Energy Plans

BOSTON (UPI) — The New England Energy Congress today criticized President Carter's energy program and said it will introduce legislation aimed at reducing the region's dependence on foreign oil and increasing the use of alternative power sources.

Price Boost

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Iraq is breaking the OPEC price front by boosting its crude oil prices to the level of Libya's, a move that could send Persian Gulf oil prices to around $20 a barrel, an authoritative Middle East weekly said today.

The Middle East Economic Survey said Iraq has notified its crude oil customers that a "most-favored seller" clause is to be included in contracts effective June 1.

This, MES reported, will mean Iraq will get "the highest premium charged by any other OPEC producer" over and above base prices for crude oil supplied under Iraq's contracts.

OPEC prices for crude oil are over $14 a barrel, depending on the quality and sulfur content of the oil.

Leaders Clash

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — Egyptian and Israeli leaders clashed publicly today over the status of the Gaza Strip and the West Bank of the Jordan, but relaxed into smiles and shook hands after the first business session of negotiations on Palestinian autonomy.

They also chided each other about public statements which they said were not conducive to progress in the talks.

In Jerusalem, Israel today rejected U.S. and Egyptian criticism of its settlement drive in occupied territory and the State-run radio hinted its negotiators could walk out of the Alexandria autonomy talks if attacks on Prime Minister Menachem Begin continue.

The clash broke out shortly after Egyptian and Israeli negotiators, shepherded by the United States, met in Alexandria to begin a search for common ground to establish Palestinian autonomy in the Israeli-occupied Jordan West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Heavy Fighting

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Managua was ablaze with tracer bullets and fires during a weekend of heavy fighting between government troops and Sandinista rebels waging a "final offensive" to oust Nicaragua's President Anastasio Somoza.

It was the first outbreak of guerrilla war in the capital in more than a year. The rebels' 14-day offensive has also captured interior cities, villages, hamlets and strategic hilltops along the southern border with Costa Rica.

Uprisings in two major guerrilla strongholds in the south and nearby Masaya were crushed by Somoza's forces over the weekend. Leon, the country's second largest city, is still held by the guerrillas. Heavy fighting also raged in Matagalpa, a key northern city captured by the guerrillas two weeks ago.

In Washington, the state department said it was considering the evacuation of Americans in the capital. But U.S. Embassy officials in Managua said they had received no orders to move out U.S. citizens.

Housing Grant in Doubt

CD Funds from CRCOG Studied by Attorneys

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — It appears the town may not receive an $86,500 grant for housing for the elderly on Spencer Street.

This, and other Community Development-related questions, including the transfer of funds for the purchase of a fire engine, are being studied by the town attorney's office.

The $86,500 is Community Development money distributed by the Capitol Region Council of Governments.

The $86,500 is separate from the Community Development Block Grant program, from which town residents voted to withdraw.

Dana Hansen, executive director of CRCOG, wrote to town officials and said receiving the funds would require the town to meet the same obligations it was required to meet under the block grant program guidelines.

Some of those obligations were part of the reason town voters decided to withdraw from the program for two years.

Hansen said the final decision on whether or not the grant can be given to Manchester will be made by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, which oversees the Community Development program. But, he feels a problem exists because of the withdrawal.

Officials from the HUD office in Hartford could not be contacted this morning for comment.

If the town does have to meet the same requirements to receive the $86,500, the money probably will not come to town because of the voters' opposition.

This means other funding would have to be found for the planned 40 units of housing for the elderly on Spencer Street. Even with that grant, there still might be a need for additional funding from the town to complete the project.

Thus, denial of the grant from CRCOG could lead to a shortfall of more than $100,000, which the town probably would have to fund or else drop the project.

William Shea, assistant town attorney, is studying whether the town can accept the $86,500 grant if it is released to the town. The April 17 vote to withdraw from the Community Development program may prevent the town from accepting any such funding. The decision to withdraw has been challenged in court and that case still is pending.

Shea also is studying a switch in Community Development funding that provided funds to purchase a fire truck. The funding originally had been slated for use for a dental clinic.

This question arose because the ordinance lists Jan. 1, 1979 as the starting date of the withdrawal even though present fourth-year funding does not expire until the end of this month.

The switch for purchase of the fire truck occurred after Jan. 1.

Shea also is looking at how that withdrawal might affect the eventual use of unused fourth-year funds.

Carter Eyes Reports For Summit Session

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Carter today was studying intelligence reports in preparation for his meeting next weekend with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, which he hopes will produce regularly scheduled U.S.-Russian summits.

A White House spokesman said Carter "combined work and relaxation" during his four-day stay at Camp David. The president returns late today to Washington and leaves Thursday for the summit meeting, at which the new SALT II arms limitation agreement will be signed in Vienna, Austria.

The president also hopes to make progress toward an agreement to ban killer satellites in space.

Officials Sunday downplayed the likelihood of any major breakthroughs at the summit which begins Friday, the first such conference in four years, but Carter hopes to make headway in several areas of U.S. Soviet interest including European troop strengths.

The agenda, which was worked out between national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, will include a discussion of arms control, various world issues and bilateral matters.

Under arms control, the leaders will discuss limiting the use of anti-satellite weaponry. Initially the United States had hoped to reach a separate pact on the subject at this summit, but negotiations apparently proved too complex.

Both sides expect to continue discussing the killer satellites in hope of current stalemate might be broken by the two leaders. Administration officials say they are "cautiously optimistic" both sides can agree to meet on a regular basis in the future.

The United States proposed the idea, but the Soviets initially were hesitant to enter such a commitment.

Carter has felt it was important for the leaders of the two superpowers to talk regularly, and was described as disappointed it has taken him so long to get together with Brezhnev.

One possible cause for delaying the summit has been Brezhnev's health. Carter has been studying extensive intelligence reports on the Soviet official, compiled by doctors for the U.S. intelligence community.

The issue of health was a major factor in arranging the meeting in a neutral country closer to Moscow and in limiting the length of the daily sessions to no more than two hours at a time.

Both sides hope the meeting will give renewed impetus to talks on cutting troop levels in central Europe, something bogged down in a dispute over the size of communist manpower now deployed.

The United States and its NATO allies insist troops in Czechoslovakia, Poland and East Germany exceed acknowledged levels by at least 150,000.

The global matters include the Middle East and Africa, with the United States seeking Russian restraint. The Soviet Union is expected to put China at the top of its lists.

The bilateral relations would include a U.S. extension of better trade benefits to the Soviets and expanded communications between the two nations.

Shah Settles In At Mexican Home

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The deposed shah of Iran, his wife, a son and two dogs today spent their first day in Mexico behind the walls of a banker's mansion in Cuernavaca, a summer retreat for the wealthy since the time of the Aztecs.

It was the fourth nation Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi has visited since leaving turbulent Iran Jan. 19. His arrival in Mexico city caught members of Iran's embassy in Mexico City by surprise.

Sporting a light-colored suit and appearing happy though thin, the shah said upon his arrival from Nassau at Mexico City's International Airport he planned to spend "a few months" in Mexico.

"We have had such pleasant memories of our visits to Mexico," he said, referring to his last visit in May 1975. "We enjoyed so much your beautiful scenery and your hospitality."

The shah, Empress Farah, an 18-year-old son and six other people were immediately whisked off in four dark limousines to the wealthy resort town of Cuernavaca, 50 miles south of Mexico City.

Police sources here confirmed the shah and his party were staying at the white, Spanish colonial-style mansion of Manuel Espinoza Iglesias.

Crews Hunt Leak in Alaska Pipeline

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Crews dug up pipe in Alaska's rugged Brooks Range today in search of a leak that closed the $9 billion Trans-Alaska pipe line and sent crude oil oozing through a snow-covered mountain pass and into the Atigun River.

The accident deprives oil companies of more than 1.2 million barrels of precious "black gold" the pipeline has been delivering daily to tankers at the southern Alaska port of Valdez.

An undetermined amount of oil leaked from the buried pipe at barren Atigun Pass, about 165 miles south of the Prudhoe Bay oil fields, and was carried by a small stream into the Atigun River, Alaska Pipeline Services said.

Sam Akin, spokesman for Alaska, said a 50-man crew was working to find the break in the pipe and clean up the spill. The river current took oil about four miles downstream before it was contained with booms, he said.

Akin said the quantity of spilled oil was "not sizeable" as far as the firm could tell. "But we don't have an estimate on how much oil escaped, because it escaped underground and then surfaced," he said. "We don't know how much is still underground."

Atigun Pass, at 4,500 feet, is the highest point on the 800-mile pipeline and the pipe is buried from five to seven feet underground there he said.

The leaking oil was spotted Sunday by a pilot flying over the pass, who then landed at the pipeline Pump Station No. 4 to notify officials. The entire system was shut down immediately, Akin said.

He said until the firm learned the extent of the damage to the pipe it could not predict how long the shutdown would last or what effect it might have on American's oil shortage.

Whether the environmental damage is significant "depends on where the oil went," Akin said.

It was the fourth time service has been interrupted by accidents since the pipe line began operating nearly two years ago. The pipeline last shutdown was for 24 hours in February 1978 when a saboteur's bomb blew a two-inch hole in the pipe. Authorities arrested no suspects in that case.

The most serious shutdown was caused by a July 8, 1977, explosion at Pump Station No. 8 near Fairbanks that killed one worker and injured several others.

Cassano Seeks Commuter Lot

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Despite little response to a recent questionnaire about a commuter parking lot in the southwest section of town, a member of the Town Board of Directors still feels the lot is needed.

In fact, Democratic Director Stephen Cassano predicted today the lot will be in operation when the first commuter bus leaves from a new lot expected to open in Bolton in September.

"When that first bus comes down from Bolton, we'll have it in there," he said.

The lot is planned for state-owned property near the Spencer Street exit ramp of the Interstate 94 connector.

Buses from the Bolton lot near the Bolton-Manchester town line would run right down the connector and past the state-owned property.

Cassano feels the location is a natural one for a commuter lot and would service residents in the southern section of town.

There presently is one commuter lot in Manchester. That is the Burr Corners lot, one of the busiest in the state, and it is in the northernmost section of town, a long trip for residents in the South End.

A "coupon campaign" was held recently to see how many residents would use the proposed lot in the southwest section. The response to that campaign was poor, Cassano said.

He attributes this to the fact that many persons have filled out similar coupons in the past. They either have been disappointed with lack of response or felt the previous coupons still would be considered in the most recent survey.

Cassano feels the southwest lot is needed and would be used.

He said a Manchester resident, Joseph Camposso, has been doing work to see what the interest might be at his office — the Travelers Insurance Co., a large employer in Hartford.

Camposso said he plans to have a similar coupon advertisement in the company newsletter. He thinks there is an interest among fellow employees to use such a service.

Camposso, for instance, said he would use a bus. But he lives on Charter Oak Street and it is a six-mile drive to the Burr Corners lot. "I feel strongly about getting something implemented," he said of the southwest lot.

Cassano said the state is interested in developing the lot, but a need for it must be shown. He expects survey work to see how much interest there is will be done at other large employers in Hartford.

Cold Front Brings Rain

A cold front brought rain to the Midwest today, and thundershowers and rain showers were scattered throughout the East.

The cold front, stretching from the lower Great Lakes region to the Mississippi Delta, produced rain and thundershowers. Showers were scattered across the northwestern Gulf of Mexico, through the Atlantic Coast states and into New England.

The cold front also brought thundershowers through the Appalachians. Thundershowers and damaging winds pounded Michigan and Ohio Sunday night.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Monday, June 11, the 152nd day of 1979 with 203 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Gemini.

German composer Richard Strauss was born June 11, 1864.

On this day in history:

In 1920, Ohio Sen. Warren Harding was chosen as the "dark horse" Republican candidate for president. He won in November, defeating James Cox, to become the nation's 29th president.

In 1877, Charles Lindbergh was welcomed home by President Calvin Coolidge after making history's first non-stop flight across the Atlantic Ocean to Paris.

In 1963, federalized National Guard troops stood by as Gov. George Wallace permitted two Negroes to enroll at the University of Alabama.

In 1969, labor leader John L. Lewis, president emeritus of the United Mine Workers Union, died at the age of 82.

A thought for the day: In 1916, Republican Warren G. Harding made a statement paraphrased later by President John F. Kennedy. "... We must have a citizenship less concerned about what the government can do for it and more anxious about what it can do for the nation."

No Brush with Law For Waylon's Term

Country singer Waylon Jennings admits he's had a few brushes with the law in his day, but that wasn't why he was in the Shawnee County Jail on Topeka, Kansas, this weekend.

Jennings was helping launch local promotion and sell tickets for an all-inmate rodeo in the Shawnee County Jail, later this month.

"I was in a few scraps as a kid, and I know if you just take one step in the wrong direction it's hard to get back on the right track," Jennings said. "I know that I had a lot of help myself, and I appreciated it."

The star posed for a mug shot in the jail's booking area before signing autographs. He also was made an honorary member of the Kansas Sheriff's Association.

Diabetic Children Sang 'High Hopes'

Diabetic children sang "High Hopes" to Frank Sinatra, who appeared at the second annual Carousel Ball in Denver to raise funds for research on the disease.

The star posed for a mug shot in the jail's booking area before signing autographs. He also was made an honorary member of the Kansas Sheriff's Association.

Haste Brings Capture

A gasoline thief made off with free fillups several times from Harold Burgett's service station in Oklahoma City, but in his haste he may have led to his own capture.

Burgett called police when the gasoline bandit struck the latest time during the weekend. He didn't expect police to catch the man who filled his tank, dropped the hose and drove away without paying as he'd done so many times before.

But by the time police arrived, Burgett knew the thief couldn't be too far away. He was able to direct officers to a stalled car a few blocks from the station where a suspect was arrested.

The suspect had accidentally put $12.70 worth of diesel fuel into his gasoline-filled tank.

Resting Comfortably

Octogenarian Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops orchestra, was reported resting comfortably at Tufts-New England Medical Center after suffering a "mild heart attack" during the weekend.

Hospital officials last Sunday night described the 84-year-old Fiedler's condition as stable, adding the maestro had "settled in for the night" in the medical center's cardiac care unit.

"He has had a mild heart attack and is expected to remain in the hospital for several weeks," said Henry Wilson, hospital public relations director.

The veteran conductor, who celebrated his 50th anniversary this spring as head of the Boston Pops, was rushed to the medical center at 7:30 p.m. Saturday from his suburban Brookline home after "complaining of prolonged chest pains."

Hazardous Profession

Sunday was a rough day for the New Orleans Fire Department, even without a fire. Three firemen were injured playing softball at Audubon Park in a fund-raising event for muscular dystrophy.

Chief Eddie O'Brien and Chief Merrill Miller collided while chasing a fly ball. Both were hospitalized, O'Brien with cuts and a broken cheekbone and Miller with six stitches in the forehead and a strained chest muscle.

Fireman August "Jimmy" Heigy broke his ankle when he slipped while running bases.

"When these old men get to playing around, that's what happens," joked Chief Roy Songy. "It was all in fun, you know. Just a bunch of damn fools. You're not careful at a fire, or you try to be. But then there's something like this, you just let loose."

South Windsor Informed Manchester Will Comply

MANCHESTER — As far as the town is concerned, it has had an agreement that has each town problem fulfilling a sewer agreement with the Town of South Windsor. Manchester officials, however, want to ensure that the agreement is clear to both South Windsor and the Eight Utilities District.

A letter is being sent to South Windsor officials to confirm Manchester's stand that it plans to meet all the requirements of the agreement, William Shea, assistant town attorney, said.

Shea also said Jay Giles, director of public works, wants to meet with officials of the Eight District to explain what areas are affected by the agreement.

Manchester and South Windsor have had an agreement that has each town problem fulfilling a sewer agreement with the Town of South Windsor. Manchester officials, however, want to ensure that the agreement is clear to both South Windsor and the Eight Utilities District.

According to this agreement, South Windsor would accept sewage from the Buckland Industrial Park in Manchester.

At tonight's meeting of the South Windsor Town Council, however, the council may consider a proposal not to accept the sewage or a $140,000 payment from Manchester for the sewage connection.

Some members in South Windsor have expressed concern because part of the area affected by the agreement is under the control of the Eight District.

Manchester officials, however, have indicated they expect no problem with complying with the agreement.

Giles wants to meet with district officials to outline all the areas involved in the agreement, Shea said.

"We can comply, and we expect them (South Windsor) to," he said.

A letter will be sent to South Windsor to assure them that Manchester can meet all its obligations outlined in the agreement.

"It's just to tell South Windsor we'll comply with the agreement. There's no reason we can't," Shea said.

Civil Defense Officials Get Ready for Skylab

HARTFORD — (UPI) — Connecticut residents may as well sit back with a gin and tonic when Skylab falls this summer and remember the 600-billion-to-1 odds that it won't hit them, says a state civil defense official.

"There's really nothing you can do," says Daniel Dient, radiological defense officer with the Office of Civil Preparedness. "By the time they can say where the footprint is going to fall, you won't have enough reaction time."

The "footprint" is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's word for the spot where the 77-ton laboratory will crash. The closest final estimate will be spread over a 4,000-mile-wide, 100-mile-long range, Dient said.

The "window," which is the approximate time when Skylab will slip from its orbital path and drop to Earth, has been estimated by the North American Air Defense Command to be sometime between July 4 and July 28.

"There will only be an hour or two before the point of re-entry is known," Dient said. "I guess you could get in your car and drive 50 miles away if you're in the center, but I don't think that's recommended."

He said appropriate agencies will be alerted if any of the estimated 400 to 500 Skylab pieces drop in Connecticut. Two of the chunks expected to survive the atmospheric friction during re-entry will weigh several thousand pounds each.

The biggest pieces that probably will make it through the descent are part of the "airlock shroud," which is made out of titanium and encases Skylab's door, Dient said.

He said some calls have been coming in about Skylab, but they're mostly for statistical information. He said no one who has called has been genuinely worried a piece of Skylab will drop in their backyard.

First Selectman Henry Ryba will ask the company to take $60 of the bill. If the company doesn't, Ryba will request a $60 supplemental appropriation from the Board of Finance.

A photocopy will be purchased with budgeted money.

At a June 19 meeting, the selectmen will discuss a confidential report of the proposed safety complex prepared by Douglas Cheney, Public Building Commission chairman.

Area Police Report

James E. Speights, 22, of 23 Grove St., Rockville, was charged Saturday with first-degree sexual assault in connection with the investigation of an alleged assault on an adult male.

He was released on a $1,000 nonreturnable bond for appearance in court in Rockville on June 19.

Peter Minor, 27, of 9 Reservoir Road, Vernon, was charged Saturday with disorderly conduct in connection with the investigation of a disturbance at his home.

He was released on his promise to appear in court on June 19.

Louis A. Berton, 17, of 82 Oakland St., Manchester, was charged Sunday with third-degree larceny in connection with the alleged theft of a bicycle. He was released on his promise to appear in court on June 19.

Wilmot C. Smith Jr., 18, of 21 Sunset Terrace, Vernon, was charged Sunday with carrying a dangerous weapon (knife). Police said he was apprehended in the park in the center of Rockville on June 19.

South Windsor Police are investigating the report of the theft of a pocketbook, 437 N. Main St., Manchester, was charged Saturday with disorderly conduct following the investigation $270.

High Bids Bar Sale

BOLTON — Bids for the four wheel drive pick-up truck with snow plow came in higher than the amount the town budgeted. The vehicle will not be purchased at this time because of the high bids.

The four bids from area dealers ranged from $10,073 to $10,785. The contract for a compressor was awarded to Meter and Tank Equipment Co. for $2,010. It was $60 over the budgeted amount.

First Selectman Henry Ryba will ask the company to take $60 of the bill. If the company doesn't, Ryba will request a $60 supplemental appropriation from the Board of Finance.

A photocopy will be purchased with budgeted money.

At a June 19 meeting, the selectmen will discuss a confidential report of the proposed safety complex prepared by Douglas Cheney, Public Building Commission chairman.

The agenda for the first meeting is:

MACC Grand Opening Planned For Drop-In Center

By BARBARA BAKER

MACC Special Ministries Division Whose Revue? About two months we had an offer from Carry Nation's owner, Mr. Dean Rossow, to use his safe during the day for a neighborhood drop-in center in the downtown area. We thought it was an exciting idea.

There is not, it seemed to us, sufficient opportunity for people who have time, to meet, to talk, to get to know one another, to find community, we are, after all, a gregarious species. We accepted Mr. Rossow's generous offer, arranged hours to be open Monday through Friday preparation for the regular evening commerce.

And, of course, you wonder whether you've provided a solution where there is no problem. Perhaps no one really needs such a place? Well, that's certainly a possibility but somehow we doubt it. All right, how do we get started? We plan an open house for tomorrow, June 12. We've invited people, all kinds of people, just to stop by and say hello.

By the way after the last column about Carry Nation's Revue (we're still calling our drop-in center that, but we've begun to wonder about the revenge part), some people told us they thought the center was for youth. Not so. Quite the contrary, the center is for adults. The absence of alcohol is not an exciting idea.

Job, Security Important To Most College Students

STORRS (UPI) - Today's college students are more interested in the security of a well-paying job than going to school for a good time, says the University of Connecticut's top placement official. "The big difference I see is that students themselves are more oriented to seeking a career," Douglas Daring, UConn's director of placement and career planning, said Sunday.

New Program Scheduled For Training Center

MANCHESTER — The Regional Occupational Training Center, starting in September, will be working with the Hartford-Sheraton Hotel to provide a different type of training for its students in the areas of housekeeping, maintenance, laundry and dietary, including banquets and catering. The new project was only in the planning stage Thursday night, when Norman Fendell announced it to the standing-room-only crowd at the center's third graduation ceremonies.

Friday, Fendell met with the assistant manager of the hotel and

Rec's Track Needs Work

MANCHESTER — After years of pounding by runners, the track at the East Side Rec has deteriorated and needs to be repaired.

The Town Board of Directors has been asked to provide money to repair the track, which is above a basketball court enclosure.

The repair cost has been estimated at $4,800. The Board of Education would strip the old covering off and repair the underlay. The town then would install a new hardwood surface.

The track, which is 90 yards long, has had the same covering for more than 25 years. The track has deteriorated and holes have developed.

Town officials feel the track is unsafe and should be repaired. It still does get heavy use in the winter.

The Recreation Department also is requesting that the board consider hiring a recreational aide who would organize programs for handicapped persons.

The proposal suggests the town hire a Comprehensive Employment and Training Act employee for the job.

Gaming Chairman Named

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella Grasso has asked insurance executive Herbert Shoen to act as chairman of the state's new five-member Gaming Policy Board, which replaces the present gaming commission July 1, sources say.

The governor asked Shoen, a Republican, to head the five-member panel on an "informal" basis because the law mandating the new gaming structure makes no mention of a chairman, the sources said.

Schoen, 65, agreed when asked by Mrs. Grasso last week to assume the role of chairman and will call the board's first organizational meeting, sources said. He is expected to retire soon as board chairman of the Hartford Insurance Group.

Mrs. Grasso asked him to serve as chairman of the gaming board because of his legal background and his experience in corporate management, sources said. His term expires July 1, 1983.

The board will be an advisory arm to executive director John Devine, the former Connecticut FBI director, who will help set up the program, which will visit the center next week, he said.

The hotel, which has its own way of doing such things as making a bed and cleaning a room, will supply training films and other needed materials for the course. Mrs. Shirley Wirtz, instructor of the center's independent living program, will be on a training basis under the monitoring of ROTC. Those who do well will be taken on as staff members of the hotel, she said.

Fendell, who is very proud of the progress the center has made since its inception, said this latest project was just "icing on the cake."

For Trip to Ireland

Father Francis Krukowski, left, co-pastor of St. James Church, presents gift from parishioners and friends to the Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Reardon at a Sunday reception in the school cafeteria. Msgr. Reardon, who is 75 years old today, officially retires after 48 years in the priesthood. The gift comes in handy, says Father Krukowski. It's a piece of luggage which Msgr. Reardon can use for his trip to Ireland later this summer. (Herald photo by Adamson)

VERNON — Ted Wagner, golf pro and golf coach at Rockville High School, will teach golf classes sponsored by the Indian Valley YMCA this summer at Torza's Golf Center, Route 88, Ellington.

The course will consist of six sessions and will include proper use of woods and irons. The classes will start June 27. Registrations will be accepted at the YMCA office at Vernon Circle.

Selectmen To Meet On Waste Proposal

BOLTON — The Board of Selectmen will conduct a special meeting tonight at 7:30 in Community Hall to set up a committee to study the feasibility of joining the regional solid waste energy recovery facility in Windham.

As acting first selectman, Aloysius Ahearn set up the committee and make appointments to it at our last meeting. We should have, but we didn't. He said the town shouldn't hesitate beyond looking at the ramifications and costs of the project and added, "I think everyone on the board is in favor of joining."

Following the special meeting the selectmen will meet with the Board of Education to review the future plans of both boards.

Outdoor Education

SOUTH WINDSOR — The Recreation Department and Youth Service Bureau will sponsor a presentation by the Connecticut Mountain Recreation Department to introduce citizens to the outdoor education program being set up by the two departments.

The program will include hiking, camping, rock climbing, and cross-country skiing. Included will be a slide presentation and equipment demonstration, as well as discussion of each activity.

The program is scheduled for Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Wapping Community Center.

Ahearn Labels Session 'Productive Five Months'

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

BOLTON — The 1979 legislative session ended Wednesday without the usual frantic last-minute things to do and Aloysius J. Ahearn, state representative for the 55th District termed the session a "productive five months."

He cited the passing of the School Equalization Bill as one of the highlights of the session noting, "It revolutionizes school financing by increasing state aid and reducing dependency on the local property tax. Every town in the 55th District benefits from this legislation," he said.

Ahearn, after the session ended, outlined some of the bills which he personally introduced and which have become law.

One of these was "An Act Concerning Assaults on Public School Teachers." Ahearn is a teacher in East Hartford's school system but lives in Bolton.

He said this bill requires a principal to report to the police all cases of assaults on teachers and other school personnel. It also prevents an administrator from interfering with a teacher's right to file a complaint and it requires reporting the number of verbal threats and assaults to the state Board of Education.

Ahearn said the bill is a major step toward preventing the cover-up of violence and crimes that occur within the schools. "I am very concerned with the deterioration of discipline in our public schools and I plan to continue to work hard to reverse this trend," he said.

Another bill he introduced starts the ball rolling for the possible rebuilding of the Manchester-Willimantic railroad line.

Ahearn said that $150,000 was voted to develop a feasibility study, "the first step toward rebuilding this line which will provide a much needed transportation link in Eastern Connecticut."

Of those polled, 59 percent were in favor of banning the use of the spray-neuter clinic in the United States opened in this state on April 2. He said this was a culmination of four years of work on a bill he first submitted in 1975.

He said the beauty of that legislation is that the $73,000 needed for the clinic didn't cost the state one cent but was raised by many animal welfare lovers who stood on street corners seeking donations.

This session also revised the dog laws making it illegal for a farmer to kill a stray dog he suspects of bothering his stock. The farmer must now actually observe the dog pursuing his stock, a person bitten by a dog must be notified of the eventual action taken against the dog, impounded dog fees will be raised from $3 to $5 per day, a dog warden can start his annual survey on July 1 rather than Aug. 1, after notification an owner must pick up his impounded dog within five days — it is now seven days.

On the not-so-good side: The bill to allow falconry was defeated, the bill to strengthen the cruelty to animals law was lost in the Judiciary Committee, the bill to prevent impounded dogs from being used for research was put on an "interim study" as was the leghold trap bill after Senate debate.

During the session Ahearn polled his constituents to get their feelings on some of the legislation being considered. The bill to prevent impounded dogs from being used for research was put on an "interim study" as was the leghold trap bill after Senate debate.

In the area of school discipline, 62 percent favored state regulations that demand local school boards to develop detailed discipline plans; 31 percent were against and seven percent were undecided.

Why Bridge Is Closed

Want to know exactly why the Park Street bridge is closed? When the bridge was first constructed, Town Engineer Walter Senkow says, the wooden forms that the concrete was poured upon were never removed. Water was trapped inside the forms and eventually froze, seeping into the concrete and rusting the steel reinforcement. The picture at left shows the crumbling concrete after the forms were removed while the other shows the erosion from the top. (Herald photos by Pinto)
