Carter Lifts Price Controls

By EDWARD ROBY WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter lifted price controls on America's hard-to-extract heavy crude oil Friday as part of a plan to boost domestic petroleum production...

action that would significantly increase production of American crude oil reserves," he said. The president said the government has to provide incentives because heavy oil must be heated in a costly process before being extracted from the ground...

Under price control, most heavy oil has been sold at prices of about $6 per barrel, which some refiners viewed as too low. Carter aides said the decontrolled price would probably settle at two to three dollars below the current market level of about $18 a barrel...

Humor Prevails Despite Tragedy

PORT MANSFIELD, Texas (UPI) - The Coast Guard Friday sent out more equipment to protect the ecologically sensitive Laguna Madre from two big new oil slicks, but on the beaches people proved they could find humor even in potential disaster...

Despite two weeks of constant worry about the impact of the oil slicks on the key tourism and fishing industries, there were indications residents were beginning to become accustomed to the situation. T-shirts appeared on the beaches saying such things as, "I got oil at Padre Island..."

Bobby Patterson, owner of a firm which makes transfers for the shirts, said, "Some people didn't find humor in the oil slick, but I think because there's nothing you can do about it, you might as well take advantage of it."

Young Takes Pledge For Term Remainder

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Andrew Young "authorized and agrees with" the U.S. pledge that he will do no business with Palestinian envoys during the rest of his term as U.N. ambassador, the State Department said Friday...

Confusion over Young's role increased Thursday when he suggested, at a New York news conference, he might meet again with the Palestine Liberation Organization's U.N. observer, Zehdi Labib Terzi, in his capacity as Security Council president.

Friday, Reston told reporters, "The statement was put out after consultations with the ambassador. He knows, authorized and agrees with what is in the statement."

Firm Gives Cash To Boost Sales

DETROIT (UPI) - Chrysler Corp. opened a new sales assault Friday with a $400 customer rebate program and sought to reassure the public it is far from folding.

The ailing company, saddled with huge inventories of big cars and trucks, said it will begin Saturday offering $400 rebates to purchasers of all its models except the subcompact Omni and Horizon and its imported cars and trucks.

Chrysler, which posted losses of $260 million in the first six months of this year, also purchased full-page advertisements in the Detroit News and Detroit Free Press seeking to persuade customers it has taken steps to assure its return to profitability.

SOUTH WINDSOR—The Pantomime Puppet Company, which offers plays based on folk songs and folk tales, will entertain fairgoers when the Wapping Fair opens Sept. 7. The puppeteers, who have entertained from Montreal to New York, established a whimsical company in 1975. They use a variety of techniques, including puppetry, mime, masked actors and audience participation. This year's fair, sponsored by the South Windsor Knights of Columbus and the local Jaycees, will be held at the Rye Street Park fairgrounds. Don Wojcyna of the Knights of Columbus said the Wapping Fair Committee anticipates "the best year yet" for the fair. A barbecue, which includes one-half chicken with "all the fixings," will be held Saturday, the 8th. Following the barbecue, local guitarist Julie MacAlpine will sing folk songs. A large variety of crafts will be demonstrated in the exhibition tent, including pottery making, blacksmithing, broom making, spinning, quilting, dry flower arranging, jewelry and silver handcrafting, rug making, and canning. However, the cornerstone of the Wapping Fair has always been the agriculture and handicraft exhibits. Locally grown fruits and vegetables will be displayed. The exhibits will be judged by the Eastern Star. Residents will receive an annual fair booklet by mail soon. The Fair Committee will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Clubhouse, 641 Sullivan Ave. The meeting is open to the public.

Collectors' Corner Lantern Stamp Coming

By RUSS MacKENDRICK
An 1850 type of railroad conductor's lantern will be pictured on a new $5 adhesive to be released this coming Thursday at a stamp extravaganza in Boston. It is on the occasion of the 83rd Annual Convention of the American Philatelic Society—Aug. 23 through 26. The first-day ceremonies for the stamp will be held at 11 a.m. at the John B. Hynes Veterans Auditorium in Prudential Mall (900 Boylston St.). Collectors are advised to get the stamp later at their own P.O.s, after to envelopes of their choice and forward to First Day Cancellations, Postmaster, Boston, MA 02109. If you want to order the stamp from Boston, send your prepared cover and a check for $5 to "$5.00 Stamp, Postmaster, Boston, MA 02109. All this is if one can't be there in person. The deadline is September 7. Investment-minded buyers can compare the prospects of the new five with the John Bassett Moore $5 stamp of 1966 which is listed as an unused single in the latest Harris at $10; the 1956 Alexander Hamilton at $125; and the 1938 Cal Coolidge at $185. A long wait to make a buck but they did get there. The Moore plate block is priced at while the Hamilton, just 10 years older, goes for $60. The lantern stamp will be yellow, orange and brown. Short-set collectors will need it to go along with the other lighting devices of the American Series: the $2 Table Lamp and the $1 Candlestick. Later we will get a $6-center to complete the quartet of "lights." The convention of the APS has a title, "STAMPSHOW '79"—see the The Almanac

U.S. Envoy Strauss Pledges Support of Israel

United Press International
U.S. envoy Robert Strauss, on a peace mission marred by Egyptian and Israeli criticism of the Andrew Young affair, said Friday the United States would stand by Israel at the United Nations and veto a resolution recognizing Palestinian rights. Strauss' visit began with a bumpy start Friday in more ways than one. His U.S. Air Force Jet developed problems with its hydraulic landing gear and made an emergency landing at Ben Gurion Airport as fire engines and ambulances stood by. The plane landed safely and no one was hurt. Then there was the flap over U.N. Ambassador Young's resignation because of his attempt to conceal the circumstances of an unauthorized meeting he held last month with a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization. Egypt criticized the meeting and Israeli agents eavesdropped on the conversation in Rome of the Kuwaiti ambassador to the U.N., adding that "Israel feels deeply insulted about those charges, which are ridiculous and far away from reality."

Agents eavesdropped on the conversation in Rome of the Kuwaiti ambassador to the U.N., adding that "Israel feels deeply insulted about those charges, which are ridiculous and far away from reality." Newweek, which broke the initial story, said it received word of the meeting from Israeli sources in Israel on Aug. 11. The Atlanta Constitution later reported that Israeli agents followed Young to the meeting—an account also denied by the State Department. Egypt's government radio meanwhile accused Washington of "weak-kneed submission" to Israel for letting Young go. "It is hard to tell at first glance the size of the loss suffered by the American administration because of its weak-kneed submission to Israeli and Zionist pressures to get rid of Young," the radio in a rare attack on Washington.

Couple Survives Trip

BOSTON (UPI)—When James and Meredith Sheekley raised their champagne glasses to the sky, they had more to toast than their new life together. The honeymooners, who became separated for more than 20 hours when their rented 12-foot sailboat lost a rudder and capsized over and over on the choppy seas off Cape Cod, are glad to have survived the first week of their marriage. "We're both a little sunburned, a little stiff and a little sore, but other than that we're just happy to be home together," Meredith, 21, said Thursday night while relatives sipped champagne for the festive celebration. She and her husband of four days were sailing Wednesday when they ran into strong winds and a heavy current, lost a rudder and capsized several times near Woods Hole. James, 25, managed to get it under control, but a gust of wind carried her and the tattered boat off before Meredith could get aboard. For the next 20 hours the newlyweds had no idea if one another was alive as James drifted off. Meredith began swimming to shore when she spotted a buoy, which she clung to for a short time until a vessel carrying marine inspectors rescued her and took her to Falmouth Hospital. Meanwhile, the Coast Guard assembled a search crew to find James, who was just learning to sail. "I was afraid that was the last of it," James said Thursday night, recalling how he had capsized about 10 times during the night and wrapped the sail around him to keep warm. "I'm just glad I made it," he said. A Coast Guard helicopter spotted him and flashed a signal asking him if he was in distress, then went down to rescue James and whisk him off to Falmouth Hospital where he was reunited with his wife. "I was at the mercy of the wind," he said. "It was pretty severe."

Buying Power Reduced

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The real buying power of Americans declined for the first time since the last recession during the April-June quarter of this year, and business profits dipped for the second time, the government reported Friday. Disposable personal income, the amount people have left after taxes, rose 2 percent during the second quarter of 1979, according to the Commerce Department report. But with inflation taken into account, their real buying power dropped 0.3 percent. It was the first quarterly slump in buying power since 1975, before the nation began recovering from the previous recession. And with both inflation and the new recession coming into play, the department reported after-tax corporate profits declined by $3.4 billion, or 2.4 percent during April-June, to an annual rate of $38.6 billion.

Youth Conservation Team Takes Deserved Rest

By DAVE LAVALLEE
Herald Reporter

GLASTONBURY — After working in weeks of oppressive heat repairing the trails of Cotton Hollow Nature Preserve, they decided to take a rest. On Thursday, members of the Comprehensive Youth Work Experience Program just relaxed at Cotton Hollow and reflected on the conservation work they had done during the summer.

The shovels, rakes, pruning shears and block and tackle were all put away. Now it was their turn to enjoy what they hope will be a more enjoyable area because of their work.

"I think we will call ourselves The Cotton Hollow Conservation Crew," Supervisor Bud Jarrell said.

The crew was made up of nine young people, ranging in age from 15 to 17. Jarrell said that he and an assistant supervised the workers in the reconstruction of the trail system in Cotton Hollow. Thursday was the last day of work for the members of the crew, who were hired under the federal government's CUYWE program. Glastonbury Youth Services Bureau did all of the interviewing for the jobs.

J. Jaylis Earle, director of the Department of Parks and Recreation said he was very pleased with the work the young people did.

"Because they did such great work on those trails, people won't even know work was done. It all looks very natural. It is also much safer to walk out there now because there are things to grab onto," Earle said.

Earle said he would like to continue the work on the trails next year.

"We need to do more work on the entrance next year," he said.

Kinne, along with other town officials, toured the area earlier in the week. "I was very impressed with the work those young people did," Kinne said. Now you can walk along Roaring Brook without falling in because of steep trails. Jarrell said the young people were all very motivated. "I didn't push them. I would let them make the decisions as to whether they wanted to do a certain amount of work. I think because of this, they accepted me and respected me. The kids did most of the work."

The crew did just about everything to improve the trails. Huge rocks were moved into areas where they could be used as steps down a steep grade. On the edges of the cliffs bordering Roaring Brook, the crew mounded up brush and placed stones along the trail to prevent erosion.

Rocks that they could not move by hand they rigged up to a block and tackle. Some of these rocks were about as heavy as a compact car. In order to rig up the block, the members of the crew often had to climb trees high over the cliffs of Roaring Brook.

Anne Heselton, 15, and a member of the crew said she would like to come back and work next year.

"If they let us come back, I will I really enjoyed doing the outside work," the Glastonbury High School student said.

Kevin aly, 16, said there were three things that made the job fun.

"It was a nice place to work and our boss, Bud was great. Sometimes, during the hot days he would let us go for a swim," said Daly, who is a student at Glastonbury High School.

The group improved the trail from the entrance at Grange Pool to the area where young people dive off the cliffs at Roaring Brook. Chris Jicha, who will be a senior at GHS this fall said many times the crew had to pick up trash that was left behind after weekend parties. "After a hot weekend, this place was loaded with trash. We carried sacks and sacks of bottles out of here on Mondays," Jicha said. Jarrell said the work the group did will probably last for 50 years. "With all of the rocks we used, I don't see how anyone could vandalize the work we did. If they wanted to, they would have to work very hard," Jarrell said.

"On those days when it was hot, we sweated so much that you couldn't tell if we were sweating or if we had been in for a swim," Jicha said.

Cycle Program Slated

BRIDGEPORT (UPI)—Housatonic Community College has become the first of Connecticut's 12 community colleges to offer a motorcycle safety program which state officials say will be expanded.

William J. Wade Sr., deputy commissioner of the state Department of Transportation, said the program was necessary because the gasoline crunch has helped make motorcycles more popular.

He said DOT's Office of Highway Safety, which administers the Housatonic program, will meet this fall with community college officials around the state to decide what other community colleges will offer the program.

News for Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

Hello everybody! The first reminder of day is that on Monday morning we will be registering for a three day stay on the shores of Lake George.

The trip isn't scheduled until October 3, 4, and 5th, but we need to assure ourselves of accommodations and it will also give you folks a chance to pay a substantial amount down and the rest by the middle of September.

The price of $91.00 per person two to a room includes bus fare, two nights stay at Dunham's Bay Lodge, two full breakfasts and two complete dinners, site seeing, 2 1/2 hr. boat cruise.

This all takes place right around foliage time and should make for a neat three days away. We mentioned earlier a $50.00 deposit but may take a little less if you are able to complete payment at this time. However, the complete payment must be paid by the 15th of September. Sign-up time starts right around 8 a.m.

While on trips, we also have a super nice boat cruise to our favorite island of Bermuda. It's a seven day ride, with all kinds of action and relaxation. Flyers explaining all about it are now available at our office.

Another good piece of news is that we will be starting our noontime meals starting Monday. Thanks to the very talented Joe Diminico, our hard working handy man, who will take over the kitchen duties for a couple of weeks. Joe could use a couple of volunteers to sort of help him out especially the serving of the food. If you'd like to help Joe and enable us to offer the lunches, the contact him at our office. The menu for this coming week reads something like this:

Monday: Hamburger on bun, french fries, mixed fruit, beverage.

Tuesday: Egg salad sandwich, potato chips, pudding, beverage.

Wednesday: Macaroni salad, bread and butter, pears, beverage.

Thursday: Tuna fish sandwich, cole slaw, potato chips, Jell-O, beverage.

Happenings here at the center start with our Wednesday morning pinocle games. We had 40 players and the lucky winners were: Annette Hillery, 649; Martin Bakstan, 597; John Phelps, 590; Marjorie McLean, 581; Arvid Peterson, 578; Ann Thompson, 570; Bert Turner, 569; Floyd

Post, 562; Jennie Fogarty, 546; Lillian Lewis, 539.

In the afternoon we held our bridge games and the lucky prize winners are George Last, 5390; Marge McLean, 4370; Rene Maire, 4730; Mary Sargant, 4710.

By the way, some of our lady golfers joined some of the men and played at the Neipic course in Glastonbury this past Tuesday morning. Joe made the arrangements and had one man playing with three ladies to sort of coach them along.

Our sewing ladies are still working long and hard trying to put all the drapes together. Believe me, it's a tough job cutting the velvet and then sewing backing onto each piece. They sure are a dedicated group and Kay Nettleton certainly has everything well organized. Cheer up, girls, one day soon when the time comes to hang the drapes you will point with pride as will everyone else and you'll know then it was all well worth the hard work.

While on the subject of the Green House, I have been getting quite a number of calls asking now that the contractor is out and they won't get in anybody's way, could they take a look at the building. So we say, if you are interested, just call our office and we'll make arrangements to give you a tour.

Schedule for Week

Monday: 8 a.m., registration for Lake George trip. Also senior golf league at E.H. course, 10 a.m., kitchen social games. Noontime lunch served, 1 p.m. pinocle games. Bus pickup at 8:15 a.m. Return trips at 12:30 and 3:30 p.m.

Wings of Morning Good News for the Hungry

By CLIFF SIMPSON

When I was in the Philippines I visited the International Rice Research Institute, and marveled at their fight against world hunger.

I shared some of my joy with you at the time in my column "My Window on the World." It was there that "miracle rice" became available to the whole of Southeast Asia. This rice could be planted by throwing it into the paddy instead of each stock placed by hand. It had about 10 times the yield of the rice that it replaced.

One whole extra crop a year. It was indeed a miracle.

Now I read in the July-August 1979 issue of International Wildlife magazine that there are promising new crops and plants that may become the superstars of world food production.

I hope the Manchester Council on World Hunger is aware of this item. They certainly have strange sounding names: cocoyam, marama bean, amarantus, buffalo gourds, quihus, spirulina, and tarwi. Some of these crops go back over 1,500 years and each has a real helpful future in our fight against an ever increasing population and diminishing acre for growing crops.

I am quoting just from one description only—the winged bean, but the others are just as hopeful for a hungry population.

"The dried, pea-like beans of this remarkable plant contain up to 37 percent protein—as much as soybeans. The tuberculous roots are the protein of the potato. The beans also yield polyunsaturated oil and the roots provide starch. Every part of the winged bean is tasty and edible. The fresh pods make a cheery, slightly sweet vegetable which resembles green beans, and the plant continues producing these pods for as long as four months each year. The leaves are like spinach and the flowers, when cooked, taste like mushrooms. The dried root, eaten like potatoes, have a delicious nutty flavor. The vines, supported by poles, are grown in garden plots in parts of New Guinea and southeast Asia. With research, short-stemmed varieties of the winged bean could be developed to allow mass cultivation throughout the tropics.

Maybe even our jaded taste-buds will be excited by these new food plants. Edward Ayensu found 119 different kinds of vegetables in the garden markets of China. (He is the chief botanist at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington.) How many different vegetables have you had on your table this summer?

Jesus and Food

Jesus had food very much on his mind and in his message. It is not surprising that he said, "I am not here to bring peace, but a sword." But I do not believe he ever thought that we could live without it. His words include facts about feasts and banquets and meals especially for the dispossessed and hungry.

He permitted his followers to break the law by plucking grain on the sabbath, but he recalled the feeding of the 5,000 with the five loaves and fishes, and just before his crucifixion at the Last Supper he took bread and said, "This is my body broken for you." Eat in remembrance of Me.

You will find the relation between Jesus and food even closer in his parable of the wheat and the tares: "Come, O blessed of My Father, in the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world; for I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was naked and you clothed me. . . . Then the righteous will answer him, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed thee, or thirsty and give you drink? . . . Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me.' (Matthew 25:34-41)

... but the righteous (will go) into eternal life." (9:46) If you are a follower of Jesus, then you will feed the hungry.

A Revival in Ethic and Morals

America is faced with a crisis in its conduct of private and public life. I was interested in the way commentators played up the phrase "the old virtues" used at Thurman Sumner's funeral.

There was much praise for him as he had exemplified them in his life and I felt a wistful longing that they were lacking in so much of contemporary living.

President Derek Bok of Harvard has recommended that the Business School hire professors of Moral Philosophy. (The author of the article stating this says that it will do no good.)

Judge John Sirica this morning in commenting on Watergate stressed the fact that how our country is looking for honest and ethical people in government. He felt that this five-year-old scandal did have therefore some fine by-products.

Another well-known TV personality recently scotched the business world dominated now by "What do we" rather than "I'll make do." And now the Wall Street Journal has an article about "water in the gasoline" and how much it is costing for repairs—in one case, up to over $1,000. But trouble is not limited to the United States.

An editor in India says: "Here there is a malaise, nine tenths of the time is spent putting balm on people's egos. They are lost in petty wars among themselves—as spineless and lethargic as our politicians."

How I wish that the Christian Church might start a world revival to increase humility and honesty! Any suggestions?

Guest Speaker Set At Calvary Church

MANCHESTER—Jerry Feldman of South Hamilton, Mass., will be guest speaker Sunday at the 10:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. services at Calvary Church, 647 E. Middle Turnpike. The public is invited.

The Rev. Kenneth Gustafson, pastor of the church, and his wife are attending the biennial General Council of the Assemblies of God, which is convening in Baltimore, Md.

A former nightclub entertainer, Feldman has served as a staff member with the Assemblies of God Home Mission Outreach to the Jewish community of Brooklyn, N.Y. He and his wife, Susan, who is also a musician, are graduates of Evangelical College, Springfield, Mo., where he studied for a degree in biblical studies, and she a degree in psychology.

Feldman is a third-year student at Gordon Conwell Theological Seminary, South Milton, Mass., where he is training for a pastoral ministry.

Renovation Slated By Center Church

MANCHESTER—The extensive renovations at Center Congregational Church will include safety improvements, facilities for the handicapped, modernization of office and classroom areas and the enlarging of the seating capacity of the sanctuary.

According to Joseph Adams, chairman of the building committee, the better use and safety of the building by the church membership and the community is of prime importance in the plans.

Presently Boy and Girl Scout troops, the MACC Emergency Team, Alcoholics Anonymous and local social organizations use the Parish Hall of the church on a regular basis.

Also serving on the building committee are William Chase, Jane Curtis, Hayden L. Griswold Jr., Joseph Hubbard, John Hartigan, Jeffrey Smith and Joyce Young.

Religion in America Council Is Under Attack

By DAVID E. ANDERSON

UPI Religion Writer

Ever since the World Council of Churches Program to Combat Racism made an $8,900 humanitarian grant to the black guerrilla fighters seeking to overthrow the binational government of Zimbabwe Rhodesia, the international interfaith organization has been in trouble.

The grant has been attacked from the day it was announced and while efforts of the World Council's leadership to explain the guerrilla funding has stilled some critics, a number of denominations in the United States are facing grass roots resolutions this summer to pull out of the ecumenical organization.

On top of the internal criticisms of the grants has come Ernest LeFever's short study of the World Council, "Amsterdam to Nairobi," a 61-page tract certain to fuel the flames of unhappiness many people feel with the World Council.

LeFever is director of the Ethics and Public Policy Center at Georgetown University, non-profit research center aimed at fostering public debate on the moral and ethical aspects of foreign and domestic policy issues, especially from a neo-conservative point of view.

In "Amsterdam to Nairobi," LeFever argues that the grant to the Patriotic Front is a natural outgrowth of a shift in World Council thinking since its founding in 1948. That shift, he argues, is from a generally European and North American organization to one dominated by Third World interests and an unequivocal acceptance of liberation theology.

He quotes from WCC documents issued at the Evanston World Council in Amsterdam in 1948.

"Amsterdam to Nairobi," LeFever seeks to document what he believes is a fundamental—and disheartening—shift in World Council theology from a view that took a "modest" approach to the churches' ability to shape political or economic systems to the activist approach represented by the grant to the Zimbabwean guerrillas.

He quotes from WCC documents issued at the Evanston Assembly which stressed "Christians are called to live responsibly, to live in response to God's act of redemption in Christ, in any society, even when the most unjust, favorable social structures."

World Council theology today, he argues, has shifted radically to the point where the churches now seem obligated to support violence in the name of the oppressed, overthrowing "unfavorable social structures."

The turning point, he suggests, may have been the 1966 Geneva Conference on Church and Society.

"Most U.S. delegates accepted the charges of oppression and neo-colonialism against American, and some even suggested that the charges were not strong enough," LeFever said.

Group Gives More Bibles

NEW YORK—In 1978, the American Bible Society, together with its global partners which make up the United Bible Societies, distributed more than a half billion Scriptures worldwide.

Not only did the total—503,318,000—break all previous annual records but this was the first time it topped the half billion mark.

ABS' part in this effort was 127 million Scriptures distributed in the United States, and financial support of 153 million overseas, for an exact total of 280,731,000 copies.

ABS' distribution activities worldwide in 1978 represented a 12.9 percent increase over 1977.

The American Bible Society exists solely to translate, publish and distribute Scriptures without doctrinal note or comment.

Written statements in Acts and their epistles. He said: "Except one be born of water and Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." John 3:5. Again, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Mark 16:16.

"The absolute necessity of baptism to one's salvation could not be stated in more explicit terms. That such was the way the apostles understood Jesus is borne out by equally unequivocal language in their oral and written teachings in Acts and their epistles. . . . It is passing strange how people with strong verbal commitment to the Bible will temper with its teachings. On one point of doctrine this inconsistency can be illustrated. Our own Lord said: 'Except one be born of water and Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.' John 3:5. Again, 'He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved.' Mark 16:16.

Attend A House of Worship This Week

THE JOY OF LIFE

Helen Keller's moving autobiography tells of her long journey toward becoming fully human. Left blind and deaf after a childhood illness, she was incapable of communicating except through lip-reading and sign language. Her pleasure in life because she lacked the words to express such emotions. Her husband developed a special sign language until a dedicated teacher, Anne Sullivan, came into her life.

This patient and loving teacher taught her the language that allowed Helen Keller to experience the beauty of the world around her. For her, every day was a voyage of discovery. Her description of a beautiful leaves one with little doubt that she had experienced a stony day more profoundly than many with intact senses.

Don't take the gift of sight and hearing for granted. Take time this week to thank God for your capacity to experience the joy of life.

This page is dedicated to the building of a more spiritual community by those firms and churches who want to use more folk who go to their Church and Synagogues...

Tomjanovich Awarded $3.3 Million

HOUSTON (UPI) — A federal court jury Friday awarded Tomjanovich $3.3 million in actual and punitive damages from a face-crushing punch thrown by the Los Angeles Lakers' Kermit Washington during a 1977 basketball game.

Tomjanovich, 30, had asked for $2.6 million but the jury of five men and one woman answered all of the questions submitted to them by U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton Jr. in the athlete's favor, and said Washington had acted recklessly.

The Tomjanovich suit was brought against California Sports Inc., owner of the Lakers, the team for which Washington now plays for the San Diego Clippers, testified that he struck Tomjanovich in self-defense Aug. 10, 1977, during a game.

The same jury will be recalled over the course of the second round of the Tomjanovich suit.

Tomjanovich gave lawyers the opportunity to comment on the decision or continue a gag order pending the outcome of the second round of the trial.

Other Tomjanovich questions in the suit include whether Tomjanovich was injured by the punch and whether he was injured by the punch.

The jury took five hours Friday to reach its verdict on the Tomjanovich suit, which was filed in 1978 and suspended for 60 days by NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien after the trial. The Lakers traded Washington to the Boston Celtics the same month as the incident and from there he went to San Diego.

Bruins Ink Gilbert

BOSTON (UPI) — Goalie Gilles Gilbert, who rose out of Don Cherry's doghouse last spring to turn in a memorable performance in goal in the Stanley Cup semifinals, Friday signed the free agent market and signed a two-year contract with the Boston Bruins.

"We are very happy to have Gilles under contract again," said Boston General Manager Harry Sinden, who first signed the 30-year-old goalie in 1973.

Gilbert played sparingly under Cherry last season, participating in just 23 games and compiling a 3.54 goals against average and no shutouts. Cherry lost faith in Gilbert after an early season game, and the goalie often was plagued by injuries.

Gilbert, however, made no effort to hide his displeasure at the way he was treated. He said he would not return if Cherry stayed on. And he also said that his attorney, Mike Adams, had concentrated heavily on solidifying his defense.

The Jets recorded only 22 sacks last season so Michaels used his first two draft picks for aggressive, pass-rushing defensive ends Marty Lyons of Alabama and Mark Gastineau of East Central Oklahoma.

Lyons already has been given a starting position as the Jets revert from a 3-4 to a 4-3 defense and there is a possibility Gastineau, Dykes and Blinks also may earn starting berths.

"We had the most picks in the draft and we're very happy with the results," says Michaels. "Lyons and Gastineau both are big and fast and look like they'll be good ones and Dykes and Lynn may be the two fastest players available in the draft."

Montgomery has problems with his right elbow and Remy has a knee injury. The Jets made the biggest improvement of any club in the NFL last year and the high-powered offense scored 389 points.

Richard Todd seemed on his way to great things early last year when he suffered a fracture shoulder in the fourth game. Matt Robinson, a 10th round draft choice three years ago, turned in a solid effort for the rest of the season.

Michaels obviously would like for the physically superior Remy to be the No. 1 but the former Alabama star hasn't been able to shake Robinson, 25, average with six homers and 24 RBIs in 98 games with the Cubs this year.

The Red Sox will be the sixth major league club on which Sizemore has played.

Jets Looking for Balance

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — Balance will be the objective for the New York Jets this season.

Last year, the surprising Jets finished at 8-8 with one of the best offenses and one of the worst defenses in the NFL.

Prior to the 1978-79 season, during which he was at the team behind Jerry Chivers and Jim Frazier, Gilbert had a 2.92 goals against average and 15 shutouts. He came to the Bruins in a May 23, 1973 trade for Fred Stanfield.

Kroc Needs Compassion

BY MILT RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI) — This is in the nature of a personal plea to Bowie Kuhn, the commissioner.

Go a little easy on Ray Kroc. He realizes he booted one, he made a mistake, but everything he did was open and above board and now he's throwing himself on your mercy.

Ray Kroc's biggest crime was that he was so frustrated by the repeated failure of his San Diego Padres to move up in the National League West, he came out publicly Tuesday and said he was going to give it one last try this winter to get new ballplayers even if it meant spending as much as $10 million, and Craig Nettles and Joe Morgan were two players he said he would like to sign.

The reason he mentioned them is because both are up for free agency. Ray Kroc got a little carried away, a little too enthusiastic. There was no intention on his part whatsoever to tamper with either Nettles, who belongs to the Yankees, or Morgan, under contract to the Reds, and as a lawyer, commissioner, I'm sure you know that intent is an all important consideration when the time comes to mete out punishment in any law court in the land.

On Thursday, when I spoke with Kroc, he told me something I have always witnessed to be true since he bought the Padres five years ago.

"I've prided myself on my integrity all my life and I'm not the kind of guy who does things underhandedly."

When Kroc said he intended going after Nettles and Morgan in the free agent market, if they became available, first George Steinbrenner kicked and then Dick Wagner did. That's perfectly understandable because it makes things that much more difficult for the club presently employing the player in question.

"I consider Dick Wagner a friend and I've had a falling out since this whole thing started. I don't want to spoil my reputation."

In order not to do so, commissioner Kroc has to be fair.

outfielder became a free agent with the Giants in November of 1976.

"There's nothing much I can do if he (Kuhn) suspends me," Kroc said. "I certainly hope he doesn't. Yes, I am concerned about the whole thing. The commissioner sent me a telegram saying he wanted to speak to me about the matter."

Ray Kroc, who has made millions with his hamburger chain, is an honest little guy whose biggest fault is that he doesn't lie, he simply comes out and says what he feels.

Ray Kroc was guilty of imprudence, and in your view I suppose that means he should be punished. Justice should be tempered with some mercy, though.

Particularly in this case where the man has punished himself to a degree which I'm throwing myself on the mercy of the commissioner, which is all I can do.

Kuhn could fine Kroc. Even worse, he could suspend him as he did Ted Turner when he found the Atlanta Braves' owner guilty of tampering with Gary Matthews just before the season.

All I'm saying, commissioner, is go easy on Ray Kroc. He isn't such a bad little guy at all.

Summer Shooting, "Malfunction" Style

As a lot of my regular readers know, I shoot a skeet team with the Manchester Malfunctions.

Our season begins the first or second weekend in October, and ends around the end of April.

This year, we decided to enjoy each other's company during the summer, and shoot in a nice relaxed atmosphere, by getting together every Wednesday evening, and shooting until dark.

And then, we decided to try and suffer through one of those "shooting" sessions by taking turns shipping up a meal, after we finished shooting.

Well, I have to report that this has been a real success. We have opened up the skeet field at the Manchester Sportsman's Association property. Covertly, every Wednesday, not just for ourselves, or club members, but for the general public as well. The really serious shooters have found a place to practice during the week, so that they can sharpen up for the competition of weekend registered shoots.

And, the not so serious shooters, such as the Malfunctions have a chance to keep our eyes, reflexes, and coordination in shape. It also gives us a super chance to practice skullduggery, sandbagging, and chinny on one another.

This Wednesday evening shooting, has also given us the opportunity to acquaint novice shooters with the fun of shooting imported skeet. But claims he can't see the birds ... He's the "fox" ... He can't see the birds so badly, he goes 25 straight.

Or looks for a front faced, balding, easy going character, who has a grin on his face all the time. He snarls, when he calls "pull" and I don't know if he breaks the clay pigeons with his voice or the shot ... Either way ... he's apt to go straight too. As for me ... if I tell you I'm in a slump ... believe me. Although I have been known to stretch the truth ...

In any case, this is a summer shooting. Malfunction style, and if you would like to join us ... the invitation is out.

What does a grizzled veteran do when faced with the challenge of a young, eager prospect? Does he lend a hand or try to keep his job by keeping to himself the tricks of the trade acquired in 17 years of experience?

Jim Morrison, who is 34 years old and in his 11th major league season, has had 248 with two homers and 24 RBIs in 98 games with the Cubs this year.

Richard Todd seemed on his way to great things early last year when he suffered a fracture shoulder in the fourth game. Matt Robinson, a 10th round draft choice three years ago, turned in a solid effort for the rest of the season.

Michaels obviously would like for the physically superior Remy to be the No. 1 but the former Alabama star hasn't been able to shake Robinson, 25, average with six homers and 24 RBIs in 98 games with the Cubs this year.

The Red Sox will be the sixth major league club on which Sizemore has played.

Kite Grabs Lead After Two Rounds

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Texan Tom Kite, looking to salvage a disappointing year with one big victory, shot a 4-under-par 67 Friday to take a two-stroke lead at the midway point of the $400,000 Westchester Classic.

"Coming off a real good finish last year I was really looking forward to this year," said Kite, who stood at 6-under 126 after two rounds.

Washington, who now plays for the San Diego Clippers, testified that he struck Tomjanovich in self-defense Aug. 10, 1977, during a game.

Lyons already has been given a starting position as the Jets revert from a 3-4 to a 4-3 defense and there is a possibility Gastineau, Dykes and Blinks also may earn starting berths.

Montgomery has problems with his right elbow and Remy has a knee injury. The Jets made the biggest improvement of any club in the NFL last year and the high-powered offense scored 389 points.

Richard Todd seemed on his way to great things early last year when he suffered a fracture shoulder in the fourth game. Matt Robinson, a 10th round draft choice three years ago, turned in a solid effort for the rest of the season.
