

Talcottville School Graduates Seven Students

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON — Dressed in traditional caps and gowns, seven students graduated Thursday morning from the Talcottville School for special education.

The seven enthusiastic students, who have reached age 21, were joined in the ceremonies by the other students in the school, from preschool age up, officials, and parents and friends.

Dr. James Strauch, professor of special education at the University of Connecticut, was the guest speaker for the ceremonies.

He told the graduates that the day was a day to celebrate. "A day even bigger than the Special Olympics and July 4 at Mansfield Training School when they set off the fireworks."

He asked the graduates if they were happy and if they received a "resounding 'yes'."

He told the students that it was also the time to be a little serious too. He said, "Each of you has been involved in a program of social development to prepare yourselves to move on to a Sheltered Workshop or work setting."

Dr. Strauch noted that things have come a long way since 1950 when the National Association for Retarded Citizens (NARC) was started in New York City. He said since that time the country has moved from very few special classes in the 1950's to the point where it is now.

He asked the seven graduates, John Donlon Jr., Judith Drury, Joseph Marcellini, Maria Miranda, John Kelly Jr., Gary Szyllo, and Thomas Virgilio, to make and keep four promises for him.

Promise one was to work hard when they leave Talcottville School. He also asked them to keep physically fit by continuing an exercise program, to be patient with each other, and to take care of their own rooms.

Following Dr. Strauch's speech, slides were shown, mostly of those of the graduating class, showing their development and progress through their school years. The slides were accompanied by a recording of Debbie Boone's "You Light Up My Life."

Speaking next was Michael Murray, president of the Talcottville Parents' Association, who said he felt that the Talcottville graduates received a finer education than they could have anywhere else.

The parents and others are working to open up Hockanum Industries, a sheltered workshop for the Vernon area and he asked for the financial backing of all of the townspeople to get the program started soon.

He also spoke of recent Superior Court decisions concerning the rights of the handicapped. "I see a danger sign on the horizon with the court saying that some schools do not need to provide special education programs for the handicapped," he said.

He cautioned parents of handicapped children to be ever on guard to make sure that the rights they have worked so hard to get, are not eroded.

Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, spoke briefly telling the graduates they could be extremely proud of their accomplishments.

Dr. Albert Kerkin Jr., assistant superintendent in charge of special education, told those attending the graduation that he never had any doubt that the Talcottville program is not only the finest in this area and in the state but also in this country.

Anthony Magliocco, supervisor of special education, presented the students with their diplomas. Miss Wendy Morrison, teacher of the adult class at the school, said the special diplomas given to the students, state that the one receiving it has "successfully mastered social and academic requirements in line with his or her ability."

Donlon gave a brief farewell message for his class and a young student, Leigh Anna Luczon, helped Miss Morrison present some special certificates to some of the younger students.

Everyone joined in singing the class song, "Sing a Song," and Magliocco made a brief closing speech.

Graduates, other students and guests gathered in Miss Morrison's room for a reception and refreshments, following the program.

ECHS Class of 1979 Told It Was Different

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

HARTFORD — The Class of 1979 of East Catholic High School was told Thursday night that it was different from other graduating classes.

Senior class president Kevin Peter Moriarty of 31 Gardner St., Manchester, told the parents and friends who filled the St. Joseph's Cathedral in Hartford, that the stumbling blocks experienced along the way had only strengthened the class and brought it closer together.

Briefly commending the 282-member class on some of its other fine points, he concluded by directly addressing his classmates, which included his twin brother, Brian James Moriarty, 19. "There's a good difference in our class. You're not just a class, you're a class."

The graduating seniors were also told that this is a time to say thanks to the people who have helped in the disposal of the world, the Rev. Ed-

Pump Break Means Stop At N-Plant

WATERFORD (UPI) — An auxiliary water pump broke during the five-day shutdown by using more expensive oil-fired units was originally estimated to be $100,000 a day, but Northeast said the actual cost was closer to $50,000.

"That would bring the total cost close to $2 million," said Emmanuel Forde, another Northeast spokesman.

Forde said most of that cost will be covered by contingency funds provided for in the current customer rate structure. The remainder would be picked up by Northeast shareholders, he said.

Hill said he expected it would cost $500,000 for each of the two days the plant is out of operation.

When the valve leaks were discovered early Sunday, the steam condensed at a rate of 67 gallons per hour, plant spokesmen said. The system was shut down because it allows for a maximum leakage of only 60 gallons per hour.

Millstone II, Connecticut's largest atomer power facility has been shut down since Sunday for repairs on faulty steam valves which were leaking slightly radioactive steam in the plant's primary cooling system.

Northeast said Thursday night that five-day shutdown would cost its customers and shareholders almost $2 million.

Towns Can't Resolve Sewer Pact Dispute

MANCHESTER — Officials from Manchester and South Windsor met Thursday and were unable to resolve the recent dispute about the two-town sewer agreement.

Manchester officials, however, have agreed to send a letter providing assurances that South Windsor still is seeking.

Earlier this week, Manchester sent a letter about the matter to South Windsor.

"That was not sufficient," Richard Rittenband, South Windsor's town attorney, said.

Manchester has agreed to send a second letter with more detail about the assurances South Windsor is seeking. Rittenband and William Shea, Manchester's assistant town attorney, said.

The two towns have an agreement to accept sewage from the other in certain areas where topography and geography make it easier to send sewage to the other town. It is difficult and more expensive to send sewage uphill because it requires pumping to do so.

South Windsor is concerned, however, because areas in Manchester where sewer lines would reverberated through the high vaulted cathedral.

The candidates for graduation processed to alternating lines, the boys in blue robes from one side of the altar and the girls in white from the other side, to the center where the Most Rev. John F. Hackett, auxiliary bishop of Hartford, distributed the diplomas assisted by Sister Margaret Rita, assistant principal, and Sister Peggy, student advisor.

Expressions of the returning graduates revealed their sentiments upon receiving their diplomas — suppressed jubilation, shy smiles, and sobriety bordering on tears in a few instances.

Purcell's "Trumpet Tune" on the organ accompanied the recession into the warm evening outside where loved ones waited to take a final snapshot and to offer the gift of congratulations.

The 15th annual commencement exercises of East Catholic High School had ended.

Washington (UPI) — Energy Secretary James Schlesinger says the long run at gasoline stations around the country should disappear later this summer — but the oil industry says he may be jumping the gun.

Schlesinger predicted the summer would bring "a significant enhancement of gasoline supply availability" in the United States.

"Gas lines should end around the country," he told a news conference Tuesday. "There should be no general shortages."

But Schlesinger, who last year called talk of a gas shortage "rhetorical balderdash," and predicted only moderate price hikes this year, has seen long lines at stations across the country and a 19-cent rise so far in 1979.

Charles DiBona, president of the American Petroleum Institute, disagreed with Schlesinger's latest optimistic forecast, saying small week-to-week increases or decreases in oil imports would determine the length of lines at gas stations.

Schlesinger said crude oil imports increased last week to about 6.5 million barrels a day, but oil refineries slowed operations from about 87 percent to 84 percent of capacity.

"The overall decline in the pace of refinery operations is disappointing," he said. "It is troublesome and mechanical problems are part of the explanation."

The American Automobile Association said Thursday gasoline prices jumped a penny last week and moved unheeded toward $1 a gallon.

The AAA said gas was generally available along major travel routes, but certain areas — such as New England, the Middle Atlantic states and the Washington, D.C., area — were particularly hard hit.

The average price of a gallon of full-service premium gas jumped to 32.4 cents, the AAA said, with 13 cents of the 19-cent increase coming in the last two months.

Full-service unleaded cost an average 90.6 cents and regular 86.8 cents, the AAA survey showed.

Still No Trace of Missing Officer

By JAMES V. HEALION
NEW LONDON (UPI) — The police chief calls the waterfront's 419 Club Cafe "a lowlife joint, a hangout for unsavory characters." But some of the bar's regulars still turned to the hunt for a strait-laced U.S. Coast Guard radar installer who vanished more than two months ago.

The missing man is Chief Warrant Officer Richard E. Eastman, 46, commander of a three-man team of radar installers. For the past three years he had been servicing the navigational detection equipment aboard Coast Guard vessels from Brownsville, Tex., to Rockland, Maine. But he hasn't been seen since April 2.

"We are not looking for any guys in baggy suits," a federal source said, a reference to Russian espionage agents whose countermeasures are generally known more for the full cut of their clothes than for their tailored elegance.

An associate of Eastman's and members of his family said the radar he installed was non-classified and similar to that used by fishing boats to detect and calculate the position of other vessels hidden in fog or darkness.

In his structured military life, the paunchy Eastman had an unblemished record. He was due to retire this month after 30 years of service, and planned a quiet trip to Canada with his wife, Dorothy, in their Winnebag motor home.

Despite Police Chief Samuel Fandel's description of the 419 Club Cafe — which has been raided twice by narcotics agents — the five bartenders and some customers organized search parties.

"And we went looking to see what we could find. We looked everywhere. It's a terrible thing to happen," barmaid Gloria Smith said.

The efforts of the Bank Street Irregulars, the New London Police Department, the Coast Guard, the state attorney's office, and the FBI so far have not produced the officer who always called home two or three times weekly, sometimes for recipes.

The main reason for the FBI's "tenacious entree" into the case is Eastman's missing government motor pool sedan, a green 1976 American Motors "Hornet," carrying the identification number E23-36848.

It contained a small amount of radar testing equipment valued at $5,000, the largest piece no bigger than a 12-inch television set.

Eastman's daughter, Mrs. William Colestar, 23, an articulate Richmond, Va., social worker, strongly doubts her father's presence in the 419 on the night of April 2 because "Dad was extremely prejudiced," she said, "and he would not be in a bar." Fandel said this man, whom he declined to identify but described as a retired Navy chief, did indeed patronize the 419, though not on the night in question. "We're not sure who they've been seeing there," he said.

If anybody's baffled, it is Eastman's missing man in the radar unit, Chief Petty Officer George Demeter who apparently knew him as well as anybody and last saw Eastman before 10 p.m. April 2 at the Navy Lodge, a motel in nearby Groton where the men were staying.

Eastman told him he was going to his room and would see him the next day aboard the Coast Guard training bark Eagle, where Eastman expected some New York colleagues to inspect the sailing ship's radar system. When he failed to report aboard, Demeter notified Coast Guard brass.

Even though Eastman's reputation as a family man seemed to belie the assumption, his wife and daughter said the Coast Guard and the police reacted by suggesting he was on a spree.

One official opposed the $1,000 reward — since increased to $1,500 — the family posted because it would have to be paid if it turned out to be a last weekend and "a friend" turned her father in, Mrs. Colestar said.

She has been waging a forceful campaign to get at the truth of her father's disappearance and the indirectly gave authorities their first clue as to his possible whereabouts on the night of April 2.

Mrs. Colestar said she telephoned credit card companies at 11 a.m. April 5 to cancel the account. Four

Tax Rate High but Low

MANCHESTER — The town's tax rate is higher than the state average but lower than most region towns, town officials said.

Janet Chaves, the town's budget analyst, prepared a report on town mill rates in response to a similar report by the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council.

Board Meets Tonight

HEBRON — The Hebron Board of Education will meet tonight at 8 in the library at Gilead Hill School. A presentation of a proposed social studies text will be given at the beginning of the meeting.

Other items on the agenda include: action on resignations and appointments and an executive session for the proper evaluations, discussion of the teacher budget and required action, approval of Title I and Title VI applications for the 1979-80 school year, a decision on Project RISE membership agreement, approval for use of unexpended funds and discussion of insurance coverage.

The board will also hear committee reports, a financial summary, a report on preschool screening, will award some bids, and will review the Parent Volunteer Program.

several area towns and also included the state average.

Manchester has an equalized mill rate of 29.32, which is above the 19.3 state average.

Manchester's rate is more than Windsor (19) and East Hartford (18.3) but less than Glastonbury (22), Vernon (21.8) and West Hartford (21.2).

The equalized mill rate is calculated by figuring varying assessment ratios, tax rates and home values. It permits comparison of mill rates between towns.

Ms. Chaves also said that Manchester spent $595 per person based on this year's budget. This is below the state average of $646.

It also is below most other surrounding towns of comparable size, including South Windsor ($782), Glastonbury ($708), and East Hartford ($669).

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fireman Walter J. Smith, 31, of Bellmore, N.Y., was killed Thursday when, along with several other firefighters, he was trying to pinpoint the location of a four-alarm fire at Macy's department store. The ceiling collapsed and the entire area burst into flames. He was the second person to die on the job this year.

MIDLAND, Mich. (UPI) — Argon, a colorless, odorless gas used in welding accumulated inside the still-unfinished core of the second nuclear unit at Consumers Power Co.'s Midland facility and killed Don Kinsala, 54, the site engineer for Babcock & Wilcox, the company that designed the reactors. Eleven other workers were injured.

Civil Service employees are holding demonstrations across the country today in protest of President Carter's promise to hold they pay increases to 5.5 percent again this year. One civil servant greeted reporters in the president's hometown of Plains, Ga., with the words: "Welcome to the devil's den."

Carter has yet to send Congress the civil service pay package for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, but he has called for holding raises to 5.5 percent as part of his campaign against inflation.

Good and Mostly Bad News

If you can forget about the price of gas for a few minutes, here's a case where a rising price is good news.
The increasing value of the dollar in foreign exchange markets - its price in terms of other currencies - has enabled the United States to settle its debts to foreign central banks.

Other Editors Say

We've given up asking how long President Carter is going to put up with Andrew Young's denigration of the country he is supposed to represent. It's become obvious that the U.S. Permanent Representative to the United Nations has carte blanche when it comes to remarks designed to insult and embarrass the United States.

Thoughts

In the margin of a page for publication was the editor's terse note, "omit if crowded," with an arrow to a circled paragraph. That paragraph may have been well-written and informative. But compared to the other paragraphs, it was of lesser importance.

A Romanov to Rule Russia Again?

WASHINGTON - Will a Romanov rule Russia again, more than 60 years after the last czar was executed by his communist captors? The Central Intelligence Agency thinks it is at least possible.

The Romanov in question is not a son of the old royal family, of course. He is Grigory Romanov, a Communist Party leader from Leningrad who at 56 is the youngest member of the Soviet Union's ruling body, the Politburo.

Named to full Politburo membership at the 25th Party Congress in 1976, Romanov is considered by Kremlin watchers as perhaps the strongest candidate for ultimate succession to top dog in the Soviet Union. He is merely waiting for party boss Leonid Brezhnev and the other old men in the Kremlin to shuffle off the scene.

This Truth is Self Evident: Alfred E. Kahn, the administration's field marshal in its war on inflation, has come up with the definitive word to Americans on how the so-far losing battle is affecting them.

We needed to betold!

Carter at the Summit

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter is finally getting acquainted with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev - at a summit meeting Carter has wanted since he came into office.

Before that, Brezhnev met at two summits in Moscow with President Richard Nixon and once more in Washington and San Clemente. The last summit meeting in June 1973 with Nixon was a disaster with the American president was a politically dying man as a result of the Watergate scandal.

consider his age an asset. "His relative youth and vigor could prove an important plus for him, especially in terms of succession - reduce his appeal among the basically conservative party leadership," the CIA noted, explaining: "Many party and government officials, remembering Khrushchev's 'harbored schemes' and probably desiring stability above all, might view a Romanov candidacy with misgiving."

On foreign policy, Romanov is described by the CIA as having "an enthusiasm for détente that may be tempered by his interest in strengthening defense industries, which are heavily located in Leningrad."

Interestingly, the CIA report didn't even discuss the possible effect that Romanov's name might have on his career. The old anti-Romanov paranoia - which led Stalin to have the strains of the czarist anthem get a serious rival and then blamed on Stalin's enemies - that touched off the bloody purges of the 1930s.

What's in a name? An unfair competitive edge, according to the Federal Trade Commission. A reward for marketing a successful product, according to the makers of Formica and their friends in Congress.

Acting under a 1946 law, the FTC recommended that the plastic laminate manufacturer be stripped of its exclusive use of the trademarked Formica name.

Phantom Village Follow-up: Construction is always interesting in Washington. Ed Weinberg is the lawyer for Konig Inc., an Alaskan native development corporation, that claims 110,000 acres of valuable federal land in Alaska.

So who introduced legislation giving Konig the 110,000 acres? How Konig got the 110,000 acres was the focus of a hearing in the House last week. Stewart Udall, D-Ariz., chairman of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

Conveniently overlooked was the charge that Konig's land claim was based partly on "phantom" native villages that were created on paper only, for the specific purpose of grabbing the acreage from Uncle Sam.

Free outdoor movies will be held every Tuesday night at Mt. Nebo field between 8:30 and 11. The series begins June 26 with the "The Odesa File."

Swenson Red Cross Chairman

MANCHESTER - Joseph L. Swenson Sr. of 560 Porter St. has been named chairman of the Manchester-Bolton Branch, American Red Cross.

Certificates of appreciation were presented to Jeffrey P. Clarke, Norman M. Holmes and Robert B. Weiss whose terms as directors had expired.

After his comments, the minister was given a plant by the Board of Directors and a certificate of appreciation by Robert Ewing, chairman of the Greater Hartford Chapter, guest speaker.

That undoubtedly will also be the choice of Carter and Brezhnev whose responsibilities as superpower leaders call for responsible decisions to make the world a little less dangerous place in which to live.

Wing at Hospital To Open Monday

VERNON — It is expected that the first patient will be treated in the new wing of Rockville General Hospital, Monday morning when the new physical therapy unit is put into use.

The new Belding Wing houses enlarged physical therapy and renal dialysis facilities on the lower level, new emergency and respiratory care services on the main floor and a nine-bed pediatric unit on the second floor.

Construction was started last fall and the physical therapy section is the first to be completed. The new wing is on the west end of the existing building.

Hospital officials are planning a series of events to continue throughout the summer in celebration of the opening of the new wing. The formal dedication ceremonies are scheduled for Sept. 11.

Events already scheduled will include three senior citizen luncheons to take place at 11 a.m. on June 28, July 26, and August 20.

The luncheons will be free for senior citizens and will include a tour of the new building. Also, hospital dietitians will offer helpful hints on nutritional needs of the elderly. They will cover such topics as common food fallacies, labeling, dietetic foods, additives, costs and advertising.

The luncheons will be open to senior citizens who are not already associated with the hospital in other capacities. There will be other events for hospital-affiliated peoples such as volunteers, members of the auxiliary, and employees.

Registration will be limited to the first 50 people at each luncheon and registrations may be made by calling the hospital's community relations department, 872-6501, ext. 263.

In connection with the building of the new wing, the hospital, for the first time, has presented a fund drive. The Belding family, formerly from Rockville, donated $300,000 to help finance the project and this along with other contributions is being used to complete the $2.1 million needed.

The nine-patient unit for infants and children and teen-agers is adjacent to the maternity and nursery wing built in 1963.

The new expanded emergency department has several special units such as orthopedic, surgical, eye, ear, nose, and throat emergency care and cardiac-critical medicine.

The wing will also house a new well-equipped electrocardiography, electroencephalography, cardiopulmonary and respiratory therapy units to serve both inpatients and outpatients.

A new kidney dialysis unit with more treatment stations than at present to serve the increasing numbers of patients whose lives depend on the dialysis procedures, is also part of the new wing.

Included in the plan was the reallocation of vacated space in the Maxwell Building which is the original hospital building and plus space in the wing built in 1963. This space will be effectively used for expansion of administrative space.

School Date Change Not What Was Asked

BOLTON — The Board of Education revised the 1979-1980 school calendar at its meeting Thursday but the revision apparently wasn't what a group of parents had in mind.

A petition expressing unhappiness with the school calendar was submitted to the school board. The petition, signed by a 103 people, said the week long February vacation should be eliminated and modified by long weekends.

The board moved to "leave the calendar intact but revise when snow days would be made up." The first snow day will be made up June 18, the next three will be made up February 19, 20 and 21 and any other that will be made up from June 19 on.

Voicing in favor of the motion were James Marshall, Barbara Smith and Andrew Pinto. Voicing against the motion were Louis Cloutier and Michael Parsons.

Cloutier favored leaving the calendar alone. He said, "If you take snow days in February the people won't be able to plan anything." Parsons said, "I can't see losing the continuity of a long vacation just to pick up two days."

School Superintendent Raymond Allen said, "If the February vacation is modified by long weekends it will only save two days in the school year."

Five residents attended the board meeting to express their feelings about the calendar. They were Bob and Pat Putman, Don and Mary Mann and Doris Grisell.

Don Mann said, "I have a strong personal feeling there is ample free time for the kids between Christmas and April vacation. Without the February vacation the children could get out earlier. The later in June you

Court Hears Arguments in Buckland EPA Case

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has reserved decision in a challenge to a federal Environmental Protection Agency clean air ruling in Connecticut that grew out of opposition to development of the Buckland Industrial Park.

The three-judge court heard arguments Thursday on the request by the Manchester Environmental Coalition for a court review of the EPA's approval in January of Connecticut's application to revise its State Implementation Plan (SIP).

The EPA's action modified Connecticut's Sources of Air Pollution program by providing for a review of highways and airports only reviewed facilities such as shopping centers, parking lots and sports complexes.

The issues were described by lawyers as "unique." Lawyers for the Manchester coalition said the court's ruling could effect similar clean air efforts in 14 other states.

Anthony Fagan, a lawyer representing Manchester, argued that the EPA ruling violated the fundamental purpose of the Clean Air Act and deprived Connecticut of its control of vehicular pollutants.

"The approval was granted without the requirement that Connecticut substitute an alternative method of controlling such pollutants," he said. "Thus the action will cause the Manchester Environmental Coalition to breathe air which will be less pure than that mandated by the Act."

The EPA contended the ruling represented a "reasonable interpretation" of the Clean Air Act — "not the only one possible, but one which is reasonable considering all the relevant factors."

Joel Moskowitz, the deputy attorney general of California appeared as a friend of the court and urged reversal of the EPA's decision. The agency, he said, has ignored the

DOT Urges Road Work

VERNON — The State Department of Transportation has made recommendations to the town Traffic Authority for recommendations to Route 74 which is Union and Main Street running through Rockville. The state recommends widening the road at Routes 83 and 74, a busy intersection where there have been frequent accidents. The state feels the north and east approaches to the intersection should be widened to create two lanes and to have sidewalk ramps replace curbs.

State officials also recommend that the traffic signal now at that intersection be changed to reflect traffic changes and possibly to connect with a signal at Orchard Street intersection.

At another intersection of Route 74, by the roadway that goes into the post office, and Prospect Street, the state is recommending that two approach lanes be created in each direction simply by repainting the traffic lines and banning on-street parking in that area.

In the center of Rockville, at the intersection of Route 74, Elm Street and West Main Street, the state would like to see a traffic island removed along with the connector roadway.

At the Park Street intersection, also in the center of Rockville, the state would like to see the temporary traffic island replaced with a permanent one.

Dump Ordered to Open

HARTFORD (UPI) — Colchester officials say they will appeal a Hartford Superior Court judge's ruling ordering the town's 10-acre landfill reopened to accept garbage from at least two other towns.

Judge William D. Graham's order Thursday requires state Environmental Protection Commissioner Stanley Pac to designate the Colchester dump as an alternative dumping site for former users of a dump in Rocky Hill.

Reduction Associates, the plaintiff in the suit that led to Graham's ruling, has been hauling garbage from Milford and West Hartford to the East Windsor landfill since the Rocky Hill dump was ordered closed in March.

Town Seeks To Eliminate Sewer Odor

MANCHESTER — The town is going through a process of elimination to determine the cause of a problem at the sewage treatment plant that has generated an odor and several complaints.

Bob Young, the town's water treatment manager who also has been working at the sewage plant, said the town has taken some steps already to eliminate the odor.

He has received complaints from residents who live in the vicinity of the plant, which is located off Olcott Street.

"We're going by process of elimination to eliminate things that might be causing it," he said.

The town has cleaned out a couple of aeration tanks that hold sludge during part of the treatment process. A grit chamber also has been pumped and cleaned, Young said.

Thursday, the town also began burning sewage gas that previously was being released into the air, he said.

The gas is released occasionally from sewage treatment tanks to eliminate any buildup within the tank. Burning the gas rather than releasing it into the air should help cut down an odor problem, Young said.

The odor also may be caused by recent warmer temperatures that help increase bacteria growth. Steps will be taken to reduce this problem, he said.

Young said he received complaints as early as Monday about the odor. He has been out every night this week trying to find the problem.

"We've been through the entire plant," he said.

Similar odor problems have occurred in the past and resulted in complaints from nearby residents.

HEBRON — In a letter sent to Hebron parents and citizens, Joseph Pelletier, chairman of the Hebron Board of Education, said the board appreciates the cooperation of the Board of Finance and actions it took at a joint meeting of the two boards last week.

The board's budget and the general government budget will be going to a third town meeting this coming Monday. The budget proposal has been rejected twice by the town-people.

In his letter, Pelletier said, "The Hebron Board of Finance has voted unanimously to add $18,700 to the Board of Education budget — the Hebron Board of Education voted unanimously to express support for the revised town budget proposed by the Board of Finance."

The total combined budget is $3,043,438 with $1,161,579 being the education budget and the remaining $1,881,859 for general government.

Pelletier explained that with the finance board's approval for the school board to use unexpended 1978-79 funds, to partially offset the $63,700 cut from the board's budget request; a $10,000 savings in special education costs; a $7,000 reduction in the board's unemployment insurance account for 1979-80; and the additional $18,700 put back by the finance board, "We feel confident that the Board of Education will be able to maintain all planned programs, services, and purchases recommended in its proposed educational budget for the coming year."

Referring to the joint meeting of the two boards, Pelletier said he believes the joint meeting marks the beginning of increased communications and better relationships between the two boards.

Type-Casting Fear Common for Actors

By ALLEN WIDEM

The acting profession, be it on the stage, the silver screen, or immediate television, has a common fear. It's called "type-casting" — being identified with a role to the point where the part seemingly is the ONLY thing said performer can handle today, tomorrow and the day after tomorrow. Insecurity is prevalent.

Going through the throes of network executive echelon deliberations — all right, more informally, the guys who call the shots at ABC, NBC, CBS scan the ratings, say unto each other, who stays? who comes?

"Take ABC's 'Battletstar Galactica.' An instant success at the start of the 1978-79 season, by mid-term, so to speak, Lorne Greene's Adama and colleagues had had it. And Lorne Greene's Adama and colleagues began asking each other, where do you go? Where do you go? The question was asked, with an instant success that became a complete disaster?"

Greene is a poised, polished performer. He is recognized, respected, NBC's "Bonanza" cast him as Pa Cartwright for a lot of years. And when "Bonanza" began winding down, ratings-wise, the question was sounded, what happens to Lorne Greene?

He dallied a bit with far-from-spectacular roles. Then "Battletstar Galactica" came along. Right smack in the middle of enormous Sci-Fi enthusiasm. The enthusiasm, more than the Greene character, per se, propelled "Battletstar Galactica" to instant success.

Raymond Burr was "Perry Mason" for a lot of years. The cynics who abound in "show-biz" were heard to say that Burr was so identified with the always successful barrister that it would be impossible for him to play another major series role.

Along came "Ironside." Burr was among the few in network television to span the obvious gap.

John Forsythe has never duplicated the response generated for "Bachelor Father." Mary Tyler Moore had a top hit, a continuing hit, with "The Mary Tyler Moore Show." She proceeded to "bomb out" with a variety of roles.

She is going to give prime-time another try. If, indeed, it's a situation-comedy, a la "TMTMS" format, she has an outside chance. At best, folks still are fond of "Mary Richards."

At the risk of bearing "I Told You So" what succeeded, would Lucille Ball have in non-comedy? Carole Burnett came up with an unusual schtick in her career — straight drama a white back. But if she goes according to Hollywood pattern, she will continue in comedy because, frankly, finally, she seems to like comedy best.

On a regional level, a TV news anchorman (a la Pat Sheehan, WFSB-TV, Ch. 3; R.D. Sahl, WTVT-TV, Ch. 30) would rarely be found handling sportscasting.

Newscasting is an exacting craft and its practitioners tend to stay in the genre. In the event of a job-shift, it's generally from one station to another, but just about always in the same kind of career track.

Entertainment has been kind to a lot of talented people. It has enabled them to do their thing. But the feeling of insecurity is constant. Even with a top-rated show, the principal performer is always worried about the Nielsen for mid-season, for next season. There is always apprehension over what's happening at the next network. Today, tomorrow ...

Tony Randall went from "The Odd Couple" to "The Tony Randall Show." It flourished, faded away. "The Odd Couple" was an end-out-of-hat. "The Tony Randall Show," perhaps in another prime-time slot, could have hit ratings.

"The Odd Couple" had him as a complete buffoon. "The Tony Randall Show" with Mr. R. as a judge, was light years away, and, as such, had the sustaining substance with the star. That's an unbeatable combination.

"Ironside" proved this. The aforementioned "Mary Tyler Moore Show" alumni includes Gavin MacLeod, newsreader Murray Close and now the captain aboard "Love Boat" (a continuing hit). Edward Asner, the Lou Grant, boss of the Mary Richards character, and now on "The Lou Grant Show" (a continuing hit), of sorts, but, in itself, vastly different on the strength of dramatic content alone.)

Ed Knight, one of Connecticut's own, who played bumbling news anchorman Ted Baxter (his own show, in which he played the head of an escort service bombed out in the ratings).

The countdown is skippy when one gets around to listing those able to span the gap between long-established role and newly established role. No wonder insecurity rules the roost.

Author Changes Myth Of Nothing in State

By ARTHUR P. BUSHNELL

HARTFORD (UPI) — Paul Cohen wanted to change the myth that he has to leave Connecticut to find outdoor recreation. So he spent two years putting together an "encyclopedia" for instate travel.

"I personally can't stand driving any great distance," he said in a recent interview. "What makes it even more frustrating is to have limited time and then getting tied up in traffic. I can't spend 16 hours of a weekend traveling."

Cohen, 33, a New Haven native who now lives in Westport, got an assist from the state of Connecticut — which provided pictures, information and maps for the effort to promote the state.

He also got a last-minute boost from an unexpected source — the gas crunch. The high-price and low-supply of fuel made his book's claim of "all trips within one tank of gas" all the more topical.

"But he hadn't actually set out for such a mammoth venture when he began."

Cohen was a harassed businessman who began fishing "for environmental travel" to ease the daily pressures that had given him an ulcer.

He had wanted to share some of his newfound fishing knowledge — and pass on some good tips he'd gotten from other fishermen.

But when Cohen set out to research a book on fishing, he found there wasn't a source of information he could turn to for background on related topics.

"So I just kept adding topics until finally I came out with a book that was almost 300 pages long and suits the needs of people who want to spend their vacation in Connecticut," he said.

Shakespeare Season

STRATFORD — The American Shakespeare Theatre will present a highly provocative production of "Julius Caesar" to lead off its 1979 three play repertory festival summer season.

Under the direction of Gerald Freedman, Shakespeare's play of Roman political turmoil becomes a modern day media event where public and private moralities conflict and result in conspiracy, assassination and revolution.

Mr. Freedman, in his second season as Stratford's Artistic Director, will present a "Caesar" not intended "to mirror any current event as such, rather it is to place some perspective on the events of Julius Caesar and on the events of our day."

The festival, filmstrips, videotapes, photographic stills, slides and a special emphasis on sound will be utilized by Director Freedman to illuminate the larger issues (of the play):

In accordance with the media-oriented approach, Mr. Freedman has chosen to clothe the actors in contemporary dress, and is well aware of what some will perceive as the "problem" of Shakespeare in contemporary costumes.

"Some people will bridle because this 'Caesar' is a modern dress production," he said, "but would they object to Jacobean costume as it was in fact presented originally?"

"There are larger issues in 'Julius Caesar' than the details of costume. From this particular viewpoint, I hope to cast a sharper light on an aspect of the play's truth for today."

"Julius Caesar" previews June 22, and will be joined by "Twelfth Night" on June 29 and "The Tempest" on July 13. The three plays form the basis of the Shakespearean renaissance at Stratford.

For ticket information and reservations visit the American Shakespeare Theatre, Stratford, Conn. 06487, or call (203) 575-5000 or (212) 366-3900.

A capsule look at cinema

NEW RELEASE

ALIEN (R) — Tom Sherriff, Sigourney Weaver, John Hurt. Science fiction-horror. This is part "Star Wars," part "Jaws," as it tries to scare you to death furiously. A plodding old space adventurer takes aboard a monster, which does terrible things to the people it catches. The crew tries to kill it and definitely vice versa. If you like the type, this is GRAB-A-D, but avoid it if you scare easy.

GENERAL RELEASE

BUTCH AND SUNDANCE: THE EARLY DAYS (PG) — William B. Katz, Tom Berenger. Westerns. This is for everybody who loves Butch and Sundance even as young men, how they got started and began their notorious partnership. The two young actors look as though they could have grown into Redford and Newman, but otherwise this "prequel" is unlike the big hit film. Richard Lester, who used to direct with a splash, does this with a plod. GRAB-BE; C-plus.

HANDOVER STREET (PG) — Harrison Ford, Lesley-Anne Down, Christopher Pennamer. Romance. This is for everybody who's been saying, "Why don't they make pictures like they used to?" Except for one brief nude scene, this could have been made in the '60s. It's World War II again, England, American aviators and English girls. Best and nobility, a little adventure, a lot of banter. GRAB-BE.

LITTLE ROMANCE, A (PG) — Laurence Olivier, Arthur Hill, Sally Kellerman. Romantic comedy. This one will enchant you. A pair of teen-agers find each other, and find innocent romance, against a background of Paris and Venice. With lovely music and beautiful photography, this is fun, excitement and all those good things. GRAB-A.

LOVE AT FIRST BITE (PG) — George Hamilton, Susan Saint James, Arte Johnson. Comedy. You'll hate yourself in the morning, but you'll laugh while you watch yourself in the Dracula story. This time, Drack is back as a crack lover, in the present, and it's all done for fun. Enjoy. GRAB-BE.

MANHATTAN (R) — Woody Allen, Diane Kruger, Michael Murphy, Mariel Hemingway. Romantic comedy. Allen is back in his best form. He's directing, writing, acting and in the end in the area where he functions most wittily. That's the man-woman, husband-wife, boyfriend-girlfriend, stand-up comic, physician, black and white, and it's beautiful, funny and crisp. Only flaw: a little awkward. GRAB-BE; B-plus.

PRISONER OF ZENDA, THE (PG) — Peter Sellers, Lynn Procter, Erik Summer. Comedy. This one, on paper, sounded sure-fire: Sellers in a triple role in the oldest about the shoek who took the world by storm, even a sure needs a make and this one never lights up. It all seems strained, more so than he has. GRAB-BE; C-plus.

(Film grading: A — superb; B — good; C — average; D — poor; F — awful)

Slight Disagreement

Marshall Records 15th Save of Year

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Mike Marshall earned his 15th save in 37 appearances Thursday night, and credited it to his strategy after the New York Yankees cooked up a threat to welcome him in the seventh inning.

Roy White and Juan Beniquez opened that inning with singles and both advanced on Bucky Dent's sacrifice. Marshall proceeded to hit Mickey Rivers with a pitch to load the bases, enhancing chances for a double play. The Minnesota Twins made the play and went on to win 4-2. But Marshall said things didn't happen the way he planned. "Anytime you load the bases, you diminish the strike zone for the next batter. You have to come in high high to him and that makes a 220 hitter a 200 hitter. I don't like that situation," he said. "It worked out well this time, but I would have preferred to have Rivers pop up to second, and then get Willie Randolph on a groundout."

Marshall made an outstanding play at first base for the second out in the ninth. He took a wide throw from Ron Jackson, beating White to the bag by a hair and oversmiling to the turf.

Zimmer Gains Respect From Club in 24 Hours

CHICAGO (UPI) — The skipper has reassured his control and the Boston Red Sox, with two new faces and a successful start on their abbreviated road trip, look to continue their success tonight against the Chicago White Sox.

Boston will send Mike Torrez, 6-3, to the mound in the opener of a three-game set with the White Sox. Chicago will counter with Francisco Barrios, 6-3 who beat Boston last week in Fenway Park.

The Red Sox took two of three from Kansas City in their most successful visit to Royals Stadium since their pennant winning year of 1975. They also added designated hitman Bob Hobson, who has missed the past two games with a pulled muscle, is seeing as how Zimmer must keep expected to return to third base.

Watson arrived in Chicago Thursday and will be in uniform for tonight's game. "It's a natural feeling, to want to be with a winning ballclub," said Watson, who's hitting only .289, but has never less than .289 since 1971.

"It was a long time coming. This year the club (Houston) got off to its best start, but I wasn't a part of it. I'm glad I figure I'm the one who's going to go. I'm sorry about that if it's true, because in the last 24 hours, I've become convinced that if I could be one place in baseball, it would be with the Red Sox."

Anderson Thrilled Back in Uniform

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I found out baseball doesn't need Sparky Anderson, Sparky Anderson needs baseball."

Anderson, who signed to manage Detroit for the next five years. With the score tied 2-2 in the top of the ninth, third baseman Aurelio Rodriguez was called for a balk. A spokesman at Henry Ford Hospital said Cash, 44, was in an intensive care unit and was "conscious." There was evidence of "paralysis on his right side," said spokesman Patty McCarthy.

Landover, Md. (UPI) — The Washington Bullets announced Thursday center-forward Mitch Kupchak's back injury has been diagnosed as a herniated disc. A team spokesman said no decision had been made about what treatment Kupchak will receive.

Bjorn Borg (UPI) — Bjorn Borg's victory in the French Open Tennis Championships Sunday lifted him from first place above losing semifinalist Jimmy Connors in the current Grand Prix rankings.

Expos Continue Hot Home Mark NEW YORK (UPI) — That French-Canadian hospitality seems to be lacking in the Montreal Expos and Manager Dick Williams and his team say the reason is simple — it's just because they're not losing at the Olympic Stadium.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Jets announced Thursday the trade of cornerback Neil Hutton and linebacker Randy Sieder to the Washington Redskins for an undisclosed conditional draft choice in 1980.

Tourney, HCC Tie Eagle Highlights

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sportswriter Somewhat spotty, but overall most successful was the 1979 baseball season for East Catholic High.

The Eagles, after a three-year absence, returned to state tournament play, bowing out to eventual state Class LL champ Windsor High. They did manage to share the Hartford County Conference (HCC) crown with Xavier, each 9-1.

East, 17-4 overall, had 14 victories in 15 outings and a .292 team batting average at one point. But a collective batting slump took over and the Eagles wound up at .254 (189 for 744).

Some assistance may be found from Coach Bob Martin's 194 javney club. Sophomore Dennis McCoy led in the final weeks, going 9 for 17 (.529) with the varsity. He's a pitcher's first baseman.

Hershberger's Death With Redlegs Recalled

By MILT RICHMAN NEW YORK (UPI) — They were the Newark Bears, and they weren't at all like the playful, adolescent Bad News Bears of today, but the kind who obviously enjoyed mauling and clawing all the other clubs between them and leaving them lying there dead.

Remember clearly how each year in the late '30s, the parent New York Yankees would stock Newark with prize players, such as unaccommodated skills that some people regarded as the only team better than the Bears in all baseball were the Yankees themselves.

Certainly, there never was a more awesome minor-league club, nor very likely a better one than the 1937 Bears. They made a charade of the International League pennant race that season, winning it by an almost ludicrous 5 1/2 games and then beating an excellent Columbus club in the Little World Series.

Down through the years, Newark served as a funnel for future major leaguers and not too long ago some fertile mind came up with the splendid idea of honoring those fellows.

Some of them, of course, won't be developing interest because they're gone and one of those is Willard Hershberger, the little hard-hitting catcher who committed suicide in 1940 at the age of 29.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 17-year-old girl. I quit high school to work and save enough money for college. My mom helped me get a fantastic job.

I want to move into an apartment closer to my job. I've already made plans and even got myself a roommate! I'm not running away from home or anything like that. I'm just wanting to be independent and get out from under my mom's protective wing.

Here's my problem: I'm afraid my mom won't let me move out, especially when she finds out my roommate is a boy!

I love my mother and don't want to hurt her, but she won't let me move out. I'm in the harbor forever. What do you think?

TROUBLED IN TEXAS

DEAR TROUBLED: I can understand your desire for independence, but you're no ship. And even if you were, leaving your berth at 17 to sail the uncharted seas of a life-in-arrangement could put you on the rocks in no time.

DEAR ABBY: I was engaged to be married in August. I ordered my bridal gown and four bridesmaids' dresses. It came to a sizable amount.

I have lots of other bills, plus car payments to make, so I'm a strapped financially.

Two weeks after the dresses were ordered, my fiance broke our engagement, saying he had serious doubts for over a month about whether we should marry. He said he has now finally summoned the nerve to tell me that he is sure it would be a mistake and we should call it off.

Abby, since he had "serious doubts" at the time the dresses were ordered, I think he should have told me. When I placed that order, I had no idea he was having doubts.

Now I am informed that because the dresses were specially ordered they cannot be returned.

Is my ex-fiance responsible for this bill?

EX-BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR EX: I think your ex-fiance has a moral obligation to pay for the gowns but, if he doesn't think so, you may have to resort to legal action. Perhaps just the mention of it might produce results. Try it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a good provider for my family which consists of me, age 31, plus our four daughters, 12, 10, 8 and 6.

I lost a baby two years ago. I am enclosing a picture of me. As you can see, I am pregnant and the doctor says I'm carrying twins! My husband took that picture. It's one of the few he's ever taken of me with all my clothes on, which brings me to my problem.

You see, my husband is camera crazy, and for the last three years he has insisted on taking pictures of me and our daughters in various stages of undress as well as in the nude.

How can I get across to my husband that the girls are getting too big for these "family portraits" as he calls them.

Also, I don't feel like posing in various stages of undress while pregnant, but he insists it doesn't matter.

Am I out of line for putting my foot down?

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH IN OHIO

DEAR ENOUGH: No. I think your husband has an unhealthy preoccupation with nudity. You can get your message across to him by refusing to pose unless wearing clothes. And instruct the girls to do likewise.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular. You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 to a local, self-addressed, stamped, 10-cent envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Win at bridge

Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Play the breaks you find to do the best he can. He wins the club in his hand. Cashes the ace and king of trumps and goes after diamonds. They do break 4-2, but South is lucky. West holds the lone diamonds so South can ruff small. Now South cashes the ace and king of hearts and ruffs his last heart with that trump. The play of his last trump to pull that jack of trumps and discard the low club left in dummy. Dummy's ace of clubs and the fifth diamond take the last two tricks.

Hearthcliff — George Gately

South finds himself in a poor seven-spade contract. He does not stop to berate his partner for bidding on what might be described as cheese, but goes about the business of trying to make the grand slam. Trumps have to break 3-2 to help him. Then if diamonds break 2-3 also he has a clinch. Can he handle a 4-2 diamond break? Possibly, so he bids.

Ask the Experts

Your partner responds one spade to your one diamond opening. A Quebec reader wants to know what rebid we recommend. We recommend a raise to two spades. We only have three trumps, but two are honors. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE, 7-10-79)

Learning Full-Time Job For Manchester Woman

MANCHESTER — For Mrs. Richard Conti of 18 Winter St., learning is an eight-hour job at one of the nation's oldest manufacturing industries.

Mrs. Conti is employed under Central Connecticut State College's Cooperative Education Program as a technical assistant at the C.H. Dexter Division of the Dexter Corp. in Windsor Locks.

One of four Central students at the 213-year-old company this spring, Mrs. Conti is a computer science major at the college who will receive her bachelor-of science a year from this May. Joining the company in January, Mrs. Conti, whose husband, Richard, is a third year University of Connecticut law student, participated in the development of a new statistical computer program to assist in evaluation of product quality control.

With a world wide reputation for high and consistent quality, Dexter conducts 888,000 tests annually on its varied products ranging from tea bags to medical masks. Compiling a comprehensive computer program to evaluate the statistics available from machines which monitor product quality on a daily basis took the Manchester resident two months.

"It was a challenge which was completely enjoyable," she says, noting that the computer program will correlate quality checks which monitor upwards of 2,000 variables which can affect the quality of the end product.

"With results of more than 800,000 tests to evaluate each year, the computer is the most efficient means by which to monitor quality on a day-to-day basis," says Robert McCarthy, supervisor of quality control and statistical services.

"She's terrific," says McCarthy of Mrs. Conti, "and performed far above our expectations in the job. Patricia handles a regular work load and has done a fantastic job for us."

William Heyse, vice president and technical director at the 700-employee Windsor Locks facility, feels the company has had a good experience with the student program. "Most of the interns do their jobs well and sometimes even exceed our expectations," he said.

The company, which has opened its doors to college students in work experience programs for more than a decade, recently hired a Central intern, Lisa Hill, who now works in the Medical Group of the Product Development Department at C.H. Dexter.

Mrs. Conti, who will complete the internship in this June, hopes to continue in the computer field after her graduation next May.

"The experience at Dexter will be invaluable to me," she said, "both in terms of application of my studies and in corporate experience."

Mrs. Richard Conti of Manchester works at her job in Windsor Locks as part of her education with Central Connecticut State College.

Reading Club Planned

When joining the club, children will sign a contract to read the number of books they feel they can finish by Aug. 7. There will be no weekly meetings, but staff members will work with the children in setting goals and selecting books.

Children signing up to participate will receive further details on how the club will operate and on the final party on Aug. 10.

MARC Has Awards Party

MANCHESTER — The Manchester Association for Retarded Citizens hosted the Connecticut Association for Retarded Citizens Annual Art Awards party June 12 at the Sheltered Workshop in Lincoln Center.

The winning entries are used to illustrate National Association for Retarded Citizens calendar, Christmas cards, stationery and notepaper, which are distributed and sold throughout the country. Each state organization conducts a contest and winning entries are entered in the national contest.

This year's awards were presented by Luella Horan, CARC. Recipients were present from Enfield, Bridgeport, Shoreline and Manchester ARCs.

Five clients from the Manchester Sheltered Workshop received awards. Ann Carlson, Mary Ann Remiszewski and Suzanne Gordon received a certificate and trophy for their designs in the calendar category on the state level.

Miss Remiszewski also placed third in the state level Christmas card contest. Karen Coleman placed third in the state for her entry in the notepaper and stationery category. Jeanne Bussiere's design in the notepaper and stationery category took second place in the state and went on to win first place in the national contest, as well. Miss Remiszewski and Miss Bussiere received checks from CARC and Savings Bonds from NARC, as well as certificates and trophies.

CARC presented trophies to the Manchester Association and the Enfield Association for the many winners each produced this year. Accepting the awards on behalf of the associations was Lewis Stein, executive director of MARC and Evelyn Baron from Enfield.

Extension Delays MEG Accord

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The fact-finder for the Municipal Employees Group Inc. contract has received a two-month extension, which will further delay a settlement that has taken more than a year.

The fact-finder in the case was granted an extension because he has been ill and has been unable to work on the case.

The fact-finder is appointed by the state Board of Mediation and Arbitration as the third step in settling municipal contract negotiations. The fact-finder listens to the presentations of both parties and then writes a proposed contract.

That contract must be approved by both parties to become effective.

The fact-finder in this case, Hartford attorney M. Jackson Webber, has completed listening to both sides. He now is in the process of writing his contract proposal and has received the two-month extension, until Aug. 15, to complete his work. He already had received a couple of extensions. The extension was granted by the state Board of Mediation and Arbitration, which would give no reason for granting such an extension.

One employee, referring to the length of the extension, said, "It must be a special reason." But, she would give no details.

Betty Tighe, president of MEG, said, "It's an exorbitant amount of time to have to wait."

She said the union filed its final brief May 2.

The union, which represents clerical and technical employees, has been working without a contract since July 1.

Mrs. Tighe said negotiations soon will start later this year for the union's next two-year contract. This cannot start until the present contract is finalized.

Steven Werbner, the town's personnel supervisor, said he has not been able to find out the reason for the two-month extension. He did not want to comment on the matter at this time.

The Clark's

The Clark's is famous by word of mouths.
More than 1,000 of them a week.

We've been lauded in newspapers, written up in magazines, but the songs of praise that are truly music to our ears are the ones sung by our multitude of patrons.

They come far and wide, every night and all day Sunday for dinner, from Monday through Friday for lunch. They share planked sirloin for two, rave about our double lamb chops, cherish the lobster stuffed with crabmeat, exclaim over the 30-pound soup and savor our clam chowder. This is a mere sampling, of course. London Broil, Prime Rib, Roast Duck are among many more.

At luncheon they can't believe the abundance The Clark's delivers for so small a tab.

They become our ambassadors. They tell their relatives, they tell their friends. They tell the world! They've made us famous. We love them all.

So come along. We've got room in our heart for you, too.
