Statue Protest

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seven Iranian students took over the Statue of Liberty and draped from its head a banner denouncing the cancer-stricken shah of Iran Sunday, the same day a mob in Tehran, Iran, took over the U.S. Embassy and took 59 hostages.

The students invaded Liberty Island, chained themselves to the railings inside the statue and unfurled from its crown a 100-foot-long banner reading, "The shah must be tried and punished." By late afternoon they surrendered and were charged with trespassing and disorderly conduct.

No injuries were reported either in the Tehran seizure or the Liberty Island takeover.

Fiery Return

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States' Pegasus 2 satellite made a fiery re-entry into the Earth's atmosphere Saturday, splashing down harmlessly into the trackless mid-Atlantic Ocean, NASA said. At that time the satellite would have been directly over the equator and northwest of Ascension Island.

Debris would have been scattered over the ocean in a "footprint" several hundred miles seaward of the West African coast. NASA said it determined the satellite was down because no sightings were reported at the station on Ascension Island.

Nuke Accident

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A decision to evacuate the area around some future atomic reactor accident might hinge on word from the utility that owns the plant, under recommendations of the President's commission on Three Mile Island. But foes of nuclear power doubt if a warning would come in time if electric utilities are made fully accountable during emergencies.

No critic suggests a utility executive callously would jeopardize public safety. But some fear the panel recommendation will simply heighten the corporate conflict-of-interest symbolized in the prophetic motion picture, "The China Syndrome."

Work Order

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — Military strongman Col. Alberto Natusch Busch ordered the striking populace of Bolivia back to work today under threat of dismissal and imposed martial law with an 8 p.m. curfew in LaPaz in an effort to quell opposition to his 5-day-old regime that left up to 10 dead in weekend violence.

Natusch, who ousted the 83-day civilian government of President Walter Guevara Arze, the first civilian leader in 15 years in Bolivia, offered the strikers full pay for last month, including strike days.

Dems Expected To Win Cities

By United Press International

Democrats in Connecticut's three largest cities are expected to win handily Tuesday as voters in all but a dozen of Connecticut's 169 municipalities elect mayors, selectmen and other local officials.

The expected quiet finale of a generally low-key campaign in the state's off-year elections will be a contrast to last September's primaries.

At that time, Democrats in major cities waged bitter fights to determine the party's nominees — since nomination was tantamount to election.

This year, Republican and independent candidates in Bridgeport, Hartford, New Haven and Waterbury cling to thin threads of hope in beating wide Democratic voter registration leads and win upset victories.

In a twist of that situation, Republican Albert F. Varner Jr. is taking a GOP voter registration lead into Greenwich's voting with hopes of winning the first selectman's seat his party lost in 1977 when the Fairfield County town elected its first Democratic first selectman in 73 years.

In Hartford, former Democratic Mayor William Glynn, running as an independent, is hoping for an upset

Students Seek Return of Shah

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Moslem students held dozens of Americans hostage inside the U.S. Embassy today demanding that the United States hand over the shah. Other students stormed the British Embassy in an apparent attempt to take control.

Witnesses said about 50 students moved into the British Embassy late today only hours after the state radio broadcast a statement by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini accusing Britain of sheltering former prime minister Shahpour Bakhtiar.

Students sympathetic to the Tehran invaders also seized U.S. consulates in Shiraz and Tabriz, in northwestern Iran, that were closed after the shah's regime was overthrown last February.

In Tehran hundreds of Moslem students holding at least 59 Americans seized during a takeover of the U.S. Embassy Sunday vowed today to occupy the compound until the United States returns the deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, now in a New York Hospital where he is being treated for cancer.

Khomeini warned the United States of "another course of action" if the shah was not handed over to Iran for Islamic justice and the ayatollah's son entered the U.S. Embassy today to wild cheering from the occupying students.

Khomeini also denounced Britain in his speech to insurance company employees in an audience in the Moslem holy city of Qom.

He said Britain must hand over to Iran the shah's last premier, Bakhtiar. But a British Embassy spokesman said Bakhtiar was not in Britain.

"If they do not hand over these traitors or at least expel them from their country," Khomeini said in a reference to the exiled shah and Bakhtiar, "we shall have another course of action."

Less than four hours after Khomeini made his demand, Iranian students moved into the British Embassy in Tehran.

Witnesses said about 40 armed government guardsmen had entered the British embassy premises and were negotiating with the students.

Iran's oil minister Ali Akbar Moinefar said today he would cut off crude oil supplies to the United States if ordered to do so by Khomeini, the state radio reported.

The fate of a group of American and Iranian hostages held for the second day in the U.S. Embassy, including at least 59 U.S. citizens, was unknown. The students, who seized the building in a battle with Marine guards, vowed not to surrender until the shah is returned to Iran.

State To Help in Housing Market

By JACQUELINE HUARD

HARTFORD (UPI) — The government, one way or another, may have to get into the landlord business to help people left out in the cold as developers stampeeded to convert apartments into high priced condominiums.

Michael Sharpe, deputy commissioner of the state's fledgling Department of Housing, said renters who can't afford to buy their apartments are swamping telephone lines to his agency and the governor's office.

At the same time, he said, property owners worried the Legislature might put a lid on condominium conversions next year are steamrolling ahead in a "condo-boom."

"It's like the whole market has just gone crazy," Sharpe said in an interview. "People can't find anywhere to live. Developers are issuing notices right away to try to beat a moratorium. The whole greater Hartford area is in a panic about it."

There's nothing on the books now to prevent landlords from selling instead of renting their apartments. All that's required is a 180-day notice to tenants, who also have a 90-day option on buying their apartments.

There is no question condominium conversions are becoming more attractive to developers. Ten years ago there were 81,000 converted apartments across the country. Today there are 81,000 units in Chicago alone.

Connecticut's biggest problems are in the housing deserts of Fairfield and Hartford counties.

Sharpe did an informal survey of the Hartford area recently to find out how many apartments will be converted to condominiums within the next year. He said his figures are "very conservative."

Out of 55,805 units in Hartford, anywhere from 2,000 to 4,000 will be converted; 500 to 1,000 of West Hartford's 22,000 apartments will be made into condominiums; Bloomfield, about 400 out of 5,325 units; Windsor, 400 out of 6,500, and in Manchester, about 100 to 300 of 15,459 apartments.

Like any argument, there's at least two sides. Tenants need a place to live but property owners say they have a right to do whatever they want with their buildings. Profit, one said, "makes the world go round."

"It's going to take legislation either from a local or a state level to address that conflict," Sharpe said. "It's the government's obligation to protect residents faced with a critical housing situation because of a market trend."

Tenants and landlords couldn't agree more. The department held the first of three hearings on the issue in Hartford last week and about 200 people showed up, including tenants, landlords, developers and lawyers.

Sharpe said he's been talking to developers and many are willing to build apartments if they can get a break on loans and if communities ease up on zoning restrictions.

He said he also wants to look at the possibility of lower-priced condominiums, say in the 15,000 to 20,000 range, because he said there's nothing intrinsically wrong with the concept.

"Condominiums are much more profitable. You get a profit margin and at the same time you rid yourself of the burden of managing a property. And the minute you become an owner, you tend to take better care of it," he said.

Others besides the Housing Department are getting into the act.

Senate President Joseph Fauliso, D-Hartford, and House Speaker Ernest Abate, D-Stamford, have appointed an 18-member committee to study the possibility of imposing a moratorium on condominium conversions next year.

Sharpe said all of the Hartford area towns are looking at moratoriums or some type of added regulation. Hartford has a proposed ordinance that would make conversions more difficult by requiring, among other things, on-site parking.

The fear a person won't have a place to live makes it an emotional as well as a political and economic question. One legislator has compared tenants evicted because of conversions to the Vietnamese boat people.

Today is Monday, Nov. 5, the 309th day of 1979 with 56 to follow.

The moon is moving from its full phase toward the last quarter.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Mercury.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

American historian William James "Will" Durant was born Nov. 5, 1885.

On this date in history:

In 1733, German-born publisher John Peter Zenger began printing the newspaper "The New York Weekly Journal."

In 1911, Galbraith Rogers completed the first transcontinental airplane flight. It took him 49 days to fly from New York City to Pasadena, Calif., with frequent stops because of bad weather and mechanical problems. It was estimated he spent only 82 hours and four minutes actually in flight.

In 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected to an unprecedented third term.

In 1974, the Democrats won a sweeping victory in congressional and gubernatorial elections.

In 1978, the Shah of Iran places his country under martial law as riots erupted in Tehran.

A thought for the day: historian Will Durant said: "The health of nations is more important than the wealth of nations."

Disco Benefits Cancer Center

Donna Summer belted out her heaviest numbers at a disco fund-raiser Thursday in Beverly Hills, Calif., for Betty Ford's new cancer center at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

About 1,000 attended - among them, Danny Thomas, Monty Hall, Merv Griffin, Mike Douglas and, of course, former President Gerald Ford.

The former first lady proclaimed herself "overwhelmed" by the turnout, and thought it was strictly a non-partisan crowd, the mistress of ceremonies couldn't resist a little politics.

Said Eva Gabor of her old friends, the Fords, "I wish they were still in the White House - we wouldn't be in the trouble we're in today, Dahlings."

Hope Town Fire

Bob Hope just lost the rest of his town to what investigators suspect is a case of arson.

About 1,000 attended - among them, Danny Thomas, Monty Hall, Merv Griffin, Mike Douglas and, of course, former President Gerald Ford.

The former first lady proclaimed herself "overwhelmed" by the turnout, and thought it was strictly a non-partisan crowd, the mistress of ceremonies couldn't resist a little politics.

Reign Storm Ends

Four years ago, Goldie Glitters was elected homecoming queen at Santa Monica, Calif. College - and it nearly caused a riot.

The 12 runners-up were insulted and the football team threatened to boycott the homecoming game if Goldie were crowned - so the ceremony was canceled.

But at long last the school has relented and Goldie - a 33-year-old female impersonator - has his tiara.

Says he, "They'd have to kill me to get it back." He understands the school's reticence though - says, "I'm obviously gay, there's no way on this earth I could pass for heterosexual."

But he's still unmoved about the football team. His assessment: "They shouldn't have played anyway. They lost."

Even with Blue Cross

Any dedicated neurotic with $30,000 to spare now can have Sigmund Freud himself to talk to all day long. British cartoonist Ralph Steadman is selling the good doctor - says he doesn't need him any more now that his tour promoting his book "Sigmund Freud" is over.

Steadman - who draws for Penthouse magazine - obtained his eerily lifelike Freudian image from sculptor Lynn Kramer, who specializes in such things for Madame Tussaud's London Wax Museum.

Says Steadman, "Just think - you can have Freud any time you want without paying per session. With inflation, you can imagine what Freud would charge today."

Glimpses

Thornton F. Bradshaw, president of Atlantic Richfield Oil Co., and Richard C. Atkinson, director of the National Science Foundation, are reportedly among four finalists for the presidency of the University of Southern California - Susan Anspach, who co-stars with Michael Douglas in the new film "Running," dined at Maxwell's Plum in New York Friday with an old friend - Al Pacino, a former classmate at Lee Strasberg's Actors Studio.

George Segal will co-star with Natalie Wood in "The Last Married Couple in America."

UConn Prexy Predicting Bad Times for Colleges

STORRS (UPI) - The nation's colleges will struggle into the 21st Century with decreasing public financial support and increasing state control, University of Connecticut President Dr. John DiBiaggio says.

DiBiaggio predicted Sunday that colleges will have tough times in the next two decades because of decreasing funding and more centralized regulation. But he also foresees students having a greater say over their college and university programs and conducting their involvement more responsibly.

"Direct state and federal support for our universities and colleges will undoubtedly continue to decline through the '80s," DiBiaggio said in remarks prepared for the American Association of Medical Colleges meeting in Washington.

"The situation might improve in the '90s, but the losses suffered in the '80s may be impossible to recoup entirely during the following decade," he said.

DiBiaggio, who was executive director of UConn's Health Center before becoming the school's president, said the impact of declining public support will be worsened by inflation.

"This will simply mean that some programmatic dollars will now have to be diverted to operational costs," he said. "The impact on the quality of offerings by such actions is obvious."

That shift also will "contribute to the growth of faculty unrest that began in the '70s," he said, with collective bargaining possibly becoming "a way of life," even in medical schools where unionization has been resisted.

But he said one "glimmer of hope" resulting from the decline in public support might be to free institutions from "stifling effects" of federal regulation.

DiBiaggio also predicted a continued move toward centralized control of higher education by state governments through formation of boards of regents. One such board has been proposed in Connecticut to replace separate governing agencies for UConn and various colleges.

He said one problem with such boards is that they often become involved in decisions that had been handled by administrators.

The university president said students will assume greater power because of an increase in loans and grants which will allow them to be more selective in choosing schools.

But he said he believed students will "continue their trend toward more traditional behavior" and not use the additional control to "dilute" the quality of their educational programs.

Two More Klansmen Held in Death of Four

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) - Police Sunday arrested two more Ku Klux Klansmen in the weekend slaying of four people at an anti-Klan rally, but denied charges by civil rights groups that they failed to provide adequate protection.

Fourteen Klansmen, all from outside the Greensboro area, were to be arraigned today on murder or conspiracy charges as a result of Saturday's gunbattle.

The last two, arrested Sunday, were Klan members from Winston-Salem, N.C., one of them a 16-year-old boy. Police said they were searching for one more suspect.

Greensboro made national headlines in 1960 as the site of the first lunch-counter sit-ins of the civil rights movement. But in recent years, the tobacco-producing town has had little racial trouble, and police were not present at Saturday's rally.

Civil rights leaders blasted the lack of police protection for anti-Klan protesters and demanded an independent investigation.

"At the point that the (Klan) convoy moved into the assembly area, the police should have been there," said George Gardner, executive director of the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union. "They should have at least become visible."

But state Crime Control and Public Safety Secretary Burley B. Mitchell said, "It is difficult really to see how this tragedy could have been avoided consistent with the Constitution of the United States."

"The police had the (Klan) cars under pretty much constant surveillance. They had no authority to stop the cars and search them until some law was violated. Very tragically, in this case, the first law that had been violated involved murder."

Despite Mitchell's comments, the Greensboro police officer in charge of providing security for the march said he did not know the Klan vehicles were in the area until the shooting began.

Greensboro Public Safety Director Hewitt Lovelace claimed police presence would have made little difference.

"In my very honest opinion, I think we could have had the 82nd Airborne in there and they still could have gotten some shots off," Lovelace said, referring to an elite Army strike force stationed about 90 miles away at Fort Bragg.

The dead, all supporters of the Communist Workers Party, were identified as James M. Waller, 37; William E. Sampson, 31; Caesar Vincente Cauce, 25, and Sandra Smith, 29.

"My brothers and sisters in the struggle have been gunned down in cold blood," the Rev. Leon White of the United Church of Christ's Commission for Racial Justice said. "We have got to find a way to make sure these brothers and sisters have not died in vain."

One of the march organizers, Nelson Johnson of Greensboro, was charged with inciting to riot. Police

Four Face Cocaine Charges

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) - Two of four men arrested as the result of a lengthy drug investigation in the Bridgeport area face arraignment in court today on charges of selling cocaine.

State police said Sunday they were also looking for five men they identified as "street level" drug dealers.

The four men were served warrants for three counts of sale of cocaine, sale of heroin and possession of cocaine. Thomas Boyce, 33, also of Bridgeport, was held on $8,000 bond on two counts of sale of cocaine, possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana.

Berluti said the men were not part of a drug-selling ring but were considered major "street level" drug dealers.

Held on $25,000 bond Sunday in the Bridgeport Community Correctional Center was Clarence E. Rogers, 37, of Bridgeport, who was charged with three counts of sale of cocaine, sale of heroin and possession of cocaine. Thomas Boyce, 33, also of Bridgeport, was held on $8,000 bond on two counts of sale of cocaine, possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana.

Outlook Gloomy for GOP

By United Press International

Republican National Chairman Bill Brock said two years ago the GOP must rebuild from the local level up, but if Tuesday's elections go as expected there is little good news for the party as it enters a crucial election year.

Two states and hundreds of cities - including half of the nation's 20 largest - elect chief executives, and the outlook is not bright for the GOP.

Last spring, Republicans were given good news at winning the governorship in Kentucky and Mississippi, along with Louisiana, which picks its governor next month.

Now the party trails in both Mississippi and Kentucky and in Louisiana, GOP Congressman David Treen - once a big favorite - faces a stiff fight for the governorship.

Democrats traditionally control most major city halls and - except for Cleveland where Republican Lt. Gov. George Voinovich is favored over Democratic incumbent Dennis Kucinich - it doesn't look like much will change.

Brock, when he was elected to the chairmanship in 1977, said the Republican Party must increase its appeal to minorities and big city residents who usually vote Democratic. He noted that unless the Republicans rebuilt from the ground up, the party is in trouble.

If the GOP can't win control of more legislatures or governorships, it could be further decimated by redistricting. Therefore, the three races for governor and state legislative races in New Jersey and Virginia are important.

So too are the mayoral races because of the clout those officials carry in key metropolitan areas.

John Y. Brown, who made millions in fried chicken, bought into and then out of professional sports, and married former Miss America and television personality Phyllis George, is favored for the Kentucky governorship.

The campaign has been vicious even by rough-and-tumble GOP standards and GOP nominee Louie B. Nunn has tried to appeal to the state's Bible Belt traditions to upset Brown.

William Winter, a veteran of 30 years in Mississippi's Democratic politics, is favored to win there over Gil Carmichael, who lost a close race for the governor's mansion in 1975. As in Kentucky, polls show the Republican gaining as the balloting neared.

Philadelphia, Houston, Indianapolis, Baltimore, Phoenix, San Francisco, Boston, Minneapolis, and hundreds of other cities also elect mayors Tuesday.

Minneapolis, traditionally a liberal bastion, appears ready to follow its heritage by beginning a comeback for former Rep. Don Fraser, D-Minn., who lost a race for the Senate last year. His major opponent is former Mayor Charles Stenvig, a conservative who said on taking office God would be his top adviser.

Boston's Kevin White, the dean of the nation's big city mayors, appears on his way to a fourth term and Dianne Feinstein, who became San Francisco's mayor when George Moscone was assassinated a year ago, is expected to win a term on her own. So is former Rep. William Green, D-Pa., in Philadelphia. All three are Democrats.

Three States Eye Bottle Laws

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) - Voters in two states - Ohio and Washington - will decide Tuesday whether to accept mandatory bottle deposit laws while Maine citizens will vote whether to become the first state to repeal such a measure.

A supporter of a national bottle deposit law says the votes are "critical" since they will affect sentiment in other states toward further container legislation.

And a member of the U.S. House of Representatives, Rep. James M. Jeffords, R-Vt., is ready to submit a national mandatory deposit bill to Congress if Tuesday's votes indicate widespread public support.

In Washington state, voters face Initiative 61, which would require a 5-cent deposit on all beer and soft drink bottles and cans starting in 1982 and would prohibit detachable can pull-tabs.

The Ohio ballot includes a measure imposing a 10-cent deposit on all beer and beverage containers.

Michael Sangree of Environmental Action Inc., a Washington, D.C.-based national bottle law lobby, said the Maine vote is important because it marks the first attempt to repeal an existing law.

"It's the first time it's really been tested by the public, but we're more confident we'll win in Maine," Sangree said. "This year's elections are critical because they will determine how it will go in the nation."

More than $180,000 has been pumped into Maine to repeal the law from beverage distributors, breweries and container manufacturers, from 45 other states. Bottle law supporters see the out-of-state money as an effort to stem a national trend toward mandatory bottle and can deposits.

Maine's law took effect in January 1978 amidst celebration by environmentalists, who said litter and its cleanup costs would decrease and that the reuse of containers would save energy.

But soon after its implementation, petitions appeared in "Mom and Pop" small stores which claimed the law imposed the redemption burden on them.

They complained they had to collect and store the containers before they could recover the 5-cent deposit they had to shell out to customers, causing storage and sanitation problems.

Other arguments against the law include increased handling and manufacturing costs, job reduction and consumer inconvenience.

A group called the Committee for Litter Control and Recycling - formerly the Committee for Repeal of the Bottle Law - collected the more than 37,000 valid signatures needed to place the repeal vote on the Maine ballot Tuesday.

In Ohio, both business and labor have organized large campaigns to defeat the bill, spending nearly $1 million on anti-bottle bill advertising. Labor contends the bill would cause a decrease in jobs, particularly in the sheet metal industry.

In Washington State, bottle bill fees have collected $730,875 for their campaign, while proponents have collected only $62,514. A recent Seattle newspaper poll forecast a 65 percent vote in favor.

Seniors Seeking Volunteers to Deliver Directories

BOLTON - The Senior Citizens Committee needs volunteers to help distribute a directory of services to senior citizens and also to help find senior citizens who are eligible to receive the directory.

Paul Brown, chairman of the committee, said, "Our concern is to make the senior citizens in Bolton aware of the services available to them and to provide access to those services."

The directory includes a variety of material which was compiled by the committee. It includes such information as finance, housing/legal aid, library services, medical and health care, nutrition and meals, recreation, transportation, retirement planning, social services, and occupational opportunities. The directory is to go to residents who are age 60 or older and/or retired.

Volunteers will begin distributing the directories this Sunday and will continue to do so through Nov. 18. Those who have volunteered already are David Mitchell, Sandy Pierog, Ruth Baker, and Brown plus a few others, Brown said.

Anyone willing to help deliver the directories should call 646-2585. Any senior citizen who doesn't receive a directory by Nov. 18, should call the same number.

Tetley Tea Plans Connecticut Move
HARTFORD (UPI) — The Tetley Tea Co. is expected to announce this week plans to move its corporate headquarters from New York City to Shelton, according to Connecticut's economic development commissioner.

Edward J. Stockton said Sunday he expects another company, which he didn't name, to locate in the Norwich area, "providing several hundred manufacturing jobs."

In an interview broadcast Sunday on the Connecticut Radio Network, Stockton said the state's past emphasis on bringing corporate headquarters from New York City to Connecticut was "counterproductive" because it did little to solve long-range employment problems.

Dodd Asks President To Change Sub Plan
HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., today asked President Carter to exercise his power as commander-in-chief and overturn the Navy's decision to retire the U.S.S. Nautilus submarine in Washington.

Dodd said he believed Navy Secretary Edward Hidalgo's decision to retire the Nautilus at the Washington Navy Yard was "particularly inappropriate" because the capital city had "no historical association with the submarine."

"I also fear that this historic vessel will simply be lost in the myriad of monuments in Washington," the Democratic lawmaker told Carter in a letter.

Dodd said if Carter did not overturn the decision, Connecticut's chances of getting the submarine would be "dim" with the only option left was to overturn Hidalgo being a vote by the full House and Senate.

Connecticut's entire congressional delegation as well as other state and local officials have asked that the Nautilus, the world's first nuclear submarine, be retired in Groton where it was built and berthed over its 25 years of service.

Fahey Urges Energy Saving

EAST HARTFORD — State Sen. Marcella Fahey, D-3rd District, has introduced legislation to close the state college system from Christmas until March 1 and to put the private and public sectors on a four-day work week.

Both measures were introduced during last week's special energy session of the General Assembly. Sen. Fahey said the state's higher education facilities account for 35 percent of the state's buildings and they have a $9 million budget for heating oil. If the state colleges were to stay closed from the Christmas vacation until March 1, "a good deal of this $9 million could be saved and put to use to help people of Connecticut through this winter," Sen. Fahey said.

State teachers are under contract until June 30, she said, so the school year could be extended into May to make up for the time lost in the winter.

"The Legislature has to be willing to try new ways to foster the conservation of energy," Sen. Fahey said. "The measures I have proposed will help us accomplish this goal."

Tax Hike Is Sought

EAST HARTFORD — State Sen. Marcella Fahey, D-3rd District, has asked the special energy session of the General Assembly to consider increasing the tax on major oil company profits and using the additional revenue to extend the state's program of direct heating oil assistance to families who are not eligible for aid under current restrictions on the program.

Meriden Mayor Denies Deal for 1977 Victory

MERIDEN (UPI) — Mayor Walter Evilia has denied allegations reportedly being investigated by the FBI that he made a deal with a development company to help him win the 1977 mayoral election.

Evilia said Sunday the allegations were "politically motivated and completely untrue" and he planned to file lawsuits against individuals who made the charges.

The New Haven Register reported Sunday the FBI is investigating allegations that Evilia agreed with Carabatta Enterprises Inc. to name two planning board members supported by the firm in exchange for a company public relations man to help Evilia's campaign.

The two planning board members allegedly were sympathetic to a proposed multi-million dollar Summitwood development of homes and parks for 6,000 people. The project was abandoned earlier this year.

Evilia said FBI agents talked to him six months ago about the development and he hasn't heard from them since.

He called the allegations "malicious" and an attempt to discredit himself and other Republican party members a few days before the elections Tuesday.

The FBI has refused to comment on whether any investigation is under way concerning the allegations.

Evilia is not a candidate in Tuesday's election because Meriden is eliminating the position of mayor in favor of a council-manager form of government.

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

VERNON — For the first time, a woman will be seeking election to the post of mayor of Vernon. Councilwoman Marie Herbst, Democrat, will be opposing incumbent Republican Mayor Frank McCoy.

McCoy will be seeking a fifth term. He won for three consecutive years, lost four years ago, and won again two years ago.

He has also served on the Town Council, as town attorney, chairman of the former Vernon Fire District, and on the Recreation Commission, has been active in local youth programs and is a practicing attorney.

He has termed as the most important issue in this election, the Republican promise to regulate spending and to curb tax increases. His campaign has basically centered around the Republican party's success in keeping the tax rate down, despite inflation.

Mrs. Herbst, who has served two terms on the council, six years on the Board of Education, and two years on the Planning Commission, has also served on many council subcommittees. She is a teacher in the East Windsor school system.

Her campaign, she said, has centered around two words — foresight and leadership. She said her approach to government has always centered around the problems of today as well as preparing for what may happen tomorrow.

Also on the ballot will be listed 18 candidates for the Town Council, eight from each party. Voters may vote for any eight, the position on the ballot doesn't matter, and it will be elected.

Republican candidates are: Mark Bucheri, Morgan Campbell, Michael Catarino, Robert Hurd, Jane Lamb, James McCarthy, Robert Romejko, and Robert Wehrli. All are seeking re-election except Bucheri and McCarthy.

Democratic candidates are: John Drost, Leonard Jacobs, John Makowsky, Stephen Marcham, Joseph Merluzzo, Sylvia Morgan, Eugene Pinto, and Lena Therault. Three are not incumbents. Three are not incumbents. Three are not incumbents.

For the first time in many years, the ballot will list an independent candidate — Jean Hopkins, who has represented the Republican party on the board, but resigned before filling out her term, is running as an Independent.

Debra Baum and Dr. George Protry, Democrats will be seeking re-election to a full term on the board. They are running against Republicans Janet Daley and Ginger Freethy. Mrs. Daley was recently appointed to fill a vacancy on the board.

Seeking election to fill a vacancy on the board are incumbent Republican JoAnn Worthen and Democrat Arthur P. Michal.

MACC News

Annual Food Collection Set to Begin

By NANCY CARR, Executive Director. The annual Thanksgiving Food Collection sponsored by WINF, the Manchester Parkade Association and MACC will begin Wednesday at noon at Martin's Ltd. in the Manchester Parkade.

WINF will be broadcasting "on the spot" Wednesday, Thursday, Friday from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

We invite you to come enjoy the fun of watching live broadcasting and perhaps being interviewed. Volunteers will be staffing the food collection from 12 noon to 7 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday to give everyone a chance to get in with their food and money donations for Manchester's neediest families and elderly.

The non-perishable food contributed will help us deliver the 100 Thanksgiving and 200 Christmas baskets we're hoping to provide.

Particularly needed for our low income families and elderly are high protein items (dry milk, peanut butter, tuna and meat products such as steaks, corned beef hash, Spam, etc.) canned fruits and fruit juices (most helpful with Vitamin C added) and Jello-Os. Nice for elderly and children are puddings, custards and cocoa mixes. We also welcome pastas, crackers, cereals (both hot and cold) and individual servings are particularly nice for the elderly and sugar.

We urge you to consider buying 1 can of tuna for the collection rather than 2 or 3 cans of corn or green beans. The higher cost items are slower to come in and are urgently needed in our effort to supplement diets that are often already protein and vitamin deficient.

This is the one time a year that we love to add the "goodies" that you donate: the jellies, cake, pie and cookie mixes, all the special treats that make the food boxes "Holiday" baskets.

All the money you donate at this collection will be used to add a medium turkey (or canned chicken for elderly) and a bag of potatoes to the baskets. If funds go for enough we will add the fresh fruits which are such a treat to children and elderly. Also provided (we hope) will be some 40 hot meals to shut-ins (handicapped and elderly) and $2 meal certificates to some of our mobile but disabled and alone neighbors.

As you know some of our people live in rooms without cooking privileges. Two dollars won't buy a Thanksgiving dinner but it will make the difference between the hamburger or bowl of soup and a real dinner. Anyone who has ever tried to live on $12 a week food voucher with no cooking privileges knows how welcome even $2 is.

We'll be looking for you at the Parkade this weekend. Remember to tune in WINF to see what's going at the Parkade Food Collection.

Reminders: For both Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets and food given to the Emergency Pantry: no open boxes (cereal, cake mixes, pastas, etc.) of any kind can be disbursed. Please inspect the cans carefully.

During World War II, the Soviet Union did not declare war on Japan until August 8, 1945, two days after the United States dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima.

Titles Only Similarity Between Party Heads

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA, Herald Reporter. MANCHESTER - As the Democratic and Republican town chairmen hold forth on their views of the same reasons, "this election is unusual in that our opponents have been joined by special interest groups - those who are concerned with only a single issue - and this is alarming," he said.

Roger Negro Peter Sylvester

Negro and Sylvester Seek Treasurer's Job

MANCHESTER - The Republican challenger for the town treasurer is putting his business experience in fiscal management against Democrat Roger Negro who has held the office since 1971.

Negro resides at 203 Oak St. with his wife. He is a lifelong resident of Manchester and co-owner of Pasta Italiana on West Middle Turnpike.

Peter Sylvester of 43 Scarborough Rd. is also a lifelong resident. He is employed as a life underwriter for the Equitable Assurance Co. of East Hartford, where he is president of the Sales Leaders Club.

Negro attended the Hartford Institute of Accounting. He has taken governmental accounting courses and attended finance and investment courses for municipal finance officers.

Sylvester graduated from Upper Iowa College with a bachelor of art degree in political science and a minor in philosophy. His current position involves professional responsibility for financial planning, investment and pension management.

Negro is a member of the Municipal Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada. Sylvester serves on the Zoning Board of Appeals, the Board of Directors of the Manchester Chapter of Rotary International, and the Republican Town Committee.

In his eight years as town treasurer Negro cites as major accomplishments the investment of life funds program, the development of the competitive bid system, and the split of the pension fund.

Sylvester has campaigned on his business experience and the promise to have the treasurer attend all budget meetings of the Board of Directors and to attend at least one Board of Directors meeting per month when the budget is not being discussed.

Dam Repair Cost Put at $240,000

By LANEY ZUBOFF Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - Clarence Welts, hired by the town to evaluate repairs to Union Pond Dam, has submitted a rough draft of his findings to Public Works Director Jay G. Giles; including a list of priorities of the work estimated to cost $240,000 over three years.

The most important work to be done, Giles said Monday, is the drilling of a three-and-a-half-inch diameter hole, through the dam's concrete cap and layers of stone and rock, down 15 feet and inserting rods to secure the dam's components.

Wells said in his report, this phase of the project, should be done immediately and is expected to cost $40,000.

"This could be done next spring," said Giles who said "it depends on the availability of funds."

The next major step to reactivate a nine-foot diameter pipe, which uses to go to the North Main Street power station, to be used in case of large rainstorms to empty water quickly through the pipe, said Giles.

Necessary work to the Gatehouse outlet for this phase of the project is estimated at $28,000 while the pipe is estimated to cost $30,000.

Another item calls for removing deteriorated concrete on the downstream face of the dam and replacing it with granite at a cost of $20,000 a year over a three year period.

The second error, later on in the third paragraph showed the figure of 25 percent when referring to assessment value.

The paragraph should read as follows: "This softening of the impact of revaluation is demonstrated by one typical home whose assessment value increased by 125 percent."

The Herald regrets the errors.

Late Score Keeps Yale Undefeated

BOSTON (UPI) - Yale has been making its mark with a nation-leading defense this year. But the unbeaten Elis needed a late offensive surge to move past Cornell 29-20 Saturday for their 10th straight win and the 700th in school history.

Yale turned to sophomore quarterback John Hagan, who hit tight end Bob Rostomilsky with just 47 seconds left to post the win and stay one game ahead of Brown and Princeton in the wild Ivy League race.

Cornell had rallied from a 17-6 deficit to take a 20-17 lead on two TD passes by Mike Tanner. But the Elis, whose offense had been questioned by several Ivy coaches, marched 67 yards in 10 plays to seal the victory.

Yale's win all but eliminated Cornell from the Ivy race. But Brown, with their 25-14 win over Harvard, and Princeton, with their 38-10 win over Penn, remained in the chase. Princeton has a shot at Yale next weekend.

Brown capitalized on an interception, a fumble recovery, and a 64-yard punt return to turn back the Crimson. For Harvard, it was their sixth straight loss.

Brown has games remaining with Dartmouth and Columbia. Harvard faces winless Penn next weekend before finishing out against Yale.

The most distressing loss in New England had to be yet another Boston College defeat. The Eagles, 2-6, had high hopes entering the game after last week's win over Army. But Tulane quarterback Roch Houtas passed for four first-half touchdowns and the Eagles were routed 43-8.

In other Division I games: Boston 16, Holy Cross 7.

Jeff Pellin booted three field goals and Mal Najarian scored on a 4-yard run to give the Terriers, 7-1, the win. Holy Cross could manage just a 3-yard run by Crocky Nangle after a Glenn Verrette interception. The Crusaders are 3-5.

New Hampshire 21, Rhode Island 6.

UNH, 5-22, stayed on the ground in this win. They attempted just one pass - an incomplete. Dwight Hamley ran for 173 yards and a 42-yard TD. He set up another with a 41-yard punt. UNI, 1-7, scored on a 2-yard run by Chy Davidson.

Dartmouth 17, Columbia 0.

Jeff Kemp passed for one touchdown and Mark Akey ran for another to give the Big Green only their second win of the season. Kemp connected with Dave Shula for the TD. Chris Sawch added a field goal. Columbia is 1-6.

Delaware 31, Maine 14.

Lorenzo Bouvier was the star for the outclassed Black Bears, 2-7. He ran for 182 yards and a 65-yard TD. The other Maine score came on a 36-yard pass from Peter Ouellette to Pat Madden.

WV 13, Connecticut 13.

Bob Segar's 44-yard field goal with eight minutes to play enabled UConn to escape with a tie. The Huskies, 2-4-2, scored on a 26-yard field goal by Segar and a 23-yard scoring strike from quarterback Allen Arizer to Tony Jordan.

Smith to Indians

HARTFORD (UPI) - The National Hockey League Hartford Whalers will call up a still-undetermined goaltender to replace goalie Al Smith who was assigned this weekend to the minor league Springfield, Mass., Indians for conditioning.

A team spokesman said Smith, 33, would be with the Indians for at least seven days for conditioning as part of his recovery from an injury.

Showdown in Midget Grid League Sunday

Setting the stage for next weekend's championship tilt, both the Patriots and Giants, each registered convincing wins in Manchester Midget Football League play yesterday at Mt. Nebo.

The Patriots steamrolled past the Chargers, 22-0, in the opener while the Giants, in the nightcap, duplicated the feat by blanking the Jets by the same 22-0 score.

The co-headers were tangled in a one-game playoff Sunday in the second part of a doubleheader at Mt. Nebo. The Patriots and the Jets are paired in the first game at 1 o'clock.

The Chargers go to 1-2, Jets 1-3 in the reversals. Joe Johnston's 54-yard run early in the second quarter opened the scoring for the Patriots. Dwayne Albert added the two-point conversion. Oliver Reid pranced 42 yards for the second Patriot tally with John Harris adding the points.

Harris' 52-yard punt return boosted the margin with the second Patriot tally with John Harris adding the points.

Wells said in his report, this phase of the project, should be done immediately and is expected to cost $40,000.

"This could be done next spring," said Giles who said "it depends on the availability of funds."

Two Young Vets Enter Road Race

Two young veterans of the annual Five Mile Road Race in Manchester on Thanksgiving morning have been among the individual prize winners will be back again in the 43rd edition.

Kevin McCusker, former University of Massachusetts barrier, and Dave Boraks of Cornell University were among the latest entrants. Each will be making his fifth start. The entry list is nearly 2,000.

McCusker was 12th last year after a fine eighth placement in 1977. He also made the prize list in '77 when he was 11th. The top 25 finishers are assured of merchandise awards.

Boraks, who once starred at Xavier High in Middletown, is making a comeback in the Ivy League. The Big Red runner will be making his fourth start, his best placement was 23rd in '77. Last year he slipped back to 65th place in a field of 2,800.

Sanctioned by the Connecticut Amateur Athletic Union, the Five Mile is the biggest race of its kind in the state.

Last year 20,000 spectators turned out in 22 degree temperatures and race officials are looking forward to an even bigger turnout this year.

Once again all proceeds collected on race day, plus all runner entry fees, will be turned over to the sponsoring Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon's muscular dystrophy fund for research.

Bucks Come Up Flat And Win Skein Ends

NEW YORK (UPI) - The Milwaukee Bucks, ordinarily as crisp and satisfying as a cold beer, came up flat Sunday night.

"We did not come out strong," said Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson, whose club watched its 10-game winning streak end with a 101 loss to the Seattle SuperSonics.

"We are going to forget this one real quick - as quick as possible. Tonight no one picked the tempo up or sparked us off the bench or carried us. It's the first time that happened to us this season."

On Sunday night they were treated to a clinic by Seattle's Gus Williams. Williams scored 19 of his 27 points in the first quarter as the SuperSonics raced to a 42-24 lead entering the second period. The Bucks never recovered from the initial shellshock.

"I'm not the kind of player who can score 19 points in one quarter," Williams said. "They were just shooting the ball to me in my getting range and I was hitting."

The four-time Wimbledon champion easily defended his title in the United States and Britain in a victory over American Jimmy Connors, but Borg said only, "I'm very happy because it was my second victory in this tournament."

Borg, 23, earned the first-prize money of $40,000, and Connors, the three-time U.S. Open champion from Belleville, Ill., won $24,000. It was the 20th encounter between the two tennis giants since 1973, with each winning 10 matches. A capacity crowd of 6,000 people saw the 70-minute match.

Hunt Foes To Continue The Battle

WESTPORT (UPI) — A group of wildlife lovers trying to foil hunters plans to move its "Operation Purple Goose" to New Jersey later this month.

The group's activities during the weekend centered on an assault on a small island off the Connecticut coast.

Ten members of Friends of Animals Inc. set out before dawn Saturday for Cockeek Island, about three-quarters of a mile off the coast of affluent Westport, to frighten waterfowl away from hunters and to safety.

But the playing of John Phillip Sousa marches and shooting of flares that comprised "Operation Purple Goose" turned into an exercise in futility because there were no hunters on the island when the landing party arrived.

"We kept it hidden where we were going, but I guess the hunters got on to us," said Priscilla Feral, director of the group's Connecticut chapter.

"Our purpose this morning was to disrupt hunter ambushes and to provide safe passage for geese and ducks through this part of their autumn migratory route," Mrs. Feral said.

Hunters usually set life-like decoys near their waterfront blinds to lure unsuspecting waterfowl into the range of their shotguns.

The group also plans to sabotage hunters in the 800-acre Charles E. Wheeler wildlife area, which straddles Fairfield and New Haven counties, in December.

Twenty large-scale steel sculptures by Coventry artist David Hayes are now on display at the University of Connecticut library. The show, which runs through Jan. 31, 1980, is part of the library's first anniversary celebration.

UConn Library Showing Hayes' Steel Sculpture

STORRS — Twenty large-scale steel sculptures by Coventry artist David Hayes are on display throughout the University of Connecticut library.

The free showing, which will be in place until Jan. 31, 1980, is the first exhibition of its kind in the library, and is part of the celebration marking the first anniversary of the new building, which opened in October 1978.

The pieces, many of which are taller than the average viewer, are either painted in matte black, vivid colors, or made of Corten steel, which is allowed to weather naturally.

Old Trains May Return To New Hampshire Lakes

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The recent whistle of an old fashioned steam engine might once again be attracting tourists to New Hampshire's Lakes Region next summer.

Owners of the dormant Wolfeboro Railroad have announced they have signed a letter of intent to sell the tourist railroad to a Connecticut group which plans to continue restoration of the line, idle for the past year.

Mrs. Donald Hallock, wife of the line's owner, said Saturday the family was waiting for lawyers to draw up a formal agreement to sell the line to a Connecticut group.

"It's in the process" of being sold, she said.

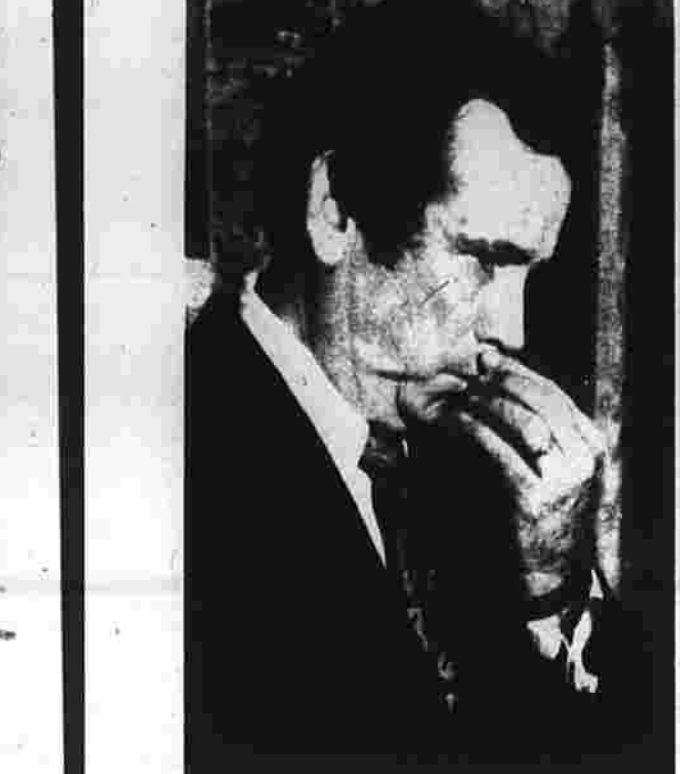

Mrs. Hallock confirmed the letter of intent had been signed, but wouldn't identify the organization.

The Hallocks have been trying to sell the railroad for more than a year due to Hallock's deteriorating health.

Richard Libby, head of a group of local residents who tried to buy the line, said he met twice with a representative of the prospective buyer — Dwight Hilson, of Stamford, Conn., who represents a publishing firm.

Once the formal sales agreement has been signed, the sale must be approved by the New Hampshire Public Utilities Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"We're not disappointed," over the pending sale, Libby said. "Our whole purpose was to keep the line from being torn up."

Cargo Schooner To Sail

THOMASTON, Maine (UPI) — Ned Ackerman is about to embark on a cruise to prove his long-cherished theory that sail-powered coastal schooners are a practical and economical way of transporting cargo.

Ackerman and his four-man crew worked feverishly Sunday on his two-masted schooner, the John F. Leavitt, readying the ship for the first leg of its maiden voyage.

The Leavitt — launched Aug. 8 with several thousand spectators and the national media watching — is the first vessel of its type to be built in 40 years.

It will sail to Quincy, Mass., to pick up a cargo of lumber and building materials from the J. Duane Building and Wrecking Co., and then on to Haiti.

"If weather like this holds up, we'll have a fair wind to our backs," said Ackerman, who worked three years on the schooner.

Ackerman admits there has been a great deal of skepticism about making a paying proposition of sail-powered cargo hauling, but he insists it is him that's on trial and not the idea.

"The bottom line is me. The vessel is of a proven type, and there's nothing I'll ask the Leavitt isn't capable of doing," the former educator said.

Students Enter Olympic Project

ANDOVER — Students at the Andover Elementary School will participate in the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow, without leaving Andover, through the "On To Moscow" project.
David Kravet, principal of the school, said that the project is being conducted in order to allow the students to feel a part of the excitement of the 1980 Summer and Winter Olympic games.
The distance between Andover and Moscow is about 4,800 miles. To cover this distance before the close of school in June, children and parents may run, jog, walk, swim, skate, or ride a bike.
Kravet said that if three people in one family walk, or ride, one mile each, three miles will be recorded toward their goal.
A scale, similar to a thermometer, is being set up in the all-purpose room at the school to show the progress of the students and their friends.
Kravet said that "On to Moscow," isn't a competitive event but rather an opportunity for students, staff, and families to participate in a physical fitness program, with a goal — to achieve the 4,800 miles needed to get them to the Olympics.

Employees at Torin To Return to Jobs

TORRINGTON (UPI) — About 600 Torin Corp. union employees who walked off the job to protest delays in signing a new contract have agreed to return to their jobs today.
The members of United Auto Workers Local 507, who began their walkout Thursday, voted unanimously Sunday to end their job action in the face of a directive issued by a federal judge.
The union walked out after claiming the company flagrantly violated provisions of the five-year contract agreed to last July 27.
U.S. District Court Judge T. Emmet Clarke issued a directive Friday in which the union agreed to recommend to its members to return to work, and the management and union agreed to sign the contract by Nov. 15.
Clarke said if the workers failed to get back to work by today, the company's obligation to complete final negotiations and sign a final contract would be erased and a hearing for a back-to-work order would be held Nov. 19.
Lillian Raymond, president of Local 507, said after the membership vote the workers had chosen to return to their jobs and were not forced to return under the directive.
Another UAW branch in the company, Local 512, has about 150 members and didn't take part in the walkout.
Company spokesman Donald Fenon said some workers would be heading back today and all would be back by Tuesday.
The firm makes spring machines and air moving devices such as motorized circulating fans.
The company claimed it had implemented wage and benefit package since July and the union claimed the firm had violated provisions covering seniority, promotions and transfers and had refused to act on a series of grievances.

"If a bank takes $10,000 of your money for 6 months, at least it can tell you the truth." In the interest of attracting more deposits, it seems some banks aren't telling you the whole truth about 6-month CD's. At the Savings Bank of Manchester, we think it's our responsibility to give our customers complete information about our services. Because in these uncertain times, it's the only way people can make an intelligent decision about how to make the most of their money. The truth about interest. Some banks might have you believe they can pay a higher interest rate than others. The fact is, these rates are Federally established every week. They're the same for every bank. Which means no bank can pay a higher rate than we can. The truth about effective annual yield. The different numbers each bank proclaims as its "effective annual yield" are totally meaningless. That's because these numbers show what your money would earn if left on deposit for a year. But the CD stays on deposit for only 6 months and the rate is only guaranteed for that 6 month period. To earn the "yield" these banks advertise, you'd have to reinvest your CD—principal and interest—after 6 months at the same rate you started with. And with rates changing weekly, chances of getting the same rate are almost impossible. Even more, some banks manipulate the yield by adding a Leap Day—one more day's interest for 1,100th of a percent greater yield. But since the yield figure is meaningless, it's only a numbers game. What should you do? We can't tell you who to put your money with. That's up to you. But now that you know CD rates are the same everywhere, and that the yield rate is meaningless, we'd suggest you take a close look at what some of these banks are telling you. If it's only the half truth, think again. You may want to put your money with a bank willing to tell you the whole truth. For your information, the interest rate for Thurs. Nov. 1 through Wed. Nov. 7 is 12.193%. That means your $10,000 will equal $10,616 after 6 months. And that's the rate all banks are offering. Federal regulations prohibit compounding of interest on this account. We have eased the early withdrawal penalties on new or renewed term accounts.
