Turn Law Considered 'Waste'

MANCHESTER — Police Chief Robert Lannan and members of the Town Board of Directors, including one who called it a "colossal waste of money," Tuesday night expressed displeasure with the state's right turn on red law.

There are some intersections in town now posted for "no turn on red" where the turns will be permitted, Lannan told the board. The signs should be removed in the next couple of weeks.

Lannan was asked to attend Tuesday night's board meeting because several directors have received complaints about the lack of places where right turns on red lights will be permitted.

The law will go into effect next month. Intersections where turns are not permitted will be posted.

Many intersections have such signs. Despite passage of the law, there are few places where the turns will be permitted.

Lannan said that of 28 intersections on town roads with traffic signals, only five will have no restrictions on right turns on red. Another seven will be partially restricted and the rest will be fully restricted.

Lannan showed the directors a booklet from the state Department of Transportation that details why and where a right turn on red should be prohibited. These restrictions consider pedestrian traffic and the proximity of railroad crossings or schools.

Director Peter DiRosa said state legislators should not have passed the law if it is not going to be effective. He said the legislators should have talked to traffic experts and traffic authorities before passing the bill.

"It just seems like a colossal waste of money," he said. Other states permit right turns on red at intersections except during hours of heavy pedestrian traffic. This arrangement should be considered by Connecticut, he said.

Lannan seemed to agree that the state has restricted implementation of the law. He said several intersections that have been posted for no right turns on red will be changed.

Right turns on red will be permitted at the following intersections, Lannan said:

- Pitkin Street at East Center Street and Cone Street at East Center Street.
- East Center Street and Welcome Place, northbound.
- Mott's parking lot, westbound onto East Center Street.
- Highland and Spring streets, northbound.
- Interstate 84 exit and Spencer Street, northbound.
- Oakland Street and North Main Street, southbound.
- East Center Street at Lenox and Porter streets.

WHAT'S NEWS

Pat on Back

HARTFORD (UPI) — In the traditional session-ending ceremony, Gov. Ella Grasso today sent the 1979 Legislature home for the year with a pat on the back for a job well done and a warning that things might not be so rosy in the future.

When the session opened in January, the governor pleaded with the new lawmakers to hold the line on taxes, while keeping spending down. They responded by passing a bare bones $2.4 billion budget which is only 5.5 percent larger than this year's spending blueprint.

"Sound judgments have been made in the management of the taxpayers' dollars," Mrs. Grasso said in prepared remarks for delivery to a joint session of the Senate and House.

No Pope Visit

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland (UPI) — The Polish government ruled out a visit by Pope John Paul II to Upper Silesia, so thousands of the tough Polish coal miners of the region defied authority and went to the monastery of Jasna Gora today to hear the pontiff say a mass for them. The miners of Upper Silesia are devout Catholics and ironically, Communist Party leader Edward Gierek, himself once a miner, counts their area as his power base.

Later in the evening, John Paul will return "home" to Krakow, the ancient city of which he describes himself "the retired archbishop."

New Wrinkle

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — United Airlines initiated a new wrinkle in the airline price wars — the half-fare coupon — in hopes of wooing back travelers who lined up at another airlines' ticket counters during its two-month strike. American Airlines quickly followed suit with a half-fare plan of its own.

Under both plans, passengers flying anywhere before June 17 receive a half-fare coupon, which must be used between July 1 and Dec. 15 on regular coach and first-class fares — except to Hawaii or Canada.

Young Owners

GORDA, Calif. (UPI) — The Cessna kids, Dickie, 14, and his three sisters, McNe, 11, Betty, 13, and June, 16, who ran into government red tape when they earned $30,000 in a month selling horse manure for compost without a license and refused to divulge their secret formula for killing gophers, are into branching out Tuesday they raised their flag over 20-acre Gorda, becoming the youngest town owners in America.

They bought the town, population about 20, for an estimated $500,000 to $1 million. The price tag included Gorda's general store, a restaurant, gas station and seven houses where the residents and employees of the town live.

Freighter Fire

COPPER HARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — The 700-foot Canadian freighter Cartiercliff Hall, laden with corn, was on its way across Lake Superior to Port Cartier, Quebec, when a fire erupted below the ship's deck. Four bodies were found aboard the fire-ravaged vessel by Coast Guard search crews, and two other crewmen were reported missing. The rest of the 18-member crew abandoned the ship when the fire swept the stern. Five of them, including the captain, were injured, one critically.

The burning ship was towed by its owner, Hall Steamship Co. of Montreal, to Thunder Bay, Ontario.

Women Outraged By Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Women's groups are outraged by the Supreme Court's decision to uphold a state law that gives an absolute, lifetime preference for government jobs to veterans — most of whom are men.

The court's 7-2 ruling reinstating Massachusetts' veterans preference statute — one of the most extreme in the country — "guarantees perpetual reverse discrimination" in public employment in favor of men who served in the military, said Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women.

But another opinion issued Tuesday was cause for cautious celebration among women who work for Congress.

The high court, in a 5-4 ruling, for the first time gave congressional aides the constitutional right to press damage suits against members of Congress for sex discrimination. It left open a question about congressional immunity, however, that may still allow lawmakers to escape legal attack.

In the sensitive area of veterans preferences, women's groups now are counting on Congress for reform, Ms. Smeal said.

Eleanor Holmes Norton, head of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, agreed the court's decision on that issue "puts a heavy responsibility on Congress to take action that will be fair to women and to the nation's veterans alike."

She noted President Carter sought to curtail veterans preference in 1976, but his plan was defeated, 281-88, in the House.

Sewer Rate Plan Due from District

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Although some members disagree that the Eighth Utilities District should receive a discount, the Town Board of Directors has asked the district to submit its proposal for sewer rates for 1979-80.

An attorney and members of the District Board of Directors attended Tuesday night's meeting of the directors to protest the proposed sewer rates.

Those rates would eliminate a sizable discount for large users, including the Eighth District. The large users no longer will receive a gradual decrease in sewer rates as their use increases (sewer rates are based on water use).

The district does not argue with eliminating the discount for large users. The federal government requires it.

But, the district believes it is part owner of the sewage treatment system and should receive a discount because of this ownership.

"We shouldn't be charged the same as an apartment house or some factory. There's got to be some rate that distinguishes the district from an ordinary user," attorney John LaBelle

Moped To Replace Damaged Town Auto

MANCHESTER — The Town Health Department plans to buy a replacement for an automobile destroyed in an accident earlier this year.

But, don't expect another automobile to be added to the town fleet.

Instead, the department plans to purchase a moped.

The moped, a motorized bicycle, will be used by department employees who are making short trips in town for inspections or other department-related matters.

The moped will be used in addition to the three automobiles now used by the Health Department, John Salcius, a department employee,

D-Day Ceremony Praises Soldiers

POINTE DU HOC, France (UPI) — A frail and crippled Gen. Omar Bradley, who commanded the American D-Day invasion forces, whispered his praises to the dead Allied soldiers at a ceremony marking the 35th anniversary today of the Normandy landing that liberated Europe.

The Ranger operation was costly. Half of the men were killed or wounded in a tragic twist of fate, the guns they climbed to silence had not yet been put in place by the Germans.

"It took more than guts to climb those cliffs," Bradley said. "Let us pay honor to those men and pray that there will always be people prepared to do the impossible. There was a wonderful operation."

Fifteen of the original Rangers attended the ceremony Tuesday aimed at our ships, Lt. Col. James E. Rudder told me. "I can take care of that for you with my Rangers," the 87-year-old general of the Army said from his wheelchair.

CD Ban Endangers Housing Grant

By ALICE EVANS Herald Reporter MANCHESTER - The two-year moratorium on the town's involvement in the federal Community Development Block Grant program may endanger the $12 million grant the Housing Authority has been awarded to buy and rehabilitate 20 units of housing for low-income families.

The Housing Authority has to have someone with expertise in housing rehab according to the grant regulation, Ms. Walsh said. The town's Human Services Department, of which she is a part, was the "appropriate agency because it has such people already in place who were paid with CD funds," she said.

At the same time, Eugene A. Sierakowski of Strawberry Lane, told the authority that he questioned the feasibility of the program because he feared it would diminish surrounding property values. He also said that to him and others like him, who have "scrupled and saved" to buy their single-family homes, the rehab program was "a slap in the face."

Kreitman Will Speak At Rabbi Wind Fete

MANCHESTER — Rabbi Benjamin Z. Kreitman, executive vice-president of the United Synagogue of America, will be the guest speaker Sunday at a testimonial dinner for Rabbi Leon Wind. He is retiring June 30, after 24 consecutive years as spiritual leader of Temple Beth Shalom and as the highly-respected spokesman for Manchester Jewry. The event will be at the Temple and will begin at 6 p.m. Originally scheduled for another location, it has been re-scheduled for Temple Beth Shalom's auditorium.

Rabbi Wind, who has life tenure as rabbi emeritus, will remain in Manchester and will devote his time to writing. He will edit and publish a manuscript on Jewish Law that was written in the 18th century by Rabbi Joshua Shabazi, a rabbinical scholar then living in Egypt. A study of the manuscript formed the basis of the doctorate in Hebrew Literature Rabbi Wind received in 1969 from the Jewish Theological Seminary.

Rabbi Kreitman served as rabbi of the Brooklyn (N.Y.) Jewish Center and of Congregation Shaare Torah of Flatbush and is rabbi emeritus of that congregation. He has been executive vice-president of the United Synagogue of America since July 1976 and serves also as its consultant to the World Council of Synagogues.

He was a naval chaplain during World War II and was president of the Association of Jewish Chaplains of the Armed Forces. He served in the New York City Board of Health, was chairman of the Brooklyn Borough President's Commission on Human Rights and Equal Opportunities and was chairman of Brooklyn's Small Business Opportunities Corp. Born in Warsaw, Poland, he came to this country in his infancy and grew up in Louisville, Ken. He has degrees in philosophy and semiotics from Yeshiva and Yale universities and was ordained a rabbi by the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

Rabbi Wind is a graduate of the University of Lvov (Poland) and the Hebrew Teachers Institute, also in Lvov. He attended them simultaneously.

After graduating from them, he was admitted to the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York City and arrived in this country in

More Outside Trucks Joining Dump Caravan

SOUTH WINDSOR — Town Manager Allan S. Young told the Town Council this week that trucks from the New Haven area are joining what some residents term the "caravan" of trucks pounding South Windsor's residential streets on their way to the East Windsor landfill area.

Young said that more than 20 additional trucks can be expected, although the figure is a "comprovised one."

Young told the council that the original figure was estimated to be in the neighborhood of 40 trucks, but some of the trucks would be resold.

The news came in the wake of weeks of complaints from residents in the Graham Road area. Residents have petitioned the council in hopes of getting some relief from the trucks using the roadway to get to East Windsor.

One resident told the council that she intended to move from South Windsor because the street had been

Board OKs Bid Waiver For Bulldozer Repairs

MANCHESTER — The Town Board of Directors approved three bid waivers, including one for a $7,000 bulldozer repair that the town thinks should be paid for by a Newington firm.

Jay Giles, director of public works, said the cost for repairing the bulldozer's torque converter will be $6,500 to $7,000. The H.O. Penn Machinery Co. of Newington is one of the few firms that does such work in New England, so Giles requested the bid waiver, which the board approved.

Giles believes, however, that the town will not have to pay anything for the repair. He said the bulldozer was brought to the Newington firm to check an overheating problem. The problem continued, though, and the town again had the firm check the equipment.

This time, which was a few months after the five-year warranty ran out on the bulldozer, the firm said the torque converter needed replacement, Giles said.

New Lot Cost Up to $70,000

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A proposed parking lot at the corner of Oak and Cottage streets would cost $55,000 to $70,000 and could provide as many as 50 new parking spaces.

Robert Gorman, chairman of the town's Parking Authority, gave these figures to the Town Board of Directors as he explained the proposal to purchase the one-third of an acre lot. The purchase would be funded completely with tax money paid by businesses in the downtown special taxing district.

The town board has to approve the purchase, however, so it held a public hearing Tuesday night on the matter.

The purchase will cost $35,000, and Gorman estimated it will take another $20,000-$25,000 to develop the lot. This would provide parking space for 35 to 56 vehicles.

A couple of taxpayers, including Bill Pagan, commented on the proposal. Gorman indicated he does not give much weight to the comments since the project would be funded only with the money provided by members of the special parking district.

Pagan responded, "These people are completely out of their mind."

Stephen Penny, chairman of the board, then said, "Well, that's being succinct."

Jay Giles, director of public works, discussed a proposal to abandon part of Depot Street near the Tolland Turnpike-New State Road-Buckland Road intersection.

The intersection is being realigned as part of the town's planned improvements connected with the Buckland Industrial Park. The state may make future changes at the intersection, but Giles said the town is obligated to make the needed changes on Tolland Turnpike. The state may not do that until the late 1980s, he said.

Penny also asked that consideration be given to regrading Buckland Road, which has a short, steep hill that causes problems in winter. Giles said he would look into such a regrading, although he said such a step would require much work.

Director William Diana spoke of a recent complaint he received from a resident about a roaming dog. The board, during its budget work, had asked for a report about the feasibility of having a civilian, rather than a police officer, as dog warden.

No report has been received yet, and board members said they would pursue the matter. Police Chief Robert Lannan said he would provide any help he could on the issue.

Director Joseph Sweeney asked that separate minutes be filed on two executive sessions the board held in May to discuss a salary increase for the town manager.

The minutes, which have been filed, are required by the state's Freedom of Information law.

Michael Pohl, a member of the town's Youth Commission, spoke against proposed new regulations that would set up an advisory board for the commission. This would permit persons who work with youths, such as teachers, Youth Services employees and Police Department members, to serve on the advisory board.

They could not, however, be commission members, and Pohl feels this is discriminatory.

A dispute developed recently when Alan Anderson, a police officer, was named to the commission.

A Green Manor Road resident, Arthur Pendleton, said he has had to delay installation of a new driveway while he awaits the town's decision about whether or not to maintain sidewalks on both sides of the street.

The town is studying where it should have sidewalks on both sides. If sidewalks are required on both sides of Green Manor Road, Pendleton will be required to make sidewalk repairs along with his driveway relocation.

"That entire project could cost $800-$900, he said.

"The fact we have the problem points out what happens when we fail to get things done," Penny said. He asked Giles to complete work on the sidewalk repair.

Barry: Moratorium Better Than Repeal of Phase-In

HARTFORD — A bill on the revaluation phase-in will include a moratorium rather than a repeal of the law, Sen. David Barry, D-4th District, said today.

The House has passed a bill that would repeal the phase-in, and the Senate has passed a bill that would establish a moratorium, which would prevent any other town from adopting the phase-in until 1983.

A committee on conference, made up of two Democrats and one Republican from both the House and Senate, was appointed to resolve the difference, Barry said.

The committee endorsed the idea of the moratorium, and that proposal was passed Monday by both the House and Senate, he said.

The phase-in permits a community to spread increases in assessments resulting from a revaluation over five years. Three communities in the state, including Manchester, have adopted the phase-in. The phase-in in one of those communities, New Haven, was declared unconstitutional by a New Haven Superior Court judge.

Manchester's adoption of the phase-in also is being challenged in court. That case still is pending.

The moratorium, which Barry proposed along with Sen. Marcella Fahey, D-3rd District, will prohibit any community from adopting the phase-in until 1983. This will be the end of the five-year period for Manchester's phase-in.

Rep. Walter Joyner, R-12th District, had proposed repeal of the phase-in, which would have eliminated the law.

The bill approved by the committee and the General Assembly now goes to Gov. Ella Grasso for his signature. The bill does include a provision that includes new construction in those towns that have

General Assembly Finished Its Homework

By ANDREW M. NIBLEY
HARTFORD (UPI) — The legislative Class of '79 quickly completed its homework assignments — school finance and the budget — and then spent the rest of its five-month term contemplating the symbolic issues of the day.

Strapped for cash, the lawmakers who graduate today chose to focus their energy on the philosophical questions surrounding nuclear power, gay rights, marijuana, abortion, legalized gambling, newsroom searches, the death penalty and work for able-bodied welfare recipients.

The 187 members of the Connecticut Legislature barely had time to savor their election night victories when they nestled into their seats on Jan. 4 to find they already had two assignments on their desks.

The courts demanded a new plan to finance education in the public schools and the governor wanted a bare bones budget that could keep Connecticut rolling along without any new taxes, especially an income tax.

With unprecedented expediency, the lawmakers produced both by May 1, more than a month before session's end.

They approved a $391 million school funding plan that will double state educational aid to municipalities over the next five years. Cities and towns will divvy up $29 million next year, and at least $43 million for each of the following four years.

The new law guarantees that no town will lose money. It is now receiving and gives the State Board of Education broad powers to see that communities spend the new money educating their children.

Lawmakers got a bonus when an anticipated courtroom challenge to their school funding plan failed to materialize.

Gov. Ella Grasso's frugal $2.4 billion budget — a spending blue print that held the line on taxes, while increasing state spending by only 5.5 percent — also cruised through the Democrat-controlled Legislature with relative ease.

But the governor did not get all she wanted this year.

Mrs. Grasso's most trying moment came when the Senate turned thumbs down on her nomination to the State Board of Education — Eva Hadjilov — a state bid commissioner who frequently voiced her adamant opposition to gay rights, abortion, sex education and the Equal Rights Amendment.

For the first time in 21 years, the Legislature said no thanks to a gubernatorial nomination.

But the governor had a few surprises up her sleeve for the Legislature.

Lawmakers, concerned about drinking in the schools and teenage fatalities on the roads, passed a bill preventing package stores from selling liquor to anyone under 19.

Mrs. Grasso got her veto pen out and used it.

She did it again when the Legislature sent her a bill postponing mandatory auto emission inspections for another year. The governor said she wanted the clean air program to start next year, on schedule.

There was one campaign promise that survived the test. Mrs. Grasso said she wanted a new cabinet-level Department of Housing and the Legislature went along.

The Legislature gave final approval to several issues that had been hanging around the halls of the Capitol for years.

Lawmakers passed a pair of bills requiring businesses to write contracts in "plain English" so that consumers can understand them. They also approved a product liability measure designed to resolve conflicts between manufacturers and customers over faulty products.

Years in the making, a coastal area management plan fashioned to strike a balance between the environment and shoreline commercialization finally cleared both the House and the Senate.

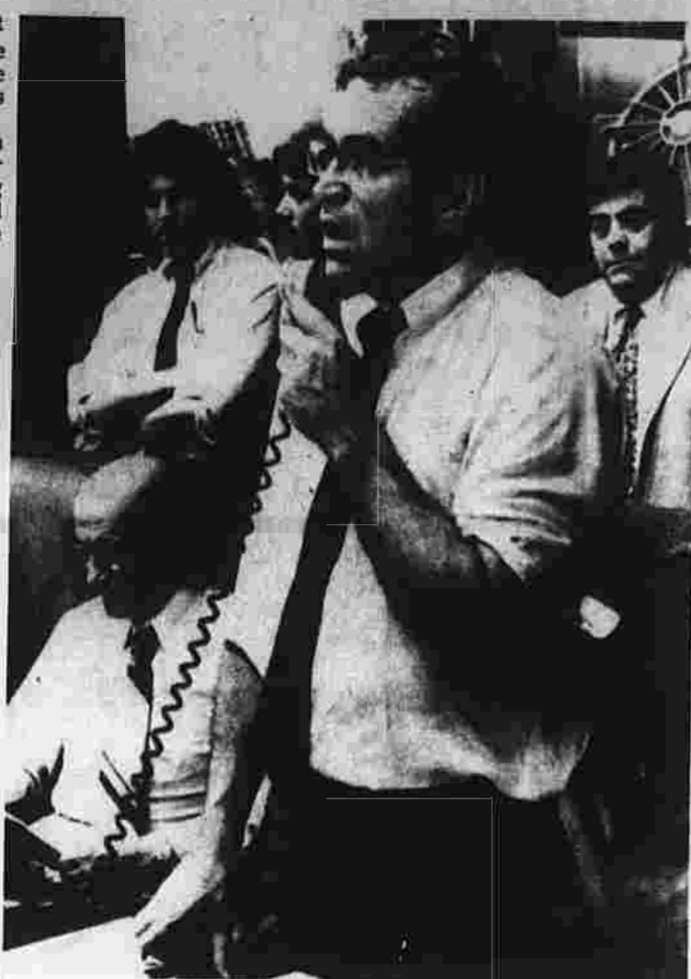

The Legislature also decided it was time that juveniles who commit adult felonies be tried in adult courts.

Conflicts Resolved
Conflicts between the state's freedom of information and privacy laws were resolved in a bill passed by the Legislature.

Lawmakers signed into law another bill that will allow election officials to go door to door to register voters.

Some of the other well-known issues finally had their day, when voters were asked to vote on the issue of decriminalizing possession of small amounts of marijuana.

But not all of the legislation dealing with gaming was window dressing.

Speed Limit Argued

Sen. Howard T. Owens Jr., D-Bridgeport, argues for bill to establish a 55-mile-an-hour speed limit on all roads in Connecticut as the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Sen. Salvatore C. DePiano, D-Bridgeport, seated left, and Rep. Richard T. Tulisano, D-Rocky Hill, listen Tuesday. The bill was approved a sent to Gov. Ella Grasso. (UPI photo) raped and killed when she reported to a fake baby-sitting job. And in Waterbury, three armored car guards were gunned down in the dead of night by carbine-toting robbers.

Violence in Schools
In New Haven, a school teacher was fatally shot while manning a high school candy store. His death moved the Legislature to approve a measure requiring the state to keep track of all instances in which students assault teachers.

A few years ago, a Hartford youth took the hallucinogenic drug LSD and killed one of his friends. He was later acquitted on the grounds of temporary insanity.

This year, lawmakers approved a bill preventing a person from pleading temporary insanity if he voluntarily took non-prescription drugs or consumed alcohol before committing a crime.

As in the past, abortion, always an emotional issue, was on the minds of lawmakers when they went to work this year.

A measure requiring doctors to receive parental consent before performing abortions on girls 16 years old or younger was shot down by the House. But the Legislature did pass a bill requiring the state to subject abortion clinics to the same stringent health regulations that govern hospitals.

D.C. Voting Rights
The Legislature also tangled with a national issue. Connecticut became the ninth state to approve a constitutional amendment that would give the District of Columbia full voting representation in Congress.

The energy crisis also cast its shadow on the Legislature.

Lawmakers gave the governor broad powers to declare and deal with an energy emergency. At the same time, they voted to reduce Connecticut's speed limit from 70 mph to 55 mph, the national average.

All this was accomplished in a rare display of legislative dispatch.

Progress On Tests Reported

SOUTH WINDSOR — School Superintendent Robert Goldman said recent progress in Grades three through six and in Grades seven and nine has shown steady progress of all students — putting low students above the national norm in all areas.

Goldman said, "Without reservation, these results show our schools are in good academic shape and that learning is taking place. Members of the professional staff, the board and the public should be pleased by these results."

J.A. Vantour, director of pupil services, said that as a result of last year's budget cut (the testing program "underwent severe curtailment," Vantour said only six grade levels were tested as compared to all grades from three to 12 in previous years.)

Overall analysis of South Windsor performance on the tests shows no particular area that the standardized scoring system would recommend reviewing. Vantour said that in past years there have been three or four priority areas set for review where children had scored lower than expected.

Vantour said that the language arts area at the elementary level indicates a "dramatic decrease" in the number of items the scoring service felt needed review. He said that such improvement indicated that teachers have responded to the various portions of the language arts curriculum which needed more emphasis.

He also said that he would recommend that the composite of children in the present sixth grade class at Pleasant Valley School and the instructional practices be reviewed in an effort to determine why academic growth has not been as rapid as in the remaining four elementary schools.

Vantour said that he attributes the excellent growth in language arts to the extra time spent on writing skills during the present year. He said that the language arts curriculum has undergone extensive review over the past couple of years and as a result, new materials have been introduced. He said that the town's level of performance in spelling is on the increase now that the new spelling program "Working Words in Spelling" is over the transition period. The new spelling series was introduced last year.

In a related matter Goldman said that all areas of the school system have also been working on the system-wide goal of improving math skills.

Foreign Students To Visit

MANCHESTER — Thirty-seven students from 28 nations will visit Manchester from July 2 to July 7 while on route to their homes after a year's stay in the United States as exchange students.

While they are here, the students will live with Manchester families and participate in activities which have been arranged by the Manchester Committee of the American Field Service International-Intercultural Programs.

About a dozen more host families are needed and anyone interested in hosting a student for the five-day period may phone Alexander Girelli at 649-8877 after 5 p.m.

The project is part of a nationwide one in which more than 3,000 high school students from 60 nations travel through the United States for brief stays in communities after having lived and studied in the United States. The trip permits them to understand the diversity of the United States and to make an adjustment to their return home.

Manchester's AFS chapter is one of 2,500 in the nation which are part of the privately supported non-profit international scholarship program. This year two students were brought to Manchester by AFS and are scheduled to graduate with the Manchester High School Class of 1979. They are Juan Pedrini of Argentina, whose host family is Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hall; and Jocelyn Ivory, of New Zealand, whose host parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bensen.

They will leave Manchester soon and will make short stopovers in other parts of the country before going home.

Fly the Flag
EAST HARTFORD — Mayor Richard H. Blackstone has called on citizens of the town to honor the nation during the 21 days from Flag Day through Independence Day.

Blackstone asked residents in a proclamation released Monday to display the American flag, "the symbol of the nation and the opportunities offered to all who cherish liberty and human dignity."

Citizen Says Employees Should Wear ID Badges

MANCHESTER — One town resident has proposed that town employees wear badges to identify themselves and prevent them from taking breakfast breaks.

The resident, who attended Tuesday's comment session, said he often sees town employees breakfasting from 8-9:30 a.m. He suggested the employees be required to wear badges with their pictures and names on them.

Another resident suggested the town might adopt an ordinance similar to one now in effect in Pittsfield, Mass. That ordinance prohibits the idling of an automobile for more than three minutes.

Mayor Stephen Penny, who presided at the comment session, suggested that the Health Department look into the proposal.

Another resident said that Pine Street is "a speedway." He asked that a stop sign be installed at the Forest Street intersection to slow traffic.

Some Councilmen Criticize Vernon Budget Transfers

VERNON — Although the Town Council approved budget transfers and additional appropriations Monday night, the action drew sharp comments from some council members.

Since the start of this fiscal year, including some $2,000 in additional appropriations approved Monday, the council has approved additional appropriations in the amount of about $164,000.

Councilman Robert Wehrli, who objected, said "This indicates to me that something is not right that we have to do this after having struggled to set the budget."

He said he wondered if some of this was caused by a little bit of "not managing departments right."

Referring to a request to transfer funds within the Vernon Fire Department budget, in the amount of $800 from the supplies account to professional affiliations, Wehrli said he feels that Fire Chief William Johnson thinks it is his spending money he is not given that the council will give him more.

Johnson said he had asked for about $9,000 in his budget for professional affiliations but was only given about $3,000. He said there is always a deficit in this line item because it includes the training programs for all of the men. He said there was no other account to take the money from but supplies.

The town engineer asked to transfer $35.50 from executive and administrative salaries to planning equipment, buildings and additions.

The money will be used to buy a walk-in, office binding machine to be available for the use of all town departments. Robert Datson, director of administration, said the machine will allow for the updating of various codes and will reduce printing costs considerably.

Other requests included one for the transfer of $35.50 from executive and administrative salaries to planning equipment, buildings and additions.

The money will be used to buy a walk-in, office binding machine to be available for the use of all town departments. Robert Datson, director of administration, said the machine will allow for the updating of various codes and will reduce printing costs considerably.

transfer $450 from the salaries account to rental and contractual to cover the cost of hiring a surveyor to complete work that was left when the surveyor working on a project quit.

He said the project involves a lot to do with the commercial building on Union Street for use as a town parking lot. The town agreed to assist the Chamber of Commerce with this project which will be that parking lot into the adjacent to the Union Church.

The lot, if completed, will provide for the parking of 50 cars and access and egress will be through the church lot on Elm Street.

A request of Ronald Hine, public works director, to transfer $4,000 from the snow salaries account to equipment maintenance and repair operating supplies, also drew comments from some council members.

Councilwoman Jane Lamb said that Hine had asked during the winter, for additional money for the snow salaries account "And now he's asking to transfer it out."

Mayor McCoy explained that Hine had originally asked for the additional funds because he thought he wouldn't get through the winter but after he received it there weren't any more major storms.

Hine said, in his request for the transfer Monday, that the funds are now needed for an unexpected major overhaul of the 1972 loader which is used year-round.

Hine also asked for the transfer of $1,026 from snow salaries to snow operating supplies. He said he only has $400 left in that account that originally contained $26,000.

He said the department's supply of snow fence and posts is completely depleted and such supplies can be bought much cheaper at this time of year. He said they are needed now as the fence is used year-round. He said several civic organizations, fire companies and others borrow the fence for various functions and the fence is also used for leaf bins in the fall.

Another transfer of $2,800, also requested by Hine, comes from snow rental to refuse operating supplies for overhaul of the diesel engine in the spare 1972 packer. He said that engine has 200,000 miles on it and has never had any major work at all.

Probate Judge Thomas F. Rady III asked for an additional appropriation of $187.99 from the general fund to the Probate Court and Jury Committee for current expenses and expenses through the month of June. The new fiscal year starts July 1.

The tax collector asked for an additional appropriation of $2,500 for postage to cover the June billing. She said that in past years the bills were processed through the bank and postage billing was paid after July 1. However, this year the office is using its own postage machine. She said the appropriation will correct the budget in that next year's postage costs are budgeted in the proposed budget.

She also asked for an additional amount of $56.82 to cover the costs of outstanding tax refunds approved by the council.

The town clerk asked for $440 additional for his salary and wages account for part-time help. He said the original request was underestimated and the amount requested is needed to finish out this fiscal year.

Charles Vassiliopoulos, health director, asked for the transfer of $75 for overhaul of the diesel engine in the spare 1972 packer. He said there was no appropriation in his budget for this. Each department is supposed to cover its own costs for use of the copier.

Police Chief Herman Fritz asked to transfer $530.00 from his rentals and contractuals budget to operating supplies. He said at this time he has no funds for car parts or repairs to the communications systems.

He also asked for a transfer of $1,835 from the same budget to office supplies to buy forms needed daily by the records department.

$187,746 Is Lost In Vernon Taxes

VERNON — Tax accounts totaling $187,746 for tax lists dating back to 1968 were removed from this state's open listing to the suspense ledger by the Town Council Monday night.

The list includes property and motor vehicle taxes. Mrs. Sylvia Wilson, tax collector, made the request for the removal, as provided by state statutes concerning listings she believes to be uncollectible at this time.

She told the council that all possible methods have been used to try to collect these accounts. She said the collection agency hired to assist in collections a few years ago, collected only a portion of one account and that several years ago.

Mrs. Wilan said that delinquent motor vehicle accounts can be resub-

McCoy To Seek Funding

VERNON — Mayor Frank McCoy has been authorized by the Town Council to submit a grant application for funds to be used to review the town's existing accounting systems and procedures with particular emphasis on the tax collection functions.

The application will be filed with the state Office of Policy and Management to receive 701 planning assistance funds.

This same project was submitted in late 1978 to the New England Region Commission. However, the town never heard anything on this application.

Now it has been asked to resubmit the request for the grant but this time it is to be reviewed by the federal department of Housing and Urban Development.

The council also passed a resolution authorizing an application for state funds for the Hocknam Valley Day Care Center with the understanding that the town will provide a local grant-in-aid.

The town's share of the cost of the program, whether in cash or in-kind, must not come from state or federal funds or services furnished with state or federal funds.

Letters to the editor Elderly Should Be Called Persons

To the editor:

For years it has been the custom and the rule, one might even call it the phenomenon, for social workers and geriatrics specialists to conveniently pool all of the retired, the aging and elderly into one compact little category — to label them senior citizens or, in some instances, golden-agers.

With the emergence of a new awareness of how people age, and why they should retire and what is their place in society, all that seems to be changing, and rightly so. We've come to realize we're actually speaking of two homogeneous, albeit separate, groups, the "young-old" and the "old-old."

The "young-old," except for their age, fit into society as they've always done. They work, they're still reasonably healthy, they pursue their customary lifestyle, they maintain their own homes and, above all, they're activists.

The "old-old" on the other hand, can't work, have chronic illnesses, must be taken care of, either in their homes or in nursing facilities, and, above all, are non-activists. What's even worse is that they're non-prioritizing. Personal comfort is their top priority, and most of the time their only life-style.

Yet, most social workers, most geriatrics specialists, most governmental agencies and most employers still pool all of the retired, the aging and the elderly into that one compact and convenient group — senior citizens or, as some call the, golden-agers.

The time has come for society to accept the fact that the "young-old" are able to work, that they have a reserve of years of qualified experience to tap and that they have stores of sage advice to offer — if only asked.

Employers can provide new opportunities and new training for them, social agencies need be concerned of only minimal services for them and governmental agencies would do well to utilize their expertise for solving vexing problems.

What concerns many of us the most is the realization that so many, many persons who retire at 65 or 62, or even earlier, become "non-persons" to the rest of society.

Invariably, two stock questions are asked of them — "How do you like retirement?" and "What do you do with yourself all day?" No more are they considered activists.

Activity and involvement are the key words. Without them there is only decrepitude — the result of not utilizing the door in our face. Let's not equate age with decrepitude and decay. Instead it's

Confusion Continues

To the editor:

Confusion over the "right turn on red" law results from either a gross misunderstanding on the part of our legislators or an amazing set of interpretations by our traffic officials and other administrators.

To those of us who have lived in or even driven in the rest of the world outside Connecticut, this whole mess is incomprehensible.

Or perhaps, still smarting over defeat on the blue laws, and not yet sure how the anti-litter and bottle rules will turn out — two of the momentous issues with which our servants have labored so mightily during the past several sessions — they have finally perpetrated the ultimate hoax on a long-suffering public. Having opened the door a crack so that we can peek into the twentieth century, they have now cruelly slammed the door in our face.

Can you hear the wild and gleeful laughter echoing hollowly through the halls of government, as they contemplate their latest bureaucratic triumph?

Documents Reveal Oil Hike Avoidable

WASHINGTON — Top-secret documents strongly indicate that Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger could have headed off the ruinous oil price rise in 1973-74. Their failure to do so encouraged the oil sheikdoms to levy a series of arrogant price increases that have inflicted severe economic damage upon the United States.

Just as Easter couldn't mean much without Good Friday, so Heaven couldn't feel real until you and I acknowledge our hells and purgatories — those experiences I talked about earlier this week. The Gospels make a daring claim about our lives, when we are in our hells and purgatories. The Gospels claim that if we let Him, God himself will actually bring about an unprecedented change in our hearts.

The Gospels boast that no matter where we happen to be when we find and are with it as fully as in hell, purgatory, or somewhere in between — we won't remain stuck in the turmoil of our lives. Most of our culture think this is either gushing nonsense, or fill their lives up with so much activity, that they don't know in which famous place they are living.

Most of our culture is unresponsive to this claim as they are to cleaning fish. But there is a minority whose faces will turn with a settled, satisfied look of peace, and say, the gospel works for me. I am a better person because of Christ. And Heaven was the first time I realized

God wanted to help me out of my mess. It was like riding a train alone at night, and all of a sudden coming upon a city full of light. I hadn't arrived yet, and there was still alot to get together in my life, but I knew I was on the way. That instant was heaven.

The gospels make an incredible assertion about human life. They say that Jesus Christ is at work in our lives in hidden ways, making us more loving and whole than we could conceive of by ourselves. When we feel our life is most together, when we are with it as fully as we can, when we are so totally ourselves that there is nothing left over of me to be doing something else, that is heaven. I believe that Christ is somehow at the very center of each of our beings; and during those times when our lives are the most together and integrated, then we are also together and united with God as well. That is heaven, too.

The Lighter Side Non-Persons, American Style

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the Soviet Union, discredited government leaders sometimes are relegated to "non-person" status and treated as though they never existed.

We Americans like to tell ourselves it couldn't happen here. But what does one make of a recent survey conducted by Public Interest Opinion Research?

The survey was based on a three-part question phrased as follows: "Some people say in recent years that the wives of presidents were as capable as their husbands and might have even made better presidents. Do you think this is true or not true in the case of Betty Ford?"

"How about Lady Bird Johnson?" And how about Rosalynn Carter?

To end the suspense immediately, only 21 to 26 percent of those interviewed replied affirmatively. Ending the suspense, however, does not terminate curiosity about the survey.

Do you get a feeling someone is missing from this particular grouping of first ladies? Wasn't there another first lady of recent vintage who fitted in there some place?

My memory is about as reliable as a Three Mile Island reactor valve, but it was my recollection there was a first lady between Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Ford.

Whipping out my trusty almanac, I quickly ascertained that Mrs. Johnson's husband was the 36th president, and Mrs. Ford's husband the 38th.

That strongly indicated the wife of the 37th president had been excluded from the survey as cleanly as if her husband had never been in the White House.

I now felt certain enough of the omission to call up the polling company and inquire about it.

The official I talked with confirmed my suspicions. However, I was not able to elicit the cause of the omission. The firmest answer I got was "no real reason." Which could mean anything from an oversight to a policy decision.

Two thoughts arise from this investigation. One is that the survey can hardly be considered a model of scientific opinion sampling. For had the other first lady been included, the overall results might have been different.

In that husband-wife capability comparison, the majority opinion might have been on the distaff side.

My other thought is that here we have a good illustration of why discredited leaders can't be turned into non-persons in America. For that sort of thing to work, all mention of the name would have to be suppressed.

In this country, when a former first lady whose husband fell from grace is ignored by one medium, other media call attention to it.

Could anyone writing such an expose be so absent-minded as to forget the identification?

Opinion Part-Time Job Not Part-Time Cost

When the members of the General Assembly put their minds to the passage of a piece of legislation, it is usually approved by a wide margin.

A good example of this happened Monday when a bill hiking the salary of representatives and senators was sent along to Gov. Ella T. Grasso for his signature.

The new bill calls for the raises to be effective after 1981 and calls for two steps of $1,000 each.

However that is just the tip of the iceberg.

There are two other pieces of legislation, previously sent to the governor for approval which would increase the benefits for state legislators.

The bill calling for the raises calls for a $1,000 raise in 1981 and an additional $1,000 in 1982.

For the uninformed, the current salaries of representatives and senators in Connecticut is $8,500 for the first year of the two-year session and $6,500 for the second year.

These salaries became effective this past January.

Under the new proposal, the salaries would be upped to $9,500 for the first year in 1981 and to $7,500 for the second year in 1982.

That now brings us back to the other pieces of legislation concerning benefits.

One of the bills calls for a doubling of expenses from the current $1,000 per session to $2,000 per session.

The other calls for health and medical insurance for legislators at an estimated cost of $500 a year per person.

The current benefit and salary package for legislators is $17,000 for two years. Under the proposals, the salary and benefit package would be increased to $21,000 for two years, exclusive of the cost of the health and medical insurance.

The idea of a person voting himself a pay raise is questionable in our minds to begin with, but to vote the increases when the concern for governmental costs is ever-increasing, is ill-advised.

Proponents of the raises will say the legislators did not vote themselves raises, because they will not become effective until the next session. It is well-known, however, several of the legislators have served for more than one term and have given no indication of abandoning their posts.

Technically the position of legislator is part-time.

We feel the possibility of having a public servant paid $21,000 for two years of part-time work is too much to bear. It is also too expensive.

Mrs. Hutchinson was an honorary member of the Manchester Permanent Memorial Day Committee. She had been a member of the committee from 1950 until 1975, and in June 1975, presented a certificate of appreciation for her years of dedicated service by John Thompson, then mayor of Manchester.

She began her association with Memorial Day activities in Manchester as a school girl, when she followed members of the Grand Army of the Republic from Cheney Hall on Hartford Road to local cemeteries to decorate veterans' graves.

She was a past president of Mary C. Cheney Tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War. (The tent was named after her grandmother). Mrs. Hutchinson was born Nov. 16, 1891, in Manchester, daughter of the late Maranthon and Susan Belknap Keeney, and had lived here all her life, moving to Hebron in 1976.

She had been a member of Center Congregational Church, Manchester, for more than 50 years. She had also been active in Grange affairs for many years. The group was organized in 1972 to help the mentally ill in the Glastonbury area. The grant will be used for a variety of services, including counseling and crisis intervention.

South Windsor Queries Manchester Sewage Pact

MANCHESTER - Town Manager Robert Weiss received a handwritten letter Tuesday afternoon from M.A.P. Associates, developers of the Red Rock Country Club in the Deming and Slater street areas. Giles said that South Windsor will provide the sewers for the area they want severed, but each town will maintain that which it serves.

South Windsor Still Fighting Road Closing

SOUTH WINDSOR - Despite the fact that it was denied a temporary injunction to prevent Manchester from closing Burnham Street, South Windsor will seek a permanent injunction for the same purpose.

Town Attorney Richard Rittenband was instructed by the council in an executive session this week to proceed with the case.

Superior Court Judge Mary Aspell declined to issue the temporary injunction, holding that Manchester had a right to close the street because it had spent $2 million to build an "infinitely better" road to accommodate traffic that would be generated by the Buckland Industrial Park.

Manchester does not plan to close Burnham Street until the end of the month when intersection work is completed for a road through the park.

The decision to block off the road was made when Manchester officials discussed the development of the park with Burnham Street residents in Manchester, who felt the park traffic would choke the road.

South Windsor leaders, however, say that the closing will generate traffic on Clark Street and Pleasant Valley Road in town.

In a decision, Judge Aspell called that contention "highly speculative."

Town Get 20 Acres - As part of a six-lot subdivision on Hebron Avenue, Joseph Vittek has given the town a 20-acre parcel of land which would provide a natural link between the Manchester-Water company watershed and the Meshomish State Forest.

FBI Plans Charges In Burglary at CBT

MANCHESTER - The Federal Bureau of Investigation is seeking an indictment in San Francisco this morning against a California man in connection with a burglary at Connecticut Bank and Trust in Manchester early Tuesday, police said.

A cooperative effort among three law enforcement agencies led to the arrest of 20-year-old William W. Cline whose address was listed by police at 675 Main St., Apt. 32, Manchester. Detective Captain Joseph Brooks of the Manchester Police Department said Cline was arrested at 2 p.m. EST Tuesday in San Francisco, only six hours after the break-in was discovered.

Cline is being charged with theft of federally insured bank funds. Brooks said, which is a violation of federal statutes. Brooks said the accused is being held in San Francisco on a $10,000 surety bond and will probably be tried in that city.

Brooks said the accused is from California and apparently "does not want to return to Connecticut. He was only here for a short time."

More than $2,000 in cash was stolen from the 893 Main St. office, he said, and 85 percent of it has been recovered.

Brooks said the investigation was a cooperative effort between the Manchester Police Department, State Police Troop 1 and the Hartford office of the FBI.

"Without that cooperation," he said, "it would not have been such a quick arrest."

The local investigation was spearheaded by Detective Sergeant Orville Cleveland and Detective Robert Hennessy, who gathered information which aided in the arrest.

"They did an outstanding piece of (investigative) work," Brooks said. Brooks said the robbery occurred at 1 a.m. Tuesday and was discovered seven hours later by the Manchester force.

Custer - Boser Capture CIAC Class LL Net Title

Bringing home the doubles title in the CIAC Class LL Boys' Tennis Championship match last night was the Manchester High combination of Mike Custer and Chris Boser with a 6-4, 3-6, 7-5 victory over Hall High's Dave Baum-Jon Richman at the Hamden Racquet Club.

Custer and Boser now advance to the State Open which begins Friday at Wesleyan University in Middletown where they should be one of the top seeds. They were No. 6 seed in the Class LL field.

The first set was very even with only one break, in the ninth game, giving Boser-Custer the edge.

The Hall duo came back to even the match in the second set. Manchester held serve, lost three games, got a break and then held serve, but deuce and moved to add in twice, it moved back to deuce with a Custer hard shot unreturnable at the net giving his side the advantage.

Boser closed out play giving the Indian pair the championship, with a court count backhand shot that could not be reached. "It was an outright winner on return of serve," The Manchester pair had two match points at 5-4 on the Hall serve

Bringing home the doubles title in the CIAC Class LL Boys' Tennis Championship match last night was the Manchester High combination of Mike Custer and Chris Boser with a 6-4, 3-6, 7-5 victory over Hall High's Dave Baum-Jon Richman at the Hamden Racquet Club.

Custer and Boser now advance to the State Open which begins Friday at Wesleyan University in Middletown where they should be one of the top seeds. They were No. 6 seed in the Class LL field.

The first set was very even with only one break, in the ninth game, giving Boser-Custer the edge.

The Hall duo came back to even the match in the second set. Manchester held serve, lost three games, got a break and then held serve, but deuce and moved to add in twice, it moved back to deuce with a Custer hard shot unreturnable at the net giving his side the advantage.

Boser closed out play giving the Indian pair the championship, with a court count backhand shot that could not be reached. "It was an outright winner on return of serve," The Manchester pair had two match points at 5-4 on the Hall serve

Windsor Leads Catholic, 3-0, Play Suspended in Seventh

Will a new day bring new life for the East Catholic baseball team? Or is its present destination, elimination from the state tournament, still just seven outs away?

The Eagles will find themselves trailing, 3-0, in the seventh inning of Windsor's doubleheader with the University of Hartford. The Class LL Region III championship tilt yesterday was widely suspended by the umpires at Windsor's request.

Names in the News

Billy Martin

NEW YORK (UPI) - Former New York Yankee Manager Billy Martin told a national television audience Tuesday he expected to be handling the team again next year. Appearing on the Good Morning America (ABC) program, Martin said there was no doubt in his mind he would take over complete control of the team in 1980 as successor to present Yankee skipper Bob Lemon.

Martin met Monday with George Steinbrenner, the club's principal owner, and Martin said he was very pleased with the talks. Steinbrenner said he was a good meeting and only the first in a series of talks they planned to have about Martin's future with the team.

Nancy Lopez

CINCINNATI (UPI) - Golfer Nancy Lopez said Tuesday her husband, Harrisburg, Pa., sportscaster Tim Mellon, has been hired by a Cincinnati television station as a reporter.

Lopez, who will compete in the LPGA Championship in Mason, Ohio, this week, told the Cincinnati Post she will be locating in the Cincinnati area as a result of her husband's new job with WCPO-TV.

Rinaldo Nehemiah

NEW YORK (UPI) - Rinaldo Nehemiah, who set a world record for the 110-meter high hurdles, and Evelyn Ashford, who broke the American record for the 100-meter dash, were named Tuesday by The Track and Field Writers of America as athletes of the month for May.

Nehemiah, a 20-year-old sophomore at the University of Maryland, was honored for his world record of 13:00 seconds in the hurdles set at the UCLA invitational in Westwood, Calif., on May 8. Ashford, 22-year-old of California, set a record by running the dash in 11:07 at the Norman Manly Games on May 11.

Charles O. Finley

CHICAGO (UPI) - Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley was found innocent Tuesday of charges he punched a man in the face during a quarrel in a bar. Roger Seacrest, 38, owner of Seacrest & Associates, a Chicago advertising agency, accused Finley of punching him in the left cheek after Seacrest had asked if he could sit on a barstool near Finley.

After a 90-minute bench trial, Cook County Circuit Judge Raymond C. Sotini found Finley innocent of battery in the April 6 incident. Finley testified Seacrest used profanity in asking to use the stool and the language offended a young woman accompanying Finley. Finley said he told Seacrest to leave the bar.

Dave Winfield

NEW YORK (UPI) - Dave Winfield, who batted .500 for the week ending June 4, was named the National League Player of the Week. NL President Chub Feeney announced Tuesday.

The San Diego right fielder, who was 14-for-28, hit five home runs and drove in 13 runs, also scored eight runs and stole a base during the week.

Red Sox Continue Long Ball Hitting

BOSTON (UPI) — It wasn't one 18-inning game stretched out over two days — it just looked that way.

For the second straight night, the Boston Red Sox thrashed the Texas Rangers and with their 9-3 win Tuesday night crept back into first place in the American League East by 4 percentage points over the Baltimore Orioles.

The Red Sox bats struck early and often. They picked up where they left off after Monday night's 15-5 romp with seven runs in the first four innings. Not even a 1-49 rain delay could help the Rangers.

"Let's face it. They outplayed us, outpitched us and out-defensed us these two games. They were by far the superior team," said a candid Texas outfielder Al Oliver.

As for Texas, the only bright note was Johnny Grubbs, who extended his hitting streak to 18 games with three hits and one RBI. Rick Zisk and Oscar Gamble drove in the other Texas runs with singles.

Boston kayped Jon Matlack, 3-3, early in the second inning. Fred Lynn belted a two-run homer in the first and ageless Carl Yastrzemski singled in Carlton Fisk, whose routine fly to right was turned into a triple by Zisk.

"When one guy starts hitting, everyone seems to follow. It builds up everyone's confidence," Yastrzemski said.

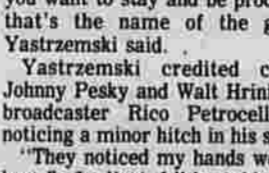

Following a run in the second, hit list, moving into 15th place with 995.

"I can't think about the goals. The name of this game is tomorrow. If you want to stay and be productive, that's the name of the game," Yastrzemski said.

Yastrzemski credited coaches Johnny Pesky and Walt Hriniak and pestered Rico Petrocelli with noticing a minor blemish in his stance.

They noticed my hands were too low. So I adjusted," he said.

Dennis Eckerley, who has pitched well lately without much support, cruised to his fifth win in nine decisions and his first victory since May 15. Eckerley fanned five and

Carlton No Talker After One-Hit Game

NEW YORK (UPI) — Philadelphia Phillies' lefthander Steve Carlton pitched his fourth career one-hitter Tuesday night and stopped the Houston Astros' seven-game winning streak, 8-0. But he remained true to his code of not talking to reporters and even refused to go on a post-game television show with Phillies' announcer Richie Ashburn.

He had a super hook (curveball). "Houston's Enzo Cabell said about Carlton's pitching. 'Practically all the pitches he threw were curves. When he got ahead he threw a nasty breaking ball which was sharper and bigger than the other hook.'"

Only rookie Jeff Leonard, who lined a sharp single to left field to start the seventh inning, managed to get a hit off Carlton.

The Phillies, in the throes of a terrible slump, snapped out of their batting doldrums with 17 hits in support of Carlton.

"Part of the reason for the Phillies' sudden output could have been a 15-minute closed door meeting Manager Danny Ozark held with the team after Monday night's loss to the Astros when they were held to six hits by rookie Randy Niemann."

"I told them I hoped they were embarrassed," said Ozark. "It seemed like we were getting intimidated by teams I don't think are as good as we are."

Orioles' Park Suits Hartzell

NEW YORK (UPI) — Paul Hartzell says he enjoys pitching in Baltimore, but the residents may not appreciate his feeling.

"I really enjoy playing in the park. I thumped Oakland, 12-3, and I think it's the finest park in the league," the left-hander said Tuesday night after pitching the Minnesota Twins to a 3-1 victory over the Orioles.

"That's the way he was pitching in spring training," said Manager Gene Mauch, referring to Hartzell's command.

Roy Smalley, the American League's leading hitter, rapped two hits and drove in two runs, helping Hartzell, 3-3, coast into the ninth with one out.

Mike Marshall made his 30th appearance and got the last two outs to record his 102nd save.

"I don't know what I'm doing different," said Smalley, who is now batting .364. "I've been asked the question about a thousand times, but there's no one answer I can give you."

In other games, Kansas City defeated the New York Yankees, 3-1. Boston bombed Texas, 9-3. California blanked Toronto, 3-0. Detroit trimmed Seattle, 3-1. Cleveland

Gura Worked Hard To Gain Rotation

NEW YORK (UPI) — Larry Gura is one of those people who never get anything the easy way.

"It was just garbage at the start of the season," says his Kansas City Royals' Manager, Whitey Herzog. "He just had nothing so I sent him to the bullpen. When I saw he had worked hard enough to become an effective pitcher again, I put him back in the rotation."

It seems everywhere Gura goes, hardship usually follows. His three-hit, 3-1 victory over the New York Yankees Tuesday night marked another comeback from the latest trauma. And a victory over your ex-teammates always feels nice.

"I had a little bit of everything tonight," said Gura, who helped the Royals gain a split of this two-game set with the Yanks. "I kept them off stride and that's the way to beat a team like this."

Gura, who posted a very quiet 16-4 record last season, is probably best known for Fred Patek and eventual 11th round pick Billy Martin with both were with New York. Martin labeled the left-hander as "gutless" and Gura retaliated by calling Martin a "delirium."

Amos Otis helped Gura and the Royals to a 1-0 lead in the first inning off Luis Tiant, 1-2, when he drew a two-out walk, stole second and scored on Darrell Porter's RBI single.

Kansas City added two more runs in the third as Pete LaCock and Hal McRae opened the inning with singles. Fred Patek then beat out a bunt and Tiant's throw to first on the play was wild, allowing LaCock to score. McRae went to third on the play and scored on U.L. Washington's sacrifice fly.

"That's the best I've seen Gura throw," said Yankee Manager Bob Lemon. "He was moving the ball around, keeping our hitters unsettled. I just wish we could have made it tougher on the guy."

He's had it tough enough, Bob.

Sullivan Selected By RSox in Draft

BOSTON (UPI) — Haywood Sullivan insists he had nothing to do with it.

His last words to his son, Marc, were "I don't even know where they have you rated, but I don't think there's much of a chance they'll take you."

The elder Sullivan, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, had selected the younger Sullivan in the organization Tuesday when the 20-year-old catcher was chosen by Boston in the second round of the baseball draft's first round.

"I had nothing to do with it," said Sullivan. "But I guess no one is going to believe that."

Kenney said.

Marc Sullivan will prepare for tryouts with the U.S. Pan American team next week and then hopes to sign a contract. He didn't anticipate any problems.

"Maybe I'll ask for $300,000," he joked. "But I'm sure they'll make me an offer I can't refuse."

The Red Sox also selected a Florida teammate of Sullivan's, outfielder James Watkins. They also selected Texas' catcher John Ackley of Carmel, N.Y.; outfielder Barry Seibert of Tucson, Ariz.; and shortstop Rick Thompson of Canton, Conn.

In the secondary, and less important phase, Boston chose Arizona State shortstop Martin Barrett.

Feather-Ruffling Ceases But Bird Still Unsigned

BOSTON (UPI) — The feather-ruffling has ceased, but the Boston Celtics still have yet to sign their best egg of the future — Larry Bird.

Bird's attorney, Bob Woolf, and Boston General Manager Red Auerbach met for 2 1/2 hours Tuesday in what was described by both sides as an amicable session at which progress was made.

The two sides have been close to an agreement for about a week, or ever since I presented them with some new proposals. With a contract like this, it's a little complex," Woolf said.

Boston owns Bird's rights until the June 25 draft. If he cannot sign him, he could trade his rights to another team prior to the draft.

"It was a very good meeting. A lot of progress was made," said Woolf. "I'm a heck of a lot more optimistic now than I was a while back."

Celtics' Assistant General Manager Jeff Cohen shared Woolf's assessment of the friendly atmosphere — but not the optimism.

"Progress was made and it was a nice, affable meeting. But I wouldn't say we're more optimistic than last week. We thought that would be last meeting and that the next one would be the signing. Maybe the next

1,000 Runners Expected For 10,000 Meter Event

More than 1,000 runners are expected to participate Sunday, in the first annual Acme Merit-Don, a 10,000-meter race benefiting the Jimmy Fund and children's cancer research.

The race will begin at noon at the Gaston Recreation Center, just off New London Turnpike. The 6.2-mile course will take runners through suburban streets to a finish line back at the recreation center.

Runners will compete in six classes — juniors, sub-master, masters, grand masters and wheelchair — for a host of trophies and prizes, including TV sets, cameras, and watches. Every participant will receive a free T-shirt.

The first runners are expected to cross the finish line at the recreation area at approximately 12:30 with all placing competitors expected to have finished by about 1:30. Veteran runners describe the course as "very competitive," with a "fast and furious" downhill stretch.

Gas Crisis Big Worry For Weekend Admirals

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boaters began their annual season of on-the-water recreation facing higher prices and reduced supplies of gasoline but uncertainty about whether the gas crisis will cause long lines and shortages at marina gas pumps.

A survey of the six New England states showed most of the businesses serving the weekend admirals were concerned about the crunch's effect on the season, which began Memorial Day.

But all were convinced boaters would find a way to ride the waves — even if they had to cut down on the length or distance of their cruises.

"The situation should be the same along the waterfront as it is at the gas pump," said Neil W. Ross of the University of Rhode Island Marine Advisory Service. "We will probably see people conserving on the water just as they do on land. The availability can also limit the distance for towing a boat."

"Even when there was gas rationing during World War II, people used their boats. They went out to Narragansett Bay and dropped anchor for the day. They didn't go far but still had their recreational escape," Ross said. "They will sacrifice in other areas to get the fuel to do their thing."

Gasoline prices at marina stations were reported about 15 cents a gallon higher this year than last and some dock pumps sales were already being limited before the season began.

John Poole, president of the Great Bay Marina in Newington, N.H., said his station's allocation was reduced to 55 percent in April and 90 percent in May.

"We are limiting our customers to 50 gallons per boat," he said.

"Right now I'm doing what everyone else is doing — sitting, waiting, hoping and trying to keep everyone happy. There is no question that this year there is a shortage. But I don't think the industry is going to segregate boating from the rest of transportation, so I think we will get gas," Poole said.

He said the shortage should deter boaters "no more than it will cut down drivers from driving on the highway. High prices have never stopped anything."

But Dennis Snow, a manager of Yacht Haven in Stamford, Conn., New England's largest marina, said the gas situation will certainly cut back on use this summer.

"The day of the three-day cruise will be gone," he said. Snow implemented "transient rationing," meaning his 800 berthed customers can fill their tanks but others can get only 50 gallons.

"Fifty gallons of fuel should get them back to their original port or another facility," he said.

Snow said Yacht Haven — which dipped to an 80 percent allocation for June — planned to keep its prices comparable to road prices because "we want people to use their boats."

Inland boaters from Cincinnati, Lake Champlain also faced reduced supplies. Yvonne Johnson, spokeswoman for Point Bay Marina in Charlotte, Vt., said her allocation was reduced 10 percent for the summer.

She said she doubted the marina will need ration because "it's a higher year than last and some dock pumps sales were already being limited before the season began."

Whalers Name Six In Dispersal Draft

In a player dispersal conducted by the four NHL 1979 expansion teams, Buffalo Bills guard Joe Delamieuere has won $9,000 by beating Steve Nelson of the National Football League Players Association Hockey Draft Open, 15-4 and 15-6.

Delamieuere said he plans to use the money to build a public recreation park in Buffalo, N.Y.

Patrick Dick Conn defeated Doug Kotar of the New Jersey Giants, 15-6 and 15-9, for third place.

The Patriots and the Bills tied for the team award with 14 points each in the three-day tournament, which ended Sunday. Players from the New York Jets also competed.

The Whalers then selected right winger Tony Cassolato (13 goals, 7 assists, 20 points) in the fourth round and 88-year-old left winger Paul Henderson (24 goals, 27 assists, 51 points) of Birmingham in the fifth round.

After passing in rounds six and seven, Hartford's final selection came in the eighth round in 29-year-old Al McLeod, a defenseman who played with Indianapolis last year until the Racers ceased operations in mid-December.

The Patriots and the Bills tied for the team award with 14 points each in the three-day tournament, which ended Sunday. Players from the New York Jets also competed.

McEnroe Looks for Results

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fresh off a plane from Paris and completely relaxed in an open-collared blue striped shirt, white duck slacks and blood-red sneakers, John McEnroe, international tennis' new 20-year-old Golden Boy, didn't look unduly worried over the gas shortage.

He had no reason to be. A chauffeured limousine was waiting for him downstairs and it would wait until he was good and ready. The limo was being provided by an advertising company.

Sixteen floors up in a midtown Manhattan building, John McEnroe sat still for all kinds of questions put to him by a group of newswomen, answering every one of the questions patiently and pleasantly although

State's Northeast Has a Lot to See

HARTFORD — When it comes to jogger's map of the campus available summer day trips, one of Connecticut's chief advantages is its compact size. Northeastern Connecticut, for example, offers a variety of natural and man-made attractions that you can enjoy — and get back home with half a tank of precious gas.

You can discover a historic old town, explore a college campus, visit an art gallery, climb a hill, devote a day to wild animals, linger over a meal in a country inn — all within 50 miles of Hartford.

Eastern Connecticut is green with parks and forests, each offering its own hiking challenges and scenic rewards. There are private schools in idyllic settings, old mill towns with solid homes and massive factory buildings, winding roads through leafy woods, and small but busy cities with first rate restaurants and overnight accommodations.

There's a story that it's always 10 degrees cooler in the hills of Eastern Connecticut (that wherever you came from), and on a hot summer weekend that a story well worth checking out.

For openers you might try Tolland. Take Interstate 84 east, and at Exit 99, about 20 miles east of Hartford, go north to the junction of Route 74 — Tolland Center, where the sign on the antique shop serves notice that you have found the "Best Place in the U.S.A."

Settled in 1713, Tolland Green offers several fine old buildings open to the public. One is the Old Jail Museum, behind the city's administration building. Poets notwithstanding, stone walls do make a prison, and the notion is reinforced by iron doors and bars on the window niches. Built in 1858, the jail now houses Indian artifacts found in the vicinity, and items of furniture, tools, and products of early local industries. The museum is open without charge Sundays from 1 to 4, May through October.

On the same side of the street is the Hick-Stearns Family Museum, an impressive Victorian mansion newly restored and open for tours May through October on Sundays and Wednesdays from 1 to 4, for a small charge.

A combination of periods and styles, the house was built in the mid-18th century. Nineteenth century improvements include enlarged windows, wrap-around porches, and best of all a Victorian corner tower that looks three stories high. Painstaking restoration inside manages to demonstrate the transition from early farmhouse and inn to latter-day manor house.

The Old Tolland Court House, across the green, is now the town's public library. Considered an architectural gem among early public buildings, it was built in 1822, and exemplifies the Federal style with its palladian windows and ornamental pediment.

Several miles south of the Green, on Metcalf Road, you can visit the Benton Homestead, one of Tolland's earliest houses (1720). Its history includes tales of ghosts, and the memory of Hessian soldiers incarcerated in its basement after they surrendered at the Battle of Saratoga. The house is open Saturday and Sunday 1 to 4 during July and August.

After seeing Tolland, you can return to Route 196 and proceed south a few miles to the University of Connecticut's main campus at Storrs. Stop at the Information Center for a map and parking instructions, and let your own interests guide you through the world of academe. The Centennial Gardens, the School of Agriculture farms, Jorgensen Auditorium, and the Nutmeg Summer Theater are among the possibilities. There's a new

Paintings Displayed

HARTFORD — Margo Pelletier has an exhibit of oil paintings at Connecticut Public Television's Gallery 24 through July 13.

Included in the show is a painting entitled "Watkinson School Window," a fine example of Ms. Pelletier's use of the "inherent" structuring properties of the window to order her subject matter and her inclusion of the many light changes that occur over time all on one canvas.

Ms. Pelletier has studied at the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts and Hartford Art School. In 1977 she received a grant from the Connecticut Commission on the Arts. She has been a guest lecturer at the Hartford Art School and has participated in the several group exhibitions. CPTV's Gallery 24, located at 24 Summit Street, Hartford, is open to the public at no charge weekdays from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m.

Watch Fob Show

TOLLAND — The International Watch Fob Association Inc. will sponsor a watch fob show Sunday at the Moose Club on Kingsbury Avenue in Tolland from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Historic Photographs

MYSTIC — Historic photographs from the Mystic Seaport Museum collection are now available in the Seaport Store's Book and Print Shop.

Many of the historic photographs, printed in black and white or sepia, have been made from the original glass plate negatives, said Ms. Mary Lou Delaporta, manager of the Print Shop.

Mystic Seaport Museum Store is located next to the museum's South Gate on Rt. 27, one mile south of Interstate 84 off Exit 19.

This year's show is supported in part by grants from the Mobil Oil Foundation and the Connecticut Commission on the Arts.

More Gallery Talks

HARTFORD — Due to the strong response from museum visitors, the Wadsworth Atheneum will extend its series of gallery talks on the current exhibition, "Visions of the Sea 1550-1971" through June.

MMH Lab Performs Thousands of Tests

MANCHESTER — One of the departments of Manchester Memorial Hospital least known to patients and the public alike is the clinical laboratory, where almost 20,000 examinations are performed each month.

Using equipment ranging from a tiny piece of litmus paper to determine the level of acidity of a sample to a multi-channel autoanalyzer worth $108,000, and capable of performing 180 tests each hour, the staff of 70 is on duty around the clock every day of the year to ensure that the needs of the hospital's patients are being met.

Among the more familiar tests are the CBC, or complete blood count, which may detect anemia, leukemia, or other blood abnormalities; fasting blood sugar or two-hour glucose tests, used primarily to uncover diabetes; the BUN, or blood urea nitrogen test, for possible kidney damage; and uric acid tests for early stages of gout or arthritis.

To accomplish these, and many other tests, Manchester Memorial has assembled a skilled team of pathologists, medical technologists, clinical chemists, microbiologists, hematologists, cytotechnologists, and phlebotomists.

Waitress' Woe: A Choosy Eater Scales Her Tips

DEAR ABBY: I'm a waitress with a complaint I'll bet you've never heard before. Some customers tip according to how they like the food. Yesterday I had a really bad day. Our regular chef was off, and we had a substitute. I served dinner to a quiet, middle-aged couple and when they left, the man said, "I'm only tipping you a dollar because the food was lousy."

I said, "But the service was OK, wasn't it?" And he said, "Yes, the service was okay, but the food was lousy," and with that they walked out.

Abby, please tell people that the waitress has to serve whatever she picks up in the kitchen. And it's not just as much effort to serve a lousy meal as it is to do to serve a good one. Thank you. You can sign this, either "Various Vets" or "Fishes Arise." I've got this in...

VERNON — People's Savings Bank will sponsor a photography contest, open to the general public, during the months of June and July, according to bank president Frederick S. Winkley.
 To enter, photographs must be registered at one of the three branches of People's Savings Bank on or before Friday, June 22. Entry blanks and rules and regulations can be obtained at the following People's Savings Bank branches during hours specified: Tri-City Plaza/Vernon Circle, 98 E. Main St., Rockville; 501 Talcottville Road, Vernon. Hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday to Thursday and 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Friday.
 The theme of the contest is people helping people because that has been a continuing theme of ours here at People's Savings Bank," notes Winkley. "However, we don't want the subject matter of the contest to be too restrictive, so we are also allowing photographs of places and things to be submitted as well."
 "We're excited about doing what we believe is something unique in Connecticut. While there have been photography contests run in the state, to our knowledge, this is the first time one will have been sponsored by a financial institution. It's certainly the first time one has originated from the tri-town area," Winkley said.
 The contest is open to all non-professional photographers. Participants do not have to be customers of the bank in order to be eligible. Prizes include a Nikon camera and savings bonds.
 Photographs may be color or black and white. An entry limit of three is requested. Photographs may enter any size from 4 inches by 5 inches up to 16 inches by 20 inches. Photographs should be mounted or matted. Frames or glass cannot be accepted.
 Judging will be done by Ellery Kingdon, formerly chief photographer with The Hartford Times; Lee Giguere, associate editor, Journal Inquirer; and Joe Sateris, photographer, Tri-Town Reporter.
 For more information, contact Frank Jaworski at 375-0338.

 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
 4 thin slices pumpernickel bread
 12 slices boiled ham
 8 pineapple slices, well drained
 Parsley sprigs, if desired

Meanwhile, combine butter and mustard; beat until well blended. Spread one side of bread with butter mixture. Place bread end to end forming a long row. Fold ham slices in half. Overlap slices on top of bread. Arrange pineapple slices on top of ham. Spoon cottage cheese mixture over pineapple. Garnish with parsley sprigs. Cut into 6 pieces and serve immediately.

TUNA OPEN FACERS
 6 servings
 24 thin cucumber slices
 1 can (13 oz.) tuna, drained and flaked

Hollow out cake leaving a substantial 1-inch base at bottom. Place cake in freezer for about 1 hour (this will keep cake from being crushed when filling with ice cream). Spoon ice cream into cavity of cake, packing carefully. Replace top of cake; press down gently. Wrap; place in freezer several hours to allow ice cream to become firm. To serve, whip cream until soft peaks form. Add sugar; continue beating until stiff. Frost sides and top of cake with whipped cream; sprinkle almonds over top of cake. Return to freezer until 15 to 20 minutes before serving. Garnish top with fresh whole strawberries. Slice and serve.

VA News

If you're a veteran planning to enroll in or return to school under the GI Bill, the Veterans Administration has a useful check list to help keep those VA education benefits coming regularly:

- Double check your choice of courses to be certain they will count toward your educational objective.
- Register early, VA and your school need time to process your registration so that GI Bill checks can be started your way promptly.
- Avoid dropping classes after registration.
- File for your GI Bill benefits as early as possible.
- If you have to interrupt your education, notify VA promptly and advise the date you expect to return to classes.
- If you change addresses, notify VA promptly. Of course, you'll want to notify the school and the post-office, also.
- Submit transcripts to the college admissions and records office immediately after application is made. This will speed up the school's certification to the Veterans Administration.
- If you have any questions about the GI Bill or eligibility for it, contact the nearest VA regional office, or a service officer from one of the national veterans organizations.
