WHAT'S NEWS

Gas Situation

One Connecticut city has adopted a standby gasoline rationing plan patterned after California's, but state and motor club officials are predicting such plans probably won't be needed over the long Memorial Day weekend.

However, the Automobile Club of Hartford and state officials said Tuesday motorists may have to look around for a while to find an open station this weekend.

The Hartford club said 20 percent — one out of five — of the stations it surveyed will be open Sunday and Monday and nine out of ten of the open stations won't be putting any limit on the amount of gasoline they'll sell motorists.

A survey by the state Office of Policy and Management's Energy Division drew similar results. Meanwhile, Middletown has become one of Connecticut's first cities to adopt a gasoline rationing program.

The plan, adopted Tuesday by city officials and all but four of the city's 30 gasoline station operators, was a stiffer version of California's odd-even rationing program.

Region Survey

Maine: State officials and tourist industry spokesmen say gas supplies are tighter than last year but causing no major problems. Stations have curtailed hours, but gas is readily available. No lines yet.

Massachusetts: "Supply will be tight this weekend, and people will have to plan accordingly," predicts the Bay State Gasoline Retailers Association. Eighty-five percent of gas stations will be closed Sunday and Monday, an association spokesman said.

New Hampshire: AAA survey of 27 stations located in various parts of the state shows that only 30 percent of them will be open Sunday, May 27 — compared to 44 percent open on previous Sundays; 85 percent will be open Saturday, but only 35 percent will remain open after 6 p.m.

Rhode Island: No supply problem and no lines, but many stations limiting sales and hours to stretch supplies over Memorial Day weekend — including some company-owned self-service stations which have begun limiting purchase amounts for the first time this week.

Vermont: Situation unchanged, according to state Energy Office. Few weekend closings, some curtailed hours but no major problems. Energy Office expects calls at end of week from some stations that are running out of gas.

State of Confusion

Motorists northbound on Route 5 in South Windsor had the option of a right turn at all times onto Sullivan Avenue, but with the Connecticut Department of Transportation's implementation of the "right turn-on-red" law which takes effect July 1 it will be prohibited. Signs banning a turn on red have hung at nearly half of the traffic-light intersections in the state. (UPI photo)

GOP, Democrats Dispute Hearings

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings has proposed a series of public hearings and a possible referendum question to determine if residents want to use town funds to complete housing for the elderly units on Spencer Street.

Republican Town Chairman Richard Weinstein, however, has called the proposal a "political ploy."

Cummings contacted Weinstein last week and mentioned the idea of the Manchester Housing Authority conducting a series of hearings in town to determine if residents want town funds to be used for the project. The 40-unit housing project is being planned and will be funded primarily with a state grant. But, the town would have to provide some funds to complete the work.

The exact amount the town would have to fund is not known, but the most recent estimate ranged from $75,000 to $220,000.

Community Development funding had been planned to pay part of this cost, but town voters last month decided to withdraw from the program. That decision now is being challenged in U.S. District Court.

Convict Escapes Chair in Florida

RAIFORD, Fla. (UPI) — Convicted killer John Spenkelink escaped the electric chair today, at least temporarily, after frantic pleas to individual Supreme Court justices. It is now up to the high court and it has turned him down three times in the past.

Spenkelink and another convicted killer, Willie Darden, were to have been put to death at 7 a.m. today at Florida's Raiford Prison, but U.S. District Judge W. Terrell Hodges granted Darden an indefinite stay Tuesday afternoon.

"Oh, thank God," breathed the 30-year-old Spenkelink, who has been in jail off and on since he was 18, when the news flashed on the TV screen in his cell that Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall had issued a stay of execution.

Spenkelink, who unlike Darden had exhausted the appeals process, had a difficult time finding a judge who was willing to intercede.

His attorneys made a dual assault on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and contacted individual Supreme Court justices and finally came up with two last-minute stays.

The first was granted at 11:30 p.m. in Atlanta, where Judge Elbert Tuttle, senior member of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, ordered a delay based on a petition contending Spenkelink had received ineffective legal counsel.

Less than a half hour later, at 11:59 p.m., Marshall issued another stay, saying: "I believe it appropriate to grant the application for a stay until further action by the entire court."

The full court likely will review the case at its regular conference Thursday.

Tuttle originally set a hearing in the Spenkelink case for 9 a.m. today, but after learning the Supreme Court also had interceded, Tuttle said this morning: "There will be no action (in his court) until after the Supreme Court acts."

Spenkelink, who has been on Florida's Death Row for 5½ years, was convicted in December 1973 of killing Joseph J. Szymankiewicz, a parole violator and traveling companion. He maintained he acted in self-defense.

Darden was convicted of killing a Lakeland furniture store owner James Turman and wounding a 16-year-old boy who came to Turman's aid. Darden claims he is innocent, despite two witnesses who testified to the contrary.

"John took a deep breath and so did I," said the Rev. Tom Feamster, a Presbyterian minister who waited out the hours with Spenkelink and was with him when the reprieve came. "He's a very unusual person. He's reserved."

Feamster said Spenkelink at first thought the news flash was about the federal court stay issued earlier Tuesday for Darden, "but a guard notified him of the stay, and he got a call from one of his lawyers confirming the stay."

Spenkelink's attorney said the first stay came at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday in Atlanta, where Judge Elbert Tuttle, the senior member of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, ordered the delay based on an "original" habeas corpus petition contending ineffective assistance of counsel.

Attorney Andrew Graham said Tuttle set a hearing for 9 a.m. today in Atlanta on the petition.

Almost a half hour after the first stay, at 11:59 p.m., Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall issued a stay in Washington after two other justices had rejected similar pleas.

"I believe it appropriate to grant the application for a stay until further action by the entire court," Marshall said. The full court likely will review the case at its regular conference Thursday.

A group of 250 demonstrators gathered across the road from the prison began waving their candles and flashlights and chanting "Thank God For Justice" and "Death Row Must Go" when they heard the news of the delay.

Gov. Robert Graham, who told a group outside his mansion the news, said through press secretary Steve Hull he had no immediate statement.

A spokesman said the death warrant expires Friday at noon, so the execution could still be carried out if the full Supreme Court refuses to make the stay permanent.

Canada Voters Oust Liberals

TORONTO (UPI) — Canadian voters rejected Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's 11-year Liberal Party rule Tuesday, dividing their already troubled country on language lines, and asked a relative unknown young westerner named Joe Clark to form a minority Conservative government.

While Clark's party almost shut out the Liberals in the vast region from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Ocean, in French-speaking Quebec it could win only two of the province's 75 seats.

Clark, 39, the youngest man ever to win the prime minister's job, said in a victory speech in his oil-rich Alberta district that he would ensure that Quebec is represented in his government. But even raising the subject illustrated the weakness.

In a dramatic concession of defeat, the 59-year-old Trudeau said in Ottawa he was stepping down after more than a decade in the nation's toughest job but would not quit as leader of the Liberal Party.

"Naturally within two or three days I will be leading my colleagues ... to decide on the future of the government," Trudeau told supporters crammed into the post Chateau Laurier Hotel.

"I think it is my duty at this time to recommend to my colleagues that we hand the government over and that I recommend to the governor general that he ask Mr. Clark to form a government," he said. "As for me, I think I will be a pretty good leader of the opposition."

Trudeau's estranged wife, Margaret, followed the results in the New York apartment of a friend and then went dancing at the famed Studio 54, where amid the thudding music and flashing lights she praised her husband.

"He's the most wonderful man I know," said Mrs. Trudeau, dressed in white disco pants and stiletto heels. "He's going to be the greatest leader of the opposition, not only because he is going to fight for individual freedom but because he's going to fight boringness."

She said she would try to fly back to Canada.

The unofficial final tabulation of seats in the enlarged 282-member House of Commons showed the Conservatives with a commanding 135 against the Liberals 115, the socialist New Democratic Party 25 and the Quebec-based Social Credit Party with 8.

But the Liberal bulge of votes in Quebec contributed to a convincing national lead over the Conservatives in the popular vote of more than 4 percent.

Clark will have to govern with the support of some other members to give him a majority in the House of Commons. Trudeau ruled that way in 1972-74 with the support of NDP.

Trudeau's defeat was sealed in populous Ontario. While Quebec showed even stronger allegiance to the Liberal Party than normal, Ontario voters devastated the federal Cabinet. Eight of 13 ministers were defeated.

Talk, Talk, Talk at Capitol

By ANDREW M. NIBLEY

HARTFORD (UPI) — The legislative process. Talk, talk and more talk. It droned on hour after hour, day after day.

But who's doing all the talking?

A two-week chronicle of vibrating vocal chords under the Capitol's gold dome reveals that House Minority Leader R.E. Van Norstrand is far and away the man with the most to say. The Republican from South Darien addressed his colleagues 44 times during the 10-day period.

His closest competitors were Rep. Robert Jaekle, R-Stratford, and Sen. Richard Cunningham, R-Stamford. Each flapped his yap 28 times.

Cunningham should be given the upper hand in this regard because the Senate met fewer times than the House. In fact, Cunningham, a freshman, spoke twice as much as any other senator.

A couple of trends became apparent during the past two weeks.

Republicans tend to speak more than Democrats. Perhaps, this is because there are so few Republicans in the Connecticut Legislature that they must work and talk twice as hard to get their views across.

Another strange twist is that in the Senate, freshmen lawmakers speak with alarming and unabashed frequency. Most of the senators with a couple of years under their belts speak sparingly.

In the House, it's just the opposite. The veterans reach for their little black microphones considerably more often than the newcomers.

Sometimes the constant chatter from some lawmakers irritates others.

Recently, Sen. Eugene Skowronski, D-Derby, a freshman who learned about his microphone early on, spoke several times on a particular bill before conceding he might have to rethink his position.

Lt. Gov. William O'Neill, who presides over the upper chamber, wryly observed, "As long as it's got you thinking and not talking, senator, that's just fine with me."

Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven, rose to express similar irritation last year after a handful of senators had pretty much talked a bill to death.

"I would like to associate myself with my previous remarks," the Democratic leader said sarcastically, letting his colleagues know that everything that needed to be said had been said and it was time to vote.

The vocal ones in the Senate over the past two weeks were Cunningham, who spoke 28 times; Audrey Beck, D-Mansfield, 14 times; Nancy Johnson, R-New Britain, 13; Michael Skelley, D-Tolland, 12; George Gunther, R-Stratford, 10, and Skowronski, nine.

Two senators had nothing to say — James Murphy, D-Norwich, and William Sullivan, D-Waterbury. Other quiet ones in the upper chamber included Alfred Santaniello, R-Norwalk; Mary Martin, D-Groton; and Sanford Cloud, D-Hartford. Each of them spoke only once.

In the House, Van Norstrand was the runaway winner with 44 speeches, followed by Reps. Jaekle, 28; Charles Matties, R-West Hartford, 24; Dorothy Osler, R-Greenwich, 22; Paul LaRosa, D-Hartford, 21; Robert Walsh, D-Coventry, 20; Richard Tulasano, D-Rocky Hill, 19 and Dorothy Barnes, R-Farmington, 18.

There was only one Republican in the House who chose to keep mum — Paul Abercrombie of North Haven. But a total of 19 Democrats, including former House Speaker James Kennedy, were silent during the two-week period.

In compiling the numbers, UPI did not count the times lawmakers, primarily committee chairmen, offered and explained bills. This is a duty over which they exercise little control.

What was counted were the instances in which the people's representatives stood to offer an amendment or express their feelings on an issue.

Employees' Health Exam Being Cut

MANCHESTER — A cut in the Town Health Department's budget will mean a reduction in the department's program of physical examinations for town employees. Town Health Administrator Ronald Kraatz told the Advisory Board of Health Tuesday.

The department will continue providing physical exams for employees of the town police and fire department. Kraatz said the department will probably limit other physicals to employees who do heavy work. Those employed in office positions or clerical work will probably be referred to their own physicians, Kraatz said.

He explained that there will be a "restructuring of some of our work load" because the department's staff nurse position will be discontinued. The Board of Directors has rejected a department request to change the staff nurse position to a full-time, town paid job. The federally funded position is effective through September, but Lois A. Beckwith has resigned from the position effective in June.

Also, Kraatz said the budget cut has meant suspension of the department's $1,000 referral contract with the Greater Hartford Council on Alcoholism. Kraatz said that referrals in the program have dropped off since its inception a few years ago. This past year there have been only about a half dozen referrals of employees with work performance problems.

National Effort Begins To Draft Ted Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While Sen. Edward Kennedy is saying "please don't" five congressmen are organizing a nationwide effort to dump President Carter and draft the Massachusetts Democrat for the party's 1980 presidential nomination. Kennedy aides have tried to discourage them — but the five were to announce their effort formally at a news conference today.

Liberal Democrats have become increasingly vocal about their disenchantment with Carter and his policies in recent weeks. Draft Kennedy movements have sprung up in Massachusetts, Iowa, New Hampshire, Minnesota, Ohio, Rhode Island and other key primary and caucus states.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, meanwhile, said he thinks Kennedy would be the one to Three Mile Island can best be managed by officials at the scene, not by those in Washington, D.C. William Scranton III of Pennsylvania told Congress today.

Canadian Election

Joyner Fails in Judge Move

HARTFORD (UPI) - Merit selection of Connecticut judges is officially dead for this legislative session. Rep. Walter Joyner, R-Manchester, asked the House Tuesday to reconsider its rejection of a resolution aimed at changing the state Constitution to allow for merit selection of judicial nominees. The bill failed by two votes Monday.

The move to take the bill up again was dropped 66-80. House Speaker Ernest Abale, D-Stamford, and Deputy House Speaker Joseph Coatsworth, D-Cromwell, who fought for a panel to recommend nominees to the bench—a privilege now solely enjoyed by the governor—voted not to take the matter up again.

'Theft' Was Misunderstanding

MANCHESTER - The theft of the wheel rigging from a trailer on Elm Street Extension property apparently was the result of a misunderstanding. The owner of the trailer and its missing wheels, Kenneth Burkamp, met Tuesday with Jay Giles, director of public works, to discuss the matter.

The problem developed in connection with the town's work on the Park Street Bridge. The town has hired a private contractor to work on repair of the bridge. Burkamp owns the property directly below that bridge, and he stored an old tractor-trailer rig near the bridge's base.

The construction crew said that the rig would have to be moved so it could work on part of the bridge. At the time, however, no one knew who owned the trailer, Giles said. Town Engineer Walter Senkow was on the scene and he talked to persons from a trucking firm who were working nearby to see if they owned the trailer.

Bolton Hearing Set On Wetlands Policy

BOLTON - There will be a public hearing tonight at 8 at the Community Hall on proposed inland-wetland regulations for the town. If no significant problems develop at the hearing, the Conservation Commission will meet to vote on the adoption of the regulations and a boundary map.

If the regulations are adopted, the town will assume the responsibility of its own regulations. The Conservation Commission will be the sole agency that will administer and enforce the regulations.

The Department of Environmental Protection adopted an inland wetland map for Bolton in November 1978.

COEP Students Cited At Year-End Banquet

By JUNE TOMPKINS Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - About 525 students, employers, faculty and town officials attended Manchester High School's Cooperative Occupational Education Program awards banquet Tuesday night at The Colony in Talcottville.

It was the students' night including the entertainment which was provided by a student rock group called "Rockalike." COEP students acted as hostesses and escorted guests to their tables.

COEP counselor Ron Macadio told those present that the increasing number of COEP students is "growing up to a force really to be reckoned with by this town."

The purpose of the COEP program is to introduce students to various working experiences and situations so that those who do not plan to further their formal education after graduation may make the transition to the working world with experience and education.

Recognition was given to the long list of employers who cooperated this year in the program. The list included nursing homes and sport stores, machine shops and department stores, and many other businesses in between.

MHS principal Jacob Ludes III attributed the success of the high school vocational students to the school's superior faculty and the outstanding support given the program by Manchester and its surrounding communities.

Ludes presented the COEP Scholarship Award to Tom Benedict.

The following students were presented awards by members of the COEP staff: James Jankowski, pre-vocational program; Robin Kerr, hospital nurse aide; Laura Romello, dental aide; Charlene Benedict, Youth Work Experience Program.

Also, Cindi Churchill and Lisa Brown, Distributive Education I; Jessica Walters and Cindi Hayes, Distributive Education II; Mark Raymond, COEP II; Mike Albert, Alana Bertsen and Donna Blodeau, COEP I; Gary Dixon, Intensified Work Experience I; Aldo Enrico, Intensified Work Experience II; John Mongell, COEP evening program; Nicole Bourgain, Business Work Experience.

State Police and members of the Town Fire Department clean up the highway near Exit 92 of Interstate 86 in Manchester. A truck involved Tuesday morning near the exit ran over two lanes of westbound traffic. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Trucker Injuries Minor

MANCHESTER - A truck driver suffered minor injuries and a speeding automobile after his vehicle turned over Tuesday morning near Exit 92 of Interstate 86.

The accident, which occurred at 10:20, blocked two lanes of westbound traffic until State Police and members of the Town Fire Department could clean the scene.

Gene R. Belanger, 25, of 231 S. Whitney St., Hartford, was issued a summons for speeding too fast for conditions, state police said. He received minor injuries in the accident and was treated at Hartford Hospital and discharged.

Gaming Panel Dumped

HARTFORD (UPI) - Connecticut's gaming commission is headed the way of the dinosaur with final legislative approval of a bill to dump the panel and replace it with a gambling "czar" of the governor's choice.

The House approved the proposal 108-39 Thursday and sent it immediately to Gov. Ella Grasso. It would be dangerous.

"We are going to create one big monster," warned Rep. Eugene Migliaro, R-Wolcott. He and Miscoicoski fought the proposal while sitting as members of the Legislature's Public Safety Committee.

Parade Route Planned

MANCHESTER - The annual Memorial Day Parade will start promptly Monday at 9:30 a.m. from in front of the Army & Navy Club at Forest and Main streets and proceed north on Main Street to East Center Street.

The first stop along the parade route will be at Munro Park at East Center and Porter streets for a short service at the World War II Memorial Monument.

The parade will then go west on the northbound lane of East Center Street and south on Linden Street, where it will enter Center Park and pass the reviewing and speakers stand.

Town Reservoir Levels Considered No Problem

MANCHESTER - Last winter, officials in the Water Department feared a lack of snow might lead to problems of reservoirs with little water in the spring and summer.

This problem, however, apparently will not develop—at least for now. "We're not in any real trouble," Frank Jodanis, water and sewer administrator, said.

The winter months produced much rain, which led to a premature melting of snow. Much of this water ran off during the flooding periods that occurred in January and February.

During this time, Young had expressed concern that the water levels in the reservoirs might be low in the spring and summer. Normally, the gradual melting of snow in the spring helps build up the reservoirs' levels. But, the winter rains left no snow to be melted in the spring.

Bank Accord Reached

HARTFORD (UPI) - A compromise bill has been approved for legislative debate in an attempt to defuse a volatile dispute between Connecticut's banking industry and out-of-state financial investors.

The Legislature's Banks Committee, in an extraordinary session, Tuesday approved the bill to study the effects of subsidiary investments by out-of-state banks.

The compromise bill, which will be submitted to the Senate and the House for debate, calls for a one-year moratorium on the activities of all bank holding companies. It also calls for a study by a six-member commission to determine the desirability and effect of non-bank subsidiaries of state and out-of-state bank holding companies.

The commission would report its findings to the Legislature by Feb. 1. The state's banking industry has stoutly opposed efforts by out-of-state banks to open non-banking subsidiaries. The Connecticut Bankers Association has charged that will destroy the state's delicate banking competition and take all their profits out of the state.

South Windsor Firms Add $2 Million to Tax Rolls

SOUTH WINDSOR — The continued growth in South Windsor business and industry has added over $2 million to the town's tax rolls, according to a report to the Council by Economic Development Commission Chairman Kenneth Noseck.

Noseck told the council that the increase of business and industry has also added 550 new jobs to the work force in the past two years.

Noseck said that during 1978 and 1979 several hundred thousand feet of commercial and industrial space was vacant, but during the twelve month period from July 1, 1978 to July 1, 1979, more than 304,000 square feet of existing building were leased or purchased.

During 1978, said Noseck, another 232,500 square feet of space became used as the existing space was filled by new tenants and new businesses were expanded.

Noseck said that he believed the trend for expansion of business and industry was continuing in 1979 with more than 140,000 square feet of new construction completed early this year. He said several more projects involving close to 500,000 square feet are on the drawing boards or under final negotiation.

Noseck said he felt the recent industrial growth was due to sound land use planning.

"We must continue with our current industrial zoning to foster the development of planned industrial use rather than a hodge-podge of scattered sites," said Noseck. "We must also continue with designed development zoning which adds a degree of multi-use flexibility to ensure good design for the areas that remain open."

Theodore J. Pastva, Agency Seeks Youth Jobs

SOUTH WINDSOR — Residents who have odd jobs for the town's youth are invited to call the Youth Services Bureau, 644-0875. The organizations new program "Hire-A-Kid" will match a young person to the job and do a follow up on the placement to make sure the job was done to the satisfaction of the employer.

"Residents may like some help with yard work, baby-sitting, gardening, washing and waxing cars, painting or housework," said Maureen O'Kanis, youth services director. Young persons interested in long term employment jobs may also register.

PZC Approves Plans — The South Windsor Planning and Zoning Commission has voted to approve the application of A.I. Savin and Hartford Jewish Federation for a site plan to be located on the south side of Governor's Highway.

Also approved by the PZC is the application of U & R Housing Corp. for a subdivision of a portion of Timber Ridge, located near Tumblebrook Drive.

The PZC has accepted the withdrawal of the application of Daniel Giacchino, 30 Timrod Road, Manchester, for a land filling and demolition permit for a structure located at the intersection of Sand Hill Road and Nevins Road.

Picnic Slated By Auxiliary — MANCHESTER — The Army-Navy Auxiliary will have its annual picnic June 6. The group will meet at the Army-Navy Club at 6 p.m. and from there go to the Marrone home for the picnic.

Those attending are asked to bring a dish for the potluck supper, and their own folding chair and utensils. Those who wish may bring their own liquid refreshments. Coffee will be provided. Members are also asked to bring canned food items (value of $1) for the raffle. Swimming facilities will be available.

president of the South Windsor Chamber of Commerce, said he felt the Economic Development Commission's report was "good news for the town."

"The bustle of construction activity by expanding industry on Sullivan Avenue especially on Sullivan Avenue, and the renewed plans for expansion by many of our local businesses are a good sign for South Windsor's economic future," said Pastva. "He felt the increase of business and industry in the town signifies the importance of a climate favorable to such development" and shows that many local industries have been encouraged to grow and give South Windsor balanced progress.

Henry Sheekly, Economic Development Coordinator, told the Economic Development Commission that the industrial projects on Sullivan Avenue and Route 5 totaled 400,000 square feet. "Based on our present tax rate," said Sheekly, "these projects will generate an estimated tax revenue of $196,000."

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, told a "peace rally" organized by British Jewry Tuesday that Israel and Egypt had not signed "a separate peace treaty."

"We want with all our heart a comprehensive peace settlement in the Middle East," Begin told 2,500 cheering supporters of Israel gathered somewhat inconspicuously in London's Methodist Central Hall.

Begin also said he expected open borders and normalized relations with Egypt to start Sunday, after he and Sadat meet to confirm the return to Egypt of the northern Sinai town of El Arish and the establishment of air links between the two former enemies.

"In the wake of our agreements in Cairo during my visit, we shall proclaim open borders," Begin said, rebuffing a statement made Monday by Egyptian Minister for Foreign Affairs Butros Ghali that the frontier would remain closed until Israel completes the first stage of its pullback from Sinai in January.

Near El Arish, which is to be returned to Egypt on Friday, Israeli settlers Tuesday barricaded themselves in several structures, vowing to resist by force the return to Egypt of the area housing a thriving commercial laundry.

Defense Minister Ezer Weizman was dispatched to the settlement in an attempt to avoid a confrontation between the settlers and the army.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan also headed south toward El Arish to meet his counterpart, Butros Ghali, at El Arish to discuss the Begin-Sadat summit Sunday, one source said.

"We promised autonomy and our neighbors shall have it," Begin said. "But we have never agreed neither shall we ever agree that the so-called Palestinian state be established in Judea and Samaria (the West Bank) and Gaza."

"The Israeli defense forces will stay in Judea and Samaria and the Gaza district, not only for the next five years, but beyond. "Jerusalem is one city, the eternal capital of Israel forever and ever."

Israel Vows to Keep City

By United Press International — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin says his nation wants a comprehensive Middle East peace, but he vows Israel will keep Jerusalem "forever and ever" and never allow the birth of a Palestinian state.

Begin, in Britain for talks with U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, told a "peace rally" organized by British Jewry Tuesday that Israel and Egypt had not signed "a separate peace treaty."

"We want with all our heart a comprehensive peace settlement in the Middle East," Begin told 2,500 cheering supporters of Israel gathered somewhat inconspicuously in London's Methodist Central Hall.

MANCHESTER — Mrs. John (Beverly) Malone of 84 Prospect St. has been installed as president of Gibbons Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus.

Other officers installed are Mrs. John Conner, honorary president; Mrs. Mary Davis, vice president; Mrs. Richard Egan, recording secretary; Mrs. William Burke, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Gieny, financial secretary; Mrs. Gertrude McHugh, sentinel; and Mrs. Edward Socha, mistress-at-arms.

Also installed were Mrs. John Boyle, trustee, and Mrs. Willard Law, auditor.

By United Press International — The fuel crisis eased somewhat in California Tuesday, but growing shortages fanned eastward, threatening to idle tractors in midwestern fields and put a damper on the Memorial Day tourist trade almost everywhere.

In New York, service station operators were permitted to start selling dollar-plus-a-gallon gasoline by the half-gallon to accommodate pump registers that cannot handle prices in excess of 99.9 cents.

In Indianapolis, where the annual "500 Speedway" classic was ready to roll, there was a prospect of more gasoline on the track than in service stations near it.

In Des Moines, Iowa, Phillips 66 station operator Bob McCree was restricting sales to 32 regular customers — one every 15 minutes — by reservation only, a day in advance.

Skelly product dealers throughout the Midwest suspended all diesel fuel and heating oil sales Tuesday in connection with a Department of Energy ruling. The freeze will last for a week, until a plan can be drafted to channel the precious fuel to farmers and lift the threat of curtailed spring planting.

And the diesel drought was deepening in North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana and Nebraska where supplies ranged from tight to critical.

In Utah, energy officials guaranteed farmers 100 percent of their fuel, but said the price would be the shutting down of uranium mines and polish rigs for lack of fuel.

Gasoline supplies ranged from a rare "more than adequate" in New Mexico to "very tight" in New York and service stations in nearby states were closing early or limiting purchases. Memorial Day supplies were especially bleak in Alabama, Delaware, Louisiana, Minnesota and Texas where Herb Hugo, senior editor of Platt's Oilgram, called the situation "bad, worse, worst."

"Supplies are just not adequate and there's no way they can be stretched to meet the needs of the future without cutbacks in consumption," he said. "Cutbacks must come ... otherwise the whole country is going to be in California-type trouble."

A shortage of another kind plagued Idaho where lack of running out of gas has resulted in a sharp drop in resort area reservations. Service station operators expected to end the month with a surplus of gasoline as a result of the shortage of tourists.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee said today it has evidence that oil stocks in the United States have risen significantly in the past year — rather than declined as the administration and oil industry insist.

The government operations subcommittee, chaired by Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., has scheduled hearings for next month to publish its new information and to push for a full Federal Trade Commission investigation of the current oil shortfall.

Fred Barash, the subcommittee's staff director, told UPI the panel this week received "independent information that, in contrast to what the administration and the oil industry have been saying, oil stocks in this country ... have been growing."

"The source of the information is extremely reliable," Barash said. "We're not in a position to go behind our source (to verify the information). But we will be able to confirm it from another source." Barash refused to be more specific, except to say the new evidence involves the "crude oil supply physically in the United States from whatever source — imported sources or domestic sources."

He said John O'Leary, under secretary of the Energy Department, "and others are testifying that crude stocks are down. Our information is that they're not down — they're up."

Rosenthal contends the FTC is the only agency with "sufficient independence and credibility to conduct an independent investigation" of the oil industry, Barash said.

But the FTC and the Justice Department's antitrust division operate under an agreement not to duplicate efforts, and have been arguing for several weeks over who will run the oil probe.

The FTC has pushed for Justice Department authorization for an inquiry into the current gasoline shortage in California, any nationwide implications it might have and whether the shortage "may be contrived."

But the Justice Department, assigned by President Carter last week to investigate the oil shortage, refused to oblige.

MANCHESTER — Director of Public Works Jay Giles has recommended an immediate doubling of the water rates for town customers.

Such an increase would pay for Water Department expenses for 1979-80 as well as provide about $1 million of the money needed for proposed water system improvements.

The Town Board of Directors will consider the water rates to be set for the 1979-80 fiscal year.

Giles has said a minimum rate increase of 25 percent is needed to pay for operating expenses and interest costs for borrowing part of the $20 million bond issue.

He is recommending a 100 percent increase in the rates to help pay immediately for a portion of the work included in the bond issue.

Town voters last month approved a $20 million bond issue for water system improvements, including construction of a new treatment plant and renovation of the distribution lines.

Giles and other town officials have suggested that the water rates be boosted enough so that funds will be raised through the rates that otherwise would have to be borrowed.

A 100 percent increase in the rates would accomplish this. That size increase would provide funding to pay for operating costs of the department and about $1 million of the bond issue.

Such an increase now will save the town money in its total borrowing cost, Giles said.

The Town Board of Directors is not expected to approve an immediate doubling of the rates. It will act on what rates to set after the June 5 hearing.

Selectmen Discuss Phones

BOLTON - Telephones were once again discussed by the Board of Selectmen at its recent meeting. Selectwoman Joann Neath has, for a long time, tried to revise the phone system at the Community Hall to make it more efficient, as well as to save the town money.
 At an earlier meeting the selectmen had voted to remove the phone from the treasurer's office in the fireplace room at the Community Hall.
 First Selectman Henry Ryba said the treasurer told him she needed the phone so he felt it there. There are two phones in the fireplace room, one for the public and one for the treasurer.
 Mrs. Neath objected to the move and said, "I don't think the treasurer should be able to rescind the action of the Board of Selectmen. She said, 'One phone in that room could be moved near the treasurer's office and have a long cord and everyone could use it. It would save the town $60 a year.'
 Mrs. Neath's motion to do so failed. The board voted to rescind its earlier motion to remove one of the phones.
 Mrs. Neath voted against the motion. Mrs. Neath made a motion to remove the pay phone from the kitchen. She said it is rarely used and would save the town $16 a month.
 The motion passed but Selectman John Carey voted against it.
 Carey said, "It's absolutely outrageous to keep talking about these phones."
Drain Repairs
 Tom and Noreen Carpenter asked the town to clean and repair the storm drain in front of their property on Hebron Road.
 They said, "We understand the problem has been recurrent in the past and we are concerned that water from the drain may be affecting our well water."
 First Selectman Henry Ryba said the Bid Waiver Questioned

VERNON - A request presented to the Town Council Monday night to waive bids on the purchase of a chain link fence for the ball field at Henry Park, drew questions from some council members. Councilman Stephen Marching questioned the urgency of getting the fence and the necessity of waiving the bids. He said the council had been asked to waive a lot of bids lately. Mayor Frank McCoy said the subject of installing the fence just came up about two weeks ago during talks with members of the Parks Department. He said the ballgame season has already started and they want the fence as soon as possible. He said the town has three competitive quotes on prices for the fence. Councilwoman Marie Herbst, also said she didn't like the waiving of bids procedure and commented, "Mr. Berger (Donald Berger, recreation director) knows when the baseball season starts." Berger said he had hoped the problems of people and dogs running across the fields, and such, could be corrected with police patrols, but it wasn't. He said he doesn't think the fence will be the complete answer either. The motion was then made to waive the bids and it passed with only Marching voting against.

Tongue-Tied Americans

Travel abroad and you'll find, almost everywhere, people with enough grasp of English to give you directions, interpret a menu for you, or help with your travel schedule. But a non-English speaking visitor to this country is hard-put to find such help. Among industrialized nations, the U.S. stands alone in its neglect of foreign language study. In the face of growing world interrelationships - political, diplomatic, economic - Americans' familiarity with the tongues of others is in sorry decline. Last year the President's Commission on Foreign Language and International Study was formed to find ways to live up to international agreements in which the U.S. has pledged to encourage the study of foreign languages and civilizations. The commission's initial findings are dismaying. • Nine out of ten Americans cannot speak, read, or effectively understand any language but English. • About 90% of all colleges have no language requirements for admission. One-quarter of all high schools do not teach any foreign language. • College language enrollments have declined 15.2% in the past decade. • Foreign language enrollments dropped 15% among high school students between 1968 and 1974. Less than one-quarter of high school students now study a foreign language, as against 32% in the mid-1960s. • Only 17% of American foreign language students taught wholly in this country can speak, read, or write the foreign language easily. The prevailing sense in this country toward those in other lands seems to be: Let 'em speak English. It is a foolhardy attitude. It ill serves America's interests and objectives in the world community. Unless it's changed, the U.S. will find itself at a disadvantage in grasping economic opportunities and meeting its diplomatic responsibilities around the world. At a time of détente with Russia and rapprochement with China, an appalling small number of American students are taking up those languages at the advanced levels necessary for fluency. One member of the presidential commission voiced distress on learning that the U.S. Foreign Service no longer requires any foreign language background for new service officers. Because so few Americans study foreign languages, he found, the State Department was forced to drop the requirement. Much of America's economic growth in the years ahead will come from international trade. More and more people will be needed with skill in foreign tongues. By not pursuing language studies, many young people are cutting themselves off from rewarding careers in international business. Knowledge of other languages and cultures is indispensable to fruitful international relationships. We in this country would do well to support and stimulate such knowledge, lest we find ourselves standing around with nobody to talk to except ourselves.

Fire Merger Plan To Air

VERNON - The Town Council Monday night approved a proposed amendment to the charter and set June 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building for a public hearing. The change, if approved by a referendum vote in November, would consolidate the town's two fire departments. The Charter Revision Commission has already held a public hearing on the proposal. No one voiced any objections to the revision itself but representative of the Vernon Fire Department did question why more specific duties for the chief weren't detailed. The proposed amendment states "There shall be a Town Fire Department consisting of the fire chief and other such officers and employees as authorized by the Town Council from time to time." It also sets forth the functions of the department and says the chief will be appointed by the mayor on approval of the majority of the Town Council. It further states that the same method would be used to dismiss the chief, subject to provisions of the state statutes. The town has had two separate departments for many years, even though the town governments were consolidated about 12 years ago.

Arbitration Vote Blasted

VERNON - Irked because Vernon's legislative representatives voted for new legislation concerning binding arbitration, Councilman Morgan Campbell asked council members Monday night to let the legislators know they feel the same way. Morgan said, "In my opinion it (the legislation) removes the power of this council to set the budget." He said he believes that the vote was not to the best advantage of the town. The legislation passed in a 70-69 vote. This was despite the fact that leaders in education, local Boards of Education and the Connecticut Board of Education, urged its defeat. The Connecticut board has said before the bill passed, that should it pass it had voted to challenge the constitutionality of it in court. Town officials feel that the binding arbitration for teacher bargaining will be disastrous for the towns as school budgets account for about 70 percent of a town's total budget and teacher salaries are about 70 percent of the education budget. With the binding arbitration provision, voters will have little, if any, influence over a very large percentage of their tax money. Other major groups who have expressed opposition to the bill are the Connecticut Conference of Municipalities, the Connecticut State Labor Council, and the Connecticut State Federation of Teachers. Railroad Link Needed Right Now

Connecticut doesn't need any more studies about transportation needs, especially about the desirability of the Manchester-to-Willimantic railroad. Every day it becomes more apparent that the 20-mile rail link would be a boon, considering the energy crisis and pollution problems. Rebuilding the line is vital to the future of eastern Connecticut, and also to southern New England, for it would provide a much-needed inland connection for east-west rail traffic. The amount of truck traffic in Connecticut shows there is enough freight business to support the rail link. And the availability of cheap rail transportation would spur industry growth in eastern Connecticut. The future for people transportation is with rail, too. Existing public transportation - buses on highways - is too expensive. Rebuilding the Manchester-to-Willimantic railroad could be accomplished at a small fraction of the cost of completing Interstate 84 to the east. It's difficult to come up with any arguments against the rail line, although some residents of Manchester's Grissom Road feel that resumption of service on the right-of-way near their homes would hurt property values. The link is needed and it is needed now.

Vernon Outgrows Budget Session

The annual town budget meeting is an old New England tradition that may have lost its usefulness in a town the size of Vernon. The question of eliminating the annual session has surfaced each time revisions to the charter have been considered since the town governments were consolidated about 12 years ago. But it seems major proposals for charter revision become political footballs and like the weather, everybody talks about them, but no one does anything. In the past years there have been arguments pro and con on the issue. One of the strongest arguments for the elimination of the meeting is the one that a special interest group can pack town meetings and have a budget approved or rejected. This argument is a matter of record. The outcome of the meeting can and has been influenced by pressure groups or special interest groups who may or may not have the best interests of the town at heart. A town meeting can have strong emotional-political overtones because it has the power to make unlimited cuts in the budget recommended by the mayor and approved by the town council.

Almanac
Today is Wednesday, May 23, the 143rd day of 1979 with 222 to follow. The moon is moving toward its new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Gemini. Ambrose Burnside, a Union general in the Civil War, was born May 23, 1824. On this day in history: In 1791, Captain William Kidd was hanged in London on charges of piracy and murder. In 1959, the U.S. Navy submarine "Squalus" went down off New Hampshire in 240 feet of water. Thirty-three of the 59 men aboard were rescued with a diving bell. In 1960, Israeli agents captured Adolf Eichmann in Argentina and spirited him back to Tel Aviv. He was convicted there of being a mass killer of Jews during World War II and was hanged. In 1976, the Elizabeth Ray affair broke into the open when a Washington newspaper (The Post) said she was employed as a $14,000-a-year secretary to serve only as the mistress of Ohio Democratic Rep. Wayne Hays.

All things are eternal, for out of dying age springs forth new life. The weary days, once finished, Trudge behind us, and new dawns awaken. The winter snows become Spring's rushing streams, refreshing Summer's thirty days, reflecting Autumn's colors. The fallen fruit drops seeds that hold potential trees. The elderly are grandchildren of infants born generations ago, no living in mansions of eternity. Linda D. Stevens, Manchester, Ward The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints

Politicians Gear Up for Fall

Most folks probably would like to forget the idea of cold winter weather as we approach Memorial Day. But, local political leaders already are thinking about the chilly month of November. Their thoughts, of course, are not on the weather but on the town election that will take place Nov. 6. Republican Town Chairman Richard Weinstein has said he hopes to present his party's slate of candidates to the town committee next month. Having the slate prepared by June is earlier than in past years, but Weinstein appears to be interested in getting an early start on the campaign work and candidate preparation. The three incumbent Republican members on the Town Board of Directors all are expected to seek reelection. Carl Zinsner, William Diana and Peter DiRosa all have indicated they will run again. This leaves the Republicans with three vacancies to fill on their directors slate along with picking candidates for the Board of Education and other positions such as constable and Board of Selectmen. Meanwhile, the Democrats also have begun discussion of the 1979 election. That party has six members on the Board of Directors. One, Joseph Sweeney, already has said he will not run again. The other five have not made formal decisions, although Mayor Stephen Penny and Directors Stephen Cassano and John FitzPatrick are expected to run again. The campaign itself will be one centering on issues of much discussion during the past 12 months - Community Development, phase-in and the budget. Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings says he sees it shaping up as a campaign of "rights and wrongs." He expects the Republicans to point to certain issues where they feel the Democrats were wrong - the phase-in, which now is being challenged in court, and the Community Development issue, which Republicans say would not have required a townwide vote if the Democrats had agreed at the beginning to withdraw from the program. The Democrats, however, can emphasize the "rights" - those issues they feel they have acted properly on, Cummings said. These include the phase-in, which supporters have said assists most homeowners, and the 1979-80 budget.

Carter Sure Soviet Won't Cheat

WASHINGTON - The key to the SALT II agreement, and to its chances of approval by the Senate, is "verification." Senators want to be sure the Soviet Union isn't cheating on the number and variety of its nuclear weapons. President Carter has reassured them. "We are confident," he declared last month, "that no significant violation of the treaty could take place without the United States detecting it." But secret documents do not support the president's rosy assurance that the Soviets will be unable to fool us. Quite the contrary, in fact. A "Top Secret" report in the National Intelligence Daily, the CIA's super hush-hush information newspaper for top government leaders, has this to say: "In view of our incomplete understanding of Soviet concealment and deception activities and in view of the inconsistencies and unevenness of their use by various parts of the (Soviet) strategic forces... our forecast... in this field must be highly tentative." Competent sources confirmed to our associate Dale Van Atta that the report is all too true. It warns that they have been using them since at least 1964 to hide their weapons strength from American intelligence. We cannot report all their tricks without revealing our own secret detection methods. But is safe to tell part of the story. One relatively simple screen the Russians use for their strategic weapons was described to us by a source: "When the Russians move mobile missiles, there is sometimes a long logistics trail. It's like a circus of vehicles going through the country and is as easily detected. But if they break the caravan up, moving one truck at a time, we might not learn about the move." Beginning about 1964, the Soviets began "disruptive painting" of their intercontinental ballistic missile complexes, constructing dummy roads, facilities, equipment and launch sites - modern versions of "Potemkin villages" by the people who invented the technique. In 1966, the Russians learned to time their activities to our satellite schedules. "In response to warnings of the approach of U.S. reconnaissance satellites passed to all branches of the Soviet military establishment," one document notes, "both surface-to-air missile and air warning-and-control radars restrict their electronic emissions at times when the emissions would be susceptible to interception by satellites." In 1967, the Russians began building tunnels big enough to hide up to 20 missile-carrying submarines. Dummy ships were constructed to confuse American spies, and canvas or "environmental" coverings were used to camouflage the facilities. Though the CIA claimed these subterfuges never "seriously hampered our ability to maintain an accurate count of Soviet submarines," the agency admitted that it made it tougher to figure out a far more vital statistic - the number of Soviet subs in port at any given moment. Senate skeptics with good reason are not viewing the SALT II agreement through Jimmy Carter's rose-colored glasses.

"Don't let us intimidate you - we're doing a study of feelings of job insecurity among bureaucrats who do funny government studies."

Political Isolation for Sadat?

By JIM ANDERSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) - American officials are confident that Egypt will be able to withstand punitive economic measures from the Arab world. But the real test will be whether President Anwar Sadat will be able to overcome the political effects of isolation from his former allies. The officials said that the economic and military impact of Saudi Arabia's ending an Arab arms-building consortium will be minimal, mainly because the enterprise was in its early stages. The officials said that the Saudi Arabia's ending an Arab arms-building consortium will be minimal, mainly because the enterprise was in its early stages. More serious is the Saudi reversal of an earlier decision to finance the $25 million purchase of 50 F-95s by Egypt. Sadat said in an interview last week that he was going to turn to the American people to try to raise the money by popular subscription, but that idea - according to American officials - does not appear to be well thought out. American and Jordanian officials confirmed that no payment has been received by the United States from Saudi Arabia for the planes and no money is expected. However, the American officials said they do not consider the matter closed, and the State Department is discussing it with Saudi Arabia. Sadat also raised the possibility that Saudi Arabia may bank out of its decision to buy 50 F15s from the United States. Egyptian and American officials said that the report of the withdrawal of Kuwaiti funds, totaling some $1 billion, from Egyptian banks would be serious, if true. But the Kuwaiti government has denied that it intends to pull out the funds. American and Egyptian officials believe that the impact of the loss of Arab economic aid is minimal, in the short run, chiefly because Egypt is hard put to absorb the approximately $1 billion a year it is now receiving from the United States. American officials say that the most disturbing thing about the Arab actions is that they may have a cumulative effect that could undermine Sadat's domestic position, and give the Egyptian people a sense of isolation and alienation from the Islamic world. That effect appears to be increased by Sadat's attacks on the Saudis and other oil exporters, whom he described in a speech as "Arab dwarfs, who raised their oil prices four-fold in 1973, at the expense of the

East Hartford GOP Would Cut Tax Rate

By CHRIS BLAKE
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — Three Town Council Republicans Tuesday released a minority budget call for a mill rate of 42 mills, a 4 mill increase from a current rate and a 7 mill decrease from the rate proposed by Mayor Richard H. Blackstone.

The Republicans say the mill rate can be achieved by increasing revenue projections in four areas, which would bring in $347,000 more than the mayor has predicted.

Council Republicans Robert F. Ryan, Esther B. Clarke and John F. Finnegan said the mayor has underestimated revenues in four areas to create an "unappropriated surplus."

The report says the mayor has underestimated revenues from interest income by $50,000, the supplemental motor vehicle tax by $90,000, the surplus by $200,000 and fines and tags by $7,000.

The GOP budget also calls for a reduction in the contingency fund by $22,483, with $2,800 of this amount going toward the purchase of radios for the police explorers. Blackstone eliminated the radios from Police Chief Clarence A. Drumm's budget list.

The minority report, written by Councilman Ryan, said that the mayor has historically "grossly underestimated" revenues, creating what accounts call an "unappropriated surplus" each year.

The council Republicans have reviewed budgets from 1973 to the present and they said this trend is evident each year.

Unlimited Turns on 'Red' Just at 14 Intersections

MANCHESTER — Police charged a 25-year-old local man with illegal possession of a controlled substance and illegal cultivation of marijuana early this morning.

Police said Thomas C. Scata of 62A Ruby Drive turned himself in after learning of the warrant for his arrest. He was released on a $500 nonsurety bond, police said, for a June 4 court appearance in East Hartford.

Davis Isenberg, 18, of 32 Carpenter Road, Manchester, was served with an arrest warrant Tuesday for violation of probation, police said today.

Isenberg was held on a $500 cash bond. His trial was set for June 23 in East Hartford Superior Court.

Police arrested Dominick J. Fanelli Jr., 18, of 3 Hickory Drive, Coventry, on a warrant Tuesday and charged him with reckless driving and evading responsibility.

He was released on a $100 cash bond for a June 5 court appearance.

One woman received minor injuries Tuesday after a two-car collision Tuesday at the West Center and South Adams intersection, police said today.

Louise Levesque, 72, of 21E Carver Lane, was treated at Manchester Memorial Hospital, police said. The operator of the other vehicle was Alfred B. Sundquist, 72, of 50 Wyllys St.

Police said Mrs. Levesque received a warning for failure to obey the red light.

Fund Hearings Disputed

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Police Department has recommended 14 intersections in town which allow right turns on red lights when the new law takes effect July 1.

All other intersections in town have total or partial prohibition of the right turn because of pedestrian traffic or the complexity of the intersection, according to Police Chief Robert Lannan.

The State Legislature has established the criteria for installing the "No Turn on Red" signs. Turns are not allowed in areas of heavy pedestrian traffic, particularly those used by elderly citizens and school children, or complex areas such as the Broad, Pine and East Center streets intersection which has a variety of signals.

When the state Department of Transportation began installing the signs, only 55 percent of the 10,500 intersections in the state allowed right turns. Many legislators, including Third District Senator Marcella Fahay, said not enough of the intersections allow right turns.

There are 27 low-owned and 55 state-owned intersections in Manchester. Besides the 14 areas which permit the right turn from all directions, there are 24 other intersections which allow right turns from some but not all the approaches.

Nearly all the right turn prohibitions in town are at school crossings, the police chief has said. Other criteria, besides the traffic complexity, include railroad preemptions or sight line obstructions.

The five town-owned intersections which permit turns from any direction are West Middle Turnpike and Green Manor Boulevard, Toland Turnpike and the east and west ends of Caldor, Hartford Road and Bidwell Street and Adams and Hilliard streets.

When recommending the prohibitions or turns, Lannan said he had to consider the worst possible moments of the day for each intersection. Even if there were only one or two instances during the day when the prohibition is needed, he said, the signs still must go up and remain in effect all the time.

East Girls Set Records

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

It's been a long time coming, 15 years at least, but it looks like Manchester High is going to win the CCL boys' track championship in 1979.

The Indian trackmen made a giant step towards that goal yesterday with a convincing 83 1/2 to 61 1/2 triumph over Windham High in a battle of unbeatens at Pete Wigren Track.

Manchester, 7-0 in the league and 9-0 overall, clinched at least a tie for the title with the victory. It can gain outright possession of the crown as it goes against Hall and Fernalt at Wigren Track today at 3:30.

Windham slipped to 7-1 in the league, 7-2 overall. Hall also is unbeaten in CCL competition so the Indians have to win, otherwise it's a three-way split.

There were two key events for the Silk Towners. Jeff Lombardo and Norm Rice took 1-3 in the triple jump. Rice won by a wide margin, 120-110-120 hurdles: 1. Grey (W), 2. Getting (M), 3. tie Pugmire (W), Stanton (M) 115.7.

Two school records were shattered at the East Catholic girls' track team crushed Maloney High, 116-7, and homesteading Pulaski High, 106-17, yesterday in New Britain.

The double win gives the Eaglesletts a 10-5 record for the season.

Patli Walsh broke her own standard in the shot put with a heave of 36-feet, 11-inches, bettering her previous best by a foot.

Anne Temple broke her own mark in the high jump with a leap of 5-feet, 3-inches. That surpassed the previous record by two inches.

Assembly May Challenge Emissions Delay Weto

HARTFORD (UPI) - When Gov. Ella Grasso vetoed the dual drinking age bill, lawmakers threw in the towel. But her rejection of the auto emissions inspection bill has convinced some legislators it's time to take her on.

Last year, the Legislature passed a law requiring Connecticut motorists to get their cars inspected for air-polluting emissions each year, beginning in 1980. This year, lawmakers overwhelmingly passed a bill bumping the program back one year to 1981.

Exercising her third veto of the year, Mrs. Grasso Tuesday rejected the delay in the inspections program, saying it would not be right to postpone the clean air plan for another year.

"I am not in favor of extending the deadline for the commencement of this program," the governor said. But Rep. Thom Seranni, D-Stamford, the father of the emissions bill, said he will do all he can to override the veto before the session ends June 6.

"I will take it up with the leadership," he said. The bill was passed by very wide margins in both houses and I don't think there will be any change in sentiment by the legislators.

"Public acceptance is crucial and time is needed to get the message across to the public," Seranni added. He said the program can be fully implemented by January 1.

Rep. Julie Belaga, R-Westport, was equally appalled by the governor's action.

"I'm really shocked. I think that the governor was very ill advised to veto that bill," she said. "I think we may be able to override her veto."

It will require two out of three lawmakers in both the 155-member House and the 36-seat Senate to overturn Mrs. Grasso's decision.

Backers of the bill that would have kept Connecticut's drinking age at 18, but prevented package stores from selling liquor to anyone under 19 chose not to test the governor when she recently vetoed their measure.

Legislature Approves Bill For Teacher Union Fees

HARTFORD (UPI) - A bill designed to allow teachers unions to collect agency fees from non-members who enjoy benefits negotiated by the union has been given final legislative approval and sent to Gov. Ella Grasso.

The Senate Tuesday narrowly approved the bill on a 16-15 vote.

The bill would allow bargaining units to negotiate with local school boards a requirement that teachers who do not belong to the unit but receive all its benefits must pay an annual fee.

The fee could not exceed the amount needed by the local union to fund collective bargaining on contracts and grievance proceedings.

Presently, teachers receive all benefits negotiated in bargaining contracts by the local union but do not have to be members.

Opponents, mostly Republican, charged the bill would force a teacher to join an organization against his or her wishes.

Sen. Nancy Johnson, R-Britain, proposed an amendment providing several options to joining that would "retain the freedom of choice." But it was defeated 18-13.

Sen. Michael Skelley, D-Tolland, said the bill "was consistent with labor laws in the private sector" and "merely provides the unions the right to negotiate, something already allowed in 10 states." He said agency fees were mandatory in Massachusetts.

Sen. William Curry, D-Farmington, urged lawmakers to support the bill as "a vote of conscience."

Mrs. Johnson charged the bill was an economic and dictatorial move to "prohibit the constitutional right of choice."

Quick action by Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven, caused a Republican attempt to kill the bill to backfire.

The Senate initially voted 16-15 to approve the bill, but Sen. John Cunningham, R-Stamford, asked that his vote be switched.

This would put him on the prevailing side and allow him to ask for reconsideration of the bill. Cunningham said he planned to move for

State Will Decide Cheney Tech Director Eyes Vernon Building

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

VERNON - John Garofalo, director of Howell Cheney Technical School in Manchester, has expressed an interest in the use of Sykes School as a technical school, but it will be up to the state to make any final decision.

George Russell, a member of the Sykes School Study Committee, told the committee Tuesday night that he had contacted Garofalo who told him there is a waiting list of 200 for Cheney Tech and as a result, only ninth graders are being accepted.

Russell said Garofalo said he wouldn't be interested in the building for use as a satellite technical school but rather as a separate school.

The study committee was appointed after Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, suggested the closing of Sykes which is now housing Vernon's Grade 6 students.

He suggested moving Grade 6 back to the Middle School because of declining enrollments and because of additional programs and the fact that Sykes has no outside area for sports programs.

Several parents' groups and students have strongly objected to the closing of Sykes which is now housing Vernon's Grade 6 students.

He suggested moving Grade 6 back to the Middle School because of declining enrollments and because of additional programs and the fact that Sykes has no outside area for sports programs.

Robert Hurd, head of the Northwest Rockville Neighborhood Association, said he wanted to explore a myth that there's a possibility the school might be wanted for something other than education. He cited the fact that there are many other vacant buildings in the Rockville section and they have been vacant for many years.

JoAnn Worthen, school board member, said she didn't think it was appropriate to compare the Sykes building to some of the other vacant buildings, noting that Sykes is in good condition and is already departmentalized if it were to be used for offices. She added, however, "If I had my druthers I'd ask the committee to focus on an educational use for the building."

Mrs. Belanger cautioned the committee that it has to separate its pros and cons for closing the school on the basis of what is good for the children from the basis of what is good for Rockville.

The neighborhood association is definitely against closing the building.

Edi Abbott, chairman of the study group, asked Russell if the state would have the money to follow through on any plans for the school and Russell said he didn't know.

Another committee member, Lee Belanger, who is a school board member, said she had contacted the director of the area Indian Valley YMCA as that group has been in need of a building since it organized.

Miss Abbott reminded the committee that the building is "grandfathered," and should it be closed for school use and then it is decided later that it is needed, she said it would cost more than $1 million to bring it up to federal and state standards.

It costs the school board about $73,000 a year for the school. Maintenance costs are paid by the trustees.

The committee has to have its report ready for the Board of Education by July 24. It will meet again on June 26 at 8 p.m. at the Middle School to finalize its list of pros and cons for moving the Grade 6 students or keeping them where they are and to offer suggestions for alternative viable uses for the building.

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) - Gasoline is coming to New Hampshire.

The fuel, a mixture of 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol, will make its debut at the Top Gas service station on Route 1 in Seabrook by the end of next week.

Station manager Erik Gove said Tuesday he doesn't anticipate any large increase in business because he is adding gasoline to his product line.

"Probably during the first week or two a lot of people will come in just to see what it's all about. After that I expect it will be mostly our regular customers and some others who will be switching over from unleaded premium," he said.

Gove described gasoline as "roughly equivalent to unleaded premium, both in octane rating and in price." He said it can be used in most cars on the road today.

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

Pantie Puzzle - His or Hers? DEAR ABBY: SUSIE IN SPOKANE found a pair of silk panties in her husband's pickup truck and would like to meet the chick who's fooling around with him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a divorced daughter who has been living with her lover. She's 35 and self-supporting, so I can't tell her how to live. However, I am deeply concerned over the fact that my three grandchildren, 5, 5, and 7 who live with their mother, are very much aware of the situation since they frequently cry into bed with them.

DEAR ABBY: I used to get upset because my husband forgot birthdays and anniversaries until I realized how my father used to go out with the boys on Saturday night, come home in a cab, drunk, break and ready to fight at 3 in the morning.

DEAR NO COMPLAINTS: Not had if you're into astrology. If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's books!

CNG Rates Going Up

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut Natural Gas Co.'s fleeing the increase which could be emptied by early next week.

CNG had asked for an 11.6 percent hike which would have increased its revenues by $9.3 million.

The DPUC decision, approved by a 3-1 hearing panel vote, allowed CNG a higher return on equity but rejected the company's request for a 7.7 percent inflation allowance.

During hearings on the increase only six persons showed up to discuss the request and none spoke against it. Northeast Utilities' pending request for a record $13.2 million increase in gas and electricity rates has drawn sharp protest from consumer groups and the state's consumer council.

In its 51-page ruling Monday the DPUC criticized CNG for not having a written plan on how it could save energy in its office or in the use of gasoline by its vehicles.

The 4.8 percent rate hike will take effect after the utility returns to the DPUC for approval of a new rate schedule reflecting the increase which could be completed by early next week.

Entertain with Recipes from Microwave Cookery

The microwave oven — that symbol of quick, easy meals for busy people — can do more than heat leftovers. People who love to entertain have discovered new-found freedom with microwaving. Whether it's an informal brunch or an elegant dinner party, the microwave can help you entertain on a moment's notice.

Impromptu get-togethers and drop-in guests can be a welcomed surprise, offering you a chance to try interesting variations on popular recipes. The Kraft Kitchens suggest adding cubes of cream cheese for Savory Scrambled Eggs. Serve with bacon and tasty Pumpkin Muffins for a distinctive weekend brunch. Microwave a delectable dinner entrée of Herb Sauced Fish in a Monterey Jack cheese sauce. Ratatouille Pyrenees is an ideal vegetable complement. If you have any left, keep covered in the refrigerator. It will provide a delicious cold appetizer or snack for several days. For dessert, treat your company to Creamy Mallow Cheesecake made with marshmallows and a hint of lemon.

Pumpkin Muffins

1-1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
3/4 teaspoon salt

1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup canned pumpkin
1/3 cup Squeeze Parkay margarine
1/4 cup milk
1/2 cup raisins

Combine dry ingredients. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Line plastic muffin tray or custard cups with paper liners. Spoon batter into six cups, filling each cup 1/2 full. Microwave 3 to 5 minutes or until tops are set, turning once each minute. Remove muffins from tray or cups immediately. Cool on wire rack. Repeat with remaining batter. Approximately 1 dozen.

To Reheat: Microwave on paper towel until hot using the following times as guidelines. Serve immediately.

1 muffin — 10 to 15 seconds
2 muffins — 20 to 25 seconds
3 muffins — 25 to 30 seconds

Tip: Some muffins may be done before others. If so, remove; continue microwaving remaining muffins a few seconds.

Savory Scrambled Eggs

1 tablespoon Parkay margarine
6 eggs
1/3 cup milk

1 3-oz. pkg. Philadelphia Brand cream cheese, cubed
Salt and pepper

Microwave margarine in 1-1/2-quart casserole 30 seconds or until melted. Add eggs and milk; mix well. Add cream cheese. Cover; microwave 3-1/2 to 4 minutes or until eggs are almost set, stirring after 2 minutes. Stir; let stand, covered, 2 minutes before serving. Season to taste. 4 servings

Variations: Add chopped parsley, chives, green onion slices or crisply cooked bacon, crumbled, to eggs with cream cheese.

Omit cream cheese. Microwave eggs as directed until almost set. Add 1/2-cup (2 oz.) shredded Kraft sharp natural cheddar or Casino Monterey Jack cheese. Continue as directed.

Creamy Mallow Cheesecake

1/4 cup Parkay margarine
1 cup vanilla wafer crumbs
4 cups Kraft miniature marshmallows
1/3 cup milk

2 8-oz. pkgs. Philadelphia Brand cream cheese
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Microwave margarine in small bowl 45 seconds or until melted. Blend in crumbs; reserve 1/4 cup for topping. Press remaining crumb mixture onto bottom of 9-inch springform pan.

Combine marshmallows and milk in large bowl; toss to coat marshmallows with milk. Microwave 1 to 1-1/2 minutes or until smooth when stirred, stirring every 30 seconds. Chill until slightly thickened. Mix until well blended. Microwave cream cheese in bowl 30 to 45 seconds or until soft. Add lemon juice, rind and vanilla, mixing at medium speed on electric mixer until well blended. Beat in marshmallow mixture; fold in whipped cream. Pour over crust; sprinkle with reserved crumb mixture. Chill. Garnish with mandarin orange segments, strawberry halves or peach slices, if desired.

Ratatouille Pyrenees

2 medium zucchini, sliced
1 medium eggplant, peeled, cubed
1 medium onion, sliced

1 green pepper, cut into strips
3/4 cup Catalina French dressing
1 pt. cherry tomatoes, halved

Combine ingredients except tomatoes in 3-quart casserole; mix lightly. Cover; microwave 12 to 14 minutes or until vegetables are crisp-tender, stirring after 5 minutes. Add tomatoes. Cover; microwave 2 to 3 minutes or until hot. Serve hot or cold. 10 to 12 servings

Ratatouille will keep in the refrigerator, covered, for several days and is delicious served cold.

Herb Sauced Fish

1/4 cup celery slices
1/4 cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons Parkay margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon tarragon leaves, crushed
1 lb. fish fillets

Dash of pepper
1-1/4 cups milk
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Casino brand natural Monterey Jack cheese

Microwave vegetables and margarine in 2-quart casserole 4 to 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring after 2 minutes. Blend in flour and seasonings. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Cover; microwave 4 to 5 minutes or until sauce boils and thickens, stirring once each minute. Add cheese; stir until melted. Arrange fillets in 11-3/4 x 7-1/2-inch baking dish; top with cheese sauce. Cover; microwave 4-1/2 minutes, turning after 2 minutes. Let stand, covered, 2 to 3 minutes before serving or until fish flakes easily with fork. 4 servings

Variation: Add 1 tablespoon sherry to cheese sauce.

America's Changing Lifestyles are on Exhibit

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

DALLAS (UPI) — America's changing lifestyles were mirrored in the two exhibit halls at the food industry's annual convention in Dallas.

All the trends were there at the Food Marketing Institute's recent four-day meeting. But many of the new products are still only in test markets or otherwise limited distribution.

Items promoting fitness and health included fruit and yogurt blends for babies; an American-made Swiss cheese with no salt added (good texture but bland-tasting compared to the real thing); yogurt bran bread with honey; and a vending machine that dispenses gallon bottles of drinking water and water purified for low-sodium diets, steam irons and other appliances.

Women may talk a lot about scratch cooking, but manufacturers reported wide interest still in convenience foods, particularly by working persons. This trend was reflected not only in a greater variety of fresh meat and poultry cuts but also in processed foods.

At least two more manufacturers have joined the noodle-based lunch mix crowd, one with oriental style mixes and the other, American. Neither of the two new brands have national labeling, but one long-time San Antonio manufacturer lists suggests their protein content is not as high as, say, many sandwiches. Some new products reflect both the convenience trend and recognition of small households: A Houston rice miller is beginning national distribution of flavored rice mixes whose labels provide directions for preparing 1 1/2, 2 or 3 cups of cooked rice at a time.

One frozen food manufacturer showed individual cream and fruit pies, cheesecakes and frozen desserts.

The equipment that drew the biggest crowds was a machine from a Montreal manufacturer that heats hot dogs or other fillings while simultaneously punching holes and toasting the insides of buns. The machine dispenses gallon bottles of drinking water and water purified for low-sodium diets, steam irons and other appliances.

chopped and formed to resemble bacon strips. They have a pleasantly spicy flavor. Sales manager Don Preston said the company expects to complete testing within one to one-and-a-half years.

Russell Penson, marketing vice president for the Kansas City, Mo., company, said a lot of store buyers were expressing interest in the line, which has been available continuously since the 1973 beef shortage and boycott.

A Chicago meat packer sampled beef strips cured, 89 cents a pound and then everybody was in a panic," Penson said. "We saw ground beef in a local supermarket today (May 8) for $2.99 a pound."

The do-it-yourself trend is being felt in non-foods sections of supermarkets and groceries. Several motor oil manufacturers introduced their products in narrow-necked plastic bottles to make it easy for amateurs to change oil.

A growing number of women now do their own car maintenance, said a Bradford, Pa., manufacturer, introducing motor oil in one-gallon, re-sealable, plastic jugs.

Women now account for up to 20 percent of all purchases in the automotive sections of grocery chains and department stores, said a Dallas manufacturer in introducing its six-pack carton of motor oil in quart.

Another new nonfood product, lemon-scented tall kitchen bags from Peabody, Mass., manufacturer, smell so artificial some consumers may find the bags as unpleasant as the odors they are designed to mask.

Nearly five years ago, a group of parents incorporated themselves into a non-profit corporation to run Bridge to Learning as a day care center and kindergarten for their children.

The facility originally was started as a demonstration school for Bridge to Reading, a teaching technique that uses the theme of a letter of the alphabet each week.

But the educational systems firm that founded the school pulled out, leaving parents without a day care facility and the prospect of paying hefty tuition at some centers or joining the ranks on waiting lists at others.

Today, Bridge to Learning is owned and operated solely by parents who run the school on a yearly budget of $65,000 from tuition payments and fund-raising activities. They receive no state or federal aid. Tuition is $10 per month and Bridge to Learning is open 50 hours each week all year.

Good Loving Care at Day Care Center

It was time to devote a week to studying the letter "A" and 32 children aged 2 to 6 were exploring every possibility.

Nearly five years ago, a group of parents incorporated themselves into a non-profit corporation to run Bridge to Learning as a day care center and kindergarten for their children.

The facility originally was started as a demonstration school for Bridge to Reading, a teaching technique that uses the theme of a letter of the alphabet each week.

But the educational systems firm that founded the school pulled out, leaving parents without a day care facility and the prospect of paying hefty tuition at some centers or joining the ranks on waiting lists at others.

Today, Bridge to Learning is owned and operated solely by parents who run the school on a yearly budget of $65,000 from tuition payments and fund-raising activities. They receive no state or federal aid. Tuition is $10 per month and Bridge to Learning is open 50 hours each week all year.

work day for parents to clean and repair the kitchen, bathroom facilities, painted the building and built the playground. Pearson says the children take pride in the involvement of their parents in the school.

Director, Jean Schmidlein says the center provides more than just a place for parents to drop off their kids for the day. Many day care facilities provide only custodial care with teachers "winging" the curriculum and youngsters standing in line for activities in groups of 20 or more, according to Miss Schmidlein.

Bridge to Learning has a defined structure for learning and a teacher to student ratio of one to seven. The National Association for the Education of Young Children says the set-up is part of a growing trend for the increasing numbers of working or single parents who can not find adequate day care for their children.

"There are millions of children in this country for which there are no day care slots," said a spokesman for the Washington-based group. A recent four-year government study of day care centers showed that more than 5 million children under 13 are being cared for by someone other than a parent for 30 hours a week. The study said the best learning takes place when children are gathered into small groups of less than 18. In the center here, children are placed by age in learning and activity groups of 6 to 8.

Each day, activities are set up designed to foster creativity and "self-directed time," according to Miss Schmidlein. Kids use a workbench with hammers and nails, paints and easels, play dough and paper collages. Teachers write stories with children based on themes such as feelings like "happy" and "sad" or actions like "speaking." And they take field trips to the grocery store, the nearby courts or the nearby Greek amphitheater.

Recently, the school, which serves a hot lunch in addition to mid-morning and afternoon snacks of fresh fruit, raisins and other healthy foods, conducted a "nutrition week" stressing good eating habits in the children's daily activities. The staff followed this up with a special parent's night to help parents carry out good dietary practices in the home.

"It's unfortunate there aren't more places like this. There's a nice relationship between parents and the school," says Miss Schmidlein.

assigning personnel — but patients generally want white doctors and nurses to look after them. It may not be true that the whites give better care," she said, "but the blacks often judge the quality of their care by what the white patients get."

Hospital rules may seem harsh, but Miss Rubin said, "Hospital rules are imposed on all patients, regardless of background. But to someone from another culture, Miss Rubin said, they may seem particularly harsh and could even be harmful.

Some patients, when they are acutely ill, may not want their spouses to be with them. American Indians want their mother's sisters, who are very important to them. "It is important to know, especially in hospitals where many times only the husband or wife is allowed in the intensive care unit. This would be very bad for the dignity of this family."

When a Chinese father is dying, it's the oldest son who should be there. If this is denied to the son, only the wife may go in, this could be terribly upsetting to the family. It goes against their culture, their tradition, sometimes even their religious beliefs.

Interest in transcultural nursing is now spreading. Miss Rubin said, "In a profession dedicated to helping patients be comfortable and recover as easily as possible, little things can mean a lot. "If you've ever visited in a foreign country where they don't speak English, you know how good it is to come home and hear your mother tongue. "That's how it is with these people. Even having visitors from their own country can help speed their recovery and show that their needs are not being ignored."

Social Security

Q. Back in January, I required and started getting Social Security checks. I know that if I go back to work, my earnings may affect my checks. But what about income I receive from savings and investments?

A. When figuring what income may affect your Social Security checks, you must count earnings from work of any kind, whether or not it's covered by Social Security, except tips amounting to less than $20 in a month with one employer. However, income from savings, investments, insurance, or royalties won't affect your checks.

Q. After a long illness, my sister passed away last month. I've notified Social Security to stop her SSI payments. Should I also notify her bank? She had her monthly payments deposited directly into a savings account.

A. If an SSI beneficiary's payments were being deposited directly into an account in a financial institution, the institution should be notified of his or her death as soon as possible. This will permit the institution to return any payments received after the death.

Lack of Respect Slows Recovery

By DALE SINGER
ST. LOUIS (UPI) —

Falling to understand and respect a hospital patient's culture may be just as important as satisfactory recovery as failing to prescribe proper medical treatment.

Not every culture views illness in the same way, Miss Rubin said. In some cultures, she said, American hospitals and nurses should be careful not to impose distinctly American values on patients from other backgrounds.

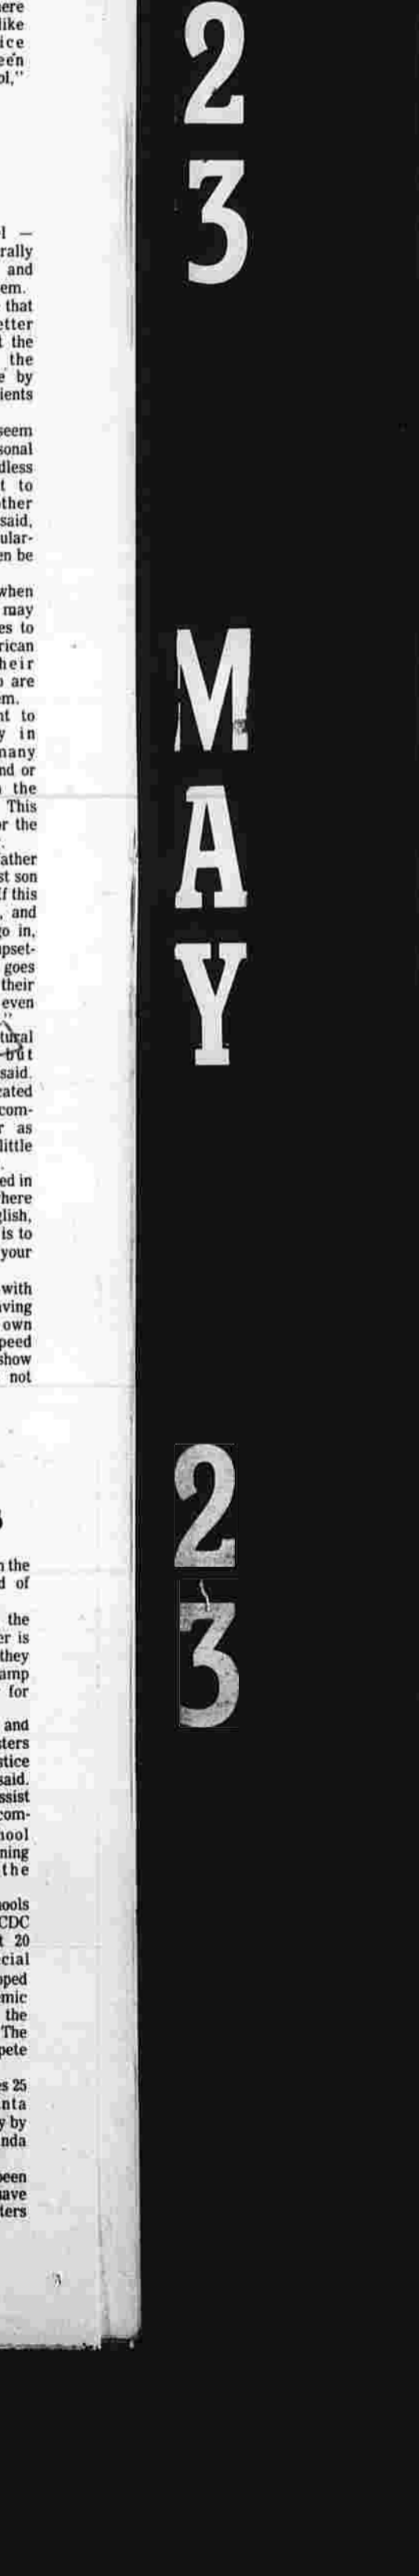

"We don't study every culture," Miss Rubin said, "but we use a few examples to whet the students' appetites, to open their eyes to these questions."

"We want to make sure they're not denying anything to their patients just because they don't understand their needs. It works."

Leaves by representatives of black, American Indians and Chinese cultures are part of the course, Miss Rubin recalled what a black nurse on the university's staff told the students.

"After white patients have been hospitalized for a few days, nurses probably will address them by their first name. The patients may be calling the nurses by their first name. But blacks generally don't like that."

"They want to be addressed more formally, to be called Mr. or Mrs. They haven't had a history of this respect in our culture — for a long time if it was 'Hey, boy' or calling them by their first name. They want to be addressed with respect. It affects the personalization of their care."

Sample-Herman

Mrs. V. Alric Sample Jr.

Dorothy Ann Herman of Manchester and V. Alric Sample Jr. of New Haven were married May 19 at South Methodist Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Herman of 5 Sanford Road, Manchester. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent A. Sample of 974 Forbes St., East Hartford.

The Rev. Frank Jago of Mount Holly, N.J., the bride's cousin, performed the double-ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with gladioli and chrysanthemums. Ellen Sanders of Elizabeth City, N.C., the bridegroom's cousin, was organist.

The bride was escorted by her brother, Robert C. Herman of Philadelphia, Pa., and given in marriage by her father.

She wore a satago and venise lace gown designed with an Empire waistline, illusion neckline, Bishop sleeves and A-line skirt terminating in a lace-trimmed train. She wore a walking-length mantilla with venise lace and carried a bouquet of trailing ivy, stephanotis, freesia, white carnations and baby's breath.

Katherine H. Zapada of Greensboro, N.C., was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Suzanne Keers of Bonn, West Germany, Diane E. Treadwell Dapping, Galveston, Texas, and Debra B. Herman of Philadelphia, Pa., the bride's sister-in-law.

David F. Sample of East Hartford, the bridegroom's brother was best man. Ushers were Richard Amato of Orange, Va., Jerome Allen of Flint, Mich., and Arthur Moffitt of East Hartford.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Manchester Country Club. The couple left for Tenants Harbor, Maine. The will reside in New Haven. Mrs. Sample was employed as a kindergarten teacher at the South Windsor Child Care Center. Mr. Sample is currently a graduate student at Yale School of Forestry. (Nassif photo)

Judy Braiman-Lipson - Consumer Crusader

By MARK D. FRANK

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) - It was Christmas 1966. Judy Braiman-Lipson had had her third child just a few days before. Then, without warning, she developed a bad cough and began spitting blood.

Doctors first diagnosed pneumonia. Her condition worsened. Her illness was diagnosed as lung cancer.

Surgeons cut into her chest and discovered up to 60 "rounded nodules" in her lungs. They removed a portion of the housewife's really dying," she said. "I said, 'How can you have lung cancer one day and be cured the next?'"

But laboratory tests convinced her that her infirmity had been caused by the hair spray.

From that day on, Mrs. Braiman-Lipson has been involved in one campaign after another, taking on the government and corporations in the name of product safety for consumers.

Now a well-known consumer advocate, she is president of the Rochester-based Empire State Consumer Association, an all-volunteer group of 187 per-

Sposito-Russell

Mrs. Francis J. Sposito

Donna Marie Russell and Francis J. Sposito, both of Westfield, Mass., were married May 18 at St. Mary's Church in Westfield.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marlene M. Russell of Westfield. The bridegroom is the son Mr. and Mrs. John Sposito Sr. of 146 W. Center St., Manchester.

The Rev. Vernon DeCoteau of St. Mary's Church in Westfield performed the double-ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with baskets of flowers. Michael Dulac of Springfield, Mass. was organist and Barbara Russell of Westfield was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, William M. Russell of Westfield, wore a gown designed with an ivory satin skirt and train and a lace and seed pearl Empire bodice. Her fingertip-length ivory veil was attached to a beaded cap and she carried a cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Deborah A. St. Jean of Westfield was maid of honor. Mrs. Katherine C. Fitzgerald of Westfield, the bride's cousin, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Lori A. Fitzgerald of Westfield, the bride's cousin; and Anne M. Sposito of Manchester, the bridegroom's sister.

Edward T. Sposito of Cromwell was his brother's best man. Ushers were Martin F. Fitzgerald and Rory J. Fitzgerald of Westfield, the bride's cousins; and Robert J. Sposito of Andover, the bridegroom's brother.

A reception was held at the bride's home in Westfield, after which the couple left for Pittsfield. They will reside in Westfield.

Mrs. Sposito is a student at the Holyoke (Mass.) Community College and Providence (R.I.) Hospital School of Radiology. Mr. Sposito is employed at Hartford Insurance Group in Hartford. (Lisa photo)
