SOUTH WINDSOR — Republican Councilman Richard Ryan has predicted that a Republican majority on the town council will produce another tax cut. An expected increase in the taxable grand list of approximately $10 million combined with a proven Republican ability to keep a tight rein on expenses will mean even lower taxes next year, Ryan said.

Ryan cited the recent attraction of Capitol Tire, and such diversified companies as Kurzman Sheet Metal, Automotive Research and Electro

Sills Reports Board Cancels Meeting On Hebron School Roof

SOUTH WINDSOR — Independent Town Council candidate Robert Sills has listed campaign committee assets of $1,235, according to town records.

Sills is the only one of 23 candidates for the Board of Education and Town Council who has listed campaign contributions of more than $500. All other candidates filed statements stating that none of them received contributions or spent more than $500. Sills has spent $508.31 to date, according to the report.

Top contributors to the Sills campaign are Fred and Mariel Maher, 660 Main Street, each $100; William Mitchell, 90 Brookfield Street, $150; Joseph Krawski, 178 Foster Street, $100; Earl Reicle, 244 Abby Road, $100; and Ernest Reicle, 440 Denning Street, $100.

Tarr Eyes Emergency Plans

SOUTH WINDSOR — "South Windsor should take an in-depth look at the support it is giving its protective services," Democratic Town Council candidate Sherman Tarr said. Tarr also suggests that the town conduct annual disaster drills and set up a plan to deal with a possible airplane crash within town borders.

The aim of the review, and the drills, Tarr said, would be to make sure that emergency services are readily and quickly implemented, that there is sufficient coordination not only within South Windsor but with area police, fire, civil defense and public works services as well, and that equipment, facilities and training are adequate.

"I know that I was not alone," Tarr commented, "in reacting to the tornado tragedy in Windsor and Windsor Locks by asking what would have happened if South Windsor had been hit instead? Town officials obviously reacted the same way, because the day after the tornado, they acted on a previous request and decided to set up a Civil Defense Emergency Operations Center in the basement of Town Hall. I understand it should be in operation in a few months."

"This was a timely decision," Tarr continued, "because without such a center, South Windsor's four-volume disaster plan cannot be fully implemented. Civil Defense officials

BOSTON — A panel of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston Thursday, Treasury Secretary G. William Miller forecast a "moderate recession of moderate duration" and said President Carter is committed to his inflation-fighting policy.

Washington: Americans withdrew $20 million more than they deposited at the nation's savings and loan associations last month, a development which will severely impact on the housing industry in coming months, it was announced Thursday.

Economy Growth Reverses Slump

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reversing a slump which began in April, the economy turned around in the July-September quarter and grew a surprising 2.4 percent, the Commerce Department reported today.

Most economists had expected an increase — though a considerably smaller one — and almost all of them have been saying a small gain would mean the country is still in or near a recession.

The figure reported by the Commerce Department shows the amount the Gross National Product — all goods and services produced by the nation — grew 2.4 percent in the July-September third quarter after adjusting for inflation.

It followed a 2.3 percent decline in the April-June quarter, which was widely interpreted as the start of a recession.

The new figures also showed inflation — as measured by the GNP — increased only 8.4 percent during July-September, the smallest rise since the third quarter of 1978.

But another government inflation index, designed to measure price increases throughout the economy, showed a 8.6 percent increase in the third quarter compared to 9.5 percent in the second. Both these indexes have been running below the consumer price index, which has been rising at an annual rate of 13 percent.

And there was little comfort in another part of the report. It showed that the amount of income Americans have left over per capita after taxes and after accounting for inflation declined a half percent.

The Bank of America's economists had predicted a 1.0 percent third-quarter increase. Charles E. Jones, chief economist of the Economics Associates, a leading

Kennedy Erases Doubts over Run

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Any doubt that Edward Kennedy is a presidential candidate are being wiped out: Sources say the Massachusetts Democrat is passing the word he will run for the White House.

Moreover, Kennedy confirmed Thursday that a campaign committee will be formed, and other sources reported Kennedy will win his first endorsement by a governor today — from Gov. Joseph Brennan of Maine.

Kennedy, through press secretary Tom Southwick, announced plans for a "Kennedy for President" committee — technically an exploratory body under election law.

Then a source close to Kennedy's campaign committee, expected to be headed by the senator's brother-in-law Stephen Smith, will be an exploratory group to coordinate strategy.

Town and Eighth District Back Sewer Pact Changes

MANCHESTER — Officials from the Eighth District and the Town gave support to a South Windsor-amended sewer agreement Thursday night.

Once some language changes are made by attorneys, the action clears the way for the Eighth District to become a party to the agreement which permits sewer flow across the town boundaries.

The Eighth Utilities District had objected to language which perceives the Town of Manchester as owner of the sewage treatment plant on Olcott Street. The wording is expected to be changed to simply indicate a "treatment plant located in the Town of Manchester," according to District President Gordon Lassow, and eliminate any possible mention of ownership.

The weary directors, who had just finished hearing reports on the emergency 911 system, had no energy to debate whether the district

Pool Issue Alive: Streeter

SOUTH WINDSOR — The proposed community swimming pool is not a dead issue according to Councilman Lincoln Streeter.

Streeter, who is seeking his second term on the council said many people have talked to him in recent weeks about the pool and of the council's decision not to include the question on the ballot in November.

"It seems," Streeter said, "that many residents think the whole idea of an indoor pool was rejected by the council. This is incorrect. We have not decided the plan, we have merely said that November is not the time to ask the voters to make a decision on the pool."

Murrin Urges Town To Get U.S. Funds

SOUTH WINDSOR — Republican Council candidate Thomas Murrin has proposed that "a major function of the new town planner should be to coordinate efforts to obtain all available federal and state funding for eligible town programs and facilities."

"He should specialize in and concentrate on making applications for federal and state grants for local projects and services and follow through on them," he said.

"As the role of the state and federal government continues to expand, more and more money is being appropriated to assist towns and cities, whether it be for construction of new public buildings, road improvements programs or expanded police and social services," Murrin said.

"We must make sure that South Windsor takes advantage of all the assistance available to us as a means of keeping the cost of local government down," he said.

BOSTON — In a speech to the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston Thursday, Treasury Secretary G. William Miller forecast a "moderate recession of moderate duration" and said President Carter is committed to his inflation-fighting policy.

Washington: Americans withdrew $20 million more than they deposited at the nation's savings and loan associations last month, a development which will severely impact on the housing industry in coming months, it was announced Thursday.

New York: An early bargaining rally ran out of steam Thursday afternoon and stocks finished on a mixed note, while trading was slow. The Dow Jones industrial average dropped by 0.8 point to 830.12.

Tokyo: The U.S. dollar fell back moderately against the yen in Tokyo Friday, closing the week at 231.80 yen, down 0.50 from Thursday's finish of 232.30. Trading remained heavy.

Energy Update

NEW YORK — Iraq has raised its crude oil prices by roughly 10 percent but the cost of its oil remains within OPEC's $25-a-barrel price ceiling, Petroleum Intelligence Weekly said Thursday.

Washington: Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said Thursday the United States should take action to quell rumors and speculation in the spot oil market if it hopes to avoid drastic OPEC price increases later this year.

Coliseum Roof Moves Ahead

HARTFORD (UPI) — A massive $115 million reconstruction of the Hartford Civic Center Coliseum moved a step closer to completion with removal of the last tower supporting the facility's new roof.

Jackhammers chattered in the background Thursday as the final temporary tower was removed from beneath the steel girders of the new roof, a process called "swinging the roof."

The arena's first roof, a 1,400-ton spaceframe, collapsed Jan. 18, 1978, under tons of snow and ice only hours after 5,000 persons left the arena. There were no injuries.

"This marks a major step in this project," said City Manager Donald C. Peach. "This roof is built like a railroad bridge. It's something that's safe."

The champagne flowed as City Councilman William DiBella asked officials to join him in a toast to the "safest coliseum roof in the United States."

The coliseum was originally scheduled to reopen Jan. 1, 1980, but collapsed in July the building contractors revised that date to Feb. 25, 1980.

"If we can move the scheduled date up we will. We're still trying to beat that," said Jordan Rich, the city's public works director.

But Howard Baldwin, managing general partner of the coliseum's prime tenant — the National Hockey League Hartford Whalers — was more optimistic.

"I hope to be there in the early part of January," said Baldwin, whose team will have to call the Springfield, Mass., Civic Center home until the Hartford coliseum is ready.

The Whalers, making their debut in the NHL this year, had scheduled many of their early season games away in anticipation of the Jan. 1 reopening.

Steve Jordan, a civic center spokesman, said officials would have a better idea of the completion date in about three weeks, when the building is fully weatherized.

"We should be able to zero in on a target date soon," Jordan said, adding the weather played an important role in the completion.

The arena was heavily booked as of Jan. 1, and the projected loss in the opening meant it could lose up to $800,000 in revenue.

Bill Cochran, the city's deputy finance director, said the Ice Capades — the biggest money maker scheduled this year — this week agreed not to cancel its mid-January dates until there was a revised completion date. He said the Ice Capades bring in about $130,000 in revenue.

The new coliseum will seat 14,500 for hockey games and up to 16,500 people for concerts.

You Learn to Hit the People You Love

SOUTH KINGSTOWN, R.I. (UPI) — Unable to cope with everyday problems, American families are apparently striking out at loved ones to relieve their frustrations.

The first nationwide study of all types of abuse in the American homes shows family members attacking, hitting, abusing and killing each other.

Sitting in his office at the University of Rhode Island, sociology professor Richard J. Gelles is removed from the violence. But the documents cluttering his desk testify to the terrible bond of love and violence in the American home.

Gelles and two other researchers plan to publish the survey Jan. 1. Gelles says working on it turned him into a "fanatic" about stopping domestic violence.

Gelles and his fellow researchers, Murray Straus of the University of New Hampshire and Susanne Steinmetz of the University of Delaware, estimate that 8 million Americans are attacked each year by members of their own families.

"You learn to hit people you love," Gelles said. "That's the way you deal with frustration."

"People are battering each other's brains out. A person is more likely to be killed or hit in the home by a family member than anywhere else or by anyone else."

Gelles said statistics show 20 to 40 percent of all homicides are within the family and 20 percent of the policemen murdered each year are killed answering domestic violence calls.

Here are some of the results from the survey of 2,143 family members:

- 16 of every 100 couples have a violent fight at least once a year.
- Four of every 100 wives are seriously beaten by their husbands.
- More than a third of all brothers and sisters severely attack each other, and nearly 10 percent assault their parents.
- Three of every 100 children are kicked, beaten or punched by their parents each year.
- Some factors increase the chances of such violence. A person in the family who is more likely to beat his own children, the study found. Low-income people are more likely to be involved in domestic violence.
- Gelles says an expected winter recession, coupled with soaring energy costs, will make the situation worse.

"It's tough to be a good parent if you are poor and hungry, if you're sick," Gelles said.

His survey found the odds of domestic violence double or triple in families with incomes below $6,000 a year.

That's why Gelles is worried about forecasts of $1 a gallon heating oil amid high unemployment in a recession this winter.

"Families are very sensitive to changes in the economy. There's much more violence in the family when the husband is unemployed."

"If the recession forecasts are accurate, I don't see anything but an increase in family violence accompanying the unemployment rate. Any form of economic or social stress has an impact."

A heating oil price increase will

Princess Denies She Said 'Pigs'

Princess Margaret says it is "very hurtful" that anyone thinks she called the Irish "pigs" at a party with Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne. Margaret's denial that she said "The Irish, they're pigs" was reported by the London Daily Express in a frontpage "exclusive interview" in today's edition. The tabloid quoted Queen Elizabeth's only sister as saying in Los Angeles: "This is very embarrassing. It is very sad and painful that this situation has arisen. It is very hurtful for anyone to suggest that anyone would say such a thing."

Chicago Sun-Times gossip columnist Irv Kupcinet, quoting sources, said the princess, while attending a private party in Chicago earlier in her tour, described the Irish as "pigs" in front of Mayor Jane Byrne, who is of Irish ancestry. "I do not know why anyone would want to say that — especially as it is completely untrue," the Daily Express quoted the princess saying.

Fireman Borge

Victor Borge doesn't like redundancy — fire or no fire. Two years ago during his Broadway run, smoke from a blaze in an alley filled the theater, stirring a breath of panic in the audience. Quipped the Great Dane, "I will now play Handel's 'Water Music.'" It did the trick and the show went on. Last week, in Chicago, it happened again, but Borge wasn't about to do an exact reprise. Said he, "I fear surgery through his audience, I never like to repeat myself. On Broadway, I played Handel's 'Water Music.' Now I will play 'Smoke Gets in Your Eyes.'"

The only thing missing will be the soap commercials from the olden, golden days.

Acquin Jury Deliberation Centering on Confession

WATERBURY (UPI) — Jurors weighing the fate of Lorne Acquin have apparently centered deliberations on the defendant's alleged confession to Connecticut's largest mass slaying. The three-woman, nine-man jury deliberated a second day Thursday without reaching a verdict. Discussions were scheduled to resume today. The jurors had returned to the courtroom several times during the two days to have portions of testimony read to them. Most of their questions touched on areas involving Acquin's alleged confession — which he later recanted — to the slaying of his foster brother's wife, Cheryl Beaudoin, her seven children and a visiting youngster in their modest East Prospect home. The children were aged 4 to 11. The nine victims were bludgeoned and stabbed on July 22, 1977 and the rural house was then set on fire to hide the crime. Acquin, an unemployed roofer from Maine, faces maximum sentences of 25 years to life imprisonment on each of nine murder charges and 10-20 years on an arson charge filed in connection with the house fire. Jurors discussed the case 4 hours and 15 minutes Thursday, before going home at about 4:30 p.m. Asked if weekend sessions were possible, Superior Court Judge Walter M. Pickett Jr. said "We'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

Jurors had asked for information on the clothing worn by Acquin the night of the slaying, including slayings and to hear testimony about the defendant's alleged confession to sexually assaulting two of the young girls. A state police captain had testified Acquin told him he sexually assaulted the girls, but those statements were not included in Acquin's alleged confession. Defense attorney John R. Williams claimed the statement was left out because autopsies didn't show any evidence of sexual assault. The defense attorney maintained throughout the 14-week trial that Acquin was pressured to confess to state police and that he agreed to statements troopers dictated to him. Jurors earlier heard rereadings of testimony about the autopsies and identifications of all nine victims. Acquin, wearing a conservative light gray plaid suit, smiled for the first time during deliberations when a lack of cups in the courtroom forced Williams to drink water from a pitcher. The defendant has shown little emotion. At one point Thursday, after Acquin entered the courtroom with a loose tie, Williams whispered to him that "I want you looking rest-able."

Park-Rec Panel Favors Interstate 86 Walkway

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — An aesthetic walkway near the proposed Interstate 86 came a little closer to reality since another town commission threw its support behind the project Thursday night. The Advisory Park and Recreation Commission decided to support the proposal by the Hockanum River Linear Park Committee. The Linear Park Committee wants all construction on the highway least 50 feet from the river to give more room for a linear park. The committee had earlier won the support for the linear park from the town's Conservation Commission. Dr. Douglas Smith, chairman of the linear committee, had said earlier he would also seek the support of the Planning and Zoning Commission. He said he hoped for a "unified front" to present the state Department of Transportation. Art Glaser is the conservation commission's liaison to the linear committee. He appeared before the advisory Park and Rec commission to seek their support and to explain the areas the town is disputing with the state.

Glaser said the state DOT has been somewhat cooperative. Out of 27 points involved, the state and town agree on 19. Disputed points concern the relocation of sedimentation and the placement of a chain link fence. The state claims the fence cannot be placed too close to the highway or it will endanger passing cars. One committee member said he knew from past experience it is possible to overcome this objection. Another disputed point concerns the town's wish to plant trees along the highway to act as a sound barrier. This would allow the park a freedom from highway noise. The state is opposed to this because it wants passing drivers to be able to see the park. The state feels the park will have scenic value. Dot Breednamer will represent the Park and Rec Commission in meetings with state officials on the linear park matter.

Nike Site Hockey Rink. In other business, the commission discussed the restoration of the Nike site hockey rink. The Board of Directors at their last meeting unanimously approved $10,000 from surplus funds to be used to renovate the rink. It now appears the $10,000 is not going to cover the cost of labor. It will cover only the cost of materials. Town Engineer Walter Senkow told panel members the $10,000 cost estimate didn't include calculations for a pumping apparatus to keep the outdoor skating pond filled with water. Park Superintendent Ernest Tureck told commission members an underground pump would be the best alternative. He said this would recirculate water back to the pond instead of allowing the water to flow down the sloping Nike Site. Tureck also told the group, "It's not the money. It's the timing that's all wrong." He expressed concern about the cost to get the project completed before Thanksgiving. Joel Janenda, commission chairman, said, "We either made our recommendation for $10,000 without all the information we should have had or we were under the conception $10,000 was going to do the whole job."

He highly favored the skating rink being active for a cost of $10,000. It is up to the hockey association to do it," Janenda added. Hospital Nurses Walk Off Jobs. WALLINGFORD (UPI) — About 180 registered nurses walked off their jobs at Wallingford-Meriden Hospital today as round-the-clock contract negotiations were conducted. Hospital spokesman James Shields said the nurses had given 18 days notice of their action and a contingency plan, utilizing qualified personnel from administration and other non-medical offices to treat patients, was activated. Shields said nurses were picketed outside the hospital early today. Tureck said, "You can stand in the middle of Main Street and see a passive park in the southerly direction and an active park in the northerly direction. Center Park is passive. The elderly use it. Mothers with children walk their babies there." Tureck said officials already have a difficult time keeping the passive park free of baseball players and bicyclists. Tureck said because of this, he didn't believe Center Park is the place for roller skating. After the commission tossed out ideas for other sites within the city, Carl Silver said the E-Z Roller company should come up with the site. The assistant recreation director approved the idea. They're the ones who want to make money. Vandaliism. Commission members also expressed concern about vandaliism. One member said placing the exact locations of acts of vandaliism in the paper only encourages more similar behavior. Melvin Siebold, recreation director and underground pump would be the best alternative. He said this would recirculate water back to the pond instead of allowing the water to flow down the sloping Nike Site. Tureck also told the group, "It's not the money. It's the timing that's all wrong." He expressed concern about the cost to get the project completed before Thanksgiving. Joel Janenda, commission chairman, said, "We either made our recommendation for $10,000 without all the information we should have had or we were under the conception $10,000 was going to do the whole job."

'91' on Wapping Line Not Likely Until 1982

MANCHESTER — Manchester residents with the 644 exchange cannot dial the emergency police number now, and the prospects of having that service don't seem likely until at least 1982. That's what three Southern New England Telephone Co. representatives told a liaison committee from the Town and Eighth District Board of Directors Thursday night. SNET official Alfred DeVecchio said there are 200 town subscribers in the Manchester-Wapping exchange and his company would be unable to isolate them from the rest of the phone users. The 200 subscribers are Part of 441 lines being served by the 644 exchange number, he said. "We can't isolate those 200 subscribers," said his colleague, Fred Roback. "You either have to accept all of the South Windsor callers or zone of them." The news was a surprise to the directors, who had come away from an earlier meeting believing that the 644 exchange was included in the emergency service. Director Thomas Connors said he believed only the Fountain Village complex was excluded from the 911 system. SNET representative John L. Sullivan said, however, that the company cannot re-route the lines with its present equipment and won't have the capacity to overcome boundaries until the 1980s. He said the individual subscribers would have to be identified and it would take at least 400 more lines to include them in the service. If the entire 644 callers were to be taken for the number, he said, that would eliminate the rest of South Windsor from having it. Some disgruntled directors, such as Joseph Tripp and John Fitzpatrick, thought the company did have the expertise to remedy the boundary problem. The SNET officials disagreed. "The state of the arts is that we're trying to do it," said DeVecchio. "We received a Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant for it in Alameda, Calif., on a trial basis. But the company doesn't want another one for elsewhere in the country." He said the cross-boundary experiment has been in service for less than a year, and cited 1982 as the earliest date for Connecticut service. 1985 would be the latest, he said. To avoid confusion about who can use the number, Town Manager Robert Weiss and Eighth District President Gordon Lassow agreed to canvass homes in the Buckland section for the 644 exchange numbers. These residents will be given a phone sticker indicating the proper police and fire department numbers to call, Weiss said. Drum Lesson Signup. MANCHESTER — The Recreation Department will hold its final registration for beginner drum lessons today and tomorrow from 3 to 5 and 6 to 9 p.m. at the West Side Rac. Classes will be held every Tuesday for eight weeks, beginning Oct. 30. Children ages 9-12 will meet at 6:30, and ages 13-16 at 7:30. All interested persons should contact the West Side Recreation Center, 547-3166.

Legislators Suggest Tax Relief for Tornado Victims

HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislative committee has proposed tax abatements for victims of the Oct. 3 tornado and tax hikes on cigarettes, gasoline and meals to help finance fuel emergency assistance this winter. The bill raised Thursday by the Legislature's Finance, Revenue and Bonding Committee to grant tax abatements for those in Windsor, Windsor Locks and Suffield who lost property in the twister can be voted on in the special energy session to be held Oct. 31. The other tax proposals don't fit the bill for the Legislature's limited energy-related agenda, but Rep. Irving Stolberg, D-New Haven, said they could be considered if there wasn't enough money for fuel aid. Sen. Audrey Beck, D-Manfield, who co-chairs the committee with Stolberg and Appropriations Committee chairman Rep. Gardner Wright, D-Bristol, and Sen. Richard Scheller, D-Essex, believe the state budget is too tight. "All four of us feel there is not enough room in the budget to absorb all the cuts (mandated by Gov. Ella Grasso)," Stolberg said. "I don't think we can get through this year's budget and certainly not with additional next year's budget without additional revenues."

The proposal to grant tax abatements to tornado victims in the three Connecticut communities was sponsored by Rep. Astrid Hanzalek, R-Suffield, and Rep. John Pier, D-Windsor. Under the bill, assessors would be able to abate all or a portion of the property tax on a damaged or demolished home or business. The state also could reimburse towns for the lost tax revenue. Mrs. Hanzalek said the same aid was granted in 1965 when a hurricane damaged several towns and cities. The state reimbursement to towns for forfeited tax revenue has been estimated at $300,000 to $2 million. She said the cost could be kept low by only reimbursing towns whose abated property amounts to at least one quarter of 1 percent of the grand list. The proposed tax bills include increases the tax on cigarettes from 22 cents per pack to 25 cents to raise more than $7 million. Taxing meals more than $1 would create about $9.5 million in added revenue. The tax on gas would be changed from a flat 11 cents to roughly 12 percent, meaning the revenues would increase with the price of gasoline. "These are teeth-gripping types of revenues," Stolberg said. "If we don't do them now (energy session), my opinion is we'll have to do them later (when the regular session convenes in February)." The committee also has been deliberating a series of alternative taxes, among them lifting the 7 percent sales tax exemption on children's clothing; allowing Sunday dog racing; increasing tuition at state colleges; taxing additional services, such as lawyers, architects and engineers, or imposing a flat 1 percent tax on all income $25,000 and over.

EB Denies Any Fault in Strike

GROTON (UPI) — The Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics has refused to take any responsibility for the strike at the submarine yard by 2,000 white collar workers. The statement Thursday was in reply to a request by Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., for both sides to resume talks immediately in an effort to settle the three-week walkout. P. Takis Veliotis, general manager at EB, told Dodd responsibility for the dispute lies with the Marine Draftsman's Association "for the consequences of this illegal strike."

Veliotis said the Federal Mediation Service has stated that no useful purpose would be served by resuming negotiations now. He said the union has refused to negotiate. On the other hand, the MDA blamed the breakdown in negotiations on management for refusing to consider the union's last wage offer. Dodd, who said he was "disappointed" by EB's reply, has expressed fear the strike could decimate the ranks of draftmen at EB.

WASHINGTON — French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing is already in a "soup" over charges that he accepted diamonds from "Emperor" Bokassa I. the deposed bloodyhearted dictator of what is once again the Central African Republic.

Death Still a Mystery

NEW LONDON (UPI) — The death of a veteran Coast Guard officer whose body was discovered six months after he disappeared from a New London bar remains a mystery. Police Thursday would not say whether they suspected foul play in the death of Coast Guard Commissioner Warrant Officer Richard E. Eastman, 49, of Virginia Beach, Va.

Eastman's body was found inside his U.S. government automobile fished from the Thames River near New London's city pier Tuesday. He was identified from dental records Thursday by the Chief State Medical Examiner's Office but the cause of death was not determined. Further tests were planned.

A spokesman for the New London Detective Division, who declined to identify himself, would not rule out the possibility of an arrest or arrests in Eastman's disappearance and death. But the spokesman would not say whether police had any suspects.

Eastman, a 30-year Coast Guard veteran, was last seen in a bar when he disappeared April 3 just two months before he was set to retire. Gov. Ella T. Grasso offered a $20,000 reward earlier this month for information about Eastman's disappearance. An aide to the governor said Thursday the reward can be collected only if criminal charges are made in the case.

Eastman was commander of a three-man team of radar installers, servicing navigational detection equipment aboard Coast Guard vessels from Brownsville, Tex., to Rockland, Maine, for the last three years.

State Attorney Robert Sattl said police divers from New London and nearby towns were directed to the car after his office received a tip, but he refused to elaborate.

Eastman's disappearance had baffled police amid reports he was seen this summer in the New London area.

States Mull Seabrook

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Gov. Joseph Garrahy says New England's governors will re-examine the use of state police from the region to provide security at future Seabrook, N.H., anti-nuclear demonstrations.

Questions about the policy were raised by the latest anti-nuclear gathering over Columbus Day weekend which drew 1,500 protesters who unsuccessfully tried to occupy the site of the unfinished nuclear plant, Garrahy said Thursday.

About 250 state troopers from all New England states except Connecticut went to Seabrook under a law enforcement cooperative agreement to help each other in times of need. CBS television filed formal complaints this week over what it called deliberate attacks on a camera crew covering an Oct. 7 demonstration at the site of the unfinished nuclear plant.

The Rhode Island Clamshell Alliance also charged that state troopers used mace and clubs on demonstrators, the news media and medical personnel.

New Hampshire Attorney General Thomas Ross has said the state would "redouble our efforts" to ensure that such problems don't occur in the future.

It may be that in the future, we may have to look closer before we respond," Garrahy said Thursday.

"The New England governors will be reviewing the situation. Most of the governors are very sensitive about these things.

"When this compact was entered into, I don't think we ever thought there would be demonstrations with 2,000 or 3,000 people involved," he said.

Garrahy, co-chairman of the New England Regional Commission, said the six governors may consider whether a different type of security not asking outside troopers or National Guardsmen is needed for future Seabrook demonstrations.

He refused to speculate whether there was or was not appropriate action at Seabrook this month by Rhode Island's 25-member force, but said he asked state police Supt. Walter E. Stone for a report on their performance.

Rowdy Cow Eludes Cops

VERNON (UPI) — Police say a rowdy cow that tramples gardens and scares children apparently enjoys tranquilizers shot by its would-be captors.

"It's driving us crazy," Police Sgt. Gary Kology says about the bovine that has stubbornly eluded authorities who've blasted it with tranquilizers four times since May.

"We get three or four complaints a week about that cow. We've tried everything," Kology said.

"She's got four legs and we've got a big area to run in."

Fuller says the cow has turned wild because it was separated from its mother when it was a calf. He said it isn't dangerous as long as it isn't cornered. "She'd get nasty then," he said.

Kology says police have their suspicions about who owns the cow, but "can't prove anything. Once it started doing damage I'm sure whoever owns it decided to keep quiet."

And there's another problem. The beast is growing and may not even be a cow.

"It's getting bigger," said Kology. "It's near six or seven hundred pounds already... we think it's a bull."

Connecticut Humane Society Officer Thomas Fuller, who has hit the cow twice with tranquilizer-filled darts, said the trouble with catching it is "It's faster than we are."

"We had some farmers down from Ellington and the Humane Society out here a couple of times shooting it with tranquilizers, but it didn't do any good. All the cow did was go back in the woods and fall asleep," Kology said.

He said the elusive bovine usually stays in the backwoods of this rural Connecticut town, but several times it's been spotted

Olin Neighbors Arrested

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Three residents near the Olin Corp. have been arrested as the result of run-ins with striking union workers picketing the gun manufacturing plant.

Sgt. William Cummings said the three men arrested Thursday morning were neighbors of the factory who were "sick and tired of being harassed by the strikers on their way home."

He said police arrested the men after one of them allegedly pointed a BB-gun at pickets from his passing car.

The arrests brought to 13 the number of people arrested outside the sprawling plant since riot equipped police began escorting replacement workers to their jobs last week.

Olin hired the new workers after being unable to reach a new contract with 1,350 striking machinists, who began their bitter 14-week strike on July 15. No talks have been held in more than a week and none are scheduled.

Six pickets were arrested in a scuffle between police and striking workers Wednesday morning. But there were no confrontations between the two groups Thursday.

Arrested Thursday were Louis Ellison, 45, Steven Pearson, 22, and Samuel Fernandez, 22, all of New Haven.

Ellison was charged with disorderly conduct and Pearson and Fernandez were accused of carrying a dangerous weapon in an automobile and threatening.

Police have been escorting replacement workers through groups of several hundred pickets each morning since Oct. 9.

The union has vowed to continue its daily mass picketing to force the city to spend money by maintaining police protection as the new workers report to their jobs.

Town Prefers One Case, Allows Feds in CD Suit

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The town will not object to the U.S. Justice Department's motion to intervene in the lawsuit which seeks to force the community to participate in the federal Community Development block grant program.

The town had until Monday to file written objections to the motion to intervene. None were filed. The town had until Thursday to file a request for oral arguments on the motion but did not ask the court for time to take advantage of this option.

Town Attorney David Barry said today, "The Justice Department could bring its own suit if it wanted to on the same allegations in its motion to intervene. We would prefer to have everything litigated in one case."

"We don't want the taxpayers of Manchester to have to pay out of tax dollars for two lawsuits. One lawsuit is expensive enough," Barry said. The Justice Department filed a motion in Hartford's U.S. District Court Oct. 5 to intervene in the Angel vs. Zinsner et al. case filed by Attorney Raymond Norko of the Hartford County Legal Aid Society. It is filed one behalf of three low-income white women, one of whom has black children.

The women and now the Justice Department, claim the town's withdrawal from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development program was racially motivated.

Norko said today, "I welcome the assistance of the Justice Department in the case. The plaintiff supports their intervening in the case."

He added, "The efforts of the Legal Aid Society and the Justice Department will be coordinated. The Justice Department will actively litigate and do research."

Norko said there are four people working on the case in the Legal Aid Society. He cited himself and a law student who are working out of the Hartford office.

Also, two attorneys who specialize in housing are working on the case. One is operating out of the Stamford office, the other out of the Willamette office.

Mayor Stephen Penny had said when the Justice Department intervened, "The town will defend whatever it takes" to fend itself against the lawsuit. The town has allocated $50,000 to the effort. The town is also seeking the financial assistance of regional government agencies.

In an April 17 referendum, residents voted by a three to one majority to support a two-year moratorium on town participation in the HUD program. T next day, the Board of Directors voted to remove the town's grant application.

When the Justice Department filed its motion to intervene, many town officials said the contention that the action was racially motivated is not supported by evidence.

Mayor Penny, Director Joseph Sweeney, Minority Leader Carl Zinsner and Republican candidate for the Board of Directors Gloria Della Fera had all denied racial motivation in the action.

Barry said Friday, "We believe we have a strong defense against the three plaintiffs and the U.S. government. We will win the case."

Both Barry and the plaintiff's attorney said Friday they agreed the entry of the U.S. Justice Department into the case does not change the issues being litigated.

The effect of the entry of the government, both sides agree, will be to increase the resources of the plaintiffs. More money, a larger staff, and more research materials are now available to the plaintiffs.

Norko specifically mentioned the history of the town's zoning laws as information the entrance of the Justice Department provides.

In a related matter, the town has dropped its objections to Norko's questions on the Affirmative Action Plan in the town.

During the discovery phase of the court case, both sides have had the opportunity to pose questions to the opposing side.

The town had refused to answer one quarter of the questions being asked, but according to Norko, is no longer saying it will hold back information on affirmative action.

No Housing Needed To Get CD Funding

By CHRIS BLAKE

EAST HARTFORD — The town will not have to build any additional low or moderate income housing units as a condition for accepting $378,000 in federal Community Development funds, Community Development Coordinator William Hickey said Thursday.

Hickey said towns which have a certain percentage of existing housing available for low-income persons do not have to build new units under revised community development regulations from Congress.

He said 39 percent of the town's housing stock is available for low-income housing persons.

The town's past three applications for community development funds have been rejected by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

HUD rejected the applications because it disagreed with the town's expected-to-reside figures, which must be filed as part of the application.

The town has estimated that about 300 low and moderate income families would live in the town if housing were provided. HUD officials say the figure should be 1,000 families.

"Prior to this, we got absolutely no credit for 40 years of effort in providing housing," he said. "We were treated the same as communities with no public housing when it came to judging East Hartford's housing needs."

Mayor Richard H. Blackstone has said he would not sign an agreement for the funds unless he is assured that HUD would accept the town's expected-to-reside figures.

Illness Investigated, Restaurant Reopens

EAST HARTFORD — Health Department officials are still gathering information to try to determine the cause of a gastrointestinal disorder suffered by at least five persons after eating at a Roberts Street restaurant.

What Can I Say?
Usually never at a loss for words, especially when questioning an umpire's decision, Manager Earl Weaver of Baltimore had little to say after his favored Orioles lost to Pittsburgh in the World Series. (UPI Photo)

Umpiring Top Grade

Umpiring in the 1979 World Series was just seven games before a single argument in the set that went full-blown against Pittsburgh won.

The six men in blue who worked the series, including Terry Tata of the National League staff who halls from Waterbury, never gave either manager an opportunity to protest their decisions.

The ball and strike calls of all six were just great and the umpiring at first base was simply outstanding despite a number of bang-bang plays.

The sextet, three from each league, rate rows from all baseball followers for their superb judgment.

When umpires are not noticed, or spotlighted by ribhairs, they are doing a top job.

This was the case during the '79 World Series.

Hartford Whalers will open their home National Hockey League season tonight against Los Angeles at Springfield. A confident Howard Baldwin, general managing partner of the Whalers, predicts a second place finish for his team in the Norris Division. Pittsburgh didn't outmaneuver Earl Weaver but got better all around performances from his hired hands.

Whether you rooted for the Pirates or Orioles, you have to admit that it was one good series between two pretty well-balanced teams.

Pirates to Attend Fam-a-lee Reunion

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — There was a chance the official celebration of the Pittsburgh Pirates' World Series victory today, dubbed by civic and government officials as a "Fam-a-lee Reunion," would seem anticlimactic to the men bringing feets.

The Pirates players, coaches and front-office personnel and their families have experienced enough emotional highs and lows in the 36 years they've clinched the World Championship in Baltimore to fill two television seasons worth of soap operas.

Still, team officials assured the planners of the non-celebration that "many of the Pirates" would delay their vacations to speak at the pep rally in the Market Square area of the downtown.

The entire state of Pennsylvania was celebrating World Championship "Pirates Day" as officially proclaimed by Gov. Richard Thornburgh, a Pittsburgh native.

The first fall day of the Pirates' reign as baseball's World Champions Thursday mirrored the roller coaster 1979 season that was capped by their comeback from a 3-to-1 games deficit to take the title from the Orioles in Game 7 of the Series.

First they shared laughter and tears of joy in the dingy, crowded visitors' clubhouse in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

Next came their triumphant homecoming at a cargo area of Greater Pittsburgh International Airport, where several thousand fans had waited behind a snow fence for more than three hours to greet their heroes.

When they wept with team Manager Chuck Tanner 60 miles north of here in New Castle as he buried his mother, Anna Marie Tanner, 78, who died Sunday of complications from a stroke.

In between, the Pirates had a few appreciated hours of privacy. Some players went to their clubhouses at Three Rivers Stadium and sorted through a season's worth of accumulated souvenirs, worn-out equipment and memorabilia.

Tanner was particularly torn. "We were having too much trouble trying to fit it down here on earth," Tanner said. "We had to send my mom upstairs to help it get going. But I bet my mom and (late Pirates right fielder) Roberto Clemente are really rocking up there."

Field Hockey

Team Winner

A most needed victory was chalked up by the Manchester High girls' field hockey team yesterday, 2-1, over Orléans Conard High in the Indians' field.

The triumph not only kept the Silk Towers, 6-3 and 36 points, still in the hunt for league laurels but also qualified them for the State Tournament for the second consecutive year. Conard goes to 6-4 in the league, 63 overall, with the reversal.

Manchester opened the scoring with four seconds remaining in the first half. It had three successive penalty corners with Lisa Tilden jamming home the third bid. The goal was Tilden's fifth of the season.

Jennie Reimsmit knotted it for Conard 17 minutes into the second half with a drive from the left side of the cage.

"But clubs played aggressively. Neither wanted the tie," remarked Indian Coach Mary Faigant about play following the equalizer.

And it turned out to be the locals who came up with the game-winner, six minutes from the end. Tilden from the right side sent a pass to left wing Liz Neuhel, who deposited it in the short corner of the cage. It was Neuhel's third goal of the campaign.

Kane Curtin, Pam Harmon and Gloria Diana played well defensively for Manchester. "We got help from our backs on offense today more so than in the past. We were keeping the ball in the offensive circle," Faigant cited.

Manchester goalie Laurie Potter made six saves. Conard's Cathy Shirer eight.

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The Republican State Central Committee will vote next week on a plan to ask 72 party members to loan $3,800 each to cover the GOP's $200,000 deficit.

Under the bail out strategy tentatively approved Thursday night, two Republicans from each of the 36 senatorial districts will be asked to loan $3,800 each at 5 1/2 percent interest.

The debt was run up by party headquarters and during former Rep. Ronald Sarasin's, R-Conn., ill-fated run against Gov. Ella Grasso in the 1978 gubernatorial campaign.

Winfield and Sutter Head NL All-Stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the most explosive National League All-Star teams in history, featuring seven players with 25 or more homers, was selected today in the United Press International's annual postseason survey of baseball experts.

The top vote-getters from the 30 writers from around the country who participated in the survey were outfielder Dave Winfield of the San Diego Padres and relief pitcher Bruce Sutter of the Chicago Cubs.

Winfield received 27 votes and Sutter 25.

Sutter had a 6-6 record, 37 saves and a 2.22 earned run average in 101 innings.

The All-Star infield is composed of Catcher Ted Simmons and first baseman Keith Hernandez of the St. Louis Cardinals, second baseman Dave Lopes of the Los Angeles Dodgers, shortstop Dave Concepcion of the Cincinnati Reds and third baseman Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies.

The four-man outfield, including a tie for the third berth, is composed of Winfield, Dave Kingman of the Cubs, George Foster of the Reds and Dave Parker of the league champion Pittsburgh Pirates. Parker is the only member of the champion Pirates selected by the experts.

The Houston Astros' Joe Niekro, a 21-game winner with a 3.00 earned run average, and J.R. Richard, an 18-game winner with 213 strikeouts, were chosen the starting pitchers.

Mattick Selected To Lead Blue Jays

TORONTO (UPI) — When Bobby Mattick strides into the clubhouse for his major-league debut next season he will permit no one to hold the door for him — though at 64 he will be the oldest rookie manager in baseball history.

Standing before a banter of Mattick before the words "Under Construction," Mattick formally began his one-year contract Thursday as self-managed manager of the Toronto Blue Jays.

Mattick, the Jays' co-ordinator of instruction last season, succeeded Roy McMillan as skipper of the club in the game — the Toronto Blue Jays.

"I figured if I waited another two or three years, I would be too old," said Mattick, who will be 64 by the time he hands over his first official lineup card, declared the Blue Jays would no longer pass themselves off as a club whose primary interest was building for the future.

"I think we're beyond that now. I assured me that

Run-and-Gun Cavs Prevail

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cleveland has seen what San Antonio can do with a high-powered offense, so Thursday night, led by Cammy Russell, the Cavaliers gave the Spurs a taste of their own medicine.

Cleveland, under first-year coach Stan Albeck, played run-and-gun against the highest scoring team in the NBA last season and the result was a 141-134 triumph over San Antonio. The Cavs' point total was a club high, breaking the previous mark of 137 set Tuesday against Detroit, and overcame George Gervin's 47-point performance for the Spurs.

"We had 42 fast breaks tonight and Russell was sensational," beamed Albeck. "We're two and three and the pieces are beginning to fit. I feel the key to success is to substitute freely. That way you protect against injury because your bench is ready to play."

Russell fired in 33 points, including

NBA

24 in the second half, and also grabbed 18 rebounds as the Cavaliers continue their improvement under Albeck's tutelage.

"I didn't feel comfortable in our first few games," said Russell. "But tonight I felt I had the touch. We have a new offense and a lot of new players and we're just getting to know the system and the guys."

After the Spurs had to take a 49-48 lead, the lead changed hands 10 times and the score was tied twice before two foul shots by Bingo Smith with 1:40 left in the first half put Cleveland ahead to stay.

In other games, Detroit defeated

New York 129-115. Atlanta routed Indiana 115-86. Portland trimmed Utah 107-92 and San Diego nipped Chicago 111-107.

Pistons 129, Knicks 115.

James McElroy poured in 31 points and Bob Lanier added 27 to pace Detroit over New York. The Pistons went on a 16-2 spur early in the second quarter to snap a 23-22 tie and built a 69-54 halftime lead at the half.

Toby Knight led New York with 21 points and Ray Williams added 17. Hawks 115, Pacers 85.

Jack Givens scored 20 points to lead a balanced Atlanta attack as nine players scored in double figures for the Hawks. Givens hit 8-of-13 from the field to back the Hawks, who shot 52 percent from the floor.

Trail Blazers 107, Jazz 92.

Tom Owens and Ron Brewer combined for 42 points as Portland remained unbeaten in four games and Utah lost its third straight.

The Blazers, who have held their opponents under 100 points in all four games, finished with seven players scoring in double-figures. Jazz rookie Paul Dawkins scored a game-high 30 points, all in the second half.

Clippers 111, Bulls 107.

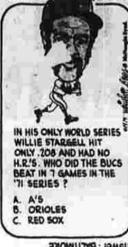

Lloyd Free scored a game-high 32 points, including a pair of free throws with 35 seconds remaining, to lead San Diego over Chicago. The Bulls led throughout the first three quarters before Brian Taylor stole the ball and scored on a layup with 3:53 left to tie it at 101.

After Chicago tied it again at 105, Free, who was 12-for-12 from the free throw line, hit the pair of foul shots to put the Clippers ahead for good.

Jayvees Bow

Manchester High jayvees girls' field hockey team dropped a 2-1 decision to Concord High yesterday at the Indians' field. Chris Brown, seven minutes into the first period, converted the lone Silk Town goal. The Indians are now 3-5 for the season.

Islanders Bow With Bruins

NEW YORK (UPI) — They were a team with a bright future, loaded with talent and ready to take on the world. A product of expansion that quickly became a powerhouse in a few short years, the New York Islanders suddenly appear to be regressing.

Significant

Today's soccer game against East Hartford High at Memorial Field at 3:30 could hold a twofold significance for Manchester High.

A victory not only would qualify the Indians for the CIAC State Tournament for the 13th year in a row, but also would be win No. 300 in the long and storied career of Coach Dick Danielson, who is in his 33rd and last season.

Manchester took a hard-fought 3-1 decision over East Hartford in their first meeting.

Cold Weather Fishing Clothing

Cold weather fishing has increased in popularity over the past few years. In the South, fishermen pursue black bass, while in the north there are walleye, salmon and trout to keep anglers occupied until the lakes freeze over. Then, they go ice fishing.

Fortunately, outdoor clothing is available that allows you to be comfortable during the cold months. But many fishermen don't recognize the danger of dressing improperly, and subsequently they run the great risk of illness or perhaps even death.

A few years ago, hypothermia was a theory. Today, it's a proven cause of illness and death to unwary outdoor enthusiasts. Hypothermia is the sudden cooling of body temperature caused by cold wind passing over wet areas of your body. It can occur because you become too warm, sweat and discard clothing, or it can happen if you get wet in a rain and then remain outdoors. The combination of wet clothing and cool air is serious enough that hypothermia will occur in 90-degree air temperature.

Fishermen can benefit from a system of clothing wear which recently came to the attention of Mercury outdoors' outdoor recreation staff. Called the "layer" system, it's practiced by both weather hikers and campers.

The first layer is underwear. Cotton T-shirts and briefs are fine for above freezing weather, but should be replaced by thermal-knit long underwear in colder weather. The idea is to trap natural body heat while at the same time dissipating moisture caused by sweat.

Layer two is shirt and trousers. Flannel shirts are ideal because they are comfortable and retain heat, yet allow moisture to escape. Trousers should be loose fitting and turn cold. Wool is excellent.

The final layer (except for rain gear) is changeable according to the weather. Lightweight, windproof jacket may be all that's needed to keep you from feeling cold. On the other hand, a heavy down-filled coat and trousers are required if the wind is up and the temperature is dropping.

By alternating the outer layer to adapt to changing conditions, you can remain warm and comfortable while fishing in cold weather.

Right now, I'm really happy to be running." DeValve, whose younger brother, Dave, is also on the squad and contributing in a big way, has been anything but disappointing. Save for that, either, because he didn't get that much opportunity. Injuries dogged him virtually every step of the way.

But Manchester High's Tim DeValve is running in 1979, a fact which he is most thankful, and the results have not been surprising.

"The first time I ran last year he was 14 seconds behind (No. 1 runner) Ed Lemieux," recalls Manchester coach country coach George Saitor, "but his shins hurt. We definitely knew about him. If he would have stayed healthy, we would have had a lot tougher team."

"I'm just glad I can run," DeValve says. "I'm a sophomore, I didn't mind too much running because I didn't know how good I could be. I was disappointed last year because from the time I ran, I knew I could do well."

DeValve to his credit has second place finishes in the prestigious Westlake Invitational and Knights of Columbus Invitational. And he is one and one in direct competition with Xavier High's Ron Cozian, whose coach in a recent article stated Cozian "always finishes first."

The Manchester barrier proved that a falsehood with a win over Cozian in Cozian's home course, where he set a record with a time of 15:47.9 over the 3.0 miles. The pair, however, won't go head-to-head again until the State Open held at Cozian and his black-clad teammates will compete in Class L, Manchester in Class LL.

"The team ranks fourth academically in his class of approximately 650 and hopes to further his running in college," Saitor states. "He has a set of lungs and a heart which won't quit. And the most important thing is he's mentally tough, he does not like to lose."

Saitor sees DeValve as a top contender for Class LL individual honors. "I hope to win Doubles L," the runner says, although he doesn't know where his top challenge will come from. "I really don't keep track of others," DeValve admits. "The team comes before me but I'm always trying to do the best I can."

CCIL Matchups On Grid Schedule

By LEN AUSTER

Herald Sportswriter

Three Central Connecticut Interscholastic League (CCIL) football matchups Saturday involve local and area elevens and the title picture may be cleared — or muddied — by the results.

Manchester High, 1-3, makes its first appearance at Memorial Field against 3-1 Conard High in what could be a make or break outting for the Indians. The Chiefs, on the other hand, need a win to stay in the title chase.

Neighboring East Hartford High, sitting atop the league standings at 3-0, 3-1 overall, is at 3-1, 4-1 Hall High in West Hartford with the victor assured a berth at the title. Penney High, 3-1 in the league and 4-1 overall, is home against 2-2 Wethersfield High and needs a win to keep pace.

Elsewhere, 1-1, 3-2 South Windsor High is at 1-0, 2-3 Windsor High and 0-1, 1-2, 2-3 Rockville High visits powerfully 2-0, 4-0 Newington High in CVC clashes.

All five have 1-30 kickoffs.

"We're looking for continual improvement and a good positive attitude," stated Manchester Coach Jack Holik, who was encouraged by his club's progress despite wounding up on the short end of a 14-13 tally to Hall.

Conard, pre-season pick in the CCIL, started slowly. It dropped a 22-7 duke to Wethersfield but since has yielded 66 points defensively. 46 to highly regarded Newington. The Chiefs, though, had a scare last weekend with a late interception in the end zone preserving a 27-22 win over Windham.

The West Hartford-based, Bob McKee-coached Chiefs have traditionally been a strong running team but have gone to the air more this campaign. They, in 5-foot-10, 165-pound senior Ron Morander, have a fine throwing quarterback and a fine receiver in light end Kirk Schroll.

"They beat Penney (48-6) by throwing when they (Penney) expected them to run," Holik recounted part of the scouting report. "It should be a good test for our secondary. I'll be a good test for all our guys."

Manchester will be without the services of 6-foot, 205-pound senior Dave Bogner, who suffered a broken hand against Hall and is out a minimum of three weeks. His replacement at defensive nose guard is 6-foot, 150-pound sophomore Pat McMahon. Mike Greenleaf will get some work at linebacker along with John Hanley, who will share duty at the fullback with Steve Shriver. Hanley, along with several teammates, has been slowed this week by the flu.

The gymnasts, many of whom are expected to make their respective national Olympic teams next year, appear Saturday at the New Haven Coliseum, Oct. 23 in Detroit; Oct. 24 in Dayton, Ohio; and Oct. 25 in St. Louis.

Gymnastic Tour

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Audiences are getting a chance to judge for themselves the performances of the Peoples Republic of China gymnastics team, currently midway through its first U.S. tour.

Using an applause meter, audience input is being used to rank the routines of the Chinese gymnasts as well as the performances of the American all-star team traveling with them on the six-city tour.

Board Candidates Air Vernon School Issues

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON Discipline in the schools, parent participation, and duties of the Board of Education, were some of the topics discussed Thursday night by candidates for the board during a program sponsored by the Vernon League of Women Voters.

Candidates for the Board of Education were also guests of last night's "Meet the Candidates" night. Next Thursday the mayor and Town Council candidates will be speaking.

Up for re-election to the board are Democrats Debra Baum and Dr. George Prouty Sr. and Republican Joan Worthen. Republican Janet Daley was appointed recently to fill a vacancy so seeking election for the first time. Ginger Freethy, also Republican, is seeking election for the first time as is Democrat Arthur Michaels, Jean Hopkins, running as an Independent, has previously served on the board but resigned last year for personal reasons.

All of the candidates indicated they would like more input from parents and townspeople. They said they feel free to come to them with problems or questions.

Protestors Face Trial On Trespassing Charge

HARTFORD (UPI) — Two nuclear weapons protesters are on trial for trespassing after a judge dismissed two other charges stemming from an Aug. 8 demonstration commemorating the atom bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Superior Court Judge John Mulcahy Jr. approved a prosecution motion Thursday to drop charges of disorderly conduct and third-degree criminal mischief against Elmer Mass, 43, and Vincent Kay, 21, both of Hartford, who are defending themselves.

The defendants are being tried by a six-person jury on the remaining charge of first-degree criminal trespass.

Ethics Probe Planned In Nepotism Allegation

HARTFORD (UPI) — The State Ethics Commission is investigating whether any law was violated by Public Works Director Robert C. McCulloch in helping his son get a job in his department.

The Hartford Courant reported Thursday the commission has started an investigation and is preparing a report which would recommend whether the commissioners should file a formal complaint against the public works director.

Town Near Energy Goal

SOUTH WINDSOR — A recent report on local efforts to save energy indicates that the town may attain its goal of saving 15 percent in energy consumption for the year.

"The first quarter in fiscal year 1979 proved to be encouraging," said Gregory Turck, energy administrator. "The total monthly allocation of gasoline consumed averaged slightly more than 91 percent while actual gallons saved over the same period last year showed only a 17 percent reduction. It is particularly encouraging when services have been provided without interruptions and that most every user has filed a conservation plan with the office ensuring the success of our allocation program."

Turck said that four fleet vehicles have been replaced with four mid-size cars and the more economical automobiles in use in the town should have a positive effect on local conservation efforts. Turck said that the change in autos will take place in December and will provide the town with two, four-cylinder cars and two, six-cylinder models. He said that if their performance is found to be adequate, then all non-emergency vehicles used by town employees and that every elected official should be held accountable and not just at election time." She cited some of her accomplishments in her 3 1/2 years on the board — things she said she feels have improved the quality of education and served the needs of the children of Vernon.

Dr. Michaels feels that the schools can't be held accountable for what the students do outside of the schools. He said, however, that he doesn't feel that the answer lies in the development of youth centers noting that "the history of these hasn't been great."

Mrs. Hopkins said while the board is affected less by political pressure, than the Town Council, there still is some pressure there. "I'd like to see the board completely removed from any party affiliation."

Dr. Prouty commented that he has seen one "whiff of evidence" of any politics on the board. He also said that the board isn't an adversary group and that it's not the policeman for the school administration.

Commander Visits City

HARTFORD — Capt. R.K. Halverson, USN, commander, Service Squadron Two, will visit Hartford Saturday to monitor the readiness of 40 Naval reservists assigned to ConServRon Two (H) Reserve Detachment.
