

News for Senior Citizens

It will probably be the last midweek column until September. With the hot weather coming in and vacation time, our activities slow down somewhat and writing two columns would only be a repeat.

First bit of news is that we are still hot and heavy on the Fund Raising Drive to help us purchase many needed articles for the new center.

You may have read where we are applying for funds under another grant now, but don't think that it's going to happen overnight, if at all. If the grant does come through it wouldn't be available until January at the earliest.

VERNON - Dan Wright, a Vernon architect, has been re-elected president of the Friends of Valley Falls Inc. The organization is a group of concerned and interested residents who have organized to assist in the protection and improvement of the town-owned Valley Falls Park.

Group members said they are inspired and motivated by two things - a unique setting for nature study and outdoor recreation, and the possibility of developing a nature center through the renovation of a 19th century barn in the park area.

The group has recently printed a descriptive brochure and has launched a membership drive. Membership categories are student, individual, family and organization. Anyone interested should contact any of the officers or write the organization at Post Office Box 2008, Vernon.

Other officers are: Ginny Gingras, vice president; Nancy Herold, secretary; and Betty Tedford, treasurer.

You folks who had signed up for that Hawaii-Reno trip some time ago, only to have it canceled because of the plane strike, we have good news for you. The trip is back on and is scheduled for Aug. 27 to Sept. 7. Paul Ryan tells me that fliers are available here at the center and there are a number of openings. Anyone interested should stop by and pick one up. Right now, we still have openings for the possibility of a third bus for the August 2 Rockingham Races. If we get about 15 more to sign up, then we can take it. So think it over,

Washington, Md., President Carter says he will propose "strong measures" to curb the nation's oil demands and will stay at Camp David to consider other major issues that "go beyond the question of energy."

Baltimore: Maryland charged Thursday in U.S. District Court the Energy Department shirks its responsibility on setting gas allocations and basically allows oil companies to draw up the allocation plans.

Washington: The American Automobile Association reported Thursday the reduced demand for gasoline is increasing gas stocks, reducing lines and leaving more stations open now for the first time since the gas shortage began in May.

New York: The American Petroleum Institute reported Thursday the nation's gasoline stocks last week exceeded levels of a year ago for the first time in 1979, reflecting a sharp drop in demand at the pump.

Washington: The Energy Department reported Thursday there was 7.3 percent less gasoline held in reserve by major companies for the needs of 17 heavily populated Eastern states in April than a year earlier.

Philadelphia: Sun Co. said Thursday it has resorted to buying gasoline and crude oil on the expensive spot market saying it and the consumer are both hungry for "volume at the expense of price."

Mexico City: Mexico raised its price for crude oil to $22.22 per barrel, one of the highest prices in the world. However, this is not expected to affect U.S. gas prices because Mexico exports to the United States only 400,000 barrels of crude a day.

Hong Kong: A UPI survey shows Asian countries are scrambling for new sources of oil and are nervously adopting conservation measures to cope with the current oil shortage.

New York: The stock market overcame some initial concern about President Carter's cancellation of his energy speech and rallied late Thursday for a small gain. The Dow gained 0.17 to 252.75. The NYSE index rose 0.22 to 28.16 and the price of a share added 12 cents. Advances topped declines, 837 to 555, Detroit: Automakers planned to produce 142,933 new cars this holiday-shortened week, a decline of 24.37 percent from the 188,998 units built last week and a drop of 25.18 percent from the comparable week last year.

Automotive News said. The totals were the lowest since the April Teamster's strike.

Forest City, Iowa: Winnebago Industries said Thursday it will resume production of recreational vehicles next week because of the brighter outlook in the energy picture.

Detroit: Sales of domestic cars, hurt all spring by the gasoline shortage, dropped 27.6 percent in June, but sales of economical imports were up by nearly 8 percent, a new sales record.

Detroit: The financially strapped Chrysler Corp. follows Ford and GM by raising the price of its best-selling small cars by an average $109.

Manchester, Coventry and Tolland. Hale said the conversion, if consummated, would increase the net worth of the financial institution and attract more mortgage money in the future.

The plan is merely a change in the association's charter, he said, and does not affect the account holders' deposits.

Under the terms of the conversion, common stock will be offered first to the general public, with residents of Hartford and Tolland counties given preference.

Hale said Heritage Savings and Loan in the first state-chartered institution to take advantage of legislation allowing up to five such charter changes under the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (FHLBB) regulations.

Charles Allen, former general counsel to the FHLBB and now in private practice in a Washington, D.C. law firm, said the plan must be approved by three sources before the stock can be sold. He said it could be a year before final approval is made.

He said the plan of conversion is subject to approval by the Connecticut Banking Commission, the FHLBB and the majority of the savings account and borrower members of the association at a special meeting.

Hale estimated between 28,000 and 29,000 members of the association and the plan will be submitted to them for approval at the meeting.

The association will continue to be state chartered and all deposits will remain federally insured. There will be no management changes and the Board of Directors will continue to be elected by the stockholders.

District Voters Pick Lassow

Incumbent Returned 194 to 99

By CHARLES MAYNARD Herald Reporter MANCHESTER - In what one political observer called the most exciting presidential race in five years, incumbent Gordon Lassow soundly defeated challenger Lawrence Noone for the Eighth Utilities District presidency.

At the annual meeting Thursday night in the Bentley School auditorium, Lassow defeated Noone 194 to 99, needing only 147 votes for the victory.

Willard Marvin, starting his sixth year on the Board of Directors, said the race generated the most interest in the district since 1974 when both he and Lassow were first elected the board.

Lassow's triumph ended a sometimes strained campaign. After a publication error which delayed the postponed annual meeting from last week, Robert Bletchman, Noone's campaign manager, charged Lassow with omission of duty by failing to see the notice for the meeting was properly handled.

However divided the district may have been during the campaign, it was united against what it considers attempts by outside forces to dissolve the district.

Both Lassow and Noone mentioned the litigation and sentiments to consolidate the district with the town. In his acceptance speech, Lassow recognized two town officials, Mayor Steve Penny and Public Works Director Jay Giles, and urged cooperation between the two municipalities.

Noone told reporters he wishes Lassow luck in the next year because "the way they've been coming at the district, he's going to need it."

"I don't envy him," he declared. A shaking Lassow gleefully accepted praise from his supporters after his victory was announced.

"There are no words to describe how pleased I am," said Lassow. "I'm happy you people saw fit to elect me for another year. It's just indescribable."

Lassow also tipped kudos towards Noone and Bletchman and asked his challenger for his "wise counsel" throughout the year.

"Sure," replied Noone, nodding as he sat in the front row.

Noone's presidential bid left his old seat on the Board of Directors open. Joseph Tripp, a teacher and principal at elementary schools for 29 years, was unopposed for the seat.

Tripp, a Hilliard Street resident since 1950, is the principal of an elementary school in Charlton Mass. He served on the district's ad hoc committee for sewers in March. Noone said Tripp was "the new blood" the district needed during difficult times.

The seat was one of two slots to be filled. In the other spot, Sam Longfist won re-election to another three-year term.

Other elections were just as automatic. Betty Sadiok, Howard

Inflation Increase Moderate

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Inflation at the wholesale level rose by a moderate 0.5 percent last month as plunging food prices offset another startling surge in energy costs, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said wholesale food prices fell by 1.2 percent in June, the third consecutive month that food ready for sale to retail outlets declined. Practically all of the improvement was due to lower meat prices, which rose 3.7 percent in May and 5.4 percent in June.

However, prices that Americans paid for gasoline and home heating oil climbed sharply. Energy prices are now the nation's No. 1 inflationary problem.

In a separate report, the Labor Department reported that the nation's unemployment rate edged downward to 8.6 percent from 8.8 percent in the previous two months, the lowest level in four years.

The decline was attributed to an increase in the number of teen-agers who found jobs for the summer after completing the school year.

The grim inflation news was that gasoline prices rose 3.7 percent in June and home heating oil soared by 8.4 percent. These dismal statistics followed gains of 4.2 percent for gasoline in May and 5.4 percent for heating oil.

The Labor Department calculated that during the first half of 1979, gasoline prices climbed at a seasonally adjusted rate of 22.3 percent. On a compounded annual rate basis, that would work out to a 50 percent increase if prices continue to rise at the same level between July and December that they did during the first six months. Home heating oil prices have gone up by 30.8 percent in the last six months and at an annual rate of 71.2 percent. What makes these figures even more gloomy is that they do not take into account the latest crude petroleum hikes imposed by OPEC, the international oil cartel.

The administration has acknowledged that the OPEC oil increases has greatly increased the chances of a recession in the United States.

The overall Wholesale Price Index stood at 213.4. That means goods and services which cost $100 at wholesale in 1967 were priced at $213.40 last month.

Although the 0.5 percent rise in overall wholesale prices would appear on the surface to offer some encouragement of lower consumer prices in the future, analysts were latest crude petroleum hikes imposed by OPEC, the international oil cartel.

The administration has acknowledged that the OPEC oil increases has greatly increased the chances of a recession in the United States.

Heritage To Change Charter

By CHARLES MAYNARD Herald Reporter MANCHESTER - Heritage Savings and Loan Association announced plans to convert from a state-chartered mutual association to a capital stock organization, according to William Hale, president of the financial institution.

The Board of Directors unanimously adopted the plan at a special meeting Thursday night and agreed to submit an application to federal and state regulatory agencies. Under the plan, account holders and management officials will be given the opportunity to purchase stock - at $10 a share. Heritage plans to sell 270,000 shares.

Heritage has offices in Manchester, Coventry and Tolland. Hale said the conversion, if consummated, would increase the net worth of the financial institution and attract more mortgage money in the future.

A Real Draw

Patricia Hearst Shaw, the newspaper heiress and pardoned bank robber, made one of her first public appearances Thursday since she was married April 1. She appeared at a Los Angeles news conference to speak out against the plight of battered women. Mrs. Shaw, whose life was turned around in 1974 when she was kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army, refused to answer any questions about her personal life and pointed out to the reporters who pressed her on the subject: "If I weren't here, many of you wouldn't be either. I was a victim of a very violent crime and I don't want to see other people be victims of any sort of violence."

No Alimo-Vee

A judge in Los Angeles ruled Thursday that Sherry Steiger did not know what she was doing when she signed a prenuptial agreement, and divorced her from actor Rod Steiger with no financial claim on his estate. Mrs. Steiger had claimed half his property and estimated $600,000 annual earnings on the grounds she was pressured into signing an agreement renouncing any financial rights before they were married in 1973. Superior Court Judge Harry T. Shafer commented that Steiger had her "no-licke, no-washie" offer and she must have known the risk she was taking.

Bird Man Lionized

The guest of honor at the Fourth of July picnic in Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., was Bryan Allen, 26, whose tireless legs pumped the Gosamer Albatross over the English Channel, the first such flight by a man-powered plane. Allen lived up to his introduction as "honest, soft-spoken and articulate" kind of hero we all like to have—but had trouble with a woman reporter who asked him to look like a hero, being too skinny. "Have you ever watched a bird?" the 6-foot, 140-pound Allen asked softly. "A bird doesn't have any bulging muscles either. What we needed was the best power-to-weight ratio and I seemed to have it."

Glimpses

NBC Vice President Hank Rieger has been elected to a second term as president of the Television Academy of Arts and Sciences. Alan Ladd Jr., Jay Kanter and Gareth Wigan, the trio who turned 20th Century-Fox into one of Hollywood's biggest moneymakers, are leaving Fox when their contracts expire at the end of 1980 to begin their own film-making and distribution firm, financed by Warner Bros. Christina Onassis Kaulova and her Soviet husband, Sergei, are in Athens for a summer vacation in the Onassis family's suburban villa.

One Gas Crunch Effect Is Water Use Increase

MANCHESTER—One effect of the present gasoline situation apparently is increased use of water. It's not that town residents are trying to create gasoline substitutes out of water. It's just that they are staying home more and using water rather than traveling and using gas. In fact, water use since May has been high. During May, the department produced 174 million gallons of water, Bob Young, treatment manager, said. That figure is about the same as the amount of water used last August, he said. August normally would be the month when the most water is used. In fact, water use since May has been high. Dentists Lose Licenses In Negligence, Deception

MANCHESTER (UPI)—The state Dental Commission has suspended for 30 days the licenses of two Manchester dentists, one for negligence and the other for tampering with X-rays. Dr. Richard J. Freibert and James D. Piccin were the only two of 2,300 practicing dentists in Connecticut whose licenses were suspended within the past year, said Dr. Michael J. Zazaro, commission secretary. He said the commission couldn't be sure Freibert actually altered the X-rays, but he was the responsible party. Police Report

Vernon
 Theodore Ostrowski, 52, of 104 Ayers Road, South Windsor, was charged Thursday with fourth-degree larceny on a complaint of the K-Mart store at Vernon Circle.
 Gary M. Weber, 24, of 31 Lakeside Drive, Andover, was arrested Thursday on a rear-arrest warrant on charges of speeding, driving while licensed is under suspension and failure to obey an officer's signal.
 In suspending Piccin's license, the commission ordered him to complete a year-long refresher course at the University of Connecticut or else face an additional 60-day suspension. Piccin has been allowed to continue practicing while he takes the course because a dentist cannot enroll in the UConn course unless he is licensed, Zazaro said. after the commission held hearings regarding numerous complaints of "negligence" and "poor work," Zazaro said.

State To Rule Whether Road Needs Air Permit

MANCHESTER—The state could make a decision as early as today about whether a road expansion project on Tolland Turnpike requires an indirect source permit. Officials from the state Department of Environmental Protection filed the work, which is being done near the Burr Corners Shopping Plaza, required the permit. Brian Kenny, principal air pollution control engineer, said such a permit is needed for any project that potentially could generate more than 1,000 vehicles per hour in any direction.

Noise Complaint Heard

MANCHESTER—A Bissell Street resident testified Thursday about the noise from a nearby business that he feels is too loud and disruptive. Stanley Gandzicki, of 58 Bissell St. is a plaintiff in the case against Manchester Ice & Fuel Co., which is across the street from Gandzicki. He said noise from the ice-making plant has been disturbing to him and the other residents of his home. Gandzicki and his wife, Margaret, are seeking $7,500 in damages from the business. Another neighbor, Thomas Sazinski, of 82 Foster St., also is a plaintiff. They are represented by attorney Robert Bletchman.

Arrests Due Today

NEW HAVEN (UPI)—Three men were expected to be arrested today in connection with the gangland-style killing last year of a former Sheldon state park guard. The men were issued Thursday after a grand jury called in the death of Norman Bacot. The grand jury returned indictments against the men who reportedly have ties to organized crime.

A fire of undetermined origin gutted the attic and part of the main structure of the Lighthouse Inn in New London Thursday. Firefighters from New London and Waterford were called to the fire at 11 a.m. and battled in for more than three hours before bringing it under control. Fatal Accidents Decline

The gasoline crisis has had at least one good effect. There were fewer fatal accidents on New England's highways this Fourth of July holiday than in previous years. Traffic officials in the region say stricter enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit and the fact Independence Day fell at mid-week also helped hold down the number of traffic-related deaths to 12. Massachusetts reported nine deaths, while Connecticut and Maine each had two. Three states—Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Vermont—had no reported fatalities. State police in all six states reported highways were not clogged with the usual holiday traffic, partly because Independence Day fell in the middle of the week. "I think it was a combination of both—tougher enforcement and fewer motorists on the roads," Diane Bechtler, a statistics analyst for the accident section of the New Hampshire Department of Safety, said Thursday. "Plus there are always fewer fatalities when the Fourth isn't included in a weekend." In 1978, New Hampshire had two traffic-related deaths, Vermont none and Maine one. State police Lt. Edward Frak, like his counterparts all over the region, said Thursday traffic volume "was down considerably" on July 4. Because of tight gasoline supplies. "Things were much quieter, and I'm sure it's because people were apprehensive about gasoline," Frak said. There was definitely a drop in traffic on Massachusetts highways, a state police spokesman said Thursday. "But it's hard to compare the number of people and the number of accidents since it wasn't on a weekend." Last year on Independence Day there were 14 deaths on Massachusetts highways, when the holiday fell on a weekend. This year there were nine deaths.

Panel To Probe Road Gripes

SOUTH WINDSOR—After receiving complaints from six residents of Garnet Lane and Maskel Road, the Sewer Commission agreed Thursday night to investigate the contract for sewer and road work to see if the contractor is responsible for the existing road conditions. The residents told the commission that the roads were left in poor condition after the sewer drains were put in last summer. The said the roads needed repairs before the drains were installed but now that the work is done they tilt. They said all three roads were left before. While the Sewer Commission agreed to investigate the matter, commission members also suggested that the residents petition the Town Council because the council had cut $80,000 for road work out of last year's budget.

Rezoning Is Sought For Booze

MANCHESTER—A business on Garden Grove Road is seeking a zone change that would permit it to serve liquor. The owners of the Garden Grove Caterers Inc. have applied for a zone change from Rural Residence to Business II at the east end of the road. Such a zone change is needed before the firm can apply to the state Liquor Control Commission for a liquor license. The license is needed if liquor is to be served at the Garden Grove Road business. A public hearing on the application probably will not be heard until September.

Vermont Has Most Gas In New England Survey

By United Press International
 Vermont has the most gas available on a gallon basis in New England, according to a survey by the AAA Auto and Travel Club. The survey shows that Vermont has the lowest cost of gas available on a gallon basis in New England. The survey shows that Vermont has the lowest cost of gas available on a gallon basis in New England. The survey shows that Vermont has the lowest cost of gas available on a gallon basis in New England. The survey shows that Vermont has the lowest cost of gas available on a gallon basis in New England.

A nationwide survey of 680 stations in the six-state area conducted Thursday by the AAA Auto and Travel Club showed Vermont has more stations open seven days a week and late in the evenings than any other New England state. Forty-seven percent of the Vermont stations surveyed said they would be open for business on Sunday, although 20 percent planned to limit purchases. Regionwide, the AAA said only 18 percent of the stations surveyed would be open Sunday. 18 percent would be open Saturday, 6 percent after 8 p.m. weekdays; 23 percent were limiting purchases; and 13 percent would be out of one grade of gas. This will be the first weekend affected by Rhode Island's minimum purchase requirement and the mandatory odd-even gasoline sales plan. Rhode Island officials, like their counterparts in the other states, said lines have shortened and in most cases disappeared and gasoline will be available this weekend. Tourists heading to Cape Cod, Cape Ann and the Berkshires in Massachusetts will find plenty of stations open on Saturday, but fewer on Sunday. In Connecticut, energy officials will issue an emergency order to limit purchases on Sunday for the past three weeks, partly because owners have received their July allocations. "Panic buying has lessened considerably. The lines are much shorter in some areas," said a spokesman for the state gasoline emergency monitoring office. "Odd-even is finally fading in. There's a very substantial decrease in use of cars and train and bus ridership was up last weekend." Odd-even rationing has been in effect in Connecticut for two weeks, with motorists still being limited to minimum purchases. New Hampshire Gov. Hugh Gallen rejected mandatory gasoline plans Thursday, saying if he were a service station owner he would resent the state of New Hampshire trying to tell him how to run his business. "We should avoid panic, especially those of us elected to public office. We can't create any more gasoline, but by overreacting we can create more confusion and long lines," the governor said. Here's a breakdown of the average per gallon prices of regular, regular unleaded, premium and premium unleaded, as of July 4, 1979:

Connecticut: regular 90.7; premium 95.9; unleaded 97.2; premium unleaded 97.4.
Maine: regular 89.2; premium 95.9; unleaded 93.6; premium unleaded 96.3.
New Hampshire: regular 89.1; premium 95.4; unleaded 94.1; premium unleaded 96.6.
Vermont: regular 87.5; premium 95.1; unleaded 92.5; premium unleaded 96.6.
Massachusetts: regular 87.4; premium 93.4; unleaded 91.4; premium unleaded 94.8.
Rhode Island: regular 89; premium 94.9; unleaded 92.9; premium unleaded 96.3.

Few Speak on Guidelines To Implement Bottle Law

HARTFORD (UPI) — Guidelines for Connecticut's bottle law, which kicked up some of the fiercest lobbying the Legislature's ever seen, drew surprisingly little testimony at a hearing Thursday.

The law, as of Jan. 1, 1980, bans flip tops and requires a minimum five-cent deposit on all soda and beer containers — something the industry has strongly resisted.

But only about a half dozen representatives rose to speak in the Capitol's crowded Judiciary Room. The strongest statement was made by F. W. Coady, vice president of the 200-member Connecticut Automatic Merchandising Council.

Coady asked Edward Gudelski, a hearing officer for the Department of Environmental Protection, to exempt vending machine operators from making refunds, Coady said.

Some of the problems the industry would encounter, he said, are sanitation, collecting the returnable cans and paying the refund.

Coady said the Department of Consumer Protection was not likely to let the industry carry out cans and bottles in the same trucks as they transport fresh supplies.

He said designating the owner of the premises as the redemption center wouldn't work because most people install vending machines when they don't want the inconvenience of handling beverages.

Coady also said replacing can vending machines with cups would be impractical in some places and expensive.

"In Connecticut, the great majority of our equipment is located in motels, schools, factories and similar locations where the beverage is consumed immediately and the container disposed of at the location, not on the roads and streets," he said.

"More importantly, all of the waste or litter created by such sales is disposed of internally within the office's or plant's refuse system," Coady said. "Therefore, none of these sales contributes to the litter problem which the law intends to cover."

Kathy Golas, spokeswoman for the League of Women Voters, which supports the law, said one of the group's only objections was a section of the regulations which allow a dealer to refuse crushed cans.

"Such provisions defeat the state purposes of the law to reduce litter, solid waste and to encourage recycling," she said.

Unit Approves Planning Pact

MANCHESTER — The Cheney National Historic District Commission Thursday approved a contract for the consulting firm that will plan how to develop the district.

The firm — Anderson Notter Finegold Inc. of Boston — will be paid $45,000 for its consulting work, which will include preparation of a plan of development for the district.

The firm still must finalize the contract, but this is expected to be a routine step, Durward Miller, chairman of the commission, said. The firm proposed the contract and verbally has agreed to changes made by the town attorney's office, he said.

The contract should be signed later this month, Miller said. Work could begin next month.

The study is being funded by a $23,000 contribution from John Barnini, a local businessman, and a $22,000 grant from the state. The extra $1,000 will pay for administrative costs, including mailing, advertising and phoning, Carol Zebb, the town's assistant planner, said.

The historic district includes the Cheney Mills and surrounding homes and properties. Barnini owns one of the buildings in the area, Cheney Hall off Hartford Road.

William FitzGerald, judge of probate and a commission member, reviewed the changes — most of them technical — and approved the contract.

"We're quite satisfied with the contract. We think it's a good one," he said.

There will be a subcommittee appointed to meet with Anderson Notter Finegold during its planning work. One committee member, Gail Kraviec, agreed to serve on the subcommittee, and four other members will be named.

Glynnis Berry of the Latiz Junior Museum and John Rivosa, the town's fire chief, both were named to the Connecticut Firemen's Historical Society's Board of Directors. The society has a lease for the Pine Street firehouse, which it plans to convert to a museum. Part of the agreement between the town and the society was that two Manchester residents would be named to the Board of Directors.

White Couple Keeps Black Foster Child

VERNON (UPI) — A white Rockville couple has obtained a temporary order barring the state from removing a black foster child from their home while they sue the state for alleged discriminatory adoption policies.

Tolland County Superior Court Judge Harry Hammer ruled Thursday the state Department of Children and Youth Services cannot take the 21-month-old infant from Michael and Wendy Lusa at least until evidence in the case is heard next Friday.

That hearing will determine whether the Lusas, as foster parents, have legal standing in the case and whether a temporary injunction against taking the child is to be granted while the case proceeds.

The Lusas have charged the DCYS has ruled them out as prospective adoptive parents solely because they are white and the child, for whom they were caring since March 21, is black. The Lusas are also seeking an court order overturning an alleged policy prohibiting interracial adoptions.

Assistant Attorney General Stephen O'Neill argued that the Lusa foster care agreement with the state contained an "express understanding" that the arrangement was temporary and that permanent adoptive parents were being sought.

But the Lusas told the court they had DCYS officials who wanted to adopt the child and were told by several officials that their applications wouldn't be considered because the department bars interracial adoptions.

DCYS commissioners would not comment on whether the agency chooses adoptive parents solely on the basis of race.

Plenty Hungry For Abe's Seat

HARTFORD (UPI) — Although Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., has ruled himself out for the U.S. Senate next year, there are still plenty of hungry contenders waiting in the wings.

Moffett told Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., at breakfast Thursday that he won't try to fill the shoes of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn. Dodd was low key in his public reaction, though he admitted he'll be sleeping on the matter.

"It at least eliminates the possibility of a long drawn-out battle," said the man who shares the strongest shot at Ribicoff's seat. "The elimination of that prospect is a source of relief, no question about it."

But Dodd, despite Moffett's pledge to back him "whofirst," isn't rushing out with any declaration of support.

"Regardless of what Toby's decision was, my timetable is not going to change," he said. "I'm still trying to assess if it makes good sense for me to go into 1980."

Moffett's announcement at a packed Capitol news conference Thursday was also a relief for John Dempsey, Democratic state chairman, who obviously did not relish the idea of Connecticut's two young stars going at each other.

"It certainly helps to clarify the air," said Dempsey, perhaps recalling the caustic primary battle last fall between Gov. Ella Grasso and former Lt. Gov. Robert Killian. "It tends to alleviate a potentially large problem."

Dodd, state Senate Majority Leader David Lieberman, D-New Haven, another possible contender for the upcoming vacancy, was too gentlemanly to breathe too loud a sigh of relief.

"Moffett's departure really makes it a different situation," said Lieberman, who explained he was reluctant to consider anything with both Moffett and Dodd in the running. But he's standing back, too.

"I'm not an active candidate, but I'm not closing the doors," Lieberman said.

Besides Dodd and Lieberman, U.S. Reps. Robert Giarno and William Cotter have said they wouldn't mind taking a shot at the Democratic Senate nomination. And on the Republican side, Rep. Stewart McKinney and state Senate Minority Leader Richard Rozuto, R-Waterbury, have floated the possibility of tangling to be the GOP nominee.

For Moffett it's all in the past tense — for now. He denied he was sitting this one out so he could go into training to take on a potentially vulnerable Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., in 1982. But he isn't closing any doors either.

"It has no bearing on any other political plans that I might have, whether it's governor or senator or anything else," he said. Moffett added, "I'm not ruling out any of those things."

Dempsey was asked if the decision had anything to do with the party's reluctance to have two strong candidates sparring and if the party might be saving Moffett for a contest with Weicker.

"It would appear so," Dempsey said. "It's to the benefit of our party to have the strongest candidates run as individuals."

Dispute Heading To Fact-Finding

VERNON — Because a contract dispute between the Board of Education and the union representing custodial and clerical employees of the board couldn't be settled during a five-hour mediation session it will now go to a state fact-finder.

Fact-finding is the final step before binding arbitration. The employees are asking for a 16 percent salary increase and so far board representatives will not agree with this figure. The union is asking for a 9 percent pay increase plus a 7 percent increment for employees who move up one step on the salary schedule.

Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, said the board can't grant the increase because the contract has expired.

Union officials contend that only a few employees would receive the increment because most are already at the top of the salary schedule.

The school board is offering a 21 percent pay increase over a three-year period.

Union officials said the board and the union have agreed on a few minor issues but are not close to agreeing on salary, fringe benefits and some other provisions of the contract.

Reportedly the board wants to take away some paid holidays the employees now have and also wants employees to pay part of their insurance coverage.

The fact-finder will be asked to study both proposals, the board's budget for 1979-80, and previous contract agreements and then to write an opinion on the findings.

Tour Industry Seeks Help

HARTFORD (UPI) — Seashore hotel owners and regional tour operators are clamoring for help from the state to ease the gasoline shortage because of the gasoline shortage have gone to the Capitol lobbying for some strong measures to bail them out.

A group of tourist industry representatives met Thursday with legislators from southeastern Connecticut and sought action on imposing mandatory weekend hours at filling stations and increasing gasoline allocations for the region.

The group also asked for exemptions from the odd-even gasoline rationing plan for out-of-state cars in the shoreline region, but that proposal was immediately opposed by legislators.

Cooperative Extension Service said some of the sites being considered are the Tolland County Agricultural Center on Route 30, Legion Field on West Street and the Shopping Bag parking lot in the center of Rockville.

Participants in the project include area farmers, backyard gardeners and interested shoppers.

Farm Market Planned

VERNON — Several months ago a group of Tolland County residents met to make plans to open a Farmers' Market and soon this will become a reality.

The organizers hope to open the market by the end of this month or at least by the first weekend in August. A location hasn't been selected but several are being considered. Esther Shoup of the Tolland County

Mayors Get CRCOG Posts

MANCHESTER — Three area mayors, including Stephen Penny of Manchester, have been appointed to the Executive Committee of the Capitol Region Council of Governments.

Also, Henry Kinne, mayor of Glastonbury, has been named one of the two vice-chairmen of CRCOG for 1979-80.

Penny, Richard Blackstone, mayor of East Hartford, and Nancy Calfyn, mayor of South Windsor, were named to the Executive Committee. The committee, which also includes CRCOG's elected officials, makes many important policy decisions for the coming year.

Along with Kinne, other officers for CRCOG in 1979-80 are chairwoman, Anne Streeter, mayor of West Hartford; vice-chairmen, Kinne and Edward Hastillo, first selectman of East Windsor; treasurer, Cynthia Matthews, mayor of Wethersfield; and treasurer, Sidney Gardner, councilman from Hartford.

Hollywood Version Of Pluto Discovery

We've a tight budget, but I'm the Rivers who's been around here long enough to know everything will be all right. Ready for Sound? Okeh. P-I-a-c-e-s. Look appreciative. Thank You. Thank You. Thank You.

Fade In? Em? J.K.R. here. H-o-l-i-y-w-o-o-d. Wonderful. Wonderful. Wonderful. Everything's going GREAT. Em? I'm pleased. Proud. Before we go to Pluto. Marlbrough Tavern Playhouse in Marlbrough, about a half-hour's ride from Manchester, is a delightful destination. You can take in both dinner and the show, or either one separately.

We attended the current production of Lerner and Loewe's "My Fair Lady." Recently.

The setting is in a rather small bar-type building, with hardly more than living room floor space for the production, surrounded on three sides by very comfortable Hitchcock style chairs.

But what transpires when the show begins is nothing short of professional, done by actors with qualifications that rival the best summer theater circuit.

Ingeniously, a fast acting and sure footed stage crew makes the numerous scene changes, and a small cast makes the best of the chorus and dance numbers.

We could hardly expect when the show begins lively performances of the stars. Ann Fothergill as Eliza Doolittle, and Mark Farnio as Mr. Higgins.

A music teacher in the South Windsor school system, Ms. Fothergill's performance makes the gradual magical transition from the swarthy flower girl of the slums of London to a British lady of class. She is utterly charming to her guttural Cockney gibberish that she so ably spews forth. And she gets to your heart while she painstakingly and tediously learns proper English, as taught by her benefactor, Mr. Higgins. Ms. Fothergill's rendition of the unforgettable "Rain in Spain" is enchanting, and perfectly complemented by Mark Farnio's half spoken and half sung accompanying dialogue.

As Higgins, Farnio has the bearing, the demeanor and voice for the speech scientist who has taught some of the best in the world, and who takes Eliza under his wing to perfect in both speech and manner.

One particularly brilliant accessory to the cast is Bob Plunkett's as the coniving Mr. Doolittle, father of Eliza. Plunkett, some of you may remember, was the round, unglamorous male chorist, was a high point of the show.

Another alumnus of the GAS Players, Kevin Marceau, has also made favorable strides since his appearance two years ago in Bridgeport. A high school student at the time, but showing promise of rich talent, he has begun to show fulfillment of that promise in the role of one of Eliza's admirers. He does justice both in voice and looks to the number, "On the Street Where You Live."

Produced by Louise Matikas and directed by Judy Poplawski, "My Fair Lady" is the hit it is meant to be. Accompaniment is tastefully provided with piano and soft tympani.

Baggie Bands Plan Concert

MANCHESTER — The pipes and drums of four baggie bands will appear in a concert Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Manchester Band Shell on the campus of Manchester Community College, off Wetherell Street.

The pipe bands will be joined by the Scottish Country Dancers and the Scottish Highland Dancers.

The performing bands are the Sphinx Temple Highlanders, the Stewart Highlanders, St. Patrick's Pipe Band, and the Manchester Pipe Band.

This concert is sponsored by the Peace Train Foundation, United Technologies Corp. and the Manchester Bicentennial Band Shell Corp.

The massed bands will enter the band shell from the parking area and will proceed with the presentation of colors, and the pledge of allegiance, after which there will be performances by the individual music and dance groups.

The bands will mass for a final presentation and then march off to the parking area.

YMCA Sets Mystic Trip

HARTFORD — The Central Branch YMCA on 160 Jewell St. is sponsoring a trip to Mystic for a sightseeing cruise on the Mystic River and Fishers Island Sound. The trip will be Saturday, July 21.

Sailing races, lobster fishermen, yachts, lighthouses and many beautiful islands will be seen during the 2½-hour boat trip. Lunch will follow the cruise with plenty of time for shopping, touring, or just relaxing in the historic Mystic Seaport.

Transportation to and from Mystic is provided by the YMCA. Buses depart at 8 a.m. and are scheduled to return at 4 p.m. between 2:30 and 4 p.m.

The fee for the day will include morning coffee and donut, or for an extra fee, a YMCA box lunch will be included. Registration is due July 14. The first 40 persons to register are assured seats.

Billboard Message

Billboards around the state are blossoming with a bright new message from the Department of Economic Development. According to Travel Director Barnett D. Laschever, "Our tourist attractions are as inviting to residents as they are to visitors. We're encouraging everyone to discover Connecticut this year, and save precious energy in the bargain." Tavern Playhouse Delightful

By JUNE TOMPKINS

In these days of gas consciousness, when you long to go somewhere for entertainment, but must be cautious about distance, the Marlborough Tavern Playhouse in Marlborough, about a half-hour's ride from Manchester, is a delightful destination. You can take in both dinner and the show, or either one separately.

We attended the current production of Lerner and Loewe's "My Fair Lady." Recently.

The setting is in a rather small bar-type building, with hardly more than living room floor space for the production, surrounded on three sides by very comfortable Hitchcock style chairs.

But what transpires when the show begins is nothing short of professional, done by actors with qualifications that rival the best summer theater circuit.

Ingeniously, a fast acting and sure footed stage crew makes the numerous scene changes, and a small cast makes the best of the chorus and dance numbers.

We could hardly expect when the show begins lively performances of the stars. Ann Fothergill as Eliza Doolittle, and Mark Farnio as Mr. Higgins.

A music teacher in the South Windsor school system, Ms. Fothergill's performance makes the gradual magical transition from the swarthy flower girl of the slums of London to a British lady of class. She is utterly charming to her guttural Cockney gibberish that she so ably spews forth. And she gets to your heart while she painstakingly and tediously learns proper English, as taught by her benefactor, Mr. Higgins. Ms. Fothergill's rendition of the unforgettable "Rain in Spain" is enchanting, and perfectly complemented by Mark Farnio's half spoken and half sung accompanying dialogue.

As Higgins, Farnio has the bearing, the demeanor and voice for the speech scientist who has taught some of the best in the world, and who takes Eliza under his wing to perfect in both speech and manner.

One particularly brilliant accessory to the cast is Bob Plunkett's as the coniving Mr. Doolittle, father of Eliza. Plunkett, some of you may remember, was the round, unglamorous male chorist, was a high point of the show.

Another alumnus of the GAS Players, Kevin Marceau, has also made favorable strides since his appearance two years ago in Bridgeport. A high school student at the time, but showing promise of rich talent, he has begun to show fulfillment of that promise in the role of one of Eliza's admirers. He does justice both in voice and looks to the number, "On the Street Where You Live."

Produced by Louise Matikas and directed by Judy Poplawski, "My Fair Lady" is the hit it is meant to be. Accompaniment is tastefully provided with piano and soft tympani.

Orchestra and Chorale Add Pops Performance

MANCHESTER — The traditional Pops Concert of the Manchester Civic Orchestra and Chorale will become a two-night event next season.

One of the performances will be held exclusively for patrons, subscribers and their guests. The second will be for the public. The programs will be the same.

The Pops will be the fourth concert of the season for the orchestra and chorale. Other performances will be held on the Nov. 18 — A joint concert by the symphony and chorale; March 30 — a special concert celebrating the orchestra's 20th season; April 27 — a major choral work by the chorale.

The orchestra is directed by Dr. Jack Hillier, and the chorale by Stewart Gillespie.

Inflation

Wholesale prices in May rose by just 0.4 percent, the smallest gain in nine months.

So there is no guarantee that the unemployment dip in the price level will be followed by a similar decline in May and 0.3 percent in April.

Prices rose for roasted coffee, fruits and vegetables, fish, and eggs.

Consumer durables - heavy duty items like appliances and furniture - advanced only 0.4 percent following an 0.7 percent May gain.

President Carter, while flying home from the recent economic summit in Tokyo, told reporters these cumulative increases since December would add $90 billion to U.S. unemployment rolls.

Barry Bosworth, executive director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said last week he did not expect any significant moderation of inflation in the next few months.

Alfred Kahn, chairman of the committee, said his earlier hope of getting inflation out of the double digit range in the next few months may now have to be postponed.

Ripley Alters Life Style to Win

BOSTON (UPI) - He had been there once before, but had waited the chance when he chose the fast life over the fastball.

Allen Ripley was determined to make his second opportunity stick. And the Boston Red Sox reliever took a giant step toward insuring his stay in the big leagues by hurling 5-1 innings of shutout relief in Boston's 4-0 comeback win Thursday over the Kansas City Royals.

"I've matured a lot over the last year," said the right-hander, who was sent down in mid-season last year due to a combination of ineffectiveness on the mound and attitude problems.

"I'm throwing harder and I'm not afraid to lead them hit the ball. I've got eight people out there helping me."

Ripley went to his fastball almost exclusively in stifling the Royals on four hits. It was his "out" pitch last year, until he started throwing off-speed.

"I can go out and nibble and pitch from behind. I was throwing a lot of junkballs before. Now, it's strict."

White Ripley alone had his first out since his recall, Royals' third baseman George Brett packed his bags and was happy to be leaving Fenway Park.

"Our pitchers don't know how to pitch in this park and they're doing it," said Ripley, who pitched here 81 times a year.

"I knew we had to win this game and personally I needed a good game."

Now here come the Niekros. "It would be nice, super nice, if we could both win 20," Phil Niekro of the Atlanta Braves said Thursday after toughing out a 5-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Niekro, of course, was referring to the possibility that he and brother Steve Joe of the Houston Astros could both win 20 games this season, making them the second sibling act ever to reach that plateau in the same season.

Phil Niekro, who has lost 10, won when Rowland Office signed to enter, capped a two-year stint in the ninth. It was the second straight game Atlanta rebounded to win.

"I'm really happy with the way we're batting back, that's for sure."

"Knuckie was the key to the whole ballgame. I think I thought he did a super job of batting."

Atlanta was trailing, 4-3, entering the ninth. Then Mike Lum led off with a single off loser Greg Minton, and pinch-runner Glenn Hubbard was sacrificed to second by Pepe Frias.

"I hope it doesn't last all year, but at this rate, it looks like it will," said a dejected Fisk, whose elbow bothers him even when he serves as the designated hitter.

"Dr. Pappas will examine it tomorrow after I take some hitting practice. Then I'll join the club in Seattle this weekend," Yaz said.

Pappas said Yazstrzemi's injury was being treated "more as a precaution than for its seriousness."

He said rest was the best cure and that Yazstrzemi might be able to be given a special taping job. He was to then take some hitting practice under the watchful eye of Boston physician Dr. Arthur Pappas.

By the fastball, I'm happy to help out anyway I can, just give me the ball," he said.

Bob Stanley hurried the final two innings of relief to put the Sox ahead 1-0.

Bill Paschall, 41, who relieved starter Rich Gale in the seventh, took the loss.

Silent Treatment Given Sorensen Against Yanks

BOSTON (UPI) - Often a pitcher's best friend during a no-hit bid is an inanimate object: the ball.

"Nobody would talk to me or come near me in between innings," said Milwaukee's Larry Sorensen, who retired 20 straight batters in the first inning.

"I've matured a lot over the last year," said the right-hander, who was sent down in mid-season last year due to a combination of ineffectiveness on the mound and attitude problems.

"I'm throwing harder and I'm not afraid to lead them hit the ball. I've got eight people out there helping me."

Boland's Move Into Title Play

Moving into the championship round, Boland Oil trimmed American Legion, 7-3, last night at Leber Field in a Town Title League Tournament engagement.

Boland, champs of the International League, now sit back and wait to see whom it will face for the town title. American Legion faces Nichols Tire Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock with the loser ousted in the double elimination play.

Legion moved in front in the bottom of the first inning. Mark LeBreux led off with an infield hit and was sacrificed to second by Jim Powers. Bill Anderson's single up the middle advanced LeBreux to third and he scored on a groundout by Larry Stanford.

It remained this way until the fourth inning when Boland scored twice. Elijah McPolley ripped a double off the wall in right center and took third on a passed ball. He scored on a Eric Blöking RBI single to left.

Matt Gallagher's single moved Blöking to second with the latter coming around on two passed balls. Boland added two markers in the fifth. Steve Wallace and Dave Mazzotta singled. McPolley lofted a sacrifice fly to right and Blöking singled in his second run.

Three more runs made it 7-1 in the top of the sixth. Mitch Thompson singled and Todd Chmielewski reached on a fielder's choice.

Wallace lashed a one-out single to left scoring Thompson with the aid of Chmielewski winding up at second and third respectively on the throw to the plate.

Mazzotta's third hit drove home the sixth run with Wallace scoring on McPolley's grounder which was booted.

Legion didn't go down quietly in the sixth, scoring twice. LeBreux and Powers rapped back-to-back doubles for one run for the American Legion champs. Powers took third on a wild pitch and scored on a groundout by Anderson.

After the second out, Dave Reardon walked, both fans singled and Rick Cornea walked to lead the bases bringing the tying run to the plate. John McCarthy worked the count to 3-2 but was retired as Boland, second baseman Tim Lang made a fine running catch of his short loft to shallow right.

Mazzotta and Blöking had three and two hits respectively for Boland while LeBreux singled and doubled for Legion.

Wallace was the winning pitcher with relief help from Chmielewski while Ryan Woodcock absorbed the loss.

Borg Crushes Connors Top Two Women Players Paired

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Martina Navratilova's mother will have a ringside seat this time, but her father and sister again will travel from Prague to a Czech town near the German border to watch on television the defense of her Wimbledon crown Friday against Chris Evert Lloyd in a repeat of last year's final.

It is fitting the world's two top players should dispute the women's singles title, which has followed the Wimbledon crown right through the tournament.

This time, Lloyd, champion in 1974 and 1976, is expected a happier ending to her sixth final and has looked the more impressive in the earlier rounds.

Lloyd, with a 25-4 record against the Dallas-based Czech exile, has a psychological edge after beating the left-hander in a three-set final at Eastbourne two weeks ago.

Right now, I know I can beat Martina. I have the confidence in my game. Evert said. "Last year, I never thought mentally I could win the match, even when I was up 4-2 in the third set."

Navratilova approaches the final in an equally nervous mood. "I don't have to worry very much about pressure now. After winning Wimbledon last year, I don't have to prove myself any more."

History repeated itself in the men's singles Thursday when triple champion Bjorn Borg swept major rival Jimmy Connors out of Wimbledon for the third successive year.

The 23-year-old Swede ruthlessly dispatched the left-handed American challenger, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2, and now meets fifth-seeded Roscoe Tanner in his chase to win the men's title for the fourth consecutive year.

The last man to achieve this record was New Zealander Anthony Wilding in 1913, but that was when defending champions went straight through to the challenge round.

Borg has now won 27 straight matches at Wimbledon since his last defeat in 1975, but is not underrated. Tanner, the 153-mph server who reached his first Wimbledon final with a 6-3, 7-6, 6-3 victory over fellow American Pat Dupre.

Borg played near-perfect tennis in his one hour, 45 minute annihilation of Connors, but commented later, "I think I could still improve a bit."

Connors, using a nasal spray in between breaks, found hayfever was the least of his worries.

The match started at a fierce pace with some spectacular winners from both players. But while Borg had the ability to sustain the high quality and used his greater control to sway the balance, Connors could not clinch the point.

Connors staged a brief rally, breaking Borg the first time on his way to a 2-0 lead in the third set, but this merely forced Borg to raise his guard even more. With a blistering array of fierce drives and aubster lob, the Swede swept six straight games against the disgruntled Connors, who was late to lick his wounds and head back to the United States.

Legion Wins, Assumes Lead

By LEN ACSTLER Herald Sportswriter

Early season hopes have been breaking true for the Manchester American Legion baseball team.

Head Coach Jack Holik felt his club would have solid hitting, play sound defense and have more than adequate pitching. All three points came into view last night as the Post 102 nine thumped South Windsor, 9-2, at Eagle Field to temporarily take sole possession of first place in Zone Eight.

Manchester, which has run off nine straight victories, is 9-2 in the Zone, 15-4 overall, and leads second place East Hartford (8-3) by a half game. The locals host Bloomfield tonight at 6 o'clock while East Hartford hosts South Windsor Saturday at Shea Park. Then it's Manchester versus East Hartford Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at Shea Park in a key Zone encounter.

"No, I really can't say I'm surprised by the result," Holik replied, recalling his pre-season forecast. "We made the plays (tonight), especially in the field. We were hitting the cutoff men real well."

Manchester scored five times in the first inning and that was all it required. Joe Panaro got a leadoff hit and advanced to third on a passed ball and wild pitch.

Brasa and Bottaro each had two hits and two RBIs to pace Post 102. Panaro chipped in with an RBI double. Shawn Spears was the winning hurler, scattering eight hits. He walked six and fanned four.

Later, the veteran Freiheit and first sacker Linsenbiger made fine sabs and shortstop Brad Cabral on a relay from centerfielder Kyle Ayer nailed Ken Cameau at the plate trying to also score on Painter's blow.

Who Was First $100,000 Ballplayer?

By MILT RICHMAN NEW YORK (UPI) — Okay, all you trivia addicts out there. Who was the first $100,000 ballplayer?

I'm talking about all sports. While you're wrestling with that one, here's another one that should give you less trouble: who's most likely to become the first $1 million player in pro football? That's one million bucks a year.

Going back to the first question, most people generally say Ted Williams, then Stan Musial, and both those answers are wrong.

The correct answer is Hank Greenberg. He signed a $100,000 contract for one year way back in 1947 and the odd part about that is he actually had to retire to get it.

What happened was that Greenberg, then 35 and making $75,000 with the Detroit Tigers, announced his retirement from baseball at the end of the 1946 season. But Frank McKeeney, who had just bought the Pittsburgh Pirates, was so eager to turn them into a winner, he offered Greenberg $100,000 for the year.

That's not the only time a player has been offered more than his salary. In 1947, Greenberg was offered $150,000 by the St. Louis Cardinals. He turned it down because he didn't want to leave the Pirates.

Another player who has been offered more than his salary is Tom Seaver. In 1970, he was offered $1 million by the New York Yankees. He turned it down because he didn't want to leave the Mets.

So, who is most likely to become the first $1 million player in pro football? That's one million bucks a year.

Well, it's hard to say. But if you ask me, I think it's going to be a wide receiver. He's the one who's most likely to get hurt and miss a lot of games.

Water Main Flushing Scheduled Next Week

MANCHESTER — The town's Water Department will be flushing water mains in the Spruce Street area starting Monday.

The flushing will take place on the following streets: Charter Oak Street north to Oak Street, including Sycamore Lane, and Spruce Street east to Oak Grove Street, including Meadow and Filgrim lanes.

There may be discoloration of water and reduced pressure during the flushing.

If water appears discolored, the homeowner should try to avoid using it until it clears. This will prevent rust and sediment from being brought into the home's system.

If sediment does get into a home's hot water tank, the homeowner should wait until the water clears and then open the faucet at the bottom of the tank to drain the collected material, which will settle at the bottom.

Also, if a load of wash is done during the period of discolored water, the load should be done again after the water clears. Four ounces of cream of tartar should be added to help clean any discoloration of the clothing.

If normally takes a couple of hours for the water to clear in a home. If water appears discolored for an extended period, the homeowner should call the Water Department at 647-3115.

Youth Takes Church Tour For College

MANCHESTER — Brian Kilpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Kilpatrick of 100 Concord Road, is touring the Eastern Nazarene College of the Nazarene this summer in the interest of Eastern Nazarene College.

Brian is the grandson of the late Archie Kilpatrick who was a long-time employee of the Manchester Herald, as a reporter and photographer.

He was valedictorian of the Manchester High School graduating class of 1975 and graduated summa cum laude with a bachelor of arts degree in chemistry from Eastern Nazarene College. Loose Dogs Gripe Aired MANCHESTER — A resident complained at this week's directors' comment session about roaming dogs causing problems in town.

The woman said she has children who deliver newspapers and are harassed by dogs. She also said dogs sometimes are chained near the library entrance.

Both these matters have been reported to police and to the librarian, but the woman said she has received little response.

She said more effective enforcement is needed and suggested a Youth Corps to assist the town's dog warden might be formed.

The Town Board of Directors has commented on similar problems in the past two years. During this year's budget review work, it suggested that further study be done into improving the present setup for dog care.

An Alexander Street resident complained about a sewer backup problem at his home that he said has been a recurring problem for more than 30 years.

During his most recent problem, the resident was not satisfied with the response of the Sewer Department employees coming to help him. He said the employees took several hours to arrive.

Another resident said that more work should be done to improve mass transportation in the area. It also questioned the expenditure to improve roads near the Burr Corners Shopping Center when Interstate 86 also is going to be widened.

Another resident said the town should reopen Highland Park Springs, which has been closed since August 1977 for health reasons.

Director Thomas Connors presided at the recent comment session. The sessions are held twice each month — the first Tuesday and the third Thursday — in the directors' office in the Municipal Building.

The sessions offer a chance for residents to meet with a member of the Town Board of Directors and discuss any matter that involves town government.

Firm Withdraws Bid on Cruiser

BOLTON — A Willimantic automobile dealer has withdrawn its bid to supply a police cruiser less than two weeks after it was accepted by the Board of Selectmen.

Ceccaroli Ford Inc. of Willimantic, after bidding on the 1979 police cruiser, said it learned from the Ford Motor Company that they are "unable to build the cruiser."

The Willimantic dealer said it mailed the order to the Ford Motor Company several days after their deadline for acceptance and the order was rejected.

First Selectman Henry Ryba said, "We should send them a letter saying we are not satisfied. We don't approve of them accepting a bid and then rejecting it."

The board awarded the bid for the police cruiser to Dillon Ford in Manchester for $8,880.

The board also awarded a bid to Koepke Communications and Electronics for two mobile radios for $2,793. One radio will be for the police cruiser and one for the highway department.

At the recent comment session, the sessions are held twice each month — the first Tuesday and the third Thursday — in the directors' office in the Municipal Building.

The sessions offer a chance for residents to meet with a member of the Town Board of Directors and discuss any matter that involves town government.

- Computerized Axial Tomography (CAT) scans when the equipment and facilities have prior approval of a regulating agency.
- Diagnostic ultrasound procedures.
- Reconstructive surgery of the breast and external prosthesis following mastectomies for malignancy or other disease of the breast tissue.
- Cancer chemotherapy by infusion in a physician's office.

All benefits are subject to a new comprehensive schedule of allowances which Participating Physicians and Providers accept as their full reimbursement for covered services.

In order to begin to align the provisions of the Century Contract with those of other contracts of the Corporation, a number of other changes have been made. The most significant of which is that unmarried dependents over age 19 will no longer be continued on Blue Shield contracts unless the dependent is a student under age 23 or totally and permanently disabled or coverage beyond age 19 has been purchased through an employer's group program. Because of administrative complexities brought on by the consolidation of Blue Cross and Blue Shield (CMS), this particular provision will not be implemented until early in 1980. More information will be provided to groups and subscribers in the future.

In the interest of stabilizing the cost of health care services additional exclusions or limitations have been made which pertain to services at an unapproved facility; screening, experimental or research services. Electrocardiograms are limited to three in a calendar year.

Revised contracts including all amendments will be available shortly.

MANCHESTER — The State Insurance Commissioner has approved additional benefits effective July 1, 1979 with no increase in membership rates. Allowances for Century Contract services were increased July 1, 1979, an aggregate of 15% which is in compliance with Council on Wage and Price Stability standards, the first increase since March 1, 1975.

UTC-Carrier Link 20th Largest Firm

HARTFORD (UPI) — Legal officers of United Technologies Corp. and Carrier Corp. today were expected to put the finishing touches to a merger creating the nation's 20th largest corporation.

The merger of the two firms with annual sales that total $4.4 billion was approved Thursday by stockholders' meetings here and in Syracuse, N.Y.

Edward Large, vice president and general counsel for UTC, said the merger will be official today with the signing of necessary papers.

UTC Chairman Harry J. Gray, presiding over a brief meeting of 219 UTC stockholders in the Hartford Civic Center, heralded the merger as a step "toward new heights" in revenues and products to the public and the company.

Later at a news conference, Gray dismissed as "without merit" anti-trust actions by the Justice Department and the Securities Exchange Commission. "We have not violated any anti-trust laws and the merger will go ahead," he said.

Large said opponents of the merger were "dead wrong" in their allegations and "we'll be able to prove it, if necessary."

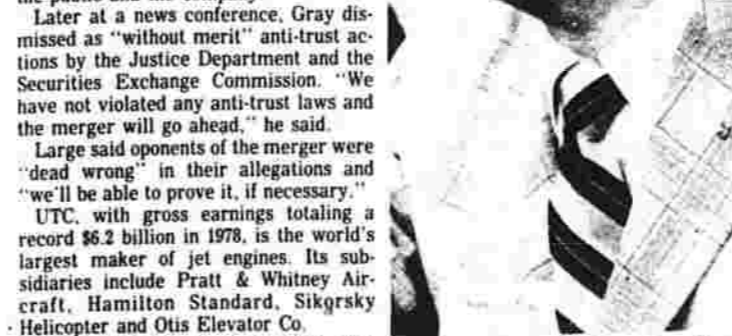

UTC, with gross earnings totaling a record $6.2 billion in 1978, is the world's largest maker of jet engines. Its subsidiaries include Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, Hamilton Standard, Sikorsky Helicopter and Otis Elevator Co.

Carrier, based in Syracuse, N.Y., is a leading producer of air conditioning and energy processing equipment and recorded annual sales of $2.1 billion as of Oct. 31, 1978.

While at the university he also played varsity soccer for two years and was a member of the A Cappella Choir and was also piano accompanist and business manager.

During this past year he held the position of Eastern Nazarene College's director of the church. He has been active in the Bible Quiz Program of the church since he was in sixth grade.

He has been active in the Student Mission Corps and during the summer of 1977 he went as a student missionary to the Philippine Islands.

The final vote total was 30.9 million to 1.3 million. About 17.6 million of the favorable votes were cast by UTC stockholders who purchased Carrier stock.

United Technologies becomes the nation's 20th largest corporation — and the 13th largest manufacturer in the U.S. UTC is Connecticut's largest employer with 55,000 workers and employs 152,000 persons worldwide. Carrier has 37,000 employees.

Fraud Control Chief

HARTFORD (UPI) — Assistant State Attorney Warren A. Gower has been appointed chief of the Medicaid Fraud Control Unit, succeeding Arthur P. Meisler who resigned May 1, says Chief State Attorney Austin McGuigan.

Gower served as chief of the economic crime unit for 3 1/2 years. Gower's assistant Stephen H. Solomonson will take over as head of the economic crime unit.

Jury Selection To Delay Trial

WATERBURY (UPI) — The jury selection process for the Lorne Aquin trial, Connecticut's largest mass murder case, has suffered several setbacks which may delay the scheduled July 9 starting date.

Aquin, 29, is accused of killing his foster brother's wife, her seven children and a young guest at his Prospect home on July 27, 1977.

Three jurors were excused from the panel Thursday, leaving four alternates to be seated before the trial can begin.

The session began with a full panel of 12 jurors and one alternate. But juror Warren Volage of Naugatuck was excused for medical problems and juror Kathleen Lamay of Waterbury was dismissed after she said she had found that her mother had formerly worked for an aunt of one of the victims.

Alternate juror Charlotte Pfaff was then moved up to the jury to fill one of the vacancies.

Bryan P. Holland of Waterbury was seated in the remaining spot, but he lasted only a few hours. Holland told Judge Walter M. Pickett Jr. later in the afternoon that his employer said participating on the jury could endanger his job as a Bridgeport computer operator.

So Holland was also excused. He was quickly replaced by Thomas M. Lawrence of Waterbury.

Seven other potential jurors were excused during the day, bringing the total of prospective panelists rejected all but one to nearly 250.

Pickett granted the prosecution and defense three additional challenges without cause for selecting the additional jurors, giving each side a total of 34 peremptory challenges.

The state had used 30 of its challenges, while the defense had used 31.

Defense attorney John R. Williams of New Haven predicted that the trial will last several months.

Siding is one of best home investments

If you are considering new siding for your home - look at it as an investment, not as an expense. Pre-finished siding quickly more than repays the initial cost of the application in terms of reduced painting bills.

For example, if it costs $4,500 to put new aluminum siding on an old peeling home and $1,500 to repaint the existing wood siding every four years, through them you will experience a removal of maintenance which would occur in only eight years if the home is in need of immediate painting now.

Since pre-finished aluminum siding is warranted for 20 to 40 years, the original investment would be paying a large dividend in terms of reduced maintenance costs for many years. In the past 30 years, over 11 million homes have been sided with aluminum.

Colors now range from pastels to deep shades and the earth tones, textures are plain or embossed to resemble any type wood shingle, and intricate architectural details can be worked out to duplicate even original Victorian trim.

Paints and finishes are more durable, and insulated aluminum siding has been developed to conserve energy by helping to reduce fuel use. Moreover, the long experience gained by contractors working with the material is proving invaluable to homeowners.

Although vinyl plastic siding is now available, its range of colors and finishes is more limited. Also, vinyl formulations differ from manufacturer to manufacturer while aluminum remains dependable because the material is standard.

Aluminum has proven to be practical over a long period of time even in damp climates. It has resisted corrosion where it has been installed in beach areas, particularly in Cape Cod and along the Virginia Coast.

In choosing siding, it is wise to consider a house in its entirety and know just how you want it to look when it is completely remodeled.

Some contractors even provide a sketch of the finished house when they give you an estimate. Most will recommend that you select insulated aluminum siding to keep your house cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

Choosing a reputable contractor is just as important as selecting the siding, for it is his expertise and experience that will give you the results you want. Ask to see aluminum siding jobs he has completed and talk with these homeowners if possible.

Send for information

Also, learn as much as you can about the product before you make a decision. For help, write to the Aluminum Siding Information Bureau, 250 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019 for a free copy of the booklet, "A Homeowner's Guide to Choosing Siding," and "The Energy Savings Worksheet."

DEAR ABBY: I am the editor of a newsletter for adopted parents. It is called OUBS (Organization for a United Response).

Some years back you had a column about the typical stupid questions all parents of adopted children were asked. You offered some wonderful suggested replies. Could you please bust up that item and run it again? I would like to run it in my newsletter with your permission.

ANN G. EARLINGTON, KY.

DEAR ANN: I found the item, and here it is:

DEAR ABBY: A prospective adoptive mother asked you for help in replying to "Mean, kindly, well-meaning" friends and relatives who ask personal questions about the adoption.

May I help? I have been through it four times and have heard all comments and questions. Here are some tried and true responses:

Q: Oh, isn't it a shame you can't have 'children of your own'?

A: Not really, there's a lot of us in both our families. Do you know all about the parents?

Q: Did the adoption agency try to match your features, coloring and personality?

A: Good grief, I hope not!

Q: Aren't you worried about hereditary factors?

A: Heaven, no. Regardless of how bad their ancestors were, they've got to be better than us!

Best wishes!

BEEN THERE

DEAR ABBY: The night before Mother's Day our son called and invited us out for a Mother's Day dinner along with his wife, her brother and his wife, and his wife's mother. Now here's the clincher: "Would we pay our own way since he was broke?"

My wife turned down the invitation, so our son said he'd stop by the house in the morning to wish her a happy Mother's Day.

Abby, this same son went to Nassau last month for a vacation with his wife and his wife's sister and brother. Last summer they had a lovely vacation in Europe, and plan to go again this summer. (They're taking her folks along.)

I am fed up with this whole outfit. It is plain to me that we are not accepted by our son's wife and her people. How can I make my wife see the light? I hate to hurt her feelings. Sign me...

DISGUSTED IN THE LAND O' LAKES

DEAR ABBY: Your wife must see the light as clearly as you. There's no point in rubbing it in. Why discuss the obvious?

DREAM

DEAR ABBY: You should have told A CARPENTER'S DREAM who was fat as a board to develop a sense of humor about her elderly hopeless condition.

For example, a group of anatomically deprived women here in Northridge has founded a self-help organization called "Broomies Builders," seeking to provide support to those whose living bras are dying of malnutrition.

We meet every Saturday at a pre-teen bar counter for such uplifting activities as throwing darts at a poster of Dolly Parton. After the meeting we march through the store two abreast singing, "I've Got Plenty of Nothin'." Then we all go to the Pancake House for lunch. You may sign this, "Two Sunken Treasures in Northridge" or BARBARA C. AND CAROLYN H.

three clubs and the tens of hearts and diamonds. By this time West was sure that his four clubs were of paramount importance so he hung on to all of them. This left him with only one other card and after much thought he dropped the queen of hearts in order to hang on to a low one. He had anticipated that South was planning to throw him in with that queen.

South cashed dummy's ace and king of clubs and got the lead. He still had a composite one-suit ray of hope. Maybe West still held the jack of hearts. So South in desperation led the 10 of hearts and was down two when East produced the jack and cashed two high diamonds.

South saw from the start that six spades would be a cinch unless West held four clubs to the jack. He could handle four clubs in the East hand. So South proceeded to cash dummy's ace of diamonds at trick four. He had drawn trumps at tricks two and three.

When South cashed that ace, West stopped to think and then proceeded to jettison his king under the ace.

Now South ran off all his trumps to leave dummy with Your partner opens one club. A Louisiana reader asks what response you recommend.

Respond one spade. You plan to show hearts later. You should bid the higher ranking of two 5-card suits irrespective of strength.
