If There's Money, Title I Program Will Expand

By CHARLIE MAYNARD
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Should additional funds become available, the Manchester school system will expand its Title I program to include students in remedial math. Dr. James Kennedy, superintendent of schools, said Monday the administration must apply by July 1 for the federal funds. He said the school system will also apply for a concentration grant, federal funds but state-administered, which could finance the math instruction for students with the learning problems.

The grant application was disclosed at a meeting between the administration and four parents of students in the remedial reading program. The parents requested the meeting with Kennedy, Dr. J. Gerald Fitzgibbon, assistant superintendent for instruction, and Carol Hill, Title I director, because of their concerns for the quality of the reading program. Some were worried about the math program would be introduced at the expense of the reading students.

However, both Kennedy and Fitzgibbon emphatically stated the reading program would not be adversely affected by the math program.

"There is no dilution of the present reading effort," Kennedy said. "There will be no math program at the expense of reading."

With those fears allayed, Kennedy listed the priorities for the 1979-80 Title I program. He said the main concern would still be the remedial reading students, followed by kindergarten and first graders in the early learning program. He said if there were additional funds from the Title I grant and the concentration grant, and there were enough openings students would be included in remedial math.

Mrs. Hill said the district can expect an increase of $23,000 under Title I funding, of which $18,000 covers inflation and staff salary increases.

The concentration grant, she said, was introduced by the U.S. Congress for counties with a high percentage of low income children. Hartford County qualifies for the money.

However, she added, it's still uncertain whether Congress will appropriate the money for the grant.

"We're not sure whether we can get the grant and how much it will be," Mrs. Hill said.

The remedial reading program will cover students in grades one through four and then the district will emphasize reading readiness in the kindergarten and first grade. If there are enough slots to fill, Mrs. Hill said, then the district would pick up remedial math for grades two through four.

Board Airs Rec Ideas

BOLTON — Two members of the Recreation Advisory Committee attended the Board of Selectmen's meeting Tuesday to voice their opinions about the committee and offer suggestions for improvement.

Robert Chamberland said, "The idea of a committee is excellent but parameters and duties should be spelled out."

James McCarry said there should be one commission instead of a separate advisory committee for the two department, rec and park.

He said, "I feel you should add to the committee and give ideas, but nothing is being done for next week and next year. There should be more 'wham' to the committee, you should come up with ideas and have them carried out."

The men were told by Selectmen Aloysius Ahearn that as committee members they had an equal vote. The men asked, "on what" and said, "We didn't know that."

Selectmen Ernest Shepherd suggested that the committee elect its own chairman in the future and suggested that the board review the language establishing the committee.

He said, "The work of both groups was unsatisfactory in the past because of the way they were constituted and only a change in the organization will make it work better."

First Selectman Henry Ryba said, "I feel I know what your problem is and I feel your problem will be changed. Come July 1 new appointments will be made and we'll probably add new blood to your committee."

Craig Patterson, rec director, informed the board by letter that he does not wish to seek reappointment to that position, for personal reasons. Patterson was thanked for his service during the past two years.

The program is for Bolton residents between the ages of 5 and

Youths Complete Hamilton Course

A number of area young people are among 69 young men and women who will be saluted Thursday for completing one of three training programs funded and developed by Hamilton Standard division of United Technologies under the auspices of the state Department of Transportation.

Hamilton officials said that the programs represent an effort to narrow the gap between hundreds of industrial jobs in Connecticut that go begging every year and the lack of skilled machinists to fill them.

The programs include a cooperative work-study program in which high school seniors from several area towns received on-the-job training and class instruction at Hamilton Standard; an evening course at the Howell Cheney Technical School in Manchester for recent high school graduates; and a similar course for recent Windsor Locks High School graduates, in cooperation with the town's public school systems.

Hamilton Standard was the first in the state to spearhead new programs designed to draw skilled men and women into the machining trade.

The following area young people were involved in the Howell Cheney Tech program: Bryant J. Bay, Richard Hawryls, and Carleton I. Perkins of South Windsor; Todd J. Bousquet, Noel J. Bradley, Gregg Selik and Wayne Semon of Vernon; Jeff K. Parandes, Chris K. Devin, Michael S. Shearer and Harvey B. Sleeves, Manchester; and Thomas P. Caruso and Wayne G. Cyr, East Hartford.

The Work-Study Program: Greg Vachula, William Soucy, and Thomas Pasay, South Windsor; Gary Boucher and Cathleen Shortell, Rockville, and Richard Rossignol, Manchester.

Council Conflict Alleged

VERNON — Town Attorney William Breslau will be asked for a ruling concerning town action on a possible conflict of interest involving a member of the Town Council.

The action taken by Mayor Frank McCoy was prompted by a ruling in New Haven Superior Court involving a Cheshire school teacher who also is a member of the Town Council there.

Mrs. Jane Lamb, a teacher at Rockville High School, is also a member of the Vernon Town Council.

The court ruling in New Haven states that the teacher cannot sit on the council and the Connecticut Education Association has said it plans to appeal the ruling some time this week. Members of the teachers' union have also said that the Cheshire teacher plans to seek reelection to the council in the fall.

Mayor McCoy will discuss the court ruling with Breslau mainly to determine if the Vernon council should take any action that would ensure that any vote taken by the council wouldn't or couldn't be challenged as illegal at a later date.

Mrs. Lamb has, since she has been on the council, been very careful not to vote on issues, such as the budget, that involve the school system in any way.

PUT ALL YOUR EGGS IN THE BLUEBERRY BASKET

People/Food

Eggs and blueberries come together and find they go together very well

Mark Twain once suggested that you put all your eggs in one basket—and then watch the basket.

If it's a blueberry basket that the eggs are going into, you can be sure it will bear watching. Otherwise, the delicious treats that are made with eggs and blueberries will disappear right before your eyes.

"Who can help loving the land that has taught us six hundred and eighty-five ways to dress eggs?", Irish wit Thomas Moore wrote in the nineteenth century. And who cannot admire the generations of American homemakers who have created a seemingly endless repertoire of blueberry dishes since the early seventeenth century. The Pilgrims were introduced to this native berry by the friendly Indians who greeted the Mayflower pioneers. As a matter of fact, dried blueberries helped keep the Pilgrims alive during that first harsh winter.

If we don't exactly need blueberries to keep us alive during the beautiful summer months, we can certainly appreciate what they do to making living more lively. The bright berries reflect everything that's pleasant about summer—the blue skies, the waters, the mountain peaks, the cornflowers and bluebells in fields and gardens. Versatile eggs round out the picture, adding an extraordinary flavor and nutrition dimension to summer's favorite berry.

Nobody has ever stopped to count the ways that eggs and blueberries are lovingly combined. But almost everybody counts several egg and blueberry dishes among his and her favorites. At whatever age—or stage—one is in life there is a blueberry-egg dish to brighten the day. There are simple, nutritious, easy-to-digest dishes; elegant gourmet ones; diet specialties; dramatic desserts and beautiful breakfast ideas.

Try the recipes given here. They make up into eggs-ordinary blueberry treats. Surely one or another will fit into your life style. Maybe all of them.

BLUEBERRY SPONGE CUSTARDS

6 servings
1 cup fresh blueberries* 3 tablespoons lemon juice
2/3 cup sugar 2 tablespoons butter, melted
3 tablespoons flour 1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
3 eggs, separated

Divide blueberries between 6 (6 oz. each) custard cups. In mixing bowl combine sugar and flour. Blend in milk, egg yolks, lemon juice, butter and salt. In large mixing bowl beat egg whites and cream of tartar until stiff but not dry, just until whites no longer slip when bowl is tilted. Gently fold yolk mixture into egg whites. Pour into custard cups over blueberries. Set cups in 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan. Pour very hot water into pan to within 1/2 inch of top of custard mixture. Bake in preheated 350° F. oven until cake tester inserted near center comes out clean, 30 to 35 minutes. Immediately remove cups from water. Cool at least 5 minutes before serving or cool completely.

BEAUTIFUL BLUEBERRY OMELET

1 serving
2 eggs
2 tablespoons water
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1/2 to 1 tablespoon butter
1/2 cup fresh blueberries* or blueberry sauce

Mix eggs, water, salt and pepper with fork. Heat butter in 8-inch omelet pan or fry pan over medium-high heat until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in egg mixture. Mixture should set at edges at once. With pancake turner turned over, carefully push cooked portions at edges toward center so uncooked portions flow to bottom. Tilt pan as necessary so uncooked eggs can flow. Slide pan rapidly back and forth over heat to keep mixture in motion and sliding freely. While top is still moist and creamy-looking, fill with warm blueberries. With pancake turner fold in half or roll, turning out onto plate with a quick flip of the wrist.

Blueberry Sauce

Combine 1/3 cup sugar and 1/4 cup water. Heat to boiling. Stir in 1 pint fresh blueberries and 1 tablespoon orange-flavored liqueur. Makes 2 cups.

*NOTE: Dry-pack frozen blueberries can be used when fresh blueberries are not available.

BLUEBERRY CUSTARD PARFAIT

6 to 8 servings
6 eggs, slightly beaten OR 8 egg yolks
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 cups milk
1-1/2 teaspoons vanilla
2 pints fresh blueberries*

In large saucepan blend together eggs, sugar and salt. Gradually stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly, over low heat, until mixture thickens and just coats a metal spoon. Stir in vanilla. Cool quickly by setting pan in bowl of ice or cold water and stirring for a few minutes. Cover and chill thoroughly. Spoon blueberries into dessert or parfait glasses. Spoon custard sauce over berries.

BLUEBERRY EGGNOG

1 egg
3/4 cup cold milk
1/4 cup fresh blueberries*
1 tablespoon honey
Combine all ingredients in blender and blend until smooth.

How else can blueberries and eggs go together? Try Blueberry Sauce (recipe at left) over crepes, pancakes or French toast.

Your neighbor's kitchen

By BETTY RYDER

If you have a sweet tooth and have always wanted to know just where to purchase those delicious concoctions such as glazed half-dipped Australian apricots, pureed raspberries with whipped cream, or chocolate strawberries, "The Chocolate Bible" is definitely the book for you.

Adrienne Marcus, a confessed "chocolate" addict, has compiled a guide to and appreciation of the best chocolates in America, Canada and Europe. And, she munched her way—all 18,000 miles of it—through towns and countries obtaining information for the Chocolate Bible.

Munson's Candy Kitchen, Inc. of Hartford and Bolton is the only Connecticut shop cited by Adrienne. She writes: "Would you believe a three-thousand mile drive just to watch Bob Munson make his chocolate covered strawberries? We did just that, but I don't blame anyone for being skeptical. Bob didn't quite believe me when I called up a week earlier to announce I was going to drive across the country with my friend just to see the strawberries being made into a chocolate treat."

Adrienne continues: "These treats are only available three weeks out of the entire year, when June and the Bolton strawberries come due, around Father's Day. They are that special."

Although I've nothing but awe for the strawberries grown in California, those huge, meal-in-themselves extravaganzas, the Bolton variety makes any others tasteless and a bit vulgar by comparison. These small, burgundy explosions of taste are perfect captives in the Nestle milk chocolate covering Bob Munson uses.

"There are many other kinds of chocolates for sale in the Munson's shop. They range from a chocolate pizza (a chocolate base with cherries on top, a throw of walnuts here and there, all drizzled over with white chocolate all looking, at first glance like a pizza) to a golf club with accompanying golf balls in chocolate."

Among the other confectioners mentioned are Herbert Candy Mansion in Shrewsbury, Mass.; Fanny Farmer Candy Shops, Inc. in Bedford, Mass.; Bailey's in Boston; the Ambrosia Chocolate Co. in Wisconsin; Fun-in-the-Sun Candies in Palm Springs, Calif.; and Ronsvalle's in Syracuse, N.Y.

One section of "The Chocolate Bible" is entitled "The Great European Chocolate Chase" in which Adrienne recalls visits to famous candymakers shops throughout Europe.

Another portion relates "A Brief History of Chocolate" and finally there's a chapter entitled "The Care and Feeding of Your Chocolates."

"The Chocolate Bible" would be a sweet addition to anyone's book shelf.
