WHAT'S NEWS

Superb Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter thinks his administration has "a superb record" and its character will be more important in next year's election than transitory public opinion polls.

In speaking to a group of visiting editors, Carter also said it is "almost impossible" today for any president to rank high in the polls. He attributed his own slump to "uncontrollable" like inflation and unpopular stands he took, such as seeking the Panama Canal treaties, which he called "patently a losing proposition."

Cancer & Beer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New Food and Drug Administration test results show at least 28 beers — 17 domestic and 11 imported — contain detectable levels of cancer-causing nitrosamines, with Schlitz leading the list. Both the FDA and the brewing industry have said they are confident the nitrosamines can be eliminated through changes in the brewing process and expect a clean-up within a few months.

The highest reading for an American beer — 7.7 parts per billion — was found in Schlitz. The lowest — no detectable level — was Coors, with Stroh's a close second. The highest reading among imports — 3.5 ppb — was found in a Heineken sample, and the lowest was Guinness Stout, with no detectable level.

New Policies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Under pressure from the Senate Judiciary Committee, more than a dozen nominees for federal judgeships have agreed in recent months to resign from all-white social clubs. At the same time, Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti has committed himself in writing to ask candidates before they are nominated for judgeships to resign from or suspend their memberships in segregated clubs.

Committee sources say Chairman Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., is the main force behind the new policies. The changes could prod the Judicial Conference of the United States, comprised of top federal judges, to tackle an even thornier side of the issue: whether sitting judges also should be asked to resign from all-white clubs.

Visit Planned

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira probably will visit Peking in early December for a one-week visit, Foreign Ministry sources said. The sources, quoted Sunday by Tokyo's Asahi Shimbun newspaper, said the date of Ohira's first visit to China as prime minister will be arranged through diplomatic channels after Japan's Oct. 7 general elections.

No agenda of talks between the Japanese and Chinese leaders during Ohira's visit has been announced, but observers believe Ohira will announce his government's decision on a Chinese request for a $5.4 billion loan.

Severe Storm

HONG KONG (UPI) — Severe Tropical Storm Mac battered Hong Kong with 90 mph winds and almost 10 inches of rain Sunday night and early Monday. A 45-year-old man was killed by head injuries sustained in a fall in Hong Kong harbor and at least 48 others were injured, mostly by flying objects.

The British colony's normally busy streets and harbor were virtually deserted as residents stayed indoors. Air and surface transportation was halted, except for the Kowloon-Canton railroad.

Heating Bill Big Problem

Anti-nuclear demonstrator is carried by state troopers to a bus after being arrested for trespassing at the Vermont Yankee nuclear plant in Vernon, Vt., Sunday. A total of 167 persons were charged with blocking gates to the plant. (UPI photo)

Sunday Is for Protests

By United Press International
In New York, there was music and talk of the "fighting spirit." In Vermont, more than 160 demonstrators were arrested. It was another Sunday of anti-nuclear protests.

The demonstrations stretched from New York City to Harrisburg, Pa., to Bremerton, Wash., to Vernon, Vt.

The Vermont protesters — facing arraignment today on trespassing charges — refused to identify themselves to authorities Sunday after slipping under a rope and entering a restricted area at the gates of the Vermont Yankee nuclear power plant in Vernon.

A total of 167 demonstrators were arrested during the Sunday demonstration in Vermont. The Vermont Yankee plant was shut down during the protest, part of a seven-week closing for repairs and refueling.

Officials reported 25 people were treated at the scene for sunstroke, lacerations or drug overdoses.

Access Jane Fonda appeared at both the New York rally and one in Harrisburg, Pa.

Miss Fonda told over 1,000 demonstrators protesting the troubled Three Mile Island nuclear plant to fight nuclear power in the same spirit fought against the Vietnam War.

"You patriotism will be attacked, but through it all you must maintain your fighting spirit," she said. "You must remain united and brave."

Miss Fonda and her husband, political activist Tom Hayden, were embarking on a nationwide tour to discuss issues in the 1980 presidential election.

A crowd of about 200 people gathered in Bremerton, Wash., to call attention to the dangers of shipping nuclear waste. They launched a mock nuclear waste caravan on a week-long journey to Richland during the rally in Roosevelt Park.

Speakers at the rally denounced plans for a 400,000-gallon spent-fuel storage pool at Bremerton's Puget Sound naval shipyard.

The problem this winter won't be the supply of home-heating oil — it will be a supply of money for the customers to pay for it.

By the time the snowline dips below the Canadian border and into the upper Midwest, many customers may regret depending on oil for heat. Home heating-oil bills will be substantially higher than last year and may even exceed monthly mortgage payments for some people.

Middle-income customers will have to make sacrifices. The poor may have to shiver.

Generally, customers will have to respond the same way most folks responded to higher gasoline prices last summer — they'll pay.

"I will pay the price and keep warm," said Joyce Peters Watts, 31, of Springfield, Mass. "The oil companies mark it up so high that they're ripping us off."

Mrs. Watts, who lives with her husband and two sons, said she has put up storm windows and planned to turn down her thermostat. She said because of the rising costs of home-heating oil, her family decided to save money by keeping her old car instead of buying a new one.

"I'm worried," said Bessie McDonald, 70, another Springfield resident. Mrs. McDonald, who lives in a two-story home with her husband, said she doesn't turn on the heat on the second floor and turns it off on the first floor when she is cooking, relying on the stove for heat.

"I don't know how we're going to get oil," said Mrs. McDonald, who has been sick since last May. "We have such a big house and if we cut down on some heat, we won't have any."

Oil-company and energy officials say the oil will be there — if you have the money.

"Right now, supply doesn't seem to be a major problem," said Robert Herzog of the New York City Energy Department. "The major problem we're facing is the inability of large numbers of people to pay, both ### homeowners and landlords."

The government estimates heating oil prices have risen over 145 percent in the last five years and they will be another 50 percent higher this winter.

A Washington Post survey showed home-heating oil prices in the District of Columbia will rise $500 for this winter over last year for the average customer.

"Come Oct. 15, there's going to be a panic," said Michael Laub, who owns or manages 3,500 apartment units in the Bronx. "People are going to get their bills and they're going to be shocked. People are going to be without heat for their children."

"I've lost a lot of sleep thinking about this winter."

Predictably, hardest hit by the price hikes are the poor and elderly.

"Our clients are going to be hurt badly," said Theresa Jones of the Community Services Agency in Washington. She said a monthly Social Security check can't even cover the price of a tank of oil in the district.

The higher prices also are affecting the not-so-poor.

Washington real estate agent Mike McGrady recalled, "One client liked the house from the outside. We stopped and asked permission to see the inside. We went to the basement first. When he saw the oil burner, he was really turned off."

Texaco Inc. and other oil companies have promised to freeze prices — or at least try to freeze them — at current levels. However, oil industry critics counter the prices already are inflationary.

There are various federal and state subsidy programs in the works. At least 10 states — Connecticut, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and New Jersey — have implemented direct-aid programs.

But most observers believe those programs will be inadequate.

Rep. Richard Nolan, D-Minn., told a recent House subcommittee hearing, "The poor will have the option to heat or eat."

Juggling Due For Fuel Aid

By JACQUELINE HUARD

HARTFORD (UPI) — Wherever the governor finds the millions of dollars needed to keep Connecticut's poor from freezing this winter, it's bound to be an interesting juggling act.

A few theories were floated last week after Gov. Ella Grasso said she'd have to dig up at least $8 million for emergency fuel aid this winter — and that's counting on $12 million from the federal government.

Rep. Gardner Wright, D-Bristol, co-chairman of the House Appropriations Committee that picks apart the budget for the Legislature, said she'd have to raise taxes or come in with a new source of revenue.

Wright said he doubted the governor could lop more off agency budgets because departments already are groaning under a tight-fisted $2.4 billion budget and newly-ordered 3 percent, or $30 million to $35 million, budget cuts.

The governor, through an administrative aide, fired off a testy reply Friday.

"I will not ask for any tax increases this fiscal year to finance state programs to meet energy needs," she said. "Whatever has to be done will be done within the framework of our existing resources."

Anyone who has listened to the governor quickly finds out every syllable is carefully weighed. Wright read between the lines of "this fiscal year."

"She's not saying she wouldn't ask for money next year," he said. "I think the governor's proposal is to come up with the money right away, but not worry about paying for it until next year."

Wright sees three alternatives for the governor.

One — cut more off agency budgets. The $8 million translates into less than one-half percent of the budget.

"I don't believe there's any room in the budget to cut $8 million more," he said. "The departments are already saying they can't operate with the $35 million she said she's going to cut."

Two — overspend and worry about a deficit later.

"That isn't one I think she'd intend to do — end up this year with a deficiency," Wright said.

Three — new or increased taxes.

"I think we're going to have to face tax increases next year as a real possibility unless we can cut significant amounts of money out of our budget," he said.

Wright met with the governor for a half hour Friday and said he still isn't sure what she has in mind. He believes she'll wait a while because it's too early to calculate a few key factors — tax revenues and how cold the winter will be.

His feeling on the tax option is that she won't do anything with that at all until next year, and maybe not even then. If he were calling the shots, Wright said he'd move with more taxes right now.

He drew a picture of just how tight the situation is already.

Connecticut is creeping along with a $2.4 billion budget — 5.5 percent higher than fiscal 1978-1979. Inflation is running at 12 percent. The Legislature and governor said there wasn't an ounce of fat in the budget.

A short time after the new budget went into effect July 1, the governor's fiscal architect — Office of Policy and Management Secretary Anthony Milano — said agencies had to give up 3 percent or $30 million to $35 million.

Milano, according to Wright, is looking at 3 percent reductions for the first quarter, four percent the se-

Grain ships wait in the Duluth-Superior harbor, the largest freshwater grain port in the world, as negotiations continued in the 11-week strike against grain elevator companies. Workers will vote Tuesday on a tentative agreement. (UPI photo)

Grain May Move Again

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A final tentative agreement has been reached with General Mills in the 12-week, paralyzing grain handlers strike that slapped the upper Midwestern farm industry with an estimated $1 billion in losses.

The American Federation of Grain Millers Local 118 struck eight grain elevator companies beginning July 6, halting shipment of grain from the Duluth-Superior harbor, the largest freshwater grain port in the world.

All eight elevator companies and the almost 500 workers involved scheduled a ratification vote for Tuesday on a contract a union spokesman described as including "an improved economic package with substantial wage gains." Further details were not immediately available.

Union officials said the bargaining committee unanimously will recommend its membership approve the wage packages. Settlement in the complex eight-pronged strike came one day before shippers in Duluth threatened to send their empty vessels back out to sea. A spokesman said the millers will return to work immediately upon approval.

General Mills reached a settlement at 4 a.m., the eighth company to reach a tentative agreement with the striking millers. It was the third accord reached in a 19-hour, non-stop bargaining session that began at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Peavy Co. and International Multifoods also reached agreement with the millers Saturday.

"Now that these agreements have been reached, I am confident they will be ratified, and grain will be shipped again from the Duluth-Superior port," said chief federal negotiator Wayne Horvitz.

Mark Seetin, Minnesota agriculture commissioner, said the strike cost an estimated $1 billion in lost income for the farm economies of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Minnesota.

Coppola Starting His Own Company

Francis Ford Coppola is so confident of the success of his "Apocalypse Now" he's already spending the profits. He's purchased Hollywood General Studios for an undisclosed number of millions and will rename it "Omni Zoetrope" for his own production company.
That's "OZ" — letters observers expect to rise high above the complex of nine sound stages, making the flamboyant film maker the wizard thereof.
Coppola says he'll make 10 movies a year at the new film factory and establish himself as boss of bosses in Tinseltown.

Top Tube Times

When New York attorney Jay S. Harris first started musing about television fare over the past century, even he didn't know his nostalgia would turn into a book and a TV special — but it did.
The results of his research will be shown Oct. 21 by NBC-TV as "TV Guide — the First 25 Years."
Guest stars footnoting the highlights will include Bob Hope, George C. Scott, Arthur Godfrey, Michael Landon, John Chancellor and Lucille Ball, whose son, Desi Arnaz Jr., as an infant — graced the magazine's first cover in 1953.
Says Lucy, "I've been a baby sitter for three generations."

The New Adam

Gail Sheehy, author of "Passages" — a study of changes in adult life — is surveying the under-30 crowd now, and she reveals some startling conclusions in the October issue of Esquire magazine.
Crystallizing the new breed of man, she finds they don't want to work hard, demand more time for "personal growth" and want time for love, leisure, children, personal expression and "playing lots of tennis."
But the biggest jolt on her questionnaire came when "lost interest in sex" was checked. Says Ms. Sheehy, "I looked in astonishment at the ages — 23, 21. Ages like that..."

Quote of the Day

Retired Navy Capt. Robert Truax, the missile expert who's built his own "Volkrocker" to carry the common man to the threshold of space, in the October issue of Omni magazine on the NASA space shuttle: "It's too complicated. It flies like a brick and its unpowered landing is the hardest kind for a pilot to make. It makes as much sense as requiring an airplane to land at railroad stations."

Glimpses

Liv Ullmann will be on location in Auschwitz, Poland, next month filming a TV special, "Children of the Holocaust."
Gordon Lightfoot will be in concert at New York's Carnegie Hall Oct. 10-11.

Many Dilemmas Surface As Pope's Arrival Nears

By United Press International
Wanted: portable toilets, ideally 2,000 of them, to service about 1 million people during the papal visit. Money is an object.
Toilets, the money involved in procuring them and other necessities are some of many official dilemmas that have surfaced as officials ready for Pope John Paul II's visit next month.
Religious and city officials who puffed their collective chests with pride because their cities were selected as legs of the pontiff's U.S. visit are now scrambling to unravel massive logistics problems to accommodate both the pope and the millions of people who want to see him.
City and religious officials in Boston have compromised on the mundane questions of who will pay the bills there, with the archdiocese to pay for the religious aspects of the pope's stop and the city paying for everything else.
Catholic leaders in Des Moines, another stop on the Pope's Oct. 1-7 U.S. tour, will be selling programs to help defray costs of the big event.
The results of his research will be shown Oct. 21 by NBC-TV as "TV Guide — the First 25 Years."
Guest stars footnoting the highlights will include Bob Hope, George C. Scott, Arthur Godfrey, Michael Landon, John Chancellor and Lucille Ball, whose son, Desi Arnaz Jr., as an infant — graced the magazine's first cover in 1953.

Pope Seeks Prayers For Successful Trip

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul I, emphasizing the importance of his upcoming speech to the United Nations, asked the world to pray for the success of the voyage that will carry him from "green Ireland" to the "islands of Washington."
"Again today, I ask you all for the spiritual help of prayer," the 59-year-old pontiff told more than 25,000 people huddled in a rainy St. Peter's square for his Sunday blessing and speech.
The pope's Sept. 29-Oct. 7 trip will take him to Ireland and six cities in the United States, including New York and Washington. He will meet President Carter in addition to addressing the United Nations Oct. 2.

Hoping to capitalize on the upcoming visit of Pope John Paul II to Des Moines, Jim Fox shows the stockpile of T-shirts he has amassed in his apartment as he prepares to sell them during the papal visit. The shirts are printed with the pope's name, a symbol, and the location of the mass. They will sell for $7 each. (UPI photo)

Archdiocese Sets Holiday

MANCHESTER — The Archdiocese of Hartford announced that Oct. 1 will be a holiday for the schools of the archdiocese in honor of Pope John Paul's visit to the United States.
The Pope will address the United Nations on Oct. 2 and two of the local schools, St. Bridget's and St. James, will allow students to see the televised presentation of the Pope's message. St. James has televisions in the classrooms while St. Bridget's will wheel portable models into the rooms.
However, a spokeswoman at St. James said the school will not be closed Oct. 1. She said the school is undergoing renovations and some students are out of school on a rotating basis while work is in progress. The other schools will have the day off.
The Rev. Robert Saunders said the East Catholic High School has no plans at the moment to arrange for its students to see the televised speech, but said the school will get a videotape later.
Mother Marie Arthur of Assumption School said the students have televisions in their homes and should watch the speech there.
The Pope will visit the United States Oct. 1-7 and scheduled stops include Philadelphia, Des Moines, Iowa, Boston, New York City, Chicago and Washington, D.C.
"The Pope's visit to our nation is an historic occasion," said the Rev. James Faneli, superintendent of schools. "One which we believe has special significance not only for the Catholic community, but also for our fellow citizens as well. Pope John Paul's position as spiritual leader of the world's Catholics, his stirring defense of religious liberty and other human rights, his forceful proclamation of moral values, and his magnetic personality have had a strong influence upon peoples throughout the world."

States Face Off In Alcohol War

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Massachusetts may be preparing to wage war on New Hampshire's liquor sales, armed with a distribution scheme that could endear prices on the Granite State's biggest money-makers.
The threat lurking at New Hampshire's southern border is a "serious situation," which demands "immediate action," Senate Finance Chairman D. Alan Rock said Sunday.
A letter Friday from Liquor Commission Chairman Costas Tentas alerted Rock, Gov. Hugh Gallen and other legislative leaders to the scheme which "portends price war with Massachusetts," Tentas said.
Tentas, Rock, Senate President Robert Monier and Senate Ways and Means Chairman John McLaughlin have called for an immediate meeting with Gallen and the Liquor Commission to weigh the threat and ways to combat it.
"This is a serious situation because of the importance of liquor revenues on the state budget," Rock said. "It is our second largest source of income," he said.
New Hampshire takes in more than $40 million from the sale of wine and spirits, Rock said, surpassed only by the business profits tax.
In the memo, Tentas said the scheme will allow Massachusetts to undersell New Hampshire on imported whiskeys, scotches and cordials which are big money-makers for the Granite State.
The competitive edge on imported liquor will also have an impact on domestic sales in New Hampshire, Tentas predicted. The price advantage, coupled with the fact that it will prompt people to do all their liquor shopping in one stop — in Massachusetts, not New Hampshire, he said.
The scheme, originally worked out in Oklahoma, allows a cost-saving short-cut as liquor passes from the distributor to wholesaler to retailer, Tentas said.
It permits the distributor to sell imported products to any wholesaler, who can sell it for less than an authorized wholesaler who has to contend with local and national promotional expenses for the product.
Eliminating a link in the chain saves money which can be passed down the line for lower retail prices.
"It's a very serious situation," Tentas said. "Wholesalers also run retail operations. Tentas said.
Tentas predicted New Hampshire could lose a substantial amount of business unless the scheme could be countered.
Rock said Sunday he did not know when a meeting on the problem would take place, because the governor had not contacted legislative leaders or Tentas as of Saturday night.
Neither Tentas nor Gallen could be reached for comment Sunday.
"I'm flabbergasted the governor didn't respond to the memo," Rock said. "It's unbelievable, given the seriousness of the situation," he said.

Judge Will Hear Land Claim Case

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — A federal judge will hear arguments this week to determine whether the claim by Penobscot and Passamaquoddy Indians to 32.5 million acres of Maine land should go to trial.
Attorneys involved in the tribes' claim to two-thirds of Maine will address U.S. District Court Judge Edward T. Gignoux at a hearing in Portland Friday, in order for the judge to decide whether to grant another stay in the court case which was first filed in 1972.
Gignoux called the conference after a request was filed for the 12th stay of the case. The stay is speculation that time is running out to reach a negotiated settlement, since the judge in the past has routinely granted stay requests without hearings.
The tribes' attorney, Thomas Turcotte, refused late last week to discuss details of the settlement negotiations, but said his position at this week's conference "will depend on what happens in the negotiations this week."
Maine last month retained James St. Clair of Boston, attorney for Richard Nixon in Watergate-related matters, an "insurance policy" to defend the state should the case go to trial.
St. Clair has experience in the Indian land claims of the Mashpee tribe in Massachusetts.
Former Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox is co-counsel with Turcotte for the tribes.
A tentative settlement for the case was drawn up last year by former Sen. William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, calling for the federal government to provide about $62 million for the tribes to buy land from private landowners.
But the Indians this summer upped the ante to as much as $87 million following a Maine Supreme Court ruling in their favor involving the crucial jurisdictional issue in the case.
The Indians maintain land was taken from them more than 150 years ago in violation of the federal Nonintercourse Act of 1790, which provided congressional protection to tribes living in "Indian Country."

Church Members To Fight Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine leading members of the Church of Scientology are fighting charges of stealing government documents in a covert campaign to discredit the church's critics — including the Internal Revenue Service.
Eleven church members were indicted last year, partly on the basis of thousands of documents seized in disputed FBI raids on church headquarters in Los Angeles and Washington on July 8, 1977.
Two of the 11 indicted are in England awaiting extradition, and the other nine were to go on trial today in a U.S. district court.
Church officials objected to the use of evidence seized by more than 175 FBI agents, claiming the raids were unconstitutional.
But U.S. District Judge Charles Richey ruled earlier raids because the FBI caught two church members trying to enter the federal courthouse in Washington with false identification, and one of them revealed a church plot to infiltrate federal agencies.
Richey also disclosed the church obtained copies of IRS tax files on Frank Sinatra, John Wayne and the last two mayors of Los Angeles, and that it planned to infiltrate the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the St. Louis Globe and the St. Louis Better Business Bureau to obtain files about the church.

Ex-African Dictator Finds Place to Hide

PARIS (UPI) — Deposed Central African dictator Jean Bedel Bokassa left France for exile in the Ivory Coast early today, ending his 58 hours standoff with French officials who refused him asylum.
Government spokesmen said Bokassa took off in a French military DC-6 jetliner at 4 a.m. (10 p.m. EDT Sunday) from the military air base at Evreux west of Paris, where he had remained a virtual prisoner in his own private jet most of the time since landing uninvited in France Friday night.
Officials declined to reveal his destination until receiving approval of the country involved, and several hours later confirmed that he was flying to the Ivory Coast, a former colony on the west African coast with which France has kept extremely close ties.
Bokassa's departure ended an intense diplomatic campaign to find a nation willing to accept the deposed tyrant, charged the atrocities that include massacres of school children. He was demanding to remain in France, claiming French citizenship.
His presence in France would have posed a delicate legal and political problem since Bokassa holds French citizenship. France does not permit extradition of its citizen for foreign crimes and the government would have come under heavy pressure to try him in France.
There was no immediate comment from the Ivory Coast but it would receive a request to extradite Bokassa, but the country has a history of granting safe asylum to fallen leaders from other African states.
David Dacko, new president of the Central African Republic who led the French-assisted coup that overthrew Bokassa, said Sunday in Bangui he planned to issue an international warrant for the arrest of the former emperor.
Such a warrant is normally the first step in extradition proceedings, but French law does not permit extradition of its citizens.
Bokassa is a French citizen as a result of his service as a sergeant in the colonial army during two wars. But Paris forbids him to enter the country, citing violations of human rights.
There is a provision for handling such cases in France, but it involves a formal trial in which the full extent of French involvement in Bokassa's overthrow and former close relations with the deposed ruler might have surfaced.

Fiscal Measures On House Agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Oct. 1 is the start of a new fiscal year and the deadline for three major bills all of which the House has defeated once before but will try to exact this week.

Two of the bills - to raise the public debt limit and to provide continued funding for agencies whose appropriations have not yet been approved by Congress - deal directly with the government's fiscal calendar.

The third bill, to implement the terms of the Panama Canal treaties, is needed by the same date because Oct. 1 is the date the treaties become effective.

The Senate is not planning a recess, but still faces the Oct. 1 deadline to pass the three bills once they get out of the House.

But House leaders threaten to delay or cancel the recess if the House votes are not reversed. The leaders predict chaos in Panama and a halt of government operations in Washington if the bills are not enacted.

The Panama Canal bill is not even in final form. A compromise version worked out by House-Senate conferees last week was passed by the Senate but rejected by the House, so the conferees were to seek a new compromise today.

There is little controversy involved in the resolution to provide continued funding for government agencies. But the bill was defeated twice because it includes a rider to provide a 5.5 percent pay raise for members of Congress and high-level federal workers.

A third effort to pass it is set for Tuesday. The debt limit bill, which traditionally is voted down a couple of times before being enacted, would raise the limit on the national debt by $5 billion to $85 billion.

The latest version of the bill includes a proposal to change the procedure and set future debt ceilings automatically each time Congress passes a budget resolution imposing spending limits on itself.

The current budget limitation, incidentally, has its own Oct. 1 deadline which Congress imposed when it reformed the congressional budget process a few years ago.

The Senate has approved its own budget resolution, and when the House passes one, the differences in the two have to be reconciled before final enactment.

Stolberg Seeks Kennedy Support

NEW HAVEN (UPI) - Rep. Irving Stolberg, D-New Haven, has been contacting his colleagues to drum up commitments for Sen. Edward Kennedy's D-Mass. possible run for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

Stolberg says he just wants Kennedy to know that if he decides to take the plunge, he'll have plenty of ready-made support in Connecticut.

"We just want him to know that, so that when he's making his decision, he'll be aware of the level of strength he has here in Connecticut," Stolberg said.

He hopes to have a majority of the 103 Democrats in the Connecticut House committed to Kennedy by the time Stolberg releases the names at a news conference in early October.

"Most of those we called have indicated they either are ready to go with Kennedy right now or they'd like to wait a little while. But the response is extremely positive," Stolberg said.

He said Kennedy has "an image of leadership" and "a great deal of substance" that the Carter administration is lacking.

"I think there's a feeling of disappointment that there's not a greater sense of direction coming from Washington," Stolberg said. He's enthused about Carter's foreign policy, but said there's no direction on domestic issues.

Stolberg said if Kennedy's candidacy never materializes, the supporters he's lined up either will swing to Carter or other candidates. Stolberg went with Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., in the 1976 Democratic presidential race.

Production To Resume At Fafnir Bearing Co.

KENSINGTON (UPI) - Fafnir Bearing Co. machinists have ratified a new contract, clearing the way for production at the firm's New Britain and Newington plants to get rolling again for the first time since April 23.

Fafnir officials said employees would begin reporting back today and they expected the full work force back on the job in about two weeks.

The 187 machinists, members of the International Association of Machinists Lodge 1248, Sunday voted 139-9 in favor of the three-year pact, union spokesman Ray Palmucci said.

Another union representing 3,300 Fafnir production workers, United Auto Workers Local 133, ratified a new three-year contract Wednesday. Both groups had been on strike since April.

Most UAW members scheduled to return to their jobs Thursday did not go to work, clearing the way for production at the firm's New Britain and Newington plants to get rolling again for the first time since April 23.

Flood Aid Questioned

SOUTH WINDSOR -Mayor Nancy Caffyn has asked state officials why local research has shown no grant assistance appears to be available for the massive Avery Brook channel project which will be before the voters in November.

Bonding for the project was set as a referendum item after approval by the Town Council last month.

The project includes buildings of a dam off Avery Street, near Beezlebub Road, and lining the area of two tributaries with concrete. One tributary runs from Avery Street and Kelly Road to the pond at the end of Peach Tree Lane. The other runs from Avery Street and Orchard Hill Drive through the Benedict Drive area to the pond.

Residents in the area have been plagued for years with flooding and massive soil erosion.

Mrs. Caffyn told state officials that she felt a project of such size should qualify for state financial help. In her letter, Mrs. Caffyn noted that 57 homes near the channel have been damaged and more than half of those experience constant flooding in the first floor area.

She said that 6,000 feet of local roads are impassable during the flooding period and 44 acres of land are useless. Annual flood damage is estimated to be $105,000 and 25 tons of soil are washed away.

Donald McHenry (center), declaring his belief in "the importance of diplomacy," was sworn in as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations during a White House ceremony Sunday.

McHenry Ready for U.N.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Donald McHenry says he's ready for one of the most difficult U.N. sessions in a decade and his new post as U.S. ambassador, a role Andrew Young "didn't feel free to wish..." on a friend.

The State Department veteran who was hailed by President Carter as a "foreign policy professional" was sworn in at the White House Sunday to replace Young.

During the ceremony, Carter affectionately praised Young as "my good friend" and denied reports that because of Jewish outrage at Young's meeting with a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

McHenry, deputy ambassador under Young, has a reputation for caution and the use of precise language - two traits his predecessor often ignored.

Young introduced his former subordinate by saying "I didn't recommend Don for this job - not because I have any reservations about his competence - but because I happen to know how rough the next General Assembly is going to be."

"I didn't feel free to wish that on a friend of mine," Young said. McHenry, the second black to hold the diplomatic post, said he is "very conscious of that warning Andy gave me and of which I am well aware."

"We probably face the most difficult General Assembly we have ever faced in the last 10 years or so," McHenry acknowledged.

"I do not expect that in our immediate time that we will be able to magically come up with solutions for all of the problems which face us," he said.

"Indeed, we will be lucky if we can come up with the solution to a very few, but I believe in the importance of diplomacy. I believe the importance of trying very hard with imagination and hard work to resolve problems."

McHenry first joined the State Department in 1963 and prides himself on his involvement in world affairs rather than purely African issues. Nonetheless, he had an instrumental hand in bringing about independence for Namibia.

The president, looking directly at Young, called him "a great American, my friend and a friend of the world." The racially mixed group of several hundred gave the former civil rights leader a lengthy ovation.

"Any claims or allegations that American Jewish leaders or anyone else urged me to ask Andy for his resignation are absolutely and totally false," Carter said.

Educators in Bolton Open Contract Talks

BOLTON -Representatives from the Bolton Board of Education and the Bolton Education Association have met to open negotiations for the teachers' contracts for the 1980-81 school year, Raymond A. Allen Jr., superintendent of schools, said.

The teachers are presently in a two-year contract which terminates June 30, 1980, Allen said.

Members of the education associations negotiating team are Fred Audette, Thomas Sheridan, Thelma Friedman, Anthony Falchetti, John Marino, and Philip Rosenblymer, ex officio.

Negotiations for the school board are Louis Cloutier, Michael Parsons, Wallace Kelly, and Joseph Hahnbardo, board chairman, ex officio.

As in past years, Allen said that the school board and the education association have agreed that news releases will be issued only by mutual consent of both groups.

Spanish Club Project

The Martin Fierro chapter of the Spanish National Honor Society at Bolton High School has chosen as its first service project of the current school year, tutorial help.

Honor Society members who are fourth-year Spanish students will offer the tutorial help to level I, II, and III students.

Teresa Landrey has been elected president of the Spanish Club. Other officers are: Lori Sheetz, vice president, Susan Dresselle, secretary, and Chris Hieh, treasurer.

The group is planning as a fund-raising activity the sale of stuffed animals. The club will also sponsor the retirement concession during home basketball games. Helen Winkler is club adviser.

Truck Violates Code

An oil truck, owned by Bolton Oil Co. of Manchester and stored in Bolton, can't be used on the road until it meets town code requirements.

Peter Massolini, Bolton's fire marshal, inspected the truck and said it didn't meet code requirements.

"Any claims or allegations that American Jewish leaders or anyone else urged me to ask Andy for his resignation are absolutely and totally false," Carter said.

Tall Cedars Day Set

MANCHESTER -Mayor Stephen Penny has proclaimed Oct. 13 "Tall Cedars of Lebanon Day" in celebration of the organization's 50th anniversary.

Nutmeg Forest, No. 116 has sponsored the annual Thanksgiving Day Road Race since 1951 and has been a constant contributor to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund.

Council To Hear Alternative to Wider I-91

SOUTH WINDSOR - The Town Council will meet with Windsor Locks First Selectman Edward Savino, a proponent of widening Interstate 91, during a work session tonight.

Also invited to meet with the Town Council is a representative of the town of Windsor. Windsor is adamantly opposed to widening Interstate 91 and has proposed an alternative which would put a stretch of road through the Connecticut River Basin meadows in South Windsor.

Local officials and many South Windsor residents are opposed to Windsor's alternative proposal because of the effects the new highway would have on the meadow area, which includes a historic district, archaeological site and valuable farmlands.

South Windsor officials feel that the widening of the highway in Windsor would not have a detrimental effect on the town as a new highway would in South Windsor because the highway already exists in that town.

The Town Council has unanimously approved a resolution opposing Windsor's alternative highway. Mayor Nancy Calfin has also written a letter to Gov. Ella Grasso, and other state officials, asking that no decision be made on the proposed roadway until a newly hired town planner can study the effects of the road.

The Windsor alternative proposes a north-south highway east of the Connecticut River. Windsor justifies the proposal because of reports which indicate that many motorists drive and end trips on the east side of the river anyway.

A public hearing in South Windsor Oct. 5, 1978 produced more than 75 angry residents opposing the Windsor plan. Many of the residents were from the Old Main Street area - the portion of South

Rham Senate Changes Rule

HEBRON - The constitution for the Student-Faculty Senate at Rham High School has recently been revised to reduce the number of professional staff members from 10 to five, eliminate the Executive Council, and to eliminate several committees.

Rham is one of very few high schools having the student-senate form of government. The revised constitution was prepared by a Special Investigative Committee.

The revisions also eliminate homeroom representation for students. Students are now elected at-large by the entire class. Elections for all Senate positions are done through the use of voting machines loaned to the school by the town.

The basic purpose of the Senate is to make recommendations to the administration on matters concerning student and staff affairs.

Reid also said that two more places remain to be filled on the newly formed Water Pollution Control Authority.

Cynthia Wilson, chairman of the Conservation Commission told the Board of Selectmen that George Vesper will serve on the authority as representative of the Conservation Commission and the Planning Commission has appointed Joseph Morocco to represent that group.

Reid said that David Martnicki and Frank Krist, both who served on the interim authority, have indicated they wish to serve on the permanent authority and Raymond Bart will be the selectmen's representative.

Firefighters Needed For South Windsor

SOUTH WINDSOR - Members of the South Windsor Volunteer Fire Department will be canvassing the Pleasant Valley and Ellington roads areas in an effort to increase the number of department members.

A door-to-door canvass will be made by any resident, not contacted, who is interested in becoming a volunteer for the department.

Harvey J. Cormier, deputy fire chief, said the response to the voluntary inspection was excellent as well as the planning for smoke detector installation.

Any resident who did not sign up for the voluntary fire prevention inspection at the Wapping Fair and would like to do so, may contact the fire headquarters at 644-2423.

The local Fire Prevention Program was begun at the Wapping Fair with a display of fire equipment and demonstration of fire detectors and the Hurst Jaws Life Tool.

Harvey J. Cormier, deputy fire chief, said the response to the voluntary inspection was excellent as well as the planning for smoke detector installation.

Approved, with condition, was the application of Automotive Industries, for a site plan of development on land located on the north side of Chapel Road, 1.150 feet west of the intersection of Chapel Road and Ellington Road. The land is owned by Cyril Roy and is in an Industrial Zone.

Habers See Holy Land

SOUTH WINDSOR - The family of Dr. Mel Haber of 142 Scott Drive recently visited Israel as members of a "Family Live-In" group, sponsored by Hadassah.

Hadassah arranged for 45 Americans, 32 adults and 12 children, to stay for one month in Neve Han, a cooperative settlement 10 miles from Jerusalem.

Situated in the pine-covered Judean Hills, Neve Han has breathtakingly beautiful views of the forest of Jerusalem. The settlement is composed of American, South African, and English immigrants, as well as native-born Israelis.

They not only operate a farm and an electronics factory but also a vacation center which is patronized in the summer by urban Israelis. Hadassah arranged for a number of the guest cottages to be allocated to the "Family Live-In" group.

Apart from touring the country, the group spent much time swimming, walking through the forests, relaxing in the Neve Han Community Center, and talking to Israelis who received them in their homes.

The finance board will also be asked to act on the resignation of board member Wilbur Hills, accept town reports and the annual audit.

Does Country Need Kennedy?

By ANDREW TULLY WASHINGTON - It sounds noble, every time Ted Kennedy explains why he's running for president. For example, he keeps saying that during the past few months his colleagues in the Senate and various others had expressed their concerns about the direction of the nation and whether President Carter was really coming to grips with major problems. So, he says, he decided not to close the door on his candidacy.

Thoughts

The company I worked for as an engineer went through a slump period in the early sixties, and many of the men decided that they could find better job security and more chances for advancement elsewhere.

When business picked up a little, we hit one three or four months period where no one left. It seemed a shame we weren't getting out more. The organization was all set up. The customers were there. So we decided we would go out one month, and whether anyone was leaving or not, and this was instituted: The "Monthly Luncheon Club."

Take a look at your life. Is it just FORM? Or does it have some PURPOSE? Rev. Richard Thompson, Rockville United Methodist Church.

This has brought howls from Maine to California from Democrats charging intimidation. But Carter is not scared. He has told his men to "remind those people that the country has a Democratic president and he should be able to depend on Democratic support." Then he added: "If Democrats won't support a Democratic president they'll have to face the consequences the president can bring about."

South Windsor firefighters, using the aerial ladder truck, pour water down on one of three barns that were destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon. The barns were on Main Street property owned by Mayor Nancy Gaflyn. (Photo by Ken Ostrinsky)

SOUTH WINDSOR—South Windsor firefighters, assisted by fire departments from Ellington, Vernon, Broad Brook and East Windsor, battled fires Sunday afternoon that destroyed three barns and caused some damage to several other buildings. The three barns were on the Main Street property of Mayor Nancy Gaflyn. Deputy Fire Marshal William Lanning said this morning that it is thought the fire was accidentally started by some hot ashes which were dumped outside one of the barns. The fire also caused some windows to break in the mayor's home and also charred some of the outside paint. Flying debris from the burning barns also ignited the roof of a barn owned by John Zagorski and made it necessary to soak down the home or Robert Tose. The fires were reported about 3:15 p.m. The thick black smoke pouring from the buildings was reportedly seen as far away as Waterbury, fire officials said. Two of the firefighters suffered slight injuries and were treated and released at Manchester Memorial Hospital. Tony Pallotti was treated for a strained back and Bruce Krelier, an injured thumb.

Juggling For Fuel Expected

(Continued from Page One) cond quarter and five percent the remaining two quarters. The reason for the quick surgery, he said, was the first revenues that trickled in were low, especially the all-important sales tax. Wright said other unexpected items totaling about $50 million added to the administration's worries. A $30 million more for Medicaid; an extra $18 million for state employee contracts and $2.5 million more for education. He said the state surplus for the year came to about $11 million more than what had already been spent in the budget. The cuts were made until the next fiscal year. By law, the governor can cut 3 percent of budgets. She can go 5 percent with approval of the Finance Advisory Committee. If the governor wants more than that, she has to go to the Legislature. Lapsed funds, the amount agencies are traditionally told they can't spend, started at $30 million this year. The funds are held in escrow, assuming money for some budgeted items won't be needed, such as for job vacancies that aren't filled right away or purchases that aren't paid until the next fiscal year. The new budget cuts, Wright said, jacked those funds held in escrow up to $65 million. He said the governor could make more cuts and cover the $2 million for fuel assistance by hiking the funds up to $73 million. He thinks that would be a bad idea. "The governor's proposal is save what you can, but don't cut back on services. Some agencies already have said they can't do it without making serious cuts," Bonding for emergency fuel aid, he said, is something the Legislature and Mrs. Grasso wouldn't do because the money won't be paid back. It would be a snowball effect — like paying for food or rent with a credit card.

Rockville Rally Stops Catholic

Pushing the game-winning touchdown across with less than a minute to go, Rockville High registered an 18-14 come-from-behind victory over East Catholic in non-conference football action Saturday at M. Nebo in less than ideal conditions. Both squads now stand 1-1. East has its third straight home tilt coming up Saturday night against Windsor Locks at 7:30 while the Rams host Weaver High that afternoon at 7:30. Trailing 14-12 as a result of two missed conversions, Rockville mounted the winning drive from its 28. Quarterback Steve Parker went in the air, completing six passes to six different receivers, including a 45-yarder to Dan Morgan that put them in scoring position. Parker from inches away hurtled over the goal line. The two-point conversion try failed but that proved academic. The Rams threatened early but were halted at the Eagle 11. A brilliant toss spearheaded by a brilliant combination of short passes and runs to keep the Rams off balance. Eagle fullback Mike Gliberto took care of the ground game, including a clutch gain on fourth-and-one at the Rockville 6, while the Tony Pacheco to Mike Freshell aerial show kept the balance. The drive was culminated on an 8-yard patch to Freshell pass with the latter booting 0. Interceptions by 1. Fumbles lost 1.

Indians Overwhelm Fermi, 39-0

By LEN AUSTER

Up and down the line there was no question who was better. A year ago when Manchester High took a 20-15 verdict over Fermi High, Falcon Coach Joe Nuccio wasn't convinced the better team won. This time he had to be. With the offensive and defensive lines controlling play, the Indians made an auspicious debut into the 79 football season Saturday rolling to a 39-0 triumph over Fermi in Enfield. The setback was the second in a row for the Falcons, who have failed to score yet.

Hornets End Losing Ways

By JOHN COLLETTI
Correspondent
"It was a very emotional game for our seniors," a jubilant East Hartford High Coach Jim Dakin stated as the Hornets ended an 11-game losing streak with a 21-12 win over Windham High in CCIL football action Saturday in Willimantic.

Massasoit Tips MCC Booters

Three second-half goals scored in an eight-minute span broke a scoreless tie and lifted Massasoit Community College past Manchester Saturday in Brockton, Mass. MCC, 1-1, outplayed Massasoit in the first half but failed to score on the soggy, rain-soaked field. Goalie Dennis Galvin came up with two outstanding saves on kicks by Dave Skowronek. The homecoming Whoppers sliced into the deficit on a one-yard dive off tackle by Rob Mallen but the conversion failed. East Hartford added some insurance in the fourth quarter as Terry Earl gathered in a 15-yard scoring strike from junior quarterback Peter Mott. Windham put together one last scoring drive with signal-caller Tom Wornesky flipping 14 yards to Chuck Harris for the score. "Our strategy was ball control and it paid off," a happy Dakin said. "Overall, our new players, two defensive halfbacks and defensive ends, played a tough hard game." He added of a somewhat revamped defense. Defensive standouts for the Hornets were Tyler Jones and John Barile, each with an interception. Chadwick rushed for 210 yards on 24 carries to pace East Hartford offensively while Plenke and Barile chipped in 55 and 42 yards respectively.

Penney in Shutout Over Enfield High

By KEVIN CASEY
Correspondent
Scoring on its first two possessions, Penney High shutout Enfield High, 14-0, in CCIL football action Saturday in East Hartford. It was the league opener for both squads. The Black Knights now stand 2-0 overall with their next clash at home against Manchester Saturday at 1:30. Enfield is 1-1. The Penney received a good break in its first scoring drive. Senior quarterback Rob Percuccio had thrown an apparent interception to Steve Pennecker, who returned it to the Penney 1. But Pennecker was called for pass interference with the Knights operating at the Raider 30. Three plays later, Mark Lewis dashed 20 yards for the TD. Speedy Mark Anderson added the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead. "We made too many mistakes which hurt us today," observed Enfield Coach Joe Barwick. An unsportsmanlike conduct call on Enfield set Penney up in business on its next series on its own 46. Anderson on two carries took Penney out of danger and Lewis did the honors crossing the goal line. Enfield had numerous chances to score but failed. A mishandled punt gave the Raiders the ball on the Penney 21 but four plays failed to give a first down. Two other times the Raiders moved the ball inside the Penney 30 but couldn't dent the Knight defense further. Bob Hetu, Joe DeAngelis, Scott Dubay and sophomore Joe DeLiammo came up big defensively for Penney. "Anderson, Lewis and (Dan) Steiner all ran well today," Penney Coach Ted Kruek cited. Lewis topped all rushers with 73 yards while Steiner and Anderson chipped up 45 and 21 yards respectively. Sophomore fullback Paul Kleef churned out 40 yards.

CPTV To Offer Outlet For Area's Filmmakers

HARTFORD - There are two buzz words that crop up in nearly every conversation about film or video - Hollywood and New York. Although the business of film and television may be centered in these two cities, it doesn't mean that the rest of the country is devoid of talented and capable producers.

Until recently, access to the mass media was often denied to these producers. Independent filmmakers were sometimes dismissed as creating "homemade art." Video artists using small format videotape or videocassettes could not broadcast their works because of equipment incompatibility.

Beginning Wednesday, Oct. 3, Connecticut Public Television will offer a showcase for productions by the state's independent filmmakers and video artists called "Connecticut Screening Room." The program will be shown Mondays and Wednesdays at 10:30 p.m. on Channels 24-Hartford, 49-Bridgeport/Fairfield County, 53-Norwich, 61-Waterbury and 65-New Haven.

"Connecticut Screening Room" premieres with "The Money Tree," Fran McGuire's black and white videotape examination of the Connecticut State Lottery. Focusing on the lottery as a media event, "The Money Tree" explores the appeals and images employed in lottery advertising and promotion, while considering the lottery phenomenon as a reflection of societal attitudes toward status, wealth and the work ethic.

Interviews with grand prize winners are contrasted with a behind-the-scenes look at a lottery television commercial in production, rehearsal and broadcast of the lottery's weekly televised game show, and a "Millionaire" drawing at a local shopping center.

"The Money Tree" was chosen for further information, call 243-4371.
