Six youths are brought into Manchester police headquarters this morning by four officers. They were among 10 arrested today out of a total of 42 expected to be charged with 68 burglaries, thefts and other crimes largely committed in the central area of town during the last six months.

Mass Arrest Nets 21 Crime Suspects

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Police began a mass arrest this morning aimed at 21 young men who have allegedly been involved in a total of 68 criminal acts, including 47 burglaries in the last few months.

Prior to today, 21 juvenile males were arrested in connection with the same incidents and were referred to juvenile court. A total of 253 charges ranging from thefts, an armed robbery and risk of injury to a minor were made against the 42 persons.

A total of 10 youths had been brought into police headquarters by noon today from various locations, including schools, in Manchester and other towns. The arrests complete a two-month investigation by four patrol officers assigned to the case which was dubbed "Operation Roundup" by the police.

Police had on display part of the $5,000 worth of stolen items which have been recovered from many of the burglaries. Detective Captain Joseph Brooks said the police have recovered most of what they expect to include four stolen automobiles, representing about 60 percent of the total stolen items.

Brooks said many of the stolen items, most taken in house breaks on Main Street and near the center of town, had been sold to local antique stores, or outside town.

The young people, ranging in age from 14 to the early 30s, are suspected of committing the crimes in loose-knit groups of five or six working together or alone on any one incident, Brooks said.

Most of the groups have some connection with the other groups and many of them apparently hang around together in popular spots such as Center Park, a pool hall and pinball machine operation in the Main Street area, he said.

They are known to pass stolen goods and drugs among themselves, Brooks said. Some have been involved in previous crimes, but only one or two may have been connected with another loose-knit gang of about 16 who were arrested for a large number of crimes in late December and early January, he said.

Police said they were able to solve the current set of crimes following the arrest of a 16-year-old in connection with two shots fired into the gymnasium at Bennett Junior High School on Feb. 2. Arrested in that incident was William C. Crombleholm of 107 Spruce St. Crombleholm was one of those arrested today on many burglary and larceny charges in connection with 14 separate incidents, mostly burglaries.

Others arrested today included Jeffrey Millard, 16, of 18 Newman St in connection with 18 incidents, Gordon Johnson, 16, of 15 Rosemary Place, 12 incidents; James Woodcock, 16, of 76 Garden St., nine incidents; Warren Goulet, 21, of Connecticut Blvd., East Hartford, one incident.

Other charges in addition to the burglary and larceny charges included four charges of risk of injury to a juvenile female, one count of delivery of liquor to a minor, one count each of illegal sale and possession of marijuana, three counts of tampering with a motor vehicle, and one count each of evading responsibility, a purse snatching, and making a false statement to police.

The arrest in the risk of injury case has not yet been made. One of the businesses which was the focus of several of the burglaries was Corvys' Package Store on Bissell Street.

Items recovered included a synthesizer stolen from Illing Junior High School, several stereo systems, radios, cameras, an antique musket, weights and jewelry.

This was the fourth large group arrest by Manchester police in the last 14 months. In addition to the two recent gang arrests, the police arrested several juveniles in connection with extensive vandalism at Washington School last spring and a several in a mass drug raid at the Pinball Wizard last February.

Michael Breen, 18, 11 Rosemary Place, three incidents; Kenneth Acelin, 18, of 44 Garden St., one incident; David Pearson, 16, of 377 Adams St., one incident; and William Chandler, 17, of 101 Chestnut St., two incidents, including an armed robbery; William Melnik, 16, of 25 Eldridge St., relating to one incident.

Brooks gave the credit for the arrests to the four officers who have been working on the cases since February. Gary Benson and Richard Busick, who helped solve the last youth crime ring, were assigned to the case because of their ability to relate well to young people, Brooks said. As the case mushroomed, James Bowen and Theodore Kryszewicz were also brought into the case.

Other arrests are expected in connection with the same incidents, Brooks said. State police also are expected to make some arrests. One robbery occurred in a business in Ellington, for which arrests have not yet been made, Brooks said.

Lawsuit Appeals CD Ban

By GREG PEARSON Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A lawsuit challenging the town's decision to drop out of the Community Development program has been filed.

The suit, filed by three legal aid attorneys representing three low-income Manchester residents, seeks an injunction to stop the town from leaving the program.

In response to that suit, the Town Board of Directors tonight will discuss passing a resolution that would finalize the decision made by voters Tuesday to drop out of the Community Development program for two years.

The resolution would be in response to one part of the lawsuit that says the Board of Directors, and not the town's residents, has to make the final decisions on a matter such as dropping out of the Community Development program.

The town attorney's office has been asked to issue an opinion for tonight's board meeting about when such an action can be taken by the directors.

The Community Development program provides funding annually to participating communities. The money is to be used primarily for projects that will benefit low- and moderate-income residents.

The lawsuit, filed Wednesday afternoon in U.S. District Court, lists three plaintiffs — Carol Angell of 405 N. Main St., Lucy Demirgian of 34D

Garden Drive and Lillian Rutchik of 19 Florence St.

Defendants named are the Town of Manchester, the nine members of the Town Board of Directors, Edward Tomkiel, town clerk, and Robert Weiss, town manager.

The attorneys representing the three low-income residents are Raymond Noriko of Legal Aid Society of the County of Hartford, Dennis O'Brien and Diana Johnston, both of Connecticut Legal Services.

The suit challenges the legality of Tuesday's vote.

Along with challenging the legality of Tuesday's vote the suit also says Manchester's decision to drop out of the program for two years will lead to violations of Civil Rights laws. The town's ban will harm its low-income residents, the suit says.

"The effect is to prevent low-income and minority black and Hispanic persons from residing, purchasing and occupying housing or rental space in the Town of Manchester," the suit says.

Town officials have been ordered to appear in court April 27 to show cause why a preliminary injunction against the two-year ban should not be issued.

"The effect of defendants' withdrawal from the Community Development Block Grant program is to perpetuate the segregated conditions of the past and to continue discriminatory housing practices," See Page Ten

Housing Need More Serious

By ALICE EVANS Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The Housing Authority, with more than 460 elderly and low-income families on waiting lists for housing assistance, is considering various ways to meet the need — even low-income housing.

Housing problems became more acute after the town voted Tuesday to put a two-year ban on its involvement with the Community Development Block Grant program. The authority, with 260 on the waiting list for elderly housing, has lost nearly $100,000 in CD funds for the construction of 40 new units of elderly housing and may lose the entire project if the town or General Assembly doesn't bail it out.

With slightly more than 200 low-income families on a waiting list for federal rental subsidies, the authority has been told by the Hartford office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development that all the town's applications for rental subsidies will be given low priority. This may affect the 64 applications now in HUD's hands, Dennis Phelan, executive director of the authority, said Wednesday night.

A discussion on the possibility of building low-income housing came after Joanne Mikoliet, human needs coordinator for the Manchester Conference of Churches, said that an average of 12 low-income persons come to her office each month for help in finding housing they can afford, and that the authority in the past has done little to meet this need.

The authority also has received an invitation from HUD to apply for elderly and/or low-income housing. Two months ago, the authority had turned down an invitation to apply for federal funding for 100 units of low-income housing.

Wednesday night, things changed. Richard Schwolsky, a member, who previously was against things, said "I think there is a need and if there's a need, I think it's incumbent for the town to do something." He referred to the number of poor on the waiting list, and to Ms. Mikoliet's remarks as well as her report a year ago that there were at that time 100 people she knew of who needed housing assistance.

Chairman Pasca Mastrangelo and Phelan thought the best way to meet the need was with federal rental subsidies. Phelan said he objected to low-income projects because the

The 'Palimony' Case: Who Really Won?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lee and Michelle were lovers. He was her man, but he didn't do her wrong. She had no contract.

That cost her an estimated $1.8 million, but a judge ruled she should at least get $104,000 to train herself for some occupation other than that of a movie star's mistress.

So, after six years of live-in romance, eight years of bitterness, three months of trial, reams of testimony and bales of headlines, who won the celebrated Marvin vs.

Marvin "palimony" trial? And what did Wednesday's ruling mean to the thousands of Americans who love 'em, live with 'em and leave 'em without benefit of clergy?

"Maybe nobody won," observed "the Third Marvin," attorney Marvin Mitchelson, who brought the suit by Michelle Triola Marvin against actor Lee Marvin.

Still, he said, he was glad to win the award — "it was in six figures after all" — of which he gets one-third, more than $34,000.

Some feminists hailed the fact that Miss Marvin, 46, got any money at all as a "wonderful breakthrough," while lawyers — and the judge agreed with them — viewed the conflicting elements as setting only fuzzy precedents, if any.

Marvin, 55, pointed out at his home in Tucson, Ariz. "We won on all counts — I couldn't have asked for more," because the judge rejected Miss Marvin's basic contention: that their six-year affair established an oral contract, an understood agreement by which Marvin promised to care for her all her life, basically the same financial rights a wife would have.

"It was a total victory," proclaimed the actor's attorney, David Kagon. "The judge totally sustained Lee's position."

Miss Marvin, however, called the award "an equitable remedy" and said she was satisfied, although it was far less than her original claim — half of everything the silver-haired, Oscar-winning actor earned while she lived with him from 1964 to 1970.

"I am proud to have paved the way for other women," she said, "but the next time people live together, I hope they sit down with pencil-in-hand."

Mitchelson called the ruling important because it was in effect "the first time alimony has been awarded in this case." The actor's lawyer said he interpreted the ruling as a warning to anyone entering such a relationship to do so with "great care."

Council Adds to Wages

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter
VERNON - After agonizing until early this morning over the new salary plan for non-union town employees, the Town Council unanimously agreed to add a 4 percent cost-of-living increase to the present salary step and then raise them to the next step which provides for an additional 2 percent increase.

In doing so the council said no matter what plan is instituted there will be some people who won't be happy with it. But council members felt this was a start in working with the new plan which was prepared by a committee with the help of Civil Service experts.

Since the plan was instituted last summer the town has received about 20 appeals from employees. This week, Craig Niles of the town's planning department left his job reportedly because of dissatisfaction with the one-level pay increase granted him by the Personnel Policies Board.

Of the 20 appeals, the board made a few minor changes but most were not. March of the lengthy discussion centered around whether or not to add the 4 percent increase after the employee was raised to the next step in the pay plan but it was decided this isn't the way it's usually done, that the cost-of-living increase is added to the current year's salary.

Preventive maintenance is important, said Mrs. Kerensky. The council seems to think that if the effects of poor maintenance is not seen immediately, it is not there.

Democratic Councilwoman Jackie Smith and Democrat Art Champagne voted against the cut. Councilwoman Smith said that much of the increase in the proposed budget was due to state mandated programs such as $84,000 necessary for the installation of ramps for handicapped at Timothy Edwards and Orchard Hill School.

The trimmed budget will be put before the public at a hearing scheduled for April 26, 7:30 p.m. at Timothy Edwards Middle School. The council is then expected to re-evaluate the proposed cut in light of public input.

Cody was working part-time as a security guard for Purulor. He lived on Danford Road in Vernon. Mayor Frank McCoy, who introduced the resolution, said that everyone who knew Cody knew what a great person he was.

Funeral services were being held for him this morning in Hartford and representatives from the local police department and others from other departments, were to attend to pay honor to Cody.

Protest Budget Cuts

An unidentified student from Manchester Community College, dressed in ghostly white, was among some 300 students from Connecticut community colleges who assembled on the lawn of the Capitol in Hartford Wednesday to protest Gov. Ella Grasso's $2,600,000 budget cut. The cut, which students and college officials say would have a crippling effect on all of the state's community colleges, still has to be acted on by the Legislature. The protest went on while the Legislature was in session inside. At one point State Rep. Irving Stolberg came outside and told the students and other protesters, "If you continue to yell and protest this way while the House is in session, your chances for an increase in the budget will be diminished." Town Moves to Avoid Exposure in CD Suits

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER - For the first time Wednesday night, the Town Board of Directors discussed action it might take in response to lawsuits expected because of the vote to ban town participation in the federal Community Development program for two years.

One such suit was filed Wednesday by three attorneys representing low-income town residents. Other similar actions, including possible challenges to the town receiving other federal funds, are expected.

Board members apparently plan to pass a resolution that will verify the action taken by town voters Tuesday to approve the two-year ban on participation in Community Development.

The town attorney's office has been asked to have an opinion for tonight's meeting about when the board can take such action. It may be possible for the board to act immediately, but it also might have to readvertise such a resolution before acting. Also, Director Joseph Sweeney said today he would like to delay such action until the show cause hearing for the suit is held.

The legal action about that program centers on the idea that Community Development is aimed at assisting low- and moderate-income residents and also includes fair housing goals.

Bolton Group Seeks Union

BOLTON - Town employees filed a petition for membership in the American Federation State of Connecticut Municipal Employees Union Wednesday. No details were available. The union representative could not be reached for comment.

In a related matter the highway employees were invited by the Board of Selectmen to a special meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Community Hall.

In a letter to the employees Selectman John Carey said, "If you are concerned, have questions about your job or the proposed public works department, feel free to make comments or ask questions."

In a notice about the meeting the selectmen said if it is voted there will be an executive session.

Council Cites Slain Officer

VERNON - The flag at the Vernon Police Station is flying at half-staff and the Town Council Wednesday night passed a resolution to extend sympathy to the wife and family of Hartford Police Officer Edward Cody who was shot and killed during a robbery earlier this week at the Purulor Company in Waterbury.

Cody was working part-time as a security guard for Purulor. He lived on Danford Road in Vernon. Mayor Frank McCoy, who introduced the resolution, said that everyone who knew Cody knew what a great person he was.

Burnham Street Closing Trial Due to End Today

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
HARTFORD - The trial involving the closing of Burnham Street was expected to end today with attorneys for Manchester and South Windsor presenting their final arguments.

Today was the seventh day of the trial. The closing of Burnham Street will increase traffic on its roads, especially Pleasant Valley Road and Clark Street.

Manchester representatives have said that the industrial park road provides an improved route and would receive most of the traffic now using Burnham Street.

South Windsor has said the road should not be closed at least until the J.C. Penney building opens.

During Wednesday afternoon's session of the trial, two traffic engineers repeated their differing beliefs about traffic flow if Burnham Street is closed.

Ronald Morra, who prepared a traffic study for South Windsor, said there is no reason to close Burnham Street because of increased traffic. Morra, who now works for the City of Springfield, said that if the street closes, most of the traffic now using Burnham Street will switch to a route through South Windsor.

John Thompson, an engineer for Fuss & O'Neil, has a differing view, however. He said most of the traffic now using Burnham Street would shift to a road running through the Industrial Park.

Morra said Burnham Street now carries 2,850 vehicles a day. When the road through the industrial park opens, this figure will drop to 1,950.

When J.C. Penney Co.'s catalog distribution center opens - the Penney building would be the largest in the area - traffic on Burnham Street would increase to about 3,000 vehicles a day.

This represents an increase of only 150 vehicles above the present figure, Morra said.

Added Positions Sought For Fire, Library Units

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER - The Fire and Library Departments met with the Town Board of Directors for budget review Wednesday night and asked the board to approve new positions.

The board reviewed the budgets of both departments along with the smaller budgets of the Disaster Control and Sealer of Weights and Measures Departments.

Town Manager Robert Weiss has recommended the addition of four lieutenants and a training officer in the town's Fire Department. The number of persons in the department would remain at 69, however, because the number of firefighters would be reduced from 62 to 57.

Weiss told the directors the training officer is needed to upgrade the training of firefighters in the department.

"The techniques of fire fighting are not casually acquired," Weiss told the board. Asked by the board if the position is essential, Weiss responded, "You can get along with it if you're going to be satisfied with less than maximum training."

The training officer would have the same rank as deputy chief and could fill in on vacations and during absences. The starting salary would be $10,000.

The four lieutenant positions would result in $800 salary increases, from $18,230 to $19,040, for the four present firefighter positions.

Grasso Signs Student Bill

MANCHESTER - Gov. Ella Grasso Wednesday signed a bill proposed by a Manchester High School student.

The bill, which lowers the age for appointments to the state's Advisory Council on Youth Services and Children, was originally recommended by Michael Pohl, an MHS student.

Pohl also is a member of the town's Youth Commission.

State Sen. David Barry submitted the bill, which was passed by both the House and the Senate.

Pohl and Peter Boudo, vice principal of the high school, attended Wednesday morning's session.

Storms Lash Texas

By United Press-International
Thunderstorms lashed Texas with another day of rain today, bringing the threat of serious flooding in some areas, and Mississippi residents south of flood-ravaged Jackson prepared for the same.

A slow-moving cold front brought thunderstorms to the western half of the Dakotas and eastern Montana, and a flash flood watch was issued for north-central North Dakota.

Storms that deluged Texas with rain Wednesday continued to whip across the Lone Star state today. Laredo reported wind gusts in excess of 60 mph, while just north of San Marcos quarter-size hail broke windows and strong winds blew down road signs.

Wind damage also was reported 20 miles northeast of Clovis, N.M., where a trailer and barn were destroyed and a house damaged.

However, the heavy rain in southeast Texas eased up. The residual effect of Wednesday's downpour was expected to result in flooding along the San Jacinto River basin for the next few days, the National Weather Service said.

VERNON — With few questions, much praise, and no criticism, the Town Council Monday night approved a $10,913,732 Board of Education budget that reflects an increase of 6.9 percent over the current budget.

This was the first year in many that the council has recommended an across-the-board cut in the education budget and school officials feel the new Zero Based Budgeting system was the reason.

Board representatives and Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, described the budget as being "grass roots" and "status quo." And council members agreed.

The new budgeting system allows for a priority ranking system of the 59 programs offered as well as a cost analysis for the operation of the programs. John Worthen, chairman of the board's budget and finance committee, said.

She explained that the cost analysis is done on a three level basis: status quo, which means keeping the existing level of services; status quo plus 10 percent; and the optimum, which would be represented by an 8 percent increase over the current budget.

Dr. Daniel Woolwich, school board chairman, explained that the budget contained no frills. He said only one program was enhanced at all and that is the Health and Drug Education Program. Next year it will include safety patrols at the elementary school level and a cardio-pulmonary resuscitation program at the high school.

He said there is no significant increase except that allowed for inflation. He said the estimates for insurance, fuel, utilities and transportation may be off because it is difficult to know what these costs will be.

He said as of Jan. 1 the board had a deficit of some $55,000 in its current budget, mostly due to additional costs for special education tuition. But he said as of Wednesday the business manager, Charles Brisson, said he doesn't see any deficit because some consolidations were made in transportation and special education.

The actual increase in the budget is $710,161. Dr. Sidman said the budget requests from department heads and supervisors totaled $11,999,819. He presented requests totaling $10,974,998 to the budget committee, and the committee and board made the cuts that led to the final request.

While noting that the budget will provide Vernon students with a "meaningful and appropriate education," Dr. Sidman said the budget is not free of any other educational frills but it also lacks sufficient levels of fun-proved as presented and all members of the council, and the mayor, commended the administration and the board for keeping the budget increase within the 7 percent increase guideline requested by the mayor.

He explained that fixed costs account for 92.4 percent of the budget figure of $74,614 of the total increase.

The teaching staff will be reduced by 7.5 teachers, due to the reduction in class size. These will be accommodated mostly by attrition.

The way the revenue figures now stand, Dr. Sidman said local taxes would have to finance $6,941,885 of the total budget and he figured this could mean 40 mills for education. However, the town almost certainly will be getting more state aid to education when the Legislature makes a final decision on May 1. He said he is expecting an additional $463,863 which could bring the mill rate down to 37.5 mills.

Mayor Frank McCoy said it's too early to talk about mill rate, that it is better to just talk in terms of money until the Legislature makes its decision.

History Slide Show Planned by Society

MANCHESTER — The slide show, "A Pictorial History of Manchester," developed by Herbert Bengston, will be the feature of the April meeting of the Manchester Historical Society. It will be put on at the auditorium of the Whiton Memorial Library at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The slides will have various scenes of the town, mostly taken at the turn of the century. There will be a view of the Laurel Park rustic gateway and of the station where people got off the trolley for a day of picnicking.

Views of the Manchester Green area will be shown with the Glastonbury Knitting Mill when it was turning out men's woolen underwear. Also to be seen is the Woodbridge Tavern where General Washington stopped for a glass of water (but did not sleep here!).

The old firehouse will be seen with a team of horses hitched to a hook-and-ladder truck. There is the Cheney store that stood at the corner of Charter Oak and Main Streets and was burned down in 1888. There will be a shot of the Buckland sandstone quarry where were found the dinosaur fossils that are now on exhibition at Yale's Peabody Museum.

There are views of churches, schools and old homes, many of which have fallen to highway construction or have been replaced by gas stations and parking lots.

Bengston would welcome the loan of any other material out of Manchester's past to enhance the collection of slides.

Dr. Duke Will Lead Hypertension Talk

MANCHESTER — Dr. Martin Duke, a cardiologist on the staff of Manchester Memorial Hospital will be the moderator of a discussion on hypertension tonight at a medical conference at the Holiday Inn in Hartford.

Manchester hospital, in conjunction with Merck, Sharp, and Dohme, a pharmaceutical manufacturer, is sponsoring a conference on hypertension at the Hartford region's State University's College of Medicine, and chief of pharmacology at the Milton Hershey Medical Center.

After Dr. Hayes' presentation there will be a panel discussion on the same subject moderated by Dr. Duke.

The panelists will include Dr. Charles K. Francis, director of cardiology at St. Sinal Hospital, Dr. M. Nathan Lassman, an associate on the staff of St. Francis Hospital, and Dr. Michael Luzzo, chief of nephrology at Hartford Hospital.

More than one hundred physicians including many from the Manchester area, are expected to participate in the conference.

Sacherek President Of Retirees' Group

MANCHESTER — William Sacherek, a maintenance engineer at Illing Junior High School before his retirement, has been elected president of the Manchester Municipal Employees Retiree Association.

Other elected officers are Ernest Irwin, head custodian at Illing before retiring, vice president; Lillian Rubin, retired assistant town controller, secretary; and Joseph Clementino, who served as town controller for many years before his retirement, treasurer.

The officers will assume their duties at the group's next meeting May 8.

Retired Fire Chief Cliff Mason headed the nominating committee which presented the slate of new officers.

Auxiliary Forming for Cedarcrest Hospital

MANCHESTER — Mrs. Lee Ann Gunderson of 115 Olcott Drive, recently appointed director of volunteers at Cedarcrest Regional Hospital in Newington, has announced that an auxiliary partnership with the hospital will be formed at a meeting at 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Cedarcrest is a psychiatric facility serving Manchester as well as other towns in the Greater Hartford and surrounding areas. Patients are predominantly between the ages of 18 and 30 and are mentally ill in ways that are not usually related to drug or alcohol abuse, retardation or senility.

"When you realize this," said Mrs. Gunderson, "you become aware of the fact that more and more young people are just not able to cope with life as it exists today."

Mrs. Gunderson also suggested that voluntarism and having an auxiliary partner are particularly important for patients of Cedarcrest because part of the illness can be a terrible feeling of alienation. Patients need to feel that the community cares.

The meeting on Tuesday is open to interested individuals and groups who are willing to support the auxiliary under- taking with their attendance and/or ideas. Phone the Volunteer Office, 666-4613, for information.

Coventry Flood Maps Subject for Meeting

COVENTRY — A public meeting scheduled April 25 at 3 p.m. in the Town Hall will review a final draft of flood hazard insurance maps for the town.

Due to its early admission in the Department of Housing and Urban Development Flood Insurance Program, Coventry is one of the first rural communities with such a study. Gregory J. Padick, town planner, said.

Padick said maps prepared by the U.S. Geological Survey will enhance flood insurance protection for properties in flood prone areas and will provide a planning tool for reviewing proposed developments.

The revised maps update maps that have been used since 1974. Padick said. Federal Insurance Administration at U.S. Geological Service representatives will present the study and answer questions.

Padick said the purpose of the meeting is to make townspeople aware of the report and to ensure the report is consistent with all known flood studies and experience.

He said that in addition to the procedures for community and individual appeals of the results of the study will be discussed. Upon final acceptance, the study will be the new basis for flood insurance eligibility and rate determination.

Bowlathon To Fight MD

MANCHESTER — Nearly 700 youngsters from Manchester's grammar schools have registered for the local Bowlathon to be held next week to help strike out muscular dystrophy.

To date, 678 children from Grades 3 through 6 have entered the contest to be held from April 21 to 28 at the Brunswick Parkade Lanes at the Manchester Parkade.

Although there are no official records, Art Shorts, Bowlathon manager, says that this will be the largest Bowlathon held in the eastern U.S., and perhaps in the country.

Shorts said that with the large number of youngsters who have entered the contest, and with the support of local merchants who have donated more than 50 awards valued at more than $700, the children should easily raise more than $5,000 in this one event.

The leaders in the contest at the present time, based on the number of pledges obtained (not donations collected) and those closest to winning a 10-speed bicycle are Eric Begley, 13, and Karen Irish, 10.

The top 10 in addition to these leaders are:

- Tuesday — Buckley, Bowers.
- Wednesday — Waddell, Bowers, Robertson, Keene.
- Thursday — Bentley, Verplanck.
- Friday — Martin.

Bowlers may come anytime between 2 and 6 p.m. on the days assigned.

Housing Checks Reported

VERNON — Housing code inspector John Darcey said he inspected 63 structures and 130 dwelling units and found a total of 389 violations in the first quarter of 1979.

With a carryover of 959 violations from previous months, the total at the end of the quarter was 1,153 violations with 195 corrected during that period.

The violations for the three months included 76 electrical, 31 heating, 40 plumbing, 228 structural, and 14 sanitary.

Corrections during the period included 51 electrical, 10 heating, 13 plumbing, structural, and 15 sanitary.

Also during that period Darcey said he received and investigated 40 complaints with 11 pending, placed 17 eavelets and released 9, sent out 33 housing code letters, and 49 nuisance code letters and 49 of the quarter was 1,153 violations with 195 corrected during that period.

He said during the quarter street inspections were very slow but with the help of CETA workers he feels that after two months of training they will begin to show progress.

He said that in March he spent three days on inspections of garages and gas stations as code enforcement officers for the zoning Board of Appeals.

Did Kennedy Ease Merger Bill?

WASHINGTON - Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., long regarded as the consumers' champion on Capitol Hill, has substantially weakened the most important anti-monopoly legislation in a decade after private talks with corporate leaders.

Opinion

People Have Spoken

The vote is over and the people have spoken. The result of Tuesday's referendum vote has indicated a desire for the majority of those who voted to ban the continued use of Community Development Block Grant funds; prohibit the use of town funds for the administration and completion of previously started CD projects and paved the way for an update of the water system.

One of the claims made concerning the views of those who opposed the continued use of the funds was that their opposition was "racially motivated."

However the water vote clearly illustrates the people are willing to spend if they the project is needed. While they have spoken up against the government, they have not blindly turned away from any money requests.

Other Editors Say: American voters exercise their voting franchise less than the voters of almost any other western nation. Many explanations have been offered for the low turnout, few of them convincing.

Thought: Easter is not a time for groping through dusty, musty tomes or toms to disprove spontaneous generation or even to prove life eternal. It is a time to fan the ashes of dead hope, a day to banish doubts and seek the slopes where the sun is rising, to revel in the faith which transports us out of ourselves and the dead past into the vast and inviting unknown.

Yesterdays: 25 Years Ago: Easter weather is kind to hats and egg hunters. 10 Years Ago: Winners of longtime service pins from King David Lodge of Odd Fellows are William T. Smyth, Charles S. Roberts Jr. and Herman Schendel.

SOS FOR SES

A futuristic Buck Rogers ship designed to skim the ocean at speeds up to 100 miles an hour is the focus of a quiet backstage battle in Congress. The Surface Effect Ship, or SES, would be used to rush troops and material across the Atlantic to our allies in an emergency. Secret testimony by top Navy brass has warned that controversial concepts would be sitting ducks, and that the high-speed SES is essential to our mission in Europe.

Not satisfied with its stranglehold on America's dwindling oil and gas supplies, Big Business is now muscling in on the burgeoning solar energy industry. Giant corporations like General Electric, Martin Marietta and Rockwell International are getting all the help they need from the Department of Energy. Almost 90 percent of public funds spent to develop solar power have gone to big corporations, while small businessmen get the crumbs.

Rockwell International, for example, has four separate solar contracts from the government worth more than $13 million. That's almost twice as much as DOE has given to all its small-business contractors combined.

Not as if Big Business is doing a better job, either. A recent National Science Foundation study showed that dollar for research dollar, the small-businessman produces 24 times as many innovations as his free-spending counterpart in Big Business.

These forces seek not to sweep away the past but to return to it. The Ayatollah, Khomeini's komitahs would not open the way to a new freedom but resurrect an older authoritarianism. So much for perspective.

Bids Open: Sewer High, Bridge Low

MANCHESTER — The town opened bids for a sewer project that will cost much more than expected and a bridge repair that will cost much less than expected.

The bids were opened for the Porter-Pikin streets sewer project and reconstruction of the Park Street bridge by Maurice Pass, director of general services.

The sewer project would improve storm drainage in the area. It would include a drainage installation from the pond at Adelaide Road to the Porter Brook.

The apparent low bidder for the work was Mather Corp. of Bloomfield, which submitted a price of $477,720. It was one of three firms to bid on the project.

Mather's low price, however, appears to be higher than town estimates. This is the second bid on the project.

An East Hartford contractor, Frank A. White Co., had been the low bidder in the previous bid last January.

It submitted a price in January of $363,222. That figure was only slightly higher than the town had estimated for the work.

The firm, which had had been almost $200,000 lower than another bidder, later said it had made an error in its calculations, however. This bid did not sign a contract with the town, and the project had to be rebid.

It is unclear what the future of the project will be. Part of the funding the town has expected for the project would come from Community Development funds. That funding would have to be spent by June 30 or the town will not be able to use it because of the two-year ban approved Tuesday.

The work is said to be a necessity by town officials. A Richard Road home and other nearby locations suffered serious flooding problems this winter.

Jay Gales, director of public works, could not be reached this morning for comment on the future of the project. Prospects for the Park Street bridge repair appear brighter.

Town officials had feared that repair might cost as much as $200,000.

The town's bid for repair to the bridge included five different methods for doing the repair. The low bid for all five methods were below the $200,000 figure.

One, reinforcement of the bridge with bars and concrete, would cost $19,100, according to Hark & Warner Construction Co., Inc. The Ironville firm is also the apparent low bidder for a method using reinforced concrete.

Tolland firm, John O'Brien Co., had the apparent lowest bid for the three other methods. The cost of those ranged from $127,520 to $181,710, Pass said.

Signup Process Resumes In Dental Care Program

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The town's Health Department today was told to resume processing applications for the proposed low-cost dental program.

Town Manager Robert Weiss this morning instructed the department to begin its work on applications for the program.

A group of local dentists has challenged the program, and two met Wednesday afternoon with attorney Malcolm Barlow.

Barlow issued an opinion two weeks ago that says the proposed program is legal. He said this morning he does not plan to change that opinion after meeting with Drs. Howard Kolt and Norman Dutton.

Kolt and Dutton are among the dentists in town who signed a petition for about 90 minutes to present their reasons for opposition to the proposed program.

Apparently, the town's decision will be to continue the proposed program.

"I was not aware of all of the facts and opinions from their point of view," Barlow said at his meeting with the dentists. None of the points made by the dentists change the legal decision he made, however, Barlow said.

In a related matter, Benjamin Hoaks, national executive director of the NAACP, spoke at the University of Connecticut Wednesday and accused Manchester of adopting racist policies similar to those of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

East Captures Opener

After five days' postponement and 11 days, at 3:37 yesterday afternoon East Catholic finally got its 1979 baseball season underway.

And a wild and whacky affair it was as the Eagles outlasted Windsor Locks, 14-8, in a sloppily played contest. The prolonged tilt was called because of darkness in the eighth inning with East still leading.

The game featured a dozen errors. The game featured a dozen errors. The game featured a dozen errors.

East's lead was built on three hits in the first. Windsor Locks' pitcher, Mike Freibert, was hit by a pitch, but his team's offense was stifled by catcher Greg Kane, issue 13 bases on balls with the visitors doing their scoring on only three hits.

The two-week layoff may have hurt our control," Penders understated. "I thought our pitching staff was ready but that was two weeks ago. I hope they're not out of sync. They weren't in rhythm at all."

Doberty went 6-2-3 innings to notch the victory. He walked seven but the hard-throwing junior also struck out 10. Kane in 1-1-3 innings issued six bases on balls and fanned three.

The Eagles scored twice in the opening inning and three times in the second. Frohiet and Pete Kiro struck two RBI blows in the respective frames. Those were East's only blows in the innings.

East made it 6-0 in the fourth with another unearned run with Windsor Locks, now 0-2. For the season, East is at St. Paul today in HCC. The Eagles made it 7-3 in the home field.

It went to 10-3 in the sixth as the locals added three more. Each side added a run in the seventh with Windsor Locks closing the gap to 11-8 in the eighth with the tying run at first. But Kane bore down to fan Dave Reale to get out of the inning.

East was working on a three-run eighth when the umpires wisely ended the festivities.

Ken Brasa had two hits and three RBIs and Frohiet three hits and a pair of RBIs to pace the East attack. Howie Farlow was hit by a pitch twice and scored three times. Windsor Locks' pitcher, Mike Freibert, was hit by a pitch twice and scored three times.

Tim Sheehan collected two of the three Windsor Locks safeties. Tracy DiPrato started for the Raiders and absorbed the loss. He worked 4 1/3 innings, giving up seven runs on four hits, walking three and fanning two. East is at St. Paul today in HCC. The Eagles made it 7-3 in the home field.

Spears fanned seven in evening his record at 1-0. Spears pitched beautifully. I thought we played very well," stated Tribe Coach Hal Parks.

The Indians played errorless ball behind Spears in contrast to misuses of Doug Ogden, who had two errors.

Quinn was the losing hurler for Wethersfield. He gave up only three hits, walked six and fanned three. He had two of the Eagles' safeties.

Manchester returns to action today at Sunbury High at 3:30.

by the Legislature last year and scheduled to go into effect January 1, 1980 will ban detachable hip tops and require a five-cent deposit on all soda and beer containers.

The House Tuesday rejected an attempt to postpone the bottle bill for a year and a half. Instead, the lower chamber approved 144-2 a bill requiring the Department of Environmental Protection to adopt regulations to implement the law by Oct. 1.

There are still two bills in the legislative hopper that would delay the bottle bill until July 1, 1981. But legislative leaders have said they plan to kill the measures because they did not go through the proper legislative channels.

"I think the consumer has been sold a bill of goods and doesn't understand what he's going to have to do to comply with this system," said CILC Chairman Everett C. Fuller, an American Can Co. executive and coordinator of a study contrasting the four active deposit law states with 29 states with no deposit neighbors.

The Can Manufacturers Institute study found that major brand soft drinks and beer averaged 14 cents to 25 cents per six-pack higher in the four active deposit law states.

In Connecticut, industry has been making plans to comply with the law, but more time is needed to study possible problems and develop guidelines, Fuller said.

Fuller admitted, however, the Michigan law creates jobs at drop-off points and in the industry.

William Weatherstone, vice president of Stroh Brewing Co. of Detroit, said before Michigan passed its bottle bill, it was estimated prices would rise 25 to 50 cents a case. The cost of implementation turned out to be 40 cents to $1 or more.

Michigan's major Pepsi Cola bottler has reported spending $52 million so far to comply with the law, while the beverage industry as a whole has experienced capital costs of more than $200 million, he said.

These costs could be expected throughout the distribution system in any state that went to a returnable system," Weatherstone said.

Manchester Police Report
A 23-year-old Manchester man ended up being arrested after he and a friend hatched a ruse with an off-duty police officer and allegedly threatened him early this morning.

Mark W. St. John, 5 Quaker St. was charged with threatening and disorderly conduct in connection with the incident which occurred near the Manchester Parkade on Broad Street. Police said St. John and his 19-year-old friend asked Officer David Dunbar for a ride near David's Restaurant. After riding only a short distance, St. John reportedly told Dunbar that he has a friend, who had a black belt in karate, were thinking of taking his car and money. Dunbar took it as a serious statement, he said. He stopped the car when he spotted a police cruiser and told the other officers what had happened. St. John continued to be abusive and threatening, he said, and was arrested. He was held in lieu of $500 surety bond for presentation in court today.

A 16-year-old male motorist reported that he was stopped on Spence Street Wednesday night by a group of six males who first asked him for some marijuana. When he told them he had none, he continued driving, but told police he was forced off the road by the car again. Two males got out of the car and approached him and tried to take an eight-track tape deck from his car, damaging it. They also broke a side-view mirror and stole a vest from the youth's car, police said. They have not been arrested.

John F. Turgeon, 29, of 230 Parker St. was charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor in connection with an accident Wednesday night on Parker Street south of East Middle Turnpike. Police said Turgeon's car backed into a vehicle owned by Sandra K. Novich of 207 Scott Drive which was parked in a driveway across the street. Turgeon's car was damaged. Three equipment rental companies reported rental items which had not been returned this week. They were Taylor Rental, 155 Center St., which reported missing a microwave oven, total value of $1,750; Redfield Rental at 10 Tolland Turnpike reported a $84 generator which had not been returned; A-P Equipment at 955 Center St. reported an unreturned a chain saw and a log splitter, with a total value of $650.

Member James Murphy said he was in favor of housing for the poor, but objected to the authority building such housing which would be taken off the tax lists. He suggested the authority investigate the possibility of HUD funding a project, where the tenants could eventually become owners of their apartments.

East Girls Victors
Forced to come from behind, East Catholic girls' softball team nipped HCC foe St. Paul, 9-8, yesterday at Robertson Park.

The Egglettes are now 2-1 with their next action today at Robertson Park against HCC arch-rival South Catholic at 3:15.

The visiting Falcons scored five times in the top of the first and added a marker in the second inning to make it 6-0.

East Coach Jay McConville then made several changes in his lineup and that seemed to make the difference.

St. Paul added a run in the third but East retaliated with three rallies of its own. Jane Prev. Lynne Cully and Trish O'Connell each scoring. O'Connell drove in two of the runs with a double.

Price's RBI single in the fourth cut the 6-2 lead to 5-2. Cully led off with a lead off hit in the fifth. Pam Cunningham singled and scored on Denise Boutlier's triple. Laurie Barry singled in the sixth and she scored, along with Fiona Campbell who walked, on Cully's double to left field.

The Falcons knotted it in the sixth but East pulled off a tripleplay to get out of the inning.

East got the game-winner in its half of the sixth. Peggy Laneri walked, scored second and took third on a passed ball. She scored on an infield grounder by Cunningham.

Cunningham in relief picked up the win along with rapping two hits offensively. Boutlier, Barry, Price and Cully also had two hits in East's 13-hit attack.

Manchester Police Report
A 23-year-old Manchester man ended up being arrested after he and a friend hatched a ruse with an off-duty police officer and allegedly threatened him early this morning.

Mark W. St. John, 5 Quaker St. was charged with threatening and disorderly conduct in connection with the incident which occurred near the Manchester Parkade on Broad Street. Police said St. John and his 19-year-old friend asked Officer David Dunbar for a ride near David's Restaurant. After riding only a short distance, St. John reportedly told Dunbar that he has a friend, who had a black belt in karate, were thinking of taking his car and money. Dunbar took it as a serious statement, he said. He stopped the car when he spotted a police cruiser and told the other officers what had happened. St. John continued to be abusive and threatening, he said, and was arrested. He was held in lieu of $500 surety bond for presentation in court today.

A 16-year-old male motorist reported that he was stopped on Spence Street Wednesday night by a group of six males who first asked him for some marijuana. When he told them he had none, he continued driving, but told police he was forced off the road by the car again. Two males got out of the car and approached him and tried to take an eight-track tape deck from his car, damaging it. They also broke a side-view mirror and stole a vest from the youth's car, police said. They have not been arrested.

John Rolls Along With Reggie's Bat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reggie Jackson stripped the tape off his hands and said it four times to make sure everyone heard him.

"Good pitcher, good pitcher, good pitcher," said the New York right fielder about new teammate Tommy John, who scattered eight hits over 7.23 innings Wednesday night in hurling the Yankees to a 2-1 triumph over the pumplinsky Baltimore Orioles.

"I've hit off the guy, I know how good he is," said Jackson, using that phrase again. "I know what's happening. He doesn't even want to throw strikes if he can help it. He's pitching the way I expected him to pitch."

But even John couldn't have expected to get off to such a start. He pitched in three games and won all of them, allowing only two runs in 23.3 innings. He's making sure that Graig Nettles, Gabe Girard at third base isn't gathering any rust, either.

as John torched eight Baltimore batters to ground out to third.

"Nettles and (shortstop) Bucky Dent are the best left side of the infield I ever pitched in front of," said John, who allowed only five flyball outs in another awesome display of sidearm control. "Nettles has such great range to his left. Sometimes, he'll take a pitch and go to the right to catch it. I don't want to get up like that," said Martinez, who gave up only five hits in 7.23 innings.

The Orioles took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on consecutive singles by Al Bumbry, Dempsey and Gary Roenicke, but the Yankees tied the game in the third on Willie Randolph's sacrifice fly to Bumbry in shallow center field.

"He (John) just makes you beat the ball into the ground," said Baltimore outfielder Ken Singleton, who bounced into two double plays and grounded out against the southpaw with the rebound left elbow. "I've tried everything I could think of, but he's just a good pitcher."

"And doesn't that sound familiar?"

Jackson belted a 2-2 pitch off Martinez over the center-field fence in the sixth inning for his third home run of the season. All against Orioles pitching. On the previous pitch, Jackson had been fooled badly by a breaking ball, and Martinez said he tried to get the next pitch inside.

"But I didn't want to get up like that," said Martinez, who gave up only five hits in 7.23 innings.

Two Whalers All-Star Picks

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Quebec Nordiques and the New England Whalers today both placed two men on the World Hockey Association All-Star team selected by readers of Hockey News.

Quebec right wing Len Cloutier was selected the league's MVP, while Edmonton teenager Wayne Gretzky was voted the WHA's Rookie of the Year.

Joining Cloutier on the league's first team were teammate J.C. Tremblay on defense, while New England was represented by defenseman Gordie Roberts and left winger Mark Howe.

Lakers Can't Stop Seattle's Williams

SEATTLE (UPI) — Jerry West has been right about one thing: to beat the Seattle SuperSonics, the Los Angeles Lakers have to stop Gus Williams.

Unfortunately the Lakers haven't even found a way to slow Williams to a gallop, and the two teams move their best-of-seven series to Los Angeles Friday with the Sonics leading 2-0.

Williams matched his career high of 38 points Wednesday night to lead Seattle to a 108-103 overtime victory over the Lakers. Williams saved six of his points, including what proved to be a game-winning 20-foot jumper, over time.

"We have to do something," said Lakers forward Adrian Dantley. "He's been tough and we'll have to play him a lot tougher."

"It looks like he's playing with no points in front of him," West said.

Williams scored five straight points to give the Sonics an 11-point lead with 9:04 left in the fourth quarter. But after a near-collapse in the closing minutes of the period, the Lakers pulled a clutch shot from Seattle's Fred Lynn.

"That last rebound was great and brought back a lot of bad memories," said Molitor, whose team finished a strong third in the AL East last season. "But we bounced back and that was a big thing for us. It proved we can do it. It's the type of thing we prepared for all winter."

"I've never pitched as good as I did today," said Steve Renko, making his first start since being traded to the Sox after his demotion from the Yankees.

started in the sixth when he walked Sixto Lezcano on a disputed call at the bases full.

"I thought the pitch was good, right and the wrist," Renko said. "Zim (manager Don Zimmerman) came out and yelled at the ump, and the guy admitted he missed the call. They're going to miss some, but they had to had to be the first run."

Lezcano said, predictably, that the pitch was a ball.

Renko lost his zip in the seventh when he yielded the back-to-back homers to Molitor and Bando after rearing the first two batters on fly balls.

The pitches were fastballs, and they were up to high. Good pitches to hit. I felt strong at the start but just got tired and lost my velocity. I had it going for the seventh, but after that, it wasn't so good," he said.

Bill Campbell relieved Renko and promptly yielded a triple to Cecil Cooper, who scored on Larry Hise's single, the ninth straight game in which Hise has hit safely.

Bossy's OT Goal Paces Islanders

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Islander's Mike Bossy knows what he can do best — and does it.

"I know I can put the puck in the net," Bossy said Wednesday night, after scoring at 2:31 of overtime to give the Islanders a 4-0 victory and a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven, quarter-final series with the Chicago Black Hawks.

"I can't play any other way," the sophomore right wing continued. "I'm just as afraid as anyone else of making a mistake in overtime, but I have to go with what I do best."

But, for 60 minutes of regulation Wednesday night, no one could put the puck in the net. The Islanders came closest, but Chicago goalie Tony Esposito stopped them. It was the 21st scoreless regulation game in playoff history, and the first since 1954, and the credit belongs to Esposito and Chicago coach Bob Pulford's defensive system.

Chicago played well, checked out very hard and played it tough with Tony Esposito," said Islander Coach Al Arbour. "He's been doing that for years."

Esposito made 39 saves. On one, he flipped to stop Bossy on a pass-out from John Tonelli.

"I had three or four good chances," said Bossy. "I missed on the pass-out. I didn't miss the puck. I just didn't score. When I don't score, that means I missed."

And obviously, he doesn't miss very often.

In other NHL quarter-final games, the New York Rangers thrashed Philadelphia, 7-1; Boston edged Pittsburgh, 4-3; and Montreal squashed Toronto, 5-1.

In the final regular season game in the short history of the WHA, Edmonton blasted Winnipeg, 8-3.

Tax Break

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — It appears the owners of the Green Mountain race track in Pownal will get a tax break this year.

Legislation allowing the Patrick Hynes family of Pittsfield, Pa., to take a larger share of profits from the greyhound track was passed Wednesday by the Vermont Senate.

Rangers 2, Flyers 1

Defenseman Ron Greschner scored on a short-handed breakaway to snap a 1-1 tie late in the first period and added a goal later on, helping New York square the series at 1-1, with games 3 and 4 scheduled for New York.

Braves 1, Penguins 3

Fourth-line center Bob Miller scored the winning goal and Jean Tatnell, Dwight Foster and Peter McNab also scored for Boston, which took a 2-0 series lead to Pittsburgh.

Lanardis 5, Maple Leafs 0

Bob Gainey scored 2:50 into the first period and then added a third-period goal as Montreal took a 2-0 lead in the series.

WHA

Stan Weir, Brett Gallagher and Ron Chipperfield fired in two goals each for first-place Edmonton. Wayne Gretzky, named the Oilers' Rookie of the Year and most popular player, scored his 46th goal of the season and added an assist to finish third in the league-scoring race with 110 points.

Gilbert Speaks Up
 BOSTON (UPI) — Gilles Gilbert has drawn the starting assignment in goal for the Boston Bruins when the team faces the Stanley Cup quarter-final series Saturday at Pittsburgh against the Penguins.

It could be his last appearance in a Bruins uniform.

Gilbert said he would not return to the team next year under the present circumstances. Translated, that means it coach Don Cherry is back and goalie Gerry Cheevers decides to play another year.

Williams Likes Chances Of Surprising Montreal

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Dick Williams calls his Montreal Expos legitimate contenders for the National League East title, you can bet he isn't kidding around.

"We've only played 10 games," admitted Williams, "but we thought in spring training we had a well-balanced team. We have a contending ball-bat here. We're peaking and I think it can continue."

That confidence might stem from Wednesday's 6-5 victory over the New York Mets, which gives the Expos six wins in seven one-run games this season. Ellis Valentine helped Montreal overturn a 3-4 deficit with a run-scoring single in a two-run ninth, The Mets, who have

Brewers Bounce Back To Tack Loss on RSox

BOSTON (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers plan to be a strong permanent contender this season, and second baseman Paul Molitor just looks to last year as one of the reasons why.

Molitor slugged a home run and had three hits Wednesday to help the Brewers down the Red Sox 4-1, keeping their first-place position in the American League East intact.

The win came the day after the Brewers had lost a frustrating 6-5 decision on a ninth-inning, two-run homer by Boston's Fred Lynn.

"That last rebound was great and brought back a lot of bad memories," said Molitor, whose team finished a strong third in the AL East last season. "But we bounced back and that was a big thing for us. It proved we can do it. It's the type of thing we prepared for all winter."

"I've never pitched as good as I did today," said Steve Renko, making his first start since being traded to the Sox after his demotion from the Yankees.

Carew Hits Hard Against Ex-Mates

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you thought Rod Carew had revenge on his mind when he entered Metropolitan Stadium to play against his former club, you were absolutely wrong.

The multi-manned Carew has more important things to think about like helping the California Angels to an American League pennant, a goal that has eluded the seven-time hitting champion in his years with Minnesota.

"I don't come here with revenge," said Carew, who struck four hits, drove in two runs and scored three times Wednesday to boost California.

Dwain Miller, 19, pitched scoreless relief in 2.1 innings and Mark Cleaver hurled the final four to pick up his third save of the year.

In other AL games, Milwaukee beat Boston, 4-1. Cleveland defeated Texas, 6-4. Chicago hammered Toronto, 15-3. Oakland got past Seattle, 5-2. And New York defeated Baltimore, 3-1.

Indians 6, Rangers 1
 Gary Alexander crashed a three-run homer and drove in four runs to spark Cleveland over Texas. White Sox 12, Blue Jays 5.

Grey Pryor knocked in four runs and Eric Soderholm added three RBI as Chicago pounded Toronto pitching for 18 hits.

V-5, Mariners 2
 Bob Feller's bases-loaded single drove in the go-ahead run in the seventh inning to boost Oakland over Seattle.

to an 11-6 victory over the Twins giving the Angels their seventh straight victory.

"I just did what I've been doing for 12 years," asked Carew, who lifted his average over .400 with his latest hitting spree.

Carew smacked a two-run double to spark a five-run rally in the second inning as the Angels built an early 7-2 lead.

A three-run uprising by the Twins in the third inning off California starter Chris Knapp narrowed the margin to 7-5 before the Angels

Seed Companies Still Use Shakers' Selling Method

Onion sets are weighed for a customer by Phil Roberts, owner of the Blish Hardware store on Main Street, Manchester. The onions and some large seeds such as beans and peas

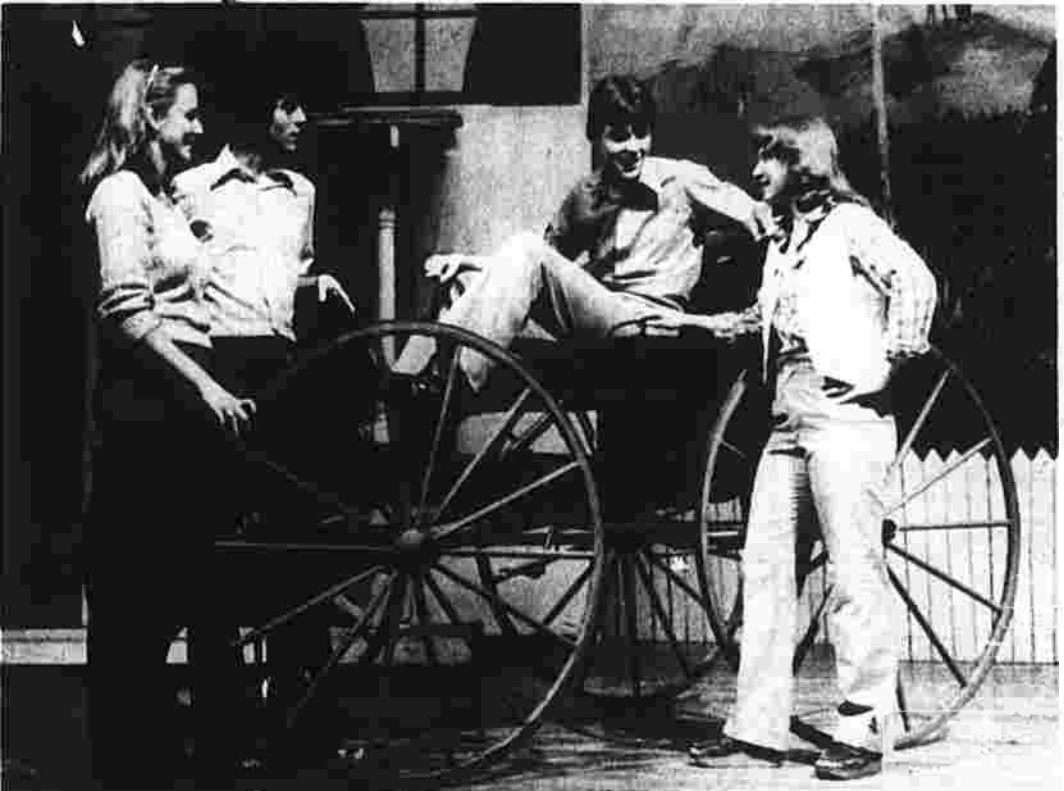

By FRANK ATWOOD

The Shakers, who once had a colony in Enfield close to where the State Prison is today, are credited with starting the consignment selling of garden seeds. A man started from Enfield in the winter with a horse and sled, carrying boxes of packaged seeds, and left a box at each country store that was willing to accept one. He made the same round after planting season, this time with a wagon, picked up the left-over seeds and collected the money that had been received, minus a commission for the storekeeper. The Shakers and their seeds are gone long ago but the same method is used today by seed companies that distribute racks of seeds in paper packets. The racks are displayed in retail stores at this time of year and the unsold seeds are returned after the planting season ends. A seed house that has been doing business in this area for more than a hundred years is Comstock, Ferre & Co. of Wethersfield. One of the retail stores that offers Comstock, Ferre seeds in the Blish Hardware Store on Main Street, Manchester.

No one has searched the old records to learn how long this business arrangement has existed, but the Blish people believe it goes back 75 years. The Blish store is one of the few retail outlets that handles seeds not only in paper packets but in bulk. Plastic pails shown in our picture behind the counter contain bulk seeds of sweet corn, peas and beans. You can have a quarter of a pound of green beans weighed for you or a pound of yellow onion sets. Old Timers Phil Roberts, who took over the ownership of the Blish Hardware Company in 1972, says he has enjoyed talking with some of the veteran home gardeners of the area who come to the store for bulk seeds. Apparently they like to see, literally, what they are buying and they know from experience how many feet of row they can plant with a quarter of a pound of seed. Corinne Willard, horticulturalist for Comstock, Ferre, says there is another outlet for bulk seeds in Worcester and one north of Boston where large private gardens are maintained. She points out that only the large seeds such as peas, beans and corn, and onion sets, which are still larger, are sold in bulk today. The weighing, and sometimes the counting, of other seeds to be sold in sealed packets is done by machine. Onion sets, which cannot be handled by frost, should be planted very early in the home garden. They are onions which were grown from seed last year and were planted late so that they reached only a small size before being harvested. Placed in the ground now, they put out new roots and new tops and then continue their interrupted growth. Each small set will be a mature onion by mid-summer unless it has been pulled earlier to come into the kitchen as a green onion. Blish has onion sets in three colors, yellow, white and red. Although none are produced in Wethersfield today, that old Connecticut River town has once noted for its onion crop. Wethersfield Red is an onion variety that originated there and still is available. Color Pictures Mrs. Willard gives credit to the Shakers not only for starting the sale of seeds to retailers on commission but for introducing the sale of seeds in labeled packets. She says that William G. Comstock, who came into the seed company in 1845, adopted the Shaker practice of packaging seeds. He later added color pictures such as red tomatoes and green cabbages, lithographed on the seed packets. Almost all seeds, however grown and distributed, are sold today with pictures in full color on the packets. Newer methods of color printing are used but the purpose of the color pictures is unchanged, to show the buyer the beautiful vegetables and flowers he can hope to grow when he plants the seeds.
