GOP Gains Director Seat

State Stays Same

By United Press International
Democrats have scored major election victories to solidify their hold in Connecticut's big cities while Republicans hung on to the leadership in mostly rural communities in the state.

Hartford Democratic Mayor George Athanson easily won a fifth-term, leading his six-member state to defeat a field of three challengers. Unofficial results in the heavily Democratic capital city gave Athanson 12,281 votes.

Electors Want Mayor Vote

MANCHESTER — Manchester voters said yesterday they want the town to consider giving them a chance to vote directly for the mayor. They also said they do want to continue to elect members of the Board of Directors at large and not by districts.

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA

MANCHESTER — The year's local election drama, featuring added players in the form of special interest, an independent candidate, and an outspoken cast of Republicans and Democrats has ended. The Democrats retained their majority on the Board of Directors, reduced to five. They also placed their candidate in the town treasurer's slot, and all their candidates for other offices won election.

Voter Turnout Same as 1977

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA

MANCHESTER — Despite valiant efforts by a bipartisan voter turnout committee, only 51 percent of eligible voters cast ballots in Tuesday's election, repeating to the exact percentage point the voter participation in the local election two years ago.

Billy Graham Says Holocaust Coming

Billy Graham came to Chicago Monday with a warning for Americans caught up in "mindless, hedonistic materialism." He told guests at a Protestant Foundation fund-raiser, "The world has become a neighborhood and will no longer tolerate the extremes of riches and poverty." His only bright note concerned Pope John Paul II - "the greatest religious leader of the modern world and one of the greatest moral and spiritual leaders of this century."

But Graham added, "Western society has fault lines that could lead to an international earthquake. Our world may be heading for a nuclear holocaust which will make Auschwitz seem like a minor dress rehearsal."

Still There

Sir Edmund Hillary - the first man ever to scale Mount Everest - says the world still holds "opportunities for vigorous adventures." He told UPI correspondent Walter W. Miller in Hong Kong, the South Pacific offers a lot of challenges for the mountaineer - "peaks rising out of the sea, offering beautiful scenery, which have never been climbed." He adds China also is offering up some exciting opportunities - but adds, the Chinese may price themselves out of the market. He says a Japanese team is ready to tackle Everest from the Chinese side, but it's going to cost them nearly $3 million - a rate he says is high for climbers can afford.

Change of Pace

New York entrepreneur Lloyd Kolmer - the "middleman" who earns a fortune by lining up famous faces to make advertised products equally famous - says he's changing his Madison Avenue focus. He's the man who led Milton Berle to Goodrich tires, Victor Borge to AT&T and Ethel Merman to ginger ale.

No Sense of Humor

You can't tell the players without a program - but at Cornell's Saturday homecoming game against Yale, you couldn't tell the program from the game. The one student Joey Green published looked just like the real one - except that it sold for half price and carried this "statement" from Cornell coach Bob Blackman: "We've seen Yale on film and we were impressed. We've also seen them play football and personally, I think they should stick to film making."

Glimpses

Joe DiMaggio won the long drive celebrity - with a 227-yard drive - in the Shekky Green Celebrity Golf Classic held in Las Vegas for the benefit of the National Council on Alcoholism. Chita Rivera opened a new cabaret act at New York's Les Mouches Tuesday with Debbie Allen, Ann Miller, Melba Moore and Sandy Duncan in the cheering section. A Los Angeles judge Tuesday ordered Rod Steiger to increase temporary support payments to ex-wife Sherry from $4,000 to $4,500 a month, and to pay her lawyers, Marvin Mitchell and Harold Hooten, $20,000 in fees.

Democrats Ecstatic With Dagon Victory

By CHRIS BLAKE Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD - Ecstatic Democrats were calling it a landslide, a whooper, a trouncing, a biggie. By whatever description they choose, it is certain that Democrat George A. Dagon, a 12-year veteran of the Town Council, will become the town's next mayor on Nov. 13.

Dagon crushed Republican Philip G. Russell by a three-to-one margin in a town election which was also marked by wide margins of victory by the entire Democratic slate. Six Democrats, including five incumbents, were elected to the Town Council and three Democrats were elected to Board of Education.

But, not gained a wider margin of victory than Dagon, who outpolled Russell, 8,803 to 2,937, a difference of 5,866 votes. The voter turnout was 45.2 percent, which is five percent more than the 1977 turnout. Dagon said for the last district reported its plurality for him.

Democrats Regain Control of Council

By DAVE LAVALLEE Herald Reporter

GLASTONBURY - They are no longer the underdogs on the Town Council. By taking five of the nine seats and two seats away from the Republicans Tuesday night, the Democratic Party regained control of the council for the first time since 1972.

In the upset victory, former Minority Leader Constantine Constantine led all candidates with 4,880 votes. Republican incumbent Henry Kinnel followed Constantine with 4,675 votes.

In 1973, Constantine was the majority leader on the council and during the last term he was the minority leader. Because he was the top vote-getter, Constantine will probably get the nod as council chairman.

On the Republican side, incumbents Sony Goggins and Joan Salles and newly elected Allan Pfeffer will join Kinne. Former Majority Leader Dale Richter and incumbent Elizabeth Elasco were both defeated. Richter, finished 11th and Mrs. Elason 10th.

McIntosh said one of the reasons for the Democrats' victory was his party's strong campaign. "Our campaign and our teamwork were the keys in this race," McIntosh said who is entering his sixth term on the council.

In North Haven, police arrested a man who chained himself to a voting booth in protest over his dismissal from a town job four years ago. Hebron Jones-Keele-Batson Unit of the American Legion will host its 1979 Laurel Girls State delegates at its meeting scheduled for tonight at 7 in American Legion Hall, Hebron, Green.

The public is invited to attend the meeting. Dessert and coffee will be served.

Lawsuit To Test New Gaming Division's Power

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) - A lawsuit by an American Totalisator Co. employee challenging the award of Connecticut's lottery to lottery contractor, Datalog, could be a test of the new gaming division's clout.

The suit against Administrative Services Commissioner Elisha Freedman and Datalog alleges Freedman by law must abide by the board's recommendation to award the contract to AmTote, a division of General Instruments Inc.

But Assistant Attorney General William Kleinman, who is representing Freedman, said in an interview that the suit is "premature" because the gaming board has final say and they have not yet voted one way or another on the contract.

Also, "it's the state's position, based on extensive analysis, that they (Datalog) are the lowest, qualified, responsible bidder," Kleinman said. The case will be heard Thursday in Hartford Superior Court.

The action seeking to block the contract award to Datalog was filed by Stephen Shalor of New Haven, lottery manager for AmTote's Connecticut operations. AmTote's contract expires March 15.

Thomas Groark, a Hartford lawyer representing Shalor, said he is suing as an interested taxpayer trying to protect the $22 million in state revenue Connecticut derives from the lottery.

Groark submitted an Aug. 9 memo sent to Freedman by gaming executive director John Devine saying that Datalog's performance record was "questionable" based on the way the company operates the Michigan lottery.

Devine said Datalog has had recurring problems with computer "downtime" in the two years that it has run the Michigan lottery. "Downtime" is a period when the computer system is unable to process bets by customers. "It must be pointed out," that when the Daily Numbers system is down, the credibility of the lottery and the state hangs in the balance," Devine said in the memo. "Not only is revenue lost, but faith in the entire system is shattered."

The contract's specifications state the company hired to operate the lottery has to supply all the computer terminals needed to issue tickets. The one year contract carries an option to renew for two more years.

Groark also brought up details of a closed door gaming policy board meeting Aug. 2 during which John Winchester, director of the lottery division, said the contract should go to AmTote.

The minutes of the meeting related that Blaine Lewis, assistant unit chief in the lottery division, had visited Michigan to see Datalog's operation and found Michigan officials were dissatisfied with the company's work.

Lewis also said the "responsible" bidder and that changes were made in specifications after the contract was awarded, which he said is illegal.

He said AmTote didn't wait for the gaming policy board vote on the contract because the timetable for the lottery is so tight.

Whichever company runs the game must have the equipment in place by Feb. 1 in time for a March 1 start.

"It's the position of AmTote that if they waited until everything was done and then moved to upset the thing, then who would run the daily?" Groark said.

Milton Jacobson, a Norwich lawyer representing Datalog, a division of Applied Devices Inc., said AmTote is a "bare loser."

He has filed several motions asking to have the case thrown out. "The law is clear that the disappointed bidder has no right or authority under the law to bring a lawsuit," Jacobson said.

Voters Came Home, Cummings Declares

MANCHESTER — Democrats roared their approval of the election of five of their six candidates to the Board of Directors and of other party triumphs as the returns came in from one of the closest elections in years.

Mayor Stephen Penny was top vote-getter with his closest challenger coming from Republican Carl Zinsner who trailed by 34 votes.

Deputy Mayor Stephen Cassano again captured second place in the Democratic candidates' tally, winning 6,900 votes, and he was followed by newcomers James McCavanagh, with 6,888, Barbara Weinberg with 6,377 and Arnold Kleinschmidt with 6,086.

As the party returns filtered back to standing-room-only crowd at party headquarters the eventual winners were biting their nails.

Said Democrat Judge William FitzGerald, "The ninth, third and second districts came in to us first and we did so badly in them we thought we'd lost. The big surprise was the eighth district where we ran big. After that it was all uphill."

Several times Democrats felt the heat of the Republicans at their heels, as Town Treasurer Roger Negro, who beat his Republican challenger by 2,800 votes, said in his acceptance speech.

Negro said Town Chairman Ted Cummings was, "Yelling and screaming at us this afternoon; he didn't think we were working hard enough, but we got hustling."

The man who was introduced to the throng as the "greatest Democrat in Manchester" by Attorney Dominic Squatrito, Ted Cummings, declared, "I told you the voters would come home."

"We got a 5-4 board and the top man is a Democrat. Roger Negro is still town treasurer and just in case you've forgotten the Democrats are still the team you've got to beat in this town."

Deputy Mayor Cassano declared, "We have a bunch of terrific people who worked hard. Our victory is social justice. Without question (Mayor Stephen) Penny deserves to run first, he is an outstanding leader. Just look at the record of the board."

When newcomer Barbara Weinberg was introduced to the merrymakers they went wild. The diminutive lady with the powerful voice declared, "What a great, absolutely great job you've all done under tough conditions. We showed how we stood on tough issues, we met the voters everywhere."

"You came in tops, because, ladies and gentlemen, you are tops, now and in the two years to come." In a more restrained mood as the crowd was thinning out, Weinberg said, "I had been hoping for a 6-3 board. We went before so many groups and campaigned so hard."

Mayor Penny declared that some of his expectations had been realized. "I expected Cassano and I would run strong. I was surprised the Republicans won four seats. That must be credited to the two special interest groups, the Eighth is Great Committee and the Concerned Citizens for Manchester's Development."

But Arnold "Ike" Kleinschmidt, in his acceptance speech, said, "I think we proved tonight that the Eighth is Great Committee isn't so great. We as Democrats have shown the Republicans we're going to be around for a good many more years to come."

The newcomer who ran strongest, James McCavanagh, was thankful of those who had aided his campaign and felt the, "voters appreciate the clean campaign I conducted. It goes back over the years. I'm a lifelong resident and do my best to work with people."

Even the Republicans who filtered back to Democratic headquarters agreed McCavanagh is a congenial man who is tough to beat.

Francis Maffe, the Democratic candidate who came in at the "ever-so-close-but-ob-so-far" tenth position occupied by Republican Peter DiRosa in the 1977 election, had no comment.

DiRosa was elected this year, placing sixth in votes. He said coming in tenth is a difficult spot to accept and that it takes some time on the board before people know candidates' names and what they stand for.

DiRosa was joined by Republicans William Diana, Gloria DellaFerra, Ida Lindberg, Peter Sylvester and Elsie Swenson as the GOP made the customary visit of the team that lost to the team that won.

All the politicians and political observers expressed confidence the newly elected directors will be able to overcome the animosities and rhetoric of the campaign to work together effectively.

Looking Worried

Incumbent Mayor and Director Stephen Penny showed concern last night at Democratic Party headquarters as the first returns came in. Penny's concern turned to joy however as he became the top vote getter in the election when the final results were tallied. Large Plurality

Roger Negro was re-elected town treasurer by a large plurality in Tuesday's election defeating Republican Peter Sylvester by nearly 2,000 votes. Negro was the second highest vote getter in the election with a total of 7,461 votes. (Herald photo by Adamson)

Rats Eating 'Junk Food' In Experiment at Illing

By LANEY ZUBOFF
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — What happens to children who eat a mostly fast-foods type of diet, steering clear of fresh fruits and vegetables? Two rats at Illing Junior High School are being experimented on by three classes to learn about the effects of "junk food."

One rat gets to eat all that "good stuff" children love but is not nutritious as a mainstay diet. Hotdogs, hamburgers, french fries, white bread, cookies, apple pie, and a little bit of lettuce and tomato for taste is one rat's diet, with soda for a beverage.

The other rat thrives on beef liver, eggs, cottage cheese, macaroni and cheese, pork, peas, baked potato, whole wheat bread, apples, milk for a beverage, and other foods, for a more nutritional balanced diet.

The experiment is sponsored by the New England Dairy and Food Council and "it's one of the best ways to show the need for a well balanced diet; the children get involved and it offers a very graphic demonstration," said Deborah Parani, nutrition education consultant for the Dairy Council.

The council sent out 51 pairs of rats and teaching aids to different schools throughout Connecticut for the demonstration which has been approved by the Connecticut Humane Society.

Enice Whitney, home economics teacher, is supervising the three classes of seventh and eighth graders participating in the project at Illing.

Keeping charts to measure growth, activity, sleeping habits, eating habits, skin tone, strength and fur texture of the rats, the class of 16 students meeting Monday mornings found similar results by the third week.

Most students agreed the more nutritionally fed rat was larger, more calm, slept better, ate better, had better skin tone, strength and a silkier fur texture than the rat fed the way many children like to eat.

The well-fed rat had gained 37.8 grams of weight since beginning the experiment and now weighed 138.5 grams, while the other rat had only gained 18.8 grams, weighing in at 111.5 grams.

There would have been an even bigger difference, said Ms. Whitney, but she told the class "soft-hearted Don gave the (smaller) rat chocolate milk" during a three-day period he was in charge of feeding the animals.

"Does this mean anything to you? Can you relate this (experiment) to you?" Ms. Whitney asked the students as they settled down after their observations to discuss the findings.

When she received little response she asked, "If you were responsible for a little child, from this experiment what would you like to see it eat? Give me one reason you wouldn't feed the baby junk food?"

"It wouldn't grow," said one student, Earl Lappen. Asking about the difference in skin color in the undernourished rat one student replied, "Last week it was smooth, this week it's getting junked up."

For those of you concerned about the fate of the poorly fed rat, Ms. Whitney said the class will probably be following the Dairy Council's suggestion to try and nurse that rat back to health, to see the rate of recovery, during the last two weeks of the six-week experiment.

Ms. Whitney believes this demonstration, which has generated a great deal of interest from not only the classes participating but other students catching a glimpse of the rats between classes, as well, will remain etched in the student's mind as an example of what happens when you eat well and when you don't.

The 6-Month $10,000 CD:
12.193% That's the truth.
annual interest rate

The people at the Savings Bank of Manchester would like you to know the whole truth about half-year CD's. Every day, you open the paper and see those high effective annual yield figures. The fact is, those figures are meaningless. And here's why.

The yield is based on the annual interest rate. That rate is Federally established every week. No bank can pay a higher rate.

Here's the catch. The rate is only guaranteed for the 6 months your CD is on deposit. In order to earn the high "effective annual yield", you'd have to reinvest your $10,000 plus your 6 months' interest at exactly the same interest rate you started with. Since the rate changes weekly, the chances of getting the same rate are almost impossible.

Some banks even manipulate the yield figure by adding a Leap Day—appearing to pay 1/100th of a percent higher than competitors. But it's all a numbers game. The only figures that are important are the base rate and the dollars you earn for the 6 month period.

So when you see those ads with the big yield figures, look again. Find the rate and the dollar amount paid after 6 months. Because that's what will tell you what your 6-month CD will earn. And that's the whole truth.

The rate above is in effect from Thurs., Nov. 1 through Wed., Nov. 7. That means your $10,000 will equal $10,616 after 6 months. Federal regulations prohibit compounding of interest on this account. We have eased the early withdrawal penalties on new or renewed term accounts.

GOP Controls Council

Vernon Elects Herbst First Woman Mayor

Victory Smiles

Faces that a few minutes before were tense and unsmiling, suddenly were wreathed in smiles as the final word came that Mrs. Marie Herbst, D., was winner of the mayoral race in Vernon. She defeated Republican in-

VERNON—Vernon voters not only favored a Democratic mayor over the incumbent Republican mayor but also elected the town's first woman mayor. Marie Herbst defeated Frank McCoy in a very close 3,807 to 3,755 vote in Tuesday's election.

The voting results left members of both political parties shaking their heads because although a Democratic mayor was elected, for the first time since consolidation of the town governments, the council will have a majority from the party opposite to that of the mayor. The council will be 7-5 Republican majority.

It is also expected that there will be a recount for positions on the council. The two close votes are Democratic council members so there could be some concessions. Including absentee ballots, about 53 percent of the voters turned out to vote. The total registration is 13,827 and the total vote was 7,701. Since the last town election the total number of voters dropped but the number of registered Democrats increased by 57 while the number of registered Republicans decreased by 39. The number of unaffiliated voters also dropped from 7,269 to 6,835.

Just before the polls closed the atmosphere was tense at both party headquarters with neither group willing to make any predictions and both mayoral candidates visibly nervous. As the figures started to come in Lester Baum, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee said, several times, "This is not following a normal pattern."

In District I, Rockville center section, normally a Republican stronghold, the voters held true by voting 698 to 683, for McCoy. The same held true in Rockville's District II with a 683 to 771 vote for McCoy. However, in District III, Skinner Road area, also traditionally a Republican district, the vote was 607 to 499 for Herbst.

In District IV, the Lake Street area, Mrs. Herbst also led in a 768 to 676 vote but she lost in the other rural Vernon area of the Vernon Elementary School in a 900 to 827 vote.

District I was the last for which the figures came in at Democratic headquarters and as they waited Democratic Mayor Thomas Benoit was in office.

the whole thing," he said.

Baum's brief comment, in his hour of victory, was "I admire the astuteness of the voters. I think they have picked one of the most outstanding candidates ever."

Incumbent council member, Stephen Marcham was high vote-getter on the Democratic ticket, running higher than Mrs. Herbst with 3,838 votes. He was high vote-getter of both parties with Republican incumbent Morgan Campbell running second highest, but highest on his ticket, with 3,866 votes.

There will be a recount of the votes of two of the Democratic candidates for the council, unless one concedes. The vote for Joseph Merluzzo was 3,414 and for incumbent Leonard Jacobs, 3,412.

Democrats Devra Baum and George Prouty Sr., both held their seats on the Board of Education and were elected to full term terms. Also elected to a full term was Republican Ginger Freethy. Incumbent Republican Joan Worthen was elected to a two-year term to fill a vacancy. Mrs. Janet Daley, who was recently appointed to fill a vacancy on the board, lost in her bid to be elected to a full term and new-comer Arthur Michaels was defeated in his bid to be elected to the two-year term.

The voting for council candidates was as follows for the Democratic ticket: John Drost, 3,396; Leonard Jacobs, 3,412; Sylvia Morgan, 3,366; Stephen Marcham, 3,838; Joseph Merluzzo, 3,414; Sylvia Morgan, 3,366; Eugene Pinto, 3,359; Lena Therault, 3,547.

For Democratic Board of Education candidates: Devra Baum, 3,782; George Prouty Sr., 3,475; Arthur Michaels, 3,277.

Republican council candidates: Mark Bucher, 3,641; Morgan Campbell, 3,865; Michael Catarino, 3,386; Robert Hurd, 3,689; Jane Lamb, 3,888; James McCarthy, 3,456; Robert Romejko; Robert Wehrli, 3,677.

Republican Board of Education candidates: Janet Daley, 3,152; Ginger Freethy, 3,247; JoAnn Worthen, 3,879.

For the Board of Selectmen, the vote was close between the two Democratic candidates with Jack Gorr receiving 3,436 and Marian Narkawicz, 3,454 (possible recount) and the Republicans, both elected, John Fiske, 3,548 and Gail Slicer, 3,849.

Democrats Control South Windsor

SOUTH WINDSOR—Democrats regained control of the Town Council and Board of Education, winning five of the nine seats on each.

Popular incumbent Edward Havens emerged as the highest vote-getter with a total of 2,821 votes—383 votes ahead of the next highest vote-getter Mrs. Jackie Smith who drew a total of 2,438 votes.

Elected to the Town Council are Democrats Havens, Smith, new-comer Richard Nicholson, fourth highest with 2,269 votes; Sherman Tarr, sixth, with 2,159; incumbent Arthur Champagne, placing seventh with 2,025. Also elected are Republicans: incumbent Richard Ryan, placing fifth with 2,193 votes; newcomer Bruce Britton, eighth highest vote-getter with 2,019 and John Pitts, ninth, with 2,016.

Republicans Kenneth Brill and Thomas Martin and Democrat David Perkins were unsuccessful in their bid for Town Council. Brill gained 1,730 votes, Martin, 1,959 and Perkins, 1,821 votes.

Also unsuccessful was incumbent council veteran Robert Sills who placed last with 1,400 votes. Sills had been bounced from his Republican ticket at a caucus last July and ran on the Independent ticket.

The five victorious Democratic candidates for the Board of Education are Board Chairman John Giordano, 2,544; incumbent Nancy Kerensky, 2,465; incumbent Alfred Kenneth Jackson with 2,006 votes. Democratic Raymond Hallowell Jr. was the highest vote-getter for Planning and Zoning Commission with 2,495 votes. Also elected to the PZC are Democrat Marshall Montano with 2,285 votes and Republican Louise Evans with 2,128. Republican David Sorenson ran an unsuccessful campaign a gain 1,966.

Five constables were elected: Democrats Edward Deskus, Democrat Joseph Russo Jr. and Alexander Blotzie; Republicans Edward Kasheta and Stephen Smith. All four referendum questions passed.

Question one, dealing with the Avery Brook Flood Control project, passed with 637 votes, compared with 381 "no" votes. Question two dealing with the appointment and creation of the Inland Wetlands Commission passed with 658 "yes" votes and 258 "no" votes. Question three dealing with the Planning and Zoning Commission passed by 644 "yes" votes against 273 "no" votes. The fourth referendum item, dealing with a variety of Town Council "housekeeping" questions passed with 637 "yes" votes and 237 "no" votes.

For instance, Willimantic residents could get a drink within their voting district, even though the city's liquor stores and bars were closed.

Willimantic, like 155 other municipalities in Connecticut, held local elections Tuesday and under state law bars and package stores must close while the polls are open.

The Election Day liquor ban shuts down package stores for the entire day since the polls stay open until 8 p.m.—and the stores must close by 8 p.m. on normal days anyway.

But unlike other towns, Willimantic's package stores had to close for the second time this year because the city is within the town of Windham—and Willimantic residents also voted for Windham officials last May.

In the rest of Windham, though—which had no election Tuesday—package stores were open.

The 13 towns which hold their elections in May are among the state's smaller municipalities. The system has come under fire in the past with critics saying it favors incumbents and Republicans because the uncommon date lowers voter turnout and many of the towns are under GOP control.

Briak sales also were reported Tuesday in many other towns that didn't have elections.

Booze Runs a Close Second to Election

By MARK A. DUPUIS

United Press International Candidates and voter turnout topped many conversations in Connecticut Tuesday. But the search for libation may have run a close second.

The polls in 13 tiny Connecticut towns didn't open Election Day and that meant brisk sales for package stores in those communities—the only ones statewide allowed to open.

And in the eastern Connecticut city of Willimantic, package stores were closed for the second time this year, causing some confusion.

For instance, Willimantic residents could get a drink within their voting district, even though the city's liquor stores and bars were closed.

Cops End Probe Of Union Death

MIDDLETOWN (UPI)—Police haven't been "actively investigating" the June 18 shooting of state employee union head Salvatore Perruccio because no new leads have developed, Assistant State's Attorney John Redway says.

No one is actively investigating at this point," Redway said Tuesday. "But technically the investigation is still open."

He said state and local police "certainly would follow up" if any new information develops in the case.

Perruccio, president of the 8,500-member Connecticut Employees Union Independent, was shot in the right side and arm outside his home by a gunman who had waited in ambush for him to return from work.

He was hospitalized a month after the shooting for treatment of his wounds.

Redway refused comment on what the police investigation had turned up.

Middletown police have said they believe the shooting was related to union business and disputes between state employees unions.

State police have reportedly administered lie-detector tests to several people in investigating the shooting.

The shooting came in the independent state employees union was in contract talks with the state to replace a working agreement that expired June 30.

Perruccio's son, Steven, a staff representative for the union, said there had been previous attempts on his father's life and that the elder Perruccio's home had been burglarized prior to the shooting incident.

Dodd Backs Kennedy

HARTFORD (UPI)—U.S. Rep. Christopher J. Dodd has added his name to the list of Connecticut Democrats backing Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's presidential bid.

Dodd said he was backing Kennedy over President Carter because he's "most comfortable" with the senator's "policies and politics."

He also said the Massachusetts Democrat has taken up issues "which involve the quality of American life and which go to the heart of what Americans feel."

Dodd said Kennedy, unlike Carter, has demonstrated an ability "to create consensus from diverse opinions."

Connecticut Democratic Congressman William Coster and Toby Moffett already have announced their support for Kennedy.

Fire Departments Unified After 14 Year Struggle

VERNON—After a 14 years, the time since the town governments were consolidated, voters in Tuesday's election voted, in a 3,814 to 795 vote, to consolidate the town's two fire departments.

The referendum question on the election ballot was brief—it just stated that the voters were to vote yes or no "For the proposed charter amendment which would unify Rockville and Vernon Fire Departments."

The town governments were merged in 1965 and at the same time the police departments were unified. Over the years the issue of merging the fire departments came up each time the town charter was amended but each time fire fighters objected.

They said it would cause morale problems within the volunteer departments and they also feared a merger might lead to a paid department.

Through a Fire Study Committee, headed by Council member Jane Lamb, the proposal for the merger was made again and this time the majority of the members of both the Rockville and Vernon Departments came out in favor of the move.

The unified department will have one chief and it is expected that Rockville Fire Chief Donald Maguda will be named to that post. Vernon Fire Chief William Johnston has already been hired for the full-time position of town fire marshal.

The absentee ballots went 149 to 41 for consolidation.

the Fire Department of the Town of Vernon but each company will keep its own identity.

The members of both departments have been working on a unified set of bylaws in anticipation of the merger but the contents haven't been made public. The members of both departments met in executive session about two weeks ago and issued a joint statement urging voters to approve the merger.

The question passed by a large majority in all five voting districts, the vote by districts was as follows: District I, 551-197; District II, 577-149; District III, 565-97; District IV, 756-128; District V, 1,196-183.

Maine Keeps Bottle Law

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI)—In a landslide of historic proportions Maine voters have rejected a bid to dump Maine's bottle law by a more than five-to-one margin.

With 643 of Maine's 659 precincts counted in an unofficial state tally, 94.4 percent of Maine's voters opposed the repeal effort — financed primarily by out-of-state beer, beverage and container corporations; 40,510 people supported repeal, and 219,285 voted against repeal.

It was the most lopsided election victory in recent Maine history.

In the last six months about $160,000 poured into Maine from 45 other states and was used to launch an 11th hour advertising blitz pushing repeal.

Bottle law opponents across the country had hoped Maine would repeal the bottle law and help reverse a national trend toward container deposit statutes, but the strategy backfired.

County—favored repeal of the bottle law. Support for the law crossed all economic lines as it was supported 1,036-173 in the mill town of Rumford and 2,344-300 in the posh Portland bedroom community of Falmouth. Thomas Bertocci, director of Maine Citizens for Returnable Containers, told UPI. "It may be the biggest mistake the beer and container industries ever made on this matter."

The fact the opponents were so resoundingly rejected should be a message for the rest of the country," said Gov. Joseph E. Brennan, a long-time supporter of the bottle law. "It's clear people have voted for a clean State of Maine. If the law is causing problems for the mom and pop stores we should change the law, but the Legislature is the place to address those problems."

Only three of the 643 tallied precincts — one in Portland and the tiny communities of E Plantation in Aroostook County and Frenchboro in Hancock

Republicans Happy Over Partial Win

By LANEY ZUBOFF
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — While the Republicans were saying they were disappointed at not winning a majority of seats after Tuesday night's election, they were smiling, back slapping and laughing at Republican headquarters after gaining a fourth seat on the Board of Directors.

Gloria Della Fera (R) won a seat with 6,251 votes and will now join Republican incumbents William Diana, winning with 7,122 votes; Peter DiRosa, winning with 6,406 votes and Carl Zinsner who won his seat back with 7,432 votes, the highest Republican vote getter.

Though Della Fera was victorious in winning her spot on the board and was smiling as she accepted congratulations, she said however, "I would have preferred it if we won, but we did a good job considering what we were up against."

Della Fera said she was disappointed at the low voter turnout and blamed it partly on the HUD issue. Voters chose in an April referendum not to participate in a HUD program and cut the town off from federal aid for low income housing. Republicans voted for the HUD referendum from the start but criticized Democrats for the lawsuit against the town for its withdrawal. "After they won the referendum voters were discouraged by the suit against us," said Della Fera. "They figured why should they vote. I thought the HUD issue would swing the vote," she said.

"But the fight isn't over," said Della Fera who said the HUD issue is a "landmark in the whole country. I'm not a quitter," she said.

Carl Zinsner said the election "didn't go the way I wanted it to. I'm disappointed," he expected a six to three Republican vote.

As did many of the Republicans, Zinsner blamed John A. Tucci, running on an independent ticket, for taking away Republican votes. "The independent candidate definitely hurt the Republican party," said Zinsner.

"I only hope the Democratic directors will have the courage to vote their own convictions rather than following the line of Ted Cummings," said Zinsner. Zinsner discussed the results with William Diana, as the two of them congratulated each other and pointed at some figures on the "scoreboard."

"The Eighth Utilities gave us what little we have to cheer about," said Zinsner, referring to the Republican vote in districts two, three and seven.

"Diana said he was 'happy' at the results but eonchuffed with other Republicans that 'John Tucci took away some votes. If he hadn't it would have gone the other way,'" said Diana.

"Are you going over to Democratic headquarters?," Diana asked Zinsner.

"No, I'm not going. They can come here," Zinsner laughed.

Peter DiRosa said he was only "somewhat disappointed" at not gaining a majority on the board, "another seat is some sort of victory," said DiRosa. "If it wasn't for the independent candidate we might have gotten a five to four majority," he said.

The Democrats will have to have five people at every meeting, it's no longer carte blanche. We'll have four at every meeting," said Republican Finance Chairman Ted LaBonne who said Republicans will now have a stronger voice in town policy "and whether there is a leaf collection two weeks before election," said LaBonne. "Now all of a sudden they will have to ask us because we'll have four people on deck at all times; a viable minority," he said.

LaBonne said the popularity and familiarity of some Democratic candidates "carried a couple of the votes. If it was a straight issue to issue campaign we would have won," said LaBonne.

LaBonne said placing Ida J. Lindberg (R) against Mayor Stephen T. Penny (D), for example, because of the alphabetical listing method, was like pitting "Carl Yastremski against a first-time pitcher."

Nicholas J. Costa, who wandered into GOP Headquarters after the "celebration" was dying down, said "I know I won, it's very nice. I hoped we had done much better," said Costa. Costa is a Board of Education member.

Peter C. Sylvester, a newcomer to politics, lost the town treasurer's race to Democrat Roger M. Negro, by 1,830 votes. "My first reaction," said Sylvester, "is to relax and run again." "If I had an opportunity to run again Monday, I would," said Sylvester. "Negro is vulnerable," he said.

"I had fun," said Sylvester who was being comforted by family and friends who told him "you'll do better next time."

Former Mayor Nate Agostinelli said about the results, "Anytime a Republican comes close it's a strong upset," because the town is "overwhelmingly Democratic."

Even as the gaily wound down at the GOP Headquarters, about an hour and a half after the polls closed, and shortly after the Republicans tallied the results, there was still an uplifting air among those who lingered, after coming "the closest we've been in years," as explained by Elise Swenson, Republican vice chairman.

Editorial Both Parties Gain Victories

Voters in Manchester and area towns have spoken. In Manchester the vote reflects an eroding Democratic majority, perhaps due to the fact four incumbent Democrats did not seek reelection.

The campaign was hard fought as Republicans saw what they thought was a chance to wrest control from the Democrats.

They did not accomplish their goal, but they did gain one more seat so the board will be less lopsided this term than last.

Political analysts on both the Democratic and Republican sides may consider the incursion of independent candidate John A. Tucci to be the spoiler.

Tucci, a self-proclaimed conservative, may have stolen more votes from the Republican than the Democratic side of the ticket.

Yet his 1,173 votes could have spelled the difference for either Francis Maffe, the only Democrat who did not gain election to the board or Republican Clarence Brown.

No matter which side you are on, it is obvious that Tucci's candidacy did have an impact on the results.

In other towns the results are worthy of note. The landslide victory of George Dagon, who unseated Mayor Richard Blackstone in the primary, was another boost for Democrats in that town after Republicans campaigned in hopes of gaining the East Hartford office.

A very close vote in Vernon gives that community its first woman mayor who will be working, as a Democrat, with a Republican board.

In Glastonbury, Democrats have gained a council majority in a turn of events that was not being predicted even in the wake of a low-cost housing controversy.

It is noted with interest that fire department consolidation was approved in Vernon, where such a move met with almost universal support.

In Manchester the Republicans were hoping to make the issue of participation in the HUD Community Development program the one convincing the Democratic plurality to abandon the traditional voting pattern and punish the Democrats.

Democrats were saying they did not think the voters would punish them. They will interpret Tuesday's victory for Democratic incumbents as a vote of confidence.

The hardest fought election in recent Manchester history is now over and both parties can walk away encouraged for the next battle.

The Republicans, because they gained a seat on the board and the Democrats because they have held their support together during a tough, bare-knuckled campaign.

Breitenfeld Lauded

To the editor: I felt compelled to write this letter in light of the recent announcement by Jim Breitenfeld that he is leaving as Chamber president to take a similar position in Florida.

In the year 1978-79, I served as chairman of the Board of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and worked very closely with Jim. In my estimation, he is one of the most capable and competent people I have ever met.

Although I am sure this is a good move for Jim and his future, I feel, personally and I'm sure the business community feels the same, that this is a tremendous loss to us.

Jim has proven himself within our community and I believe he is one of the most respected individuals in town. I just wanted to publicly thank him for the time he's served with our Chamber of Commerce, for the efforts he expended to make the Chamber a better business organization, and the character he showed in putting up with people such as myself.

We all wish him well in his new endeavor and express our total appreciation for what he's done.

"We have files with a few thousand names of people who've willed us their bodies. But they just aren't dying."

The Spirit of America

WASHINGTON — Being cheeky by nature, I offer some unsolicited advice to my friends in the newspaper and television trades. Dispatch your reporters, sirs and meadames, to seek out news about private people who are doing something about the energy crisis besides whimpering.

Those somethings are being done all across the country, but we of the media seem seized by an obsession with bad news. And it is true, of course, that a kind of national paranoia causes readers, tube buffs, and radio audiences to welcome anything that feeds our surly machoism.

So I call my fellow (and girly?) country-folks' attention to a story on the new tickers several days ago.

The millionaire boss of a company with membership in Fortune Magazine's roster of the 500 richest businesses is directing a let-it-at-it assault on the Republic's fuel shortage.

Michael Dingman is president of Wheelabrator-Frye in Hampton,

N.H. In collaboration with the Mateo Construction Co. of Boston, he has operated a trash and garbage conversion plant in Saugus, north of Boston, since 'way back in 1975 that has produced more than 6.8 billion pounds of the purest form of energy at a profit, without a dime's worth of government help or interference, and without fouling the water or atmosphere.

So I call my fellow (and girly?) country-folks' attention to a story on the new tickers several days ago.

The millionaire boss of a company with membership in Fortune Magazine's roster of the 500 richest businesses is directing a let-it-at-it assault on the Republic's fuel shortage.

Michael Dingman is president of Wheelabrator-Frye in Hampton,

Massachusetts' North Shore for $14.82 a ton. Then he sells the steam produced to the General Electric Co.'s jet engine plant, just across the Saugus River in Lynn, where the steam is used to produce electricity and heat.

Dingman Resco isn't fussy. It takes all kinds of refuse. "We get refrigerators," he says, "and old railroad track and one day we got half of a Volkswagen."

Magnets remove scrap metal from the ash, and the ash itself is used for highway resturfacing. It takes trucks only seven minutes to unload.

Dingman didn't invent the process, which is common in Europe, where people have always hated to waste anything. He got a license to play copy cat from a Swiss corporation, then improved it to filter the byproducts of combustion so his plant complied with federal environmental standards.

The refreshing thing about all this is that Dingman is not playing hero; he's a businessman, not a philanthropist. You can bet he'd junk his plant if it didn't make money.

That's in comfortable contrast to a similar plant in St. Louis that flopped after the ingestion of $11 million in public funds.

What it amounts to is that government involvement frequently is the kiss of death. Too much paperwork, too many regulations, too many bureaucrats counting paper clips. Dingman said best, let's do it. That my friends is where America came from.

Thoughts

Have you looked at trees in November? To some people the trees look desolate without their leaves, but I think there is a rugged beauty in November trees. Each tree has a unique shape. No tree is a copy of another tree. Each tree grows at its own pace resulting from its own encounter with wind, temperature, sunlight and soil.

Follow the line of a tree from the base of the trunk up the tree and out to the very tip of the branches. Observe the twisted branches. They reveal a living organism's struggle for survival, which the foliage of summer keeps hidden. Even as the tree twists its way toward the light it does so with grace. The twigs at the perimeter of the tree form a delicate symmetry. No matter how bent a tree, the ends of the branches pursue a balance which delights the eye.

This is no haphazard growth. There is harmony in November trees which reveals a wholeness of purpose in the natural world. The trees are ready for the storms of winter. The sap has retreated, but out of the depths of the tree's struggle to live, there is the promise of spring. It is not difficult to understand why the ancient wisdom writer compared the blessed man to a "tree planted by streams of water, that yields its fruit in its season, and its leaf does not wither."

Oil's Slick Profits Claims Won't Slide Past Taxpayers

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The oil industry is trying to mesmerize consumers into believing that the profits they're plundering are good for America.

Their propaganda line sounds like the proverbial Little Jack Horner, who stuck in a thumb and pulled out a plum and said "what a good boy am I."

The third-quarter profit statements of the big oil companies showed Exxon raking in $1.1 billion more than for the same three months the year before; Texaco's profits boosted up 211 percent. Big Oil's slick public relations machines went into high gear. They couldn't blame their windfall profits on the Arabs, or claim that the government was responsible. Their film-fam consisted of adopting a poor-little-rich-boy role.

Charles DiBona, president of the American Petroleum Institute, rushed out a release denying the astronomical profit increase as justified by "a very depressed level" in 1978.

Other oil executives contended that the profits came from investment developments abroad and repeated the threadbare argument that the huge windfall was needed to develop the drill for new petroleum resources in this country.

A careful look at the figures established that the oil tycoons are dipping into their customary bag of public relations tricks to justify unreasonable profiteering.

They claim the increased profits result from their international operations and not from squeezing the American consumers. Government auditors, however, have found that nearly half the boosts in heating oil and gasoline prices foisted on users in this country can be attributed to increases at the producer-refinery level.

The refinery profits that are accumulated overseas, according to an expert analysis, are partly squeezed out of the American consumers.

American-owned refineries in Venezuela and the Caribbean, for example, are shipping their products into this country, with consumers paying the piper.

The oil companies' claim that this year's profits look huge only because of their low profits last year also amounts to bosh. In 1978, most of the U.S. petroleum corporations operated in the black. Some experienced profit increases as high as 134 percent. Overall, they harvested a field of greenbacks worth $13.3 billion.

Their contention that the profits are needed for reinvestment in exploration and research falls flat when the cash flow is considered. An analysis of the industry's own statistics by the consumer advocate group, Energy Action, reveals that last year, only 68 percent of their billions was ploughed back for such purposes. Most of the remainder was used to buy up non-oil-related enterprises such as hotels, ranches and diverse industries.

Truth-in-Government
Were Diogenes to reappear with his lantern searching for an honest man, he'd find truth in short supply in Washington, particularly at the Pentagon where Harold Brown reigns as secretary of defense.

Obama insisted he was serving the public when the cash flow is considered. An analysis of the industry's own statistics by the consumer advocate group, Energy Action, reveals that last year, only 68 percent of their billions was ploughed back for such off. Brown assured skeptical members of Congress that no punitive action would be taken against the intrepid Fitzgerald for trying to protect the taxpayers.

More recently, Brown vehemently denied our charges that new evidence indicated he and his inner circle engaged in a conspiracy to cover up the outrageous rip-off.

A secret memo dictated by Brown at the time of the C-5A investigation contradicts his disclaimers. The record shows that, in 1968, Brown quietly met with Robert Seamans, who had been designated to be his successor in the new administration.

The confidential memo reveals that he told Seamans that many of Fitzgerald's "practices were unacceptable. These include speaking to the press against Air Force decisions, discussing internal Air Force matters with congressional committees staffs, and providing them with documents without going through legislative liaison channels."

This, Brown added, "has greatly lessened, if not eliminated his value as an employee of the Air Force."

Brown informed Seamans that the Air Force brass hats had "made it clear" to Fitzgerald that we considered his usefulness to the Air Force to be negligible if not negative.

Later that year, Fitzgerald was booted out of his job on the patently unjust claim by the Nixon administration that his Pentagon position had been wiped out under a reorganization. The federal courts subsequently ordered his reinstatement.

Footnote: A spokesman for Brown didn't return our calls at press time.

Object of Breaks

Twice within the last two weeks someone broke into the Manchester Racquet Club and stole only women's clothing and women's sneakers from the Racquet Club operated by Millie Leuck.

Speaking of the Racquet Club, tennis pros Jack Redmond and Tom Casillo have both entered the Five Mile Road Race. Former Manchester Mayor John Thompson is another entrant in the holiday run Thanksgiving.

Pat Mistretta, athletic director at Manchester Community College, is exploring several avenues to secure funds to help defray the cost of running the annual two-day New England Relays in June.

Popular Douglas and Alan Hangesberg of the Hartford Whalers have Manchester addresses during the National Hockey League season. Nice guys do get ahead. Example: Gene Michael being elevated to the general manager's position with the New York Yankees. The one-time Yankee infielder and coach gives the club a touch of class.

Toughest test since the opener for Yale's undefeated football team will come Saturday afternoon against Princeton in New Jersey. The Elis have rolled off seven straight wins while the Tigers are growing with a 4-3 win-loss record.

Whalers' Change
Glad to welcome Bob Casey back into the area as public relations director of the Hartford Whalers. The former New Haven sportswriter has been serving in a like capacity with the National Hockey League for the past seven years. He replaces John Hewitt. The latter was on the job less than a year in the ever-revolving changes in the Whaler front office.

Baseball is losing some of its credibility with the free agent draft rule, the best latest example being the rich New York Yankees latching onto Bob Watson, Rudy May and Bruce Kison. Boston Red Sox do not have the means - money - to stand toe-to-toe and go against the Yankees in the money market and in due time the Yankees, Dodgers, Reds, Phillies - will get richer.

Watson Headed For Pin Stripes
BOSTON (UPI) - Boston Red Sox first baseman and free agent Bob Watson will go to the New York Yankees. The Boston Globe and Boston Herald American reported today.

Red Sox General Manager Haywood Sullivan reportedly got the final word at 6 p.m. Tuesday, in a phone call from Watson's agent Tom Reich.

We have reached an understanding with New York," Reich said in a letter to Sullivan. "Reich said, referring to Watson's arrival from the Astros in June of this year, 'There was always a strong hope in my mind, and Bob's, that he would go to Boston. But once the free agent draft occurred, the chances were dissipated.'

"I'm afraid the money was just overwhelming," Sullivan commented.

Reich said the choice was difficult for Watson.

"Bob agonized over this. So did I. Boston was my selection for the place to be traded to by Houston," Reich said, referring to Watson's arrival from the Astros in June of this year.

"The Yankees made a very flattering proposal," he added.

NEW YORK (UPI) - The knee braces are gone this year - all that remains is the majesty.

"I'm really playing without pain for the first time in the NBA," said Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers. "That's always a factor, especially late in the game when you have to concentrate on making shots and getting boards."

Erving borrowed a page from his spectacular ABA days Tuesday night. He scored 34 points, including seven in overtime, to send the 76ers to a 118-117 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

Since joining the 76ers three seasons ago, Erving has been slowed by tendonitis, wearing a heavy brace on each knee. But after an offseason of treatment and conditioning, he is ready to return to form.

"I can play more of a total basketball game," said Erving, the league's third-leading scorer. "You can't do that with pain - it's a real blessing."

The 76ers needed all of Erving's magic Tuesday night to stop the Bucks, who are playing one of the best ball in the league.

Philadelphia led, 118-110, in overtime but the Bucks cut it to two when Brian Winters hit a three-point basket and was fouled on the play. Erving made it 118-114 and Winters added a three-point play at the buzzer as the 76ers won their second straight road game in overtime.

"It looked like we had an easy game of it in overtime and then Winters hit those three-point plays," said Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham. "God, that Winters can shoot!"

Fernandes' Goals Pace MCC Win

Led by freshman center forward Jorge Fernandes two first-half goals, Manchester Community College's soccer team advanced to the semifinals in the National Junior College Athletic Association Region XXI Championship yesterday with a 2-0 win over Rhode Island Junior College at Longley Field in Franklin, Mass.

The Cougars, 10-3-1, will face top-ranked Post Junior College of Waterbury Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Brockton, Mass., at the Massachusetts Community College field.

Fernandes notched his 15th and 16th goals of the season at 7:28 and 32:53 of the first half. He headed in the first score after accepting a 30-yard cross from Bob Kraus. A Cliff Pinsky pass set up the second marker.

MCC Coach John Fitzgerald stated, "We played an outstanding game in terms of defense and offense. Rhode Island was much better than they played last Sunday and their keeper was excellent making five sensational stops on what appeared to be sure goals. We had a team effort all the way."

Cougar keeper Bill Prattaroli had nine saves while Mike Rounds stopped eight for Rhode Island. MCC had a 10-13 edge in shots and 9-6 advantage in corner kicks. MCC met Post earlier this season and took home a 5-2 decision.

NL Cy Young Award To Relief Ace Sutter

NEW YORK (UPI) - Bruce Sutter, the Chicago Cubs' relief ace who recorded 37 saves to lead the major leagues, Wednesday was named winner of the National League's Cy Young Award.

The 26-year-old Sutter, who had a 2-3 ERA to go along with a 6-4 record, won a close decision as the NL's best pitcher in the balloting of 24 major-league writers.

Sutter received three points from the Houston Astros. Nickro had 66 points and nine first-place votes.

J.R. Richard of Houston was third with 41 points. Tom Seaver of Cincinnati was fourth with 20 points, and reliever Kent Tekulve of Pittsburgh was fifth with 14 points. Phil Niekro of Atlanta received three points.

Sutter's 37 saves tied the NL record held by Cincinnati's Clay Carroll in 1972 and San Diego's Rolie Fingers in 1978. John Hiller of the NL Milwaukee Brewers set a record of 38 saves in 1973.

The righthander is the second reliever pitcher to win the Cy Young award in the majors with Chicago in Los Angeles won it in 1974. In the American League, Sparky Lyle of New York took the honor in 1973, the blossomed, saving half of the 62 games he entered, with a 7.3 record and a 1.35 ERA. He dropped to an 8-10 record in 1978, but still saved 27 of his 64 games.

Joe Niekro tied brother Phil for the most victories in the league with 21. Sutter was the only hurler to crack the 20-win mark. Joe finished with a 21-11 record, 11 complete games and a 3.00 ERA. Phil was 21-20.

Richard led the league with a 2.71 ERA and had an 18-13 record. He also broke his own league strikeout mark for right-handers with 313.

Top Tech Scorers To Leave Big Void

By LEN ATSTER
Herald Sports Editor
Closing out its 1979 campaign with five consecutive wins, one might figure Cheney Tech would be looking anxiously toward the '80 season.

But the Beavers, 6-2, who had trouble scoring early in the year with four shutouts in seven games, might be heading toward scoring difficulties - again. Graduation takes top scorers Chris Vann (8 goals), Mike Fraser (3) and Dan Menard (3) away from Cheney.

Concavies remarked both goals in the 2-2 deadlock were "careless mistakes."

Governale returned to the nets in game No. 7, and was there in the closing winning streak. "Louie did a nice job for us and I feel he'll be very good next year," said Concavies.

He's picking up positioning and he has very good hands."

The second key was switching, for the Rham game, from a 4-3 alignment to a 4-2-4. "The change was made because I didn't want to get murdered by Rham," Concavies admitted. The Sachems won 4-1, but the Tech leader was encouraged by what he saw.

"We moved the ball much better and got some (scoring) opportunities," he cites. "If I had left it the same, I don't think we would've scored on Rham and Rocky Hill 1-4 and they probably would have scored more."

"If we stayed in the 4-3-3, I think there's sophomore Tom Eaton, who scored three goals this season. Anyone else? 'Not really to tell you the truth.' Concavies concedes, looking at the picture as it stands now. One possibility is freshman Junior Nowak, who was the jayvee goalie but showed some ability when we put it on."

We're going to have to find an offense. And we're going to need a goalie at midfield to score," states Concavies, who will have to shape an offense to go with what looks like a solid defense for 1980.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
Dear Abby: As a pro who gets paid for writing scripts, articles, etc., I must be nuts writing to you. However, I can't resist pointing out your misuse of the expression, "lucked out."

According to the Dictionary of American Slang (Wentworth & Flexner) "lucked out" means "to be out of luck" or "to have met with ill fortune or disaster."

DEAR MORT: According to Webster's New World Dictionary of the American Language, "lucked out" means "to be lucky" or "to have things turn out favorably."

DEAR ABBY: Last night I watched a baby die. The child was 11 months old and strangled on a piece of apple.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 13 year old daughter who desperately wants her hair permed. Since my wife, who has two artificially added loaves in HER head, supports the idea, I am constantly getting it from both sides.

DEAR ABBY: You and MASSACHUSETTS MOM, who can't understand her husband's objections to allowing their 13-year-old daughter to pierce her ears, should stick this in your ears!

Manchester Memorial graduates at a School of Radiologic Technology, after ceremony for the 1979 class of Radiologic Technologists graduated from the hospital's classroom study and clinical experience.

Five Become Technologists

MANCHESTER - In the afternoon ceremonies conducted in the Conference Rooms of the Manchester Memorial Hospital on Wednesday, Oct. 31, the 1979 class of radiologic technologists was graduated from the Hospital's School of Radiologic Technology.

The graduates, each having successfully completed a 24-month program of intensive classroom study and clinical experience, were Christine Carpenter, Laurie Cole, Vickie Pearson, Bonnie Reutter and Denise Rioux.

Daniel Mikolowsky, R.T.N.M., technical director of the School of Radiologic Technology, presented the graduates with their certificates of completion.

Herbert L. Snyder, M.S., chief of radiology, then presented the MMH Award to the graduate having achieved the highest level of performance during the two-year program. The 1979 winner of the award was Denise Rioux.

Caps were then presented to the four students of the school who were just completing their first year of training. Regina Battaglia, instructor, presented caps to Lori Ehret, Celeste Jackson-White, Josephine Linares and Janet Norris.

Joseph Grzymkowski, a representative of the E.R. Squibb Pharmaceutical Co., then presented the E.R. Squibb Award to the outstanding first-year student. The recipient of this award for 1979 was Janet Norris.

A brief reception was held for the graduates, their families, and friends at the close of the ceremonies.

Well, tomorrow is the day of our gala Holiday Fair and have we got something nice just for you. We have received many beautiful items including many handmade articles, ceramics, a white elephant table loaded with everything. Also a wishing well, lots of plants and a super table full of delicious homemade baked goodies. We will be serving a nice lunch at noontime and you're welcome to join us.

We had a few calls wondering about a Florida trip and our friend Jim Licello has come up with a 10-day sight-seeing jaunt to such cities as St. Augustine, Daytona Beach, West Palm Beach, Hollywood Beach and Ft. The trip is scheduled for Feb. 21 but we will be signing up before too long. So in the meantime, think about it. A reminder to all our men golfers that the important meeting we have been telling you about is tomorrow night here at our center starting at 6:30 p.m. It is really important that you attend at plans will be made as to where we will play next summer.

Land Sale Raises $6,333

COVENTRY - In a report to the Town Council, Monday night, Frank Connolly, town manager, said the town netted $6,333 in proceeds from the auction conducted Oct. 29 at the former Salvation Army property.

Connolly said that all of the buildings, except one, was sold. He said sales tax was collected over and above the $6,333 and this is being turned over to the state.

Connolly told the council the cheapest building, "almost like a dog house," sold for $5, while the most expensive one sold for $450. He said all of the funds have been put into the special account for revenues and expenditures which was previously approved by the Town Council.

The town bought the Salvation Army property several months ago and Connolly said the town officials have been spending a good deal of time following the status of the federal aid state grant as it is working its way through the state and federal governments.

He said currently the grant has been approved at the state level but is now in Philadelphia going through federal processing. He said he doesn't expect to have either grant in by the end of November, the time at which the town's six-month note expires.

He said he does expect to bring, to the Nov. 19 meeting of the new Town Council, a request for authorization for the extension of the outstanding note.

"Although the timetable isn't definite, we hope to receive the federal funds (to be 50 percent) by the end of December and the state funds at a later date than that," Connolly said.

Microwave Super Meals at Sizeable Savings

Take advantage of the versatility of your microwave oven and prepare complete meals easily and economically. Most menus are planned around the meat selection and many pork cuts cook to perfection in a microwave oven.

Pork gives you a chance to economize two ways. First, pork is in plentiful supply right now, making it a good red meat buy with plenty of variety to choose from. Pork offers nutritional values too - it's leaner, lower in calories and higher in protein than ever before, and is an excellent source of B vitamins and minerals. Secondly, cooking pork meals in a microwave oven saves energy and time.

Microwaving complete meals in nylon oven cooking bags offers a number of benefits too. Meat stays juicy, tender and flavorful inside the bag, and bastes itself as it cooks. The oven bag helps meat retain heat during standing time while you are preparing the rest of the meal. Vegetables cook well in oven bags too, maintaining their natural color, flavor and texture. And afterwards, there's an extra bonus - no oven spatter or messy cooking dishes to clean.

What a shame to limit the use of your microwave oven to defrosting frozen foods and reheating leftovers. Use it to its full capacity and you'll save energy while you serve up delicious dishes.

Try these two dinner ideas... a boneless pork loin roast, stuffed with layers of dried fruit and glazed with a spicy apricot jam sauce, served with vegetable side dishes - Tangerine Sweet Potato Casserole and Cashew Topped Broccoli!

Apricot Prune Pork Roast

1 tablespoon flour
1 jar (10 oz.) apricot jam
1/4 teaspoon savory
1/4 teaspoon whole thyme
4 to 5 pound boneless pork loin roast (double loin, rolled thick)

1/4 cup dried apricots
1/4 cup dried prunes

Shake flour in large size (14"x20") oven cooking bag; place in 13x20-inch baking dish. Combine jam and spices; micro-cook on 100% power, 3 1/2 minutes or until mixture boils. Unite roast, remove top half. Layer with apricots and prunes. Replace top half. Secure with string. Place roast in bag; spoon apricot glaze over pork roast. Close bag with nylon tie, rubber band, string or 1/4-inch strip cut from open end of bag; make 6-half-inch slits in top. Insert microwave meat thermometer into center of thickest part of roast. Micro-cook on 80% power 10 minutes. Reduce to 50% power; micro-cook 35 to 40 minutes or until the thermometer reaches 160° F, turning dish periodically. Remove, let stand 10 minutes or until thermometer reaches 170° F. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Conventional Oven:
Follow directions above except preheat oven to 325° F. In small saucepan, heat jam mixture over medium heat until it boils. Use conventional meat thermometer. Close bag with tie provided. Cook 2 to 2 1/2 hours or until meat thermometer reaches 150° F. Let stand 5 minutes or until thermometer reaches 170° F.

Tangerine Sweet Potato Casserole

4 small tangerines
1/4 cup chopped pecans
2 pounds (about 6 medium) sweet potatoes, cooked and peeled
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
8 tablespoons brown sugar, firmly packed
3 tablespoons dark rum
1 teaspoon salt

Place regular size (10"x18") oven cooking bag in 13x20-inch baking dish. Peel tangerines, removing white membrane; cut tangerine sections into halves and remove seeds. Combine tangerine pieces and pecans in bag. Mash sweet potatoes; add butter, brown sugar, rum and salt, mixing well. Spoon sweet potato mixture into bag; turn gently to mix. Spread sweet potato mixture evenly in bag. Close bag with nylon tie, rubber band, string or 1/4-inch strip cut from open end of bag; make 6-half-inch slits in top. Micro-cook on 100% power, 5 to 6 minutes or until hot, turning dish once. Makes 6 servings.

Conventional Oven:
Follow directions above except preheat oven to 350° F. Close bag with tie provided. Cook 30 to 35 minutes.

Cashew Topped Broccoli

2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen broccoli spears, partially thawed
1 can (10 1/2 oz) cream of celery soup
1 cup salted cashew nuts
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
1/4 cup, grated Monterey Jack cheese

Place large size in (14"x20") oven cooking bag in 13x20-inch baking dish. Arrange broccoli spears in bag, placing stems to outside of baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients; spoon over broccoli spears. Close bag with nylon tie, rubber band, string or 1/4-inch strip cut from open end of bag; make 6-half-inch slits in top. Micro-cook on 100% power, 5 to 6 minutes or until broccoli is tender, turning dish once. Makes 6 servings.

Conventional Oven:
Follow directions above except preheat oven to 350° F. Broccoli stems may be placed to inside of baking dish. Close bag with tie provided. Cook 30 to 35 minutes.

Your neighbor's kitchen

By BETTY RYDER

The busier it is the better he likes it and Richard Moriarty, a Manchester native, uses his cooking expertise at the Mansfield Depot Restaurant to prepare such delectable dishes as Roast Pork Wellington, Trout Amandine, Roast Duck a l'Orange, Fiat Mignon with Yorkshire Pudding, Chocolate Mousse, Mississippi Mud Cake and other gourmet favorites.

A graduate of the Culinary Institute in New Haven in 1966, he worked as sous chef in the Gay 90's Restaurant in San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf and as chef in restaurants on Cape Cod and Martha's Vineyard. He also held a chef's position at the University of Connecticut.

With the able kitchen assistance of Arthur Foy, Moriarty plans the menu for lunch, dinner and a special Sunday brunch. The Depot's specialties are Fiat Mignon, Duck, Veal, Stuffed Sole dishes and Trout and the menu is altered seasonally every four months around these entrees.

During a recent visit, we tasted the Depot Salad Dressing, Mushroom Veloute soup, the Roast Pork Wellington, a tiny helping of Mississippi Mud Cake (dark rich cake topped with whipped cream) and a couple of spoonfuls of Chocolate Mousse. It was all delicious.

The Depot is located on Rt 44A in Mansfield Depot, is open for dinner from 6 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday, lunch, 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., Tuesday through Friday; and brunch, noon to 3 p.m., Sundays. It is closed Mondays.

Chef Moriarty has given us his recipe for Roast Duck a l'Orange, Depot Salad Dressing and Chocolate Mousse.

Roast Duck a l'orange
4 1/2 to 5 lb. duck
Pull excess fat from inside cavity. Pierce underside of duck with fork and score breast with a sharp knife. Season inside and out with salt, pepper and garlic. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Roast for one-half hour breast side down. Drain. Roast breast side up at 400 degrees for 1 hour. Reduce temperature to 325 degrees and roast for one-half hour more. Drain pan and deglaze with 1/4 cup red wine and 1/4 cup water. Reserve.

Sauce: (for six ducks) Combine 1 quart orange marmalade, 6 oz. orange juice, 3 oz. Cognac, 2 oz. Apricot Brandy. Bring to boil and simmer 1/4 hour. Thicken with about 3 oz. cornstarch diluted with orange juice. Finish with deglaze and lemon juice to taste.

Depot Salad Dressing
Equal parts: Sour cream and mayonnaise

Eating at Home Saves Money

The smaller the household, the higher average per person food costs are, according to the latest government food consumption study. The reason is not that one and two-person households eat more or necessarily have more expensive tastes. Smaller households are likely to eat more meals away from home, raising total food costs.

At a time when nearly everyone is looking for ways to economize, dinner at home makes sense. Since smaller households often also are short on time, having a collection of quick, small-sized recipes for weekday meals is essential.

In the long run, you save time by planning meals and shopping for the whole week. When groceries are on hand, it's easier to resist the temptation to eat out rather than cook. Doing some extra cooking on the weekend and freezing food for ready-to-thaw meals later are two more ways to eat well but economically.

Some food manufacturers are helping smaller families, too, by recognizing that all families don't come in size four or six. Refrigerated biscuits and crescent rolls that come in small sized cans are especially handy. Because they carry a "use by" date, they can be kept in the refrigerator for hot dinner breads to dress up simple meals, and they also can be the star of quick, nutritious main dishes.

Sproutin' Sandwiches will remind you of the delicious "healthy" open faced sandwiches so popular in restaurants that feature lots of hangin' plants. Dough from the 4-ounce can of crescents is patted into a rectangle, topped with a seasoned cream cheese mixture and tomato slices and baked until the crust is crisp. Shredded cheddar cheese and sprouts are added for a final minute of heating.

Rectangles of this vegetarian sandwich are so nutritious you need only a cream soup to make a well-balanced, low calorie meal that is ready to serve in less than half an hour.

Skillet Beef 'n Beans is heartier, but almost as quick to get on the table. It's easiest to make in an ovenproof 8-inch skillet.

one of the most useful pieces of equipment a small household can own. A good tasting mixture of browned ground beef, vegetables and spaghetti sauce is heated on top of the range, then topped with a small can of Hungry Jack biscuits and shredded cheese and popped into the oven. In 15 minutes, the biscuits are flaky and deep golden brown. You've had time to make a fruit salad as dessert, all that is needed to round out a delicious, well balanced meal. Any leftovers can be frozen for another time.

Sproutin' Sandwich
3oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1/4 teaspoon mustard
1/2 cup shredded cheddar or American cheese, sliced
1 1/2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
1 1/2 cups alfalfa or bean sprouts
Heat oven to 375°F. Unroll dough into 1 long rectangle on cookie sheet; firmly press perforations to seal and press out dough to form 13x4-inch rectangle. Combine cream cheese, mustard and dillweed; mix well. Spread cream cheese mixture over crescent dough; top with tomatoes. Bake at 375°F. for 12 to 14 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Top with cheddar cheese and sprouts. Return to oven for 1 minute. Refrigerate any leftovers. 3 servings.

Skillet Beef 'n Beans
1/2 lb. ground beef
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
8-oz. can (3/4 cup) kidney beans, undrained
1/4 cup spaghetti or pizza sauce
2 1/2 oz. jar sliced mushrooms, drained
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
3oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
5-oz. can refrigerated big flaky biscuits
1/4 cup shredded cheddar or American cheese, sliced
1 1/2 cup cherry tomato slices or 1 medium tomato, sliced
1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese
Heat oven to 375°F. Unroll dough into 1 long rectangle on cookie sheet; firmly press perforations to seal and press out dough to form 13x4-inch rectangle. Combine cream

Using dough from the 4-ounce can of crescents and adding alfalfa or bean sprouts, homemakers can whip up "healthy" open-faced sandwiches.

Best Diet for Arthritis

If you are one of the millions of Americans suffering from arthritis, you may be tempted to listen to anyone who boasts he or she has a diet to cure you. In this understandable readiness to try any formula, strange foods and food substitutes add to your relief, you can easily become the victim of charlatans, self-appointed experts and misinformed friends and relatives. Quackery, pseudo-science and old wives' tales feed on such desperate hope.

Food is still only food. It is not medicine that can ease or cure the pain of arthritis. So warns Dr. Frederic McDuffie, medical director of the Arthritis Foundation in Atlanta. McDuffie was formerly with the Mayo Clinic.

All sufferers from arthritis hope daily that some food will mitigate the pain of arthritis," he says.

"But unfortunately, despite continuing scientific research, no one has discovered any relationship between the pain of arthritis and any specific food."

McDuffie adds, however, that the Arthritis Foundation plans to call a conference soon in an effort to discover at least some relief of rheumatoid diet.

"Our best advice in the meantime to sufferers is to eat a normal diet — and keep on hoping," he says.

A good diet for the arthritis patient is generally the same balanced diet that everyone needs to obtain the 50 or more important nutrients found in foods.

That diet consists of a variety of foods in sufficient amounts chosen according to your likes and dislikes from the four basic food groups — the milk group, the meat group, the vegetable and fruit group, the bread and cereal group.

In a nutshell, if you plan meals with four colors in them — red, green, yellow and white — you will usually come out well nutritionally. That is an over-simplification, of course, but it serves as a workable rule of thumb.

Instead of wasting time reading unverified testimonials from men and women who claim to have been cured by fantastic food combinations and by bizarre diets or by avoiding normal foods like meat, eggs or milk, why not learn the simple ABCs of sound nutrition?

You will soon happily discover some increase in your overall feeling of well-being.

Brand and Store Loyalty Vanishing From Food Stores

NEW YORK (UPI) — Loyalty is disappearing from the supermarket — a victim of inflation, the gasoline shortage and growing numbers of women in the work force, according to one survey.

Loyalty by shoppers, that is, to particular stores and to particular brands.

More than half the retailers surveyed recently by a grocery trade magazine expect consumers' loyalty to particular stores to decline significantly in the 1980s. Only four out of 10 insisted store preferences will never change.

Writing in the current issue of Progressive Grocer, associate editor Jo-Ann Zbyszynski said the shopper's ultimate choice for a food store may be the supermarket that is nearest to his or her home, job or leisure activity.

As for consumers' loyalty to favorite brands, half the retailers contacted in the survey expect brand loyalty to decline by 1984, as consumers looking for ways to cut food costs switch around — a lot of them trying out generics (the no-name items) and private labels (the supermarket chain's label rather than a national brand).

"Predictably, nearly two-thirds of the manufacturers queried say the decline will never happen," Ms. Zbyszynski adds.

Shopping trips will be fewer, she predicts, mainly due to the impact of working women who have less time to shop and high gas prices which would force people to use their cars less often.

A Florida-based chain executive expects smaller stores to increase their numbers because, he said, "People are not going to drive from distant areas to shop super stores."

Odonna Matthews, consumer advisor for a chain's Maryland stores, already sees changes: later shopping and more Sunday business. "More people are shopping at odd hours because they don't have free time during regular shopping hours."

Ms. Zbyszynski says retailers expect convenience foods, microwave ovens and other appliances to slow the trend toward eating out, starting in the early '80s.

President Robert Power of the National Restaurant Association disagrees, she adds. He says, "The eating out trend is continuing without let-up."

Power also told the magazine consumers are trading up to "tablecloth" restaurants from the fast food type because of smaller households and families and the aging population, all of whom are becoming more sophisticated in their preferences.

Old concepts of the "typical" female or male shopper are outmoded, Ms. Zbyszynski says, replaced by working women, one-person households, the elderly and after 5 p.m. shoppers. She said 52 percent of the persons surveyed for her report expect male shoppers to double by 1980.

Who Buys TV Sets?

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's mostly a woman's world when it comes to selecting a television set, according to a recent national poll.

While both men and women are actively involved in the buying decision, the RCA study showed a female head of household was involved in 65 percent of the purchases last year. Women alone accounted for 23 percent of the purchases, and another 42 percent of the sales were a combined male-female decision. The survey showed women definitely had most of the say on the cabinet style.

Working Wives

The younger the family, the more likely the wife is working. The Conference Board reports, some 57 percent of married women in households under 20 hold jobs. In families 25-29, 53 percent of the wives are in the labor force. But the figure falls to 36 percent in households 30-34, 41 percent in the 35-44 group and 16 percent for those 65 and older.

Anti-burglary Program Aims to Eliminate Middleman

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Diane Kerckhoff started out looking for $50,000 worth of silverware, porcelain, antique jewelry and cut glass articles stolen from her parents.

She found the family heirlooms — and a lot more.

Her efforts led to a key role in an anti-fencing effort that has recovered $1.75 million in stolen property since the program began more than three years ago.

The value of stolen property nationally last year was about $1 billion, according to the FBI's Uniform Crime Statistics. Residential offenses accounted for 65 percent of the total burglaries.

The St. Louis County police program is designed to eliminate the middleman, the "fence" who is willing to pay burglars as little as 10 percent of what their loot is worth because he can unload the hot property to buyers looking for bargains.

Mrs. Kerckhoff, director of public education for the program, said nearly two-thirds of all fences are otherwise legitimate businessmen trying to make more money by adding a line of stolen property.

The program, she said in an interview, is attacking the most vital link in the property-crime cycle.

"The whole anti-fencing concept is new," she said. "Police are taking an offensive approach, going to fences to seek property before they know of a particular crime involved. Burglary units often have their own case load and don't have time to search for a fence or recover property."

"Property crimes occur because there is a fence to supply money for burglars. There would be no reason for people to steal something if a fence wasn't there to help them get rid of it."

In 1975, a few months before the anti-fence unit was formed, Mrs. Kerckhoff's parents drove home one evening just in time to see burglars speeding off with $50,000 worth of their prized possessions.

She recalled "that kind of sinking feeling you get as a crime victim and the frustrations in trying to track down the stolen property on your own."

"These were family things," she said. "Mother wanted her grandchildren to have them — she didn't just want the insurance money."

"At times I felt a hopeless attitude on the part of police. They didn't say they had no time, but I felt that. I kept persisting in it because I felt that victims were entitled to more."

Embarking on a tour of antique shops and other places dealing in second-hand property, Mrs. Kerckhoff heard the name of one particular anonymous tips on suspected fences. So far 550 outlets for stolen property have been identified.

She also established an index system of stolen property and stressed the importance of marking items such as valuable rings or silver that have no serial numbers.

"Law enforcement officials had no system for non-serialized property, but television sets and mass-produced things like that with serial numbers are not the things victims want back the most — insurance can take care of them. They want to get back their furs, their porcelains, things in serial numbers."

Detailed inventories and published lists of stolen items have helped the public and police to work together to break the chain of property crime.

"I had this image of law enforcement agents as all being Starks and Hutch, typical superheroes," she said. "But without detailed descriptions or identifiable markings made by property owners, there is little hope of their getting things back."

She wants to put fences out of business by forcing them into the open.

"No self-respecting fence is going to tell you he knows his property was stolen. Often the only way you can do it is for burglars to testify against them — but why would a thief want to expose his fence? He thrives in people not knowing he's dealing in stolen property."

"We want to create a kind of paranoia for people who are in the business of buying and selling second-hand goods. We want them to stop and think: Could this material be stolen? Should I call the hotline? Do I want to have less crime in the community? Everybody is a potential victim."

On the average, American hunters shoot from six to 12 million waterfowl each year and more than two million deer.

Don't Sacrifice Nutrition

The poor little dollar bill seems to have less value every inflationary day. But that should not diminish your determination to eat nutritiously.

Seek out specials. Switch to low-cost meats, fruits and vegetables. In place of fresh milk, you might wish to use cheaper nonfat dry milk.

Some of us remember when "a chicken in every pot" was a hopeful prognostication. Today it is the cry of necessity.

Besides being delicious, chicken is one of the best meat buys on the market. It provides excellent protein for fewer calories than most meats.

To avoid monotony, consult almost any good cookbook for chicken recipes. You'll be surprised at the many different ways of cooking the bird.

Another good nutrition value is turkey. "Whether buying bread-basted whole turkey or the many convenience turkey products, the homemaker receives more for her food dollar with turkey than with any other meat," says the pamphlet, "Homemaker's Turkey Guide."

Turkey meat is exceptionally high in protein, low in calories and low in cholesterol. It also is easily digested.

Turkey is excellent nutritional value to elderly people, whose need for calories diminishes with the advancing years while their need for high-quality protein remains high.

The National Turkey Federation says turkey is the only meat that costs less per pound today than it did 15 years ago.

And today's turkeys have more edible meat than their ancestors. The greater tenderness of modern birds has cut roasting time in half.

Turkeys come in all sizes and weights, from small 6-pound fryers to large 20-pound or more. Incidentally, one-third of today's turkeys are farther processed into various con-

Cheese-topped Chicken with Shells is an elegant way to serve leftover holiday chicken. The savory sauce starts with canned chicken gravy. Diced red pimiento and tiny green peas add a colorful note.

Chicken Cheese Casserole

Think casserole when looking for a solution to a refrigerator over-stocked with holiday turkey or chicken.

Casserole cookery saves time and labor and is a great budget extender. It's economical and saves cooking steps since it is already prepared.

Country Turkey Casserole: Savory herb-seasoned stuffing mix, crunchy broccoli spears and cooked turkey are the main ingredients. The delicious sauce starts with canned turkey gravy.

When a casserole recipe calls for gravy, use a can of pretty china or pottery dish. Garnish it with triangles of cheese. Served with a tossed green salad and warm gingerbread gravy for complementary sauces with cooked beef, ham, pork or poultry. Vary the ingredients according to what's on hand in the pantry and refrigerator.

Consumer Reports Should Kids Be Insured?

DEAR CONSUMER REPORTS—A number of life insurance agents have urged us to take out large policies on our young children as well as on ourselves. Is this necessary?

DEAR READER—The primary purpose of life insurance is to protect dependents financially against the untimely death of their breadwinner. Since few children are breadwinners, it is rare for them to need life insurance.

Of course, low premiums are possible in the future only because the money has been wasted year after year throughout childhood, when the insurance isn't really needed.

Some agents may tell you that buying now will guarantee your child insurance as an adult. But consider that a person's chances of developing a very early age health condition that's serious enough to be rejected for life insurance are fairly small.

Old Treat

Gingerbread is a traditional treat that is too often overlooked in today's rush.

Adding corn meal and raisins gives a regular gingerbread mix extra flavor and heartiness. Pack a few slices in the youngsters' lunchboxes—or in a brown bag for a lunch or mid-morning snack at the office.

This is a good bread for spreads such as cheese combinations, jams or homemade apple butter. Put your imagination to work.

Paul Revere Bread 1 14-ounce package gingerbread mix 1-1/4 cups milk 1/2 cup enriched corn meal 1/2 cup raisins 1/2 cup all-purpose flour Grease bottom of 8-1/2 x 4-inch loaf pan. Combine all ingredients in large bowl. Mix well. Spoon into prepared pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pan. Serve warm or cooled, as desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 1 loaf.

Punch and Perky Appetizers

Sharing food, drink and hospitality is one of the basic pleasures of the holiday season, yet it does not have to be expensive. An open house with bright, refreshing punches and trays of tasty hors d'oeuvres is an easy, festive, but relatively inexpensive way to welcome and entertain friends.

Among the countless recipes for festive punches and drinks, choose one or two that convey the holiday spirit and are interesting to adult tastes.

These two quick and easy-to-prepare punches, featuring the vivacious taste of "V-8" cocktail vegetable juice, are certain to brighten any party. Its naturally vibrant color and tangy taste make holiday punches sparkle.

Spicy Christmas Punch combines tart citrus juices with hot pepper sauce for zip. It's a festive, colorful beverage to serve thrifty guests. For a more spirited drink, gin or rum can be added.

Another punch for light moments and high spirits is Burma Fizzler Punch. Sparkling club soda and lemon-flavored iced tea are mixed with zesty "V-8" cocktail vegetable juice for a fizzy drink. This gay and cheery fizzer is effortless to make and will certainly please the appetites of family and friends. Make this punch especially pretty by floating an ice ring of cherries and pineapple in the bowl.

Heighten the merriment and extend good cheer to all with a distinctive spread for crackers and a snappy dip for vegetables. Who can resist an attractive platter filled with an assortment of flavorful crackers and a delectable spread?

Nutty Chicken Spread is easy to make with chunky style mince chicken as a base. Chopped cucumber and green onions add a crunchy note; toasted almonds supply a nutty taste. This is a delicious appetizer to serve as a prelude to other holiday delicacies or to have simply alone.

Another simple-to-prepare and tempting crowd-pleaser is Snappy Cheese Dipper. It starts with condensed cream of asparagus soup. Cream cheese and pungent blue cheese are blended with it to form a smooth, yet zesty party dip. Pass a bowl of crisp, crinkle-cut fresh vegetables for nibblers with this cheesy delight.

A festive punch, an array of crudites and crackers, a cocktail vegetable juice, chilled

Start off the festivities with this Burma Fizzler Punch, assorted crackers and crudites, Nutty Chicken Spread and Snappy Cheese Dipper.

Stock Your Freezer with Hearty Soup

Whatever the climate, a hearty soup prepared ahead of time and then ready for quick reheating is always welcome.

For example, a beef-barley soup can be made speedily and frozen in quantities of two or three servings. Include carrot slices, green beans and celery for added crunchiness.

This is a perfect winter soup. The barley and vegetables provide essential B vitamins, protein and iron.

Serve with a fruit salad and muffins or homemade bread.

Chunky Beef-Barley Soup
1 1/2 pound beef stew meat, cut in 1/2-inch cubes
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 cup vegetable oil
6 cups water
1 1/2-ounce can tomatoes
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon basil leaves
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 cups carrot slices
1 10-ounce package frozen Italian cut green beans
1 cup celery slices
1 cup coarsely chopped onion

1/4 cup quick barley
Dredge meat in flour. Brown meat and garlic in oil. Drain.
Add water, tomatoes, Worcestershire sauce, salt, basil and pepper. Bring to boil. Cover. Simmer 1 hour.
Add remaining ingredients. Return to boil. Simmer 20 to 25 minutes.
This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 3 1/2 quarts of soup.
Variation: Substitute 1/4 cup regular barley for quick barley, adding barley with water to meat. Proceed as recipe directs.

Salmon Loaf

As meat a fish prices have risen, many have cut back on their use of canned tuna, shrimp and salmon. That is unwise since those items are still more economical in salad and baked dishes than fresh meat and fish.

Money aside, a well-made well-seasoned salmon loaf remains an enjoyable dish for family dinners or parties. This recipe also includes a tasty topping of mustard-cream sauce. The dish is good hot or cold.

1 (1 1/2-ounce) can salmon, drained and flaked
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1/4 cup finely chopped parsley
4 eggs, lightly beaten
1 tablespoon original Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
Quick Tangy Cream Sauce
Preheat oven to 350 degrees.
In large bowl, combine all ingredients except Quick Tangy Cream Sauce. Stir until well mixed.
Spoon into buttered 8-by-5-by-3-inch loaf pan. Spread smooth.
Bake until knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 45 minutes. Let stand for 5 minutes before unmolding onto platter. Serve hot or cold with Quick Tangy Cream Sauce. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

Quick Tangy Cream Sauce
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/3 cup milk
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon original Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
Combine all ingredients. Heat gently in medium saucepan just until sauce is hot. Do not boil.
Serve hot over hot Worcestershire Salmon Loaf.
Or combine all ingredients and serve cold with cold salmon loaf. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 1/4 cup.

Stop Wasting Time

You are asked to speak at next month's club meeting. You jot down the program chairman's phone number on the back of a match cover. Later, you spend frustrating minutes looking for it.

A friend recommends a lawyer. Because you didn't note the name in a safe place, it escapes you when you need it.

At a cocktail party, you scribble an investment tip on a napkin—and misplace it.

Most humans are continual victims of misplaced paper. Bits and pieces of paper containing important names and numbers have ways of mysteriously disappearing. Each hunt costs time and nerves.

Time lost has a way of multiplying.

Let's say you spend 15 minutes a day searching for misplaced papers, clothes, keys or whatever. If you multiply 15 minutes, times 365 days, you will discover that you can save 9 1/2 hours a year by eliminating all that hunting.

Part of the problem can be solved with a simple three-in-one gem: the appointment-address-memo book.

Visit a good stationery store. Purchase a book with places for appointments, addresses and memos.

Do not buy two or three separate books; buy one book that contains room for all three types of information. If you can find only the appointment-address-memo book, compromise by attaching a memo pad onto the back cover.

As minor as this may seem, the misplaced-papers trap will continue as long as you operate with several separate scraps of paper.

Remember, a top time waster is failing to make decisions. A three-in-one book will encourage you to give an immediate yes or no to an invitation or appointment.

For instance, John asks Robert if Friday noon is convenient for a business lunch with a third client.

John is free. John has checked his pocket calendar and knows that date is good for him.

However, Robert must explain that his appointment book is at the office. He tells John he will have to get back to him by phone.

Later that afternoon, Robert attempts to reach John but finds the phone busy. His next attempt is a wasted five minutes on "hold" before he learns John is in conference. The day ends without confirmation of the date.

How often are valuable minutes lost attempting to confirm a date that could have been made on the spot into your book, instead, John down right then and there all information you will need later.

With everything in one place, you enjoy the comfort of knowing where it is when you need it.

Enjoy Fall Vegetables

Some vegetables — especially the more perishable ones — seem to fluctuate in price as much as stocks on Wall Street. Quality, size, transportation costs, competition and weather all cause sharp rises and falls in the prices of vegetables that must be marketed quickly. Those prices can vary from store to store and from day to day.

In contrast, vegetables that can be stored commercially for long periods remain available all year at prices that are usually low and relatively stable.

These vegetables include carrots, potatoes, cabbage, sweet potatoes and turnips.

In addition, Southern and Oriental vegetables are frequently good buys.

Among the Southern specialties are kale and collard greens, which are closely related members of the cabbage family though they should look and should be treated like other leafy greens. They are high in vitamins A and C.

Both are traditionally simmered or boiled with salt pork. Though stems or midribs may be removed before cooking, they don't store well so they should be used within a few days.

Okra is another Southern specialty that often is used as a thickening agent in gumbo, soup and stew.

Americans are eating more and more Oriental vegetables, such as the Cooperative Extension of Cornell University.

Chinese cabbage is popular in salads and as a stir-fried, steamed or sautéed vegetable.

Bok choy, also known as Chinese chard, resembles chard and celery. Its flavor is stronger than that of Chinese cabbage. The leaves can be prepared like spinach; the stems are familiar ingredients in chop suey and chow mein.

One of the most popular American vegetables is squash. Many varieties of squash are available year-round, including zucchini and yellow crookneck, which are the soft-shelled immature vegetables usually called summer squashes.

During fall and winter, the hard-shelled varieties may be less expensive than the summer squashes.

For cooking, these winter varieties are generally cut and their seeds removed. They may be steamed, boiled or baked.

Acorn and butternut squashes are sometimes cut in half, then baked and served in the shell. The cooking time is considerably shorter, however, when the squash is cut into smaller pieces.

The Cornell Extension calls attention to the unusual hardshell spaghetti squash.

The oval, pale-yellow vegetable can be halved. Or it can be steamed or boiled whole after puncturing the rind with a fork. It cooks to a tender stage in 15 to 30 minutes.

How did it get its name? The squash "meat" looks like strands of spaghetti if pulled out of the rind with a fork. Try serving it with tomato sauce.

Pumpkin Pie With Cheese

A rich pumpkin pie is a proper ending to a holiday feast. But if your family is like many today, the pie often winds up in a doggy bag to be eaten as a bedtime snack or for breakfast the next day.

This pie has an added flavor of cheese that you'll find intriguing - and that makes it more than a dessert to top off a heavy though pleasing meal.

Harvest

Pumpkin Pie
 3 eggs, slightly beaten
 2 tablespoons molasses
 1 (11-ounce) can condensed Cheddar cheese soup

2 cups pumpkin pie filling
 1/4 cup light cream
 9-inch unbaked pie shell
 Preheat oven to 450 degrees.
 To make filling, combine eggs and molasses. Add soup, pumpkin and cream. Blend well.
 Pour filling into pie shell.

Bake 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 400 degrees. Bake 1 hour more or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.
 Cool on wire rack. Serve with whipped cream. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 9-inch pie.
