Cambodia Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted Friday to authorize spending $30 million more for food, medicine and other humanitarian assistance to help head off mass starvation in Cambodia.

The additional authority for Cambodian aid was added to legislation which increases the authorization for the State Department by $410.8 million for domestic and international aid over the next two fiscal years to help meet pressures created by the massive exodus of Southeast Asian refugees.

The bill passed by voice vote and was sent to the House.

Reactors Safe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A suspected flaw in the design of the nation's commercial atomic reactors is not a major safety risk and will not require power reductions or reactor shutdowns, Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials said Friday.

After a hectic week of checking data and conferring with reactor and atomic fuel vendors, staff officials reported to the five-member commission that the design of reactor emergency core cooling systems poses none of the feared safety risks.

"I think, with one or two possible exceptions, the vendors have satisfied us that the performance of the emergency core cooling system is within the limits set by the commission," said Harold Denton, chief of reactor regulation.

Park Funeral

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance arrived in Seoul Friday to lead the U.S. delegation to the state funeral of slain President Park Chung-hee.

In an airport statement, Vance said the United States "remained committed to the security and independence" of South Korea and praised Park as a man whose "place in history is assured" because his 18-year rule led the nation "into the ranks of the economically strong and developed nations."

But sources said Vance, in meetings with government leaders, was expected to convey Washington's hope that Park's successor will have a broader base of popular support than the slain president, whose repressive one-man rule faced growing opposition in the weeks before his assassination.

Work Delayed at Center

By LANEY ZUBOFF
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The realignment of the Main and Center Streets intersection to improve traffic conditions will be delayed, possibly for several years, because there is not sufficient replacement housing available in Manchester, concludes a Department of Transportation report recently approved by the federal government.

The report states the present schedule, calling for acquisition of property along the intersection of Main and East Center Streets by the fall of 1980, "does not provide enough lead time with the multiple problems" in relocating low income, minority families.

Carl Nissen, rights of way division chief for the DOT, said the shortage of housing "puts a two-year delay on the project."

The report, compiled by Leslie Beebe, a property agent for DOT, says Laotian and Vietnamese families living in the apartments designated for relocation have no plans beyond their present place of residence.

The report says relocating the families will be a problem because Manchester has rejected federal Community Development funds and because the town's housing authority does not want to alter apartments to provide for large families.

The report says that Dennis Phelan, executive director of the Manchester Housing Authority, said it is not feasible for the MHA to renovate public housing to provide larger apartments.

"The Department of Transportation cannot depend on any new public housing projects to provide housing," the report says.

The DOT occupancy survey leading to the report says there are five families that would be displaced by the project. In addition, 12 non-residential tenants would have to move.

The families being displaced are large — ranging in size from seven persons to 12 persons — and large apartments are difficult to find.

"It is apparent that some units of four, five and six bedroom housing must be provided under a last resort housing relocation program," the report says. But there are very few such apartments, the report says.

Relocation of the families would be complicated by their income limits. All the families are now receiving public or private financial assistance, the report says.

The 12 non-residential tenants (businesses at the Center) would require space ranging in size from 500 square feet to 10,000 square feet, the report says.

The DOT survey did not investigate buildings for sale for the businesses because the businesses indicated they didn't want to buy property, the report says.

The report provided specific locations now available for relocation but state it was realized these buildings may not be available at the time of replacement, though they show a normal rate of vacancies at any given time.

Property mentioned included a vacant store on Center street which could be divided, containing 2,000 square feet, and three or four stories of apartments on Center street adjacent to the fire station.

A DOT employee, who will operate out of Manchester, will administer the relocation program, assisted by a staff of DOT property agents, when the project gets underway.

But the project is at a "standstill" for the present, according to Nissen, until DOT receives federal approval to begin property appraisals. "And that depends on funding," said Nissen.

Jobless Rate Up to 6%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. unemployment rate rose to 6 percent in October, with women and blacks the biggest losers, the Labor Department reported Friday.

There were conflicting signs whether this means the recession is taking hold. Regardless of what they call it, most economists still expect the unemployment rate to rise considerably more during the coming year.

It has hovered between 5.6 percent and 6 percent for 14 months. It was 6 percent in August, dropped to 5.8 percent in September and rose in October back to the August level.

The number of unemployed persons increased by nearly 200,000 in October to 6.2 million.

Most of that increase was among people who lost their jobs, rather than those entering the labor market.

Some of the largest percentage increases were among adult women, their jobless rate rising from 5.2 to 5.8 percent, and blacks 10.6 percent to 11.7 percent.

By contrast, the rate for adult males rose only from 4.2 percent to 4.3 percent. That fit the classic pattern that groups that are the "last hired" are the "first fired" when the economy heads into a recession.

But, on the other side of the coin, employment, the Labor Department's figures were contradictory.

One set of figures, based on a sample of American households, showed employment dropped by 220,000 in October. Another set, based on business payrolls, showed an employment increase of 300,000.

"We're somewhat at a loss," said Jack Bregger, chief of the department's job statistics section. "On balance, there is certainly evidence of a slowdown but certainly not a recession."

Bregger said that if the unemployment rate "takes off from here, we can say it's the start of something, but I think it's too early to say now."

The Labor Department also reported the average hourly earnings of blue collar workers, after adjusting for inflation, declined 3.7 percent in the 12 months ending in September, because hourly pay has not kept up with the rise in prices.

Search Guided by Psychic

VERNON (UPI) — State police divers, guided by a psychic's vision, groped their way along the bottom of a silty, murky pond Friday, searching for a 7-year-old girl who disappeared more than six years ago.

Three divers began the search Thursday and four divers participated Friday, but they didn't turn up a trace of little Janice Pockett, who disappeared July 26, 1973.

State police spokesman Joe Crowley said the search will continue next Tuesday and it will probably take two to three weeks to search all of Walker Reservoir.

The little girl was last seen riding her bicycle away from her home, returning to pick up a butterfly she'd placed under a rock.

She is one of five Vernon area girls or young women whose disappearances are being probed by a special state Police task force. The bodies of two of the victims have been found within the last year.

Crowley said troopers normally don't seek aid from psychics, but chose to follow up the tip in this case because they wanted to follow up on all information.

"Based on what she said, they felt that to leave no stone unturned the pond should be checked out," he said.

The psychic, who requested to remain unidentified, originally contacted Vernon police about a week ago, saying she "had some information about a body of water where she felt there was a young girl," Crowley said.

He said troopers "spoke with her and based on the things she said, it led them to believe she was probably talking about a young child.

therefore the conclusion that Janice Pockett was the youngest of the victims."

Crowley said the psychic was apparently in the area of the pond — which is about a mile from woods where another of the missing victim's bodies was found — "and felt very strongly that the girl was there."

He said divers were making slow progress because the pond's bottom was covered with a foot or more of thick silt.

"Visibility is about zero, so they have to grope along the bottom with their hands," he said. "We do not feel there's a great possibility that she's there. But again, feeling that no stone should be unturned, we're doing it."

He said the search would be discontinued until Tuesday because "they're just going to work it into the manpower schedules."

Museum Future: Expand or Cut

By LANEY ZUBOFF
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The Boston consultants hired to determine the future role of the Lutz Junior Museum have completed the initial phase of the $15,000 study and recommend the museum either cut or expand its programming, Glynis Berry, museum director, said Friday.

If the museum reduced its current programming it would mean a staff cutback and focusing in on a smaller range of activities. The present facility, on Cedar street, "cannot maintain a large staff or a large series of programs," said Ms. Berry.

But the consultants, E. Verner Johnson and Associates, Inc. of Boston, a museum planning and architectural firm, favor expansion of the museum, said Ms. Berry, who said the firm recommended the museum move to a facility with 17,000 square feet instead of the 12,000 square feet it now has.

"He suggested we make a big leap and expand the program and its exhibits" orienting them toward the family unit, and include programming to appeal to high school students and adults, said Ms. Berry. The museum now caters to children.

Although the museum should continue to be allied with the schools, said the consultant, it should open its programs further to the public as a whole.

The consultants liked the location of the museum, said Ms. Berry, "because of its historic interpretation in the historic district" and the firm said the theme could be developed even more.

Times Mirror Asks to Keep Cable Outlets

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Times Mirror Co. Friday asked state regulators to allow its crossownership of Connecticut's largest newspaper and two cable TV outlets for at least five years and then review the impact.

Times Mirror President Robert Erburu said the wait would put his firm in a position to earn a return on its investment in the Meriden and Hartford cable firms, while allowing time to see if dire predictions made by smaller state newspapers opposed to the cross-ownership were realized.

Erburu said he appreciated the four smaller dailies' concern that ownership of the cable firms and the Hartford Courant by the Los Angeles based media conglomerate was wrong on principle and would give the Courant an unfair edge in competition.

But he told a Division of Public Utility Control hearing panel many of the newspapers' fears were based on the still uncertain possibility of a boom in the cable industry and its technology.

Erburu repeated his firm's willingness to ban combined advertising rates by the Courant and cable firms and allow equal access to all newspapers to cable channels.

He testified during the last of four days of hearings on a request by state Consumer Counsel Barry Zitter and the smaller dailies that the DPUC rescind its 1978 approval of Times Mirror's buying the cable firms in light of the firm's subsequent purchase of the Courant, the nation's oldest newspaper.

Erburu said the five-year wait also would give the DPUC time to see if the firm adhered to the restrictions it proposed.

But Carter White, publisher of the Morning Record and Journal of Meriden - one of the four challenging newspapers - said allowing the crossownership would be a case of the government granting a license which restricted competition.

"I'm convinced we're on the threshold of a whole new era for cable," said White, who added that he welcomed competition - but not when his "major" competitor has the advantage of potential joint advertising, promotion, and news gathering capabilities.

The DPUC gave both sides and others who want to comment on the case until next Friday to submit completed testimony and exhibits. The panel will then schedule final arguments by the attorneys before making its decision.

Times Mirror also publishes two other Connecticut papers - the Stamford Advocate and the Greenwich Time, as well as the Los Angeles Times, the Dallas Times Herald and Newsday on Long Island, N.Y.

Assemblyman Penalized For Stationery Misuse

HARTFORD (UPI) - Rep. Paul LaRosa, D-Hartford, has been assessed a $250 civil penalty for using state stationery and envelopes to invite legislators, lobbyists and the Secretary of State to his new restaurant.

Keith Lakey, an investigator with the state Ethics Commission, said Friday the commission found LaRosa violated the law when he used 250 legislative envelopes and a copy of his official stationery for invitations to the Casa Loma.

The commission said LaRosa did not willfully violate the law, so it assessed a civil penalty instead of a criminal prosecution, Lakey said.

The agency acted on a complaint from William Olds, executive director of the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union. The agreement was settled and signed and the penalty was paid on Oct. 28, Lakey said.

"I'm pleased that legislators will have guidance in the future on how to handle matters of this kind," Olds said in commenting on the commission's action. LaRosa was not available for comment.

LaRosa mailed letters to legislators, lobbyists and Secretary of the State Barbara Kennedy inviting them to a grand opening of the Casa Loma in Hartford on Sept. 24. The letter was signed by LaRosa and his son, Anthony.

LaRosa said the letter mentioned that the Casa Loma serves business lunches, dinners, pizza and liquor. It also noted that LaRosa is a co-chairman of the Public Health Committee.

Collector's Corner Graphophone One Type Of Cylinder Machine

By RUSS MACKENDRICK This is a "Graphophone," the Columbia version of the kind of machine also called phonogram, phonograph, gramophone, and the name that stuck-phonograph.

Thomas Edison made the first one, which he called simply a "talking machine." He expected its greatest usage would be for dictation.

The earliest commercial "phone" used wax cylinders to record and play back the sound. This "Grapho" (the property of Judd Caplovich of Vernon), is shown without the cylinder. The bell-type horn that dominates the scene is actually just about the simplest they came out with.

Most of them were larger, petal-like and flaring. Many had monstrous curving and needed some kind of contraption for support. A page from an Edison catalog of cylinder phonographs shows fully 20 models to choose from.

Both Columbia and Edison were offering cylinder records in the early 1900s. Columbia gave them up in favor of the disc type in 1912, though Edison company still made them until 1929.

The discs could be mass-produced while the cylinders had to be made piecemeal. There was one advantage with the cylinders, though-an oldtime advertisement offers a machine that "will record, will reproduce, will scratch this and re-use the cylinder for something else when that particular bit of vocalizing had lost its charm. (That type of machine was phased out in 1904.)" magazine gives prices of $2 to $4 for garden variety recordings, with scarcer items having the voices of William Jennings Bryan, or Teddy Roosevelt, or Edison himself.

Science and Technology

Editor's Note: This is the ninth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Connections: Technology and Change." In this article, historian Robert P. Muthauf of the Smithsonian Institution explains how science and technology, once quite distinct, are becoming increasingly interdependent and practically indistinguishable.

This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Manchester Community College offers a three-credit course based on the newspaper series. For information, call 646-2137.

A related 10-part television series, "Connections," is being broadcast Sunday evenings this fall on Connecticut Public Television.

By Robert P. Muthauf

Although scientists and technologists still think of themselves as doing different things — the former exploring nature's mysteries, the latter satisfying human needs — they have come to recognize their increasing interdependence, and many people today have trouble distinguishing between them.

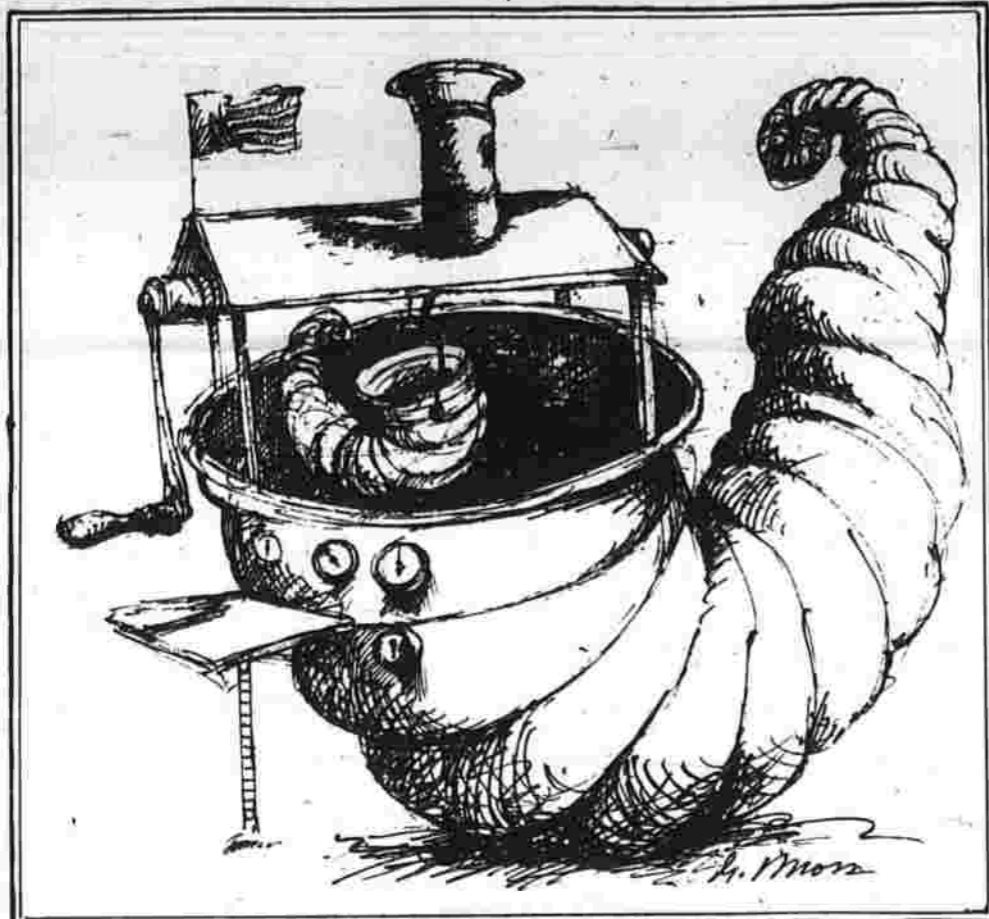

Illustration of a steam engine, showing the intricate mechanical components and the large flywheel.

To the 19th century American, the troubling of "pure" scientists seemed in ridiculous contrast to the ever more fruitful business of inventors.

A century before, Benjamin Franklin, a distinguished practitioner of both science and technology, favored science, but he was remembered mainly as a political hero — Joseph Henry, probably the most important American scientist of the mid-19th century, also practiced both, and clearly preferred science. He deplored the American mania for novelty and, as first Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, convinced Congress to establish in the Smithsonian the nation's first scientific research laboratory.

But science was dull stuff compared to the inventor's apparently inexhaustible bag of tricks. Before 1850 the inventor turned out such wonders as the cotton gin, patent leather, the harvesting machine, clipper ship, Colt revolver, and mass-produced clocks and guns.

A Genius for Invention

Europeans began to suspect that Americans had a peculiar genius for invention. By the 1880s they were convinced of it by the inventions of Thomas Alva Edison, who was entertained as an equal by the greatest scientist of France, Louis Pasteur.

Edison called himself an inventor, and was as emphatic about it as Henry had been in calling himself a scientist. Like Franklin before them, Henry and Edison worked in electricity, a field that changed in Franklin's youth from a collection of lore about sparks and "attractions" into a new science.

But even while electricity remained largely a mystery, it was readily exploited by inventors. Always alert for utility, Franklin supplemented his science by inventing a toy electric machine that turned a wheel. In the 19th century, such electrical toys evolved into practical machines. Edison combined the steam driven generator with the electric light and a distribution system to inaugurate the modern era of electric power.

By the 1880s the cornucopia of technology had yielded artificial plastics, aluminum, the calculating machine, typewriter, and machine gun.

But the most startling inventions were still in electricity, where Americans remained preeminent. The electromagnetic telegraph had cut the time for communicating between cities and countries from days to seconds. The most successful was that of Samuel F. B. Morse, a painter who knew little of electricity, but who had an indispensable idea, the "Morse code." Morse consulted Henry, whose annoyance at this exploitation of his favorite science increased when Morse utilized one of Henry's incidental inventions, the electromagnetic relay.

Henry's indignation had scarcely subsided when he was visited by a teacher of speech named Alexander Graham Bell, who wanted to transmit speech by electricity but admitted knowing nothing about electricity. Henry's gruff advice that he "learn it" masked a willingness to help, and Bell became in 1878 the most successful of numerous inventors of the telephone.

Eminent Mechanics

American inventiveness was, in fact, a culmination of events that began in Europe in the Middle Ages, when nonhuman sources of power first mechanized metal working and textile production. Anonymous craftsmen in Italy and Germany were mainly responsible for these innovations, but by the 18th century Britain had taken the lead, with the invention of the steam engine and its development into a versatile source of power for factories, railroads, and steamships.

These inventors were no longer anonymous laborers in the vineyard of technology. James Watt, Henry Maudslay, and other "eminent mechanics" were predecessors of 19th century American inventors.

These events paralleled a revival of the rational explanation of nature which we call science — a more visible development since it involved educated upper and middle class men such as Rene Descartes, Christian Huygens, and Isaac Newton. Science also became a hobby of the wealthy, thanks largely to new instruments, such as the telescope and microscope.

There was no gulf between science and technology in the 17th century. Scientists agreed with the English philosopher Francis Bacon that science should be applied to the useful arts, and many scientists tried their own hands at invention.

The scientist-inventor, however, proved to be a dud. Science and technology seemed, in the last analysis, to require different kinds of talent. In time the European scientist decided to stick to his specialty, which was, after all, more intellectual, less commercial, and clearly a higher calling. "Eminent mechanics" were still mechanics, beneath the level of what came to be called pure science.

In the United States this bias was reversed. Democracy was the ideal, and "monarchical institutions" such as academies of science were rejected. The eminent mechanic was honored in America both socially and economically.

Thus Franklin, Henry, and Edison represent phases in the relationship of science and technology. Franklin was intellectually a European, a scientist-inventor imbued with Baconian ideas. Henry was a scientist in an America where scientists were held in low esteem. Edison was a technologist in an America where the eminent mechanic reigned unchallenged.

Useful Science

But other phases were to follow. Even as Edison enjoyed his triumph, Bacon's long disregarded assumption that science could be useful to technology was becoming a reality.

About the Author

Robert P. Muthauf has been with the Smithsonian Institution since 1964, serving as Chairman of the Department of Science and Technology of the U. S. National Museum, as Director of the Museum of History and Technology, and as a senior researcher. He is also Adjunct Professor at George Washington University.

He is president of the History of Science Society and for many years was editor of its journal, "Isis."

His publications include "The Origins of Chemistry" and "Neptune's Gift: A History of Common Salt."

In 1856, A. W. von Hofmann, a German who headed the Royal College of Chemistry in London, was appalled when his student, William Henry Perkin, tried to salvage an unsuccessful experiment that yielded a messy purple sediment by marketing the stuff as a dye. It was the first of many artificial dyes that were commercially profitable, and eventually scientifically interesting.

In one of his last interviews, Edison predicted that man would invent a weapon so horrible that he would "abandon war forever." Such a weapon was indeed developed, not under the leadership of eminent mechanics but of university trained scientists and engineers.

Scientists and engineers have found a psychologically acceptable middle ground in "applied science," while military necessity and government support enable them to produce marvels far beyond the capacity, if not the imagination, of the now legendary Edison.

CONNECTIONS TECHNOLOGY AND CHANGE

Since 1945 science and technology have become virtually indistinguishable, except as preferences of particular individuals. "Improvements" have gushed forth across the whole spectrum of science and technology, and Francis Bacon has been justified.

The late-20th-century American no longer laughs at science, while his enthusiasm for technology has dimmed considerably, and he has increasing difficulty telling which is which.

It seems that we have entered not just another phase in the relationship between science and technology, but another era, with a different question: the relationship between science-technology and society.

The views expressed in Courses by Newspaper are those of the authors only and do not necessarily reflect those of the University of California, the National Endowment for the Humanities, the distributing agency, or the participating newspapers and colleges.

Next Week: Engineer and historian Eugene S. Ferguson of the University of Delaware explores the impact of engineering demands on technology and, consequently, on society.

Questions

- Which of the following is NOT consistent with Muthauf's review of the relationship between science and technology?
  - traditionally, scientists explore nature's mysteries; technologists satisfy human needs
  - in the 17th Century there was no gulf between science and technology
  - in mid-19th Century America, "eminent mechanics" were held in lower esteem than scientists
  - Since 1945, science and technology have become virtually indistinguishable.
- By the 1880s, "the cornucopia of technology" had produced all but one of the following:
  - machine guns
  - calculating machines
  - artificial plastics
  - cathode ray oscilloscopes

EAST HARTFORD - Joseph Paquette, an independent candidate for mayor, dropped out of the race Friday and threw his support to Democrat George A. Dagon.

Paquette said he dropped out because he was afraid he might draw some of Dagon's support and thus contribute to a victory for Republican mayoral candidate Philip G. Russell. "The Republicans haven't raised any issues and don't deserve to be in there," he said.

He said he is impressed with Dagon and that he and Dagon share some similar views on issues. Both support a strong conflict of interest ordinance and public financial disclosure of business and property holdings by town officials.

Paquette's campaign focused on what he claimed was a system of collusion between town officials and top Democratic officials, most notably real estate agent and Democratic State Central Committeeman Eugene Paganetti.

He also charged that former Planning and Zoning Commission Vice Chairman Frederick Bartlett had business associations with several developers who gained favorable zoning decisions from the PZC.

Bartlett resigned in early September from the PZC because he moved to Old Saybrook. A Town Council subcommittee investigated the charges and found no evidence of impropriety or wrongdoing. However, the com-

Correction

MANCHESTER - The section of Friday's special election supplement dealing with John Tucci, independent candidate for the Board of Directors, inadvertently dropped a portion of the resume of Tucci's education.

Police Report

MANCHESTER - John A. Hanley, 17, of 22 Diane Drive was arrested Friday on a charge of falsely reporting an accident. Police said the charge stems from a false fire alarm reported from an alarm box at Manchester High School Friday morning. Court date is Nov. 26.

She weighs 135 pounds. She was last seen driving her 1977 white Dodge Monaco with Connecticut registration MW-9698. Anyone with information is asked to call the police at 633-8301.

Late Issue in Election Won't Be One After All

MANCHESTER - The last minute issue that almost was in the town election isn't and won't be, The Herald has learned.

A Monday morning press conference had been called by the Democratic majority on the Board of Directors to release the town audit. Joseph Sweeney, retiring member of the board, Friday called the press conference for 9 a.m. Monday. Later Friday he canceled it.

He informed Republican Director Carl Zinsner of the release of the report, he said, as a courtesy.

Zinsner and Republican Town Chairman Richard Weinstein said the press conference would have been a last-minute campaign issue, presented without giving Republicans time to respond. Weinstein called the move by Democrats, "pure partisan politics," and "a desperate act by a desperate party trying to pull the election out of the fire."

Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings said in the interest of fairness he would recommend the Monday press conference be canceled after he was told of the Republican objections.

Under the format, candidates had three minutes to present their platforms. They were then given a chance to answer prepared questions from the sponsors and, later, were asked to respond to questions from the audience.

Paquette said the candidates' night format did not allow him to get the exposure he had hoped for.

Paquette said he made his decision to drop out after he met Dagon at a recent interview for a newspaper article and "saw how sincere he was."

Paquette, a self-employed plumbing contractor, ran in a Democratic primary in 1977 against Mayor Richard H. Blackstone. He lost by a two-to-one margin.

Surplus Less Than Thought

MANCHESTER - When the town audit report is released it will, as predicted, show a surplus.

Two weeks ago town officials announced an anticipated $216,000 surplus.

A reliable source has told The Herald that expenditures on the programs will make the surplus closer to $40,000. The source close to the audit preparation said the added programs, coupled with bills which had been incurred but not paid when the town books were closed July 1, have been funded from the projected $216,000 surplus and account for the reduction of surplus funds that will be reflected when the audit report is released.

Panel Supports Zoning Changes

HEBRON - Members of the Commission on the Aging have voted unanimously to support proposed zoning changes which would permit cluster housing for the handicapped and the elderly.

The commission plans to attend the public hearing to be conducted by the Planning and Zoning Commission Nov. 13, to discuss the amendment. The hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Office Building.

First Selectman Aaron Reid told members that the town is looking into a 20 or 21-acre parcel of land and considering the possibility of putting up 20 cluster units. He said he hopes the town will be able to obtain 100 percent reimbursement for the project. He also said that a Housing Authority would have to be established to administer the program.

Also at the meeting, commission members were told that the new cost figure for the van for the handicapped and elderly, is $3,500 and members of the committee said the November meeting will be devoted to discussion of uses and guidelines for the van.

The committee also agreed to conduct its meetings on the fourth Tuesday of each month, at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Office Building, but the December meeting, which would fall on Christmas Day, will instead be scheduled for Dec. 18.

AARP Sets Meeting

MANCHESTER - The monthly meeting of the Connecticut Northeast Chapter, 604 AARP, will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at KofC Hall, 138 Main St.

The Beechoven Glee Club has been secured by program director Gerald Bowler to provide entertainment.

Members are reminded that the champagne brunch trip will be Sunday and will leave the King's parking lot off Broad Street near the post office at 10:30 a.m.

Legislative committee chairwoman Evelyn Grogan asks members to pay attention to her state legislative work as described in the November bulletin.

Fall Cleanup

COVENTRY - The Manchester Rod and Gun Club will hold a fall cleanup day Sunday at 8 a.m. with a dinner served at 2 p.m. at Daley Road, Coventry.

Bicyclist Assaulted

SOUTH WINDSOR - Lawrence A. Williams, 18, of 3 Gray Road was assaulted while riding his bike on Sullivan Avenue at 1:40 p.m. Friday and robbed of $15 at knifepoint, police said.

The assailant is described as a 20-year-old black male about 5 foot 5 with a large afro hair style, clean shaven with a medium build. Police said he got away on a green 10-speed bicycle. The matter is under investigation.

Hjalmeier Enjoys Theater

By BETTY RYDER
Family Editor

If you've done a double-take while watching a man in a business suit stroll through a Springdale Mall television commercial and said to yourself, "Where have I seen him before?" you were watching Bob Hjalmeier of Manchester.

Then again, maybe you enjoyed last night's opening night performance of "Bells Are Ringing" presented by the Little Theatre of Manchester at East Catholic High School, in which Bob plays "Jeff Moss" the role originally portrayed by Sydney Chaplin on Broadway.

Of course, you may have seen him coming through the door of your place of business as a sales representative for The Herald.

Bob, a very versatile man, has been involved in theatrical work for 20 years. A Manchester native, he graduated from Manchester High School, and went on to become a rock 'n' roll singer using the name of "Bobby."

"I sang with Connecticut Bandstand and with Dick Clark radio shows," Bob said. "Later, I became a club singer and changed my name to Bob Martel since my agent thought I needed one with less of a rock 'n' roll sound."

As a club singer, he performed in Florida and throughout Connecticut, and it was while living in East Hartford that he caught the acting bug as a member of a now defunct theatrical group, "Cue and Curtain."

"In the early 60s, I played basically young male leads. About five years ago, I decided I couldn't play those roles any longer and changed to character acting. In the past year, I have played ages ranging from a 19-year-old in 'Velvet and Turtlet' to two 70-year-old in 'Good Doctor,' and

"I study with Karen at home. She reads me the cue lines and we try to smooth it all out. Unfortunately, some people think rehearsal time is the time to study and that makes for slow rehearsals," Bob said.

In "Bells Are Ringing" Bob does a soft shoe dance. "It was a new experience, especially since I'm not a dancer."

Theater has played an integral part in the Hjalmeier family. "I was rehearsing for the 1967 production of LTM's 'Look Homeward Angel' when Karen, who was taking dancing lessons at the Burton Studio located in the same building walked across the hall. I immediately asked who she was, we met at the cast party, and several months later we were married."

"Bells Are Ringing" with books and lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green and music by Jule Styne is being presented tonight and next Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 at East Catholic High School auditorium.

It's the story of a small answering service in New York which becomes a bookmaking service. Pretty Carol French plays the role originated by Judy Holiday.

Memorable show tunes are "Just in Time" and "The Party's Over."

Even time for golf, sharing a stamp collection with Melissa and playing with a train set with Eric.

He has had lead roles in "How to Succeed in Business" and LTM's most recent production of "Company."

What role would he like to play? Why Harold Hill, of course - the devil-may-care salesman with an eye for the ladies in "The Music Man." We'll look forward to that day.

Indians Repeat X-Country Champs

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

Going out strong to gain position, Manchester High scooted to the CIAC state boys' Class LL Cross Country Championship Meet title yesterday at Timberlin Golf Course in Berlin.

The Silk Towners accumulated a total of 86 points for a comfortable runner-up Southington High, which had 163 points. Defending champ New Canaan was third with 192 points followed by Shelton High 200 and Norwich Free Academy 218.

The top five teams, and top 30 individuals, advanced to Friday's State Open Meet at Edgewood Country Club in Cromwell. The top two teams received trophies while members of the top three teams, and top 10 individuals, received medals.

My philosophy has been to go out and get position," stated Trice Coach George Sutor, who now has two state titles to his credit. The Indians captured the Class LL title previously in 1977.

"We ran aggressively today. You have to go out and get position. You have to go out fast, you have to take the chance. It is very hard to pass people at the end," Sutor continued.

Kevin King of Westhill High of Stamford was the individual winner with a time of 15:22.1 over the 5,000 m (3.1 mile) layout. Manchester's Tim DeValve was next in 15:27, about 10 yards behind. Meek was the fastest guy on the course last mile-and-a-half. Sutor noted, Meek moved up from ninth placement in the last mile to secure third.

Jim Grymkowski was 14th for the Silk Towners with a time of 16:07.3 followed by Dave DeValve 24th and Joe Neubelt 45th. Paul Johnson was 65th and Andy Wickwire 76th for Manchester.

"I think we ran well, not super. Meek ran super. Grymkowski ran well. Dave DeValve ran well, maybe his best, and Neubelt did well holding onto the fifth spot."

South Windsor's Petet Anthony was sixth with a time of 15:32.3 and Glastonbury High's Bill Anderson was 11th (15:04.6) but team-wise, neither the Bobcats nor the Tomahawks advanced in the Class LL field. Neither did Rockville High, which totaled 316 points to finish back in the field. Bob Martin was 47th.

Manchester is "going to run in the Open, we're not going to lay down," Sutor mused. "There are a lot of good teams in the Open with 100 super runners. What we want to do is maintain our composure."

27th, Fred Turkington 3rd, Doug Strauss 75th, Fred Arcoles 90th and Mark Linton 91st for the Rams.

Mike Gatti and Ed Torres were 50th and 91st respectively for Penney, which only had the pair entered.

Reason to Smile

"The guy never smiles," Lindy Remigio, cross country coach at Hartford Public High said of Manchester High's George Sutor.

The local cross country coach is smiling now, from ear to ear, after his charges captured a second CIAC Class LL championship yesterday afternoon in Berlin. The first success came in 1977.

"I told Remigio it wasn't true," Sutor said.

"It wasn't true," Sutor said of the former Olympic Gold Medal winner's comments.

Big League Show

Arnold Dean's roast to benefit the Connecticut Lung Association this week in Hartford was big league from start to finish with the best "roasters," West Hartford florist Rex O'Meara and the voice of the Red Sox, Ken Coleman. A Meara, who masquerades at times as a Red Sox coach, as he did in Hartford, was absolutely superb and had the capacity to crowd in stitches with his rhymology. One of the best parts of the long drawn out program was the fact the no smoking rule was enforced for the most part. Dean's response about the remarks constituted by each member of the host table were quite humorous and held the interest of the crowd of over 400 to near midnight. In this man's book, Arnold Dean is tops in his trade and a rival for Bob Steele's long-time popularity on WTIC.

Gordie Impressed

Barney Kremenko was a top-flight sportsman in 35 years for years. Our paths first crossed in New York when he covered the Yankees at the Dodgers at Ebbets Field and the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds.

"Now retired from the every day rain or shine business, Kremenko is employed as a communications consultant with the New York Yankees and Oakland A's in the first round. Montgomery failed to draw a bid.

Goltz considered one of the top right-handers in the American League, was the top choice of owners and general managers as he was selected the maximum 13 times in the first round.

Reached while duck hunting in western Minnesota Friday, Goltz said: "You hope for at least a half a dozen so you can have some choice. But it is a great pleasure to see all 13. Flattering, I guess."

Goltz, 27, posted a 14-13 record this season and has won in double figures for the past six years. He has a 9-7 lifetime record against the Red Sox.

As for the prospects of coming to Boston, Goltz said before the draft that "pitching in Fenway Park would be both a pitcher's dream and a nightmare. It would be a dream because of the hitting behind me and a nightmare because of the park."

"We're looking for pitching, everyone is," Red Sox spokesman Bill Crowley said following the draft.

In a couple of cases, he said, the Red Sox are "waiting for medical

There were no surprises in the CIAC state boys' Class L Cross Country Championship Golf Course in Berlin, Xavier, High, for the fifth year in a row, won the team title with a total of 59 points followed by St. Bernard 97, East Catholic 109, Holy Cross of Waterbury 119 and Guilford High 126.

The top five teams and top 20 individuals advanced to Friday's State Open Meet at Edgewood Country Club in Cromwell. The top two teams received trophies while members of the top three teams, and top 10 individuals, received medals.

"I was covering the Rangers at the time," Sutor said.

"I saw Gordie play in New York the other night (against the Islanders) and he still looked pretty good to me. I hadn't seen him play since he left the NHL for the WHA."

"He's so smart. He knows just where to be. He's not as rough now, he's done a good job into the corners, but he still knows how to use his elbows."

After the Islanders staged a comeback to win in the Park City, 2-1, I met up with Kremenko again.

"The Whalers are a lot better expansion team than I expected. They are not going to be easy for the long drawn out program was the fact the no smoking rule was enforced for the most part. ## Dreams Failed to Materialize

By LEN AUSTER

Individual championships, in Class LL and L respectively, were the dreams of Manchester's John DeValve and East Catholic's John Clifford but both had to settle for runner-up honors at yesterday's state meet at the late Casey Stengel, who was the only manager he ever played for with the Yankees.

"Obviously I can't approach this job the way Stengel did with the Yankees," Coleman said. "The players are different, the times are different, when did I ever see a ballplayer make a statement to a newspaper that he just wasn't unhappy 30 years ago? It just wasn't done. Today, it's so what? Nevertheless, I still think ballplayers are like kids. They want to be disciplined."

"One of the biggest things I picked up from Casey was that men want to win for you instead of only those nine on the field. Even if you have a guy like Bob Cerv to break up double plays or pinch hit, make use of him. I'll tell you something most people never realized. Casey never tried to win a ballgame that was lost with his starting pitcher. He'd never break up his rotation. He'd even concede a game now and then just to maintain his regular rotation."

For those who may not know a whole lot about Jerry Coleman, the first thing I would say about him is he's a gentleman. The second thing I would say is he always had a faculty of doing more than was expected of him, for making some vital contribution to the Yankees' cause during the nine years he played for them. They won eight pennants in that period and six world championships.

And for those who may argue the idea Coleman isn't a tough enough man, they should know the Marines called him up for a second tour of duty while he was with the Yankees in 1962 and that is a big bombier

Swimmers Close Slate In Triumph

East Catholic's girls' swimming team closed out its dual meet season yesterday with a 108-67 win over Mercy High at the East Hartford High pool.

The Eaglettes wind up 7-4, with their last action at the state Class M Qualifying Meet Wednesday evening at Woodrow Wilson High in Middletown.

Clifford captured the 200-yard individual medley and 100-yard butterfly, and Kelli Dakin secured the 100-yard breaststroke to highlight the Eaglette victory. Lynne Dakin, Karin McCaffrey, Jane Price, Mary McCarthy, Kathy Patria, Beth Negri and Joanne Swanson also swam well for the team.

Clifford and DeValve Gain Second Places

Clifford worked his way from 15th place but finished 15 yards short of newly crowned Class L champ Mike Regan of Guilford High. Regan turned in a 15:10 clocking, Clifford a time of 15:23.

Both are looking for return shots. DeValve after the race stated, "I feel easy," speaking in the physical and mental sense. "I think I ran a poor race but there's nothing I can do about it."

"My strategy was sound but I just felt lousy," the bespectacled, curly-haired senior continued. "I felt bad all week in practice and I had cramps starting Wednesday. I ate a lot of candy for Halloween, yesterday and today, and I felt heavy. I thought after passing (Peter) Anthony of going after King but I couldn't pick it up anymore. I just couldn't move."

"I think they ate too much sugar the last couple of days. That's my fault," viewed Tribe Coach George Sutor. "Timmy has never had two bad races in a row. He'll be back," Sutor smiled.

Clifford was not boxed in at the start as some thought, but was following his strategy. But it failed, forcing in part by Regan's move of taking a big lead.

"It was obvious that he (Regan) went out and said 'Catch me,'" observed East Coach Jack Hull. "We knew Regan would be exceptionally strong. I just guess today was Mike Regan's day."

Tribe Tankers Top Windham

With Anne Morrison and Melissa Geagan leading the way, Manchester High girls' swimming team wrapped up its 1979 dual meet season yesterday with a 90-82 victory over CCIL (of Windham High at the Indians' pool).

The win improved the Silk Towners' final overall mark to 9-1. Manchester wound up 7-1 in the league, good for second place. The Indians have won 31 of their last 32 dual meets over a four-year span.

Morrison turned in best efforts in the 200 and 500-yard freestyles while Geagan was a standout in the 100 and 200-yard freestyles. The 400-yard freestyle relay of Geagan, Leckan Stauffer, Morrison and Beth MacDonald turned in a 3:58.0 clocking, the fastest time in the CCIL this season.

Next action for Manchester is Wednesday evening at the state Class LL Qualifying Meet at Southern Connecticut State College in New Haven.

Rec Basketball Clinic Slated Next Week

Due to an insufficient number of pee-wees registered at the East Side Rec they will be combined with the West Side and the Pee-wee League will be played at the West Side.

All participants are reminded to wear shorts and sneakers at the clinic.

Peewees (ages 8-9) who registered at the East Side Rec are to report to the West Side for the clinic.

Illing Booters Turn Back Edwards

Coming from behind twice, Iling Junior High's soccer squad topped Timothy Edwards yesterday in South Windsor, 4-3.

Iling's record is now 6-2-2.

The well-played game saw Edwards grab a 2-0 halftime lead but Coach Tom Kelley shook up the Iling lineup in the second half and it worked wonders.

Youth basketball clinics will be conducted at the West Side Recreation Center 110 Cedar St. on the following dates: Junior Division (ages 12-15) Wednesday, Nov. 7, 14 6:30 to 8:00; P-ee-Wee (8-9) Saturday, Nov. 10, 17 10:30 a.m. to noon.

Red Sox Select Seven Hurlers

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox, who last season struggled without pitchers Bill Lee and Luis Tiant, went to the free agent pitching well in Friday's fourth annual re-entry draft by selecting seven hurlers.

The Red Sox, who also drafted Chicago White Sox catcher Milt May and Montreal first baseman Tony Perez, made Minnesota Twins pitcher Dave Goltz their first pick.

Only two Boston players were involved in the draft — first baseman-designated hitter Bob Watson and backup catcher Bob Montgomery. Watson was selected by nine teams — including the New York Yankees and Oakland A's in the first round. Montgomery failed to draw a bid.

Goltz, 27, posted a 14-13 record this season and has won in double figures for the past six years. He has a 9-7 lifetime record against the Red Sox.

As for the prospects of coming to Boston, Goltz said before the draft that "pitching in Fenway Park would be both a pitcher's dream and a nightmare. It would be a dream because of the hitting behind me and a nightmare because of the park."

Today's Sport Parade

UPI Sports Editor

Right Only to a Point
NEW YORK (UPI) — If you've heard it, what makes you think Jerry Coleman hasn't heard it, too?

Everybody's saying he's too nice a guy. He's a pussy cat who'll be skinned alive in the pressure cooker he has gotten himself into. After 20 years up there in the broadcast booth, he's never going to make it as the new manager of the San Diego Padres.

The people saying that are absolutely right — but only up to a point. Jerry Coleman is a nice guy, a very nice guy. He's far from being a pussy cat, though, and not only do I think he'll make it with the Padres, I have the gut feeling he'll make it big, and it wouldn't surprise me in the least if the Padres players respond to him far quicker and better than we generally expect.

Some already have.

Rellye Fingers, the Padres' ace reliever, told me the other day he believes Coleman will surprise a lot of people and that he's likely to make the transition from the broadcast booth to the field much easier than everybody thinks.

"He's got two things going for him right off the bat," Fingers said. "He certainly knows baseball and all the guys like him. I think he'll do all right."

"No Social Club"

The fact that so many, even those with other clubs in baseball, have the impression he may be "too soft" with the players, doesn't bother the 55-year-old former Yankee second baseman that much. Looking me straight in the eye when I talked to him about it, Coleman's voice hardened uncharacteristically and he conveyed the full impact of what he meant by his answer.

"I'd do what I have to do," he said. "We're not going to run a social club. By the same token, I'm not coming in with a gun and a whip. I think people are skeptical because there has to be a credibility problem concerning me. Most of the young people around today don't even know I played baseball. My last season with the Yankees was 1957 and that was a long time ago. When I accepted the Padres' job, everybody in San Diego said 'What?'"

Coleman's wife, Louise, was among them.

When he called her to tell her what had done, he said to her: "Are you sitting down?"

"Why?" she asked.

"Because I'm going to manage the ball club," Coleman told her.

"Are you crazy?" she said to him. Coleman then explained his reasons why he was doing it, what an enormous challenge he felt it was, and after listening to all he had to say, his wife said happily, "That's great."

For those who don't know a whole lot about Jerry Coleman, the first thing I would say about him is he's a gentleman. The second thing I would say is he always had a faculty of doing more than was expected of him, for making some vital contribution to the Yankees' cause during the nine years he played for them. ## Saints in Unfamiliar Spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New Orleans Saints find themselves in a most unfamiliar position; but you won't find anybody on the team complaining.

The Saints, after dropping their first three games of the season, have reached five victories in the last six to move into first place — one game ahead of the injury-plagued Los Angeles Rams — in the NFC West. And suddenly, Sunday's game with the Denver Broncos takes on new meaning.

The only big games the Saints used to have," said New Orleans "Fats" quarterback Archie Manning, "is when your grandmother came to see you play."

Manning, the NFC's fifth-leading passer, directs the highest scoring offense in the conference while his favorite target, second-year wide receiver, Tommie Smith, leads the NFL in total yardage with 41 catches for 745 yards and five touchdowns.

While it has been common knowledge that the Saints can pile points on the board, the New Orleans Saints' defense, led by end Elton Grooms, looked awesome in recording seven sacks against Joe Theismann and 11 on the Redskins 18 times from inside the 10-yard line to capture a 14-10 decision — their third straight victory.

"I don't think I can remember in my entire career a team refuse to allow a team to cross its goal line as many times as we did," said Saints' defensive coordinator Paul Wagnon, a former head coach with Kansas City. "You can't single out one guy. Our whole team played with inner effort. I am proud to be part of it."

The Saints face their toughest task this season against the Broncos at Mile High Stadium. Denver is currently tied with San Diego for

Pitchers Prime Draft Selections

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pitchers, as expected, turned out to be the prime selections in the annual major league re-entry market Friday with right-hander Dave Goltz of the Minnesota Twins leading the parade to the cash register.

There were only four players from the list of 44 draft eligibles who were selected the maximum number of times, and Goltz made history by using up all his allotments in the first round.

Pitchers Bruce Kison of Pittsburgh, John Curtis of San Francisco, Nolan Ryan of California, Don Harabosky of Baltimore and Al Harabosky of Kansas City, as well as infielder Rennie Stennett of Pittsburgh, also drew plenty of interest. Kison, Curtis and Stennett each was selected by 12 teams while Ryan, Stanhouse and Harabosky went 12 times each.

"I came here with an open mind," said Stanhouse. "I feel I can pitch for any team in any city. Obviously, I don't see a prime consideration. That's what we're in this business for. But, the organization and how they treat me also will figure in my choice down to a few weeks."

Not every one came out of the draft smiling. Sixteen players were not selected by any team and some of them are free agents allowed to work out their own deal. However, much of their bargaining power has been shown in them.

It was also a sad day for Cincinnati's Joe Morgan, the former two-time National League most valuable player. Morgan, 35, was taken by only four teams and the Reds humiliated him further by passing on their rights to continue negotiations with him.

On the other hand, executive director Marvin Miller of the Players Association was pleased with the proceedings.

"I think it went very well," said Miller. "More importantly, this marks the fourth draft. The result has been after the first three, baseball has prospered, setting records each year. One of the fears of the owners was that of competitive imbalance but this has not occurred."

There have been situations where players have been drafted by one or two clubs or clubs which have not been interested, and a few other minor problems. But free agency works and any club that recognizes talent will give its talented players the best contract they can."

Eagles Upset Xavier, 21-18

It's been a long time coming, 13 years in fact, but East Catholic finally took the measure of powerful Xavier High on the gridiron, 21-18, last night at Palmer Field in Middletown. The Eagles' victory was the first since 1966 when they were 7-6 yards in the final stanza. Gilberto did most of the work with Pacheco passing the final 13 yards to Freiheit.

On the ensuing kickoff, Frey returned it 43 yards and a personal foul call moved it to the East 7. But the Eagles were demoralized as Bob Beltrandi came up with a big interception for East at the Eagle 1. East couldn't move and punter Jim McKenna, who made some key runs around end, ran out of the end zone concealing the two-point safety.

A 40-yard scamper by Frey put the Eagles trailing 16-7, late in the third quarter. Touchdowns of 1-yard by Steve Frey and 27-yards by Mike Niemiarski on a flea-flicker from end Joe Kiaras pointed on the conversions had outdistanced a one-yard quarterback sneak by East quarterback Tom Pacheco and a Mike Freiheit PAT in the first quarter.

East narrowed the gap with 4:39 left in the third stanza on a 49-yard punt by workhorse fullback Mike Freiheit. Freiheit PAT in the first quarter.

"We ran the ball well. We had some nice sweeps by Jim McKenna," Freiheit said. "Kelly voiced, 'That softened up the middle for Mike Gilberto, who played his heart out. The sweeps opened up the inside late in the second half.'"

"The players came in with the right frame of mind and played their hearts out," Kelly related.

Howe on Spree In Whaler Win

Two goals by Gordie Howe and one each by Mark Howe, Mike Rogers and Alan Hangules powered the Hartford Whalers last night at the Springfield Civic Center before a third sellout crowd in as many home games.

Grandfather Gordie tallied the first and last Whaler goals in his first two-goal showing of the season. The red light was lit for the fourth and fifth times this season by Howe.

Hangules and Gordie Howe tallied within a 52 second span in the third period which put the verdict on the visitors.

Also if we can find a replacement you will be reimbursed in full, otherwise, because we have committed ourselves to a certain number, we will have to charge accordingly.

This coming Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m. there will be an important meeting for all men golfers who expect to play in our league next season. Important matters will be discussed, and if you do not show up you won't be able to voice your opinion or cast your vote and therefore we will have to go along with the decisions of those present.

While on golf, this past Wednesday our members played against seniors from East Hartford at Twin Hills. The results are as follows: Tweksbury-Koubik E.H. def. Golas-Jaslowski 1 up; Hindle-Hadden (M) def. Kennedy-Dontfellow 4 equal 3; Gartside-Traygis (M) def. Chamberlain-Collier 1 up; Leach-Campbell (E.H.) def. Bidwell-Lumbruno 1 up. The match between Nettleton-Demartin (M) halved Schwarm and Colla; Incidentally, the next match is scheduled at

E.H. Nov. 7, at 10 a.m. Also the indoor golf lessons will start on Nov. 15 at 9 a.m. and 10:15 a.m. at the Green School. Make sure everybody brings a seven iron. Because of the large turnout, the lessons will be divided into two sessions. Joe will contact you as to tell you which group you will be in. Also Joe is looking for volunteers for the garden work needed to be done. It will consist of tilling, liming and overseeding with rye.

We have an unusual request that should be of interest to some of you ladies. If any of you had been a Girl Scout many years ago you could be a big help to a local Brownie Troop. They would like for you to tell them how it was when you belonged. You may even be able to dig up a few pictures. The girls would really like to have one of you ladies to talk with them, and they can even supply the transportation. If you're interested, please contact Patience Hostetter at 643-8118 for all the details. I think it would be fun and I'm sure you would enjoy it.

The happenings here start with the results of our Senior Bowling League, at the Parkade Lanes this past Tuesday afternoon. Class A High Single, Betty Miller, 159; Frank Wotruba, 191; Triple, Florence Rossberg, 405; Frank Wotruba, 524; Class B High Single, Tom Close, 152; Bert Clulow, 144; Triple, Ted Gaderowski, 384; Bert Clulow, 330.

On Wednesday morning we had 44 players for our pinochle games and the winners were: Robinna Carroll, 664; Gladys Seclert, 619; Ernestine Donnelly, 590; Al Chellman, 585; Sam Schors, 570; Don Jorgenson, 563; Heien Silver, 562; Marie Burke, 558; Ann Thompson, 556; Martin Bakstan, 55; Edith O'Brien, 552.

In the afternoon it was bridge and the lucky prize winners are: Billy Stone, 3,720; Rene Maire, 3,880; George Last, 3,940; Kay Ellsworth, 4,090.

Well, although funds to finish the Green School are still somewhere in the distance, we still have quite a bit of action by our seniors as we keep trying to do little things that will help when we get in. For instance, we have the following ladies who spend countless hours at the school cutting and sewing drapes for our many windows; Kay Nettleton, Theresa Hubbard, Dot Brass, Toni Pouch, Edna Christensen, Ida Courmier, Ruth Malon, Katherine Zabrowsky, Adeline Rizza, Violet Dion, Mary Klein, Emma Nyquist, Erne Haberern. All have been doing a real super job. Also helping is Charles Tarpinian along with Russ Nettleton. Doing a super one man job is our good friend Dominic Anastasio who is doing an excellent job in plastering and some cement work.

Yep, while we wait patiently for the day we can move in, some of our members are really contributing many hours of their time to help make this one of the best centers anywhere. We could use a few more men, and it is for only the mornings, so if you'd like to help, just drop in any morning around 9 a.m.

Don't forget that this Thursday is our gala big Holiday Fair. From all reports, it's going to be bigger and better than ever and we have some exceptionally nice items to sell. The fair will start at 9 a.m. and last until 4 p.m. You can still drop off your donations of items any day now up until Tuesday afternoon. Your baked goods may be brought in the first thing Thursday morning.

One of our good friends, Mabel Burdick is in MMH and it would be nice if some of you folks would send her get well cards while she is recuperating.

This is the time of year when we start asking for canned goods donations to help some of our needy right here in town. If any of you would like to bring in a few things, it sure would be helpful, to make a happier

Thanksgiving for many people.

Exemption?

Amid all the complaints about the gasoline shortage, there was recently this letter on the editorial page of the Washington Star: "In your listing of rules and regulations on the odd-even gas plan, you said that van pools are eligible for an exemption certificate. Does that include me?" It was signed "Gerald M. Van Pool, Kensington, Md."

TV DIALOGUE

CAL TALK - I have written before asking about an actor by the name of Cal Bellini. He played in several TV programs - "Hawaii Five-O," "Mod Squad" and the more recent movie, "Little Big Man." As young Bear, I would like to know more about him.

Then he was discovered for movies. "Little Big Man" brought him to Hollywood. But he says that acting is not his main source of income. Somewhere along the way of life, he became an expert in antiques. And he says that today his antique trading underwrites "my acting habit."

Stamped Approval

"Hot Hero Sandwich," the comedy-music-interview series for teen-agers which premieres on NBC Saturday, Nov. 10 has been recommended to schools across the nation by the National Education Association.

The NEA said, "Adolescence - that complicated period in our lives when both social and physical changes usher us from childhood to the world of adults - is brought into sharp focus by 'Hot Hero Sandwich.' Through the use of comedy, celebrity interviews and contemporary music, it communicates the universality of the adolescent experience and presents a positive outlook designed to be instructive as well as entertaining."

TV DIALOGUE

SCAVENGER - I know it's probably too late to get "Battlestar Galactica" back on the air, but what are we Dirk Benedict fans supposed to do? Will he be on another series? - Laura Rohmer, Albuquerque, N.M.

Take two aspirins and go to bed with Buck Rogers (on the TV screen, of course). If that doesn't help, you can see Dirk as a Christmas gift from 20th-Century-Fox, in "Scavenger Hunt." It's a comedy in the vein of "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," with an all-star cast. As for another TV series, there's nothing lined up for the former Lt. Starbuck now, but you never know what the future will bring.

BRIAN'S SONGS - I think "Brian's Song" is the best TV movie ever made, and I would like very much to see it again. Will it be on, even though it's aired several times? Also, can you tell me who wrote the music for the film? - Mrs. William Bradshaw, Canton, Ohio.

You and millions of other viewers agree on that. There's no question that "Brian's Song" will be broadcast again. It's always a ratings winner. The score was written by Michel Legrand and is available on lp.

ROCK ON - Where can I write to Don Kirshner? - Doug Kane, Wilmington, Del.

You can write the Lawrence Welk of rock at Don Kirshner Prods., 9000 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, CA.

HELLISH PRAISE - I thought "When Hell Was In Session" was an excellent drama that just told a little of the horror that Americans suffered in Vietnam. I would like to personally thank the people responsible for this wonderful tribute to Commander Denton. - Marlene Frankel, High Point, N.C.

You can send your sentiments to all involved with the film through the executive producers, James T. Aubrey and Robert Hammer at Aubrey-Hammer Prods., 2029 Century Park East, Century City, CA.

CIAO - Some indignation, please, on Dennis Christopher of "Breaking Away" fame? - Daryl Culp, Tonawanda, N.Y.

Unlike the lovable character he played in "Breaking Away," who only dreamt of being Italian, Christopher really is an Italian-American from Philadelphia. In his early 20s, the young actor didn't spend his youth atop a bicycle either, but says he was a typical street-corner wise-guy, until he got involved in acting. If you liked the movie, you'll be glad to know that ABC has ordered a pilot for a series based on the sleeper of the season, to be directed by the original's director, Peter Yates. Whether any of the original cast members will be in it is still unknown.

SEE ABOVE - I saw Jackie Earle Haley in the 1977 release, "Bad News Bears in Breaking Training." Will he be in any more movies? - T.B., Hammond, Ind.

Haley, who made his mark in the 1974 release, "Day of the Locusts," and went on to the original "Bad News Bears" and its sequel, can now be seen in "Breaking Away," the comedy hit mentioned above.

CINDERELLA STRIPS - Can you tell me if Lesley Ann Warren of the recent television movie, "A Portrait of a Stripper," is the same woman that played in "Cinderella"? - Tim Hager, Alexis, N.C.

Her fairy godmother might be scandalized, but they're one and the same with a few years and costume changes in between.

BEARISH - My name is David Blizzard and I was wondering if you could tell me where to write to "BJ and the Bear"? - David Blizzard, Jacksonville, N.C.

How do you do, David Blizzard? I can tell you where to write Greg Evigan and Sam the Chimp, who play B.J. and Bear. Try Universal TV, 100 Universal Plaza, Universal City, CA. 91608.

BITTER RIFT? - Is it true John Ritter is getting a divorce because of "Three's Company"? - Sandra Lockwood, Oceanside, Calif.

The only news I've heard about the Ritter-Nancy Morgan marriage is that the two are expecting their first spin-off in February. Doesn't sound very divorce-like to me.

MARTIN LEWIS - Can you tell me when Jerry Lewis and Dean Martin split up their team? Also, is there a book that chronicles their years together? I love their movies. - Mrs. A. Walters, Atlanta, Ga.

The famed comedy team went their separate ways in 1956. For a look at their early career together read Arthur Marx's "Everybody Loves Somebody Sometime." It was published in 1976.

SIBLING ACT - I know Warren Beatty and Shirley MacLaine are brother and sister, but which is their real name? And who's older? - Cynthia Sprig, Kelso, Wash.

Their real name is neither quite one nor the other. Their mother's name was McLaine, their father's was Beatty, with one t. Shirley has three years on her baby brother. She's 45, he's 42.

Can you tell me the name of the movie that Martin Sheen starred in on television that was a remake of a Tyrone Power movie about people trapped on a lifeboat? Also, what are some of Sheen's other TV movies? - Lydia Hinkle, Haverhill, Mass.

"Abandon Ship" starred Ty Power. It was remade on TV as "The Last Survivors" in 1975. Before hitting the big time in "Apocalypse Now," Sheen did excellent work in such TV movies as "Goodbye Raggedy Ann," "Message to My Daughter," "Pursuit," "That Certain Summer," "Letters for Three Lovers," "Sweet Hostage," "Catholics," "The Execution of Private Slovik," "The Missiles of October" and "The California Kid." Of course many of the movies (including "The Last Survivors") didn't match his excellence.
