; and the Rev. Henry Sherer, pastor of the Burnside Methodist Church.

Also participating in the leadership of the service will be the Rev. Paul Henry, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, and the Rev. Alva G. Decker, rector of St. John's.

St. John's will also observe the Good Friday Liturgy at 7 p.m. The choir will be present to participate in this service.

There will be two Easter services at St. John's. The first will be on Easter eve at 11 p.m. Entitled, "The Great Vigil," this service will begin in a darkened church, the darkness symbolizing death, the grave, and the closed tomb. In that darkness the Paschal candle, symbolizing the Risen Lord, is lit.

The vigil continues with selected readings from the Old Testament. Two children will be presented for baptism and then the first Easter Eucharist will be celebrated.

The second Easter service will be at 10 a.m. on Sunday—a Festive Eucharist. At the conclusion of this service there will be an Easter egg hunt on the church grounds. Choir and congregational music will also be a feature of both Easter services.

Flushing Mains Set Next Week

MANCHESTER—The town's Water Department will flush water mains next week in the Rockledge and Porter Street areas.

The flushing will start Monday and will continue through the week.

The Rockledge area including Garth Road south to Porter Street on Mountain, Ludlow and Ferguson roads will be done first.

Then, the flushing will be done south on Porter Street to Highwood Drive and Wyllys Street, and Highland Street east from Gardner to Porter streets, including Candlewood and Somerset streets.

There may be discoloration of water and reduced pressure during the flushing.

If water appears discolored, the homeowner should try to avoid using it until it clears. This will prevent rust and sediment from being brought into the home's system.

If sediment does get into a home's hot water tank, the homeowner should wait until the water clears and then open the faucet at the bottom of the tank to drain the collected material, which will settle at the bottom.

Also, if a load of wash is done during the period of discolored water, the load should be done again after the water clears. Four ounces of cream of tartar should be added to help clean any discoloration of the clothing.

It normally takes a couple of hours for the water to clear in a home. If water appears discolored for an extended period, the homeowner should call the Water Department at 647-3115.

Public Invited to Dance

Judith Mazzer of Manchester, a member of the Caucus of Connecticut Democrats, has issued a reminder that the public is invited to the group's 10th anniversary dance, which will be Sunday, April 29, at the Sheraton-Park Plaza Hotel in New Haven.

Former U.S. Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota will deliver the keynote address.

Persons wishing ticket information may contact Mary Sullivan at 637-9193, Lucille Ritvo at 367-8475 or any member of the dinner committee.

Local committee members include Ted and Dorothy Brindamour of Manchester, Robert Merritt of Glastonbury and State Rep. Mariel Vaccavone of East Hartford.

Health Cost Seminar Set

STORRS—A one-day seminar on cost containment in health care will be presented by a University of Connecticut business student organization at the Merlin D. Bishop Conference Center April 20.

"Legislation and Cost Containment in Health Care," as the day-long program is called, is sponsored by the Health Systems Management Club, an organization of students in the UConn School of Business Administration preparing for careers in health care administration.

Two speakers will be featured for the morning program: Richard D. Altman, vice president for shared services of Connecticut Health Institutional Services, and Dr. Frederick H. Hyde, vice president for planning of Yale-New Haven Hospital. Bertrand Forand, director of the Commission of Hospitals and Health Care, will talk in the afternoon. A panel discussion on cost containment legislation will follow.

For further information on registration and fees, call Cindy Waskiewicz, seminar secretary, at 486-3231, or write to UConn Conferences and Institutes, Box U-56E, Storrs, Ct. 06268.

Ethics Commission Will Meet Monday

MANCHESTER—The town's newly formed Ethics Commission will hold its first meeting Monday, April 23 at 4 p.m. in the Probate Court.

The commission was established to review any possible conflicts of interest involving town employees or members of town boards and commissions.

It originally had been scheduled to meet Tuesday, but a couple of its members had a conflict—they already had signed up to work at the polling places that day for the townwide vote on the water bond issue and the Community Development question.

Judge of Probate William Fitzgerald, one of the commission members, sent the notice of the change in the meeting.

He said the commission will organize, elect a chairman and establish rules of procedure at its first meeting.

Libraries To Close

MANCHESTER—The town libraries will be closed on Good Friday. There will be no service at either Mary Cheney Library or Whiton Memorial Library.

Also, there will be no Bookmobile service. However, both libraries will be open their normal schedule on Saturday. The Bookmobile does not operate on Saturdays.

Brochures Given Out By JOIN

MANCHESTER - JOIN, a pro-HUD group, has started its townwide distribution of a brochure, listing what calls the facts and fiction of the federal agency and the Community Development Block Grant as they relate to Manchester.

Brochures will also be distributed Friday and Saturday in the downtown shopping area and Monday and Tuesday at the Parade.

A sound truck will be on the streets Tuesday, reminding people to get out and vote.

Voters needing rides to the polls may call either 649-6110 or 649-3120 on Tuesday, Mrs. Harvey said.

Business

UTC Has High Net And Sales

HARTFORD - United Technologies Corp., with more than a $9 billion backlog in business, has reported record net income and sales for the first quarter of the year.

Harry J. Gray, UTC chairman and president, said net income for the first quarter, which ended March 31, rose by 33.8 percent to $70.8 million compared to $52.9 million for the same period last year.

Full diluted earnings per share were $1.34, an 1.8 percent gain over last year's first-quarter earnings of $1.14 a share. The 1979 figures include 7 cents a share resulting from UTC's investment in the Syracuse, N.Y.-based Carrier Corp.

UTC is scheduled to complete its merger takeover of the air conditioning plant later this year.

Gray said first-quarter sales climbed by 21 percent to 1.78 billion compared to $1.47 billion for the first quarter of 1978.

The backlog of business as of March 31 was a record $9.2 billion, a 34 percent increase over the $6.8 billion backlog on the books as of March 31, 1978.

Gerber Suit Now Resolved

SOUTH WINDSOR - A breach of contract lawsuit filed by Gerber Scientific's European subsidiaries against Camsco Inc. of Richardson, Texas, has been settled.

The payment will be reported in Gerber's financial statements for the first quarter of next year.

Firehouse Site Decision Left to Vernon Council

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON—The final decision of a site for a new firehouse will be left to the Town Council. But the Permanent Municipal Building Committee will send four recommendations and rank them according to committee choice.

The building committee Wednesday night said there are differing opinions about the location of the new station. Eugene Pinto, chairman, said the committee has spent a lot of time studying proposed sites but none meets with everybody's approval.

The committee was charged with finding a site south of Interstate 88 and came up with four possibilities. Committee members found that there were drawbacks to each, but chose as its top choice property at the intersection of Birch and Dobson roads. The asking price is $38,000. A referendum has already appropriated $40,000 for buying land.

The second choice would be land on Birch Road which the town already owns. But the state would have to grant the town a right-of-way over the railroad track.

The committee has written to the state concerning this and has been told that it would be at least 45 days before an answer will be received.

The third choice would be the John McKeown property on Washington Street. McKeown has offered to donate 13 acres and to sell the rest for $40,000.

The fourth choice is in the Lake Street and Tunnel Road area. Committee members feel this is the least desirable because its close to Lake Street School and too far away from the highway to furnish good protection there.

New entrance and exit ramps proposed for the highway will make it difficult for the other two Vernon fire stations to respond to highway calls.

Official Defends Policy Despite Lobbyist's Attack

HARTFORD (UPI)—The director of the state air compliance unit has defended the accuracy of Connecticut's air monitoring program against criticism from a spokesman for the state's highway lobby.

Leonard Bruckman of the state Department of Environmental Protection answered complaints that the air monitors measuring levels of certain pollutants were placed in locations with the highest concentration of pollution.

He was one of six panelists at a day-long Natural Resources Council of Connecticut conference on the U.S. Clean Air Act of 1977.

William J. Huebner, a spokesman for the Connecticut Construction Industries Association—Connecticut's highway lobby—said faulty monitoring has caused Connecticut to be unjustly dubbed as state with the nation's second dirtiest air.

"We want to see honest and realistic monitoring," Huebner said after complaining about monitoring sites in Old Saybrook and New Britain.

Engaged

The couple is planning an Oct. 3, 1980 wedding at the Church of the Assumption in Manchester (Nassiff photo).

The engagement of Miss Linda Marie Roy to Jeffrey A. Jones, both of Manchester, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Roy, of 726 W. Middle Turnpike, Manchester.

Mr. Jones is the son of Mrs. Beverly M. Jones of 49 Oxford St., Manchester.

Miss Roy graduated from Manchester High School in June 1978 and is currently attending Manchester Community College, where she is enrolled in the executive secretarial science program. She is employed as a secretary at Broomfield Liquor Distributors, Inc. in South Windsor.

Mr. Jones graduated from Manchester High School in 1976. He is employed at Aetna Life & Casualty in Hartford.

Information gained from air monitoring will be used to formulate guidelines for the State Implementation Plan, which was due last Jan. 1.

Rep. John W. Anderson, D-Newtown, House chairman of the Legislature's Environment Committee, said, "The environment comes up short in considerations against economic benefits."

"To sacrifice the global health for the sake of profit is not acceptable on any grounds," he said. "Proper waste management should be a part of the industrial process."

Dr. Arond Bonhays, professor of medicine and epidemiology at the Yale School of Medicine, questioned the link between air pollution and chronic lung disease, saying the age and sex of a person and whether they smoked seemed to have a much greater effect on the lungs' capacity.

Town Offices Close Friday

Nuke Claims At $880,000

FARMINGTON (UPI)—American Nuclear Insurers Wednesday said $880,000 has been paid so far in liability claims as a result of the nuclear accident at the Three Mile Island, Pa., power plant.

Carol Dower, a spokeswoman for the insurance consortium, said only $65,000 in new claims were submitted Tuesday.

"It's hard to judge what will happen now," she said. "But we think the claims will be coming in for a few days and then will level off as the evacuees return to the area."

All of the claims paid by the insurance group so far are to persons who were evacuated from the area near the Harrisburg, Pa., plant.

Opinion P&WA Praised

We believe Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's decision to build a new $7.5 million office building in East Hartford is a sign that the company is committed to stay here. We applaud this position.

When Pratt & Whitney decided to build a plant in Maine this winter, some here viewed it as an ominous sign, a sign that they were ready to pack up and leave town.

This, of course, is an extremist's view. Most believe Pratt & Whitney is happy in Connecticut and will stay here for the foreseeable future.

Their decision to make a multi-million investment at the East Hartford plant shows, indeed, that Pratt & Whitney wants to stay here.

The town and Pratt & Whitney have enjoyed a very cordial relationship over the year. The aircraft plant not only occupies a large portion of land in the town, but it is a large part of many lives here.

It also is essential to the growth and welfare of East Hartford. If Pratt & Whitney decided to leave here, many support businesses which depend upon P&WA's area employees to survive would have to fold up.

But, the new office building is a good sign—a sign that Pratt & Whitney is content here and wants to stay.

Other Editors Say

Congress has its code of ethics, both written and unwritten. Voter have their own standards of conduct. It is evident from the case of former U.S. Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., that the standards of the voters are far better than those of Congress.

In the final analysis it was the voters of Massachusetts, rather than the U.S. Senate, who decided that Brooke deserved to be punished for giving false testimony under oath and for violating Senate rules on financial disclosure. The Bay State electorate rejected Brooke's reelection attempt last November.

It is obvious that the Senate ethics committee would have done nothing. A recent committee report on the Brooke case said that while it was found Brooke did give false testimony during his divorce proceedings, and die violate senate financial disclosure rules on four separate occasions (although the committee said this could have been the fault of sloppy bookkeeping), "the committee does not believe the violations... are sufficiently serious to justify the severe disciplinary actions" specified by Senate rules.

What does a senator have to do to be punished, mug someone? Brooke did do wrong, but the Senate "club" preferred once again to protect one of its members. As is so often the case, the ultimate justice was delivered not in the confines of the Senate but in the privacy of voting booths in Massachusetts. Waterbury (Conn.) Republican

Thought

Thursday of that first Holy Week was the day of the Passover. It was a day which Jesus tediously planned for last moments of fellowship and prayer with His disciples.

Not many hours of life remained for Him. He was to be betrayed, arrested, given four mock trials, and crucified before tomorrow's sunset. So, it was His desire that He should eat the Passover supper with His close associates before He died.

(Mark 14:12-25)

According to the records, today, "Maundy Thursday," is the day when Jesus hosted the Last Supper in an upper room in Jerusalem. Maundy is a contraction of the Latin word mandatum, which literally means "commandment." (John 13:34,35) So, Maundy Thursday signifies the New Commandment to love one another. But Jesus not only preached love, He practiced what He preached.

Remember, that is a part of His undying love. He Himself, is the best illustration of what He taught.

After the meal, He and eleven faithful ones went singing to Gethsemane. Gethsemane is an Arabic word meaning "olive press." It was the industrial area of Jerusalem. There Jesus was sorely tempted to save His life, that is, to take the East road out of Gethsemane, go back to Galilee, and spend His old age fishing. (Mark 14:32-51) But remember, while Jesus hosted He could not save Himself.

So, even as He prayed, a motley rabble surrounded Him and His death sentence approached.

Letters to the Editor Need for CD Grants Stressed

To the editor
Tuesday, April 17th, is a very important day, for then you and I will vote to make a final decision as to whether to continue on with HUD funds or not.

I for one, am somewhat concerned about the issue, and I am also a little familiar with HUD. I was a member of the Manchester Senior Building Committee and therefore had to acquaint myself with HUD. We seniors for the most part, are still tax payers, and because of this we gave much thought to the location and building of a new Senior Center. Green School was unanimously selected by the Committee, not only because of its size and good parking facilities, but because it was already owned by the town. No tax dollars had to be spent to purchase land or a building. Federal monies through HUD would help renovate the building. Again, no local tax monies were involved.

Some people have the impression that the $200,000 HUD monies we received were all we needed for the work in renovating the school. However, we had to make an additional cut in that amount because the bid for the work was about $20,000 over the expected amount. This is for work inside only, and we will be needing close to an additional $100,000 to finish the inside and to do much needed work on the outside. We must repair or replace all the windows to help conserve our fuel supply, the roof is in need of repairs, and work to expand and repair the parking lot.

This work is in our plans through HUD over the next three years, because with federal monies, once again, it would keep us from using local tax money. The question is how can we refuse federal assistance when we can really accomplish much in the way of building and repairing our town for a few requirements, and no local tax monies would be needed. Also, how can we expect to continue to grow and moderate our own needs without federal monies. We certainly won't favor a higher local tax rate in order to pay for the much needed work.

Many of us still pay federal taxes and it is part of that money that is placed in the HUD fund. If we don't take advantage by using the HUD money, we can sit back and watch some neighboring towns spending federal monies and realize that some of our income tax money is helping them while we stand idly by. It is just common sense that any town or city must rely on assistance from the federal government to make necessary improvements or otherwise the local taxes must rise. I think the Anti-HUD people have accomplished one good thing. They made the officials of HUD take a good look at themselves and now have done some of their own housecleaning. Since this change from our more relaxing attitude, and in fact has admitted that Manchester could drop out of HUD whenever it felt we were being pressured.

Please read the Fact Sheet spelling out in detail just what the town has accomplished with the monies already received and then I'm sure you will agree that it certainly outweighs the little we had to do or give in return for the money.

Remember, facts tell the whole story. In that fact sheet you don't hear the old story of the fears of what might happen if we stay with HUD. Isn't it ironic that the fear of what might happen should outweigh the food that the town can receive. Remember when you go into the voting booth, if you vote "Yes" it will mean that you do not want any more help from HUD. If you vote "No" it means you are saying we should continue to stay with HUD.

Our Board of Directors have worked hard and long to make any necessary accomplishments these past couple of years. They are definitely concerned for the best interests of all of Manchester. Let us give them the confidence that if and when H.U.D. would become too demanding they will agree to drop out.

Vote "No" and keep HUD so that many needed projects started can be completed and many new projects can be done and still keep our tax rate down.

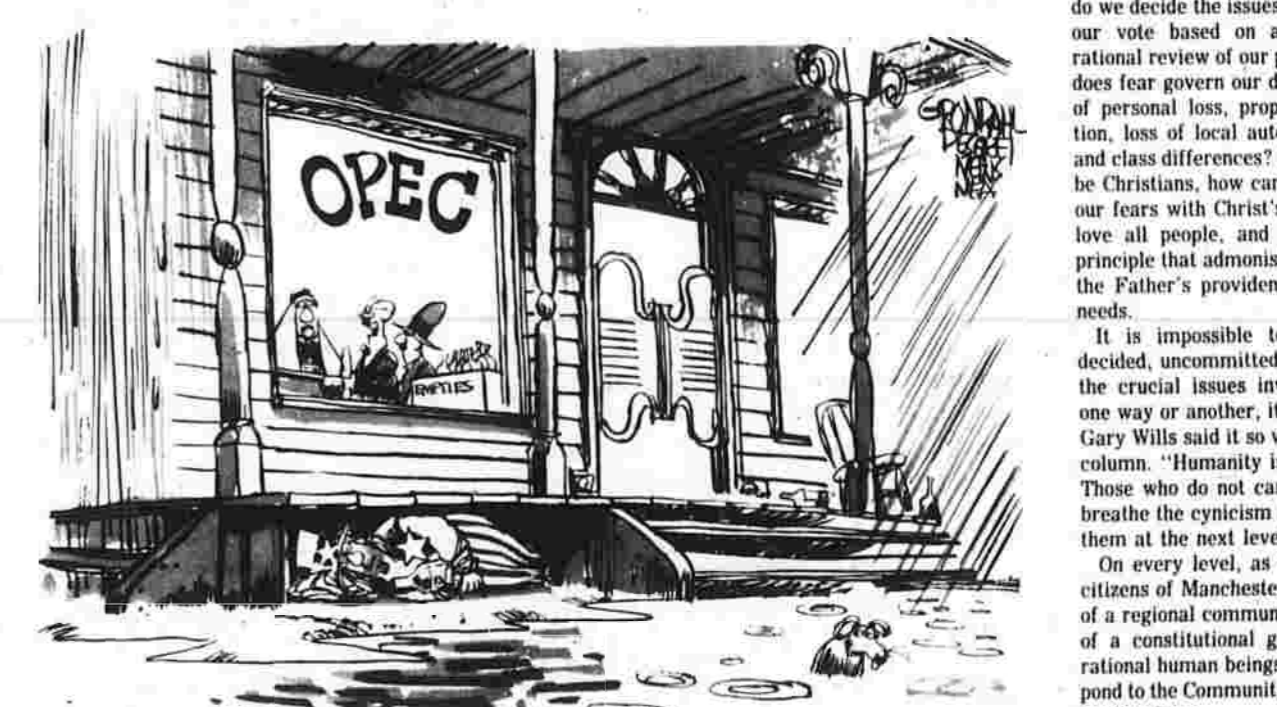

Russell C. Nettleton
21 Cowley Road
Manchester

Commitment Needed on Issue

To the editor:
Many polls and surveys have been taken these past weeks leading up to the referendum on the Community Development funding issue. One thing stands out. Many people are still undecided about how they will vote on April 17. I wrote this letter to those who are still deciding: deciding how to vote, or whether to vote at all.

Any community receiving Community Development money must make provision for a Housing Assistance Plan. An essential part of the Housing Assistance Plan is to provide housing for low income people.

I am deeply committed to the regional housing goals developed by the Capitol Region Council of Governments (of which Manchester is a member). Suburban communities have an obligation to pay back the cities for the jobs, the arts, and the educational resources that the cities give them. Easing some of the desperate housing shortages that the cities face is one way to reciprocate. We must acknowledge our interdependence. As members of households, we are not autonomous from our neighbor neighbors or other city residents, sharing our ladders and common water supply. As citizens of Manchester, we are not autonomous from the strengths and needs of neighboring cities — East Hartford, Glastonbury, and Hartford.

"Another price rise?!... This is an outrage! We're goin' to get the sheriff!"

Jack Anderson Pro-FBI Bias Wins No Points

WASHINGTON—Federal judges are appointed for life to guarantee their independence. For this reason, it is essential that they be both honest and unbiased.

We have seen disturbing evidence that U.S. District Judge John H. Pratt of Washington, D.C., tries to cover up an impropriety on the bench, then apparently lied to FBI agents about the incident, and finally tried to get the investigation called off by reminding the G-men that as a judge he has been "very pro-government and especially pro-FBI."

Jack Anderson, a 68-year-old ex-Marine who lost an arm in an accident in the Philippines, has refused to discuss the case with us. When we asked Pratt for his side of the story, he was deleted remarks and the ensuing controversy.

Our sources say the FBI agents said we were anxious to tell him what we had learned and get his response to the allegations. Pratt repeated, "Write any damn thing you want," and hung up.

Pratt met with the FBI agents again on Feb. 18. Sources familiar with this meeting say the judge remarked that the case against him and his secretary was "cheap" and "not of prosecutable merit," and that interviewing his secretary would constitute "needless harassment."

He then tried to get the agent to tell him exactly what evidence they had uncovered. The agents properly refused to give him this information.

It was then, our sources say, that the judge pointedly reminded the G-men that he was "very pro-government and especially pro-FBI." It is a credit to the integrity of the FBI agents that they refused to be intimidated by the judge's tactics.

Every man and woman who appears in court has the right to a fair trial presided over by an impartial judge. But Pratt's statement that he is "pro-government and especially pro-FBI" shows that this basic right is not possible in his courtroom. Competent legal sources say, therefore, that Pratt should not be permitted to hear civil or criminal cases where the government is even remotely involved.

Pratt told the agents he had spoken to Bossard on Feb. 5, 1978. He was asked repeatedly, "What was the case with Bossard in the interim?" — that is, between Feb 5 and the time of the FBI interview on Feb. 14. Pratt never mentioned the conversation in his chambers.

Pratt was interviewed on Feb. 14. Pratt never mentioned the conversation in his chambers. He and Bossard had discussed then was the deleted remarks and the ensuing controversy.

Our sources say the FBI agents said we were anxious to tell him what we had learned and get his response to the allegations. Pratt repeated, "Write any damn thing you want," and hung up.

Hamden Decision Delayed

BRIDGEPORT (UPI)—A federal judge has reserved decision on whether to suspend Hamden Police Chief John P. Ambrogio's request that the town's mayor be ordered to restate him to the job.

However, U.S. District Court Judge T.F. Gilroy said Wednesday, ordered Mayor Lucien DiMeo to put Ambrogio — one of seven persons implicated in the alleged cover-up of a state prosecutor committed 42 violations of state law stemming in part from the alleged cover-up of the March 1978 arrest of DiMeo's son, Lucien DiMeo Jr., for shoplifting.

The report, compiled by Superior Court Judge George A. Saden, also alleged the policeman violated state laws by keeping a cache of weapons at police headquarters for their personal use.

Attorney Hugh Keeffe, one of the lawyers representing Ambrogio, said Daly reserved decision on the chief's request to be reinstated to his job pending the outcome of a civil suit Ambrogio has filed against DiMeo.

Officials Expedite Plans For New College Building

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Several departments in the state are at work expediting plans to build a new Student Center at Manchester Community College, possibly over the same site where the center was burned in the ground last Saturday morning.

All the emphasis on the recovery operations is being placed on building a new center, according to Carroll Maddox, public relations director at the college. It has become evident this week what a "real serious problem" exists without a student center, he said.

Maddox said the original plans for the Student Center building, which was constructed along with other temporary structures in 1971, are still available. Indications are that the current plan for the building is still useable, thus eliminating new excavation work.

Maddox said that if the red tape can be cut in the state departments a new duplicated factory built building could be constructed in a period of three to four weeks making it possible to have the new Student Center open by Sept. 1.

The state Public Works and Highway departments have offered to clear the rubble left from the fire, Maddox said. That operation should begin September.

College employees have been sorting through the rubble and were able to recover some of the records from the offices. A petition started by Manchester Community College students asking the State Legislature to restore the state Board of Higher Education budget request was found with only some burned edges, Maddox said.

Veterans' benefits records from the Veterans Office, however, were all burned, but duplicates exist in the state Veterans Administration.

The offices and facilities in the Student Center have been moved into conference rooms and are sharing spaces with other offices. Although everyone has been cooperative, Maddox said "there is no way we can work" under these conditions past September.

Temporary trailers and classrooms are also being considered, but no definite decisions have been made on facilities for the remaining six weeks of the semester.

Manchester Police Report

MANCHESTER — Robert W. Hershberger, also known as Kaiser, 29, of 52 Wetherell St., was charged Wednesday with breach of the peace in connection with a motor vehicle accident at Center and Obcott streets.

According to police, Hershberger tried to pass a car driven by Ronald A. Mathewson, 50, of 56 Salem Road who was headed west on Center Street and signaled for a left turn into a gas station. Police said when Mathewson started to make the turn, he noticed the accused, who was operating a motorcycle passing him on the left at which time it was too late to stop.

Police issued a verbal warning to Hershberger for passing in a no-passing zone.

Police said they asked the accused if he had been drinking because they smelled alcohol on his breath. Hershberger kept insisting on a sobriety test, but police explained that sobriety tests are given only if a party is charged with operating under the influence, which the accused was not being charged with. After Hershberger disregarded the officer's several requests to leave the scene, and criticized the police in which the officer was investigating the matter, police said, he was arrested and released on a $200 non-surety bond. Court date, May 7.

Voters League Backs CD Fund

MANCHESTER — The League of Women Voters has come out in support of the town's continuing to accept Community Development funds.

In a statement issued today, the league says it has arrived at its position after study and discussion of the issue involved.

Manchester voters will decide Tuesday whether to declare a 2-year moratorium on accepting the funds which opponents say bring with them too many restrictions.

In its statement the league says there was strong minority opinion over federal involvement in local affairs.

In its statement the league says:

"This position is in favor of continuing to accept the funds is derived from the league's long-standing dual commitment to work for fair housing and an expansion of the housing supply for low and moderate income families and from the league's past support for the use of block grants to maintain a strong urban nucleus and maintain and rehabilitate existing housing.

"League members feel that requirements for receiving the funds are not unreasonable at the present time. The league feels most strongly that working to provide affordable housing for people of all income levels must continue to be a goal of our town, whether or not we continue to accept block grant funds.

"There was a strong minority expression of concern about growing federal involvement in local affairs, and expression of the feeling that rejection of the funds might not be entirely negative because it would force the town to reconsider its goals to determine how they might be attained through the use of its own resources.

Electrician Injured At Warehouse Site

MANCHESTER — A 28-year-old electrician was injured Wednesday in an industrial accident at the J.C. Penny Warehouse in Buckland.

Police said that James Szakiewicz of 44 Belmont Ave. received burns on his face and hands as the result of an explosion caused by contact with a live wire.

Szakiewicz told police he was discussing a welding unit from the power switch. He was using a screwdriver to remove the screw holding the wire, according to police. They said the victim said he wasn't sure how it happens but said the wire he held must have come in contact with a live ground wire, causing the explosion and fire.

Hospital officials said Szakiewicz was treated for second and third degree burns on his face and hands, and is in satisfactory condition.

Rec Opens Tonight

MANCHESTER — The town advisory Commission West Side Recreation Center has also discussed having the town's first center open on Sunday around recreation days facility, still open tonight at 8 p.m. Mel Siebold, town recreation director said.

The permit for the elevator, which has been holding up the opening of the center, arrived Wednesday and Frank Conti, town building inspector, will certify the certificate of occupancy this morning.

Plans presently call for having the center open after school and evenings, Saturdays and during the daytime in the summer. The town Park and Recrea-

Miss Louise Held

TOLLAND — Miss Louise Held, 89, of 96 Metcalf Road died Wednesday at a Vernon convalescent home.

Miss Held was born in New York City and had lived in the Tolland area most of her life. Before her retirement, she had been employed for 41 years at the Veeder-Rood Co. of Hartford. She was a member of the First Evangelical Lutheran Church of Ellington.

She is survived by a brother, Gottlieb Held of Tolland.

The funeral is scheduled for today at 1:30 p.m. at Burke-Fortin Funeral Home, 76 Prospect St., Rockville, with the Rev. Eugene F. Mitchell, pastor of the First Evangelical Lutheran Church, officiating. Burial will be in South Cemetery.

The family suggests that memorial gifts may be made to the First Evangelical Lutheran Church of Ellington.

The commission's A-96 review included a section on the town's housing goals performance and labeled the overall performance "unsatisfactory."

Weiss responded, "We received no indication from your office about how these ratings were made or for the reasons for the ratings." He then listed the town's participation in units and an application for 64 more.

Marilyn Walsh, head of the town's rehabilitation loan program, said this morning, "They're not even aware of some of the things that have or will be done in terms of meeting our Housing Assistance Plan goals."

Parts of the commission's review were not filled in because it said the town failed to provide the necessary information. The commission said it requested such information in a November 17 letter.

Ms. Walsh said no town officials recall the letter, and a search of all town files resulted in no copy of it being found. She also said the commission simply could have called the town to receive much of the required information.

The timing of the commission response is ironic since Manchester will decide Tuesday about a proposed two-year ban on town participation in the Community Development program.

Town officials also expressed concern this morning that the commission's letter may be an indication of a tougher review of Manchester if the proposed ban goes into effect.

Officials said minority groups and those agencies who seek to insure the rights of such groups may review town applications for all federal funding more stringently if the ban is imposed.

Fire Under Control

of the building this morning by special vacuum trucks. Other chemicals which were destroyed will be removed and disposed of once the fire marshal's office has completed its investigation, Burton said. Some of the chemicals in the burned section can't be saved, he said.

James Talbot, division manager for the Houghton Company said this morning he has no estimate of the damages. Talbot was helpful at the fire in directing the firefighters where the potential chemicals were in the plant, Irish said.

A special telephone line, called Chemtux, was used by the Eighth District Department to obtain information on the potentially toxic gases and to aid the firefighters in making decisions on what equipment to use in fighting the fire.

The use of foam was not necessary, Irish said. The District's new aerialscope truck was helpful in keeping the fire controlled to the one area, long enough to allow the fire departments to advance the hand lines, he said.

The fire was fought in sections. The chemicals were stored in separate sections which also kept the chemicals from mixing and posing more hazardous fumes, Burton said.

Irish said the plant is one of the most hazardous areas of concern for the Eighth District Department.

The Police Department began its investigation of the fire this morning. Early indications are that it is highly suspicious.

Great Strides Made

The start of the 1979 schoolboy baseball season has been rained out, snowed on and blown away with most clubs still waiting to make their debuts.

Except for Cheney Tech.

The Beavers, under second-year Coach Aaron Silvia, have braved the elements and contested three of their 20-game slate. They won their first two and were impressive in bowing Tuesday to Bacon Academy. The Bobcats were pre-season favorites in the Charter Oak Conference with Cromwell.

It's far too early to tell, pitching will be the key as always, but Cheney could have its best season — ever, as they continue to work hard as has been exhibited in the three outings and heads don't get swelled by press clippings.

Cheney Tech looks like a baseball team now. That wasn't always the case. The players are thinking the game, talking the game, and positive results have been harvested.

The Technicians outlasted Prince Tech and Bolton, clubs which will have wins low and far between. They were nipped by a good Bacon line. The item to look for is when they play a good club and emerge victorious. That will show the Beavers have truly arrived.

Bring 'em Back

Bowie Kuhn — where are you? Where are you now that baseball needs a leader? Where are you when an end to the umpire strike is a must? Get with it.

It's a travesty what's being forced on the American public. The major league ballplayers might be professionals but those doing the adjudicating are rank amateurs and their comeback in the fourth. Greg Raddling ripped a single inside the third base bag for Hall's first safety followed by a walk to Scott Kelley. Ned Cleary's grounder hopped over the glove of third sacker Doug Ogen for one run followed by Glen Kallinech's bloop RBI single to right. Spears reached back to retire the next three.

Hall took the advantage for good in the fifth. Jim Foley reached on a one out error and Raddling blasted a 320-foot, two-run homer over the cyclone fence in left.

The Indians, who collected four hits in the first three innings, could muster only two more off southpaw reliever Mark Trechler. He walked

Two Runs in Eighth Power MCC Triumph

Two runs in the eighth inning lifted Manchester Community College past Tunxis Community College, 4-2, yesterday in CCAA baseball action at Cougar Field.

The Cougars have won six in a row to sport a 7-1 overall mark and 5-0 decked in the CCAA. Next action is today at Massachusetts Community College at 3:30.

Tunxis knotted the score in the top of the eighth at 2-2 as Perry Neal reached on an error, swiped second and scored on Al Parlow's RBI blow.

MCC's winning rally got started as Rusty Pacino and Greg Fearon reached safely on errors. Mike Mazzarella drove home the first run with a sharp single to right and Fearon came crashing home on a passed ball.

MCC scored in the top of the ninth as Jim Zerio tripled leading off. Tunxis pitcher Dave Carter scuffled to retire the next two but Mike Martin's sharp grounder went thru the legs of first sacker Dave Palmer. Zerio scoring.

Tunxis, 2-4, squared the count in the fourth frame on a two-base throwing error by Fearon and run-producing single by Palmer.

A leadoff walk to Jim Hummer, sacrifice and RBI single by pinch-runner Dave Carter.

Oriole Rally Stops Yankees

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Rick Dempsey figures his two-out, two-strike, 10th-inning single Wednesday night not only drove in the winning run in Baltimore's 6-5 win over the New York Yankees, but was a blow for the "underdogs" as well.

pinch-hitter Terry Crowley on a short fly to left. Bumber's hit then scored Kelly and Larry Harlow, running for May.

Ken Singleton's third single and a stolen base by pinch-runner John Lowenstein, coupled with a throwing error by Yankee catcher Thurman Munson, put the winning run on third with one out. Eddie Murray and DeCinces were walked intentionally and Harlow popped to left, too shallow to let Lowenstein score.

Dempsey then slapped Dick Tidrow's "hanging slider away" into centerfield, scoring Lowenstein. Don Stanhouse, 14, picked up the win, pitching the 10th inning in relief of starter Jim Palmer.

Angels 11, Twins 2

Despite Rod Carew, the California Stars still need contributions from talents like Nolan Ryan, Joe Rudi and Don Baylor.

Perez Ended Nonsense

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York Mets' catcher John Stearns got embroiled in a ninth-inning slugfest with Montreal catcher Gary Carter Wednesday that touched off a verbal sparring before Tony Perez ended the nonsense with a ninth-inning homer that lifted the Expos to a 3-2 triumph.

Perez broke the deadlock with his first homer of the season on the first pitch thrown to him by loser Skip Lockwood, 0-1. Elias Sosa, 2-1, picked up the victory.

In other National League games, Cincinnati topped Atlanta, 9-5. Houston routed Los Angeles, 10-3. Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh, 5-4, and San Diego downed San Francisco.

Indians Unimpressive

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports-writer

Inauspicious was the debut as Manchester High fumbled its way to a 13-3 setback at the hands of Hall High in CCLL baseball action yesterday in West Hartford.

It was the 79 season-opener for both clubs.

Sophomore righthander Shawn Spears started on the hill for the Indians and was impressive although charged with the loss. He worked five innings, being touched for six hits and four runs, only one earned. Spears fanned three and walked two.

After that Silk Town relievers resembled the New York Mets' bullpen — a.k.a. the Aron Squad. Steve Pyka, in 1.13 innings, was rapped for six runs on six hits while Matt Peterson, in 1.13 innings, was wild, walking four. He gave up three runs. Brad Ingraham, who'll probably start today against East Hartford High in the home opener at Kelley Field at 3:30, had to get the last out.

Manchester had a 3-0 edge after three frames. Dave Parks stroked an RBI single in the second and two more tallies were added in the third without benefit of a hit.

The home-staying Warriors began three and whittled five in six innings to earn the mound decision.

Manchester Coach Hal Parks indicated previously he planned to playton in the opener and did so. He couldn't be too pleased with the results. Pyka's problems in the sixth were compounded by three errors with all four Hall Ladies unearned. Overall, the Silk Towners committed six miscues.

Raddling and Kallinech each had three out errors and Raddling with the former knocking in three runs. Jim Glosky was 2-for-4 to pace Manchester.

Area Schoolboy Baseball Pitching Battle Features

A pitcher's duel took place yesterday at East Hartford High to highlight area baseball play.

Simsbury High's Tim Sorjio and Storrs area Bob Ouellette traded four-hitters but in the end the visiting Trojans prevailed by a 2-0 count.

In other area action, Glastonbury High defeated Hartford Public, 9-3, Rockville High topped Windsor Locks, 7-2. Rham High whipped Rocky Hill, 16-4. South Windsor High won on the road and a 2-0 score to Windsor, and Coventry fell to unbeaten Cromwell, 7-1.

Rockville Students Learn Latin Names of Plants

Renee Poggie, junior at Rockville High School, shows a flower arrangement made for display at the school's Spring Festival.

By FRANK ATWOOD

Students of plant science at Rockville High School are learning the Latin names of plants at their own request. If they stick to this pattern they'll say Ficus instead of fig, they'll know that any flowering crab apple tree is some kind of Malus. They'll also know where to look for the full name.

Ron Carle, teacher of plant science in the school's Vocational Agriculture Department, says the interest in scientific names appeared spontaneously when the school acquired a new greenhouse, opened this spring. It is being called a conservatory and is used for display of the school's best plants, in pots and hanging baskets.

The older greenhouse built when the Vocational Agriculture Center was established in 1958, is now a propagation house, used for growing plants from seed or cuttings. The muck and litter that is bound to accompany this work will not be permitted in the conservatory. It will be a show place, where students will learn plant identification.

The "new" greenhouse, as it is called, is actually second-hand. It was moved from the science department of the high school where botany is taught and where a really new greenhouse has been provided. V-A students helped to set up the conservatory and it was ready for inspection at the school's Spring Festival.

It is a lean-to, built against a south wall. There are two benches with a center walk. In this location, on a sunny day, it could easily get too hot and the glass has been heavily "shaded" with green paint on the outside.

Grapefruit Tree At one end of the bench, where space was made for it, is the school's largest plant, a grapefruit tree, nine years old. It is 10 feet tall and was a gift from a Rockville family who raised it in the house, carried it outdoors in the spring and back in the fall until the tree grew too tall and the pot too heavy for this exercise. It has yet to blossom and bear fruit, but it may some day. In Latin, the grapefruit is Citrus paradisi.

Plant science students have an extra incentive now for learning the scientific names. On May 4 they will compete with students from other vocational agriculture schools in a plant identification contest at the University of Connecticut. Latin names will be required.

Students will learn that the Latin names were given to both plants and animals 200 years ago by a Swedish botanist at Uppsala University. He latinized his own name, changing it from Carl von Linné to Carolus Linnaeus, and he assigned Latin names for thousands of plants and animals by genera and species.

Most of his names are still in use. The P.T.O. will have a special display of plants from the conservatory.

Sharing the lead in "The Four Poster" are William F. Rollins and Caryle Fenn. This legendary comedy re-creates a story of a 25-year marriage and passes over none of the standard moments of fear, pathos and unconscious comedy.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Ticket information may be obtained by calling 255-9595. Special discounts on tickets are given when making reservations for dinner at the Marlborough Tavern.

Wetherfield on consignment and sold many packets from the rack. They demonstrated their skill in flower arranging with bouquets arranged in several ways and they made and sold several hundred boutonnières at 75 cents each. At Gastonbury High School a week earlier, similar small bunches of leaves and a single flower were sold as corsages. The difference appears to be that a corsage is worn by a woman and a boutonniere by a man.

Easter Lilies In the old greenhouse one bench held 75 Easter lily plants in pots. They had been grown from bulbs, following the schedule used in the University of Connecticut greenhouse, and Mr. Carle had checked on their development frequently with the university. They should have blooms a day or two before Easter and will be sold then, at $3 for a plant with two buds and 75 cents extra for each additional bud. Money from all such sales goes to the treasury of the Future Farmers of America.

In the yard behind the school one modern farm tractor, on loan from a local dealer, and some ancient one-cylinder stationary gasoline engine engines, once used to power milking machines and still used to run saws for cutting firewood, were operating. A few of the boys own these old engines and are proud of their ability to keep them running.

Saturday, April 28, the FFA and the very active Parents' Group of the V-A department will have a day-long farm auction when farm and garden equipment, either donated or consigned, will be sold. There also will be animals and plants. After the auction there will be a potluck supper and a square dance. The parents hope to raise $5,000 as a "project fund," from which students will be able to borrow money to finance projects at home, as raising meat animals or vegetables for sale.

Northeast Utilities Changes Procedures at N-Plant

HARTFORD (UPI) - Northeast Utilities has changed procedures at one of its nuclear plants to compensate for possible erroneous readings similar to those which contributed to the Three Mile Island accident.

Meanwhile, an NU task force studied whether a similar nuclear accident could occur in Connecticut and state officials held a seminar to review Connecticut's nuclear evacuation plans.

Northeast spokesman Emmanuel Forde said Wednesday operators at the Connecticut Yankee nuclear plant at Haddam Neck have been told to disregard low water level readings and to put the reactor's emergency cooling system into immediate operation when a separate reactor pressure gauge gives low readings.

Forde said Westinghouse advised Northeast that in the event of a leak in a small pipe - an inch or smaller - the system could give erroneous readings on the level of water cooling the reactor.

Sarasin Finds Job

HARTFORD (UPI) - Ronald Sarasin, the unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor last year, has found work in Washington as a lobbyist for an international consulting firm, according to the New Haven Register.

Although the former three-term congressman has been unavailable for comment the past few weeks, the Register quoted reliable sources Wednesday as saying Sarasin has a landed the job.

Board Will Get Building Report

BOLTON - The Public Safety Complex Study Committee will present its final report to the Board of Selectmen tonight at 7:30 at the Community Hall.

The committee is recommending the selectmen meet with its site committee to secure a site for such a facility.

A new facility is supported by the committee, whose members include representatives of the fire department, police, civil defense and selectmen. The proposed complex would house those services.

The committee was appointed in November by the selectmen after the inadequacy of the present fire station on North Road was brought to their attention by the fire department.

The firehouse issue was first brought to the attention of the fire commissioners 11 years ago by Mortimer Harlow. Harlow was chief of the fire department at that time.

The committee has met as a whole six times and several times in subcommittee. The subcommittees studied the location, physical design and funding for such a facility.

Douglas Cheney, chairman of the Public Building Commission, attended several meetings to discuss sites and funding.

Bolton Bids Due Tuesday

BOLTON - Bids for various improvements to the firehouse on North Road will be accepted until Tuesday.

The Board of Fire Commissioners is advertising the following items: Sand and finish the meeting room area floors, painting walls, woodwork and ceiling in the meeting room and replace floor tile in the kitchen and office area, and remove and replace ceiling tile in the office room.

Specifications for the work may be obtained by calling Leonard Giggia at 698-8818.

Educators Order New School Bus

ANDOVER - The Board of Education has ordered a new 66-passenger school bus from Bousa in Williamamite.

The board received three bids for the bus. Although Bousa was $41 higher than the lowest bidder the school board awarded that firm bid because it has purchased other buses from it and it is closer if repairs are needed.

Beatrice Kowalski, board chairman, said the new bus will hopefully be in service by September.

The bus will cost $18,945 and the money will come from the school's bus fund.

The board also approved the purchase of a power spray, to be used for washing the buses, at a cost of $355. The money will come from the board's regular budget.

Board members met with the state fire marshal who said he would like all violations to the fire safety code in the school buildings, corrected within the next year.

Mrs. Kowalski said there are about 15 doors that have to be replaced and there are violations in fire detection and electric wiring.

She said the school board will have a surplus in this year's budget of about $10,000 and will ask the Board of Finance if the money can be used to correct the fire safety code violations. Usually surplus money is put into the board's bus fund.

If approval is received by the Central Office Committee, Andover school students will get a week-long vacation in February and April next year.

A phone car, that was used by a former student at the school, will be offered for sale to the student if no town agencies have a use for it.

Extension Service To Help Gardeners

VERNON - Starting on April 23, the Master Gardeners will again be joining the Tolland County Cooperative Extension Service in Vernon. Their duties will be to assist the staff agents with inquiries from home gardeners.

In response to the popularity of home gardening, the University of Connecticut's Cooperative Extension Service and the university's Plant Science Department trained volunteers who will provide a free information service to home gardeners.

The project is called "Extension Master Gardeners," and proved to be such a success that some 150 persons, state-wide, are being trained to assist for the 1979 season, extension officials said.

The training involved successfully completing an 11-week course in soils, plant diseases, insect pests, fruits and vegetables and other horticultural topics. Upon successful completion of the course, each certified master gardener will provide 50 hours of volunteer time at a county extension office.

Master gardeners will receive inquiries from any area gardener and will provide information and act in liaison with university faculty specialists.

Interested area residents may contact a master gardener by calling the extension office, Route 30, Vernon 975-3331, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

RHS Students Win Business Contests

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter who will be 20 soon. Her boyfriend, with whom she has grown up, is in the Air Force and is stationed in Florida. He's asked her to marry him in June of 1980, but he wants her to come to Florida and share a two-bedroom apartment with him for two months.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married 46 years. We live modestly and have never been big spenders. We have a comfortable income and bank account and my husband is an honest and decent man, but here is my problem:
