12-Gauge Putter Fatal for Goose

Dr. Sherman Thomas says the goose got in the way of his golf ball and was hit — that he killed it to put it out of its misery. But witnesses have another story, and now Thomas says he wants a jury trial — in federal court.

The 53-year-old Washington, D.C., physician was arraigned Wednesday in Baltimore on charges of killing a Canadian goose out of season, illegal possession of a Canadian goose and using an illegal hunting weapon — a golf club.

Witnesses to the bird's demise May 3 on the 17th hole of the Congressional Country Club golf course said the goose honked, just as Thomas made a putt — that he chased it down and killed it in a rage.

Paisano Blue Eyes

Frank Sinatra is accustomed to standing ovations, but Wednesday he got a medal.

Italian government representative Amadeo Cerchio in a formal ceremony at the consulate's Los Angeles residence — presented him with the "Grande Ufficiale dell'Ordine al Merito della Repubblica Italiana." That translates, simply, as the highest honor the Italian government can give to a civilian.

Cerchio says it went to Sinatra for donating "time and money by answering the appeals from the Italian and Italo-American organizations to raise funds to help children in need."

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin couldn't have been more candid with a punch in the mouth. His target — the Baltimore Sun, which recently suggested he resign in favor "a more moderate" leader. From Jerusalem came a sharp lesson in civility for the newspaper.

Said Begin, "Please permit me now to establish that the prime minister of the government of Israel is not appointed by the Baltimore Sun and its writers."

Snake Oil

Malcolm Goldberg says his pets couldn't survive without him and he'll take his fight to keep them to an appeals court.

The Vermont Fish and Game Board says they have to go because they "could be a significant threat" — especially since Goldberg is in the habit of taking them out in the yard of his Shelburne, Vt., home.

The pets in question — a boa constrictor, a Texas indigo snake and two pythons, one which is 12 feet long. Goldberg also keeps a rat snake, a hog-nose snake and an iguana lizard. The neighbors have been complaining for months.

Head Scratcher

It was more than a trivia contest. It was a quest for the ultimate unanswerable question, and Darriush Saghafi of University Heights, Ohio, was the winner. His brain-twister for Omni magazine: "Why can't you tickle yourself?"

Quote of the Day

Roland Nelson, heavy equipment operator for the National Park Service in Death Valley, Calif., when the summer daytime temperature usually is 120 to 130 degrees, explaining why he drinks 3 to 5 gallons of water a day: "You have to drink lots of water — otherwise you die."

Access for Handicapped Sought by Lutz Museum

MANCHESTER — The town Commission on the Handicapped will assist Lutz Junior Museum in adapting its programs and facilities at the museum and at its Nature Center to meet the needs of the handicapped.

Clinton Hendrickson, a museum trustee, had no problem enlisting the commission Wednesday night when he asked it to help in adapting the museum and its facilities. Roger Ouellette, commission chairman, said he would act as liaison between the commission and the museum.

The science building at the Nature Center is the only ramped facility the museum has, Hendrickson said. However, the museum staff is sensitive to the needs of the handicapped and will be on hand to help children confined to wheelchairs into the building, he added.

Richard Lawrence, an architect and member of the commission, told Hendrickson that the museum should not spend a lot of money as long as aides are there to assist the handicapped. However, older children in wheelchairs or using a prosthesis would prefer being able to get in and out of the museum on their own, he said.

He suggested that a simple wooden ramp at the entrance to the museum on Cedar Street, would be adequate, and said he would supply plans for the ramp at home. "You might even tap my fellow Jaycees to do the work," he said.

The commission was not in favor of putting handrails throughout the Nature Center to aid those who are blind and thought it better to have a blind person go with others and ask questions.

In other business, the commission authorized Lawrence to proceed with a survey of town firms on their accessibility to the handicapped.

FitzPatrick Tries Again For Later Office Hours

MANCHESTER — John FitzPatrick, a Democratic member of the Town Board of Directors, hopes to meet soon with town officials to discuss his proposal about keeping offices open late.

"I'd like to put this thing to bed once and for all," FitzPatrick said.

The director made a proposal several months ago that the town officials to keep town offices open occasionally after 4:30 p.m.

All offices, except the town clerk's which is open until 5, close each day at 4:30 p.m. FitzPatrick said this schedule is not convenient for persons who work during the day outside of Manchester.

If persons want to go to town hall to do business in person, they probably cannot do it during lunch hour or before 4:30 p.m. if they work out of town, FitzPatrick said.

He suggested town officials study keeping offices open later in the afternoon or at night on occasion. He had been little response to FitzPatrick's request for several months, but recently Steven Werber, personal supervisor for the town, developed a report about cost of keeping the collector's office open late.

The report said keeping the office open once a week until 6 p.m. would cost an additional $128.56 per month.

FitzPatrick also had discussed keeping other offices that deal frequently with the public open later.

He said he hopes to meet with Werber and affected department heads to discuss his proposal. He explained to the board that most reviews of the elementary classes were done around and that the later hours can be established, at least on an experimental basis.

"I think it can be worked out," he said.

EPA OKs I-84 Link

HARTFORD — Federal environmental officials have given their approval to a complex plan to build a new highway link from I-84 in East Hartford to the two existing sections and to Providence.

Lynch, at the EPA's Boston office, said the agency believes the connector between Interstate 84 in East Hartford and an existing section of I-84 in Manchester would reduce air pollution by reducing traffic on local streets.

However, he said, the EPA has strong environmental questions about completion of the entire route to Providence, especially near the Scituate Reservoir in Scituate, R.I.

State officials want to build the complete highway that would result in a direct highway link from I-84 in East Hartford to the two existing sections and to Providence.

Federal Transportation Department officials, however, said Wednesday that they believe the entire section of roadway can meet environmental standards and will be completed.

They said a new study showed completion of the highway in Connecticut wouldn't worsen the state's air quality and believe the environmental concerns in Rhode Island also can be resolved.

Environmental groups in both states have vowed to file suit if completion of the highway is approved by the federal agencies.

The little-traveled existing section of expressway runs from Manchester to Bolton where motorists then must travel on winding, two-lane Route 6 to Willimantic, where they pick up the short I-84 Willimantic bypass for a few miles before landing back on Route 6 toward Providence.

Rhonda Drive Closed
 SOUTH WINDSOR — Rhonda Drive, from Hilton to Allan Drive, will be closed to through traffic starting today and continuing for about two weeks, South Windsor Police said.

The road is being closed while a sewer construction project is going on. The closing will be from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., daily. The road will be open to through traffic during the evening hours.

Board Approves Spending For Recreation Projects

MANCHESTER — The Town Board of Directors Tuesday night approved two expenditures for the Recreation Department.

One — the upgrading of the track at the East Side Rec — will cost the town about $4,800. The second — the hiring of a therapeutic recreational aide — will not cost the town anything.

The track is more than 25 years old and needs to be resurfaced. The aide will be hired to assist handicapped persons in recreation programs. The side will be paid through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program, which will provide full federal funding for the position.

The board tabled action on a South Windsor, Judy Koehn, 644-1269. Vernon: Barbara Richmond, 643-2711.

Vernon School Classes To Remain Same Size

VERNON — The Board of Education will continue to keep an eye on class sizes next September, but meanwhile it has decided to follow the recommendation of the superintendent of schools and keep classes as they are.

Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, conducted a study of the elementary school classroom sizes of other towns in the area. He said that the current year's fourth grades were reduced from three to two with about 28 children in each class. "I honestly don't feel it had any effect on the students' progress academically although it made it a little harder for the teachers."

One teacher at the Northeast School is being dropped for the coming year and Lee Belanger, board member, made a motion to have that teacher re-instated but the motion didn't pass.

He said in reviewing the latest elementary school class sizes in Vernon, that the administration doesn't believe that any classes are of a size that would be deleterious to attainment of the board's educational goals and objectives.

"As we have stated in the past, for those classes whose size seem to cause concern in some quarters, classes in the range from 27 to 31, an instructional aide can readily be obtained," Dr. Sidman explained.

Dr. Sidman said that research findings on class size for the elementary class sections were being prepared for the coming school year. He said this was because of serious concerns expressed by some board members.

The mini-districting would have involved some 31 students and the administration even informed the parents of the students of this possibility.

The mini-districting would have been insurance that no class would (based upon enrollment projections) be planned to have more than 28 students.

However, Dr. Sidman changed his thinking after he carefully examined the proposed elementary class sizes for the coming school year, based on the enrollment of last month and he told the board that he was recommending that no mini-districting be employed at this time.

He said the largest projected classes for the coming school year would be seven classes with 27 students each, three with 28 each, and two with 29 each.

"Should any of these classes expand in enrollment to a point where, in the opinion of the administration, a potential problem might occur we would prevent such problems by the judicious use of instructional aides," he said.

Town Meeting Planned

HEBRON — The Board of Selectmen will conduct a town meeting June 18 at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium of the Hebron Elementary School with the main item on the agenda being to adopt a budget totaling $3,043,438. This will be the third time the budget goes to a town meeting. It was rejected the other two times.

The gardeners have been provided water free of charge in the past. The town had said that this would stop, however, and the board Tuesday night reaffirmed that decision.

The board also approved the authorization of $20 million in water system improvement bonds. The bonding will not cost the town anything.

The directors also took the following actions Tuesday night:
 * Appointed William Bayer to the Planning and Zoning Commission to replace John Hutchinson, who resigned. Bayer has been an alternate on the commission.
 * Approved a transfer of $32,150 to the Highway Department account to the following budget accounts — general manager, town clerk, planning and zoning, general services and public works administration.
 * Approved transfers from several accounts to fund the Union Pond Dam study, the Progress Drive completion project, and the Park Street Bridge repairs. The transferred funds also will pay for the town's contribution to the New England Relays event, a $600 increase to the senior citizens for an increase in passenger pickup and fuel costs, and a $1,000 increase in town motor vehicle insurance costs.
 * Approved town and state funding for continuation of the transportation system for the elderly and handicapped.

Town's Tax Collection At 99.8% of Estimates

MANCHESTER — With only one month to go in the fiscal year, the town has collected 99.8 percent of tax revenue estimates for the year, said town collector James Turek said.

When setting the upcoming year's budget, the Town Board of Directors includes a revenue estimate for tax collection. That estimate usually ranges between 95 and 99 percent of all collectible taxes in the community.

In past years, the collection efforts of Turek's office usually have fallen slightly short of the estimate set by the directors. This year, however, it appears that estimate will be exceeded.

At the end of May, the collector's office had received $18,114,771.93 in taxes. This is 99.8 percent of the $18,155,426 estimate set by the Board of Directors.

Turek said notices will be mailed to all persons who have not paid taxes. All such taxes were to have been paid by the end of the fiscal year and efforts beginning next week to collect unpaid taxes, the town could and probably will, exceed the $18,155,426 estimate for tax revenues.

The 99.8 percent collection rate through May is the highest in years for the town. In fact, a couple of years ago members of the past Board of Directors, particularly Phyllis Jackson, were critical of the town's tax collection effort.

Turek has said an increase in the size of the staff of the town attorney's office has helped with tax collection efforts.

Pool Fund Requests Due Soon

SOUTH WINDSOR — Applications for funds for the new proposed indoor swimming pool must be filed by July 1, State Rep. Abraham Glassman, D-14th District, said.

If the application is in order and filed before the deadline, South Windsor may be eligible for up to 30 percent of the cost of the pool, estimated to be from $800,000 to $1.2 million.

To be eligible for state funding the pool must be used to provide instruction for students and be on school property.

Although the Town Council has unanimously authorized the Public Building Commission to act as the building committee for the pool, it tabled a resolution which would authorize the Board of Education to request the grant from the State Board of Education.

A committee to study the feasibility of the pool has agreed that it would be located near the high school and Wapping Community Center, formerly Wapping School.

The pool proposal was initially made by the five Republican members of the Town Council, after complaints from numerous citizens and citizen groups that the town did not provide enough recreational activities for young people.

Glassman said the funding application will be placed in the third category of state funding. The first category is usually given to urgent items.

The indoor pool proposal is expected to be placed on the November ballot as a referendum question.

Danaher Runs Again For Rham Board Seat

HEBRON — Francis Danaher of Reidy Hill Road has announced his intention to seek re-election to the Regional District 8 Board of Education. This election will take place June 19 at 8 p.m. in the Hebron Elementary School gymnasium.

Fran said that he has enjoyed the opportunity to serve the Rham community for the past year and particularly wants to finish his duties as a member of the Junior High School Building Committee. "We have entered the period of high public interest in educational change and I want to devote more effort to getting parents' input to this process."

Danaher advocates a move toward program budgeting. "The public wants to know exactly what they are getting for their educational tax dollar and it's obvious that the old line budget does not offer the kind of information upon which rational public decision can be based."

As qualifications for the position, Danaher cited his many years of employment in the public sector; a Master's Degree in Public Administration and his contributions to town 4-H activities, as well as his desire to serve his community.

Nursery Graduates 11

MANCHESTER — Eleven graduates of the Delmont Nursery School and Day Care Center received their bachelor of rhymes degrees in graduation ceremonies held recently at the school.

Making the presentations were Mrs. Antonietta Aguas, the school's director, assisted by Mrs. Minnie Aguas, assistant director.

Graduates were Erva Jennifer Burhans, Traci Gifford, Caroline Chaine, Jennifer Ross, Charles Merriens, Michael Wilbanks, Andrew Cole, Kristian Renaud, Simon Gavin, Afrew Bartosiewicz and Stephanie Harris.

Fuel Resolution Rejected

MANCHESTER — Although members seemed to agree with the idea of the resolution, they said it was a matter they should not be acting on.

So, the Town Board of Directors, by an 8-1 vote, rejected a proposed resolution about existing fuel problems.

The resolution, proposed by Robert Faucher of Laurel Street, included opposition to decontrol of fuel prices and asked for a Congressional investigation into profits made by oil companies.

Director Thomas Connors voiced the thoughts of most board members. He said he agreed with the contents of the resolution, but he did not think the board had the authority to pass it. "I think it's far beyond the purview of this board to act on this matter," he said. He suggested that individuals contact their representatives in Congress.

Stephen Penny, chairman of the board, said that the directors do not have the capability to research and act on national or international matters.

"Where do we draw the line? Do we take up the Irish question or the problem in Southeast Asia?" he said. "I will resubmit it when gas reaches $1.25 per gallon."

He related various experiences he had shared with the graduates, especially a "survival test."

He said during that time and in the years that followed, the group developed their personalities, the ability to make decisions in time of crisis. Morrison said that the experience the students gained, will have to be used over and over again as they progress. He commended the class for its performance and reminded the administration, faculty members, and other

Sure your checking is free if you have $500.

But what happens if you don't?

It's a problem. At most banks, when your balance falls below $500 that free checking account is going to cost you money. In some cases, a lot of money. Let your balance drop below $500 and many banks will charge you a monthly service fee of $2.00 plus 15¢ for every check you write. Write 20 checks and your free checking costs you $5.00 a month. At other banks, a minimum balance of $1,000 is required for so-called "free checking." And at those banks, if your balance falls below $500, you'll not only pay for your checking, but you won't earn any interest either. And so it goes. You either pay for your checking, you don't earn any interest, or both.

What's the answer? Simple. The checking and the egg. Because at First Federal Savings our checking account is free with a small minimum balance of $300. Plus we'll pay you 5% interest on all balances over $10. And we even give you the option of direct deposit. Should your balance fall below $300, we'll charge you only $1.50 for that particular month—regardless of how many checks you write.

So Compare. Compare our checking with any one's. Then come to First Federal Savings. You'll get the checking and the egg. Free checking with a balance of only $300. And a nest egg of 5% interest.

Rockville Grads Get Scholarships, Awards

Lynda Katkaveck holding her single red rose, anxiously awaits her turn to receive her diploma at graduation exercises Wednesday night at Rham High School in Hebron. (Herald photo by Burbank)

VERNON — At Rockville High School graduation ceremonies Wednesday night, scholarship awards and other special awards were presented to many members of the graduating class and to a few underclassmen.

Jonathan Connell, valedictorian, and Linda Strnad, salutatorian, received the Florence Whitlock Memorial Award, established by a bequest to the Town of Vernon with the stipulation that the income be used for a first and second prize to the two scholars whose standing in the high school has been the highest for the four years. Miss Strnad was also presented with the University of Connecticut Alumni Association Book award. This is presented to the top-ranked academic student, in the graduation class, who will be attending UConn.

She was also one of two winners of the Wilfred A. Lutz Memorial Scholarship. The other winner was Winifred Gerikaris. Eric Fisher was given the Charles Ellsworth Nettleton Award which is given to the boy in the graduating class who, in the opinion of the faculty, best approaches the "fine character" scholarship, leadership, initiative, and general promise exemplified in the life of Nettleton of the class of 1924. Fisher also received the Suburban Women's Club Scholarship.

Paving Firm Performance Is Concern

MANCHESTER — Town officials are concerned about the performance of a couple of driveway paving firms that have not obtained proper permits or met bonding and insurance requirements.

"We have a couple of renegade-type paving contractors in town," Jay Giles, director of public works, said.

Giles said residents who have any questions about a potential contractor should call his office at 647-3144 and talk to Ron Charter, who can tell the person whether the contractor has received a permit and met the town's bonding and insurance requirements.

Any paving contractor has to obtain a permit from the town. This is required because such paving work usually includes work on or near town property, such as sidewalks and roads, Giles said.

Giles said most contractors do obtain the permit and meet the town requirements. There are a couple of firms that have caused problems, however.

These include breaking sidewalks, paving over sidewalks and concrete aprons, Charter said.

When the town issues a permit, it does not guarantee that the contractor will do a good job.

"We can't protect the town from shoddy workmanship," Charter said. But, he and Giles both said that firms that receive such permits generally have good reputations and work regularly in the area.

Meal Drivers Honored

MANCHESTER — Several volunteer drivers for the local Meals-On-Wheels program, sponsored by River East Home-Maker-Home Health Aide Service Inc. were honored recently at a luncheon meeting at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

During 1978, 155 clients were served by the program. Of those honored, all drove more than 25 times or more during 1978 and driving the largest number of times was Ray Winter, 49 times. Others honored were Hoyt and Dixie Silson, 48 times; Russell and Barbara Smyth, 47 times; Arthur and Helen Joyce, 42 times; Joellen MacCluggage, 38 times; Helen and Sanol Solomon, 39 times; Gertrude Pearson, 32 times; Charles McCooe, 28 times; Maurice and Evelyn Lambert, 25 times; and Albert and Betty Heavisdie, 25 times.

More than 90 percent of those served had requested meal delivery or had requested for them in order to improve their basic health and nutrition. For 29 of the clients, having meals delivered prevented institutionalization and for 54 the program facilitated discharge from the hospital.

During 1978, 9,839 meal packages, which include a hot dinner and cold supper, were delivered. Of the total number of clients, 123 paid for the meals out of their own pockets, five paid with food stamps, four were paid for by the State Department of Income Maintenance, and relatives and friends paid for the rest. More than 60 percent of the meals provided were on an adjusted charge and subsidized by town and United Way funds.

In 1978 81 volunteers participated as drivers in the program, 38 of whom were new to the program that year. In their delivery rounds they drove a total of 10,760 miles.

Through May 31 of this year, the program had served 107 clients, provided 4,276 meals, and had driven 6,133 miles. Of those served 28 received special diabetic meals, and five others received other special diets.

Four volunteers from the work-release program sponsored by the Savings Bank of Manchester drove a total of 29 times, delivered 238 meals and drove 293 miles.

Virginia Briggs is meals-on-wheels program coordinator. The meals are prepared by the Manchester Memorial Hospital's dietary staff.

At the luncheon, Ms. Jackie Walker, state ombudsman for the Connecticut Department of Aging, was the guest speaker.

NAACP Raps Cotter For Remarks on CD

MANCHESTER — The Greater Hartford branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has criticized recent remarks U.S. Rep. William Cotter said about Manchester's Community Development issue.

Cotter said Manchester's vote to withdraw from the Community Development program should be upheld. He said residents voted in a townwide referendum and their mandate should not be overturned.

The town's decision to withdraw from the program is being challenged in a lawsuit.

"The congressman is of the mentality that low- and moderate-income families should be locked into designated ethnic enclaves along with slums and other problems inherent in the inner city," the NAACP statement said.

"Mr. Cotter and his racist opinion is a prime example of what we do not need in a representative," the statement said. "The Greater Hartford NAACP will make sure that this attitude does not escape the voters in Hartford at election time."

Rules Retained For Punishment

VERNON — In a 5-4 vote Monday night, the Board of Education voted to leave a section in its policy book which spells out the means and procedure for administering corporal punishment.

Devra Baum, chairman of the board's General Policies Committee, in presenting the revised policies for board approval, said she would like to see this section deleted. She said even though she had two children go through the school system she never knew there was any such provision in the board's policy.

The state statutes say that the use of physical force upon another person, which would otherwise constitute an offense, is justifiable and not criminal under certain circumstances.

Among the circumstances outlined, it says a parent, guardian, teacher or other person entrusted with the care and supervision of a minor or an incompetent person, may use reasonable physical force, "when and to the extent that he reasonably believes it is necessary to maintain discipline."

"It is the policy of the Vernon board that physical force may be used only in response to physical force by a pupil and to maintain discipline and the safety of pupils."

Dr. Albert Kerkin, assistant superintendent of schools, said he felt that the policy contained enough "safeguards" and added that the State Board of Education recommended, but didn't mandate, that this be included in local board policy books.

Board member Robert Schwartz agreed with Mrs. Baum that the section should be deleted and he wanted to add a section to spell out the fact that the board is against corporal punishment and doesn't accept it as an acceptable procedure. The board didn't go along with his suggestion.

Mrs. Baum expressed the fear that allowing corporal punishment would instill in the children the fact that physical force is alright.

The rule books states that corporal punishment may never be used, except for those acts of misconduct which are anti-social or disruptive in nature as to shock the conscience, unless the student was informed before hand that specific misbehavior could occasion its use "and subject to the exception, it should never be employed as first line of punishment for misbehavior."

The policy also emphasizes that only an administrator may punish corporally and if so must do it in the presence of a second school official (teacher) who must be informed beforehand and in the student's presence, of the reason for the punishment.

Another safeguard is the requirement that before administering corporal punishment, verbal permission must be obtained from the parent or legal guardian.

The policy further states that an official administering such punishment must provide the parents with a written explanation of the reasons and the name of the second official who was present.

Kindergarten students are exempt from corporal punishment.

Scrap Business Opposed

HEBRON — Three petitions, opposing an application for a scrap metal processing business on Route 66, have been filed with the Zoning Board of Appeals. The board will discuss the application at its June 25 meeting.

The application was filed by Glenn Huot of Manchester who said his trucks would be entering and leaving the property about four times a day. He said he would hope to increase the number of times. The site was formerly an automobile junk yard.

The petitioners contend that the use of the land, proposed by Huot, would create traffic problems and noise and could decrease property values.

The petitioners also expressed the fear that the business would disturb the bird and wildlife sanctuary behind the property.

Pitts Gets Eagle Badge

HEBRON — Charles Pitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pitts of Slocum Road and a senior at Rham High School, was awarded the Eagle Scout badge recently by Boy Scout Troop 28.

Pitts has held many leadership positions in the troop since becoming a Scout seven years ago. He has served as quartermaster, scribe, den chief, instructor and senior patrol leader. He is a member of the Order of the Arrow, a Scouting fraternity, and has earned the Paul Bunyon Award and the Historic Trails Award.

Two Presidents Were Inventors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two famous American presidents were noteworthy inventors, according to historians at Intellectual Property Owners, Inc., a non-profit, public educational group dedicated to preserving the patent system as an incentive to innovation and creativity.

Abraham Lincoln was granted a patent in 1849 for some buoyant chambers to be placed on steamships to float them off shoals when they became stranded. The model of the steamship showing the invention that Lincoln submitted for his patent is on display at the Smithsonian Institute. Thomas Jefferson — the first supervisor of the U.S. patent Office when he was secretary of state — invented several items but never applied for a patent. He made improvement in the mold board of the plow, an important contribution to U.S. agricultural development. He also invented a folding chair or stool that could be used as a walking stick.

Panel Approves Wet Hydrant

HEBRON - The Rham Junior high school building committee voted unanimously to incorporate plans for a wet hydrant in the school building plans, during its meeting Monday night.

The decision of the committee was finally made after many weeks of study and investigation with the project's engineers as well as members of the Hebron Volunteer Fire Department.

The anticipated cost for the inclusion of the wet hydrant is $28,614. Originally, the plans were changed to include a dry hydrant at a cost of $21,333. However, upon urging from the Chief, the committee decided to probe the wet hydrant proposition.

Project Engineer, Richard Dimmock, said that he would recommend that the wet hydrant be installed after conducting a probe into the pond from which the pipe will be laid. Dimmock said the probe was successful.

Drainage Study Set By Coventry Council

COVENTRY - The Coventry Town Council will appropriate $10,000 for a drainage study and analysis for the installation of sewer drains in the west side of the lake basin in the village area.

The council met with Richard Breault, chairman of the Water Pollution Control Authority (WPCA), and Lon Holm, the engineering firm of Fuss & O'Neill who were contracted by the town to do the study. Breault reviewed the revised WPCA sewer plan, and Holm reviewed the proposed financing package.

After the study is completed, the Council intends to bring the sewer issue to referendum in late September or early October.

Liquor Permit Hearing Set

BOLTON - The State Liquor Control Commission will conduct a hearing on the application of Philip A. Parliapiano for a hotel liquor permit on July 5 at 10:30 a.m. in Room 558 of the State Office Building in Hartford.

The building is located on the corner of Capitol Avenue and Washington Street.

Parliapiano is applying for the permit for Mr. P's Cabaret on Bolton Lake. Parliapiano owns the establishment along with his father, brother and James Toscano.

The Board of Selectmen and more than 200 Bolton residents signed a "remonstrance" objecting to the granting of such licenses.

The remonstrance claimed the premises were conducted as a "lewd establishment" advertising so-called exotic dancers and catering to the prurient interests of its customers.

It further claimed the premises were in violation of a pollution abatement order from the Department of Environmental Protection and a court judgment. In April the establishment was closed by the DEP and will remain closed until plans for a corrected sewage system are approved by the environmental unit.

The notice said, "You may appear at this hearing and present testimony under oath with respect to suitability of person or place, and you will be subject to cross-examination under the rules of the Commission."

Bridge Poses Safety Hazard

Town Engineer Walter Kenkow seems to have a strong argument - the town should take steps to repair the Union Street Bridge.

The repair work will not be cheap. Kenkow estimated costs might be as high as $20,000-$25,000. The travel portion of the bridge apparently is sound. The repairs would be for the sidewalk and fence on the east side of the bridge.

The sidewalk has fallen apart in spots and has developed sizeable holes that have been covered with metal plates.

The fence is even more of a concern, however. It appears to be unsturdy and several of its metal support posts are corroded and rusted.

The fence probably would do little to deter an out-of-control vehicle from going over the edge of the bridge. It is a healthy drop into the Hockanum River below.

Although not in the heart of Manchester, Union Street still is a road that is used frequently. The bridge should be upgraded and its present problems eliminated.

The travel portion is safe, although it has been posted for a four-ton load limit. School buses no longer use the bridge. Fire engines rushing to emergencies do use the bridge, a practice that should be stopped if possible.

The sidewalk and fence do pose enough of a safety hazard that they should be repaired. Doing so may be costly, but failing to do so could be even more expensive.

Attacks Not Warranted

To the editor:
As a humanist and a Manchester resident I must take exception to the two attacks on the Archbishop of the Catholic Church in Connecticut by residents of my community.

Because the members of the Manchester Council of Churches were apparently reluctant to address the issue which was certainly within their purview, some religious leader had to come forward in the name of Christian decency.

Many citizens are thankful that the Catholic church has never cowered or shied from the responsibility of a cause or issue. I interpret Christian philosophy as one to heed the cause of the poor and the elderly.

The right of the Archbishop to speak out in behalf of the official stance of his church is not open to debate or question. The tolerance of such is true democracy.

That difference is the true quality between those countries that are under dictatorships and our own. I am personally on record as one who does

Will Brezhnev Retire After SALT II?

WASHINGTON - The retirement of Soviet Communist Party boss Leonid Brezhnev is predicted with the regularity, if not the accuracy, of a cuckoo clock.

Traditionally, the predictions of Kremlin watchers are pegged to some event of historic significance - one final triumph, perhaps, and Brezhnev will step down.

That the Russian leader's meeting with President Carter for the signing of the SALT II treaty in Vienna has sent the soothsayers to their lairs once more. The treaty signing, they speculate, will be precisely the kind of showboat achievement that will give Brezhnev an excuse to retire with the plaudits of world leaders ringing in his ears.

The big trouble with this recurring theory is that it assumes Brezhnev wants to quit, and there's no evidence to suggest this. Quite the contrary: Like every previous top man in the Kremlin, Brezhnev has shown no inclination to go gentle into that good night of voluntary retirement.

Intelligence sources informed our associate Bob Sherman that in light of past history, it's more likely Brezhnev will continue to hold onto power until death or intrigue force him out.

The Central Intelligence Agency has chronicled the quiet struggle inside the Kremlin to retire Brezhnev and his stubborn refusal to budget. His ability to survive at the top of the heap has been a source of frustration for younger members of the Politburo and a cause of some jealousy among other members of the Soviet gerontocracy.

A report in the CIA's top-secret National Intelligence Daily in April 1976, analyzed the evidence of growing restlessness within the Communist Party over Brezhnev's growing "cult of personality." This is the kind of individual ascendancy that Brezhnev has had since he took office in 1962. It is a condition that Brezhnev has inherited from Khrushchev, but Brezhnev has taken it to a new level.

The biggest spate of retirement rumors was occasioned by the 25th Soviet Party Congress in February 1976. Brezhnev, then 69, had had a rough year: serious dental problems and the drugs used to treat them had impaired his health to the point that he was not seen in public for weeks at a time. When he did emerge, his deteriorated condition was noticeable. Intelligence reports noted that on occasion he was "neither mentally alert nor physically agile," and that his stamina was clearly limited.

Nevertheless, as so often before, the CIA had to conclude that the retirement rumors were groundless. The old man himself rarely discusses retirement. A secret report analyzing Brezhnev's discussions with U.S. senators in 1975 noted that he said: "No one is eternal and life being what it is, there comes a time when a person must leave, whether for retirement or because of illness, but when one is at the helm one must do what one can for the future."

The interpreter, thinking the senators might make too much of it, chose not to translate Brezhnev's reference to "illness."

Nearly four years later, Brezhnev still seems determined to "do what he can" - and though even sicker and older, he apparently still has the clout to do it.

with all the tricks whereby he can seduce the media into seeing things his way.

I don't know whether Carter likes reporters and enjoys talking to them, but that's beside the point. In his job, altruism toward journalists is a time-consuming luxury he can ill afford. As President, he is forced to limit his socializing with the media to occasions when he thinks he can get something out of it.

I have never had an exclusive interview with Jimmy Carter. The reason, of course, is that it has not yet occurred to him that any useful purpose would be served by having me in for tea and crumpets. When and if a summons comes from the White House, I'll know the President has found a way to employ my connections in the trade, and is not really yearning to hear about the time I ran a whole mile. I am interesting, but not that interesting.

A 28-year-old Thai marine served on guard at the border said fleeing Khmer Rouge are killed or wounded nearly every day by the booby traps.

The Khmer Rouge simply abandon the more seriously wounded by the side of the trail to hurry into Thailand.

Sait said he still loved his country. "But I won't go back because our weapons are not good enough to give us a chance."

He added, "If there were orders, though, and everyone returned, I guess I would have to go."

calling. More funds are needed at the top, the local groups find they have less personal feeling - the church becomes "they" rather than "we."

Churches in recent years have become involved in social issues to such a degree as to leave the impression that the "here and now" really is of the essence. People already have discovered that the material offers no valid purpose for life. Vin-dling little in the churches they can not find in secular groups, they leave the former, while retaining substantially the same basic faith as before. May we recommend a return to the Scriptures as the only viable solution.

WASHINGTON - Everybody in the journalistic dodge should be delighted that Jimmy Carter plans a series of private chat-chats with editors and reporters from the print and electronic media. Every personal contact with a President adds to the trade's education.

But I trust that even those colleagues who were born yesterday recognize that such meetings are part of a President's strategy in his attempt to manage the news.

Carter is not about to invite reporters to the White House because he is overcome with their old-world charm, but because he desires to sell them the Brooklyn Bridge.

After being exposed to the Carter charm and the aura of his office, the poor news wretch naturally tends to toy with idea that Jimmy is the greatest statesman since Talleyrand, or Deliah. When a President gives a private audience, he does so because he believes he can get across his thinking to the American public in the most favorable terms.

This is perfectly legal and ethical. A President has a right - indeed the duty - to do everything possible to sell his product. It is one of the things he is paid for. But the reporter should enter the Presence with healthy, if polite, skepticism, murmuring "caveat emptor."

Fortunately, most news people possess this skepticism about a President's motives, pure and otherwise. Ever since coverage of the first World's Championship bout between a lion and a martyr, reporters have been leery of heads of state bearing gifts. Still, that feeling of awe and gratitude lingers.

Man and boy, I have been making publishers rich for more than 30 years and I have never seen anything like the boyish delight with which some reporters react to an invitation to rub social elbows with a President.

They emerge from the sacred precincts looking as pleased, and proud, as if they had just kissed the feet of the Virgin Mary.

When a President gives a private audience, he does so because he believes he can get across his thinking to the American public in the most favorable terms.

Khmer Rouge Felled By Own Boobytraps

By KRAIPIT PHANVUT MAIRUT, Thailand (UPI) - The battered survivors of Cambodia's Khmer Rouge army retreated for five months before nearing the safety of the Thai border, only to stumble into minefields and booby traps set more than a year ago by their comrades.

Khmer Rouge soldiers say they left a trail of equipment, weapons and dead and wounded men behind as they fled before the Vietnamese invasion force that swept across Cambodia in January, routing the regime of Prime Minister Pol Pot and his Chinese-supplied Khmer Rouge troops.

A 28-year-old Khmer Rouge soldier named Sait was one of the few willing to talk about the bloody retreat.

The gaunt young soldier said he was stationed with his battalion in Leit village west of Cambodia's capital, Phnom Penh, when the Vietnamese invaded.

"They came with tanks, bombers and 100mm artillery. We could not stop them. We had our own artillery, but quickly ran out of shells."

"We fought seven large battles with the Vietnamese, who kept pressing after us. The tanks - we couldn't stop them. We didn't have the weapons."

Graduation Late Due to Mistake

By CHARLIE MAYNARD Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - The mistake has been made, but Randy Gray hopes it doesn't happen to other students. Gray, 19, of 199 Woodbridge St. received a diploma from Manchester High School in April, nearly a year after he should have graduated. According to Gray and school officials, a credit for an English course was overlooked and Gray was told to take another six hours of tutoring before he could receive his diploma.

Asked to comment on the situation, Principal Jacob Ludes III said this morning there have been assurances that the mistake couldn't happen again. He also encouraged students who may be borderline cases to review their records with their teachers or guidance counselors.

Gray first learned he didn't have enough credits two days before the 1978 graduation, he said this morning. It was believed he didn't have enough sequential credits to graduate and was lacking one English course.

However, after he returned to the school two months ago, a check of his records showed Gray had taken two English courses one year and could have graduated with the 1978 class.

Between the 1978 graduating date and the discovery of the oversight, Gray said he had delayed going to the school officials to determine what was required to qualify for the diploma.

"We buried my grandmother that day of the graduation and I felt really bad," he said. "I kept putting it off."

Public Information Aim of Arts Group

MANCHESTER - Informing the public of operation costs of arts groups is one way the arts committee of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce plans to keep the chamber's members and the public informed and interested in local arts groups.

The committee will issue its first information sheet as an addition to the chamber's next regular bi-monthly newsletter which will be published in July.

Using the theme of "where does the money go?", the committee agreed to use information of the cost operation of the Manchester Civic Orchestra's recent Pops concert as the subject for the committee's first newsletter.

Committee chairman, Dr. Francis Helfrich, said the Pops concert cost about $4,000 to put on, but the orchestra will lose several hundred dollars.

"The rent, police, chairs, guest artists, and so forth, all add up to a lot of expense," Dr. Helfrich said. "It will be included with the chamber newsletters will feature programming, biographies of people associated with the community arts, and features."

A recently published tabloid titled "Focus on the Arts" was the committee's first attempt to not only acquaint the business community with the variety of arts events provided locally, but to attract more support for the groups that offer arts activities and events.

The committee plans to make copies of the tabloid available to the public at banks and libraries in Manchester.

Development Foes Say Sewers Can't Handle It

MANCHESTER - An attorney representing opponents of Buckland Commons has sent a letter to South Windsor's mayor to challenge statements that Manchester's sewage treatment plant is not near capacity.

Attorney Bruce Beck, who represents Michael Dworkin and Raymond Smith, sent the letter to South Windsor Mayor Nancy Callery Dworkin and Smith both have opposed the proposed Buckland Commons project, which would include residential units and a large shopping mall and would be located both in Manchester and South Windsor.

Arguments in CD Appeal Delayed Until September

MANCHESTER - The oral arguments for the town's appeal of the Community Development temporary injunction will not be heard until September.

Oral arguments on the appeal will not be held until the week of Sept. 4. Attorneys for the town and the plaintiffs will meet next Thursday for a pre-appeal conference.

The town appealed Blumenthal's decision to the Second Circuit Court of Appeals, and a timetable has been established for that matter.

Some of the questions are objectionable," she said of the plaintiffs' requests for information.

While preparation begins for the appeal work, it continues for the law suit challenging the town's decision to withdraw from the program.

Police said the arrest was made after Levine was involved in a car accident. He was released on his promise to appear in court on June 19.

Police said they have had a rash of incidents and complaints concerning youths riding mini-bikes and motorcycles on the town's designated bicycle trails. They were despoiled of this on June 25.

Whalers Reacquire Enforcer Fotiu

HARTFORD (UPI) - Nick Fotiu, his New York dream fulfilled, is headed back to skate the ice of the Hartford Civic Center again.

The New York Rangers enforcer played 110 games for the New England Whalers in the club's 1974-75 and 1975-76 seasons in the now-defunct World Hockey Association.

Wednesday, his former employers took him back at the National Hockey League held its expansion draft in Montreal - an event that turned out to be quite a homecoming for Hartford's new entry into the expanded senior league.

Two of the other 17 players chosen by the team also were among the "favorite Whalers" by Hartford fans who were played in the WHA, head and without ever having to change arenas.

Beyond Hangeleben (the first choice), Fotiu (picked second) and Ley (who was reacquired in the third round), few of the names were familiar to the Whalers or their fans.

Two of the draft choices came from the new regional league rival Boston Bruins - defenseman Al Sims and right winger Bill Bennett - so their names might have been known to Hartford fans.

But there were more names that were not familiar in Hartford. Brian Hill, center, Atlanta; Dave Gibson, left wing, Buffalo; Maynard F. Sherman, left wing, Philadelphia; Nick Beverley, defense, Colorado; Norm Lapone, goalie, Vancouver; and Don Kozak, right wing, Vancouver.

Richardson had been traded to New York by the St. Louis Blues only last Saturday. Klassen wound up with the Blues.

None of the WHA teams will own their new selections until the merger of the two leagues is completed June 22.

Caps Turn Back MB's

Leading 5-0 after three innings, the Hartford Capitols had to hold on for a 6-5 win over Morarty Bros. last night at St. Thomas Seminary in a Greater Hartford Twilight Baseball League contest.

The Capitols added another run in the fourth before the MBS scored three times on RBI blows by Gary Gilha and Nick Farsee.

Tom Difore blasted a two-run homer in the third to move the Capitols lead to 5-0.

NHL Clubs Lost Little in Draft

MONTREAL (UPI) - Someone suggested, moments after the completion of the NHL's expansion draft Wednesday morning, the new clubs would enter the league in better shape than any other previous expansion team.

"Heck," sniffed Harry Sinden, general manager of the Boston Bruins, "I can't find two guys that would be any good."

True, neither Edmonton, Hartford, Quebec nor Winnipeg will win the Stanley Cup this year. The final list contained 65 players, no more than four from each of the 17 incumbent NHL teams.

Detroit was getting shafted. Detroit was getting shafted. Detroit was getting shafted.

The four former WHA clubs are hoping they did the best they could against the Montreal Canadiens, who ruled the whole thing with a series of blockbuster deals that would make a pickup team.

Nevertheless, they came away from the NHL meetings uncertain about their relative strength, which is fitting since the long-discussed merger itself is no sure thing.

That's what everyone wanted. Whether they got it, that is the question the NHL will have to answer when it looks at the standings every morning.

Good Course for Trevino

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) - It's been 22 years since a fuzzy-faced Jack Nicklaus nervously teared up in his first U.S. Open Championship at the Inverness Club.

Then a 17-year-old freshman-to-be at Ohio State University, Nicklaus remembers how "it was just a great thrill to get lost in the crowd that week."

He birdied the first hole and parred the second to go up on the leader board. But a double-bogey six on the fourth hole started him towards a pair of 80s and he failed to make the cut.

Hopefully, I'll do better this week," said the Golden Bear. "I'm delighted to be back. It's been a long time. Inverness always been one of my favorite courses."

Nicklaus, who has failed to win only one U.S. Open since 1961, was only one shot off the winning score at the Masters, said the course, which will play to par 71 in 6,982 yards after the reeding of four holes, is tougher than he remembered.

The changes made to it a lot more difficult," said Nicklaus, "a lot more than I anticipated."

Nicklaus, who is paired in the first two rounds with U.S. Amateur champion John Cook and defending Open champ Andy North, is seeking his fourth U.S. Open title.

As for his choice to win the 79th Open, Nicklaus mentioned the names of Ed Lee Trevino, Dave Stockton and Gene Littler.

"This is an awfully good golf course for Trevino," he said. Another former Open winner who has yet to win in 1979 is Hale Irwin, but he feels things are not that bad.

"Maybe I've been thinking well, I've been doing pretty good. I've been trying to win on the first hole."

Connecticut Flower Blooms This Month

By FRANK ATWOOD
Mountain laurel displayed its lovely masses of pink and white flowers when the first European explorers tramped through the woods of what is now the northern United States. Today it is the state flower of Connecticut and of Pennsylvania. It blooms in June and is lovely now in the woods, on roadsides and transplanted as a hardy ornamental shrub at many homes.
