

HE IS RISEN

"Christ Is Risen!" And once again on Easter Morn, the miracle of His resurrection brings joy and inspiration, as we gather together in the house of the Lord, with our families and friends...to worship, to rejoice, to give thanks for His gift of life everlasting. May this Eastertide bless each of us with infinite trust in the goodness of life, hope for the future and faith in the spiritual truths that sustain us.

WHAT'S NEWS

Cell Transplant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In research with far-reaching implications for the treatment of diabetes, a St. Louis researcher has overcome the immunity barrier and transplanted insulin-producing cells from healthy to diabetic rats. The development moves researchers a step closer in the long effort to develop a way to use cell transplantation as an alternate means of delivering insulin to humans whose bodies do not produce enough of the hormone to regulate their sugar levels. But Dr. Paul E. Lacy, director of pathology at Washington University, emphasized that several formidable obstacles still must be overcome before doctors can try the techniques in humans.

Carter Aloo

SAPELO ISLAND, Ga. (UPI) — President Carter is staying aloof from a growing consensus among his economic advisers that another interest rate increase is needed to slow down inflation, according to his aides. The aides said Thursday Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal favors tighter credit controls, and other key advisers are backing him or leaning that way.

"Carter is remaining aloof," aides said, leaving it to the Federal Reserve Board to make the decision. The president realizes that support of higher interest rates would hurt his "populist" image, they explained. But options favoring tighter credit restraints have been on Carter's desk for some time as worries have increased over whether the anti-inflation program is working.

Russian Ship

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has dispatched its newest aircraft carrier, the Minsk, along with two cruisers and a new type of amphibious ship to the Indian Ocean. The Pentagon said Thursday the Minsk's present course could take it into the same waters as the U.S. supercarrier Constellation, although there is no indication it will go as far north as the American ship. The Minsk is the second aircraft carrier the Soviets have built. It rounded the Cape of Good Hope from the Atlantic Monday.

Tornadoes

Tornadoes and flash floods that hit the South and Midwest for a third straight day left seven people dead and millions of dollars of property damage in more than a dozen states. The National Weather Service warned of more severe storms in the Deep South today. Residents of the Midwest were advised to take their eyes off the skies and keep watch on rapidly rising rivers and streams.

Wage Controls

BOSTON (UPI) — President Carter is not likely to propose mandatory wage and price controls even though the administration expects another increase in wholesale prices, says inflation fighter Alfred E. Kahn. Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said Thursday he would resist rather than direct a program that included mandatory controls. "I am strongly opposed to mandatory wage and price controls," he said.

U.S. Silent On Charges Of Spying

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa expelled three U.S. Air Force personnel for spying with the ambassador's plane, Washington did not deny the charges, but suggested the South Africans needed a "scapegoat" to draw attention from its own explosive domestic scandal. Prime Minister Pieter W. Botha, in a special television address Monday, apparently designed to embarrass the United States, said Ambassador William B. Edmondson's personal Beechcraft plane was fitted with a high-speed camera for spying sweeps over "strategically important areas of the country." "It has been established that members of the United States Embassy have been engaged in espionage against South Africa," Botha said. "I am bitterly distressed to learn how South African hospitality has been abused. These actions against South Africa are actions which I would have anticipated from the Russians," Botha said, "but not from the leading Western country." One U.S. official said that he would not be surprised if the plane, capable of flying at 30,000 feet, were to have been used for such purposes, but he would neither deny or confirm the specific charges.

Town and District In Court over Fund

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER — Those common courtroom opponents, the Town of Manchester and the Eighth Utilities District, now have another issue that apparently will be settled in court. The district filed suit Thursday to seek an injunction that would prohibit the town from using federal Revenue Sharing funds for the Town Fire Department. The Town Board of Directors has appropriated $65,000 of the town's present-year federal Revenue Sharing grant for use by the Town Fire Department. The lawsuit is challenging the use of that funding. Since the $65,000 is from a federal grant, the money should be used to benefit the entire town and not just those serviced by the Town Fire Department, the district has said. The town and the district each have separate fire departments. The district's department services much of the property north of Middle Turnpike. The lawsuit by the district challenges this stand. It said the town's appropriation of the Revenue Sharing to the Town Fire Department is prohibited by the Town Charter. Such an appropriation would result in a reduced tax rate in the area that is serviced by the town department. The federal funding is generated by taxing of the entire town, including that area serviced by the Eighth District's department, the town said. The suit requested a May 1 hearing for the district's request for a temporary injunction against use of the funds for the Town Fire Department. The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. in Hartford Superior Court. The suit also requested a declaratory judgment to determine whether such use of the funds is proper and a permanent injunction to ban such future appropriations. The suit named the Town of Manchester, its Board of Directors and its manager, Robert Weiss, as defendants. Plaintiffs in the case are the Eighth Utilities District and three individual taxpayers, Willard Marvin, Gordon Lassow and Robert Blechman, all of whom also are members of the District Board of Directors. The fast action at night by the rescue team ensured the quick location of the descent module and the removal of the cosmonauts," Tass said. The emergency landing came two days after launching and 24 hours after the aborted linkup. Dr. Konstantin Fokistov, a space specialist, said on Soviet television the spacecraft malfunctioned as it moved to within a few miles of the orbiting Salyut 6 station. "The approach and correcting engines were supposed to start working, but telemetry data and the crew reports showed anomalies in the operation of the approach-correcting engine," he said. "It was decided to stop the approach and carry out an analysis of what happened. That analysis showed that the approach engine could not be used," he said. "On the basis of this data, it was decided to bring the spacecraft back. The scrubbed flight no doubt was a bitter disappointment for Soyuz 32 cosmonauts Vladimir Lyakhov and Valery Byumin, who have been aboard the Salyut 6 space lab for more than 45 days awaiting the arrival of Soyuz 33. The scheduled week-long visit by Rukavishnikov and Ivanov would have provided the two cosmonauts with welcome companionship in addition to packages and mail from home. Bloomfield. The matter was settled out of court with the realtors' promise not to discriminate in the future. U.S. Attorney Richard Blumenthal said it is too early to tell whether any civil rights statutes have been violated or whether the federal government has any jurisdiction in the matter. Two justice department attorneys from Washington have already interviewed Arthur L. Green, executive director of the state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities, and Frank Buntin, Hartford area director of fair housing for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the two officials said. Buntin said the lawyers were particularly interested in next Tuesday's referendum in Manchester on whether the town should drop out of the HUD community program, which he said some residents oppose because of its fair housing provisions.

Engine Trouble Scrubs Mission

MOSCOW (UPI) — Space officials say an engine malfunctioned on the Soyuz 33 space capsule as it made a docking approach to the orbiting Salyut 6 space laboratory, forcing two cosmonauts to scrub the mission and return to Earth. Soviet commander Nikolai Rukavishnikov and Bulgarian engineer Georgi Ivanov landed their capsule in darkness in the Soviet Republic of Kazakhstan at 11:35 a.m. EST Thursday, the Tass news agency reported. The fast action at night by the rescue team ensured the quick location of the descent module and the removal of the cosmonauts," Tass said. The emergency landing came two days after launching and 24 hours after the aborted linkup. Dr. Konstantin Fokistov, a space specialist, said on Soviet television the spacecraft malfunctioned as it moved to within a few miles of the orbiting Salyut 6 station. # Pilot of Aerobatic Jet Denies Tape Erasure

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The pilot of a TWA 727, which was advised to survive unexpected aerobatics that included a double barrel-roll and supersonic spiraling dive, said Thursday he did not erase the cockpit recording tape and wishes it was still intact. "Nobody wishes more than I do that we had it," Capt. Harvey "Hoot" Gibson told a panel of federal investigators. "I would have made the crew look very good." Gibson was speckled with the night of April 4 when the 727 — flying over Flint, Mich., on a New York-to-Minneapolis flight with 87 passengers aboard — mysteriously banked to the right, ignored his efforts to regain control and revolved on its longitudinal axis in a 360-degree barrel roll — twice. Then it went into an uncontrolled dive for more than five miles. After all the prescribed maneuvers failed, Gibson pulled out at only 5,000 feet by extending the landing gear to break up the forces acting on the plane. Much of Thursday's hearing before the National Transportation Safety Board examiners concerned the erasure of the cockpit monitor tape, which records talk by the flight crew. The cause of the tape erasure is unknown. FAA attorney James Dilman pressed Gibson, asking whether he was aware the recording could not be used in civil or FAA actions against him. "Is there anything on the voice recorder you wouldn't want known to this body?" "No, not to my knowledge," Gibson said. "I didn't intentionally erase it." At another point, Gibson snapped, "Are you insinuating I intentionally erased the recorder." "The tape could only make the other two crew members (the copilot and flight engineer) look good. They did a real good job."

Pond Poison Pondered For Piranha Population

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — State wildlife officers said they would "poison" a popular children's swimming hole today to rid it of piranhas, a razor-toothed jungle fish that will attack humans. "The neighborhood kids swim in the pond all the time," said Dr. Walter Courtenay, professor of ichthyology at Florida Atlantic University. "Fortunately, no one has been bit yet. There probably are enough other fish in there to keep the piranhas happy." The piranha is a flesh-eating native of South America where schools of

MCC Programs Continue Elsewhere

MANCHESTER - Most of the programs scheduled for the rest of the semester at Manchester Community College and displaced because of last Saturday's fire in the Student Center will be conducted in some form.

The college bookstore which was located in the Student Center is continuing operations for ordering books for the summer session in a conference room in Faculty East.

Arrangements for other temporary facilities for the offices have not been completed.

Carroll Maddox, public relations director at MCC, noted that because of a larger capacity at the ROTC dining room, reservations for some of the dinners may be re-opened.

The other portions of the Food Service programs have been moved to other facilities on the campus to assure continuation of the program for this semester.

Congress Unhappy With Its Income

WASHINGTON - Members of Congress appear increasingly unhappy with the financial burdens of office. The Senate was displeased with its $8,625 limit on earned outside income effective Jan. 1, so it voted to keep a $25,000 limit until 1983. Now the House is considering giving congressmen a $50-a-day income tax deduction.

When the Senate voted in early March to suspend the $8,625 limit it could earn on outside income, which it had approved two years earlier, a strong cry of disapproval came from across the country. Opposition to the suspension vote arose more over the way it was done than because it occurred.

The action came on short notice in the Senate and with only five minutes debate. About six senators were on hand when the suspension was approved by voice vote.

The public, and many editorial writers, clearly didn't like the Senate tampering with its income and not going on record.

All that changed the other day when Sen. Gary Hart (D-Colo.) demanded a roll call vote on a resolution to reimpose the limitation to $8,625. By a 54 to 44 vote, on which 18 senators switched opposition of two years ago, the Senate agreed to keep the $25,000 limit on the amount earned for honoraria for at least four more years.

Sen. Ribicoff voted for reimposing the limitation to $8,625 on earned outside income and Sen. Weicker voted against the resolution. In 1977, Sen. Ribicoff earned $20,500 for honoraria and Sen. Weicker received $15,000 for outside work. Under the 1978 Federal Election Campaign Act, a senator can't be paid more than $2,000 for each honorarium.

Sen. Alan Cranston (Calif.), Walter Huddleston (Ky.), Henry Jackson (Wash.), John Melcher (Mont.), Adlai Stevenson (Ill.), William Proxmire (Wisc.), and Daniel Inouye and Spark Matsunaga (Hawaii), all Democrats, were among the 18 senators who switched votes from two years ago.

There is no limit on the amount of unearned income a senator can receive, which is one of the complaints voiced by senators on both sides of the issue.

That he loved too much, died a horrible and agonizing death. The Cross is the medium of many messages. It is God the Father's last plan to bring His rebellious sons and daughters back home to Himself. God tried many ways before the Cross of His Son, revenge and punishment. The Law, the pleading of the prophets, but He did all He could do on that first Good Friday to redeem you and me. Also, the Cross is Love's last word. There is nothing more that Love can do than give its all. Moreover, the Cross is our last hope. It is not our work that frees us, but His work on the Cross.

All that we do in working our way to God does have value, the value of showing us that we can not work our way to God. But remember, He said, "I am the way." He has done it for us on the Cross. Dr. George W. Webb South United Methodist Church

CD Fact Sheet Misleading

To the editor: The information sheet, which is being mailed to all Manchester voters regarding the Community Development Block Grant program questions on the April 17 referendum ballot, is very misleading. That so-called information sheet totally ignores the housing commitment which our Town must make as part of the so-called Housing Assistance Plan which is an essential part of each CDBG application which our Town files with HUD.

In that application form document, our Town must make a commitment to do everything in its power, including possible changes in our zoning ordinance, in order to promote the creation of a certain number of new housing opportunities for what the HUD regulations describe as "lower income persons."

Among other things, our Town has been required to make a commitment to promote the construction of new apartments for lower income families. Last Summer, HUD made us amend our housing assistance plan for the present block grant year so as to commit our Town to the construction of 80 new apartments for lower income families. In the block grant application, which is the subject of this referendum and which will never take effect if the voters approve the proposed two-year moratorium ordinance on April 17, our Town is making a new commitment for the construction of 150 new apartments for lower income families.

This commitment is made with our Town knowing that HUD, under another program, provides new construction subsidy money for developers to construct this lower-income family subsidized housing. Periodically, HUD sends out notices that it has available funds for the construction of that type of subsidized housing. In those written notices, HUD ordinarily specifies the town to which HUD would like to see lower income family housing built. Whenever that type of housing is built with HUD subsidy money, HUD acquires the right to control all rental charges and any increases in rental charges to tenants of that housing.

Here in Manchester, we already have two lower-income family subsidized housing projects of this type: The Beechwood Apartments on Rachel Road which contain 191 rental units and the Spruce Village apartment complex on Spencer Street which contains 374 rental units.

Our Town's obligation to promote the construction of more lower-income family subsidized housing of this type is spelled out in the HUD regulations, many copies of which have circulated around town in connection with this referendum. Those regulations specify that our Town is expected to take all actions within its control to facilitate the implementation of this housing construction commitment including "appropriate zoning changes." Those regulations become a contract obligation of the Town when our Town Manager signs the funding agreement with HUD before receiving each year's block grant funds. This housing commitment obligation, in my view, could be enforced by a Court of law if HUD were to decide to take our Town to Court. The mere fact that some HUD officials have recently said that their Department does not intend to take our Town to Court is no guarantee that their Department could not or would not do so at a later date in order to enforce those obligations against us.

The dollar figures, which that information sheet presents with respect to referendum questions No. 3 and No. 4, are also misleading and somewhat confusing. Question No. 3 seeks voter approval of the use of Town funds "for continuation of the Administration of the First through Fourth Year Community Development Block Grant Programs." With the possible exception of a few months of the Downtown Planner/Co-ordinator project (for which only $9,000 was provided in the fourth block grant year), I understand that all other projects receiving any money from the first through fourth block grant years are expected to be completed before the end of this coming December 1979. For that reason, those administrative costs need only be continued for the approximately six-month period of June 30, 1979 through December 31, 1979. For that limited time period, I understand those administrative expenses to approximate only $39,722. This $39,722 is so much smaller than the $93,722 administrative cost figure used on that information sheet that I think that the $93,722 figure is misleading.

With respect to the dollar figures listed on that information sheet for completing projects in connection with referendum question No. 4, I think a lower dollar figure should be used. As I see it, only $155,000 in CDBG money is likely to be still unspent on the first through fourth year CDBG projects as of June 30, 1979. A vote yes on question No. 3 should enable the Town to spend $39,722 of Town funds after June 30, 1979 in order to be able to use that $155,000 in block grant money between June 30, 1979 and December 31, 1979. In order to achieve an orderly transition into the proposed moratorium I urge my fellow voters to vote YES on REFERENDUM QUESTION No. 2 in order to adopt the proposed ordinance which would bar our Town from participating in this block grant program for two years.

Text of Winning Essay on Hiring Handicapped

(Editor's note: The following essay was written by Theresa Ann Mazzotta of 79 Keeney St., Manchester, a Manchester High School senior, and won first place in a recent Manchester area essay and poster contest on employment of the handicapped. Her essay was entered in the state level contest where she won fourth prize.)

A Ramp Is A Step Ahead. There are millions of Americans who have some form of a disability, mental and/or physical, and who suffer because of it. This suffering does not only involve the pain that may be caused by the actual disability factor itself, but also from another deep-rooted problem. Handicapped people must overcome that which separates them from others as well as those who choose not to accept them as capable individuals and separate them from their society. This is the main problem that the handicapped face today. Many are able to successfully adapt to the environment in which they must live, and function quite normally. Their personal difficulties which were once a barrier become nothing more than small obstacles in their path. But the disadvantage that each handicapped individual has, which he himself cannot fully control or moderate, is the way other people feel and act towards him. Most of the handicapped are looked upon as incompetent. They are thus given little chance to prove themselves otherwise. Many corporations will not hire them as employees while others will not allow them to prove their worthiness by giving them added responsibilities. There are few justifiable reasons for not hiring the handicapped, but there are more in favor of their hiring.

The first and most important aspect of a handicapped person which must be mentioned is character. Handicapped individuals are quite different from people who do not have the problem of a handicap. They have a stronger will, have more patience and seem to hold more pride than most people. If they want to get something accomplished they are determined to reach their goal and will do it successfully. Mr. Harry L. Beckwith is a good example of these strong characteristics. Mr. Beckwith has been deaf since he was six years old. Yet he can now speak with excellence and lip read very proficiently. He has learned both these skills in a public school, not in one especially designed for the deaf. He presently works for an architectural firm and teaches at the Manchester School for the Deaf. He is also a pilot.

United Technology is one corporation which has demonstrated faith in handicapped individuals. They have a placement program set up with the American School for the Deaf and show no discrimination towards other handicapped individuals. They have established a program called Physical Demands and Functional Capacity and this serves as the basis for their system of hiring an individual. The procedure for hiring under this program, as the title implies, deals with the physical capabilities of the applicant and the physical demands of the position for which he is applying. If he can perform the physical duties of the job then he will be given full consideration. If he is unable to meet and perform the physical responsibilities required for the position he will be unable to hold the position. United Technology has many handicapped individuals on their staff and are willing to hire all who are qualified. To aid in the training of handicapped individuals so that they will be able to perform various jobs, numerous programs have been developed. ROTC Regional Occupational Training Center is one location which has a program which deals with vocational and related academic training for the handicapped. At the center handicapped students are taught useful skills such as woodworking, automotive, horticulture and retail. There is a work-study program for those who are advanced enough to work at a particular industry getting the job experience, while also learning in a classroom.

Programs like this which aid in the training of handicapped individuals are still scarce, but more are being developed. Although the capabilities of some handicapped individuals are limited, they are still skillful, dependable and able to do a job.

to realize that although the capabilities of some handicapped individuals are limited, they are still skillful, dependable and able to do a job.

Editor's note: The above letter stems from a statement made by Eugene A. Sierakowski at the public discussion on the CD funds issue at Hill Junior High School Monday night. Sierakowski claimed Slieith had opposed a planned condominium project off Porter St., a claim which Slieith originally denied at the meeting.

What has the FBI and the military particularly uplight is the fact that, if one of the guards hadn't blown the plot, Andrews would certainly have gotten away with the explosives. The four guards constituted the entire night shift at the ultra-sensitive storage area. Most frightening of all, the incident demonstrated once again the sloppy security at Toolee, where the nation's largest supply of nerve gas is stored. The base was already the target of a congressional probe of inadequate security measures and guard selection. Evidence disclosed that several employees tried to cover up an inventory shortage of 24 nerve gas shells by putting dummy rounds in their place.

Footnote: Our sources tell us that other polygamous fanatics have stockpiled weapons in anticipation of moves against them by law enforcement authorities. Though the violence-prone zealots constitute only a small minority of the estimated 30,000 religiously oriented polygamists in the United States, the danger they pose to society is out of all proportion to their numerical strength. They foresee the end of the world as imminent and expect to be called upon by God to eliminate the unworthy before Doomsday comes.

Jack Anderson
Explosives, Zealots Lethal Combination

WASHINGTON - Religious zealots have always posed a special problem for law enforcement authorities. Their constitutional protections must be respected, yet the damage even a small band of messianic madmen can wreak on society has been tragically demonstrated in recent years by Charles Manson and the Rev. Jim Jones.

A case being tried in Salt Lake City involves a self-anointed holy man called Stephen Andrews, who was caught trying to steal plastic explosives from Toolee Army Depot in Utah, where he worked as a guard. Our sources say Andrews boasted to other guards that he was a polygamist, that he walked and talked with God, and that he believed he should prepare for any challenges to that authority by stockpiling a private cache of weapons.

The prosecution is leery of the religious motivation behind the Andrews case, and instead is planning to prove that he was planning to sell the stolen explosives to mercenaries. Andrews is not the first truculent polygamist to give Western lawmen cause for alarm. Consider these recent cases:

We have already reported on Ervil LeBaron, who is in hiding in Mexico, charged with two murders in Utah and one in California. Police believe his hardcore band of 40 followers has been responsible for the religious assassinations of several others as well - including LeBaron's daughter Rebecca and her brother Joel.

Authorities are keeping a watchful eye on Alex Joseph, an affable, internationally known polygamist and star of his own movie who so far has confined his battles with police and the federal government to the courtroom. But Joseph has an unsettling penchant for religion and revolvers.

A former California policeman and a karate practitioner, Joseph lives in a log fortress in southern Utah with a 24-hour guard posted. His adherents, including teen-agers, are proficient with guns, and openly flaunt their rifles and pistols when visitors come to the community. One member of the group is an expert cutter who turns out superb knives, including a CIA-designed miniature scythe that fits over the hand like brass knuckles.

Perhaps for these reasons, some Utah lawmen have used pictures of Joseph for their daily target practice.

The most recent incident was the Jan. 30 arrest at Toolee Army Depot of Andrews and three fellow guards in the explosives theft. One of the guards was supposedly a party to the crime, but he had tipped off the FBI, and agents were waiting at the depot site when the four arrived with 36 cases of the explosives.

Sources told our associate Editor Van Atta that what Andrews really was after was a supply of grenades. Alarmed at the Singer shooting less than two weeks earlier, Andrews wanted the grenades to protect himself from a similar police raid. He had already collected a number of M-16 automatic rifles, according to our sources.

Math Meet

In this year's sixth and final league competition the MHS math team has placed first, overwhelming its closest competitor by 19 points.

Manchester ended with 47 points, eight away from a perfect team score of 105. Concord placed second with 79 points and Hall finished third.

For A team, seniors Karen Johnson and Tom Apter had perfect scores of 18, junior Steve Reich ended with 16, and junior Tim DeValve and sophomore Courtland Sears both had scores of 15.

By virtue of this, the team's fourth win during this year. Manchester has finished an overall first for the 1978-79 C.A.M.L. (Capitol Area Math League) season. This marks coach Robert Thompson's first league win in her eight year math team career.

Though the year may be over for math team members, many of Manchester's members are still working hard for other competitions. The first of these post-season competitions, the Connecticut Area Math Meet, will be held at Danbury High School.

The remainder of the locally sponsored, underqualified hackers that one usually finds on a faculty promenade, is almost never shown, comes back to the little town looking for someone to marry.

The picture begins with a scene in which a young lady murders a teenage girl on Halloween night. The scene is complete with dark shadows, footsteps, and music that intensifies as to when you should be terrified.

The rest of the movie takes place in the same suburban small town in which it began, again on Halloween night, fifteen years later. The boy has escaped from the mental institution he has called home since the murder, and the fun begins.

The murderer, whose face appears in a flash, is a young man who is a speed freak. He is a speed freak who is a speed freak who is a speed freak.

Faculty Wins Hoop Game

In a fine display of sportsmanship and respect for their elders, the senior boys basketball team allowed their obviously overmatched faculty opponents to win the annual Senior Faculty Basketball contest by a score of 100 to 89.

The game opened up with a fast pace. For the seniors, Gary Marioneau did most of the early scoring with Chris Boser also chipping in with a few baskets.

In the second half, the seniors were determined to let the faculty take the lead. The play of the seniors was no less than heroic, as they remarkably kept straight faces during the entire game.

The Greater Hartford March of Dimes is sponsoring a Superwalk on Sunday, April 29 in Downtown Hartford with a distance of 30 kilometers.

The MHS student body is screaming "Foul!" after last Friday night's basketball loss to the faculty. The students feel that the teachers employed an unfair tactic.

"Halloween" has too many errors to be great, yet it is too exciting to pass by completely. Advice from here is to wait until it makes its second run, when it will come to the smaller, cheaper theaters.

Olympics To Aid Retarded

If you like to cheer, and get excited and enjoy seeing others smile, then you are just what the planning committee for the Special Olympics is looking for.

The Connecticut Special Olympics will be held June 8, 9, and 10 at Central Connecticut State College, with the participants and their parents or chaperones staying for the two nights on the college dorms.

Competitors in the Special Olympics are at least eight years of age with no limit for the maximum age of the individuals. They will compete in such events as track and field, swimming, wheelchair events, and soccer.

Each year the DAR holds a popular and faculty vote to determine the high school students who are most qualified for this honor.

The race riot was a laugh, an apple tossed across the cafe does not a riot cause. And that's basically all it was.

The cheating "scandal" what is the big deal here? I just cannot understand why everyone had to crank out an article about the new outrage at MHS.

As I understand it, a number of honor students cheated on an exam and then admitted to it. Is that all that newsworthy? Again, don't ask the reporters to resign.

I think that the open campus nice surprise Saturday morning, or they will have to endure another grueling weekend's wait.

For those of you students who work in the summer or even during the year, don't forget to fill out your 1040 forms. Uncle Sam's deadline is Monday.

That's Entertainment

Current Disco Fad Reminiscent of Past

While the disco - whether it be New York's supposedly super-sophisticated Studio 54 or a newly-opened facility in back-country America - may well be labeled the late 1970's answer to the pre-World War II roller skating rinks in a way, the matter is far as pinpointing young adult receptivity (i.e., where people are expected to gather, to be seen and to see), is more reflective of an age than a time.

Television, with its enormous grasp on young America's imagination, conjures up a very different, more indicative picture of fiction than reality. The television sitcom (i.e., situation comedy) serves as the late 1970's counterpart of what passed for the high gloss and fanciful doings of the American motion picture output in the midst of the 1930s.

Biographers have said that in looking back at childhood, the creative interests, particularly in fiction, have emphasized the sentimental, Samuel Langhorne Clemens - Mark Twain - was in his best form writing of Mississippi River days of his youth.

A banquet at which a medal was awarded to each recipient was held on Thursday April 12. The students, accompanied by members of the DAR, will also attend a luncheon and tour of the capitol in Hartford sometime in the near future.

I think anyone would agree that Theresa Mazzotta is most deserving of this award. I would like to offer my congratulations to Tessie as would the students and faculty of MHS for receiving the DAR Good Citizenship Award. - Bette Sheldon.

Count Basie Is Coming

MANCHESTER - Merv Meridy, president of Temple Beth Shalom, has received a special autograph in the mail. It is the signature of Count Basie, and what pleases Meridy is that it is affix to a contract committing the performer and his orchestra to play May 13 under the sponsorship of Temple Beth Shalom.

Elaine Schiff, president of the Temple's Sisterhood, who with Meridy is organizing the concert, says that hiring this orchestra is for so long that they are intimate and casual with each other.

There are no "hired hands" to do the "dirty work." Rather, all aspects of taking a show on the road are handled by the performers themselves.

Meridy points out that this quality of cohesiveness is so strong with the Count Basie orchestra that performers remain part of the team year after year.

Freddie Green, for instance, has been playing guitar with the Basie Band since its inception. Basie fans from this area may remember Green's appearance with the Count at Lake Compounce in 1972.

State to Woo Businesses From South

HARTFORD (UPI)—Connecticut economic development officials are hoping the same factors that prompted northern businesses to expand in the South will be repeated in reverse — to lure "Sunbelt" businesses to expand up north.

"Forty or 50 years ago firms that started in the Northeast found it was time to expand to other regions," Economic Development Commissioner Edward Stockton said Thursday. "We're finding the same thing true now of companies which started in the South."

He said state officials next week will visit the Southern U.S. in an attempt to convince Alabama and Georgia businesses to expand in Connecticut.

He said Connecticut isn't trying to steal Southern industry, but that if companies are interested in expanding in the north his office wants to expand in Connecticut and not some other New England state.

"As their natural growth place, it's natural to look to expand to other regions. And it's logical to look to the Northeast," he said.

"They were much more eager to talk than we'd anticipated they would be," Stockton said of the Southern businessmen. "It's just a natural economic phenomena and we're just trying to take advantage of it. I think we'll keep our people busy."

Housing Effect Questioned

MANCHESTER — The town's Housing Authority is concerned about the possible effect on its new elderly housing project of Spencer Street if the town is banned from using federal Community Development funds.

In a letter to Town Manager Robert B. Weiss, Housing Authority Chairman Pascal Mastrangelo, said that he and other commissioners discussed in detail the potential impact on the project if the referendum to call a two-year moratorium on the Community Development Block Grant succeeds.

The state is providing $800,000 for this project. Of this, $120,000 is for administration, carrying charges, architectural and engineering fees, surveys and maps, kitchen equipment, maintenance equipment and contingencies Mastrangelo reported.

"The remaining $680,000, or $17,000 per unit, is for construction and site work. If our architect estimates that the per unit cost for construction and site work will be about $21,000, if we install electric heat, and $22,500 if we install gas heat.

"This $4,000 to $5,000 difference in the per unit cost will mean a difference of from $160,000 to $220,000 in the construction and site work over and above the amount provided by the state," Mastrangelo advised Weiss.

He also said that the state will not provide additional funds unless the General Assembly makes such a provision.

The Housing Authority has been allocated $36,500 in Community Development funds from the Capitol Region Council of Government and hopes to receive $13,500 in CD funds from the town. "If these funds come through, we will still be $60,000 to $120,000 short of our needs, depending on whether we install electric or gas heat," Mastrangelo said.

He also questioned whether the authority would get the CD funds if the referendum succeeds. He got his answer Tuesday night, when the Board of Directors turned over the $36,500 from CCROG to the authority.

At that time Weiss said that if the referendum is passed, the funds would have to be returned unless the town continued to fund its Fair Housing program.

If the authority receives these CD funds, it will be asking the town to provide it with from $60,000 to $120,000. "If we lose these funds because of the referendum, the town will be asked to provide the authority with from $160,000 to $220,000 for the project, he said.

"The commissioners of this authority agreed unanimously that their concern be made clear to you and the Board of Directors, especially since the town will be asked to provide additional funding necessary to make the new project feasible," the letter concluded.

DH Plays Role in Indian Win

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Editor

Never before had Manchester High baseball Coach Hal Parks had the opportunity to utilize a designated hitter. The veteran Indian coach, in fact, doesn't particularly care for them.

But he used one yesterday and probably will a lot more in the future. Sophomore Shawn Spears, in the role, knocked in the winning run at the bottom of the ninth inning as the Indians rebounded from an embarrassing season-opening loss to win East Hartford High 5-4 in CCIL play.

Manchester led early but fell behind in the seventh, 4-3, as the Hornets pulled two unearned runs on two Tribe miscues. "The defense was less shaky than the last time," mused Parks. "Pretty soon we'll find the right people for the right place."

The locals knotted it in the eighth on Edgar Ezeres' infield roller that scored Spears, who led off the bottom of the ninth.

Ingram was shaky in the sixth and seventh innings when the Hornets, 1-2, scored but he got his second wind and lashed strong. He walked four, whiffed eight and was touched for only four hits.

"I don't want to take anything away from him (Ingram)," he said, "but I didn't plan on getting more than seven from him but he got stronger." Parks explained the route-going performance.

Ezeres tripped home Manchester's first tally in the second while O'Brien tripped and Spears singled home three-running tallies. Ted Hilkach squeezed home a third-inning Hornet marker while a Jones-slow roller in the sixth produced a second tally.

Sox Outlast Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Some of baseball's best batters cracked long home runs, but Jim Dwyer, a little used Boston Red Sox outfielder batting .000, produced with the game-winning hit.

Dwyer slapped a ball over the head of shortstop Robin Young in the ninth inning to drive in Carl Yastrzemski and George Scott — both of whom hit home runs earlier — to give Boston a 12-10 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

"It's just one of those things I used to get one a hit once in a while myself," joked Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger, who pitched briefly in the major leagues.

Bamberger, however, couldn't joke about having allowed reliever Bill Castro to face Dwyer. He said he could have brought in a left-hander, but kept Castro because Boston might have countered with Butch Hobson or Carlton Fisk, who were on the bench with injuries.

"I wanted Dwyer to hit," said Bamberger. "I didn't want him to get a hit. Though all he did was just slap the ball over our shortstop. I was happy to see Dwyer come up there."

Dwyer, who pinch-hit for catcher Gary Anderson, was at a loss for words.

"It's tough to come in in a situation like that. You do the best you can," he said. "I felt relieved."

With nine out in the ninth and Jim Fife aboard on a walk, Yastrzemski singled, George Scott surprised Milwaukee with a punt single and Jack Brainer hit into a double play. Dwyer then got an intentional walk and Dwyer then knocked

John's Sinker Pitch Keeps Birds at Bay

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Maybe he doesn't throw as hard as he used to. But little else about Tommy John has changed since his seven years in the National League.

John, who came to the New York Yankees from Los Angeles last winter, used his sinker pitch Thursday to three-hit the Baltimore Orioles 3-0. It was his second win in as many starts.

"He was a good pitcher then and he is a good pitcher now," Orioles Manager Earl Weaver said. "He's just not throwing as hard. But tonight, he was a master."

John didn't start out that way. He gave up two hits and a walk to the first two batters he faced.

But after Al Bumbry led off the third inning with a single, John yielded 19 of the next 20 batters, yielding only an eighth-inning top to Rick Dempsey.

The Yankees exploded for five runs in the second inning, including back-to-back homers by Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss, and chased Oriole starter Mike Flanagan, 4-1. New York managed only three singles the rest of the way.

John, who has given up only one run in 16 innings, struck out only four Orioles. But 14 Baltimore players grounded out, and the left-hander credited the Yankee infield with eight errors.

"They've got an outstanding infield, and it's one of the reasons I signed with this ballclub," he said.

Heggie Jackson opened the second inning with a single to center field. Then Nettles who was six-for-13 in three games against the Orioles, homered over the right-field fence and Chambliss followed with his blast.

Cliff Johnson then doubled to left field. Willie Randolph walked and Thurman Munson singled in the Yankees' final two runs.

John compared Baltimore with something that will happen if they play for the Dodgers.

Contract Renewed

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Coach Bob Weisbauer, who led the University of Pennsylvania to the finals of the NCAA basketball championships, Wednesday had his contract renewed for a four-year period.

Weisbauer, an assistant coach at Penn for five years before taking over as head coach on Nov. 10, 1977, had a year to go on his original three-year contract.

'Old Men' Show the Way

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the new American League season still in its infancy, the "old men" are showing the way.

Carl Yastrzemski, Tommy John and Ferguson Jenkins, three veterans who have put in more than 45 years in the big leagues, keyed their respective teams to victory Thursday night.

Yastrzemski, 39, hit his seventh career grand slam, doubled twice and singled and scored the winning run in the ninth inning, leading the Boston Red Sox to a 12-10 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Tommy John, 35, pitched a three-hitter for his second straight victory as a Yankee when he paced New York to a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Down in Texas, Jenkins, 35, pitched a six-hitter over 8 1/3 innings before Sparky Lyle came on to wrap up a 5-3 Ranger win over Cleveland.

Texas took advantage of wildness by Rick Waits and the pitching of Jenkins to overcome an early deficit. The Rangers never have won their first five games of the season, but they did win their first game since they left Detroit tonight.

"I think this team has pride going for it this year," said Jenkins.

With one out in the ninth, Jenkins gave up a single and Manager Pat Corrales called for Lyle.

"Well, I'd say Pat went to the right guy," Jenkins said with a smile.

In other AL games, Toronto defeated the Chicago White Sox, 9-7. Seattle edged Oakland, 4-3, and California clubbed Minnesota, 7-1.

Walt Frazier, 39, White Sox 7, Rick Cerone's three-run homer greeted reliever Pablo Turrona and capped a six-run rally in the eighth inning to lift Toronto.

Pinch-runner Joe Simpson scored the winning run on Jim Estian's passed ball in a two-run eighth inning to carry Seattle.

Willie Jenkins smacked his first major-league home run and added a double and a sacrifice fly and Chris Knapp, 10, went the distance on a four-hitter to lead the Angels.

Human Relations Board Votes Neutrality on CD

By GREG PEARSON

MANCHESTER — Despite arguments that it should support Community Development, the Human Relations Commission Thursday night voted to take no stand on the issue.

"We should represent all the town and let the town make up its own mind," Lee Gunderson, chairman of the commission, said. "That's the most equal way for our commission to operate."

Her view was opposed by commission members Richard Dyer and Carl Chaddburn, both of whom said the commission should support continuation in the program.

"I feel we are not doing our job if we do not take a stand. It's a question of human rights," Chaddburn said.

Mrs. Gunderson's view, however, was shared by the other two members who attended Thursday's meeting, Frank Livingston and Janet Damron.

Other town boards have taken stands in support of the program. Town voters will decide Tuesday about a proposed ordinance that would ban participation in the Community Development program for two years.

The program provided funding annually to the community, and the money is to be used primarily to aid low- and moderate-income residents.

The program also includes fair housing goals for the community. Because of the aims of the program, Dyer and Chaddburn both argued that the Human Relations Commission, which is supposed to prevent discrimination, should support continuation in Community Development.

"HUD's involvement has helped facilitate equal housing. It has helped the elderly. It has helped the handicapped," Dyer said. "HUD is the federal department that runs the Community Development program."

"The program assists those whom the commission also is supposed to be aiding," Dyer said. "Because of this, I don't think we're speaking beyond our scope by telling people how to vote," Livingston said.

Mrs. Gunderson also argued that the town has not asked the commission to become involved in other related matters, such as the fair housing brochure. Because of this, the commission should not take a stand on the present issue, she said.

The commission members did agree on one thing: They praised Monday's forum on the Community Development program.

"The members who argued against taking a stand did not criticize the Community Development program. But, they said the commission should not be involved in making such decisions."

Mrs. Gunderson said the commission should not support a particular position on the question.

"We would be saying it's more fair to do this than that. I don't think it's within our mandate to say this," she said.

Livingston said the commission is an advisory board to the Town Board of Directors, which already has agreed to submit an application for next year's funding. Since the board already has acted, the commission should take no stand and let town voters decide, he said.

"I think we're speaking beyond our scope by telling people how to vote," Livingston said.

Mrs. Gunderson also argued that the town has not asked the commission to become involved in other related matters, such as the fair housing brochure. Because of this, the commission should not take a stand on the present issue, she said.

The proposed slate of officers for next year include: MaryLou Lemaire, president; Cathy Sprecher, John Morra, vice-presidents; Nancy Fish, recording secretary; Judy Taksar, corresponding secretary; Elaine Barbero, treasurer; Zena Barger, membership and nominating officer.

Balloons Blow From Ballston To Bolton

By DONNA HOLLAND

HERALD Correspondent

BOLTON — How long does it take to get from Ballston Lake in New York to Bolton Lake in Connecticut? It depends on who or what you are and how you travel.

It took two balloons, traveling by air, of course, less than a day.

As part of a class project, students at the Chango Elementary School in Ballston Lake, New York released an unknown number of balloons Wednesday.

Thursday morning two of them (attached to each other) were found by three Bolton children who live on Plymouth Lane, adjacent to Bolton Lake.

Jennifer and Kerry Polidoro, age 9 and 3 respectively, and Kimberly Jarvis, age 10, were playing outside Thursday morning they saw what they thought was a blue and white "margarite bowl."

Going to investigate the girls discovered it was two balloons with a card attached. The card asked where the balloons landed, when they were found, their shape and condition and the distance from Chango.

Mrs. Polidoro said the balloons were a pretty good size. She said the card would be filled out and returned to the Chango Elementary School. Right after the girls had their picture taken with their discovery.

Two balloons, released by school children in Ballston Lake, New York, which is just a little north of Amsterdam, made a safe landing in Bolton Thursday. The message on the card attached to the balloons said they were released Wednesday along with hundreds of others from the Chango Elementary School.

Children in this area also released balloons in connection with a Weekly Reader program and maybe some of them will wind their way to Ballston. Looking at the balloons they found in a wooded area on Plymouth Lane, are, left to right, Kerry Polidoro, 3; Jennifer Polidoro, 9; and Kim Jarvis, 10. (Herald photo by Strempler)

Nothing's changed. That happened to me six or seven years ago," Commission member Frank Livingston said.

The commission agreed to send a letter to the Town Board of Directors asking for improved communication on such matters.

The commission also discussed a complaint from Franklyn Parker, a resident of the Holiday House. Parker had asked the commission to investigate a difference in nursing home prices charged private and state welfare patients.

Umps Help Giants Sneak Past Padres

NEW YORK (UPI) San Francisco Manager Joe Altobelli admits his Giants are getting the breaks early in the season.

"I've always said you have to be a little lucky as well as good to win," the second-year pilot said Thursday, after the Giants parlayed some breaks, surprising decisions, and some timely baseball into a 4-3 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Altobelli doesn't mind using up a little bit of luck in the ninth, once it's when a team can play backcourt ball and still win. And that's what happened to winner Bob Knepper.

The young left-hander threw 155 pitches, made two errors, and put himself in nearly constant trouble with six walks, but still combined with reliever Dave Roberts on a six-hitter.

Darrell Evans hit a two-run homer for the Giants to help offset one by Dave Winfield. And the close winning decision went to the Giants, offsetting any San Diego momentum.

Plate umpire Roy Bothome once made a call for first-base umpire Fred Hewitt, who fell down on a liner down the right field line. Both ruled for the home side. Another time, Both ruled a batter swinging at a low pitch for strike three. The Padres appealed to three base umpire Jim Conko, who indicated he did not get a good look at the play. Again, rule for the home side.

"I know these umps are not big winners and it's hard to criticize them because they are doing the best they can," said Padre Manager Hector Frang. "But some of their calls shouldn't have been allowed or a walk."

Altobelli doesn't mind using up a little bit of luck in the ninth, once it's when a team can play backcourt ball and still win. And that's what happened to winner Bob Knepper.

The young left-hander threw 155 pitches, made two errors, and put himself in nearly constant trouble with six walks, but still combined with reliever Dave Roberts on a six-hitter.

Darrell Evans hit a two-run homer for the Giants to help offset one by Dave Winfield. And the close winning decision went to the Giants, offsetting any San Diego momentum.

Plate umpire Roy Bothome once made a call for first-base umpire Fred Hewitt, who fell down on a liner down the right field line. Both ruled for the home side. Another time, Both ruled a batter swinging at a low pitch for strike three. The Padres appealed to three base umpire Jim Conko, who indicated he did not get a good look at the play. Again, rule for the home side.

"I know these umps are not big winners and it's hard to criticize them because they are doing the best they can," said Padre Manager Hector Frang. "But some of their calls shouldn't have been allowed or a walk."

Commission Stresses Need For Better Communication

MANCHESTER — Improved communication is needed, members of the Human Relations Commission said Thursday night.

Commission members said they found out about the appointment of Mary Ann Roy, the commission's newest member, by reading it in the newspaper.

Two recently appointed members, Carl Chaddburn and Richard Dyer, both said they also learned about their appointments by reading the newspaper.

Nothing's changed. That happened to me six or seven years ago," Commission member Frank Livingston said.

The commission agreed to send a letter to the Town Board of Directors asking for improved communication on such matters.

The commission also discussed a complaint from Franklyn Parker, a resident of the Holiday House. Parker had asked the commission to investigate a difference in nursing home prices charged private and state welfare patients.

Bolton's GOP Urges Hearing Attendance

BOLTON - The Republican Town Committee is urging residents to attend the public hearing on the proposed budget for 1979-80 Monday at 8 p.m. at the Community Hall.

William Fehling, town chairman, said townspeople should know the budget is asking for the addition of three salaries positions: an administrative assistant for the Board of Selectmen, a public works foreman and a park crew leader.

Fehling said the three salaries total $30,000.

Fehling said, "I hope people will attend the hearing and ask questions about the duties and responsibilities of the new positions and determine for themselves whether the requests are justified."

He said, "There are a lot of other items in the proposed budget that should be considered and questioned by townspeople."

Copies of the proposed budget for 1979-80 are available at the Community Hall and Bentley Memorial Library.

Junior Librarians Honored by Board

MANCHESTER - The library board this week commended the town's two junior department head librarians for the success of a recent special reading awareness program in Whiton Memorial Auditorium.

Mrs. Elsie Jenkins, head of the junior room at Mary Cheney Library, and Mrs. Jacqueline Moores, children's librarian at the Whiton Library, cooperated with Carol Hill, coordinator of elementary reading and director of Title I reading programs at the Manchester schools, in presenting the program which was attended by more than 50 parents.

The program with book displays was designed to show parents how they can help their children become more effective and enthusiastic readers.

Impressed with the program's success, the board strongly suggested another similar event in the fall. Mrs. Jenkins told the board she would like to see the program an ongoing event.

Turbidity Violations Reported

MANCHESTER - The town had violations for turbidity and fluoride in its water system last month, Bob Young, water treatment manager for the town, said.

The turbidity violation occurred at Lydell Street, Young said. The average level there was 1.50, which is above the 1.0 standard permitted.

Low fluoride levels were reported at Cooper Hill and Buckingham Reservoir because of a delay in the delivery of chemicals, Young said.

The town has received an extension before it has to comply with stricter federal standards for water quality. But, any violations of these standards still must be reported.

The $20 million bond issue town voters will act on next Tuesday is viewed as a major step for meeting the stricter federal standards.

Armentano Plan Aide In Vernon

VERNON - Francis Armentano, 23, of Manchester, has been hired as assistant to Vernon's town planner.

The position has been vacant for more than a year.

Armentano has been hired under the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program. The funding will continue for 18 months, under the existing program.

Town Planner George Russell said he hopes to have Armentano concentrate on long-term planning projects including working with Russell on updating the town's plan of development.

Armentano completed his studies at the University of Connecticut last December. He majored in political science and has a special interest in urban politics.

The former town planner and his two assistants all resigned last spring and Russell was hired a few months later but the other two positions hadn't been filled.

Childrens Movie

SOUTH WINDSOR - The Tobacco Valley Chapter of Women's American ORT will present a movie for children on April 28 from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Orchard Hill School.

The movie will be "Hey There, It's Yogi Bear." A 99 cent donation will be asked.

Accent Is On Sensible

Here is a model universally favored by families who give comfortable living top priority.

It is an attractive house, too — its basically efficient rectangular living area delightfully accented by the right-angled placement of the attached double garage. And note, too, the recessed entrance and the good looking roof line. This model can be built either with or without a basement.

With the double front doors a formal entry completely channels traffic to the front-of-the-house living room, to the family room at the back, or to a well placed bedroom which easily could double duty as a den.

And what a living room this plan offers. It is comfortably sized and highlighted both by its attractive fireplace and by the interesting railing effectively dramatizing its entrance. A dining ell at the back lends spaciousness yet retains its essential separateness.

Those who cook in this model's delightful U-shaped kitchen never need fear missing out on family fun, for the family room is happily adjacent. And a large sliding glass door here allows light run to blend naturally with outdoor pleasures. The family room dimensions include the optional basement entry.

Opening from an L-shaped central hallway are this model's three attractive bedrooms and the main bath. Of course, the big, back-of-the-house, master bedroom has its own bath, too, as well as a private garden entry and a large walk-in wardrobe.

You may purchase complete working drawings, material lists and plan books from Larry Farnsworth, P.O. Box 1841, Las Vegas, Nevada 89101.

Proposed Mortgage Plan To Aid Home Buyers

WASHINGTON — An additional $5 million American families with incomes between $15,000 and $24,000 could afford to buy their first homes under an expanded graduated payment mortgage plan introduced in both houses of Congress.

The "Homeownership Opportunity Act of 1979" would modify the existing FHA Section 245 program for graduated payment mortgages by reducing downpayment requirements, extending the graduation period and recognizing the appreciation in value of the home.

The bill (S.740) was introduced by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (D-N.J.), chairman of the Senate Banking Subcommittee on Housing and Urban Affairs. Similar legislation was introduced in the House by Rep. Les AuCoin (D-Ore.) and Rep. John LaFalce (D-N.Y.).

Williams noted that the median price of new homes increased from $32,500 in 1973 to about $60,000 today, outstripping increases in incomes by almost a two-to-one margin.

"This widening gap is rendering millions of families unable to afford the important first purchase of a home," he added. "It has been estimated that for every $1,000 increase in the cost of a house an average 700,000 families are priced out of the home buying market."

Under one mortgage option, a special task force on rising housing costs, said that this bill is not a "cure all" to skyrocketing housing prices. "What this bill will do," he said, "is add one more tool to help thousands of families realize the benefits of homeownership at a time when thousands are being priced out of the market."

Under the mortgage option, a family could purchase a $35,000 home with an annual income as low as $18,000 instead of the $24,000 annual income normally required. With a downpayment of $2,250 and a mortgage interest rate of 9.5 percent, the family's monthly mortgage payment for the first two years would be $317, or $148 less a month than the payment under a standard fixed rate mortgage. At the end of the two-year period, the family's mortgage payment would increase 6 percent a year for 10 years to a pre-determined level.

Williams said the bill avoided two major limitations of the current FHA-Section 245 graduated payment mortgage program — the high down-payment requirement ($4,200 for a $55,000 home) and the relatively steep annual increase of 7.5 percent in monthly payments under the most popular GPM option, both of which have limited use of the program to mainly young professionals and others with particularly bright economic prospects.

Williams said that the expanded GPM plan is geared more to the moderate income person, who can expect only modest increases in pay. Therefore, the downpayment is reduced to $2,250 on a $55,000 home and the annual rate of increase in monthly mortgage payments is as low as 4 percent under the Williams proposal.

Vondal S. Gravelle, president of the National Association of Home Builders, strongly endorsed the Williams' proposal. "It would reopen the door to homeownership for millions of American working families who otherwise would be unable to purchase a home because of soaring costs and mortgage interest rates nearing 11 percent," he said.

Sen. Jake Garn (R-Utah), ranking Republican on the Senate Banking Committee and its Housing and Urban Affairs Subcommittee, joined Williams in sponsoring the legislation. "The best part of this program is that it doesn't require any federal expenditures," Garn said. It provides lower payments in the early years of the mortgage so that families in the $15,000 to $24,000 income range can overcome the "frustration and anguish" of not being able to qualify for a home.

Rep. John LaFalce said that the legislation would help prevent a disastrous collapse in housing construction in the event of a recession later this year.

"High interest rates, tight money supply, and various other fiscal and monetary efforts to help control inflation hit first and hardest at the housing industry, and already we are seeing signs that the volume of building is dropping," LaFalce said. Housing starts during February fell to an annual rate of 1.4 million, the lowest rate since January of 1977.

Other members of the Senate Banking Committee who co-sponsored the legislation were Chairman William Proxmire (D-Wis.), Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.), Sen. Robert Morgan (D-N.C.) and Sen. Donald Stewart (D-Ala.).

Inter-City Move Plan Offered

NEW YORK — Families moving from one city to another may receive up to $25,000 interest-free cash for home down payments under the unique Home Buyer Plan being test-marketed by Electronic Realty Associates, Inc. (ERA) Real Estate.

ERA Real Estate will also pay up to four monthly mortgage payments while the home is on the market. In addition, ERA will purchase the old home should the family be dissatisfied with the offer they receive, said J. Michael Jackson, senior vice president of ERA Real Estate, the nation's second largest real estate franchise organization with 3,500 offices throughout the country.

"The Home Buyer Plan eliminates many unpleasant prospects," Jackson said. "Members of the family won't have to stay behind waiting for the old home to be sold and the family won't have to assume a second loan. It eliminates triple payments on two mortgages and an interest payment — which can be financially devastating."

"We will keep the old home on the market a full eight months in order to get the highest price, but we will eliminate the financial uncertainty involved by giving the family their down payment and mortgage payments. This eliminates the family taking a discounted price just to unload the house in time to move," he said.

Jackson explained that the only requirements for qualifying for the Home Buyer Plan is that a family must be moving to another town and that the home must be purchased through an ERA Real Estate broker. A non-refundable $125 application fee pays for the appraisal of the home and pay out $7.5 million in claims by the end of 1979.

"This program is the only one of its kind in the entire real estate industry," Jackson said.

Plan and Home Sellers must be transacted through an ERA Real Estate broker. ERA Real Estate is the nation's number one marketer of home warranties and will cover $3 billion worth of homes and pay out $7.5 million in claims by the end of 1979.

"This program is the only one of its kind in the entire real estate industry," Jackson said.

Insulate Means Windows

If you insulate your walls and forget the windows, you've done less than half the job.

In the typical single story home, which has 1,500 square feet, the total wall area is about 1,050 square feet, and the window area is about 225 square feet. This is the statistic that makes windows seem less significant in energy conservation. But, in reality, the smaller window areas lose 118 percent as much energy as all the wall areas combined.

The simple explanation for this relatively unknown fact is that the materials used in windows permit heat transfer to occur at a rate that is five and one-half times as fast as it occurs through materials used in walls.

When the outside temperature is such that one square foot of un-insulated wall loses 19 BTUs per hour, a comparable single square foot of window is losing 105 BTUs per hour.

"The facts about windows are not well known, or at best they're misunderstood. This is the conclusion of Fred M. Schmidt, author of 'The Window Book'.

The last Women's Council of Realtors meeting that I attended had two very interesting guest speakers.

Paul Phaneuf Sr. of the Dale Funding Corporation was the main speaker for our luncheon. Joan Aubin, also with Dale Funding was our guest. Joan is the Manchester area representative.

The purpose of Mr. Phaneuf's talk was to further inform the Realtors present of the types of monies available for homebuyers, through his company or through other lending institution. He went into detail as to how to decide or figure upon which is the best type mortgage for your buyer, and also how to figure out if they qualify.

The GPM (graduated Payment Mortgage) was also discussed in detail. The GPM lets you make lower initial monthly mortgage payments than you thought were possible.

Closing costs, FHA, and VA loans were all brought up. This meeting was informative and helpful for all who attended.
