

Dem Chief Taps Help In Hebron

HEBRON — Joseph Morocco, campaign coordinator for the Democratic candidates in the November election, has named his committee heads.

Jill Stockwell will be in charge of flyers and publicity along with Ron Medeiros, Valery Coates, headquarters; Laurette Lougee, telephoning; Salvatore Mastandrea, platform; Wallace Clebowicz, photographs; and Cynthia Wilson, volunteers.

The Democratic headquarters, located in the Hebron Professional Building, 107 Main St., will be officially opened Friday at 8 p.m. Invited guests include State Representative Aloysius Aarn and Senator David Barry.

Anyone wishing to volunteer to help with the campaign in any way should contact Morocco, 228-0652 or Mrs. Wilson, 228-3008.

Van Fund At $3,504

HEBRON — The Hebron Commission on Aging has learned that a total of $3,504 has accrued in its van account to date and the Rev. William Persing, chairman of the commission, said the account is still open to any residents wishing to make a contribution.

The van is to be bought for use by the senior citizens as well as any handicapped Hebron resident.

First Selectman Aaron Reid told the commission at a recent meeting that it is expected the van will cost $1,776 as opposed to the last projected cost of $5,000. The state has turned over $1,224 toward the cost.

Mrs. Marian Cello, town clerk, who is also municipal agent for the elderly, gave a report to the commission which was prepared by Louise Barry, showing the results of a survey conducted of the town's senior citizens.

The survey shows that of those polled, 18 senior citizens live alone; 94 own their own home; eight rent homes; and the others live with families or friends. Some 100 to 150 persons were polled.

Other questions asked concerned whether or not the persons would be interested in housing and 110 said they would be interested in using it in the future; two said they could use it now, and eight had no comment.

When questioned concerning the use of the proposed van, 49 said they would use it now and 61 said they would plan to use it in the future. Also, of those questioned, 11 said they would have use for a Meals On Wheels Program.

Other things the senior citizens said they would like included a hot line for legal advice, buses for day trips, and a pamphlet on what services are available.

Good News: Only 5.8% Unemployed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate fell to 5.8 percent of the workforce during September, the government reported today, a development that may ease immediate pressure on the administration to shore up the sluggish economy.

The decline from the August level of 6 percent contradicted forecasts that the number of jobless Americans would rise sharply for the rest of the year as the recession, which many economists believe started in the second quarter, began to take hold.

The fresh statistics from the Labor Department also could be viewed as cheering news to President Carter, who has been fighting a losing battle against inflation and has been severely criticized by political opponents and the public over his handling of the economy.

The unemployment rate had hovered in the 5.7 percent for a year until August, when it suddenly jumped to 6 percent. The administration predicted that the rate would climb to 6.6 percent by December.

But the September jobs figures showed that the number of persons with jobs advanced by 410,000 last month to 97.5 million after falling by 310,000 in August.

Virtually all of the over-the-month reduction in the unemployment rate took place among adult women, particularly married women, the Labor Department said.

The unemployment rate for part-time workers dropped slightly while all other categories showed little or no change from August.

Here is a category-by-category breakdown of the unemployment picture over the past three months:

- All workers: 5.8 percent in September, 6 percent in August, 5.7 percent in July.
- Adult men: 4.2 percent in September, 4.1 percent in August, 4.1 percent in July.
- Adult women: 5.5 percent in September, 5.9 percent in August, 5.5 percent in July.
- Whites: 5.1 percent in September, 5.3 percent in August, 4.9 percent in July.
- Blacks and other minorities: 10.6 percent in September, 11 percent in August and 10.8 percent in July.
- Full-time workers: 5.4 percent in September and August and 5.3 percent in July.

The unemployment decline may help to still calls from Capitol Hill for an anti-recession tax cut.

Israel Eyes Settlements

By TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel today set a special Cabinet meeting to decide whether to expropriate 125 acres for the expansion of seven Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank of Jordan.

Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, whose policies toward settling the West Bank have been viewed as moderate, was said by his aides to be ready to vote for seizure of more land.

The decision to call the session came after radical Jewish settlers at two outposts broke through the fences of their compounds and set up makeshift camps on adjacent Arab-owned land to press their demand for more territory. They returned home by midnight Thursday.

No specific date was announced for the Cabinet meeting but a spokesman for Prime Minister Menachem Begin said it would be sometime next week.

Begin met for 40 minutes with two leaders of the National Religious Party, the major coalition partner of the ruling Likud bloc whose constituents make up about 10,000 Jewish settlers in the West Bank.

The NRP favors expanding the settlements.

There was no indication whether Begin pledged his support to the expropriation of more land.

First Columbus, Now the Marines

By United Press International

Christopher Columbus stopped at Guantanamo Bay, on the southeast coast of the island of Cuba, on his second voyage from Europe in 1494.

U.S. Marines first stormed ashore in 1898 to establish a naval base for operations in the war against Spain.

In mid-October, a force of 1,600 to 1,800 modern Marines will repeat the process under different circumstances: the U.S. Navy Base at Guantanamo Bay is firmly established and by all indications will remain the only American military installation in the world on communist territory.

The Marine force, along with a Navy support unit, will carry out a month of muscle-flexing maneuvers in and off Guantanamo as part of President Carter's stepped-up Caribbean power moves in the face of Soviet refusal to remove its combat brigade from Cuba.

Once ashore, the Marines will join a mixed community of more than 5,000 people, including 1,850 Navy personnel, 420 Marines and 3,500 dependents and civilians.

The civilians include about 100 Cubans who work on the base during the day, returning through the barbed-wire barriers each night to nearby Cuban villages; a resident group of several hundred Cuban exiles who came over during the 1962 missile crisis and remained; and a few Jamaicans who work on six-month contracts.

The 17-mile perimeter around the 31-square-mile base and harbor is the residents of the tornado-raked area, adding that many still without electricity were "trying to remove the rubble."

"Their friends and their neighbors are helping. Some of them are still very bewildered by the impact of such tragedy," said Mrs. Grasso, whose personal home in Windsor Locks was about a mile from the hardest-hit area.

The governor, who requested the federal emergency declaration, said he believed nearly 500 people were injured and two killed by the sudden storm and the search for other possible victims would continue.

More than 175 buildings were heavily damaged, many leveled in Windsor, the state's oldest town, and Windsor Locks. Mrs. Grasso estimated damage between $179 million and $250 million.

The governor ordered a curfew continued for a second night and warned her neighbors to be wary of independent insurance adjusters she called "vultures at work."

The death toll hit two Thursday afternoon when state police using search dogs found a woman's body buried beneath rubble in a wooded area. Troopers said it was possible the woman, Carole Dembowski, 42, of Windsor, was blown 150 feet by the strong winds which leveled her home.

State health commissioner Dr. Douglas Lloyd said 142 people remained hospitalized, 10 in critical condition. Mrs. Grasso said state officials believed another 350 were treated and released.

Mrs. Grasso was smiling and joking with her commissioners as she met with reporters to discuss the president's declaration, a stark contrast from the grim expression she wore after touring the damaged area by helicopter at dawn Thursday.

Ford, UAW Set Accord

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers union have reached tentative agreement on a new contract, resolving last-minute problems that almost provoked an unwanted strike.

Ford's 197,000 UAW-represented workers, if they ratify the pact, will receive wage and cost-of-living improvements equal to those won at GM — approximately $10,000 more over the next three years on the average.

The task proved more difficult than expected.

"It took longer than we expected," UAW President Douglas Fraser said after a week of optimism almost vanished in the final hours before a midnight Thursday strike deadline.

Company officials reported "a couple hundred" workers at Ford's Dearborn Assembly Plant in Dearborn, apparently were not notified of the settlement, walked off their jobs at midnight.

The walkouts disrupted production and eventually forced company officials to send 2,000 employees home for one shift.

Since then the base has weathered crises such as the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion by anti-Castro exiles in 1961 and the missile confrontation of 1962.

Everything the base uses has to be brought in — except water, which is supplied by a desalination plant built on a crash basis in 1964 after the Cuban government shut off its supply.

Castro once said there never would be a quick pro quo for removal of Cuban troops from Angola or Africa in exchange for evacuation of Guantanamo.

Windsor Locks Starts To Pick Up the Pieces

By MARK A. DUPUIS

WINDSOR-LOCKS (UPI) — Residents of two communities have begun to pick up the pieces of their lives in the rubble and debris left in the wake of a brief but fierce tornado.

President Carter Thursday declared Windsor and Windsor Locks a federal disaster area, clearing the way for aid to help rebuild the homes and businesses destroyed less than 24 hours before his announcement by the storm's 86 mph winds.

The toll of dead and injured and damage estimates continued to climb as state and federal officials began helping residents with the massive cleanup, police kept an eye out for looters, and insurance adjusters flocked to the scene.

"They are being resourceful and courageous," Gov. Ella Grasso said of the residents of the tornado-raked area, adding that many still without electricity were "trying to remove the rubble."

"Their friends and their neighbors are helping. Some of them are still very bewildered by the impact of such tragedy," said Mrs. Grasso, whose personal home in Windsor Locks was about a mile from the hardest-hit area.

The governor, who requested the federal emergency declaration, said he believed nearly 500 people were injured and two killed by the sudden storm and the search for other possible victims would continue.

More than 175 buildings were heavily damaged, many leveled in Windsor, the state's oldest town, and Windsor Locks. Mrs. Grasso estimated damage between $179 million and $250 million.

The governor ordered a curfew continued for a second night and warned her neighbors to be wary of independent insurance adjusters she called "vultures at work."

The death toll hit two Thursday afternoon when state police using search dogs found a woman's body buried beneath rubble in a wooded area. Troopers said it was possible the woman, Carole Dembowski, 42, of Windsor, was blown 150 feet by the strong winds which leveled her home.

State health commissioner Dr. Douglas Lloyd said 142 people remained hospitalized, 10 in critical condition. Mrs. Grasso said state officials believed another 350 were treated and released.

Mrs. Grasso was smiling and joking with her commissioners as she met with reporters to discuss the president's declaration, a stark contrast from the grim expression she wore after touring the damaged area by helicopter at dawn Thursday.

She said the flight left her "absolutely horrified" at the tragedy that struck "my neighbors, people I've known all my life."

National guardsmen and state police continued to patrol the area to prevent looting and to offer assistance to residents.

The governor ordered an 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew to remain in effect for a second night.

"This area will remain out of bounds to sightseers," she vowed.

State police said eight people were arrested within the damage area, six for curfew violations and two others for disorderly conduct and interfering with police.

Power company crews and chain saws replaced emergency personnel as residents of the area near Connecticut's largest airport — Bradley International — returned to their homes to begin cleanup.

Officials said 65 homes were destroyed and another 75 heavily damaged. An estimated 1,800 people were out of work, and 38 business and public buildings were destroyed or damaged by the storm.

The governor said a fund for donations for the storm's victims was set up at the Northern Connecticut National Bank in Windsor Locks.

The storm formed a funnel cloud only briefly on the Windsor Locks industrial area and the nearby Pequonock section of Windsor. Residents of the area received no warning because it was too close to weather service radar at Bradley International Airport to register.

A unique collection of vintage airplanes at the Bradley Air Museum was destroyed. So were 35 tobacco sheds filled with this year's crop from the Connecticut Valley.

Another 200 National Guardsmen were added Thursday to the 300 already on duty to help clean up the area. The National Guard was hard hit itself, losing 24 of its helicopters — including eight giant Skycopters which had been sent to the state only a few months ago.

"I find that the situation is beyond the capabilities of the state and the affected local governments to effectively alleviate the existing situation," Mrs. Grasso had told Carter in requesting federal aid.

A similar request was sent to the Small Business Administration in Boston. It said initial damage estimates totaled at least $150 million for private facilities and $100 million for public facilities.

Stanley Weinberg, SBA regional head, said "We've anticipated this declaration and as a result of that we've had staff people on the site and applications in the trunk. They now come out of the trunk." He said it will take "a matter of days" to process and approve applications for the loans.

A limited major declaration would include funds for housing the unemployed, limb removal, and a declaration by the SBA, loans to the businesses," Mrs. Grasso said. "We are hoping there will be loans for families and houses as well."

The airport reopened its main runway Thursday morning after power was restored. Workers continued repairing a second runway's navigational equipment, which was apparently struck by lightning during the storm.

Environmental Protection Commissioner Stanley Pae waived all burning restrictions in the towns so people could burn the rubble.

The licenses of 30 restaurants in the area were temporarily suspended since power was out. State officials also ordered several stores to stop selling food until inspectors could test it.

The Choosing of Judges Requires Great Judgment

WASHINGTON — The story of the late U.S. District Judge Willis Ritter, so sad as it is, would be worth telling for mere titillation. Shakespeare notwithstanding, it's the evil men do that is of interest with their bones — and under ordinary circumstances we would see no point in hanging Judge Ritter's dirty laundry out on the line a year after he passed by his uncertain reward.

But Ritter's appointment, confirmation and subsequent outrageous behavior on the bench constitute a textbook example of what can go wrong with the selection process for appointment of the federal judges to their ironclad tenure.

In the coming months, that selection process is going to be given the most serious testing in the history of the republic. Jimmy Carter is appointing, with Senate confirmation, more than 150 new federal judges. They will take up more than a third of the entire federal judiciary. So we hope the Ritter tragedy will be instructive for those who must pass judgment on the candidates for appointment to the bench.

Ritter should never have been appointed a judge, much less confirmed by the U.S. Senate. But he was, and once his weaknesses of character and temperament became obvious — as they did almost immediately — he should have been removed. But unless a federal judge is caught with a smoking gun in his hand standing over a lifeless corpse, there is virtually no way he can be impeached and removed from the bench.

Ritter wielded a gavel instead of a gun, and the prostrate victim of his rage and prejudice was the robbed, blind figure of Justice. In the peculiarly privileged world of the federal judge, that doesn't count.

One big problem with the confirmation process is the reluctance of nominees' professional colleagues to testify against the appointment. They fear reprisal if the candidate is approved and the opponents later have business in his court. That's how it worked in Ritter's case. Our associate Dale Van Atta interviewed many lawyers who supported Ritter's appointment in 1949 — precisely because he was known as a vindictive man with a long memory for real or fancied slights.

Their fears were more than justified. Among those individuals and institutions Ritter became convinced were out to get him were the Mormon Church, the FBI, the Republican Party, the press, federal and state prosecutors and anyone who had testified unfavorably at his secret Senate confirmation hearings.

The FBI's crime, in Ritter's paranoid view, was to investigate him — as it was routinely ordered to do when he was nominated — and to turn up evidence of his unfitness. His bias against the FBI and its agents' testimony was so extreme that the bureau's Salt Lake City office, in self-defense, compiled evidence of the judge's misbehavior to explain to Washington why it was unable to get convictions on solid criminal cases. Wine and women were recurring problems with Ritter, according to Salt Lake City reporter Lynn Packer, who is writing a book on the judge's tempestuous career. Evidence of Ritter's flagrant boozing and wenching was brought out at the 1949 confirmation hearings and in subsequent complaints, all to no avail.

In 1951, Ritter was kicked out of a judicial seminar in Colorado Springs for drunken misbehavior. In 1953 he was booted out of the University Club of Utah because of his excessive drinking and rowdiness. Marathons drinking bouts with cronies occurred regularly in his chambers in the federal courthouse.

Ritter's squalid extra-marital affairs, which usually took the form of office romances, eventually led his wife to divorce him. The judge's characteristic response was to harbor resentment from then on against the attorney who had been courageous enough to represent Mrs. Ritter.

The judge's capricious tyranny on the bench finally led to an unprecedented petition by federal and state prosecutors to the U.S. Court of Appeals. They asked that Ritter be disqualified from presiding at any trial involving either federal or state governments, because of his obvious prejudice against the prosecution. This would have left Ritter with virtually nothing to do except draw salary since few federal court cases do not involve state or federal government.

Board Fill Posts, Votes MEG Pact

MANCHESTER — The Board of Directors Tuesday night made appointments and approved a new three-year contract with the 63-member Municipal Employees Group.

The board appointed a Republican representative to the CROC Regional Forum. Frank Lupien of 21 Sunset St. will serve. Lupien has regularly attended municipal meetings and been a frequent critic of municipal and regional governments. He was one of the leaders of Concerned Citizens for Manchester's Development, a conservative group which campaigned for the town's withdrawal from the federal Community Development Act program.

The board also voted to appoint two Republicans to the Human Relations Commission to fill vacancies. Wanda Frank of Sunnybrook Street will serve until November 1979 and Louis Kocis of St. John Street will serve until November 1981. The commission had had problems getting a quorum without the two openings being filled.

At the urging of Director Elizabeth Intagliata the board voted to meet with the Human Relations Commission of their affirmative action plan before the board's regularly scheduled meeting on Tuesday. Intagliata said even though this board will not be meeting much longer, the commission had asked for a hearing long ago, and she felt the board owed the commission a response.

The Municipal Employees Group contract, reached through collective bargaining, was approved. It gives the employees a six percent pay increase in each year of the three-year pact.

Betty Tighe, president of the union, said the talks for the present contract were difficult because the union wanted restoration of previous contract provisions for sick-time. The town did not want to return to the previous contract language.

Mayor Penny, after the vote approving the contract, told Town Manager Robert Weiss. "Your office is often criticized by I think it is clear that when you get involved in these matters, action is accomplished. I'd like to thank you for your ... imagination ... in getting the issue resolved."

Weiss added humorously it was his "charm" that resolved contract disputes.

Don Graff The Press Prepares

In last year's celebrated confrontation between The New York Times and a New Jersey court demanding surrender of a reporter's notes pertaining to a murder case, the Times paid a total of $285,000 in civil and criminal contempt fines alone.

Attorney fees and other legal costs raised to much more the total bill for the case, which ended when the contempt citation was suspended without the defendant's acquittal.

The Times, however, gave ever indication of being prepared in what was widely regarded as a critical test of First Amendment press rights to contest the issue — and go on paying — indefinitely. And there is no question that as one of the most well-heeled media operations, it could afford to do so for some time at least.

But questions were raised at the time as to the consequences for a smaller newspaper finding itself in a similar situation. Incapable of sustaining such a financial penalty, its alternatives would be to forego principle and comply with a questionable constitutional court request or go under itself.

The press, or precisely the American Newspaper Publishers Association, is now moving to answer that question. It is establishing an insurance program to assist individual newspapers in meeting the legal costs of First Amendment cases.

Under the projected plan, coverage would be provided up to a maximum of $1 million per case, a significant

Who Says Politics, Arsenals Don't Mix?

LAURENCE MCQUILLAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fidel Castro blames Jimmy Carter for the latest struggle between the United States and the Soviet Union over Cuba. He says it was a manufactured crisis — and on that point, the White House tends to agree.

Inside the corridors of power in the White House, there is some verbal finger pointing going on, not at Havana, but at Capitol Hill and Sen. Frank Church in particular.

On Aug. 30, in Boise, Idaho, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told reporters that latest intelligence reports had discovered the presence of Russian combat troops in Cuba.

Church's revelation created an uproar that Carter hopes will culminate with the steps he ordered to counter the Soviet brigade.

"Church is up for re-election and he needs to look tough back home," said one member of the administration.

"He sets up this damn minefield and then makes us walk through it, even if it costs us SALT," Washington and Moscow disagree on the status of the 2,000-to-3,000-man unit. American intelligence found it to be a combat brigade, but the Soviets insist it serves merely to train Cuban soldiers.

Church, in his speech, said he was convinced of the combat nature of the contingent, but was satisfied that his response adequately handled the situation. He ordered stepped up surveillance in the region and shifts in U.S. military deployment.

A high-level member of the White House staff defended the president's handling of the affair — a response which lacked the macho maneuvers of other administrations.

"Look, this situation is like the Berlin Wall," between East and West Germany, he said. "We don't like that either, but we aren't about to go over it."

Ratification of the strategic arms limitation treaty has been linked to the Soviet troops stationed on the Caribbean island, and Carter is offering his solution will satisfy congressional qualms.

"We've been saying it all along. There's no threat to us. This isn't a missile crisis," the official said.

Castro, in an interview with CBS-TV, said the October 1962 confrontation "was a real crisis. This is an invented crisis. The October crisis could have been a tragedy. This is a comedy."

"This was a serious provocation. I didn't make it one. The Russians made it one," Church said.

"I hope to salvage the SALT treaty," said Church, who has refused to let his Senate committee act on the agreement until the Cuban issue was resolved.

When Carter told the nation that "politics and nuclear arsenals do not mix," he may have been voicing more of a wish than a statement of fact.

Thoughts

The little grain of wheat produces abundantly only after it surrenders its identity by dying to the earth. This seems to tell us that if we are to be effective in our pursuits for perfection we must be willing to surrender our own comfort and plans and selfish purposes and become interested in the comfort and well-being of others. In this way, we become "big" by radiating the fruits of God's Spirit to others.

Often we fail to adapt ourselves to the needs of others. If they are cheerful why should we not be cheerful? If they are sad should we not be

The Lighter Side Woodchuck Would Chuck Whole Thing

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All over the country, in areas where winter temperatures drop below the 65-degree thermostat setting recommended by President Carter, people are trying to beat the high cost of heating fuel by installing wood-burning stoves.

I can see it all now: HELSINKI, FINLAND — Member of OPEC, the Organization of Firewood Exporting Countries, voted today to raise prices by $12.78 a cord, far more than expected.

It was the third OPEC price boost this year and brought the overall increase for the past 12 months to $38.06.

Oliver Swenlogg, Sweden's firewood minister who is regarded as a moderate, sought to hold the hike to $7.51.

He argued that the large increase, demanded by such heavily wooded countries as Finland and Nigeria, would cause economic hardships in many areas, particularly those above timber line.

After being voted down, Swenlogg promised that Sweden would continue splitting firewood at present rates until next spring, thus helping stabilize the supply situation.

CROSSCUT, Va. — American

firewood dealers say the latest OPEC price increase will mean a jump in U.S. prices of about $15.29 a pickup load, delivered and stacked today to raise prices by $12.78 a cord, far more than expected.

A spokesman for the Pickup Truck Wood Haulers Association, the industry's chief lobbying group, predicted prices would rise to more than $100 a load, depending on whether it was "old" wood or "new" wood.

As defined by Congress, "old" wood comes from trees planted before 1970. The definition of "new" wood is too complicated to explain.

The United States currently imports about 46 percent of the cordwood burned in fireplaces, stoves and other heating devices. Various programs to make American less dependent on foreign firewood have encountered strong inertia and some active opposition.

Owners of major league ballparks, for example, objected to plans for planting trees in the outfield. They

HIGH SCHOOL WORLD

Seniors Advise Better Choices

A committee of impartial observers will be at MHS this year to evaluate the school for accreditation purposes. This watchdog crew will base their findings on such diverse factors as the student-faculty ratio, physical condition of the school, adequacy of facilities, disciplinary problems, and a general spirit and atmosphere. The evaluators will also look into the content of courses offered at MHS.

There they will find a most intriguing paradox: coexisting besides the usual high school "guts" are some of the most challenging courses to be found at any high school in the country. Many seniors have discovered this the hard way, and therein lies the topic of this article. Manchester High School is often mentioned as an example of a "good" high school. We have our weaknesses, as does every school, but in every sort of competition, MHS never fails to distinguish itself. It is in fact a natural result of doing too much at once, that is balancing academic life with social life, a job, and the most challenging courses to be found at any high school in the country. Many seniors have discovered this the hard way, and therein lies the topic of this article. Manchester High School is often mentioned as an example of a "good" high school. Seniors remember that cruel and unusual punishment is forbidden in the U.S. Constitution. The rest of them then decide that enough is enough, and trudge down to their guidance counselor in search of the coveted "pink slip," allowing them to exit gracefully from an unwanted class. This episode, which has reached almost epidemic proportions, seems to be an early symptom of the "senioritis" that plagues every high school in the country.

Seniors Get Accolades For Scores

Nineteen Manchester High School seniors were awarded letters of commendation by the twenty-fifth annual National Merit Scholarship Program on Tuesday for their outstanding performance on the PSAT/NMSQT, the qualifying test for the Merit Program that was administered nationwide to high school juniors in October 1978.

A spokesman for NMSCT, which conducts the Merit Program, stated that "the high performance is required to be designated a Commended Student in the Merit Program is an attainment deserving of public recognition. The national as well as each of these students will be benefited by the continued educational and personal development of their talents." Manchester High School is very proud of our nineteen commended students and three semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

Senior Citizens At MHS

Some time ago, Mrs. Kelson, a teacher at Manchester High School, heard that Senior Citizens were taking day classes at another school in Connecticut. Mrs. Kelson looked into the matter and thought that it would be a great idea for MHS.

When the idea came across vice principal Mrs. Wiggins' desk at MHS, she liked the idea, also. Consequently she drew up some general and specific guidelines to submit to the Board of Education. After everything was approved, she got in touch with the local Senior Citizens Center where registration was conducted on a first come, first served basis. Besides being advertised at the Senior Citizens Center, articles were also put in the Manchester Evening Herald. It was decided classes would not start until after the new MHS school year began, to make sure that all regular students were in the courses they wanted.

One of the basic objectives in this program is to get the community more involved with MHS, so that we can establish better communications between students, local residents, school administrators, and faculty. Specifically, the program will enable senior citizens who cannot take classes at night to take them during the day. As an MHS student you are probably thinking "Okay, what's in this for me?" All I can say is that you have to meet some of these "new" students to find out. They are wonderful people who would love to talk to you. At the beginning of the program, we had five senior citizens taking classes in the Fine Arts Department. Since then, one man has dropped out. His teacher, Ms. Glastier said he did not really like being two weeks behind the other students. But the other four senior citizens are doing very well. They are getting along with their teachers and the other students admirably. Mrs. Kelson said "It is often easier for teenagers to talk with someone their parents' age."

Game Teaches Cooperation

Did you know that China was invaded by the Soviet Union this week? Or that Turkey invaded Iraq at the same time? Were you aware that a certain country, which will remain anonymous, is intent on training kangaroo commandos to carry bombs in their pouches over the border? Or that Quebec has just voted to secede from Canada? Or that Mexico recently changed its government to a one-house parliament, complete with a Prime Minister?

If you weren't aware of these facts, you'd better open your eyes. No, you can't learn about these happenings in Time or Newsweek. The only way to do it is to talk to Mr. Vitale or check out the hall in front of the Computer Programming room. You see, the world is circulating around this tiny room. This is Brinkmanship Headquarters.

Brinkmanship is a new division of the Simulations Game Club. The dictionary defines this word as "the practice of pushing a dangerous situation to the limit of safety before stopping." The club's adviser, Mr. Vitale, first played this game when he was a senior in high school. He has renewed it at MHS because he feels it is a unique opportunity to learn not only about politics and world affairs, but to observe human nature. Brinkmanship has thirty members (two of which are girls), and each member is in control of a country. Each country has an army, a navy, an air force, and (in some cases) a defense force—all of varying numbers. Every leader knows his country's Gross National Product (GNP) and its Efficiency Rating, which is a rating of the country's ability to do things effectively. A certain amount of the GNP must be extended on military and domestics and each turn to avoid international dissension. One full turn takes a week, which is comparable to a month in real-world time. The players receive their GNP's every week, and they must decide what they wish to do with it. Part of the money, of course, must be spent on the military and on domestics. The rest can be invested in trade, an activity which the benefits all involved. Or, it can be spent trying to use present technology more efficiently. New technology (weapons, medicine, space exploration etc.) can also be developed. Espionage is another alternative. Spies can be sent into other countries to discover secrets, influence policy, and create dissent. Most players spend their country's GNP on increasing the military. The weekly income can also be banked. Many of the smaller, poorer countries tend to have their money, since their GNP is so small. Everything, unfulfilled promises, and endless afternoons with nothing to do, another club is emerging and announcing its candidacy. This club is the American Field Service. While it too has its share of campaign slogans and promises, the difference is that they will be fulfilled. AFS is an international exchange program. By being a member of AFS you will indeed meet new people, make new friends, and above all have fun.

Fest to Begin

The upcoming month marks the Oktoberfest in Germany. This fest is being thought of in Munich, West Germany. It consists of entertainment, music, food, beer, and high spirits. The Oktoberfest is the German equivalent of the New Orleans Mardi Gras.

The German club of Manchester High is celebrating the event on November 2, at Illing Junior High School. The entertainment will include the play, "The Pied Piper," folk dancing, and German singing. A typical German dinner will be served at this fest. Tickets are $3.00 and two semester exams to go. For some strange reason, partridges in pear trees are coming to mind.

High School Happenings

Today marks exactly the half-way point of the first quarter. That's one eighth of the school year tucked under our belts. Only seven-eighths, five vacations, four report cards, and two semester exams to go. For some strange reason, partridges in pear trees are coming to mind.

New Hope Given Grant

MANCHESTER — The Hartford Foundation for Public Giving has reportedly given a $17,915 grant for capital improvements to New Hope Manor, a local drug rehabilitation center for teen-age girls. Joanne Stowell, administrative director at the 48 Hartford Road facility, said renovations will begin this fall. New Hope Manor, which occupies a former Geyer mansion, has the capacity to serve 15 girls who have a history of drug or alcohol abuse.

4-H Program Tonight

HEBRON — Local 4-H'ers and their families will attend an Achievement Night, tonight at 7:30 in the Hebron Elementary School, Church Street. The program will be sponsored by the Hebron 4-H Town Committee and will consist of a presentation on record-keeping by Janet Abt, county 4-H agent. Club reports will be given and awards presented. Those attending the program are asked to bring a dessert to share. Premium money from the Aug. 4-H Fair will also be awarded tonight. Before the program, from 7 to 7:30 p.m., an information session will be conducted on the 4-H program.

Area Police Report

Vernon - Vernon Police are investigating the complaint report of Craig Fowler, manager of the Red Apple Market in the Northeast Shopping Center, that he was hit on the head and robbed as he was going to his car after closing the market late Wednesday night. Fowler, who lives in Enfield, was treated for the head injury at Rockville General Hospital. Police said the assailant was described as being in his early 20's, of medium size, and wearing a black ski mask. Fowler said no weapon was seen. Fowler said his loss was less than $50.

Fuel Reserves Sought - NORWICH (UPI) — Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., has called for the establishment of a state-owned and operated fuel oil reserve and distribution program. That's Entertainment Let's Hear It For TV Season

By ALLEN M. WIDEM

So, the new television season (let's hear it for ABC, CBS, and NBC!) is open and, so, there's not much that's really new and fresh and exciting on the home screen, says the detractor, while the television buff (and you betcha, Buster, there is a TV buff just about everywhere nowadays!) steadfastly defends what has premiered as seeking to bridge the gap between ho-hum and hey-hey!

The creative ranks - and this is applicable to theatre and motion pictures as well as to television - never state out to come up with ho-hum entertainment. Many a little theatre thespian, in Manchester and elsewhere, can cite chapter-and-verse on what it takes, what it really takes, to come up with admirable, arresting quality.

But - and it's a formidable but! - between story-line development and premiere, television, theatre, motion pictures, whatever, a lot can happen. And, unfortunately, usually does - to the point where what is anticipated to be a smasher often wins down to also ran.

Taking the TV series concept back home, back to the time when MGM (Rear Window) dated on such as the life and times of Andy Hardy. In its own way, and in its era, the Andy Hardy character is delightfully delineated by Mickey Rooney, who gave a lot of folks a lot of laughs, some heart-tugs. This was the all-American boy in the all-American town, doing the all-American boy in the all-American town liked doing.

The years zipped along. Enter the television era, with its dotting on situation comedy, something like Andy Hardy, and yet very much with it, circa 1950.

Lucille Ball, who had made her mark in film, catapulted to stardom. Jackie Gleason, Milton Berle became household words. Raymond Burr became Perry Mason. Fred MacMurray was the proud dad of "My Three Sons." John Forsythe became "Bachelor Father." Plus, plus, perhaps, but, distinctively, played out with professionalism of the kind that gave MGM's Andy Hardy era distinctiveness, too.

Theater 'Long Way to Boston' Top-Drawer Musical

By JOSEPH SULLIVAN

Does the mother run and finish the Boston Marathon? It is well worth going to the lovely town of East Haddam to find out the answer. Since the rededication of the Goodspeed in 1963, it has become the only theater in America dedicated to the preservation of the heritage of the American musical and the development of new works.

The musicals first presented at the Goodspeed Opera House, seven have gone on to Broadway: Man of La Mancha, 1966; Shenandoah, 1974; Very Good Eddie, 1975; Something's Afoot and Going Up, 1976; Annie, 1977 and Whoopie, 1978.

It will pay the theater goer to leave a little early to enjoy dining at the Gelston House, completed in 1859.

Because of limited seating capacity, reservations are a must and may be made by calling the box office at 873-8664.

Indian Ballet

Indian dancer Padmini and her dance troupe will perform the classical Indian ballet "Shakuntala" Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Hartford Insurance Group auditorium, 690 Asylum Ave., Hartford. For information call 233-5684 or 827-7280.

'The Legacy Lacks Suspense

By LANEY ZUBOFF

If you have a zest for suspense but are particular about an unusual punch line then you might want to pass up "The Legacy."

The film, produced by David Foster and directed by Richard Marquand left one viewer asking, after the first twenty minutes, "Is this supposed to be scary?"

We begin with a young couple, Margaret, played by Katharine Ross and Peter, played by Sam Elliot, who wind up in an English countryside stucco in a mansion that is loaded down with objects and antiques epitomizing the tried-for eerie effect.

All the characters staffing the mansion are very much evident - should listen to the TV buffs, not to the politeness, as out of the need to observe the protocol of good manners and constant courtesy in the atmosphere of what is one of the most demanding endeavors in civilized world - the development of a TV show.

Only through experimentation, in story-line, story-style, can television be expected to expand its sights. And some of the shows one's seeing these autumn evenings can be, in all due consideration, labeled experimental in tone, tempo.

Symphony Series To Open

HARTFORD - With a diverse program and guest soloist Ani Kavafian, Music Director Arthur Winograd and the Hartford Symphony Orchestra open Hartford's 36th season of exciting symphony performances on Wednesday, Oct. 17, at 8:15 p.m. at Bushnell Memorial Hall.

The opening night program begins with Copland's spirited "El Salon Mexico," a piece based on popular Mexican melodies. In his first appearance with the Hartford Symphony since February of 1977, violinist Ani Kavafian will perform Prokofiev's "Violin Concerto No. 2."

Concluding the first concert will be Rachmaninoff's "Symphony No. 2."

Hartford Symphony subscribers are invited to attend a gala opening night reception at the Old State House immediately following the concert. Winograd and Miss Kavafian will greet guests at the reception. Free parking will be available on the fifth level of the Traveler's Parking Facility off Prospect Street.

Tickets for the opening night concert are available at the Bushnell Box Office, 246-6807.

ENTERTAINMENT IN OUR LOUNGE NIGHTLY

Acting Veteran Has Lead In Coachlight 'Showboat'

EAST WINDSOR - Robert Nichols, an acting veteran of more than 50 films and 200 television shows, has the starring role in the Broadway musical comedy, "Showboat," now being presented at the Coachlight Diner Theatre.

In the production with music by Jerome Kern and lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II, Nichols plays the role of Cap'n Andy, skipper of the Cotton Blossom.

Nichols, who was seen most recently in the area in "Hit the Deck" at the Goodspeed Opera House, has worked with such notables as Lee Taylor, Cary Grant and Marilyn Monroe in films like "Giant," "The Thing," and "The Red Badge of Courage." He has also starred in seven London theatrical productions including "Bye, Bye Birdie" and "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

"Showboat" is the story of the Mississippi and Cap'n Andy's Cotton Blossom and brings such memorable songs as "Only Make Believe," "Old Man River," "Bill," and "Can't Help Lovin' That Man."

The 18-member cast is directed, staged and costumed by Broadway's David Guthrie. Choreography is by Connie Shafer with musical direction by Douglas Reed.

"Showboat" is playing now through Dec. 2.

'Children of the Future' At Bridgeport Museum

BRIDGEPORT - The Museum of Art, Science and Industry, will have a Sunday program entitled "Children of the Future," Oct. 9, 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the museum.

It is an all-day event which features workshops and activities connected both with the future and with space and flight. There will be free films, bubble making, puppets and natural foods, among other activities.

The event, which is co-sponsored by the Fairfield Children's Museum, affiliated with Fairfield University, is being held in conjunction with a space-flight exhibit presented by Sikorsky, Perkin-Elmer and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Workshops will be held in the morning from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and afternoon from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

For further information call 372-3321.

Hartford Art School

HARTFORD - The internationally known artist, Ami Albers, will exhibit her work at the University of Hartford in the Hartford Art School's Josefoff Gallery from Oct. 3 to Oct. 26.

Little Cindy Arico In Fast Company

By LEN AUSTER

She's been running in fast company ever since she began her scholastic career. She was 11th best in the state as a freshman and seventh best a year ago despite being hampered by strep throat and a temperature.

If you have the heart of a Las Vegas gambler, and figures 11 and 7 a lucky combination, though, you might bet this is going to be Penny High's Cindy Arico's year.

The diminutive 5-foot-1 1/2, 100-pound junior has run five times in the current campaign and has already made an impression. She has set three course records at three sites, captured individual honors at the Farmington Girls' Cross Country Invitational, and beaten two of her best nemesis, rivals she had not surpassed in previous attempts.

She, in the pre-season, also set the course record at Mohawk Valley High in Massachusetts which the Bay States' coach is going to officially recognize.

But the one person not impressed by the silky blonde-haired Arico is Arico herself. What has she gained confidence-wise in being three-time Class I champ Sue Hoagland of St. Bernard and defending Class M titlist Mary Cobb of Northwest Catholic?

"Nothing," frankly responded the interviewee. "They weren't in such great shape. Maybe it was a case that I'm in better shape now. I know they'll be ready and I'm going to have to get better."

Arico is improving views Penny Coach Dick Brimley. "She's come on late in the season. She's getting better," he states.

Brimley already this year more than once has stated, "Cindy is in the best shape of her career." That wasn't the situation a year ago.

"The summer before last year's cross country season she had a cyst on her knee, the heeled Black Knight coach reflects. "The knee bothered her every day last year and had to be reed daily. That was standard procedure. That hampered her although she still did very well."

Arico in '78 repeated her fourth place finish in the Class I Meet along with her seventh placement in the open despite the fever and infection. She was off to a slow start in last year's track season and that raised further concern.

"I am pleased with my progress but hope I get better." Arico is improving views Penny Coach Dick Brimley. "She's come on late in the season. She's getting better," he states.

"The summer before last year's cross country season she had a cyst on her knee, the heeled Black Knight coach reflects. "The knee bothered her every day last year and had to be reed daily. That was standard procedure. That hampered her although she still did very well."

Arico in '78 repeated her fourth place finish in the Class I Meet along with her seventh placement in the open despite the fever and infection. She was off to a slow start in last year's track season and that raised further concern.

"I am pleased with my progress but hope I get better." Arico is improving views Penny Coach Dick Brimley. "She's come on late in the season. She's getting better," he states.

DeNicolo Sets Record

Climaxing what has been a most productive season, Ralph DeNicolo established a record 18-hole round at the Manchester Country Club yesterday when he carried an eight under par 32-32-64 score. The head local club pro had shared the record with Bill King, Wayne Levi and Paul Ryz. All were credited with 68 scores.

Midget Tilts

Two teams with opposite records, Patriots (2-0) and the Eagles (0-2) collide tonight in the first half of the Manchester Midget Football League doubleheader at Mt. Nebo starting at 6:30.

Hornets Face Tribe, East Hosts Northwest

By LEN AUSTER

There will be plusses in the East Catholic line-up, minus in the East Hartford High picture and sameness for Manchester High for Saturday's football action.

The Hornets and Indians collide in East Hartford at 1:30 in a CCIL encounter. East Hartford, 1-0 in the league and 1-1 overall, is coming off a 3-0 stalemate with Simsbury.

Manchester, 1-1 in the league and overall, is looking to bounce back from the 0-0 setback to Penney. East Catholic, meanwhile, is again under the arc-lamps at Mt. Nebo at 7:30 as the Eagles make their Hartford County Conference (HCC) debut against Northwest Catholic. East is 2-1 coming off a 20-0 whitewashing of Windsor Locks while Northwest, 1-2, was stumped in an upset, 13-0, by Windsor.

Elsewhere in the area, unbeaten CCIL leader Penney High, 3-0 overall, visits 1-1 Conard High in West Hartford, 1-2 and Glastonbury High travels to visit scoresless 0-3 Windsor Locks for a CVC engagement. Also, 1-0, 2-1 South Windsor High takes a tougher act at hosts unbeaten 2-0 Newington High and 1-1 Rockville High enters 1-2 Bloomfield High in other Central Valley Conference clashes.

East Hartford battled bigger, stronger Simsbury to the scoreless draw but paid the price. "We took a lot of bumps last week and a couple of people will be out," informed Hornet Coach Jim Dakin. "We'll want to regroup with what we have and try to make sure we're together," he added, declining to name the possible absent regulars.

Manchester is healthy, reports Coach Jack Holik, but where the Indians have been sticky in yards penalized. The Silk Towners have seen yellow flags 26 times for 266 yards. That's an area which definitely needs improvement. And, as Holik repeats every week, "we have to get off the ball."

"We got beat up front," Holik referred to last week's events. "East Hartford is not as big (as Penney) but we hear they're nasty. And it's always been a spirited game."

"We expect them to hit well and we have the reputation as being hitters," echoed Dakin.

Manchester relies on the running of Tom McCusker, who has rushed for 343 yards, only 59 a week ago, while Scott Chadwick has been the major ball-carrier for the Hornets.

East Catholic Coach Joda Kelly reports "we're getting stronger" with the reacquisition of three starters. Five-foot-10, 160-pound outside linebacker Sean Byrne and 5-foot-9, 170-pound running back Joe Tebecio, both seniors, return after missing three games while 6-foot-1, 200-pound co-captain John Kassar is back after a one-game loss due to an elbow infection.

Tebecio, who joins gifted Mike Freihelt as a pass-catching threat, will alternate with Emilio Gilbertero at one halfback slot while Kassar, besides working at offensive tackle, will name service at defensive end. Greg Kane, a 170-pounder, moves from linebacker to end to allow room for Byrne, who is highly considered by Kelly.

"The defense has allowed only 18 points," corrected Kelly, noting a six-pointer was yielded on a blocked punt. "I has shown a lot of character."

"We've had to make some changes which I don't like to do but we have to have the best people in the game. We're now starting to settle into positions."

The first-year Eagle coach, who will be opposed by another first-year mentor in Don Brewer, believes the West Hartford-based invaders will be "very up for the game," but states his gridders are "very excited," too.

"They realize all of the teams in the league are good ones," he adds. Mike Gilbertero, with 255 yards rushing and 4 TDs, and Freihelt, with 14 grabs for 169 yards and 3 TDs and 13 passes for at least one spectacular catch a game, are East's statistical offensive leaders.

Stuella 141. Dave Barrera 136, Chuck Barrera 139, Walt Vikielitz 133-389, Harvey Johnson 135-375-Jim Cochran 34. Chubb Montefiore 364. Tom O'Connor 405. Bob Magnano 447.

HOME ENGINEERS Shirley Eldridge 194-483, Bonnie Lowell 179-01546, Laurie Dumont 187-456, Migdet Bergeron 179-475, Linda Corbett 184-477, Jennie Leggett 472, Chris Sullivan 462, Barbara Higley 452, Hilbur Zawistowski 469.

Fall Hunt For Wild Foods

Have you ever flavored food with wild seasonings that you gathered yourself? Or made jelly from wild fruit? If not, you've missed a taste treat, and overlooked a great opportunity to enjoy being outdoors.

The outdoor recreation staff at Mercury outdoors suggests that a family hunting cruise this Fall can be turned into a hunt for such things as walnuts, persimmons, Fall mushrooms, hickory nuts, spicebush berries and many other delicious wild foods.

Walnuts and hickory nuts are easily recognized. Since walnut trees shed their leaves early in Fall, the tall, stark branches, many loaded with nuts, stand out in the forest. Walnut trees prefer the rich, dark soil typical in river bottoms.

Hickory nuts, on the other hand, grow on hillsides where they intermingle with persimmon trees. Both plants produce excellent foods, and are often seen along the shores of man-made impoundments. Persimmons should be picked after the first frost, otherwise they have a puckery, bitter taste. They can be eaten as they come from the tree, or sugared and put into a refrigerator for several days to sweeten.

The spicebush is a small shrub that grows from Maine south to Florida and west to Texas. Best sites are damp forests and along the banks of streams and lakes. A spicebush can be recognized in the Fall by its oval-shaped red berries, and smooth, green stems which have a strong camphor smell.

To use the berries, harvest and place them in a sunny spot to dry. Then put them in a pepper mill and grind as a spice over moist foods. These are just a few of the many wild foods you can find and enjoy. Check a local library for guide books to others. Wild food hunting is a family fun activity that will extend your boating season this Fall.

ATTIC INSULATION IS IMPORTANT

Insulation has a year round job in your homes' attic.

The purpose of insulation materials are to restrict the flow of heat. During the cold months, insulation helps to keep the home warm by cutting down on heat loss. It is also very effective during the warm summer months in keeping the hot air out of air-conditioned homes.

With the cost of energy becoming more expensive, every bit of energy that can be saved adds up.

By insulating your attic spaces, your home should be insulated to achieve the greatest thermal efficiency and the best return on your investment.

Check your attic insulation. If, in measuring the present thickness of insulation with a ruler you find less than 6 inches, you should consider adding to it. In most areas of the country, 12 inches of fiberglass insulation is desirable and provides an excellent return. To determine the optimum insulation recommendations for homes in this section of the country simply check a map to find the zone in which you are located. Then there is a chart to refer to, to determine the corresponding R-values. (resistance to heat flow).

To determine how much insulation is needed, measure the length & width of the attic; then measure the distance between joists. From these figures, your building supply dealer can determine the amount of insulation you'll need.

Buy only non-combustible insulation and to make sure the product carries the NAHB Research Foundation label. This label assures that the insulation has been tested and meets the thermal performance ratings.

DEAR ABBY: Our 25-year-old daughter (I'll call her Ruth) is coming home to visit and wants to bring her girlfriend. Last year Ruth told us that she is a lesbian. We are stuck about it, and are praying it won't last.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter in your column from SISTER to her brother concerning their mother. SISTER said her brother wanted to put their invalid mother in a home 10 years ago, but she wouldn't do it, then she goes on to list the hardships she's endured caring for their mother all these years.

Win at bridge

South blows extra chance

South played two rounds of trumps, ruffed his last heart and lost a finesse. West led back a diamond. South got one useless club discard from dummy on his good diamonds, but finally lost the club finesse and the game.
