Iran Fast Backs Moslem Students

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — More than 400 students holding dozens of Americans inside the U.S. Embassy today led a national hunger strike to underscore their unbending vow to keep the hostages until the extradition of the shah.

Thousands of soldiers, government employees, teachers and students outside the compound went on a similar fast in solidarity with the students inside the compound, the official Pars news agency said.

A spokesman for the embassy occupation committee said at least 150 "sisters" were among the students who began the fast early today. He said the fast, conducted around the country, would continue for five days, with short interruptions daily after dusk.

The state radio said some "American agents" had attacked other embassies in Tehran and harassed some foreigners. It urged Iranians to beware of the attackers who, it said, were trying to distract the revolutionary people from their set path.

The radio gave no details of the attacks.

Acting Foreign Minister Abol Hassan Bani-Sadr today met with foreign ambassadors and diplomatic representatives to press for the shah's extradition.

The Ettelaat newspaper, quoting officials of the Islamic Revolutionary Council, said the government was considering an oil embargo "if Imam Khomeini permits" and withdrawal of Iranian funds from U.S. banks. The Kayhan newspaper said Iranian university officials were preparing to receive Iranian students expelled from the United States.

The fast came in response to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's declaration Saturday that Iranians would rather starve than relinquish their honor. Khomeini made the remark in a speech rejecting a papal request to intervene to free the hostages, conveyed to him by Vatican envoy Monsignor Annibale Bugnini.

Bugnini Sunday visited the 60 hostages held for the eighth day by student supporters of Khomeini and reported the captives were "mentally tired" but in good health.

Islamic Revolutionary Council member Mohammad Mofatteh, accompanied by other powerful clergymen, went to see the students begin the marathon fast at the embassy. He urged them to press on with their campaign to have the shah brought back for trial in Iran.

The state radio today attacked the United States for its "pretensions of concern for human rights, which has been exposed so many times in Western films depicting American atrocities against the red Indians."

Press reports said Ayatollah Moosavi Khomeini, the Moslem religious leader who led the attack on the embassy Nov. 4, might be promoted to the membership in the powerful Islamic Revolutionary Council which took over the country when Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan resigned last Tuesday.

In Beirut, Lebanon, Sunday, a group of 100 students briefly occupied the courtyard of the U.S. Embassy and burned an American flag. Syrian peacekeeping forces using their boots and the butts of their rifles evicted the demonstrators after 90 minutes.

In Washington, President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance met Sunday evening with other top administration officials to review developments in Iran.

The embassy hostages were visited for nearly two hours Sunday by Monsignor Annibale Bugnini, the 67-year-old Vatican envoy to Iran. Asked later about their possible release, he said, "There is, of course, the issue of their freedom. But this is not the time to talk about freedom."

A four-nation team of foreign diplomats also was allowed to see the hostages Saturday. Acting Foreign Minister Abol Hassan Bani-Sadr called on all ambassadors and diplomatic representatives to attend a meeting today in the foreign ministry to consider ways of increasing pressure on the United States to surrender the shah, who is in a New York hospital undergoing treatment for cancer.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat Saturday offered asylum to Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

The student occupation committee said the five-day hunger strike was a show of support for Khomeini's pledge to the papal envoy Saturday that Iran would not bend in its confrontation with the United States and that its people would rather starve than relinquish their honor.

The students called on other Iranians to "prepare to fight the enemy by fasting" and issued a statement saying "our oppressed nation demands the abrogation of all enslaving past treaties" between Iran and America.

In another defiant statement, they called for the cutoff of oil exports to "international loafers, the cartels and the trusts."

The acting foreign minister said in an interview a state radio that he hoped Iran did not have to use the oil weapon.

Thousands of angry demonstrators again gathered Sunday outside the embassy compound shouting, "Make kebab of Carter," and in English, "Death to Carter, Death to the Shah."

"Spies must be executed," was the message on one of the placards.

Answering questions about a petition signed by some of the hostages calling for the release of the shah, the papal envoy said the signatories told him they had signed it voluntarily.

Iran state radio said later the envoy's remarks "disproved lies spread by the White House that the petition was signed (by the hostages) under duress."

The return of the shah to Iran is the students' "overwhelming concern, but they also complained Sunday about other facets of alleged U.S. interference in Iran.

The militants said they found a document that allegedly proved the State Department tried to get a former navy commander of the shah into the United States after he fled Iran on a forged passport.

Veterans Day 1979

Veterans Day 1979 is a celebration of a nation at peace, gratefully acknowledging the sacrifices made during times of strife.

Ours is not a militaristic nation. It is a nation with a tradition of fighting hard and well when pushed to war.

But the holiday being celebrated today isn't and never was intended to be a celebration of war. It is a dignified observance honoring those who have fought under the Stars and Stripes, whether they have agreed or disagreed with the reasons the United States has become involved in world strife.

Veterans organizations in and around Manchester put together fitting observances for the veterans, both living and dead, who have been through the physical and emotional crucible of war.

Today we also recognize those men and women who continue to serve voluntarily in our nation's armed services to provide a strong defense for a proud constituency.

Press secretary Jody Powell said Carter met with "appropriate members of his Cabinet" and top White House aides.

The "Special coordination committee," established to deal with the crisis, met following Carter's meeting as it has done daily.

Powell said Carter also met with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Energy Secretary Charles Duncan Sunday night on the crisis, with Duncan's presence suggesting that the U.S. purchase of Iranian oil was discussed. Carter spoke by telephone with national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski.

The White House said the meeting was a continuation of Iran discussions at the White House that have been occurring "almost every day."

Powell said Sunday that Carter's mood and goal remain unchanged — "primary concern for the safety of our people over there — make their safety and their release our primary objective."

Offering little new information, Powell said Carter continues to rule out military force; offered no interpretation of the apparent failure of either Vatican or Palestine Liberation Organization representatives to persuade the Iranians to release the hostages, and said special envoy Ramsey Clark will remain in Turkey "as long as there is some purpose."

Powell said also the U.S. government has been in contact with "a large number" of other governments, but refused to specify them.

He also said he expects the government to proceed quickly with the deportation of Iranian students who are violating their visas.

"The president expects the Justice Department and the INS (Immigration and Naturalization Service) to move without undue delay, but, of course, you do have constitutional due process requirements that have to be fulfilled," Powell said.

Powell said he assumes "a significant number" of the 50,000 Iranian students in the United States — the most of any nation — do not support their fellow students' holding of hostages in Tehran and are concerned about them.

Carter attended church Sunday and heard prayers for the safety of the American hostages appeals for calmness among the people at home despite the frustration many of them feel.

During the prayers, Carter, looking gray and weary, bowed deeply in his pew and supported his forehead on clasped hands.

Recognition Urged For Vietnam Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The crippled former soldier who heads the Veterans Administration thinks it's time the American people realize the men who fought with him in Vietnam did the nation a service.

Max Cleland, who lost two legs and his right forearm to a grenade explosion in Vietnam, marked Veterans Day Sunday by laying the traditional red, white and blue wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldiers at Arlington National Cemetery.

"It is appropriate on this Veterans Day 1979 that we take a look at how we are remembering our veterans, especially Vietnam veterans — many of whom feel this nation has forgotten them," Cleland told hundreds of people who braved a chilly rain to attend the annual ceremonies.

In his speech, Cleland noted a new Harris poll done for the Veterans Administration showed most Americans "regret the war in Vietnam but still support the soldier who fought there and realize his need for special attention."

Vietnam veterans say the bad taste left in many Americans' mouths by the war has made large numbers of people unwilling to consider their plight.

Cleland said the government had set up 80 storefront readjustment counseling centers for the veterans of America's most unpopular war.

To mark the holiday, the Post Office began release of a Veterans Day stamp honoring Vietnam era veterans. The stamp features the design of the Vietnam service ribbon.

Sunday was the second year Veterans Day was observed Nov. 11, the anniversary of the end of World War I. The government holiday is being observed today.

From 1971-77, the holiday was observed on the fourth Monday in October as part of a law changing many national holidays to Monday to provide three-day weekends for government workers.

The crowd at the ceremony was made up largely of Boy Scouts, veterans with hats identifying their organizations, and their families.

Most spectators held American flags in one hand and umbrellas in the other.

After Cleland placed the wreath, he and the assembled honor guards from the various armed services gave the tomb a silent salute, and a solo bugler played taps.

Editorial A World of Difference

Isn't it just great about those Iranian students in the U.S. as guests demonstrating freely on our streets while American citizens are being held hostage in their homeland? What a comment it is on the state of a third-rate power that they have to send their youngsters to America to get an education the great, noble Islamic state and its martinet leadership can't provide.

The American people are reacting against the Iranian students here, but the American government at federal, state and local levels are out protecting our guests to make sure no harm comes to them.

What a contrast to Tehran, where the ayatollah's storm troopers did nothing to help the Americans held hostage in our own embassy.

The whole international incident developed over the State Department's humanitarian gesture, allowing the deposed shah to receive cancer treatment here.

The lesson the Iranian students should learn is that America is a humanitarian nation, not a militaristic regime trying to push the country back several centuries in time.

Instead, the Iranian upstarts have decided to hurl insults at the American people on our home ground. That act in itself proves perhaps the Iranians aren't too smart.

The American people will put up with a lot. But there is a line no punk of Islamic or any other persuasion should cross.

We are not questioning the right of anyone to demonstrate his views. Iranians have many of the same rights and freedoms here they would have if they were citizens.

We merely suggest the Iranian students are demonstrating to the world what sharp contrast there is in our two nations.

Our question of the Iranian students in the United States is: "What would happen to you in Iran if you exercised the same kind of vigorous opposition to something done by the Islamic martinet and his tin-soldier regime?"

We are certain the answer would be death, imprisonment or torture.

Iranians don't have it so tough here.

Our government reacts by protecting them.

Our citizens who are prisoners in Iran are not getting the same kind of treatment.

Iranians might remind their government of that fact and be thankful they are in a nation tolerant of divergent views.

When they return to Iran they will be spoiled by that freedom and may find themselves so undisciplined that they have shortened their life expectancy in direct proportion to the size of the big mouths they have developed while here.

The Herald in Washington It's Flu Time Again

By LISA SHEPARD

WASHINGTON — Bitten up by your overcoat, it's flu time again. But this winter Americans need not worry about catching anything other than common flu strains which have been around in recent years.

Nonetheless, the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta has already doled out about $5 million for a nationwide immunization effort to protect "high risk" people from the perils of flu. The money goes to state programs which administer vaccines to adults over age 65 and people with heart, lung, respiratory, kidney or circulatory conditions.

All but eight states — New Jersey, Idaho, Kansas, South Carolina, Alaska, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Nevada — have applied for flu funds.

The center has made up its vaccine for this coming flu season based on which flu strains appeared the previous year. During the 1978-79 season strains of Brazilian and Hong Kong flu were responsible for most American sniffles. A Texas strain of flu was isolated outside the U.S. last year and will also be included in this year's vaccine.

Whatever the name, by and large the symptoms remain the same: runny nose, headache, fever, chills, muscular aches and generally "feeling lousy." Because the Brazilian and Hong Kong strains have been around before, older persons are less likely to get them than those 27 years or younger.

Last year's flu season was considered light. Other than an assurance that some kind of flu would be around this winter, Dr.

Frank DeStefano, of the Atlanta immunization center, says it's nearly impossible to predict the extent of influenza activity this far in advance.

In July, the center began to get reports of Hong Kong flu in Hawaii. By the end of September some 30 cases of it had been reported.

"There's been no reports of new strains for this winter," said DeStefano. "The labs around the country have been sending weekly reports and we know if any new strains were appearing. It looks like business as usual."

Most Americans will remember the 1976 outbreak of Swine Flu in Fort Dix, N.J., which prompted a government effort to immunize all 220 million Americans. Nearly 40 million people received the vaccine before the program was abruptly halted due to a suddenly high incidence of Guillain-Barre syndrome, a usually reversible form of paralysis, which proved to be a side effect of the vaccine.

The syndrome, which normally occurs in two out of every million people, began to occur in 12 out of every million who had taken the swine flu vaccine. About 480 Americans were afflicted with the disease, and for some paralysis remains.

While the number of flu cases reported was relatively light last winter, there has been a rise in one disease most Americans have forgotten: malaria.

In 1970, when American soldiers were returning from Vietnam there were more than 4,000 cases of malaria reported in the U.S. This quieted down to 222 cases in 1973

Thought

Have you ever met a stranger at a lunch counter, or while waiting in line and found yourself being told very personal things by this person?

This indicates our need to have someone listen to us. One of the most important things we do for another person is to listen to him. To listen is to let them have the time to tell us who they are, what they feel and how they think.

To listen is to hear them without our prejudice or to be thinking about what we will say when they have finished. Listening accepts the other person and enables them to hear themselves. Being listened to is a caring act.

Our world is such that we often have to make an appointment with a professional listener in order to be heard. Sometimes we do need a counselor.

But in many instances we simply need to take the time to listen to each other — husbands, wives, children, friends, business associates.

We each have the opportunity to listen another person into life. Listening is not unlike prayer, for prayer is a process of listening to the Holy, and letting the receptive silence of God receive our life reflections.

INS 'Cowboys' Round Up Aliens In Apple Orchards

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The wild card in U.S.-Mexican relations, which may be the key to our energy future, is the thousands of illegal aliens who swarm across American borders in droves 24 hours a day.

The actual number of these faceless intruders, who hide at night and work at menial jobs by day, may run as high as 10 million or 10 million. The sheer weight of their numbers is overwhelming for the outmanned and underfunded agents from the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS), who are responsible for the apprehending illegals and returning them home.

Despite INS' short-handedness, though, we've uncovered evidence that the agency's investigators may be wasting time and money harassing apple farmers who have legally brought foreign workers in to pick their crops.

To find out who was right in the Great Apple Controversy, we sent our reporter Matt Speiser to the heart of the apple country in Rome, Va.

Few of the apple farmers in Hampshire County object to legitimate inspections by federal investigators to see if illegal foreign workers are employed. Even the desperately poor placidly accept the check-ups.

But our reporter, who learned that a dozen INS agents, operating on a tip that there were some illegals in the orchards, conducted a rodeo-style roundup, disregarding search warrants and civil rights.

Out of 1,000 workers, they found and arrested about 60 immigrants whose papers weren't in order. At the farm of Gary Shanholz, the agents drove their cars and vans onto the property, ripping up orchard fields and sending dozens of workers into panic.

When the irate Shanholz demanded an explanation, the INS Fearless Fosticks told him they had a right to conduct warrantless searches. But no illegal workers were found at the orchard. Other owners protested that they were never asked for permission to allow the agents to intrude on their property.

Several apple growers complained they couldn't get the INS bloodhounds to even give their names. One owner tried to intervene on behalf of a worker, but was told to butt out or face arrest.

In one instance, a group of Jamaican pickers was surrounded on a country roadside by a caravan of agents. When the workers explained their documents were back at camp, the agents drove them there, but once at the site rushed ahead to ransack the bunkhouse for illegals. None were found.

At another farm, the INS did find about a dozen illegals, but only after taking the extraordinary step of kicking through the bunkhouse doors and bullying some workers who were legally in the country.

One teen-age boy playing with a BB gun was paralyzed with fear when one agent aimed his gun at him and yelled "freeze" in his best "Kojak" manner.

Even in the normally conservative, red-white-and-blue country of the West Virginia panhandle, Romney township accuses the federal cops of racism. "Anyone who's not white, watch out," one white farmer told Speiser.

The Jamaican and Mexican workers are dismayed at the strong-arm tactics they experience. "I came here because the U.S. government wants me to," one worker told us in broken English. "I follow all the rules, fill out all the papers. I finally get here and all they do is trouble me. I don't know if it's worth it."

Footnote: In fairness to the INS agents, our own previous investigations have shown that many foreign workers have been mistreated at some workplaces, and part of their duties are to protect such abuses. An INS spokesman defended the agents' actions in the apple orchards, but couldn't comment on our specific findings.

Health Boondoggle

A little-known offshoot of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has become notorious for conspicuously wasting taxpayer dollars. Time and again, the National Center for Health Service Research has been chastised for its spendthrift habits.

The watchdog General Accounting Office scathingly criticized the agency for misbanding nearly $50 million in grants and contracts. On another occasion, the center was the recipient of one of Sen. William Proxmire's belittling "Golden Fleece" Awards for underwriting a wantonly wasteful project.

We've now come up with another extravagant boondoggle by the agency that is supposed to improve medical care through research. The center has squandered $300,000 on a report on emergency medical devices and systems for local am-

HEBRON — The Planning and Zoning Commission will conduct a public hearing at 8 p.m. Tuesday to consider amendments to the zoning regulations.

The amendments will concern special permits, construction of housing for the elderly and such.

The permitted uses in residential zones was brought to the attention of the commission by First Selectman Aaron Reid, during an inquiry as to possibly buying land for a proposed housing project for the elderly.

Upon investigating, Reid discovered that the regulations currently in effect don't permit cluster zoning as would be part of the requirement to provide housing for the elderly.

After that finding, the commission members agreed to conduct the hearing to get public opinion on the proposed change.

Donors Get Money Back In Murder Reward Fund

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — A bank has decided to return about $3,100 in contributions to a fund established for information leading to convictions in the 1974 Donna Lee Bakery murder of six persons. The execution-style murders inside the New Britain bakery during a robbery stunned residents and brought about one of the most massive police manhunts in state history. Two local men, Ronald Piskorski and Gary Schrage, were arrested about three weeks later and charged with the crime, at the time the worst mass slaying in Connecticut history. Piskorski was convicted on six counts of felony murder in 1975 and sentenced to a total of 150 years in prison. Schrage changed his plea to guilty to lesser charges as an accessory to four of the murders before his trial began a year later. He was sentenced to 20 years to life on each count. The reward fund was established at the request of New Britain police shortly after the murders which netted the robbers about $300. Burrill Mutual Savings Bank President Raymond C. Cummings said it was decided about $3,100 would be returned after bank attorneys met with former Hartford County State's Attorney George B. Sloughon. Piskorski, who prosecuted Piskorski and Schrage, said it was unlikely any valid claim would be made for the reward money now. Cummings said about $1,000 in reward money donated anonymously and interest accrued since the fund was set up would be donated to the United Way. Both Piskorski and Schrage are currently in Somers prison. The bakery's owner, a clerk and four customers were gunned down in the Oct. 18, 1974, robbery which netted about $300. A claim for the reward money was filed in 1977 by Jeffrey Chamberland, one of more than 100 witnesses during Piskorski's trial. His claim was rejected by Superior Court Judge Edward C. Hamill, who presided over both trials.

What the People's Republic of China learned about energy at Northfield, Mass.

On June 1, 1979, a delegation of Chinese energy officials visited the Northeast Utilities pumped-storage hydroelectric facility at Northfield Mountain. With Vice President of Fossil and Hydro Production Warren A. Green and Superintendent Leslie W. Noyes, Jr., as guides, they were shown one of the largest energy projects of its kind in the world. Today, we Americans know that new and better ways of generating and conserving energy are not just important—they are vital. And we at Northeast Utilities are proud to be taking an active leadership role in helping America meet her energy needs. We are determined to make the most efficient use of present energy sources—oil, water and nuclear power—in order to conserve natural resources and reduce dependence on foreign oil. Northfield Mountain, with its generating capacity of one million kilowatts, will bring us closer to that goal. And with our latest plans for hydroelectric expansion, we will be adding three restored facilities and a new 15,000-kilowatt unit in Holyoke, Massachusetts. But while nuclear energy and hydro power are important present power sources, we are even now looking toward the long-term future of electricity. The sun, the wind, even the laser—all have exciting possibilities as future energy sources. In fact, right here at home, we are carrying on solar experiments in Deerfield, Massachusetts, and Norwalk, Connecticut. And we're monitoring the use of the wind to power homes in Colrain, Massachusetts, and Madison, Connecticut, as well as participating in promising experiments in the development of laser fusion at the University of Rochester Laboratory for Laser Energetics, Rochester, New York. So as energy demands increase, we are redoubling our efforts to conserve existing resources and conscientiously explore new energy frontiers. At Northeast Utilities, we are doing everything in our power to see us all through to a secure and energy-strong tomorrow—at a price we can all afford.

Three Train Derailments Release Poisonous Gases

By United Press International
More than a quartermillion people in the United States and Canada were forced out of their homes and into temporary shelters or the homes of friends today because three separate train derailments released poisonous gases.

By far the worst accident was in Mississauga, Ontario, where nearly 250,000 people were forced to leave the town during the weekend as poisonous chlorine gas leaked from a burning railroad tanker.

There were no reported deaths or serious injuries in what Police Superintendent Karl Barnhart called "the biggest evacuation in the history of North America."

Child Guidance Group Sets Expansion Plans

MANCHESTER - The Community Child Guidance Clinic Inc., 217 North Main St., will be expanding at an estimated cost of $427,000 to a two-story, 7,000 square foot building, said clinic board president Dr. Ellen Marner.

A study of the expansion was started in 1976 and "with each passing year the pre-school facilities were experiencing difficulties in meeting fire and health laws in the deterioration of the original house (built in 1827) in which the pre-school is housed," said Ms. Marner.

The community clinic is a private, non-profit mental health agency for children, started in 1959, for children's psychiatric services. The clinic's preschool is a day program for autistic, schizophrenic and other behaviorally disturbed young children, and was started in 1974.

The clinic is available to children, 17 or younger, experiencing social, emotional, or behavioral problems. Techniques employed include individual psychotherapy for children and parents, group therapy and family therapy.

Treatment is given for mental disturbance, drug and alcohol dependency, depression, child abuse, psychosomatic illnesses, and the clinic handles runaways and acts as a family counseling service in the case of divorce or family disruptions. In 1979, 511 families were treated with 7,205 hours of personal consulting services.

The clinic is run on contributions and a yearly grant from the state Department of Children and Youth Services, from the individual towns served by the Clinic, the Greater Hartford United Way, fees assessed to clients on a sliding scale, a variety of third party insurance claims; and welfare payments issued by the State Department of Social Services. The preschool program is totally funded through tuitions paid by local boards of education.

The expansion will allow the clinic to improve its professional programs as well as increasing the building space.

Contributions of $1,000 or more will be recognized on a permanent plaque.

Fire Damages Factory

BRANFORD (UPI)—A stubborn two-alarm fire burned out of control for 3 1/2 hours today at a former shirt factory converted to a commercial complex, fire officials said.
Firemen from Branford and East Haven were called to the building housing the Branford Food Center, a pharmacy and several other businesses about 3:25 a.m. and battled the fire until 8:30 a.m. before bringing it under control, fire officials said.

Committees Set On Youth Issues

MANCHESTER—Several ad-hoc committees have been set up to deal with youth problems, as a result of a Youth Needs Conference held Oct. 30 and 31, said Jean Zurbrigen, coordinator of the state-funded Positive Youth Development Program.
An ad-hoc task force will be meeting early in December, said Zurbrigen, one committee will study a bill which goes into effect July 1, 1980, which states that status offenders will no longer be incarcerated.
The eight-member committee includes Stephen O'Donnell, director of Crossroads and Ronald Kraatz, assistant health director.
The committee will discuss the impact on the various youth agencies because of the increased case load after the bill becomes law, said Zurbrigen.
An ad-hoc subcommittee of the Manchester Service Community Council will look at human services needs in Manchester.
This five-member youth task force, "will focus on youth bills, agencies and systems that already exist," said Zurbrigen.
The group will gather data to allow lobbying for upcoming bills," she said. "Depending on what we find, that's what we'll gear our efforts toward," said Zurbrigen.
The "grass roots" outgrowth of subcommittees from the conference "is what I hoped would happen," said Zurbrigen.
Up to now, said Zurbrigen, there has been no formal vehicle to coordinate youth services and make sure they aren't duplicated.

Tenants To Fight Switch to Condos

GLASTONBURY—Tenants of the Hale Farms apartment complex on Hebron Avenue will meet with management personnel this week to discuss the proposed conversion of the units to condominiums.
The problem was discussed publicly for the first time at a Town Council meeting on Oct. 23 during a discussion of the formation of a tenant-landlord commission.
Tenants have been circulating petitions requesting the moratorium on the conversion.

Once Most Dominate Figure Kelley to Return For Holiday Race

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor
Young John Kelley, now a ripe "old" 48, will be on hand once again for the Five Mile Road Race in Manchester which he once dominated over a 12-year period, 1951 thru 1962.
"Thanks again for inviting me to be part of your race again. The honor is mine because you have the oldest and best five mile race in the country, and I myself have 31 years of happy memories of Manchester Thanksgiving morning," he writes.
"I look forward to being on Main Street Thanksgiving morning."
Once America's No. 1 long distance runner and twice a member of the USA Olympic team, Kelley won the Silks-Turner 10 mile races, to reign as the all-time champion until his prodigy emerged on the scene, Amby Burfoot. The latter broke the seven first nine times, calling up seven triumphs in succession.
Kelley, cross country coach at Finch High in Groton, came out of New London high with great credentials and went on to Boston University where he helped put that college on the cross country map.
Dodged Young John by the Boston press not to be confused with John Kelley, now 71, the king of the American marathon runners for years, the Connecticut man carved out a fantastic record in Manchester appearances.
Besides his six victories, including three in a row-1951-52-53, Kelley was second four times and third twice. In addition, his third place finish in 1949 was the best ever by a schoolboy runner. There were 50 entrants in '49.
Last year the familiar face of Kelley graced the starting line for the first time since 1970, when he placed 11th. Now well past his peak

East Realized Potential And Tie for HCC Resulted

By LEO AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
He may have had an inkling sooner, but it wasn't until the third week did first-year East Catholic football Coach Judy Kelley know he had a team to be reckoned with.
"I never set a win-loss record goal," recalls Kelley, who was triumphantly given a ride off Bristol's Muzzy Field on the shoulders of his players after his Eagles last Friday night clinched at least a tie for the HCC crown with a 23-20 win over St. Paul.
"I hoped for a good season but there was a lot I didn't have answers for. I didn't know the opposition and I refused to quit and scored two late touchdowns." (See ST. Paul) out After the third game I talked to the team and we set a goal. We thought we were good enough to win the HCC. We've been working towards that for six weeks and it's nice to get it. I am goal-oriented but I didn't want to set anything not attainable," he happily related.
East was up, 23-8, late in the contest with St. Paul. But the Falcons refused to quit and scored two late touchdowns. (See ST. Paul) out

Patriots Midget Football Champs

Taking a 24-12 victory in the second half of a doubleheader yesterday at mudd M. Nebo, the Patriots captured the Manchester Midget Football League championship for 1979 over the Giants.
The Patriots and Giants each were 5-1 and had swapped 12-6 victories in their only meeting.
In the opener, the Eagles and Jets played to a 6-6 tie.
John Little tallied on a 17-yard run for the Jets while a 25-yard run by Dave Mazzotta accounted for the Eagle score.
The Giants wasted little time in the nightcap, taking the opening kickoff and marching 70 yards. Bruce Marandino capped the long drive with a 1-yard plunge.
Strong running by John Harris set up the Patriots' tying touchdown, a 4-yard run by Oliver Field.
The Patriots, with the "B" teams on the field, took the lead in the second quarter. Joe Metzner took it over from a yard out for a 12-6 edge. Harris scampered 20 yards before the intermission break to move it to 10-6.
Bill Prignano scored from 4 yards out for the Giants to close the gap but a 20-yard TD run by Reid clinched it for the Patriots.
Final standings: Patriots 6-1, Giants 5-2, Chargers 1-3, Jets 1-3, Eagles 0-4-2.

Broncos' Defense Just Devastating

NEW YORK (UPI)—While the Denver Broncos were rolling to their highest point total since Coach Red Miller took over three years ago, one thing remained perfectly clear—the Broncos' defense is devastating.
Consider the following:
—New England quarterback Steve Grogan was sacked for an 18-yard loss before the game was two minutes old and defensive tackle Rubin Carter recovered the ball at the 2 and rolled into the end zone for a touchdown.
—Five minutes later and following Tim Turner 42-yard field goal, tackle Don Latimore corralled Grogan's replacement, Tom Owen, for a 14-yard loss and John Grant recovered at the 2. On the next play, Rob Lytle scored to make it 17-0.
—In the second period, Steve Watson blocked an Eddie Hare punt and Rob Nairne scooped it up and dashed 22 yards for TD.
The Denver defense held the usually explosive Patriots to just 58 yards rushing and 34 yards passing. By the end of the half, the Broncos enjoyed a 38-7 advantage. In a game played in sub-freezing temperature and a snow accumulation of a few inches, Denver coasted to a 45-10 victory over the Patriots that kept the Broncos' undefeated record in first place in the AFC West with the San Diego Chargers.
Grogan, although he didn't remember much about the game after being forced from the contest in the second period, will surely attest to the ferocity of the Broncos' defense.
"I don't remember a whole lot about what went on," said Grogan, who completed just 2 of 13 passes for 23 yards and had one pass intercepted. "I'm not thinking real clearly. I started coming around with about four minutes left in the half before I knew what was going on."
"They tell me I was calling some plays in the huddle we really didn't have," he added. "I don't even remember pregame warmups. We got embarrassed."

Class M Swim Meet School, State Marks Broken

Three school, and one state Class M, records were broken at the East Catholic girls' swimming team captured third place in the team standings at the State Class M Meet Saturday night at Middletown.
The Eagles' tankers totaled 109 1/2 points to secure third place for a second year in a row. Sheehan High of Wallingford successfully defended its Class M title. She led in the previous state mark with a 1:00:81 clocking in last year's meet.
Claire Kelley led strong, "voiced her feelings in Manchester and only last two appearances did he fail to make the prize list.
"I hope no longer a threat to finish among the top finishers. Kelley's presence will help add class to a field that is headed by the Treacy brothers of South Norwalk, Conn., from Ireland. Bob Hensley and Burton Hill. The race starts at 10:30 on Main Street, opposite St. James Church.
Joanne Swanson took seventh place in the butterfly with a 1:07:74 clocking and was eighth in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 6:04:33. Lynn Dakin was fifth in the 200-yard individual medley with a personal best time of 2:25:84.
Jane Price was eighth in the 100-yard free with a time of 1:00:73 while in diving, Mary Mayhew and Anne Tuller were 10th and 11th respectively with totals of 275 and 382 points in the 11 rounds.
The 400-yard freestyle relay of Karin McCaffrey, Mary McCarthy, Swanson and Price took eighth place with a time of 4:09:79.
There were 22 teams in the Class M field.
Claire Viola, Lynn Dakin and all prospects of advancing to the upcoming State Open Meet Saturday at Southern Connecticut State College in New Haven.
"It is an adjustment," he voices of the change. "They had to learn a couple of techniques. That's why we play-action pass, there isn't that much difference in the blocking."
East has six backlogs of students go to Middletown to view the Xavier clash. There were seven headlins in Bristol. "The support from the school has been unbelievable," Kelly states, "I've gone to a lot of high school games and I'd say the support we get from the student body is the best."
And then the Eagles had their secret weapon—and from their practice field which goes wherever they go. Co-captains Dave Bottaro and John Karzar go to opposite end zone and sprinkle some of the magic elixir, much to the delight of the Eagle rooters.
End it all up it spells East's first HCC title in 10 years. The Eagles may have to share it with Xavier—but that's not spilling the championship-feeling one bit.

Giants Look Ahead Again

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI)—New York defensive end Gary Jeter sauntered into the dressing room, switched on the large cassette deck in his locker and turned up the volume to the disco song, "Ain't No Staying in Now."
"The refrain fits the Giants perfectly - but only if the rest of their opponents play as ineptly as the Atlanta Falcons did on Sunday."
"This was the worst game we have played since I've been here," fumed Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett, in his third year directing the Falcons. The Giants' offense certainly didn't.
Terry Jackson returned a blocked punt 47 yards for one score and Billy Taylor's 1-yard TD plunge was also set up by glaring mistakes by Atlanta.
"The special teams are the special teams as the Giants beat the Falcons 24-3 in the final quarter and Joe Daniels kicked a 42-yard field goal as the Giants, 5-6, won for the fifth time in their last six games.
The Falcons, 4-7, scored their only points on Tim Mazzetti's 23-yard field goal in the third quarter and suffered their fourth loss in the last five games. Atlanta, not a potent offense when everything is going smoothly, was plagued by 14 penalties for 122 yards, two fumbles and two interceptions. Most importantly, the Falcons' ineptitude prevented them from capitalizing on New York mistakes - of which there were many.
The Giants, limited to 220 yards in total offense, lost four fumbles and committed seven penalties of their own, but Atlanta's mistakes were more grievous.

Weekend Win

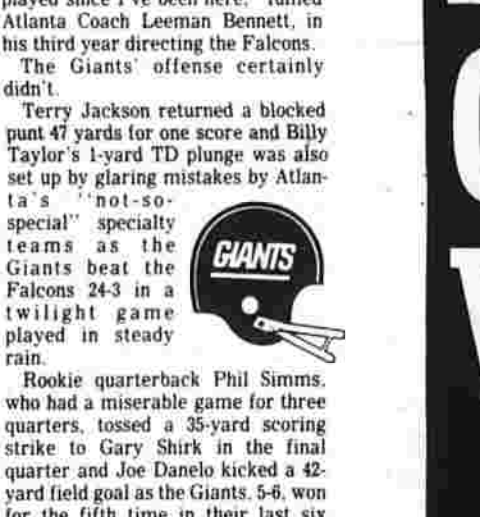

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Vickie Cook, 15, of Northridge, Calif., won a trip to New York City for a women's marathon next May by racing to victory during the weekend in a women's 10,000-meter run. Cook finished the run Sunday in 35:07, 17 seconds ahead of New Zealander Bev Shingles, 39, who won last weekend's Los Angeles women's marathon. Shingles finished in 35:24.
Miki Gorman, 44, Los Angeles, finished in 35:47, followed by Yvonne Yankes, 21, Seal Beach, 38:19, and Gina Dyer, 21, Lakewood, Calif., 37:05.

Jets Find Bills Alive

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was as if the teams had switched uniforms.

Here were the Buffalo Bills, ranked dead last in rushing in the AFC, churning up and down the rain-drenched field. And there were the New York Jets, the No. 1 rushing team in the NFL, stumbling around ineptly.

And when it was over, the Bills had held the Jets, who were averaging over 189 yards on the ground, to just 67 yards rushing en route to a 14-12 victory.

Curis Brown broke open a close game by turning a short pass from Joe Ferguson into a 30-yard touchdown play and the Bills hold on to upset the Jets.

The margin of victory was two missed extra point attempts by Tom Linhart.

Bills' Coach Chuck Knox let Ferguson call his own game and the AFC passing leader turned it over to his running backs as they put Ferguson's best effort of the season, Terry Miller, whose best performance this year was a 44-yard performance, ran for 81 yards and Brown added 51 as the Bills out-rushed New York 138-67. Ferguson also completed 11 of 17 passes for 132 yards.

Ferguson's favorite target was Lou Piccone, a former Jet, who caught five passes for 64 yards and set up Buffalo's first score, a 1-yard burst by Mike Collier in the second period.

The Jets cut the Bills' lead to 7-6 in the second period but Linhart missed the extra point. After Brown's twisting run in which he eluded four tacklers en route to the end zone gave Buffalo a 14-6 lead, Richard Todd cut it to 14-12 with an 11-yard TD pass to Bobby Jones. Linhart again missed the point.

New York had one last chance to pull out the game, taking over at its own 30 with 1:36 left. But a 24-yard pass to Jones was nullified by a holding penalty and Todd's pass for Jerome Barium was intercepted by Mario Clark. It was Clark's second interception of the game and the Bills' third off Todd.

Clark Gaines entered the game as the No. 6 rusher in the AFC and leading the league with a 5.9 yard average. But he managed only 27 yards on seven carries.

This was supposed to be a good season for Manchester High football. Expectations, however, were shattered by first penalties and then injuries which dampened the campaign.

But the Indians will have to endure a losing streak no longer, halting a six-game slide with a 20-0 whipping of hapless Enfield High Saturday in the rain in Enfield before a crowd of 100.

"You know, we've only been away far away from sticking it to a couple of people," Manchester Coach Jack Holik recalled the last couple of weeks, holding two digits an inch apart. "This win is really important. It's good for the kids, good for morale. Rewards come on Saturday afternoon."

Three touchdowns by Tom McCluskey on runs of 51, 41 and 74 yards, the latter on a punt return, lifted Manchester to its first win since opening day in September. The 5-foot-10, 185-pound senior tailback rushed for 151 yards on 28 carries to bring his season total to 909 yards.

The Indians go to 2-6 in the CCIL, clinching eighth place, with the triumph. The setback was the Raiders' eighth straight and drops them to 0-8 in the league, 1-8 overall.

The Silk Toppers utilized the single wing for a second straight week and it paid off in 216 yards rushing.

"We moved the ball with it. It worked against Simsbury in the second half and when you get something working you stay with it," Holik answered.

McCluskey's first TD came with the 4:46 left in the opening stanza as he ripped up the middle, getting a key block from Drew Flavel who sealed off the last defender in McCluskey's path.

A 69-yard drive, kept alive by an unsportsmanlike conduct violation on Enfield, was capped by a 41-yard McCluskey scamper with 8:37 left in the half. He received a key block from John Hanley en route to the end zone.

"We didn't do anything fancy," Holik stated. "We went right at them. McCluskey was just super."

Manchester held the ball for the first 6 1/4 minutes of the third quarter, moving to a first-and-goal at the Enfield 1 on a pass interference call. But a holding penalty wiped out a McCluskey TD and a Flavel 31-yard field goal attempt was blocked.

But the Tribe defense, which limited Enfield to 19 total yards, forced a punt which McCluskey accepted on his own 26. The Raiders overpursued, he got key blocks from Ray Tilden and Mike Mazzotta, and he was on his way down the left sideline with 2:57 to go in the third period.

Deep penetration by Enfield, which never seriously mounted a threat, was the Manchester 34 early in the fourth quarter.

"The defense played much better," Holik cited. "We got good plays out of our ends (Mazzotta and Kurt Dougan) and Hanley played a super game. When you shut out a team, you have to be doing something right."

The ubiquitous 5-foot-10, 185-pound Hanley from his nose guard slot had two quarterback sacks to his credit along with a host of other tackles.

Manchester hosts Windham Saturday at Memorial Field at 1:30 and closes out the campaign on Thanksgiving morning against Crosstown East Catholic at a time to be announced.

While Mullen was getting gaping holes from his line, the same unit was doing an awful lot of switching, which seemed to rattle the Knights' defense.

"We move to put pressure on the defense and so they can fire off the ball quickly," stated Windham Coach Ed Ferrigno. "We just couldn't stop them and their quarterback kind of destroyed us," commented veteran Penney Coach Ted Krucek, who was

"We tried to go outside on our linebackers and when they moved back we were able to go inside," Ferrigno explained, adding, "They play close to the front of the line."

Penney moved inside the Windham 30 twice in the first half but failed to score. Mark Anderson's 37-yard run in the first period moved it inside the Whippets, each 6-2. Both are 7-2 overall. Conard stands atop the CCIL at 7-1 going into its make-up game against Simsbury today.

Windham scored on its first possession with a 4-play, 78-yard march. Junior quarterback Tom Wariak and his flanker Harris with a 56-yard pass with 10:08 to go in the quarter. Jim Romano added the first of three PAT boots for a 7-0 edge.

The Whippets added another touchdown with 5:11 remaining in the second period on a 5-yard Mullen dash which capped an 11-play, 74-yard march downfield. Mullen carried the ball six times in the drive, picking up two of the Whippets' three first downs in the series.

While Mullen was getting gaping holes from his line, the same unit was doing an awful lot of switching, which seemed to rattle the Knights' defense.

"We move to put pressure on the defense and so they can fire off the ball quickly," stated Windham Coach Ed Ferrigno. "We just couldn't stop them and their quarterback kind of destroyed us," commented veteran Penney Coach Ted Krucek, who was referring to the 56-yard bomb to Harris, it was Windham's only completed pass, but it was vital.

And with Mullen doing the damage both inside and outside, it forced Penney linebackers Joey DeAngelis and Bob Hets to play away from the line. "We tried to go outside on our linebackers and when they moved back we were able to go inside," Ferrigno explained, adding, "They play close to the front of the line."

Windham Surprises Black Knights, 29-8

By KEVIN CASEY

Led by all-around halfback Bob Mullen and Charles Harris, Windham High rushed for the most yards gained on Penney High this season in registering a 29-8 win over the Black Knights in CCIL football action Saturday in Williamstown.

The loss drops the Knights out of a share of first place in the league and into a second place deadlock with the Whippets, each 6-2. Both are 7-2 overall. Conard stands atop the CCIL at 7-1 going into its make-up game against Simsbury today.

Windham scored on its first possession with a 4-play, 78-yard march. Junior quarterback Tom Wariak and his flanker Harris with a 56-yard pass with 10:08 to go in the quarter. Jim Romano added the first of three PAT boots for a 7-0 edge.

McEnroe, Mayer Finalists In Stockholm Tournament

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — John McEnroe and Gene Mayer have met before. The result has been the same every time.

"I have played McEnroe four times and lost every match," Mayer said. "I know his weak sides, but it is hard to exploit them."

McEnroe, the defending champion, and the fourth-seeded Mayer Sunday qualified for the final round of the $75,000 Stockholm Open tennis tournament.

McEnroe enhanced his reputation as one of the world's best fast surface players with an emphatic 6-4, 7-5 victory over Polish Davis Cup star Wojtek Fibak.

Mayer, 25, advanced to the final after his opponent, Brian Gottfried, was forced to default with a back injury after losing the first set 6-1.

Gottfried was injured in Vienna three weeks ago and he has not been able to recover. "I am sorry to see him go," Brian Gottfried said. "It is a good loss."

Mayer said he exercised Gottfried's back problem in the locker room before the match.

"He did strenuous exercises for about 45 minutes, but he could not loosen up," Mayer said. "His action was not hampered during the first set, but I could see he was in pain."

Mayer broke Gottfried's service three times in the opening set. Before the start of the second set, Gottfried told the referee he couldn't play any longer.

Mayer of Wayne, N.J., ranked his berth in the final as his finest achievement to date. The title Monday is worth $25,000.

McEnroe, describing the surface in Stockholm as his favorite kind of court, was in command all the way in the first set against Fibak.

After losing his serve in the first game of the match, Fibak, with brilliant passing shots, broke back in the eighth. McEnroe, assisted by a disputed line call, got the break back in the next game and then held his service at love to close the set.

Blazers' Offense Matching Defense

NEW YORK (UPI) — The best defensive team in the league is first beginning to play offense.

The Portland Trail Blazers, yielding less than 83 points a game, took their precision game to the other end of the floor Sunday night and came away with a 112-109 victory over the sagging Kansas City Kings.

"That's as well as we've run the ball this year and as crisply as we've executed," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay. "We've toughened up and made them take tough shots at the end. It was a big win for us."

The Blazers, despite a crippling wave of injuries, are now 13-4 with the most victories in the league. Sunday night, as is always the case when the Blazers are on their game, Portland's attack was well distributed.

Bob Gross, in particular, gave the Blazers a big lift. Still recovering from a knee injury, Gross hit 9 of 14 shots for 21 points and seven rebounds in 28 minutes. Portland's attack was well distributed.

"He's the best player in our offensive game," said Ramsay. "He's unselfish, has great perception."

There was also Maurice Lucas with 22 points and Ron Brewer 19, including four in the last 20 seconds.

With Portland up 106-107, Kermit Washington blocked Otis Birdsong's short jumper and Brewer hit a field goal with 20 seconds left. The second-year guard from Arkansas then sank two free throws with five seconds remaining and that was all for Kansas City.

With the exception of Phil Ford (24 points, 10 assists and six steals), the Kings had little to show.

Kansas City has now lost six straight but Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons is not about to make any concession speeches.

"We're playing hard but we don't have the confidence down the stretch. We need to get a win badly," he said. "Our last three losses have been to three of the best teams in basketball (Philadelphia, Boston and Portland)."

With Kansas City's next two games against the 76ers and Lakers, it won't get any easier for the Kings.

Eusebio, Phoenix beat Denver Lakers 140, Cavaliers 126

Earvin Johnson had 24 points, 16 rebounds and 12 assists as Los Angeles shot nearly 60 percent from the field in reaching its highest point total this season. The Lakers had seven players in double figures. Campy Russell scored 29 points for the Cavaliers, who have lost seven of eight on the road.

World Golf Cup Retained by U.S.

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — The United States carried off the World Golf Cup double for the second successive year Sunday, Hale Irwin capturing the individual crown and joining with Texan John Mahaffey for a 15th U.S. team victory.

No one was surprised. The Americans, never under pressure throughout the four days, led from start to finish, their combined 72-hole aggregate of 575 leaving them five strokes ahead of Scotland and a massive 15 shots clear of third-placed Spain.

The field was reduced to 44 nations following the Greek government ban on South Africa and a third round disqualification of Italy, and the U.S. pair made it a one-horse race with the others jockeying for minor placings.

Behind Gonzalez came Spaniard Antonio Garrido at 289 with Mahaffey finishing sixth a stroke further back at 290 after carding 72 for his final round.

It was a disappointing finish for Mahaffey, who had a six stroke lead after two rounds and seemed destined to become the first player to win the title in successive years since Jack Nicklaus won in 1963 and 1964.

But an 80 Saturday dislodged Mahaffey and it was longer, 22-year-old son of a Bavarian bricklayer, who went into the final round one stroke ahead of Irwin. Gonzalez Garrido and La Hsi Chuen of Taiwan.

In the end it was Irwin, with three birdies in an outwared 33 and a birdie-high pair in a back 26, who stood up strongest under pressure.

Harvard Last Obstacle for Unbeaten Yale

BOSTON (UPI) — They began the season with only four returning starters, but few coaches shed any tears for Yale's Carr Cozza. He has always put together competitive teams in the past, they said. He would do so again this year.

Eight games into the season, the undefeated Elis captured their ninth Ivy League title since the conference was founded in 1956 with a crushing 20-10 victory over Princeton. The conference title was assured with their win over the Tigers and Dartmouth's upset over preseason favorite Brown.

Bulldogs Win, 16-6

The Bolton Bulldogs in a Pop Warner Bantam football tilt topped the Waterbury Cougars, 16-6, on a muddy turf Saturday in Bolton.

Chris Marjones scored on a 6-yard pass from Wes Brown and Mike Bushell added on a 46-yard run for Bolton. Greg Mahon and Marjones added two-point conversions, both on aerials from Brown.

The Terriers, behind three Jeff Pein field goals and a 19-yard rushing performance by tailback Mark Najarian, turned back Connecticut 16-12 to post their eighth win in nine starts. BU has one conference loss, to Massachusetts, but its stellar record should elicit a Division IAA playoff bid from the NCAA. The Terriers close out the season next weekend at Bucknell while UMass has a 14-2 record.

New England College Football

must still play New Hampshire. Najarian passed the 1,000 yard mark for the second straight year and broke his school mark set in 1978.

White Has Statistics For Heisman Trophy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Southern California Coach John Robinson may be biased, but he's got a personal favorite for the Heisman Trophy this season.

Charlie White made 240 yards against one of the best defenses in the country," Robinson said. "He just kept getting stronger and stronger. He's the most competitive human being I have ever seen. If a man should be an obvious Heisman Trophy winner, it's Charlie White."

Major College Football game it would be either Ohio State or Michigan even though Purdue hasn't lost to the Rose Bowl since 1966.

White's running partner, fullback Marcus Allen, scored on a 10-yard burst midway through the fourth period to give UCLA a 24-21 victory. The Trojans, however, had a two-point win over Arizona State.

The opponent for the Pac 10 Conference representative in the Rose Bowl will be the winner of next Saturday's game between fifth-ranked Ohio State and 10th-ranked Michigan, and the second-ranked team as a result of a disappointing loss to 15th-ranked Purdue, which upset the Wolverines 24-21 Saturday at the Big 10 championship game.

South Windsor Mayor Likely To Be Havens

SOUTH WINDSOR — Councilman Edward Havens is expected to be nominated as mayor when the newly elected Town Council meets for the first time at 7:30 Tuesday night.

Democrats, who will occupy five of the nine council seats, have also decided to nominate Councilwoman Jackie Smith for deputy mayor, according to Robert Smith, Democratic Town Committee chairman.

Sydney Coten Planning and Zoning Commission clerk is also expected to be appointed as Town Council clerk, replacing Barbara Klenke.

Democratic officials said that they expect town attorney duties will be split between two attorneys. One of the lawyers is expected to be John Woodcock III, former Planning and Zoning Commission chairman Bill Grace and former Town Attorney Tom Dennis have been named as possible choices for the second town attorney position.

Smith said that Democrats have suggested dividing town attorney responsibilities between two lawyers because "of the magnitude of the job."

Smith said the responsibilities put tremendous pressure on one lawyer or

Pay Increases Higher In Bolton School Pact

BOLTON — All teachers in the Bolton school system received a 13 percent salary increase for the first year of the two year contract signed last week and not a 6 to 10 percent increase as reported earlier.

Representatives from the Board of Education and the Bolton Education Association (BEA) told the press Thursday that the increase was from 6 to 10 percent. The representatives said that no teacher received less than 6 percent nor more than 10 percent.

The information was given to the press by Louis Cloutier, chief negotiator for the school board, and A. Philip Robenmyer, BEA president.

Joseph Haloburo, school board chairman, took exception to the story in Friday's Herald about the increase.

Haloburo said he doesn't know why the information about a 6 to 10 percent salary increase was given to the press "because it's incorrect."

Haloburo said there are 15 steps on the

Nursing Homes Increase Rates

HARTFORD (UPI) — At least eight nursing homes have raised rates for self-supported patients, apparently in violation of a state order freezing rates, the Hartford Courant reported today.

The newspaper said seven homes owned by the Lexington, Mass.-based First Healthcare Corp., raised rates after the Oct. 1 freeze order that amount to an average per patient of $2,500 a year.

The freeze was ordered by Commissioner of Income Maintenance Edward H. Maher after he withdrew a controversial plan that would have let homes raise their "private pay" rates by an estimated average of 30 percent.

The newspaper said two key officials in regulating nursing home finances — Ronald Durie, director of the committee on state payments, and George Conking, consulting to the Office of Policy and Management — claimed last week they knew of no home that had collected higher rates although the DIM records show the higher rates being charged.

Marvin Wilensky, president of First Healthcare, told the newspaper the increased amounts are being held in reserve pending the homes receiving a final rate increase.

He said the increase wasn't in violation of the freeze, claiming it was done as a matter of "economic viability."

The seven Healthcare homes are located in Torrington, New Britain, Danbury, Norwich, Windsor, New London and Enfield. An eighth home the Courant said has raised rates and collected them is the Lord Chamberlain Skilled Nursing Facility in Stratford.

Chief Suspended At Palsy Center

HARTFORD (UPI) — The head of the Bridgeport cerebral palsy center for handicapped children has been suspended after an investigation into complaints of the operation of the center.

The facility's board of directors voted to suspend Mrs. Helen Arnold after reviewing a report by a team from the national association in New York that was critical of administrative procedures at the center.

The Hartford Courant in a story Oct. 21 disclosed allegations by staff and parents of children of improper billing, lack of therapy and inadequate record keeping at the center.

The Courant said today the report by the national team concluded parents were billed for therapy that wasn't provided, and record keeping was inadequate. Also, the team called "highly improper," an unauthorized loan by the center to Mrs. Arnold to buy a Cadillac and said the board of directors appeared to have little control over policies and administration at the center.

Mrs. Arnold's indefinite suspension with pay was approved Saturday to allow the board to further investigate the national report and other allegations of improprieties, according to Herbert Mooin.

Mooin is vice chairman of the board of directors of United Cerebral Palsy of Fairfield County Inc., a non-profit organization which operates the center's academic and therapy program for about 130 handicapped children between the ages of 2 and 21.

Mrs. Arnold, who has been associated with the center for nine years and last year was named its president, was unavailable Sunday for comment.

In the earlier Courant story, Mrs. Arnold denied allegations of deliberate wrongdoing and claimed the vast majority of parents were satisfied with the school.
