WHAT'S NEWS

Referee Approval

HARTFORD (UPI) — The House Friday approved legislation that would require retired judges acting as state referees to be renominated by the Legislature.

The requirement was in the form of an amendment attached to a Senate-approved bill allowing retired judges to practice law if not performing judicial duties.

The House passed the amendment, 86-51, before voting 101-36 to approve the main bill. Because of the House amendment the bill must go back to the Senate.

All judges in Connecticut serve eight-year terms, with the approval of the Legislature, and must retire at 70. However, after retirement they may stay on and serve as trial referees but they do not have to be renominated or approved by the Legislature.

Denied License

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (UPI) — Two unidentified Portland, Conn., women have been denied a marriage license by Brattleboro Town Clerk Wardner Angell.

Angell told the two women in a letter this week that Vermont law forbids homosexual marriages.

He based his statement on a 1975 attorney general's opinion saying the state's marriage laws use such words as "bridegroom," "male" and "female," thus barring the marriage of two people of the same sex.

Angell declined to release the women's names. He said he got a letter from them April 26 asking if they could obtain a marriage license.

Hostages Seized

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftists seized the Venezuelan ambassador and seven other hostages Friday in the third embassy takeover in a week. In a separate clash, police battling with young protesters killed four teen-agers.

One of the 10 rebels who took over the Venezuelan Embassy spoke to reporters from behind venetian blinds of the modern yellow ranch-style building. He said the insurgents would hold their ground until the government frees three jailed leaders of the Popular Revolutionary Bloc.

Blast Kills 5

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Five people were killed Friday and 19 injured, three seriously, in an explosion that leveled a two-story Northeast Philadelphia bar and touched off a gas main blast and fire.

Police said four men in the tavern and a woman passerby were killed. Most of the injured were treated and released from Philadelphia area hospitals, but three were in serious condition, including one at St. Agnes Burn Center.

Eight Trapped

GALVESTON, Texas (UPI) — Eight men were believed trapped Friday in an oil rig that toppled into Gulf waters with 34 crewmen aboard when one of its legs collapsed.

A team of divers failed to stabilize the precariously balanced oil platform, postponing a search for the eight missing men.

Three Killed

LITTLETON, N.H. (UPI) — State Police said Friday three persons — including a Roman Catholic priest — were dead and a state police trooper injured following a six-hour standoff outside the rectory of St. Rosa of Lima Church.

Carter Demands Ration Alternative

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An angry President Carter Friday accused House members of burying "their heads in the sand" in rejecting his emergency gasoline rationing plan and challenged them to draft an acceptable alternative within 90 days.

"I was shocked and I was embarrassed for our nation's government ... that the House refused to take the responsibility for giving me this authority," Carter told reporters he summoned to the Oval Office to hear his first public statement on the issue.

In an unexpected move, the House late Thursday voted 246-159 against giving Carter the power to impose a coupon-type rationing plan in the event the nation faces emergency gasoline shortages. The Senate had passed his proposal 58-39.

Carter's stern words marked a sharp departure from past White House policy of refraining from attacks on either house of Congress.

"I am not willing to accept the judgment of a majority of the House of Representatives, whose members have apparently put their heads in the sand and refused to take action," the president said, standing behind his desk as he addressed reporters.

"I challenge the Congress within this next 90 days to develop their own rationing plan — fair, equitable and balanced."

He said he would not resubmit his own plan, but would offer Congress "any possible assistance."

He declined to say what steps would be taken if Congress failed to meet the 90-day deadline.

"This question indicates, and I hate to say this, that a majority of the House of Representatives have been willing to put local or parochial interests (ahead) and let political timidity prevent their taking action in the interest of our nation," Carter said.

He warned that "anyone in a position of authority, who is not willing to recognize the potential threat to our country (of oil shortages) and be prepared to deal with the threat ... is irresponsible."

Carter originally offered a four-part energy conservation plan, but Congress approved only one of them — thermostat control in public buildings.

A White House official said the president will soon carry out that program by ordering the owners of non-residential buildings to set thermostats at 80 degrees or higher in summer and 65 or lower in winter.

Two Firms Interviewed For Government Study

MANCHESTER — Town officials Friday interviewed two firms interested in studying how the town operates.

Town Manager Robert Weiss has recommended a study of town operations to determine where improvements can be made in the daily routine of town departments. The firm that does the study will make recommendations about how to make the local government operation more efficient.

Weiss interviewed the two interested firms along with Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager, Jane Chayes, budget analyst, and a subcommittee of the Town Board of Directors.

Weiss said the study of town operations could start as early as next month. The board first has to approve the expenditure for the study. The exact cost of the work is not yet known, although estimates have ranged from $20,000 to $40,000.

The matter probably will be on the board's agenda next month. Members of the board already have mentioned that they plan to proceed with such a study. It was referred to several times during the budget-setting process.

Tough Curb Sought For Oil Profits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Warning that oil companies could reap a $20 billion profit through decontrols by 1981, economic adviser Charles Schultze said Friday the administration would gladly help Congress toughen President Carter's 50 percent windfall profits tax.

Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, listened while several members of the House Ways and Means Committee said the windfall profits was too easy on the oil companies.

"If this is the president's high water mark, it is only 4 inches above the ground," said Rep. James Shannon, D-Mass. "Many of us feel it should be tougher."

Schultze said the administration felt it had pursued a middle road in seeking a 50 percent tax to mop up excessive oil profits.

"We think we have walked an appropriate middle line," said Schultze.

But he added, "We would be glad to work with the committee on toughening it up in a way that doesn't adversely affect production. We are convinced the tax should not be eased."

Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, said he favored amending the bill to eliminate the $1.2 billion foreign tax credits the oil firms now get.

House Would Curb Company Stations

HARTFORD (UPI) — The House Friday approved and sent to the Senate a bill that would prohibit oil companies from operating retail service stations in Connecticut.

The House voted 90-46 to approve the measure that would shutdown 42 stations in the state that are now directly operated by the oil companies.

Oil companies own about half of the state's 3,200 retail gasoline stations but only 42 are wholly operated by the firms.

Independent retailers, who pushed for the bill, charged the company-owned stations unfairly sell gasoline cheaper than they can.

Under the bill, the oil companies would not be allowed to open a station after July 1, and they would have to cease operation of any station by July 1, 1980.

One of several amendments approved by the House deleted a requirement that the oil companies treat all dealers the same when handing out allotments and discounts.

Proponents said the deletion was necessary in order to save the bill from being killed.

A second amendment switched enforcement of the bill from the Department of Environmental Protection to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

An audience of service station dealers in the House gallery applauded when the bill was approved after about one hour of debate.

The independent station operators, represented by the Connecticut Gasoline Retailers Association, said they were being undercut by the oil company-operated stations.

The association scheduled a closed-door meeting for tonight in Meriden to discuss and possibly decide on whether to go along with a national four-day shutdown of service stations next weekend.

Opponents argued the bill would set a dangerous precedent.

The House narrowly rejected on a 71-65 vote an amendment by Rep. Robert Walsh, D-Coventry, to conduct a study of the entire gasoline problem and report to the Legislature next February.

Rep. Warren Sarasin, R-Beacon Falls, said the bill was "an unfortunate way to deal with the problem." He said the bill posed questions of limiting free enterprise and imposing the state's will on private business.

Rep. Eugene Migliaro, R-Wolcott, countered, "There is no competition because oil companies have set themselves up as wholesalers, distributors and retailers. They're making it on all ends at the expense of the independent retailer," he said.

Unions Protest Jobs For Out-of-Staters

HARTFORD (UPI) — About 50 electricians, roofers, painters and other Connecticut union workers marched in front of the Capitol Friday protesting the hiring of out-of-state help to refurbish the 100-year-old building.

"We want local people on the job. Period," said Bill O'Brien, president of the Greater Hartford Building and Construction Trades Council.

"They're hiring out-of-state people. Leaders for the protesters claimed the state violated the law by declining to give first preference to Connecticut workers when it doled out contracts for the $8 million Capitol renovation project.

They also said some of those working on the Capitol had not been paid the prevailing wage as required by law.

But Thomas Foley, deputy commissioner for public works, denied the charges, saying "We're complying with all the laws."

Foley said he recently met with the Connecticut union leaders but that they were vague about what they wanted.

"I'm trying to co-operate, but they're not," he said, adding that he plans to meet with them again on Tuesday.

The protesters said they called the rally because state officials have not been co-operating.

"I hope that this will attain the enforcement of the state's own laws," said John Driscoll, president of the Connecticut State Labor Council. "We've gone through the bureaucratic procedure. That doesn't seem to work."

Marchers Protest Budget Cuts

By CHARLIE MAYNARD
Herald Reporter

GLASTONBURY — Sandy Long's poster said, "This March Is Humiliating, But Necessary."

Many other persons felt that way. But however singularly embarrassed they might have been, they were collectively unabashed as they marched through Glastonbury Center.

More than two hundred persons — taxpayers, teachers, children — quietly marched along Main Street and surrounding streets Friday afternoon to protest the $250,000 reduction imposed by the Board of Finance on the school board's budget request.

Ms. Long's position in the march was doubly poignant. She is a Spanish teacher at the Eastbury and Hebron Avenue schools, a subject which will be dropped in the fourth if the proposed reduction is left intact by the Town Council.

As the school sympathizers marched in the center of town, the local Concerned Citizens on Taxation issued its final statement on the budget. It praised the Board of Finance for recommending the reduction and told the council to keep the mill rate from increasing next year.

Town Manager Donald Peach has introduced a budget calling for a tax rate of 48.3 mills, up 1.7 mills from the current fiscal year. The Board of Finance's action reduced it to 47.1.

All of this leaves the council in a "damned-if-you-do, damned-if-you-don't" position. Unless a reasonable compromise is made, one side is certain to be antagonized.

After four years on the council and nearly a lifetime in politics, Chairman Henry Kinne knows the feeling. He said recently, "You do the best you can and don't let it (the criticism) get to you."

The debate on the school budget is swirling just as the council is expected to review it Monday in the seventh of its nine budget workshops.

The marchers began their trek from Academy School and up Main Street, joining other persons in front of the Welles-Chapman Tavern. They then circled around the Welles Street-Hebron Avenue block three times and finished on Main Street.

The marchers were a stone's throw away from Kinne's Main Street gas station. (One woman suggested stopping in front to get the chairman's attention).

The marchers presented a petition, demanding that a "substantial portion of the cut be restored" by the council. It said the reduction's impact would be detrimental to the students' education.

The petition is to be presented to the council Monday, one woman said. However, the local taxpayers group, which has been well-organized and well-publicized since its formation last January, said the "reduction is reasonable and logical and need not result in any reduction in the quality of the basic education in the Glastonbury schools."

The report included statistics by CCT executive committee member Donald Brendal on the program reductions proposed by the school administration last week. The taxpayers' association charged the school department with exaggerating the impact of the program cuts.

It urged the council to "uphold the $250,000 reduction" and, likewise, has forwarded its report to the nine council members.

Time for Railroadiana

By RUSS MACKENDRICK

Time for some Railroadiana: This is the "Reno," one of the most popular models in the HO gauge. The original was Engine No. 11 in the stable of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad - "the proudest of all" their locomotives. It was built by Baldwin in 1872, with wheel arrangement 4-4-0 as we see, weight 45,500 lb. on drivers, 65,000 total. The tractive force was 11,800 pounds. The model shows it after conversion to oil.

The Virginia & Truckee Railroad ran from the city of Reno, Nevada, which is on the Truckee River, to Virginia City. The distance to the cross ties is only 12 miles, but the line was in the shape of a fishhook, picking up Carson City at the bottom curve, making an overall length of 55 miles.

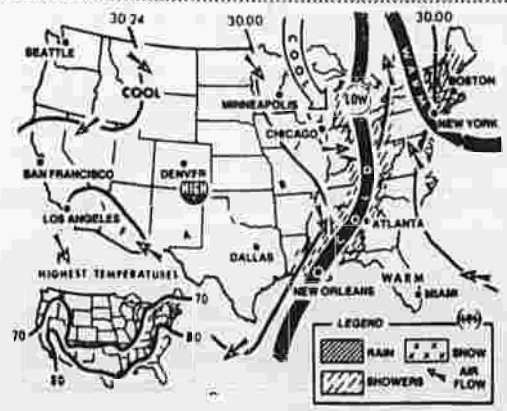

It is not famous for its mileage, but for what it carried. For 80 years it was the main line for the Comstock Lode, transporting silver ore, and silver, and silver millionaires (one was "Bonanza Mckay, the richest man in the world"). Ex-President Ulysses S. Grant rode over it in his private car on a "special" - powered by the engine Reno, the finest thing... on the roster. At the time of the 1897 Fitzsimmons - Corbett championship fight in Carson City, the railroad brought in thousands of "sports" from the outside world. As told in the book, "Steamcars to the Comstock," by Lucius Beebe and Charles Clegg, the V & T started just as a workhorse road in 1869 to carry ore from the mines in and around Virginia City to the mill sites on the Carson River. There was originally no thought of connecting to any other line. However, when the Central Pacific came as near as Reno, the intended "Virginia City & Carson River Railroad" became the "Virginia & Truckee."

The whole story had begun with the finding of black sand with a high silver content in 1853, which inspired Harry Comstock and others to do some real digging in 1859. There was a major "find" and inside of a year there were 5,000 people in the area. From 1860 to 1882 the "Lode" produced nearly $200 million worth of precious metals - which would bring many times that today. The Virginia & Truckee had 26 other engines besides the Reno. The first one was the Lyon in 1869; some others were the Washoe, the Genoa, Empire, Esmeralda, Ohio, Dayton and Marimac. A few of them made it in the movies, Number 21, the "J.W. Bowker," was used in Paramount's "Union Pacific" (in 1939, with Joel McCrea). Number 22, the "Inyo," also starred in Union Pacific, and again in the picture

Second Tremor Felt

WESTON, Mass. (UPI) - The second tremor in less than a month occurred Friday morning in the vicinity of the Maine Yankee nuclear power plant at Wiscasset but was not strong enough to be felt by residents of the area. "It was a very tiny earthquake," said Edward Chubris, assistant director of the Weston Observatory and a professor of geophysics at Boston College. He said no damage was reported. The quake, which occurred at 7:19 a.m., registered 2.3 on the open ended Richter Scale and was centered several kilometers to the north of the one on the night of April 17, he said.

The tremor on April 17 measured 4 on the Richter Scale and was followed by aftershocks. It was centered nine miles from Maine's only atomic power plant and was felt throughout eastern New England. Maine authorities reported the most serious damage from the April quake was broken windows and pictures knocked from walls.

Maine Yankee is one of five nuclear plants in the East ordered closed by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission on March 13 for suspecting faults in their cooling systems ability to withstand major earthquakes. The plants are still closed.

"To our knowledge it (Friday's tremor) was not felt by any residents in the area. No one indicated any perception to the quake. "Normally this wouldn't get out," Chubris said. "Normally a 2.3 is not felt. We wanted to know if this one was felt because of the furor caused by last month's quake so we made some inquiries."

Connecticut Weather
WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) - Saturday mostly cloudy with the chance of showers. Highs around 70. Saturday shower activity will be widespread from the mid Connecticut coast, northeastward thru portions of the Ohio-Tennessee valley and into the vicinity of the Lakes as well as in parts of the Northeast. Clear to partly cloudy elsewhere.

Sabino Begins Cruises

MYSTIC - The 1908 Steamboat Sabino has begun daily cruises on the Mystic River. The 57-foot coal-fired vessel leaves Sabino Wharf on the Mystic Seaport grounds at half-past the hour between 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., carrying Seaport visitors on a cruise along the waterfront.

Nightly public sailings leave the wharf at 6 p.m. Fridays through Tuesdays. It is a 1 1/2-hour trip riverward. Seaport admission is not required. Dixieland Band Cruises with music by John Edgecomb's Second Line Dixieland Jazz Band, have been scheduled for 6 and 8 p.m. June 16 and 30, July 3, 14 and 28, and August 11 and 25. Tickets will go on sale at Sabino Wharf at 10 a.m. the Sunday preceding each cruise. No advance reservations will be accepted.

Sabino, one of the last coal-fired passenger vessels in the country, is a working exhibit and part of the visitors' educational experience at Mystic Seaport. She is also available for evening charter by groups.

Season Will Be Tribute

BECKETT, Mass. - The Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival board of directors plans to present the coming summer season as a tribute to Artistic Director Norman Walker, who leaves his post in September. Although Walker programmed the eight-week season and plans to be in residence at the Pillow throughout the summer as usual, he was unaware of this special honor.

MAP Planner Promises To Save Historic Areas

MANCHESTER - A consultant for MAP Associates Thursday night told the town's Conservation Commission that the proposed Buckland Commons project would not disrupt surrounding natural and historic areas.

John Fingerra, a consultant for MAP, attended the meeting to discuss the proposed project, which would include a large shopping mall and residential development. Fingerra, who was questioned by commission members and attorney Anthony Pagano, said the project would not harm or disturb surrounding land, including the nearby Jamstone quarry, where dinosaur skeletons have been found.

Buckland Commons was planned with the surrounding environment in mind, Fingerra told the commission. Pagano, who represents Michael Dworkin, a concerned environmentalist and opponent of the project, asked Fingerra several questions about Buckland Commons. Pagano expressed concern that the project would affect the surrounding land.

Dr. Frederick Spaulding, a commission member who has opposed the expansion of Interstate 86, also said that state agencies, including the state Department of Environmental Protection, have questioned the plans to expand and widen the highway.

Job Begins Soon On 'Little School'

MANCHESTER - Work on providing facilities at Bentley School for mentally and emotionally handicapped students will start May 21. Town officials and a representative of Orlando Annulli & Sons Inc. signed a contract Friday for the $29,613 project.

The proposal includes classrooms, office space, and rooms for home economics and recreation. It also includes special "time-out rooms," which provide a separate area where a student may calm down after becoming upset or aggravated.

"It's like a little school by itself," Richard Mankey, architect for the project, said. The special section at Bentley School will be located in the lower level of the school's north wing.

The facility is expected to provide facilities so Manchester can educate such students in its own school system rather than sending them to private, out-of-town facilities. Sending the students outside of Manchester has become very expensive.

Lon Annulli of Annulli & Sons said work will start May 21. It should be completed by Aug. 1, he said. The cost of the work will be paid with money included in the original bonding issue for Bentley School renovations.

Liquor Bid Still Pending

BOLTON - The application for a liquor license for Mr. P's Cabaret on Bolton Lake is still being investigated by the state Liquor Control Commission. Philip Pallapiano, one of the club's owners, applied for the license. A commission spokesman said a public hearing has not yet been set and won't be until the investigation is completed.

Earlier this year more than 300 residents filed a petition with the commission. The residents object to the license because they feel it would be a detriment to the community and is in violation of a state pollution abatement order.

The establishment was closed in April after an out-of-court agreement between the Negro Brothers (owners of the building and property) and Richard Webb, assistant attorney general, was reached.

The Negro Brothers had failed to meet a court-imposed schedule to repair the septic system. Webb said, "The establishment will remain closed until the Negro Brothers submit plans for a corrected system and have the plans approved by the Department of Environmental Protection." Randy May, DEP water compliance unit senior sanitary engineer, said the first failure at the establishment was in 1976 and the DEP was unsuccessful in getting it corrected so took the matter to court.

May said a meeting was scheduled last week between himself, an engineer and the parties interested in getting the system corrected. He said, "The engineer and I were there but the interested parties didn't show up." May said he reviewed the history of the establishment's problems with the system, with the engineer.

May said, "The department is no longer under pressure to get the system fixed as long as the establishment remains closed. It's all up to them now."

Our Junk Mail Lives After Us

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) - Some time back, I wrote a piece about a citizen who received 276 pieces of unsolicited direct mail in six months - and forwarded it all to his congressman.
I now have at hand a letter from Foster Parents Plan, one of the 134 private organizations that posted the mail. It is concerned that some people might have gotten the impression that it sells its mailing lists, and that it is not a charitable organization.

Thought

We have been considering prayer in the sense of petition. It is well to conclude with a mention of two other types of prayer: Thanksgiving.
We should certainly render thanks to God for all He has given us. We repeat thanks when we have helped others. After curing the ten lepers, Jesus was hurt and surprised when only one returned to give thanks for the cure.
Adoration. This is the highest form of prayer, the prayer of the angels. The prayer that we hope will be ours in eternity.

U.S. Should Subsidize Its Fishermen

WASHINGTON - It's been 24 years since America's military victory over Japan, but ever since, the Japanese have been scoring a more subtle economic triumph.
In the process, they have rebuilt their nation and expanded their economy. They have out-produced, out-marketed and out-manuevered American industry. A case study involves the common fish.

Japanese corporations are quietly gaining financial control over one of the most valuable fishing grounds in the United States - the Gulf of Alaska. Their fishing fleets, which cruise the Alaska coastal waters, catch more than 80 percent of the harvest while American fishermen struggle to hold onto a tiny portion of the $2 billion-a-year market.
We don't have a well-coordinated, well-thought-through policy, a Commerce Department administrator conceded to our associate Hal Bertone. Indeed, the department is only now coming up with a plan to subsidize American fishermen to catch fish in U.S. territorial waters that American fishermen are unable to harvest. Because the U.S. fishing industry suffers from lack of capital and the subsidies that foreign fleets enjoy, the amount of fish they are unable to harvest each year is enormous.

Remember from your science lessons how molecules are magnetic field leap from one substance to another? Well, it is my theory that when computerized mailing lists are in close proximity, the names hop back and forth in much the same fashion. Several people have pointed out to me that the Direct Mail Marketing Association maintains a service through which one may have one's name removed from mailing lists. I would never do anything like that. In this fast-changing world, mailing lists provide a sense of continuity that I find comforting. Each day when the mail is delivered to my congressional press files, I notice envelopes addressed to reporters who changed jobs, retired or passed away 10 or 15 years ago. It pleases me to think that long after I am gone in any way implying that the pants people may have sold my name to the fund-raising outfits.

Meanwhile, heavily subsidized foreign fishing industries continue to eat into our Alaskan fish harvest. The Koreans, for example, have set up a "joint venture" operation that calls for U.S. fishermen to supply pollock to a Korean factory ship in Alaskan waters. While the scheme may please the fishermen, it undercuts U.S. processors in Alaska, who can't hope to compete with the 35-cent-a-hour pay scale of the Korean's floating fish factory.
Footnote: An amendment to the 1978 law gives U.S. processors first crack at fish caught by American fleets. But the Commerce Department has been reluctant to implement it.

Bedell's Dilemma
A company owned by Rep. Berkeley W. Bedell, D-Iowa, is being investigated by a federal grand jury in Minneapolis on charges that it cheated Uncle Sam out of some $250,000 in customs duties in recent years. The firm, Berkeley and Co. of Spirit Lake, Iowa, manufactures fishing tackle; the investigation centers on its subsidiary in Taiwan. Bedell founded the company in 1937. Although he relinquished control of day-to-day operations when he was elected to Congress in 1974, he remains board chairman of both Berkeley and Co. and the Taiwan subsidiary. Last December, acting on information in a U.S. Customs agent's affidavit, federal authorities conducted a search of the firm's books.
Energy Secretary James Schlesinger is regarded as an enemy by solar power enthusiasts, but his wife Rachel is one of their staunch supporters. She was hosted for a fund-raiser to benefit a solar power fair on the Mall, and showed particular interest in an alcohol-fuel still that was part of the exhibit. She told the still's designer, Dr. Paul Medow, that she would pass the word to her husband.

Back to 'Hell No, We Won't Go'?

WASHINGTON - Chants of "Hell no, we won't go" - a haunting echo from the Vietnam years - are starting to be heard again in the capital as Congress considers requiring 18-year-olds to register with draft boards for the first time since 1975.
Spurred by growing concern that all-volunteer Army has failed to prepare the country for a possible emergency, a House Armed Services subcommittee took the first step in that direction the other day by voting to have 18-year-olds register after Dec. 31, 1980.
It will likely be noted that the proposed date is just after the November 1980 election - attesting to the political problems faced by Congress as it moves to shore up the nation's military preparedness.
During the last three months of 1979, all four armed services missed their recruiting goals. The Army's total strength at the end of the year was 757,000 - 2.2 percent below President Carter's January 1978 goal of 774,200.
Currently of greatest concern, however, is the huge shortfall in the Individual Ready Reserve, whose members would be called upon to replace regular army casualties in the event of war. The IRR, at the end of the 1978 fiscal year, was short 500,000 soldiers - 271,000 of them in the critical combat specialties.
Although the bill approved by the House committee calls only for registration to give the nation a ready supply of names, opponents charge the measure is a short step away from a full-fledged draft.
In peacetime there is no need for the draft and no need for this

A Grace Note Can Mean a Lot to Someone

By CLIFF SIMPSON
Have you written recently to someone who helped you long ago and just recently? It would be a very gracious act - and I know that it would mean so much to the individual involved. A day or two ago I received one about an event I had long forgotten. It made my day - and money was reminded of this when I picked up an old issue of "Guidposts" and casually turned the pages until my eye lighted on this little incident.
When I was a first-year teacher, Debbie was one of my favorite students. No one could resist her; she was cute as a button with her curly brown hair and big brown eyes. Deb had a way of melting your heart. My second year was to be spent in a large class, spread into a tiny, old basement classroom. It was a bit discouraging to see all the desks crammed close together with little room to pass among the students. A few days after the start of school I opened my desk to take attendance one morning. I found a small, white piece of paper in the desk drawer. On it was written: "I know forty lucky kids! It was signed Debbie. "Why in heaven's name would she do that? I can't tell you how good it made me feel. I will always remember that as the most pleasant beginning to a school year that I have ever had. My sagging morale was sent soaring by a kind note from a loving 11-year-old girl." (Adrian DeGalan)

Truly a grace note.
I knew a woman who wrote a tribute to his grandfather the night he died with only 11 gloves with gratitude for companionship and respect for his standards and love for the care that he had given to the generations. This passion of praise covered more than one page of typewriter size paper.
In the middle are these two lines: "His lesson and example continue to live forever. Lessons of sincerity, love, and devotion."

Manchester News

By Barbara E. Baker
MACC Division of Special Ministries
For a long time the people in MACC's Special Ministries have dreamed of having a neighborhood drop-in center in downtown Manchester. We'd pursued the idea in a number of ways, most recently by requesting Community Development funds for the rental of storefront that we could fix up for that purpose. Each time an idea failed we put the dream aside temporarily and waited. Now, possibly, we need will no more.
Two months ago Dean Rossow of Carry Nation's Cafe came to the conference offering the use of his establishment during the day as a drop-in center for the older adult population in the downtown area. Incredible!
Everything we wanted: a good location, a place we didn't need repair, a built-in staff, good equipment, and all for a price we could afford - nothing. We were delighted.
Now, how to proceed. Since the purpose of the center was simply to provide a place that everyone would be welcome to use all for the purpose we are not, at least to begin with, into anything fancy.
The center opens Monday, and will be open daily, Monday through Friday, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. There will be games available if wanted, and soft drinks and sandwiches for purchase. No one need

"Come Fishin'"
When I was minister of the First Congregational Church in Springfield, Vermont, a big disagreement developed between the Methodist minister, Larry Larowing, and his deacons or the congregation. At any rate, the next Sunday the church members arrived at the front door to see a sign that said, "No Church Today. Come Fishin'" and it was signed by the minister.
I have forgotten the issue but not the event. Later, I learned that the episode had made the front page of the New York Times. I do not recommend this procedure - in fact, I say it was neglect of duty - but it did heal the difference and help to solve the problem.

Question of Identity Subject of Lecture

Just where is man's true being in relation to God? What are the qualities or characteristics that make up this identity. And how can we deal with what tends to obscure true identity?
These and other questions were discussed Thursday night during a talk at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, given by Miss Jane O. Robbins, C.S.B., in her lecture entitled, "Freedom to Be Yourself: A Study in a free public lecture and all in the community had been invited to attend.
Miss Robbins spoke of Christ Jesus' healing ministry as evidence of his understanding of the Christ - of man's true being and his relationship to God as God's image and likeness - God's child. She explained it was this Science of Christ that May Baker Eddy discovered in her deep search for the answer to mankind's problems and which she then presented to this age in Christian Science.
A number of recent healings brought about through a prayerful understanding of man's God given identity were cited. Miss Robbins said that people today are finding this scientific principle of man's real identity applicable to every aspect of their lives, that problems are given away to this spiritual concept of man and individuals are finding the freedom to themselves.

Carry Nation's Revenge

By Barbara E. Baker
MACC Division of Special Ministries
For a long time the people in MACC's Special Ministries have dreamed of having a neighborhood drop-in center in downtown Manchester. We'd pursued the idea in a number of ways, most recently by requesting Community Development funds for the rental of storefront that we could fix up for that purpose. Each time an idea failed we put the dream aside temporarily and waited. Now, possibly, we need will no more.
Two months ago Dean Rossow of Carry Nation's Cafe came to the conference offering the use of his establishment during the day as a drop-in center for the older adult population in the downtown area. Incredible!
Everything we wanted: a good location, a place we didn't need repair, a built-in staff, good equipment, and all for a price we could afford - nothing. We were delighted.
Now, how to proceed. Since the purpose of the center was simply to provide a place that everyone would be welcome to use all for the purpose we are not, at least to begin with, into anything fancy.
The center opens Monday, and will be open daily, Monday through Friday, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. There will be games available if wanted, and soft drinks and sandwiches for purchase. No one need Anything, the food is there as a convenience. There will be no alcoholic beverages served or sold. (The only restriction for calling the center "Carry Nation's Revenge.") If there are sufficient interest shown, we can expand in all kinds of ways. We won't know, of course, if we're really serving a need until we've helped in getting together dishes, sheets, blankets and even chopsticks.

Neighbors aren't necessarily neighborly any more. Maybe this one will be, thanks to Mr. Rossow.
MACC Awareness Month
Did you know that with your help the 14 Christian churches that form MACC, joining with the Roman Catholic churches in Glastonbury, Bolton, East Hartford, South Windsor and Vernon, has established a unique ecumenical chaplaincy program. This pastoral care ministry is twofold. Rev. Kelly provides sacramental care to Roman Catholic patients at Manchester Memorial Hospital and pastoral care to all patients at Meadows Nursing and Convalescent Home. This ministry provides comfort, support, counseling and the healing presence of Christ to those who are ill, suffering and sometimes swept up in tragic emergency situations.

Morals Charge Faces Husband of Schaffer

WOODBIDGE — (UPI) — The husband of Civil Aeronautics Board member Gloria Schaffer — Eugene Schaffer, 54 — has been charged with exposing himself to an undercover policeman at a roadside rest stop, state police said Friday.

Schaffer was among six men arrested at Wilbur Cross Parkway rest areas in Woodbridge and Wallingford during a sweep by two undercover agents Thursday afternoon, a spokesman at the state police barracks in Bethany said.

Schaffer's wife is a former two-term Connecticut secretary of state who was appointed to the CAB by President Carter last year.

Schaffer, of Woodbridge, was charged with public indecency after he allegedly exposed himself to one of the state police decoys at a Woodbridge rest area along the highway's northbound lanes.

Troopers said the undercover agents were assigned to the areas because of repeated complaints of homosexual incidents and harassment.

Police said motorists stopping at the rest areas have complained of homosexual solicitations, approaches and exposures at the rest areas.

Schaffer was issued a misdemeanor summons at the scene and released pending an appearance in New Haven Superior Court later this month.

Mrs. Schaffer, 48, was elected Secretary of the State in 1970.

Moffett Foresees Woes In Region's Oil Heat

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut home heating oil users could face short supplies and inflated prices next winter unless the federal government acts soon, Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., warned Friday.

Moffett, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Energy, said a study by the New England Economic Research Office found that the region's consumers were paying as much as 25 percent more for heating oil in May than they had been charged last December.

In a release from his Washington office, Moffett said unless the Department of Energy takes some action this summer, "it may be paying 90 cents a gallon next winter for heating oil — and there may not be enough of it, regardless of the price."

"We're facing a double crisis: a potential supply problem, compounded by the very real threat of a pricing problem," Moffett said.

He said a spot check of prices showed that between Dec. 1, 1978 and May 1, 1979 Connecticut residents saw their bills jump by 21.6 percent, increasing from an average 55.4 cents a gallon to 67.4 cents. Only Ver-

House Approves Measure On Alternative Workfare

HARTFORD (UPI) — The House Friday approved the "alternative workfare bill," a measure that would allow wages to be over and above the $45 and $50 a week they receive in General Assistance, a form of local welfare.

The measure was pushed this year by several human services coalitions who felt the welfare bill would merely force welfare recipients to do menial chores, like raking leaves, without teaching them basic job skills.

During Friday's debate, a number of lawmakers complained the program would encourage recipients of local welfare to enroll in school for 10 hours a week, instead of seriously looking for work.

"All my colleagues, rest assured, were not going to seduce anyone into non-work by giving them $50 a week," Rep. Robert Walsh, D-Coventry, said, referring to the combined income from school attendance and general assistance.

Rep. Thirman Milner, D-Hartford, said the state might as well try the program because the federal government would be paying for it.

"This is a federally funded program," he said. "It won't cost the state anything."

Besides, Milner continued, welfare recipients who learned job skills would be more inclined to go out and look for jobs.

"This will assist people to get off the welfare rolls," he said.

House Backs Limits on Consumer Suits

HARTFORD (UPI) — The House Friday put the finishing touches on a bill that would restrict when consumers can sue manufacturers for product-related injuries.

The House unanimously approved and sent to the Senate a compromise version of the product liability proposal that Gov. Ella Grasso vetoed last year. The governor had called it an insult to consumers.

The new bill was approved by the House 98-39. It was brought on the floor again Friday so that it is free of amendment detailing changes in the proposal could be added.

Rep. Richard Tullisano, D-Rocky Hill, said the new version of the product liability bill was drawn up to satisfy business and labor. Industries had complained that the original proposal to protect consumers from defective products would raise insurance premium rates.

The major amendments on the new bill, which now goes to the Senate, would provide that the amount of workmen's compensation paid to an employee injured on the job would be deducted when any damage awards are returned. The employee would be allowed to collect 100 percent of the workmen's compensation allowance, instead of the current 65 percent of 65 percent of a weekly salary.

Rep. John Berman, R-West Hartford, said the new bill was "fair and balanced," and drew up with the governor's veto message in mind.

One provision states that if a consumer is injured by a product and the manufacturer is not held liable, a percentage will be subtracted from any final settlement.

Lawsuits must be submitted within three years of an injury and the "useful safe life" period was extended from eight to 10 years. That means an employee could not file suit if he or she is injured by a machine that has deteriorated beyond the point of being considered safe.

The new proposal forbids product

Flatt Dies, Country Singer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Veteran country music performer Lester Flatt, who performed for 25 years as half of the famed bluegrass duo of Flatt and Scruggs, died at a hospital Friday following a long illness.

Early this morning (Friday), he was transferred from his private room to the coronary care unit because he had developed a substantial heart problem. He became weaker throughout the day.

Moore said he did not know whether any members of Flatt's family were with him at the time of death. Survivors include three brothers and three sisters.

Flatt and banjo picker Earl Scruggs learned in 1948 and split in 1969 for reasons that were never disclosed. They played engagements ranging from country carnivals to Carnegie Hall.

Flatt was 64, who had a coronary bypass operation in 1975, had been undergoing treatment at Baptist Hospital since April 23 for what hospital spokesman Paul Moore described as "treatment and evaluation of a heart condition."

Flatt's condition worsened Friday morning and he was moved to the intensive care section of the hospital.

Lester Flatt expired at 1:20 (EST) this afternoon, Moore said. "The cause of death was heart failure."

Moore said he did not know whether any members of Flatt's family were with him at the time of death.

Arrest Made in Breaks

Taylor Criticizes Budget Cut Foes

HEBRON — Noting he doesn't have a platform to speak from, as do the Board of Education and others, Emery Taylor, former selectman and Board of Finance member, urges all residents, with or without children in school, to attend the annual budget meeting Monday.

Taylor said those without children are also interested in education "and I feel we have been most generous when you consider that we spend one of the highest, if not the highest, amounts appropriated for education in the State of Connecticut." He added that it would seem from reading the press that only persons on the Board of Education are concerned with education and added this isn't true. Speaking of the proposed $63,700 cut in the school budget, imposed by the Board of Finance, Taylor said, "Nothing in the Board of Finance cuts will affect education unless the Board of Education uses this as an excuse to cut in areas other than those recommended by the Board of Finance."

Involving the school children by sending letters home to the parents is, in my opinion, unethical. If this is the only way to get people to participate in society it is a sad state of affairs," he said.

Tall Cedars Shift Date

MANCHESTER — Because of Memorial Day weekend, E. Steve Pearl, grand tall cedar of Nutmeg Forest, has moved his executive meeting to Monday and the regular Forest meeting to May 21.

Pearl will attend the International Convention in Virginia Beach, Va., this weekend accompanied by Frederick Gall, junior deputy; Charles Misk, steward, and Jame Aboumrad, past grand tall cedar. Aboumrad was appointed supreme director of the Supreme Forest Foundation. Pearl will report on the convention at the May 21st meeting. Also at the meeting, two representatives of the American Field Service will narrate slides on Iran and New Zealand. Jackie Hestlund of Manchester will talk about her experience as an exchange student in Iran last summer. Jocelyn Ivory, who is attending Manchester High School, will return to her native New Zealand after school this year.

The public is invited. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call Pearl at 645-5465.

'It's Worth It,' They Say Sweat, Strain, Pain

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A sign on the wall of Hughie's Weight Room, 501 E. Middle Turnpike states: "Champions — Greatness comes to those that dare to sweat...dare to strain...and dare the pain."

But to the regular "customers" at Hughie's, weight lifting for them is even more than the sweat and strain and pain. When asked why they put themselves through the strenuous regular workouts, the answers include words like "escape, habit, challenging, release, relaxation."

Rick Letz, the 23-year-old Manchester resident and former Mr. Cape Cod, went so far as to say, "My day is miserable if I don't work out." Something which started as a hobby at age 16 has turned into a "mandatory" part of his life six days a week.

Letz has entered several weight lifting competitions and will be in a capitol district contest today in Plainville. He takes his avocation seriously, but only because he reaps the benefits. Letz admits he like to be recognized. "I like to stick out in a crowd," he said. With his build and the added dark handsome looks, he definitely will stick out.

He also said, "It's a good feeling to be able to take care of yourself." For him, weight lifting has become a way of releasing tension and he says it makes his outlook on life better.

For Brian Carreiro of Bolton, weight lifting is a "driving force" in his life. "You have got to want to do Holyfield said that most persons don't know what to do with the equipment when they first come in. The trainers help to start them off with a general conditioning program and then they can move into a specific area of interest.

Many of the men come in with a training partner. A pair working together serve as an impetus for each other. It provides a competitive aspect in a sport in which one is largely competing against oneself.

Weight lifting is used for power and strength, but "there are very few who could stand the strenuous body building," Holyfield said. It can be used for losing weight. Overdoing, however, can defeat its purpose.

Everyone's metabolism is different and has to learn the best program for himself, Holyfield said.

Diet is also very important for the weight lifters who are in serious competition. Letz said it is the hardest part of the sport. He stays away from carbohydrates and uses food supplements prior to competition, but said it is not good to stay on such a diet for long.

The weight room draws persons from many occupations. There are teachers, and other professional people, psychiatrists, police officers from several area towns and many high school and college students.

Why do women weight lifters for women? Holyfield said he would not turn a woman away, but said she would have to use all the same facilities as the men. Weight lifting can be beneficial to women for toning, conditioning and especially for overweight, Holyfield said.

Letz did not agree that it would be good to have women in the weight room. "They would be too distracting," he said, however, the walls of the weight room are lined with "pin-up girls," which the men say give them "inspiration and motivation."

Going to the weight room also serves a social purpose for many of the "regulars." They mentioned the "good healthy friendly atmosphere" and the "close knit group" and that they can "leave the place happy."

Andy Darna of Manchester said he "feels really good after a workout," despite the blisters on his hands from holding the weights. He uses the weight lifting exercises to keep in shape for other sports, among them, throwing the shot put and the hammer.

Darna added that one facet of weight lifting which often makes people give up is that there is no such thing as "constantly improving: You've got to stand still at certain points," Darna said. "The compliments keep you going," he added.

Joel Schlink, a social worker in Manchester, uses the weight lifting to "get his mind off work." Mike McNickle of Manchester thinks it's "the best form of exercise for the amount of time."

Apparently many agree with him.

Weight lifting has its drawbacks, too. Andy Darna sports some good blisters from the weights.

Brian Carreiro tests his strength on the incline dumbbell presses.

Rick Letz strengthens his shoulders with standing lateral raises.

News for Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN Hello. This coming week, Monday through Friday, will be our Big Week. May is Senior Citizen Month and we always pick one week to plan extra programs. Monday at 8:15 a.m. we will kick off the week with a Senior Golf Tournament at the East Hartford Country Club. Golfers should report at the course by 8 a.m. I've mentioned all about the schedule for each day and we will have programs here at the office on Monday morning. We hope you'll plan to join in the fun and excitement of the week's activities. Why not start by being with us Monday, especially in the evening for our dance with music by Les Joubert and his band. It starts around 7:30 p.m. On day at the Coachlight theater. Wednesday was an enjoyable one for some 145 members. Speaking of trips, one week from Monday, we will sign up for a boat ride around Manhattan Island and a lunch stop at Valley's Steak House on the way back. Complete package is $21.50 and the date is July 17. The filers are in for that Las Vegas-Grand Canyon trip scheduled for the week of July 9th. Stop by and pick one up. We are taking advantage of the nice weather to do some work at the Green School and we need carpenters and handy men. We now are concentrating on repairing and painting outside windows and we need help. We start around 9 a.m. From all reports we will have to do much more work. Hopefully some of the burden will fall into the laps of our town fathers and they will come through with some financial help. Although the contractor will finish his work by the end of June, we will be left with a lot of work and therefore we do not intend to move into the building until September. Our seniors have organized two committees. One making plans for the color scheme and furniture. Donna Zalmer is chairperson. The other is a furnishing and equipment committee headed by Russell Nettleton. This group is responsible for raising money. They have planned for a huge Tag and bake sale in the parking area of the Green School on June 23. The committee is asking you folks to check around the house for items you no longer need. Please don't bring "junk" just to get rid of it. Drop the items off at our present center or call 647-2211 and we'll arrange pickup.

Nathan Hale Spellers Win MANCHESTER - Nathan Hale School turned out two winners in the town's elementary school spelling bee held recently. Contestants from Grades 4, 5 and 6 participated in an old fashioned spelling bee held in several schools. First prize winners in each of the grades area as follows: Grade 4 - Dana Theobald of Nathan Hale School, and John Kramer of Washington School. Grade 5 - Timothy Kelley of Nathan Hale, and Michelle Robichaud of Robertson. Grade 6 - Todd Zinkler of Buckley, and Lisa Chatzky of Bentley.

Memorial Day COVENTRY - Memorial Day Services will be held on May 27 at 3 p.m. at the Center Cemetery on Route 44 and the parade will be conducted the following day starting at 10 a.m., starting at the Robertson School. The Town Council has been invited, by the American Legion, to march in the parade.

Bake Sale MANCHESTER - There will be a fifth and sixth grade bake sale Sunday between services at South United Methodist Church.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will let my letter on Mother's Day as a tribute to all those brave, unselfish mothers who gave up their babies.

I am a new mother, whose heart is overflowing with gratitude to a 15-year-old girl I have never seen. I understand that she is a beautiful, intelligent person who became pregnant accidentally and decided on her own that her baby should have a better life than she was able to provide for it, so she put it up for adoption.

As soon as our son is able to understand, I shall tell him about his "real" mother and what a courageous person she is. In the meantime, I pray daily for her well-being and good fortune.

SIGN ME...

BLESSED IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR BLESSED: Thank you for an appropriate letter for Mother's Day. I agree that giving up a child for its own good is the ultimate in unselfishness. God bless those mothers who do.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 11-year-old boy with a problem. My father died so long ago I don't even remember him, but Mom has a man living here at our house. He has been living here for about a year. Most of all, my friends know that Mom is a widow, but what do I say when someone asks whose car is parked in our garage.

NO ANSWER IN ELGIN

DEAR NO ANSWER: Don't lie. Tell them the car belongs to a friend of your mother's. It does, and he is.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a physician who has just passed his 50th birthday.

He tells all his male patients who reach 50 to slow down. If they smoke, he orders them to quit, but HE is a three pack a day man.

He puts all his overweight patients on diets, but HE is considerably overweight himself and can't stay on a diet for two days. He insists that daily exercise is a MUST, but HE does not exercise at all.

He says that an annual vacation is essential to good health, but HE hasn't had a vacation in six years. And this will floor you: He wants all his patients to have a complete physical checkup every year, but HE hasn't had one for 10 years!

The wrong with my husband, and how can I get through to him?

DOCTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: He's human. He finds advice much easier to give than to take. You can get through to him (maybe) by telling him HE cannot be a colleague for a checkup. If he refuses, say you will keep paying those life insurance premiums, so that you and your next husband can retire in comfort.

DEAR ABBY: Since I read so much about mothers who can't get their teenagers to keep their rooms picked up, I must share this amusing incident with you.

My home is always neat—with the exception of my 15-year-old daughter's bedroom, which is a disaster. Drawers open, clothes thrown everywhere, bed unmade, etc.

I fussed, threatened, punished, but to no avail. Finally, I just gave up and kept her bedroom door closed so I wouldn't have to look at the mess.

Last week our house was robbed. For some strange reason, the burglars took only the television sets and cameras. The police came out to investigate. They asked me to accompany them when they checked every room in the house to find out if anything was missing.

When they opened the door to my daughter's bedroom, she gasped: "Good grief—they certainly ransacked THIS room."

I calmly replied, "No. It always looks like this."

slam because he couldn't refuse a gift at trick one. East couldn't beat dummy's nine of hearts, so South let it hold the trick. Later on the combination of the 4-2 club break and the misplaced ace of diamonds led him one trick and discarded three diamonds. South should have won the first trick with his ace of hearts, led a club to dummy at trick two, ruffed a low club at trick three, drawn trumps, entered dummy with his king of hearts and discarded three diamonds at the last three clubs. A Kansas reader asks if it is ever worthwhile to risk a slam contract in an effort to score an extra trick. Today's hand is a possible example. Playing in a match point game, South might well take the heart finesse to pick up a match point or so, but in rubber bridge he would be wise to discard the slam is hard to bid and no cinch to make.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

North didn't know exactly how to bid his hand after South jumped to three spades.

Finally, North hit upon winning action. He went to five spades. His purpose was to tell South that he, North, didn't want to use Blackwood because he held a worthless doubleton in one of the red suits, but that otherwise his hand was rather good.

South went on to six, but then proceeded to blow the Heartfit! — George Gately

TV Dial-ogue

PRAIRIE NEWS — There was a recent question about whether or not Melissa Gilbert would be getting married on "Little House on the Prairie." Your answer was that the producers had originally planned to stick to the facts and have her marry since she was 15, as was the real Laura Ingalls when she got married, as they had done with Mary's blindness and marriage. Let me correct you on two errors. The real Laura Ingalls was 18 when she got married. The real Mary did go blind, but she never got married. When she died in her middle 60s she had not even been engaged. You probably got this information from Michael Landon and the other producers, but they were wrong and have obviously not read the books. — Miss Geri Ann Sefton, Phoenix, Ariz.

Thanks for setting the record straight. But you're in error to put the blame on Landon and the "Little House" producers. The misinformation about Laura's marriage came from the publicity office of NBC. The comment on Mary's marriage was an error on my part.

TOE-TAPPER — I recently saw a rerun of "Pajama Game" on TV, with Doris Day. Can you tell me if the woman who played the secretary who danced was Gwen Verdon? It looked like her, but not exactly. — Fred Lipton, Stamford, Conn.

Carol Haney, who bore a resemblance and dance style to Gwen Verdon, was the main dancer in "The Pajama Game," best remembered for the "Steam Heat" production number. The talented former assistant to Gene Kelly unfortunately died in 1964, at the age of 36.

Dial-ogue

JIM & JAKE — I recently saw Stephen McHattie on the new series, "Highcliffe Manor." Isn't he the same actor who played one of the Pasquinel brothers on "Centennial"? Where else have I seen him? Also what can you tell me about him? — Didi Martinson, Knoxville, Tenn.

McHattie played Jake Pasquinel in "Centennial." Back in 1976 you may recall him in the role of the late James Dean in "James Dean: Portrait of a Friend," with Michael Brandon. Canadian-born McHattie comes from a classical stage background, having studied in New York at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. His classical training was put to good use in the PBS production of "The Lady's Not For Burning," which starred Richard Chamberlain several years back. McHattie later starred in a pilot which didn't sell, "Search for the Gods," and appeared in the movies "Von Richthofen and Brown" and "The People Next Door." He currently resides in Malibu, Calif.

BIG BITE: Could you please tell me if the original "Jaws" will be back at the movies? If not, will it be on television? — Tim Terranova, East Aurora, N.Y.

As of this writing, the 1975 film starring Richard Dreyfuss and Roy Scheider that made such an enormous splash at the box office has not been bought by network TV or paid subscription TV (Home Box Office). Keep your eyes on your local paper, it may be re-released to movie theaters over the summer.

BLOOD BROTHERS — Can you please tell me if Bob Hastings (he played Lt. Carpenter on the old "McHale's Navy" series) and Don Hastings (he plays Bob Hughes on the soap opera "As the World Turns") are real life brothers. We think they are for they sure look alike. Also, what was the name of the little Italian mouse who appeared on "The Ed Sullivan" show and said "Kiss me goodnight!" — Cindy Farley, Kelso, Wash.

You're right about the lookalikes. Born in Brooklyn, the Hastings brothers both went on to become actors. Bob is the older of the two, by the way. Topo Gigio was the mouse that won the hearts of America.

Audra Lindley Spins into Second Success

By DAN LEWIS

HOLLYWOOD — For more than a dozen years, Audra Lindley toiled in one flop Broadway show after another, 14 in succession; she loved every minute of it. Then she ran into bad luck, a couple of hit shows; she hated it.

Miss Lindley explains this strange reaction: "Hits meant long runs. I didn't like long runs. You can go crazy with them — doing the same thing night after night." She resented her 14-month run in "Take Her, She's Mine," which was followed by "Spofford" with Melvin Douglas.

But long runs in theater and television are different arenas. Television success is more to Miss Lindley's liking.

For three seasons she has been a co-star on "Three's Company." This spring, she and Norman Fell, who plays her husband, have been spunoff into their own limited series, "The Ropers." The test run garnered impressively high ratings.

She enjoys doing television, especially playing Mrs. Roper, the frizzy red-head with the blatant sexual overtones. Fell plays her frumpy, unmoved husband.

"It's a fun show," she says of "Three's Company." "So many people go to work feeling miserable, but I'm very lucky. A lot of actresses my age have been forced to retire because there are no roles for them. Here I am, going from one series into another, in the same role."

How does she explain the success of "The Ropers"?

"I don't understand it," she confesses, "except that we (she and Fell) had the advantage of some three years on a hit show. So the public came to know us. Most spinoff series star people who were in the roles for only one or two performances before they went into the spinoff."

Audra Lindley (right) and her on-screen husband Norman Fell have duplicated their success in "Three's Company" in the ABC spinoff series "The Ropers."

There is irony in the success of "The Ropers" in that, generally, the critics were unenthusiastic in their reviews.

That doesn't bother Miss Lindley.

"Anyone who thinks of himself as a critic, right off he's putting himself down if he likes situation comedies," she contends. "Sitcoms are beneath them (the critics) to like a show of this genre. The reviewer for one of the trade papers called it 'pure art.' He was reviewing for the trade, not for himself."

Asked her reaction to the new series, she responds, "I like it very much because I accept it as it is. A hit series gives you tremendous popularity. You also get very wealthy."

Television can be instant success, she notes: "You get better recognition from television than any other media. It's an extraordinary stroke for an actor to get a series. Brings in all kinds of things. Look at Jane Fonda. She's won an Oscar, but now she says that she wants to do television because she wants wider recognition."

Miss Lindley is a convert to television. She wasn't really interested, she insists, when she first got a call to do the pilot for "Three's Company."

"They wanted me to do the pilot on a Sunday, but I was doing a play at the Huntington Hartford Theater," she recalls. "So ABC bought out the matinee performance, re-funded ticket money to those who paid for the performance. I was flattered, although I really wasn't interested in doing the series."

But once she got involved, she knew "Three's Company" had success written all over it, and she also knew from the beginning that there would be a spinoff for "The Ropers."

She's careful now about being typecast: "I did 'Bridget Loves Bernie,' and played the girl's mother, a sort of dippy blond type. So then I got calls for all the dippy blond roles that came up."

When the Roper character surfaced, she wanted to make her different. So Miss Lindley put on a red wig, wore an oversized kaffan and big shoes.

When she's on hiatus, she picks things to do very carefully, looking for the good roles, not necessary the big ones.

Off the series, Miss Lindley is a liberated spirit these days. Recently divorced from actor James Whitmore ("It was a happy divorce," she declares), she's moved into a luxury apartment.

She and Whitmore have five children and four grandchildren.

She laughs, and reports, "I talk to the kids every day, almost."

The woman who grew up in Hollywood, then moved to New York with $200 in her possession, declares, "I'm a New Yorker at heart. I always thought I'd be a star in theater. It was my dream, to act on stage. That's when you're young. All those ideals and fantasies. Then you mature and get your feet on the ground and realize that, in this business, you can be big this year and down the next year. People disappear so fast in television."

Blythe Danner

Acting Mother

"My daughter is like 'Eloise at the Dorset,'" jokes Blythe Danner as she revels in the pleasures of a visit to New York. The blonde, blue-eyed actress with the distinctively raspy voice started out on the New York stage. Many films and television specials later, she's visiting from California with her television-producer husband and two young children.

Blythe is fortunate. Her acting career, her marriage and her children are all thriving.

She discusses her recent projects and reveals that she's very selective about what she accepts. Modestly, she says, "I'm lucky in that I'm not that well-known. I'm able to go back and forth and do lots of different kinds of women."

This year Blythe did "Too Far to Go" for NBC, a feature film and the upcoming (May 16) CBS comedy, "You Can't Take It With You."

She calls "Too Far to Go," in which she plays a middle-aged housewife going through a divorce, her swan song to ingenue roles. Then smiles and admits the subsequent role of Alice in "You Can't Take It With You" is another ingenue part.

Alice is the straight granddaughter in a crazy household. When she becomes engaged and invites her straight fiancé and his family to dinner with her family, a hilarious confrontation results.

Jean Arthur played the role in the Oscar-winning 1938 film version. Blythe describes her portrayal of Alice as more witty and less romantic than Arthur's because it works better that way on television.

Blythe describes the play as "very funny, great humor."

These days Blythe's choice of projects is limited by her two children, a son, 3½, and a daughter, 6½. They are the biggest productions in her life.

She takes them on location with her. "The kids thrive on it," she says. "They get kind of bored if they're home for a long, long time."

Home is the Los Angeles suburb of Santa Monica, where there are sidewalks and a yard for the children to play in.

Although this working mother takes her children on the job, she has some serious reservations about letting either of them get in front of a camera.

"I'm totally against child actors," she says. "I've worked with a lot of them, and most are basket cases. My daughter has asked a couple of times (if she can do a TV role). I tell her, 'The first step you take will be on the stage.'"

Blythe Danner doesn't have to work. Her husband is a successful television producer whose current project is "The White Shadow." But she insists, "I couldn't give it up completely for motherhood." She believes it's the quality, not the quantity, of the time she gives her children that's important.

She has few regrets, except having to live in California. But even California, she admits, has been good to her and her husband. She would like to do more theater, but right now long-running productions that keep her away from home are out of the question.

What's up in films?

Many Americans started worrying about military coups when word leaked out in the midst of Watergate that Patton was President Nixon's favorite movie. Hence, the staff of "Us" magazine had to do considerable snooping to find out President Carter's top films.

According to a number of Carter's friends and associates, his favorite flicks are:

- "Close Encounters of the Third Kind"
- "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre"
- "Casablanca"

- "The Big Sleep"
- "The Odd Couple"
- "Barefoot in the Park"
- "Around the World in 80 Days"
- "Dona Flor and Her Two Husbands"

The president has reportedly seen "Close Encounters" at least twice. Perhaps Carter, who claims he once saw a UFO, sympathizes with the character played in the film by Richard Dreyfuss, who has difficulty convincing others that he saw beings from outer space.

Hiker Search Is Intense

MANCHESTER — Search for a missing Manchester hiker in the Salisbury area was under way this morning.

The search for the missing hiker, 32, of 298 Oak Street, was under way Saturday night when he was last seen. He was shown up at a pre-meeting with his parents.

The search was today by law enforcement officials from Massachusetts, Connecticut and Maine. Conservation officers in the wooded Mount Riggs area.

The search has extended to nearby Massachusetts and New York.

According to officials, a Connecticut State trooper, a state police hiker, is being used in the search. The hiker is being used in the search for the missing hiker.

Kochain was reported by his parents late Saturday night, although several other hikers reported seeing him earlier in the evening.

Police said Kochain was five feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 169 pounds, and wearing a hat.

When last seen he was wearing a navy blue windbreaker, jeans, red back pack and a hat.

Hunt Left

ISTANBUL, Turkey — Armed police backed soldiers patrolled Istanbul hunting for leftist terrorists plotting to kidnap the Israeli consuls and an American soldier.

Police said Sunday that a plan by the ultra-leftist Turkish People's Front to abduct Richard Houghton, the U.S. consul in Istanbul and Israeli Consul General Zerubavel, in a pre-Saturday in which two liberation front members killed and two others injured.

The same group is planning a precision ambush Friday in the Istanbul suburb of Ataturk.

Dose High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government again increased the maximum radiation exposure to people living near the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant, but insisted that the fatal cancer case would not be affected.

A new report on the effects of the March 28 accident at the plant near Harrisburg, Pa., increased the maximum estimate — in person — from 3,500 to 5,300.

Earlier estimates called for 3,500 person rems. The new estimate is based on the average dosage level for people living near the plant.

Specific personal doses are measured in millirem. The report said: "The dose that an individual receives in a populated area is less than one millirem."

Funds Aplenty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is plenty of federal money to run the 1980 presidential election, even though American voters are increasing numbers are checking the box that permits them to be spared the pain of paying.

But there is not enough money to finance any of the various proposals for federal funding of Senate elections now being considered in Congress. The plans passed this year are unlikely to be enacted in 1980.

Last week the Internal Revenue Service reported that 10 percent fewer Americans are filing tax forms this year than in 1979. Campaign contributions
