To Set Budget

MANCHESTER —The Town Board of Directors meets tonight to set the budget and the tax rate for the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The meeting will be at 8 o'clock in the senior citizens center, 63 Linden St.

The budget for the next fiscal year must be set today, according to the Town Charter.

The board has been working for more than one month on its review of the $28,149,341 budget submitted by Town Manager Robert Weiss.

The Weiss budget is an increase of about six percent over present-year spending and would result in a General Fund tax rate of about 46.5 mills for 1979-80.

The board is expected to reduce the total budget figure and mill rate some, although the exact amount of that reduction will not be known until tonight.

Voter Canvass

MANCHESTER —The town's voter canvass will begin Tuesday and continue for the next two months.

All residences will be visited by one of 27 workers, Herbert Stevenson, Democratic registrar of voters, said.

The canvass is done yearly to update the list of voters and make necessary changes, Stevenson said.

Deficit Higher

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress' decision not to balance next year's budget could send the nation's deficit skyrocketing to $100 billion, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., charged today.

Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, said the deficits allowed in Senate and House budget proposals might go as high as $100 billion if the economy goes into recession.

"In a year of rampaging inflation and estimated real growth of 3 percent, there should be a balanced budget instead of the massive $29 to $40 billion proposed deficit," Proxmire said.

Attack Dispute

Beirut Radio stations reported Israeli warplanes today pounded the southern city of Tyre and its surrounding in the second straight day of raids into Lebanon. But Israeli military sources and PLO officials denied the reports.

"A new Israeli attack was reported this morning against Tyre and the area surrounding it," the state-run Beirut radio said. It gave no further details.

Military sources in Tel Aviv denied the radio reports of a Tyre attack but said the Israeli warplanes bombed a Palestinian guerrilla naval base today.

Seeking Aid

PEKING (UPI) — China appealed to the United States today to help it find ways to pay for the advanced technology and machinery it wants to buy from America.

China's apparent shortage of cash to finance its ambitious modernization plans came to light during talks between visiting U.S. Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps and Chinese Foreign Trade Minister Li Qiang.

Nuclear Rally

WASHINGTON (UPI) — They were 65,000 strong, with one purpose — opposition to nuclear power — and two major targets, President Carter and Energy Secretary James Schlesinger.

Chanting "No more nukes — No more Harrisburgs," the largest anti-nuclear power crowd in U.S. history and the biggest group of protesters in Washington since the end of the Vietnam War held an all-day rally and march on the Capitol Sunday.

MANCHESTER —Wanting to remember Leon Podrove in a special way, John Barnini this morning made a $23,000 contribution that will permit the town to hire a consultant for the Cheney National Historic District.

Podrove, a Manchester attorney who died last year, and Barnini were business partners for more than 30 years. They worked in real estate investment and development.

Barnini, a Boulder Road resident, said the anniversary of his partner's death is approaching.

"I've been thinking what I could do," Barnini said. He decided on the contribution for the historic district.

"If Lee was around, we'd probably be doing it together," he said of the contribution.

The town had planned to use $23,000 of federal Community Development funds to pay its share of the consultant's fee. A firm, Anderson Notter Finegold Inc., already had been selected to do the work.

On April 17, however, town voters decided to withdraw from the Community Development program for two years. This eliminated the use of such funds to pay for the consultant.

Barnini's contribution will pay for the consulting firm, a company which has a national reputation and has planned many restoration projects in New England.

Barnini said the plan of the consultant will provide guidelines for the entire district and should insure proper development of the area.

"It'll probably be the best thing

I've ever done in my life," he said of the contribution.

He and his late partner did own property in the district, the old Cheney Hall on Hartford Road. He sees a need for facial improvements for the building, but he also thinks many of the other old buildings in the area should and will benefit from the plan.

"The very fiber that started Manchester has been neglected," he said of the area, which includes the Cheney Mills that manufacture textiles and once employed many of the town's residents. Barnini has made past contributions, including a fire truck to the Lutz Junior Museum. Coincidentally, a museum of firefighting memorabilia is planned for the Cheney District in the former Pine Street firehouse.

Here I Come

Gary Marchuk, 20, of 157 Eldridge St., Manchester, his bike loaded down with gear, left this morning to pedal across the country to San Francisco, Calif. This might not be so unusual in this day. But it is unusual that Gary was severely injured in an automobile accident in town in December 1976, and there were doubts about his walking again, is unusual. One of his legs was broken in six places and he also had many other injuries. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Lawyers Busy
On Town Suits

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER —The town's knack for getting sued has kept the four town attorneys busier than an oversupplied California gas station.

And it appears their workload probably will disappear about the same time the fuel crisis does.

The town has been sued about matters ranging from tax appeals to the closing of a street. "That's enough to keep a law firm going," Stephen Cassano, a member of the Town Board of Directors, said of the legal load.

Although there are four attorneys in the town office, all of them work part time for the town. They all have private practices to keep up while they also do the research and preparation for the plethora of cases involving the Town of Manchester.

"It's been difficult. I look at the calendar in the future, and I see more of the same," David Barry, head of the town attorney's office, said.

Barry also serves in the state Senate along with maintaining his own legal practice. It often means a 15-hour work day to squeeze in all his duties.

The town attorney's office has three assistants — Kevin O'Brien, Thomas Prior and William Shea — who work with Barry. They all have felt the work crunch that has been created by the town's many legal matters. None are complaining, however.

O'Brien, for instance, said he has spent as much as 30 hours a week on town work. This is for a salary of $8,000, the same as the other two assistants. Barry receives $11,000 per year.

O'Brien said he does not have as much time to spend on his private practice because of the town legal matters.

"I find it very interesting, so I don't consider it burdensome," he said. "It's a chance to study real law instead of being just a mechanic."

The cases the town has been involved in include some unusual matters, such as the pending suit seeking an injunction to stop the town from withdrawing from the federal Community Development program.

Such cases provide a refreshing change from the routine work that makes up much of an attorney's daily load, according to O'Brien.

He feels the increase in the town's legal matters reflects the general temperance of distrustful government.

"The last thing I want to do is appear to be complaining about it because I really love the job," he said.

Prior said part of the reason for the increased load is legislation that has created boards and bodies for hearing cases, such as labor matters.

"It seems there is an administrative body for just about any kind of problem," he said.

The town also has so many different areas that it is involved in that legal cases are bound to service. Some are from unhappy taxpayers who feel they are being overcharged, others are from persons injured in falls on town property and others are even from other towns or governmental bodies.

"We're as diversified a corporation as you'd find anywhere," Prior said.

Like the other attorneys, Shea did little complaining, even though he sometimes has had to put in 10 hours a day on his part-time job for the town.

Last month, for instance, Shea

Naugatuck Highlight
Of Today's Elections

NAUGATUCK (UPI) — The incumbent claims he has the election in his back pocket. The challenger says he'll give the mayor a run for his money.

Common political predictions but today's mayoral election in Naugatuck has become the focus of statewide attention since Mayor William C. Rado Sr. was arrested and charged with three campaign violations last week.

Rado said Sunday he was "positive" he'd win re-election to a fourth term and he even thought his arrest "will just give me a few extra votes."

"I'm certain I'll be mayor Monday at 8:01 p.m.," said the Democrat who has been in public office for 39 years.

But Rado's Republican challenger, Edward J. Kennedy, doesn't think Rado is a shoo-in.

"I think it is going to be close. I can't say, but he knows he was in a helluva campaign," said Kennedy, a 35-year-old vocational education coordinator in neighboring Waterbury.

The arrest "won't widen his margin," Kennedy said Sunday.

The much-publicized Naugatuck contest is the highlight of today's municipal elections in 24 Connecticut communities.

Rado, 62, who was first elected in May 1973, was charged last Tuesday with illegally soliciting or receiving campaign contributions, failure to designate a principal campaign treasurer and failure to report a fund-raising event.

The charges, which are misdemeanors, stem from a January birthday and election send-off party for Rado.

Local Republicans filed a complaint charging the party was a campaign event and should have been listed on Rado's campaign finance reports.

Rado lost his bid for an immediate court hearing on the charges Friday in Waterbury Superior Court.

The mayor said he thought it was "well planned" by his opponents that he would be arrested shortly before the election, when there wouldn't be time for the case to go to court.

"I'm certain there has to be a dismissal," he said.

Rado said he knew it was planned because the Republicans said they filed the complaint in March and "why else would they need 10 weeks to arrest me?"

But Naugatuck attorney Michael Hagstrom, the GOP party member who filed the complaint, called Rado's complaints and victory predictions "absolutely one-sided propaganda."

"We fail to see how the arrest on campaign violations can possibly lend any man any credibility whatsoever," Hagstrom said.

Hagstrom said he brought the complaint information to the chief state attorney's office in early March and then filed the complaint with state Elections Commission on April 16.

"Finally we've caught him (Rado) flatfooted," said Hagstrom.

But most political observers think Rado is still the heavy favorite, despite the charges.

GASOLINE:

Vote Due on Rationing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has until Friday to approve President Carter's requested authority to ration gasoline in the event of severe shortages.

But — unless stories and pictures of miles-long lines of irate motorists at gasoline stations in California prove persuasive to congressional opponents — it will die.

Senate and House leaders agreed to bring up the resolution during the week, and the administration is desperately trying to round up enough votes for passage.

The Senate Energy Committee approved the gas rationing authority by one vote. The House Commerce Committee voted 21-20 to report the resolution to the floor without recommendation.

A 1975 law directed the president to submit a gasoline rationing plan and energy conservation plans to Congress. Sixty days after they have been sent to Capitol Hill, they must be approved by the Senate and House or they die.

That deadline is Friday. Defeat would leave the country without a fallback position if the current gasoline pinch becomes a severe shortage this summer or later — and would represent another setback for Carter's overall plan to curb energy consumption.

Even if it survives the votes this week, any plan Carter implements would be subject to a veto by either house within 15 days after it begins, and would have to win renewed congressional approval every nine months.

Prospects for Carter's three conservation plans — all of which must get action by Friday or die — are also not bright.

Long Lines Out West

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Hundreds of California motorists left gasless automobiles parked in lines at gas pumps through the weekend, awaiting the opening of service stations today, probably the final day before the "odd-even" fuel rationing plan is imposed.

A woman in a bathrobe pulled into a Burbank service station at dawn Sunday, locked up her car alongside the pumps, unhooked a bicycle from a bumper rack and pedaled off.

By dusk Sunday, hundreds of owners had locked up their cars in lines to return at sunrise today for station openings in what may well be the final day of free-for-all fuel purchases.

In an effort to get California rolling again, state officials have announced that a local-option, modified form of gas rationing is going to be launched this week.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. was expected to sign an executive order today giving the state's 58 counties authority to institute the odd-even sale days for gasoline.

Under the plan, motorists with license plates ending in odd numbers could buy gas only on odd-numbered dates. Likewise for even-numbered dates.

Los Angeles, Orange and Santa Clara counties already have indicated they will adopt the plan immediately.

Just weeks ago, the mere mention of a rationing plan would have been greeted with a scowl. But today commuters welcomed the odd-even plan in hopes it may bring relief to the long lines and soothe tensions.

President Carter's weekend visit to California coincided with the state's most serious gas shortage so far, and after seeing the long lines at the gas pumps the President asked Energy Secretary James Schlesinger to report by the end of next week on why the California shortages are so acute.

The fuel crisis has also hit buses of the Rapid Transit District, whose drivers complain they are unable to meet schedules because long lines are blocking bus stops.

In the first episode of "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," Jean Brodie (Geraldine McEwan) casts her enchanting spell over her girls and promises to make them "the creme de la creme."

Fire Guts Apartment In Vernon

VERNON - A fire early Saturday morning gutted one apartment in a 40-unit complex at 30 Nye St., Rockville, and left several other apartments with smoke and water damage.

The blaze started in the kitchen, William Johnson, fire marshal, said, apparently touched off by a pan that was left on a stove and turned on because the stove was left unattended.

The alarm went in at 4:50 a.m. and most of the damaged apartments were ready for occupancy by evening. The flames were contained in the one apartment which was occupied by John Cronkite, 21, and James Tucker, 22. They were given emergency shelter by the American Red Cross.

Rockville and Vernon firefighters responded to the call and left the scene about 8 a.m. only to have to return about 11:30 a.m. to check on smoldering debris.

Several persons were taken to Rockville General Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation. They were: Joanna Sadlack, Edward Moynihan, Rafael Amuso, Scott Schultz, Gilmay Pelletier and Debbie Felletier. All were residents of the apartment complex.

Joe Is Still Jolting

Joe DiMaggio has gotten many a standing ovation, but in the old days they accompanied baseballs riddled into the stands for the New York Yankees.

Sunday, at the New York Mets-San Francisco Giants game, he got one with a question. Shouted Jolting Joe, "Are there any Italians in the crowd?" Nearly every one of the 19,000 fans came up cheering.

It was Italian-American Day at Candlestick Park and DiMaggio - a native of the City by the Bay - was guest of honor. He donned a team jacket given to him by Giants owner Bob Lurie and sat in the home team dugout, but it didn't work.

Needler Needed

Johnny Carson is accustomed to wielding the needle, but Sunday night he was the one who got the point as the Friars Club of New York dubbed him "Entertainer of the Year" at a $200-a-plate celebrity roast.

Bob Hope was master of ceremonies and there was no shortage of wisecracks about Carson's recent bid to leave the "Tonight Show."

Among celebrities jamming the Waldorf-Astoria were Barbara Walters, Doc Severinsen, Ed McMahon, George Burns, Andy Dickinson, Lucille Ball, Robert Klein, David Brinkley and Mike Wallace, whose interview for CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" with Carson broke news that he wants a change.

Battle Lines

Bianca Jagger - in court in Los Angeles - says she and rock star husband Mick "lived out of a suitcase in a nomadic journey from one place to another in his quest to avoid income taxes."

Bianca, who split with Jagger eight months ago, is suing him for half his estimated $5 million - plus child support and custody of their 7-year-old daughter, Jade.

The battle lines are forming. Jagger wants the light on his own turf, in England, but he's been handed the first setback. The London court has deferred, at least for the time being, to Los Angeles Superior Court where Bianca wants to slug it out.

Old Foes Still Split On Phase-In Views

MANCHESTER - The two opponents in the 1978 race for the 12th Assembly District are continuing to express their differing views about the revaluation phase-in.

State Rep. Walter Joyner, who now represents the 12th District, wants it repealed and does not like the idea of a moratorium.

Ted Cummings, who was defeated by Joyner and was one of the original sponsors of the phase-in legislation, continues to back the bill.

Meanwhile, at Manchester, Connecticut has decided not to adopt the phase-in.

The phase-in permits a community that has completed a revaluation to spread the increases in assessments from the revaluation over a five-year period.

Three communities - Manchester, Ansonia and New Haven - have adopted the proposal. Manchester was the first.

Voters in Putnam recently rejected the idea of adopting phase-in. The proposal was voted on at a town meeting as a result of a petition circulated by the Putnam Concerned Citizens Association.

The state Legislature's Finance, Revenue and Bonding Committee last week passed a bill that would repeal the phase-in except for the three communities that already have adopted it. It also would extend the phase-in in those three communities to new construction.

The committee's proposal combined bills submitted by Joyner, Fraser, who has blamed the discrimination charge which was filed against Volunteer Co. 4 more than a year ago.

One member of the committee, Herb Fraser, has blamed the discrimination charge for the resignation of the company's foreman, the depleted morale of the firefighters and the company being placed on three years of probation.

Some of the firefighters in the company have complained that they were forced to sign an agreement with the state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities which would guarantee active recruitment of women and minorities. Because the discrimination charge filed by Barre, Vermont, was not a result of the company's actions, Fraser said, the company should not be penalized for the actions of another company.

Rivosa said that he feels the discontent in Co. 4 is only among two or three members. However, he said, if the complaints about the situation continue, he will call a meeting of all the company to bring the matter to a resolution.

Rivosa Sees No Basis In Discrimination Case

MANCHESTER - Town Fire Chief John Rivosa said he sees no basis for complaints coming up again about a 4,000-pound, $90,000 granite sculpture outside his showroom.

"What is going to happen to New York if you cannot leave a two-ton work of art outside? Groucho I expected, but this is a joke," he said.

The committee's proposal would have been much higher than they are, Cummings said.

Cummings, who also is Democratic town chairman, criticized the Republican opposition to phase-in and a recent proposal by Joyner that the state adopt a state income tax.

"I know one thing. The Republican answer - whether it be Mr. Joyner or their leadership - is to take away the breaks for people," Cummings said.

"The Republicans would take away the tax breaks and give them back to business," he said.

Also previously arrested was Robert D. Fluharty, 19, of South Windsor. Swan now faces charges of first-degree larceny, attempt, first-degree larceny, first-degree robbery, nine counts of second-degree larceny, four counts of third-degree robbery and 14 counts of third-degree larceny.

Craft is now charged with first-degree robbery, first-degree larceny, six counts of second-degree larceny, four counts of third-degree robbery and 12 counts of third-degree robbery.

In another companion case to the Dairy Queen incident, Thomas P. Rimsa, 19, of 25 Hillcrest Drive, Vernon, was charged Sunday with breach of the peace and interfering with a police officer. Police said he was involved in a disturbance at the Dairy Queen. He was released on a $500 surety bond for court in Rockville on May 15.

David Lamot, 17, of 44 Gutter Drive, Vernon, was charged Saturday with disorderly conduct in connection with the investigation of a complaint of a resident of Marjorie Drive.

Residents Complain About Roaming Dogs, Warden

BOLTON - Complaints about roaming dogs and lack of action by the dog warden have been presented to the Board of Selectmen.

The complaints, from a group of Rosewood Lane area residents, came just weeks after the board appointed Elmer Wilson dog warden for another two years. Wilson has been dog warden for a number of years.

One resident, Mrs. Frances Rockicki, said she has called the dog warden on a number of occasions and for one reason or another he did not respond to her calls.

Mrs. Rockicki said, "The dog warden said to catch the dogs myself or take pictures of them." She said, "He told me it was my job to catch the dogs, take pictures of them or set traps for them."

Another resident, Jay Smith, said, "Runners in the area stop running when they get to our neighborhood because they are afraid they will get bitten." He said, "Most dogs are so many I wouldn't want to get near them (to see if they are licensed)."

Smith said, "With all fairness to the dog warden, he doesn't get paid a lot of money and without a dog pound it's not the greatest situation."

Selectman Aloysius Ahearn said, "Salary is not excuse, he should be doing his job." Ahearn said a complaint is enough for him to act, he doesn't need pictures or to have people catch the dogs.

Mrs. Rockicki said she has complained to the dog warden time and again about the roaming dogs but he doesn't do anything. She said, "When I call the people to complain about the dogs, they laugh at me."

According to the law, dogs are only allowed to roam on their own property.

Ahearn said, "Don't sit back and let the law be violated, do nothing about it."

First Selectman Henry Ryba said, "Rest assured there will be some action." Mrs. Rockicki said, "Maybe we need a full time dog warden rather than an assistant to the Board of Selectmen." Included in the board's 1979-1980 budget request is about $14,000 for an administrative assistant. The amount was cut $5,000 by the Board of Finance because it doesn't believe the new position will be filled for the entire year.

Manager To Probe Dump Uses

SOUTH WINDSOR - Town Manager Allan Young says that the number of trucks entering the Northern Capitol Region Disposal Facility in East Windsor may exceed the limit allowed by contract, creating another snag in problems experienced by the town with refuse disposal.

Young said a meeting with owners of the landfill and representatives from East Windsor and South Windsor has been set Thursday.

A recent tally by a representative from the South Windsor Public Works Department showed more than 65 trucks entering the landfill facility in East Windsor.

The survey was reportedly ordered because of concern that Wapping Road in East Windsor would be set as the only route to the landfill, which would send trucks delivering refuse to the landfill from other towns through South Windsor.

Officials designate Wapping Road as the truck route then they must adhere to the provisions of the contract.

Residents from Graham Road have complained, by petition to the Town Council, of the trucks, some exceeding 72,000 pounds, traveling at high speeds. Recently residents from Rye Street, Miller and Barber Hill Road have contacted the Police Department with similar complaints.

The trash-hauler trucking is compounded by excessive use of the same roads by trucks from Mitchell Trucking and Manchester Sand and Gravel, according to residents. A spokesman for the Police Department said, however, that Manchester Sand and Gravel trucking is expected to cease by May 15.

In a related matter, town officials are reportedly "losing patience" with what some residents feel is "extremely poor service" by South Windsor's local refuse collector, E.P. Hayes.

The Hayes Company, hired by the town last year as South Windsor's first municipal collector, for a fee of $107,000, has been the subject of many complaints.

In January, Young suggested that a fine of $1,000 be placed against Hayes Co. because of 531 loads of trash left in front of haulers throw the trash cans, leaving some rolling in the street. Many residents complain of garbage scattered on their front lawns.

The original contract signed with the E. P. Hayes Co. allowed the firm to refuse trash left in cardboard cartons or bags, however, the company has recently agreed to pick up such items.

Reportedly, town officials are considering termination of the contract which was signed for a three year period in July of 1978.

If town officials decide to take such action, the town will either be forced to pick up the refuse or hire another company to do so.

Crime Program Slated

BOLTON - A crime investigation in-service program will be held at the firehouse on Notch Road Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The program will be conducted by State Police Sgt. Frederick Bird. The program will educate the firemen on the needs of investigating troopers as related to accidents and criminal investigations and the protection of the scene and preservation of evidence.

The program was set up through the efforts of State Police Sgt. Anthony Kalkus, Colchester north sector supervisor, and James Preuss, Bolton fire chief.

Sgt. Kalkus said the program will enable the firemen and state police to work more effectively together.

Volunteer firemen from Bolton, Andover and Hebron have been invited to participate in the program.

The state police proposed plan for changing the traffic flow at Bolton Notch will be shown at that time and comments from the firemen will be heard.

The meetings, which will be open to both youth and adults, free of charge, will be held at the Bolton Methodist Church from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m.

At the first meeting Mrs. Nancy Chance will be the guest speaker. She holds a doctorate in anthropology and is director of social services at Quinnabaug Valley Community College. She has been to China twice and plans a return visit this fall.

At the May 15 meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brush will be guest speakers. They recently traveled by boat from Australia to China and have had the opportunity to visit a Chinese commune and mingle with the Chinese people. Their program of slides and pictures will present new insight into the life of the people of China.

Some joggers try out proper jogging techniques at a Bonnie Prudden jogging workshop. A similar workshop will be held June 2 at the West Side Recreation Center in Manchester. Registration may be made through the town Recreation Department.

Jogging Workshop Set

MANCHESTER - Preparation and techniques for joggers will be the focus of a workshop led by a physical fitness expert June 2 at the West Side Recreation Center on Cedar Street. Bonnie Prudden, who has been an innovator for exercise programs for infants through senior citizens, will teach joggers and potential joggers preparation methods for running, prevention of damage to feet and leg muscles and provide a technique that will give the most running pleasure. She will also teach a method for erasing muscle cramps in the legs and back, according to Laura Dunfield, recreation supervisor, who is coordinating the two-day Bonnie Prudden Workshop sponsored by the town Recreation Department. The Saturday morning jogging clinic will be from 9 to 11:30 a.m. on the previous Friday night, June 1. Ms. Prudden will conduct a pain erasure clinic. She will demonstrate her erasure method called myotherapy which is intended to provide immediate relief from chronic pains. The Friday night workshop will be from 7 to 9:30, also at the West Side Rec. Registration for either one or both of the clinics can be made by calling Ms. Dunfield at the Recreation Department, 647-3084. The 65-year-old Ms. Prudden's report to President Eisenhower on the low level of physical fitness in American children led to what today is known as the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sport. Ms. Prudden served as first chairman of that council. Other innovations of Ms. Prudden

Dispute Settled; Work Can Start

MANCHESTER - The town's Highway Department soon will start major road paving and pothole filling. Highway Superintendent Frederick Wojas said. The town has been able to do very little road repair work because of a dispute between the state and private contractors about the bid price for road repair materials. The dispute was settled Friday, and the town now will be able to pick up materials needed for road repairs. So far, only major potholes have been filled because it only has a minimum amount of materials stockpiled, Wojas said. It now will be able to pick up more materials, he said today. "We had the money, but we didn't have the supplier," Wojas said of the dispute that left the town with no place to go to buy the needed materials. The state handles the bidding procedures to determine which firm has the best price for providing the needed materials. Thus, the town has to wait for the state's approval before it can purchase the materials.

Bulletins to Describe Purposes of Council

Nancy Carr All during May (MCC Awareness Month) we are celebrating our life and work together as followers of Christ. Bulletin inserts designed by Jackie Nichols will be distributed in all MACC churches, bulletin notices will update parishioners on their work in MACC. Posters made by the ninth grade confirmation class of Center Church have been distributed among churches and about town. A slide which presenting the churches and the work of the churches in MACC has been prepared by Clint Hendrickson and is now available for showing to church and community groups. Both the notices, posters and the slide show emphasize programs carried out through the Conference of Churches. It is a little harder to put in words and pictures the spirit alive in Christians working together in the conference. Let me tell you a little about Clint Hendrickson, the modest man who has prepared the slide show. We had been discussing the possibility for several years when Clint offered to put one together for us. Enrolling in a course in media presentation at MCC, he has prepared a slide show for us complete with excellent pictures, script and a well taped cassette. I should also note that he finished the show during a two week period when he was recuperating from an illness and threw in a new design for our letter head while he was at it. Clint retired three years ago from Vinick Design Associates and has been working free lance since that time. The love and concern and generous giving that people such as Clint and all the many others bring to their ecumenical work together at MACC is what truly makes MACC Awareness Month worth celebrating. The programs will be in the slides and bulletin notices are the result, the reflection as it were, of that love concern and generous giving. Interfaith Day Camp At this point, we still have not found people willing to take leadership roles in operating the MACC Interfaith Day Camp. The Interfaith Day Camp has for the past twelve years offered a free two week day camp experience to 30 first, second, third and fourth grade children from the North end of Hartford and 30 children from Manchester referred by local social workers. The focus of the camp, although free lunch, transportation, sports, swimming, arts and crafts are offered, is the one-to-one caring relationship between the camper and his/her volunteer teenage counselor. We need a camp director or directors to supervise the overall program, a kitchen manager and a supervisor of counselors. The camp is run 10 A.M. to 3 P.M. daily Monday through Friday from July 16 through 27. If you are at all interested please call MACC office 646-2096 for further information by May 15. After that deadline we must notify social workers that the camp has been cancelled. Did You Know? Did you know that MACC has established a Human Needs Fund which provides financial emergency assistance to people in need? Thank You. -to Alice Anderson, Emmanuel Lutheran Church Women, and friends of FISH for their generous contributions.

Alienation of Saudis: Carter's Mistake?

WASHINGTON - The alienation of Saudi Arabia, whose desert oil fields pump lifeblood into the factories of American, may go down as Jimmy Carter's biggest blunder.

pro-American Saudis stepped up their own production so that the United States would not be deprived. Given this history, it would seem difficult for any president to alienate the Saudis. But Carter has succeeded in doing this, thereby jeopardizing the nation's oil supply.

Opinion

School Solution For East Hartford

The Citizens Task Force on School Housing in East Hartford deserves congratulations. The task force has shown its worth by completing a study on future school housing and has done so with a minimum of delay or confusion.

Drivers Not Heeding Main Street Signs

Driving safely in downtown Manchester is becoming a challenge. We're willing to put up with the potholes and the unsynchronized traffic signals, but the flagrant violation of the U-turn ban is too much.

Thoughts

Today, the first day of the working week, we are bombarded with demanding, sometimes insoluble problems. Our relations with our family, our co-workers, our employer as well as national or world-wide concerns such as inflation, the petroleum crisis, nuclear energy, and national security are all fuel for our mental acuity.

Noone Challenges District President

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER - Lawrence Noone, an Eighth Utilities District director, has announced his candidacy for the district presidency because he "feels the district is ready for a change. Noone, in formally announcing his candidacy today, said, "I think I can do the job. I'm confident I can be a benefit to the district." He said "there is no question" that he already has a following among the voters of the district and that he intends to work hard for a change. Robert Blechman, another district director, will serve as Noone's campaign manager. They plan to form a campaign committee. Noone noted that it is probably the first time a challenge for the district elections has been announced so far in advance. The election will take place June 27 at the district's annual meeting. The response by Gordon Lassow, present district president, to Noone's campaign intentions today was that "it is good to have competition." Lassow said he "knows most of the directors are on my side." Referring to their different methods of dealing with issues, Lassow said, "I think you can catch more flies with honey than vinegar." Noone's response to Lassow's statement was that "Honey has not been as effective as he would like to think." He said the district's attempts with honey have "put us in a position where we're in court more than out," and he added that the district needs to be looking the preliminary court

Eagles Near Tournery Qualification

Top-Seed MCC Tournery Loser

For the fourth time in six years, Housatonic Community College of Bridgeport captured the CCAA Baseball Tournament championship yesterday by virtue of a 4-1 win over Northwestern Community College at Cougar Field. Host Manchester Community College, who had won the field, could do no better than take third place in the double elimination play. The Cougars stopped Tunxis Community College, 6-4, Saturday morning to remain alive but were eliminated by Northwestern later that day, 4-3. It was MCC's second loss in two days to the upstart fourth-seeded Winsted-based club. The Cougars, 16-1 overall, are still hoping for a bid to the National Amateur College Region 21 Tournament which opens Friday in Bridgeport. Housatonic, 23-12, is an automatic qualifier. Five runs in the fifth inning snuffed a scoreless tie and sent MCC past Tunxis. Three errors contributed to the Cougar cause. Larry Kelly and Rusty Pacino each slapped RBI hits in the inning. MCC played giveaway itself in the bottom of the fifth as Tunxis scored three times and sent Cougar starter Kevin Martin to the sidelines. Two hits, two walks and two miscues proved damaging to Martin. Greg Fearon, in relief, put out the fire and blanked Tunxis the rest of the way to record his fourth win against one loss. In 2 1/3 innings, he yielded a lone safety, walked none and fanned three. The Cougars' recent batting slump continued, and proved disastrous as Northwestern ousted them. MCC could figure out Northwestern's starter Rick Piskura for only a lone safety thru four innings. Northwestern, meanwhile, touched MCC's Jack Mancini for a trio of first inning marbles, two on John Griffin's long double. Guidry Sparkles In Fireman Role

NEW YORK (UPI) — Quick now, who's the best relief pitcher in baseball?

"It was a heck of a gesture on his part to think of the team that way," Yankee Manager Bob Lemon said Sunday, referring to Ron Guidry's role in the New York Yankees' 6-5, 10-inning victory over the Oakland A's.

"We were certainly in a bind. I would never put him in the bullpen on my own — that was his decision and it certainly was appreciated. What a pleasure having a man like that on your side."

Guidry, who didn't do much last year besides win 25 games and earn a unanimous nod as the Cy Young Award winner, decided that wasn't good enough, especially since reliever Rich Gossett injured his thumb in a clubhouse tiff. Guidry volunteered for bullpen duty, and now the best pitcher in baseball is also the best relief pitcher in baseball.

"I sat there watching the team struggle," Guidry said after his 2.2-innings of scoreless relief. "The bullpen just wasn't doing the job. I saw no other alternative."

Now Guidry may not win 25 games, but the Yankees will not blow as many leads, either.

"You've got to go all out in this position," said Guidry of his new two hits and two walks while striking out five. Guidry's two-out, bases-loaded single in the 10th scored pinch-runner Brian Doyle with the winning run. With one out, pinch-hitter Chris Chambliss doubled to right of loser Dave Heaverly, 2-2. Graig Nettles was walked intentionally and Reggie Jackson grounded an infield single to load the bases. One out later, Spencer singled sharply through the right side to give Guidry his third win in five decisions.

Guidry, who took over for Catfish Hunter in the seventh, yielded only one run in 2 2/3 innings.

Phils' Schmidt on HR Spree

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Mike Schmidt starts zapping in on opposing pitchers, his bat resembles a blackjack and the opposition is almost always beaten senseless.

Schmidt had gone 0-for-17 entering the ninth inning of last Thursday night's game against the Los Angeles Dodgers when he belted a solo homer off rookie Rick Sutcliffe in a game the Philadelphia Phillies lost 2-1.

That was just the beginning. By the time the weekend was over, Schmidt had hit four more home runs and the Phillies had taken three out of four games from the Dodgers, including a 4-0 triumph Sunday.

Although he doesn't like to be labeled as a streak hitter, Schmidt's performance is typical of his efforts over the years. For example, he hit 11 home runs in the month of April, 1976, and he had 25 home runs in his first 77 games in 1977 before breaking the ring finger on his right hand in a fight with pitcher Bruce Kison of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Schmidt, who hit a solo blast in a 5-2 triumph Friday night and belted a pair of homers in a 11-0 rout Saturday, drilled a two-run homer off Doug Ruan Saturday to spark the Phillies to victory.

"When you get hot, the key is to stay hot and get the most out of it," he said. "I know I'm not going to hit every day so I try to get a few days getting your hits. It feels good. I've carried my bat back to the dugout many times in Los Angeles."

"I don't like to be labeled a streak hitter. My record indicates I'm going to get between 150 and 170 hits. When you get them it's not important."

Nino Espinosa, continuing to benefit from the Phillies' stellar play, won his fourth game in five decisions in going the distance on a six-hitter.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago outslugged Atlanta 14-13, St. Louis beat Pittsburgh 4-2, New York 10-7, Cincinnati 6-5, and San Francisco 5-4.

National League

nipped San Francisco 5-4, Montreal downed San Diego 7-5 and Cincinnati crushed Houston 12-6 then lost 8-2, Cubs 14, Braves 13.

In a game that featured 35 hits, the Cubs won the ninth inning on a three-run scoring single by Scott Thompson. Mike Vail hit a pair of homers for the Cubs and Bill Buckner added a solo blast. Ronald Office hit a three-run homer for the Braves.

Cardinals 4, Pirates 2.

Ted Simmons drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and his seventh home run and Lou Brock had his third three-hit game of the season in sparking the Cardinals to victory. Brock, raising his batting average to .382, needs 74 hits to join the 3,000 club.

Meat 5, Giants 4.

Doug Flynn's single scoring John Stearns with the winning run and capped a four-run eighth inning that carried the Mets to victory over the Giants. Steve Henderson's two-run double and an error by third baseman Darrell Evans helped the Mets tie beat Tuck Thomas of a Chevrolet Monza by more than one lap in the 32-lap race.

Campbell Fails Again in Relief

BOSTON (UPI) — The ancient Mariner has given up on the long ball. All Willie Horton wants now is to get a hit.

Seattle's aging designated hitter got exactly what he wanted every time he stepped up to the plate Sunday, going four-for-four to lead the Mariners to a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Horton, 35, capped a ninth-inning, come-from-behind rally with his final hit, a game-winning RBI single off reliever Jim Wright.

"I wasn't going up there looking for any more than a base hit," said Horton, who has now hit safely in 13 of his last 14 games. "All I wanted to do was swing and make contact. I've given up going for power."

The Mariners tied it in the top of the eighth inning with a run on Horton's first RBI single.

The Red Sox went ahead in their half of the eighth with a two-run homer by Fred Lynn, his 11th and top in the Major Leagues.

The Mariners tied it in the top of the ninth with a double by Julio Cruz, a single by Joe Simpson and a double off the left field wall by Leon Roberts — all against loser Bill Campbell (6-1), who replaced starter Bob Stanley.

After an intentional walk to Dan Meyer, Horton singled home the eighth and one-third innings, who replaced Campbell.

Stanley, who gave up 11 of the Mariners 14 hits, left the game after eight and one-third innings.

The Red Sox host the California Angels tonight, sending Mike Torrez (2-1) against Nolan Ryan (4-1).

Parrott left the game in the seventh, giving to John Montague (3-0) who got the win.

Confident Levi Pockets $54,000

HOUSTON (UPI) — Wayne Levi may be the fifth PGA golfer to win for the first time this year, but the 26-year-old New Yorker is in a class by himself in youthful confidence.

There was no timidly displayed Sunday as he protected a slim lead during the last two 18-hole rounds in the Houston Open and, in one instance, he stood 20 yards from the green at the par-4 10th hole, preparing to hit his third shot.

"I made a heckuva par," Levi said, departing from the usual media routine where an interview reviews only his birdies and bogeys.

"I dribbled a shot off the rough and faced a bogey unless I could get it up and down," he said. "I hit a 2-iron to within two feet of the hole."

The gutsy shot which carried over a sand trap fronting the green was made as young pro Mike Brannan and Sammy Racheis and veteran Hale Irwin, Orville Moody and Bob Gilder, all vied for a tie with Levi.

Levi never gave them the chance, securing the lead early in a long day with a course-record, 8-under-par 63 and final round 71 on the Woodlands Golf Club course. His 72-hole total of 16-under 288 earned him a $54,000 paycheck.

First-year touring pro Brannan finished in second place, two shots back but he trailed by as many as 10.

"I know I had to keep the ball low against Boston in this park because if I got it up they'd hit the ball in the air — and any time they do that in this park against you, you're in trouble," he said.

Parrott left the game in the seventh, giving to John Montague (3-0) who got the win.

The Red Sox host the California Angels tonight, sending Mike Torrez (2-1) against Nolan Ryan (4-1).

Eagle Softballers Bow

East Catholic girls' softball team dropped a 10-9 eighth-inning due to a double by Betsy Frazier and Trish O'Connell knelt it in the top of the fifth but Rham pulled five times in his half for an 8-3 lead. The Satchems made it 9-3 in the sixth.

The locals fought back in the seventh, scoring six times to draw even. They did it only one hit, Ellen Petalkis' bases-loaded triple. Four walk-ups and an error aided East.

Rham got the game-winner in the eighth on Kathy Philbrick's line drive RBI single to right.

Harvard's Don Pompan won the event. They did it only one hit, Ellen Petalkis' bases-loaded triple. Four walk-ups and an error aided East.

Lopez Back on Beam

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — Nancy Lopez, last year's leading money winner with more than $189,000 and a record nine victories, served notice Sunday that "Taco Belle" is hot stuff once more.

Lopez, 22, captured the $80,000 Women's International at Moss Creek Plantation with a 6-under-par 282 for an easy three-stroke win over Donna Horton White, who has won more than $36,000 but has yet to claim her first LPGA title.

"I'm playing well," Lopez, a Daytona Beach, Fla., resident who grew up in New Mexico, said after posting her third victory of the year.

Coming from one stroke back after the third round, Lopez took command of the 72-hole event with 13 holes to play by shooting four birdies on the next six holes. She established a two-stroke lead.

With her sportscaster husband, Tim Melton, watching from the gallery, Lopez overtook Lopez, the 54-hole leader, at the ninth green. Lopez married Melton four months ago.

White, who suffered a disastrous double bogey on the fourth hole, got in trouble again on the ninth and lost another stroke to par.

"That was the turnaround," Lopez said. "Donna threatened and I birdied it from 10 feet."

Lopez said she kept pushing herself after remembering the 500-7 handicap center year when she finished second because she wanted to long to make a charge.

"I didn't want to do that again," she said. When Lopez sank a five-footer at the 15th hole to save a par, White admitted that the door had been closed on her.

Although White still hoped for a tie, her chances died two holes later. She landed in the bunker on the 17th hole and missed a four-foot putt for a par, setting up Lopez' final three-stroke victory.

The $12,000 victory put Lopez at the top of the unofficial LPGA money winners with more than $88,000. It ties her with veteran Jane Blalock for the most number of wins on the tour this year.

White picked up $8,000 for her first second place finish of the year, while Donna Young and Bonnie Lauer tied for third and received $5,500.

Suns, Bullets Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — With starting center Alvan Adams out with a sprained ankle, it appeared that the Phoenix Suns were on the verge of dropping their third consecutive game to the Seattle SuperSonics in their NBA best-of-seven series for the Western Conference title.

But center Joel Kramer.

The 5-foot-7 backup center from San Diego State, the only rookie on the Suns' roster, responded with a solid effort under the boards to spark the inside game and Phoenix went on to take a 115-103 victory over Seattle and cut the Sonics' lead to 2-1.

When Kramer saw Adams go down in a heap of bodies late in the first period and the Sonics ahead by seven points, he only had one thought.

"I was hoping he'd get up," said Kramer, who contributed 11 points and six rebounds and held Seattle's 6-11 Jack Sikma to 13 points. "I just tried to crowd him (Sikma) as much as I could. I jumped him a little — not enough for a foul — but enough to give him some trouble and maybe knock him off balance."

Paul Westphal sank 25 points, Walter Davis added 22 and Truck Robinson chipped in with 21 to pace the Suns' scoring.

In the Eastern Conference showdown, the defending NBA champion Washington Bullets defeated the San Antonio Spurs 125-95 to even their series 1-1.

Game 3 is slated for Wednesday night in San Antonio. Westphal scored 23 points and hauled down 22 rebounds as the Bullets fast broke began to click.

Unsettled, who hit 11 straight shots at one point, had 20 rebounds through three quarters. The 6-8, 250-pound center picked up the slack after Elvin Hayes jammed the middle finger on his shooting hand in the first two minutes of the game.

The Bullets trailed 53-49 at halftime, but hit eight of their first 12 shots in the third quarter to take a 65-64 lead over George Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer who had 34 points in the first game, was held to 22 points Sunday while Larry Kenon led the Spurs with 25.

Bobby Dandridge added 19 points for the Bullets, Marvin 14.

Schools Get Ecology Film

MANCHESTER - Because of its concerns in educating elementary school students on the problems of litter, the Environment and Beautification Committee of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce arranged for the donation of a film for use by the local schools.

The film, "Our Land Needs Your Help," was funded by the Manchester Rotary Club. John Fogarty, president of the Rotary Club, recently presented the film to Dr. Gerald FitzGibbon, assistant superintendent of schools for curriculum.

Through the efforts of the Chamber committee and in particular Mrs. Lorraine Peterman, the film was screened by FitzGibbon, Mrs. Sarah Ellessor and Cal Fish, members of the audio visual council of the schools, Juan Sanchez of the Oak Grove Natural Science Center, Leo Diuna, principal at Nathan Hale School and members of the committee.

Mrs. Peterman pointed out "It is hoped that the film will be widely used in the classrooms and thus the children will be made aware of the problems of litter and hopefully take corrective measures to help solve these problems."

The Environment and Beautification Committee is also involved in many other projects concerning Manchester's environment, which include the recent clean-up day on April 21, roadside improvements, entrance locations, the Memorial Tree Program, and beautification awards. Anyone interested in becoming active in these projects and others are urged to call the Chamber office at 646-2223.

Ballet Series Closing Is Memorable

By PETER BASH GRAM

The Hartford Ballet Company presented a memorable closing of the Dance Series at the Bushnell Memorial last weekend. On Friday night, the opening piece staged to the swinging music of Leonard Bernstein and directed by Hartford's master choreographer, Michael Uthoff, brought the full house to a roaring ovation. In contrast, "Valley," performed to Beethoven's Elegiac Song, in demi-lit settings by Jerry Kelch, closely-knit bodies in perpetual contact, created an aura of mysticism and choreographic improvisation.

During intermissions many aficionados signed for next year's series. When the huge curtain rose again, the family of the "Prodigal Son" emerged from their Macramé tent. The story unfolded to the powerful music of Sergei Prokofiev, merged to brilliant choreography by Mr. Uthoff. It involved no less than 14 dancers. Their costumes by C. Tomlinson characterized the family, wearing long jellabs, contrasted pointedly to the scar garments of the Hedonists. Jean Tears, in the role of the seductress, performed in full force. Greg Evans, as the prodigal son, danced with youthful vigor mixed with repentance. The work appeared more polished than when initially seen at Storrs last fall. It was the dance-theater at its best, the
