WHAT'S NEWS

No Sign Yet

MANCHESTER — The search continued today for a town resident who has been missing since Saturday in the area of Mount Riga in Salisbury.

A spokesman for Troop A Connecticut State Police in Canaan said today that there has been no sign of the missing man, Alexander Kochin, 32, of 288 Oak St.

Kochin has been missing since Saturday afternoon when he failed to return after going for a hike in the wooded area surrounding Mount Riga.

Foggy weather on Saturday apparently caused Kochin, an experienced hiker, to lose his direction. Fog also has hindered searches for him since Saturday.

A helicopter has been used at times during the search but fog often has kept the helicopter from flying.

The state police spokesman said that police employees were continuing the search today. Despite relatively clear weather, the helicopter was not in use today, and the spokesman gave no reason for the lack of its use.

Gas Status

The following is a rundown on the availability of gasoline and diesel fuel in the Northeast based on a spot-check by UPI.

Connecticut: May gasoline allocations down 13 percent and an increase in diesel fuel allocation has been countered by rising demand, but no serious problems yet.

Maine: Gasoline available throughout state. Emergency diesel fuel allocations instituted for first time to guarantee adequate supplies.

Massachusetts: A supply shortfall of 17.5 percent is reflected in early service station closings. Gasoline Retailers Association predicts 65 percent of the state's stations will be closed during the Memorial Day weekend.

New Hampshire: Gasoline allocations range from 65 to 90 percent of May 1978 supplies. Dealers trying to make supplies last through Memorial Day weekend.

Rhode Island: Spot shortages of gasoline but situation not serious.

Vermont: Governor met with gas retailers Tuesday on dwindling fuel supplies. Retailers have suggested starting their own gasoline allocation system.

New Jersey: More than 60 percent of the state's service stations were closed last weekend. Operators say they will not participate in a 4-day nationwide protest shutdown.

New York: Spot shortage in eastern Long Island, where Shell Oil closed seven stations. State officials are redirecting allocations. Rest of state shortage-free.

Pennsylvania: Gasoline available on state turnpike and two major East-West highways, but about 44 percent of stations off main roads are closed Sunday and after 5 p.m.

Body Found

EAST HARTFORD — Windsor Police have found a body believed to be that of Theodore Ptau, 18, of 115 Nutmeg Lane, East Hartford, Tuesday afternoon, a Windsor police spokesman said.

Ptau and Adam DePulco, 17, of 35 Cottage St., Enfield, had died in a canoeing accident last month.

Enfield police recovered DePulco's body last week.

The body was spotted by a citizen in the river just south of the Windsor Locks town line. The Windsor Fire Department dragged the body out of the river and turned the case over to Enfield Police.

The body was found 500 feet east of the mouth of the Farmington River.

Enfield police are waiting for a positive identification of the body.

Weicker Quits GOP Race

HARTFORD (UPI) — Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., citing an "erosion of constituency" today announced he is withdrawing as a candidate for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

After a two-month candidacy, Weicker, a 6-foot-6 millionaire, became the first casualty in the crowded chase for the GOP presidential nomination. So far, seven Republicans have officially declared their presidential aspirations. Three more are expected.

Armed with a poll of voter sentiment in Connecticut, Weicker told reporters his rating with his home state electorate — not money and not his reception in other states — was the reason he was getting out of the race.

"All evidence points to my holding a strong third position in the Connecticut Republican presidential primary contest, behind Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan," he said.

"However, third is not good enough, especially in one's home state."

Weicker, accompanied by his pregnant wife Camille, sprung his surprise announcement on his birthday. He is 48.

The poll Weicker brought with him revealed that his favorable rating as a U.S. senator has slipped in Connecticut from 51 percent a year ago to 45 percent. The survey also indicated he would have big trouble with Ford and Reagan.

"Any way you cut it now, it's third place. And third place in this business is not good enough," Weicker said. "I can't go ahead and ask New Hampshire and Vermont and Florida to support me if they won't in my own state."

"I have always called the shots as I see them," Weicker added. "I see the numbers for Lowell Weicker as not being there. The fault rests on my shoulders alone."

Weicker, who achieved his greatest measure of national recognition as a constant critic of President Nixon on the Senate Watergate Committee, said he will begin working to rebuild constituent confidence in his senatorial performance.

"I cannot accept any further loss of support among the constituency I have worked so hard and so long to build," Connecticut's liberal junior senator said.

Weicker was considered the most liberal and probably the longest shot in the race for the Republican presidential nomination. Had the maverick GOP senator, head of the Squibb drug fortune, succeeded in his presidential venture he would have become the first foreign-born chief executive in U.S. history.

Weicker was born in Paris to American parents and raised in Greenwich, the wealthy Connecticut suburb of New York.

Weicker announced his candidacy only two months ago at the historic Old State House in Hartford. He terminated it today in the State Capitol, a few blocks away.

A Lift for Education

It looks like a lot of hot air, and that's just what these Bennet Junior High School students are using to construct a hot air balloon in Manchester. From left are Mark Cullen, Randy McNally, Bill Cobb and Darren Knowles. The hot air balloon will ascend Thursday at 6:30 p.m. to announce the opening of the annual Bennet Spring Celebration which follows in the Bennet quadrangle.

The balloon will illustrate the fair's theme which is "Education Takes You Higher." For one and a half hours, the public can visit various demonstrations and exhibits, in and outside the buildings. There will be fun and refreshments. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Congress Set to Cut Much Amtrak Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress appeared ready today to allow the discontinuance of a large chunk of the Amtrak system, leaving the Deep South and much of the Southwest and Northwest with no passenger trains.

But the lawmakers appear certain to salvage from the Transportation Department's plan to cut 43 percent of the system, a few routes including the Washington-Montreal-Monrovia, the Washington-Chicago-Cardinal, and possibly the Chicago-Los Angeles-Southwest Limited and the Chicago-Laredo InterAmerican.

But unless either the House or Senate overrules actions by the Commerce Committee, at least 10 major long-distance rail routes will become freight carriers only next Oct. 1.

The trains almost certain to be dropped include the Washington-New Orleans Crescent, which Amtrak just took over, and the Chicago-Miami Floridian. This leaves the South with no passenger service except along its North-South fringes from New York to Miami and Chicago to New Orleans.

Also among the routes almost certain to die are those from New York to Kansas City, Chicago to Houston, Chicago to Seattle (the southern route), Salt Lake City to Seattle, two of the three routes across West Virginia, Oakland to Bakersfield and Seattle to Vancouver.

Federal matching funds will be available if states or groups of states want to keep these trains running, but the federal government clearly is ready to ease some of the Amtrak subsidy from its shoulders.

A budget-cutting attitude appears to have overcome arguments that gasoline shortages make trains more necessary and that eliminating entire regions from Amtrak will create political problems that could endanger other parts of the system.

Both the congressional committees and Amtrak also say that too many "political" routes have been added to the system over the years, and they need to be eliminated.

The House Commerce Committee apparently sealed the fate of many trains Tuesday by refusing 18-7 to veto Transportation Secretary Brock Adams' plan to cut back the system by 43 percent.

Ironically, the plan kills a Washington to Cincinnati train laughingly called "Harley's Hornet" over the years because it was forced on Amtrak by committee Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W.Va. Staggers presided over the session where the decision was made, vowing to veto the plan but not saying a word in defense of that particular train.

Instead, the committee accepted a substitute plan that would establish a formula to determine which trains would be kept. Under the formula, any train which averaged 150 or more passengers over its entire trip and which did not lose more than 7 cents per passenger mile would be maintained.

Alternative Education Wins Praise

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — There were plenty of words — and even some tears — of praise Tuesday night for the Vertices program, which provides alternative education for Manchester High School students.

Students, teachers and a parent whose daughter is involved in the program talked about Vertices at the Board of Education's curriculum committee meeting.

The program is aimed at those students who do not work well in the more structured, less individualized programs offered through the regular high school curriculum.

Many of the students who have participated in Vertices previously skipped school or were considered discipline problems.

Vertices, which started in 1976, "tried to establish a place where the students knew if they needed help it would be there," Bill DiYeso, one of the two teachers in the program, said.

The program attempts to provide more individualized instruction for the 35 students now participating.

There also is less structure to the program's format.

"There's no special time of the day when you sit down and do English. There has to be a lot of self-motivation," DiYeso said.

"We offer them an opportunity to turn themselves around. You can do a thing unless they're willing to take the responsibility," he said.

DiYeso and the program's other instructor, Sue Hardy, reviewed the courses offered through the program. They both feel the program offers enough variety to satisfy its students.

For instance, the math courses taught by Ms. Hardy range from consumer math to algebra and geometry.

The program is sometimes mentioned as a fad or dumping ground, DiYeso said. But, the statements made Tuesday by program participants dispelled both those descriptions.

"I never knew that learning was going to be so much fun," Linda Rossignol, a junior in Vertices, said. She and another student, Missy Fabian, both told the committee that they had problems in school — problems that have disappeared since they joined the Vertices program.

"I feel 10 times better about myself, and it shows," Miss Fabian said.

Both students also talked about how the individual attention has helped them and how they feel close to the two teachers in the program.

Miss Fossignol, while explaining her feelings for the teachers and the program, shed a few tears.

DiYeso said that such displays of emotion are common in Vertices classes. Part of the program's goal is to have students express their feelings, he said.

Both DiYeso and Ms. Hardy support expanding the program. They both, however, would not like to see the program expanded beyond 50 or 60 students because some of the individual treatment might disappear.

The expansion idea was supported by Charles Gilbert, a custodian in the school system whose daughter is in Vertices.

"She got into this program and her whole attitude toward school changed," he said. He described her as a previously problem dropout who now is interested in studying medicine in college.

"The money spent will come back to you a hundredfold," Gilbert said of the program. "You couldn't make a better investment on the stock market."

Town Stops Local Study Of Radiation

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Town Manager Robert Weiss this morning stopped a proposed local study of possible radiation problems.

Weiss told Dr. Alice Turek, Manchester's director of health, that the matter is one that affects the entire state and would be handled best by the state Health Department.

The town's Health Department said Tuesday it planned to study possible radiation problems in the Manchester area. It planned to devote two weeks of research to the matter and hire a temporary employee to work on such a study.

The Health Department's plans were developed after the receipt of a letter from Michael Dworkin, a local pharmacist who actively has supported environmental issues.

Dworkin sent his letter to Weiss and members of the Town Board of Directors. The letter expressed concern about a rising cancer rate in the area. Dworkin said radiation levels in the area might be increasing because of a nearby nuclear research facility in Windsor. He also questioned the safety of nuclear power plants in the area.

The letter was read at last week's meeting of the Town Board of Directors. A few sarcastic remarks were made by some board members — Dworkin has complained in the past, about a number of health and environmental-related matters, including construction of the huge J.C. Penney Co.'s catalog distribution center in Manchester.

The board, however, did agree to turn the letter over to the town's Health Department, which in turn proposed a study of the issue.

Weiss said he was not aware of the Health Department plans until he read a newspaper story about the matter. This morning, he wrote a letter to Dr. Turek and told her that a local study of the issue should not be done. The state is better equipped to investigate such matters, Weiss said.

"Since the matter of concern is highly technical and certainly relates to the state as a whole, I support turning the matter over to the state," Weiss wrote to Dr. Turek.

Both Dr. Turek and Ronald Kraatz, her assistant, could not be reached this morning for comment.

Council Passes Law Setting Sewer Fee

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Correspondent

VERNON — An ordinance to establish charges for the collection and disposal of sewage was passed by the Town Council, after a public hearing Tuesday night. But council members expressed the hope that a more equitable charge system will be established in the coming year.

At the hearing, Attorney Donald Weisman, of Hartford, representing the Vernon Landlords Association for Fair Sewer User Charges, said the association had hired professional persons to do a survey that shows that apartment owners are probably being overcharged with the present rate system.

He made three suggestions that would make the charges more equitable. One of these suggestions was to charge according to the number of persons occupying each unit, in other words on a per capita basis; the second was to determine the charge by the number of bedrooms a unit contains and the third, which he recommended as the most equitable, would be a metering system.

His argument for going to the meter system, include the fact this method would save energy. He said it would encourage people to conserve. John Chick of Fox-Semel & Co., a local accounting firm, prepared a formula for the association which showed that the average gallons used per day, per apartment unit, is 128.75.

Of those surveyed he said the highest amount was 792 gallons and the lowest, six gallons. He said all of the units tested do have water meters. Chick, when asked, said he feels a fair charge per unit would be $32.

Erik Santini, a local developer and owner of several apartment complexes, said the landlords weren't

Term Suspended in Fatality

VERNON — Gary D. Cyr, 19, of Gail Drive, Ellington, was given a five-month suspended sentence in Tolland County Superior Court Tuesday in connection with a fatal accident in Ellington in November 1977.

Cyr had originally pleaded innocent to charges of misconduct with a motor vehicle and entered a no contest charge Tuesday. Jeffrey Gannals, 16, of Cider Mill Road, Ellington, was killed in the accident that happened near Ellington High School.

Those involved in the accident were all students at the high school at the time. In addition to the suspended sentence, Cyr has been placed on probation for one year.

Eric A. Kwanik, also of Cider Mill Road, received a six-month suspended sentence, several months ago, in connection with the same accident. He was charged with negligent homicide and found guilty of the charge.

According to original reports of the accident, Kwanik had been attempting to pass Cyr's car and allegedly Cyr pulled into the left lane to pass a third car, Kwanik allegedly drove to avoid the Cyr car and struck Gannals and Donald Youness, also of Cider Mill Road, who were walking home from school.

Hospital Staffers Honored for Service

MANCHESTER — The 13th annual awards dinner of the Manchester Memorial Hospital's 15-Year-Club was held recently during National Hospital Week, at The Colony Restaurant in Talcottville.

One hundred thirteen employees with 15 or more years of service were honored. As was the case last year, 81 retirees who are on the hospital's pension plan were also invited to participate.

The evening's agenda concluded with entertainment provided by several artists from the Gilbert & Sullivan Workshop, who presented tunes from several Gilbert & Sullivan operettas.

Reaching 30 years of service to the hospital were Jeanne Robb, admitting office, and Rosamond Shaw, operating room.

Recognized for 25 years of service were Lois Dunham, purchasing; Ruth Bennett, nursing; and Caroline Randolph, EKG.

Twenty-year award recipients were Beryl Guca, outpatient business office; Margaret Newman and Alice Kloter, both of food service; Katherine Whitehus, housekeeping; Eleanor McCallum, nursing; Alice Cary, medical records; Joanne Allard and Laura McIsaac, both of the laboratory.

Newcomers to the 15-year Club are Avis Hamilton, inpatient business office; Marguerite Melendy, admitting office; Evelyn Sleurpa, Harold Wells and Rita St. Germain, all of housekeeping; Ernest Pallein, maintenance; Anna Pierce, Irma Lehtimaki, Sharon Miller, Mariel Mosler, and Margery Hoffman, all of nursing; Dr. Martin Duke, medical education; Sophie Massolin, operating room; Rita Strekel, radiologist; and Mary Bozzini and Mary Kuznicki, both of the laboratory.

Cape Cod Trip Set

VERNON — A group of students from Rockville High School and the Middle School, and some staff members will attend a Cape Cod Ecology Workshop in the fall. The trip was approved by the Board of Education Monday night.

In approving the trip, which will be from Oct. 2 to Oct. 5, the board also required that students provide evidence of medical insurance and as recommended by John Bellino, science supervisor, that it should be recommended that parents buy the comprehension school accident insurance policy or provide evidence of an equivalent policy.

No additional insurance requirements need to be met since the trip is within the United States and the vehicles to be used for transportation will be rented in the name of the Board of Education. Thus the existing board insurance will cover all of those participating for the duration of the trip, at no additional cost.

Students and staff will be housed at the Cape Cod Sea Camps located on 200 acres of land in Brewster on Cape Cod Bay. The cabins are heated and have bunks and showers.

Meals are prepared by the camp staff with box lunches to be available for field trips.

The staff plans to rent two club wagons from a local car dealer to accommodate the group and luggage. Staff members involved, besides Bellino, are Robert Foster, high school biology teacher; Linda Shannon, high school biology and chemistry teacher; and George Dargati, Middle School Grade 7 teacher.

The trip will cost each person about $125. Students will be selected on the basis of citizenship and interest in science. A committee of science teachers will select the 12 students who will participate in the pilot program and a waiting list of three additional students will be maintained.

Upon notification of their acceptance by the committee, students will be asked to submit a $25 deposit to be applied toward the total cost. Final payment will be due in September.

Some of the biological study areas to be visited include The Atlantic White Cedar Swamp, Marconi Wireless Station, Great Island Trail, and the Massachusetts Audubon Society, all in the Wellfleet area; the Cape Cod Museum of Natural History Marsh Trails, Nickerson State Forest, Brewster Tidal Flats, and Grit Mill and Herring Run and Sealand of Cape Cod Aquarium, all in Brewster.

Students will also visit the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, Pilgrim Springs Trail, Snail's Swamp Trail and a shellfish demonstration, all in the general area.

Council Cuts Tax Rate After Vernon Meeting

By BARBARA RICHMOND

VERNON - Following a sparsely attended annual town meeting Tuesday night and the approval of a $17,959,898 budget, the Town Council dropped the mill rate by 1.5 and set it at 38.5.

The meeting, which sometimes in the past has gone for four hours or more, lasted only about 30 minutes, drew a few comments about the general government budget and not one mention of the education budget.

The general government budget of $6 million represents an increase of about $220,000 or 3.01 percent and the education budget of $10.2 million represents an increase of 6.9 percent.

Mayor Frank McCoy and Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, both previously pointed out that most of the increase in both budgets is due to fixed wage increases and inflation. Another large item in the general government budget is an amount of $50,000 to start the revaluation of property as required by state law.

At last night's meeting, the two fire chiefs, William Johnson and Donald Maguin, both said they would like to have seen a larger budget for capital improvements. They suggested $150,000 but the $1,000 recommended by the mayor stands.

Andrew Tricario, a former director of public works, said he feels the quality of services has suffered considerably, despite the increases in the budget. He said he was disturbed because he feels there are many storm sewer problems that have been in the books for years.

Peter DeMalle, of Reed Street, questioned the deletion of $11,000 in the Planning Department budget, and the mayor explained this was basically to hire an assistant planner but the position has since been filled by a CETA employee. He also questioned why the request of the Hartford Transit Authority was cut from $1,362 to a recommended $550.

Mayor McCoy explained, "The town has had a long association with the Greater Hartford Transit Authority but we had never received any benefits so we stopped paying dues, but continued being a member. Now we are working with it again."

Democratic council member, Lena Therault, said she had made a motion to increase the amount to $801 but the motion was defeated. She said some members of the council don't feel that $550 is a fair share.

John Zanello asked what the surplus would be at the end of this fiscal year, June 30, and the mayor said he expected it would be very small, probably about $10,000.

Bill To Ban Zoning Bias

HARTFORD (UPI) - Opponents called it a blow to the rule, but their warnings were ignored Tuesday as the House passed a bill to ban local zoning discrimination against group homes for the mentally retarded.

The proposal, approved 109-32, now goes to Gov. Ella Grasso for signing. "Voting against this bill is not a vote against disadvantaged, but much loved, children," said Rep. Elizabeth Leonard, R-Ridgefield. "I will not be railroaded into voting for this bill and against home rule."

The measure requires towns and cities, in its zoning regulations, to treat group homes with six or less mentally retarded persons and two staff members the same as private, single family homes.

"I would have hoped that the commission in our towns and cities would not have made this necessary," said Rep. Joseph F. Ricciardi, D-Bradford, chairman of the Planning and Development Committee, which approved the bill.

"This is the first crack in the wall on state zoning," Rep. Walter Conn, R-New Milford, warned during the one hour debate. "I believe in home rule and I believe we should stick with it."

Rep. Vincent Roberti, D-Bridgeport, said he conducted a study of group homes for youths in 1974 and found the public has "tremendous problems" accepting the idea of de-institutionalization.

"Over 60 communities denied them before the applications were in," he said. "We have no alternative," said Rep. George Ritter, D-Hartford. "This has to be done and we should not need a battle each time it's done."

"I think morally, ethically, we must," agreed Rep. Janet Polinsky, D-Waterford.

The Connecticut Association for Retarded Citizens has a massive suit pending against the state alleging improper care at the Southbury and Mansfield Training Schools for the mentally retarded. Rep. Dorothy Barnes, R-Farmington, said if the association wins its suit, and if the schools are ordered closed, the state will have to find a place for the profoundly retarded with multiple handicaps.

"Group homes can't offer the kind of care they need," said Mrs. Barnes. She said the Legislature should postpone action on the bill until the suit is resolved.

Good Resort Fishing AGOO, Philippines (UPI) - The 400-year-old town of Agoo boasts Spanish-style wooden houses and white sand beaches.

Small fishermen's boats are ready to take travelers to where the fish abound.

The wooden houses with windows pieced together from wood and crushed shells, and crucifixes and antique images of saints, are familiar sights everywhere.

Agoo is one of the many beach resort towns dotting La Union Province. The town is four hours' drive from Manila.

Slumlords May Face Jail Terms

HARTFORD (UPI) - Slumlords who allow their tenants to live in substandard conditions could face jail sentences under a proposal that only needs Gov. Ella Grasso's signature to become law.

The bill, approved by the House Tuesday, adds a 30-day jail term to the present $25 to $500 penalty for violators of the tenement act.

The sentence could be re-imposed every 30 days until the violation is corrected.

The law specifies the number of bathrooms in apartments; the size and location of windows in bathrooms; arrangement of living rooms; use of basement rooms for sleeping quarters; and location of the tenement building on the lot.

The proposal was approved 137-1.

In other action, the House approved a bill which would appropriate $50,000 for the state Office of Policy and Management to study the possibility of using hydroelectric power in Connecticut.

The House passed 143-0 and sent to the governor a bill which would establish a campus police force to nab traffic violators at the University of Connecticut Health Center in Farmington.

The lower chamber also sent Mrs. Grasso two bills which would change the subcontract bidding process for public buildings.

The mayor had cut $1.3 million from department requests before the proposed budget went to the council. The public works department received the largest cuts because they contained the highest requests.

Despite the fact that the Democrats on the council weren't in accord with the Republicans on many facets of the budget, the vote on the mill rate was unanimous.

Senior Citizens

Hi Everyone! The first bit of news is that we are in need of help from men in the way of work at the Green School.

For a while I was asking for carpenters and helpers but not too many have come forward so now I'm calling on men not necessarily carpenters for a special job.

We have at least 85 windows that need to be painted both inside and out. Men, we are at the Green School just about every day at 9 a.m. Your help for an hour or two or more will be appreciated.

Well now, our Big Week is at the half way mark and things started off a bit slow because of the rain. We had to cancel the golf tournament until this coming Monday morning.

While talking about our Special Week, tomorrow while a bus load of members are taking in the sights around Dogwood Country, others are invited to attend our noon lunch and then we will have a short game of bingo with special prizes.

Our bus will make the rounds starting at 10 a.m. The bus for the Dogwood trip will be leaving our center at 9 a.m. so those going should be here shortly after 8:30 a.m. Don't forget that our Big Week ends with our Set-back Military Whist card games at the St. Bridget Hall.

Our second bus for the Gloucester trip will be going and therefore all you folks who signed up are asked to drop by and pay for the trip.

Also those going to Wildwood are reminded that their final payment is due.

We still have quite a few fliers left for the Las Vegas Grand Canyon trip scheduled for July 8th.

We wish to express our sincere condolences to the families of Nora Sullivan and Mary Braun Pariseau who both passed away this past Sunday.

The action here at the Center starts with last Friday afternoon's Setback Games with 44 players and the following winners: Ada Rojas, 140; Bill Stone, 132; Frances Fike, 126; Sue Kerr, 122; Oscar Cappuccia, 121; Katherine Ellsworth, 119; Ann Demko, 116; Mina Reuther, 115; Martin Bakstan, 115; Helen Saimond, 113; Josephine Schuetz, 113.

On Monday afternoon we had 56 players for our pinochle games and the pinochle winners were: Grace Windsor, 791; Edna Farmer, 781; Paul Schuetz, 783; Josephine Schuetz, 782; Katherine Gleason, 780; Florence Guay, 787.

Thursday has been proclaimed Poppy Day in Manchester and members of the American Legion and VFW and their auxiliaries will be out selling poppies throughout the town. Getting a head start with Mariamne McCarthy, of the Junior Girls' Unit of the VFW buying the first poppy, are left to right, Madeline Squillacote, poppy chairman for the Legion Auxiliary, George R. Atkins Sr., poppy chairman for the American Legion, Frank Wohlgenuth, commander of the VFW and Briget Marceau, poppy chairman for the VFW Auxiliary. (Herald photo by Richmond)

Thursday Is Poppy Day

MANCHESTER — Thursday has been proclaimed Poppy Day in Manchester by Mayor Stephen Penny, and members of the American Legion, the VFW and their auxiliaries are asking residents to wear one of the red memorial flowers as a tribute to dead and disabled veterans. The poppy program begins each year in the summer or fall when disabled veterans start making the flowers in government hospitals and special convalescent workshops maintained by the auxiliaries. Making the poppies aids the veteran both financially and psychologically. They are paid for the work they do regardless of any government compensation they might be receiving, and the job itself is a relief from long hours spent in a hospital ward. For many veterans it is the only opportunity to earn money during the year. As each poppy leaves the hands of a disabled man it contributes monetary assistance for necessities and comforts not supplied by the hospitals — a small amount of savings for the veteran toward the day he can leave the hospital — and financial assistance for his dependents. Occupational therapy departments in hospitals recognize the poppy work as having high value in terms of patient morale. The distribution of the poppies is handled entirely by volunteer workers serving without pay. Every penny collected goes directly to aid disabled veterans or members of their families and most poppy funds remain in the communities in which they are raised. Poppy chairman for the American Legion Auxiliary is Madeline Squillacote, assisted by Mary Walker and Irene Pisch. Briget Marceau is poppy chairman for the VFW Auxiliary and George Atkins for the American Legion and Jerry Muse and Frank Wohlgenuth for the VFW Post.

Ella Nixes Drink Age Bill

HARTFORD (UPI) — For the first time this year, Gov. Ella Grasso has rejected a piece of legislative handwork. Citing constitutional concerns, the governor has vetoed a bill to give Connecticut two drinking ages. Under the measure, 18-year-olds would have been allowed to continue to purchase liquor in bars, restaurants, sporting facilities, hotels, airplanes and a variety of other public places. But the bill would have prevented package stores, grocery stores and drug stores from selling alcohol to anyone under 19 after Oct. 1. Explaining her veto Tuesday, Mrs. Grasso said the drinking age bill raised "serious constitutional questions" and appeared to be unfair to both 18-year-olds and those who sell liquor. Backers of the controversial measure, which squeaked through the House and Senate by slender margins, quickly conceded they don't have the votes to override the governor's veto. The drive to raise the state's drinking age was started this year by lawmakers who were concerned about alcohol abuse in Connecticut's schools and a jump in traffic fatalities involving teen-agers. By raising the age to purchase alcohol to 19, the legislators felt they would be keeping liquor out of the hands of many about-teen-age drinking there has been no showing that legislation establishing two legal drinking ages will address the real problems of teen-age alcohol abuse," she said in her veto message. In the past, Mrs. Grasso has said it doesn't make sense to let 18-year-olds get married, go to war and own property, even package stores, and then turn around and tell them they can't buy liquor.

Bridge Repair To Begin

MANCHESTER — Repair of the Park Street bridge will start this week, Town Engineer Walter Senkow said Tuesday. The Town Board of Directors last week appropriated $55,000 to repair the bridge, which has been closed since March 5. The exact cost of the work is not yet known, and Senkow said Tuesday it could exceed the $55,000 appropriation. The town received a low bid of $49,100 from Black & Warner Construction Co. of Unionville for the work. The method the firm bid on involved using concrete and steel bars to reinforce the bridge. Senkow said, however, that additional reinforcement work, which was not included in the bid, will be needed. An exact price for this additional work has not been calculated, he said. It could exceed the $55,000 appropriation, which would require further funding for the work, Senkow said. The bridge has been closed since early March because of a corroded steel frame. Town officials had feared the repair costs might be as high as $200,000. But, the bids were much lower than expected. Senkow said that even if the cost does slightly exceed the $55,000 figure, it still will be about $70,000 less than other methods the town had considered for the bridge repair. The repair is expected to be completed within three months.

Kindergartens To Start Heterogeneous Grouping

By BARBARA RICHMOND, Herald Reporter. VERNON — Vernon public kindergarten classes will be grouped heterogeneously next school year as will Grades 1-5 but the latter will have the flexibility to regroup in math and reading, as necessary. The recommendation to change the philosophy for kindergarten through Grade 5 was approved by the Board of Education Monday night, on recommendation of the board's Curriculum Committee and the administration. In connection with the kindergarten program, which for the past several years has been composed of three levels and embraced the homogeneous philosophy, the committee will be preparing a new curriculum for presentation to a June meeting of the board. The new programming will place equal emphasis on academics and socialization and will call for a single kindergarten curriculum of sequential skill development. The curriculum board had also considered, but decided against making a recommendation, concerning switching morning and afternoon kindergarten classes at the half year. The committee said most parents opposed this and state Board of Education officials indicated that no educational benefits or other benefits would be derived by switching at the half-year point. Concerning the plan for the elementary grades, which covers 1-5, the Curriculum Committee recommended limiting movement of pupils to one major move for math, with the exception of the elective areas of art, music and physical education. In stating that the grouping philosophy will be heterogeneous, with the flexibility to regroup in reading and math as necessary, the committee said the plan recognizes the differences between high skill areas as reading and math, and the more discussion and activity oriented areas of science and social studies. The plan calls for students to be grouped and regrouped within the classroom as is appropriate to allow for varied peer group association in the discussion and activity oriented programs. The committee stressed that it is imperative that grouping conferences be held involving all teachers of each grade level when placement of pupils is being reviewed. They suggested that the following should be considered in the development of groups for the next school year: Student ability, social development, achievement, staff differences, number of classes, number of groups per class, and number of pupils per class. It was also suggested that specifies relative to forming classes include such things as placing the children according to who works well together; the development of class balance as to age and the number of boys and girls; the avoidance of cliques and placing a child with a new teacher two consecutive years; equalization of class size; and avoidance of classes containing more than three reading groups. Also, avoidance of classes containing more than two math groups, maximized reduction of pupil movement from room to room, special considerations given to repeaters, to problem students and those with special needs to maximize opportunities for success, and special consideration given to achievement as compared to capacity. The preschool group will include children age three years and eight months to six years, primary elementary, age 6-10 and intermediate, age 10 to 12 or 13; Sykes (Grade 6), 12 to 13 or 14; Middle School, 14 to 16; and high school, 16-21. The committee said that implementation of this age guideline should be applied in a flexible manner with special consideration of each individual student as to what is appropriate in terms of the student's needs and abilities.

Drama Coach Complains Policies Hamper Work

VERNON - Maggie Kline, teacher and advisor to the Rockville High School Drama Club, called on the Board of Education Monday night to work toward some funding for repairs to the auditorium in the high school for next year.

During the citizen's forum portion of the board meeting, Ms. Kline, who was recently appointed advisor for the club, outlined some of its accomplishments and the numbers of students involved.

She said her goal as the director has been to provide the students with a maximum number of theatrical experiences to make them aware of their responsibility to a dramatic production, to develop and encourage student talents, and to instill in them a sense of professionalism and pride in all of the theatrical productions.

Ms. Kline noted the amount of time spent on productions and said for this she receives $325 a year. "You are more than getting your money's worth," she said.

She noted that her commitment to the club is apparent but said what concerns her is the town's commitment to the club. "As we attempt to do more productions, the problems which were always apparent, have now become stumbling blocks, making it difficult and discouraging to proceed," she said.

She told the board, and the administrators, that the club must work in a theater (the high school auditorium) with acoustics so poor that those persons who sit on the sides or in the first 10 rows can't hear adequately.

She said the stage curtains are torn, seats in the auditorium are ripped and broken, the lighting is bad and there is no sound system.

She said the school principal, Brian McCartney, has been as helpful as possible but added there was only $88 available for repairs.

She said scheduled rehearsal times are often pre-empted by other meetings. She said she can accept this, but the students have difficulty understanding why the club must always defer to others.

Weiss Will Work With Less Funds

MANCHESTER - Even though the town's budget for 1979-80 increased by 2.47 percent, Town Manager Robert Weiss will have two percent less money to spend for the day-to-day operation of town government.

The education budget increases 5.35 percent while the budget for general government increased only 0.38 percent based on the final figures set by the Town Board of Directors.

But, part of the general government budget includes costs, such as insurance, over which the town has little control.

These fixed costs increased by 15 percent to $1,926,251, Weiss said. This leaves him with $9,133,854 to operate the town government.

Barbara Kennelly

Democrats Will Hear Kennelly

MANCHESTER - Barbara Kennelly, secretary of the state, will be the guest speaker at the Democratic Town Committee's annual Honors Dinner-Dance.

The event will be Saturday, May 26 at 7 p.m. at Willis's Steak House.

Mrs. Kennelly was elected in November to serve as secretary of state. She previously had been a member of the Hartford City Council.

Her father, the late John Bailey, was long-time Democratic State chairman. Her husband, James, is a state representative and a former speaker of the house.

The announcement was made by Jeanne R. Nelson, state party vice chairman and chairman of the May 23 fundraiser.

Agostinelli, one time mayor of Manchester and former state comptroller during the Meskill Administration, has recently joined the Reagan presidential campaign organization in Connecticut.

Said Agostinelli, "I am delighted, both as a Connecticut Republican and as a supporter of Ronald Reagan, that he will be appearing in Connecticut on behalf of the fundraising effort of the State Party organization."

"It's going to be a great evening, and I anticipate a large and successful turnout," Gov. Reagan has attracted capacity crowds in his travels throughout the nation, and we expect a similar reaction here in Connecticut.

There will be an educational flavor to the group being honored this year. Three former members of the town's Board of Education - Allan Thomas, Al Harris and Paul Greenberg - will be honored along with John LaBelle Sr., a former Democratic town chairman, Phillip Harrison, Irene Fisch, and James "Dutch" Fogarty.

Tickets for the dinner can be purchased through Mr. Agostinelli or by contacting Connecticut Republican Headquarters in Hartford.

Opinion Visitation Program Should Be a Reality

The town and the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce have worked together to develop a good idea. The time has come to implement, rather than talk about, that idea.

The proposal is a visitation program that would have a representative of the town stop in a visit to businesses and industries already operating in Manchester.

The idea was mentioned several months ago at a meeting of the Manchester Economic Development Commission by James Brulfield of the Chamber. Since then, the idea has been talked about some and has received support, but there still has not been a visit made through the program.

The sooner the program is started, the better for the entire community. Such a visitation program would make those local businesses and industries feel wanted. The spent many months attracting the J.C. Penney Co., which now is building its huge catalog distribution center in the Buckland Industrial Park.

Attracting such new businesses is a key to economic stability and growth in a town like Manchester. But what is even more important is to keep the businesses already in operation.

Manchester has many small manufacturing firms, some of which probably are unknown or unnoticed by most residents. Yet, these firms pay taxes annually to the town and help create the stability that a J.C. Penney enhances.

These firms are affected just like homeowners by taxes, increased sewer and water charges, and skyrocketing electrical and fuel bills.

Without these smaller businesses, many homeowners would face higher taxes than they now pay. Since it is important for Manchester to keep what it has, as well as attract new companies, it is important for the town to keep in touch.

The visitation program would do this. It would offer a welcome hand, an ear to listen to and a shoulder to cry on.

It would show that the town is interested in what it has and wants to keep it.

It would show that the town is interested in what it has and wants to keep it.

Jack Anderson Rarick Has Become Rarin'-to-Go

WASHINGTON - When age or the electorate cancels their membership in Congress, most former members turn to familiar callings; they become lawyers, lobbyists, expeditors and fixers.

But seldom has an ex-congressman found such a perfectly suitable outlet for his talents as has John Rarick, the routin'-'lookin' hifalutin' politico from Baton Rouge.

Rarick appears to have become a film-film man and is being investigated for his insurance-selling approaches.

The Louisiana Democrat is now peddling insurance instead of the anti-communist hysteria that was his specialty during his four terms in Congress. But Rarick is not your ordinary door-to-door insurance salesman; his hustle isn't that straightforward.

Here's how Rarick's scam works: A prospect is called and told that former Congressman Rarick is holding on the line with an important message. If that prospect the potential customer's curiosity and the call is accepted, Rarick is switched on and makes a pitch for insurance of whole-life, cash-value conversion.

It would offer a welcome hand, an ear to listen to and a shoulder to cry on.

It would show that the town is interested in what it has and wants to keep it.

A relatively minor bit of hanky-panky involves another piece of promotional literature sent with the "report." Under an official-looking heading, "Hearings Before the Subcommittee on Anti-Trust and Monopoly," it lists half a dozen segments of testimony taken out of context and giving the impression that the subcommittee's hearing supported term insurance over whole-life policies.

Among those quoted are the late Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and consumer advocates Ralph Nader and Virginia Knauer - none of whom Rarick was being caught in the same room with during his congressional years. But he is proud to have their comments printed over his signature - or what appears to be his signature.

A former House colleague, ex-rep. Bill Gunter, now Florida's insurance commissioner, had this to say about Rarick's mailout: "John Rarick has a lot of brass to use congressional-looking stationery and invoke the names of former Sen. Phil Hart and Ralph Nader to his solicitations."

Actually, Gunter's office considers Rarick's operation a bit more serious than mere brass. As one of Gunter's investigators told us, it's not the merits of term vs. whole-life insurance that are at issue, but rather a case of the public's being "propagandized into believing that the policies they might now own were misold (and) misrepresented and that they might have been ripped off."

King, Adler, Rarick and the local Florida insurance agents who place the misleading phone calls have been sent letters from Gunter requesting that they cease their sales program in Florida. Similar notifications have been sent from the New Jersey authorities, and Texas, Colorado and Ohio officials are also looking into the situation.

King and Adler said they are operating in about 15 states, and pointed themselves as victims of pressure from the life insurance industry, which considers them a threat.

Women Get Play Rights In Bolton

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent
BOLTON — An agreement allowing women to play in the Bolton Men's Softball League was reached by participating teams Tuesday.

The league said if one team would withdraw its planned lawsuit it would allow that team's two women players to remain in the league.

On May 1 the league voted to exclude women from participating in league play.

The Bolton Bullhoppers, headed by Dr. Allan Levant and Dr. William Pomper, said unless the action was rescinded, "we intend to take legal action in federal court to protect their (women's) rights."

The two women involved, Ann Wassell and Beverly DeCarli, have played for the Bullhoppers for one and two years respectively.

Representatives from each team were called to a meeting of the Recreation Advisory Committee Tuesday at Herick Memorial Park to explain the situation.

Ray Boyd, player, said, "We made our stand now because if we don't make it now, we'll never be able to. We'll always be a co-ed league and we don't want that. The town sponsors a men's league whether they know it or not."

The players expressed concern about hurting a woman during play and said, "It's intimidating when women play."

Gil Boisneau, committee member, said, "I think the situation is deeper than having women play softball. There's a question of legality here."

The question of having an equal sports program for women came up and it appears there is not an equal program. There is one women's softball team but there is not a women's softball league.

Philip Daly, committee member, said he spoke to an attorney who told him, "If the town doesn't provide a women's league, the women have a right to play on the league."

Gary Mortensen, league co-commissioner, said, "A poll vote was taken and the league is willing to make a compromise if the team (Bullhoppers) will retract their threat of a lawsuit."

Dr. Pomper agreed to the compromise and said, "We contemplated action but we didn't want to take action. We want to play ball. We didn't intend to make this a women's rights thing."

Phil Ponticelli, league co-commissioner, said, "The majority of captains agree to let the two women play under a grandmother clause."

Glastonbury Action Kills Housing Plans

GLASTONBURY — Plans to build low-cost housing off Nye Road came to a rest Tuesday night when the Town Council ruled it could not consider the proposal.

As a result of the action, the town now faces possible loss of a $910,000 federal block grant. A portion of the grant, $88,000, has already been spent.

Also town officials speculate that failure to approve the project could result in lawsuits against the town and the possible loss of other federal grants.

The council's decision Tuesday night was not procedural because the general plan for the project had been rejected by the Town's Planning and Zoning Commission last week.

The town attorneys had ruled the council, which is supposed to be the final authority, could not hear the request unless it had been approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Peach said the current regulations are too restrictive, and in view of the recent legal opinions, give final authority to the Plan and Zoning Commission which was not the original intent.

At the Board of Selectmen's meeting Tuesday at the Community Hall, Selectwoman Joan Neesham questioned the legality of the action taken by the league.

Employees Held in Theft

MANCHESTER — Police made several arrests Tuesday in connection with industrial thefts that occurred during April and this month. Five employees of the Rock-Corporation went to the Manchester Police Department Tuesday afternoon to accept a warrant charging them each with first-degree larceny and first-degree conspiracy to commit larceny.

The accused are Luc J. J. "Pier," 22, of 2 Lockwood St.; Richard P. Holbrook, 28, of Hartford Road; Richard H. Warner, 40, of 45 Bleglow St.; Edward G. Campion, 42, of 248 Woodbridge St.; and Robert L. Webster, 26, of Ballouville.

They each were released on $1,000 nontestimony bond for court appearance June 4 in East Hartford.

Police said employees were involved with thefts during April of tool, an industrial metal used by toolmakers, valued at $8.50 per pound. Police said they had stolen about $2,500 worth.

Catherine Leiner, town clerk, said she received a copy of the resignation but could not accept it because she needed more information.

Haloburo said the resignation said, "I resign from the Board of Education immediately."

O'Connor is currently serving a four-year term on the school board that expires June 30. He was recently re-elected to another four-year term.

O'Connor could not be reached for comment.

O'Connor Quits Board
BOLTON — The resignation of Michael O'Connor from the Board of Education has been received by Joseph Haloburo, school board chairman.

Haloburo said today he "found the resignation in my mailbox Saturday. The envelope didn't have a stamp on it so apparently it was hand delivered."

John A. Damato, 20, of 21 Brainard Circle, was arrested Tuesday and charged with first-degree larceny in connection with a May 9 theft of six titanium forgings of jet engine blades valued at $100,000.

Police said Damato was released on a $5,000 nontestimony bond. Court date is June 4 in East Hartford.

Barbara J. Marco, 42, of 11 Candlewood Drive, South Windsor, was arrested on a warrant set by the Connecticut Labor Department Security Division charging her with first-degree larceny.

Marco allegedly fraudulently obtained welfare benefits of $125 through the Manchester office while she was gainfully employed. She was released on a $3,000 nontestimony bond. Court date is June 4 in East Hartford.

Cheney Wins, Qualifies for Tourney

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Editor

As Hoyi Berra would say, "it ain't over until it's over." Cheney Tech, leading 8-1 going into the final inning, heaved a heavy sigh of relief as it survived a five-run scare by visiting Portland High to take an 8-6 OOC decision yesterday at the Beavers' diamond.

That qualified the 16-7 Techmen for the state tournament for the first time in school history, or so it's believed.

"Looking at the records of the others in our region, it looks like three won't be 500," Cheney Coach Aaron Silvia advised. A team has to win 50 percent of its games to qualify.

I really feel the kids deserve to be in the tournament, Silvia, who had some anxious moments in the late seventh, stated. "Some of them have played a lot of baseball for the last year and never before came close to 500. Maybe some don't have the ability of others but they have a tremendous desire to win."

Cheney, 8-7 in the OOC, scored three times in the first inning with Chris Vann and Ed Lackard each knocking in a run. The Beavers added a pair in the third on an Rrandi Lanzo RBI single and errant pickoff throw. They made it 6-0 in the fifth off Portland starter and loser Dan Brochu, 2-5, as Chuck Dumex aided his own cause with an RBI single to left.

Portland, 4-11, got a run back in the sixth but it was a costly tally. Ralph Barker hoped a single to right followed by two fielder's choices. Brochu walked and Mike Perrotti drilled a single to left. That scored Barker but Brochu was out trying for third on the relay from Paul Bushey to Mike Pinkin to Vann.

Brochu twisted an ankle on the play, had to be helped off the field and relieved by Perrotti. He surrendered two sixth-inning tallies to Cheney, those proving to be the margin of victory.

Pinkin ripped a ground-rule RBI double scoring Mike Nicholson who reached on an error and pinch-hitter Tom Martin's slow roller scored Vann with the eighth Tech run.

Dumex, 2-1, stranded runners from the second thru fifth inning but then scored to tie. Chris Williams and Dave Faxon stroked back-to-back singles leading off the Portland seventh and Matt Feldman walloped a mammoth homer into the woods in left.

The next batter grounded out but Barker singled, Jeff Haas walked and that was all for Dumex. He went 4-1-3 innings, was touched for nine hits, walked four and fanned five. "I don't know if it was a case of Chuck getting tired or them hitting," Silvia noted.

Bruce Andrus greeted reliever Phil Walter with an RBI single to make it 8-5 but the latter named Scott Hadad swinging. Perrotti singled in another run, putting the tying run at first, but Williams grounded out, third-to-first, as the fire was finally doused.

"Looking back we got a lot of critical things. Maybe this game will show you can't get big of a lead," Silvia sighed.

Cheney hosts Hah today, visits Cromwell Friday and entertains Coventry Tuesday to conclude its regular season.

Tribe Tournament Hopes Dim In Loss

Jerry Zarwaski and Kirk Schroll did it all for Conard High as the Chieftains topped Manchester High by a 5-2 count in CCIL baseball play yesterday in West Hartford.

The win moves Conard to 9-5 in the 1979 season and overall while Manchester's hopes of qualifying for the state tournament dampened as it dropped to 6-9 overall. The Indians today at Kelley Field at 3:30.

Zarwaski had three hits including two triples and scored three times while Schroll had three singles and two RBIs as the pair accounted for every Chieftain hit off losing pitcher Shawn Spears, 3-3.

The Silk Towners got their second marker in the ninth. Dave Parks singled and scored on shortstop Ron Morander's third throwing error on a Doug Ogden grounder.

Case in Point

Years ago, many local athletes carried nicknames throughout their careers and some of the monikers remained long after their playing days.

One case in point is Al Boggini. A now-retired standout local basketball and baseball player and long-time basketball, baseball and football official is still known as Horse to some of his close associates.

That's a rather unusual name in that the East Side man in no way resembles a horse and does not possess a hulking frame.

When our paths crossed recently, I asked Boggini where he picked up the unusual nickname.

"I really don't know. They started calling me that when I was in high school. I think some of the kids thought my name was Horace and it was changed to Horse."

"Then too, it might have been Bill Clarke (Manchester High physical education instructor. He had a name for everyone) Boggini recalled.

Al's bapistical handle was Alphonse.

Over the passing years, less and less athletes on the area scene carried nicknames.

Behind the stellar all-around performance of junior catcher Dave Bottaro, East Catholic edged Northwest Catholic, 2-1, in HCC baseball play yesterday in West Hartford.

Bottaro's two-out double in the sixth inning produced the Eagles' markers and he came up with several spectacular plays on the defensive end.

"It was probably his best game in three years," lauded East Coach Jim Penders of his three-year starter.

He really had a spectacular game both offensively and defensively."

The win was East's 12th in a row and established a school record, the youngest standard 11 straight set in 1964. The 14-1 Eagles return to the diamond Thursday night against HCC rival Xavier High at Palmer Field in Middletown at 7:30 with first place at stake.

East is 7-0 in the conference while Xavier is one-beat in HCC play, that setback a 3-0 loss to East back on April 23. Craig Steuermagel, 6-0, won a sixth, 14-strikeout outing at the Falcons the last outing, draws the starting assignment. He'll be opposed by Xavier ace right-hander Ed McMullin.

Howie Furlong started the East two-out uprising with a double to right centerfield. Ken Brasa walked and then the hot-hitting Bottaro ripped a double to right center clearing the bases.

Defensively, Bottaro gunned down Young attempted a drag but Kane quickly gobblie it up and got the force at third and finished in style by whipping Kevin Quinn swinging.

Kane, 3-1, fanned 15 and walked none. "He got a little confidence in himself now," Penders cited. "He was throwing the fastball really well. I'm really pleased with him. He's getting ahead of the hitters. He pitched an intelligent, gutsy game."

White Bottaro was continuing his hot streak. Pete Kiro saw his successive game hitting streak snapped at 14. He was robbed of a sure two-RBI single in the third and went hitless in two other official trips.

MCC Honored for Service To Small Business Cause

A District Award from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) has been presented to Manchester Community College for the outstanding contribution of its staff in the area of business management training. Called the "Distinguished Small Business Training Award," it was presented to Manchester Community College President Ronald H. Denison by SBA Hartford District Director Thomas E. Higgins.

"In the Past," said Higgins, "few educational institutions offered courses designed to assist the small business manager. For many years, Manchester Community College has been one of Connecticut's leaders in education for those who run small businesses."

"During the most recent semester alone," Higgins continued, "MCC, with the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, has offered courses in 'Starting A Small Business,' 'Management of a Small Business,' 'Energy Cost Savings,' 'Practical Accounting for Small Business,' 'Credit and Collection,' 'Product Liability,' 'Effective Secretarial Procedures,' and 'Office Administration.' These courses are designed to meet the needs of the business community and they are of consistently high quality."

In accepting the award for the college, President Denison pointed to his interest in occupational education throughout his career in higher education and said: "This is certainly an honor for Manchester Community College and a tribute to the efforts of Dean Tatro (Associate Dean James O. Tatro) and the staff of our Community Services Division and Fred Ramey (Director of Business Careers Division Fred A. Ramey Jr.) and his staff." Denison said, "Serving small business is an important part of the overall community college mission to be an active participant in the affairs of our community."

"I am proud of our accomplishments to date," Denison continued, "and I look forward to expanding our work with small businesses in the years ahead."

Currently being prepared for the fall semester are courses in: "Starting A Small Business," "Small Business Management" (for existing businesses), "Energy Cost Savings," "Computers for Small Business," "Financial Analysis," "Management by Objectives for the Small Business," "Women and Management," "Financial Forecasting for Small Business," and "Franchise vs Independent." These courses are being offered by the college in conjunction with the SBA, the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, and the Manchester Small Business Council.

As one of the originators and an active participant in the Manchester Small Business Council, Manchester Community College offers other services besides instructional programs. Together with the SBA, the College maintains a small business reference library in the college library on the MCC Main Campus. It includes business-related publications of the Federal Government, lists of available literature, and other reference materials for use by community business people.

Through the Chamber of Commerce, the college also offers a Legal and Accounting Referral Service, and, with the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE), coordinates management consultant services.

The instructional programs and other services are offered by the MCC Community Services Division on a self-supporting basis and receive no financing from the general fund of the State of Connecticut.

Associate Dean of Community Services James O. Tatro said: "I am very pleased that the college has received this award, but none of these programs would exist without the receptive attitude, imagination and efforts of Management Assistance Officer Mike Schulte of the SBA and Jim Breitenfeld, executive director of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce."

"Fred Ramey, Ed Merritt, our Coordinator of non-credit programs, and all of the MCC staff people who have worked on the small business programs have enjoyed an excellent working relationship with Schulte and Breitenfeld, and this has been the real key to their success," Tatro commented. "We all look forward to expanding our efforts for small business people, particularly by expanding the courses into a full curriculum. No such curriculum now exists anywhere in the area."

Martin School Musical

The scry looking creature in the center is a dragon, played by Brian Harvey, in a scene from "The Emperor and the Dragon," a musical play, presented by the fifth and sixth grades of Martin School in Manchester. Others in the play are, from left, Carol Rossetto as Setseu, Terry McConnell as Tomko, and Chris Nicholson as the emperor. The play was written by Mary Kalbfleisch, school music teacher, and will be performed tonight at 7:15 in the school for parents and friends. Some of the music is adapted from Gilbert & Sullivan's "The Mikado."

Just Shake it and Let it Fall Into Place. The Precision Haircut.

Because your head is unique, the way your hair grows is equally unique. Really quite different from every one else's.

Precision haircutting is a technique for cutting the hair in harmony with the way it grows. Your hair eventually grows out but it doesn't lose its shape with a precision haircut. Consequently your haircut will look as good after five days as it does after five minutes. And because the hair falls naturally into place you won't have to keep fussing with it. Usually a shave of the head does it.

At Command Performance we shampoo, precision-cut and blow dry your hair for fourteen dollars, whether you're a gal or a guy. And no appointments are ever necessary.

We also offer permanent waves, coloring, frosting and conditioning. But we really shine with precision. And so will you.

Nutritious and Delicious Salmon Salads

People/Food

SALMON CHALUPAS COMPUESTAS

4 flour tortillas, crisp fried
1 can (7-3/4 oz.) salmon
5 cups shredded lettuce
3/4 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

2 avocados, cut in wedges
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup dairy sour cream
1/4 cup chopped green onions
1/4 cup pitted ripe olives, sliced

Fry one tortilla at a time in 1-inch oil heated to 350 degrees. Turn frequently with tongs until it puffs slightly and is delicately brown. Drain on paper towels. Drain salmon and break into chunks with a fork. Mound half of lettuce on four salad plates. Arrange crisp tortilla on top of greens and top with a layer each of shredded Cheddar cheese and remaining shredded lettuce. Arrange salmon, avocado wedges and egg slices over lettuce. Spoon sour cream over top and sprinkle with chopped green onions. Garnish with sliced olives. Makes 4 salads.

Northwest Salmon Platter features canned salmon from the Pacific Northwest at its best, direct from the can. Colorful vegetables surround the choice seafood. A lemony French dressing is used to marinate the potato slices and green beans.

NORTHWEST SALMON PLATTER

1 can (15-1/2 oz.) salmon
or 2 cans (7-3/4 oz.) salmon
1-1/2 pounds potatoes
3 green onions, sliced
2 tablespoons minced parsley
Lemony French Dressing (below)

1 can (15 oz.) whole green beans
Sliced cucumber
Crisp lettuce
Fennel strips
2 tomatoes, sliced
Radish roses

Refrigerate salmon. Cook potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Cool slightly. Peel and slice crosswise into 1/4-inch rounds. Gently toss potatoes with sliced green onions, minced parsley and 1/3 cup dressing. Heat beans. Drain. Drizzle with 3 tablespoons dressing. Marinate potatoes and beans several hours. Drain salmon and break into chunks with a fork. Arrange salmon chunks over sliced cucumber on lettuce-lined platter. Arrange potatoes, green beans trimmed with pimiento strips, sliced tomatoes and radish roses around salmon. Serve remaining dressing on the side. Makes 6 servings.

Lemony French Dressing: Combine 3/4 cup salad oil, 1/4 cup wine vinegar, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon sugar and 1/8 teaspoon freshly ground pepper. Makes 1-1/4 cups dressing.

ORIENTAL SALMON SALAD

1 can (7-3/4 oz.) salmon
2 cups shredded cabbage
2 cups fresh bean sprouts
or 1 can (16 oz.) bean sprouts, drained
1/2 cup sliced water chestnuts
3 tablespoons cider vinegar

2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 tablespoon sesame seeds

Drain and flake salmon, reserving 1 tablespoon liquid. Toss salmon with cabbage, bean sprouts and water chestnuts. Combine reserved salmon liquid, cider vinegar, soy sauce, lemon juice, sugar and ginger. Add oil slowly, beating constantly. Add dressing to salad and toss, coating ingredients well. Sprinkle sesame seeds on top. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Your neighbor's kitchen

By Betty Ryder

Just about anyone who enjoys fine food and gracious dining harbors a secret ambition to be a restaurateur. "The entree was a bit too well done," you can imagine yourself writing, "but the carre d'agneau was perfect — tender and pink."

To Georges Magerus, owner-chef of a small French restaurant on Manhattan's East Side, each one of his patrons is a critic to be reckoned with. His restaurant, L'Olivier, attracts a cosmopolitan crowd from the metropolitan area plus a generous sprinkling of African, Japanese and Indian diplomats from the nearby United Nations.

Magerus, who was born in Corsica, spent three years apprenticing with chefs in the Normandy region of France. When he arrived in New York, he served as a chef at the Chez Pascal and as executive chef at Maxwell's Plum, learning everything he could about running a successful restaurant in a city with an abundance of both wildly successful and dismally unsuccessful eating establishments of every description.

Then, fulfilling a life-long dream, Magerus opened L'Olivier. "I built something simple," he said. "As I would in France." And L'Olivier is simple but stylish. Most of the tables are in a garden room with white-washed walls, white trellises, hanging plants and a giant sycamore tree show branches reach above the roof of the three-story building. On a recent visit, fresh anemones bloomed in vases at every table.

But it's the quality of the food, not the ambience, that brings his patrons back time and again, said Magerus. "There are at least 50 French restaurants in New York City, and the owners are very competitive. No one will tell you, for example, where he gets his salmon, but of course everyone knows anyway."

"All my food is absolutely fresh," he said. "I call the butcher, the fish man and the vegetable man every day and I order only prime meat. It would be unthinkable for me to serve my customers anything else. Always I ask for the finest — asparagus, blueberries and raspberries. And three times a week I order fresh butter, cream, Roquefort cheese," he added.

Still fantasizing about being a restaurant critic who knows at a taste whether the shrimp is fresh or (horror!) frozen, a recent visitor asked for a tour through L'Olivier's kitchen. At 3 p.m., preparations were underway for dinner. Duckling — as he called it — was being washed for the special base for the sauce. Later I will 'finish' the sauce as I need it with heavy cream, cognac, port wine or Madeira.

Magerus introduced his assistant chef, Ali Brandes, who is a petite Egyptian of Jewish descent. She declined to reveal whether she too would like to own her own French restaurant someday. "Good assistant chefs are hard to find and harder still to keep," Magerus said. "They come from France to work here, and before you know it, they are leaving you to chef themselves for $50 a week. It is, perhaps, a good time for women to enter this profession."

A number of trips were made to sample the offerings on L'Olivier's ambitious and impressive menu. At dinner there is a choice of 16 appetizers, three soups and 15 entrees, plus additional specialties of the day. Among the favorite appetizers of a group of four volunteer restaurant critics were artichoke bottoms stuffed with crabmeat, escargots in a pastry shell with walnuts and terrine of pike.

With a little bit of coaxing, Magerus revealed the recipe for one of his newly-created appetizers, Casserollette D'Escargots au Roquefort. He prefers serving escargots in a tiny casserole rather than in the traditional shells because it is easier to prepare and to eat.

And where does Monsieur Magerus dine when he's not busy in his own restaurant? "Chinese restaurants," he said. "It's amazing the way they prepare food in only a few minutes."

Casserolette D'Escargots Au Roquefort

Canned escargots (imported from Burgundy region of France only), drained

- 1 lb. sweet butter
- 8 oz. Roquefort cheese
- 1 garlic clove finely minced
- Pepper to taste (but no salt)

Chopped fresh parsley

Figure on six escargot per serving. Mix all ingredients, except escargots, together either with a food processor or by hand in bowl. Heat the Roquefort butter mixture in individual small casserole dishes. When butter is melted, add the escargots. Bring to a boil and serve very hot. Serves six.

Georges Magerus, owner-chef of L'Olivier in Manhattan's East Side, discusses the menu with Ali Brandes, his assistant chef.

Doctors Making Move To Genetic Counseling

By RICHARD HUGHES
NEW YORK (UPI) - New impetus is being given to genetic counseling by recent court decisions holding doctors liable for failing to warn parents of the potential of giving birth to an abnormal child.

Inquiries from doctors, said Arthur S. Steinberg, chairman of the foundation and professor of human genetics at Case Western Reserve in Cleveland. But with the threat of medical malpractice suits, doctors today are turning to the foundation out of self-protection if not medical enlightenment.

According to the genetics foundation, between 12 million and 15 million Americans have a genetic disorder of some kind. One out of every 250 newborn babies has a genetic disorder and one out of three hospitalized children is being treated for genetic problems.

Ms. Rose says, a substance must be tested under controlled conditions to prove that the body will function abnormally without it. He told of one family he visited in their home after four children had died of leukemia.

Alternative Coffins Do They Really Save Money?

By MICHAEL J. CONLON WASHINGTON (UPI) — The intense publicity in recent years about funeral costs has resulted in several developments that could ultimately bring down the price of one major expense — the casket. But the industry and its observers say moves in that direction are still embroiled in controversy, and it is too early to say what will finally emerge. In some parts of the country funeral homes or private merchandisers now offer what amounts to a rent-a-casket, sometimes called a catafalque. In recent years catafalques have come to mean a stand on which a coffin is placed. It is also an ancient word for a ceremonial coffin used in church memorial observances when the body is absent. The contemporary catafalque is a fancy coffin shell, sometimes built without a bottom. It fits over a plastic, fiberglass or other interior container. It can be used at a wake and transported to the cemetery. After the mourners have left, the catafalque is lifted off the liner and returned to the funeral home for reuse. The body is sealed in the inner container and dropped into the grave. In one version, the sealed fiberglass containers acts as both a vault and a coffin. In theory this approach provides the bereaved with the appearance of a fancy coffin and the practicality of burial with a cheaper casket. Many of the 1,100 funeral homes across the country who belong to The Order of the Golden Rule have offering a Chapel Vault — an outer casket used at the funeral home but not sent to the cemetery. The body goes either to a crematory on a tray that is part of the inner container or to the cemetery in an inner vault. The group estimates the unit is currently used in less than 5 percent of its funerals. One funeral director said the approach is more practical for a cremation than a
