Sea Collision

POINT JUDITH, R.I. (UPI) — A 300-foot barge carrying as much as 5.2 million gallons of gasoline collided in heavy fog early today with a 31-foot sailboat carrying four passengers about 3.5 miles off the coast of Rhode Island.

The Coast Guard said the sailboat was believed sunk and one passenger was missing. The barge was reported undamaged and proceeding to Boston under tow.

The Coast Guard mounted an air and sea search for Bill Austin of New York City, reported to be the captain of the sailboat, named the Sea Change.

The sailboat's other three passengers were rescued by the tugboat, named the Exxon Ocean State, that had been pushing the barge, the Exxon New York.

The survivors were identified by the Coast Guard as Robert Roesch and Guy Sovering, both of Mattituck, N.Y., and Peter Hirsch of New York City.

Dollar Steady

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar maintained its steady trend on the European money markets today and gold held close to the record overnight levels in a quieter bullion market.

Gold was up 25 cents in Zurich to $10.375 but down 25 cents in London at $309.50 — a record opening price for gold in both centers.

During trading Wednesday gold soared to a record price of $311.50 mid-morning but then receded slightly.

Gold remains firm but a much quieter atmosphere was evident before the Bank Holiday weekend, a dealer for Maccata and Goldsmid said in London.

The currency markets were also quiet.

Early Primary

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Traditionally New Hampshire holds the first presidential primary in the United States, but it all goes according to plan, Puerto Rico will hold the first Republican balloting, leaving New Hampshire's status only for its Democratic primary.

Puerto Rico has scheduled its GOP primary Feb. 17 and New Hampshire's primary will be held Feb. 28. But, because Puerto Rico is a commonwealth instead of a state, the potential threat from there apparently doesn't bother New Hampshire's Republicans.

"We don't really consider Puerto Rico's primary the first in the United States," said Republican State Chairman Nancy Sununu Wednesday.

Kidnappings

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Shortly after Pope John Paul II addressed a general audience for 20,000 people in St. Peter's Square Wednesday, police announced three kidnappings, bringing to 42 the number of persons abducted for ransom in Italy this year. Two teen-agers were seized off an island in one incident and a sister reported her brother's kidnapping in another.

The pontiff evidently decided it was time for him to take a stand in the country's epidemic of abductions, and before the announcement of the latest three kidnappings, said, "We are all personally dismayed by this new episode of wickedness and violence that offends civilized life and makes it insecure and dangerous."

"In pleading for the life of a 12-year-old boy seized by masked bandits five days ago, "We are not speaking here of disasters or natural phenomena, but of a willful and premeditated intention to make people suffer for the inconsiderate and execrable lust for money."

Closed-Door Talks Set on Palestinians

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young, trying to avert an embarrassing American showdown with the Arab states over Palestinian rights, called a closed-door session of the Security Council prior to a scheduled debate of the issue today.

Arab and Afro-Asian representatives rebuffed American efforts to postpone discussion of a controversial Arab-backed resolution reaffirming Palestinian rights to self-determination, national independence and sovereignty.

The United States is committed to veto the resolution in its present form, which automatically presents its adoption.

Young Wednesday proposed a further postponement of the debate already pushed back from July 30 — to gain time for more negotiations, but it was rejected by Arab representatives.

"Impossible," said Kuwait's Ambassador Abdallah Yacoub Bishara when asked whether he would accept a postponement. "There will be a vote and a (U.S.) veto Friday."

Another Arab delegate said, "There will be no further delay."

Arab delegates said if the resolution was killed in the Security Council they would call for an emergency debate on the Palestinian rights issue in the U.N. General Assembly, where the U.S. has no veto power.

Ironically it is Young, who resigned over an unauthorized meeting he had with a PLO representative during which he tried to obtain a postponement of the debate, who must cast the veto as permanent representative of the United States.

And there was little doubt if Young failed to obtain a postponement of the debate the U.S. veto would be used to prevent adoption of the resolution.

"We will take such action as we deem to be appropriate," Middle East special envoy Robert Strauss said Wednesday, including if necessary "a veto."

"We don't want to face that," he said on NBC's "Today" show. "We want to encourage that it (the debate) be postponed."

Young's meeting with the PLO observer at the United Nations, Zehdi Labib Terzi, and what the Israeli government believes to be a re-evaluation by Washington of U.S. policy toward the Palestinian question has caused strained relations between Israel and the United States.

Israel said the phrasing of the Arab-backed resolution amounted to granting statehood to the Arab Palestinians that would present a threat to the Jewish state and jeopardize the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

But some Arabs said they believed the resolution was not strong enough and want the word "statehood" for the Palestinians included.

Town Continues Four-Day Week

By CHARLIE MAYNARD
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The administration has extended its experimental four-day work week to Oct. 31 and will make another evaluation on its merits at that time.

Personnel Supervisor Stephen Werber said this morning that the administration and the 25 affected workers agreed to the extension to see how the plan would fare during "the longer, darker days" in the fall.

The town adopted the shortened work week Aug. 6 to conserve energy and gasoline. The workers in two divisions of the Water and Sewer Department have been working four 10-hour days.

Werber said the town has saved $70 in gasoline expenses during the trial period and has noted some increases in productivity. Sewer Department crews did about 21 percent more work cleaning sewer pipes than in the same period last year, he said.

Werber said he met with the union president this morning to see if both sides would agree to continue the experiment. One month was too short a time for an effective evaluation, he said.

The plan has gotten mixed reviews, Werber said. Some of the workers were "very pleased with the idea while others strongly disliked the setup. A second evaluation will be made Oct. 25, he said.

Improved China Relations Goal of Mondale Mission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Walter Mondale's mission to Peking beginning Friday is an effort to solve problems that are unexpectedly complicating development of U.S. relations with the People's Republic of China.

He also hopes to use the visit to make broad contacts with the Chinese leadership and make progress on establishing an American consulate in Canton.

Since President Carter broke diplomatic ties with Taiwan and extended full recognition to the People's Republic of China last December, U.S.-China relations have progressed amicably.

Peking objected strongly to the Taiwan Relations Act passed by Congress, providing for a continuing military relationship with the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan, but decided to look the other way instead of making an issue of it.

But the United States, in the meantime, ran into unexpected problems trying to stimulate economic assistance of China.

The Export-Import Bank, for example, has an unused $250 million claim against the People's Republic for railroad cars bought by the predecessor government and captured by the communists. Interest on the cars today amounts to another $24 million.

This claim must be settled before $2.6 billion credits go to China. Other industrialized countries have extended $30 billion in credits to Peking for purchases in the West, and American businessmen are at a disadvantage because the United States has provided none so far.

The administration has concluded a trade agreement with China promising normal trading terms on the same basis as its other trading partners, but the accord must be reviewed by Congress, and the White House has delayed sending it to Capitol Hill because of the crush of other congressional business.

The Chinese have made preliminary inquiries about obtaining U.S. help in building hydroelectric, multipurpose dams. But here, too, unexpected problems cropped up.

The Army Corps of Engineers, the bureau of Land Reclamation and the Tennessee Valley Authority are barred from helping China by old laws prohibiting paid work for an "unfriendly country under international communism."

Finally, the Chinese have passed new laws of their own allowing foreign countries to participate in joint development ventures.

Mondale will seek clarifications of these laws, but the administration must also decide how to provide investment guarantees to U.S. companies which would like to participate.

Government Sets Insulation Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government ordered the home insulation industry today to tell consumers exactly how much heat or cold protection they will be buying in products for which they will spend billions of dollars in coming years.

Among other things, the new rules will enable buyers to compare the relative effectiveness of different types of insulation — loose fill vs. blanket type, for instance — since all products must be rated on the basis of the same test.

"In the next few years millions of consumers will spend billions of dollars on insulation," the Federal Trade Commission said in issuing the order. "These consumers need basic information so they can evaluate competing products before they buy."

The FTC said the investigation that prompted the rule showed insulation's price or thickness — indicators on which consumers have traditionally relied — "are not valid yardsticks" for comparison.

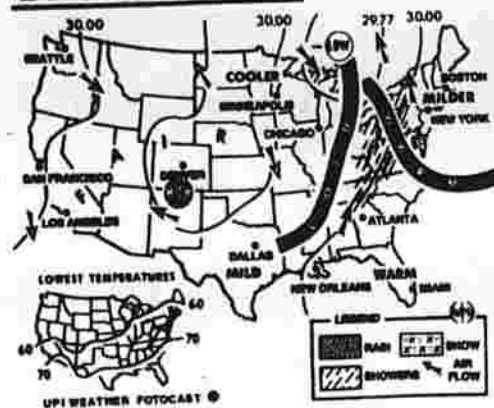

The dedication and opening of the new Park Street bridge was a bit of a Senkow family affair this morning, but the privilege of being the first to

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Thursday, Aug. 23, the 235th day of 1979 with 130 to follow.
The moon is new.
The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.
The evening star is Saturn.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.
American Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, hero of Iwo Jima in the Pacific Theater of World War II, was born Aug. 23, 1883. This also is the date of birth of American band leader Bob Crosby (1913) and dancer-actor Gene Kelly (1912).
On this day in history:
In 1924, Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson won the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas. In November, she became the first woman to be elected governor of a state.
In 1926, hundreds of thousands mourned the death of movie idol Rudolph Valentino.
In 1968, a U.N. resolution condemned the Soviet bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia, but Russia vetoed it in the Security Council.

Movie Connection Finally Pays Off

"Godfather" author Mario Puzo is at least $2 million richer with the sale of film rights to his latest novel, and he says it's about time. Puzo, who also wrote the screenplays for "Godfather," "Earthquake" and "Superman," says in New York he's sold rights to "Fools Die" to Charles Lee's Pacific Film Group for a guaranteed minimum of $2 million. He calls the best deal "one of the best ever made with a writer," and adds, "Of course it's typical of Hollywood that after making half a billion dollars for them it was difficult to sell the film rights on my own terms... I have finally gotten the leverage I want. I'm very happy with the deal."

Hi Ho Silver!

The Lone Ranger rides again — but not against the black hats of yesteryear. This time the famed masked man — played for 30 years on radio and television by Clayton Moore — is gunning for Lone Ranger Television Inc.

The firm, which won a court order forbidding Moore to wear his mask in public or bill himself as the Lone Ranger, wants to make a Ranger movie, but says Moore, 64, is too old to play the part.

Fighting back, Moore showed up Tuesday at a Los Angeles press conference in white hat and mask — says "I believe in fighting for what is right — that is part of the Lone Ranger creed." He adds he still has a 34-inch waistline and jogs four miles a day — without Silver.

Critic's Corner

Now that his football days are over, the only business for "Broadway Joe" Namath is show business, and Tuesday he faced the toughest audience of his week-old stage career. He's doing his first stint on the boards in "Picnic" with the Kenley Players of Dayton, Ohio, and his old coach, Weeb Ewbank, with son-in-law Charlie Winner — now a coach for the Cincinnati Bengals — and another former Jets' mentor, Clive Rush, came to see it.

Their reviews were good. Said Ewbank, "Joe did a fine job... he didn't flub any lines, which would be the same as interceptions." Countered Namath, "Acting is easier than football — they don't change defenses on you."

Tip of the Hat

Frank Olive is a hatter. Not a mad hatter — just a very happy New York hatter — but he admits his latest order is a bit crazy. He's designed hats for Burger King, Pan American Airlines, United Airlines, Carol Chan-ning, Leslie Uggams and Celeste Holm. He's even been asked to submit a new hat design for the Girl Scouts — but it took British centerfold lovely Joanne Latham to hand him the biggest single order of his career.

She's the cover girl for the 10th anniversary September issue of Penthouse magazine, and the bowler — or derby — is her trademark. She ordered not one, but 24 different designs from Olive. Says he, "That's one of my most unusual requests."

Quote of the Day

Springfield, Mass., Classical High School lunch director Paul Ransberg on the state of the federally subsidized art of cafeteria dining: "It must be coincidence, but we seem to be getting an awful lot of government peanut commodities since Jimmy Carter became president."

Glimpses

Mackenzie Phillips will play a rock star who the "Incredible Hulk" rushes on stage to rescue Sept. 21 on the CBS-TV show starring Bill Bixby and Lou Ferrigno...

Funds Need Predicted For Fuel Bank Project

By LANEY ZUBOFF

MANCHESTER — Joanne Mikoleit, coordinator of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches' (MACC) Fuel Bank, said Wednesday that town government may very well have to put money into the fuel bank pot because it will cost double, or $4,000, to service the same number of families as last year and even more families are expected to need assistance this year.

Mikoleit is one of a 13-member task force studying heating costs for lower, middle class and poor Manchester residents. The task force is spearheaded by Diane Wicks, human services director, and Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager.

Wicks said the energy task force has been meeting weekly and has met twice with town employees, agents of the people and oil dealers. The third meeting with these groups is scheduled for next Thursday when Wicks said they will firm up plans for a winter shelter. The location has not yet been decided.

Also on next Thursday's agenda will be a discussion of health and safety hazards for different heating methods which might be employed.

Mikoleit said the task force had found all but one oil dealer that will deliver less than 100 gallons of oil at one time, and she said, most want cash on delivery.

"A family that earns $12,000 is not going to be able to pay $1,000 for heat," said Mikoleit.

Susan Vaughn, MCSR member, suggested that money could be saved by consolidating meeting nights at town hall and that the savings could be put into the fuel bank.

"The town is going to have to expend a lot of money to save money because those buildings are in bad shape," said Mikoleit who said that town buildings are not sufficiently insulated.

MCSR Co-Chairman Robert Faucher discussed the town budget surplus. "The town can come up with money when it wants to. It put part of the surplus towards keeping the mill rate low," but, he said, there is still an available surplus.

Faucher said "If we can get 100 businesses to donate $100 each there's $10,000. We could ask the town to match our fund-raising efforts," said Faucher who said 21 Manchester churches could be another resource to tap for a $100 donation.

BURLINGTON (UPI) — State police have advised town officials reward money pledged for information leading to the arrest of a suspect in the Ebersold killing can be contributed to a scholarship fund in her name, the state said.

State police spokesman Adam Berluti said Wednesday the arrest of a 16-year-old suspect last week was due to a "total investigation" rather than information supplied by any one person.

Almost $17,000 pledged in reward money can be contributed to the scholarship fund created for 12-year-old Katherine K. Ebersold of Burlington, he said.

The girl disappeared July 27 while riding her bicycle home from swimming lessons. Her body, which authorities said had been repeatedly stabbed, was found in Burlington woods the next day.

Ronald W. Neuhauer, 16, who lives with his parents about one-half mile from where the body was found, was being held on $100,000 bond at Hartford Correctional Center pending an Aug. 29 appearance in Hartford Superior Court.

More than 700 people were interviewed during the investigation, but there wasn't one person who could state on single out as having information which led to Neuhauer's arrest, officials said.

Regional School District 10 has received more than $15,000 in donations for the scholarship fund from hundreds of groups and persons, not including pledges of $1,741 halocarbonic drug and possession of a cannabis-type substance.

The alleged robber was wearing a blue windbreaker and was about six feet three inches tall and weighed about 155 pounds, police said. The incident is under investigation by state police, Colchester Troop K.

Coventry
Carol Blondell, 25, of 250 Bunker Hill Road, Coventry, was charged Wednesday with possession of a hallucinogenic drug and possession of a cannabis-type substance.

She was released on her promise to appear in court in Rockville on Sept. 4.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alleged film-film artist Charles B.T. "Bud" Willard, 48, wanted in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts, has been arrested after a tip from a small town police chief.

Police Chief Robert Snow of Glen, N.Y., said Wednesday that Willard posed as an influential rich man living in his area, and passed bad checks totaling $1,000.

Snow said he was waiting for Willard to return to New Hampshire, but then he received information Willard was headed instead for Orlando, Fla., and was staying at a motor lodge at Kennedy Airport.

He notified New York authorities and detectives made the arrest Tuesday.

Willard spent five weeks this summer in rural Putnam, Conn., near the Rhode Island border, posing as a corporate executive starting a new company ostensibly in the electronic component business.

He said he would employ 600 people, run up a lot of bills in Putnam and left town as suspicions heightened.

Massachusetts State Police arrested Willard at Logan International Airport in Boston but he fled in the District Attorney's office in Boston told his Kingston jailers, unable to provide transportation, it would be okay if Willard drove to court himself.

He then turned up in Lake George, N.Y., where he left the Fort William Henry Hotel owing $380. He is wanted on no grand larceny charges.

Authorities in Worcester, Mass., have a warrant for his arrest in connection with a transaction at a travel agency.

MANCHESTER — Members of the Planning and Zoning Commission will try again next month to pass an amendment to its liquor zoning regulations, a task which has plagued the commission since May.

PZC Chairman Alfred Sieffert said Wednesday that lawyers have further revised an amendment to the regulation and will present the re-worded draft at the Sept. 10 meeting of the commission. A public hearing on the amendment is scheduled.

The amendment removes the 1,000-foot minimum distance for restaurants with liquor licenses. Any other business selling alcoholic beverages must be at least 1,000 feet away from a similar establishment.

"When it was originally drafted, it was confusing," Sieffert said.

The first amendment was approved by a 3-2 vote last May. If the commission agrees with the revisions, the regulation would become effective Oct. 1.

Specifically, the commission was concerned that the exception was for restaurants and that existing restaurants were not transformed into non-conforming businesses. A paragraph was added to prevent such a transformation at the issuance of each permit.

Death Right Bill Was for Doctors

HARTFORD (UPI) — A University of Connecticut professor says the "right-to-die" bill which failed to win approval in the 1979 Legislature would have done more for doctors than for their dying patients.

UConn Professor Stuart F. Spicker said Wednesday the natural death bill, despite the good intent of its proponents, was "not in fact in the best interest of these citizens and would, if enacted, serve more to protect physicians" from malpractice suits.

Spicker debated Rev. Edward Dobihal Jr. on the question "Do we have the right to a natural death?" broadcast on Connecticut Public Radio from the Old State House.

The UConn professor said legislation allowing a proxy to make decisions for a mentally incompetent patient acknowledged "at times we will be advocating acts of assisted suicide."

He said this was because a decision to withhold or withdraw life-sustaining treatment would be made only "with the express consent of the patient and with the unambiguous intent to end the life in question."

But Dobihal, clinical professor of pastoral care at Yale Divinity School, said a right-to-die law was needed so a person's rights were defined, legally assuring "I will be able to die, as right now I think I would like to die."

"It should include an advocate of my choice, agreed on by my next of kin, who will act on my behalf if I am incompetent," he said.

"My responsibility is to participate in decision-making about my life as long as I am competent, and to have decided and assigned the responsibility to someone to speak for me if I am incompetent," he said.

Dobihal said it was important to have legislation that will permit people to state their wishes when competent.

"It should include an advocate of my choice, agreed on by my next of kin, who will act on my behalf if I am incompetent," he said.

Spicker said the push for natural death legislation is "a form of public outrage in reaction to an image of inhumane care created by the presence of complex life-sustaining machinery."

But the image is distorted and the technology of modern medicine is not to blame, he said.

He said "death with dignity" did not mean death without artificial devices, "but a dying that proceeds according to the will of the patient."

He said the phrase "right to die" was "senseless."

"How can we have the right to what is inevitable anyway?" he asked. "The preservation of the self-determination of dying persons will not be achieved by enacting living wills into law."

NEWPORT (UPI) — In 1918, Estelle Pheneey put on a long skirt, high boots and armband emblazoned with the name of her Army unit, and went to France to help the boys over there win World War I.

Mrs. Pheneey worked as a civilian telephone operator just behind the front lines, freeing men for combat duty. At the time, women could only enlist as nurses and civilian employees could not serve veterans benefits.

But attitudes have changed and the Pentagon, at the urging of Congress, has agreed to consider some civilian employees as active service.

Civilians Who Served To Get Army Benefits

NEWPORT (UPI) — In 1918, Estelle Pheneey put on a long skirt, high boots and armband emblazoned with the name of her Army unit, and went to France to help the boys over there win World War I.

Mrs. Pheneey worked as a civilian telephone operator just behind the front lines, freeing men for combat duty. At the time, women could only enlist as nurses and civilian employees could not serve veterans benefits.

But attitudes have changed and the Pentagon, at the urging of Congress, has agreed to consider some civilian employees as active service.

In ceremonies at the Naval War College today, Mrs. Pheneey, 85, was due to receive an honorable discharge from Army Secretary Clifford Alexander, which will make her eligible for benefits.

In all, the Army will give discharge certificates to 18 women aged 80 to 91, all members of the Army Signal Corps Female Telephone Operators Unit.

Mrs. Pheneey, who lives in Jamestown, R.I., is the only one of the group who will receive her certificate from Alexander.

The others will get their papers from Army generals this week and next week.

"It's a sign of the times," an Army spokesman said Wednesday. "It's long overdue. But the laws in those days were such that they weren't entitled to enlist."

"They weren't in the trenches or anything like that but they were in the war zone, right behind the front lines."

Mrs. Pheneey, then Estelle Caron, arrived in France in March 1918. Her pay as a chief operator was $125 a month, then a respectable salary. Like most of the women who volunteered, she spoke French.

When the war ended she went to Germany to serve with the army of occupation.

After leaving the service in June 1919, Mrs. Pheneey returned to her old job as a telephone operator in Brockton, Mass. In those days, telephone operators had to be single, so she quit when she married. She now lives with relatives.

Her Army unit of telephone operators once numbered three dozen, but the Army could only locate 18. Many of them still keep in touch by telephone and letter.

When they learned the Army was looking into giving veterans benefits to some civilian employees, they contacted a lawyer, who submitted documentation of their service.

A Pentagon spokesman said, however, the gesture would be largely symbolic, since most of the women served only about a year and would be entitled only "minimal" veterans benefits.

Plan To Add 180 Spaces

MANCHESTER — There will be 180 more spaces at Ebury Corners for commuter bus passengers — at least temporarily — if the state and town carry out their current plans.

The state hopes to prepare a gravel parking lot at Tolland Turnpike and Windsor Street to add to the 380 spaces.

The proposed lot, however, will be in the path of the proposed widening of Interstate 86 and new facilities will have to be provided when the road is widened.

State officials have asked the town to arrange that, and the Economic Development Commission will be asked to allow its funds to be used to pay for the work until the state reimburses the town.

Delayed by Storm

After weathering a severe storm Wednesday, the riverboat Delta Queen with President Carter and family aboard arrived at Nauvoo, Ill., under still-threatening skies. The big boat took refuge in a small cove along the Mississippi, then was under way when the storm abated. Furniture aboard was scattered about the decks but there was no serious damage. Carter spoke to spectators at Nauvoo from offshore, then continued his cruise, the next stop to be Hanibal, Mo., today. (UPI photo)

Bus Route Talk Resumes

MANCHESTER - Discussion of the proposed changes in school bus routes will be continued tonight at 7 at a meeting of the Board of Education's transportation committee. Parents and school officials will pick up where they left off Monday night (or early Tuesday morning if you go by the clock). The administration has proposed the elimination of seven bus routes, which it estimated will save $14,000 in fuel expenses. Police Chief Robert Lannan is expected to give his opinion on the safety of four bus routes where students may be forced to walk. The routes, which were inspected Tuesday by Lannan and Assistant School Superintendent Wilson Deakin Jr., are in the area of St. James and Oak streets; Garth and Ferguson roads; Cushman and Tracy drives and West Middle Turnpike, near Deepwood and Crestwood drives. Lannan is withholding any public comments on the routes until tonight's meeting, which will again be held in the Robertson School.

Insurer Suggests Changes

VERNON - John A. Roberts, technical representative for The Hartford Insurance Co., after conducting a physical survey in the town, has made some recommendations to Mayor Frank McCoy.

Two of the recommendations concern the new police station. Permanent Municipal Building Committee members were told Wednesday night by Chairman John Fiske. Roberts said that consideration should be given to installing a second means of egress from the cell block area in the new station. The recommendation bewildered building committee members who said state, federal, and town safety officials were in on the planning of the new station.

There is a master control, upstairs, that opens all of the cell doors should there be an emergency. Otherwise, all of the doors in the cell block have to be opened by a key with the exception of one that leads to the hallway.

The building committee said it will have the architect present at its next meeting to discuss the recommendation. Roberts also made a recommendation about the auto service area of the police station but this just involved moving a five gallon can to another area and therefore has been taken care of already.

New Students Due at MHS

MANCHESTER - New students who will be attending Manchester High School next year should report to the high school administration office for registration. Before selection of courses for next year, students must present proof of immunization against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, and regular measles. They must also present a year-end report card, or have a transcript forwarded to Manchester High School. (For students entering the 12th grade, a transcript is required.)

Help on Fuel Pledged Soon

HARTFORD (UPI) - The home heating season will start before Connecticut figures out how to make up an $8 million shortfall to help the needy buy fuel this winter, says the state's energy chief.

But Thomas Fitzpatrick told the Legislature's Energy and Public Utilities Committee Wednesday the state would make sure fuel assistance would be available when temperatures begin to drop. Fitzpatrick said the state was "likely" to come up with $12.5 million, but the estimated cost for fuel assistance was "roughly $21 million."

He said it was uncertain whether Congress will provide more funds, and he will not know where the shortfall might be made up from until late October. Then the state's first-quarter revenues will be known "and (state) union contracts are settled."

"But we will do what we have to do" to insure that all residents receive home heating fuel this winter, he said. "I'm a bit disappointed," said committee co-chairman Rep. David Lavine, D-Durham. "We asked you two weeks ago for specific figures. We should know approximately where we're going."

Lavine said the committee might try to come up with its own figures to present to legislative leaders. "Our purpose for getting the figures was to determine whether a special session of the Legislature should be called to deal with this problem before winter is here," Lavine said.

The energy chief did say fuel stocks in Connecticut were at 74 percent of last year's level. About 40,000 households - double last year's total - are expected to be in need of fuel assistance this winter. They would be eligible for fuel aid grants up to $250, not counting regular state assistance programs.

Rep. Philip Robertson, R-Cheshire, told Fitzpatrick: "You mean you're still going to wait? You're still $8 million off. You should be making plans right now to come up with that money."

Fitzpatrick said the state was "dealing with a projected level of need that never has been felt before. We must determine where the funds will come from as well as the need," he said.

"We have to deal with this in the total context of state needs and not just this specific problem," he added. Sen. John Prete, D-Woodbridge, told Fitzpatrick, "I'm inclined to agree with you" on the necessity of waiting until October. "There's time, but little time."

Prete said it appeared costs for heating fuel will be higher than the 65 cents per gallon figure projected by the state energy agency.

Fitzpatrick told Prete the agency had to rely on figures provided by the oil industry to try and determine oil supplies and costs.

New Grand Jury Sought in Purolator Slaying Case

WATERBURY (UPI) - The attorney for one of two men facing the death penalty in the April armed robbery slaying of three Purolator Security Inc. guards has requested a new grand jury to consider the indictments.

John R. Williams, representing Donald Couture, charged "substantial misconduct" occurred during grand jury proceedings which led to his client's indictment on a charge of capital murder for slaying an off-duty police officer.

"As a lawyer I'm shocked by some of the things that went on in there," Williams said of the grand jury. One of the three slain guards was a Hartford police officer working on an authorized part-time job. Under Connecticut's death penalty statute, the murder of a law enforcement officer can mean death in the electric chair.

Several of the 33 motions Williams filed in Waterbury Superior Court dealt with his request for Judge Walter M. Pickett Jr. to dismiss the indictment and convene a new grand jury.

The New Haven lawyer questioned whether Couture could be charged with capital murder since he didn't know the man was a police officer. He questioned the statute's value as a deterrent, if a person didn't know he could face death because he didn't know he was killing a law enforcement officer.

Williams said he read transcripts of the proceedings and learned that attorneys for Couture's two female co-defendants were allowed in the jury room, something he claimed has never been done before in Connecticut. Couture, 26, and Lawrence J. "Buddy" Pelletier Jr., 36, face capital murder charges stemming from the $1.9 million robbery. Couture's wife Donna, 23, and the woman Pelletier lived with, Evelyn Vega, 26, face robbery and felony murder charges.

Williams said "the grand jury let them (the women lawyers) take over for an extended period of time." "They asked hundreds of leading questions of the witnesses, all designed to try to persuade the grand jury to indict Mr. Couture and Mr. Pelletier," he said.

Williams also filed motions for a bond reduction for Couture and a change of venue for the court proceedings, and requested a hearing on a request for Pickett to lift his order, granted at the prosecution's request, which bars Couture from seeing or speaking with his wife.

"The mere fact that someone is accused of a crime doesn't give the state the right to come in and try to destroy their marriage," Williams said. "What has been done to Mr. Couture is a horrible thing. There's no doubt in my mind that ordering his wife not to see him and not to talk to him was designed to break him as a human being."

Contract Talks Open

VERNON - The first of many planned teacher contract negotiation meetings was held this week between the Vernon Education Association and the Board of Education.

The existing contract for the professional staff will run out next June. This week's session set ground rules for the meetings. One of the rules is that no information concerning the talks will be released to the press unless both groups agree.

As approved last month by the Board of Education, the board is represented in the talks by the Hartford law firm of Seigel, O'Connor and Kainen. As yet the teacher's group hasn't hired a professional negotiator. The association is headed by Peter Klein. Harold Cummings represents the Board of Education at the meetings.

Suit Worries Building Panel

VERNON - Although a suit against the town and members of the Permanent Municipal Building Committee has been dismissed by the court, but will probably be appealed, members of the committee want to know where they stand as far as being sued is concerned.

The committee, at its meeting Wednesday night, voted to send a letter to Mayor Frank McCoy to ask him to have the town attorney give an opinion as to the malpractice insurance coverage the town has. They said this would be for the benefit of protecting members of any town boards and commissions.

The suit was filed by Multi-Service Contractors Inc. of New London in connection with the building of the new police station. The firm claims that the town still owes it $14,700 in construction fees of the total $59,000 contract and $145,000 in damages in connection with the police station.

The New London firm was hired to do the initial site work for the station and the foundation. The work wasn't going on schedule and the town talked of suing Multi-Service last year but then decided to extend the contract.

Town officials said Multi-Service had agreed to wait for its final payment until the entire project was completed and contended that the suit should have been brought to the American Arbitration Association before being brought to the courts. Superior Court Judge Joseph H. Goldberg agreed and dismissed the suit.

Some building committee members said last night that they want the status of individual committee members, in such cases, cleared. And some indicated they would resign from the committee if they find out they are not fully covered by the town in such matters.

The committee, as it wraps up the loose ends of the police station project, is now embarking on a new project, that of building a firehouse south of Interstate 88.

Questions Yet Unresolved Concerning Egress Road

VERNON - The area of promises made, or not made, in the past, has to be cleared up before the Permanent Municipal Building Committee goes ahead with work around the yard of the Center Road School.

Police Chief Herman Fritz had asked to have an emergency egress road installed to service the new police station at the corner of West Street and Route 30. The proposed road would go along the school property and come out on Center Road.

However, there has been a lot of opposition from the principal of the school, Joseph Novak, the PTO, the Planning Commission and now the Board of Education.

The school board had originally given its permission for the road but now has agreed to rescind its vote and to reconsider the matter at its Sept. 10 meeting.

Chief Fritz and building committee members have emphasized that the road will be used strictly as an emergency exit. Right now police have to exit from the rear of the station onto busy Route 30 where there is no traffic light.

Novak has asked the board to reconsider its vote until he gathers more statistics on school enrollment and the number of students walking.

There is also a problem as to putting up fencing around the school yard. When the project first started some fencing was removed. The present building committee members said they understood that Ronald Fine, director of public works was asked to store the fencing at the town garage

New Director Learning Job, Despite Obstacles

By DAVE LAVALLEE
Herald Reporter

GLASTONBURY - Her office isn't even finished yet. Buckets of paint block the entrance to her office door and she does not have a telephone. She had three when she first reported to work, but now they are gone. She has had to cope with the sounds of banging and construction of other offices.

However, all of this excitement has not stopped Jacqueline V. Jurrus, the new director of Elementary Education and Special Services, from getting to know the school system and its personnel.

While workmen hurriedly constructed new offices in the Board of Education Building for new positions that have been created by Superintendent Larry Ashley's reorganization, Mrs. Jurrus has been preparing for her new position. She began work a week ago after being hired by the board on July 24.

Mrs. Jurrus will be responsible for the coordination of elementary curriculum and will provide leadership for the elementary principals. Along with these duties, Mrs. Jurrus will be involved with developing new programs for special education students.

Mrs. Jurrus and her family have already bought a house in Glastonbury, but won't be moving in until October. She has been commuting from Yardsley, Pa. every weekend to her job.

Mrs. Jurrus was formerly a public school elementary principal at Great Valley School in Pennsylvania. While at Great Valley, she was a member of an administrative team that evaluated 35 staff members and 400 students between grades four through six. She worked with budget planning committees and community relations.

She said her new position in the school district will be one which will try to provide continuity in the schools.

"I will be looking for uniformity in our programs at the elementary level. I will be working with all of the directors in reading, language arts and mathematics," she said.

"I see myself as the person who tries to get the team to play together," she added.

Mrs. Jurrus said she left Great Valley because her new position represents a step up in education.

"At my old position I was doing a lot of the things that I am going to do here. But now I am given the authority to coordinate growth," she said.

"I think my diversified background is almost a blue-print for the job," she added.

Mrs. Jurrus and her husband Robert have a 19-year-old son, Douglas, who is attending Lehigh University.

She said she is very impressed with the knowledge and hard work of the school officials in Glastonbury.

There is genuine concern to provide top-quality education in Glastonbury. I got a very good impression of the school district when I was interviewed by a team. These people were very open with me and they did not sound like they had all the answers," she said.

When asked if she thought the elimination of the elementary guidance program would hurt the schools, she said she really was not sure.

"I wasn't here when guidance was public in the system. The only thing that I can say is that more people and more money don't always make good schools. Good people and sound direction make good schools," she emphasized.

"I will be meeting with parents' groups to get a feel for the community. I believe my initial goal will be just to get to know people. I think people will see that I like to laugh and that I have no trouble laughing at myself," she said.

Mrs. Jacqueline V. Jurrus, director of elementary education and special services for the Glastonbury School system, is familiarizing herself with her new position before the school year begins next month. (Herald photo by Lavallee)

Firehouse Estimate Low

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON - Although Leonard Szeszney, the town engineer, has told the Permanent Municipal Building Committee it should work with a figure of about $140,000 for construction of a new fire station, committee members said Wednesday night that they think this figure is low.

The committee hasn't officially advertised for architects for the project but gave chairman John Fiske the authority to do so during last night's meeting.

Fiske said he has already heard from 10 architects who have expressed interest in making presentations to the committee.

The town hasn't appropriated any money yet for station construction but did appropriate $40,000 to buy the land for the station. Meanwhile, the Town Council has decided to build it on land the town already owns but the council hasn't determined if the $40,000 can now be used toward the building costs.

Some Town Council members have also agreed that they feel that the engineer's estimate is low. The proposed building is to be 3,500 square feet and therefore Szeszney's figure would amount to a cost of about $40 a square foot.

The Fire Study Committee has recommended that the station, which will be built on Birch Road, south of Interstate 88, be two bays, house four pieces of equipment and have restroom facilities and storage areas and that one of the bays have drive-through capability.

Szeszney figures the actual cost of construction will be about $125,000 plus $8,000 for site work but figured in the additional money for the building lot.

Building committee members said if the figures for a regular station come in too high they might consider putting up a Butler (pre-fab) building.

Questions Raised on New Courses

To the editor: As an observer and active participant of government, I have been watching the encroachment of values clarification courses in our schools with great concern.

After learning we have such courses in our schools by reading an article in a Hartford newspaper, I decided to ask questions from our local course curriculum administrator, Mr. Fitzgibbons.

and a deeper examination is in order. If value clarification is not mandated by the state, as Dr. Kennedy says it is not, why is the course being introduced uniformly across the state?

Why is the course required and not elective? Why was there no public hearing? Only the members of the school establishment were invited when courses were introduced.

MHA Tables New Policy

MANCHESTER - The Manchester Housing Authority took no action Wednesday night on adopting new federal and state admission policies for the town's housing for the elderly and handicapped.

The federal policy will limit admission to West Hill and Mayfair Gardens to people who live in Manchester, Dennis Pheasant, executive director of the Manchester Housing Authority, said.

The state has a separate policy which applies to applicants for housing at Spencer Village. The state rules consider it illegal to pay a person has to live in Manchester, but it does give points for the years of residency a person has, Pheasant explained.

Authority members, although they agree with the federal admissions policy, declined to approve it because they wanted more time to determine when and in what way it should be implemented.

The question they are pondering is whether non-residents who have been on the waiting list for housing for the past four years or more would be no longer be eligible if the policy was made effective immediately? Or, would the policy apply only to those who apply after the policy is implemented?

Commissioner Richard Schwolsky felt that the policy should not be made retroactive because the non-residents on the list would be penalized just because the authority had changed its admissions policy.

Commissioner James Murphy disagreed. He wanted the policy to be implemented immediately even though those non-residents on the top of the waiting list would be "out of luck."

"I've got a concern for the people of the town who have lived here all their lives and have done so much for the community," he said. Schwolsky said he also was dedicated to the people of the town but didn't think that the policy should be made retroactive.

Since the questions were not resolved, the authority members decided to mull the problem over until its next meeting.

The authority also approved a resolution to allow the state Department of Mental Retardation to establish a group home in Manchester.

Group To Quiz Candidates

MANCHESTER - Three members of the Manchester Citizens for Social Responsibility (MCSR) will formulate a questionnaire to be presented to candidates in the November election with the intention of having the answers provided to MCSR members and the public before the election.

Candidates will be asked to speak on "social responsibility," Ben Rubin, Mary Breen and Joan O'Loughlin, will compile the questionnaire and a profile of each candidate which will be distributed to the public at the time of the speech making.

"It will be an opportunity for us (MCSR members) and the general public to take a look at the candidates, said Robert Faucher, co-chairman of the organization.

"Their (the politicians) declining to speak will be saying they have no opinion on social responsibility," said Faucher, in response to several members' opinions that only a few speakers would attend because they already have commitments to speak to several other organizations.

Faucher said MCSR will look into co-sponsoring the activity with The League of Women Voters who have sponsored a similar program each year.

Action Urged on I-284

EAST HARTFORD - Town officials should demand that the proposed Interstate 284 link between Rte. 2 through the North Meadows and run parallel to Main Street and connect with the Bissell Bridge, has been discussed for the past 15 years.

It is being reviewed for its impact on the environment. Town officials have favored construction of I-284 for many years. Blackstone has said the highway is necessary because it would divert truck traffic from the downtown area.

Dagon said the state should finish the road because it has already cut up the town with highways.

"It's one thing when they force highways on you and cut up your town," he said. "But, then they go and leave two unfinished roads here."

The other unfinished road is the I-86 to I-94 connector. Local officials also support completion of that 1.7-mile stretch of highway, which would link I-84 in Manchester to I-96 near the Manchester town line and take traffic off Silver Lane, the easiest alternate route.

Meanwhile, South Windsor Mayor Nancy Catlyn has asked Gov. Ella Grasso to delay any action regarding possible construction of highways east of the river until more information can be obtained on the effects on South Windsor.

Queens and Thrifty B Softball Finalists

It's down to the final night in the annual Manchester Recreation Department's Class B Slow Pitch Softball Tournament tonight at Fitzgerald Field.

Of the dozen teams that launched play 10 days ago, only two remain. The Queens won the first meeting, 9-7. A Queens victory will mark end of the tournament. On the other hand, if Thrifty wins a second game will be played immediately following.

Last night at Fitzgerald, Acadia Restaurant eliminated Highland Park, 7-2, and Thrifty took care of Acadia in the nightcap, 8-2. The defeats sent the two teams to the sidelines.

Tonight at 7:30 the Queens and Thrifty will meet for a second time. The Queens won the first meeting, 9-7. A Queens victory will mark end of the tournament. On the other hand, if Thrifty wins a second game will be played immediately following.

Last night Acadia broke open a close game with four runs in the sixth inning to stop the Markets.

Mike Romanchuck collected one third of his team's nine hits and was the only player on either squad to get more than one. Ron Nivison scattered six hits in gaining the mound decision.

It was a different story in the nightcap as Thrifty used a 12-hit offense to send Acadia home a loser, rallying for six runs in the last inning, snapping a 2-2 deadlock.

Acadia took a 2-0 lead in the first inning with Thrifty getting single tallies in the second and fifth frames before the last inning explosion.

Tim Bychalski was the big gun with four hits, including two doubles. Scott Hanson drove in three runs with a single, double and triple and Craig O'Neil added three more hits to the winning cause.

Nivison's two hits led the Revistor.

Depressing Loss for Phils, Trail Pirates by 9 1/2 Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — Another depressing loss Wednesday night may have ended the season for the Philadelphia Phillies, perhaps the most talented team in baseball, who now are lodged in fifth place in the NL East, 9 1/2 games behind high-flying Pittsburgh.

over the first six innings and hit an important run-scoring single during a two-run fifth inning to lead the Braves. Solomon, 5-10, was forced to leave with a pulled leg muscle at the start of the seventh and Gene Garber, the third Atlanta pitcher, registered the final three outs to gain his 22nd save.

Manager Danny Ozark, after the Atlanta Braves completed a three-game sweep of his Phillies Wednesday night with a 4-3 victory, said, "It's reached a point where we need cooperation from some other teams."

Eddie Solomon pitched a two-hitter when Trillo hit sharply into a double play. "That's about the way it's gone for us all year."

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh downed San Francisco, 8-6. Houston topped New York, 3-1. Los Angeles topped Chicago, 7-2. Cincinnati stopped Montreal, 7-2 and St. Louis outscored San Diego, 8-5.

Tom Foli drove in four runs with a pair of two-run singles, to break a 6-6 tie in the eighth inning and ease the Pirates past the Giants.

Astros 3, Mets 1 Jeff Leonard hit a two-run single in the ninth inning and J.R. Richard scattered seven hits to carry Houston in the regular game, after a successful protest by the Astros forced New York to replay the final out of the Mets' Tuesday night 5-0 victory.

Dodgers 7, Cubs 2 Ron Cey tripled home three runs and scored on Joe Ferguson's double to spark a four-run seventh and lift Los Angeles past Chicago.

Yaz Celebrates Birthday

Red Sox Escape Blowing Series

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Rain ended the game early Wednesday night, but eight innings gave birthday boy Carl Yastrzemski and the Boston Red Sox plenty of time to swap Minnesota 9-4 at Metropolitan Stadium.

Yaz celebrated his 40th birthday by hitting two singles in four at-bats and scoring a run.

"I'll be back for another year, but first I'll see you in the playoffs this year," he told reporters in the locker room.

Before a downpour forced players to leave the field, Yastrzemski received a Distinguished Service Award from the Greater Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce. Earlier in the game, he floated down the Mississippi River fishing.

Minnesota's hot-hitting Ken Landreaux hit his ninth homer in the first to cut the lead to 3-2 and the Twins added two more in the eighth on an RBI single by Willong and an error.

"It was an inside slider," Landreaux said about the pitch he parked in the bleachers. "They always try to dash the Twins' hopes of a three-game series sweep."

Yastrzemski added offensive punch while Bob Stanley and Dick Drago combined on a seven-hit, two-out walk to highlight a two-run ninth for the Phils that ended suddenly successful protest by the Astros forced New York to replay the final out of the Mets' Tuesday night 5-0 victory.

Dodgers 7, Cubs 2 Ron Cey tripled home three runs and scored on Joe Ferguson's double to spark a four-run seventh and lift Los Angeles past Chicago.

Reds' Exp. 2 Johnny Bench became Cincinnati's all-time home run king by hitting the 32nd homer of his career and Mike LaCoss scattered eight hits to pace Cincinnati past the Reds.

Cardinals 8, Padres 5 Ted Simmons batted a home run in the ninth inning and J.R. Richard scattered seven hits to carry Houston in the regular game, after a successful protest by the Astros forced New York to replay the final out of the Mets' Tuesday night 5-0 victory.

Eastern College Football Getting New Recognition

NEW YORK (UPI) — For many years college football in the East got about as much respect as comedian Rodney Dangerfield. That is to say, practically none.

Only Penn State and, once upon a time, Syracuse really made much of an impression on the rest of the nation, and even the Nittany Lions felt they never quite got their due in the final ratings each season.

In recent years the image of eastern football has changed for the better with the rebuilding of programs at Pittsburgh, Navy, Syracuse, Temple, Rutgers and West Virginia. With new stadiums being built at Syracuse and West Virginia State seeking to expand its stadium to $3,000, it can be said that the prognosis for the sport in the East is very healthy.

Once again Penn State figures to be the class of the East. The Nittan, Lions return 11 starters from last year's squad, including All-America defensive tackle Matt Millen and Bruce Clark and All-America defensive back Pete Harris.

Big Problem Coach Joe Paterno's big problem will be to find a quarterback to replace graduated All-American Chuck Fusina. If Paterno can find one from a group of four inexperienced youngsters, the Nittany Lions should be strong enough to contend for the national championship bowl game.

Pittsburgh figures to be Penn State's stiffest competition for the Lambert Trophy as the best in the East. Unlike Penn State, Pitt has a fine quarterback in Rick Troceno and, with 13 starters returning, Coach Jackie Sherrill is optimistic the Panthers can once again reach a bowl game.

The Panthers also will be facing an easier schedule than they have in recent years with such long opponents as Florida State and Notre Dame having been removed from the agenda.

Yale Offers New Grid Ticket Plan

The Yale Department of Athletics has embarked on a new season ticket plan which for the first time will offer season tickets on the west (Yale) side of the Yale Bowl. Previously season tickets have been available only on the east side of the Bowl.

The new plan features reserved seating locations above the promenade between portals 15 and 17. In addition to the newly available prime seating, the plan offers a number of other advantages, including the option of retaining the same seat locations in subsequent seasons or improving them if better seats become available. Season ticket holders will also be given priority for season parking spaces as they become available.

"We are exploring new ways to improve the guest's access to Yale football," commented Yale Athletic Director Frank Ryan. "This season ticket plan will enable the public to obtain improved seat locations both now and in the future. We are committed to ensuring that season ticket holders can anticipate having the same or better ticket locations in subsequent seasons."

According to both Ryan and Associate Athletic Director Jack Gregory, the new season ticket plan has already met with great success.

Navy Strong

Navy, coming off its best season in 15 years, returns 35 lettermen but Coach George Welsh has a number of key holes to fill, including finding replacements for quarterback Bob Leszczynski and receiver Phil McCoskey.

The Middies' strength will be on defense where seven starters return, including All-East tackle John Merrill and All-East rover back Gregg Milo.

Another team on the rise is Temple, which under Coach Wayne Harlin has compiled a very respectable 57-31-5 record. The Owls came within 14 points of an unbeaten season last year, losing only to bowl teams Penn State, Rutgers and Pittsburgh. There were 29 returning lettermen from last year's team and the defense could be the strongest in Temple history.

West Virginia promised very much last year but because of a number of injuries delivered very little. Things should improve this year with the return of 29 lettermen, including 10 starters. Coach Frank Dignetti could have one of the finest running backs in the nation in Robert Alexander and placekicker Steve Sinclair ranks among the country's best. The only new coach in the East this year is Lou Saban, who has assumed control of Army's program. Saban, a strict disciplinarian, was greeted with the return of 26 lettermen, including eight starters, but a rugged schedule that includes the likes of Stanford, Duke, Penn State, North Carolina and Baylor will make it difficult for the Cadets to achieve a winning season.

Difficult Slate Rutgers, which made a post season bowl game for the first time in history last year, has 13 starters back from its 9-3 team but faces a difficult schedule which could prevent it from duplicating that feat. However, the Scarlet Knights do have a tough defense centered around All-East middle guard Ed Steward and tackles Dino Manigaro and Mike Rastomay.

Colgate and Villanova are both going through rebuilding seasons and will have trouble finishing on the winning side of the ledger this fall.

Ali Coming to Hartford; Hospital Visit Canceled

HARTFORD (UPI) - Muhammad Ali is coming to Hartford today, but he won't visit Rocky Hill Veterans Home and Hospital because some patients don't want to see a boxer who refused to be drafted.

The former heavyweight champ instead will visit Newington Children's Hospital.

"I went around and talked to a lot of the patients," Rocky Hill spokesman Col. Robert D. Holey said Wednesday. "It became very evident that there is an honest division of opinion concerning the Ali visit and it was just thought it was overall best to cancel it, and not to get into any kind of internal schism over the matter," he said.

While some veterans decided they didn't want to see Ali, a spokesman for the children's hospital said young patients there are looking forward to the visit. Ali's second appearance.

"We feel it's going to be an enjoyable time for the patients," said Dave Tedeschi, hospital spokesman. Ali visited Newington more than 10 years ago when he was still known as Cassius Clay.

State leaders of the Veterans of Foreign Wars this week said they would introduce a proposal at a national convention in New Orleans against Ali's visit to Rocky Hill. The veterans group objected to plans to present Ali with an American flag, because Ali in 1967 cited his Muslim religious beliefs and refused to be drafted. He was stripped of his world heavyweight title, sentenced to prison and fined, but the conviction was later overturned by the Supreme Court.

The man planning Ali's two-day visit, Arnold Beizer, said Ali was visiting Hartford, Conn., and not Hartford, N.H., as he had previously stated.

But Gov. Ella Grasso's press secretary said the governor did not invite Ali.

Caffyn Asks Road Delay

SOUTH WINDSOR - Mayor Nancy Caffyn has asked Gov. Ella Grasso to delay action on any construction of the possible construction of a road through the east side of the Connecticut River until more information can be obtained so that what effect it would have on South Windsor.

In the letter to the governor, Mayor Caffyn said the town is concerned about the revival of proposals to construct the new highway which would be an alternative to the widening of Interstate 91.

She said the town is presently considering undertaking a comprehensive planning study to investigate the full impact of such a proposal.

"Previous state hearings on the matter of Interstate 284 raised many citizen concerns," the mayor said.

She said that the primary concerns would be the highway's effects on the marshland, the effects on a registered Historical District, the effects on a proven archeological site which has produced many valuable Indian artifacts, the effects on the present agricultural usage, on the Connecticut River Flood Plain and the usual highway concerns of noise and air pollution and disruption of a residential area.

The alternative (Interstate 284) was originally proposed during the 1960s and has been opposed by many local officials.

Mayor Caffyn also told the governor that since the current Department of Transportation proposal involves widening an already existing highway in Windsor, most of the concerns South Windsor has of the widening of Interstate 91 would not pertain to Windsor.

The proposed appropriation of $15,000 to cover the cost of consulting fees to study the matter will be discussed during the meeting of the council tonight.

Campaign Chief Named

SOUTH WINDSOR - Attorney John J. Woodcock III has been appointed as campaign manager of the Democratic election campaign for the coming fall elections.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Robert Smith, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee.

Woodcock is a member of the Massachusetts and the Connecticut Bar associations and is active in local civic affairs, has served on the Board of Directors of the local Jaycees, the Wapping Fair Association, Shepard Scholarship Fund Committee, and the town's Inland-Welland Agency.

He has also chaired local drives for the American Cancer Society and the United Way and managed the 1978 successful campaign of State Representative Abe Glassman as well as managing several fund raising efforts for the Democratic Town Committee.

UTC Creates Subsidiary

HARTFORD (UPI) - United Technologies Corp. has established a new subsidiary in an effort to crack the market of helping other countries build aircraft maintenance centers.

The new UTC subsidiary, International Support Systems, will act as a management firm, using UTC's jet engine expertise and outside companies to take advantage of what Gray called a "multi-billion dollar opportunity."

"Many countries, particularly developing nations, are rapidly increasing their commercial and military fleets and they need complete aircraft facilities to go with them," Gray said.

"They want not only the equipment and training, but a finished complex with service buildings, housing and recreational facilities."

Terry D. Stinson, formerly a vice president at UTC's Hamilton Standard Division in Windsor Locks, has been named president of International Support Systems, the new company.

Russell S. Hubley has been appointed vice president of Hamilton Support Systems, succeeding Stinson.

The new UTC subsidiary will have its headquarters in Farmington, UTC said.

UTC Chairman Harry J. Gray said Wednesday the new firm will focus on helping other countries build aircraft maintenance centers.

Laundry Head Given Honors

MIDDLETOWN - Edward McLaughlin, a resident of Middletown and laundry manager at Middlesex Memorial Hospital since June, 1970, has been honored by the Institutional Laundry Manager Association of Connecticut and Western Massachusetts as "Laundry Manager of the Year - 1979."

"It was a complete surprise to me," McLaughlin said when he was presented with a plaque from the association, which includes a membership of nearly 45 hospitals.

The plaque was awarded to McLaughlin in recognition of the "efficiency, productivity and high quality of operation of the Laundry at Middlesex Memorial" which processes over two million pounds of laundry annually (approximately 40,000 pounds of laundry weekly).

In addition to handling all the laundry for Middlesex Memorial, McLaughlin and his staff of 21 employees also process all of the laundry for Newington Children's Hospital, which accounts for 20 percent of the total annual production.

McLaughlin's experience in the commercial and institutional laundry field dates back almost three decades when he began working in a night department in Manchester while attending Manchester High School. From this early beginning, he advanced to supervisory positions with several of the largest commercial and "family" laundries in Connecticut with over 100 employees under his supervision.

UTC Chairman Harry J. Gray said Wednesday the new firm will focus on helping other countries build aircraft maintenance centers.

Bank Gives To Center

MANCHESTER - The Senior Citizens Center recently was awarded a $2,000 gift from the Savings Bank of Manchester. The funds will be used to purchase new furniture for the new center at the Green School.

The present center, at 63 Linden St. is small and cramped. The new center will be larger with plans for additional activities and programs.

According to Russell Nettleton, chairman of the fund raising committee for the Senior Citizens Center, "There are now 900 senior citizens in Manchester. Our present location is just too small to serve their needs."

Council To Mull Planner

SOUTH WINDSOR - During its workshop session and special meeting scheduled for 7:30 tonight in the Town Hall the Town Council will discuss the hiring of a town planner.

The position which will pay $20,000 a year was originally proposed when the council was preparing its budget for the current year but it was deleted in a 5-4 vote with Republican Robert Salts voting with the four Democrats.

A resolution which will come before the council tonight calls for the establishment of the position and the transfer of $15,000 from the contingency account to the town manager's account, to cover the first year's salary.

Town Manager Allan Young has repeatedly advised the council that the establishment of the position is necessary to ensure successful growth in South Windsor.

In a memo to the council, Mayor Nancy Caffyn said, "I would hope that each member of the Town Council who either abstained or voted 'no' would reconsider the establishment of the town planner position."

Referring to a request for an appropriation of $15,000 for a study of the impact of the widening of Interstate 91 or the construction of Interstate 284, Mayor Caffyn said, "I feel the request for the consulting fees for planning purposes is but the first of many such requests."

"The rapid development and growth in South Windsor and surrounding communities requires us to plan ahead on issues regarding transportation, zone changes, and other critical areas affecting town development. We must begin anticipating situations requiring policy decisions and move away from our present reactionary responses to problems," the mayor said.

The Planning and Zoning Commission has recommended the establishment of the town planner position. In a letter to Mayor Caffyn, commission chairman William ... said, "The planner ... of assistance to prospective developers by helping in the mechanics of the process of review, filing of applications and timing."

He said the commission would also recommend the hiring of a planner to ensure continuity noting that the various boards and commissions have an ever-changing membership and the expertise and longevity of the planner could be relied upon.

Grace also said that the planner could also be used to draft and update regulations, review and follow the progress of development, assist in inquiries from residents and be a source of general contact for those seeking information on any of the areas of the regulations.

In a revised job description for the proposed position of town planner, Young said that the planner would work with the Planning and Zoning Commission, the Economic Development Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals to conduct studies and to prepare plans relating to development problems of the town.

Young said that the planner would work directly under the town manager and would supervise the planning department staff. He said that persons with not less than six years of experience in municipal planning would be considered and this would include four years of experience in an active planning department.

In a survey taken in towns with similar populations to South Windsor, eight of the 11 towns surveyed employ a full-time town planner, Young said.

A conservative is a fellow who points to the Venus de Milo as an example of what happens to anyone signing an arms limitation treaty.

Get the Facts!

You've heard people talking about the price of today's homes and how young people are "priced out the market." Well, that's a myth!

The fact is — younger persons make up the vast majority of home buyers. Over 75% are under 40. And nearly a third are under 30! Salaries and wages have gone up. Also, the number of two income families has increased.

Young buyers want houses for their families. They also see home ownership as a sound investment for the future. Sometimes it's hard to separate myth from fact. That's why we're offering an informative new booklet from the Better Homes and Gardens® Real Estate Service. It's called "50 Facts About Owning a Home." And it's free.

FREE BOOKLET!
ASK FOR YOUR COPY TODAY

The booklet covers financing and refinancing. Buying and selling. There also are helpful sections on home warranties, adding home improvements, moving and more.

The booklet has been prepared by Better Homes and Gardens® and a noted authority on housing economics. It is objective and written to be easily understood.

To request your copy, simply call, write or stop in at our office near you.

We'll be glad to sit down with you to discuss your real estate needs. And we'll tell you about the many professional services we provide through the Better Homes and Gardens® Real Estate Service. You are under no obligation, of course.

In a world filled with myths, we want you to have the facts.

D.F.Reale Realtors

After several years of successful experience in the real estate industry, the firm of Daniel F. Reale, Inc., Realtors, was founded in 1973. The firm is located at 175 Main St., Manchester and is headed by Dan Reale, its current president.

The present location consists of a modern real estate office, which is fully equipped and very comfortable with all the necessary tools to better accommodate both customers and clients.

Equipped with an extensive background in land acquisition as well as residential and commercial sales, Dan has put a strong emphasis on service, responsibility, and integrity to customers and clients who come in contact with his firm. This influence is reflected by each and every member of the staff.

With the "coming of age" in the changing structure in real estate marketing, Dan's goals to project and firmly maintain professional standards and status within the community are foremost requisites in the operation of his firm. This progressive thinking is exhibited by his decision to become affiliated with Network of Homes. This service provides maximum marketing tools for both customers and clients. Network of Homes also provides extensive training, work shops and seminars for the staff.

The dedication of Reale, Realtors to the real estate industry has prompted the consideration of affiliate offices in the surrounding areas to better serve our customers and clients.

Dan's list of affiliations as well as his contributions to local civic and service organizations are many. He is a member and director of the Manchester Board of Realtors and the Manchester Multiple Listing Service, the Vernon Board of Realtors, Vernon Multiple Listing Service, the Hartford Board of Realtors, National Farm and Land Brokers, and Realtors Marketing Institute, as well as being past first vice president of the Northeastern C.I.D. He also holds the professional designations, GRI, Graduate, Realtors Institute and CRS, Certified Residential Specialist.

Reale Realtors is proud to announce the joining of forces of Reale Realtors, Network of Homes and the JIMMY FUND. The entire staff is dedicated to "pitching in" for this extremely worthy cause.

You have many questions when you move to a new area.

Looking for a new home is exciting, for you and everyone in your family. But it can also be confusing, even traumatic, if you're brand new to the area. Where do you start looking? How much do you pay? How do you find out where the school districts are? You have lots of questions, but not very many answers.

Our unique system provides your answers.

The CENTURY 21 Relocation Center helps you familiarize yourself with all aspects of your new area, so you can quickly pinpoint where you are most likely to find the house and neighborhood to fit your needs.

We give you all the facts about each area...you make the decisions. The CENTURY 21 Relocation Center can save you days, even weeks of aggravation and frustration, and turn house hunting into the relaxed, happy family adventure it should be.

Sit down, relax, and watch our show about your new town.

To begin with, you'll receive an audio-visual tour of the geography, history, main thoroughfares and general layout of your new area. You'll see where the older sections of town are, the newer developments, comparative prices, styles of construction and proximity to business centers. You and your family will also learn about weather patterns, recreational opportunities, location of educational facilities, and also drawbacks that should be taken into consideration for each area.

After this audio-visual tour, you and your family will know more about your new area than many residents do!

Our system of map overlays makes finding a neighborhood fun!

After the slide presentation, a trained Relocation Counselor will sit down with you privately. Using a map of the entire area to which you and your family are moving, and a series of transparent overlays such as those depicted on the opposite page, you'll start to zero in on where to begin looking for a house that meets all of your family's needs. Most of your questions will be answered, and you'll get a clear understanding of the new area, during this counseling session.

One of the first questions the counselor will ask is: "How many minutes do you want to spend commuting to and from your office?" An overlay will show which communities fall within your specified radius of minutes from work.

Next, you may be asked how much money you plan to spend. A different overlay will show you what the price patterns are for the locations within that commuting radius.

By the time you get through all eight transparencies in this fashion, you will have pinpointed the area or areas where you are most likely to find the house that fits all of your family's needs. You can then begin house hunting with confidence!

We'll refer you to a Neighborhood Professional.

Your Relocation Counselor will introduce you and your family to a CENTURY 21 Neighborhood Professional who is an expert in the specific area or areas you have selected to look for a house. Your Neighborhood Professional knows the community, and will have comprehensive information about what you want and don't want in a house. The Neighborhood Professional is highly trained and skilled in working with transferred clients and understanding your needs. There are thousands of Neighborhood Professionals ready to serve you, in practically any area you select.

Saves time, money and frustration.

The service you receive at a CENTURY 21 Relocation Center can save you days of costly, time-consuming confusion and driving around. And save you lots of emotional wear and tear, too. It can make your first day in your new area pleasant, informative and productive.

When you move to a brand new area, see your CENTURY 21 Relocation Center first. It's our way of saying, "Welcome to your new town."

One Year Later ...

Yes, it was slightly over one year ago that Group 1 was founded. Group 1 was started in recognition of a changing world of Real Estate, but with the fervent hope that independent free enterprise could be preserved in our business. Our members were — and are — free to both compete and cooperate with others — and each other! We are free to slant our work, our advertising, etc. towards what is best for this particular area. At the same time, we have a national referral service to help you relocate, plus a possible purchase plan for your home should that become feasible or necessary! In short, we can offer the best of all worlds — and by dint of many meetings and much hard work, we have been successful!

We are members of the Manchester Board of Realtors. One of our members is the present president of the board, another is the immediate past president and a third was president just before that! In fact, Group 1 membership includes seven Manchester Board of presidents, past and present.

We ask your consideration when choosing your Realtor, whether buying or selling. We submit that our service will please you — and you will be casting a vote for local enterprise — which this country needs, and God willing, will always have!

Merritt Agency

Richard E. Merritt has been selling homes for almost 14 years here in the Town of Manchester. The Merritt Agency is one of the most active agencies dealing in the sales of new homes as well as resale homes. The Merritt Agency is the exclusive realtor agency for the J.A. McCarthy and Sons, Builders and Developers.

Mr. McCarthy has been a builder and developer of new homes since 1962. He has built new homes in the Manchester, East Hartford, Vernon and So. Windsor areas including the 70 homes, South Farms and the 108 homes Redwood Farms development. Mr. McCarthy is assisted by his sons Michael and Chris. Their office is located in the office building as the Merritt Agency. Richard E. Merritt is a member of the Manchester Board of Realtors also the Hartford Board of Realtors. He is an active member of C.I. D. (Comm. & Indust. Div.) and Homes Unlimited - (group of Hartford County Realtors formed to service real estate needs more effectively). He is also a member of the Real Estate U.S.S. (a national referral agency to help relocate anywhere in America ...

Century 21

"We're The Neighborhood Professionals."

Two local brokers, Arthur Bartlett and Marshall Fisher, of Southern California met together in a coffee shop and over a cup of coffee dreamed up the concept of Century 21 Real Estate. It started with seven small brokers and now in 7 short years is the largest real estate company in the world, with over 7,000 member agencies, each one independently owned.

Century 21's growth curve would be the envy of any business. In seven short years they have grown to dominate the real estate market. Presently, 1 out of every 12 houses sold in the United States and Canada is sold by Century 21. Their yearly sales rose to over 20 billion dollars of sales volume. Surveys show that 97% of the public is aware of Century 21. Their unbelievable growth pattern has been likened to McDonald's hamburgers. Century 21 associates in their familiar gold apparel, have been selling houses like the people under the "golden arches," have been selling hamburgers. It happened with hamburgers, fried chicken and motels and now it's happening in real estate.

America's increasingly mobile society and the ever increasing need for housing is changing the business of selling homes from local to national operations. Century 21 is now expanding into the countries of Japan, Britain, West Germany and Australia.

At one time people bought and sold homes within their own community. This led to dominance by local brokers with good local reputations. Now that people move out of local communities, they feel more comfortable walking into a real estate office whose image has lent respectability, dependability and professionalism, through mass media advertising.

The trend now is toward franchising into large national companies to capture their share of the national moving market. Century 21 was one of the first to recognize the need to assist today's mobile society. Century 21 is now setting up a national network of Relocation Centers in 50 of United States largest cities.

Families faced with transfer from one region to another have always experienced great apprehension. The consequential losses of time, money and production incurred while searching for suitable homes, bring about tension, unhappiness, high costs, and losses.

BECAUSE THE NEED IS THERE ... CENTURY 21 International and Relocations Consultants, under the direction of Gerry Williams, have agreed to cooperate in establishing a nationwide network of Relocation Centers. CENTURY 21 of the Northeast Region has stated that their first Relocation Center will be located in Woodbridge, New Jersey, and this location will serve the entire Region. Plans to set up the Center are being carried out now.

WHAT WILL RELOCATION INVOLVE? Before beginning to look for a home, the client will know exactly what area most suits his needs. Relocation will provide him with price ranges, average resident incomes, over-all school comparisons, projected property values, weather patterns and commuting time. In other words, the relocation service will present all of the positives as well as negatives, so the client knows where he is going. Time and energy are saved and his need for direction is met.

Century 21's Relocation Center will be equipped with a variety of written and audio-visual materials. An array of support materials such as manuals, forms overlays, area information kits, reference materials, personnel systems, audio-visual area information programs, sales action aids, advertising programs, computerized management information and accounting systems will be utilized to reinforce the relocation service. These materials are necessary to give the client the information he needs and wants in order to make a decision. Their man priority stands upon insuring the success of a s-m-o-o-t-h sale, satisfaction and dollars ($$$$).

PROFESSIONALISM IS ESSENTIAL ... and that is why CENTURY 21 is extending its service to include Relocation. After all, we are the "Neighborhood Professionals."

Chenette Associates. Gallery of Homes

The Chenette Associates, Gallery of Homes real estate agency is located at 453 Burnside Avenue where real estate transactions have been successfully transpiring for over eleven years. John Chenette, a well-known and popular East Hartford native has been serving the real estate needs of the public for many years and very ably directs the entire organization. Ever mindful of his civic duties and responsibilities to the Town of East Hartford, he sponsors such worthwhile groups as the Girls Softball League, two Bowling Teams and Youth Hockey. He also lends enthusiastic and generous support to the tour of homes, antique and modern, which is conducted periodically by the Historical Society of East Hartford.

The Gallery of Homes is nationwide with over 14,000 real estate experts serving communities throughout the United States of America and Canada and the early 20th century dutch colonial with porte cochere located on the corner of Burnside and Hillside Avenues contains fifteen of those real estate experts who aid area residents in their search for housing. The Gallery of Homes also maintains a second office for the convenience of aspiring new residents to the area at the Ramada Inn on East River Drive in East Hartford. This office is providing invaluable service in fulfilling the needs of business people who are transferring into the area or otherwise. Each Gallery of Homes office throughout the country has an appointed real estate agent who acts in the capacity of referral agency through which all referrals into the area are channeled thus extending the necessary personal touch which is so helpful to newcomers.

The very amicable agency manager Tim Ellis brings his many years of proven track record into the organization providing that essential factor which makes Chenette Associates, Gallery of Homes such a constant and high achiever in the marketplace.

ERA's Home Buyers Protection Plan Takes the Worry Out of Major Repair Bills

The Home Buyers Protection Plan (BPP) offered by ERA Blanchard & Rossetto, 189 West Center Street, Manchester, Connecticut, gives the homeowner a worry-free first year from major repairs of replacement costs (new homes up to 5 years).

"Under the warranty, the cost of repairing or replacing major home components including central heating, electric air conditioning, plumbing and electrical systems, built-in appliances, water heaters and softeners and accessible sheet metal ducts are covered," said Robert F. Blanchard.

According to Blanchard, the unique warranty plan he offers as a Broker of ERA (Electronic Realty Associates, Inc.) a nationwide home marketing service, "helps the home buyer who really can't afford to pay for major repairs after making the large investment in the purchase of the home," he added.

Homes covered by warranties are given brief inspections to make sure the major components covered are in working order. When a breakdown occurs, a toll free phone call to ERA results in a call to a service contractor in the area for prompt service, Blanchard explained. Examples of how ERA Blanchard & Rossetto has been able to help homeowners with this warranty are numerous:

Shortly after moving into their two family home this past spring, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Gilmore of East Center Street in Manchester, failed to get any heat out of their furnace. After making a toll free call to ERA BPP department, a local service man was dispatched. After all was said and done, a brand new furnace and boiler was installed by ERA and a major financial set back of over $1,800 was avoided - because the Gilmores wisely purchased a home covered under an ERA Blanchard & Rossetto Home Warranty.

"We bought the home in July and we had no use for heat at that time" said Mr. William Morrison. "In October we put the heat on and noticed a faint smell of soot. This smell became very evident as time went by. We called ERA for an inspection. We received fast professional service and within days we received a new furnace which is working beautifully. We only had to pay the $100.00 deductible and have saved hundreds more. A sincere thanks to ERA."

P.S. Mr. Morrison purchased and sold thru ERA Blanchard & Rossetto, Realtors.

Besides BPP, ERA Blanchard & Rossetto also offers Home Sellers Protection, which provides the same coverage beginning 15 days after the home is listed for sale with an ERA Broker up to six months, or until the home is sold. By having your home listed for sale with ERA Blanchard & Rossetto, not only will your home be warranted but it will make it much more attractive to prospective buyers. Mr. Blanchard explained that if the sellers will provide the BPP coverage for the buyer, we can provide, at no additional charge, the BPP coverage until the home is sold for up to 5 months. In the next 12 months, more than $5 billion worth of homes will be covered under the two warranties, and ERA will pay in excess of $1.8 million in claims.

ERA also provides photo-by-wire listings which enable prospective buyers to inspect in ERA Broker's office six photos at a time of potential new homes in the distant city to which they are moving.

Tax Breaks Help Home Owners

People are still buying homes at a brisk pace even though interest rates are high and prices are soaring. Why? "Tax breaks for home owners are one reason," says William H. Hale, president of Heritage Savings and Loan, one of the area's principal home lenders.

Mortgage interest payments are deductible from income for purposes of federal income taxes, Hale explains. Even if a person is paying a high rate of interest he deducts the expense from his income. For example, a couple filing jointly, earning $18,000, might be paying 11.25 percent annual interest on their mortgage. But after taxes the effective rate is 8.94 percent. The difference is money they would have paid in taxes if they didn't have the mortgage interest deduction.

And for a single person the tax benefit is even greater because the tax rate is higher for single people. A single person with $30,000 income and an 11 percent mortgage is paying an effective rate of 6.68 percent after taxes, while a married couple filing jointly would pay 7.74 percent. The charts below show more examples.

There are other tax benefits too. The real estate taxes every home owner pays are also deductible. And when the owner sells his home there is another major benefit not available in most investments. The profit on the sale gets special tax treatment in that if the person buys another more expensive home, within a specified period, the money made on the first home is completely free of taxes at that time. So if he or she bought a house for $45,000 and sold it for $60,000 to buy another for more, the $15,000 profit on the first house can go into the second house without paying taxes.

And if a home owner is over 55 years old, there are no taxes on the first $100,000 of profit on the sale of a home even if he or she does not buy another home.

"Interest is deductible; inflation is not," Hale concluded. The cost of everything goes up with inflation but there's no tax deduction that goes with it. In fact tax rates increase with inflation. But the expenses associated with home ownership are deductible, and that's a interest in the graduated payment loan it introduced last fall. This loan offers a special low monthly payment in the first year. The payment rises gradually with the income of the borrower. The loan is designed to enable people to buy sooner than they otherwise could. About 25 percent of Heritage's loans these days are graduated payment type.

Hale explains "People come into our bank with $5,000 for a down payment, but they need $7,000. So they save the $2,000, but by that time they need $10,000. On the other hand, if they could only get into that home, they would have the best hedge against inflation going. That's where the graduated payment loan comes in. It helps them qualify the first time they come in."

Most wage earners can count on some kind of increase in income every year, if only to keep pace with the cost of living. The graduated payment mortgage is based on that expectancy. For example a $20,000 wage earner with $5,000 for a down payment and a 5 percent expected annual income increase, can ordinarily finance a $44,000 house with a conventional loan and a monthly payment of $378.79. But that is a higher monthly cost than he can pay. With a graduated payment loan, his monthly payment would be $301.07 (20.5 percent less) in the first year and rise gradually for 5 years until it leveled off at $378.79 for the balance of the loan. The plan involves no balloon payments or refinancing later on.

What Can You Afford?

Heritage Savings has a computer which tells to the penny how much a buyer can afford. The computer will figure it out two ways: with a standard loan and with the graduated payment loan. Potential home buyers go to Heritage Savings and fill out a simple form with the information about the home they want. The figures are keyed into the computer which calculates the price of the house, the amount of the loan, the monthly payments and other pertinent information.

"In seconds we can give a prospective home buyer more information than ever before," Hale says. "And with our graduated payment loan, we can often surprise them with the good news that they can buy a bigger home than they thought they could."

major advantage. And of course with a mortgage, the home is paid for later with inflated dollars rather than with current "more expensive" dollars.

So with high inflation and accompanying high interest rates, the home remains a popular investment. In fact judging from the brisk pace of sales, Americans see owning a home as one of the best investment available. It provides a hedge against inflation and the deductibility of interest and other tax benefits make it even more attractive.

Mortgage Supply

"We do have funds to lend, although money is somewhat tighter than it was," Hale says he expects mortgage money to remain available throughout the year with loan rates stabilizing at their present levels. Loans with lower down payments are more difficult to come by today than 6 months ago and are likely to remain scarce.
