

Distributor To Break Ground for Beer Warehouse

EAST HARTFORD — Hartford Distributors, the distributor of Anheuser-Busch products in the Hartford area, will break ground for its first temperature-controlled beer warehouse in ceremonies at 3 p.m. Nov. 15, at its new facility located in Buckland Industrial Park, Manchester.

"Our new facility will allow us to distribute Budweiser, Michelob, Michelob Light, Natural Light and Busch as fresh as current technology will allow," said Ross Hollander, vice president of Hartford Distributors. "It will provide a real service to our retail customers, and ultimately to the consumer."

The new facility is on a 10-acre site with room to approximately double the size of the warehouse to meet future demands. Construction of the almost 2 million building will begin Nov. 15 and will be completed in August 1980, when Hartford Distributors will move into the new building.

The warehouse, with a storage capacity of 350,000 cases of beer, has been designed to maintain the best possible temperatures to preserve the freshness of Anheuser-Busch products.

The 71,000-square-foot building contains 20,000 square feet of controlled environmental package beer storage space and is equipped with 40 tons of cooling equipment to maintain optimum storage temperatures.

In addition, the storage facility is served by sophisticated ventilation system that can use outside air to cool the beer during warm months. Automatic sensors open louvers doors and start large fans drawing outside air through the stored beer whenever temperatures are low enough to cool the beer.

However, the automatic ventilation system, which is capable of drawing 120,000 cubic feet of air through the warehouse each minute, is only one of the energy-saving devices being used.

All doors in and out of the beer storage areas are protected by "air curtains" which minimize the loss of cooled air while permitting easy loading operations. The entire building has received optimum insulation, with an extra layer of insulation surrounding the cooled beer storage section.

The facility's forklifts have been switched over to electric power, thus eliminating a heat source within the beer storage area, and the building's other areas are heated in the winter by infrared heaters that provide comfort for workers but don't waste heat in the ceiling area. In addition, efficient high sodium lights have been used throughout the facility.

Besides the temperature-controlled package beer storage area, the building contains a 7,000-square-foot draught beer cooler capable of storing 8,000 half barrels of beer. 7,440-square-foot loading area able to accommodate 30 trucks, 5,000 square feet of office space, a 5,000-square-foot area for storing supplies and equipment and 8,000 square feet of bottle return area to comply with Connecticut's new deposit law.

The facility was built to meet specifications of the Anheuser-Busch Controlled Environment Warehousing (CEW) program currently under way among the company's branch distributorships and independent wholesalers throughout the country. Through CEW, the freshness and quality of Anheuser-Busch products will receive added protection.

Hartford Distributors, Newington, serves as both the architect and contractor for the facility and serves Hartford and Tolland counties and has been in business since 1833.

The Prizeweek Puzzle has completed his eighth week and is still undefeated.
There were several close entries this week however, from the more than 1,000 entries.
The prize for the puzzle as it goes into its ninth week is $325 with an added bonus of $25 if the winner is a Herald home subscriber.
Next week's report will either show the puzzle continuing its winning streak or the name of the first and only winner so far.

Football Suit
NASHUA, N.H. (UPI) — A 15-year-old girl who thinks she ought to be given the right to try out for her junior high school football team sued city fathers Friday for the right to prove herself on the gridiron.
The New Hampshire Civil Liberties Union filed suit in Hillsborough County Superior Court on behalf of Karen Martin, who is described by her mother as "overenthusiastic about all kinds of sports."
The girl went out to the practice field this year in an effort to win a slot on the Elm Street Eagles, her junior high team.
But the coach said no, and the city school board upheld his decision, citing federal statutes. Miss Martin and the ACLU lateraled to the courts.

No Paper
LITCHFIELD (UPI) — A century-old northwestern Connecticut weekly newspaper, the Western, has ceased publication — at least temporarily — due to the shortage of newsprint.
The newspaper, which was founded in Salisbury 108 years ago, ceased publication this week. It claimed a circulation of 17,500 in about 20 towns in Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York.
Publisher Geraldine DeVaglio said Northwest Publishing Co. stopped publishing because it couldn't obtain enough paper to print editions of the Western. The firm will continue publishing another weekly, the Express of Thomaston.
Mrs. DeVaglio said the Western may resume publishing if the supply situation improves.
The Western for many years was a chronicle of local news, but it abandoned that format for "howto" and general interest features several years ago.

Weiss Backs Suggestions In Management Report

By LANEY ZUBOFF
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER — Town Manager Robert B. Weiss has backed the Board of Directors, after studying the Public Administration Service's Management Audit report, that almost all of the 64 recommendations should be implemented.
He divided his findings up into four sections, the recommendations he agreed with, and which can be implemented relatively easily in the near future; those he agrees with but require action by the board, or an appropriation; those he does not agree with; and those he does not agree with.
Weiss agrees with the consultants' job titles, staff meetings, budgets, and internal communications should all be restructured to distinguish clearly between the roles and relationships department and division heads within the town government, though he says some of those changes will have to be made by a charter amendment.
Weiss agrees with the recommendation that the town seek professional consulting assistance to develop new classification and pay plans for non-management employees.
Weiss said a brief overview training program should be offered soon for all department and division heads in the research and analytic capabilities and uses of town's data processing facilities.
The cemetery operations should be consolidated with parks maintenance as a single division reporting to the public works director, said Weiss.
This will involve action by the board and a charter amendment, said Weiss, as well as an appropriation.
The town should consider offering a small special pay bonus to all firefighters and policemen who voluntarily obtain and maintain an Emergency Medical Training (EMT) certificate, said Weiss.
Four authorized positions of firefighter should be upgraded to the lieutenant level provided administrative and supervisory back-up to a deputy chief on each shift.
Weiss concurred.
The four existing divisions of the Police Department should be consolidated into three divisions by combining the administrative and maintenance divisions, each of the three divisions should be headed by a captain reporting directly to the chief of police, with the administrative Services Division captain also serving as an aide to the chief for research projects, said Weiss.
Weiss also believes, after looking at the report, that there should be an integrated department of human services. However, said Weiss, a more detailed analysis of current operations and needs by a professional consultant is necessary. "This has been discussed tentatively

Anti-Iran Mobs Fighting Back

United Press International
Screaming "We want hostages," "Bomb Iran" and "Death to Khomeini," Americans Friday lashed back at Iran's haunting of U.S. hostages. A group of Iranian demonstrators was beaten in Beverly Hills, Calif.
Hartford workers, businessmen, housewives and students lined streets by the hundreds in protest from coast to coast to dump information on defiant Iranian student demonstrators.
Hundreds of Iranians marched through Washington, D.C. shouting "Death to the shah" and demanding the deposed ruler be returned to Tehran for trial.
Counterdemonstrators chanted "Deportation Deportation" Some yelled, "Aren't you ashamed of yourselves, you pigs?"
"Eat your oil!" shouted the counterdemonstrators. One man carried a sign that said "Support Iran's revolution; send an Iranian home."
Lines of uniformed police in riot gear kept the groups separated and there was no serious violence.
About 100 Iranians marched near a park in Beverly Hills carrying a photograph of the Ayatollah Khomeini and placards reading, "Send the Shah Back."
They were met by about 500 counterdemonstrators carrying signs saying, "Iranians Drink Oil" and "Roast an Iranian for Thanksgiving."
A group of about 35 counterdemonstrators, including members of the Jewish Defense League, suddenly attacked the Iranians.
Members of the crowd also took pieces of iron pipe from several plumbing trucks parked in the area and threw them at the Iranians. They also pelted them with garbage and eggs.
Police in riot gear broke up the fighting and arrested about 75 Iranians, mainly for their own protection, although they had violated a city police order not to stage a march.
Police said six Iranians were beaten, but there were no major injuries.
The demonstration was in the same general area where Iranian students rioted last Jan. 2 at the home of the shah's sister and set fires on adjacent hillsides.
In Springfield, Mass. about 75 Iranian college students, heckled by a crowd yelling, "We want hostages" marched to City Hall Friday.
"Long live the Islamic revolution, Long live Khomeini," chanted the demonstrating students from Springfield Technical College as they marched toward the downtown area. "We want the shah to be tried."
"He's dying of cancer, you jerks!" shouted someone in the crowd.
Police herded the Iranians into buses which were pelted with eggs by the crowd.
Elsewhere, feelings ran high as the days stretched on with no sign that the more than 60 Americans held hostage in Tehran would be released.
About 100 demonstrators from the University of Akron, chanting, "Drink your oil and eat your sand," marched in the rain around the Federal Building in downtown Akron.
In Houston, hundreds of people outside the Iranian consulate for the second day Friday in a noisy, placard-carrying demonstration.
A white sheet painted with black letters saying "Death to the Ayatollah" hung over a Boston expressway Friday.
In Provo, Utah, a huge banner reading "Deport Iran" was staked on a mountainside above Brigham Young University.

Ali Volunteers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Muhammad Ali said Friday he had offered himself to the Iranian government as a hostage in exchange for the release of the Americans being held in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.
"I'm packed and ready to go," the three-time heavyweight champion said at his Los Angeles home.
"This is not for publicity or for myself. I want to go there for peace and the true image of Islam. I don't think people should feel that Muslims are terrorists or hold people as hostages."
"If the officials will accept me, then I'll get the first plane to Iran. I don't know if I can solve anything but I'm making the offer hoping that I can help families and the people who are being held over there."
Ali said he believes the Board of Directors should continue its present schedule of a regular monthly meeting. The contracts the findings in the report which call for two regular monthly meetings two weeks apart with separate agendas and minutes.
Weiss said he supported the principle of merit evaluations of town employees "and will begin to institute such a system for management and mid-management employees." However, said Weiss, the application of performance evaluations to union employees must await the resolution of a court test between seniority and merit as the basis for promotions.
Weiss also disagrees with the findings that certain billing and collection procedures be streamlined and transferred to different departments.

Campaign Boost Tried by Brown

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. Friday tried to give his underdog presidential campaign a lift by proposing a way to control both oil prices and inflation.
The most startling element was Brown's suggestion that OPEC nations agree to freeze the price of oil for five years. That drew a smattering of laughs from about 1,200 Yale University students.
Brown also proposed that the U.S. dollar not be the sole basis for purchasing oil from OPEC.
Elements of the plan are not original and Brown's campaign advisers said it wouldn't work unless the OPEC nations agreed.
"Under this new agreement, oil producers, including OPEC, would agree to hold oil prices constant for five years," said Brown. "In return, we would protect the value of foreign dollar assets by stabilizing our currency and slowing inflation."
Brown was warmly received by the students, although three banners proclaiming support for Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., hung from a balcony.
After the appearance, Brown challenged President Carter and Kennedy to join him in a debate at Yale with columnist William F. Buckley as moderator. Brown and Buckley are both graduates of the university.
The students enthusiastically applauded Brown's opposition to nuclear power and the MX missile program.
Brown, who declared his candidacy Thursday in Washington, has since been campaigning in New England, where oil prices are a politically crucial issue.
About his plan to use currencies other than the dollar to pay for oil, he said, "This approach would minimize the incentive other nations now have to drive down the value of the dollar in order to minimize their real cost of oil."

Your Neighbors' Views: What should the U.S. do about the hostages being held in Iran?

Ringbloom Mulherin Sack Haslett Mirault Machell
Ms. Marcell Ringbloom, Manchester — "The U.S. should go in and get them out by force."
Ms. Gerie Mulherin, Manchester — "I don't think it would be good policy to send the Shah back. I think, they're just using scare tactics."
Mr. Larry Sack, Manchester — "We should exercise force with diplomatic restraint. We should use one of our fleets off the coast of Iran. We've been stopped on long enough. If we send our troops over there they'll know we mean business but we must use a certain amount of cool."
Ms. Kathie Haslett, Manchester — "We should try to negotiate first and talk to the leadership of their country. If all else fails we should use force."
Mr. Louis Mirault, East Hartford — "We should go right in there and get them."
Ms. Teresa Machell, Manchester — "We should get the Shah out of this country. The hostages' lives come first."

Collectors' Corner Glastonbury Precancel Classic of Early Days

By RUSS MacKENDRICK. Here we have it, the "Glastonbury" on cover — an item any dedicated precancel collector would give his eye teeth to get. Scott's Specialized Catalogue gives it valuations off cover, on stamps number 156 and 182, at $20 and $50. What the combo shown above would bring at an auction would be mind-boggling.

The usual precancel we see now is a small stamp with something like "Dellsville" and the name of the state between two parallel lines. A new book by R. Malcolm Hooper, a member of the local stamp club, tells the story of the Glastonbury G and the other classics of the early days of precanceling.

Hooper's book brings us to the present era by illustrating 24 types of 20th century precancels plus many examples of precanceling being used on air mails, commemorative, parcel post, documentaries, souvenir sheets and other non-regular-issue adhesives.

The Imperatives of Engineering

Editor's Note: This is the 10th in a series of 15 articles exploring "Connections: Technology and Change." In this article, Eugene S. Ferguson, who has been both a professional historian and an engineer, discusses why technical considerations sometimes take precedence over social problems in engineering projects.

By Eugene S. Ferguson

Engineers have a greater effect on the kind of world we live in than most of us recognize. Less than one American in 100 is an engineer, but because they are decision-makers, engineers are far more influential than their numbers suggest.

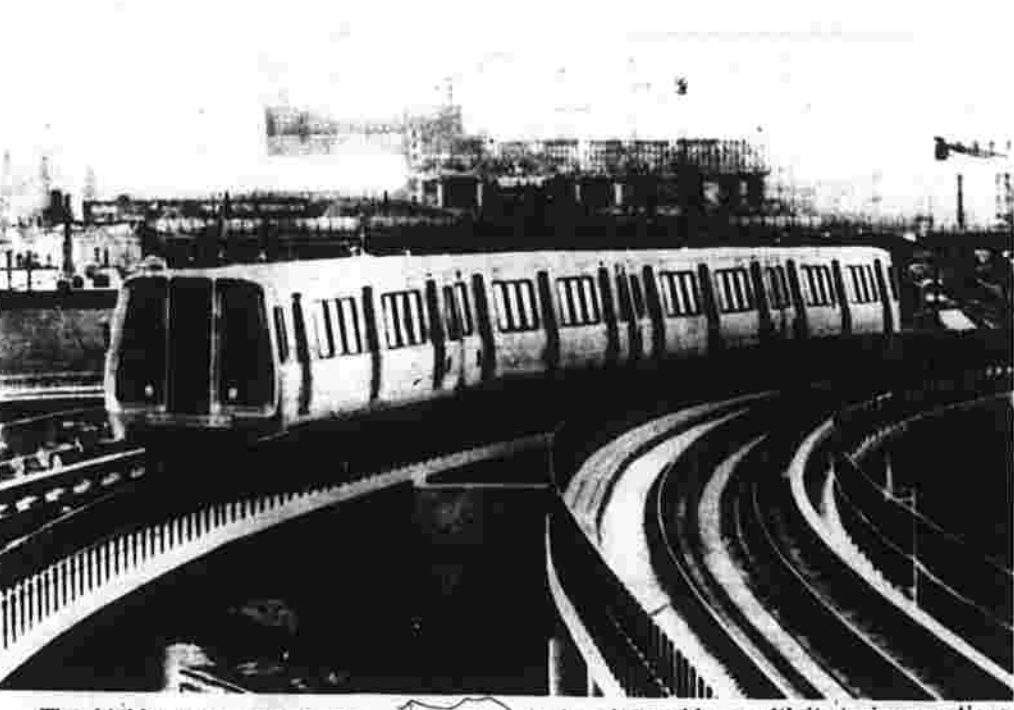

CONNECTIONS TECHNOLOGY AND CHANGE

An engineer (1) strives for efficiency, (2) designs labor-saving systems, (3) tries to design the control of a system into it, so the user will have limited choices. The engineer is also fascinated by his or her ability to disregard human scale, so he (4) favors the very large, the very powerful, and (in the electronic revolution) the very small.

Efficiency comes easily to the technical mind, even though it is one of the slipperiest words in our language. High efficiency means high output for a given input. For example, if a quantity of fuel is given input to an automobile engine, the power output from a diesel engine will be the highest, from a conventional gas engine one-third less, and from a gas-turbine engine, one-half that of the gasoline engine.

The highly automated Metro subway in Washington, D.C., which opened in 1976, has had major problems with its train operations and its fare card system. (UPI photo)

Built-In Controls (3) Control is an imperative that guides the design of systems such as an assembly line and the new Metro subway in Washington, D.C.

About the Author Eugene S. Ferguson has been professor of history at the University of Delaware and curator of technology at the Hagley Museum in Greenville, Del., since 1969.

- 1. Which of the following is NOT among Ferguson's "five imperatives" of engineering? (a) designing systems to save labor (b) designing systems so the user remains in control (c) favoring the very large, very powerful, very small (d) striving for efficiency

Smith with his often-quoted example of the division of labor. Drawing the wire to proper size, straightening it, cutting it to length, forming the head - each was assigned to a different worker.

Non-human Scale (4) The urge to transcend human scale is as old as engineering. Some famous structures whose builders were guided by this imperative include the Egyptian and Mexican pyramids, the enigmatic statues on Easter Island, and the Eiffel Tower.

Women Delegates Arrive at Camps

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — A delegation of seven congresswomen — two from New England — arrived in Thailand Friday night bound for Phnom Penh to plead with Cambodian authorities to allow more food shipments to starving Cambodians.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., head of the group, said they were going "as women as well as elected officials" in an effort to "get the authorities in Phnom Penh to listen and to save the children" from famine.

Three Australian women elected officials will join the one-day American mission to Cambodia Monday.

The agenda will include an update of the group's activities and discussion of possible community education programs for the coming season. Following the business meeting, there will be a coffee hour, with opportunity for conversation, support and involvement in GMHG programs.

The monthly meetings for GMHG will remain low-key and, for the most part, unprogrammed, to allow members time to participate more fully in planning and advising on GMHG programs.

It is also hoped that the less structured sessions will be more conducive to supportive interchange among those who have family members and friends with mental and emotional problems and would like to speak with others who share that situation. All interested persons are invited to attend the monthly meetings.

New Tax Designed To Curb Oil Use
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's chief inflation adviser said Friday the administration is considering a dramatic new tax on gasoline designed to cut fuel use substantially and allow America to tell Iran: "Keep your oil."

Alfred Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, told a House subcommittee officials are continually talking about actions that would stem inflation caused by higher energy prices.

Carter himself has said that 4 percent of the nation's current 13 percent inflation rate is due to rising energy costs.

Among the actions being discussed are imposition of mandatory wage-price controls, gasoline rationing and a heavy gasoline tax, Kahn said.

He said he personally opposed reconstituting price controls on oil or other segments of the economy —

Spaghetti Supper
ANDOVER — The Women's Auxiliary of the Andover Volunteer Fire Department will sponsor a spaghetti supper today from 5 to 7 p.m. at Andover Elementary School. Carter Whips Kennedy In Dem Straw Ballot

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — President Carter Friday overwhelmed Sen. Edward Kennedy and Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., in a straw vote of Democratic National Committee members.

The ballot, arranged by the American Broadcasting Company with committee cooperation, showed Carter 99, Kennedy 44 and Brown 2, with 12 members undecided.

Although Carter won easily, it was not the huge vote of confidence that might normally be expected from a group picked for the panel by state delegations to the 1976 national convention, which was dominated by Carter supporters.

The results also represented less than half the committee's 363 members. The DNC assembled in San Antonio in its first non-Washington, non-convention meeting in 25 years.

Earlier Friday it heard representatives of the three candidates describe Carter as everything from a "pusher of panic buttons" to a cool and competent national leader.

Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne, speaking for Kennedy, spent most of her time criticizing Carter. She said his low standing in public opinion polls was "flirting with political disaster."

"His frantic efforts to reverse the slide has only heightened the public impression of him as a man who has pushed one panic button after another," she said.

She said the nation's problems "have overwhelmed the neophyte administration of Jimmy Carter" and urged Democrats to rally behind what she called Kennedy's "electric" leadership.

Robert Strauss, who just became Carter's campaign manager, chided the mayor asking, "Did she say one positive thing about her candidate?"

Strasus, a former national party chairman, said, "I just can't be against Sen. Kennedy or Gov. Brown. But I can be for the splendid, decent, competent president I represent."

California national committee woman Irene Tovar spoke for Brown, picturing him as "a leader for the 80s" and denying that he was, in her words, "flaky."

She said Brown had appointed 1,000 women and 1,000 Hispanics to his administration and asked "Is that flaky?"

Other participants in the ceremony will include: Donald Maynard, Army & Navy Club, invocation; Peter Ventro, chairman, Manchester Veterans Council, introduction; Mrs. Laura Freeman, president, American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Doris Laferriere, president, VFW Auxiliary and Mrs. Elizabeth Von Hone, commander, Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary.

Dr. Robert Strauss, who just became Carter's campaign manager, chided the mayor asking, "Did she say one positive thing about her candidate?"

Strasus, a former national party chairman, said, "I just can't be against Sen. Kennedy or Gov. Brown. But I can be for the splendid, decent, competent president I represent."

California national committee woman Irene Tovar spoke for Brown, picturing him as "a leader for the 80s" and denying that he was, in her words, "flaky."

She said Brown had appointed 1,000 women and 1,000 Hispanics to his administration and asked "Is that flaky?"

Other participants in the ceremony will include: Donald Maynard, Army & Navy Club, invocation; Peter Ventro, chairman, Manchester Veterans Council, introduction; Mrs. Laura Freeman, president, American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Doris Laferriere, president, VFW Auxiliary and Mrs. Elizabeth Von Hone, commander, Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary.

Wings of Morning

Early Morning Reading Is Good Way to Start Day

By CLIFF SIMPSON

Over the years I have found early morning reading a good way to start the day.

Lately I have been dipping into the Apocrypha, and specifically, into Sirach. It is something like the more familiar Proverbs in the Old Testament. For example in 3:17 we read: "So, be humble in everything you do and people will appreciate it."

There are many other gems in the Apocrypha. It is a treasure trove of wisdom. It is a book that should be read by everyone who believes and confesses Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

It is a book that should be read by everyone who is a Christian. It is a book that should be read by everyone who is a member of a church. It is a book that should be read by everyone who is a follower of Jesus Christ.

It is a book that should be read by everyone who is a Christian. It is a book that should be read by everyone who is a member of a church. It is a book that should be read by everyone who is a follower of Jesus Christ.

the Deuterocanonicals. These writings consist of fifteen books or portions of books which are accepted as sacred scripture by Roman Catholics. All 15 are accepted by Episcopals and Lutherans and other Christian denominations as profitable for instruction and example.

Donald McComb

Many of you will remember David McComb and Helen McComb. Their son, Donald, who is in the United Church of Christ Director of Finance in our United Board of Christian Higher Education in Asia, has been granted a special leave by the Board of Trustees for a short term overseas assignment as consultant in financial affairs at Petra Christian University, Surabaya, Indonesia.

He will visit a selected number of board-related institutions in the region and plans to return early next year.

The New Minister

A preacher recently called to the pastorate of First Church asked a small boy how to get to the post-office.

David's mourning for his son's death (3 Samuel 1:1) as well as Jacob's grief when he thinks Joseph is dead (Gen. 37:24).

Thus, when we sorrow for our sins - not with a vague, gentle regret that perhaps something is wrong, but with a keen seriousness that let's God know we know we have sinned. Then, indeed, with forgiveness we find the blessedness of God's grace.

Citizen of the World

No longer of him he said, "He hath no place to lay his head." The service is being coordinated by the Rev. Margaret Vollrath, 38 Marfan St. Flamed by his small and mighty camp.

There is no strange and distant place That is not gladdened by his face. And every nation kneels to hail The splendor shining through it.

Cloistered beside the shouting silent, He calls me to his feet. Impressed by his love for me He makes my spirit greatly free. And through my lips that uttered sin The King of Glory enters in."

Fire Official's Concern Prompts Board Action

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent
BOLTON — The method of handling fires at Bolton schools will be discussed by the Board of Education at its next informational meeting. The move is a result of concerns expressed by fire officials about the board's policy on handling fires. Fire chief James Preuss and Ronald Morra, deputy chief, attended the school board's meeting Thursday to discuss the matter. Preuss said he understands it's up to the building principal to make a decision as to whether or not the fire department should be called when there is a fire. He said, "If there is a fire, the alarm box should be pulled, the representative should be notified and the fire department should be notified immediately." He questioned what the board's policy was and how and if he could get it changed. School Superintendent Raymond Allen said there isn't any policy, it's an administrative procedure. Morra said, "The bottom line is that I don't feel one person is in a position to make the final judgment as to whether or not the fire department is to be called." He said, "It's in the best interest of the town and children's safety to notify the fire department." Preuss said, "Smack in the middle of fire prevention week there was a fire at the high school and we weren't notified. Maybe we're teaching fire

More Funds Allowed To Formalize Services

BOLTON — The Board of Education approved spending $130,000 of its budget to formalize certain clerical services and for additional clerical help. School Superintendent Raymond Allen recommended the changes for his office, the business office and the resource room. Allen said his recommendations are an adequate response to making work loads reasonable, decreasing pressure, and making the operation more efficient. Allen conducted a small study within the office before making the recommendations. Board member James Marshall was the lone objector to the redistribution of funds. He said, "When there were difficulties with your secretary earlier in the year you indicated that you did not need extra help." Marshall said, "You (Allen) said if you had the right person in the office she would be able to handle the job." Allen said, "I indicated it is a very pressurized job with a big work load. In no way did I indicate one person could handle it." Marshall said he voted no because he did not want to see the central-office staff expanded.

Educators To Prosecute In Gasoline Theft Case

BOLTON — The Board of Education has voted to object to an application for a pretrial rehabilitation request from the person charged with conspiracy to commit larceny in conjunction with the alleged theft of gasoline from school buses. Board members voted to have Raymond Allen, superintendent of schools and Jerome Walsh, town attorney, represent their opinion that the request should be denied on the basis it stated publicly they would prosecute if the people involved were caught. Allen told the board that the court gives them the opportunity to respond, if they object they must appear in court and say why they object to the rehabilitation program.

Bolton and Willington Set Talks in December

BOLTON — Representatives of the Bolton and Willington Boards of Education will meet early in December to begin contract negotiations. Bolton High School was chosen recently by the Willington school board as the alternate school its students may attend beginning in September. School Superintendent Raymond Allen said, "The first year there should be a reasonable enrollment of Willington students at Bolton High School. After the first year the enrollment will increase." Allen said he met with Richard Vallencourt, Willington school superintendent, who provided him with information about what Willington would like, and probably ask for its students.

Mott's Operations

EAST HARTFORD — Joseph Mott, chairman of the board of Mott's Supermarket Inc., operators of 24 ShopRite supermarkets in Connecticut and Massachusetts, has reported the results of the company's third quarter for the quarter ended Sept. 29, 1979. Net sales for the quarter ended Sept. 29, 1979 rose 6.6 percent to a new high of $56,881,758, from the previous record total of $53,335,304 achieved in the third quarter of 1978. Net profit amounted to $800,386, or 42 cents per share, compared to $745,469, or 38 cents per share for the year earlier quarter. Pre-share figures are based on 1,427,487 shares outstanding to reflect the 10 percent stock dividend paid Feb. 28, 1979. For the nine-month period, net sales reached a new record of $174,468,927, up 12.8 percent from $154,641,096 achieved a year ago. Net profit for the period totaled $1,756,435, equal to $1.23 per share from $1,836,742, or $1.29 per share. Mott noted that, as was the case in the second quarter, extreme price competition was a significant factor affecting the latest three months' operations, and it appears that it is continuing in the fourth quarter. He expressed belief that it will lessen in 1980. He stated, however, that despite competitive pressures, the company's market share was successfully maintained through the combination of its "Price Plus" program and additional advertising, with volume setting new record highs throughout the third quarter and nine-month period. Stanford Cohen, president of Mott's said the company's 24th supermarket opened Oct. 23, 1979, in West Springfield, Mass. The company's 25th, located in a shopping center in Torrington is expected to open next spring. As indicated earlier this year, two and possibly three additional stores are planned for 1980 opening in Torrington, Mass. Cohen noted that, at that time, Mott's is expected to be operating at the annual rate of $500 million from 40 ShopRite supermarkets.

CLIP AND MAIL TO: PRIZEWEEK PUZZLE
C/O THE EVENING HERALD
1 HERALD SQ., MANCHESTER, CT.

CONTEST RULES

1. Solve the puzzle by filling in the missing letters to make the words that you think best fit the clues. To do this read each clue carefully for you must think them out and give every word its true meaning.
2. You need not be a subscriber to this newspaper to enter. You may submit as many entries as you wish. No mechanically produced (printed, mimeographed, etc.) copies of the entry blank will be accepted.
3. Anyone is eligible to enter except employees (and members of their families) of the Evening Herald.
4. ALL ENTRIES MUST BE MAILED IN SEPARATE ENVELOPES NO LATER THAN MONDAY OF NEXT WEEK, AND BEAR A POSTMARK.
5. The Herald will award the cash amount shown above to the contestant who sends in an all-correct solution. If more than one all-correct solution is received, the prize money will be shared equally.
6. IF NO ALL-CORRECT SOLUTION IS RECEIVED, $25 WILL BE ADDED TO THE FOLLOWING WEEK'S PRIZE.
7. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges decision. All entries become the property of this paper. Only one prize will be awarded to a family unit.
8. Everyone has the same opportunity to win, for every entry will be checked, and the winner announced. No claiming is necessary.
9. The correct solution to this week's Prizeword will be published the following Saturday.
10. The Herald reserves the right to correct any typographical errors which may appear during the puzzle game.
11. The sealed correct solution will be kept in the personal custody of Nete Agoetnell, President Manchester State Bank.

Song and Dance

"A Special Day in the Year of the Child," an international cultural celebration of the magic of children everywhere and a confirmation of their brotherhood, will be rebroadcast as part of the "CBS Festival of Lively Arts for Young People" series, Sunday, Nov. 11, on CBS.

The special, hosted by Oscar and Emmy Award-winner Cliff Robertson, illustrates the natural receptiveness of children through the art of song and dance. Kenner Products, represented by Sive Associates, Inc., is a major sponsor of the special.

(Please check local stations for broadcast time in your area.)

Farah Fawcett makes a special guest-starring appearance as Angel Jill Munroe, who becomes romantically involved with a handsome young prince (Leonard Mann) who is targeted for assassination in "The Prince and the Angel," on ABC's "Charlie's Angels," Wednesday, Nov. 14.

Tennis champion Billie Jean King and her brother, San Francisco Giants pitcher Randy Moffitt, will be part of a week-long series on "Good Morning America" focusing on famous brothers and sisters, to be presented Nov. 12-16, on ABC.

TV DIALOGUE

KID'S STUFF -- I just learned that "Big Shamus, Little Shamus" has been cancelled and I am quite disappointed. There was nothing essentially wrong with the show, while the relationship between Brian Dennehy and Doug McKeon was so right. The only problem was the hour it was on. What kids -- and it's a show as much for kids as adults -- are up till 10 p.m. watching television? Anyway, I just wanted to state my complaint and ask if there's any hope. Is there? -- Mrs. Marguerite Berquist, Canton Ohio

There may not be any hope for the world, but there is hope for "Big Shamus, Little Shamus." CBS is considering returning "father and son" to the air this spring. Of course, at this stage a new time slot is still uncertain. But I can tell you every kid I've ever known stayed up until, and even past 10 p.m. watching TV. How do you think crazy people like me get created?

GANGSTERS -- I have a couple of questions about the movie "This Gun For Hire," which made Alan Ladd a star. I know it still turns up on TV, so maybe you can help. First, who wrote the book it was made from? Second, wasn't it made over some years later? I can't remember anyone in the cast, though. -- George Linden, Princeton, N.J.

Graham Greene penned the story of a double-crossed gunman, which turned up again as the storyline in "Short Cut to Hell" directed oddly enough by James Cagney, who by 1957 had played a double-crossed killer or two himself. Some of the cast members who have failed to linger in the memory were Robert Ivers, William Bishop, Georgann Johnson and Murvyn Vye.

GONZO FEVER -- I have fallen in love with Gregory Harrison from "Trapper John, M.D." I never saw him before this show, but a friend says he was in "Centennial." Which character did he play? -- Lisa Blythe, Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Harrison played the young Mormon farmer crossing the country by wagon train with his young wife, played by Stephanie Zimbalist. He had a chin-strap beard which was not particularly becoming, I might add. But you also missed him in his very own series -- before "Trapper John" -- he played the title role in the short-run of "Logan's Run."

YEARS GONE BY -- How old is Clint Eastwood? And how many years was "Rawhide" on the air? -- P.D., Duluth, Minn.

Clint's 49 at the moment. He was 28 when he first played Rowdy Yates on "Rawhide" in 1958. He continued punching cows until 1965, by which time he had made the name "spaghetti western," as well as his own name, household words.

PETER PAN II -- I know Sandy Duncan is in New York playing Peter Pan. But my question is, did Sandy play Peter when they re-made "Peter Pan" on TV a few years ago? Who played Captain Hook? -- Francie Myers, Hartford, Conn.

Mia Farrow played the perennial youth, Peter Pan, in the 1975 version of the Barry Classic. Danny Kaye played Hook.

WONDERS OF PARIS -- Is the Jerry Paris from "The Dick Van Dyke Show" the same Jerry Paris that directs "Happy Days"? -- Frank Capobianco, Canton, Ohio.

One and the same. He also made quite a few movies before the Van Dyke Series. My favorite is "The Wild One," in which he played one of Marlon Brando's motorcycle-riding followers. In black leather jacket and jeans, he was an early fonzie.
